7,000 Pigs Meeting Their Fate

Tongans Prepare For Coronation

NUKU ALOFA, Tonga (AP) - Joyful Tongans began slaughtering 7,000 pigs today to mark the coronation of their new king, King Tupou IV. The happy islanders sang, danced and chanted "Hail to our greatest king of joy, today after the first coronation since their beloved Queen Salote. Tupou's mother, took the throne in 1918 in this group of 150 coral and volcanic islands in the South Pacific. The sun shone in a nearly cloudless sky and the temperature stayed in the low 80s.

Thousands of tongans stood in hushed awe as the royal couple walked 100 yards from their palace along a bank next to the Wesleyan Chapel Royal where the hour-long ceremony was held. There were gasps at the brilliance of the robes. The coronation ceremony in this British protectorate generally followed the pattern for British coronations though it was in the Methodist faith which predominates locally, a single nuptial benediction and bells rang as the crown was placed on the king's head on his 49th birthday. The governor of Hawaii, John A. Burns, represented President Johnson at the ceremony.

Like his mother, who made a big hit in London at Queen Elizabeth's coronation in 1952, Tupou is very popular with the Tongans. Salote died Dec. 14, 1965.

Senior Citizens. MISS HORNBY, I presume. Yes, you've heard that... face anywhere. Looking up the sun with a tilted chin... Miss Hornby... Energy.

By LARRY VERARHEL Nobody asked me, but don't be surprised if the Port of Sanford has a greater impact on this area than any old airport.

It was Jeno Paulucci's written commitment of $900,000 to finance the port that really turned it from a failure to success in the state legislative halls.

Honors Galore For Kiwanians

Sanford Kiwanians have come back from the convention of Kiwanis International in Houston, Texas, loaded with high honors and hearing some soothing advice.

The award was presented to the club by International President Glen Reid in the Sam Houston auditorium as 1,700 Kiwanians looked on.

Port Bond Validation Set Friday

The Seminole Port Authority plans to validate some $200,000 worth of bonds tomorrow to finance the port terminal complex to be located on the St. Johns River, west of Sanford.

Meeting in special session last night, the port board authorized the low bid to the Florida State and Sanford Atlantic banks for $200,000 worth of bond anticipation notes at 5 per cent interest.

Sanford Industrialist Jeno Paulucci had submitted two higher bids.

Earlier in the day the Housing and Urban Development Agency had agreed to loan the port $200,000 to help finance construction of the port terminal, wharf and other installations.

The bond anticipation notes are an assurance that monies would be pledged for the payment of bonds.

Port members last night agreed that proceeds from the notes be deposited in the two banks and directed port attorney Gordon Frederick to draw up an escrow agreement and that the board control the disbursement of all funds.

Howard McNulty, president of the Florida State Bank informed board members that all the banks in the county were participating in the financing, although the two Sanford banks were "pre-empting" the project.

"It shows the banks of this county are 100 per cent behind the project," McNulty said.

At that time, the adjustment board approved a variance for the proposed new eight-story Jeno Paulucci Building to be located at Seminole Blvd. at Hillenwiese. A variance had to be obtained for the proposed structure in a neighborhood commercial zone.

Hospital Reduces Budget

Seminole Memorial Hospital has reduced its budget for the county for the 1967-68 fiscal year by $10,000, resolution adopted by the board of trustees and transmitted to the Board of County Commissioners.

The hospital for the new budget year is requesting $210,000, rather than the $220,000 request last year, for operation and maintenance of the hospital.

Final payment on the county's allocation of $117,000 for a three year period to secure matching funds for the $50,000 Hill-Burton grant for construction of the recent $1 million addition to the hospital was made last year.

During the two-week period from June 15 to July 1 there were 1,700 fishing licenses issued in the county.

Defendants in the Altamonte Springs traffic court were left to the lunch Monday evening when Town Judge Gene R. Stephenson failed to show up.

Planners Set To Ease Skyscraper Restrictions

The Zoning and Planning Board tonight will consider easing restrictions on tall buildings in neighborhood commercial and commercial areas in the city.

The board is expected to approve a change in the present zoning ordinance that buildings can be over 35 feet in neighborhood commercial and 100 feet in commercial.

On June 22, the board of adjustment voted to ask the planners to make the change to pave the way for modern skyscraper complexes within these areas.

