Finland Said To Be Ready To Sue For Peace

Loss Of Eastern Ally Would Constitute Another Big Defeat For Crumbling Nazis

BARCELONA, Spain, Nov. 4. (AP)—Religious arriving from Rome said the city is heavily mined and quaked the Germans as saying they will do in Rome what they did in Naples. "Eternal City" or "Eternal Rome." All large buildings, every ministry, all large hotels, bridges and main aqueducts have been mined.

(By Associated Press) Bled, Nov. 4. (AP)—The Russian said they had exacted in four months, Germany faced the bleak prospect of losing her ally Finland which guards 700 miles of front from the Arctic to Leningrad.

A Stockholm newspaper said the Finnish government had instructed Juhani Paasikivi, the former minister to Russia, to be ready to sue for peace. Paasikivi, meanwhile, cleared the entire east bank of the Dnieper River and stood at the portals of Kherson, 72 air miles from Leningrad.

Allied armies in Italy smashed through German defenses to the vicinity of the Garigliano River, about 80 miles south of Rome, while in the South Pacific American Marines penetrated deeper into Bougainville and seized Purutu Island near the bay.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 4. (AP)—Striking boldly in the morning, British and Canadian troops of Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army captured the vital road junction of Isernia at the central hinge of the German line early yesterday as the enemy reeled.

On the 20th, the army from near the Mediterranean coast beat the Nazi troops across the 14-mile-wide Garigliano valley to their next refuge in the Aurunci mountain range, closely flanked by British and American forces that knocked them from their elaborate positions on Maseio ridge and San Croce mountain in bitter fighting yesterday.

The improved weather enabled U.S. Gen. Mark W. Clark to push quantities of tanks and heavy armor into the mountainous center of the fighting front was threatened. The enemy's flight across the Garigliano valley was being carried out under the protection of the most extensive demolitions and minefields yet laid in the path of the Allied inextinguishable advance.

At the end of yesterday's fighting, Clark's troops had cleared their way beyond the town of Seana Aurunci, which is on the main coastal road (the Appian way) only about four miles from the Garigliano river, in reaching the town of Seana Aurunci, British troops fought through narrow, heavily defended corridors on the inland side of Maseio mountain.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 4. (AP)—A Japanese cruiser and five destroyers were sunk in the navy battle of American and Japanese warships near the Allies Bougainville island, which was announced officially today.

Radio Tokyo previously had conceded the loss of a cruiser and two destroyers in the battle fought Tuesday night.

The battle, which lasted more than two hours, centered when enemy units were intercepted by the U.S. Navy's Task Force 17, which was led by the battleship USS Tennessee, and eight destroyers, was sent 50 miles from Bougainville.

Two other Allied cruisers and destroyers were hit. No Allied ships were lost in the naval battle. The Japanese force, believed to consist of four cruisers and eight destroyers, was sent 50 miles from Bougainville.

As Armistice Day approaches on Nov. 11, remembrance of the end of the First World War, 26 years ago and the unforgettable night of the surrender of the German fleet, composed of more than 350 vessels of all types, come to Frank E. "Pop" Halman, P. 2-c of the Sanford Naval Air Station.

"Pop" Halman is probably the only enlisted man at the Station who served with the Fifth Battle Squadron of the Grand Fleet during the last war. "Pop," having one son, George, 18, who attends Seminole High School, and a younger son, John Leonard, 13, who attends Junior High School.

They live at 1800 Park Avenue. Tall, slender and agile, and with graying hair, Pop's eyes kindle as he recalls the important radio messages he passed on a decoder prior to the surrender of the German armada.

The American Fifth Squadron of the Grand Fleet was composed of the flagship, New York, the Wyoming, Arkansas, Florida and the Texas on which Halman was stationed as a wireless decoder in addition were numerous cruisers and destroyers which escorted the capital ships.

The southern base of this fleet was at the Firth of Forth in Scotland, the northern base at Scapa Flow in the Orkney Islands north of mainland. The patrol area was the entire North Sea, again a naval battle area at the present time.

"Our duties were to keep the German Fleet bottled up and not let it get into the Atlantic Ocean," said "Pop." Germany at that time had a large fleet, in fact larger than the one at that time dreamed of. Had she possessed such a fleet during the present war, the outcome might have changed entirely. Accord Made With China On War Strategy

Four Power Pact Is Expected To Produce Concessions On Turkish Help

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. (AP)—President Roosevelt announced today that the United States, Great Britain and China have reached a complete agreement for new military operations in the Chinese theater. He said it would mean big news for the Japanese.

