SATURDAY, FEB. 17, 1934

As we understand it, the French want America to swallow their defeat with good grace, and use their wiles for a chaser.

One of the beauties of the present European situation is the difficulty which the principal participants are having in choosing sides.

Wuzy Long is determined, it seems to divide up the wealth that would be all right with us the old boy would divide up the debts at the same time.

There are many more marriages than divorces—headline. Nothing like providing an uninterrupted supply of raw material for one's chief industry.

Sometimes we feel that the WPA money is being wasted when we think of all the money that was lent to Europe.

According to a Soviet newspaper, there were 1,300,000,000 books published in Russia in 1932. And no doubt, some of them were read.

Should military training be compulsory? asks the Literary Digest. Well, if we keep on leading money to Russia and getting mixed up in European "conferences," conscription will be anyway.

One of our leading American educators is trying to discourage young men from going to college. After all, why spend money to get a college to make a fool out of you when any platinum blonde will do it for nothing?

In July of next summer will come the twentieth anniversary of the beginning of the last World War. That is not quite a generation. But those who fought in the last war, and survived, are for the most part too old to go again, and the men who will be drafted this time are the youngsters who stood on the street corners and cheered the troops as they marched by.

President Roosevelt regrets that the $200,000,000 cross-stitch ship canal cannot be built at this time. The undertaking apparently is not economically feasible. We had always doubted that enough ships would ever use the canal to pay interest on the debt, but we had hoped it might be built just to give employment to Florida labor which is likely to have a pretty tough time of it for the next year or two if something of this kind doesn't develop.

Some New York gentlemen, who were known as Col. Lindbergh of conduct unbecoming in office, and a gentleman and a lady, said his committee in the reserve corps be revoked on account of the letter which he wrote to the President objecting to the cancellation of the air contracts.

No More Gambling

The efforts of the Roosevelt Administration to restrict speculation among the people are to be seen on every hand. The Securities Act and the Banking Act which were passed last year as one of their paramount features would place a curb on gambling, while the Stock Exchange Act which is now in the process of becoming law is a final gesture toward that greatly desired goal which would see an end to all speculation.

Early this week Professor George Warren, who has been the President's chief monetary adviser during the past few months, devoted the major portion of his address at the Annual Farm and Home Week at Cornell University to the risks involved in speculation by farmers. He could find no place for farmers either among the gamblers who throw dice or among the "more educated speculators" who buy stocks on margins.

Elsewhere Miss Frances Perkins, head of the Department of Labor, was calling for a halt on speculation. "Now is the time," she says, "for the manufacturer, the merchant, and all employers of labor to devote themselves to the sound and careful development of their particular business, and not be fooled by the delusion of easy money.

There is not the slightest question that Professor Warren and Miss Perkins are right and we are glad to see the government doing everything in its power to restrict speculation. The gambling instinct, however, is primeval and comes down through the ages from the time when the Neanderthal man took his club and went lion hunting.

Another news item of this week tells of the release from prison of one of the "financial wizards" of the past decade. Doing a modest brokerage business in Boston in 1920 he suddenly gained the headlines of all the newspapers in the country when he launched his tremendous get-rich-quick scheme which promised "50 percent interest in 45 days."

Almost anyone knows, or should know, when he expects a return of "50 percent in 45 days," that he is gambling. Many people did not know when they bought Peruvian bonds, because they paid 9 percent interest, that they too were gambling.

Betty Thornley Stuart, fashion editor of Collier's Weekly, who predicted the popularity of the "bally pants" style when it was no more than a cloud on the horizon four or five years ago, today issued an advance "guide" for those who are already preparing their summer wardrobes.

Information as to receipt of the warrants was given by Lindbergh several weeks ago in answers to a questionnaire the committee sent to all persons prominent in the aviation industry.

"Shorts"

Betty Thornley Stuart, fashion editor of Collier's Weekly, who predicted the popularity of the "bally pants" style when it was no more than a cloud on the horizon four or five years ago, today issued an advance "guide" for those who are already preparing their summer wardrobes.

