Judge rules residents must share

LONGWOOD — A three-year legal battle for exclusive rights to recreational facilities in an upscale Seminole County community has resulted in a judge ruling three groups must share.

A beach, park and tennis courts must be shared by residents of Sweetwater Oaks, Sweetwater Club and Sweetwater Country Club, according to Seminole Circuit Court Judge Newman Brock. Real estate developer E. Everett Huskey, who developed all three communities, claimed he intended for the recreation facilities to be used by all residents in the three developments.

In the initial suit, The Sweetwater Oaks Homeowners' Association sued Huskey for exclusive use of Lake Brantley Beach, Riverbend Park and tennis courts. The homeowner's association claimed Huskey promised them exclusive use of the recreational facilities and any less would reduce the value of their properties.

In his ruling last week, Judge Newman Brock said residents of the newer developments of Sweetwater Club and Sweetwater Country Club should have equal access to the disputed facilities. All three communities paid assessments to maintain the areas in question, he found.

Further, Brock found there was nothing in writing giving Oaks residents the exclusive rights they claimed.

September events

SANFORD — Many special events are planned for Sanford during the month of September.

At the Central Florida Zoological Park, new classes in Docent training will begin, and Nature Niche for 5-12 year olds will be held Sept. 20-24.

A craft show is planned for the Sanford Civic Center on Sept. 11. A Sanlando Depression Glass Show will be at the Civic Center on Sept. 17. Sunday, Sept. 26 will see the annual benefit cruise on the Rivership Grand Romance sponsored by the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association and St. Lucia Festival.

On the national level, regardless of where a person's personal interests may be focused, there is a related observance scheduled during the month of September.

Governmental or private organizations have declared the following, each designated as "National" observances for the entire month: All-American Breakfast Month; Be Kind to Editors and Writers Month; Cable TV Month; Cat Health Month; Chicken Month; Cholesterol Education Month; Courtesy Month; Honey Month; and Piano Month.

For trivia buffs, Sept. 1 was the anniversary of the first day on the job for Emma Nutt, the first woman telephone operator who began her career in Boston in 1878 and continued working as an operator for 33 years.

Sept. 1 also marks the 54th birthday of comedienne Lily Tomlin, who fashioned her most popular routine after a telephone operator, Ernestine.

County 'way ahead' in curbing domestic violence

BY VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County has always been "way ahead" of the rest of the state in dealing with the problem of domestic violence, Jack Scalera, chief of operations of the State Attorney's office in Sanford, said.

While state statutes only recently expanded the definition of domestic violence to include all people related by blood or marriage or people who do or who have in the past shared a home together and to strengthen the penalties, Seminole County has been on the side of the abused for many years.

"We have always had a victim's assistance group here," Scalera said. "We have always taken this crime very seriously."

Uncovering history

A bit of history was dug up yesterday. City workers installing new wheelchair ramps in the 100 block of E. First Street, uncovered remnants of old storm drains. "We call them box-culverts," said Street Maintenance superintendent, Rick Davis (shown photographing the site). He estimated they had been there for several decades. "We just covered them up and continued our work."

Historic Trust awards renovation grants

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Sanford Historic Trust is launching a program awarding grants to selected applicants for home improvements in the historic district.

Jon Meeks, treasurer for the trust explained, "This is the first time we've attempted this, but if it works well, we expect to expand on the program and hopefully make it into something of a continuing basis."

The purpose of the grants is to improve the exterior appearance of historic district homes.

According to the application, "Persons applying for grants shall show need, financial or physical. Grants may be used for general upkeep, repairs, restoration, historic replacement, and yard improvements (e.g. painting, window repair, landscaping, etc.)."

At the present time, three opportunities for grant acceptance have been approved by the trust. Deadlines for submission of applications are Oct. 31, Dec. 31, and Feb. 28 of next year.

After the applications are received, Meeks said a special review committee has been set up by the trust to examine them.

Grants will be awarded one month after each deadline date.

"The amounts of each grant will vary," Meeks said. "They will depend on the type of improvements. For example, if it's a request for money for painting, the trust may buy the paint and take care of the actual work." In other cases, money may be available for outside tradesmen, Meeks said.

"Probably the maximum grant we would give for any project is $1,500, but we hope it could be lower to allow us to give out more grants."

"Our fiscal year runs from June to June," he said, "and we want to see what happens with these grants before we make any decisions regarding what to do in the future. Right now, we'll be handling it on a project-by-project level."

Citizens say Bubble needs more protection

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — More protections are needed for the Geneva Bubble, residents of the area told members of a special task force studying the issue Wednesday.

"It is the consensus of the citizens of Geneva that the Bubble needs adequate and additional protections," said Lee Voorhees, president of the Geneva Citizens Association. "The people of Geneva would be the beneficiaries of added protection or the victims of the lack of additional protection."

Only four Geneva citizens attended the special public hearing Wednesday. Task force chairman Pat Harden called for the next hearing to be held in Geneva, tentatively for Sept. 16, to allow residents a greater opportunity to speak. Evening hours would be set aside for public testimony.

The Geneva Freshwater Lens Task Force was created by the Legislature this year to determine whether additional protection is needed for the isolated, fragile water supply for the community, commonly known as the "Geneva Bubble." The task force includes representatives from county, district and state agencies and citizen's groups.

Don Crabtree, president of Geneva Defense Association, told task force members the state or

Brown tours Navy hospital

By Associated Press

ORLANDO — U.S. Veterans Affairs Secretary Jesse Brown said a Navy hospital slated to be closed because of budget cuts "deserves my immediate attention."

Brown toured Orlando's Naval Training Center Hospital Wednesday, giving hope to those pushing the agency to use the site for a clinic and nursing home.

He talked to hospital staff and toured the building built in 1992 for about 2 1/2 hours. The Department of Veterans Affairs has expressed interest in taking over the hospital since it showed up on a Pentagon hit list last March.

"There is clearly a need for health care for

There is clearly a need for health care for veterans in this community."

