

Lodge Surprise Package Of Both Party Campaigns

By LYLE C. WILSON
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—Henry Cabot Lodge is the surprise package of this presidential campaign. Evidence accumulates that Lodge is as important to the Republican ticket as is Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

For example: When the chips are down in the concluding weeks of the campaign, Lodge will be given the job of making New York State safe for Republicanism. He is to be assigned five days of campaigning in New York. Republican strategists know that the ticket carrying the five or six top industrial states will win the election. Those are the areas in which Lodge has been heavily exposed with more to come, especially in New York.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee's principal responsibility is the oppose of Lodge's. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson was added to the Democratic ticket in a bid for the South. For Johnson, Democratic strategists want a minimum exposure in the North and a maximum exposure in the South and Southwest.

The left wing of the Democratic Party with command posts in the great northern cities resented Johnson's nomination and said so. There was resentment in the South, too, but the resentments of northern left wingers and southern conservatives were on conflicting grounds.

Southern conservatives resented Johnson's collaboration with a New Deal-Fair Deal presidential candidate and his endorsement of a far left-of-center platform. The clamor of northern protest against Johnson has subsided. His achievement has been more positive in the South.

Outside Virginia and Mississippi, the top Democratic office holders are supporting the Kennedy-Johnson ticket although many of them reject in anger the Democratic platform. Sen. Harry F. Byrd, (D-Va.) and Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi are hailing. Byrd is withholding endorsement of the Democratic presidential ticket. Barnett is in active opposition.

The consensus of pulse-takers in the South is that Johnson, so far, has done a pretty good job of preventing a break-away in that area.

Could it be that Thomas E. Dewey is coming to Washington, after all? Yes, it could be, replied a top Republican strategist who should know what he is talking about.

We're All Wet If We Don't Act

(A Herald Editorial)

The time has come for Seminole County and neighboring counties to stop sloshing around in their water problem and take the only way out.

There is no more time to waste waiting for another dry spell to lull ourselves into disinterest in water control. Dry spells are our alternative problem, although maybe the lesser of two evils.

The only way out of the mire — and that's just what it is — is to get control of the waters of the St. Johns River. This means the Upper St. Johns River basin must be turned into a conservation and control area.

There is a current proposal which would do this in a satisfactory and logical way. This plan would install a series of reservoirs in a line between the Seminole-Volusia area into Indian River County. The reservoirs would store water — taking the overflow from the river and all those waters being drained into it during the wet seasons and keeping it available for return during the dry seasons.

There is nothing simpler than that. And such a plan has gained approval of officials of Seminole County and the four neighboring counties involved. A five-county committee has begun placing the appeal for action on the plan with our congressional delegation in hopes that the engineers will be directed to get moving rapidly on their report on the suggested system.

There is support for the reservoir chain plan among the majority of people in the five counties who have given serious thought to the flood and water conservation problems which seem to get worse each year in one way or another.

It is imperative that a concentrated effort by all these counties be made to get immediate action. County officials need the backing of the citizens, without selfish considerations. There is no individual or group who is not affected by the serious growth of the water control problem in this section. Nobody can say "I'm not involved, my property is dry," or "Why should my land be taken in by any such project?"

When business and industrial surveys show that any part of Seminole County is under water the whole county is written off as far as attracting any new life to the area. We are constantly under scrutiny these days by commercial interests looking for locations and prospective residents looking for homes.

We have lost some of these already and are going to lose more.

if we cannot show some definite plan to eliminate the objectionable flood situations.

Designers of the reservoir plan concede that it cannot suit every individual between here and the Atlantic—but they rightly insist that it is practical and suitable for the majority.

No individual can suffer if this proposal is effected—land for the reservoirs would be paid for at a fair price. Everybody gets a water control system.

The five-county proposal in this mutual problem presently are part of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District. There certainly has not been anything mutual about the projects previously accomplished by this district—they've all been south-way south.

It must be granted that the southern part of the state—as great need of the projects there, and more, but in the 11 years of the district's existence, what major undertaking has been listed for the central part of the state—our section?

Tax money goes from the counties into the federal funds which are appropriated each year for the flood control district. Seminole, Brevard, Orange, Volusia, and Indian River Counties must begin to get a return for their money.

And, if we can't get it right away within the structure of the so-called Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District, let's get legislation to form a five-county district to handle the floods and droughts ourselves.

There already is much sentiment among the five counties for such a move.

Every citizen of Seminole County should discuss this project with county officials, congressional delegation members, governor-nominee and other state officials, with neighbors in the other counties—with anybody who will listen.

All should give vehement support to our committee which is trying to get immediate action on a solution to a situation, the magnitude of which easily escapes the casual thinker.

The files of The Herald date back many years and they all tell the same annual story of the fight against water—except when they tell of the fight against drought. We cannot let another 10, 20, 30 years, or who knows how long, go by without control of the St. Johns River waters.

When our county has been declared a disaster area three times in one year isn't it time our people and our neighbors in the same plight stood together and, with the human capabilities to control nature, set out of that label Heaven?

Air Of Optimism

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—An air of hopeful optimism surrounded negotiations today between Westinghouse Electric Corp. and the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE).

First Cold Wave

The first cold wave of autumn spread across the Midwest today and headed for the East. The mass of freezing Canadian air dropped temperatures as much as 24 degrees in 24 hours and sent motorists rushing to gas stations for anti-freeze.

Tourism Grows

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—The Communist threat to Berlin is not dunting the city's attraction to tourists, according to the German Travel Bureau. The bureau said Wednesday that 10 per cent more Germans and 24 per cent more foreign tourists visited Berlin this year than last.

Bridge Welcomed

BRUSSELS (UPI)—King Baudouin Wednesday night welcomed his bride-to-be at Brussels airport and spectators shouted "long live the queen." The 30-year-old king embraced Dona Fabiola de Mora y Aragon, 32, as she left the plane that brought her here from Madrid.

Strike Threatens

NEW YORK (UPI)—Members of the United Federation of Teachers voted Wednesday to go on strike Nov. 7 until the New York City Board of Education meets their demands for recognition of the union as a teachers' representative and for benefits including a dues check-off. The union claims 100,000 members in the city.

Unions Merge

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's two oldest unions of post office clerks have announced plans to merge into a single organization under the AFL-CIO by next March 1. They are the National Federation of Post Office Clerks, with about 100,000 members, and the United National Association of Post Office Craftsmen, which has about 35,000 members.

China Raps Germany

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China charged today that the United States and West Germany are "splitting more intensively" to turn the German army into an atomic armed force. The news agency charged that West Germany would form a fourth atomic force in the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance, alongside the United States, Britain and France.

Four Candidates Set For Race

Only four candidates will be running for the ten open city commission posts in the November general election. Wednesday was the deadline for qualifying for the post. Tom McDonald and R. J. Boynton have qualified for the Group 2 post and A. L. Wilson and I. A. Anderson for the Group 1 post.

Water Supply Reported Safe

Dr. Clyde Brothers, County Health Department director, issued a statement today relating rumors of contamination of public water systems in the Lake Mary area.

Brothers mentioned specifically the water systems owned by Frank Evans and Charles Kruger.

His statement read:

"Routine laboratory analysis of these water supplies are performed in the State Board of Health laboratory. The results of these reports are satisfactory and no bacteria have been found in the water.

Recent special tests have been run to determine if surfactants (detergents) were present in these wells and both supplies were reported free of surfactants." Val Robbins, county sanitarian, also said today that the October tests of all county public water systems show them to be free of surfactants and safe for drinking.

There are 30 such systems in Seminole County.

Public systems are checked each month. If an individual wishes tests made on a home water supply, he must supply the health department with a sample which will be sent to the state laboratories for checking.

6 Who Refused To Testify May Face Contempt

TAMPA (UPI)—The Legislative Roads Committee planned today to check the possibility of recommending contempt citations against six persons who refused to testify about alleged payoffs by Cone Bros. Contracting Co.

The committee, at the end of its two-day public hearing Wednesday night, voted to "turn over to the proper state and county authorities" any information they might want to use should they decide to check for any violations of the law.

Refusals by the Cone employees came as eight State Road engineers admitted they received through the mail anonymous payments in cash. Five said they did not know where the money came from. Three said they understood it came from Cone Bros.

They testified the money came in $25 weekly payments while they were connected with Cone Projects.

All eight denied that the cash had influenced them to give Cone Bros. preferential treatment and welcomed an investigation of roads built by Cone in which they were involved.

But three other road engineers denied they had received any payoffs from Cone or anybody else. However, most of them agreed that it was common to get small gifts from road contractors as Christmas presents.

The employees refusing to testify were Nicholas Wingarden, C. R. Brown, John M. Bailey, Charles E. Bailey Jr., George Brandevie, and John B. Hessel, all of Tampa.

