Outline Of Disarmament Treaty Adopted Before Commission Adjournment

GENEVA, Dec. 10 (AP)—The preparatory disarmament commission finished its work last night and adjourned sine die, leaving as a legacy the outline of a general disarmament treaty, the value of which history only can assess.

This outline of draft, approved last night, is to form the basis for deliberations of a world disarmament conference which probably will be called to meet early in 1932.

Before its final adjournment the commission took solemn inventory of its extensive labors and acknowledged that the results were imperfect. The draft convention, however, the majority agreed, while providing little more than the stabilization of present armaments as an immediate prospect, holds great possibilities for reduction if only governments will be of a mind to reduce.

Charge Had Been Made That Freshmen Had Early Season Drill

ARMY FOOTBALL MENTOR WARNS TO WATCH NAVY

Tells His Men Annapolis Team Is Now At Pinnacle Of Form

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Launching practice Monday preparation for the big charity game with the Navy, in New York on Saturday, Maj. Ralph I. Sasse, Army football coach, rounded a warning that "the Navy is 100 per cent better than at any previous time this season."

The action of the committee, the Banner said, "referred the matter to the University of Tennessee and was made known in a letter to all members of the Southern Conference from Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, secretary of the executive committee."

The Banner published the following letter:

December 3, 1930.

Members of the Southern Conference:

Since the meeting of the executive committee at Atlanta, Ga., on November 27, 1930, the president of the University of Tennessee, Athletic authorities of that institution have presented to the executive committee a statement regarding the attitude of the university on the matter of violation of Southern Conference rules by its institution.

As a result of these statements the executive committee acting on the authority vested in it by the constitution of the Southern Conference (Art. 14, C) has ruled by a majority vote that the matter be referred back to the University of Tennessee for such action as that institution may carry out with the understanding of the University of Tennessee that it will take such steps as are necessary to indicate to its students, its coaches and to the public that it does not condone violations of conference regulations and that proper precautions will be taken to prevent such violations in the future.

The matter, therefore, is hereby dropped by the executive committee and referred back to the University of Tennessee and conference closed except for such action as the university itself has indicated it may take.

Respectfully submitted,
W. D. FUNKHOUSER,
"Secretary."

NEW CERTIFICATES OF INDEBTEDNESS TO HAVE LOW INTEREST

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Certificates of indebtedness totaling $400,000,000 will be issued by the government at the lowest interest rates since the World War era, perhaps in the history of the nation, to provide for December financing.

Preparing to meet government obligations falling due on Dec. 15 the treasury announced the offering of two series of certificates bearing 3-4 percent interest and the other 1-7-8 percent. The first will be for six months and total about $150,000,000 while the second will be for a year and amount to $250,000,000.

Two of the vessels would be of experimental character. The flying deck cruiser of 10,000 tons would cost $20,780,000. It would be a sister ship to the vessel under construction at Newport News, Va. It will cost $27,650,000. The remainder of the program consists of four submarines of 1100 tons each for a total cost of $17,600,000 or $4,400,000 each. Ten of the destroyers are to cost $4,200,000 each with the destroyer leader costing $5,000,000.

"Bill Ingram has developed a smooth running attack which is perfectly co-ordinated," said Sasse, who saw the Midshipmen in their decisive victory over Penna Saturday. "It is obvious that the team has found itself. There is no doubt that next Saturday the Army will meet one of the strongest teams in the East if not the country. The Navy offense and defense will reach its peak against us."

Sasse was particularly impressed by "Kirk, a fast back; Tuttle at center; Brownstrom, tackle; and Williams at quarterback."

"Brownstrom's punting," Sasse said, "is outstanding and Williams' selection of plays was excellent. Furthermore, if Navy has any more substitutes like Hurley, who replaced Kirk, we will be in for an unpleasant afternoon."

The Army, Major Sasse said, "unconsciously reached its peak for the Notre Dame game at Chicago. To keep the squad from going stale, we broke training after that game for three days. Now we are trying to build up."

"We will certainly be unable to put our full strength on the field. Seustian, first string halfback, is definitely out for the rest of the season. This morning I visited Armstrong, Malloy, Trice, Jillsinger and Summerfelt in the hospital. All these men are regular players and their absence next Saturday will be sorely felt."

