SCC Raiders squeeze past Johnson Co.

Clutch free throw shooting in the final minute spelled the difference as the Seminole Community College women's basketball team edged Johnson County Community College from Kansas, 67-64, Thursday night.

Injured police officer at home resting foot

Longwood motorcycle police officer Trafton Patrick nearly lost his life last week when he was patrolling U.S. Highway 17-92.

The Sanford resident was side swiped by a vehicle making an illegal U-turn when he was in pursuit of a speeder on U.S. Highway 17-92 near Dog Track Road.

Travelling at speeds estimated to be about 78 mph, Trafton was riding his Longwood police motorcycle with his emergency lights activated.

According to Longwood Police Chief Tommy Jackson, the vehicle made a U-turn to the far right-hand lane and then moved to the center lane as the driver realized he had cut-off another driver. The sudden move by the driver gave six-year Longwood police veteran Patrick little time to react.

"It's the cost of the business as they sometimes say," Jackson said. "If you're going to catch a speeder, you have to speed to catch him."

He suffered several skin abrasions and severely injured foot.

"As far as the injury, he was very fortunate," Jackson said.

Patrick was released from the hospital last Saturday and is resting at his Sanford home. He is expected to be out for five weeks, and it may be three months until he patrols aboard a motorcycle again.

State will help close adult arcade loophole

By Christopher Patton

SANFORD — Adult arcades have attracted the attention of Tallahassee officials including a state senator who promises to take action during the upcoming legislative session.

Since August, municipalities in Seminole County have fought to keep out the "mini-casinos" after several of the establishments popped up in Volusia County.

Senator Lee Constantine (R-Allamonte Springs) vowed Monday at the annual Seminole County Legislative Delegation public meeting to take the problem local governments have been wrestling with to Tallahassee.

"I've been reading about this in newspapers, and I think everyone of us understand the difficulty in this," he said. "I think we need to also think how we can restrict this if this is how they're getting the camel's nose in the tent."

Area municipalities started taking notice of the businesses when Sanford commissioners approved an emergency moratorium Aug. 29 for all amusement-related businesses to block a proposed arcade at 207 Magnolia Ave., next to the Helen Stairs Theatre in the city's historic downtown. Seminole County, Longwood, Lake Mary and Casselberry joined Sanford in placing a moratorium on the businesses.

Last month, Sanford was the first city to move beyond the temporary ban as city leaders approved an ordinance to regulate adult

"When they opened the first box they all said 'Wow!' Then dove in and got what they wanted. I told them there is a lot more coming this way. The medic told everybody to eat the dried cranberries that were in the box because it will help prevent urinary infections. The dried fruit was popular with everyone. The lotions were another popular item. They keep looking for the other boxes to come in and SFC Goldberg will help manage the incoming boxes for the platoon and any excess will be distributed to the rest of the company.

SANFORD — The cold case homicide squad is at it again.

Earlier this month, the police unit, which is a partnership between Sanford police and the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) to solve old murder cases, canvassed West 13th Street passing out leaflets about the Dec. 17, 2002, murder of Michael Edward Walker.

In addition to the fliers, police also erected a sign near the crime scene that bears Walker's photograph and encourages anyone with information about the murder to call CrimeLine at 1-800-423-TIPS for a possible $4,000 reward.

"We got some very good leads with that," said Sgt. Chris Collison, who is in charge of the cold case squad. "This is

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Smooth operator: If anybody tells you Police Chief Brian Tooley is not a good politician, don't believe them.

Though the chief's position is considered a nonpolitical job, it's anything but. There are four commissioners, the mayor and the city manager to please, not to mention residents who want more services and officers who want more benefits. Then of course, there's the press always waiting to pounce on the latest tragedy. It's a balancing act for sure, and Tooley handles it like the seasoned professional he is.

Just how smooth is the chief? Consider last week's Around The Clock column. After revealing that Tooley finished dead last out of about 20 competitors in a clay pigeon shooting contest, the chief invited me to eat ribs with the department Friday afternoon. And he suspiciously pulled my name out of the hat for a door prize. Shoot, if I had known I'd get ribs and gifts for poking fun at the chief's shotgun skills, I'd have done it a long time ago.

Think I'll get any theater tickets for the column two weeks ago?

Eating machine: Sanford City Manager Al Grieshaber is well on his way to earning an honorary press card.

Around the Clock

by Dan Ping

The joke is if you want the media to show up at your press conference provide free food. If you want to fill the room, provide free beer. The colonel isn't much of a beer drinker, but he's never far from the food table. On Friday he not only sampled the ribs at the police department, he tasted the pastries at the official opening of the new farmers' market a couple of hours earlier. Asked about his eating prowess, Grieshaber said he was training to join me and real estate maven Tom Ball as a member of the "Buffet Boys."

Housekeeping: Here are a couple of tidbits that have been sitting in the "In" basket:
• The winning float/groups for the Sanford Christmas Parade are: Seminole County Government Road/Storm Water; Seminole High School Band/Dazzlers/Expressions; Bentley Elementary School; Sanford Woman's Club
• Winners in Sanford Historic Trusts door decorating contest included: First Place, 313 Palmetto Ave. — Bob & Linda Kuhn; Second Place, 618 Elm Ave. — Matt & Marta Pringle; Third Place, 808 Magnolia Ave. — Jim & Marion Irish.

New in town: Local entrepreneurs continue to show faith in the Sanford economy. Two new businesses, a bakery and a bar, have opened during the holiday season.
Bruno's Gourmet Kitchen at 2533 Laurel Ave. offers delicious pastries and baked goods. The store is a bit hidden (it's behind Church's Chicken on U.S. Highway 17-92) but it's well worth finding. The bakery, which just last month opened to the public, provides desserts for a number of restaurants in the region.
The Emerald Hen opened Friday night, with what owner Heather Moore called a "soft opening." Located next to the Red Room Lounge in the 100 block of South Park Avenue, The Emerald Hen is billing itself as an "authentic" Irish pub with plenty of Guinness and Harp beer on tap. Best of luck, two both proprietors.

Light it up: Though some readers would swear I'm grumpy all the time, I'm not. To prove it, I'd like to thank the city of Sanford for their outstanding lighting display in downtown. Tom George and his employees in public works, as well as employees from parks and recreation, utilities and facilities maintenance have done a great job in providing some Christmas spirit downtown.
The merchants downtown also have done a fabulous job. Their cooperation with the city, as well as the efforts in their own establishments, have made Sanford's Christmas display one of the best in Central Florida.

For sale: Want shot at writing The Clock? I'm auctioning off the column to the highest bidder, with all the money going to the Sanford Chamber of Commerce for the annual Mardi Gras celebration. Here's your chance to get behind The Clock and express your opinion, uncover some scandal or just talk about your neighbors (within reason).
Who's eligible? Everyone, including the Divas. What can you write about? Pretty much anything you want. Any column must be vetted by our corporate office, but that's just to cover the legal bases.

I run into oodles of people who say they'd love to be able to put something in Around The Clock (usually these people have had a couple of beers). This is your opportunity. I auctioned the column off last summer during the Historic Trusts' reverse auction and Barry Troutman outbid everyone.
The bidding will start at $50. If you're interested e-mail me at TheClock@seminoleherald.com. You must include a phone number. You may also leave a voice mail message for me at 407-314-0379. Deadline is Jan. 16.
As a side note, no anonymous bids will be accepted and your picture and name will be included with the column. If you're going to exercise your First Amendment rights of Free Speech, don't hide behind anonymity.

Loaded with Lemons

When it comes to growing lemons, Willie Laura Cochran, of 905 S. Orange Ave. in Sanford, has a great growing system. When asked how she grows such good fruit she says, "God does the growing. I just put leaves around the trees." In addition to citrus fruit, she grows fresh greens and other fruits and vegetables.

