More rain and winter weather coming.

Wonder if it is snowing in Jersey on that beautiful lettuce.

They are not only smuggling booze and opium into Florida but they have started smuggling Chinese into the state.

The Sanford Herald is installing another No. 14 Linotype today to advertisements and heads on the new "Daily Herald."

The Herald will issue a paper on Thanksgiving Day just as any other day, only we will have a little more time to eat Thanksgiving dinner that day. The Herald force only takes two holidays in the year—Christmas and the Fourth of July.

W. J. Bryan says that ship subsidy bill will be snowed under. Now why do you say that, William? The ship subsidy could have been put over in your time just as well and it would have been a big feather in your cap —almost as big as knocking out
"Three Feathers."

The Tampa Times has purchased more lots on Franklin street in Tampa looking ahead to a fine new building for the Daily Times. Congratulations to Editor McKay and all his staff.

They are making a fine paper out of the Times and they are entitled to all the prosperity the future holds in store for them.

Watch for the big Thanksgiving Anniversary and the Fall Edition of the Daily Herald next Tuesday. It will be a compilation of facts about the city and county and will go into thousands of new homes in this state and other states. If you want any extra copies you had better order them today.

KEEPING SANFORD GROW

A man watching our big press yesterday turn out the Daily Herald at the rate of 5,000 per hour, said: "I fail to see why you would want this press at such a sum of money as it represents and use it only about an hour each day." We explained to him that we were looking for a big city here and the old methods of printing newspapers were now in the discard and while it looked like a waste of good money to have such a press now it meant money in the future when the city grew to twice the size and then we are helping the town grow into a big city by keeping about five years ahead of the place all the time.
Also that having an outfit such as the Daily Herald now has is a big advertisement for the city of Sanford and the county of Seminole and shows that the newspaper not only boosts and works for a bigger city but shows its faith in the city by putting its own money in an outfit second to none in the state.

The First National Bank of this city is another example of this sort of publicity—if you would call it that. The First National Bank had one of the finest bank buildings in this part of the state—it was built of beautiful white marble and when built looked like it would do the bank's business for many years to come and so it would if the directors of the First National Bank had been content to sit down and let things take their course. They do not have to build their new six-story building—they are all right as it is, they are on top of the world just as The Herald is sitting—then, why do you go on ahead and build?

Well, for several reasons. Building for the future is saving money. Looking ahead and visualizing a big city here means that the men on the ground floor is the man who will get the business. And the greatest reason for spending money for new equipment, new buildings, etc., is that inherent pride in the breasts of Sanford people to have the best of everything for the people of Sanford. That is really the spirit that is building Sanford today and the spirit that builds all cities. That is the "why."

FLIVVERING BY PEAR JUICE

"From faraway South Africa a trade commissioner of the United States department of commerce sends the remarkable claim of an attorney that has invented a new motor spirit and has organized a company with a capital of 100,000 pounds to exploit it. The astonishing feature of the inventor's statement is that a substantial ingredient of the compound is prickly pear juice," says the Cincinnati Enquirer.

"There are the usual stories of the Admirable results produced by saverelets and the wonderful cheapness of production.

"It is called, after one of the fleet and noble families of the South African veldt, the Springbok. This recalls that a certain spirit once manufactured in immense quantities in this country, but now banned, was called 'bug juice,' though no insects entered into its composition, and also 'Jersey lightning,' notwithstanding the fact that it contained no electricity, static or magnetic.
Perhaps this knowledge causes the Washington authorities to say that because of the numerous—and worthless—announcements of gasoline substitutes, the merits of this 'Springbok' labeled concoction of the juice of the prickly pear will have to be demonstrated before too much credence can be given to the alleged competitive qualities it is advertised as possessing."