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 5. (AP)—The possibility was conceded here today that the four-power Moscow agreement may change Turkey's neutral position in the war and the Turks awaited with evident interest the result of Foreign Minister Memmetoglu's trip to Cairo to confer with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

The apparent establishment of close understanding between the British, American and Russian of the past was a solid check with the major standing block for Turkish collaboration for the Turks were apprehensive lest a misunderstanding between the Soviet and Allied Allies might have them at the mercy of a defeated and isolated Russia.

Memmetoglu, the Memmetoglu-Eden conference was regarded in London as a possible backdrop for an effort to obtain important Turk concessions to the Allied cause, using as a precedent Portugal's granting of the Azores base.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

NO ONE EVER HAD MUCH SUCCESS FIGHTING AGAINST GOD AND HIS MORAL LAWS. SUCH UPSTARTS ARE LAUGHABLE AND ALWAYS HAVE BEEN.

After the war there will be a lot more cars in the highways and a lot more casualties.

The Republicans won everything in Tuesday's voting this week apparently, except the 1944 election.

Even the CIO has come out against John L. Lewis. The first thing you know he'll have no more words to condemn him.

There may be some question as to who was out-traded at the Moscow conference but there is no doubt in anyone's mind that Germany was sold short.

We see where Doris Duke Cromwell is getting a divorce from her husband because she could no longer support him in the manner to which he was accustomed.

Joe Kirkwood, famed golfer and his gas coupon books revoked for driving on golfing tours. He should have stuck to the fairway. From Ocala Star-Banner. Evidently a trap got him.

We see where American interests are now publishing as newspaper in Chungking. Our idea of a nice quiet job for us when we're ready to retire would be editor of a newspaper in Chungking.

Mrs. Roosevelt is nothing if not consistent. Speaking of strikes in war time, she says, "If labor is to abide by its no-strike pledge, the cause which provokes violation of the pledge must be removed."

There are only 104 generals in America's Army who were National Guard officers or commissioned from civilian life since the start of the War. One of them, Brig. General J.C. Hutchison, is from Sanford.

The coal miners won their strike against the government, being given $10 a day pay in November. Meanwhile, the law is still in effect that nobody else in this country shall be given a pay increase even if the employer is willing.

Industry is saving opportunity for the trouble of knocking these boys. The doors stand open, and they are welcomed. It was always so. And it won't be any way always. St. Augustine Record. Can we depend on that? It all depends on that!

How much money do you owe you are an average man, you probably figure about $15 or $20. As a matter of fact, you owe about everyone of you, owe $100 as your share of the government debt, or that 1943 more than the average at the peak of the last war.

One in Oak Lake City as far as was adopted against the strike, but when all the services were objected and issued in their protest by the strike in front of the Court. We just want to make sure that at home.

After the return of the strike, the strike was held with the strike, but when all the services were objected and issued in their protest by the strike in front of the Court. We just want to make sure that at home.

Moscow Agreement

Universal rejoicing among the United Nations greeted the announcement of the agreements at Moscow. China's appearance as a fourth signatory came as a surprise, but a good one. The world can bank on the fact that there will be no separate peace signed by any major power with the Axis.

No mention is made of postwar dispositions of the Baltic states, but that can come later. It is evident that Russia will be less worried about them if a settlement is made with Germany by which she feels safe without them. She doesn't want them used as footholds for invasion of her own territory again.

Nazi Blunders

Two blunders in Norway cost the Germans any chance of co-operation from this conquered people. So says Tor Mykleboe, the press attache at the Norwegian embassy in Washington.

The greatest blunder was the choice of Quisling to rule Norway as a German deputy. He was thoroughly distrusted. Those who did not think of him as dishonest regarded him as a crank. Yet Hitler picked him out personally, and must have regretted his selection.

Norway has brought more than 4,000,000 tons of shipping to the Allied cause at a time of sore need. Much of the food and oil with which Great Britain sustained herself was borne in Norwegian ships.

There is much truth in the French quip: "It is worse than a crime, it is a blunder."

Intolerance

Dr. Samuel Eliot, former president of the American Unitarian Association and minister emeritus of a famous Boston church, emerges from his retirement to plead for an end of stupid intolerance and prejudice in this country.

Such movements should be supported more generously than they are, not merely as charity regardless of race, but also in recognition of Jewish gifts to the modern world. Although small in numbers, they have made large contributions to civilization.