Arcade

arcades. Similar to the city's ordinance on adult entertainment establishments, the new law restricts the arcades to certain areas in the city and the businesses are required to meet rigid standards, such as distance from schools and churches.

Winter Springs could be the next city to pass a similar measure as Sanford. Commissioners directed the city attorney to draft an ordinance that regulates adult arcades for their first meeting in 2004.

"It's a proactive approach rather than a reactive approach," said Anthony Garganese, Winter Springs city attorney.

Despite the controversy the adult arcades have stirred in Seminole County, operators of the casino-like establishments contend their businesses are legal for several reasons. While state law prohibits gambling, Florida statute 849.161 created an exemption for popular child-oriented arcades such as Chuck E. Cheese. The "Chuck E. Cheese" statute allows an amusement center to operate games of skill by means of the insertion of a coin, and it allows persons playing the game to receive prizes not exceeding a $.75 value.

"No one thought at that time that the exception would be applied to gambling," Casselberry Mayor Bruce Provonost told the Seminole Legislative Delegation. "Our recommendation is make a change to the law for adult arcades using this loophole."

The adult arcades use this exemption to their advantage as their gaming machines, which resemble slot machines, pay off in tickets that can be redeemed for gift cards, coupons and other prizes, and allegedly require skill — not chance — to win.

"They (arcade owners) claim the fact that a player must push a button, sometimes labeled with the word "skill," to stop the spinning reels or images," Garganese wrote in a letter to the Winter Springs commission. "It is claimed if a player plays enough, concentrates enough, and has fast enough reflexes, the player will be able to stop the reels."

Law enforcement agencies in Volusia County raided six adult arcades Nov. 7 and through months of investigations determined the gaming machines were programmed to win and lose a certain number of times; therefore destroying the concept of skill.

City of Longwood leaders recently said they wanted to try to ban adult arcades from the city altogether rather than regulate them. If they chose to regulate adult arcades and one found its way into the city, Longwood officials argued its police force would then be tied up — similar to those in Volusia — investigating the businesses, which would cost money and valuable police officer time.

Provonost said approaching the state leaders representing Seminole County was the city of Casselberry's idea of taking a proactive approach to something that "probably could become a real big issue."

"The obvious question is should we regulate something that is not legal," he opined. "By passing a law that is questionably legal are you saying it is OK?"

The state legislature does not convene for session until the first week of March so Constantine has simple advice for local governments battling adult arcades: "Put in ordinances that will restrict them and ban them at the least," he said.

"Hearing this today, it's clear the people of Florida have spoken that this clearly is a way to get around the anti-casino law."

'Tis the season

Holiday traditions have changed but the purpose is the same

Visions of sugar plums dancing in my head? I think not. I've never tasted sugar plums but probably wouldn't care for them anyway. So why would visions of them be in my head? And I've never tried to roast chestnuts on an open fire. I hear that's dangerous. They explode.

Nick Pfeifauf

Hanging stockings on the chimney with care? I use thumbtacks.

As for mama in her kerchief and I in my cap, no comments. Who wears a cap to bed these days. (If I did, it would say "Go Bucs.")

While I know it is recommended that chimneys be cleaned out professionally at least once a year, mine hasn't been cleaned in a decade. I can just imagine how dirty Santa would look coming down my chimney. That's why I leave the porch light on. Anyway, the roof on my house is relatively steep and landing a sleigh and eight tiny reindeer on it would be risky business to say the least.

While my first name is Nicholas, I'm, by no means, a Saint, and I wasn't named after him. (I was named after an uncle). But several centuries ago, in a European town called San Nicolas Mere, there was an elderly gentleman who went around on Christmas giving gifts to the poor. Mere means City, and San means Saint. Put them together and it means city of St. Nicholas. Putting the words together even more, it results in Santa Claus. While gift giving started in the manger in Bethlehem, the distribution of gifts by an old man at Christmas time, possibly started in San Nicolas Mere.

How do I know this? A relative of mine went to Hungary and Austria and researched our family tree. She discovered that somewhere down the line, either my grandparents or great-grandparents, lived in San Nicolas Mere. Whether my uncle was named in keeping with this locale, I do not know.

I remember as a child, I was ordered to bed at 7 or 8 p.m. on Christmas Eve. Naturally, I couldn't sleep. Unbeknown to me, the family then brought out gifts and put them under the tree. Then they woke me up — generally around 10 o'clock, and I came down stairs to find all those goodies, and tore into unwrapping all of them. The next day, Christmas Day, was strictly religious. It was church services — generally for one to two hours in the morning, then the family met for Christmas dinner and returned to church for nighttime services.

These days, it's all on Christmas Day, starting with church in the morning, gift exchanging shortly before noon, and the family together after that. Regardless of how the family tradition changes, it's still a joyous occasion. Here in Florida, if it's cool, there will be a fire in the fireplace (but no chestnuts). The stockings will NOT be hung on the fireplace — that's a fire hazard. And contrary to the use of candles on the tree when I was small, it'll all be electric lights, well checked before lighting — in keeping with warnings issued by our fire departments.

Even though I will be observing a great holiday, it will still be a day for me, and most of us, to reflect on the rest of the people and the rest of the world. Even though we may wish for Peace on Earth and Goodwill toward men, we, as individuals, cannot bring about total peace, and there will always be others where goodwill simply cannot be extended or shared. There are many poor folks who may get nothing this Christmas — and many folks who won't be in the company of other members of the family or friends. Perhaps in thinking about this, we can make a pledge, a week in advance, for a New Years Resolution, to do more in this coming year. To be better to our fellow men (and women, of course), and to do more to help others who may not be blessed with what we personally can enjoy.

But for now, from me personally, as well as from all of my co-workers at The Seminole Herald, a wish for a Merry Christmas, and to all, a good night. (Now, where's my Buc's cap?)

Full accountability critical to school choice programs

To the editor:

Four years ago, the governor and Florida Legislature took bold steps to improve education by increasing standards and offering educational alternatives for children trapped in failing schools.

As the state's education commissioner at that time, I fully supported these new initiatives and helped implement them. I continue to strongly support these public policy changes and believe the results speak for themselves — we've seen the number of "A" schools grow five-fold and witnessed a 10 percent increase in the number of fourth graders reading on grade level.

Since that time, state lawmakers have approved other innovative educational programs, including the McKay Scholarship program, which gives disabled students the option to attend private schools, and the Corporate Tax Credit Scholarship program, which provides tax credits to businesses that fund scholarships for low-income students to attend private schools.

These vital programs now serve an estimated 24,000 children in Florida, with the option to serve thousands more. I say "vital" because these programs empower parents to pursue high-quality educational opportunities that were, at one time, not available to their children.

In January of this year, I was sworn in as the state's chief financial officer. With this position comes the responsibility for keeping track of a $53 billion state budget and ensuring that taxpayer dollars are accounted for and spent wisely.

Audits are one method for ensuring good stewardship of public dollars. Thousands of audits have been conducted by our office over the last year, including audits of Florida's school choice programs.

Two reports on the audits of school choice programs were released last week and offer solid recommendations to both the department of education and state lawmakers that will help enhance the fiscal integrity and strengthen the management of the programs. In fact, many of the recommended changes are already underway at the department of education.

Much has been written in the last week that calls Florida's school choice programs into question.

Let me be clear. Oversight of these programs, not the programs themselves, is what our audit found to be lacking. And the lack of oversight has put the success of our state's school choice programs at risk.

I firmly believe that just as we hold Florida's students to high standards, we must also hold government to the same standards.

With proper safeguards, accountability measures and strong oversight in place, these programs will operate effectively and continue to offer thousands of children the educational opportunities they so richly deserve.

