Questions That Some Folks Ask About Cardui

RECIPE FOR MALNUTRITION
Thousands of women testify Cardui has helped them in overcoming malnutrition and in eradicating the functional pains of menstruation.

What is malnutrition? Malnutrition is the lack of proper nutrition. It is the lack of the essential nutrients that are necessary for the body to function properly.

Cardui contains extracts of two plants which are classed among the "bitters" in medicine because they are known to increase the flow of digestive juices—to improve digestion—so there is a steady supply of food for the body's needs, and by their action more energy (or strength) is obtained from the food eaten. The food of course, brings the additional strength, but Cardui serves this means to this end by its good influence on the digestive system.

Townsend's bond of $1,000 was continued pending appeal.

The old age pension leader's conviction resulted from his sudden departure from the House Committee last summer.

Salvation Army Selects 90 Advanced Prospects

Illness Forces Mrs. R. J. Holly To Resign As Chairman Of Women's Division; Name Successor Soon

The Advance Girls Committee of the Salvation Army Home Service Appeal yesterday selected the cars of 90 prospects to be admitted to the training school which begins next week.

The prospects are: James O. Sharon, chairman; J. L. 14242, J. H. (Holly), G. H. Workman, O. P. Herndon, W. A. Lamb and W. M. Hayes.

The prospects, assisted by the group of 41209, and chairman Sharon indicated that this amount will be secured.

Mr. Papworth, who attended a session of the St. Johns River Improvement Association in Ocala yesterday, attributed the success to George, Gibbs, district engineer upon whose recommendation much of the success or failure of the canal project will depend.

Gibbs, it is indicated by Mr. Papworth, is in favor of the waterway which the local man believes will be of incalculable value to the entire Sanford area.

Mr. Papworth is in receipt of a letter from the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, and it contained the announcement of a public hearing on the canal project scheduled for Apr. 21 and 22 at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington. The locale will attend.

The communication also set forth that persons interested in the projected waterway should prepare all their data—pro or con—for presentation before the Congress. Such facts are to be submitted in writing.

Sanfordites in attendance at the Ocala meeting Thursday were Mr. Papworth, Representative H. J. Lehman, B. F. Haines, and Ralph Bagwell, secretary of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Papworth Given Assurance Canal 'To Go Through'

St. Johns-Indian River Waterway Conclave Scheduled

Harry M. Papworth said today that he has been assured by authoritative sources that the St. Johns River-Indian River Canal "is going through."

Mr. Papworth, who attended a session of the St. Johns River Improvement Association in Ocala yesterday, attributed the success to George, Gibbs, district engineer upon whose recommendation much of the success or failure of the canal project will depend.

Gibbs, it is indicated by Mr. Papworth, is in favor of the waterway which the local man believes will be of incalculable value to the entire Sanford area.

Mr. Papworth is in receipt of a letter from the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, and it contained the announcement of a public hearing on the canal project scheduled for Apr. 21 and 22 at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington. The locale will attend.

A penalty of from five percent to 25 percent is possible against those who fail to enter proper returns.

Lawyers Guild Head Urges U.S. Support Of President's Plan

Celery Market Laws Supported By Farm Group

Association Lends Influence To Proposed Statutes

The Seminole County Agricultural Association last night placed itself and its influence behind proposed legislation for a celery marketing control bill which may reach Tallahassee this year.

While no details of the movement were disclosed, Henry Nickel, chairman of the Marketing Committee, reported that a number of plans have been formulated over a period of one year, adding that the next step is to select which proposal is the most feasible.

A conference, in the near future, with Seminole County's legislators was announced to discuss the plans.

The Association passed a resolution commending Sanford celery shipping interests for their observance of the cutting holidays and recommended that they be continued each week on Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Instituted some weeks ago as a means of raising the market price of celery, considerable success has evolved from the holidays.