"Carlmark has never fully recovered from his injuries incurred in the Yale game. We were unable to use him in the Illinois game and he played only two minutes in the Notre Dame game. Sicker and Frenzler are also on the injured list. It will be a good game, though."

similar with the City's condition, we would like very much to have you serve." Mr. Speer then moved that Mr. Woodruff be appointed to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Miller, and Commissioner Newman seconded the motion.

Before it was put to a vote however, Mayor Lehman entered a protest by saying that "since the people had elected Mr. Miller to succeed Mr. Miller I think you are going directly against their wishes."

A vote was taken which resulted in Commissioner Leffler, Newman and Speer voting "aye" and Mayor Lehman "nay," and City Clerk Lamson then prepared an office of Mr. Woodruff's signature.

Before it was signed Mr. Woodruff said that he was reluctant to accept because he desired the unanimous vote of the Commission, but he finally did sign after Mayor Lehman stated that he could not vote for him because he felt that the office belonged to Mr. Byrd, and after Commissioner Leffler, Newman and Speer all said that since he had been appointed by a majority vote, he should serve. Mr. Woodruff resigned as a City bond trustee just before he signed the oath, the resignation being accepted.

UNDER A CLOUD!

WOODRUFF IS NAMED TO FILL MILLER'S SEAT

Before it was signed Mr. Woodruff said that he was reluctant to accept because he desired the unanimous vote of the Commission, but he finally did sign after Mayor Lehman stated that he could not vote for him because he felt that the office belonged to Mr. Byrd, and after Commissioner Leffler, Newman and Speer all said that since he had been appointed by a majority vote, he should serve. Mr. Woodruff resigned as a City bond trustee just before he signed the oath, the resignation being accepted.

Commissioner Speer then moved that Frank L. Miller be appointed to succeed Mr. Woodruff as a bond trustee. Commissioner Newman seconded the motion and it was carried. Commissioner Leffler moved that John Meish be appointed to succeed Walter L. Cooper. Commissioner Speer seconded that motion and it was also carried unanimously.

The Commissioners then listened to the reading of the recently adopted resolution of the Chamber of Commerce which recommends that the proposed levy of 81 or more mills not be placed on the books of the City and that the City Attorney should be instructed to get in touch with the bond holders' attorneys and try to arrange to have the interest payment spread over a term of years.

A discussion arose at once in which each Commissioner expressed his views on the issue. Behind the resolution Commissioner Woodruff said that he saw no reason why the Commissioners, provided they agreed on it, should act upon the suggestion of the trade body. He said that "personally, I have not decided whether it is the best step or not to take at this time. There are many angles to this thing and it is very hard to decide what to do. What we must decide is whether it is the best plan of action."

Commissioner Speer said that "anything which will keep the interest levy off the books as long as we can, I am for." Commissioner Woodruff was in doubt concerning the plan and went on to say that if a millage of 30 or 40 is set he was sure that it would bankrupt another 25 percent of our people and our tax collections would surely drop down to about 50 percent. He said that "20 mills has already confiscated much of the City property. If you put on a millage of around 30, any number of small taxpayers will suffer and we heavy taxpayers will hang on to our property by paying at least one year at that rate. If we put on all the millage as ordered, it seems to me that every taxpayer, large or small, will be in the fight against this ridiculous order and that we will rarely accomplish our purpose quicker."

FLORIDA'S CAGE COACH HAS FINE LOT OF MATERIAL

Cowell Declares It Is Best During Coaching Time At School

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA, GAINESVILLE, Dec. 9.—"We have the best lot of material in years, better than any I have had since I have been coaching the Florida team," Head Coach Bill Cowell Brady, of the University of Florida, said Monday afternoon as he surveyed the turnout of candidates for the 1931 hoop team. "We have a nice lot of veterans back, and a number of incoming soph players, who will push them for their places. The best part about it is that most of the boys are tall and racy."

"Material at Florida has been growing better each season," he added. "The men are coming to the university, better coached and in better shape every year."

Coach Cowell mentioned the increased interest taken by basketball in the high schools of the state as being the chief cause for the improvement of the university athletes. Florida sponsors an annual tournament for high school teams, which has seen a steady improvement in the caliber of the game played.

Mentor Cowell will need every bit of the ability that his players can muster this year, for they are faced with the most extensive and difficult schedule that any Florida team has ever attempted. The Gators will play 14 conference games, beginning on Jan. 9 with Georgia in Gainesville.

Coach Cowell said Monday afternoon that he would hold daily practice up to the Christmas holidays, then disband until the day after New Year when an intensive period of drill will be held to get the men in shape for the opening game.

