... AND SO LIFE GOES ON IN FLOOD REFUGEE CAMPS

Funny sights and pathetic sights go hand in hand in the concentration camps of the flood refugees. For example: No. 1—Baby's diaper has to be changed, flood or no flood. And so Inez Murphy, 8, goes about the job in a matter-of-fact way for the benefit of little Sister Bernice in a Memphis camp. No. 2—"Please, mister, more beans," begs the oldest of the Walker boys in a camp at Kennett, Mo. Even the flood can't stop young appetites. No. 3—Their home at present is a Memphis camp, but little Bonnie Rutledge, 3, mothers her doll and finds comfort. No. 4—Fleeing ahead of the high water, this Arkansas mother and her children stopped by the road near Barton to visit a lift. No. 5—Love—and the leave—shield Mr. and Mrs. Dewey from some of their misery at Memphis. They've been married five months. No. 6—Tired from the long travel from flooded territory, this little girl surrendered to the sandman before she could be assigned to a camp in Memphis. (Associated Press Photos)

REFUGEES ON THE MARCH FROM DANGER ZONES

Warned that a "super flood" may cover wide areas in the lower Mississippi valley, refugees by the thousands are hurrying from their lowland homes to higher ground. MAROONED—AND NOT A SWIMMER IN THE LOT!

So hurriedly did thousands of lowland families flee flood water in the Mississippi valley that cattle, horses and poultry were abandoned to their fate in the rising torrents. These chickens were seen huddled on a roof near New Madrid, Mo., awaiting death by drowning or starvation. (Associated Press Photo)

DEVASTATED LOUISVILLE IN GRIP OF MARTIAL LAW

With 230,000 of her 330,000 population homeless, the city of Louisville, Ky., called federal troops to enforce martial law. This striking aerial view (taken by an American Airlines plane) gives a vivid picture of the extent to which flood water has devastated the city. Twenty thousand people remained to be removed from their flooded homes in low-lying districts. (Associated Press Photo)

REFUGEES SAVE THEMSELVES AND CATTLE TOO

Unwilling to abandon their cattle to the swirling flood water, these negroes loaded the beasts on a crude raft and poled the craft 12 miles to safety. The rowlocks attached to the rear of the raft carried 200 women of the family. They are shown landing near Whitehall, Ark. (Associated Press Photo)

Murphy Again Seeks Ground For Solution

Michigan Governor Calls Conference Of Interests Affected By Strike

Period Of Truce Main Objective

Plant Occupancy By 'Sit-Downers' Is Great Obstacle

DETROIT, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Governor Frank Murphy resumed his efforts to find a basis for solution of the paralyzing General Motors strikes today, as he again called to the conference table representatives of the Corporation and United Automobile Workers' Union and the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The third meeting of conferees, summoned at the wish of the President of the United States, assembled in the chambers of Recorder's Judge George Murphy, brother of the governor.

It was in the same room that the governor, William S. Kaudren, executive vice-president of General Motors, John L. Lewis, head of the Co., Homer Martin U. A. W. A. president, and John Thomas Smith, of the General Motors counsel, conferred for more than eight hours in two sessions yesterday.

It was learned authoritatively that Governor Murphy was seeking to arrange a truce period during which final settlement negotiations might be carried on. These sources indicated a final solution of the strikes was not the subject under discussion.

Continued occupancy of General Motors plants by strikers has presented one of the major obstacles to a settlement conference, the Corporation heretofore having insisted plants must be vacated before such negotiations could begin.

The Corporation obtained an order of injunction at Flint, Mich., Feb. 3, at 11:30 P. M. yesterday as the deadline but apparently because of the conference now in progress, will hold a demand that it be enforced when sit-down strikers defied its terms and remained in possession.

Flint remained quiet today after yesterday's demonstration by strikers, pickets and women's "emergency brigade."

February Discount On State, County Taxes One Percent

State and County taxes for 1936 tentatively during February are subject to a one percent discount, the last available on last year's taxes.

Collector Jno. D. Jinks said today, beginning with four percent in November, discounts reduce one percent per month through February. Bills are payable at par in March and become delinquent on April 1.

Mr. Jinks pointed out that the February discount is equivalent to an annual rate of six percent.

He said many large corporations paying taxes in this County take advantage of the four percent reduction by settling their tax bills in November.

Simulated activity was felt in the collector's office late last month as several property owners rushed to benefit the January discount.

Tree-Planting Program Is Complete For Monday

Plan Ceremony To Honor Memory Of Gen. Henry Sanford; City Zoological Garden Chosen As Site

A complete program for tree planting ceremonies on Monday to honor the memory of Gen. Henry Sanford, founder of the City, was announced today by Mrs. R. J. Holly, conservation chairman for the Sally Harrison Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution.

Scene of the activity will be in zoological garden near City Hall, and the program will begin promptly at 4 P. M.

Principal addresses will be made by Mrs. J. N. Whitner and City Commissioner W. A. Lettler.

The complete program: Invocation, by Rev. E. D. Brownlee.

America, by the Seminole High School band under direction of Prof. P. M. Dullison.

Greetings, by Mrs. Holly. Planting of tree, by Mrs. Whitner and Commissioner Lettler.

Historical essay, by Helen Chapman, finalist in State-wide competition for Bachelor's Gold Medal.

Selections, by High School Band.

In urging a large attendance at the affair, Mrs. Holly said: "It is customary for many women's organizations to plant memorial trees as a tribute to their founders or to distinguished personages of history."

"During Founder's Day celebrations, Saturday and Sunday, the Sally Harrison Chapter, D.A.R. and other organized groups and citizens of Seminole County will carry on that custom by joining in the tree-planting in commemoration of the City's 100th anniversary."

Senior High Girl Offers Skit Before Seminole Students

A skit by Miss Pauline Dale, senior high school student was presented during the chapel period of Seminole High School today.

The play, entitled "The Meeting of the W. O. T. M. Club," was the student's first and consumed about 15 minutes. W. O. T. M., it was shown, represented "Women on the Mountain," cast was as follows:

Lucille Laughter, Evelyn Cates, Minnie Strange, Miss Dale, Mildred Hodges, Martha Adams, Dorothy Mitchell, Virginia McRory, Amoret Peters, Marie Adams, Laura Whiddon and Danny Altman as a little boy, and Bralley Odham as an old man.

