Board To Consider Use Of Code For Development Of Subdivision Areas

SR-436 Blinker Light System Said Confusing

The Board of Seminole County Commissioners was asked Tuesday to investigate the possibilities of changing the blinker light system on State Road 436 at the entrance to the Vantage Plant in Yulee.

"The blinker light," said one county engineer, "confuses motorists."

The problem created by the blinker light was made imminent when a Sunday morning auto-truck crash sent six people to a hospital.

Leonard Samuel DeWeese, 35, of Longwood died Monday afternoon at 3:45 p. m. from injuries received in the crash which was described as a "head-on collision."

DeWeese was driving a 1956 Buick Wildcat sedan when it struck the rear of a 1954 Buick Wildcat sedan driven by a woman.

The accident occurred at the intersection of State roads 431, 434, and 436 during a dense fog early Sunday morning.

"As a motorist comes up over a rise in the road approaching the intersection," one commissioner explained, "the blinker light becomes confusing and they smash on through."

DeWeese, wife of the driver of the automobile was described this morning by hospital attendants at Florida Sanitarium as "still in critical condition."

The report stated that her condition might be described as slightly improved.

Four others still in the hospital from serious injuries sustained in the intersection crash were both the automobile and pickup truck were thrown out of the intersection.

Only one man came out of the accident without injuries. Boyd Hildebeck described his experience this way: "I was thrown about 30 feet from the truck. It must have rolled over me and missed me entirely. The 21-year old youth was riding in the back of the pickup with David Redwine, also 21."

A report of the accident and the possibilities that the flashing light might have entered into the cause of the crash is to be reported to the State Road Department's DeLand office for possible inspection.

The Board of Seminole County Commissioners will consider the use of a code for the development of subdivisions and other areas similar to codes that are now being used by other counties.

Other codes discussed by the Seminole County Commissioners require developers to enter into a bond in an estimated amount necessary to complete roads, curbs, water and sewer facilities within a specified time.

"If the developer doesn't complete his project the county takes the bond money to complete it," said the commissioners.

Commissioners were notified by county right-of-way agent John Fox that the State Road Department will turn over right of way maps and instruments next week on the section of 17-92 from Five Points to Sanford. This followed the action of the board requesting the State Road Board to advance money for the purchase of right of ways.

The possibility that Seminole County may develop a county-manager system of operations was suggested by Commissioner John Krider. "An engineer-manager or an engineer-planner is necessary," said Krider. "The time has passed when numerous people come up to make requests—our future should be planned ahead of these requests," he said.

Commissioner Lawrence Swafford went on record at Tuesday afternoon's meeting of the board of commissioners in favor of "re-assessing the county."

"We can't operate the county on a 1917 assessment for 1957 needs," he said. "We're talking about building roads—the school board is on us for money—im-

Controversy Arises Over Appearance Of Big Tree Park

Controversy has arisen in the Board of Seminole County Commissioners relative to Big Tree Park and its appearance.

Commissioner Lawrence Swafford was appointed chairman of the Big Tree Park committee.

Swafford from the very beginning of the discussion relative to the park stated "It is a disgrace to the rest rooms are in bad shape, souvenirs are being sold from picnic benches provided for the public."

At a time, according to B. C. Dodd, the chairman of the Big Tree Park committee, the county would provide six hundred dollars, to fix up the place, paint it, and put the buildings in proper order.

Commissioner Swafford fell in his discussions with members of the Board of Commissioners, that the present caretaker, given the privilege of selling souvenirs and handling the concession, should keep the property presentable.

Materials necessary, if furnished, should be used without cost to the county, said Swafford.

The Board of Commissioners called for a report from Commissioner Swafford at its next meeting.

Two accidents told; Charges Placed Against Drivers

Two accidents investigated by Florida Highway Patrol Trooper A. Marx Mack resulted in the arrest of one driver for using an improper tag and charges of exceeding a safe speed against the other.

Herman Lee Pryor, 24 year old Negro attached to HATTU at the Sanford Naval Air Station, driving a 1957 Mercury south on Sanford Ave., made a wide turn as he attempted a turn into Onora Rd. His car went off the shoulder striking a culvert and smashing into the ditch.

Damages were estimated at $25. However, an improper tag brought charges against the driver. The accident occurred at 7:10 p. m. Tuesday.

Damages estimated at $400 was the result of a 1953 Mercury skidding out of control and turning bottom up Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m. on the old Lake Mary Rd. south of 25th St.

Mrs. Gladys Mae Foulk, 36 year old Lake Mary housewife, according to Trooper Mack traveling toward Sanford came into a curve too fast, ran off the shoulder and then pulled back too short.

No injuries other than a minor skin abrasion were reported. Charges of exceeding a safe speed were placed against Mrs. Foulk.

CHANGES MIND ABOUT CHARGES

TORONTO (AP)—Carmel Sherwood told a judge Wednesday she had changed her mind about pressing charges of "watching and besetting" which she had filed against James McDonald, 29, last December. She has married McDonald.

Thomas F. Powell Dies In DeLand

Thomas F. Powell, 77, passed away at a DeLand nursing home at 2:45 p. m. Monday following a 4-day illness and had lived in lingering illness.

Mr. Powell was born in Dawson, DeLand for the past 25 years. He was a retired State Road Department employe. He was a member of the Primitive Baptist Church.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. M. T. Powell, DeLand; one step daughter in Orlando; and one niece in Tampa.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at Erlison Funeral Home with Elder LeRoy Devane of the Primitive Baptist Church of Jennings officiating.

Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery in Sanford.

President Calls For New American Unity Measure

Annual Message Heard

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower called today for a new measure of American unity and effort to continue prosperity at home and meet the continuing threat of "a strongly armed imperialistic dictatorship" abroad.

In his annual State of the Union message, Mr. Eisenhower stressed not only the cooperation of Congress but "a personal effort of dedication" by every American to help establish "a secure world order."

On the domestic front, he found America enjoying an "unprecedented peak of prosperity. But he said there is a continuing threat of inflation which can materially damage the economy."

He called on business to avoid "unnecessary price increases" at a time when demand in many areas "presses hard on short supplies."

He also said that wage increases and other labor benefits should be "reasonably related" to productivity. He said that pay boosts should outrun prices and productivity contribute to inflation.

School problems

Mr. Eisenhower urged speedy action on the school construction bill to meet emergency needs for more classrooms to benefit "children of all races." He expressed the hope that the legislation could be enacted on its own merits.

Mr. Eisenhower said he was proud of the progress in the general field of civil rights but "regrettably much remains to be done." He urged Congress to continue this progress by enacting the anti-lynching law.

His warnings against inflation appeared to be directed equally at business and labor.

Domestic Program

The chief executive delayed until his Jan 10 budget message the bulk of his detailed legislative recommendations. Today, however, he did include the special requests:

1. A school bill which should be a priority.

2. A four-point anti-inflation program which he recommended last year, but which did not pass Congress.

3. Prompt action on the status (Continued on Page 8)

Queen Names Harold Macmillan Britain's New Prime Minister

United Drive Is Proposed; CoC Heads Endorse Plan

LONDON (AP)—Harold Macmillan, a right-wing Conservative, was named prime minister of Great Britain today by Queen Elizabeth II, to succeed the resigned Anthony Eden.