The players composing the varsity squad at present are:

Forwards: Allen Emmelhainz, Bradenton; Ira Baker, Delray; Jerry Litherland, Ocoee; Spurgeon Cherry, Leesburg; Robert Pittman, Apopka; Joe Davis, Miami; Leon Ely, Gainesville; William Bradley, Homestead; Wesley Bradner, Mount Dora; Brennan Brown, Leesburg.

Centers: Ben Clemons, Tallahassee; George Gunn, Jacksonville; K. D. Colson, Jacksonville.

South Will Pause Today To Honor One Of Its Pen Geniuses

ATLANTA, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The astonishing papers of "Brer Rabbit" will be revived in memorials of grown up today as the South pays homage to the genius of Joel Chandler Harris, the "Uncle Remus" who has delighted children of many lands.

Mrs. H. G. Kellogg Doesn't See Much Chance Of War

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Frank B. Kellogg, former American secretary of state who received here yesterday a Nobel peace prize for 1929, doesn't take much stock in all the talk about a new war in Europe.

"I don't believe in any new European war," he said. "There are many problems in Europe, many of which have already been solved and others of which will be solved."

He declined to take any credit for the Kellogg peace pact, saying it was Foreign Minister Briand of France who proposed the original plan which resulted in the pact.

SOPHOMORE GRID CROP IN SOUTH IS SEEN EXCELLENT

Every Outfit In Conference Has Uncovered Fine Players

ATLANTA, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Dixie's sophomore gridiron crop this year was good enough to make many coaches forget about the seniors they are losing.

Selden has the south seen so many good football players break into prominence in a single season. Every team in the conference uncovered sophomore stars.

Johnny Cain, the youngster who was called upon to take the place of the all-American Tony Holm, was the spark plug in the Alabama attack. Howard signals, punted, did his share of the ball carrying and passed with both hands.

Godfrey was a substitute only because Freddie Sington, the all-American, and Captain Clement played tackle. Dethrow, an end, and Sanford, a guard, also did a praise for their performances.

Sophomores carried Texas through another undefeated season and to a tie with Alabama for the Dixie title. Du Zimmerman made the Louisiana fans forget about Billy Banker of last year, while Nollie Felts proved the best punter Tulane has had in years.

A half dozen promising sophomores turned up at Georgia Tech where a flock of veterans are lost. They are McArthur, quarterback; Hart and Barron, halfbacks; Cain and Cherry, fullbacks; Goldsmith, end, and Nicolett, center.

The Florida offense didn't start clicking until Coach Charley Bachman threw a sophomore, Al Rogers into a halfback post along with Bithen, Sauls and Dorsett. Jenkins, a fullback, and Forsyth, a guard, also played well in their first season under fire.

Nashville fans hailed Pete Gracely as the best center Vanderbilt has had for several seasons, while "Good" Fortune stepped into a first string fullback post and stayed at the way. Bewley, Leyendecker, Foster and Lockert were linemen who held up well.

A Sixth Sense

Hundreds of millions of dollars each year are spent in the United States on crime. The major portion of the work of our police departments, our courts, our detective agencies, our department of justice officials could be done away with if there were no crime. Think of the money which is spent annually on burglar insurance, on burglar alarms, on simple locks, all because of crime. Think of the jewels that are stolen, the millions of dollars that are pilfered, and the hundreds of millions that are spent on city, county, state and federal prisons.

One sometimes wonders if it would not be a profitable investment for the United States to subsidize criminals instead of trying to hold them in check by due process of law. We don't know how many thousands of criminals there may be in the United States, or how many millions of habitual law violators, but whatever the number may be, it wouldn't surprise us if it were cheaper to pay each of them five thousand, ten thousand or even fifty thousand dollars a year to live an orderly law-abiding existence. This plan, at least, if the criminals agreed to it, would have the redeeming feature of putting a stop to crime, something which the present system does not. At least the taxpayer would be getting something for his money.

Another system which would probably be equally as effective was suggested the other day by Arthur Brisbane who recommended that the law enforcement duties of the City of Chicago be turned over to Al Capone. Why not? If Al could guarantee to the law-abiding people of Chicago that within sixty days he would put an end to all rackets, that murders would be a thing of the past, that graft and corruption between gangsters and public officials would stop, that an end would be made to all law violations, would it not profit Chicago taxpayers to pay Capone a million dollars a year, or whatever his price might be, to carry out his part of the bargain?