He said problems to the VA taking over the hospital include whether the Navy would require the VA to pay fair market value for the hospital, an amount that would make the deal extremely expensive.

The secretary also toured the base and VA facilities in Lake City and Gainesville at the urging of U.S. Rep. Corrine Brown, D-

Jacksonville. U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Longwood, also was present.

The VA had planned to build a new hospital in Orange County, but Brown reversed a Bush administration decision and ordered that 700-bed facility be built in Brevard. He also ordered that a 120-bed nursing home and clinic be built in Orange County.

Brown said the naval hospital isn't big enough for the 700-bed veterans hospital but could be used for the clinic.

Orange County veterans hospital are the most crowded in the country. The clinic had 103,000 patients last year, and many veterans who qualify for care are forced to seek help elsewhere.

Clinton to visit South Florida

MIAMI — President Clinton will spend Labor Day working in South Florida and may tour areas ravaged by Hurricane Andrew one year ago, a White House spokesman said.

Details of the trip won't be complete until later this week but the president is considering a wide range of activities, including a visit to Homestead and Florida City, spokesman Jeff Eller said Wednesday.

Other events on President Clinton's schedule may include a meeting with representatives of Miami's Cuban-American community and a jaunt to Fort Lauderdale.

A tentative schedule calls for the president to arrive in Miami no later than Sunday afternoon and possibly as early as Saturday night. He is expected to return late Monday, a day before Congress returns from its summer recess.

Clinton visited South Florida as a candidate last year this week, meeting with hurricane victims.

Wimauma well known to Texas deputies

KINGSVILLE, Texas — Over the past 20 months, law enforcement officials in Kleberg County have gotten very familiar with residents of tiny Wimauma, Fla.

Wimauma is a town of about 3,000 people in Hillsborough County, about 35 miles south of Tampa.

Seventeen times since January 1992, people from the rural Wimauma area have been arrested in Kleberg County on marijuana possession charges, according to arrest reports.

Officials say all 17 were stopped for traffic violations, and marijuana was found in their vehicles. The incongruity of the town's being named as the residence for so many suspects prompted one detective to dub it home of "the Wimauma Gang."

"If that's not a connection, I don't know what is," Lt. Barry Dunn told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times in a recent interview. "I find it hard to believe there's that much coincidence."

The most recent arrest was Monday, when deputies seized $10,000 from a man driving a vehicle registered to a Wimauma resident who had been convicted in Kleberg County of marijuana possession, Dunn said.

Trucker arrested for dumping gas

FORT LAUDERDALE — A gasoline tanker truck driver has been arrested after unloading 2,000 gallons of gas in a Deerfield Beach field, the Broward Sheriff's Office said.

Theron Jones, 34, of Pompano Beach, was charged Wednesday with felony counts of littering and causing pollution. He was released from the Broward County Jail after posting $3,000 bond.

Authorities say Jones had made a delivery to a Fort Pierce convenience store for Transport South Inc. of Atlanta. On his way back to headquarters in Fort Everglades, Jones realized he had forgotten to unload one compartment of his tanker in Fort Pierce, a sheriff's office news release said.

Fearing he would be disciplined by his employer and unwilling to return to Fort Pierce, Jones drove to a Deerfield Beach field and dumped the remaining 2,000 gallons of gas, contaminating the area, the release said.

Alligator hunting season open

CLEWISTON — The excitement level may have diminished, but the Florida alligator hunt will draw twice as many hunters this year as the initial hunt five years ago to cull the state's waterways for 2,500 gators.

The first statewide hunt since the practice was reintroduced five years ago started Wednesday on 33 waterways, including 12 in west central Florida.

More than 400 hunters — twice the number allowed in any year since hunting resumed in 1988 — will get to chase the reptiles during night hunts throughout the first two weeks of September.

More than 7,300 people applied in a lottery this year for a shot at participating in the hunt. Each will use a weapon such as a snare, bow and arrow, or spear, and bag up to five alligators — down from the previous limit of 15 for the entire month.

Plane makes unscheduled landing

CHARLESTON, W.Va. — Many of the passengers on Northwest Flight 998 were calm and collected after their DC-9 jetliner made an unscheduled, safe landing at Yeager Airport.

"I didn't see any emergency," said Steve Klutzke, 45, of Lafayette, Ind., who was returning home from a business trip to the Cayman Islands. "It just looked like a normal landing to me."

The Miami-to-Detroit jetliner with 53 passengers and six crew members lost oil pressure in its right engine, which then was shut down, said Duncan Pardue of the Federal Aviation Administration's public affairs office in New York.

The flight landed at 2:45 p.m. Wednesday, said airport Manager Jeff Bubar, who called the incident common in the airline industry.

Florida works with Cuba in heading off citrus tree killer

By Associated Press

LAKE ALFRED — Florida's citrus industry is taking preventive action by sending three scientists to Cuba to study the brown citrus aphid, carrier of a virus deadly to orange and grapefruit trees.

Officials are concerned the aphid will eventually make its way to Florida from Cuba and other countries, infesting groves with the tristeza virus.

There is no known cure for tristeza, the Spanish word for sadness.

"We don't want either the brown citrus aphid or the tristeza virus in Florida," said Walter J. Kender, director of the Citrus Research Center in Lake Alfred.

Richard Lee, Charles L. Niblett and Kenneth S.

Derrick of the University of Florida were invited by Cuban scientists to establish experimental plots in Cuba's citrus groves.

They traveled to the island Wednesday and expect to spend three weeks there.

Lee said he would be surprised if the brown citrus aphid is not in Florida within a year.

The joint Cuban-American undertaking will try to find out whether the brown aphid has taken up residence and, if so, whether it is carrying the virus that kills citrus trees.

Major questions are the aphid's mobility and its ability to spread the tree-killing virus.

"They will set up epidemiological studies to see the rates of spread so it gives us some information if it gets here — and the things we could do to control and eradicate it," Kender said.

FBI experts testify of lack of physical evidence in burning case

By JAMES MARTINEZ
Associated Press Writer

WEST PALM BEACH — Neither fingerprints, nor hairs, nor DNA extracted from the saliva on cigarette butts could tie two white laborers to the dusty field where a black tourist was burned.