Macmillan moves up from the nation's top finance post, chancellor of the exchequer. He accepted the appointment by kissing the hands, in a traditional ceremony.

Asked if he would resign if elected to consolidate his position—or risk losing it—Macmillan answered with typical bluntness: "No, and when there is one we

Setting of the date for the annual dinner followed the announcement that the membership drive, in its last phase, will possibly be completed this month.

Clifford McKibbin, president of the CoC, presented a proposal for a United Drive in the Sanford and Seminole County area. Letters addressed to organizations requesting a meeting of the heads of these groups have been answered, said McKibbin.

Participating organizations are expected to meet for the purpose of adopting a plan. A resolution endorsing the United Drive plan was approved by the Board of Directors.

The Naval Air Station and the Osceola Base were discussed. "It looks as if it is proceeding satisfactorily" was the report following the tabulation of information.

President McKibbin, who presided at the meeting, advised the Board of Directors that a new industrial brochure is now on the press and the first phase of the Industrial Survey will be released within the next two weeks.

Greensboro, N. C. Reports Emergency Blood Shortage

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Red Cross officials here rationed blood to hospitals today in an emergency blood shortage.

Surgeons postponed all operations possible in the light of the emergency situation.

Mrs. A. L. Thompson, head of the local Red Cross blood program, said, "We are in a bad situation in local hospitals and we have begun rationing blood."

Greensboro has more than 100,000 persons in its metropolitan area. A United Press check showed the hospitals "usually" stock a total of 95 pints of whole blood, but there were only 13 pints or hand today.

Mrs. Thompson said the chapter was called upon to secure donors for transfusions five times Tuesday and twice early Wednesday because not enough processed blood was available.

"We desperately need donors. The registration is very light," Mrs. Thompson said.

Mrs. Roosevelt Says Governor Courageous Man

TAMPA (AP)—Former first lady Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt called Gov. LeRoy Collins an "extremely courageous" man for telling the people his views on integration during his inaugural address Tuesday.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who has been visiting relatives at Sarasota for the past two weeks, told reporters here she was greatly impressed by Collins' speech.

"I think Gov. Collins was extremely courageous" for saying the state is ready to voluntarily integrate some public facilities, she said.

"He is absolutely right that the South must move slowly in integrating because you simply cannot change the minds of thousands of persons overnight," she added.

Ocean Liner Tips Over; 8 Injured

HOBOKEN, N. J. (AP)—Norway's second largest ocean liner, the 16,844-ton Oloffe, tipped over on its drydock ways and crashed against an adjoining drydock holding another ship.

Eight crewmen were injured. Two were hospitalized. Another 200 crewmen were evacuated after being trapped for more than an hour.

The Oloffe immediately developed a 60-degree list, police said.

"I can assure you it will definitely sink if it hits the water," Police Lt. John Filhus told United Press. He said the vessel's sea-cocks were open.

A shipyard spokesman, Max L. Brown, said later the Oloffe was in no danger of sinking. Other sources reported the aft portion of the vessel partly flooded by water rushing in through portholes.

BEVAN'S PIGS PUT ON PROBATION

ASHBRIDGE, England (AP)—Aneurin Bevan's 200 pigs were put on probation today.

The parish council gave the left-wing Labor Party leader 30 days to "improve" the odor emanating from his pig farm, although some members said Bevan's pigs "smell no different than other pigs."

Man Blind Since '44 Suddenly Regains Sight

MANFIELD, Tex. (AP)—Novelist John Howard Griffin, who has been blind since he was bombed in the South Pacific in 1944, disclosed today that he suddenly regained his sight Wednesday.

"There was no bump, no jar," he said. "Nothing had happened. I started walking from my workshop toward my parents' house. Suddenly everything looked like red sand in front of my eyes. It was a terrible shock."

Griffin wrote, "The Devil Rides Outside," an account of the temptations to which Satan subjected him while he was in a monastery. It became a best-seller in 1952.

For A Modern Kitchen Use Pine for Beauty and Utility

With the kitchen coming back into its own as a center of family living, more attention is being given to dressing up the kitchen-dining area, and to providing greater convenience. Scientific advances in the appliance field are producing a flood of new conveniences that are practical and good looking. The wall oven is an outstanding example. But what about the storage space? No matter how many drawers and cabinets you have in the kitchen, it seems that there is always an assortment of utensils or dishes that are homeless. CHAPTER 10

PRISCILLA sparkled at the dance. Not as Peggy sparkled and offered—but it was a quiet sparkle that drew attention. More than one guest asked the identity of the attractive girl in the flame-colored velvet, with the page-boy haircut.

Dancing with Dick, Priscilla thought. This is more fun than anything I've ever done in my life. I simply can't believe that I'm in this strange, faraway place, on a private yacht, dancing with the first man I could ever be in love with. . . . "What did you say, Dick?"

The young doctor's arms tightened a little. "Come back from where you are. I'm still here. I said you certainly can dance. And you're sweet. I like you, Priscilla."

"Priscilla's heart did a cartwheel, but she stood as suddenly. 'I like you too, Doctor,' she said, smiling up at him.

"How often may I tell you that?"

"Let's learn it. . . . I mean that we like each other. I mean—I mean—" She stopped, confused, as his arms tightened still more and she met his eyes.

"You mean I'm not to make pretty speeches? Not try to make love to you, even if there is a moon and we're in such a romantic setting?"

"Well," Priscilla's voice was light, "if you want to waste your time like that. . . . But I'm not very susceptible to pretty speeches. Flirtations have always seemed a little pointless to me. Let's keep it on a friendly basis."

"O.K. But I mean it. I do think you're sweet."

"Thanks. You're very flattering. . . . Here's Peggie breaking. That gives you a chance to break on the fellow who just took Peggie away from him."

After a moment, Pete said, "Gee, you sure can dance! And did you know everybody's asking about you?"

Priscilla laughed lightly, deprecatingly.

"Know yet how long you're going to stay?"

"Only a few days longer."

"That's too bad. They danced silently for a few moments, then

Pete said, "Like Dick?"

"Lots," Priscilla admitted frankly.

"I thought so. Maybe you like him enough to want to hear that it's mutual."

"You're imagining that."

"I'm not. He said so himself. And then, I can tell. Want to do something for me?"

A little surprised, Priscilla said, "Of course, if I can."

"Are you good at pretending?"

"Never tried."

"Another moment of silence. Then, 'I suppose you know I'm in love with Peggy?'"

"Who doesn't?" Priscilla said lightly.

"Peggy used to be, always had me lagging around after her. Funny thing—" He broke off, laughing, and after a moment continued, "When she was little, she tagged me all the time, got in my hair something awful. Now it's the other way around. I'm tagging her. Everything was going along all right until Doc came here a couple of years ago and started rushing her. I'm not blaming him, of course. But, you see, the lightness went out of his voice, I think Peggy is really in love with me and doesn't realize it. If she thought I was interested in someone else, it might shock her into awareness."