Altamonte 'Tough' With Developers

Pointing out that the "people in the town are not developers anything" Altamonte Springs Mayor W. Lawrence Swafford started the ball rolling at the meeting of council last night to control building of new homes on lots on unimproved streets in the town.

Swafford explained builders in some instances are constructing new homes on unimproved streets while making no provision to improve the streets.

Prospects
Brightening
For Realtors

With a seven-year slump behind it, prospects are brightening for the real estate industry in Florida.

That's the finding of Florida Trend Magazine, which says in its July issue: "Storm warning signals are flying in Tallahassee, in Washington and on Wall Street, but Florida's real estate business is starting to pick up steam again."

The business and financial magazine quotes a "yacht club type" realtor as saying: "We've been in drought seven years. Now we're seaworthy again. Before 1967 is out, Florida's real estate operations will be setting records."

In a survey of real estate, banking, construction and mortgage experts throughout the state, Florida Trend found this opinion is not universally held, but it also found a basis for optimism in the intermediate term outlook.

In Viet:
Shades Of Civil War!

MEKONG RIVER DELTA. South Vietnam (AP)—America's military commanders have harkened back to Civil War days on the Mississippi for tactics to fight guerrilla dominance of Vietnam's lush Mekong River delta.

It's called riverine warfare, a term first used by Union troops in 1862. The 1967 version combines amphibious tactics, river assault groups like those formed by the French in Vietnam, and an historical thank-you to Gen. Winfield Scott who saw the need for Navy gunboats on the Mississippi.

For the past month a flotilla of barracks ship, gunboats and landing craft has been launching anti-guerrilla sweeps in estuaries below Saigon. These are pinpoints in the vast area that make one-third of Vietnam a people and furnishes most of the rice to government and Viet Cong alike.

The heart of the operation is the Benueah, a converted tank-landing ship row jammed with troop quarters, command centers and communications gear—as well as a popcorn stand.

Aboard the troopships are two battalions of the U.S. 9th Infantry division; the officers' staff to make riverine warfare work and the infantrymen beamed at finding themselves part soldier, part sailor and part Marine.

The shallow-draft landing boats are modified versions of old World War II craft but much better armed. Some carry machine guns and mortars. A special type carries a 48 mm cannon, they are meant to not only land the infantrymen but then push into narrow waterways and give direct supporting fire where possible.

The delta, 75 per cent under water during the rainy season, is now starting, has countless waterways where such craft can operate.

The Viet Cong has used these waterways freely in the past, slipping about in sampans at night and disappearing by day. Many areas are honeycombed with bunkers, foxholes and trenches neatly hidden in palm stands, inside villages or camouflaged into the dense rice-cropland crossing the paddyfields. The Viet Cong move into them when needed, then fade away to another area if pressed too far.

Moose Dance
Is Success

Annual Independence Day Dance held by Sanford Lodge 1851, Local Order of Moose, has been reported a "grand success" by Governor John Ransby.

The many members of the lodge and of Sanford Chapter 1101, Women of the Moose, enjoyed dancing to the music of John Rich and the Country Playboys.

A breakfast was served by the Legionnaires, the second degree of the Moose, Sunday morning with "Chef" Ralph Moore in charge of preparing the ham and eggs.

Ransby reminds all brothers and co-workers that the Annual District Dance will be held July 29 at the New Smyrna Moose Lodge. Tickets are now available at the local Moose House, 2000 E. Palmisto Ave.

Delany GOP Club Cited By Editor

By MRS. JOHN LEONE

The Delany Republican Club has been cited by "The Florida Republican Challenge," state party publication, as "one of the largest and most active Republican Clubs in Florida."

The publication reflects the impressions of editor Harold Stuyman, executive director of the Florida Republican Executive Committee, who was speaker at the Delany club's April meeting.

Appearing under the title, "A Small Community Has Big Club," the story reported on growth and accomplishments of the club in the November and March elections. Credit for the "fine showing" of Republican strength in Delany was given to the "dedicated work" of the membership chairman, John Kliment and Louis R. Amann, who more than doubled the membership during the past year.

Calling attention to the successful efforts of a large number of club workers in building voter registration, in getting out the vote, and in educating candidates to the community, the writer said, "The Delany GOP leaders have accepted the challenge of keeping their club one of the top performers in Florida."

Apollo - - By 'Barge'

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) - The wreckage of Apollo 1, built with visions of rocketing three astronauts to Mars, was packed in cardboard boxes and plastic bags today for trip by slow barge to Virginia.

