Bed Rest Helps Trapped Air
DEAR DR. LAMB—Several weeks ago my daughter, age 14, suffered a spontaneous pneumothorax. The doctor prescribed complete bed rest for several days and something for the pain. Her pain was of short duration.
Her X rays show no signs of this now. What causes this condition? Will she feel the effects of this condition for a long period of time—shortness of breath, etc? Is there anything that can be done to prevent this from happening again? The doctor described this attack as slight. Does this mean she can completely recover from the attack?
DEAR READER—Your daughter has probably already completely recovered.
A pneumothorax means air trapped between the lungs and chest wall. This usually happens when a small blisterlike area on the lungs ruptures and air leaks out of the lung into the space between the lungs and rib cage. This potential space is usually occupied with the air-filled expanded lung. As air accumulates between the leaky lung and the chest wall the lung collapses, like a leaky inner tube. The more the lung is collapsed the less lung tissue is available for respiration. If the amount of air trapped is small the person may be unaware of its presence.
While the lung is collapsed the area where the blub (blister) broke heals and becomes airtight. Then the lung gradually expands as the trapped air between the lung and ribs is absorbed. It is nature's natural "fire patching" mechanism.
I am sending you the Health Letter number 24, Keeping Your Lungs Fit, to give you a more complete concept of how your lungs work. Others who want this information can send self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

As it explains, the lungs expand or contract in response to the chest space itself.
To rest a lung, patients with tuberculosis used to have air injected into the same space where your daughter collected air with her pneumothorax. That should give you an idea that it is not so dangerous. Of course, if complications arise such as bleeding, then things can be different.
They can recur, particularly if there are more blebs on the lung that can burst and induce a leak. Unless there are a lot of blebs and the pneumothorax recurs frequently it is best in most cases to just treat the pneumothorax when it occurs or support the patient until nature accomplishes its healing process. In a small number of cases it is sometimes worthwhile to surgically remove a lung segment that contains a lot of blebs as might occur at the upper tip of the lungs.
X rays show the presence or absence of accumulated air between the lung and the chest wall. The normal X rays of your daughter simply prove that the ruptured bleb has healed and the air has been absorbed. There is no reason for any disability or shortness of breath once this has occurred.

New ideas or even an invention that you could think up this coming year may be very rewarding. This is true, especially if you become allied with the right people.

Oviedo Voters Pick Beasley For Mayor

About 35 per cent of Oviedo's 1,088 voters turned out Tuesday to elect a new mayor and two councilmen. A total of 390 votes were recorded, according to Nancy Cox, elections clerk.
Ben M. Beasley, a banker in Winter Park, was elected mayor for a two-year term defeating former police chief George A. Kelsey. Beasley was the highest vote getter with 315. Kelsey got 74 votes.
Charles E. Lacy was elected councilman in Group I, with 223 votes defeating incumbent Robert W. Whittier, who got 157 votes. Incumbent Charles W. Pratt with 237 votes was reelected to his seat as councilman from Group II, defeating his opponent Thelma Clonts, who received 146 votes.
"It wasn't much of a turnout," said losing mayoral candidate George A. Kelsey. "Three hundred-ninety people out of almost 1,100 registered voters isn't very good. And those people who stayed home are the same ones who will gripe when things don't go their way."
Beasley said he has high hopes and big plans for the city. He added he will be applying management techniques he learned during his years with Barnett Banks to his duties in city hall.
"My first intentions are to reorganize the departments within the city and the way in which they basically manage themselves, their reporting process," said Beasley.
"We will start something very basic to management — department head meetings on Tuesday mornings," he said.
Beasley, who will be 33 on Sunday, has a BS degree in Management with a minor in economics from Valdosta State College, Valdosta, Ga. He, his wife Nancy and their sons Ben Jr. and Bill live in Oviedo, where Beasley first ventured into politics last year as a candidate for city council. He lost by three votes "which proves that each vote counts," he said.
"After the new councilmen are installed they can consider the recommendations our charter revision committee has already made," said Beasley, "to see if there is a better way to build a mousetrap."
"The idea is that hopefully the council will bring a recommendation to the citizens that the present council-committee system will be changed in favor of more citizen involvement.

"Councilmen now are assigned to various committees as chairmen, or similar committee positions. What I would prefer to see is a system where committees are appointed only when we need them," said Beasley.
"Then we would not have council decisions clouded by the fact that they are sitting on a committee," said Beasley. "We could also get a lot more citizens involved in the committees, in fields where those citizens have experience," he said.
Nancy Cox, elections clerk in Oviedo, said weather had been fine the entire day, and voter turnout, light all day, was heaviest right after 5 p.m.
She said that 17 absentee ballots had been cast and she is officially counted tonight, but would not affect Tuesday's results. Election day had almost been delayed, said Miss Cox, when the lever which opens the voting machine curtains wouldn't work.
"But we called a man over from Sanford and he fixed it right away," said Miss Cox.

Sanford and other areas, of the Polk County program. "We spray a low volume of spray — almost like a mist — that kills the midges on contact. We also send fog trucks to areas where we get complaints." The county has a fleet of 15 such trucks.
The airplane sprays around most of the county's 100-plus lakes, but there is no spraying in the lake itself.
"At the beginning of the year, we had a real problem in Lakeland around Lake Parker. Businessmen had to shovel the mosquitoes off their doorsteps before they opened their shops, but we knocked them out with the spraying," Hunt said.
And in Volusia County, mosquito control official Linda Cleverly says, "We have no blind mosquito program because they're non-biting and we're more concerned with the health problem caused by those that do bite."
"Mostly, we use our airplane," says biologist Hunt of

Mosquitoes Not Just In Sanford

"They're worse around Lake Griffin than anywhere else." But the county has "no control program. We've found through the years there's nothing you can do about them. The only way to kill them is to put larvicide in the lakes, and the mosquito larvae are part of the ecosystem. Fish eat them. You can't put poison in the lakes," the official said.
Lake County does not spray comprehensively for mosquitoes as Polk does. "We go out where we have com-

Carter Non-Committal On Keeping Lance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief Carter administration spokesman says the Justice Department has no deliberate questions about Bert Lance without a pre-judgment hanging over its head from the White House. Presidential Press Secretary Jody Powell made the statement Tuesday when asked to elaborate on a comment made earlier in the day by the President. Asked by newsmen whether Lance would keep his job, Carter replied: "We'll see about that later."

Wanted Posters Go Up

White's press secretary, but the posters were expected to be up this week.

Eskimos Face Tough Winter

BARROW, Alaska (AP) — The Eskimos, who have survived 2,000 Arctic winters through subsistence hunting, could face tougher winters if a ban is upheld on killing the bowhead whale, which is on the endangered species lists. The International Whaling Commission, meeting in June in Australia, unanimously approved a ban on killing — including subsistence hunting — of the bowhead, a slow-moving mammal whose head is almost a third of its length.

Park's Return Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell is asking President Carter to help return South Korean businessman Tongsun Park to the United States to face a trial in connection with alleged influence-buying in Congress. Bell, describing Park as "a fugitive from American justice," made his appeal to the President on Tuesday. "We're ready to go to trial immediately," said Bell of Park, who has been named in a 36-count felony indictment on charges of bribery and corruption.

They headed for a family homecoming at their Oxon Hill, Md., home.

Splitting Cornelia Seeking 'Protection'

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — With her six-year marriage to Gov. George C. Wallace apparently coming to an end, Cornelia Wallace has instructed her attorneys to "do what is necessary" to protect her.