"I see. There was laughter in Priscilla's eyes. 'You mean you want to rush me, pretend you're falling in love with me, to make her jealous?'"

"Something like that. And I can say it will be fun, too."

"O.K.," Priscilla agreed contentedly. "That will be my good deed. But just what do I do?"

"Let me see you often. Act as if you're interested. Let me dance with you often tonight and I'll break on anyone else who does. . . . Peggy is watching us now. Mind if I hold you a little tighter?"

Dick, dancing with Peggy, said, "Maybe here's where I lose my rival. Pete seems to be quite enamored."

"Not jealous, are you?"

"You mean because he's so attentive to Priscilla? What do you think?"

"But you do find her attractive?"

"And then some," Dick said.

Visiting A Sick Child

By HERMAN H. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOU'VE got to be as careful as a cat when visiting a hospitalized child as you would help him get well and speed his return home.

Don't let him dwell on his troubles, however.

To help keep his mind off them, take him some little toy, if the hospital permits. It shouldn't be anything complicated or exciting, but it should be enough to hold his interest for a while at least.

Of course there are the old standbys such as coloring and paint books. But you can probably think of something just as good, if not better.

Other Choices

Maybe the hospital will permit a bubble pipe. If not, a little music box might be just the thing. An underwater garden in a bowl can also be fascinating to a youngster, and a couple of goldfish helps chase loneliness.

So plan that hospital visit at least a few hours in advance. You'll probably make your youngster a lot happier and more content if you do.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

E. K.: Can color blindness be corrected?

Answer: There is no known way of correcting this condition.

Let him know that you and the rest of the family have missed him and that everyone is thinking of him. Tell him, too, about what has been happening at home, emphasizing what you and he are going to do when he gets out of the hospital.

Ask what he has been doing and encourage him to discuss what has happened to him in the hospital. It will help greatly to relieve his mind if he can tell you about the awful medicines he has taken and the way the needle hurts when the nurse plunges it into his arm.

Sympathize with him. Impress upon him that you know how

'Bill Of Rights Is Key To Happy, Successful Life...For Everyone'

Soon to be released in The Sanford Herald is a series of letters written by Sanford school children on the subject "What a Hometown Newspaper Means To Our Community."

Because of the importance of these letters we were attracted by an essay written for a national contest conducted by the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The essay chosen from 11,000 submitted from 88 communities in 32 states, was written by Charlene Alta Brownell, a 17-year-old senior of Schenectady, N. Y.

Subject of the essay was "What The Bill of Rights Means To Me."

Here is the text of Charlene's essay:

To me the Bill of Rights is not merely an enumeration of the many freedoms and protections granted me as a citizen. It is my key to a happy, successful life. With this key alone I may open the door of freedom. Not only does this key give me access to freedom; it also protects me by locking the door against invasion of my rights.

I use this key often in my life. I am mindful of the many privileges accessible to me through it. I use the key with respect, being aware that through misuse and harsh treatment keys wear thin and no longer function properly.

Turning the key I fling open the doors. There before me lie the vivifying meadows of freedom. I walk forward with head erect, with a calm awareness of the solidarity of my position.

I speak freely and firmly. I have access to a free press and free pen. I assemble with my friends in a place convenient to all, if it does not infringe upon others' rights or property. I worship in the church of my choice; I abide by its principles.

To protect myself against invasion of my rights, I softly close the door and turn the key. I feel secure in the knowledge that no person may enter without my consent. Authorities must have a legal warrant to search my house, and I cannot be forced to provide food and lodging for any soldier in time of peace.

In locking the door, the key protects me from tyranny. I am willingly a part of the nation, but I am not enveloped by it. The key guarantees to me and my state all powers not granted to the national government or denied to the states. I am proected against a domineering government by men's rights to keep and bear arms and by my right to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

I cannot be deprived of my property without due process of the law or without being given a fair payment for it by the government.

If I am accused of a crime, I cannot be denied a trial by a jury of impartial peers. I must be informed as to what charge has been made against me and allowed to secure favorable witnesses, a lawyer, and money for bail. All testimony must be given in my presence, and I can never be forced to give any evidence which might lead to my conviction.

Aside from these rights specifically stated in the Bill of Rights, I have many which are implied. They may not be denied to me simply because they are not listed.

The key I hold is a precious instrument. Millions of people possess such a key, but that does not detract from the value of mine; the worth increases with the realization that I have a common bond with my fellow man and am closer to him for it. My key is the Bill of Rights.

Nuisance

Every attorney knows of some quirks in the law that are hard to justify. One such came up the other day when President Eisenhower announced his intention of nominating Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield for another four-year term. This action is required for no other cabinet post.

The other cabinet members hold their places during the pleasure of the President, and no specific term of service is laid down. Only in the case of the postmaster general did Congress definitely limit his service to four years, unless he should be reappointed.

This unusual requirement, enacted in 1872, came to notice in 1917. Postmaster General Albert S. Burleson had met with much criticism, leading to talk that president Wilson would ease him out of office. When Wilson began his second term, the attorney general notified him that he would have to reappoint Burleson if he wished him to continue in office. The president did so promptly, and Burleson served another four years, until President Harding came in.

Politicians must have been behind this move to limit the postmaster general's term of office. They always favor limitations on continued eligibility. Hence the rule in some states that certain officials, for example county treasurer, may not be re-elected. Barring them from re-election means one more office to be passed around.

Fortunately there has been no attempt to extend the four-year rule to other cabinet positions. The only value such a limitation has is nuisance value.

When it comes to preserving natural resources, what we need is more conservation and less conversation.

A man without a calendar could tell the new year had arrived by counting the bedraggled Christmas trees in back yards.

COMMUNIST LOVE MATCH

Foreign News Commentary

United Press Staff Correspondent The visit of King Saud of Saudi Arabia to the United States is likely to give the new Eisenhower Doctrine a big boost.

Saud, about the last remaining absolute monarch in the world, is a member of the Arab League, of which President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt regards himself as the leader. He also has entered into a military alliance with Egypt.

But Saud has kept himself somewhat aloof from the adventures of Nasser and he is firmly anti-Communist.

Saud also enjoys an income of about $200 million a year in royalties from the Arabian American Oil Co., which exploits the vast oil reserves of Saudi Arabia. He lets the United States maintain, at Dhahran, one of the most important air bases in the Middle East.

The first Arab reaction to the Eisenhower Doctrine, under which the President proposes that the United States shall combat any armed Communist aggression in the Middle East, ranged from caution to open hostility. Imperialism Chief Fear The chief Arab fear is that United States "imperialism" may move into the Middle East to take the place of the British-French "imperialism" which is being thrown off.

Except in the case of Egypt, Arab comment on the Eisenhower doctrine is now softening somewhat.

King Saud has not committed himself on it. But his state visit to Washington on Jan. 30 certainly will give Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles the best possible opportunity of convincing him that there are no traps in their plan to make it harder for Russia to penetrate the Middle East.