Nor was there a link through handwriting analysis of a note left behind that read, "One les nigger more to go."

"I can't say they were there," FBI Special Agent Mike Malone, who processed much of the crime scene evidence, testified Wednesday. "But I can't say they weren't."

Before bringing to the stand burn victim Christopher Wilson of New York City, prosecutors are calling several FBI agents to testify about the lack of tangible evidence in the case, and to explain the circumstances in an effort to lessen the impact of that void.

For example, Malone testified the leather seats in Wilson's car are the worst kind of material for retaining hairs. And handwriting expert Special Agent James Henry Mathis testified the block and cursive letters in the note appeared to have been purposely distorted to prevent identification.

Judge rejects defense in bomb case

By RICHARD COLE
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — The Reagan and Bush administrations' secret approval of cluster bomb shipments to Iraq is irrelevant to the legal defense of Teledyne Industries Inc., a federal judge has ruled.

The Los Angeles company, along with Chilean arms dealer Carlos Cardoen and several employees, was indicted in May for violating U.S. export laws by allowing Teledyne's zirconium to be used for the Iraqi weapons.

Teledyne asked for documents, including secret intelligence findings, that it says proves the United States "sought ways to provide Iraq with low-profile and covert assistance" during the Iran-Iraq war.

But an order issued Wednesday by U.S. District Judge Shelby Highsmith barred Teledyne from the documents, agreeing with federal prosecutors that they are irrelevant.

The company has argued it should not be charged with illegally shipping the zirconium to Cardoen because the United States knew of the arrangement and winked at Cardoen's arms sales to Iraq.

Defense attorney explores 'urban psychosis' defense

By DAN SEWELL
Associated Press Writer

PLANTATION, Fla. — One law expert scoffed that suburban psychosis could be described as "pathological fear of lawnmowers."

Yet, the attorney for a 19-year-old girl charged in the group slaying of a Broward County youth will explore whether a new "urban psychosis" defense applies to the stunning case.

"If you are constantly subjected to violence, you develop sort of a psychosis toward it and you feel violence is the only way to stop violence," attorney Jeff Smith said Wednesday. "That may be appropriate in this case."

Smith told Circuit Judge Charles Greene this week he plans to hire a forensics psychologist to evaluate his client, Lisa Connelly, and determine the effect of "the violence all around her," both in South Florida at large and within her own suburban circle.

She and six other youths, ages 17 to 20, are charged with first-degree murder and conspiracy in the July 14 death of Bobby Kent, 20. The four males and three females, all friends or acquaintances of Kent, are accused of luring him to a rooftop, where they allegedly stabbed and battered him with a baseball bat.

Other defense attorneys haven't disclosed their strategies in the case. But several have suggested Kent was a violent bully who fell victim to a revenge effort that got out of hand because of youthful peer pressure.

"There was a herd mentality,"

Smith said. "In this particular case, Lisa Connelly wanted to be accepted so badly by the group she was in that she would say or do anything."

Connelly's boyfriend is Marty Pucello, 20. Kent supposedly dominated Pucello, his best friend and neighbor in suburban Hollywood, and pushed him into homosexual relationships and pornography, according to some statements given to investigators. Kent also supposedly caused Pucello to act abusively to Connelly, and Connelly's friend Alice Jean Willis had charged Kent with beating her.

Willis, 17, and Pucello are among the seven defendants.

Smith, the attorney, said he's still researching and looking for psychological experts on urban psychosis, a controversial defense in which violent crimes have been blamed on long-term exposure to violence.

John Monahan, a University of Virginia law professor and psychologist, is among skeptical experts.

"How do you keep urban psychosis from becoming a general license to commit crime and say 'the city made me do it'?" Monahan said.

He joked "suburban psychosis" could be "pathological fear of lawnmowers" and added "terminal boredom is not a defense."

"While it's innovative, I don't think it's going to be successful," Miami attorney Ellis Rubin said of applying the defense to the Broward County case.

Longwood should seek compromise over lawsuit

The City of Longwood has filed suit against Ace Hardware. The city wants to recover $52,000 in taxes on bottled gas sold by the company since 1981.

The city administrator has admitted the city was unaware that a former commission, in 1945, had enacted a 10 percent tax on bottled gas. Officials also admit they did not inform Ace that the tax was due.

Ace Hardware owner Robert Parsell has indicated he was also not aware of the tax until recent times.

It should be noted that since the tax has surfaced, Longwood's Ace Hardware facility has been paying the monthly tax, which has averaged slightly under $400.

The city isn't satisfied. They believe Ace owes money for 132 months prior to the beginning of payments.

The City of Sanford had a similar situation with Ace Hardware, but the commission managed to work out a compromise with Parsell regarding taxes on the sale of bottled gas at the Sanford Ace Hardware store. The city and Parsell agreed on an amount, and the matter has been resolved.

If Longwood's law suit results in a decision that requires Ace to pay the entire amount, it would be a financial burden on the company.

Legal fees for this lawsuit will not only be an additional cost for Ace, but an added expense to the city.

Longwood will be spending money to obtain tax dollars it did not know were owed until recently. We wonder if the expense of such a suit may almost equal the amount received if the city is victorious in the courts.

Taxes should be paid if they are required. An unannounced tax however, is a different matter.

We believe a compromise is the best method of reaching a settlement.

City taxpayers should not have their dollars used to fight a Longwood business, when the city admittedly helped cause this problem.

Protesting commercial

I recently wrote a letter in protest of a commercial showing an elderly lady eating a bag of Dorito chips. There is a steamroller about to smash her. Suddenly a younger man leaps in as spectators watch him and one is led to believe he is saving the lady. Well, the man, (played by Chevy Chase), snatches the chips and the older lady is hit by the steamroller.

I ask everyone who feels as I do to complain to Frito-Lay at 1-800-352-4477. If you wish to write, address your protest to Mr. Steve Reinemund, President, Frito-Lay Corporation, 7701 Legacy Drive, Plano, Texas 75024.