Whether that means a divorce, Mrs. Wallace, 38, wouldn't say for certain Tuesday, as she had her personal belongings moved from the executive mansion.

But Montgomery attorney Ira DeMont said Tuesday evening that he and two other attorneys representing Mrs. Wallace — George Dean of Destin, Fla., and John Kohn of Montgomery — soon will discuss with the governor's attorney an "amicable settlement."

DeMont said the governor was told Tuesday afternoon as his wife supervised the packing of her belongings that his attorney would be contacted.

According to DeMont, Wallace's response was simply, "Fine." Wallace's attorney, Maury Smith, was unavailable for comment.

It was Smith's name that appeared on a divorce petition drafted a month ago, apparently drawn up on the governor's behalf, but unsigned by anyone. Nor was it filed in any court.

The document cited "complete incompatibility of temperament" and an "irretrievable breakdown of the marriage" as Wallace reasons for seeking to end the marriage. Mrs. Wallace left the executive mansion Tuesday, accompanied by DeMont and Dean. In a brief statement issued as a moving van stood ready to take her belongings from the mansion, she said: "I have struggled a long time to preserve my marriage. I have left the mansion, for I can no longer endure the vulgarly, threats and abuse. I have instructed my lawyers to do what is necessary to protect me. I have nothing further to say at this time."

Wallace, 58, issued a one-sentence statement about the separation: "It's a private matter and I trust that our friends can treat it as such."

County Jail Inmate Faces New Charge

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

A Seminole County Jail inmate has been charged with smuggling contraband into the detention facility — a felony punishable by up to five years in prison.

Thomas E. Wade, 31, of Sanford, a trusty assigned to the jail laundry, was charged Tuesday after a sheriff's agent said he watched Wade pick up a brown paper bag outside the jail kitchen, put it under his trousers and enter the building. Deputy R. A. Alexander reported Wade serving a 360-day misdemeanor sentence on Lake Irene, east of U.S. 17-92 and south of SR 434 near Longwood, sheriff's deputies reported. A 17-year-old south Seminole man drowned Tuesday afternoon while swimming at Lake Irene, east of U.S. 17-92 and south of SR 434 near Longwood, sheriff's deputies reported. Deputy Robert Strohbridge said Frank Carter, 17, of Maitland Route One, was dead on arrival at Florida Hospital North, Altamonte Springs, after rescuers recovered his body about 5 p.m.

The victim's mother, Mrs. Betty Carter, called authorities after the youth's 12-year-old sister, Darla Carter, ran home reporting he had disappeared before the water half-way across the nearby lake during a swim. Deputies said para-medics and Herndon Ambulance attempted to revive the drowning victim who had been under water for a short time before rescue crews arrived at the scene.

MACHINE MISSING Sheriff's deputies today were looking for a $1,700 auto frame straightener machine reported stolen from a side yard at Charlie's Garage, 7801 Aloma Avenue in south Seminole. Deputy Don Ellis reported the orange-colored Blair brand machine is 20-feet long, about four-feet wide and sits on three wheels. Gene Evans, of the garage, told deputies that the machine is "rare and hard to find" and is inoperable without a specially machined part which the thieves left behind.

MISSING EQUIPMENT Deputies today reported $1,500 in television, stereo and radio equipment was missing from the home of Samuel R. Shell, 306 Temple Drive, Sanford, following a burglary. Shell's daughter, Loretta C. Mackley, reported the burglary to authorities and told them her father is away on vacation, deputies said.

Edward T. Simpson reported to deputies that someone took $500 in sanders, saws and tools from an open garage at the corner of Marquette and Ohio Avenues near Sanford. Altamonte Springs police arrested Daniel Paul Simpson, 19, of 23 Brantley Hills Court, south Seminole, on a felony marijuana possession charge. His bond was set at $5,000, according to county jail records.

HOUSE BURGLARY Deputies today were investigating a burglary at a vacant house owned by Mid-State Development Corp., at 113 Live Oak Lane in south Seminole. Officers reported $3,800 in furnishings were missing, including 12 sets of curtains, bedroom furniture and an antique sofa and four antique tables.

Sanford police today reported burglars entered the apartment of Richard Lee Badger, 70 William Clark Court, by a window and made off with items valued at $859. Listed as missing were a 12-gauge shotgun, a color television and a red-toe red tape recorder. James Kenneth Alford of Maitland reported to Sanford police that someone stole a 35-horsepower outboard motor and controls, valued at $300, from a boat at 2525 Georgia Ave.

Vet Asks, But Can't Get Help

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Veterinarian Fred Blackwell is looking for a brave soul to help him X-ray Penny II, an 8,000-pound elephant that fell into a dry moat and injured a leg.

Dr. Blackwell, veterinarian at the Abilene Zoo, said the extent of Penny's injury had not been determined because no one was eager to get close to the elephant in her irritated condition.

Penny fell into an eight-foot-deep moat in front of her cage last week, injuring her right hind leg. Veterinarians had to fill the moat with water and float Penny to the top to get her out.

In order to X-ray the elephant, a procedure he described as "very dangerous," someone would have to get under the elephant and hold a metal plate against her leg while the X-ray was shot, he said.

So far, there have been no volunteers.

Court Considers Traffic Fine Hike

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The future of 1977 legislature's most controversial law, which hike traffic fines by as much as 120 per cent, is now up to the State Supreme Court. And if questions from the seven justices are any indication, they have some major concerns over whether the law is constitutional. The law, already criticized by drivers, police and local judges, came under fire Tuesday from the justices who wondered whether it might be too vague or too broad a delegation of legislative authority.

State Buys Plane

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — State officials should soon be getting a nearly new, $1 million jet airplane to transport the governor and help two businessmen considering a move to the Sunshine State. Gov. Reubin Askew and fellow Cabinet members needed no discussion Tuesday before voting unanimously to authorize the Department of General Services to spend the money that lawmakers appropriated. It will be the fourth plane in the Executive Air Pool.

PSC Halts Inquiry

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The Florida Public Service Commission, heading the advice of Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin, has called a halt to its own investigation of Florida Power Corp.'s oil purchases. The commission withdrew Tuesday to avoid a possible conflict with criminal investigations being conducted by Pinellas State Atty. James Russell and the Federal Energy Administration.

Capitol Defects Cited

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Even though officials haven't finished moving in, state Rep. Ron Richmond says somebody should draw up a list of all the defects in Florida's new $43 million Capitol. The New Port Richey Republican charged Tuesday that Gov. Reubin Askew and the Cabinet approved designs with a variety of defects.

Suspensions Pledged

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew says he'll keep his pledge to suspend county officials who haven't filed financial disclosure statements under the Sunshine Amendment. Volusia County School Board member James B. Clayton of DeLand and Lee County School Board member Joseph Isley of Fort Myers are apparently the only two Askew will suspend.

Abolishment Sought

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A county housing authority created by the legislature but inactive for 10 years still cannot be abolished except by legislative act, Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin says. Shevin issued the opinion Tuesday in response to a query by Lee County attorney James Humphrey of Fort Myers.

Discrimination Ban Ordered

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Insurance companies operating in Florida have been ordered not to discriminate against customers because of their sex or marital status. State Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter okayed the rule Tuesday but said it would not become effective until Jan. 1. He said he wanted to give the companies time to eliminate discriminatory practices voluntarily.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Poseidon ballistic missile has been launched from the nuclear-powered submarine USS Henry Clay. The missile was launched at 5 p.m. Tuesday while the submarine was running submerged about 30 miles off the coast of the Cape.