If Saud is sold on the plan, he will be able to exert a great deal of influence in its favor among the leaders of other Arab countries. East, there are indications that Saud does not approve the way in which Nasser is mortgaging his country to Russia.

nolly and spectacular, and has managed to make himself a nuisance and a danger to peace. But he is bankrupting his country, already impoverished, in pursuit of his ambitions.

Many Countries Hostile He has earned himself the hostility of many countries, and he has failed so far in his ambition to make himself the leader of the Arab world. He may easily outsmart himself and be ousted by his present followers.

Saud, impressive 6 foot 6, hawk-nosed, fearless, sits securely on his throne as ruler of about 7 million Saudi Arabians and more than 800,000 square miles of territory. His oil revenues enable him to maintain a fabulous court.

It ought not to be too hard for Eisenhower and Dulles to convince King Saud that the United States aims solely at opposing aggressive Communism in the Middle East. There are indications that Saud does not approve the way in which Nasser is mortgaging his country to Russia.

Consumers To Pay More For Pork

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN

United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says that consumers will pay higher prices for pork and possibly higher grades of beef this year than during 1956.

Total 1957 meat production is expected to be less than the 1956 record, the department said in its publication "The Livestock and Meat Situation." Production probably will be cut heaviest in the first half of the year, with most of the reduction in pork.

The department said farm prices of hogs, which had advanced $2.50 per 100 pounds in late December from their mid-November low, may strengthen somewhat more this winter.

A downturn is probable when marketings from the fall pig crop are largest. A new seasonal upturn, however, is likely in the spring. Prices of hogs during most of 1957 likely will be above 1956.

The price situation for both consumers and producers stems from the supply of hogs. The 1956 fall pig crop was down 4 per cent, and producers planned Dec. 1 to reduce the spring crop 2 per cent. This indicates that hog slaughter during most or all of 1957 will remain below 1956. The department said that by year's end, the difference will be small.

The department said farm prices for cattle in 1957 will remain close to those of a year ago. Cattle slaughter has been extremely large because many cattle were put on feed early and marketed rapidly after only moderate feeding.

Prices of fed steers are expected to level out after their late fall decline and to stay higher this winter and spring than their lowest point last winter. Severe drought would expand slaughter and prevent improvement in prices.

The department said lamb prices are likely to rise seasonally and may remain for a time a little higher than last year.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

BIG MOMENT for the 1956 summer theatre in Cohasset, Mass., came when a countess in "Song of Norway" announced, "You are now about to hear music known only to the gods."

Immediately after which a New Haven engine on the tracks just outside gave three long shrill blasts. The audience roared anew when her beloved delivered his next line: "The gods know only Italian music!"

"You come marching in this office later every morning," grumbled a boss to his secretary. "You should have been here at nine o'clock sharp." The sec seemed really impressed. "Why?" she asked. "What happened?"

"I wish you had a more direct route — I'm always late at the office on snowy mornings!"

VP Seems Headed For Nomination

United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (AP) — A good winter hook bet today would be Richard M. Nixon against the field for the next Republican presidential nomination.

The political breaks have been going for the young man from California in the weeks since his reelection as vice president. The biggest break, of course, was the fact that he and President Eisenhower pulled a record vote last November.

Their tally seems to have refuted the claims of Nixon's opponents that he would cost the ticket some millions of votes. Nixon's greatest political disadvantage is the fear of some Republican leaders that he would not be a prime vote getter on his own.

Doubts Hurt Taft Identical doubts served to kill off the late Robert A. Taft's chances for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I like Taft, but—" was the way millions of Republicans backed into their explanations of why they wanted some other presidential nominee. These doubts will severely handicap Nixon.

Otherwise, political events are breaking well for Nixon in terms of prestige and Republican Party influence. Mr. Eisenhower continues to demonstrate his confidence in Nixon. Good publicity is just as valuable to a politician with himself to sell as to a manufacturer with some other fancy product.

Mr. Eisenhower's selection of Nixon to investigate the situation of Hungarian refugees in Austria was a publicity jackpot. To the confusion of his left-wing detractors, Nixon returned from Austria a champion of relaxed immigration regulations.

Takes Filibuster Stand To their further confusion, Nixon was given an opportunity last week to take a position on the Senate filibuster dispute. Nixon's position placed him right in the middle of the so-called liberal camp. Moreover, it placed him on record with Negro voters as one of those whose interpretation of Senate filibuster.

Peiping Radio broadcast a plea today for Iron Curtain unity behind the leadership of Soviet Russia but remained silent on the right or wrong of Moscow's bloody policies of repression in Hungary and Poland.

implication, to the possible role of Peiping as mediator in the satellite demand for greater freedom of Peiping as mediator in the satellite demand for greater freedom.

But Peiping's emphasis upon unity over freedom made it clear the Peiping regime would support the Soviet in any showdown with the Eastern European countries.

Bulgarian Thanks Chou Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin Tuesday thanked Chou for his government's support of Soviet fighting and Chou responded that "unity within the Communist Party itself and among the Communist parties in various countries is the most vital guarantee of the victory of our common cause of Communism."

Peiping Radio emphasized this again today.

Finally Believed His Eyes and Ears!

He has heard and read a great many wonderful things about this new 1957 Cadillac since it made its first appearance a few brief weeks ago——about its magnificent new luxury, for instance... its brilliant new power and responsiveness... its marvelous new handling ease... and its extraordinary new smoothness of ride.

And so, quite frankly, he began to wonder if it weren't all too good to be true. Could any motor car be as wonderful as this latest "car of cars" was reputed to be?

Well, he's decided to put his eyes and ears to the test today. And the verdict is unmistakable! It's a joy just to lean back into those deep, soft cushions and look out over that graceful hood into the beckoning highway.

And what a revelation the car is to drive!

A curve in the road ahead? He simply follows it with the arc of his hands and the car responds with perfect obedience.

A hill in the offing? He just nudges the accelerator and the car sweeps up and over as effortlessly as if it were traveling the level road.

A stop light coming up? He presses his toe—ever so gently—on the broad braking pedal and comes to the smoothest, surest stop imaginable.

Yes, it's true what they say about this newest of Cadillacs. This is far and away the finest motor car ever to travel the world's highways.

How about you? Have you heard the wonderful things they're saying about the 1957 Cadillac?

Well, the proof is in the driving—and the facts about Cadillac have never been more convincing.

Garden Gate

By Mr. Donald Knight — Camellia Circle of the Sanford Garden Club of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs — Camellias are a welcome addition to any garden since they are among the first of our flowering shrubs to bloom in the winter. They are used most frequently in mass planting rather than as specimen plants. A succession of blooms can be maintained by the selection of plants from the early to late blooming varieties. Camellias which flower from November through January seem to be best adapted to our Florida climate.

Camellias should be planted when in bloom, which is during their dormancy. Otherwise, the shock of moving them may be too great and cause the loss of new growth, which means they won't flower the next year.

When buying camellias, be sure that the variety you choose will grow and bloom here. Many people have bought plants from out of the state that make beautiful bushes, but will just not bloom in this particular climate. However, there are many different varieties that do thrive here in Central Florida.