Also, please picket their products.

Tiger's Eye

A few weeks ago the Seminole County board of commissioners voted to close Tiger's Eye Productions' exotic animal training school. Tiger's Eye provides a valuable resource in our area we don't want to lose! This group is a non-profit organization that travels around central Florida educating the general public and our schoolchildren about the world around them. You are given an opportunity to relate to these animals directly! The people that do this are students and volunteers made up of former students. They are not paid and devote hours of time to the care and maintenance of these magnificent creatures and to bringing them to us, the general public. They bring a message of responsibility and environmental awareness that is imperative for all of us. This is a positive activity in our area that we cannot afford to lose. Please let's do what we can to help them keep going! Write to the Seminole County board of commissioners on their behalf. Thanks for caring enough to do it.

California's school voucher proposal

People who have no objection to abortion in principle, but don't think it should be paid for with taxpayers' dollars, are accustomed to hearing liberals accuse them of elitism. "Sure," they sneer, "you're all for rich people having abortions if they want them, but you don't want poor people to have that choice."

Liberals fall curiously silent, however, whenever somebody proposes to give poor people the same choice that rich people have to send their children to a private school. On the contrary, they will fight to the death to keep the children of the poor imprisoned in our deteriorating (and today often positively dangerous) public schools. That is why Proposition 174 on November's California ballot is perhaps the most important battle on this fall's political calendar.

Proposition 174 would give every parent in the state a voucher worth $2,600 for each school-age child, redeemable at any public or private school the parent chooses. That is about what educating one child for a year costs at most California private schools, though only half of what it costs in the public system. The state would continue to subsidize the public schools to cover the other half, and parents would be free to pay extra if they chose some particularly expensive private school.

The hope is that, faced with competition at last, instead of having all but the richest children virtually imprisoned in the public system.

California's public school administrators and teachers would be forced at last to improve the education they are delivering. For the first time in modern history, it would restore accountability and a reasonable amount of parental control to the public school system. Another thing: It would save a huge amount of money, which could then be spent on true improvements in the public schools.

No wonder, then that the public education lobby, spearheaded by the National Education Association the biggest and richest union in the country -- has reacted like a vampire to a crucifix. It is gearing up to spend an enormous amount of money (somewhere between $12 million and $15 million) to brainwash California voters into believing, at least until after Nov. 2, that (in the words of one brazen lie already launched) "A science course could be teaching kids how to make Molotov cocktails."

Liberals fall silent whenever somebody proposes to give poor people the same choice that rich people have.

Ominously, there are signs that many good California conservatives are going to be stampeded into voting against Proposition 174 on the badly mistaken theory that the problem of the schools isn't as bad as it's cracked up to be, or that (in any case) it doesn't affect them.

It isn't, in other words, black voters, or Hispanics, or even young Republican WASP couples with school-age families who are against school vouchers. They know how desperately bad the situation is in most public schools -- and not just in the inner cities, but in well-manicured suburbs where drugs, crime and teenage pregnancy are also rising. It is the older conservatives, with no school-age children and only fond memories of their own public education in lovely old schoolhouses of the Norman Rockwell type, whom the NEA is busy conning into reinforcing its stranglehold.

MARTIN SCHRAM

Behind the Mideast peace effort

"They all laughed at Christopher Columbus when he said the world was round. They all laughed when Edison recorded sound. They all laughed at Wilbur and his brother ... Whitney and his cotton gin ... Fulton and his steamboat, Hershey and his chocolate bar...." And they all laughed at Schram and his New Year's prognostication of an Israeli-Palestinian peace in '93.

But -- as George and Ira Gershwin would be the first to tell you (and your faithful columnist now reports with characteristic modesty) -- "Ho! Ho! Ho! Who's got the last laugh now?"

The first breaking news out of the Middle East has been tenuous-but-miraculous: A peace draft was forged by parties that only days earlier were not officially even talking to each other. The government of Israel and leaders of the Palestinian Liberation Organization had reached an accord that would establish Palestinian self-rule in lands occupied by Israel since 1967. The transfer of authority would be a modest, modular thing, starting with the Gaza Strip and the city of Jericho in the West Bank.

It was easy to predict that this declaration of principles would be greeted with consternation and even condemnation by hardliners on both sides. But it is also impossible to overlook the larger, historic and probably irreversible event that seemed to burst so suddenly and breathtakingly upon a strangely unsuspecting world of diplomatic experts. These old adversaries have, at last, agreed on the overriding imperative of peace.

Why, you ask, was this breakthrough not anticipated by our leading experts? Because great experts are lousy expecters. The experts make their reputations by: (1) Knowing all there is to know about all that has been said by all other experts; and (2) then saying the same old things in slightly new ways -- carefully eschewing observations that could cost an expert his or her peer-certification.

Not so this portfolloped pundit. Unencumbered by certification of expertise, unafraid of being skewered by the tut-tuts of the kings of expertise, I ushered in the New Year by proclaiming:

"PEACE PREVAILS ON WEST BANK, GOLAN HEIGHTS." In my beginning-of-the-year column I wrote that this was one of the great news headlines we'd read in 1993. "There will be an autonomous West Bank homeland for Palestinians, a Golan Heights domestically governed by Syria -- with both forever demilitarized under international guarantee."

"Holy Henry! -- peace is at hand." I wrote that two weeks later, dispensing advice to then-President-elect Clinton to push swiftly for Mideast peace. "There is common agreement on the broad scope of the solutions. The basic framework is ready to be negotiated."

Truth be told, I'd been urging this for not one but two years. Gaza seemed the starting place of choice; it's a strip whose value is symbolic, not strategic. On the West Bank, it seemed that if each side would recognize the other's imperatives, Palestinians could be guaranteed basic autonomy of a homeland; they could police their lands but must keep them demilitarized under international guarantee. It seems too much to ask that the existing Israeli settlements on the West Bank be dismantled, for those Jewish settlers too have a right to live in peace. So I urged a Guantanamo Solution, with the settlements granted a status not unlike that of the U.S. military base in Cuba.