Hospital Report Shows Advances Over Past Years

Local Residents Inclined To Accept Treatment's Here

A steady advance in the volume of activity at Fernald Loughton Memorial Hospital was reflected in a comparative statement, covering four years, released today by the institution's Board of Directors.

Compiled data shows the 12 months of 1936 set a record in the number of patients treated with 557 persons having been admitted. In 1935 the figure was 424; 1934 recorded at 476, and 1935 established at 511.

Collections, as was previously reported, totaled $18,911, a 12 per cent increase over $16,800 beyond the income of 1935. The nearest approach was 1935 when $13,431 passed into the treasury.

Directors were inclined to look at the financial and patient data reports as ones which mirrored a growing tendency of Seminole County residents to take their hospitalizations at home.

Daily operating costs at the hospital mounted in proportion to the rise in income. Analysis of the annual report reveals, for example, that the expense per day amounted to $19.50, while in 1935 the cost was $15.24.

The number of patient-days on the institution's records increased in 1936 by almost 100 over the nearest approach recorded in 1934 when the total hit 14,311.

Average number of patients per day for the last year was 10.2, approached nearest by 1934 with 9.1 per day.

The following cash donations were acknowledged in the report: Rotary Club, $40; City of Sanford, $1,250; Hospital Day collections, $2,500; S. A. N. B. dividend, $55; First National Bank dividend, $7.00.

12-Year-Old Girl Dies In Jax; Rites Are Here Tomorrow

Funeral services for Minnie Mae Goodwin, 12, will be held at 10 A. M. Friday from the grave side in Lakeview Cemetery.

Miss Goodwin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Goodwin of this City, succumbed last Tuesday night in a Jacksonville hospital. She had been an invalid for several years.

The body arrived here yesterday. Surviving, other than the parents, is one younger sister, Maggie.

Man's Effort Slowly Wins Flood Fight

Upper Mississippi Regarded As Safe; Lower Valley Now Region Of Danger

MEMPHIS, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The tide of battle against record flood crests ran favorably today along the upper Mississippi but the war to save the valley from untold disaster was not yet won.

Army engineers, who are directing the nation's greatest anti-flood offensive, remained confident of victory but pointed out crests now passing Cairo, Ill., will test hundreds of miles of burdened levees before they reach the Gulf some two weeks hence.

Danger lurked at every bend in the 1,000-mile sweep from Cairo to New Orleans, and there was no relaxation of effort among 120,000 peck and shovel laborers working day and night protecting the south's most fertile farm lands.

Cairo's struggle was far from over—the situation at Hickman remained critical—and the worst of the river's rampage remained ahead for Mallowood and Ferguson in Arkansas, and the secondary levee system in Northwest Tennessee awaited its most serious test.

However, crest waters flowed by Cairo with a full three feet of sea-level left on the city's flood defenses.

New Speaker Added To Townsend Club Friday Night Fete

J. P. Bartlett, an organizer for the Democratic party, will be added to the speaker's list prepared for the Sanford Townsend Club program tomorrow night.

W. H. Hughes, president of the local pension club, said Bartlett had been active with the National Farmers' Union of America and organized labor in the past four years.

This topic for Friday will be "National Recovery."

Judge E. F. Housholder is slated to speak before the assembly at 7:30 o'clock while Bartlett is to appear at 8 o'clock.

A social hour, covered dish supper and entertainment is slated to begin at 6:30 o'clock. The public is invited to attend the function.

Divisional Chief Of Salvation Army To Visit Here Friday

Col. H. H. Bays, divisional commander of the Salvation Army, will pay an official visit here tomorrow with the divisional financial secretary, Maj. Charles H. Dudd, Capt. Fred Feren of the local Salvation Army Post, announced today.

In connection with the stop here by the officials, open air services will be held at the Army home on Second Street at 7 P. M., while in-home services are billed for 8 P. M. The public is invited.

In another statement today, Capt. Feren announced the local post had collected $70 and two large boxes of supplies for flood sufferers.

Kin Of Sanford's Founder Is Married

Miss Jane Sanford, daughter of John Sanford relative of the founder of this City, was married in Palm Beach yesterday to Mario Pansa, Italian diplomat.

The event was a highlight of the social season and was attended by 50 relatives and friends and followed by a reception at which about 250 members of the smartest society were guests.

STUDENT ARRESTED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(AP)—J. Edgar Hoover said today Department of Justice agents had arrested Sidney L. Reynolds, 19-year-old University of Alabama sophomore, on charges of attempting to export $7,000 from Mrs. H. D. Warner, wife of a Tuscaloosa, Ala., paper manufacturer.

Social Welfare Board Reviews Year's Program

56 Receive Pensions In Seminole Area; List Major Jobs

Fifty-six persons in Seminole County today are receiving old age assistance, according to an annual report of District 12, State Board of Social Welfare, received here today.

Social workers set forth that they regarded the administration of the pensions as one of the organization's major achievements in the past 12 months.

Another outstanding achievement, the report asserts, was the opening of a child welfare center in Volusia county where a program is in effect designed to correct home conditions which cause dependency or child delinquency.

When on Dec. 1, 1935, the Federal Government cut off direct relief grants, the District Board met the problem of unemployment by assisting in the relief fund.

Along the same line, the Board and its staff arranged for instruction care of children, gave their services to State institutions, conducted surveys of the number of needy people eligible for assistance through provisions of the Social Security Act and cleared— (Continued on Page Two)

School Project Financing Told To School Board

Wilson Explains Proposed Legislation To Pay For Plans

The County School Board yesterday afternoon heard Anthony Fred R. Wilson explain proposed legislation designed to authorize the issuance of time warrants to finance 55 percent of a tentative five-year improvement program.

Mr. Wilson pointed out that funds from the sale of the certificates would be combined with grants from the Federal Government totaling 15 percent of project costs—for the consummation of the long-time plan.

However, the attorney called attention to the fact that the legislation is still in a formative stage only, particularly emphasizing that legal opinion had not yet settled on the constitutionality of the proposal to issue warrants for such a purpose.