More camellias are killed by improper planting than all other causes combined. They can be grown successfully, if a few simple rules are followed.

(1) Camellias should be planted with the top of the root ball slightly above ground level. Planting them with the top of the root ball below ground level or deeper than they formerly grew, severely stunts them and retards them and will often cause them to die completely.

(2) Camellias will usually grow better if given a location of morning sun and evening shade or in the shade of a large tree. Although they can be grown in full sun if kept properly watered and sufficiently mulched. They should be mulched lightly (not choked to death) with leaves, pine needles, straw, etc.

(3) Camellias should be planted in a mixture of half peat and half sandy soil. They should be kept well watered but must have good drainage.

When planting any kind of "balled-in-burlap" plants, never take the burlap from around the root ball. Do not cut strings, pull pinning nails or loosen burlap in any way. The burlap retains the root ball intact until the fresh soil becomes firmly settled around it. The burlap rots within a few weeks giving valuable organic material to the soil.

Do not dig a large hole. You aren't burying the camellia. You're planting it to grow. The more soil stirred up, the greater danger of causing air pockets. Dig the hole only three or four inches wider and deeper than the root ball. Mix peat with soil in bottom of hole, pack lightly but firmly and water lightly. Allow the water to settle completely and again pack firmly and water thoroughly. If you see air bubbles coming up through the water, take a pointed stick and punch some holes through the area between the outer roots and edge of the hole.

An excellent Bulletin, No. 161, entitled Camellias in Florida, is available through the Agricultural Extension service at Gainesville, Florida. The bulletin is beautifully illustrated in color, and may be helpful in the selection of camellias for your garden.

Large Crowd Turns Out To See Art Of Shellcraft Demonstrated

An extremely large crowd gathered at the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce Wednesday afternoon to attend a work shop on the Art of Shellcraft, conducted by the Lake Mary Home Demonstration Club.

Don Rice, of Orlando, an expert in this field, was on hand to demonstrate the basic principles of making a picture from products of the sea, and also showed how to make more delicate objects, such as tiny flowers for earrings, etc.

The ladies brought along picture frames and purchased materials to try their own hand at this fascinating art. Most of them decided, however, to do their creating in the privacy of their own homes, and so left clutching such articles as "fans", coral, sea shells, starfish, and tiny bits of shell, with which they hope to produce something as strikingly lovely as those made by Mr. Rice.

Lake Mary Club members present were Mrs. James Post, Mrs. Gus Phillips, Mrs. Harvey Pugh, Mrs. Lucille Cosson, Mrs. John Kahir, Mrs. Ruby Smith, Mrs. Vivian Coleman, Mrs. Priscilla Maybury, Mrs. Leon Taylor, Mrs. C. C. White, Mrs. T. A. Silles, Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin, Mrs. Ruth Boutwell, Mrs. Moss, Mrs. Charles Krueger, and Mrs. C. W. Sjoblom.

Guests at the workshop were Mrs. G. D. Rounds, Mrs. H. J. Finch, Mrs. Nellie Phillips, Mrs. Charles Hornsby, Mrs. Beas Wendell, Mrs. H. A. Moreland, Mrs. Grady Duncan, Mrs. Henry Jameson, Mrs. Gemus Brooks, Mrs. Vincent Matecki, Mrs. C. R. Buyer, Mrs. C. Tiffany, Miss Myrtle Wilson, Mrs. B. R. Gray, Mrs. George Otto Sr., Mrs. J. E. Andrews, Mrs. E. A. Myers, Mrs. John Clark, Mrs. John D. Callahan, Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. Elizabeth Johns, Mrs. A. G. Cook, Mrs. W. Wood, Mrs. John Maxwell, Mrs. E. L. Fulford, Mrs. T. W. Prevatt, Mrs. C. G. Hart, and Mrs. J. C. Sapp.

This will release the pockets of air underneath the surface. Do not put any kind of fertilizer or leaves in the hole at the time of planting. Fertilizers burn the tender roots, severely damage the plant, and sometime kill it. Leaves will cause air pockets.

Do not fertilize the plants while they are blooming. Wait until after dormancy when the plants are in active growth. Camellias should be fertilized lightly every six weeks from March through September, and remember to water thoroughly afterwards.

An excellent Bulletin, No. 161, entitled Camellias in Florida, is available through the Agricultural Extension service at Gainesville, Florida. The bulletin is beautifully illustrated in color, and may be helpful in the selection of camellias for your garden.

Conring The News

BY VIRGINIA CONN

The Women's Golf Association was called together today to vote on the State Tournament to be held in April of 1958. Frank Mebane announced that the Mayfair Inn would underwrite the tournament, so financially, the worries are just about over. Of course, the association will do every thing in its power to put the tournament on, if not a paying basis, at least to break even. The Mayfair will provide rooms at a reasonable rate for contestants, and the cocktail party and banquet will also be held there. Discussed too, were plans for entertainment, and the decision to observe all that goes on at this year's tournament in Naples, and do what ever they do a little better.

This spirit of resolution is, in my opinion, the thing that will make Sanford a city to be regarded with much respect and interest in the next few years. A tournament of this size will affect the entire town, not just the hotel or the golfers. Women from all over the state will become familiar with Sanford during their stay here, and nothing could be better than word of mouth publicity, providing it is the right kind. While the hotel (and the New York Giants), are easing the burden of financial responsibility, the success of the entire venture will rest with the women of the Association, the people they meet through them, and the local merchants. To me, it seems like a large undertaking for a town of this size, one which I know they will do well, as proven by the P.G.A. Open. There are not many cities the size of Sanford who would feel capable of handling the tournament. Certainly, smaller ones have done it, but if you will examine them, you will discover that they primarily are resort towns, and the local element is one of wealth. And this can surmount many obstacles. My hope in this venture, which is far off I'll admit, is that the entire population will take pride in showing the visiting golfers that we live in the most desirable PERMANENT location in Florida.

Perhaps it is not my place, in writing a navy column to comment so much on the civilian doings, but in Sanford it is becoming increasingly more difficult to separate the two. There are many reasons for this, and I won't go into all of them here, but at this time of year many new navy families are arriving, and many of them are pleasantly surprised to find that a large number of those they call on for services turn out to be in the navy themselves. We are at home in Sanford, and that is why, in all the drives you are asked in which to participate, all the assistance you are asked to give, is not so the civilians will have an easier time of it (although there are some lazy ones), but because you may ultimately benefit also. Probably the most common expression among the men is "If this is sea duty, where can I extend."

I do know that there are many new families in town, and would like to welcome them, and offer my services, if they can ever be of any use. Just don't tell me anything that shouldn't be printed because I have a way of getting into trouble simply by telling almost the truth.

Final Plans Made For P-TA Founders' Day Meet Feb. 7

A group of P-TA people representing all the schools in the county, met Wednesday noon at Southside School for a luncheon meeting and to make final plans for the Founders' Day Meeting at Southside School on Feb. 7 at 8 p.m.