Moscow Agreement

Universal rejoicing among the United Nations greeted the announcement of the agreements at Moscow. China's appearance as a fourth signatory came as a surprise, but a good one. The world can bank on the fact that there will be no separate peace signed by any major power with the Axis.

The international agreement acted up as a policy. United action after the war for the organization and maintenance of peace and security is also agreed on. One of the points which will do most to quiet fears is No. 6—that "after the termination of hostilities they will not employ their military forces within the territories of other states except for the purposes envisaged in this declaration and after joint consultation." This means that no one will invade another nation's territory except for just and known purposes.

No mention is made of postwar dispositions of the Baltic states, but that can come later. It is evident that Russia will be less worried about them if a settlement is made with Germany by which she feels safe without them. She doesn't want them used as footholds for invasion of her own territory again.

Many other details remain to be worked out. But the result of the conference were so much better than most observers had dared to hope, that the gains so far made in mutual understanding among the United Nations can be considered a major victory.

Nazi Blunders

Two blunders in Norway cost the Germans any chance of co-operation from the conquered people, so says Tor Myklebost, the press attache at the Norwegian embassy in Washington.

The greatest blunder was the choice of Quisling to rule Norway as a German deputy. He was thoroughly distrusted. Those who did not think of him as a dishonest regarded him as a crank. Yet Hitler picked him out personally, and must have regretted his selection. Equally stupid was the attempt to force the abdication of King Haakon, whose gallantry has won him the confidence and love of the entire nation.

Norway has brought more than 4,000,000 tons of shipping to the Allied cause at a time of sore need. Much of the food and oil with which Great Britain sustained herself was borne in Norwegian ships. Thousands of Norwegians, both men and women, have crossed the North Sea to fight for their country's freedom.

There is much truth in the French quip: "It is worse than a crime, it is a blunder."

Intolerance

Dr. Samuel Eliot, former president of the American Unitarian Association and minister emeritus of a famous Boston church, emerges from his retirement to plead for an end of stupid intolerance and prejudice in this country. "The fate of the uprooted and plundered Jews who survive in Europe," he says, "is a matter of deep and immediate concern to every sensitive mind and heart." He is especially interested in joint action for the rescue and rehabilitation of Jewish children in Palestine.

Such movements should be supported more generously than they are, not merely as charity regardless of race, but also in recognition of Jewish gifts to the modern world. Although small in numbers, they have made large contributions to civilization. Wealthy Jews have been, as a rule, not only charitable to their own race but generous to other races. Their broad philanthropy in this country has been especially notable. It is well to remember such facts at a time when the Hebrews are suffering so bitterly in so many lands.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

Sanford Sailor Recalls Sinking Of German Fleet

Even the submarines were larger, such as the Deutschland, their largest cargo submarine which was captured off the New Jersey coast and the crew interned. Mr. Holman stated. "Aerial combat was at that time but a small part of the fighting as compared to now," he went on. "Our squadron arrived about a month after the battle of Jutland, which on May 31-June 1, was up to that time the greatest naval battle in history, following which the Germans, after losing 11 out of 110 vessels engaged, retired leaving the British in undisputed control of the North Sea.

"Our squadron therefore never did contact the German Fleet which had retired to the Kiel Canal and refused to come out in spite of our efforts to draw them into combat. A similar situation seems now to prevail with the Jap fleet, which our Fleet would like to draw into a major engagement.

"Never will I forget the memorable events connected with the surrender of the German fleet on the morning of Nov. 21, 1918, right after the Armistice," continued Pop Halman. "Well I remember the message sent by Admiral Lord Beatty to the German High Sea fleet commander Admiral Von Seebert whose point east of the Firth of Forth in Scotland. 'You will proceed to seeing several Jap destroyers designated rendezvous with all guns on all ships completely depressed fore and aft, and your colors flying at half mast.'"

"At the time, Mr. Halman was decoding this message, Admiral Hugh Rodman was in command of the Fifth Battle Squadron, and the late Admiral Victor Blue was in command of the Texas. "The combined Allied Fleets of more than 400 vessels were lined up in parallel rows 3 miles apart as the first of the German capital ships approached," he continued. "All men had been ordered to their battle stations as a protection against possible treachery by the Germans. At the time, I was up in the conning tower of the Texas, peering through a slit in the armor. The German fleet was a vividly impressed by the sight of the mighty German fleet sailing between our ships like lambs coming into a pen," said "Pop," especially I thought what might have happened had they met us in combat.