James Gut and R. A. Stubbs, engineers, reported on their findings in a survey of surface water problems and the causes of present conditions in the county.

A one-hour feature film on "Vital Elements," showing plant growth was presented by the Seminole Chapter of Future Farmers of America in co-operation with the Chulona Nitrate of Soda Company's Educational Bureau.

Stiff Fight Urged On Screw Worm In Spring Months

Seminole County cattlemen were urged today by Roy C. Tanner, assistant district supervisor of screw worm control, to arrange a spring campaign against the pest.

Tanner pointed out that breeding of flies from the screw worm in the spring is on the increase, and it is at this time that action should be taken to make some headway against the broods of the destructive insect.

The nuisance effect of the screw worm, according to the supervisor, is felt directly by the public, since the insect has a vital bearing on the market prices of meat because it is responsible for the death of many cattle.

Only concentrated efforts on the part of cattlemen can hold down the screw worm, Tanner declared.

Funeral services for Mrs. John M. Gillon, 46, who died here Thursday afternoon, will be held at 3 P. M. tomorrow from the First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Dr. E. D. Browne officiating.

Mrs. Gillon was a member of the Presbyterian Church and was a past matron in the Eastern Star. She had been a local resident since 1900.

Surviving are the husband, John M. Gillon, two sons, W. R. Gillon and Jack Gillon; one daughter, Virginia Gillon, all of Sanford. The father, J. L. Russell, three brothers and two sisters, none of whom live here, also survive.

Funeral services were held here last night from a buying trip in New York.

Mrs. Moses boarded the plane at Newark Wednesday night. Later she found herself in the midst of the blizzard which was so severe that officials of the Eastern Airways ordered all planes grounded immediately.

The latest model of women's apparel, purchased by Mrs. Moses while in New York, are arriving here daily.

Bond Refunding Program Hearing Concluded Here

No Protests Received On Sanford's Refinancing Action

Judge Millard B. Smith, of the Ninth Florida Judicial Circuit, today heard testimony in the proceedings of Sanford's $5,000,000 bond refunding program.

One significant fact, evidenced in the hearing, gave promise of a speedy inauguration of the long-sought refinancing plan; not a single bondholder opposed the plan.

Judge Smith issued no court order to advance with the refunding, since it is customary for jurists to study a transcript of the testimony before taking such action.

Freel B. Wilson, attorney for the city, said the testimony will be submitted within a few days to the judge.

After hearing Frank Lamson, City clerk—testifying on behalf of the municipality—and O. P. Herndon, clerk of the Circuit Court—who appeared on the witness stand for the State—Murray W. O'Connell, county assessor, filed the routine answer.

Mr. Herndon's testimony centered principally around the fact that his office had received no test suits against the proposed refund.

The program which is to take effect after the Court's approval advances by 30 years the maturity dates on Sanford's bonded debt. An interest rate of approximately 2 percent has been established.

Devaney Sees Action As 'Conservative' Move Toward Necessary Statutes

Sees Continuity Of Law Tradition

Roosevelt Arrives At Warm Springs On Vacation Trip

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—(AP)—Judge John P. Devaney, president of the newly-formed National Lawyers Guild, urged today the enactment of President Roosevelt's court bill "as the most conservative remedy available" to make possible "progressive legislation now imperatively needed."

Devaney, who resigned last month as chief justice of the Minnesota Supreme Court, appeared before the Senate Judiciary reorganization proposals.

He told the committee: "From every point of view, the President's proposal is by far the most conservative remedy available to meet the needs of the public at the present time with the least disturbance to the continuity of our legal traditions and the preservation of constitutional democracy. It keeps the Constitution intact. It keeps the legal profession administering law along lines it has known."

An attempt to amend the Constitution, Devaney argued, would become an issue of congressional or national election. (U-I-119)

"However interesting that may be for those who wish to see the law fought out to a bitter end, it would not be good for the courts."