Former city leader applauds Sanford's Christmas lights

To the editor:

I must take this time to thank the Sanford city manager, the city commission, Tom George and all of the Sanford city employees — including those from facilities maintenance, utilities and parks and recreation — who worked on the downtown Christmas lights. Also I would like to thank Linda Kuhn, Kim House, Debbie Grieshaber, Liz Grieshaber and all of the other citizens who volunteered their time. In addition, the downtown merchants should be commended for their hard work and cooperation. Without their help, this project could not have been accomplished.

The lights and downtown area have never looked better. What a wonderful display of Christmas spirit. Everyone involved did a great job. The nicest part of it all is that the controversy about the Christmas lights is finally over.

Thank you for your hard work and dedication.

City mayor, police chief donate two bicycles to family

To the editor:

I would like to thank Sanford Police Chief Brian Tooley and Mayor Brady Lessard for helping to make my two children's holiday a little brighter than expected.

I was speaking with Mayor Lessard last week and informed him that both of my children's bicycles had been stolen and that my kids really missed being able to ride around the neighborhood with their friends. Mayor Lessard said that he would see what he could do to get the bicycles replaced and told me he would get back with me after he talked with Chief Tooley.

Shortly thereafter, I received a phone call from Mayor Lessard informing me that they had found a couple bikes that were not being used and that my kids could have the bikes to replace the ones that had been stolen. This was the greatest Christmas present that my children could have expected and I want to express my heartfelt thanks to Mayor Lessard and Chief Tooley for going the extra mile to help make my children's Christmas season so special.

Read Kipling to understand Afghanistan or Iraq

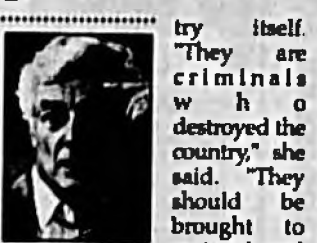

"They're a mixed lot, and it won't help us to know the names of their tribes. The more tribes the more they'll fight, and the better for us."

The quote relates to Afghanistan a hundred years ago — and today. It is from Rudyard Kipling's short story, "The Man Who Would Be King." Two vagabond British soldiers, Daniel Dravot and Peachey Carnehan, decide that with an abundance of the best in Western technology, 20 Martini rifles, they can take over a land Kipling calls "Kafiristan" — "land of the nonbelievers."

The place actually existed, still does, though Kipling never got to the land of infidels, high up the slopes of the Hindu Kush, now the border between Pakistan and Afghanistan. In the story, Dravot does become king, and Carnehan the commander of an army, before their arrogance and their ignorance of the tribes leads inevitably to horrible climax.

If you do not have the time to read Kipling and ponder the mysteries of what happens when West meets East, check the news most any day from Afghanistan or, to a lesser degree, from Iraq. The most revealing story last week — even as we celebrated the capture of the evil one in Iraq — was about a 25-year-old Afghan woman named Malalai Joya.

Ms. Joya, one of 502 delegates to the national assembly debating over an Afghan constitution, rose to talk of the treatment of women in her country and of the creeping dominance of drug-dealing tribal warlords over the assembly and the court-try itself. "They are criminals who destroyed the country," she said. "They should be brought to national and international justice. If our people forgive them, history will not."

These things are almost never said in Afghanistan, which is and has always been hardly a country by any world standards, and they are certainly not said by women, who rarely are allowed to speak in public or think in private. The official history is that the warlords are mujahideen, warriors of God who fought and defeated the last outsiders who would be kings, the soldiers of the old Soviet Union.

As pandemonium broke out, the chairman of the assembly, Sebahatullah Mojeddidi, a mujahideen leader, had her removed from the hall. Asked why, he said: "We wanted to take her out for the good of herself. Who can stand against mujahideen to defend her? ... You know mujahideen when they get angry at these things. They don't care about anyone."

I did, indeed, know some of them in the old days, before they drove out the Soviets (with significant American help) and then, in turn, were defeated, or dispersed, by the Taliban. Then came the Americans. We still think we control the old kingdom, but we do not. Our guy, Hamid Karzai, and the assembly, too, are living on borrowed time. So is Ms. Joya, who was shouted down as a "Communist!" and will almost certainly be killed or exiled.

It is impossible to exaggerate the male dominance that is at the core of everything in that part of the world. Talking to mujahideen during the 1980s, it was clear to me that these incredibly brave and stoic throwbacks to medieval mores saw no difference between Soviets and Americans. We all looked alike to them — "red-faced monkeys," they called us — and we both intended to see women educated. That, educating women, not communism or the Soviet occupation in Kabul, was why the tribes went to the mountains and war.

A woman I met years ago, Fatima Gailani, whose ambition then was to one day sit in an Afghan parliament, tried to comfort Ms. Joya as she was attacked from the stage and menaced by delegates around her. "Till when should we keep quiet?" asked Ms. Joya. Ms. Gailani, from another generation of outraged women, answered: "Till we are strong, till the country is strong, till our democracy is strong, till women's situation in this country is strong. Then we open our mouths."

I do not expect to see that day in Afghanistan. On a very fundamental level, Afghanistan is no different now than it was when a British newspaper editor in India (Kipling himself) told Dravot and Carnehan: "You are two fools. You will be ... cut up the minute you set foot in Afghanistan."

Various law agencies conduct warrants sweep

From Staff Reports

The Seminole County Sheriff's Office, and each municipality within Seminole County, conducted a county-wide warrants sweep on Thursday, Dec. 11, from 5 a.m. to noon. Law enforcement officers were separated into nine teams consisting of deputy sheriffs, police officers, state probation officers and deputy U.S. marshals. Approximately 50 sworn officers and support personnel participated in the operation.

The teams attempted to locate about 191 wanted suspects. The operation concluded with 33 physical arrests, 35 felony and misdemeanor warrants served, and one probable cause arrest for possession of a controlled substance, under 20 grams of marijuana and possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

This operation was highly successful, attributed to the joint efforts of local law enforcement authorities.

The results of the operation were as follows:

Teams 1 through 4, representing District 2 and the city of Sanford served 21 warrants and arrested 19 people.

Team 5, representing District 3 and the cities of Lake Mary and Longwood served one warrant and arrested one person.

Team 6, representing District 6 and the city of Altamonte Springs, served two warrants and arrested two people.

Team 7, representing District 5 and the cities of Casselberry and Winter Springs served five warrants and arrested five people.

Team 8, representing District 7 and the city of Altamonte Springs, served two warrants and arrested two people.

Team 9, representing District 4 and the city of Oviedo served four warrants and arrested four people. A concurrent probable cause arrest for possession of a controlled substance and possession of narcotics paraphernalia was also made.

The Way We Were: 50 years ago at Seminole High School

The Seminole High School Class of 1953 reunion booklet contains the graduation program and the May 29, 1953, edition of the school newspaper, The Celery Fed. Today, we'll go back to 1953, 50 years ago, and see what was happening at SHS.

Remembering the class of 1953 Commencement

Grace Marie Stinecpher

Commencement exercises were held Friday, June 5, 1953, in the SHS auditorium at 8 p.m.

The SHS band, directed by Ernest

Cowley, played "Pomp and Circumstances" as the processional and "March from Aida" as the recessional. The invocation was given by the student council President Bobby Morris, followed by Mary Lou Copeland, salutatorian who gave the greetings.

There were solos by seniors George Harden and Richard Hall, and dramatic readings by Mary Jane Boyle and Ronald Hold.

The Peter Schaal Trophy was presented by Seminole County Public Schools Superintendent R.T. Millwee, the Jaycee Award by Judge Douglas Stenstrom, the American Legion Award by Gordon Frederick and the Rotary Award by George Touhy.

George Patterson, Salmagundi editor, told of the class' past while Terry Cordell, class president, predicted its future.