Skeptics may say that Capone would have no more luck in curbing crime than present law enforcement officers. Well, we don't know. It takes a world of energy, courage, and not a little intelligence, to corner the biggest-beer and brothel racket in the world. Capone not only competed with rival racketeers who would have killed him in cold blood if they had had the chance, but he also had to manage officers of the law. He had to keep competitors at gun's distance, save the itching palms of officers, and at the same time stimulate trade and maintain an active and loyal clientele. Only the most modern and efficient business methods could do that.

How often do we find energy, courage and resourcefulness like this which is mis-directed? Capone seems to have everything essential to becoming a successful and respectable citizen except that highly important sixth sense which should distinguish for him the difference between right and wrong. Perhaps a little crook in a small town or a beer baron in a big city, it is all the same. He could do so much more for himself, so much more for his city and his country if his abilities were always directed into proper channels. Men of this type always come to this realization sooner or later, but usually too late to do themselves, or those they have made suffer, any good. It pays to develop that sixth sense.

Sun Tan Suits

Sun bathing, or as some prefer to call it "indecent exposure", is again coming in for a severe panning, this time in St. Petersburg, "The Sunshine City". Probably as the tourist season wears along, and more and more visitors come to this state to escape the cold gray days of the North and rejuvenate themselves under the penetrating rays of Florida's tropical sun, this matter will come up again for discussion and there will be additional perplexities in other police departments concerning the disposition of the complaints of this or that purty league.

In St. Petersburg Mrs. Viola Anne Rae has organized and is president of the West Coast Cultural League which has gathered considerable evidence during the past few weeks dealing with the public exposure of human forms on Pinellas beaches. "Our members will continue to gather evidence of violations of the indecent exposure statute," Mrs. Rae declares. "We have brought this matter to the attention of the police and now it is entirely in their hands." But the Chief of Police who has made a personal inspection of the beaches insists, "I fail to see where the West Coast Cultural League has any grounds for complaint. It is true that bathing costumes are somewhat scantier than they were ten years ago, but there is nothing wrong with them" and besides, the wearer has more freedom of movement.

The Herald agrees with the St. Petersburg chief that the modern swimming suit certainly gives the wearer considerably more freedom of movement than those of the "gay nineties". But the matter of indecent exposure is mostly one of personal opinion. What may seem indecent to one person may not cause the slightest emotion of disgust in another. Sun bathers who desire to obtain the full benefit of the sun's rays and who wear their suits cut down in the back to somewhere near the region of the lower spine should have some consideration for more sensitive individuals who would regard such a suit as indecent. And on the other hand, the members of the purty league who object to sun tan suits should be equally as considerate of those desiring a really invigorating sun bath, and stay away from the beaches.

TELLING THE WORLD

Light! Camera! Justice!
 The trial of eight anti-Communists for their lives is being broadcast all over Russia. Talking pictures of the trial are also being shot in the courtroom. It must be loads of fun.
JUDGE (banging gavel)—Mr. Commissioner of Microphones, are we on the air? Mr. Commissioner of News Reels, are your cameras all set?
BOTH—Yes, your honor.
JUDGE—Then this court will now come to order. Prisoner Klinsky, take the stand.
(Klinsky takes the witness stand.)
CAMERA MAN—Hey, Judge, make that guy turn his head sideways. We want some profile views for today's news reel.
JUDGE—Klinsky, turn your head halfway around. Oh, what a profile! That beaver of yours alone is enough to convict you. Mr. Government Attorney, the witness is yours.
CAMERA MAN—Just a minute before you cross-examine him, please. These Klinsky lights ain't right.

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

In a manifesto signed by organizations of individuals in sixteen countries, conscription and the military training of youth are described as "out of harmony with the pact of Paris" and "as preventing the development of the will to peace." Among the signatories are the Bishop of Birmingham and Mr. H. G. Wells. "The governments of the world now officially acknowledge the supreme claim of peace," the manifesto declares. "In the Paris pact they have repudiated war as an instrument of national policy. Nevertheless preparation for war continues, and growing more pronounced is the contract between the peace declarations of governments and the maintenance and extension of military training. We urge that the time has come when every sincere lover of peace should demand the abolition of military training of youth and should urge the right of governments to impose conscription. Military training is training of mind and body in the technique of killing. It is education for war. It is the perpetuation of the war mentality. It prevents the development of the will to peace. The only crime which commits a grave crime against the younger generation when in school, universities, official and private organizations, it educates youth, often under the pretext of physical training in the science of war." The manifesto is sponsored by a Joint Peace Council, whose headquarters are in Vienna.