And for Jerusalem: The No-Solution Solution. Let all parties be so candid as to recognize that there is no quick, easy solution to the status of this city. Jerusalem must remain Israel's capital; but eventually, old East Jerusalem, site of the holy shrines of Arabs, can be an internationally governed city.

Finally, all sides have come to recognize the can-do power of candor. In this case, they have candidly recognized that their world is now driven by a common danger -- Islamic extremism (pronounced: "TERRORISM"). That is the force that now propels the ancient enemies of the Middle East toward peace.

Because great experts are lousy expecters.

Idea goes toward reducing deficit

Idea man that I am, I have a Big One that would go a long way toward solving the national deficit problem.

Actually, it's not all that original. My idea is to combine three other ideas into one powerful concept that would almost certainly get us back in the black in a few years. The savants who thought up the three pieces of the Big Idea are:

• Carol Cox Watt and Susan Tanaka, president and vice president of the Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget. Citing President Bill Clinton's promise to conservative Democrats to come up with additional spending cuts this fall, Watt and Tanaka proposed in a USA Today article that the White House send a spending-cut package to Congress and openly challenge the lawmakers to pass it quickly. And, these sages suggested, Clinton should get down and dirty and call for cuts in Medicare benefits to rich Americans, Social Security cost-of-living adjustments, farm subsidies and much more.

My idea is to combine three other ideas into one powerful concept.

• The Charleston (W.Va.) Gazette. The paper's far-sighted editorial writers proposed last March that Congress restore its lost honor by repealing the 1989 law that granted them automatic cost-of-living adjustments in their pay.

• Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Nebr. On NBC's "Meet the Press," he said he would push this year for cuts on COLA increases for Social Security recipients and suggested they be limited to some percentage below inflation. He also said Congress ought to set an example by cutting its own pay and budget.

Now, put it all together. The president takes the initiative, challenges Congress to trim the deficit by passing painful cuts and dares them to demonstrate the seriousness of their endeavor by taking a pay cut and revoking that damnable COLA plan they bequeathed themselves four years ago.

It would be a two-for-the-price-of-one package -- reduction of the deficit and restoration of the democracy we enjoyed before it was transformed into a plutocracy.

Now there's a Big Idea. I'm not sure which part of the scheme would return the greatest benefit to the nation. The deficit and national debt, in my opinion, are life-threatening diseases that are eating away at our innards. But one of the major reasons nothing ever gets done about it, I also think, is that down deep Congress doesn't really give a damn.

Why should these nabobs care about red ink and inflation and what happens to the hol polio? In 1989, they granted themselves a 40 percent pay raise that firmly ensconced them in the nation's top income brackets. Then, to ensure they would never again have to explain their salary hikes to the people who pay for them, they set up a COLA plan that automatically jacks up their pay and their pensions every year.

In 1989, members of Congress were making $89,500 a year. In 1993, they are pulling down $133,644 -- a pay hike of $44,144, a 50 percent raise in four years. Not bad work, hey? Look at it over a longer period. In 1981, members of Congress were making $60,863 a year. In 12 years, they have enjoyed a $72,981 increase -- an incredible 120 percent pay raise, twice the rate of inflation during the same period.

This means that for most congressional candidates, getting elected is a financial blessing. The congressional salaries of 110 new House members, according to a survey by the Capitol Hill newspaper Roll Call, will average 70 percent more than the income earned in their previous jobs.

St. Johns River Water Management District, not the residents, should fight to protect the Bubble. Crabtree referred to last year's battle against a borrow pit near Cochran Road.

"Of five borrow pits proposed for the area, only one was permitted," said Crabtree. "I would like to think that was largely due to the efforts of the citizens. The public should not have to spend tens of thousands of dollars to protect their natural resources."

Task force member Tim Clabaugh asked if Geneva resident John Ariale would be willing to spend his own money add safeguards to above-ground household fuel tanks.

"I would expect something to be done to prevent the further deterioration of our water supply," said Ariale. "I guess under those circumstances, I'd be willing to."

Task force members also used Wednesday's meeting to state issues they felt were most important to protecting the Bubble or topics they felt deserved greater review.

Most members said land-use and housing densities deserved greater attention. Some said issues of Bubble recharge or replenishment should be discussed further.

Clabaugh, former Seminole County natural resources officer and now private consultant, took the strongest position Wednesday, saying all future water district consumptive use permits should be restricted or prevented in the Geneva area.

CUPs are issued by the SJRWMD for wells that pump an average of 100,000 or more gallons per day, can pump 1 mgd or have well casings six inches or greater in size, said Robert Peek, a district spokesman. Individual household wells don't require CUPs, Peek said, unless they meet the CUP criteria. Most households use 1,000 gpd or less and their wells meet that capacity, he said.

Member Ken Wright said he was still uncertain additional regulations were needed, but said he would like additional information on recharge rates.

Charles Tibbles, with the U.S. Geological Survey, told members a 1970s USGS theoretical model showed recharge rates can actually be enhanced when portions of the land are paved over or built upon and the resulting drainage directed to an efficient system. Tibbles said the increased rate would probably not affect the ground's ability to "scrub" clean contaminated water, but said no study has been done on the subject.

whether the quantity of recharge would be reduced due to paving, but added he doubted the difference would be small. Again, no study has been performed on the issue, he said.

as Pok Tok Novak, 32, from Korea. The man was Outhakaphay Thammavongay, 25, a native of Laos.

Both were identified through fingerprints.

Whitmire said the couple moved to Sanford only recently from New York City.

The badly decomposed bodies of the couple were found in the apartment Friday after nearby residents complained of the odor. Investigators believed the bodies may have been in the apartment for as long as a week.

An autopsy performed Sunday indicated the cause of death was by strangulation.

"They had only been here a short time, and seeing as how they were both Asian," Whitmire projected, "this is going to be a difficult case." He added, "There is an indication it may be related to some type of Asian gang in New York City, but we are still waiting for laboratory results to come back on some of the evidence we uncovered."