The more than 1,000 packages of pieces of the ill-fated space vehicle leave Cape Kennedy next Wednesday for a flatbed trailer. They will be loaded in a silver container the size of two house trailers to remain in storage for 10 years.

Phoenician Artifacts Found

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) - Archaeologists digging 60 miles from here have unearthed pieces of art from more than 2,500 years ago.

The silk, found in the tombs of a Phoenician cemetery near Sabratha, provide yet another link with the Phoenician traders of antiquity who spread civilization in the Mediterranean as they mapped out the world's first known trading empire.

The great trading expeditions began in what is now Lebanon, and outside the Lebanese city of Sidon there still stands a hill of crushed mussel shells which produced the purple dye that was Phoenicia's stock in trade.

Archaeologists in Libya have now discovered a cemetery from the third or fourth century B.C. - when the Phoenician city of Carthage was the queen of North Africa - complete with wooden coffins, pieces of pottery and the silver fabric.

Libya's controller of antiquities reports the cemetery represents the earliest Phoenician relics in the country. It was excavated in the Malta district near Sabratha.

The big muscle that holds together the two shells of the scallop is the only part of the animal that is eaten.

Monroe Gattings

MRS. E. L. JOHNSON
Well now, howdy there! A very nice rainy day to you. That's what it is but we sure had better not fuss about it had we? After that long dry spell it's sure making the grass grow. I can tell by the many times my "better half" has started up the lawn-mower.

There will be a special party at the home of Mrs. E. L. Johnson and Mrs. Mollie Steadle and me off to Gainesville for an important three days. We will attend the annual Homeowners State Council meeting. And, as always, we know we will have a very interesting time. Especially this year, for we will get to hear the national president of the Associated Country Women of the World, Mrs. Arnet Dutt, of India. She is a wonderful speaker I am told.

As we have guests for 10 days, we will spend their time fishing and visiting relatives while here. Bill and my better half (?) will take us Bill can go back and tell them of the big one that got away. Claude and Lena Hawkins are going to give them a barbeque supper one evening. Claude is famous for his special barbeque sauce and knows just how to make those dinners melt in your mouth. We hope their visit will be an enjoyable one. They say that I will go back with them for a visit. I probably will. . . . John and Helen Gardner have returned home after a short vacation in Hartford, Conn., with some of her kindfolk. They reported a very good time. . . . Our thought this week was taken from a Homeowners Grapevine source.

Scallops are really shellfish. . . . Former Monroe resident Louise Bushlow has been a good tip to them and they let her go home too. She and Naomi were in the same room. Don't you know they had a talking good time? . . . Another former Monroe resident Mrs. Claude (Johanna) Hittel Jr. is also a patient here. She is a very charming person and I enjoyed talking to her very much. We wish her a speedy recovery too. . . . The arrival of little Ronnie Tindel Jr. makes the fifth living generation in the Tindel family. Next to him, the youngest one is Grammie (great) Norwood. She makes the grandnie to Margaret Tindel AND me look like the 11th generation. I wish I knew her secret. Congratulations, Mrs. Tindel.

The 'Greyhound' Arrives

By JANE CASSELLBERRY

An autograph party and dance in the Lyman High School gymnasium celebrated the long-awaited arrival of "The Greyhound" Yearbook, 1967 edition.

The handsome annual with its blue cover featuring a gold medallion with the school insignia, proved well worth waiting for and is the latest in the school's history. It has 200 pages, including color pictures of an aerial view of the school plant, crowning of the homecoming queen, and the bonfire.

This year's annual was dedicated to Tom Barrow, coach and chemistry teacher. Co-editors were Gail Lincoln and Dale Tucker. Business manager was Pat Sweeney.

Photographer was Brent Rose, and sponsors were James Barnes and Mrs. Connie Kimbrough. On the staff of the yearbook were Sandra Healing, Alyson Johnson, Charlene Stewart, Frank Moore, Michael Herwig, Terry McLaughlin, Ann Shelton, Nancy Erikson, Scott Brown, and John Callis.

Trees were the theme of the yearbook and each section began with a photo of a different tree.

The yearbook was presented to the school by the staff of the Lyman High School. It was a very successful party and dance.

Seminole Hospital Bills

The inflationary trend in hospital bills that struck so much of the nation a year ago is going to be felt in Seminole County in the not too distant future.