They'll Take Him Dead

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Elie is reluctant to let Meyer Lansky in while he is alive, but the 75-year-old reputed international wizard of the underworld wants to be buried there when he dies, his rabbi says. "I know his ultimate wish when the end comes is like everybody, to be buried in Israel," Rabbi S.T. Sharley said Tuesday. He said Lansky owns two graveyards on the centuries-old Mount of Olives, where Lansky's parents are buried.

Askew Takes On Smathers, Conner

Desegregation Stirs Up Florida Cabinet

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A bickering, bitterly divided Florida Cabinet has submitted to federal desegregation orders for state colleges and universities.

A Testy Gov. Reubin Askew led the Cabinet Tuesday to 5-2 approval of the controversial plan covering Florida's nine state universities and 28 community colleges. Federal officials ordered the plan drawn up earlier this year after being told by a federal judge that he had pushed Florida hard enough to increase college enrollment of blacks.

"Our real problem from a legal standpoint stems from the fact... that we have a history of de jure segregation," said Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington. "That's something we can't escape. It puts a burden on us that isn't on some other states," he said. But Secretary of State Bruce Smathers charged the plan was unfair because U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Department (HEW) officials have never said how the state's desegregation effort is inadequate.

"I'd like to know where I — because I have seen this board for over two years — have failed," Smathers declared. "The people of Florida would like to know where they have failed," Smathers declared. Askew and Smathers exchanged tart comments. Askew: "Are you committed

Cabinet Changes Forecast

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew predicts the Constitution Revision Commission will propose some significant changes in Florida's unusual Cabinet system. But Askew is stopping short of forecasting that the 37-member commission will adopt his proposal to abolish the Cabinet altogether.

Before a stormy Cabinet meeting Tuesday, reporters pressed Askew to give specific examples of how the other six Cabinet members have blocked executive action he wanted to take during his term. "I've had ideas in the areas of banking, insurance, education — in areas where the governor does not have primary responsibility now," Askew said.

Those functions fall under independent Cabinet members elected every four years in statewide balloting. They answer to the voters and can ignore the governor with impunity. However, the governor did decide recently against appointing a blue-ribbon commission to study Florida's automobile insurance problem. Askew reportedly backed off to avoid infringing on Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter's territory. Gunter argued with legislators this year over proposals for lowering premiums.

Tuesday's Cabinet meeting was the first since Askew recommended to the 37-member commission that the Cabinet be abolished. There was no mention of it from the other Cabinet members, some of whom last week denounced the proposal as one that would give Florida governors almost-dictatorial powers.

Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin, the only Cabinet member on the Constitution Revision Commission, later said he expected the panel to come up with some proposals to modify the Cabinet system.

to progress?" Smathers: "I have stated in my letters —" Askew, interrupting: "If you are, then why are you objecting?" Askew never said so but he appeared to be driving at a desegregation strategy other officials later confirmed that Florida would be freed from federal oversight after meeting the goals. They said federal officials indicated that would occur before the five-year plan expires.

"They've told us that, but they haven't sent it to us in writing," said Deputy Education Commissioner Pete Millett. The plan now goes to top officials of HEW's Office of Civil Rights. The plan, in effect, calls for Florida colleges to graduate as high a percentage of blacks as are graduated from the state's public high schools. Eighteen per cent of high school graduates are black, compared to 6.5 per cent blacks among graduates receiving baccalaureate degrees on state campuses. But it also demands that the state prove it no longer discriminates against blacks in hiring and that it gives Florida A&M University a fair share of the education budget. Most of the school's students are black. Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner said he opposed the plan because he thought it would lead to a mostly white FAMU.

"I think we're sounding the death knell of A&M," Conner said. "Traditionally, it has been a black school. Legally, there is no reason why it should be a black school. With all the barriers down, it is still a black school." Askew disputed the veteran agriculture commissioner's fears. "Check with me 20 years from now," Conner replied. "Yeah," retorted Askew, "you still may be here."

He Served His Community

Our community is all the better for having had Harold H. Kastner live in and serve it. Mr. Kastner died Tuesday of a heart attack for which he had been hospitalized several days earlier. He was 72.

The latest heart attack was not the first suffered by Mr. Kastner. In April 1975 he suffered two heart attacks and was on the brink of death when he was revived with the aid of a pacemaker.

But, pacemaker or not, Harold Kastner carried on as a key figure and leader in both the business and civic communities.

A member of a myriad of city, county and state organizations — by some counts he belonged to 31 at one time — Mr. Kastner also formed and operated the oldest and one of the better-respected produce businesses in the state of Florida.

The story of Harold H. Kastner reads like one of those typical all-American success stories. He moved to Sanford in 1922. From then on his produce ventures grew and grew.

And so did his community involvement and dedication. From Shriners to Kiwanis to Elks, to the Salvation Army, to the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, Harold Kastner was always there to help. He was part of it.

"He was a joiner, a doer. He was a friend," recalls Bob Daehn, himself community-involved. The entire populace was the beneficiary of his unselfish efforts through the years.

The man was filled with energy and ambition — all of it geared to making his community the best place to live. We are all grateful for his achievements. He will be missed.

"The trouble is" his widow, Viola, once explained, "nobody seems to realize what demands are made on people who are prepared to give of themselves."

Too often this is the case. A devoted citizen's dedication is appreciated only when he is gone.

In the case of Harold H. Kastner, his dedication was always appreciated. All the more now.

To Mrs. Kastner and the family, we say thanks for sharing with us the man you loved.

White-Collar Felons

An upper class of criminals never uses force in the commission of their crimes. They rob you with a ball-point pen.

These white-collar felons have in the past often enjoyed lenient sentencing from sympathetic judges. A slap on the wrist was the norm.

Barstier magazine reports studies showing that a majority of white-collar criminals have not gone to jail, even when their thefts and frauds amounted to many millions of dollars. They have been much less likely to do time than common criminals.

That may be changing, with a more realistic attitude being taken by judges across the nation toward crimes of the upper class.

Crimes which involve deception, deceit and the betrayal of trust are just as heinous and involve just as much moral turpitude as those involving club or a gun. Those who commit such crimes should be sentenced accordingly.

Baker Coacts Scheme To Raise Funds

WASHINGTON — Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., rounded up enough fellow Republicans recently to block public financing of Senate elections. He also concocted a slick scheme to raise private funds for those same Republicans.

The able and agile Baker signed his name to a fund-raising letter which discussed the need for a strong national defense. The need for campaign funds was barely mentioned. The letter was mailed to about one million well heeled prospects.

A detailed questionnaire, identified as the "1977 National Defense Survey," was enclosed in the same envelope. "I've gone ahead and registered a special survey number in your name," explained Baker, "so that the results can be tabulated accurately and quickly."

The Senate Republican leader continued urgently: "I personally believe this is NOT the time to gamble, in any way, with our national defenses. But I want to know what you think. That's why I've sent you this specially numbered survey assigned for your personal use."

Oh yes, $20,000 had to be raised. Baker added, to fund two top priority projects: "(1) distribute nationally the 1977 SURVEY ON NATIONAL DEFENSE to thousands of Americans and (2) elect Republicans to the U.S. Senate who'll vote to keep our defense strong."

The questionnaires and the checks began rolling in this summer. The checks were processed by the Bank of Virginia, which carefully deposited the money and kept a list of contributors. But those top-priority questionnaires were dumped unceremoniously into the trash.

