Bible Verse For Today

ROAD TO SUCCESS—Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in Him; and He shall bring it to pass.

The United States has another world's record. According to Scott Loftin it leads every other nation in crime.

The United States has fought six major wars in which 122,721 persons were killed in action, but during the past ten years no less than 120,000 persons have been murdered.

The voters should be sure to keep a good supply of salt on hand during the next twelve months, suggests the Melbourne Times. Some of these campaign statements will have to be taken with a grain of salt, and perhaps several of them.

It is interesting to note that William Warner Durbin, the New Deal's Register of the Treasury, who has charge of government securities and the raising of money with which to finance relief expenditures, is a member, being president of the International Brotherhood of Magicians.

Florida is planning to send a motorcade of some 10,000 to Warm Springs next month to welcome President Roosevelt. Sarasota, St. Petersburg, and St. Augustine are among dozen of cities which have already pledged their support to such a plan. Sanford should by all means have a part in this procession. It should not be difficult to raise a hundred cars among our farmers and industrial workers to go to Warm Springs to see the President.

As definitely a law as was ever written on Florida's statute books, the law machine revision, after making another citation for responsibility, now places the chance to gamble in the hands of children and older people who have pennies and nickels and dimes. Melbourne Times. Selfish interests put one over on the people again, but the law can be changed when the next Legislature meets.

The $1,800,000,000 work relief fund was appropriated by the last session of Congress for the express purpose of giving jobs to 3,500,000 workers unable to find jobs in private fields of employment. After six months there are still 1,800,000 workers who have not been given jobs, who have until now been on relief, and who will, according to Aubrey Williams, Works Progress administrator, be cut off relief next month. What are they supposed to do then?

The work of the Seminole County Agricultural Club in promoting the Farmers' Wholesale Market here is recognized throughout the state and has been the cause of many well deserved tributes to that organization. What is perhaps not so well known is the part which Karl Lehmann, an executive of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, played in this splendid achievement. E. M. Rhodes, state market commissioner, a visitor in Sanford Friday, says that if it had not been for Karl Lehmann the market would not have been located in Sanford. Another fact which is frequently left out of our people is that Harry Egworth, president of the Chamber of Commerce, advanced the payroll for the first five weeks during the construction out of his own pocket. We mention this now only to show that a town grows and prospers as a result of many individual groups and factors constantly pulling together toward a common goal, not because, solely, of anyone person or thing.

Blindness

"Blind persons, and especially blind children, suffer a very high mortality, ranging from 1 1-2 to 35 times the normal according to their age," says the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The high death rate among these handicapped, strangely enough, is not due to accidents but largely to the diseases which themselves cause blindness. Exceptionally high death rates are recorded for blind children as the result of cancer and other tumors of the brain, which are primarily responsible for the blindness.

The Metropolitan statisticians found marked differences in the blind death rate according to age. The situation was extremely unfavorable among children, the mortality being 20 times the normal at ages under 10, and 35 times at ages 10 to 14. After 14 the ratio of the death rate to normal decreased rapidly. Between ages 15 and 19, it was 14 times the normal; between 20 and 24, 6 1-2 times; between 25 and 29, 3 1-2 times; between 30 and 34, 2 1-2 times; and at ages 35 and over, only 1 1-2 times the normal.

In the majority of instances, it is said, the blindness was regarded as due to specific afflictions of the eye, but study of the causes of death showed that the reports were sometimes inaccurate, and that the blindness was actually due to a general disease. The eye condition most frequently reported as the cause of blindness was cataract. Next in importance was glaucoma, or hardening of the eyeball, and third, atrophy of the optic nerve. The combination of two or more eye diseases, resulting in blindness, was also frequent.

Accidents were found responsible for only 6 percent of the total cases, with no particular type of accident predominating. The comparative rarity of blindness due to the use of alcohol was also notable. Congenital causes, which generally account for an appreciable percentage of blindness, were very infrequent in this experience, because of the nature of this insurance material.