County Superintendent F. W. Lawton explained to the Board that approximately $600,000 in proposed school projects had been planned in the Seminole section.

The Board voted to permit all teachers to attend the annual convention of the Florida Educational Association in Orlando, Mar. 18, 19 and 20. Regular salaries will continue if the instructors are present, otherwise pay for the three days will be deducted from the monthly envelope.

Authorization was given to the purchase of a five-acre tract in the Midway section where a new primary school building is to be erected to replace the structure that burned last year at a loss of approximately $7,500.

The appointment of Miss Elizabeth Akin as girls' physical education instructor in Seminole High School was confirmed.

During the morning session yesterday, School Board members re-elected Fred Williams as chairman of the organization.

Seminole County Exhibit Is Tenth At Tampa Display

Seminole County's winter vegetable and citrus exhibit in the Tampa State Fair yesterday captured tenth place among other counties competing and won a $100 cash prize, the Associated Press reported today.

The display was entered by the Seminole Chapter of Future Farmers of America which also is sponsoring a meat exhibit, although the latter has not been judged.

Manatee County won first place in the vegetable exhibit and was awarded each prize totaling $1,200.

Other winners in their order are Alachua, Polk, DeSoto, Lake, Highlands, Pinellas, Levy, Volusia and DuSoto and Seminole.

Safety Buttons Are Placed At Corners To Warn Motorists

Red reflecting "safety eyes" have been placed at dangerous street intersections throughout the City as a warning for motorists to use caution, Police Chief Roy Williams said today.

According to a plan mapped out by the police officer, the buttons will be located at some 20 intersections here when the Safety program is completed. It is being carried out by stages.

Titanic Conflict Brings Hush Over Sector Of Madrid

The Associated Press—Spain's insurgent legions on land, water and in the air—started their "big push" against Malaga today in an effort to chip off that strategic Mediterranean shipping center from the remainder of Government-held Spain.

Fascist and Socialist troops contending for the occupation of the southern seaport clashed along the Mediterranean coast. Reports reaching Gibraltar said insurgent soldiers driving eastward from Marbella occupied Ojen town five miles north.

A Fascist fleet of warships steamed out of Algeiras shortly before dawn on route to a position off Malaga.

Several truck loads of wounded arrived at La Lirca and San Roque where sounds of gunfire were faintly heard. Wounded soldiers said "a fierce battle is raging with the Government troops defending their positions desperately against a major Fascist attack."

They declared many Socialist Government militiamen had fallen in defense of Ojen and during the fighting in hills surrounding Government fortifications.

A comparative lull fell over Madrid's battlefronts.

New Hearing Given Proposed Waterway Affecting Sanford

The proposed St. Johns River-Indian River Canal had been granted a rehearing today, according to an announcement made in Tallahassee Wednesday by Karl Lehmann, secretary of the St. Johns River Improvement Association.

A review of reports was authorized by the House Rivers and Harbors Committee which directed the War Department to again study data compiled when the waterway was planned.

Mr. Lehmann, according to press reports, said additional data concerning the channel will be assembled at the annual meeting of the association in the near future.

With the completion of the channel, it would be possible for boats of considerable draft to enter the St. Johns at Jacksonville, navigate the stream to Sanford, then enter the Indian River at Tusculum without returning to Jacksonville as is now necessary.

Woodmen To Choose Confab Delegates

Sanford Woodmen of the World tonight will select two delegates to represent the local organization at the State Head Camp slated to convene in Ocala on Apr. 19 and 20.

This is the first year in the history of the Sanford unit that the membership has been large enough to permit sending two representatives to a convention.

Tonight's session begins at 7:30.

Paradoxical as it may seem, if this flood continues much longer some of those Mississippi valley cities will have a lot of trouble floating their bonds.

Flood victims are said to be suffering as much from the cold as from the flood. That's another advantage which hurricanes have. They usually come in the summer.

Now that National Guardsmen have formed a "ring of steel" around General Motors plants and have issued orders that anyone may come out, but no one may in, it would seem to us that old John Lewis himself should be the first one to see whether they really open it.

Old Methods Still Good

For some weeks now the "sit down" strike in the General Motors plants seems to have had the officials of that concern as well as the heads of the various governmental departments up the wall known tree, but the feeling has grown in the last few days that the courts, backed up by the National Guard, may soon find some way of dealing with the situation.

An importation from Europe, where it once completely paralyzed Italian industry until Benito Mussolini smashed the strikers with his iron fist, and where more recently it has played havoc in France, the "sit down" strike is something new to this country. It naturally creates a situation where a handful of workers can dictate not only to management but also to the majority of workers simply by refusing to work themselves, or to allow anyone else to take their place.

"The aim of the 'sitdown' strike is to cripple the industry not only directly but by subjecting it to the pressure of competition by rival companies," explains the New York Times. "They are expected to rush in and take away a part of the business in General Motors. The whole is done in a domineering, arbitrary and reckless spirit, which we have never before encountered in the activities of organized labor on so great a scale. Against its novel methods and disregard of the rights of others, there are some who fear that we have no efficient ways of protecting ourselves and the public.

"On reflection and after a little time, however, this apprehension will diminish. It will be found that old ways of defense are still available against new forms of attack. The laws are yet on the statute books which prevent you from seizing my property and forbidding me to make use of it. The long cultivated dislike or even hatred of monopoly can easily be turned against monopolistic claims and acts in the name of organized labor.

"It is no more agreeable to be hampered and exploited by groups of laboring men than by groups of promoters and capitalists. Nor is the love of fair play to be left out of the reckoning. When a hundred thousand men want to go back to work and are ordered not to do so by 6,000 men and their leaders, we all feel that here is an intolerable condition which cannot long endure. With this resource against labor extremists and monopolists goes the American belief in rule by the majority. Mr. Lewis has assumed that his minority has all the rights of a majority. That will not go in the United States.

"The American people have been patient and tolerant while this new form of domination was being set up. They have waited and watched to see whereto this thing will grow. But they have not admitted that they are powerless against it, and when the time comes will be prepared to show that the weapons which they have forged against old wrongs can be used against new ones. To the public men who are ready to lead in doing this, they will rise in no uncertain temper and with overwhelming support."