Sources at the bank told us that 20,000 to 30,000 questionnaires were discarded without bothering to tabulate the results. It looked suspiciously as if the defense survey were merely a gimmick to raise campaign funds, being that it's easier to extract money from the citizenry in the name of patriotism than politics.

Our reporter Vance Hawthorne confronted GOP officials with the allegations that, once the checks had been carefully removed from the envelopes, the urgent survey results were thrown in the trash. "Completely inaccurate," roared the officials.

Our sources, nevertheless, stuck by their story. One furnished us with a sworn affidavit declaring: "I was assigned to the mailing services section of the Bank of Virginia where I was put to work ... processing mail for the Republican National Senatorial Committee. I was directed by my supervisor to throw away the surveys involved in the mailing."

Immediately after our inquiries, our sources reported, the check processors were issued new instructions to begin saving the questionnaires. We went back to the GOP. This time a spokesman acknowledged that 20,000 to 30,000 questionnaires had been discarded because of a "misunderstanding."

Three bank sources assured us, however, that there had been no misunderstanding. The bank had received explicit instructions, they insisted, to throw out the questionnaires.

Since the names and addresses had been filed with the Republicans have now followed up on a new letter to those whose questionnaires were deposited in the trash. This letter is signed not by Baker but by Robert Moore, the executive director of the campaign committee.

"Unfortunately, due to a processing error," he explains, "the original survey assigned to your name was not tabulated. And that really concerns me."

The Clock

When Seminole County officials signed a contract last October with Eagle Contractors for a 54-person addition to the county jail, they couldn't have anticipated that 10 months later they would be urging the addition not be built at all.

The history of the ill-fated jail addition, which was originally targeted for completion in February, is one of squabbling between the county and Sanford, the county and its prime contractor, the prime contractor and subcontractors.

The county commission used this week to request that the project be "washed out" and the site be restored to its original condition. Balboa Insurance Co., the bonding company for prime contractor Eagle, will make the final decision. The county will have expanded jail facilities through construction of a new facility at Five Points, for which the county received a $3.4 million federal grant.

The new jail should be completed within 18 months.

The jail addition was supposed to be an "interim" facility which would be used until the new jail at Five Points is operational, but delays have made the jail addition expendable, according to County Administrator Roger Neiswander and Sheriff John Polk.

The first delay in the project came from Sanford, which at first refused to issue a building permit. That delay moved the completion date back to April 30.

Then Eagle declared subcontractor Florida CRS

Co. in default, and on May 9 project architect James Melvin told the county Eagle was in default.

A flood of legal action by area banks has also tied up the project, and it was reported that it would be another six months before the 10 modular jail cells would be completed.

An Orlando bank has gone to court to claim assets of Florida CRS at the Sanford port. Until that claim is settled, the production line for completing the jail cells is tied up, and a new port tenant which wants to continue production can't do so.

It's the kind of mess that is best dealt with by wiping the project out, county officials say. Eagle has already paid the county $12,100 in liquidated damages at the rate of $100 a day.

The bonding company will have the option of deciding to continue the project.

Welfare Vs. Work Programs

WASHINGTON — When the government 10 years ago initiated an experimental program of making cash grants to provide "income maintenance" to the poor, federal officials tried to cloak the project in secrecy because the idea was so controversial.

A decade later, that concept — also known as a "negative income tax" or "income support" — has gained such broad acceptance that President Carter has made it the centerpiece of his proposal for far-reaching structural reform of the federal welfare system.

But the nagging question remains: Will a government program that provides cash assistance to low-income families and individuals encourage a substantial number of poor people now holding jobs to "quit work and live off welfare?"

The working poor historically have received no benefits from the nation's welfare system. As a result, Carter is attempting something no other president has ever done — to mix work and welfare.

A current example: To be eligible for "unemployed parent" benefits from the biggest of the federal welfare programs, Aid to Families of Dependent Children or AFDC, the male head of the family must be totally unemployed and have exhausted all unemployment compensation benefits.

Carter announced his proposal only last month, but those who designed much of his program and will be required to administer it if Congress approves the reform have been quietly working since 1967 to find the right formula for combining work and welfare.

They are the federal officials at the Office of Income Security Policy Research in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare who have conducted four separate experiments involving payment of more than $7.5 million worth of "income maintenance" grants.

The first experiment involved poor whites, blacks and hispanics in Trenton, Paterson, Passaic and Jersey City, N.J., and Scranton, Pa. The second project concentrated on the rural poor, both black and white, in farming communities of Iowa and North Carolina.

The third involved poor blacks in Gary, Ind., while the last was aimed at whites, blacks and hispanics in Denver and Seattle. With the exception of the final Denver-Seattle project, results of the experiments now are being made available to those who request the information.

The key statistic in each experiment was the average number of hours worked each week by the husband, invariably the principal wage earner in the participating families, after two years of receiving "negative income tax" payments.

Total hours worked declined — but only slightly — in each case. The reduction was 1 per cent in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, 1 per cent in Iowa and North Carolina, and 7 per cent in Gary.

THE LONDON ECONOMIST Vietnam Collectivization

SAIGON — Vietnam looks like it's launching the final phases of its plan to turn the south into a Communist state. A broadcast on Aug. 3 signaled the beginning of a move to nationalize the remaining private factories and businesses.

The next week, at a four-day meeting in Saigon, the government presented its plan to collectivize southern agriculture.

The northern Communists who now run the government have always said that they would do these things. But they have had more trouble than they expected, probably because the south's economy was more complex than they had bargained for.

Banks and large businesses which are fairly easy to get hold of came first. Even so they had to let South Vietnamese peasants circulate freely for months after Saigon had fallen.

The goal is the abolition of capitalist production and distribution. So now the many smaller and tougher nuts must also be cracked.

Some of the earlier stop-gap measures came near to causing disaster even when applied to "easier" parts of the economy. But it does not follow that the new efforts against the harder targets are bound to fail. As one observer put it, "these are guys with a blueprint."

VIEWPOINT Schlesinger: Energy Evangelist

By ANTHONY RIPLEY

James R. Schlesinger, our first energy secretary, went to Denver on his first big outing and spoke to the National Convention of the American Legion.

By the time he spoke, the graying, conservative Legionnaires had passed five resolutions generally supporting President Carter's energy program.

So his task was not to rally their support. It was to sell a message few wanted to hear: We have a crisis without a shortage, a profound national challenge without a Pearl Harbor to mark it off.

The energy crisis is like some Biblical tragedy. Everyone knows that disaster lurks just outside the city walls but they do not want to hear the words of the prophets they are caught up in the pleasures of the moment, swept by the music they want to hear.

And thus, the hardest job in American government today has fallen on the shoulders of James Schlesinger. He must change our habits of living.

The love of physical gratification, materialism, effortless living — these are not new to America or to democracies. Alexis de Tocqueville wrote about them more than 130 years ago in "Democracy in America."

In this classic book he wrote of "the special taste that men of democratic times entertain for physical enjoyments" and listed their wants: "To add a few yards of land to your field to plant an orchard, to enlarge a dwelling, to be always making life more comfortable and convenient, to avoid trouble, and to satisfy the smallest wants without effort and almost without cost. These are small objects, but the soul clings to them."

Our careless use of energy has served the ends Tocqueville described. Schlesinger's job is to ease us into substitutes in a world ruminant, short of gas and oil.

Perhaps he is the right man for this errand. He is a stern-looking, religious, very private man — old for his mere 48 years, often blunt, deeply serious. Some think him the ultimate symbol of status quo in Washington. But he is not that at all.