The study showed the accident death rate among the blind to be about 1 3-4 times normal. This relatively good showing is due to the sheltered and restricted lives of the blind. They figure relatively seldom in occupational, motor vehicle and public accidents, which accounts for two-thirds of all fatal accidents among the general population. However, home accidents, to which the blind are subject, are responsible for one-third of the general accident toll.

That blindness brings eventual resignation to the affliction is indicated by the suicide rates, which showed a smaller excess than most other causes of death.

What Price Indifference?

The American Safety League offers twelve sensible driving rules that ought to be studied by every car owner. They are:

1. Always keep your eyes on the roadway ahead of you. The cost of inattention for one fraction of a second might be a life.
2. Never talk for granted that "the other fellow" is going to clear the roadway for you. He might fool you at your expense.
3. Be sure always to keep your car under complete control. The loss of control for one moment might send someone into eternity.
4. Do not speed unless you know that the roadway is clear. High speed has caused many an unexpected death.
5. Never drive an automobile unless you know that it is in a safe operating condition. You can never tell when you will have to cope with an emergency.
6. If you "must" drive with one hand, make sure that your mind does not become too much engrossed in what the other hand is doing. It might be safer to park or sit in the park.
7. Do not attempt to "cut in" and "cut" off traffic. Many others have already tried it and failed.
8. When making a turn, be sure first to signal properly. It is dangerous to neglect to let the other fellow know what you expect to do and let him know in time. There is no need to "signal" after you have turned.
9. If you value your life or the lives of others, always sound your horn loudly before passing another car for the other driver might suddenly decide to move over to the left of the road.
10. Do not expect the other fellow to read your mind. Few automobile drivers are mind readers.
11. Form and keep the habit of glancing into your mirror at least every few seconds, and thereby be sure that you know what is behind you at all times.
12. Never use your clutch "ahead" of your brakes, for to do so will increase the danger of skidding.

THE COMPASS

COMING ISSUES By Arthur Dana

With the passing of a few weeks we shall commence to seriously debate the issues and remedies to be declared in party platforms.

So far the Roosevelt opposition has been contented to center fire on the mistakes of the Administration. Emergency relief waste makes the greatest inroads into the loyalty of the average Democrat voter in the South. Many complain that help given negroes makes it difficult to get them to work at the old wages paid by farmers. Much of the assistance is regarded as unnecessary and luxurious; to be paid for by the taxpayer neighbor.

Nevertheless these same critics are more prosperous than in March '33 and are inclined to regard the mistakes of the government to be offset by its benefits.

The Old Guard formulas of '34 have pretty well passed out. Barely do I hear anyone talking of return to the gold standard; agitation for perpetuating the dollar is not a vote getter; stabilizing the dollar is a matter of national, but international, action. This leaves balancing the budget as the only Old Guard plank likely to get into the Republican platform.

The people will learn more about the Constitution than at any time since the Civil War. The effort to stamp as communists those who wish to change it will increase in intensity, but diminish in force. Government regulation will be both violently denounced and defended, the AAA receiving the most attention. Government waste, graft and extravagance will be charged, and increasing debt and taxes will be pictured as hurrying us on to ruin.

In the medley and melle it will be strange indeed if the voters remember the real issues. I have written of them recently. They are reducible to three and can't be too often emphasized.

1. How shall we exchange (distribute) the great volume of products which our present man and machine power can so easily grow and manufacture? 2. How shall we employ the army of idle millions, augmented continually by those whom labor-saving machinery displaces, and by those arriving at working age? 3. What must the United States do to help prevent war in the world?

The answers to these questions—not the names Republican, Democrat, Socialist—should determine our vote. These three great problems cannot be solved by partisan politics. They are a challenge to the talents of the energy and the best brains of our political, industrial, financial, farming and labor leadership.

Whenever anyone advocates change in the Constitution, it will be well to apply this test—will such amendment help distribution of the energy and help prevent war? If it does any one of these, three, it's worth voting for. The same applies to debts, taxes, budgets, every question that will be raised and discussed.