Finch Jury Opens Deliberations

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A jury began its first full day today of deliberating on murder charges against Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his young paramour, Carole Tiezoff.

The state asked the jury of 11 women and one man hearing the retrial to return a verdict of first degree murder against the lovers for the slaying of the wealthy surgeon's wife.

Such a verdict carries with it a mandatory sentence of either life imprisonment or death in the gas chamber under California law.

The jury finally began its deliberations late Wednesday after listening to 99 witnesses in nearly 17 weeks of trial. After meeting for less than two hours, the jurors were locked up in hotel rooms for the night.

Although there were no official predictions on how long their deliberations would last, it was recalled by courtroom observers that jurors in the first trial of the couple spent eight days before admitting they were hopelessly deadlocked last March 12. That trial lasted three months and four days.

Lawmakers May Extend Sales Tax
JACKSONVILLE (UPI)—The next Legislature may extend the state sales tax and lower the intangible property tax, State Sen. Tom Adams of Orange Park forecast Wednesday.

Adams, addressing the Tax Assessors Association of Florida, said the three per cent sales tax might be extended to tax goods and services.

He suggested that if the intangible tax were cut to its 1958 level it might yield more money rather than less. Many wealthy people decline to retire in Florida because of the tax, he said, but might come if it were lowered.

MARY FRANCES ROWLAND, left, Oviedo High School senior, won the $25 savings account with First Federal Savings & Loan Assn. in the Jaycee Fire Prevention Essay contest for students of grades 10 through 12. Kathy Keele, eighth grader at All Souls Parochial School, won the wrist watch given the best essay in grades seven through nine. Stan Branley, Jaycee Fire Prevention Week chairman, made the presentations. (Herald Photo)

Nikita Calls Arms Plan An 'Ill Omen'

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said today that the new disarmament proposals submitted to the United Nations by the West "are an ill omen for the future."

Khrushchev spoke to 12,000 persons jammed into the Lenin Sports Stadium for a report on his 23 day visit to the UN General Assembly in New York. The speech also was broadcast over nationwide radio and television networks.

"These proposals," Khrushchev said, "show that the Western powers still refuse to approach seriously the solution of the disarmament problem—that they are continuing to use disarmament talks to cover up the policy of the arms race."

Khrushchev said that the first stage of the 15th General Assembly session was marked in the main by "the struggle of the new, progressive with the old, the outward, which was impeding the growth and development of the new."

Jaycees To Present Good Government Award

The Sanford-Seminole County Jaycees, as in previous years, will again present the "Good Government Award" to a citizen of Seminole.

Purpose of the award is to give recognition to an individual for his or her outstanding service, ability and accomplishments which have contributed to good government in the town, county or area. Sam Skelton, Jaycee chairman announced.

The public, through any civic club or organization, as well as individual citizens, is asked to assist in the program by submitting the name and short resume of a candidate for the award. All names submitted will be judged by a committee based on the resume with entry.

Entry blanks, available at the Jaycee Information Center on Hwy. 17-92, must be returned to the center no later than Oct. 21. There is no age requirement for nominees who must be a resident of the county. Nominees may be an elected official, an appointed officer, an employee or a community-minded citizen, provided he or she has made an outstanding record in the field of good government.

No person shall be considered a nominee if he is a holder of public office through a state-wide election, or whose appointment is such that he serves the state as a whole, rather than a city, county or district.

The County Zoning Board Wednesday night approved a request for industrial park zoning for 33 acres on Hwy. 17-92, a quarter mile north of the Seminole-Orange County line.

The area is expected to be developed by J. Hilbert Sapp of Orlando.

Sapp plans to develop small industry in that area.

Final approval is expected to come before the County Commission next Tuesday.

In other business during the meeting, the board recommended that Sanford Ave. between 26th and 27th St. be zoned C-2 commercial.

Area Youngsters Convention Bound

Two groups of Seminole County young people are headed Miami way for weekend conventions.

Carl Stubbings, a state winner in the 4-H Junior Apary Projects Entries, will attend the 40th annual meeting of the state beekeepers at the Everglades Hotel, Friday and Saturday to receive the award. Going with him will be his mother, Mrs. George Stubbings, his sister, Susi and Gim Taylor.

Wanda Nixon and Linda Neal of Lake Mary and Carla Longwood of Longwood, will attend the state Baptist Girl Ambassador House party at the Golden Gate Hotel. Attending with the girls will be Mrs. Marguerite Roman, Lake Mary G. A. counselor and Mrs. Lewis Futch, Longwood counselor.

Ambassador Calls Cuban Isolation Necessary Action

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Robert C. Hill, U. S. ambassador to Mexico, said Wednesday the United States must work to "isolate" Cuba because it has "developed into a serious and immediate threat" to the entire Western Hemisphere.

Hill told the national American Legion convention at Miami Beach "do not be surprised if Castro, on instructions from Moscow and Peking, attempts some colossal and foolhardy antic designed to disturb this nation on the eve of its national elections."

"This could be a move on Guantanamo Bay," he said.

"If Castro moves on Guantanamo," the ambassador said, "the United States must defend Guantanamo with all our strength. This ought to show the world we mean business and will not tolerate any further affronts to our country in Cuba or anywhere else in the world."

Under Castro, Hill said, Cuba is suffering "a blood bath" more extensive than under any previous government on the island.

In apparent allusion to the recent executions of three Americans in Cuba, Hill said "this killing of American boys must be stopped... the murder of American citizens by the Communists must cease."

"... We must act strongly," he concluded, "We must isolate Cuba a dictatorial Red-led regime."

Adams To Visit Sanford Today

Tom Adams, Democratic nominee for the Secretary of State post will be in Sanford today as guest of honor at a 4 p. m. dinner at Jim Spencer's Restaurant.

At that time Adams will meet with county Democratic campaign workers.

Bid Opening
The City Commission is opening bids on three new police cars, a garbage packer and pick-up truck at a special meeting this afternoon.

The Campaign

Nixon
Kennedy

By United Press International
Vice President Richard M. Nixon has accused Sen. John F. Kennedy of making 13 separate misstatements and distortions in the presidential campaign and Kennedy planned today to answer each charge in detail.

Nixon issued a long statement Wednesday in which he said: "Sen. Kennedy in this campaign has resorted to so many misstatements and distortions that I feel compelled to set the record straight."

The Republican nominee cited what he termed "the facts" on these issues: Defense of Quemoy, Matsu, economic growth, power developments, farm progress, federal aid to education, natural resources, housing, defense spending, health programs, medical care for the aged, civil rights minimum wage, and interest in Latin America.

Both candidates were in New York City, only a few blocks apart, preparing for their fourth, and probably final, radio-TV debate Friday night.

The vice president today spelled out his program for advancing the nation's economy. He listed possible "tax adjustments" to fight inflation.

Expelled Tourists Enroute To U. S.

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI)—Two American tourists expelled from the Soviet Union in the latest Russian anti-spy campaign left for the United States by air today.

Mark Kaminsky, 28, of Jefferson, Mich., and Harvey Bennett, 26, of Bath, Maine, were scheduled to arrive in New York this afternoon.

Grid Motorcade Set Friday
The Boosters Club will sponsor a grid motorcade Friday night in Winter Park. Cars will be decorated at Seminole High School at 4:30 p. m. before proceeding to the football game.

Board Recommends Price Expiration

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—A special study committee of the State Milk Commission recommended unanimously Wednesday that the minimum retail milk price regulation be allowed to expire Nov. 13.

The committee suggested a regulation forbidding below-cost selling be set up in its place. The recommendation will be turned over to the full commission for action which it meets Nov. 12.

... We must act strongly, he concluded, "We must isolate Cuba a dictatorial Red-led regime."

Khrushchev Soft Pedals Role In Algerian 'Sympathy' Acts

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

Among the lesser thunderbolts hurled by Soviet Premier Khrushchev during his three-week sojourn at the United Nations was his announcement that he had given "de facto" recognition to the Algerian rebel government.

The unabridged dictionary defines a de facto government as "one actually functioning as a result of a revolution or rebellion but not yet permanently established or recognized."

Khrushchev shrugged off the announcement as one that should occasion no surprise since, he said, President de Gaulle himself also had given de facto recognition to the Algerian rebels.

This the French would heartily deny, but even so it might have been dismissed as just another Soviet ploy had not Khrushchev followed it up with these words:

"The Soviet people always are in sympathy with colonial peoples. . . . We will always render them the utmost aid possible—the aid which will be useful to them in attaining their freedom."

This week, Khrushchev's words were being translated into action.

The Soviet trade union newspaper Trud announced that 120 young Algerians would be invited to the Soviet Union for technical training in factories. It also disclosed that a Soviet ship was loading at Odessa with machine tools, automobiles, tractors and combines for Algerian refugees in Tunisia.