LUE GIM GONG NEEDS HELP

For many years, Lue Gim Gong, one of the most wonderful Chinamen that has ever come to America has lived in DeLand on his orange grove where he perfected the Lue Gim Gong orange and achieved other wonderful results in fruits and in science.
We have sat in his home and listened to his words of wisdom and they were words of wisdom and thousands have visited his orange grove and signed his book and learned something from this wonderful old Chinamen who has dropped the faith of his fathers and become a Christian. He has fallen upon evil days and with a big mortgage on his place is about to lose it and The Herald has often thought that there should be some concerted movement made by the people of Florida to assist this fine old man in his declining years and if possible keep his grove and home intact until after his death, at least. The state papers are taking up the matter and the Palatka News has the following about it:

"Florida citrus growers have now an opportunity to repay in part the debt owed by the fraternity for a vast amount of good publicity which has been brought to the state through the clever work of one man, Lou Gim Gong. It was that much-respected Chinaman who originated the orange which bears his name; an orange which has marked peculiarities; an orange which has the especial ability of hanging on the tree for many months after it has become ripe and ready for the table.

Even the occasional visitor to Florida has heard of the Lou Gim Gong fruit, and the man who brought it to its present state of perfection.
Thousands upon thousands have made special trips to his grove near De-Land for the sake of meeting and seeing the results of his shrewdness and ability. Always have those visitors been warmly greeted; always have they gained that for which they made the trip; and always has the smile of the Chinaman been such as to invite another call.

But how Lou Gim Gong is "down" and almost "out." His property must be sold to satisfy a debt, and there will be no place left for him except that institution which opens its doors to the financially unfortunate and practically closes in on its visitors forever. Almost ninety years of age, this old man admits his financial non-success—at the same time there are to be found a great number of fruit growers throughout the state who have realized money from the efforts of the aged Celestial.

There is no need of collecting a large sum to lend comfort to Lou Gim Gong during his few remaining years.
There is, however, a pressing need that his roof shall be left him, that his surroundings shall remain undisturbed until his call to that spot where all earth's myriad harps shall meet in choral praise and prayer. To extend Lou Gim Gong the aid which his frugal wants require would cost but a trifle from each grove owner in the state, and it is to be sincerely hoped that the appeal being sent out over the state will meet with a hearty response.

The owner of the account which is owed by the venerable Chinaman does not seek to take any vengeful steps to drive the old man away—and has consented to allow him to end his days where he has achieved so great a success if only the interest on the long-standing account shall be kept even.

There has been an active committee ship formed to care for the matter, and it is expected that the condition now embarrassing the Celestial grower may soon present a pleasing aspect."

"Confidence"

Confidence, as applied to business, is the same as faith in the field of religion.

Confidence in the good intentions of each other; confidence in the ability of another to fulfill promises; confidence in the soundness of the community—these are the things upon which business is based.

And this applies with double force to the banking business. The customer's confidence in the strength and integrity of the bank; and the bank's confidence in the character and good intentions of its customers, are the factors upon which this institution is founded.

A Buick Roadster Satisfies

The "Six," $1165; The "Six-Sport," $1625; The "Four," $865

For those who want the intimacy of the roadster design, Buick provides a completely satisfying selection of models, in appearance as well as in price. Business men find the six-cylinder, two-passenger roadster well suited both to the work day trips and to social motoring.

Equally fine for these, and at the same time luxurious in its appointments and smart in its snappy lines and coloring is the six-cylinder sport-roadster—the de-luxe model of its kind.

While a modest, dependable and convenient car is the four-cylinder roadster. And all are Buicks with all that Buick provides in power, dependability and flawless performance.

The Buick Line for 1923 Comprises Fourteen Models:

Four—2 Pass. Roadster, $865; 5 Pass. Touring, $885; 3 Pass. Coupe, $1175; 5 Pass. Sedan, $1395; 5 Pass. Touring Sedan, $1325; Six—2 Pass. Roadster, $1175; 5 Pass. Touring, $1195; 5 Pass. COACH WILKENSON AND MEN ALL SET FOR FT. MEADE GAME

As Season Nears End, Sanford Team Gets Better; and Predictions Are That Miami Game Will Be Only Defeat

As the end of the 1922 gridiron schedule gradually grows closer, considering the terms left to play to complete this schedule, it looks like only one loss for the entire season, and that one game was lost to Miami under conditions that should give Sanford an excellent alibi. This hope can be upset at tomorrow's game against Fort Meade, as Fort Meade has a good team and going well, but the ardent supporter of this Sanford eleven have the hunch that Ft. Meade will be sent home after leaving at least a 20-point victory with Sanford.