Tax Exempt Security

If Horace Greeley were alive today he would probably say, "Go into politics, young man." For not only are the opportunities for those who choose public office holding as a career vastly increasing as compared with the chances for success in other fields of endeavor, but also what is even more important the salaries of public officials are exempt from most of the taxes which are proving so burdensome for most of us.

"The employees of the Federal Government are exempt from state income taxes," writes Westbrook Pegler in the New York World Telegram. "The employees of states, counties and cities are exempt from the federal tax. Not only that, but certain state officials drawing big salaries out of the kitty provided largely by the income taxes of their fellow citizens are exempt from both state and federal assessments on their pay.

"The Governor of New York, for example, heads a long list of high-salaried public officials who do not have to pay any tax on their public salary." Mr. Pegler continues. "The Governor gets $25,000 a year—a figure that would make a marked man of him if he were working for a private employer. But his is what is known as a constitutional office, so his $25,000 is all his own. The Lieutenant Governor, at $10,000 a year, enjoys the same immunity, and so do certain judges.

"These learned and public spirited ornaments of the state government draw from $15,000 to $22,500 a year and keep it all, whereas a single-handed clerk or mechanic employed by a business firm at $100 a month is expected to shower down to both national and state treasuries. The members of the New York Legislature receive $2,500 a year, or, roughly, twice as much for their part-time work as the taxpaying $100-a-month man, but they, too, are constitutional officers and thus exempt.

"And, of course, there are also millions of commissioners, mayors, aldermen, school teachers, policemen, firemen, governors, attorneys general, prosecutors, treasurers, sheriffs and patriots of a hundred other classifications who have never felt the pains so familiar to common clay."

Agricultural Unit To Spend $600,000 On Egg Purchases

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department reported yesterday that more than $600,000 in Federal funds had been spent in the egg buying program intended to raise the farm price of that commodity.

Department spokesman said most of the eggs acquired would be distributed in flood areas. Secretary Wallace recently explained the Government stepped into the egg market because there was "too large a spread between the price paid the farmers and the price paid by consumers."

He said this difference averaged 13.9 cents in the New York markets early in January, but that the Government program had reduced it an average of 7.5 cents. Wallace added that the egg buying program "is a good example of the way the Government helps the consumers when it helps the farmers with a sound program."

surplus eggs would encourage the farmer to maintain their poultry flocks and prevent a shortage in flocks later on that might cause sharp increases both in the price of eggs and poultry.

Grasshopper eggs are buried four or five inches in the soil and are not killed by freezing temperatures as many insect eggs are.

A census of London business firms disclosed a private bank in the city had operated without a break since the reign of King Charles the Second in the seventeenth century.

In summing up the results of the year, the district report asserts: "In many ways, Florida was blighting a new trail in its search on the difficulties which beset thousands of needy citizens in the State.

"Florida was first to institute a welfare program to be administered by district boards composed of prominent men and women from all walks of life. These citizens to serve as members of the various boards were businessmen and women outstanding in civic enterprises and they were appointed as State officials for definite terms of office."

LIBELLED LADY

Shower is Given For Bride-Elect

Miss Margarita Bailey, bride-elect, whose marriage to Ralph W. Myrick will be an event of the evening, was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given last night by Mrs. C. H. Davidson at her home in Lake Mary. The rooms of the Hamilton home were decorated with a profusion of pink gladioli and fern, which carried out a color scheme of pink and green.

As the guests arrived they were short notes of advice and good wishes in the bride's book, and during the evening Miss Service Edmondson played several selections and Miss Mary Ellen Bailey, sister of the bride, gave a reading. Miss Bailey was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

Last in the evening Mrs. Donaldson, assisted by Mrs. W. A. Brown, and the Misses Grace Whiddon, Irene Appleby, Betty Brown and Mary Ellen Bailey served refreshments to the following guests: Miss Margarita Bailey, honor guest; Mrs. J. S. Tillis, Mrs. Donnie Tillis, Mrs. Edna K. Kridger, Mrs. Lonnie McMullen, Mrs. Harry Bradham, Mrs. J. M. Hayes, Mrs. J. H. Myrick, Mrs. J. D. Cochran, Mrs. Merrill Roberts, Mrs. Ellis Lloyd, and the Misses Johnnie Lou Myrick, Sara Myrick, and Antoinette Hayes of Sanford.

And the following guests from Lake Mary: Mrs. Howard Boteler, Mrs. E. A. Douglas, Mrs. J. A. Peckham, Mrs. Albert Shriner, Mrs. Dick Skewes, Mrs. Roy Howell, Sr., Mrs. Harvey Pugh, Mrs. Homer Gleason, Mrs. John Reeves, Miss Grace Hunkins, Mrs. Horace Cochran, Miss Johnnie Lee Singfield, Mrs. L. C. Tillis, Miss Nell Singfield, Miss Bontzie Appleby, and R. H. Kubank.

Also Mrs. Hubbard Eubanks, Mrs. William Musgrove, Mrs. C. H. Elms, Mrs. William Brown, Mrs. Robert True, Mrs. J. M. Thompson, Mrs. Frank Minchens, Mrs. Raymond Ball, Mrs. George Hill, Miss Luvera Smith, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Hood, Miss G. M. Budd, Mrs. Earnest Lagerstrom, Miss Bernice Edmondson, Mrs. M. G. Miller, Mrs. William Dunn, Mrs. Charles Whitaker, Mrs. Albert Whitaker Sr., Mrs. Mary Harris and Mrs. Robinson.

Circle Number Two of the First Methodist Church met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. D. Shoemaker on Park Avenue, with Mrs. C. C. Priest and Mrs. Shoemaker acting as hostesses.

The devotional was conducted by Mrs. Mary E. Haines and Mrs. Priest led in prayer. Mrs. A. D. Shoemaker, vice-chairman, presided over the business meeting at which time plans were made for the year's work. The Ways and Means committee submitted their plans for approval and asked for further suggestions from members of the circle.