We do not have to worry about our liberties. Our ancestors took good care of that matter in the first ten amendments to the Constitution—although there is no record that Georgia, Massachusetts or Connecticut ever ratified these. Our problem is not liberty; our problems are economics and war.

It may take some additional amendments to solve them. We can never make a success of both the Machine Age and war. Almost everything produced must be exchanged, and nothing so upsets the circulation of goods as war.

The total Italian foreign trade amounts to over 12 billion lire, or about a billion dollars annually. If the League of Nations, by its commercial and financial sanctions, stops the flow of Italian exports and imports, over two million people will be thrown out of work. They, in turn, will cause other millions to be idle, and the world's unemployment spiral will start all over again.

These are critical days for us. If we can give as good an answer to our problems of war and economics as our forebears did to theirs of gaining and preserving liberty, we shall achieve a civilization combining freedom, peace and plenty, and our children's children will rise up and call us blessed.

Italians Cancel Medal Awarded To Amelia Earhart

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The long arm of Fascism's anti-feminist creed has reached all the way across the Atlantic to deprive Amelia Earhart of the Balbo medal presented to her last spring by the Italian government for high achievement in aviation.

Giving her the coveted decoration—created after General Balbo led his famous mass formation flight from Rome to Chicago and return in 1933—apparently was a grave official blunder, in view of Premier Benito Mussolini's convictions about women's place in public life. Certainly the man who made it was forced to embarrass lengths in an effort to straighten out his mistake.

The presentation was made on May 23 by General Giuseppe Castuccio, then Italian consul general in Chicago, during a conference in the Stevens Hotel of 2,500 women's club presidents and program chairmen from all parts of the United States. In a flowery and impassioned speech General Castuccio made it plain to Miss Earhart and everybody else present that the medal was a tribute from his government to the world's outstanding aviator.

The next Miss Earhart heard from General Castuccio was early in August, when she received a letter saying, in effect, "I am herewith correcting an impression the newspapers apparently received that the Balbo medal is an official decoration of the Italian government. It is not. It is a gift of personal devotion to you. Please keep it."

Miss Earhart replied that, oddly enough, she had been under exactly the same impression as the newspapers concerning the decoration but, under the circumstances, she obviously could not keep the medal. It would scarcely be proper, she thought, even in free-and-easy America, for a young married woman to accept such a gift from a consul general whom she scarcely knew. She said she would instruct Mr. Putnam's secretary in New York to return the decoration and clear up the misunderstanding.

The secretary, however, in wrapping up the medal to send it back, discovered an inscription in gold within the leather case which General Castuccio had handed Miss Earhart along with the Balbo medal. This read:

Conferred on Amelia Earhart by the Italian Government May 23, 1935.

The inscription was in English and she jotted it down before mailing both medal and case to General Castuccio.

It is considered a curious coincidence here that the consul general, apparently a popular man with the Italians of Chicago, was suddenly shifted to Sao Paulo, Brazil, soon after this, though he had been assigned here seven years.

Flag Drill Is Given By Girl Scout Troop

Using the Christian flag presented a week ago, and singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," the Lake Mary Girl Scouts, under the direction of Mrs. Arline True, presented an interesting flag drill in the Chamber of Commerce building in Lake Mary Sunday evening. Eighty persons were present.

The Rev. J. M. Thompson dramatized the teaching of the Gospel of St. John. A court scene was reproduced, with the following characters: John the Baptist, Andrew, Philip, Nathaniel, Nicodemus, Mary, Martha and Thomas.

Miss Nona Wily was chairman of the meeting, the invocation was given by the Rev. Alfred Ericson, and a duet was sung by Mrs. Rudd and Miss Bernice Edmondson.