Most hospitals will be increasing their rates between 10 and 15 per cent to give nurses and other hospital workers pay raises. The wage increases will be from 15 to 25 per cent.

Figures prepared for the National Conference on Medical costs will show this trend. An advanced look at the statistics shows in the last half of 1966, daily hospital charges across America jumped 11.6 per cent. During this same period, the price of physicians' services increased 7.8 per cent.

Other figures released in conjunction with the medical cost survey shows 60 per cent of America's poor children have never had medical care or even dental and the chance of a child dying before the age of one year is 50 per cent higher among the same poor, the chance of death before age 35 is four times greater.

As the demand for professional care increases, the pressure on the supply is probably forcing up the cost of services of doctors, especially general practitioners and pediatricians, is woefully short. The Vietnam war takes about 5,000 doctors a year for two-year stints, also. Hospital workers always have been at the bottom of the income ladder, existing on marginal pay in institutions that confused charitable intent with business administration.

Comparatively full employment is with us now and other opportunities are open to the unskilled as well as the skilled worker.

The new minimum wage law covers hospital help for the first time and they must be paid at least $1 an hour this year, $1.15 in 1968 and $1.30 in 1969.

Figures from the National Conference on Medical costs are one of at least a half-dozen such studies, both government and private, which are taking aim at these rapidly rising costs of medical care. It is generally realized, suddenly, the struggle to keep up with inflationary costs is a no-winners' contest (even with the hospital and doctors' bills).

Seminole doctors, like doctors everywhere, are working harder now and enjoying it less. Their bills are bound to reflect the condition.

In 1966 the national cost of living index went up 3.3 per cent. The Medical Care Index was exactly double that figure - 6.6 per cent.

A year later, we are going to feel it in Seminole County.

A year later, we are going to feel it in Seminole County.

A year later, we are going to feel it in Seminole County.

"I Want One of Those, Too!"

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Albert's story about the gulls and the shrimp fishermen, most likely died because its former self-reliant citizens degenerated into wards of the state. They loafed around, waiting for politicians to buy their votes by offers of free wheat. So it really wasn't the vigorous barbers tribes of Attila the Hun who destroyed imperial Rome. No, indeed! It was the decline in self-reliance and hard work. The Romans became twins for the Florida gulls. And millions of Americans are in the very same category. Over 500,000 (half a million) people in New York City are thus on relief.

It's about the population of Indianapolis or Atlanta. One of the Atlanta droppers into New York City and then supported solely by the taxes paid in New York City are who are actually workers! When the dropper begins to outnumber the worker bees, you can easily guess the outcome. So parents and teachers should be vigilant in producing self-reliant children. Let them earn their spending money. Never give children a free allowance. For that is exactly what the shrimp fishermen did to the gulls in Florida! Pay kiddies on a piecemeal basis. Let them "sell" you parents on their own ideas about the house or lawn, farm or garage.

If they do a creditable job, pay them properly. And pay promptly, for children have a poor time sense. Thus the six-year-old doesn't even know whether it is morning or afternoon. So deferred payment doesn't motivate kiddies like a dime scratched on each window, which he can claim when he washes that window!

By MARYANN MILES

Five year old Brenda Lee Hancock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Hancock of 312 W. Grand St., Sanford, has been returned to St. Jude's Hospital in Tennessee for treatment of leukemia after suffering several relapses.

The first child in Seminole County to be aided by the newly formed local chapter of ALSAC (American Leukemia Society) (Aiding Children), flight arrangements for her and her father were made for 5 p.m. Monday by Richard McGilberry, director, whose granddaughter, Bonnie Smetzer of Orlando, also receives periodic treatment at St. Jude's.

Brenda Lee's mother is a patient at Seminole Memorial Hospital where she is recovering recent surgery.

Annual leukemia drive has been set this year for Sept. 23-24 and leaders are now being recruited to be in charge of the Teenage Drive, McGilberry advises.

The Dodd Caper

Ethics, with jarring impact, was brought dramatically to the attention of this nation the other week when the highly respected Senate of the United States censured Senator Tom Dodd.

Down the hall at the Washington capitol action of a similar nature had been proposed for Congressman Adam Clayton Powell. Undoubtedly both chambers of the country's legislative branch should reckon with conduct that lessens public confidence in them because of the unseemly conduct of one or more of its members.

Out of this Dodd case has come statements of Senators (and perhaps others) that "there is no code of ethics."