At the social hour refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. Lola LeGette, Mrs. R. W. Turner, Mrs. Brodie Williams, Mrs. W. M. Tetric, Mrs. J. B. Crawford, Mrs. M. E. Haines, Mrs. A. D. Zachary, Miss Beulah Zachary, Mrs. J. E. Bridges, Mrs. J. Frank Dodge and Miss Jewell Waddell.

THE FUGITIVE'S RETURN

A poignant moment in the screen-play, "The Plough and the Stars," showing at the Ritz Theater tomorrow, is this scene of the return of her husband to his young bride, played respectively by Preston Foster, featured, and Barbara Stanwyck, starred. The picture is an adaptation of the widely acclaimed Irish drama by Sean O'Casey, which was presented in Dublin and elsewhere first by the Abbey Players. Several members of this group were brought to America to take part in the film directed by John Ford, who likewise directed that other play of Irishmen in revolt, "The Informer."

'I Didn't Do It'

"...a light smoke is a joy to the throat"

"Before I came over to this country an English cigarette appealed to me because it was firmly packed. In America I tried various popular brands looking for the same virtue. Lucky Strike led all the rest. And what's more—I soon discovered that Luckies were a light smoke and a positive joy to the throat."

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Marshall verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen, and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. Roosvelt Asks U. S. to Help Solve Europe's Crisis

Steps To Break Deadlock Asked By Foreign Policy Head

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—President Roosevelt has asked the United States to help solve the European crisis by breaking the deadlock between the democracies and the dictators.

Electric Motor Repairs-Rewinding

Hofmann Electric Service
Phone 181 200 Magnolia Sanford, Fla.

Raymond Leslie Buell, president of the Foreign Policy Association, discussing the European situation, which he said, will lead to "chaos or reconstruction."

"Until a political understanding is reached between Germany and the outside world, no economic concessions or arms reduction are possible. President Roosevelt, occupying a unique position as a world statesman, may hasten such an understanding if he is willing to assume certain responsibilities."

"While no one expects the United States to guarantee any European boundary lines, it will have to be made clear that the government will oppose any European act of aggression to the extent of shutting off arms and loans to the aggressors and of acquiescing in League sanctions along the lines outlined by Ambassador Norman Davis in his declaration of May, 1933. The advantages gained from such a course would be destroyed, however, if the United States stopped the shipment of raw materials to all belligerents."

"If the Roosevelt administration, because of isolationist sentiment in the House, or the sweeping outcries of many pacifists, is unwilling to assume the responsibility involved in a diplomatic initiative, it can merely continue a policy of watchful waiting, hoping that Britain and France may reach a political understanding with Germany which will make possible the realization of American desires with regard to world trade and disarmament. This hope may in the end prove vain, for Europe may be so evenly divided that only outside mediation can break the present deadlock."

Criticizing so-called mandatory neutrality legislation as a policy which will "increase the trend toward autarchy," Mr. Buell proposes a "cash and carry" policy as a provisional compromise.

"The only sound 'neutrality' policy for the United States during the present transitional period should be based on a 'cash and carry' policy. Under this principle any belligerent may be allowed to buy war materials in the United States in return for cash, and provided he carries them away in his own vessels. Thus the American government would avoid the old disputes with regard to neutral rights and freedom of the seas."

How Britain Met Strike Peril: '27 Act Limited Union Scope In Both Finance And Politics

By ARTHUR E. HARN

Many persons in the United States, frightened at what they fear to be the ultimate goal of John L. Lewis and his Committee for Industrial Organization, are now talking about the necessity of protecting the public, employees and non-militant labor by the passage of a law similar to the trades and disputes and trades union act, 1927, passed by the British government after the general strike in Great Britain in the spring of 1926.

There are made a general strike illegal, outlawed the "sympathetic" and political strike and sought to minimize labor's collective political power. The British law was passed by Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's Conservative government because the Conservatives of Great Britain had been thoroughly frightened by the general strike of the year before, and were determined to make its repetition illegal. But the moderate Labor party and trade union leaders of that time were almost as frightened. They realized, before it was over, that a "constitutional" general strike, such as they headed, conducted virtually without violence and not designed to overthrow the government, was bound to fail.

This writer covered the labor-trade union headquarters during their activities and before it was over the leaders admitted they were holding the proverbial tiger by the tail and did not know what to do with it. The left-wing leaders, very much in the minority, were equally disillusioned. They soon came to the conclusion that such a form of general strike was about as punishing to their followers as to the general public and government which they were trying to coerce, and that a mass movement of that nature of a revolution, employing force for the overthrow of the legally constituted government.

With all this in mind, the Conservative Parliament of the day passed a new trade union law which the following were the principal points:

It banned any "sympathetic" strike by the workers in one industry, called merely to aid the workers in another industry who had taken to their work conditions.

It banned employers' lock-outs of a similar nature.

It protected workers or employers from being harassed by their respective union or association for having refused to participate in an illegal strike or lock-out.

It declared illegal strike picketing which employed moral or physical intimidation.

It forbade picketing of workers' homes.

It made it illegal for a union to assess its members for contributions to its "political" fund unless they had agreed to such assessment in writing. Previously, such an assessment was collected under a member specifically "contracted out" of such payment.

It provided that unions keep a separate account of their "political" funds and that the regular funds of the union might be used for political purposes.

It specified that the details of the "political" fund be reported regularly to the Registrar of Friendly Societies, with which names, if not all, British labor unions are registered.

Civil servants were forbidden to be members of any union except one designed purely for the benefit of civil servants, with no political or partisan objects or affiliations. In other words, a typical in the civil service may belong to a civil servants union, but not to an outside union workers union.

I provided three exceptions to this provision. A civil servant might belong to an outside union provided he had been a member for at least six months previous to passage of the law and had acquired pension or benefit rights connected with such membership. He might belong to an outside union if he had been a member before he became a civil servant and had so acquired pension or benefit rights; but he might not hold any office therein. He might belong to the appropriate outside union if he held another job outside of the civil service.

Municipal and public authorities must apply the "open shop" principle with regard to their employees.

Official contracts must not provide for the "closed-shop" in the terms advertised to contractors or suppliers.

It specified that injunctions against the use of union funds in violation of the law might be granted to the Attorney General or to any private person having an interest at stake in such a violation.