He declined to give details of the evidence but did say there were fingerprints involved.

Violence

He said the State Attorney's Office has a specialized assistance unit and specialized prosecutors to deal with domestic violence cases.

"It has always been a serious matter for us," he said. "The state has now caught up with us statutorially."

Now, more people — from neighbors to employers to medical workers to clergy to educators to all members of the criminal justice — need to join the fight against domestic violence, advocates said.

"Efforts to end domestic violence and its consequences are not having a significant impact on ending the violence," a report issued Wednesday by the Women in Prison Committee reads. "Society continues the historically rooted tendency to treat domestic violence as a family matter rather than a crime."

Commander Dennis Whitmire of the Sanford Police Department said that the incidents of domestic violence have not really increased over the last few years, rather it is the reporting live within the officially designated historic residential district.

Although the trust has prepared application forms, they call for the name and address of the applicant plus the reason. Meeks suggests people wanting to apply also add a letter of explanation to the application.

"People won't need to use the forms we have made out," he said, "but we would certainly like to receive a letter describing in as much detail as possible what work is requested, and why the applicant feels he or she is deserving of the grant."

Letters to the Sanford Historic Trust should be mailed to P.O. Box 536, Sanford, FL 32772-0536.

methods that have changed.

"Because in the past we could only arrest married couple in the domestic violence category there were lower numbers, but now we have much more leeway," he said.

Whitmire said that the number of incidents in which there are serious injuries or deaths as a result of domestic squabbles is very small in Seminole County.

"It's very rare," he said. "If we see one a year, that's a lot."

An initial version of the report by the Women in Prison Committee was released immediately after advocates for two women serving time for murder convictions asked Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet to cut short their sentences. Chiles and the Cabinet took the cases under consideration.

In Seminole County, in a facility that was donated by the county, a safe haven is being prepared for the women, and occasional men, who are abused by their spouses. The Safe House of Seminole County will care briefly for the abused and help them to find assistance and prepare for prosecution of the spouse on abuse charges.

The Safe House will open later this year at an undisclosed location.

The report Wednesday found problems at every level of the criminal justice system — and

The response of communities is a significant problem, according to Candice Slaughter, who heads up the Women in Prison Committee.

"There is a tremendous bias against battered women with the expectation that local domestic violence shelters should and deal with the impact," she told reporters.

But the shelters alone are not match for the problem, especially with their small budgets, she said.

A woman is beaten every 15 seconds in the United States and nearly a third of the women murdered were killed by husbands or boyfriends, the report said, citing the FBI.

Communities must send a message that domestic violence won't be tolerated, the report said.

Slaughter and other advocates want Gov. Lawton Chiles to set up a statewide task force to help communities develop coordinated responses to dealing with domestic violence.

Within the criminal justice system, the report cites weaknesses at every level from police to prosecutors to public defenders to judges and to law schools.

The one strength in Florida is its laws, Slaughter said.

"Legislators in this state could never be faulted for not helping domestic violence survivors and victims," she said. "They have created some of the best laws in this country. Unfortunately the problem is the people who are implementing them."

Earlier Wednesday, Chiles and the Cabinet listened to testimony in two cases involving allegations of domestic abuse but took no action.

Shalanda Burt, 22, is serving a 17-year sentence for the second-degree murder of James "Rick" Fairley in Bradenton. Dabney Ann Terhune, 32, is serving a 22-year sentence for the second-degree murder of Patrick Politz in St. Cloud. Ms. Burt's been in prison since May 1991 and Ms. Terhune since October 1990.

Various advocates and relatives for the two women argued that both were let down by the system and killed because they were terrorized by abuse. But the father of one of the murder victims traveled to Florida from out of state to speak against clemency.

He will be serving on the board until June 30, 1994, filling the remainder of the unexpired term of Dave Farr. Farr, executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, resigned from the board several months ago.

Following a brief problem in balloting which was resolved following a legal opinion, a total of six persons were voted on by city employees.

The legal opinion dealt with the relationship of a Civil Service Board member to a person presently employed by the city. Sanford Police Commander Dennis Whitmire's father serves on the five man board, and the legal opinion declared that it would not be a conflict of interest.

Sanford Personnel director, Tim McCauley, said Horn falls under a similar situation, but the Whitmire decision by the city attorney would also relate to his relationship.

Horn's nomination to the board became effective as of Aug. 25.

Surprise? Law to cut cable TV rates results in boost for many

By DIANE DUSTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — It wasn't supposed to happen this way. New cable television rates are increasing for the very people lawmakers were trying to help. The sponsor of the legislation isn't happy.

"I am particularly concerned with the reported plans of some cable operators to raise their prices for the most basic service and equipment while the rates for more expensive services are being reduced," said Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass.

"This would turn the cable act on its head," he said in a letter to the Federal Communications Commission released Wednesday that calls upon the FCC to carefully monitor those companies that are raising rates.

"This is something that was not expected," said Florence Setzer, an FCC economist. She assured that the FCC would be tinkering with its rate formulas.

The FCC is braced for complaints and is hiring more than 200 staff specifically to enforce the cable rules.

Markey's office says the FCC and cable executives will be asked to appear for a hearing before his House Energy and Commerce telecommunications subcommittee soon after Congress reconvenes next week.

"Nobody's cable bill should be going up unless they get more services," Markey said.

But in Tucson, Ariz., for example, while the bulk of CableVision customers will see a dip in their rates, the approximately 3,200 mostly senior-citizen, fixed income viewers who get basic service will pay $12.39 a month instead of the $7.95 they had been charged.

The problem is in the FCC regulations, not the law, said Markey's office.

The FCC set certain benchmark prices for cable companies, based on number of subscribers. Companies that charged more than the prescribed amount had to reduce prices by 10 percent or down to the benchmark, whichever was the lesser cut.

Companies also were ordered to reduce prices for equipment, like remote controls and converter boxes, to just over their cost.