To rub more salt in French wounds, it was disclosed that Algerian orphans would be transported to the Soviet Union to "recuperate" in Communist youth camps. A spokesman said the relief program was necessary because of "atrocities of the French colonialists."

It is noteworthy that the program comes under the sponsorship of the Soviet trade unions and does not yet bear the official Soviet government stamp.

It indicates that Khrushchev is not yet ready to push his African policies to the point of an open break with France.

De Gaulle has said he will sever relations with any nation which recognizes the Algerian rebel regime.

A break with France now would not help toward other pressing objectives also high on Khrushchev's agenda for coming months. These include a summit conference in the spring and some progress toward settlement of the Berlin issue.

Meanwhile, he can be expected to press his disruptive tactics in Africa.

The Halloween Carnival sponsored by the Osteen PTA to be held at the school grounds Friday beginning at 4 p. m., will offer a variety of entertainment.

Mrs. L. W. Jones is chairman and working with her and their duties are Mrs. Edward Pall, fish pond; Mrs. Marvin Riggs, pumpkin garden; Mrs. Troy Gary, country store; Miss Leslie Gary, spook room, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bennett, pick-my-pocket. Movies will be shown and horse back riding available.

Food committee members Mrs. Robert Williams, Mrs. L. W. Jones, Mrs. Elmer Shivers and Mrs. Nolan Osteen will have cake, pie, potato salad, hot dogs, hamburgers, sloppy Joes, coffee and cold drinks, pop corn and candied apples for sale.

Longwood Names Safety Patrol

By MRS. LEONA DZURUS
Longwood elementary school safety patrol members, under the direction of James Merivether, have been announced for the second six-weeks period of the school term.

Serving will be Linda Tottingham, Benjamin Price, Robert Mobley, Michael Radney, Christy Wenig and Peter Pys. These student help unload the bus, patrol the walkways and assist all children in any way that is needed. They are chosen from the three sixth grade classes.

Longwood Pupils Get Sight Tests

By MRS. LEONA DZURUS
Many volunteer helpers have been working at the Longwood elementary school in the eye testing program.

Through this test, children who need glasses or need to sit nearer the blackboard are found early in the school year.

It is of great aid to faculty members to find these children who could fall down in studies due to poor vision. All teachers wish to express deep appreciation to the volunteers and again tell them how important this work is.

Supreme Court Cases Prove Trifling At Times

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you think of the U.S. Supreme Court in terms of great constitutional issues, you might find some of its sessions a trifle disconcerting. I know I did.

I happened to have been in the vicinity when the court convened for its Monday meeting and, yielding to a wild impulse, I decided to look in on the proceedings.

It was my first visit to the marble-columned chamber and I was expecting to be anesthetized by abstruse discourses on some opaque legal point. Instead, I found the justices engaged in a lively discussion about convertible tops.

As I entered, Justice Tom C. Clark was telling about the time when the top of his 1919 Oldsmobile sprang a leak. Since my impression of the court was formed about the time that Franklin Roosevelt was complaining about the "nine old men," this sort of shook me up.

It turned out that I had entered in the midst of arguments over a patent infringement case which was, to use a legalistic term, a real gasser. I doubt that Solomon himself could have coped with this one.

The case involved, among other things, the question of whether the replacement of the fabric in a convertible top ranks as a repair job or as a reconstruction.

Lake Monroe Jottings . . .

By Mrs. H. L. Johnson
No better way to start off this column than to ask if you have seen the beautiful blooming gladioli on the Chapman Farms. There are just hundreds and hundreds of them. Early each morning if you come by you will see them being picked and put into cold storage trucks—Sorry to hear that Mrs. Annie Hawkins is ill. Get well, Annie! Hope George Bell is okay again after his recent stay in Orange Memorial Hospital in Orlando—Myrtle and John Pickett of Jacksonville slipped in for the weekend to visit their sister Mrs. Claude Hawkins and family. Claude, Rena and son, Sid, are planning to go to Punta Gorda this weekend to visit friends—Douglas Muse found out the hard way the other day not to ever again touch a part of a car his Dad was working on. He touched the muffler and he has a burned hand to prove it. I asked Doug's Dad, Herbert, how the Wekiva River was (the lives on it). He informed me it was going down but it is still wet. (Ha ha you got the point). See Maury Hittell going in to town. I think she is in charge of the Democratic Headquarters office. This was heard the other day: A second grade boy told the bus driver "Stevie, Earl and I just broke up." "Why?" asked the driver. "Oh we just don't like each other any more". Isn't that cute for second graders? The Janners and the Balla are so glad to see that the county is finally fixing Oregon Ave. They have been having to bring their children out every day to catch the bus miles from their regular stop. I had a pleasant talk yesterday with a wonderful lady who happened to have me in her room when she taught the second grade. She said I sure was a good reader. That wasn't so long ago, either. Was it Mrs. Raymond?

Sheriff Visits 4-H Area Club

Seminole County Sheriff J. L. Hobby visited the regular meeting of the North Orlando 4-H Girls Club Thursday to stress to bicycle riders "How to Observe Traffic Laws and Safety Rules."
Points brought before members were: have white light in front, red in back, on bicycle for use in night riding; observe all stop signs, coming to full stop and surveying traffic in all directions before proceeding; when approaching intersections or crosswalks watch for pedestrians; always use hand signals; ride on the right-hand side of the highway with the flow of traffic; never ride on sidewalks; never ride double; have bell, horn or sounding device on vehicle; absolutely no racing on highways is allowed and riders should never go near a body of water unless accompanied by someone who can swim.
Hobby told the girls that they should be proud of their bicycles and should always set examples for younger riders by observing all traffic and safety rules.
The group met at the home of Beverly Kreeck, N. Edgemoor Ave.

Sanford Joins In Safety Campaign

Sanford has joined an effort by the Florida Safety Council to help reduce bicycle accidents.

The state safety group has scheduled a month's campaign to impress on parents and children that bicycles are vehicles which must be operated properly and which are subject to traffic laws. The campaign begins Nov. 1.

Here is Mayor Earl Higginbotham's proclamation of the city's official participation in the safety program:

"As mayor of the City of Sanford, I call upon all members of this community to give their wholehearted support to the Bicycle Safety Program which starts here Nov. 1 under the direction of the Florida Safety Council and the P-T-A safety chairmen. The month of November will be Bicycle Safety Month.

The purpose of the program is to reduce the hazards of bicycle riding for both young riders and others, by training our boys and girls in riding rules and in the observance of safety and traffic laws.

"Increasing congestion of our streets and highways daily increases the hazards for the careless or unskilled. Hundreds of deaths and thousands of non-fatal injuries each year, due to collisions between bicycles and motor vehicles, alone, warn of the need of such a program.

"In particular, I call for the support of parents and their children who ride bicycles. I urge that parents encourage their children to participate in the safety program and to observe bicycle safety rules for their own and others' safety."

WASHINGTON CALLING

LOS ANGELES—What is happening in this campaign, and particularly in the television exchanges between the two candidates, may have been inevitable. But it nevertheless raises some foreboding for that time which now seems as though it would never come—when the new campaign is ended and a new President has been installed in the White House.

The promises of the politician—the power seeker—are as old as mankind. And these promises are a currency debased in direct relation to the degree of rivalry between the candidates which the electorate has learned to discount with appropriate cynicism. But when the promising game is carried over into foreign policy at a moment of extreme danger and uncertainty for America and the world, then it becomes an incalculable hazard.

What the two candidates are doing as they maneuver for the final clinch is to give their promises a more and more impossible sound. Negotiation with the Soviet Union must come sooner or later and sooner rather than later as the threat of the spread of nuclear armaments adds to the present peril.

Negotiation cannot be a one-sided affair. The day is long since past, if indeed it ever was, when this country can expect the trumpets to sound and the walls of the Kremlin to fall down. In short, there must be concessions for both sides if meaningful negotiation can take place at some point next year.

Yet the temptation, as the second TV encounter made plain, is to sound as though all that is necessary is to stand fast, build up strength and insure thereby the certain collapse or capitulation of the Soviet Union. On the question of negotiation on disarmament Senator Kennedy suggested that it would first be necessary to restore the military strength that he repeatedly says the Eisenhower Administration has allowed to decline.

Mr. Bilopp

Teaspoons which appear on the breakfast table may be used extravagantly or economically.

If the spoons are used extravagantly there will be separate spoons for the coffee, the jam and the soft-boiled egg. Three spoons to a person exhaust the supply of spoons, not to speak of the washing and the wear and tear.

Why use three spoons when two, or even one, can do the work? Under the two-spoon system one spoon can be used for stirring coffee and helping jam. It is merely a question of helping the jam first, since it is all right for the jam to get into the coffee but not for the coffee to get into the jam.

Under the one-spoon system the spoon may be used first for helping to jam, then for stirring coffee and last for eating the egg. It would not be proper to stir the coffee with a spoon that had been used for the egg any more than it would be proper to use it to serve the jam after it had been used to stir the coffee.