Schlesinger instead is perhaps the best of the bureaucratic world. He moves with skill, force and detailed knowledge within the framework for action given him by the politicians in charge.

And Most Don't Know It

Oil Addiction Increasing In America

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent WASHINGTON — Instead of kicking the habit, the United States is becoming more addicted to costly imported oil, and most Americans apparently don't know it.

More than four months after President Carter's warning that the energy problem could become a national catastrophe, a good many people don't believe there is a real problem.

Carter said the problem should be confronted as the moral equivalent of war, but a public opinion poll ranks energy seventh on the list of national concerns.

According to a CBS News/New York Times survey, the voters don't think energy is the equivalent of inflation, unemployment, crime, health care, education or defense, let alone Carter's hypothetical war.

Those attitudes can hardly be encouraging for the White House team that now must press for approval of Carter's energy legislation in the Senate, where the going is likely to be more difficult than it was in the House.

The Carter program passed the House short of one of its stiffest provisions, the standby tax with which Carter proposed to increase the cost of gasoline a nickel a gallon each year the nation's consumption exceeded conservation targets.

Carter got most of what he sought from the House, and James H. Schlesinger, the new secretary of energy, has said he believes Congress will approve the administration package of conservation taxes and conservation incentives without more major changes.

Before he gained the White House, Carter said he meant to use the office as a platform to mobilize the nation to action on persistent national problems.

But there is only one platform, and there are many problems. While the President is campaigning for Senate ratification of new Panama Canal treaties, his aides and lobbyists have some heavy convincing to do on energy. The new poll, conducted July 27 to 31 among 1,463 adults, supports that view with numbers. Among them:

—Fifty-seven per cent of those surveyed said they don't believe the nation is running out of oil and natural gas, and do not think things are as bad as Carter claims.

—Forty-nine per cent said they thought Americans were being warned of shortages just those surveyed said they don't believe the nation is running out of oil and gas companies can charge higher prices.

TV's Danielle Spencer Hurt In 3-Car Accident

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Child actress Danielle Spencer, who plays the cynical little sister in the ABC-TV situation comedy "What's Happening," is in "guarded condition" after a three-car accident that killed her father, a hospital spokeswoman says.

The 12-year-old Danielle was in the intensive-care ward of Santa Monica Hospital Medical Center after undergoing surgery, the spokeswoman said late Tuesday.

Her father, Timothy Pelt, died at the same hospital from injuries sustained in the Tuesday morning accident in Santa Monica.

The driver of the second car, Zev William Litenatsky of Los Angeles, was hospitalized in guarded condition with possible fractured ribs and internal injuries. His passenger, Ronit Cohn, 13, of Beverly Hills was treated for head, arm and leg bruises.

Police said Pelt's station wagon collided with Litenatsky's car, and both cars sideswiped a van. The driver of the van was unhurt.

The difference between these two thermostats can save you up to 40% on your air-conditioning costs.

The thermostat in his right hand is set at 73 degrees. The one in the left is set at 78 degrees.

The difference in the thermostat settings is only five degrees.

But one little degree can make quite a difference in the cost of cooling. Approximately eight percent in the average fully air-conditioned home!

When you stop to consider that you can still be comfortable at 78 degrees and save on your air-conditioning costs as well, which one would you choose?

Setting the thermostat at a "comfortable" setting is only one way to save money on your cooling costs. Here are some others:

- If your thermometer isn't marked in degrees, place a good thermometer in a room out of the air-conditioning flow to be sure you're maintaining 78 degrees.
- Insulate your attic floor. A sufficient layer of insulation in the attic can cut your costs substantially if your home is fully air-conditioned. It's a good investment. (For further information on insulation, pick up our booklet "Guide to Home Insulation" at any FPL office.)

• Weatherstrip your doors and windows. (Especially jalousie windows.) It's another good way to keep the heat out, the cool in and the costs down.

• Shade your sunlit windows with awnings, shutters or solar film. Unshaded glass panels, when exposed to direct sunlight, will greatly increase the workload of your air-conditioning unit.

• Use light colors on your walls and roof to reflect the sun. The lighter the color, the less heat absorbed.

• Shade your air-conditioning unit with shrubbery, but don't block the air flow. That way it'll operate more economically and efficiently.

Why are we telling you all this? Because FPL isn't any happier about higher costs than you are. And we want to help you save money and energy.

Is He 'Revolutionary' Or 'Creative?' San Francisco's 'Flower Power Sheriff' Stirs 'Em Up

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — At a desk, he checks the 38-caliber revolver he wears in a holster at the waist of his dapper, pinstriped suit and enters the county prison for an inspection tour.

"Hey, sheriff," an inmate sings out, "we hear you was in jail."

"Yeah," Sheriff Richard Hongisto replies, "you mind being seen with a criminal?"

Laughing, he saunters past. The inmate looks after him, admiringly. "He's different than most sheriffs," he says. "Sometimes I doubt if he's a sheriff at all."

Others have been similarly bemused since Hongisto, a former city cop, took office in 1971 and began shaking up traditional notions of how sheriffs should act.

He started by replacing the county seal on his badge of office with a peace symbol (It was the time of Vietnam). When he couldn't pry money for his jail from the city treasury, he organized a rock concert benefit for the jail and boogied on the stage.

Since taking office, Hongisto has built a playground for the children of jail visitors, started a venereal disease treatment program, ended censorship of prisoner mail and named an ombudsman to handle inmate and staff complaints.

He got a taste of prison life from the other side of the bars last April, serving five days in San Mateo County Jail (not his own) for defying a court order to evict tenants from a Chinatown hotel. The sheriff insisted he lacked manpower to do the job without bloodshed. Later, he carried out the court's mandate.

Characteristically, Hongisto used his time in confinement to take notes on prison life and jot down ideas for improving his own jail.

Hongisto is 39, a Ph.D. candidate in criminology and a practitioner of transcendental meditation, and he's sometimes called the "flower power sheriff." But he's gathered more than bouquets in his five years of office.

The Deputy Sheriff's Association, for example, opposed him for re-election and in the past has complained to the civil grand jury about his administrative practices. The group's attorney, Stephen Bley, says many of Hongisto's subordinates "feel he's brought discredit on the department."

Bley says Hongisto's actions in the hotel case "held all law enforcement officers up to ridicule. Everyone thinks it's a big joke, but it's not. Criminals say if the sheriff can get away with it, so can they."

"I gave the court excellent reasons why we couldn't carry out that eviction," Hongisto says. "I don't think I should have been convicted."

A native of San Francisco, Hongisto first studied to be a teacher, became a policeman instead and quit 10 years later when he was refused a leave of absence to work on public television.

In 1971, Hongisto assembled a coalition of youths, minorities, liberals and homosexuals and ousted the 15-year incumbent, Matt Carberry.

The same coalition helped Hongisto to an easy re-election in 1975.

San Francisco has a large gay population and Hongisto was one of the first office-seekers to appeal directly for homosexuals' votes. He keeps acknowledged homosexuals on his staff, has ridden on a float in the annual gay rights parade and journeyed to Miami to campaign against singer Anita Bryant's antigay movement.

All this involvement has prompted questions about the bachelor sheriff's personal orientation, but he replies, "I'm utterly conventional in my sexual habits."

In running his own six-story lockup, Hongisto stresses rehabilitation, has hired more counselors and expanded programs despite arguments that inmates don't stay long enough in county jail to make the effort worthwhile.