Sanford will play at Daytona on Thanksgiving day and the outcome of this game can well be figured on as a duplicate of the game in Sanford on Armistice day. There may be other post season games played after that but so far none has been announced.

Should Sanford win tomorrow's game, and it is likely that she will, and then repeat the first dose they gave to Daytona, when the history of interscholastic foot ball season is made for Florida, the wise ones and the bright ones of the state will have to admit that the local high school turned out a really wonderful football squad this season. With their victories over Ocala, DeLand, Kissimmee, Orlando, twice and Daytona and Palm Beach, (Fort Meade and Daytona again if the next two games are victories) with only one game lost and that game to the strong Miami eleven, after riding all night and playing a game on the way, should convince even those hard to convince, that Coach Wilkenson has built a machine that is as good as any high school eleven in this part of the state.

And Sanford fans would have been more than satisfied with a fifty-fifty break this year after the many seasons that have passed without one victory. But Coach Wilkenson set out to make a team that would do better than a fifty-fifty break and the results show for themselves.

Next week, the Thanksgiving number of the Herald, will carry a complete write-up of the Sanford team and its players for this season, as well as the records they made last year and other years gone by. It will show what the support of Sanford business men, Sanford fans and a good coach have done towards making good publicity for the Celery City.

The boys have been hard at work during this past week getting prepared for the battle with Fort Meade tomorrow, and this morning Mr. Wilkenson made the announcement that his crew is all set and ready to go. The game starts at 3:30 on the bulkhead and though not certain, it may be the last game on the home lot this year and every fan is expected to be lined up as the whistle blows for the start, with that old cheer stuff that will help Sanford High to wade thru Fort Meade for one more victory.

Greb and Tunney Sign For Bout at the Garden

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Terms for a fifteen round bout on December 29th at Madison Square Garden for the light heavyweight title of America were accepted by Harry Greb, Pittsburgh, and Gene Tunney, of New York.

CELERY-SEED

Ft. Meade will be here tomorrow.

A special movie man will be here to get Vic McLaulin's picture.

And a representative of the Police-Gazette will be after a snap shot of Bill Moye.

And the whole darned team will be after Ft. Meade's scalp.

So here you are—a darned good time for the whole gang. Rake up the four bits and we'll meet you there.

Lakeland has claimed the championship of South Florida. Maybe so, maybe so; but—they had a Sanford man help them do it, at that. Harvey Parrish played with them this season, you know.

And we should worry—let 'em all have the championship—we know what our teams of the past have done, and what they have done this year, and that's much satisfaction.

The game at the bowling alleys last night was so close that it was necessary for a recount. Couldn't figure the farmers out of it, though, and they move up a step.

Top had about the foul line, Mr. Men's Club. That old line cost a whole game instead of just one ball, last night.

Individual averages will appear tomorrow. The whole lunch this trip, not only the fifteen best.

FARMERS SPEED AND FOUL LINE CAUSE OF MEN'S CLUB FIRST FALL

Narrow Margin of Seven Pins Put Farmers in the Second Place With Men's Club

The quintet representing the Farmers at the Bowling alleys last night, bowling in their usual good form, annexed another victory that tied them up with the Men's Club for second place. The game itself was one of the closest fought battles of the season and it took the last man in the last frame to decide which way the cat should jump.

A seven pin margin was all the Farmers had when the final count was made and Howard Overlin, crossing the foul line in the last frame of the last game was penalized eight pins that would have given the game to the Men's Club by one pin. Overlin was also penalized earlier in the game but the first penalty was offset by Amann being penalized, and close observers state that were it not for that foul line the Men's Club would have nosed out by a one pin victory.

