

Ceremonies And Celebrations Mark Nation's 195th Birthday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In ceremonies and celebrations as diverse as the land and its people, Americans have marked the 195th anniversary of the birth of the United States. There were colorful Indian pow-wows in Oklahoma Sunday, speeches in Boston's historic Faneuil Hall, a circus parade by the state capital.

Holiday festivities will be continuing today with several communities doing their celebrating.

At Mellon Park in Sanford will be the site of that city's annual Fun Fair, starting at 1 p.m. and concluding with a display of fireworks.

The Maitland-South Seminole Chamber of Commerce will end its three days of holiday festivities with activities starting early in the morning and continuing through the day. Fireworks are scheduled for 9 p.m.

In Vietnam, U.S. commander Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said in a Fourth of July message to his men that America's independence "remained unchanged but not unchallenged."

President Nixon planned to return to Washington from his Camp David retreat about midday to take part in afternoon ceremonies marking the lowering of the voting age to 18.

Saturday night the President joined other government officials in looking beyond the current anniversary and started the five-year countdown to Independence Day 1976, the bicentennial of the United States.

Opening the "bicentennial era," the President said the nation's goal over the next five years is "a building of an open world."

Kiwanis To Hear 'Visitation' Talk

MIAMI (AP) — Senate President Jerry Thomas says the state cannot legislate morality but it can prohibit an "open-bedroom policy" in state university dorms.

Rekindling the fire over boy-girl visitation policies in campus dormitories, Thomas said:

"If a boy visits a girl at her home, do you think her parents would permit them to go to her bedroom, close the door and stay there for hours?"

"You cannot legislate morality," acknowledged the Jupiter Democrat, but, he added, "What must a young freshman girl think when she arrives at a state university which tolerates an open-bedroom policy?"

"Won't that lead her to believe the State of Florida is giving its approval and that her daddy and

Dr. Louis Murray of the State Board of Regents will be the guest speaker at the Wednesday noon meeting of the Sanford Kiwanis Club at the Civic Center. According to Harold Kestner, Kiwanis program chairman, Dr. Murray will be speaking on the visitation policies at state colleges and universities.

It's perfectly understandable now; but, for the early Sunday morning moment, it did appear that I was about to be turned down on a photograph request . . . and by the Governor of the State, no less.

Actually, I don't know who was more surprised . . . me for the apparent turn-down, or the "good guy" . . .

It's had enough, when after actually trying to remove the whiskers from this grizzled face, each day around 6 a.m. that around 10 or 11 in the morning, everyone's giving me the eagle-eyes to see whether or not I had forgotten to shave.

When I got this tip about the Governor being in town on Sunday . . . just about the time I was getting ready to shower and shave prior to attending Mass . . . I figured that "maybe this one time, I'll be able to slip by without shaving," and nobody would notice it."

So, in slacks and sports shirt . . . and plenty of whiskers, I hopped into the blue Mustang and galloped over to the airport — just in time to see Governor Askew boarding the plane.

When I popped the question about "think he'll have time for a quick shot," the gentleman (whom I later learned was Special Secretary for the Governor) raised an eyebrow and must have thought, "you gotta be kiddin' buddy!"

In any event, he did ask the governor and relayed the info that "we were running a little late . . . sorry!"

And I got the picture, or should say . . . the message.

Imagine my surprise when a shirt-sleeved Governor Askew disembarked from the plane . . . walked over to where I was now muttering under my breath . . . and said, "I did have a little trouble recognizing you, John." (A perfect gentleman . . . not once did he mention the 8 o'clock shadow . . .)

The State's Chief Executive was most accommodating . . . took for shame with him . . . and then took off for an enjoyable day at "Firecracker" in Daytona.

How many others would have handled the situation like Mr. Askew?

Tuesday, after the weekly Cabinet Meeting, Governor Askew takes off for Boston for a three-day visit with the Education Commission of the State where he will address the convention . . . an excellent representative to jet everyone else to know about and come to the Sunshine State.

mommy must approve or they wouldn't have sent her there?"

Thomas, a father of five girls, made his remarks in an interview with the Miami Herald.