The Lion And The Lamb

By SHARPE BERRY ADAMS

The familiar biblical phrase, with slightly altered symbolism, has aptly been used on highway safety—the lion representing the irresponsible, thoughtless driver; the lamb the careful, considerate driver. The symbolism may be broadened to let the figure of the lion include also the inconsiderate pedestrian and the lamb the child and the law-abiding pedestrian.

The purpose of these paragraphs shall be to reach or make a step toward teaching the lion and the lamb that they must "lie down together" or of necessity be "killed together." The action's drivers must learn to cooperate with one another, for the results of such cooperation will be commonly beneficial. Similarly, more there be cooperation between drivers and pedestrians of all ages.

There is an urgent need for a national program of safety education. Figures, so they say, do not lie and the yearly total of fatal accidents is alarming. It is imperative that something be done to subtract from 1937's expected total of almost 40,000 accident deaths. These facts must be brought forcibly before the man under the wheel, that he may profit by knowledge of them. This proposed campaign of safety education should be calculated to affect also the boys and girls who will soon take the places of their elders as drivers. There is an urgent need for a national program of safety education, and its motto might well be "Live and be alive."

Death in the form of traffic accidents most unfortunately and unfairly does discriminate between age and youth; it seems to discriminate the more between innocence and guilt. Let us qualify these statements a bit. It is true that automobile accidents take an alarming toll of young lives. It is a cold fact that one out of every five persons killed in automobile accidents is not more than fourteen years old. More frightening than these figures, however, is the fact that each death takes an increasing number of children yearly in proportion to the number of child people. In the second consideration, though we have no special statistics to prove that the majority of fatalities are persons not responsible for the accidents (either pedestrians or occupants of the cars involved), it nevertheless appears that death discriminates against the blameless. That is, the driver responsible, or perhaps he had better say chiefly responsible, in the majority of cases occupies with comparatively slight injuries, while the unfortunate pedestrian or the innocent passenger of either car lose their lives.

Thus far we have discussed only the results of accidents. Nothing has been said of the causes, and it is they which are our real concern. All automobile accidents are due more or less directly to carelessness. If, in a very serious case, an accident is caused entirely by mechanical failure, the fault is solely the owner's. The majority of accidents, however, are the result of the carelessness or deliberate foolishness of either driver or both drivers. Such a driver disregards all rules of highway safety and imperils not only himself but all those who must share the road with him. As remarked before, is-accidents unjust but it is true that it is usually the others who suffer for the care less driver's thoughtlessness. The irresponsible driver is as dangerous under the wheel as the gangster behind a machine gun.

How familiar is the statement that alcohol and gasoline do not mix! We all know its meaning, yet so many have no respect for the truth of those six words. They apply not only to the man who has completely lost control of his faculties, but also to the man who has had only one or two drinks. The unconscious stimulation of the alcohol paradoxically dulls the driver's senses and renders mental action in the extreme that it is difficult or impossible to avoid all accidents when danger suddenly presents itself. Only the alert man makes a safe driver. Out of respect for his own life and the lives of others the drinker must not drive.

We have considered the driver; now it is time to devote a paragraph to the automobile. It might also be fit. The driver should take care that there are no mechanical defects to cause accidents and endanger the lives of the occupants. Steering gear, brakes, and lights should be perfect. Good working gears and brakes insure control over the car and good lights serve both to show the driver the road ahead and to indicate the presence of his car to other drivers. While a bright beam of light is needed to illuminate the road properly, glare is unnecessary; lights should be dimmed in consideration of other drivers. The defective or improper use of lights are the most important factor in such accidents.