The two provisions of the law which aroused the most opposition from British organized labor were those regarding picketing and assessment for the "political" fund.

The picketing restrictions, however, were less of a handicap to British labor than would be similar provisions in this country. The major industries and trades in Great Britain are about 100 percent unionized, and the unions are recognized by the employers. There is rarely any "pick" labor problem for the unions when a strike is on, so that the unrestricted right to picket would be of less value in this country. Furthermore, most of the big unions have long-term contracts with their employers, and there is an elaborate and generally effective system of joint arbitration and conciliation machinery in each trade or industry.

Save in certain coal-mining areas, strikes are usually free from violence and short. Among the industries which are pretty fully unionized, with employer recognition, are mining, engineering and shipbuilding, the building trades, the textile industries, rail, road and water transport, the electrical industry and workers in water-side occupations.

Of the 17,000,000 persons classed as workers in Great Britain, more than 8,000,000 belong to unions af-iliated with the Trades Union Congress, which corresponds to the American Federation of Labor. In 1935 these unions had a total income of about $48,000,000 and invested funds of more than $72,000,000.

In that year 537 unions were registered with the Registrar of Friendly Societies—every union of any importance in the country. This means that the books of those unions are audited by an independent chartered accountant, and there is therefore little of that financial sneaking which is so frequently charged against officials of some labor unions in the United States.

In the provisions regarding the "political" levy, however, the British Tories struck their shrewdest blow against the political power of organized labor. Trade union officials admit, privately, that a distinct financial handicap is imposed on the raising of their political funds because of the psychological difference between trade unionists now having specifically to agree to pay a levy for such a fund, compared with the previous practice whereby a member, under union rules, had specifically to refuse to pay such a levy.

This question of "political" funds is of the utmost importance because the trade union movement in Great Britain depends for its political power on its affiliation with the Labor party and on the combined trade union and Labor party membership in the House of Commons. The trade unions are the chief financial munitioners of the Labor party for propaganda and electioneering, and under the trades disputes and trades union act, 1927, not only is it more than difficult for the unions to raise "political" funds, but, as previously stated, they may not use their general funds for political purposes.

In 1935 British trade unions spent almost $850,000 for political purposes.

Like Kidnaper!

This official sketch was released by the federal bureau of investigation to aid police and agents in their search for the kidnaper of Charles Mattson, 10, in Tacoma, Wash. The bureau said the kidnaper was swarthy, had a dimple in his chin, had high cheek bones and a nose that had been broken. (Associated Press Photo)

Armour's BIG CROP FERTILIZER

"Florida Growers Know What Armour's Will Do"

"For more than forty seasons we've been using Armour's in Florida—and there isn't any question in most of our minds that it's the fertilizer to stick with."

"And I expect a big part of the reason is the way the Armour men first study our crop needs, and then make a fertilizer to fit. So it's natural enough that we get results year after year."

Roosevelt Seeks Law To Increase U.S. High Court

President Proposes To Make Posts For Fifteen Justices On Supreme Bench

Low Tribunals Also Involved

Constitutional Issues Play Major Role In Suggestion

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, in a surprise message to Congress today, recommended a sweeping reorganization of Federal Court machinery including an increase in the number of the Supreme and lower courts and a method for speeding high court decisions on constitutional questions.

In the tentative draft of a bill accompanying his message, the President would give the power to increase the Supreme Court by a maximum of six justices to 15.

It also would empower the President to name additional judges for lower courts to 10 here concentrated courts.

It would prohibit decisions, injunctions and decrees in the lower courts on constitutional questions unless the attorney general was given a notice and the time to be heard.

It would provide a direct and immediate appeal to the Supreme Court on constitutional issues.

Snow, Rudd Named As Delegates For Sanford Woodmen

J. W. Snow and C. B. Rudd were named last night by Sanford Woodmen as official delegates to represent this camp at the State Camp in Ocala April 19 and 20.

Alternates selected were E. B. Phillips and C. G. Hinchliff.

The fraternal organization also had plans to have the uniform tanks of the local lodge demonstrate the initiatory work before the convention.

Also 13 Woodmen are recommended to make the demonstration it was announced.

While the biennial convention is still more than two months ahead, a good percentage of the Sanford lodge has indicated it will attend the session which will draw from every Woodman camp in Florida.

Legionettes Will Stand Inspection By City Commission

Mayor Ed Higgins and the City Commission tonight are scheduled to inspect the Sons of the Legion Drum and Bugle Corps during rehearsal at Legion Hut beginning at 7 o'clock, Percy Mero, American Legion Boys' Work chairman, said today.

The officials are asked to pay an inspection visit in order to get a first-hand view of the accomplishment made by the drummers and buglers, Mr. Mero said.

Sufficient equipment is on hand at present to completely outfit one corps of 16 boys. Additional materials will be ordered tonight from Frank Hazy of Daytona Beach, who is assisting in instructing the local youths.

Peterson Seeks Guard Against Canal Damages

Representative Will Ask U. S. To Take Responsibilities

Florida's Representative J. Hardin Peterson was quoted in Washington yesterday as saying he would "seek to have the Federal Government assume responsibility for any damage resulting from the construction of the proposed Florida Ship Canal."

The Seminole County Agricultural Association eagerly grasped the sentiment, since its members composed one faction which has been campaigning toward that end for months.

Seminole County members of the Florida Water Conservation League also have in Representative Peterson's statement some assurance which the League has aimed since its formation last year in Bradenton.

Peterson, an opponent of the measure, said he would introduce a protective amendment into the omnibus rivers and harbors bill if army engineers report the canal project favorably.

Calling attention to a section of the United States Army's report recommending that the United States be relieved of responsibility, Peterson said he doubted whether he State or the canal district could legally assume the burden of any damage from the measure, and "he would fall upon the individual property owners."

"We said the canal would endanger the entire section's fresh water supply, adding:

"If the Federal Government is unwilling to assume the risk, then in my opinion the Government confesses that the risk is there."

Inspection Of 124 Students Reported By School Nurse

County School Nurse Mrs. Dorothy Lamb inspected 124 school children during the month of January in the office of Superintendent T. W. Lawton.