Judith Irvin gave the valedictory address followed by the awarding of diplomas by Principal Herman Morris.

The senior class sang the "Alma Mater" and the benediction was given by Beverly Benton, class chaplain.

Sponsors of the class were Mrs. Nellie Coleman, Mr. Roger Harris, Mr. Stewart Gatchel and Miss Rebecca Stevens. (Mrs. Coleman was at the 50th year reunion).

Marshals were Larry Bates and Harold Pate of the sophomore class. Ushers, also from the sophomore class, were Helen Alexander, Betty Brian, Shirley Dandridge, Rochelle Eubanks, Barbara Humphrey, Dot Holloway, Sandra Monforton, Sonja Monforton, Barbara Brown, Eleanor Nix, Lennie Rotundo and Minnie Lee Metts.

SHS newspaper editor, Judy Irvin, awarded scholarship

An article on the front page of the Celery Fed told of the newspaper's editor, Judy Irvin, having been awarded a $5,600 scholarship. This was an Emily Dickinson Scholarship to Mount Holyoke College in Massachusetts.

The full scholarship, worth $1,400 a year, was one of only six grants awarded annually. The article goes on to explain the rigorous requirements Judy had to pass in order to receive the scholarship. She had also won several smaller scholarships which she turned down in favor of the larger one.

Celery Fed staff included yours truly

In addition to editor-in-chief, Judy Irvin, the staff of the Celery Fed included Sammy Jacobson and Margaret Morrison, associate editors; Dot Holloway, news editor; Janice Reel, feature editor; sports editors Helen Michels, Jimmy Whately and Tommy Kuhn. There were a slew of reporters listed and I was one of them. Faculty advisors were Mrs. Lucy Smith and Mr. Nichols.

Christmas with the Cops

Sanford Police Department participates in two holiday events last weekend that benefited local children

By Christopher Patton
Managing Editor

SANFORD — Sanford police officers didn't spend last Saturday relaxing at home with their families or playing golf. Instead dozens of officers participated in two increasingly popular holiday events that benefited Sanford children.

For Police Chief Brian Tooley Dec. 13 was a busy day. He and other Sanford officers joined about 30 children at the Orlando Drive Wal-Mart for the annual "Shop with a Cop" holiday event Saturday morning. Based on children selected by Sanford police school resource officers, children from financially struggling families are selected to go Christmas shopping with their favorite Sanford law enforcement officer.

The event began with a quick breakfast at McDonald's and the group was off aboard a bus to Wal-Mart for a morning of shopping. Often the children select gifts for their family members rather than themselves. The generosity and unselfishness displayed by these children truly reflects the meaning of the holidays, said Cleo Cohen, Sanford police spokesperson.

After a stint at the shopping spree, Tooley was off again as he headed toward Airport Lanes bowling alley for the Annual Tim Raines Extravaganza. In its third year, the holiday event started out as a way for the former Major League Baseball star to give back to the city.

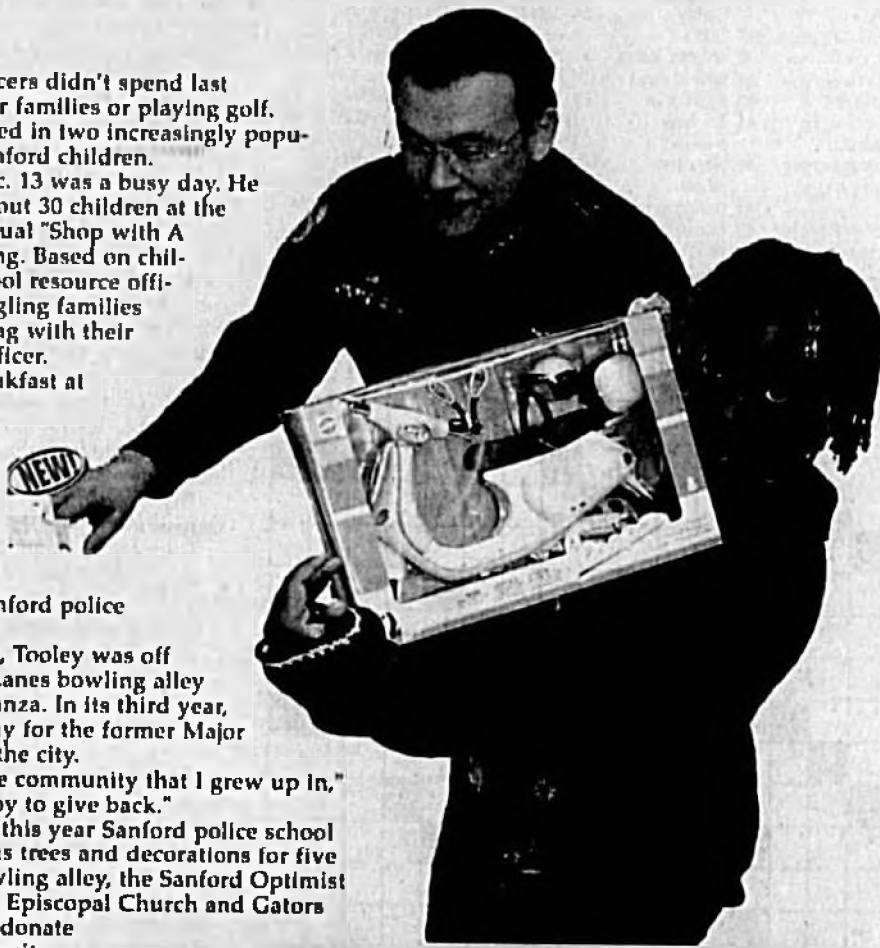

"Today, I'm able to give back to the community that I grew up in," Raines said. "It gives me pride and joy to give back."

The event has gradually grown as this year Sanford police school resource officers purchased Christmas trees and decorations for five families in need. In addition, the bowling alley, the Sanford Optimist Club, the city of Sanford, Holy Cross Episcopal Church and Gators Branch of the Foresters pitched in to donate gifts to be distributed throughout the city.

"You see a couple of years ago we started printing these bumper stickers that (read) 'Sanford Proud,'" said Mayor Brady Lessard. "When you come to an event like this you can't help but to be Sanford Proud."

Herald photos by Tommy Vincent and Christopher Patton

Sanford Police Chief Brian Tooley spent last Saturday helping the police department with two holiday events that benefited local children. Beginning in the morning, the Sanford Police Department held its annual "Shop with a Cop" (below) that benefited 30 Sanford children. Tooley and more than a dozen other police officers helped children pick out Christmas gifts as the police chief did (above) with 8-year-old Tiara Solomon. Then Tooley went to Airport Lanes to help former baseball star Tim Raines (right) with his annual holiday benefit.

Sheriff's office top ten list for violations

David Letterman has nothing on the Seminole County Sheriff's Office (SCSO) when it comes to top ten lists.

A visit to the SCSO's District IV quarterly community council meeting earlier this month revealed a top ten list of which many residents may not even be aware. This would be the Seminole County Land Development Code Violation Top Ten List.

Outlining the list this night was SCSO's Code Enforcement Officer Jerry Robertson, who actually handed out a list of 20 such violations for which Seminole County residents may file a complaint.

Complaints, assured Robertson, may be anonymous so that the neighbor reported will not know who filed the grievance. After a complaint has been filed the sheriff's office notifies the indicated property owner of the violation and allows the proper amount of compliance time to pass. If the property owner resists correcting the problem, the issue will then proceed to a hearing and may result in a $250-per-day fine for the resident in violation of code.

As rural Geneva is a place where few restrictions exist pertaining to a landowner and his or her property, I thought I'd outline the list for readers who may be living next to an eyesore and not know that they can take action.