The Board of Regents has issued a more stringent visitation policy over the old one which permitted the dormitory residents to vote on the hours and days boy-girl visiting would be permitted.

Regent Elizabeth Kovachevich brought the visitation situation to a head earlier this year by calling dormitories "taxpayers' whorehouses."

Poor Donut Gobbler Now Leads Florida

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Once he sat on the curb in front of Carl's Bakery, gobbled a full dozen doughnuts, and as his buddies stared in admiration, washed the whole gooey mess down with a quart of chocolate milk . . .

He sang tenor in the high school glee club for three years and once got so nervous during a solo his knees knocked.

He didn't have much money and often wound up double-dating with Norman Wilken in his '3T Dodge.

They'd often tear into the scenic Terrace dance hall, and there he and Mary McDowd — one of a succession of dates — would swizzle Cokes and pack the juke box with dimes. Decked out in floral bottle and trademark saddle shoes, he was something of a jitterbug king.

His "messing around" time was limited, because after school he worked at Sidney Sam's Grocery — eventually he became produce manager.

He played in the school band, helped out at home, was voted class wit for some unrecalled reason, and Friday night he showed up for the 25th reunion of Pensacola High School's Class of 1946.

"He was really an average person," is how Dr. Robert Palmer — "Mr. Everything of '46" — remembered him. "You just thought of him as a friend. Nothing special."

But as much as they tried to be casual 25 years later, the kids of '46 knew full well that Reubin Askew had become the Governor of Florida.

Susan Josias Chosen New 'Miss Deltona'

DELTONA — Susan Josias was crowned "Miss Deltona" before a standing room only crowd attending Deltona's gala Fourth of July celebration at the community center.

Miss Josias, 17, the fifth young lady to wear this crown, is a student at the DeLand High School and will enter the Daytona Beach Junior College this fall.

Patrick McDonald, winner of numerous oratorical contests, and most recent winner of the eight-state Knights of Pythias Southern Regional Public Speaking contest in Orlando, was the principal speaker at the patriotic segment of the program.