The hope "on the Hill" is that one should soon be proposed and adopted. Are they telling us that rules of proper conduct must be printed? Perhaps so, if they are to be used as the basis for trials of conduct. But surely not as a guide for conduct.

Here are men who are elected to the office they hold because of the confidence of a large bracket of voters that they are honest men, men of integrity. Their "rules of conduct" come from what all believe to be clear-cut decisions of what is right or wrong. The "small still voice of conscience" in the breasts of sincere men seeking no gain, but the right will no doubt serve as a guide should they waver from accepted ethical standards.

There are some - skeptics, they are called - who say that "the voice of conscience" is there all right when the man goes into public office. But so often it is smothered by the lack of responsibility to a higher authority for any unethical or dishonest deed. True, the voters can hold him responsible, but the decision of rejection must wait till the next election. Meanwhile, who would presume to attempt an investigation? So, the misuse of funds, the use of publically-owned equipment for personal return for its private use, the swaying between right and wrong depending on the effective observance of the eleventh commandment, "Don't get caught," can be "gotten away with."

And it is safe to say that each time wrong goes unnoticed by others with authority, it is unpunished, that "small still voice of conscience" blanketed by the recognition of personal gain. And soon ceases to be a voice at all.

Surely, the voters sincerely serving their country and their constituency, public servants whose intelligence is presumed to be far above average, do not have to have a book on ethics to tell them how to act.

If they must, just MUST have the printed word as a guide, there is that long revered Golden Rule - "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you" or Rotary International's terse but comprehensive "Way To Live" - "Is it the truth?" (2) Is it fair to you and better friendship? (4) Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

But the "small still voice of conscience," born of a sound moral background and undergirded by a true concern for the good of others, is the best code of ethics for all of us. Even for the Senators of the United States. And if for them, then surely for elected officials even on the local scene, among others.

Hal Boyle Says:

To The Editor

Editor, Herald:

I wish to express my appreciation in behalf of the summer program of the Community Methodist Church for the Herald's fine publicity and coverage of the Kent Kilbourne concert, June 27.

This Christian pop and folk singer was certainly worth all of our publicity efforts. His singing and guitar abilities made for a most enjoyable evening's entertainment, and his message presented in word and song packed an impressive punch for all who attended.

The program was one of the first of its kind in our area. I want to thank all who helped to make it possible, especially the various businessmen in South Seminole who allowed us to place publicity in their stores and restaurants. It is good to note that some businessmen are actually interested in the youth themselves, and not just money.

I feel that with the continued cooperation from the newspaper, Seminole Community Action, and we can present this type of appealing and constructive presentation given by this college junior again.

Rev. Amos Jones is showing real heart felt interest in our community. He really is a live wire out here. He is doing things that never have been done before. He is a deserving man.

Flowers Fresh, Flowers Fake

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEW YORK — (REA) — The flower business is a hot one. Many have used flowers to show their looks and win a man's fancy.

According to the script of the Broadway musical, "The Apple Tree," Adam had no sooner built a makeshift hut of three boards than Eve filled the hut with flowers to overflow capacity with fresh flowers.

Chopetra, too, made lavish use of blossoms. When Marc Antony came to dine with the Queen of the Nile, he walked on flowers covered a full foot deep with fragrant flowers.

In ancient Egypt, bunches of blossoms were worn at all the best parties and now, today, the newest fashion gals for summer are fresh floral arrangements.

Florida reports a blossoming business in real-flower earrings, buttons or drop, for fair-weather fashions. Take a pair of your favorite earrings to your florist and ask him to add fresh blossoms for today's new pert look in jewelry.

Dresses and tiny orchids in colors keyed to your costume are favorite fashion jewels. For candid evening attire, fantasias or lily of the valley pearls provide a romantic effect.

Bracelets, too, look pretty ringed with blossoms. And a single lily bloom can be set in to a ring.

Try a pair of "scatter pin" flowers on your suit or dress to get into the swing of the new look in floral gems.

With the pretty, little-girl look so popular for the summer season, flowers add the final feminine touch.

SUMMER SURPRISE
 Here's a summer surprise for the little folks. Cut a few frankfurter rolls in half lengthwise. Scoop out the soft centers and toast the rolls lightly. Finely chop two shelled hard-cooked eggs and mix with mayonnaise. Line the inside of the roll "boats" generously with egg mixture and in each place a whole Norway sardine. Lift a crisp liner leaf of romaine at one end of each boat for a sail. And away they go.