"As the German battleships came up, our parallel lines of battleships turned inward and steamed back of them. Each battle squadron from the battleships on down, including cruisers and destroyers met their respective line ships of the Germans and accompanied them. The last to appear were the submarines. "There were more than 350 ships of all types of man of war surrendered by the Germans—a much larger fleet than anyone at that time suspected. They had many fine capital ships, and dreadnaughts even larger than ours. It took all day to bring them in and put them at anchor at the Firth of Forth for awaiting of further orders. They were manned by skeleton crews, part of whom were taken to the mainland to be sent to Germany. "At this time another message from Admr. Beatty was sent to the German command, 'You will lower colors one hour before sunset, and they shall not be raised on any ship until further orders.' "We then ran up the Allied colors on the German ships. Later, while heads of various governments argued as to methods of disposal of the surrendered ships, many were taken to Scapa Flow, where the German crews settled the issued by scuttling many of the larger ships. During the last few years some efforts have been made to salvage these.

"Present at the surrender were the British, French, Italian and American Fleets, and recall seeing several Jap destroyers come in while we were at anchor. Shortly after this our American Squadron separated from the Grand Fleet and made preparations to escort President Woodrow Wilson to France to confer regarding the peace treaty. "After the Armistice, I was surprised that there were fewer American ships in the Grand Fleet than they had thought, and stated that the outcome might have been different had they known this." Pop Halman said. "Pop" Halman was discharged from the Navy in July, 1919. He re-enlisted in the Navy as Private at Jacksonville in Sept. 1920. He is a member of Post No. 9 of the American Legion, and wears the Grand Fleet bronze on his Victory ribbon.

Job Insurance Act Presents New Problem

GAINESVILLE, Nov. 5. (Special)—Disqualification of employees for benefits under the Florida Unemployment Compensation Act presents the major problem of both employers and the administrators of the act. With this conclusion, in an article in the current monthly edition of Economic Leaflets, published by the Bureau of Economic and Business Research at the University of Florida, James E. Chace, associated professor of economics and a member of the Unemployment Compensation Board Review, declared that the administrative agency and employers must concentrate "their primary attention upon the four causes which accounted for 96.2 per cent of the disqualifications imposed in 1942."

These disqualifications, which were high also in 1940 and 1941, are: 1. Leaving work voluntarily without good cause. 2. Refusal of suitable work. 3. Unavailability for work. 4. Discharge for misconduct with work.

"These four," Chace wrote, "have increasingly accounted for the bulk of the disqualifications, constituting 75.9 per cent of 1940 disqualifications, 86.1 per cent of 1941 disqualifications, and 96.2 per cent of the disqualifications in 1942. "While the percentage of disqualifications imposed during the first half of 1943 was abnormally high because of wartime conditions affecting the labor market, it is probable that disqualifications will continue to be an important factor in administration of the unemployment compensation program."

G. O. P. Leaders Are Pleased At Election Gains

Dewey For President Talk Increases In Spite Of Refusal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked in his election results speech only that he was very much interested in the returns from Italy, the southwest Pacific and the Chinese Theater.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Republican Party's sweep in Tuesday's off-year elections in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania and its close race for governor in normally Democratic Kentucky encouraged most G. O. P. leaders to predict victory for their party in the 1944 national elections.

Simultaneously, the stock of Governor Dewey of New York for the Republican presidential nomination appeared to turn upward despite Dewey's press conference statement that nothing had happened to change his intention not to be a candidate. "Draft Dewey" talk.

A main issue in the New York election was Dewey's record at Albany and the outcome of the balloting led to a renewal of "draft Dewey" talk. New York Republican County Leader W. Kingsland Macy, said the vote should increase the already spontaneous demand over the country for him (Dewey) to take the Republican nomination for the presidency.

However, Wendell L. Wilkie, G. O. P. standard bearer in 1940, is one of those who believe Dewey will not run under any circumstances and that no one else at this time is a serious contender against him (Wilkie) for the nomination. The only administration comment came from Frank C. Walker, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

They elected in yesterday's voting in New York and Pennsylvania, against 221 Democrats. Hence, they would need only to hold their own and meet six or seven Democrats next year to win numerical control of the House. Their prospects of winning the Senate are very slim. The Senate lineup now is 57 Democrats, 48 Republicans and one Progressive.

Yesterdays results were about as expected by national party leaders. But the margins of Republican victories were much larger than expected and in most cases larger than in statewide voting in 1942. The election of State Sen. Joe R. Hanley, Republican, as lieutenant governor in New York by nearly 350,000 compared with a plurality of only 53,000 scored by the late Lieut. Gov. Thomas W. Wallace, Republican, over the incumbent, Charles Poletti, Democrat—very American labor Party nominee, in 1942. Dewey himself won over a split ticket in 1942 by only about 250,000.