"Most people in this business just process people through the jails," Hongisto says. "They stuff them in at one end and push them out at the other. Rehabilitation hasn't really been tried."

During a tour of the jail, Hongisto points out classrooms where inmates study English, music, and put out a prison newspaper. He stops to talk with prisoners waiting for treatment at a new dental clinic "paid for by my hell-raising" and jokes with the chef in the renovated kitchen about the next meal.

"The quality of the food is very important to inmate life," Hongisto said. "I had my own chance to prove it" during his own brief jail term.

This summer Hongisto faced a ballot measure spearheaded by Supervisor John Barbagelata that would have cut the terms of the mayor, district attorney and sheriff from four years to two. It would have forced Hongisto to run for office again this fall, but the voters rejected it.

Barbagelata agrees that Hongisto has improved the jail, but he still wants him out of office.

Wallbanging Begins Tonight At Jai-Alai

A certain breed of wallbangers return to Seminole county tonight.

Nope, it's not a bartenders' convention. And it has nothing to do with frustration.

These guys bang the wall for pleasure. And money.

The name of the game is jai-alai, pronounced ih ih.

When the Orlando-Seminole fronton in Fern Park opens its doors for the 17th season Friday night, it will mark the return of quinielas and perfectas and Big Qs to the area.

Tonight at 8 o'clock, the fronton presents its annual preseason exhibition, which affords fans a sneak preview of what to expect from the new players as well as giving the uninitiated—including minors—an insight into this game which was refined centuries ago in the Basque Mountains.

Starting Friday, 18-over is the age limit. The season extends through Jan. 16, when 36 of this 43-man squad will pack up and go to Quincy, Fla., where owner Stephen Calder's sister fronton is located. The others will go back to Spain or Mexico.

Gordon Hulbert is beginning his ninth season as general manager. Hulbert, also vice president of the corporation, has been with the fronton for 14 years.

"Our format will remain basically the same as in the past," said Hulbert this week. "The sport is gaining popularity all over the country as new frontons are being built up north, and it appears the tourists are becoming more knowledgeable."

Hulbert indicated Orlando-Seminole will not have the trifecta this season.

"We are going to have a lot of winners, not just one or two," is the way he answers the query.

Hulbert feels that while the lure of a three or four thousand dollar payoff may be highly enticing, far too few fans actually pocket the benefits.

"We will have plenty of big payoffs, you can be assured of that," he said, pointing to the Big Q, where the object is to pick back-to-back quinielas. Payoffs for the Big Q last season hovered near the $4,000 figure.

One aspect of the big payoffs which concerns Hulbert is the Internal Revenue Service directive about deducting 20 per cent from the biggies.

"What fans are not aware of is that they can claim their losses as well as having to claim their earnings at income tax time," he says.

"I don't recommend saving losing tickets, but it would be a good idea for fans who have big payoffs to retain a record of their wins and losses in their program.

Fronton publicity director Happy Ison indicated there are 10 new players on the roster. Most of them have played in Florida frontons at one time, the most recent being backcourter Jesus, who performed in Daytona Beach under the name Sarasa.

Other new players include Medina, Enrique, Aguirre, Fermin, Domingo, Miguel, Larrea, Ramon, Soto, Bengoa and Eddy.

Of that number, Bengoa has been named assistant players manager.

The big names returning are Maruri, overall wins champion last season with 115, and Manolo, singles champ with 33. Orlando's format includes nightly 7:30 performances except Sunday, with matinees on Monday, Thursday and Saturday at noon until Dec. 23, when Thursday matinees conclude.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees downed the Cleveland Indians 5-3, the Baltimore Orioles whipped the Detroit Tigers 7-2, the Chicago White Sox slugged the Oakland A's 7-2 and the Minnesota Twins beat the Texas Rangers 7-4.

Fisk gave the Red Sox a quick 4-0 lead after Rick Burdick singled, Fred Lynn walked and Jim Rice was hit by a pitch. It was Fisk's second career grand slam. Lynn later hit a solo home run while Fisk's three-run shot capped a five-run eighth inning.

Fisk Changes His Stance Keeps Bosox Near Top

By The Associated Press. Carlton Fisk has opened his stance and kept the Boston Red Sox close to the top in the American League East.

The Red Sox made it five victories in a row by handing the Toronto Blue Jays their 11th consecutive setback, 11-2. Fisk drove in seven runs with a first-inning grand slam that spoiled Mike Darr's major league debut and a three-run homer in the eighth off Pete Vuckovich.

"My problem was that I got used to standing close to the plate and had been successful in the past so I was too stubborn to change," explained Fisk, who had been in a recent slump.

"But I was getting jammed with the closed stance, so now I've opened it up a bit."

Meanwhile, Kansas City's Al Cowens also had a big night with two singles, a double and a pair of two-run homers as the Royals crushed the Seattle Mariners 10-0.

Burglars Sought

The Orlando police are seeking your help in solving a burglary which occurred at 2122 Mount Vernon Street last June. On Monday, June 20th of this year, the Bamberg family left town for their annual vacation. Sometime before their return on the following Sunday, unknown persons entered their home removing over $2,000 worth of goods.

Crime watch

During their absence, the suspects gained entry to their house through the front door. Most likely, a pass key was used since there were no signs of forcible entry. It is believed that the suspects parked a van on Hillside Avenue next to the Bamberg's home and entered on the Mount Vernon side. Locking the door behind them, they proceeded to gather various household items, televisions, a stereo tape recorder, etc. They utilized the victim's garage cans to carry the goods out the back door to the waiting van. The suspects responsible then locked the door behind them and vacated the area.

If you have any information, at all, or this or any other unsolved felony crime in the Central Florida area, call CRIMEWATCH, 849-3482. Outside the Orlando dialing area, dial operator and ask for WX2ME, toll free. No one needs to know who you are because with CRIMEWATCH, there are no names, no faces and no handles. Your information will be held in absolute confidence and you will remain anonymous. The CRIMEWATCH office is manned from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday. During the other times, the phone will be handled by T.A.S. CRIMEWATCH is offering a reward of up to $500 for any information leading to the arrest and conviction of any felony suspect.

Huet Tells About Art Of Smoking Foods

By ELDA NICHOLS Herald Correspondent

Phil Huet could barely boil water when he started his Hawaiian Seafood Center in Longwood.

Today, he thinks nothing of preparing and smoking fish, chicken, turkey, ham, rabbit, clams and shrimp.

"It's a long process to smoke fish," he said. "Most people don't realize there's about six hours of preparation, plus the nine to 12 hours of smoking. You really have to keep a constant eye on chicken and turkey while they are smoking."

The best materials for smoking are any fruit tree wood, oak or hickory chips.

Huet has his own special seasonings that he uses on all his products, but he wants the recipe to remain his secret. However, he will smoke fish free, on a 50-50 basis.

According to Huet, many people smoke their own products. One easy smoker to make yourself requires an old refrigerator. A hole is cut in the bottom, with several holes in the top. The racks are already inside and should be six to ten inches apart. An oven temperature gauge is needed, with the temperature never above 200 degrees at any time.

A combination of any fruit tree wood, oak or hickory chips may be used. Huet cautioned, "Be sure to keep a garden hose nearby, as a safety precaution. Watch the temperature and regulate it by draft. There should be constant observation."

Huet's shop is unique in the State of Florida, and about the only place where smoked turkey may be obtained. The handsome bachelor likes to fish off the beach or deep sea fishing. "Guess I just can't get away from fish!" he laughed.