In such manner with a little thought and foresight the average family of four could get by nicely with four spoons instead of eight or twelve.

The economical use of spoons, however, requires the cooperation of the members of the family who must put their minds on it. Otherwise somebody will be putting a spoon that has been used for a soft-boiled egg into the coffee or into the jam jar. Some members of the family will refuse to be bothered by such trifles and go right ahead using three spoons apiece. This is too bad, for conserving teaspoons could develop habits of economy that might well lead to a fortune. But it is hard to interest members of the family in amassing fortunes when at the moment they are more interested in an extravagant use of spoons.

By Marquis Childs

That sounds like a large order. Will this mean one year, two years, three years? And do we take it for granted that not alone the Soviet but America's allies and the uncommitted nations sit and wait while this process goes on?

There is an acute awareness, in Britain for example and in India, that time is running out and that events of the most menacing nature will not wait much beyond the long and troubled interlude of the American elections.

The two candidates tend to sound in their TV encounters not so much like debaters as like poker players in a tough and uncompromising game. You raise me I'll throw in a get-tough-with-Castro.

Partly this is due to the limitations of the format, as prescribed by the candidates themselves, and particularly by Vice-President Nixon, and to the nature of the medium. The image of the man, as seen by sixty or seventy or however million voters, is so largely dependent on techniques that neither candidate can be sure of controlling and that are chancy and tricky at best. Reading a number of the telegrams that came in to Nixon after the second encounter, it was surprising to find quite a few that were friendly and yet spoke of his deadpan solemnity, the complete lack of humor and the light touch, the grin quality of the whole performance.

When 13 topics are thrown into one hour of discussion the poker playing approach—I'll raise you another be-nasty-to-Khrushchev—may have been bound to happen. The format gives no opportunity for effective rebuttal. A great deal is still to be learned about this new form of political give and take.

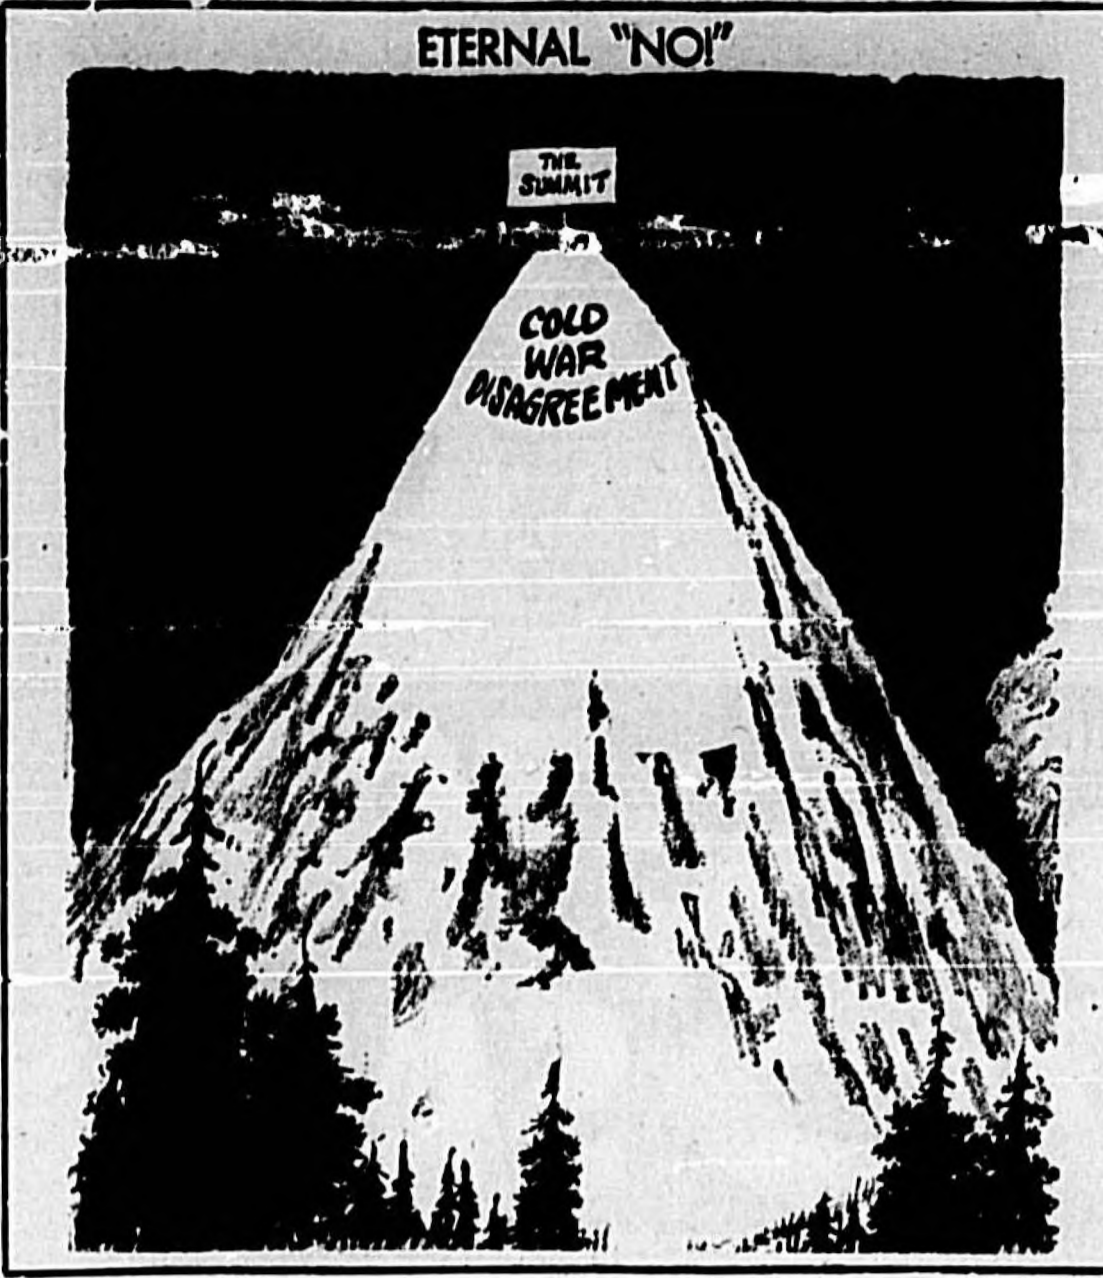

Long before the incentive of a seventy-million TV audience politicians played the promising game and in foreign policy, too. Only 20 years ago with the whole of Europe overwhelmed by Hitler's Panzer divisions and with the Western Hemisphere clearly in the next target area Franklin Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie got into a promising match. In the heat of the battle Roosevelt in his Boston speech promised American mothers they would never see their sons put on ships to go into a foreign war.

That this contributed to the indecision and the near paralysis that followed no one can deny, even though Willkie to play a gallant role and embarrassedly ascribed the impossible promises to "campaign oratory." America's role at a moment of incredible peril for the West was a futile one. Continuation of the draft was saved by a single vote in the House.

In his San Diego speech Nixon launched what promises to be an all-out attack through the conclusion of the campaign on the defense of the tiny islands of Quemoy and Matsu that lie virtually within rifle shot of the mainland of China. He wants to capitalize on what may prove to have been a serious tactical error by Kennedy—the statement in the second encounter that since the islands were indefensible they should not be defended.

But anyone who has looked even briefly at the line-up in the United Nations on the last vote on the admission of Red China surely knows that the whole issue is moving toward a crisis which cannot be met simply by insisting that Chiang Kai-shek is China and repeating the old war cries. Nevertheless, by freezing in one inflexible position that many of our best friends feel is impossible we shall by that much jeopardize the hope or reasonable negotiation in the future.

THE WORRY CLINIC by Dr. George Crane

CASE G-603: Terry L., aged 4, is a well developed little boy.

"But he has a bad habit," his Daddy irritably protested.

"Terry can't seem to go to sleep at night unless he has the corner of a wool blanket against his cheek.

"If we go visiting my parents, then Terry will cry till we find a wool blanket for him.

"I slapped him the other night in my anger. Now I am ashamed of myself, but it irks me to see him acting like a baby. Why does he demand that wool blanket?"

All of us have our own special pre-sleep ritual.

In my case, I start out on my back, with my head on the pillow. Mrs. Crane is usually snuggled on my left shoulder.

Soon she is sound asleep. I may lie there thinking of tomorrow's work for a few minutes; then I begin to grow drowsy.

That's when I roll over on my face and slick my head under my pillow, using it to keep the back of my neck warm. Then I drop off into sound slumber.

In Terry's case and that of most youngsters, we can easily see why they want the wool blanket on some other soft, flannel cloth.