Both teams rolled a good game all the way through with Amann taking high score honors of the evening with Betty only four pins behind him.

The closeness of the score tells the story. It was a battle for blood, the Farmers fighting their way to second place while the Men's Club was battling to hold their tie with the Champs for first place. The game last night left the Farmers and Men's Club tied for second place and the exclusive right of the top rung of the ladder belongs to the Congregationals, until next week at least.

The Farmers next game is with the Rotary Club and from the way the Rotes have been going lately it looks like something soft for the club-busters, while next week's games will find the Men's Club and Congregationals together. Next week may see a general shake-up in the Club standing.

The scores for last night's game follows:

Judge Landis Gives Ottawa Club Spanking

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, yesterday reiterated his stand against independent clubs which harbor ineligible players, and cited the case of the Ottawa, Ill., club, which was given permission to play a major league club due to false representations as to its lineup.

Independent teams are not under the commissioner's jurisdiction, he said, but the rules provide that major and minor league clubs may not play teams that harbor ineligible or that consistently play other teams using ineligible players.

Since the game was played it has been found that the Ottawa management listed an ineligible player under an assumed name and hereafter it will be unable to secure any exhibition games with professional clubs, whether major or minor.

White of Egg

In Calumet a Vital Element Most Baking Powders Lack

Don't use a leavener that does not contain white-of-egg. When you do you take chances—you run the risk of spoiling your bakings.

CALUMET

The Economy BAKING POWDER

contains a small amount of white-of-egg. This makes it possible for representatives of the company to test it frequently for leavening strength—right on the dealer's counter. Nothing but absolutely fresh stock is permitted to remain on the dealer's shelves. It must always be up to the high Calumet standard.

Remember the white-of-egg in Calumet protects the success of your bakings. It is the economical positive bake-day aid and its sale is 2 1/2 times as much as that of any other brand.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce cans instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

PROPOSES NATION-WIDE MARKETING ORGANIZATION FOR THE HANDLING OF ALL KINDS OF FLORIDA CROPS

BRADENTOWN, Nov. 23.—Urging co-operation in marketing produce of all kinds and describing the organization and purposes of the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, Inc., as a nationwide marketing organization, non-stock and purely co-operative, J. B. White, southeastern manager of the North American Fruit Exchange, and S. C. Hood, director of organization for southeast in the same concern, addressed a gathering of about one hundred persons in the county court house Monday evening.

J. S. Redlands, of Redlands, Cal., president of the Federated and A. R. Rule, general manager of the American Fruit Exchange, an who is to be manager of the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, Inc., were to have been the speakers, but Mr. Edwards found it necessary to go to Havana, from Tampa, on urgent business, and Mr. Rule was called home by a death in his family. So, Mr. White and Mr. Hood took their places on the program.

The two men were introduced by County Agricultural Agent W. E. Briggs, who explained to the audience that his interest lay entirely in the inculcating of the general idea of co-operative marketing and standardizing of selection and pack of both fruits and vegetables. He impressed upon his hearers that the grower who did not select carefully and pack carefully could not expect to get the best prices for his stuff. He said it is a fact that some of the vegetable growers will pack lettuce in a hamper because he knows he can hide the poor stuff in hamper, whereas if placed in a crate, he told of instances where he found a trucker packing lettuce in a hamper and asked him why he didn't use crates. "And that fellow told me," said Mr. Briggs, "that it wouldn't get by inspectors."

"Now that sort of thing isn't honest. Of course, I don't mean to say that what this man was doing is typical; but I do mean to say there is too much of it done, and it hurts the legitimate grower and shipper because it pulls down the market."

Mr. Briggs stressed the need of organization for co-operative marketing and standardization of produce and pack, and the advertising of brands, so that the buyer in the market will be assured what he is getting. The two other speakers also urged standardization as the way to better prices.

The Evil of the Poor Pack
Mr. White, who has been in the marketing business for years, told of the great losses the shippers and growers sustain through carelessness or indifferent selection of produce and pack.