Income from programming and equipment was considered separate, but as companies started to implement the rules this week, it became clear that high profits on remote controls, converter boxes and multiple hookups had long been used to offset lower or negligible profits on programming.

Many cable operators that were below their benchmarks pushed rates up as far as they could to cover those losses, leading Markey's office to criticize the benchmarks as too lenient.

Cox Cable in Spokane, Wash., told its customers that rates on its 48-channel standard package were going from $21.46 to $23.25 to help recoup the $3.50 installation charge the law forces it to drop.

Multimedia Cablevision in Wichita, Kan., said it would charge an extra $3 for a package of seven popular cable channels — CNN, Headline News, TNT, The Nashville Network, TBS, Family Channel and WGN — to make up the difference that used to come from profits on remote control devices and extra hookups.

Markey is advising consumers to complain to authorities if their bills for September cable service seem excessively high.

Each local government's franchising agency has authority over "basic cable" — that's over-the-air broadcast stations and government, education and public access channels.

Subscribers should write the FCC about the cost of other tiers of service and equipment. The first step is to get the proper complaint form from the commission.

The law gives consumers until Feb. 28, 1994, to file complaints about prices coming out now. In years to come, consumers will have only 45 days after any rate increase to complain.

FCC complaint forms can be obtained by writing: Federal Communications Commission, Cable Form Request 329, P.O. Box 18238, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Andy Benes (15-10) didn't allow a hit until the fifth inning and gave up only two runs in the first six innings. He tired in the seventh, allowing three more runs, as he equalled his career high for wins. He gave up five hits and three walks, while striking out four.

Ryan Bowen (8-12) gave up four runs in 1 1-3 innings before leaving with a slight sprain to his right knee. The Marlins later announced that Bowen would be examined Thursday.

Boys take jamboree seriously

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — If you walked into the Lake Brantley High School gymnasium about 8:15 p.m. Wednesday night and didn't know what was going on, you easily could have been confused.

While all that was going on was the Seminole Athletic Conference boys volleyball jamboree, the size of the crowd and intensity of play suggested the playoffs rather than the preseason.

In short, when second set of teams took the floor, the place was rocking.

That's to be expected since two of the teams — Lake Mary and Lake Howell — have been among the county's best teams since the sport began to be played at an interscholastic club level several years ago. Add in host team and Lake Mary rival Lake Brantley and you've got the makings for an interesting night.

"The way the schedule was set up, we hoped that the excitement would build through the sixth game," said Dave Duffy, who was named the Lake Brantley varsity coach earlier this week. "We knew which teams should be strong this year, which ones had players returning and which ones lost a lot of players."

What made the effort a success was the fact that the teams didn't play like they were going through a meaningless workout. Instead, they came out firing away.

"We're really fired up about the season," said Lake Mary coach Bill Whalen. "We're excited about our prospects this year and it showed tonight."

The Lake Mary Rams showed that they'll continue the skywalking, big-hitting style that has become their trademark this season, beating Lake Howell 15-8 and rallying past Lake Brantley 15-9. Lake Howell earned a split on the evening with a 15-11 decision over Lake Mary.

"I was really worried about our passing coming in here tonight," said Whalen, who will start a pair of sophomore setters, Will Lipscomb and Erik Larsen, this season. "We still need to

☐ See Boys, Page 2B

While it may have been just a preseason jamboree that means nothing in the conference standings and doesn't count on anyone's record, the Lake Mary Rams (above) were no less elated with their two wins over Lake Howell and Lake Brantley Wednesday night.

Greyhounds open season with close call

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — It wasn't the most auspicious of debuts, but it was a win.

In a rare combination of high drama and comic misfortune, the Lyman High School girls volleyball team opened its 1993 season with a 15-4, 1-15, 17-15 win over the Spruce Creek Hawks.

"It's a win," said Lyman coach Christy Tibbitts. "That's the most important thing."

The Lyman junior varsity squad also won its match, 15-3, 14-16, 15-6.

It looked like the varsity match might take less time to complete than the pre-game warmups. Carolyn Crager and Wendi Accy serving the Greyhounds out to a 6-1 lead and Lyman cruising to a 15-4 victory.

Then things began to unravel.

While Tibbitts used a different lineup to start the second game, Spruce Creek employed a different attitude. Instead of standing around and letting the Greyhounds hammer away at them, the Hawks started moving on defense and doing a little attacking of their own.

Suddenly, Spruce Creek was ahead 7-0 and Tibbitts was calling for a timeout.

"The same thing happened as last night (at the preseason jamboree)," said Tibbitts. "They lost their concentration. We fell asleep and they woke up at the same time."

With Amy Fitzgibbons controlling play at the net, Spruce Creek sprinted to a 15-1 win in the second game, scoring their 15 points on 22 service turns.

Things didn't get any better in the third game for the Greyhounds as Spruce Creek took another 7-0 lead. At one point over the three-game set, the Hawks outscored Lyman 24-4.

The Greyhounds eventually did right themselves, going on a 10-3 run that apparently tied the score at 10-10, "apparently" because the floor official mistakenly took a Lyman point off the scoreboard when the Spruce Creek assistant coach complained that the score was wrong.

That phantom point loomed large as the Greyhounds twice came to match point, 14-13 and 16-15, only to have the serve taken away on a kill by Spruce Creek's Jody Hackett.

The same official almost took the serve away from Lyman when the score was 15-14 in Spruce Creek's favor when she erroneously charged Tibbitts with an illegal substitution. Fortunately for Lyman, that situation was clarified and the Greyhounds held serve.

After Jodie Beland had served a pair of points, giving Lyman a 16-15 edge, Spruce Creek called timeout. During the break, which came with the match nearly an hour old, the Greyhounds spilled water on the court. As a result, Lyman was penalized

Anderson leads all 100 laps for Late Models

By BILL SIBBERT
Special to the Herald

BARBERVILLE — Dick Anderson paced himself for the entire 100 laps Saturday night at Volusia County Speedway to take the $2,500 first prize that went with winning the third leg of the 1993 VCS Late Model Championship Series.