All the schools will gather together in a joint meeting, with the speaker for the evening to be Mrs. W. H. Beckham, of Miami, who is past president of Florida PTA, National Membership Chairman and now Florida State Parliamentarian. The topic of her talk will be "I Believe" after which a reception will be given in her honor in the school auditorium.

Those present and the schools they represented were Mrs. Carl Prescott, Westside Primary; Mrs. Michael Thomas, Sanford Junior High; Mrs. Lewis Brandermyer, Geneva; Mrs. Hopkins, of Lake Mary; Mrs. James Pearson, of Oviedo; Mrs. John Wagner and Mrs. David McCoy, of Lyman School; Mrs. J. B. St. John, of Seminole High School; Mrs. M. E. Sapp.

Dorcas Class Meets At Wiggins Home

Mrs. B. H. Wiggins was hostess Tuesday to the monthly meeting of the Dorcas Class of the Central Baptist Church.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Ina Galloway, after which Mrs. John Weaver led the opening prayer and a quotation from the Scripture by each one present was used as the devotional.

Following the business meeting, a social hour was enjoyed by Mrs. A. B. Madrox, Mrs. J. Q. Galloway, Mrs. Joe Daniels, Mrs. J. Cantrell, Mrs. Phyllis Nash, Mrs. J. R. Weaver, Mrs. G. B. Sapp, Mrs. R. Hartman, Mrs. F. Yeackle, Mrs. Harriet Wilcox, Mrs. Jack Benton, Mrs. T. N. Dillard, Mrs. Ena Harrison, Mrs. H. E. McSwain, Mrs. W. B. Wiggins and Mrs. B. H. Wiggins.

Warfel, of Wilson School in Paola; Mrs. Francis Boumillat, Sanford Grammar School; Mrs. Richard Elam, Mrs. LaVerne Clark and Mrs. Margaret Reynolds, Pinecrest; and Mrs. Edwin Epstein and Mrs. Velma Mitchell, of Southside.

Seminole Five Shows Improvement In Team Effort, Fundamentals

Series Films Shown

NEW YORK (UP) — Baseball fans can rest assured that the New York Yankees won the World Series, Don Larsen actually pitched a perfect game, whether Jackie Robinson will play ball next season.

All of these points were settled, not settled, as the case may be, at the first official showing of the official World Series films. Yogi Berra was on hand as one of the heroes of the piece but Robinson didn't show, probably in deference to Don Newcombe.

Welcome didn't do any better this time around but among the issues settled were:

1. The double play is the best job since traveling salesmen quit visiting farmhouses.
2. Casey Stengel never, but never, is caught with mouth closed.
3. Mickey Mantle is no Joe DiMaggio with a glove.
4. Country Slaughter was no "good" when he missed Jackie Robinson's liner in the Yankee loss of the sixth game.
5. And Yogi Berra is a great bear hugger.

Film Available For Showing

Six hundred prints of the series, a 45-minute show, may be borrowed from Director Lew Fosse's "Jackson Blvd., Chicago," or through any major league ball club. And they are well worth the few things you didn't even see in person.

Like those so-called double plays, a half dozen are shown throughout the film and, in every instance, the relay man is well off the bag when he takes the throw and makes the relay. Pro-

After an extended and spirited scrimmage yesterday afternoon, the Sanford Seminoles showed promise of better things to come from team effort and basketball fundamentals.

Pointing for highly-touted Apopka in an away game Friday night, the Seminoles showed signs of all-around improvement, particularly in team play pattern performance, supplanting the "every man for yourself" attitude that seemed to permeate the team at the beginning of the season.

With the boys beginning to think on the floor, I think we'll control the ball better and not make so many floor errors," cager mentor Bud Laver said this morning.

Assistant coach Dick Silver showed well on offense yesterday afternoon's scrimmage session. "Every man on the team, and the team as a whole showed vast improvement," he said.

Rod Phillips, the standout guard that was moved up from the JV's and earned a starting berth after his performance against Pershon, showed well on offense yesterday but, like the team in general, looked ragged on defense.

Yeh Seminoles are sadly lacking on defense, and defense will mean the difference in the vast majority of the games the Seminoles will play for the rest of the season. Their playing yesterday, however, showed hope for the future and was summed up by Silvers, "If these boys will continue to play like they did in practice—thinking, controlling the ball, and taking part in team responsibility—playing heads up and keeping an eye open for the cut man, we'll have a decent team by mid-season."

"At first everything was too much for the boys," Laver remarked of the new stress on fundamentals embarked on after the Christmas holidays, "but now it's soaking in and the boys are coming through."

One of the greatest enemies of the team so far is their own attitudes. A natural inclination for a losing team not accustomed to strict discipline is the pessimistic approach to a coming game. It's entirely possible for the boys to buckle down, hustle, and think what they're doing on defense and stage some upsets, even Apopka, as good as Apopka is.

The team attitude first took an upward swing yesterday when Cecil Dandridge, sharpshooting sophomore sparkplug for the Seminoles, began driving through and then passing out to a well-positioned player. A natural leader has a tendency to be a "shot-hog" to the detriment of the team unity. Another swing upward was the added impetus of Joe High's jumping. High has previously lagged on the rebounding, playing a poor position and giving little effort. But today he jumped well and spirited the team.

Summing up the team effort in yesterday's scrimmage and giving now hope for a battle royal tomorrow night in Apopka, Laver remarked, "Yesterday every man was looking for the cut man for the first time this year, and I think that's indicative of a good turn of events."

The scrappy baby warriors take the court in a preliminary

Jay Hebert-Sanford, in the National Golf Spotlight Again

Jay Hebert, playing pro for the Mayfair Inn, put Sanford in the national spotlight again this week with his dazzling 72 hole score of 81, good for second place behind winner Doug Ford's 280 in the rich Los Angeles Open. Hebert, in making nearly every newspaper in the country, collected $3,750 for his effort and gave Sanford more publicity than it could ever purchase.

Ford and Hebert unscrambled a group of 18 golfers that led off for the final half of the last round within two strokes of each other. Ford finished the round with a two under par 68 to set the pace that couldn't be beat, but Jay Hebert came from behind to give the climax a dramatic effort Hebert fired a four under par 67 on his last round to pull within one stroke of Ford and passed the six men who were tied for third place.

Hebert has been among the top money winners in the PGA tour for years, but the amiable golfer that signs out of Sanford has never come closer than his Los Angeles Open second place to winning a tournament.

Recently John Kridler made the statement, "It is seldom that an organization like the New York Giants invests in lawn." This has been a great boon to Sanford, and the procurement of a playing pro with the approachability, gentility, and competitive sportsmanship such as Jay Hebert will go a long way toward bringing a lot of dollars, and friends, into Sanford.

Buckler To Give Report On Peanut Bowl Activities

Jim Buckler, chairman of the Peanut Bowl Committee of the Sanford Grammar School P-T-A, will lead a report on the complete Peanut Bowl Activities tonight at 8 p. m. in the Grammar School auditorium.

This school year's Peanut Bowl, rapidly on its way to becoming a Sanford classic, was hailed by many to have exceeded even the hopes of the planning stage of the event.