Among men, Miss Stuart cites as congenial to shorts for all-round summer wear; the following: Eddie Cahor, Lawrence Tibbett, Jimmy Durante, Walter Lippmann, General W. W. Atterbury, George Gershwin, the Earl of Warwick, Harpo Marx, Charles Laughton, Prof. Piccard, Johnny Weismuller and others.

THE AIR MAIL CONTRACTS

By HARRIS WILSON

The amount of regret about the method as distinguished from the substance of President Roosevelt's cancellation of airmail contracts is much greater than appears in the press. A common anticipation is that there will be some retreat from it, justified in the form of modified contracts with several of the companies.

The facts appear to be that there are some thirty-four contracts and that evidence of improper practices appeared in a very small number of them. As to the others there has not yet been, so far as the public knows, even a suspicion of impropriety.

Under these circumstances, the whole cancellation of all airmail contracts is a dramatic thing. When a country has personal government to the extent that now exists at Washington, the personal "zests" of the head of state become as important as party principles or platforms are during periods of normal government.

FOREIGN AIR MAIL PACTS UNDER PROBE

Lehman and other distinguished Democrats, have a monopoly of the foreign airmail service. Heartened by the refusal of Federal Judge Knox at New York to restrain the postoffice department from proceeding with its general cancellation order, the Administration proceeded with its study of a new legislative policy toward federal aid for aviation, trending strongly toward direct federal bounty to the industry rather than continuation of the space-subsidy plan.

Members of a Senate airmail investigating committee said today that they are inquiring into gift of Pan-American Airways stock option warrants to Charles A. Lindbergh.

Information as to receipt of the warrants was given by Lindbergh several weeks ago in answers to a questionnaire the committee sent to all persons prominent in the aviation industry.

CHULUOTA

The Parent-Teacher Association observed Founder's Day at their meeting Monday night with a beautiful program and candle lighting which told the story of the ideals, principles and growth of the organization since its founding in Washington, D. C. 27 years ago.

The Rev. E. I. Allen has purchased the house, Alma May, from Captain Tullis and will operate the Sanford-Enterprise ferry, making some changes in his schedule to meet the trains in and from the East Coast.

A clipping from the Orlando Sentinel reads: "Mrs. C. J. Tullis, wife of Sanford in among the visitors to the fair. Her husband was the first man to grow sugar in the Sanford district and was one of the first to use the sub-irrigation, which has since become so well known and is considered necessary to the successful production of sugar."

Roosevelt Seeks Lift Of Capital Money Bans

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt is seeking ways to lift capital money restrictions he believes are hampering many business lines.

One plan of being developed by Governor Black of the federal reserve board after conferences with the President would set up intermediate banks to specialize in capital financing of loans that probably would run up to five years.

"That is an example of loyalty to an ideal. Socialists were fighting, but only for their political freedom. During the World War man's conscience became duller from fighting, hunger and cold—but not these socialist republican guards."

"After all this, it will have a big influence. The scale will become more powerful. There is a terrible amount of unrest among the people who must work for a living."

Reminded that Dullfus was preparing a speech for Feb. 18, Deutch was asked if he had any thing in particular to say in criticism in North and South America.

"I ask only that Americans whose most cherished possession is freedom, understand that the Austrian workman wants nothing more than to live and to have peace and freedom."

"I want America to understand that we fought for these principles and for our right to live the honorable way."

Evangelist Will Talk On Satan, His Nature

"Satan—Is He Real? How Did He Get Here? What Does He Look Like?" will be the subject of the popular Bible lecture by Evangelist Louis K. Dickson, of New York City, tomorrow night in the Woman's Club Hall of this city.

Mr. Dickson will give the origin and destiny of His Majesty the Devil as revealed by the Bible writers. He will tell whether Satan will continue long in his nefarious work of tempting and destroying the souls of men.

In speaking of the theme for his Sunday night sermon the Evangelist said: "The personality of Satan has been assumed many times by Bible critics and enemies and there has grown up a grave question in the minds of men everywhere, as to the reality of the Deceiver. The Bible has not left us in darkness upon this vitally important matter and in the service tomorrow I will point out from the Bible whether or not God created this Prince of Hell or not and if not who is responsible for his existence."