For in babyhood, they are usually fed by bottle. But it slips from side to side unless anchored by having a cloth or blanket draped around it.

So the baby is soon "conditioned" to the feel of a wool blanket as an essential part of its pre-sleep ritual.

Pavlov, a famous Russian physiologist, likewise "conditioned" a dog to the sound of a bell.

Whenever the canine was given food, a bell rang. Soon the bell itself would start salivary flowing till the dog drooled, though no food was in sight.

So the blanket is likewise a conditioned object that the average baby has linked with its pre-sleep ritual.

Other children may insist on sucking their thumbs in order to gain the relaxation needed to drift into slumber.

Since the blanket habit of Terry is not injurious, it might very well be ignored.

But thumb sucking may lead to ridicule from other children if it also occurs during school, so you better tactfully change it.

One of the simple ways to do so is to cut a strip of rubber from an old inner tube, much as boys do for making a slingshot.

With a safety pin, fasten the far end of the rubber strip to the foot of the child's mattress.

Then stretch the child's arm full length at its side. Now pin the upper end of the rubber band to the cuff of the child's pajama sleeve.

Although there is now no tension from the rubber strip, as soon as the youngster bends its arm to stick the thumb in its mouth, the rubber stretches. This tension quickly fatigues the child so its thumb slips out of its mouth.

The unpleasant effect of the tension in its arm will soon attach to the act of thumb sucking and thus cause the child to stop the habit altogether.

In the daytime, give it gum to occupy its mouth in lieu of the thumb.

Samurai Sword Changes Japan's Current Political Campaign

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

A Samurai sword in the hands of a fanatic, 18-year-old boy has changed the complexion of Japan's current political campaign, with possible far-reaching and unfortunate effects on the defense treaty between Japan and the United States.

The sword took the life of Japanese Socialist leader Inejiro Asanuma, who had been a vociferous opponent of the treaty and a strong supporter of demands for closer relations between Japan and Red China.

The ruling Liberal—Democrats had hoped the treaty now was a dead or at least dormant issue.

But instead, when young Otaya Yamaguchi ran screaming across a speaker's platform in Hibiya Hall and plunged the foot-long sword into Asanuma's chest, he gave the Japanese left wing a martyr and restored the treaty as a central issue in Japanese politics.

Japanese elections are expected to take place late next month. Premier Hayato Ikeda and the Liberal-Democrats had hoped to maintain or even increase their strength in the Diet where they now hold 286 of the 467 seats.

In the last general election, Japanese voters overwhelmingly demonstrated their preference for close ties with the United States. Even as riots against the new defense treaty erupted throughout Tokyo and in other Japanese cities last spring and summer and Premier Nobusuke Kishi's government fell, it was felt that the vast majority of Japanese either supported the treaty or recognized it as a necessity.

But there is in Japan a strong feeling of neutralism and the recent swift turn of events has given the neutralists and the left wing a rallying cry.

The treaty, signed and ratified by both governments, would be in no immediate danger even at the hands of an anti-treaty majority in the Japanese Parliament.

It has, however, coveting clauses which are subject to modification. These clauses deal with privileges accorded to American military forces based in Japan. They could be modified to the point of making them unworkable.

Japanese who favor the treaty do so both because of the flow of U. S. dollars brought by the American forces there and because they feel that a militarily weak Japan cannot afford to stand alone.

It remains to be seen how much recent events have caused their numbers to dwindle, if at all.

WASHINGTON

by Ed Koterba

BETHESDA, Md.—He's a cut-up, restless, all of eight years, and he's the kind of headache to parents that all boys his age are.

One day the doctor prescribed two naps, tranquilizers... out it's hard to harness boy power.

Despite all our frowning at this juvenile clown, he often has us in stitches. And sometimes he gets himself in stitches. As he is now. And that's when I faint. I can't stand the pain of hurt little boys, and knowing he's in the emergency room—needle to flesh—jars me numb.

Of all the mysteries of life on earth, one of the deepest is how small children survive the risks of growing up. The only answer I can find in our household is that our offspring uses his face for a bumper.

If medical science hadn't invented the surgical needle and thread, I'm afraid that kid would have become the champion scarface of the juvenile world.

First, he had to have a two-wheeler. But before he learned to ride it, he managed to Lindy loop over the handlebars, cushioning the fall to the sidewalk with the point of his chin. Six stitches.

No human could possibly wound himself by merely shifting from one kitchen chair to the other. But this wonder boy did. His foot slipped, the floor came up against his heel, which knocked his knee against his chin, which caught the back of his tongue between his teeth.

That was the day I fainted twice. The tongue took three black-thread stitches. But he just grinned.

The day he fell down the stairs they almost needed a sewing machine to close his lower lip. One prescribed sedative—for me.

This was shortly after he ran into a concrete barrier on the schoolground and knocked out a front tooth—a permanent one.

So the other evening, they greeted me at the door—a perplexed mother and a crimson-faced boy. "We're on our way," she said. "To the emergency room." This time it was his right eye. Four stitches across the brow.

He was sliding into first, and his head hit the base. The base was a large iron pan, rounded side down, that flipped up and clunked off to school the next morning—with the air of a wounded hero.

But he marched off to school the next morning—with the air of a wounded hero.

He showed on a slung for his arm. Claimed the tetanus shot had him. He head was in bandages, his eye was blackened.

He returned home triumphant. "Guess what!" he said. "The man came around to take everybody's picture today." His mother gasped at this miserably-lacerated face grinning through bandages.

"And," he beamed, "I was the first in line!"

I try to tell myself that I am learning for nothing.

Luncheon Meeting Opens Oviedo Club

By MARIAN R. JONES
A blending of Halloween and Fall gathered members and visitors who gathered at fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church of Oviedo for the first Woman's Club meeting of the season.

After being greeted by Mrs. George Morgan, at the door the beautiful arrangement on the president's table caught the eye. The crotons, artificial grapes and red berries were arranged in exquisite taste in the center of the table.

Yellow gladioli, yellow daisies, fall leaves, crotons, artificial fruit, horns-of-plenty and pumpkins were arranged at other points throughout the room.

A delicious ham course was served with pumpkin pie for dessert. by Mrs. James E. Brookshire and her committee; Mrs. George W. Morgan, Mrs. Dick Parker, Mrs. Harold Patterson, Mrs. Jack Dodd, Mrs. W. H. Martin and Mrs. B. G. Smith.

Mrs. W. T. Walker, second vice-president and program chairman, presented Rev. Grover C. Sewell Jr., pastor of the Sanford Presbyterian Church as guest speaker. He chose the topic "Problems of Leadership" and especially emphasized spiritual leadership as well as political leaders and the responsibilities they entailed.

He said "If we could arouse good leaders in our churches we would not have to worry so much about any of the 'isms'."

Garden Circles

The first meeting of the Dirt Gardeners' Circle of the Sanford Garden Club was held Friday, at the home of Mrs. W. A. Yung and Miss Doris A. Cline in Geneva.

Mrs. R. F. Robinson presided at the meeting which was attended by eighteen members. Coffee and coffee were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Yung, Miss Cline, Mrs. S. C. Dickerson, and Mrs. C. D. Ferry.

The circle was privileged to hear Dr. Philip Westgate, horticulturist of the Florida Agricultural Center, describe "What's New In Horticulture." He called attention to the new peach developed for Florida, which has just been released to nurseries. It is an attractive ornamental with beautiful blossoms as well as fruit.

Attention was called to new varieties of tangerines including the Holmsion, Oaccola, and Lee. Dr. Westgate told of the introduction of about two hundred varieties of grapes about 1869 by General Sanford. Only recently research has made possible new grapes which will grow more successfully in this area including the Lake Emerald, Blue Lake, Muscadine or scuppernon.

Tailor-made fruits and vegetables suited to Florida soils and climate have included blueberries and blackberries. A question and answer period followed Dr. Westgate's talk.

TEL Class To Meet

The TEL Sunday School class of the First Baptist Church will meet, Friday at 3 p. m., at the home of Mrs. W. D. Gardner, 421 Magnolia Ave.

Cocktails were served, and the guests enjoyed barbecued ham, rolls, shrimp and devilled eggs from an attractive buffet table.

"KATHY" EVANS

A group of neighborhood playmates came over in the afternoon. After playing several games they settled down and made paper dolls, using crepe paper and clothes pins and Halloween paper caps.

Several other neighborhood children were invited in to share refreshments of ice cream, candy and a birthday cake.

VAH-7 Welcomes Mrs. Art Galalles

Mrs. Wayne Robinson and Mrs. A. S. Poulter were co-hostesses for the VAH-7 coffee.

Mrs. F. D. Minter welcomed Mrs. Art Galalles as the newest bride in the group.

It was also "silver cigarette box" time again. This one was presented to June Swope, whose husband is now in VAH-9, aboard the Saratoga.