She also announced that the blue ribbon health program which offers rewards for compliance with certain regulations, had been started in all County institutions below the senior high schools.

Mrs. Lamb said she made 77 visits to schools, visited 14 different schools, tested 11 students for hookworm and found six infected, gave five talks to classes and made three addresses to parents and teacher groups.

The nurse accompanied eight pupils to a physician, one to a dentist and six to their homes.

She traveled 201 miles in the course of her duties and held 101 office interviews.

Townsendites Will Hear Two Speakers

J. P. Bartlett, Democratic organizer in 1932, and E. V. Householder, local attorney, tonight will address members of the Sanford Townsend Club and their guests following a social hour beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

A covered dish supper will be served. The public is invited to attend the function to be held in the Townsend room of the Welaka Building, Railroad Avenue.

'Safety Cruiser' On Visit To City

The Necca safety cruiser, a "boat" traveling on land, stopped here this afternoon, breaking a tour of the country in the interest of fewer accidents on the part of drivers and pedestrians.

Mississippi Effort Fails Against Levee

Rehabilitation Under Way In Ohio Area; Congress Receptive To Flood Measures

MEMPHIS, Feb. 5.—(AP)—A battered but yielding levee line today repulsed the Mississippi River's greatest erosive while rehabilitation, control and relief problems engaged the flood-scourged Ohio River Valley and the nation's Congress.

Army engineers estimated 120,000 river fighters along the Mississippi were keeping the country's worst flood from multiplying in a toll of 281 dead, nearly 1,000,000 homeless and $550,000,000 in property damage.

The Mississippi was receding slowly in the Ohio, Ill., sector. Unless storms send waters smashing against improvised dikes, engineers considered the battle won.

Communication Services Taxed Locally By Flood

Telephone Company's 'Long Haul' Calls Reported Doubled; Telegraph Messages Show Increase

Communication facilities in Sanford were taxed somewhat during the flood crisis, a survey of three firms here today revealed.

E. V. Turner, local Bell Telephone manager, said his "long haul" calls, especially those from the flood area of the middle west, practically doubled while the Ohio River was eroding over his banks.

From the Western Union office, L. Tharp reported a large increase in the transmission of telegrams and money orders sent from Sanford citizens to relatives or friends whose financial resources might have been hurt by the inundation.

A. H. Brock, Postal Telegraph manager, said his company carried a highly noticeable surge in telegrams.

The telegraph companies in the flood regions found one difficulty that did not overcome in many cases there were no residences at the locations to which messages were addressed.

In some instances, telegrams originating here were broadcast via radio in Memphis and Nashville. This method was resorted to only in those instances where the addressee could not be located.

Posts, airplanes and other emergency apparatus were placed in service by the telegraph companies in an effort to deliver messages, it was reported.

Mr. Turner said while scores of long distance calls were entered here, there were surprisingly few which remained incomplete.

A photograph of the prize-winning celery exhibit entered by local Future Farmers of America at the Tampa Fair was on display in a window to attract attention.

The picture shows six rows of growing celery on a platform in the center of the booth. In two back corners are banks of celery neatly arranged to attract attention.

Labels of the various brands of vegetables produced here are displayed prominently in the background.

Thousands visited the exhibit, according to Alex R. Johnson, advisor of the Seminole Chapter, Future Farmers.

Thermometer Takes Long Dive, Hits 46

City Weatherman G. P. Paxon today reported the coldest weather of the current year when he said the thermometer hit 46 below zero last night and sunrise this morning.

Highest recorded in the period from 6 A. M. Thursday to 6 A. M. Friday was 70, Mr. Paxon asserted.

Kidnaped Physician Killed In Ozarks

A week after he mysteriously disappeared from his home at Willow Springs, Mo., Dr. J. C. H. Davis (above) was found shot to death in an Ozark thicket.

Federal agents said Robert Keenan, 20, had confessed he killed the physician after forcing him to write a letter home, begging relatives to pay $5,000 ransom.

Edward Plans To Wed Wally On April Day

Marriage Scheduled In Castle Of Rothschilds Or Vienna; Parliament Objects

VIENNA, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor plans to marry Mrs. Wallis Simpson on April 27th, either at the Enzfeld castle of Baron Eugene Rothschild or in Vienna, a usually reliable source declared today.

This is the exact date on which Mrs. Simpson's divorce decree from Ernest Allrich Simpson supposedly will become final.

The former British monarch was his Geneva to arrive in Vienna on April 24th, the informant said.

The Duke's sister, the Countess of Harewood, is due here Sunday, and they expected to confer on wedding plans.

In London, informed sources said individual members of parliament are attempting to prevent the marriage by marshaling opposition to the proposed $250,000 annual allowance to former King Edward.

Seminole County Named Defendant In Railway Suit

Seminole County was named today along with several other political subdivisions in litigation opened by the Atlantic Coast Line Railway.

County Commissioner Thacher pointed out that his group had taken into consideration and might be able to stretch out contribution "inches" until the next City budget is made.

While Dr. Langley is serving as temporary County physician at a salary of $100 per month, there is no assistant County physician.

In the proposal offered by the Medical Society was the offer to establish a service among member doctors that would make surgical work free to welfare patients provided that a full-time physician was employed who could care for patients after the operations.

Occupational Fee Collections Show Sizable Increase

Intensive police activity has resulted to slightly more than 200 the number of delinquent occupational licenses in Sanford, Miss. Ellen Hoy, City tax collector, announced today.

The assessments were in arrears last October, although several months have been allowed by authorities in which local business institutions and individuals could operate without prosecution.

Turned over to the police department, the list rapidly decreased. Police Chief Roy Williams said every effort will be made to delinquent, carrying cases to court if necessary.

Police had a score of 100 percent in collection last year.

Goodwin Rites Held At Lakeview Tract

Last rites were held today for Miss Minnie Mae Goodwin, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Goodwin, in Lakeview Cemetery with the Rev. W. P. Brooks Jr., officiating.

Miss Goodwin, who had been an invalid for several years, succumbed in Jacksonville Wednesday.

Erickson Funeral Home had charge of arrangements.

Principals Discuss Uniform Systems Of Grading And Honors

School heads in the Sanford vicinity today discussed proposals for a uniform honor roll and a uniform grading system during a monthly session of principals at the Junior High School.