"If you men who grow and ship produce could go with me into the great produce markets and see the condition of some of the produce when it arrives you wouldn't wonder that ship, or nothing at all for it," he said.

"I have seen great heaps of condemned fruits and vegetables dumped out of containers, to be carted to the refuse heaps. All because of a careless pick and pack. A dead loss to everybody concerned; a freight bill instead of a check to the grower and shipper."

Better Results Through Co-operation
In his talk Mr. Briggs said that co-operative marketing had done much for the growers and shippers in Manatee county. "But much of the produce shipped from here outside of the co-operative marketing agencies is poorly handled," he said, "and it is causing Manatee county products a black eye. There are exceptions, of course, some individual shippers who prize their reputations and who pack their stuff carefully and pack properly. If you expect to get the money for your stuff you should and must be careful about the way you start it for the market."

Mr. White told a bit of the history of the citrus fruit growers of California, as related to him by President Edwards of the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, Inc., and who for thirty years—ever since its organization—has been a director in the California Fruit Growers' Exchange. He said that thirty years ago, at Redlands, the orange business was on its last legs. Plenty of fruit but low prices; everybody's place under mortgage; grape paper a drug in the banks. The growers met and discussed the possibility of better conditions through co-operative marketing. They decided to build a packing shed in common. It was found this would cost $750. They managed to negotiate that loan through one of the banks, after some difficulty. That was the beginning of co-operative marketing. This same association today has a packing house plant that cost $309,000 to bring to its present state of perfection and just now is considering the addition of $200,000 more in betterments.

"And this co-operative effort was a success from the start," said Mr. White. "Out of it has come the great California exchange, and out of it also has come prosperity to the growers. Why? Because co-operative marketing means, first, organized selling into a prepared market; the marketing of produce carefully selected and as carefully packed."

He told of the low condition of the Fresno raisin growers up to three years ago when they, too, went into co-operative marketing, with its sales and advertising features, and which has, in three years, put the raisin growers on their feet and made them prosperous.

Mr. Hood explained the purposes as well as the formation of the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, Inc. This organization, he said, had grown out of the need for a nationwide organization which would have an active sales force functioning 12 months in the year, marketing produce of all kinds from farm and grove. It is he said the offspring of the American Farmers' Bureau, which three years ago appointed a committee of twenty-one to map out a course for organizing a nationwide selling organization, non-stock and purely co-operative, and that the Federated plan had grown out of it. He said that the Federated exists only on paper yet, but that after Jan. 1, 1923, it will be actuality. He explained that the Federated had found in the North American Fruit Exchange a selling organization, nationwide, that would meet the exact needs of the new organization, and has arranged with Mr. Rule, its head, to absorb

Mr. Hood explained that his concern was not seeking to undo the work of co-operative marketing agencies that are already in operation, but would show them the advantages of heavy organization and if they cared to enter it they would be welcome. Later in the evening the question was asked by one of the audience, how the new concern would reconcile the advertising of Florida oranges, under the Florida Citrus Exchange's great trademark, "Sealdwest," and those of the California growers who advertise "Sunbelt." This drew from Mr. White the admission that the California exchange did not contemplate entering the Federal Fruit and Vegetable Growers, Inc., but would continue to market through its own organization and advertise as usual.

This brought to his feet H. G. Gumprecht, manager of the Manatee County Sub-Exchange of the Florida Citrus Exchange, with the remark: "I will say for the benefit of all present, that the Florida Citrus Exchange stands in the same relation. It will continue to operate independently of any other organization, doing its own marketing and its own advertising. It is not connected in any way with this proposed new organization and will not be."—Tampa Tribune.

WEATHER AND CROP CONDITIONS IN FLORIDA FOR WEEK ENDING NOVEMBER 21, 1922 Temperature:—The temperature averaged from 2 to 8 degrees above the normal, although moderately cool weather occurred on the last day of the week. Mid-day temperatures were well up in the 80's over the peninsula.

Sunshine:—A high percentage of sunshine prevailed over the extreme south, and the normal or above occurred over the rest of the Section, except the extreme west, where there was a deficiency.