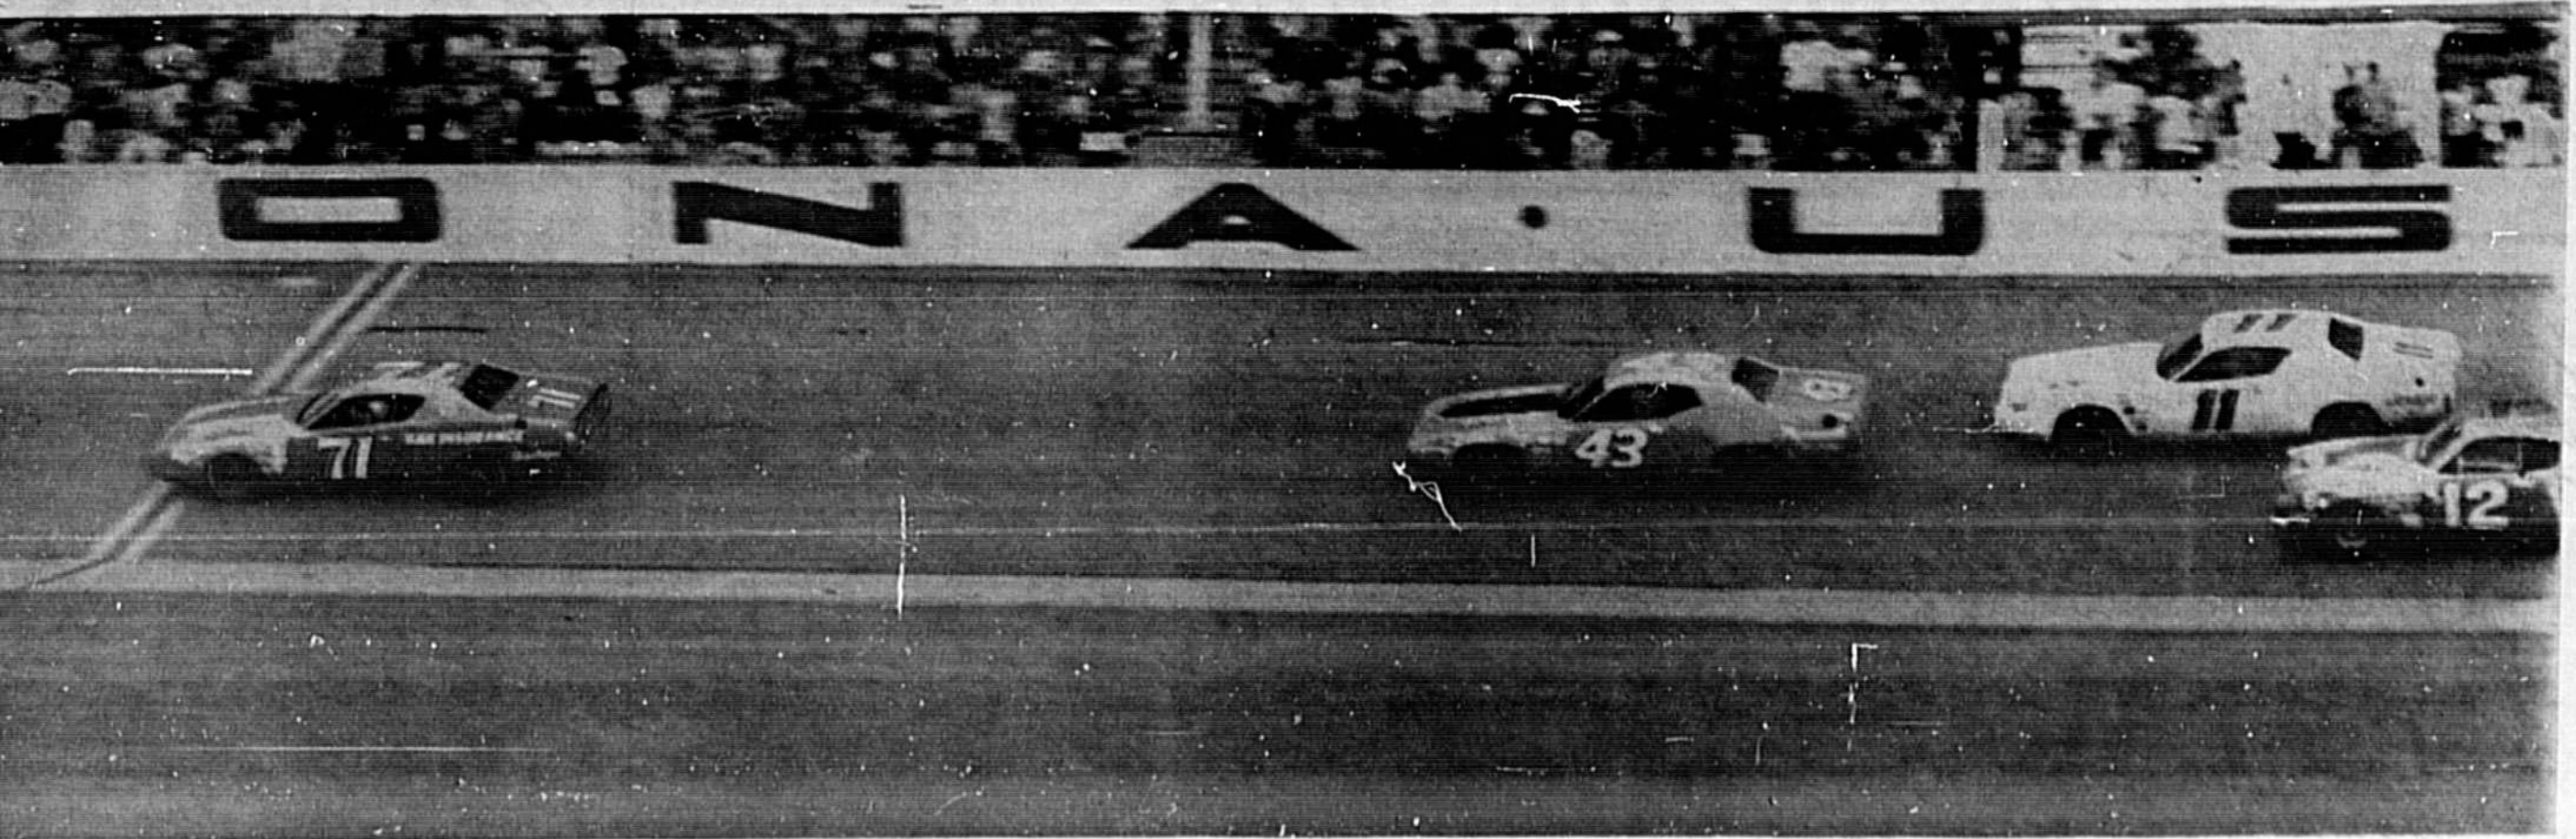

Thought to ponder and highlights of his talk included "To keep freedom, we must be willing to live for it and die for it. Once lost, it is almost impossible to get it back. We are the freest people in the world — let us be grateful for this. If America loses down, we will go down — look, stock and barrel! If you awards were made possible through donations from the numerous organizations of Deltona.

The afternoon's program opened with the presentation of the colors by the local veterans organizations, VFW and auxiliary; American Legion, DAV and WWI Barracks. The Rev. Carl White, minister of the Deltona Christian Church, offered the invocation and the Deltona Woman's Club Choral Group sang "The Stars and Stripes."

Mrs. Henry St. Rock and Holsberg served as co-chairman for the Miss Deltona contest. They were assisted by Mrs. Lewis Kacher, Mrs. Angela Mercorelli, Mrs. Robert Daniels, Mrs. M.M. Caskey, Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Priscilla, Mrs. Joseph O'Brien, and Mrs. Cecil Sellers, pianist.

A variety show under the direction of Mrs. Stuhvenberg, featuring diversified talents with musical selections and special comedy skits highlighted the afternoon's planned entertainment following the selection and crowning of Miss Deltona. Dancing to the music of the America Road Combo climaxed the activities.

'Non-Compliance' Slows Federal $$

By BILL SCOTT
A $30,000 federal grant to be used for the expansion of Seminole Memorial Hospital treatment and diagnostic facilities, including the enlargement of the hospital's pathological laboratory has finally been approved by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). The application filed by the hospital was held up due to claims of non-compliance with the Civil Rights Act.

All aspects of the alleged non-compliance has not been disclosed and Charles Lansing, hospital trustee chairman, said "it is news to me" when informed of the situation arising from a minority group, which claimed blacks were not being hired to fill certain jobs at the county-run medical institution.