This International Bureau of Languages has just published some interesting statistics on the linguistic confusion in Europe. It appears that there are 125 independent languages spoken on the old continent. The German language stands at the top and beat the Russian by a good 11,000,000. This will come as a surprise, no doubt, to many. But then Russia is not homogeneous in so far as the speech of the peoples inhabiting that vast domain is concerned. There are Ruthenians and Ukrainians, Tartars and Circassians, Armenians and Volynians, Poles and Letts. The Soviet policy vis-a-vis these national groups is the very opposite of the Czarist idea. Old Russia tried to make Russians out of all these peoples by imposing the Russian language in the schools. The new regime encourages the individual minorities to develop their own culture and national character. In all, Russian is spoken by 70,000,000, German by 81,000,000 of people, English comes third with 47,000,000, Italian fourth with 41,000,000, and French fifth with 38,000,000. There are about a million or so people in France who speak French, not counting some American exiles. They are Bretons and Basques and Flemings. At the bottom of the list comes the North-western language which is spoken by about 50,000 people who inhabit the northern shores of Siberia. Another surprise to many people must be that Dutch is listed as spoken by a full 11,000,000. I'll try.

RADIO ANNOUNCER (in mike)—Well, folks of radio land, the prosecuting attorneys are now in a huddle—you know, ha-ha, the old craphooting formation—and the prisoner is on the five-yard line, fourth down and electric chair to go. Here come the questions now!

JUDGE—Klinsky, where were you—
RADIO ANNOUNCER—Shove your face a little closer to the mike, your honor. We're on a short wave length this morning.
CAMERA MAN—Yeh, and face the camera when you spout, Judge. We don't want no more retakes.
JUDGE—Klinsky, where were you on the night of July 29?
PRISONER—On my honor, Judge, I was at home warming up.

ATTORNEY—I object! If the prisoner keeps repeating he was at home warming up a samovar it'll ruin the comedy value of the news reel, and lose us our radio audience too.
JUDGE—Objection sustained. Klinsky, I'll give you one more chance to gag it. Where were you on the night of—No, never mind that. Answer me this one and make it funny; Who was that lady I seen you with last night?
PRISONER—That was no lady. That was my wife, your honor.
JUDGE—That's better!
RADIO ANNOUNCER (in mike)—This is the Soviet treason trial you're listening to, folks, and it is coming to you through the courtesy of the Moscow Sleigh & Livery Stable Company, an excellent place to board a horse or rent a drovsky.

JUDGE—Now, Klinsky—

people, nearly 8,000,000 in Holland and nearly 5,000,000 in Finland.
 It happened in Frankfurt. The National-Socialists were holding their first post-victory meeting. A great hall packed to the roof with Hakenkreuzers sympathetic and a sprinkling of curious people awaiting the arrival of the principal speaker, who happened to be no other than the great Adolph himself. In the meantime the land played and the Frankfurter sang: "Heil dir im Siegen-Kranz." At last Herr Hitler arrived in mud-spattered trenchcoat, booted and spurred. He had rushed through a driving rainstorm from Mannheim. He was given an ovation. Before Herr Hitler began his speech, he reviewed the hills of Germany, which are many. What was the cause of all the misery? The war, of course. In this he isn't far wrong, by the way. But the war could have had an entirely different result. How? If Germany only had not lost it. And how came Germany to lose the war? Herr Hitler gave the answer. "The fault lies with the Jews!" he shouted, as he banged the speaker's tribune with his clenched fists. "And the bicycle-riders!" someone shouted back in the rear of the hall. Herr Hitler is not accustomed to be interrupted. He stood still with a shock and glowered at the interrupter. The latter was a quiet little man, who sat calmly wiping his spectacles. Five thousand pairs of eyes had turned in his direction. "Why the bicycle-riders?" demanded Hitler in a voice of thunder. Then the little fellow rose in his seat and holding up his arms in a questioning gesture, he replied in a shrill voice: "Why the Jews?" The hall roared with laughter. "Somehow or other the meeting was spoiled," reports a Frankfurter newspaper.