"The Gay Deception" At Milane Tuesday

The adventures and escapades of two light-hearted youngsters who look for thrills and find glorious romance constitute the story of Fox Film's delightful comedy romance, "The Gay Deception," which is at the Milane Theater Tuesday and stars handsome Francis Lederer with lovely Frances Dee.

Directed by William Wyler for Producer Jesse Lasky, the picture throws these two romantics together in the sophisticated atmosphere of an ultra-luxurious hotel where most of the comedy incidents occur.

The two most interesting people in the hotel are Miss Dee, a little country girl spending the proceeds of a sweepstake prize in the grand manner, and Francis Lederer, an European prince posing as a bellboy.

These two are drawn together by love. As the climax approaches, Lederer emerges as his true self and is arrested as an impostor. And then the picture proceeds nobly to its close in which all the complications are cleared up and the lovers rejoined.

Another Storm Is Brewing In Caribbean Sea

firmly to have received suggestions from H. Duce for a settlement of the East African colony Jamaica with considerable property damage and the loss of two lives.

The Weather Bureau was unable to predict at this stage whether the new storm will pass over the island. Barometer readings and wind directions from ships at some distance from Jamaica indicated a storm of wide dimensions. The ship, 180 miles south of Kingston, reported wind of 25 miles an hour and a barometer of 29.7. Another ship, 120 miles northeast of Kingston had 20 miles an hour wind from east-southwest and a barometer of 29.8.

Later reports from Kingston showed a change in wind direction to 15 miles south-southwest which indicated to the Weather Bureau here that the storm center was passing to the east of Kingston, heading more northeasterly toward Cuba or the island of Haiti.

Far ahead of the slowly moving storm center sped the cruiser Houston, bearing President Roosevelt home from his voyage in southern waters. The Houston was between Cuba and Haiti, in southern waters. The Houston felt the fringe of the gale last night as it moved through Windward Passage, between Cuba and Haiti, but was in clear weather today. Whether the President would stop in the Bahamas to continue his deep sea fishing depended on the next storm advisory from Jacksonville's Bureau.

Bookies May Not Be Permitted To Get Information

MIAMI, Oct. 21. (AP)—Safety Director Andrew Kavanaugh's drive against race "bookies" may strike at communications companies transmitting information for them. Action will be taken at any time the proper evidence is obtained by raiding squads, he said.

"The public, through the recent ordinance passed by the city commission, have given the police power to do away with the horse rooms," Kavanaugh commented. "I expect the police to be fully able to cope with the situation this winter. There is no excuse for the failure of the police department now."

A city commission ordinance classified as public nuisances horse race bookmaking places, and made all persons aiding in their operation, such as landlords renting space and telephone, or other communications companies supplying facilities, liable to prosecution.

Kavanaugh, who has been active against the "bookies" since he took office as safety director this summer, refused to reveal how he would go about getting information to start action against communications companies.

He said however several establishments had closed since the ordinance was passed, though it was reported three or more places outside the city limits continued to operate.

Samples Of Sand Are Being Sent To Cuba

MIAMI, Oct. 21. (AP)—Beachgoers who saw C. D. Pippinger, Pan-American Airways airport manager, filling little cans with sand on Miami Beach doubtless thought he was just playing. But Pippinger has feet seven and broad of beam was deadly earnest.

The post doctor of Havana had asked the airline to help him get samples of various types of sand on bathing beaches for study, and Pippinger was supplying Miami's quota. It was just another of the curious requests that come to the big transportation companies.

Now, when it comes to a cigarette that will suit you... you want to think whether it's mild, you want to think about the taste

That Chesterfields are milder and taste better is no accident...

The farmer who grows the tobacco, the warehouseman who sells it at auction to the highest bidder, every man who knows about leaf tobacco will tell you that it takes mild, ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette.

In making Chesterfields we use mild ripe home-grown and Turkish tobaccos.

Celery Feds Will Defeat Deland Or Know The Reason

High School Squad Is Going Into Friday's Game Set To Win

The Celery Feds of Seminole High school will play DeLand High in DeLand on Friday evening of this week, and "we're going to win or know the reason why," said Coach McLucas today.