Tableware Goes Contemporary

By AILEEN SNOOPY
NEW YORK — (REA) — The baby of the tableware field is growing up. A major reason for the importance of the leisure or vacation home plus the continued eating out during the summer. This usually means your own patio or as guests of neighbors for a cook-out.

Many homes a well-designed melamine set of dinnerware bridges the gap between the family china and the place settings for guests.

Melamine designs and color have come so far that they Pilot Club Has Annual Picnic At Ball Home

The Pilot Club of Sanford held its annual picnic, "Bring Your Own Steak" in the front of beautiful Lake Mary in the home of the spacious home of Laurene and Raymond Hall.

Raymond Hall and co-pilot, George Sline, were the official firemen for the club and the all-most 100 per cent attendance of the newly formed Pilot Club of South Seminole.

Hostesses, Laurene Hall, Esther Rive, Lida Sline, and Hazel Field, were kept busy all afternoon preparing the delicious tossed salads, rolls, French fries and a lot of other goodies. Sheet cake, lemon and carrot frosting was served to all present.

Only a short business meeting was held by Virginia Smith in the absence of Pilot president Bonnie Boone, due to illness.

Members who showed forward in selecting their own picnic attire were Mrs. Dick Schrum and Miss Susan McCall, bridesmaid; Miss Angela Harvey, flower girl; Mrs. Lauren Johnson, hostess; and Miss Debbie Rockett, Junior bridesmaid.

use and material of such dinnerware. According to Joseph Hunza, design director for the melamine division of Lenox, "We're designing melamine with a contemporary approach to informal entertaining... instead of trying to duplicate traditional china patterns."

Sculptured effects are very important. In line with this look are new concepts with plates that are thin and appear highly lacquered, with a deep rim that allows for more surface design. An especially effective design in this field are cups that are straight-sided and stack.

Because of its closeness to design, Hunza often is asked to create table settings. For casual colorful entertaining, he offers these suggestions:

Choose a theme. A simple motif, perhaps a floral design, sets the mood.

Pick up accent colors from the dinnerware in selecting table coverings and napkins.

Mix and match with contrasting napkins and tablecloth or prints with solids and prints.

Save your own decorations with inexpensive cottons or a sheet of vinyl that just needs cutting. Also shop for new designs in paper place mats.

When selecting a centerpiece, go overboard with an over-sized paper or cloth variety of flowers. They're very big, have many uses and fit unusual containers, such as a casserole dish, straw basket or gallon milk container.

No matter how beautifully you decorate a buffet, though, Hunza points out it is only successful when set in a logical order so guests find it easy to serve themselves. An overly elaborate table setting is like an overdone hairdo that everyone is afraid to disturb.

If a recipe calls for one cup of fine cornflake crumbs, you'll need to crush four cups of cornflakes to make the required number of crumbs.

SARDINES 'N' COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD
 Here's a savory salad to wake up lazy summer appetites. Mix together 1 1/2 cups of cottage cheese, 1 teaspoon finely chopped sweet dill, a pinch of paprika salt and a dash of pepper. Place mixture on crisp lettuce leaves and dust with paprika. Arrange whole drained Norway sardines around the cheese mound. Yield: 4 generous servings.

"BAGWOOD" SARDINE SANDWICH
 Get a man or growing youngster in the house with a "Bagwood" appetite! They'll go for this sandwich. On a slice of toast which has been spread with mayonnaise, arrange slices of fresh tomato. Cover with about 8 whole Norway sardines and top with crisp lettuce. Second slice of toast firmly on top and serve with a cold beverage.

Dilute canned condensed cream of mushroom soup with a little dry vermouth and use it as the braising liquid for veal chops.

Enjoying the gala occasion were the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Aubrey Myers; Mrs. Roy Britt, Sanford, and Mrs. B. J. Wheeler Jr., Mrs. Don Shaffer, Mrs. A. Flourney Jerigan and Miss Kathryn Lawton, all of Oviedo.

In making small arrangements of one species of flower, simplicity is the rule. If well-done, there is no sense of monotony, no feeling that the addition of flowers of some other kind would have added to the attractiveness of the bouquet. Use very few flowers as the focal center of the composition and as a contrast and to give height and breadth, use small branches of rhododendron, magnolia, kalmia or other bold, dark foliage. If daintiness is desired, use a delicate fern.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 11 years old and I have a problem. My mother and father are getting a divorce. My mother has a lawyer to fight for her rights, and my father has a lawyer to fight for his rights. Why don't we have lawyers to fight for our rights?