Dewey was alone among his party's leaders in taking a conservative view of the results. Asked to interpret the seven State returns from a national viewpoint he said they generally indicate confidence in the Republican candidates who were elected. Wilkie said the returns all point one way—The country is tired—very tired—of a President and national administration.

Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, another presidential nominee possibility for the G. O. P., believed they "prize defeat of a President Deal in 1944". Senator Taft (R. Ohio), a Bricker supporter, commented: "The Republican tide is strong—strongly that the party will win in 1944, war or no war."

Predicts Possible Senate Control. National Republican Chairman Harrison E. Spangler and House Minority Leader Joe Martin also read 1944 victory in the results, while former Sen.—John Townsend of Delaware, chairman of Senate Republican Campaign Committee, remarked that if the Republican trend continues his party will "come mighty close to gaining control of the Senate—very close to a President and a majority of the House."

The New Jersey gubernatorial victory by Walter E. Edge, Republican, over Mayor Vincent J. Murphy, Newark Democrat with strong labor and Frank Hague backing, gave the Republicans a majority of the Nation's governorships—25—for the first time in 15 years. When Edge, a former governor, senator and ambassador, takes office in January, the Republicans will be in control of every populous State outside the solid South except Indiana. This means they will be in control of State political machinery in all the big electoral States in 1944. Edge's margin of around 120,000 votes had added significance when compared with Republican Senator Hawawick's victory in New Jersey last year by less than 90,000.

Republicans also tightened their 62-year-old grip on Philadelphia's municipal affairs when Acting Mayor Bernard Samuel (Republican), won a 4-year majority over former Ambassador William C. Turner over the Roosevelt-supporter, H. J. Mullit. Samuel's margin was 63,000 and compared with his party's plurality of only 157 in that city in last year's gubernatorial voting.

Telephone Facilities Are Strictly Limited

Because of a wartime shortage in telephone facilities, persons in Sanford wishing to obtain service may experience difficulty unless they can qualify as essential users, according to E. V. Turner, manager for Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company. "Essential users are those persons essential in the discharge of responsibility for public health, welfare and security," Mr. Turner explained. "Telephone facilities are now operating at capacity in many areas of this exchange and generally, additions cannot be made," he said, "so if you request the installation of new service or if you are planning to move, a reasonable length of time may be necessary to determine if facilities are available or can be made available."

Vinson Okeys 4-10 Cents Pay Hike On Rails

Strike Vote Continued In Effort To Get General 8 Cent Increase Or More

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. (AP)—Wage increases ranging from four to ten cents an hour for more than 1,000,000 railroad employees as recommended today by a special Presidential board, was accepted today by Stabilization Director Fred W. Vinson, but 15 non-operating unions are expected to reject the proposal.

The unions originally asking a flat 20 cents an hour hike and awarded a general eight cent hike by a previous board only to have Vinson interpose his veto, are taking a strike vote now. They also are relying heavily on a Congressional resolution to enforce the right to work. The railroads have agreed to pay that amount.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. (AP)—Mounting pressure from labor organizations for a loosening of wage controls lent new stringency to the Nation's increasing economic problems today.

With President Roosevelt's labor industry-public board ready to open an investigation into the wartime cost of living, the economic picture presented these principal facts:

1. The United States Chamber of Commerce interrupted the pay raise just granted coal miners as the unreliable entering wedge of a break in the stabilization program.

2. With striking coal miners (Continued on Page Three)

Sanford Swamps OPA Said To Favor Kow boys 41-13 In Friday's Game

Two teams of Sanford Celery Field, alternating with furious air and land attacks, swamped a gamely fighting little band of blue-jacketed Klammer Kowboys, 41 to 13, Friday evening, before a large crowd of enthusiastic spectators, including many service men.

The start of the game showed a new lineup of the Kowboys, as the start of the game was generally by quarterback Al McMillan, who had little chance to show his stuff, as the Kowboys, coached by tackle Bobby Smith (an eighth grader) received the kick off on their own 28, and advanced the ball to the Fed 13.

After receiving the next kick off, the Kowboys advanced to the Fed 30 and the Fed threw back to their own 22 on a loss, mainly due to a fine tackle by Raborn. They kicked to Brock who received the ball on his own 47 yard line, ran clear to the Kowboys 47. Pete Brock, on a play which was especially unfavorable to the Wauchula and the Bushnell.