Not only did the Peanut Bowl, which featured all the sixth grade boys playing touch football on classroom desks, gather in complete Peanut Bowl Activities tonight at 8 p. m. in the Grammar School auditorium.

John Schirard Jr., president of the Seminole Chiefs Club, told the members attending the noon meeting of the Sanford Kiwanis Club that the Seminole Chiefs Club was founded "to create, generate, and bring about a continued interest in high school athletics in Sanford."

Schirard told the group, "after being invited here today, I came to put before you a civic minded organization as this an exact picture of the Seminole Chiefs Club, what it is, what it has done, and what it is planning to do."

Big Bill Russell Is 'Too Polite'

By OSCAR FRALEY
New York Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — Big Bill Russell has discovered that in professional basketball you have to be rough, tough, and nasty.

The 6-foot, 10-inch Olympic star wasn't exactly a sensation in his Madison Square Garden debut as a pro. He was rocked and socked as his Boston Celtics lost a 113-102 decision to the New York Knickerbockers.

"Willie" was simply too polite. On the few occasions when he knocked down Harry Gallatin, Russell reached down and helped his floored opponent to his feet.

On the numerous occasions when the situation was reversed, Harry the Horse merely grimed in wicked satisfaction.

More Of Same

And when Gallatin was on the bench, Sweetwater Clifton dished up much more of the same to Russell.

"Sweets" had to find out the hard way himself when he first came out that you aren't courteous on the cash court, they almost ran him out of the league, as they have dozens of others.

"Get tough," ranted Joe Lapchick, then coach of the Knicks. "Get tough or get lost."

So the next time he was bounced, Sweets replied with a fistful of knuckles and has kept them ready ever since.

It's a lesson they all must learn to survive among the rugged pros. These guys are not impressed by Russell's Olympic and All-American clippings. Each one of them has a fat scrapbook of his own.

Not that anyone believes Russell will be put out of the basketball business. This was only his 10th pro game and he had been highly impressive on defense with 201 rebounds in his first nine contests.

Better Than Expected

"He has done far better than we expected," said Boston Coach Red Auerback. "He's a great player and gives us the rebound strength we needed."

Eddie Gottlieb, owner of the Philadelphia Warriors, who complained about Russell's "goal tending," also feels that the former San Francisco star is a potential great.

But Russell no longer is the laughing boy who kept the Olympic team in stitches. He is tight-lipped and laconic, speaks reluctantly and obviously is feeling his way cautiously.

"These guys all exceed my expectations," he said tersely. "They are all good."

Schirard concluded his talk with an invitation for the group to attend the January meeting, to be held the last Thursday of the month, when the final plans for the auction will be discussed and decided upon.

Quotes From News

UNITED PRESS
WASHINGTON: President Eisenhower's new cabinet, the Eisenhower cabinet, has chosen his first cabinet members.

"I believe the Chinese Communist government should be allowed to take its place because it is the government of China and shows a more chance of being recognized effectively than the Kuomintang."

HOLLYWOOD: Jerry Gleason, Marie McDonald's attorney, criticizing public for trying to prove the actress' kidnap story a hoax: "It is about time that the police were prosecuting with the investigation of the kidnaping instead of investigating Miss McDonald."

HONOLULU: Plans Commander Walter J. Larson of Alamo, Calif., sending a frank radio message that the start was about to visit his sister: "We're having a baby—got a doctor quick."

LONDON: Yemmoite spokesman predicting the Arab world would spring to their country's defense in the event of large-scale hostilities with Britain: "Yemen can make or break Western plans in Arabia."

ALEXANDRIA, Va.: Judge James N. Colasanto refusing to suppress a conviction of a Negro janitor accused of molestating two newly arrived Hungarian refugee women: "The reason we have freedom here is because we do not conceal things—neither the good nor the bad."

CHICAGO: AFL-CIO President George Meany calling for stern measures against Communist aggression: "The widespread Communism in this country is not being recognized, certainly is not being recognized."

WASHINGTON: Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on what "manpower cuts would still leave the United States enough military strength to move into the Middle East if necessary: "I'm satisfied we do have the power."

KEMPHIS, Tenn.: Capt. Elwyn Brown on singer Elvis Presley's 14 draft classification: "Physically Presley is an A-1 and that's as high as you can go."

GAMBRIDGE, Mass.: High School, British Labor Party leader, believing Red China should be admitted to the United Nations Security Council: "I believe the Chinese Communist government should be allowed to take its place because it is the government of China and shows a more chance of being recognized effectively than the Kuomintang."

Police, Militia Open Fire On Demonstrators

Better Wages Sought

BUDAPEST — Police and Hungarian militia opened fire today on thousands of workers shouting anti-Communist slogans in Budapest.

The main clash took place outside the sprawling iron and steel mills on suburban Döspöl Island in the Danube River south of the city. Less serious incidents occurred near other major factories.

Police fired with submachine guns and carbines on the demonstrators, but the shots were directed over the heads of the crowd. It was not reported immediately if there were any serious casualties.

The demonstrators said they were clamoring for better wages. They carried placards denouncing government concessions as inadequate.

But observers said the main reason for the new outbreak of violence were:

1. The unrelenting tone of Premier János Kadar's policy statement last Sunday which said flatly the government was returning to rigorous Communist dictatorship.

2. Government attempts to infiltrate the factory workers' councils with Kadar Communists.

3. Mass layoffs in factories all over Hungary which Kadar ordered for the new year.

The clashes followed resignations of workers councils at Csepel, the Belpolona electrical works and at least 21 other factories in Budapest. Kadar's tough new militia took over factories where the mood of workers was particularly ugly.

The government's flat rejection Thursday of a U.-N. proposal to send a five-nation investigation commission to Hungary spurred the workers to their reaction, observers said.

Funeral Services Saturday Afternoon For Thomas Powell

Thomas F. Powell, 77, passed away at a DeLand nursing home at 2:45 p. m. Monday following a lingering illness.

Mr. Powell was born in Dawson, Ga., Aug. 10, 1879 and had lived in DeLand for the past 25 years. He was a retired State Road Department employee. He was a member of the Primitive Baptist Church.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. M. T. Powell, DeLand; one step daughter in Orlando; and one niece in Tampa.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. at the Harrison Funeral Home with Elder LeRoy Devane of the Primitive Baptist Church of Jennings officiating.

Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery in Sanford.

President Invites Queen To Visit U.S.

LONDON — President Eisenhower has invited Queen Elizabeth to make a "non-political" visit to the United States in October, it was reported today.

The London Daily Mirror said the official invitation will be extended by retiring U. S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich before he leaves his post later this month, although discussions of the proposed visit have been held for the past several weeks between the White House and Buckingham Palace.

The visit would be Elizabeth's first as sovereign of the British Empire and her second to the United States. She and her husband made a tour of the United States and Canada in 1951.

President Harry S. Truman remarked as that time that "never before have we had such a wonderful young couple that so completely captured the hearts of all of us."