Hard luck has camped on the side of the local squad this season, and three games have been lost, the last to Daytona Beach last Friday night. But the Indian sign is going to be wiped off this week, members of the team and loyal fans declare.

Plans are developing for a big outburst to DeLand next Friday night, and as DeLand is much nearer to Sanford than is Daytona Beach it is hoped that a tremendous crowd will accompany the team to the Volusia county capital and cheer the Celery Feds on to their first victory.

Miami's 'Tugboat Annie' Is Adverse To Movie Contract

MIAMI, Oct. 21.—(AP)—You can keep your movie contracts, so far as Miami's "Tugboat Annie" is concerned. She'll stick to her life on the briny deep.

Publicity brought pretty 32-year-old Lillian Rast, Miami's and perhaps Florida's only licensed woman owner-pilot, many letters, among them one intimating she might qualify for the silver screen.

But she isn't interested, she says. She likes her trim, 36-foot cabin cruiser, "Sea Bird." She likes to handle it wheel. She likes fishing. She says, in short, "It's the life."

"Ever since I was tiny," Miss Rast—who is only five-foot-three and 117 pounds today—explained, "I've liked the water, and fishing. I was born in Talmu, Ind., on the Tippecanoe River, and we kids used to play in its waters all the time."

"Then my father started to come to Miami to fish in the winters. I always came with him. About three or four years ago I began spending nearly all the year here, going out fishing on other people's boats, and finally I asked myself: why not buy one of my own. I did. This is it."

Three Appointed To Plan Board Decline

J. H. Menick, mayor of Longwood, and Frank K. Anderson of Altamonte Springs, have joined W. H. Schmidt of Sanford in declining to serve on the Seminole County Planning Council to which they were appointed by Governor Sholtz. All gave personal reasons in asking the Governor to relieve them of the duties the appointments would entail.

Five residents of the County were appointed to the Council, the other two being Mrs. J. W. Coates of Geneva, and R. L. Glenn of Sanford.

25,000 Word Decision On The "Parity" Law

TALLAHASSEE, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Supreme Court used approximately 25,000 words in presenting its reasons for finding the "parity" law unconstitutional. Justice Fred H. Davis, who wrote the opinion, used 10 pages, of 30 lines each, in giving a statement of the case and a history of public school participation in state finances.

He followed this with the court's opinion, which required 22 pages. Justice Glenn Terrell, dissenting in part from the court's main opinion, used 10 pages in giving his reason.

However, it was not particularly unusual in its length. Frequently, the Supreme Court, in deciding important questions of law, presents its reasons and its findings in written reports that require more than 50 pages.

Big Year For State Market Seen By Mayo

State Agricultural Commissioner Is "Highly Gratified" Over Its Success

State May Lease Old Lumber Yard

Sheds Could Be Used For Needed Cafe And A Bunk House

Forecasting a big year for the state farmers' wholesale market in Sanford, N. H., than Mayo, state agricultural commissioner, told the market committee today he is "highly gratified" over the success of the market.

State Market Commissioner L. M. Rhodus also complimented the local committee on its conduct of the big plant, and the two state officials were pleased with the situation that they stated they had no intention of the committee to serve another year.

As for the crop prospects, the agricultural commissioner said that this year's fruit is of the finest quality and that the grapefruit crop will be the best in years. Stars are good, he said.

Seminole County Ranks Second In Truck Shipments

Seminole county ranks second among all the counties of Florida in shipments of fruit and truck according to Walter F. Fuller's Florida News and Economic Service, issued from St. Petersburg on Oct. 19. The county tops the list in Fuller's tabulation, the other counties in order, with Seminole in second place, being Palm Beach, Orange, Dade, Lake Broward, Manatee, Hillsborough, Pinellas, Alachua, St. Johns, Sarasota, Marion, Lee, Highlands, Suwannee, Sumpter, Hardee and Collier.