Robert Besserer, hospital administrator, confirmed the allegations were leveled against the hospital, but said everything had been cleared up, when contacted by The Herald.

Dr. John Johnson, hospital medical staff chief and radiologist, said some complaints were made because there were no blacks in the hospital's technology school.

Dr. Johnson said several blacks had applied, but said they were not accepted because of a lack of qualifications.

He said interviews were arranged with some applicants, "but they failed to show up."

The radiologist also advised that the school was asked to lower some of its standards to allow minority race entrants, but explained this could not be done.

Hospital trustees applied for the federal grant under the Hill-Burton Act, which makes funds available to expand or construct public medical facilities.

I sit back and remember the day... of yesterday, and of how "brave" (or foolish) I had been in handling "cherry bombs"... or "torpedoes"... or "big boys" or whatever other name you'd use for firecrackers...

And all during that time, never even sipped a hair on my hand.

Until last night, that is. Would you believe? ... using a match to light a sparkler for my daughter, lighted particles flew off the stick and scorched my howling thumb...

But, I should complain? How about the tragedy associated with Dale Allen Aidson? The whole world his oyster... gonna get a chance to play with the San Diego Chargers as a place-kicker...

And the "firecracker" he was trying to handle and show to his nephew... well, they caught fire... and went off... while they were inside a gallon can (which made it like a cannon, I guess)... and after all of the windows were shattered, and the dust had cleared...

Dale lost both his legs and a part of his right hand!

Remember? How does it go? "I complained cause I didn't have any shoes... until I saw the man with no feet!"

Experience is the best teacher... like those who really don't know nor have tried marijuana, and yet they offer the opinion that marijuana should be legalized.