• 10 — "Business in residence." The stocking of merchandise for resale, customers or workers at a house may be a violation. This does, however, exclude home occupation, or personal office use.

• 9 — "Garage Sales." Garage sales may not be conducted on the same parcel more often than twice each year, with each sale to be no more than three days in duration. No permit is needed. This excludes sales within a commercial zone.

• 8 — "Truck Parking." A truck with more than a two-ton limit or more than two axles may not be stored or parked in a residential zone. This excludes trucks loading or unloading merchandise.

• 7 — "Trash and Debris." (Remember Alan Davis?) Property should be clear of garbage, refuse, rubbish, yard trash, vehicle parts, rusted metal parts, paper, cardboard or waste materials. This listing excludes usable items, recyclable material or compost.

• 6 — "Junk vehicles." Not allowed are dismantled, wrecked or non-operating vehicles that could not be mechanically operated. Excluded are those kept within an enclosed garage, attached carport or legal repair business.

• 5 — "Prohibited signs." These would be so-called 'snipe' signs (those in the right-of-way), freestanding, banners, pennants, balloons or similar displays, with the exclusion of a grand opening or sign with a permit.

• 4 — "Uncultivated vegetation." A nice way to say that any weed, grass, undergrowth or vegetative matter which is allowed to grow uncontrolled in excess of 24 inches in height, located within 75 feet from a structure. Excluded are pasture lands, crops or non-cleared native land.

• 3 — "Fence setback." In a residential zone, no closed fence in excess of 3 feet may be erected within 25 feet of a road right-of-way. Excluded are fences with approved variance or those backing up to a limited access highway.

• 2 — "Dilapidated fencing." This code includes any fence or wall in a residential district. Missing boards, posts or brick must be replaced. Defaced surface should be restored to original condition. Excludes commercial zones.

• 1 — "Pool fencing." Perhaps listed as number one this night because of the dangerous nature of the offense. A permanent screen enclosure, link-type, or solid wall a minimum of 48 inches in height must exist around any pool. This fencing must include a self-closing and latching gate with a minimum 46-inch high latch on the inside. The only exception is the water side of a waterfront pool.

• Rounding out the top 20 code violations are commercial landscape violations, occupied travel trailers, used building material storage, fowl and livestock, unused or abandoned appliances, mobile homes with no special exceptions, structure remains, unpermitted tree removal, unusable or abandoned furniture stored outside and outside storage in a commercial zone.

For more information on any of these codes and offenses, or to report violations, call Code Enforcement Officer Jerry Robertson at 407-971-3508 or log on to www.seminolesheriff.org.

Cold Case

going to be the approach to all of our cold cases."

Friday morning the cold case squad was out in force again near the corner of West Third Street and Pecan Avenue, but this time they had family members of the unsolved homicide to help.

Milton Roundtree, Jr., 21, of 1012 1/2 W. Third St., was found dead by Sanford police Feb. 22, 2001, face down on the ground near his home's doorway with three reported gunshots.

Police responded to scene when an anonymous 911 call was made from the home, but no information was given — except scattered voices in the background. Police reported two witnesses in the home, and possibly two more who fled. Despite the wealth of apparent information, leads on the homicide — that is suspected to be the result of a drug and money robbery — went cold. Investigators believe there are more witnesses to the crime that need to come forward.

"We feel we have more witnesses that were present and we're hoping this will get them out in the open," said Sanford police Investigator Sean Arthur.

Similar to the West 13th Street unsolved murder, police erected a sign at the West Third Street crime scene this week with a reward of $4,000. However, Roundtree's parents, Milton Roundtree, Sr., of Texas City, Texas, and Denise Roundtree, of Winter Springs, say they are willing to double the reward.

Traditionally, CrimeLine offers a $1,000 reward for valuable crime information leading to an arrest, but FDLE and Sanford police have added $3,000 to the pool for cold case investigations. Tips relayed to CrimeLine are kept anonymous as each caller is given an identification number used only to dish out the reward money if the information supplied results in an arrest.

"I just want to know who did this and that's my main question for whoever," said Denise, who still has a Valentine Day's message on the answering machine that was left by her son one week before he was killed.

"My life has been shattered into a thousand pieces when he was killed. It is hard."

For almost three years, Roundtree's parents say their son's death has been difficult to bare as it has upended their lives. Since his son's death, Milton Sr., said he travels from Texas to Central Florida three times a year; on his son's birthday Aug. 26, the anniversary of the murder and around the holidays.

"We're not trying to judge who did this," he said. "We will let God judge. We just want some closure to this."

"There will never be permanent closure because our son will never be able to come back."

Of the 27 estimated cold cases in Sanford, the West Third Street murder of Roundtree is the third police have released information about. With valuable information uncovered by Sanford police drug investigations unit, the cold case squad solved their first homicide case Sept. 26 when they arrested two Sanford residents suspected of murdering a Sanford man Oct. 25, 2000. A Seminole grand jury indicted Ricardo number of Christmas songs. Zach Henderson, market manager, who introduced guests and officials referred to the market as the Sanford Community Farmers' Market.

In comments made to the press prior to the ribbon cutting and during his comments to the crowd, Bronson told of the historic value of the market. "I want you to know," he said, "that my grandfather used to drive over here in an ox cart to buy his produce many years ago, so the market is very familiar to me."

He observed that the market was a place designed to give small growers a chance to move their products, especially those who were unable to go into larger facilities. He stressed the cooperation of all involved, the state legislature, city, and others, in rebuilding the market.

"There is a lot of history here," he said. "But as far as I am concerned, it's the best, newest renovation in the entire state."

Nothing was said regarding the city of Sanford's concern over contamination in the land near the market. Two gas stations had closed years ago behind the facility, and contamination of the soil had been discovered. The property is being proposed for the city's construction of a public safety complex for fire and police.

"That's why I'm here," said Sanford City Manager Grieshaber. "I hope to discuss this further. Whatever happens, you can be assured it's going to take cooperation locally as well as from the state. We know the state's money is tight at this time, but I'm certain financing for the contamination cleaning can eventually be arranged. I'm sure this matter will be resolved."

In his closing remarks at the ribbon cutting, Bronson commented, "Through the dedication of this market, we are telling the world that Florida produces the best and freshest products in the entire nation."

With those remarks, he called on local officials to join him in cutting the ribbon and making the opening official.

Although the market was originally built in 1934, the first structure burned in 1957. It was subsequently rebuilt however, and most recently modernized through the cooperation of the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, the 17-92 Community Redevelopment Agency, the Seminole County Board of County Commissioners and the city of Sanford.

Although closed briefly for reconstruction, The Sanford Farmers' Market is billed as the oldest continuously operating farmers' market in the entire United States. The present facility dedicated Friday actually began operation on Friday, Nov. 1.

The market, located at 1400 S. French Ave., is open to the public each Friday from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., with the exception of holidays. The market provides a common place for local vendors to competitively sell fresh agricultural, horticultural or food items that are home-grown, produced or processed. Fresh seafood is also available.

Baghdad. It's confusing. I guess it's okay if the U.S. government wants to ship "pickled pig feet" but not the individual. They say it offends the Muslim religion, but there have always been other religions here, too. Even during Saddam's regime there were Catholics and Protestants that apparently practiced their religion openly and still do. Remember I told you in a previous letter about the Catholic priest that runs a orphanage here.

Our latrines have not been emptied and are running over. The contractor is called ECOLOG, I'm not sure but I think it is a subcontractor of one of the bigger U.S. contractors, but they are suppose to empty our latrines, which are those porta-potties but they are letting the things fill up and run over which causes a big sanitation problem and it stinks to the high heavens.