The officials also touched on prospects for the adoption of uniform work books in the major subjects of the classrooms.

Attending the convales were County Superintendent T. W. Lawton, Prof. G. E. McKay, Prof. R. Kipp, Prof. Herman Morris and Mrs. Stella P. Arrington.

Sanford Centennial Observance To Open Under DAR Direction

Medical Society May Decide On Doctor Question To Lift Prices

Langley Serving In Temporary Capacity Until Tuesday Meet

Whether Dr. W. Theo Langley will continue in the capacity of County physician will be determined Tuesday during a convocation of the Seminole County Medical Society, the physician said today.

He announced that he had not permanently accepted the position's appointment which was made early this week by County Commissioners.

Dr. Langley's delay in definite acceptance or rejection, it was understood, is based on a recent recommendation by the Medical Society that a full-time doctor be named by the County.

Tentative negotiations are under way between the City and the County to pool resources and jointly employ a physician who could give his full time to welfare cases.

However, when this proposition was presented to City authorities recently, the municipal Commission pointed out that its budget already had been established, and that the sum allocated for medical services was insufficient for the County's proposal.

County Commissioner Thacher pointed out that his group had taken into consideration and might be able to stretch out contribution "inches" until the next City budget is made.

While Dr. Langley is serving as temporary County physician at a salary of $100 per month, there is no assistant County physician.

In the proposal offered by the Medical Society was the offer to establish a service among member doctors that would make surgical work free to welfare patients provided that a full-time physician was employed who could care for patients after the operations.

Scout Troop Five Slates Full Week Of Activities Here

Boy Scout Troop 5, beginning Sunday, will find Troop 5 with a slate full of activities, Scoutmaster Morris said today.

On Sunday morning the youngsters of the outfit will attend Episcopal Church services in a body.

Tuesday the troop will have a service of Junior High School chapel and has prepared an interesting program.

Sanford Kiwanis on Wednesday night will fetter the youngsters at a banquet in the Junior High School lunch room. One of the guests of honor is to be Scout Executive B. J. Hagwood of Orlando.

Friday the troop will leave here for Camp Winona in Volusia county where it will spend three days.

County's 'Big Tree' Gets Big Play From Northern Visitors

Seminole County's Big Tree near Longwood is receiving a "big play" from northern visitors, the Chamber of Commerce reported today.

Sunday 121 cars, each bearing about five passengers, stopped to see the monarch of the forest, yesterday, during a rainy period, six cars stopped within twenty minutes to see the huge tree.

Ralph Hagwell, Chamber secretary, said the attraction apparently is fairly well-known among the travelers, since many have remarked of having heard of the tree before coming to Florida.

Celery Interests Will Make Move To Lift Prices

Curtailment Of Shipments Proposed As Course Of Action

Celery shippers in the Sanford area will make a definite move tomorrow to boost the current market price of their commodity.

Gus Schmah, president of the Seminole County Agricultural Association, said today that suggestions for the curtailment of shipment of certain sizes of celery were made last night by the Association membership in Seminole High School Auditorium.

It has been proposed that the smaller sizes, numbers 8 and 10, be withheld from the market.

Mr. Schmah said the Association did not advance a proposal on the number of carloads which might be released here today. This matter, he indicated, would rest in the hands of the shippers.

Current records show that an average of 80 carloads of celery per day is being shipped from this vicinity.

President Schmah said that since Sanford is producing about 85 percent of celery hitting the northern markets, he believed that it would be no great effort to control prices through curtailment.

It was recalled that the method had been employed on other occasions and it produced definite and successful results.

A small number of Association members last night expressed themselves in favor of cutting down the celery and letting it remain in the field, Mr. Schmah said, although the majority favored controlled shipping.

Monday Dinner Billed At Woman's Club Seen As Climax To Three-Day Program

Tree-Planting Rite Scheduled

Antique Exhibits On Display In Windows Of Local Stores

By PAT PATTERSON
Sanford will begin the observance of her centennial tomorrow.

Under the sponsorship of the Sallie Harrison Chapter of Daughters of American Revolution, a three-day program has been drawn up to include a wide variety of offerings.

A Monday night dinner at the Sanford Woman's Club will climax the celebration. The affair is to be attended with addresses from well-known Floridians.

Monday afternoon a tree-planting ceremony is scheduled in the biological gardens near City Hall, the function being to perpetuate the memory of Gen. Henry Sanford, founder of the community.

Saturday, Sunday and Monday local stores will exhibit antique displays in which every article will be more than 50 years old, many of them having played an actual part in the City's history.

The complete program for the Woman's Club dinner, to begin at 6:45 P. M., is as follows:

- 1—Invocation, by Dr. J. B. Root.
- 2—Welcome by Mrs. Sam Puckett, regent of the DAR chapter.
- 3—Welcome to the City, by Mayor Edward Huggins.
- 4—Greetings from Rollins College, by Dr. Hamilton Holt.
- 5—The Romance of Florida History, by Mrs. Roland Dean.
- 6—A tribute to Pioneer Families of Sanford, by Algernon Spear.
- 7—General Henry Sanford, by J. C. Chase of Winter Park, president of the Florida Historical Society.
- 8—A toast, by C. D. Lefler, president of the Miami Chamber of Commerce. (Mr. Lefler is the brother of Mrs. Mary Strong and first cousin to W. A. Lefler, M. S. Wiggins and Mrs. Beatrice Perkins, all of this City).

Sportsmen Fined After Hunting On Unmarked Preserve

D. D. Swinson and E. B. Smeak, Daytona Beach sportsmen, were each fined $1 yesterday by County Judge R. W. Ware for hunting on the Celery City bird preserve.

Both men entered complaints that the reservation was marked in no way, consequently, they said, neither could determine that they were illegally trespassing.

Judge Ware today confirmed the sportsmen's complaint, asserting that while he knew the preserve was in existence, there were no signs to stipulate where it begins and ends.

The judge pointed out that the legislative statute which created the reservation also set forth provisions that the protected area should be marked.

Both Smeak and Swinson unhesitatingly admitted they were hunting on what game wardens said was the preserve.