WOMAN ON PROBATION, NEW PARTY LINE

DETROIT — Mrs. Mary K. Barry has been placed on probation—and on a new telephone party line. Police said she assaulted a woman, with whom she shared a party line, after the woman accidentally left the phone off the hook.

Commission Adopts Resolution Lauding Krider For Service

A resolution, adopted by the Board of Sanford City Commissioners at its Tuesday night's meeting was released today.

The resolution praised John Krider for his outstanding work on the Board of Sanford City Commissioners, calls attention to the fact that John Krider has now completed his term as a member of the Sanford City Commission and has retired from its membership.

"John Krider," states the resolution, "in the performance of his service as a member of the Sanford City Commission has worked diligently and unselfishly for the betterment and welfare of this city and its people, and devoted to such service time and effort above the strict call of duty, and it is the desire of the present commission that proper recognition and appreciation be expressed to this retiring commissioner for the conscientious effort he has devoted in his capacity on the City Commission."

The resolution stated that sincere commendation and appreciation of the City Commission both for itself and the people of this community be expressed, "for his outstanding service while a member of this body."

The resolution was signed by the newly elected Mayor, David Gatche, and Commissioners F. D. Scott, Marie W. Warner, Earl Higginbotham and A. L. Wilson.

1 Word Can Mean Lot In News Story

One word can mean a lot in a news story.

As a matter of fact, one word created widespread concern when it was left off of a front page news item in yesterday's Sanford Herald and caused numerous telephone calls to The Sanford Herald Office.

The story, concerning a man who had regained his sight will be carried again today on one of the inside pages with the one word "blat" deleted.

However, reader, did not know whether there was one word left off, a paragraph omitted, or half the story.

Nearly 5,000 Get X-Rays This Week

Nearly 5,000 Sanford and Seminole County citizens have taken advantage of the TB X-ray unit's free X-rays this week.

Mrs. Lorraine Graham, Executive Secretary of the Seminole County TB and Health Association said this morning that 4,000 X-rays have been made up until this morning when the units opened at 9 o'clock.

The goal in Seminole County this year is 10,000 X-rays to determine if the dread TB germ is affecting anyone in this area.

The TB X-ray unit will be closed Monday but will reopen Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. The Seminole County survey will continue through Wed. Jan. 16.

Mrs. Graham said that 2,180 of the X-rays had been made at the units stationed in downtown Sanford.

En-Lai Glad Poland, Russia's Friendly Relations Stronger

WARSAW — Communist China Premier Chou En-Lai arrived here today fresh from talks with Kremlin leaders and said he is glad Poland and Russia recently strengthened "friendly relations."

It was a broad hint that the time has come for Communist tanks.

Chou tip-toed around Poland's recent moves for independence from Moscow and emphasized that ties with Russia and other Communist countries are all-important.

"Your country has had many new, great achievements but also many difficulties which with great effort are now being overcome," he said on arrival at Warsaw airport.

"But to this end the unification of all forces is needed in the struggle against the anti-socialist anti-Communist forces," he added.

The Poles, fearing Chou has become a "Moscow" man, regarded his visit with some apprehension. After at first seeming to support Poland's move for independence from Moscow the Chinese have launched bitter attacks on Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia and his cult of "other roads to socialism."

Bandits Torture Spinster Sisters In Robbery Attempt

CHICAGO — Five masked bandits tortured two spinsters by burning them with cigarettes and a gas jet in a futile attempt to force them to disclose where their money was hidden.

The victims, Miss Martha Goldfein, 58, and her sister Betty, 50 were hospitalized for treatment of second degree burns, shock and wrenched arms.

They said the men entered their second story apartment over a vacant store by using a ladder and breaking a window.

"O. K., now you're going to tell us where the money is hid," they quoted one of the bandits as saying while the others threatened them with guns and knives.

When the women insisted they had none, the bandits ransacked the eight-room apartment and then began torturing the sisters.

They held the women's hands against an ignited gas jet on a stove and pressed lit cigarettes against their bodies. When that failed, they removed the women's shoes and found $60 hidden in them. Martha said one of the bandits threatened to pull off her toes with pliers.

Fruit Fly Spray Planes Are Back In Operation Today

FORT LAUDERDALE — The Mediterranean fruit fly spray planes were back in operation here today after a long layoff.

Jack Mercer, supervisor of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, ordered a portion of the city sprayed after the discovery of a fly Thursday.

As a result, the spray planes will again douse the area every week for six weeks. Mercer said the discovery of the specimen in a trap was a "low blow."

Authorities who had not found a fly in the area for two months had said they believed the fly had been eradicated in Howard County.

Civic Club Hears War Correspondent Tell Of Experiences

ATLANTONTE SPRINGS — A large crowd of members and guests of the Atlantonte Springs Civic Club gathered at the Community House Wednesday night to hear Mrs. Florence Lamborn of Winter Park relate her experiences as a woman war correspondent in Korea.

Her tear-filled eyes blazed as she spoke of several incidences and of those people there, who had become so dear to her heart.

She repeated over and over again "It was terrible" as she relived the past in her 45-minute talk before an audience of 100 or more persons.

She went to Korea in 1953 and worked as a photographer and news correspondent for the Stockholm Hilligan, a daily newspaper. She also worked for the Tokyo Evening News and The British News Agency. Besides being a correspondent, she worked as a medic in the first aid stations in her spare time. In 1954 she became a lecturer for the Swedish Board of Education, coming to Winter Park in 1955 with her husband and three children. The Lamborns are owners and publishers of The Winter Park Herald, a weekly newspaper. Mrs. Lamborn is the author of the book called, A Swedish Woman in Korea.

Proceeding the speaking, Mrs. T. F. Wood, service chairman for the Civic Club gave a lengthy and most interesting report of the activities of her committee. She described the Christmas wrapped packages of home-made candy, cookies, socks and other gift envelopes.

Graham Enters Gas Chamber Tonight

CANON CITY, Colo. — John Gilbert Graham, still calm and cooperative in his death cell, will pay with his life tonight for the bomb deaths of 44 persons aboard a airliner near Longmont, Colo., Nov. 1, 1955.

The confessed timebomber will enter the state's lethal gas chamber at Colorado State Prison here at an hour yet to be disclosed. He has requested no special consideration.

The 24-year-old saboteur saw his wife, Gloria, for the last time Sunday. She fan's returning, she said, "because it's too hard on both of us."

Graham, who the state has condemned to die, has been out of the sky to collect trip insurance on his mother, one of the victims, never sought clemency, or even an appeal of his conviction. And none is indicated.

Mrs. Graham said she probably does not love her husband now. "I guess pity's the only thing I have left," she said.

Man Is Fatally Burned In Shower

JACKSON, Miss. — A Texas businessman was burned fatally in a motel shower Thursday by a stream of steaming water under which he lay unconscious for hours.

Police said L. M. Ayoub, 56, a Dallas wholesale dry goods firm owner, told them before he died at Baptist Hospital that he slipped in a shower at the Terry More Motel. He was knocked out. He said that in falling he apparently hit the tap handle and turned on the steaming water.

A nurse found him two hours later and he was rushed to the hospital.