Twenty members enjoyed refreshments, preceding the business session and social hour.

When replenishing your towel supply, buy two wash cloths per towel. Wash clothes usually wear out before the towels. The second wash cloth, used to replace a worn one, makes it possible to continue putting out "matched" sets until the towels wear out.

Don't Overlook Gators In Bid For SEC Crown

ATLANTA (UPI)—The second-ranked Mississippi Rebels have been stirring up so much dust in their determined drive toward their first-over perfect season that fans in the Southwest have been getting a dim view of the Florida Gators.

But the Gators shouldn't be overlooked. Although they would be the first to admit they aren't in the Rebels' class, the fact remains that they have a good chance to finish the season as co-champions of the Southeastern Conference.

Florida tied with Mississippi. It may sound far-fetched but it is a fact never-the-less. Both teams play six SEC games. Mississippi is currently 3-1 in intra-conference play, Florida 2-0. And the Gators don't meet such powers as Mississippi or unbeaten Tennessee. True, Florida has four tough conference games ahead. But the Gators have shown offensive daring in winning four out of five games and have the potential to finish unbeaten within the league. One of the toughest tests comes

Saturday night when they meet the defensive-minded Louisiana State Bengals at Baton Rouge. If the Gators can score two touchdowns, they can win for although the Bengals have given up but one touchdown this season, they also have only scored one while losing three out of four starts.

Auburn, Georgia and Tulane lie ahead for the Gators. But these three will all be met at the friendly environs of Gainesville and Jacksonville where Florida has won eight out of 10 over the past two seasons.

The Gators could move into a first place tie in the SEC with Mississippi this weekend. The Rebels go outside the conference Saturday night in a game with the 11th-ranked, once-beaten Arkansas Razorbacks a long-time Mississippi nemesis.

Looks Like Houk

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ralph Houk, a fellow who's made it the hard way all his baseball life, is slated today to inherit the royal robes of Casey Stengel as the new manager of the New York Yankees.

The announcement that the 41-year-old tobacco-smoking native of Lawrence, Kan., will succeed Stengel is expected to be made by Yankee President Dan Topping at a press conference this afternoon.

It is also possible that Topping will reveal sweeping changes in the Yankees' front office which would include the ousting of 66-year-old general manager George Weiss on the same grounds that cost 70-year-old Stengel his job on Tuesday—age. Weiss, who molded the great Yankee farm system before taking over as general manager in 1947, probably will be succeeded by Roy Hamey and Jack White.

Louis Bout Ends In Draw

NEW YORK (UPI)—The third Joe Louis-Max Schmeling fight was a draw.

The two ring greats met by surprise in public Wednesday night for the first time since their historic battle at Yankee Stadium 22 years ago, when Louis flattened Schmeling in the first round of their world heavyweight title fight to avenge an earlier defeat by the German.

The occasion was a national television show "This is Your Life," which was taped in the ballroom of a midtown hotel for presentation this weekend.

"Joe Louis is a great friend," said Schmeling, buying all the hatred that accompanied their second fight. "He is one of the finest sportsmen in the world . . . and I wish good luck to him and his family."

Louis, genuinely surprised at Schmeling's appearance on the TV show, shuddered at the mention of their first fight in 1936 when Max handed him the first defeat of his career.

"This guy knew how to dish it out," Joe said. "But through it all, we've remained friends. And that's the way it should be."

The crowd in the ballroom clapped loudly, and, minus an applause meter, you had to call it a draw.

Two Invited

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI)—Salem and Lynchburg, Va., were invited Wednesday by officials of the Carolina Baseball League to purchase franchises and enter the circuit. The addition of the two cities would give the league eight clubs.

Hunts Job

ROTHORO, N. C. (UPI)—Knox Slaughter, released as manager of the Houston Buffs of the American Association, said today he is seeking a coach's job in the major leagues. Slaughter was given his release after Houston acquired a new National League franchise which is expected to begin operation in 1972.

Game of the Week
Iowa over Purdue—The Hawkeyes are seven point picks but this could be much closer. Iowa has the breakaway backs to outscore the Hoosiers. The question is whether Purdue will let down after that Ohio State win.

The East
Navy over Penn—I'd like to see Casey Stengel get the Giant job. Syracuse over West Virginia—Then take the NI pennant. Princeton over Cornell—Have the Yanks win, too.

The Midwest
Ohio State over Wisconsin—I'd like to see college football go "golden death." Northwestern over Notre Dame—The pros are taking over. Illinois over Penn State—The colleges need a hype.

Robertson Makes Pro Debut With Giant Scoring Spree

By United Press International
One game doesn't make a season but it appears today that the addition of Oscar Robertson is just what the Cincinnati Royals needed to make them a National Basketball Association power.

The famed three-time All-American from the University of Cincinnati made his NBA debut Wednesday and delighted a record crowd of 8,576 at Cincinnati Garden by teaming with veteran ace Jack Twyman to produce a 140-123 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers. The 140 points were the highest ever scored in a single game by the Royals who play the Knickerbockers at New York's Madison Square Garden tonight.

Robertson, playing a brilliant all-around game, tallied eight field goals and went 3-for-5 at the free throw line for 21 points. Twyman, the NHA's second highest scorer last season, connected for 11 field goals and eight of 12 free throws to lead Cincinnati's scoring with 30 points. Elton Baylor of the Lakers was the game's high scorer with 35.

Robertson, who had 10 assists and led the Royals with 12 rebounds, topped Laker rookie Jerry West, the ex-West Virginia All-American, in their first man-to-man meeting in pro ranks. West scored seven field goals and six free throws for 20 points.

Midget Action

The Sanford Midget League squad takes on undefeated Daytona Beach at 7:30 p. m. today at Memorial Stadium.

Going into tonight's game Sanford has one win and two losses. Their lone win was a 33-0 victory over Port Orange.

Sanford will be looking for its first win over a Daytona grid eleven since four seasons ago.

Orangemen Hold Lead In Major College Defense Department

NEW YORK (UPI)—Syracuse University, penetrated for 250 yards by Penn State last Saturday, still managed to hold its lead in major college total defense this week, but the Orangemen were ousted by Mississippi as rushing defense leader.

Syracuse's overall defense figure has soared to 133.8 yards a game, just a shade better than Wyoming's 131.2. Wyoming is also runner-up to Mississippi in rushing defense.

In other departments, official statistics released today by the NCAA Service Bureau show Auburn as the pass defense leader, Dartmouth the scoreboard defense leader and Wisconsin as the top punting team.

Syracuse, in a disastrous week statistically, yielded 152 rushing yards to Penn State—more than the combined total of the three previous Orange opponents—and dropped to fifth place on the ground defense list. This was the first time in over a year that Syracuse had been toppled from the No. 1 position in this department.

Mississippi, a consistently strong defensive outfit for the last five years, took the rushing defense

Builders Move Into 1st Place

E. A. Davis Builders charged into first place Tuesday night in the Sandspur Bowling League leaving Wilson-Mater Furniture and Robson Sporting Goods tied for second place. Coming up into fourth place is Stemper Agency, followed by FoodMart and Pierre Mig. Co.

Highest scratch series for the night goes to Lil Donat of Davis Builders with a 232-547, which was quite a contribution to their moving into first place. Ann Conklin's 537 and Mary Lou Danyluk's 501 helped Stemper Agency take all four points from Pierre Mig. Co.

Split topplers were Josephine Stone and Beverly Grabarkewicz picking up the 3-7 and Erma Anderson the 4-5. Mary Lou Danyluk captured the 4-5-7.

A decibel is the unit for measuring the intensity, or loudness, of a sound.

Horne's Regains First In League

Horne's Distributors made a comeback Tuesday evening, as they regained top spot in the Sanford County Extension League, sharing that spot with Benton, General Contractor. Both teams have 20 wins, eight losses.

Jet Inn Bar and Sanford Electric took over the second position, followed by Owen's Gulf Service, 18; Gator Lumber, 16; Southern Bell, 15; Ride-A-White Stables, Vulcan Materials, Abstract Corp., Wall's Plumbing, and Art Day's Turkeys, all with 14; Atlantic Coast Line, 13; Sanford Atlantic Stables, 12; and Hefler Homes, 11; Independent Five and Wally's Phillips 66, both 10; Casselberry Country Club, eight, and North Orlando Homes, seven.

Leroy Glover strung seven strikes together to build the top game this week, a big 240 scratch, which is high for the new season. Jesse Todd rolled the highest series, 573.

Todd also made the 4-10 split. Dorman and Daniels 5-10, Dole 4-5-7, Murphy 4-7-9, Ceathers 5-8-10, Wright 4-7-9, Balser the 5-7 twice, Doucette 210, and Tom Brown 6-7-10.