Anderson, from Wildwood, ran in front from the time the green flag dropped until he took the checkered flag. While he did go wire-to-wire, Anderson was challenged by Longwood's Pete Orr throughout the race but was able to hold on to the lead.

Rounding out the top five finishers behind Anderson and Orr were Mario Gosselin, Mike Garvey, and Mike Fritz.

"There were four or five good cars here tonight, so I needed to take it easy," Anderson said from the winner's circle. "I know when you are leading, you're supposed to take it a little easy, but I like racing."

Gosselin, from Lake Wales, ended up being the big winner on the night in the series points standings since Saturday's race was the first for both Anderson and Orr in the five-race series.

The same held true for Garvey and Fritz, sitting in the seat for an absent Daniel Keene. After the first two races, Keene was second in the points standings behind Gosselin. Orlando's David Rogers, who was third in the points standings, finished seventh in Saturday's race behind Guy Thomas.

Gosselin is far from home free. Anderson has some ideas about putting on some pressure in the last two races of the series, scheduled for Saturday night racing on Oct. 23 and Dec. 4.

"I always like coming over here," Anderson said, praising the Volusia County Speedway half-mile asphalt oval. "I ought to do it more often."

Anderson also had a special reason for taking the checkered flag Saturday night.

"It's my wife's birthday," said Anderson. "I'd like to wish her a happy birthday. This might make it a little better for her."

How to treat a chronic vein disorder

MEDICINE
PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've had phlebitis for many years and would like your opinion on what can be done to help the problem. I also have a major foot problem, so walking is out for exercise. I wear elastic stockings but am looking for additional help.

DEAR READER: Don't do it. From the additional information you supply, I see that the capsules contain willow bark and kelp; the tea is merely a peppermint/rosehip herbal beverage. Such ingredients will not help you to lose weight -- and will certainly not keep the weight off, even if you did lose.

DEAR READER: Phlebitis (inflammation of the lining of a vein) is often associated with thrombosis (a blood clot at the site of inflammation). Thrombophlebitis is a potentially serious disorder if it occurs in the veins deep in the legs, because pieces of clot can break off and be carried in the bloodstream to the lungs, where they may cause extensive tissue damage, even death. Therefore, deep venous thrombophlebitis usually requires hospitalization and the use of intravenous anti-coagulating drugs.

On the other hand, superficial thrombophlebitis (disease of the veins just under the skin) is less serious. It causes reddened, tender veins but almost never affects the lungs and can be treated by anti-inflammatory drugs, such as Motrin.

Thus, to answer your question, I'd have to know the location of your vein problem. If the examining physician discovers that it's deep, you'll need aggressive therapy; if it's superficial, pills will do.

Judging from your brief comments, you have had phlebitis (with or without thrombosis) for several years. In addition to the suggestions I made above, you may need surgery to remove or close the affected veins.

You should seek help from your family physician, who can coordinate the tests you need (such as X-rays of the veins) and call on specialists if appropriate.

DEAR DR. GOTT: There's a new diet fad in our area. You buy capsules and tea from a dealer, taking one capsule 20 minutes before each meal and a cup of tea each evening. Your opinion, please.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

There are times when there is only one card that should be played in a given position. The fewer the cards, the easier the play should be to find. But on today's deal, the only-one-card moment arrived at trick three. And by making the winning play, Tor Helness from Norway was awarded the prize for the best-defended hand at this year's General European Championships.

Against three no-trump, Helness led a low spade. East, Geir Helgemo, won with the ace and returned the spade eight to West's king. Now Helness meditated for a while before producing what was claimed to be "the only card to defeat the contract," the heart 10.

Note that a low heart blocks the suit; declarer just plays low from the dummy and wins the trick. But the lead of the heart 10 leaves East free to run the suit.

A good play, but there are two problems. The first is that the declarer can still make his contract -- if he places East with the club king. After winning with the heart ace, South cashes his spade and diamond winners, bringing everyone down to four cards. The dummy has the J-6 of hearts and the A-Q of clubs. But what does East keep? If three hearts and one club, a club to the ace fells the king. And if East retains two hearts and two clubs, a heart exit endplays East to lead into dummy's club tenace. Declarer's ruse tricks are two spades, one heart, four diamonds and two clubs.

Hjordis Eythorsdottir, who was playing for the Icelandic women's team, found this lead at trick one. This really defeats the contract. Why wasn't she given half the award?

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Oso
YOUR BIRTHDAY
 Sept. 3, 1993

The bread you cast on the waters in hopes of helping others could come back to you many fold in the year ahead. Observers who have your best interests at heart will be watching from the winds.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't leave the management of something which could cost you money in the hands of an incompetent associate. If you're indifferent about this matter, you might have to pay the piper. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N. Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There could be more strain than usual in a valued relationship today. For personal reasons each party might be more protective than cooperative.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Having a good attitude is very important where your work is concerned today. The end results of assignments or tasks you resent doing will reflect your malice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Relax and enjoy yourself socially today, but don't try to be the center of attention or the principle object of the spotlight. Give your friends a chance to hotdog it a bit too.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If things go right today you're likely to be the first one who takes the bows. Conversely, if things go wrong you might look for someone to blame it on.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today when in a discussion with an achiever you might feel inclined to embellish the things you've done recently. Unfortunately, it could produce the opposite impression you hope to make.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today try not to be neither stingy nor foolish with your possessions or resources. You might have to say "no", instead of lending something to a poor risk.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A partnership arrangement in which you're presently involved is beginning to lack parity where your position is concerned. If it becomes one-sided it will be valueless.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An endeavor that has been rather lucky for you recently looks like it might lose some of its charisma and begin to promise more than it can develop. Be watchful.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) More tolerance and understanding than usual might be required when dealing with your friends today. If you start searching for their faults, yours will be more closely examined.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Taking charge of situations that are beginning to founder is an admirable quality, but today you might carry it to extremes instead of leading by example.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your views won't go unchallenged today if you begin to dissect the opinions of associates. Debates should be avoided, because they might get more heated than intended.