Miss Perkins Endorses 30-Hour Week Plan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—(AP)—Endorsement of the 30-hour week as an expression of public policy was recommended to Congress yesterday by Secretary Frances Perkins, but she firmly opposed the actual imposition of such an arbitrary limit upon industry until there has been ample opportunity to see how it will work out.

For nearly three hours the labor secretary sat at one end of the House Labor Committee table and presented her views on why the workers' hours should be shortened, their wages kept up in the meantime and a law enacted to provide them insurance compensation when they are out of work. She also suggested that Congress adopt a resolution emphasizing the feeling that the NRA codes had not yet reduced labor hours enough.

Investment Bankers Propose Code Of Own

CHICAGO, Feb. 17—(AP)—The Investment Bankers Association of America yesterday proposed a code for stock and bond dealers which would set up "courts" where unfortunate investors could air their grievances.

The association in a prepared statement described the proposed rules as "stringent" and intended as additional safeguards for investors to those in the federal securities law. Checks would be put on the high pressure stock salesman, the association said, and "preferred lists"—of customers who can buy below the price to the general public—would be banned.

Roper Defends Use Of Federal Powers In Aiding Business

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—(AP)—Secretary Roper of the commerce department said last night the Administration does not intend to increase federal control of business to the extent of eliminating profits and submerging initiative.

"The far-reaching implications of our economic debacle required that the greater peace time power and authority in our nation's history be placed on the hands of the President and the federal government," said Roper in an address at the town hall civic forum.

"In this and other connections the question has been and will continue to be asked as to whether the federal government under the Administration plans or proposes to increase permanently bureaucracy and federal control of business to the extent of destroying our economic system by eliminating profits in business, and thus submerging and imprisoning human initiative.

"Certainly no one with the proper knowledge of conditions can interpret in the recovery program such an intention or objective on the part of the present Administration."

The recovery program, Roper said, has impressed business and industry with the imperative necessity of a greater public responsibility.

Roosevelt Advisor Sees Nation Again On Prosperity Path

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 17—(AP)—A "better feeling on farms," a "greatly improved condition of banks and life insurance companies" and "solid ground for expecting each year to show a distinct improvement" toward recovery, are seen by Dr. George F. Warren, financial advisor to President Roosevelt.

Addressing hundreds of farmers here for Cornell university's annual farm and home week ceremonies, the Cornell economist also expressed hope "that provision will be made for an improved monetary system for the future" and cautioned that "any absolute tie to a given weight of gold is likely to continue to cause violent fluctuations in commodity prices. His experiences show how successfully and automatically one commodity dollar operates."

The better feeling on farms was seen as "quite as much due to the hope for a future rise in prices as to the rise that has occurred." He also emphasized that "the stage of recovery it is desirable to place primary emphasis on volume of this city. They have also shipped a carload of cabbage and manufactured goods "delayed as long as possible."

CHICAGO, Feb. 17—(AP)—The Investment Bankers Association of America yesterday proposed a code for stock and bond dealers which would set up "courts" where unfortunate investors could air their grievances.

The association in a prepared statement described the proposed rules as "stringent" and intended as additional safeguards for investors to those in the federal securities law. Checks would be put on the high pressure stock salesman, the association said, and "preferred lists"—of customers who can buy below the price to the general public—would be banned.

Drunk Driver Gets 30 Years For Slaying

MIAMI, Feb. 17—(AP)—A 30-year sentence was meted out yesterday to Raymond Powell, glass cutter, on his plea of guilty to manslaughter charges in the death of two small boys struck by his truck recently.

Criminal Judge E. C. Collins told Powell that "I regard the drunken driver as a menace and they will be dealt with as dangerous to the public welfare."

Witnesses at a coroner's inquest into the death of Marshall B. Norton, 7, and his brother, Harry, 1, testified the truck, after striking the boys, continued. A passing motorist gave chase and apprehended Powell.