Now we come naturally to the question of so-called "unavoidable" accidents. The National Safety Council is inclined to believe that there is no such thing as an "unavoidable" accident. Let us take a sample accident of this sort. A car traveling rapidly down a highway is overturned as a tire blows out and the occupants are killed. The driver says that he had nothing to do with the accident, but the facts contradict him. In the first place, since the car turned over it was likely going over fifty miles an hour, an unsafe speed even on a smooth, clear stretch of highway, for the driver cannot foresee the possibility of sudden danger and an sudden death. Secondly, the tire which gave way probably was worn smooth and the driver had simply procrastinated about replacing it. Now it is too late to regret that carelessness. It is so with every one of these "unavoidable" accidents. Analysis of the causes discloses either neglect, carelessness, or deliberate foolhardiness on the part of the driver.

Then it may be easily seen that the remedy for this national ill is a program of education in safety. The driver must learn that upon his good sense depend the lives of the thousands who share the public highways with him. The driver must realize his responsibility for the protection of lives; he must learn consideration for the welfare of his fellow men. In a word, the driver must be taught that the rule of the highway is courtesy.

It would be well to clarify some of our earlier statements about highway safety with a few facts and figures. Traffic accidents have become a medium of wholesale murder in our country. Each year thousands die on our streets and highways. Disregarding the factor of blame in accidents, we still have the fact that for every seventeen injured in automobile accidents one person is killed. Perhaps this does not seem so alarming after all, but realize that during the coming year roughly one of every seven thousand Americans of all ages will meet death in an automobile accident. Then further consider that the number 7,000 is constantly shrinking, apparently will continue to do so as the years pass. The careless American driver, it is this would seem, is a dangerous criminal. Is there no way to stop this senseless murder? There is no way to punish the murderer. The answer to the latter is undeniably prosecution of drivers who have shaftffered death. The answer to the former question is to be found in a national program of safety education, through the driver must be taught the rule of the highway—courtesy.

New Horror Film Of Hooded Legion Scheduled At Ritz

A stirring indictment of the hooded legions that once more have been menacing American ideals, is found in Columbia's "Legion of Terror," which shows at the Ritz Theater tomorrow.

Bruce Cabot, Marguerite Churchill and a newcomer named Crawford Weaver stand the film's more prominent roles, and aid immeasurably in making it a thrill-filled, well-acted affair.

The story deals with two newly-appointed Postal Inspectors who set out to track down the sender of a bomb to a United States senator, and run across a hooded organization that is terrorizing an American city. They meet a straight-forward young fellow who is loyal to his condemnation of the legion, and his sister, who fears for his life.

It is only after the young man meets death at the hands of the legion, and the girl and one of the Postal inspectors are about to be disposed of in the same fashion, that the organization is apprehended.

The two appearances of Sinton, the wonder mystic, on the stage, and the showing of Johnny Mack Brown in "Undercover Man," complete the program.

Let's go to town — at home!

NO TELLING what tomorrow's weather may be. It fools the best forecasters. But we do want that chintz for the windows. We do need a carpet sweeper, a new percolator, and a new end-table in the living-room. And we don't want to slosh around rainy streets to hunt them.

Problem: How to thwart the weather man. Simple enough!

Let's sit down by the fireplace and read the advertisements. Here it's comfortable and snug. We'll take the newspaper page by page, compare prices, qualities, brand-names. Tomorrow, rain or shine, we'll head for the store that has what we want, and be home again in a jiffy.

"Buying at home"—through the advertising columns—gives you wide selection, more time to decide, and satisfaction when you decide. Make it one of your pleasant habits!

Motor Heads Demand Eviction Of Sit-Downers In Plants

DETROIT, Mar. 13.—(AP)—Circuit Judge Allan Campbell today deferred until Monday morning his decision of a petition of the Chrysler Corporation for an injunction ordering sit-down strikers to evacuate the Corporation's plants.

The court announced a postponement after several hours of argument by attorneys for the United Automobile Workers of America and a brief response by the Corporation counsel.

More than 1,000 persons remained in the corridor of the Wayne County Court building, where the hearing was held, until the judge's announcement was made.

Outside a double file picket line of Union men circled the entire building while a 12 piece band played for the marching men.