10 DEC 03 (Written from the states) I came in off of patrol and went to a briefing, and they told me to get ready to go on leave immediately. I couldn't believe it. I even rechecked to see if I heard them correctly. I thought somebody was joking. They said either take it or lose it. I said I would take it. They told me to turn in my weapon and ammo and to put my senior team leader in charge of my squad and to pack up for leave.

SFC Goldberg said he would take charge of the incoming boxes and would update us by e-mail when they arrive and what the soldiers do when they open them. I wish I could be there, but I also am glad to be taking leave even though I have to return on Christmas Eve, which some might say is a bummer. At least I get a few days at home.

That same night two Iraqi insurgents came through the wire and climbed over the wall and got inside the compound. Tower 2 spotted them using their night vision equipment but could not shoot because of the other tower being in the line of fire. I guess the insurgents figured out that they had been spotted because they went back over the wall. The fact they got in and out is a little scary. Later I had to borrow somebody's weapon to go to the latrine because my weapon had been turned in.

Early the next morning I loaded up for leave and went to the Baghdad airport. I didn't feel very safe since I had no weapon. It was the first time I had been outside the camp without a weapon. I was with three others from our camp going on leave. We were riding in two humvees and a LMPV (truck) that had some others from another unit that were going on leave, too. We went in convoy to the airport, but on the way one of the humvees had a flat tire. The other humvee went back to help. I thought I'd miss my flight because of another breakdown. I should have asked for some tires for Christmas.

Anyway, we made it to the airport. At 0400 we loaded on a C-130, (cargo plane) about 16 of us in all, sitting on those canvas seats with our backs to the inside of the fuselage and our bags on a pallet in the back of the aircraft. We lifted off and as we were going up the aircraft put out that chaff, or whatever it is called, that diverts any missiles fired at the airplane. I looked out the window, and it was all lit up like fireworks. It was a weird sight to see, especially when you are inside looking out. We soon reached a high enough altitude and leveled out for the hour or so trip to Kuwait.

In Kuwait we were processed through customs. I had to take off my boots, belt and all, empty all my bags, pockets, and they had amnesty boxes to throw contraband stuff away in. I had to throw out a couple of small rocks because they will not let us take rocks or sand out anymore, which is fine since I already had some at home from the first Gulf war. They say the rocks carry microbes. Well that's great to know since we've spent a lot of our time covered in sand. Once we were processed through customs we were placed in the "sterile area" and could not leave until we boarded our flight. I e-mailed Joyce from Kuwait that I was coming home.

From Kuwait I flew to Cyprus on a regular civilian jetliner. It was dark so I did not see much. We switched crews in Cyprus and then flew about three hours to Rhine Main Airbase in Frankfurt, Germany. Of course I had been there several times before, the first time when I was 2 years old when we were stationed in Frankfurt, which is my sister's birthplace. Then I had been through Frankfurt during the first gulf war. I always think about those days when I go through there. Anyway, we had an hour layover so I went to a little PX there to get a few things and managed to shave and clean-up a little.

Then I flew from Frankfurt about eight hours to Baltimore. We had to travel in our DCUs (desert camouflage uniform). When we landed in Baltimore a couple of VFW guys shook our hands, but that was about all the greeting we got. Of course, I didn't expect a brass band or anything. I think returning troops are old news anymore. I found the USO club at the airport and e-mailed Joyce that I was in the states.

I signed out on leave at the Baltimore airport. From there I had to pay my own way. I was going through Atlanta but changed to a flight through Charlotte, N.C., as it was a quicker hop down to Savannah. I was on the plane in my desert uniform with everybody else in civilian clothes, but nobody said anything to me. I know that I stood out like a sore-thumb in that stupid looking uniform.

I'm used to watching people's eyes and hands, it's almost an instinct after dealing with masses of Iraqis. Eyes and hands give off micro-signals that can keep you alive. I watched the eyes of these civilians on the plane sneaking a peak at me, but when I would look they would dim their eyes or rapidly glance away and fidget with their hands. It was an interesting study of psychology. They were curious as one might be looking at a deformed person but may have felt a little guilty for looking. What was interesting was that males my age seldom looked. Older women seemed to look the longest and would usually smile. Older men would nod. Kids would stare and not look away. It almost became a game to pass the time until I got to Savannah.

At the Savannah airport, Joyce and the kids were waiting for me with a big bunch of balloons and a welcome sign. She had tears in her eyes and the boys recognized me. Andrew was in his stroller and Charlie IV just said, "Hi Dad" like I had not been gone. Then I went into the restroom to change into civilian clothes that Joyce had brought to the airport, and while I was in there, Charlie IV asked his mom, "Is Dad coming home with us?" I guess he thought I was going to change and get back on the plane.

We then went out to eat at a steakhouse and then went to a shopping mall. It all looked strange and took a little adjusting to, especially walking around among masses of people without having my weapon or nobody watching my back. That mall was enough action for me. Then we went home.

Historic trust rewards student artists

The Sanford Historic Trust announced its winners in its Second Annual Art Contest Dec. 5 as part of its Candlelight Tour Of Homes.

More than 125 entries were received by the Sanford Historic Trust. The contest continues to grow as more students and the number of schools participating increased.

The purpose of the art contest is to develop a permanent art library of Sanford's historic buildings as a way of promoting the city's history and foster the development of local art students. The contest is open to any art student residing in Seminole County, entries may be in any medium, and the subject matter has to be themed around an historic building within the city limits of Sanford.

First prize ($200) went to Christina Samartino from Millennium Middle School for her pastel rendition of the fire station on Palmetto Avenue. Second prize ($125) to Morgan Anderson from Sanford Middle School for her rendition in oil of the PICO building. Third prize ($75) went to Lindsey Longway from Sanford Middle School for her pencil sketch of 801 Park Ave.

Six other students drew honorable mention in addition to the prizewinners:

practicing really hard and are very excited about going."

All of that practicing might not seem so hard in comparison to the other work that band members have been putting in to just get to the game. In order to fund their trip to New Orleans, band members became full-fledged entrepreneurs as they washed cars, mowed yards, and even sold Christmas trees in an effort to raise needed cash. The city of Longwood even pitched in $9,000 to defray the cost of the trip.

"You name it and we've done it," Muse explained.

The band director helped students raise the money they needed by matching them with residents who came up with tasks for the students to do in exchange for trip money. According to Muse, those tasks included everything from babysitting to pressure washing houses and weeding yards.

"Most of the students have now raised the money they needed for the trip, but we still have a few that I'm working to help match up with jobs," he said.

With the students working hard both on and off the "playing field" the Lyman High School Band will surely have a cheering section of its own as band members start the New Year off on a high note with their bowl performance.

ABC sports will broadcast the Jan. 4 game at 7 p.m., allowing Seminole County residents the chance to tune in to cheer for a home team in this year's national championship.

The Lyman High School Band was one of 20 bands from around the country to be selected to perform at the Nokia Sugar Bowl Jan. 4.

Plan can help boaters have a safe holiday

Special to the Herald

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission's (FWC) boating safety officers have a plan to help save lives on Florida's waterways. It's quick and easy. It's as simple as filling out a float plan form and leaving it with a person who can notify the FWC in case the boaters do not return on schedule.

"This is an enhancement of the tried-and-true buddy system that swimmers have used for years. Let someone know when you are planning to go out on the water and ask that person to monitor your return to land," said Lt. Kent Harvey, an FWC law enforcement officer who specializes in boating safety.

The Float Plan form captures information that is vital in a water search-and-rescue operation, such as:

- identification information about the vessel,
- the name and emergency contact information for the people who will be on the boating trip, and
- destination and expected time of return of the vessel.

"This easy-to-fill-out-form will save precious time in an emergency situation. Our hope is to get out on the water and quickly rescue boaters in distress, not to search for boaters in distress," Harvey said.