Holiday Program Set By School

By ANN H. LAMBERT

A "moral" and "terrific" as Halloween Night is taking shape in the school room of Mrs. Pauline Wheelers at the Longwood Elementary school. Thirty first-graders are combining their efforts daily, drawing black cats, shadowy trees, jolly Jack-O-lanterns, plump pumpkins and unexpected eerie items as they occur. A highlight of the artistry will be the sky-flying witch riding her broom through the yellow moon.

Pupils also are learning seasonal songs which describe their art work.

Several of the first grade boys and girls completed their first pre-emptor "Skip Along" Monday. To mark the event, each carried a book home to share with the family for one evening.

Miss Fannie Reese, second grade teacher, is guiding her pupils in a "Village" project. Wall posters and a mural depict services of policemen, firemen, mailmen, milkmen and other community helpers and students are studying about these workers in reading class and social studies.

Crowd Attends Oviedo PTO Meeting

By MARION R. JONES
A crowd estimated to number over 200 packed the Oviedo City Hall Memorial Building Thursday for the first PTO meeting of the 1960-1961 calendar year.

Led by Jack Langford, N.A.S. Sanford, and past president of the Toastmasters, kept listeners spellbound with authorized facts and figures pertaining to phases of World War II as well as to duties of true Americans in case of war being thrust upon us at any time.

The meeting was open to all interested citizens who wished to

School Prepares For Halloween

By MRS. LEONA ZURUS
Throughout the school, Halloween with all its witches, ghosts, owls, black cats and hobgoblins are taking over each class room, leaving an eerie, mysterious feeling.

An "owl tree" in a third grade classroom makes one feel that the big day is not far off. Owls, made of brown paper towels, sit on an oak branch with dried oak leaves which gives the feeling of fall even in this warm sunshine state.

Pupils of Mrs. Winkle's third grade even have a motto for the season: "The Trick Is To Treat, All the World's Children." These students will send all pennies they get through "Trick or Treat" on Halloween night to UNICEF. Recent studies have shown, through pictures and stories, how the pennies will aid the hungry children of the world and some students are sharing their personal allowances by sending contributions to the organization.

Altamonte Legion Sets Vet Parade

Carl Stoddard, commander of Old Glory Post 183, American Legion, Altamonte Springs, has issued invitation to all citizens of Altamonte Springs, Casselberry, Fern Park, Forest City, Longwood, Maitland, Prairie Lake, Sanford and South Seminole County to participate in the sixth annual veterans day celebration parade.

The parade will form at Casselberry at 10 a. m., Nov. 11, with the line of march along Hwy. 17-92 to the Legion Hall at Prairie Lake.

Those groups wishing to enter the parade are requested to notify Major J. L. Laird, Midway 75973.

Baptist Assn. Elects Officers

The Seminole Baptist Assn., meeting Oct. 11 and Oct. 12 at the "Patriot Club" in Sanford, elected Rev. Jack L. Stewart of Geneva as moderator.

Other officers named included Dr. J. Winston Pearce, DeLand, vice moderator; Rev. Robert O. Byrd, Lake Monroe, clerk and R. L. Carter, professor at Stetson, treasurer.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You goofed! How could you advise parents to get their small boy a miniature French poodle? Poodles are expensive to buy and only a millionaire can keep a poodle properly manicured and clipped. Also, you can't give an aristocrat like that table scraps unless you eat filet mignon and crepes suzette every night. What's wrong with a Boston bull?
PAUL FROM SOUTH CHICAGO

DEAR ABBY: I wish you'd have told Mrs. J. L. T. that apartment dwellers have no business having dogs. A few goldfish or tropical fish would do just as well. I had puppies when I was a child and believe it or not, I learned about the birds and the bees from the fish!
"CORNELL '61" (ITHACA, N. Y.)

DEAR ABBY: Anyone who knows anything about pets will tell you that the best pet in the world for a child is a dachshund. They are odorless, hairless, affectionate and sturdy.

FRISKEY'S MASTER (HARTFORD, CONN.)

DEAR ABBY: I hope Mrs. J. L. T. didn't take your advice and rush out to buy her 7-year-old son a miniature male poodle. A female (spayed, of course) would make a much better pet.
EDNER (PORTLAND, OREGON)

DEAR ABBY: I agree, every child should have a pet. But why a French poodle? Our boys had white mice. Their mice gave them much pleasure and there was no work involved for me. Mice cost nothing to feed, require no license, never have any of the vet's, and they annoy the neighbors.

LIKES WHITE MICE (San Antonio, Tex.)

DEAR ABBY: For a couple of dollars and a trip to the dog pound, Mrs. J. L. T. can get a first-class pet. Yes, I mean an ordinary mongrel. We've never had anything else and when it comes to loyalty and companionship, I'll put one of those mutts against any pedigreed dog.
HERB H. (SOUX CITY, IOWA)

DEAR ABBY: I've raised and bred dogs all my life and, if I were to recommend the ideal dog for a child, I'd say get him a cocker spaniel, beagle or schnauzer. French poodles are too high-strung, noisy and ornery. Besides which, a small poodle is no animal for rough-housing.
DOGBREEDER (BATON ROUGE, LA.)

DEAR ABBY: I couldn't believe my eyes when I read your advice to buy a miniature French poodle for a 7-year-old boy. That's a dog for a rich lady who has nothing to do but pamper a spoiled ball of fluff. Tell the parents to get the child an Airedale. It can take all the teasing, cuddling and mauling a small boy can dish out.

Dow Hour Proves Successful On Percolating Suspense

By FRED DANZIG
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Amazing what a few squirts of No. 1 production oil can do.

Tuesday night, it managed to take some of the squeals, groans and rust out of an old mystery story.

Some. Not all.

"The Man of the Flying Dragon," third in the "Dow hour of Great Mysteries" on NBC-TV this season, managed to be moderately successful in percolating suspense and interest and in tantalizing our imaginations. If I sound unenthusiastic about the degree of success, it's because I found the story unworthy of all the lavish attention to detail that it received under the direction of David Greene.

Sheldon Reynolds' adaptation of Sheridan Le Fanu's yarn was calmly and quietly played by a cast led by Hugh Griffith, Farley Granger, Harry Morse and a perky, new-to-American-TV-screen French actress named Macha Meril.

The story dealt with the narrow escape from the grave that an impetuous, wealthy young man had after he fipped for a beautiful young girl while both were staying at the inn, located in northern France.

Granger, as Richard Beckett, the eager beaver who was suckered into the old badger game, seemed to have too much intelligence for the role. This Beckett character was just too dumb to live. His behavior was so outlandish that I found myself unwilling to root for his ultimate triumph.

As the bogus inspector, Griffith gave himself away too early with his alms. Morse was just right as the sordid Count St. Aylre, who had to treat Miss Meril as a shabby in order to lure Beckett into the trap.

Miss Meril should enjoy a successful career here, where we seem partial to actresses whose initials are M.M. And she happens to be a good little actress.

The mystery, another Robert Sander Associates venture, quickly slipped its breath-catching booby traps into the picture with alacrity. It was all carefully, too carefully, staged out and pointed out. But drive, zeal and an over-rating beam in the story were lacking.

Dialog and acting: I closed my eyes during Tuesday night's "Doble Gillis" episode and, soon of a gun, M K didn't sound like the old "Jack Benny Show" on radio. Dwayne (Dobie) Dickman was Benny. Bob (Maynard) Denver was Dennis Day. Their dialogue and delivery fit Benny's old scripts to perfection. At one point Doble-Jack shouted at Maynard-Dennis, "Now, out that out!"

Beauty after Forty
EDYTH THORNTON McLEOD

Recently I was invited to view the collection at the House of Jules. I went, I saw and I was conquered! Such delightful things and such new ideas in harmony of color, design and fabric.

New Ideas In Dress Harmony

omen. This is the beauty of his collection—you can have the style of skirt and blouse most becoming to you.

The sculptured ribbon treatment on dresses and different jackets is handsome and one can go around the world with one of these and be beautifully dressed for any occasion. Brocade in gorgeous colors is veiled in net, and is smooth and intriguing. This is made into dinner and theater suits and one, in black and white with a soft collar of black fox, would make any woman one of the "best dressed."

The colors are unusual and come in luxurious fabrics such as those shown by the House of Jules. The group known as "Marco Polo" collection was made of fabrics and furs gathered from every corner of the world. I especially like a sweater of purest cashmere, with a collar of mink and a border of French ribbon in lush colors.

Mr. Leitman is fun to talk to because he is so enthusiastic. He told me he had always loved beautiful fur and made fine collars for the trade until one day he made a collar to be worn with a cashmere sweater for a fashionable woman at Palm Beach. "That did it," he said. "I knew what I was going to do." And he has done the most unusual things.

I stayed for lunch with the staff and Mr. Leitman played host. He is a "gourmet" and buys all the food for the delicious luncheons which he plans every day. Visitors just drop in. I thought one of the chiffon outfits in "Vanilla" beige was so lovely we could have eaten it with a spoon for dessert!