Intimate Details In Poison Murder Bared

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 16 (AP)—Intimate details in the life of Maj. Charles A. Shepard, charged with the poison murder of his wife, were brought into his federal court trial yesterday after nearly two days of expert medical testimony.

Government witnesses testified concerning telegrams and gifts sent by Shepard to Miss Grace Brandon, 22-year-old blonde stenographer at Brooks field, San Antonio, Tex., for love of whom, the government contends, the 50-year-old army medical officer took the life of his second wife.

Chemists previously told the jury the viscera of Mrs. Shepard showed she had died of a slow acting poison.

Mrs. Theodore McCoskey of Los Angeles, sister-in-law of Major Shepard, identified the hand writing of a telegram sent by Major Shepard to Miss Brandon from Waco, Tex., June 29, 1929, within a week after the burial of his wife. The telegram read "will phone or arrive about 10. Must ..."

Christmas shopping approaches its height this week-end and Dickson-Ives is providing numerous attractions for gift-seekers.

Someone is going to receive a pony here before Christmas and this is drawing the interest of young folks to Toyland and the Juvenile departments. A recent survey of Toyland shows the most sought gift are books for young admirers, sturdy wheels and games. The girls are asking Santa Claus to remember them with gorgeous dolls, furniture and all manner of small electric cooking utensils.

The decorating department with myriad of lamps and the Gift Shop are on either side of Toyland. These are simply perfect places to find gifts for the home! New pottery mon-tone lamps with parchment shades, are especially good at $3.50 and $7.95. On this floor also you find glass and china for holiday entertaining ... beautiful pieces!

The Gift Nook at the north end of this floor has lamps for gifts ... hand-made colored pieces, hand-made lace, sets for every type of table. The gift sets of towels with mats to match are also eagerly sought.

We've just started a service which we believe will be popular. At the Gift Wrapping counter on the mezzanine, articles are wrapped in Christmas tissue and tied with ribbon ... and you pay only the actual cost of materials. Hands that are "all thumbs" will welcome this service!

While all the store bustles with holiday activity, we don't forget the Fashion Floor. Here are new gowns for even as ... first hints of spring fashions ... coats, scarfs, sweaters, hats, shoes. Every part of Dickson-Ives is breathing Christmas cheer!

And this week-end the fashion floor shops begin a special holiday sale of individual models. The Orlando papers will carry complete details this Thursday. Look for this sale that brings wanted fashions at the height of the season ... prices are like clearance time!

By this he was understood to refer chiefly to the absence of provisions for limiting trained reserves and for the direct limitation of land material.

Hoover Attacks Bolters Seeking Big Expenditure

(Continued from Page One) to defend the President and to give assurance that he meant no partisan attack in his declaration, but Democrats were still calling for recognition when the Senate adjourned.

Senator Harrison of Mississippi, in a Democratic leader's for co-operation on an emergency relief program, called Mr. Hoover's declaration "unwarranted, uncalled for and without justification," and asserted "no man ever won more political favor upon misery or the people than has the present President of the United States."

Even as Mr. Hoover was reading his warning that "prosperity cannot be restored by raids upon the Treasury" the administration position for a $25,000,000 limit on drought relief was under attack in the Senate by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, who had pledged co-operation.

The Senate promptly passed the bill of Senator McNary of Oregon, the assistant Republican leader, for $60,000,000 drought relief and did not even consider any cut in this amount.

"In his statement, the President asserted that the total of relief measures before Congress was $1,500,000, more than he had asked and insisted that those he had recommended were "the maximum which can be financed without an increase in taxes, which in the end falls upon the workers and farmers, or alternatively deprives industry of that much ability to give employment and defeat the very purpose of these schemes."

"The leaders of both parties are co-operating to prevent any such event. Some of these schemes are ill-considered; some represent enthusiasts and represent the desires of individuals to show that they are more generous than the administration or that they are more generous than even the leaders of their own parties. They are playing politics at the expense of human misery. . . . The American people will not be misled by such tactics."

While Senator Robinson insisted upon appropriations for drought relief, sufficient to permit loans to farmers with which to buy personal food, in opposition to the recommendation of Secretary Hyde, he had given no encouragement to the demands of other Democrats for an expanded relief program even at the price of increased taxes.

Despite the Democratic resentment of Mr. Hoover's statement which Harrison said was an attempt "to put the Democratic leaders in a hole," it did not seem likely today that the La Follette resolution would muster full Democratic support.