In his market review Fuller says that Department of Agriculture reports indicate that Florida grapefruit will be 34 percent below last year, while California, Texas and Arizona will be up 19 percent. A total of 17,500,000 boxes for the nation is estimated as compared to 21,567,000 in 1934. "While Florida should profit by the shortage, first movement of hurricane drops and green fruit in the face of a newly created citrus commission supposed to halt such practices, plunged prices to where an effort was made to call a recess. So far the commission has done two things, created a third standard grade of fruit which lifts the social status of culls and the awarding of a $400,000 advertising contract, funds to be derived from an assessment on each box of fruit."

Ex-Mess Sergeant Never Served Meal Like Legion Feed

The Rev. J. H. Root, pastor of the First Congregational Church, was the mess sergeant of an infantry outfit at Camp Upton during the World War. He is chaplain of the local post of the American Legion, and when Commander L. F. Boyle came around with a big pot of stew to fill the plates for the second or third time at last night's Legion dinner the Rev. Root remarked: "I never saw a meal like this served in the army." "You bet your life you didn't," declared Fred Terrence, who sat next to the minister. "If we had had this here yet," Price Angel conceded the stew, and he did a good job at it, the fellows declared.

More Than 100 Attend Dinner Of The Legion

Officers Of District And Delegation Of DeLand At Meeting In Hut Last Night

Never before in the history of Camp Leaning Post of the American Legion of Sanford, according to officers of that organization of former service men, was there such a large attendance as at last night's dinner served in the Legion Hut on Lake Front Boulevard. Plates were laid for more than 100, and even then a number of the fellows had to stand while they partook of the meal of Brunswick stew, corn bread, pickles and beer or coffee.

For dessert, the ex-soldiers and ex-sailors were regaled with a team of funny stories, and a few more serious remarks from officers of the Fourth District of the American Legion.

Metropolitan Press Devotes Much Space To Articles On Florida Cross-State Canal

Only Immediate Abandonment Of Project Will Satisfy Opponents, Readers Of New York Newspapers Are Told

Developing into quite a "war" correspondent, Frank Kay Anderson, secretary of the Central and South Florida Water Conservation Committee which is opposing construction of the Cross State Ship Canal, breaks into the metropolitan press with two long articles Sunday on the canal. Stories nearly two columns long were carried under the name of Frank Anderson "by line" in the New York Herald-Tribune, illustrated by three large pictures of Florida scenes, and in the New York Times, embellished with a picture of a cabbage palm and a map of Florida showing the route of the proposed canal.

In each article Mr. Anderson points out the anticipated harmful effects the canal would have on the water supply in this section of the state, and in the Herald-Tribune article he says that the fight over the canal "threatens to intensify the rivalry between northern and southern Florida and to spur the movement to divide the land into two states." This article closes with the statement that "seemingly, nothing will satisfy opponents of the canal except complete and immediate abandonment of the project, and apparently they have the people of Florida behind them."

Dividend Payment Is Made Today To Bank Depositors

Patrons Of Defunct Institution Get A 1.8 Pct. Refund

Depositors in the old Seminole County Bank, now in process of liquidation, today received a small refund. A dividend of 1.8 percent was paid. The total amount of the dividend is approximately $21,000.

Checks, all of them for small amounts, according to J. V. Chapman, agent for the liquidators, were signed in advance by the state comptroller, and were ready for depositors when they called at the Sanford Atlantic National Bank. The checks were made out for between 700 and 800 persons.

Mr. Chapman said, but not all of them had called at the Sanford Atlantic National Bank at the close of banking hours, though there was a long line at the counter from 9 A. M. when the bank opened, until 2 P. M. when it closed.

Mr. Chapman said that those who did not get their dividend checks today will be taken care of through the mails.