Time is a critical element in a boating rescue operation, especially in the winter. Harvey said people tend to think of boating safety as a summertime issue and may relax their guard during winter. That can have very serious consequences. Florida's beautiful outdoors, Page 15

UCF hosts Gators today

Special to the Herald

The UCF women's basketball team (2-4) faces its last test prior to the conference schedule when it hosts Florida in the final game of the UCF Holiday Classic today (Saturday).

The game against the Gators (6-2) will begin at noon and will be broadcast live on Sunshine Network. All UCF contests will be carried live on the internet at wnc.ucf.edu.

UCF has lost three players to due injury this season bringing their numbers from 13 to 10, which doesn't leave much rest for the starters or the reserves. The team will get a much-deserved rest for seven days next week before returning to practice on the 28th. The next game is scheduled for Jan. 3 at Stetson.

First though, the Golden Knights have to focus on the two match-ups ahead. In a collective 24 meetings against Alabama (Which UCF played on Friday) and Florida, they have not emerged victorious.

Saturday's game against the Gators will be broadcast live on Sunshine Network. With Carolyn Peck at the helm for her second season, Florida has posted a 6-2 record and, like Alabama, has won four of its last five outings. On Sunday, the Gators upset #15 UCSB by a score of 75-49.

Orlando native Vanessa Hayden leads the way for UF recording 21.5 points and 11.8 rebounds per game, while posting an impressive See College, Page 14

state champions receive rings

Seminole Community College President Dr. E. Ann McGee and head coach Mike Nicholson (at podium, lower, left) recently presented the 2003 state champion baseball team with its championship rings, courtesy of Follett Bookstore, during a special ceremony in the Sanford/Lake Mary Campus board room. The Raiders won the College's first Region VIII Florida Community College Activities Association (FCCAA) State Baseball Championship May 13 by defeating Okaloosa-Walton Community College, 6-4 at Osceola County Stadium. The team then advanced to the 10-team NJCAA College World Series held May 24-31 in Grand Junction, Colorado, where it handed champion Community College of Southern Nevada its only tournament loss while earning a sixth place finish.

Seminole Community College freshman Kirsten Harris (No. 44, left) looks to score during Thursday's 87-84 victory over Johnson County Community College from Kansas. Harris was 8-of-9 from the floor and also made 5-of-6 from the free throw line, two coming in the final five seconds, to finish with a game-high 17 points.

SCC women survive scare

By Craig Johnson
 Special to the Herald

SANFORD — The Seminole Community College women's basketball team played host to a scrappy, never say die Johnson County Community College squad from Overland Park, Kansas, in a battle of free throws that went down to the wire with the Raiders winning, 67-64, Thursday night at the SCC health and Physical Education Center.

After having to sweat out a weekend with seven players one night and six the next, Raiders head coach Lisa Nuxol found herself with full roster of 11 players dressed out.

"I looked around in the lockerroom before the game and said 'hey, we get to press again,'" said Nuxol. "We like to play full court pressure defense and we had not been able to do that lately. When we play good defense, everything falls into place."

SCC opened the scoring on a beautiful backdoor pass and layup from freshman Danielle Jenkins to sophomore Rosanna Davis, the team's leading scorer and rebounder who missed last week's tournament with a knee sprain, but turnovers and missed layups and the play of Johnson County sophomore Laura Reeves, who scored all seven of the Cavaliers' points in the first seven minutes, kept the game close.

The Raiders were leading just 14-13 when they went on a 7-2 run with a little over seven-and-a-half minutes to play in the first half putting them up 21-13.

Johnson County's Chelsea Campbell got inside for a basket to temporarily stop the bleeding, but SCC's Natalie Emmanuelli drove the lane and dished to Lake Mary's Bryn Mosler for a jumper from the foul line for one of her four assists and later hit Jenkins for a long two, pushing the lead to 10, 29-19. The Raiders ended the first half by going inside to 6-foot-1 freshman Kirsten Harris (eight first half points) and the hosts went to the lockerroom with a 33-24 halftime lead.

The Cavaliers, who won the 2000 NJCAA Div. II National Championship, were not ready to pack it in, however, and came out of the lockerroom with a renewed will to win.

Renee Sidney scorched the net with two straight jumpers to bite into the lead, but Winter Springs' Missy Guadagnino found Emmanuelli at the top of the key for a three to push the lead back to eight, 40-32.

Johnson County continued to fight and when Maegan Pulse got inside for an easy two, Campbell knocked down a jumper and Amanda Koetting hit both ends of a one-and-one, the game was tied at 44-44 with 10 minutes remaining.

SCC would regain the lead, but each time the Cavaliers would find the answer and actually took a lead in the final three minutes before a rebound layup by Jenkins and a three-pointer from Emmanuelli gave the Raiders a 60-55 lead.

Johnson Community College again came battling back and missed two golden opportunities to tie and/or win the game in the final 20 seconds.

Trailing by a point, a Cavalier player was fouled, but missed both free throws. The visitors, however, got the offensive rebound and things looked bad before a steal led to a fou' putting Emmanuelli on the line.

She made the first free throw, but missed the second, leaving the lead at three, 65-62.

56.4% from the floor. Meanwhile, junior Latonya Reed has contributed 17 points and 11.3 rebounds. No fewer than five Gators average in double-figures.

Florida has a commanding 22-0 record in the series. For UCF, sophomore Celeste Hudson from Lyman, a member of the 2003 Atlantic Sun All-Tournament Team, has been on fire early in the season. Despite only playing four minutes against Georgia Tech on Sunday, she still sits atop the UCF stat sheet with 10.7 points per game to her credit, a mark that also ranks her in a tied for 15th in the conference.

In the four games prior to Dec. 14 in Atlanta, Hudson led the team in scoring. She sank nine points against Purdue, 15 against Nicholls State, 19 vs. Florida State and 16 at Florida Atlantic.

In addition to her offensive output, Hudson also recorded a career-high two blocks against the Boilermakers. She currently leads the team in defensive rebounds with an average of 3.67 per contest.

UCF MEN LEASH BULLDOGS FOR SECOND A-SUN WIN

Dexter Lyons scored a career high 22 points and led three players in double figures as UCF (5-2, 2-0) posted its third consecutive win beating Gardner-Webb (2-7, 0-2), 71-60, at the Lutz-Yelton Convocation Center Wednesday evening.

UCF took control early racing out to a commanding lead behind the hot hands of Gary Johnson and Lyons who combined to score the first 14 points for the Golden Knights. Following a triple by Johnson, Lyons scored the Knights next six points to stake UCF to a 9-0 lead.

Johnson would answer with another trey and the Knights led 12-0 just under five minutes into the contest. Simon Conn finally put an end to the UCF run canning a triple of his own, but a Lyons bucket at the other end had UCF on top 14-3.

The Knights, who drained six triples in the opening stanza, eventually built their lead to 25-7, as both Kingsley Edwards and Will Bakanowsky added three's.

Josh Chiles finally got the Bulldogs into double digits after knocking down a triple and trimming the UCF lead to 25-10. The Knights then went cold from the field allowing Gardner-Webb to claw to within six points on two occasions, which included UCF entering the intermission with a 32-26 lead.

Tim Behrendorff led the Bulldog's charge finishing the first half with 10 points, while Lyons led UCF with 11 at the break. The teams combined for 16 turnovers in the opening half.

UCF took back a double digit lead at the start of the second half after Johnson scored his 11th point of the game making the score 38-28. UCF opened the first nine minutes of the second half on an 18-11 run hitting 9 of its first 11 shots from the field to open a 50-37 advantage.

The Knights pushed the lead to 12 after a steal and a fast break lay-in by Edwards made the score 52-40 at the midway point of the second half.