STUFFED HAWAIIAN FLOUNDER

Take one fillet of flounder. Spread pimento cheese on top. Sprinkle lemon and pepper seasoning, plus garlic salt, to taste.

3 large onions, cut up
 Place onions in pan so octopus doesn't touch side or bottom. Simmer for 30 min. Take off stove. Let cool. Then, with hands, pull off outer skin so all white meat is visible on tentacles. Then cut up all of octopus very fine. Put in bowl with cut up tomatoes, onions, bell peppers and 1/2 cup olive oil. Deep fry one banana out of skin, and slice avocados on plate. Serve warm octopus over cut up banana and enjoy a very special treat.

Neighbors Pay When Tot Tumbles

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I fixed up our backyard with a slide, swings and a sandbox for our grandchildren to enjoy when they visit us on weekends. The neighbors' children (and they were many) asked if they could play in our backyard during the week, and we saw no reason to refuse them.

Well, last week a neighbor girl fell off our swing and broke her nose and two front teeth! (They were not baby teeth, so they have to be replaced.) The girl's father informed us, through his lawyer, that WE are liable for the doctor and the dental bills.

Our own lawyer said we had to pay it because it happened in our yard. Abby, we're just average middle-class people, and this has hit us hard. I hope you'll print this as a warning to other naive, big-hearted people who can ill afford such generosity.

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: Will do. But if you had spent just a few dollars for insurance, you would have been "covered" — not stuck! Readers, talk to your insurance agent, and be sure YOU'RE protected.

DEAR ABBY: I have a European man friend who lives abroad but comes here very often on business for his government.

We are very close physically and emotionally, have even spoken of marriage and have exchanged "I love you" many times.

The only thing I don't like about him is that he's cheap. Last Christmas he sent me a seashell and a T-shirt. The seashell was beautiful — if you like seashells. And the T-shirt was obviously secondhand. I have nothing against secondhand clothes, but I don't think they are appropriate for a gift.

I didn't mention it for several months, but it kept bugging me, so I finally wrote him and got it off my chest! Well, I haven't heard from him since.

All his letters up until then were love-joy. Do you think I made a mistake telling him I thought he was cheap? I'm sorry now. Should I write him again and apologize? I miss him.

Dear Abby

DEAR GIRLFRIEND: A secondhand T-shirt is a first-hand indication of his chininess. However, it's the thought, not the value of the gift that counts. You were right to level with him, but if you love him and miss him, write and tell him so. And if you get him back, I hope you realize you'll have a man who's cheap.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 20-year-old college girl who had to be bribed, coaxed and begged to help her mother clear the table, dry the dishes, make her own bed, hang up her own clothes and do her own ironing?

When she was at college, she lives at the dorm and ships her laundry home for her mother to do and ship back. She has never tried to get a summer job to help pay for her college expenses. Instead she goes out every night and sleeps until noon. Ever since she was a young girl, she has expected me to be her slave. WIM

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Because somewhere along the line she was given the impression that she could get away with it. And apparently she was right.

The Village Super Flea Market is really a "Super" flea market, ask our customers and they'll tell you:

"The Village Super Flea market is a great concept. I don't know any one else thought of it sooner, I wish I had. I think this place really has potential. It's kind of crowded on the weekends, and there are a lot of different items to choose from. My wife likes all the different crafts, and I swear, we must have a dozen of each at home already and she's still out there shopping today! But I guess I can't complain though, because everything she has bought so far has been inexpensive and really attractive," states a businessman from Longwood.

Remember, Summer Rates are still in effect at the Village Super Flea Market, when on Wednesday and Friday the tables start at $1.00 and on Saturday and Sunday the tables start at $2.00. Drawings for door prizes are held every Sunday and most of the tables are covered. For more information or your space reservations...

The Rite Of Bread-baking

Throughout history the making of bread has inspired minds and hands. Poets and writers have romanticized about it. Artists have sculptured it. Modern designers are making it and designing labor-savers and gadgets to aid in its preparation. Some seasoned bread makers may see no need for new gadgets or for changing established methods. But labor-savers do appeal to time-conscious cooks, and the inexperienced. Some definitely help handicapped persons who like to make bread.

There's a choice of hand operated and electric bread makers that completely eliminate kneading by hand... an exercise and an art and certain disabilities. Devices for measuring temperature and time as well as ingredients completely remove guessing for novices in the kitchen. A variety of materials and finishes for baking pans help home bakers achieve special shapes and sizes as well as the degree of browning and type of crust desired. For instance, batter doughs bake well in soufflé dishes as well as casseroles and bread pans — no need to purchase special molds or shapes unless you want to.

The making of bread is a serious rite for those who truly appreciate fine food. There's a communion between maker and dough that seldom happens in other areas of cooking. It's both a science and an art, and it's satisfying hobby for men as well as women. Aspiring bread makers have the assurance of quality controlled ingredients and finely tuned recipes that reduce chances of failure and waste. Three such recipes follow: one for a batter bread, one for a very hearty loaf and a beautifully sculptured Challah for a special occasion.

TOASTED OATMEAL & RAISIN BREAD
A textured loaf with a heavenly aroma of toasted oatmeal and molasses. Makes delicious toast as well as sandwiches.
1 1/2 cups unbleached flour
1/2 tsp salt
1/2 cup Active Dry Yeast
1 1/2 cups warm water
1/4 cup molasses
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) Margarine
1 egg (at room temperature)
1 cup old fashioned oatmeal, lightly toasted
1 cup dark seedless raisins
1/2 cup chopped Planters
Southern Belle
English Walnuts
(Makes 2 loaves)
In a large bowl thoroughly mix 1 cup flour, salt, and undissolved Active Dry Yeast.

CASSEROLE SWEDISH RYE
Batter breads are quicker to make than kneaded doughs. The texture is open and airy. They may be mixed by hand or with an electric mixer and baked in a soufflé dish, casserole, bread pan, muffin pans or special molds.
1 1/4 cups unbleached white flour
1 1/2 cups unbleached rye flour
1 1/2 cup firmly-packed dark brown sugar
2 tsp. salt
1 tsp caraway seed
2 pkgs. Active Dry Yeast
1 cup milk
1 cup water
2 lbs. margarine
(Makes 1 loaf)
Combine flour, milk, molasses and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120 degrees F.). Margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional white flour to obtain desired dough. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 40 minutes. Stir dough down. Cover; let rise again until doubled in bulk, about 20 minutes. Stir down; turn into a well-greased 1 1/2 quart casserole.
Bake at 400 degrees F. about 40 minutes, or until done. Remove from casserole and cool on wire rack.

CHALLAH
This is a Sabbath bread for Jewish people. Four eggs in the dough give it a rich yellow color and shiny surface... a beautiful, delicious, light-textured bread.
1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cups unbleached flour
2 lbs. sugar
1 1/4 tsp salt
1 pkg. Active Dry Yeast
1 1/2 cup softened Margarine
Pinch powdered saffron
1 cup very warm tap water (120 degrees F.; 120 degrees F.)
4 eggs (at room temperature)
1 tsp cold water
1/4 tsp poppy seed
(Makes 2 loaves)
Combine water, milk, molasses and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120 degrees F.). Margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional white flour to obtain desired dough. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 1/2 hours.
Pinch dough down. Divide in half. Shape each half into a loaf. Place in two greased 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2 inch loaf pans. With a sharp knife, cut 2 parallel slashes on top of each loaf. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.
Bake at 400 degrees F. 25 to 30 minutes, or until done. Remove from pans and place on wire racks to cool.