A woman writes, "Please tell people NOT to legalize it. I know what I am talking about. I began smoking marijuana 11 years ago. One year later I took my first shot of heroin. I was "stoned" at the time, so my judgment was bad. I became an addict. In the years that followed, heroin cost me my husband, my children, my home, my health, my everything."

And then there are others who say... "make it legal!"

A 100 per cent cure for a hangover is abstinence.

On Teacher Pay Raises

By BILL SCOTT
Seminole County School Supt. John Angel will recommend that the proposed school teacher pay increase amounting to $310,000 not be approved by the School Board at this afternoon's meeting of the Board, to hear the superintendent's budget recommendations.

Supt. Angel said this morning the "only way we could go with the increase would be to go back and further reduce budget items that relate to the school's day-to-day operation."

Questioned about the proposal of William (Bud) Laver, Milwee School principal, to have the teachers voluntarily give up the pay hike, which raised the beginning teacher index from $6,300 to $6,400 a year, to allow for funds to construct the $700,000 first flag Road School, which has been shelved for lack of sufficient state funds, the superintendent remarked "It would be unwise to utilize school operation moneys for construction purposes, since money for this is normally contained in other state funds for school building purposes."

Question: Who Will Do Study?

By LARRY NEELY
The controversial metropolitan level water quality planning study was again a main topic of discussion at this morning's meeting of the Seminole County Commission.

Under discussion was who is to do the water sampling and laboratory analysis which is the major cost of the study. The discussion expanded into questions of what was being required of the study and if testing agencies had to be certified. The financial aspect was also drawn into the discussion.

It was originally proposed that the Pollution Control Department of Orange County conduct the sampling and analysis for the three counties involved, Seminole, Osceola and Orange.

Seminole County Commissioners decided to approach Seminole Junior College about the possibility of the local school doing the work. Later, Flowers Analytical Laboratory of Altamonte Springs was brought into the picture.

The water sampling and testing will cost Seminole County a preliminary $34,000 if Orange County does the work. The SJC proposal was for $1,000 more, while the Flowers Laboratory proposal is for $27,000. The study costs and federal grant application are based on Orange County doing all the work.

Mickey Sheffield, pollution control director for Orange County, presented a plea for a quick decision on the part of the Seminole Commissioners. Sheffield said the study must not be delayed if the federal deadline is to be met. The study when completed will fulfill requirements assuring the eligibility of the municipalities for water and sewer system grant money from the federal government.

Sheffield explained there would be no additional problems to Orange County if Seminole County did the sampling portion of the program on its own.

Sheffield added that Osceola would be put in a bind because Orange can not afford to do Osceola's portion of the testing unless they can do Seminole's as well.

The study is supposedly structured so each county pays only for what is done in their respective county, which left the question unanswered as to why Orange cannot do Osceola's testing without doing Seminole's.

Sheffield also questioned whether Flowers was capable of conducting the testing at such a reduced rate. Dr. Jefferson Flowers pointed out his proposal was based on the requirements of the federal government which they raised the question as to what was being required by the federal government to be included in the study. County Planner David Farr said he was able to go by the terms of the federal application only.

Regional Engineer Ralph Malloy of the Florida Department of Air and Water Pollution Control said he had known of the study for only one week, but said he doubted the federal government would require any more exotic testing than currently being done by his agency.

He said he would check into the specifics of the requirements and forward the information to the county.

Collections Climb In Seminole

Seminole is one of the two Central Florida counties with an increase of more than 20 per cent in state tax collections during May over the same month a year ago.

State Revenue Department has made available information which shows that Seminole County collected $394,136.59 in sales tax which is an increase of 39.8 per cent.

Only Lake of the Central Florida counties had a larger sales tax collection increase with a total $444,483.48 received for a 32.7 per cent increase.

State wide sales tax collections totaled a 23 per cent increase over May, 1970, with Orange County collecting $4,289,622.90, a 13 per cent increase.

Other central state counties collections include: Osceola, $119,324.79 collected for a 17 per cent increase; Brevard, $1,111,834.85, up three per cent; Volusia, $1,338,734.50, up 25 per cent from May, 1970 figures.