UCF could not put Gardner-Webb away as Chris Wiggins hoop gave both teams 25 points in the half and the UCF lead was 57-51 with 4:40 left in the game. Lyons answered a minute later draining his third trey of the game to push the Knights bulge to 60-51 with just under three minutes remaining.

Following the Lyons' triple, the Knights scored the remainder of their points at the free throw line connecting on 11 shots in 18 attempts. Johnson hit 6 of 8 in the final two-and-a-half minutes to help UCF seal the win.

Johnson finished the game with 18 points, including 10 points at the free throw line. Roberto Morentin rounded out the double-figure scorers putting in 12, he also led the Knights on the glass pulling down nine boards. UCF finished the game hitting 47 percent from the floor (24-51) and 36.8 percent (7-19) from beyond the arc. UCF went to the charity stripe 27 times, including 22 times in the second half, knocking down 16 shots.

Behrendorff led the Bulldogs with 16 points and six rebounds. Andre Manning was the only other Gardner-Webb player to post double figures netting 10 and also dished out a game high six assists.

The Knights were out-rebounded for the first time this season, as they were nipped 36-35 on the glass.

UCF will take a brief hiatus before heading back on the road for an out-of-conference tilt against Niagara on Monday, Dec. 22. It will be the Golden Knights first trip to Niagara and just the second meeting between the two teams. Tipoff is scheduled for 7 p.m. and can be heard on the UCF ISP Sports Network and its flagship station AM 740-The Team. Marc Daniels will call all the action, with pregame coverage beginning at 6:30 p.m.

FRANK NAMED AVCA ALL-AMERICAN

The American Volleyball Coaches Association (AVCA) named UCF senior setter Jenry Frank an honorable mention All-America selection Wednesday. The AVCA All-America honor is the first for a UCF player in school history. She is also the first player in the history of the Atlantic Sun to be named an AVCA All-America selection.

"I couldn't be happier for Jenny," stated UCF head coach Meg Colado. "She is very deserving of this honor. I am so proud of her and what she accomplished for our program."

Frank had a remarkable senior season in which she was named the Atlantic Sun Player of the Year and to the A-Sun all-tournament team. She led UCF to a 23-7 record and its third straight A-Sun title. The Golden Knights defeated Cincinnati in the first round of the NCAA Tournament before losing to No. 3 Florida in the second round of the NCAA Tournament. The trip to the round of 32 in the NCAA Championships was just the second in school history for the Knights.

Frank was also named to the AVCA South Region first team, becoming just the fourth player in school history to attain that honor.

Frank was part of Colado's first recruiting class at UCF. The senior setter ended her career second in school history with 4,825 assists.

O'LEARY ADDS HUXTABLE TO COACHING STAFF

UCF head football coach George O'Leary announced the hiring of former North Carolina defensive coordinator/linebackers coach Dave Huxtable as linebackers coach Tuesday.

Huxtable is the first new hire to O'Leary's staff at UCF and will begin working for UCF Wednesday. Last week, O'Leary retained the services of wide receivers coach Sean Beckton.

"I'm very happy to have acquired the coaching expertise of Dave Huxtable for my staff at UCF," stated O'Leary. "He's an outstanding coach and teacher and an outstanding recruiter. I'm very fortunate to have worked with him in the past."

Huxtable and O'Leary reunite after the two coached together at Georgia Tech from 1994-97. While serving as linebackers coach at Georgia Tech from 1992-97, he also served three years as special teams coordinator (1992-94) and defensive coordinator (1996-97) for the Yellow Jackets. He was part of the staff that coached Georgia Tech to a 35-30 win over West Virginia in the 1997 Carquest Bowl under O'Leary.

A veteran of coaching for 24 years, Huxtable served for the last three seasons at the University of North Carolina. He coached the linebackers at UNC for three seasons and also served as the team's defensive coordinator for the final two years of his stint in Chapel Hill. Huxtable also served as Carolina's special teams coordinator in 2001.

Huxtable came to North Carolina after a year as the linebackers coach and special teams coordinator at Oklahoma State. He has also worked at East Carolina, Georgia Tech, Western Kentucky and Iowa State.

Huxtable has coached two NFL first round picks at linebacker during his career including Robert Jones of East Carolina and Keith Brooking of Georgia Tech.

Red-shirt freshman Jennifer Anderson (No. 20) was held to five points Thursday night after back-to-back 18 point efforts in the DBCC Winter Classic last week.

free throws with seven seconds left. Harris was fouled on the inbound play and calmly hit both free throws to make the score 67-64 and Emmanuelli got a clean block on a shot from just inside halfcourt as the final horn sounded, giving the Raiders their ninth win against five defeats.

The Raiders looked sharp in hitting 12 out of 14 free throws in the second half led by Mosler (4-4) and Harris (5-6).

Johnson County had four players in double figures with Reeves and Burks scoring 14 each and Campbell and Sidney chipping in with 12 apiece.

But the difference was Harris, the only SCC player in double figures, who had a game high 17 points on 6 of 9 shooting from the field.

"Kirsten did a great job rebounding and finishing," said Nuxol. "She has a lot of potential and we look forward to good things from her."

Jenkins and Mosler both finished with eight points, while Emmanuelli scored all seven of her points in the second half and Guadagnino added five points and came up with three huge rebounds in the final two minutes despite her 5-foot-4 stature.

The Raiders were to have played another out-of-state team in St. Clair Community College from Michigan on Friday and then close out the 2003 portion of the schedule by hosting Brevard Community College at 6 p.m. on Monday, December 29th. All home games are free to the public.

Things did not go as well for the men this past weekend as they lost twice on opposite ends of the state.

On Saturday, the Raiders trailed 39-27 at halftime and fell to Palm Beach, 96-75, at Lake Worth.

Travis "TJ" Jones led SCC with 21 points and four assists, while fellow freshmen Kemaine Samuels had 11 points, seven rebounds and three blocked shots and Vince Minsley had nine points, seven rebounds, five steals and three assists. Sophomore Rushawn Johnson dropped in 12 points.

The Raiders also fell to a very good Tallahassee Community College team, 66-58, in the State Capitol on Monday.

Johnson was the only player in double figures with 18 points, while Jones had nine points and four assists, William had six rebounds and four steals and Samuels grabbed six rebounds. The men will end the term with a two-day trip to play in the Broward Community College Tournament in Davie, taking on Brookdale College from New Jersey at 7 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 29th, then taking on host Broward at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 30.

The team will then head to Ocala to take part in the JUCO Shootout at Central Florida Community College, facing Okaloosa-Walton Community College at 6 p.m. on Friday, January 2nd and Chipola Junior College on Saturday, Jan. 3 at 4 p.m.

The men will finally return home on Tuesday, January 6th to host Abraham-Baldwin College from Georgia and IMG-Pendleton on Saturday, Jan. 10. Both games will start at 7:30 p.m. at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center and all home games are free of charge.

-tful winter weather means our waters are crowded year-round, even during winter holidays. Along with all the usual boating dangers, winter boaters have the added risk of suffering from hypothermia - even in Florida - if a boating accident throws them into the water. That's another reason it is so important to have a fast water-rescue if a boating accident occurs.

So far this year, FWC law enforcement officers have racked up 1,500 more hours in boating search-and-rescue operation than in 2002.

"This is expensive for Florida and dangerous for officers who conduct the searches. But this pales compared to the suffering of the victims lost on the water and their worried loved ones," Harvey said. "We're asking boaters to fill out the form for their own safety, out of consideration for their loved ones, and because it's the right thing for a responsible citizen to do."

In addition to filling out the new float plan, boaters must make sure all equipment on the vessel is in good working condition and make sure to wear, not just carry, a personal flotation device (PFD). Wearing PFDs is still the number-one way to save lives on the water.

There were 10 boating-related fatalities in Florida last holiday season (Nov. 1, 2002 - Jan. 31, 2003). Five