Now, if you would like a 1960-61 brochure showing lovely things and how to combine them, send me a postcard with your name and address and a brochure will be sent to you. But hurry and send now. I have only a limited number.

Space Committee Hearing More Effective Than Pills

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Whenever my earthly cares and woes start getting me down, I like to buckle on my Van Allen belt and go soaring into the great unknown with the House Space Committee.

As a mode of escapism, the committee's hearings are almost as effective as a prescription for tranquilizer pills, and a good deal less expensive.

Unfortunately, however, the committee has been semi-dormant during the congressional adjournment period, depriving me of a place in which to lose touch with reality.

The committee has, to be sure, issued a few reports recently on things like space hospitals. But when nervous tensions are playing an obnoxious on my medulla oblongata, the printed word just doesn't suffice.

It was, therefore, the hope of finding a substitute sedative that led me to the Smithsonian Institution Tuesday to witness the enshrinement of a nose cone.

On this occasion, the U.S. Air Force was rendering unto the Smithsonian the first nose cone to be recovered after a space flight. It will be preserved for posterity in the National Air Museum.

The presentation was made by Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, commander of the Air Research and Development Command, who recorded the nose cone a significant niche in the annals of space exploration.

Posterity, he predicted, will look upon it as an artifact of a primitive civilization, just as we now look upon arrow heads and spear tips as early implements of a new era.

As I sat there, contemplating the nose cone and listening to Schriever's narration, I began to get that far-away feeling that I was searching for. The sensation lasted, however, only a few moments.

As I was drifting back to this planet, I happened to notice that I was sitting under the wing of the "Vin Fiz," the first airplane to fly from coast to coast. This immediately broke the spell.

Named After Drink

What grounded me was a plaque on the plane, imparting the information that the "Vin Fiz" was named after a soft drink, the makers of which presumably financed the flight as a promotion stunt.

It is, of course, a matter of record that many historic ventures were conceived by press agents. In that respect, the flight was no novelty.

New DeBarry Firemen Introduced At Meet

William Bricker and August Phemmy were introduced as new members of the DeBarry Volunteer Firemen at a meeting of the organization at the fire house Thursday.

President Joseph Herlag presided and announced that two new jaliscoo doors have been donated to the group by builder Sam Faron and installed by Joseph Brenner. A 30-star water-proof flag was donated by Gaston Crosby.

A nominating committee of Henry Klepper, chairman, Frank Layman and Joseph Hanson was appointed and will present a slate of officers for 1961 at the November meeting.

Fire department members are planning use of a decal system whereby the residence of any invalid or blind person can be quickly located in emergency cases. Decals are printed with light reflecting inks and can be seen easily with a spot light. Any resident desiring a decal may get one free of charge from Fire Chief Ed Healy or the fire department at P. O. Box 822. An inhalator call was received while the meeting was in progress from Mrs. William Ogden at Edrella and Columbia Rd. Firemen Joseph Lambertson, Bruce, Joseph Brenner and Harry Schob responded immediately and report that she is doing well and resting comfortably at her home.

Junior High Expands Reading Program

The Sanford Junior High School has expanded its reading program in the school so that several hundred students can take advantage of the program already offered there.

Mrs. C. Nash, an experienced reading teacher, has been added to the faculty this year to help Mark Fannon, present teacher in this field.

The latest methods of teaching reading are employed in the program and the individual improvement has been encouraging, it was reported.

Once assigned to the class, each student is tested to see which reading level he is in. This includes oral reading and physical and emotional barriers are noted. The reason for doing this is to find out immediately the cause of the individual's weakness

The classes consist of silent reading for speed and comprehension; phonetics, to associate sounds with the printed word; oral reading for diction and pronunciation; dictionary exercises for word recognition and spelling; reading for pleasure to stimulate interest; book reports of a variety of stories, easy to read and interesting to the student; grammar, the value of punctuation, root words, prefixes and suffixes; speed tricks; omitting regression and increasing the eye-span while reading.

It was reported that the school has many students above the national average at the school and this is part of the school program to help other students keep or meet that standard.

Baptist Institute Scheduled Friday

Fire Auxiliary Plans Party

An enthusiastic meeting of the members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Lake Mary Fire Dept., held Thursday evening at the Fire House launched the group on its plans for the winter season.

The first activity will be a real old fashioned Halloween costume party which will be held at the Fire House Oct. 29, starting at 8:30 p. m. Everyone is urged to come in costume as there will be prizes awarded during the "Grand March" at about 9:30 for the most original, the best dressed and the funniest costumes. A door prize, refreshments, games and dancing will be part of the fun.

Nominating committee chosen at the meeting was Mrs. Annie Schweickert, Mrs. Clara Grange and Mrs. Peggy Schweickert, who will choose a slate of officers to be presented at the November meeting for election in conducting the work of the organization for 1961.

Lake Mary Boys Hold 4-H Meeting

Lake Mary 4-H boys held their first meeting of this school term at the elementary school with Mrs. Cecil J. Nixon, leader.

Officers elected from the ten members present were Harry Clements, president; David Mohr, vice president; Tommy Pigott, secretary; Bobby Halback, chaplain; James Clements, song leader; and Lynn Harden, reporter.

Boys from the Sunland Estates area met with the Lake Mary group at this first meeting. However, a separate club will be organized for Sunland.

Meetings of the Lake Mary boys are held each second and fourth Tuesday of the month at 2:40 p. m. in Mrs. Cochran's room. All boys interested in 4-H work are invited to participate in the program.

Report Cards Coming

Longwood elementary school pupils will get report cards Wednesday. Faculty members request that parents note the progress of students and return cards to the school at the earliest possible convenience.

Bee Sting Is Gone After Class Study

A project of Mrs. Eleanor Winkle's third grade at Longwood Elementary School has turned the pupils' fear of bees into interest.

One of their projects on the subject reads "Welcome to Our Hive" and the sting is gone out of the hazyworking insects which now are appreciated for their sweet product.

The class started studying dead bees, which they examined, then they began to study the honeycomb. Each pupil has kept a Bee Booklet, with information and pictures.

Highlight of the course was "stinging day," when the class sampled honey on crackers.

Candidates are George C. Peterson, for governor; Col. Percy W. Thompson, for secretary of state; Charles R. Fisher for state treasurer;

Dunn Asks Long Range Road Plan For District

District 4 County Commissioner Vernon Dunn presented a comprehensive road maintenance program for his district to the County Commission this past week.

The program, which Dunn hopes to have in operation within the next two years, includes also installation of pre-stressed concrete bridges at Lake Howell Lane, Tuskawillow Rd., Howard Ave., Florida Ave., Mitchell Rd., Curryville Rd. and Chuluota Rd.

Among the paved road projects: Lake Howell Rd.—Rebuild road from SR 436 to Linden Ave. providing lateral drainage. Rebuild road at entrance of Lakemont Ave. Lakewood Shores First Addition—Rebuild approximately 75 percent of street and install French drain.

Lakewood Shores—Rebuild approximately 40 percent of street and install French drain; O'Brien Rd.—Rebuild from Hwy. 17-92 to Fern Terrace Subdivision; Tuskawillow Rd.—Slag road from SR 419 to Dike Road. Rebuild approximately 200 feet at Bear Gully Creek;

Seventh St. and E. Ave.—Slag surface;

Lake Howell Road—Rebuild section and slag from SR 436 to Leman School;

Dean Road—Rebuild from RR 126 to Orange County line with lateral drainage;

Chuluota Rd.—Rebuild low, broken areas;

Huntley Road—Rebuild low, broken areas. Slag approximately 0.6 miles not completed in 1958;

Chuluota (old Country road) widen and rebuild from 7th St. south to Chuluota Rd.

Dunn also hopes to improve unpaved roads at Goldenrod, Dike Rd., Grand Rd., Bear Gully Rd., Lake Ann Rd., Lake Howell Lane, Inslake Drive east of Casselberry; Fort Christmas Rd., Curryville Rd., Black Hammock Rd. and Miller Rd.

Girl Ambassadors Hold Meeting

The Seminole County Association of Girl Ambassadors meeting was held Saturday at the First Baptist Church in Lake Mary.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Taking The Bull By The Horns

There are a lot of small Florida cities that are content to remain stagnant.

However, Longwood is certainly not one of these. In the past few weeks, the town council has started a drive to incorporate more residents into the Longwood city limits.

In the drive, residents of outlying areas are approached through a letter which outlines the proposal. Enclosed is a card upon which the person, if he wants his property incorporated, gives the legal description of his property and signs the petition.

This petition makes a referendum vote unnecessary. Incorporation into the limits has many benefits and few obligations and we believe that other Seminole County cities should take Longwood's step and attempt to build tax money up and induce small industry into the corporate limits.