RYE, CHALLAH AND RAISIN BREAD

Beef, Cabbage Mix Well

Once in a while we come on a thrifty ground beef dish that's stylish enough to serve to guests. This time around it's Hungarian-style Cabbage Beef. It tastes delicious, serves six and holds an element of surprise: it's rarely met up with in the United States.

The morning we tested it there were only two of us in the kitchen so most of it was left over. To make the leftover Cabbage Beef look attractive we cut it in wedges, arranged them slightly apart on a round serving plate and reheated them in our microwave oven. Then we garnished the interstices copiously with parsley and watercress and served up the dish. It looked great! French bread and sweet butter, a salad and dessert completed the menu.

HUNGARIAN-STYLE CABBAGE BEEF
2 1/2 to 3 1/2-pound cabbage
2 slices white bread, diced (1 cup)
1/2 cup milk
2 eggs
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1 cup cooked rice
3 tablespoons instant minced onion
1 tablespoon paprika
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons marjoram leaves, crumbled
1 1/2 teaspoons instant minced garlic
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons oil
6 slices bacon
Cut core from cabbage. Immerse the head in boiling water; boil for 15 minutes; drain. Separate leaves and drain them. Soak the bread in the milk. In a medium bowl beat the eggs slightly; mix in the soaked bread, beef, rice, onion, paprika, salt, marjoram, garlic and pepper. Pour the oil into a 3-quart casserole (9 1/2 by 12 inches or 8 1/2 by 13 inches). Arrange one-third of the cabbage leaves in it, putting some of the larger leaves on the bottom; cover with half the meat mixture. Repeat once more, covering with the remaining large cabbage leaves. Arrange bacon on top. Cover and bake in a preheated 325-degree oven for 1 1/2 hours; uncover and bake 15 minutes longer. Remove from oven and let stand for 10 minutes before cutting into wedges. Makes 6 servings.

GRAPES PARIISIENNE

Grapes Mix Well With French Pastry

In France, where pastries are considered an essential to life, the local pastry shop is a centuries-old tradition. The French baker dreams up countless numbers of mouth-watering confections to entice any pastry lover.

The French attribute their totally irresistible desserts to a basic pastry, "pate a choux." We know it as cream puff pastry. It's surprisingly simple to prepare and the results are grand. Versatile too, the rich dough can be shaped for small appetizers, individual serving-size desserts, or one family-sized pastry. You can bring a bit of this refined French tradition of pastry-making into your own kitchen with Grapes Parisienne, a flaky puff pastry filled with sweet, juicy California grapes and a vanilla filling. They're the perfect contrast — in flavor, color and texture — to the smooth rich filling (made from a mix, though you'd never guess). When shopping for grapes for this recipe or for out-of-hand snacking, be sure to select plump, ripe grapes that cling tightly to pliable stems.

For more exciting ways to serve fresh California grapes, write for your copy of "Grapery." This booklet includes some 25 recipes alongside color photos illustrating how California grapes can add luster and versatility to any table. To order, send 35 cent in coin to cover postage and handling to: "GRAPERY," P.O. Box 5498, Fresno, California 93745. GRAPES PARIISIENNE
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk
1 cup whipping cream
1 package (3 1/2 ounces) instant vanilla pudding and mix
3 cups California seedless grapes (2 seeded varieties are used, halve and seed)
Powdered sugar
In heavy saucepan, bring water and butter to boil. Quickly stir in flour, salt and sugar. Cook and stir batter until it leaves sides of pan and forms a ball. Remove from heat. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Outline a 7-inch circle on greased baking sheet. Spoon batter around outline shaping with back of spoon to form a 1-inch thick ring, 1 1/2-inch wide. Bake in preheated 400 degree oven 30 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees, and bake 5 to 10 minutes more, or until golden. Turn off oven, open door and let cool 10 minutes. Meanwhile, prepare filling: pour milk and cream into mixer bowl. Add pudding mix; beat at low speed until blended, about 2 minutes. To assemble: with sharp knife, carefully cut a slice off top of ring. Spoon half the filling into hollow. Sprinkle half the grapes over filling. Repeat with remaining filling and grapes. Replace top of ring. Dust with powdered sugar. Place on serving plate and refrigerate until serving time. Cut into wedges. Make 8 servings.

Rosh Hashanah signals the beginning of the Jewish year. Universally observed by all Jews, it together with Yom Kippur constitute the holiest days in the Jewish calendar. New Year's cards are sent on Rosh Hashanah and it is customary to serve round challahs, symbolic of life without end, and to eat apple slices dipped in honey, signifying the hope of a sweet and happy year.

While traditionally Yom Kippur is a day of complete fasting, families and friends customarily gather to share the joys of the table at the new year.

Here are some recipes that are among the favorites of members of the Golda Meir Hadassah chapter in Rockland County, New York, to serve on Rosh hashanah.

CHOPPED EGGPLANT
1 large eggplant
1 onion
1 green pepper
2 hard boiled eggs
Salt
Sliced oil
Vinegar
Bake eggplant with skin (piece skin to avoid bursting). When done, scrape out pulp and mash with fork. Add finely diced pepper, onion and eggs. Season to taste. Do not use too much vinegar. Serve chilled with salt, salad oil and fish oil.

FRIED GEFILTE FISHER
1 1/2 pounds cod fillet
1/4 pound haddock fillet
1 large onion
2 ounces sugar (2 tablespoons sugar)
2 eggs
A good dose of salt and pepper
Enough matzo meal to form firm balls
Skin and grind fish. Grind onion and mix all ingredients well together. Roll into balls. Roll the balls into matzo meal, and flatten slightly. Heat oil in large frying pan, and fry on both sides until golden brown. Drain on paper towel-lined plate. Balls can also be made small and round and deep fried in oil.

HONEY CAKE
3/4 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups sugar
4 eggs
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 pound of honey
1 1/2 cups coffee made with 2 teaspoons instant 1 cup nuts
1 1/2 cups raisins
Candied fruits such as cherries, pineapple (optional)
Bring honey to a boil and let cool. Add coffee. Beat eggs till light. Add oil beating well. Beat in sugar a little at a time. Sift dry ingredients. Add to egg mixture alternately with honey and coffee. Blend well. Grease both sides until golden brown. Drain on paper towel-lined plate. Add raisins and nuts and bake one hour at 325 degrees.

Slow Down And Enjoy Your Diet

RUSH...
Rush to work...
Rush to lunch...
Rush home...
Rush through dinner...
Rush through the evening...
Rush to bed...
Most of us rush through life. One thing not to rush through is a diet. The minute an ad or a person tells you that you can rush 15 pounds away in a week's time... BEWARE. Something's wrong.

The Diet Hare goes off on a tear of pills, miracle aids to lose, or monotone diets. Just like the one the tortoise lost. Wow! The race is won before it's over. By the time the second week rolls around, the hare is tiring of the whole thing. From then on, it's one excuse after another to lie down on the job and go to sleep.

The Tortoise starts off with the goal in mind but not in view and plods steadily along with time to enjoy the surrounding countryside. Plucky little tortoise isn't distracted by the Hare's initial success — it's that distant goal that counts, and that comes closer daily.

I've raced both ways — as Hare and as Tortoise — so I speak with experience when I say that the rush approach doesn't make it. Whatever I rushed off rushed back, and then some, once the fast diet was finished. When I settled into the right track and moved slowly along it, my fat went away. I lift it far behind, so far behind it's still trying to find me.