Rainfall:—The week was generally dry, no rain occurring over much of the central portion of the Section; and amounts much less than the normal were reported from the rest of the State. Moderate rains would be beneficial over most of the Section, except in southern counties where the soil is too wet to be worked, and some lands in the Everglades district continue under water; the absence of rain of moment in the south during the week, however, resulted in a decided improvement in conditions over the Everglades district, where some favorably located lands were planted to truck.

Crops:—The week was generally favorable for farm work, and the planting of oats continued; the early planted is doing well. Some recent plantings are germinating slowly—moderate rains would prove beneficial. Some tomato plants were set out in the southern and lofer central portion of the trucking belt. Celery, lettuce, and truck generally made progress, but the warm weather was unfavorable. Moderate shipments of beans continued, and large shipments of peppers and lettuce were made from several localities. Cane continues to grow, although much is being made into syrup; cane in the Everglades district was unfavorably affected by wet soil and, locally, by water. The harvesting of sweet potatoes made progress; the moderate temperature thus far favored continued growth. The warm weather was unfavorable for citrus fruits which are maturing slowly. Much fruit is dropping, as a result of previous wet, and continued warm weather; shipping is active for the holiday trade. The harvesting of cassava and sweet bean seed received local attention; pastures and ranges on uplands are getting dry. Clear and much colder weather is needed for citrus fruits.

FLORIDA UNIVERSITY FOOT BALL TEAM ARRIVES IN ATLANTA
(By The Associated Press)
ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 24.—The University of Florida foot ball squad arrived here for the scheduled game with Oglethorpe University tomorrow. This will be the fourth meeting of the two teams. The local team will make a strenuous effort to even accounts with Florida, for the Gators have had the better end of the argument of two games of the three played.

SWEDEN MAY CONTINUE EIGHT-HOUR DAY
STOCKHOLM, Nov. 23.—Sweden's 8-hour day, acceptable to the laboring element but not popular with employers, will be continued under a provisional law for the next three years, if the recommendation just made by the Social Board is accepted by the government.

The Social Board, assisted by the Board of Trade and the delegation working for international social legislation, was instructed by the government to investigate the general effectiveness of the eight-hour day in Sweden and now reports that the time is not ripe either for permanent enactment or abolishment, recommending therefore, that the provisional measure be continued for another three years.

Swedish employers have in general opposed the establishing of a uniform day on the ground that the cost of production has been increased, and that it has led to difficulties in those industries where the output fluctuates, where production is interregional, some weeks and slack during others. Similar disadvantages have arisen in all seasonal trades. A peculiar circumstance in this country is that, owing to the latitude, the days are unusually long in summer and short in winter. Thus where work can be done during daylight as in the building trades, an eight-hour day works hardship for the employer and limits the amount of building possible during the year.

Keeping the above objections in mind the Social Board has recommended that the hours of overtime allowed be increased from twenty per month to thirty, and from a hundred and twenty per year to a hundred and fifty. With this flexibility in the law it is believed the disadvantages of a more rigid system can be obviated. The workers declare that the labor efficiency has increased under the provisional law. They are enthusiastic over the better standard of living which it has brought, giving them more time for social and domestic life, as well as for study, recreation, and general self-improvement.

GAINS IN WEIGHT QUICKLY NOTICED Reason Given for Remarkable Sale Increase of New Remedy Known as RE-CU-MA

For the past several weeks, druggists have been amazed at the way the sale of the new product known as RE-CU-MA has increased by leaps and bounds. A thing of this kind is unusual and naturally brings on the question "What's causing it?"

If you could see and talk with the many people who have derived astonishing gains in weight, strength and endurance from the use of this wonderful new product, you could easily determine the reason for this tremendous sale.

A democracy can not rise above the average intelligence of the citizens in whom is invested the power of franchise. If we lift the state, we must educate the state. The greatest thing in Florida—by all odds the greatest thing in Florida—is her state University. The greatest story told at the State Fair is the story of our state University's achievements.