The resolution said, in part: "Whereas, the President of the United States, in a public statement has indicated that consideration for the interests of income taxpayers necessitates restriction upon governmental relief measures necessary to aid the jobless and their dependents, therefore,

"Be it resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate of the United States that the relief of human suffering in this emergency should take precedence over the consideration of the interest of wealthy income taxpayers."

Senator Reed, in reply to the Democratic assault, said the President had a "great responsibility" in trying to keep expenditures "within our means and I honor him for trying to do it."

ATTACK MADE BY PRESIDENT ENDS IN SPLIT

(Continued from Page 1) administration's proposal and a proposed $30,000,000 for the work will have to consider the Senate bill. Chairman Haugen has called his committee to meet today.

President Hoover's proposal for a $150,000,000 lump sum to be expended by a cabinet committee for unemployment relief was slashed by the House appropriations committee by $40,000,000 and restrictions were placed on the methods of spending the $110,000,000 given.

Opposition led by Representative Byrns of Tennessee, ranking Democrat on the appropriations committee, to the lump sum resulted requiring a report of the next Congress of the expenditures.

Federal highway aid received $80,000,000; river and harbor work $22,500,000; flood control on the Mississippi $10,000,000; woods in national forests, $1,000,000, and roads in national parks, $1,500,000.

"All of the funds are to be spent before Sept. 1, 1931, under the revised bill.

In the Senate, Democrats attacked the administration and Secretary of War the proposition to the House for a $30,000,000 for food for farmers. No move was made however, by administration leaders to reduce the amount.

The House measure carries no provision for loans for food for farmers. It covers only feed for stock seed and fertilizer.

Chairman Snell of the House rules committee said the drought measure would be given legislative right of way if the House agriculture committee comes to an agreement before Thursday.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the minority leader, led the fight for the larger sum and the farmers' food provision, in the Senate.

It was after three and a half hours of heated debate on many subjects that the measure was put to a vote.

The bill among other things, provides that states which cannot match the federal highway funds will be advanced allotments which will be reimbursable within five years beginning with 1933, from future allotments.

Ruth Nichols Gains Place Along Side Lindbergh, Hawks

WICHITA, Kans., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A society girl air enthusiast stepped on the heels of the Lindberghs and Frank Hawks yesterday.

Miss Ruth Nichols, Ryer, N. Y. aviatrix, spanned approximately half the continent in seven hours and one minute in quest of a new West Coast experimental flight record and placed her name beside those of Capt. Frank Hawks and Charles G. Lindbergh in the annals of aerial flying.

Miss Nichols reached here at 1:01 P. M. (C. S. T.) on a non-stop hop from Los Angeles, where she took off yesterday morning.

She announced she would leave today for New York if weather conditions are favorable.

She has a chance of bettering the flying time of Capt. Hawks' West-East transcontinental record holder. Hawks established a mark of 12 hours, 25 minutes and three seconds from Glendale, Calif., to New York, last August, crossing the record from Lindbergh and his wife, Ann, by more than two hours.

Miss Nichols' time of seven hours and one minute in Wichita compared with Hawks' mark of 6:44:11 to the same point.

The aviatress was only five minutes behind the time of the Lindberghs. She lapped more than five hours from the time of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, present holder of the west-coast record, for women, who lost that record in the opposite direction to Miss Nichols last week.

SOVIETS Decline To 'Accept Arms Draft'

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The delegation today refused to accept a draft of the disarmament convention prepared by the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission terming the instrument "entirely futile" to accomplish a reduction of armaments.

The Soviet delegation presented a long statement summarizing its objections to the draft and asked that it be appended to the commission's report. The chairman refused the request whereupon the delegation said it would present a statement to the general conference.

"Death Fog" Is Seen As Purely Local Affair

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The mysterious "death fog" of the Meuse Valley of Belgium which last week claimed more than three score of human lives, was not due to any communicable disease, in the opinion of Belgian health authorities. They so informed the British ministry of health yesterday.

The Belgian statement, which expressed the belief that the fog was clearly a matter of local conditions, was in reply to a communication from the British ministry of health.

Inhabitants of England became uneasy over fears that the intense fog which has surrounded the island the last few days might carry the deadly effects of the Meuse fog.

Their anxiety was increased by reports of the death yesterday near Grasmouth, Yorkshire, of 10 cattle from an unknown mudally. The fog in the Meuse Valley killed a large number of cattle and livestock.