Younger Business Men To Advertise Fishing, Hunting

Junior Trade Body To Buy Space In Big National Magazine

Advertisements are to be inserted by the Sanford Junior Chamber of Commerce in the December, January and February issues of "Field and Stream," a national magazine with a circulation of 150,000, describing Sanford as a sportsman's paradise. Hunting, fishing and golf will be stressed in the ads.

Decision to embark on this somewhat extensive advertising campaign was made at last night's meeting of the younger business men, held in the Valley Hotel.

To "back up" the advertising, local hardware stores and dealers in sporting goods will be asked to arrange for guides for a President M. J. Rayburn of the Junior Chamber of Commerce said, "we don't want to bring sports men down here and then not be able to tell them where they can get the best fishing and hunting." J. H. Trulock is in charge of the stores.

The Junior trade body is to give its help to the movement to get an athletic field in Sanford before another year. H. J. Powers was appointed chairman of a committee to work with other organizations on the project.

Named In Violation Of Arms Embargo

Government Officials Say

There were indications from Paris and Rome today that efforts for peace are shaping up. It was expected that the terms for ending the conflict against Hitler Selassie's empire would be transmitted to London and then to the League of Nations through Premier Laval of France.

While Mussolini and Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador, have been trying to attack the tense feeling between Rome and London, one of the day's developments was likely to end the strained relationship.

The Italians barred from circulation in Italy the London Daily Telegraph, a conservative newspaper, and regarded its political circles as the mouthpiece of Captain Anthony Eden, Britain's leader at Geneva. All was said to be quiet on the Ethiopian war fronts today.

Hoare is hopeful of a solution. Parliament is told of plans made to end African war.

Storm Takes Toll Of Dead, Injured In Jamaica, Cuba

Large Destruction Of Property In The Islands Is Reported

Deaths and enormous destruction of property were left today in the wake of a mad October hurricane, which raked Jamaica and eastern Cuba. Three persons reported killed, and many injured when the howling winds engulfed Santiago, Cuba, last night with tearing winds of 70 miles an hour or more.

Santiago's streets were littered with the debris and wrecked buildings. Wireless messages related how the roof of a hospital was torn away by storm and the electric light plant disabled.

There was a scarcity of milk and bread. Two persons were said to have drowned in Jamaica in the raging floods left by torrential rains which accompanied the hurricane.

Property damage on the island, estimated at two and one-half millions, was confined largely to banana plantations which had already suffered greatly in the September storm. Growers in some cases were said to be appealing to government for aid.

Rogers' Birthday Set For Receiving Funds For Memorial To Him

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, World War ace, writes friends in Sanford that contributions for the Will Rogers memorial will be received on Nov. 4, the 5th anniversary of the humorist's birth, and up to Thanksgiving Eve. Rickenbacker is director of the operations committee of the Will Rogers Memorial Commission, with head offices in New York.

"It is the aim of the committee," Rickenbacker writes, "that there be millions of friendship contributions to the memorials fund, rather than large sums from a few associates. Every dollar subscribed will be expended for the memorials organization costs are defrayed by the aviation industry."

It is not known exactly what form the memorials will take. Certainly, it is agreed, there will be no cold shaft of marble for this warm, friendly man. Rather they will be living, continuing memorials to be used for charitable, educational and humanitarian purposes.

Annual Red Cross Roll Call Begins On Armistice Day

Setting the Seminole County quota at $100,000, the directors of the American Red Cross, meeting in Orlando yesterday, fixed the dates of the Armistice Day Roll Call to Nov. 11 for the annual Red Cross Roll Call to be held in the district.

Miss Elizabeth Ann D. Frost, Seminole County chairman, T. W. Lawton, roll call chairman, and Mrs. A. W. Knox represented Seminole county at the conference. The district includes the counties of Duval, Orange, Volusia, and Ocala.

The main speaker at the conference was Carl Hunt, director of the eastern division of the state, who made a plea for funds for the society. He called attention to the fact that during the last nine years the State of Florida had contributed $1,900,000 to the Red Cross Society, but that during that period the society had spent more than $7,000,000 in relief work in this State.