DEAR RICHARD: You are letter eloquently express the hurt felt by many children when their parents divorce. Your "rights" however, do not include forcing your parents to live together whether you like it or not.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a neighbor who gets up bright and early on Sunday morning to cut his grass with a power lawn mower? I once mentioned (blatantly) that he shouldn't work on Sunday. He said "work" means he has to go to school. It was a serious answer.

SLEEP RUINED: Tell him that the information you are giving him is "disturbing the peace." (This phrase could throw a scare into his nerves.)

P.S. I think anyone who uses a power lawn mower before noon on Sunday should be forced to shave with it.

DEAR ABBY: Is there any way to find out if a person who was born in another country and claims to be an American citizen REALLY is a citizen? He has lived in this town for about 25 years.

I don't want that person to know that I am trying to find out, but I am willing to spend up to $100 for this information. Sign me.

DEAR ABBY: Your local bureau of immigration and naturalization can provide you with the information you seek at no cost. But be prepared to divulge the reasons for your inquiry. It is up to the bureau chief to decide whether your "reasons" are "good" enough.

DEAR ABBY: We are a one-car family, so my mother drives my father to a corner

Don't be petty about it but show that you can think big and get equally comprehensive results.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You have some smart ideas how to get those smart ideas how to your own roof to go along with your ideas. Plans, any explanation others may require regarding your finances should be forthcoming. Be assertive.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Ideal day to buy or sell and whatever will gain your admiration from colleagues. Others consider you a pretty warm person. Do well and you prove it to them. Show that you have good business sense, are practical.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show close ties that you certainly have the ability to live about anything that is confined in you. Assist them with some technical problem. You are inspired just how to gain more good will; follow through.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are very charming right now and could get out and impress others most favorably, gain favors you want. Social whirl is very fascinating just at this time, those personalities you have long wanted to be with.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show close ties that you certainly have the ability to live about anything that is confined in you. Assist them with some technical problem. You are inspired just how to gain more good will; follow through.

VRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't be so recalcitrant about visiting with good friends, taking time for the necessities. Much can be accomplished via social channels. Be sure you are dressed exactly right for the occasion in P.M.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) You can make an excellent impression on a most influential person prominent to your life right now, but do so quietly. Then take more interest in some civic group affair of which you are a part.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) You can figure out personal and business problems for yourself and then get experts to give you additional advice. I get full service from my job, I get full service from my job, I get full service from my job.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your intuitive perceptions are accurate and you can get the right answer to your most pressing problems. Be more diligent in their dealings through with obligations. Do what will please loved one; be generous.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Anything of a personal nature should be handled with efficiency and speed right now. If you are averse to creating things you find others go along more willingly with a plan you have in mind. Be smart.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) It is best first to analyze and plan well any work you do so that you get it done accurately and speedily. Be sure to take any health treatments you need. Renew your energies for important work ahead in coming months.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) If you entertain persons like as they desire, you further ingratiate yourself into their good graces. Use your finest skills so that you can assist others just at this time. Show your capabilities to advantage.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he, or she, will be one of those young people who early shows much deliberation before acting, which is prompted by consideration of the results. Now a little more speed should be taught early, the main idea is to be especially so through-ly that services or products will be of the best and success comes as a result.

DEAR MOM: I'm 11 years old and I have a problem. My mother and father are getting a divorce. My mother has a lawyer to fight for her rights, and my father has a lawyer to fight for his rights. Why don't we have lawyers to fight for our rights?

DEAR MURIEL: You are letter eloquently express the hurt felt by many children when their parents divorce. Your "rights" however, do not include forcing your parents to live together whether you like it or not.

DEAR MURIEL: What do you think of a neighbor who gets up bright and early on Sunday morning to cut his grass with a power lawn mower? I once mentioned (blatantly) that he shouldn't

Jacoby On Bridge

Jacoby and Son

Justice doesn't always prevail at the bridge table. It is the best for all concerned.

South might well have opened with one heart instead of one diamond. North responded one spade. South might still have tried a two heart call but for some obscure reason he bid two clubs. When North jumped to three no-trump most people would have breathed a sigh of relief and passed, but not South. He wanted to bid hearts and decided to try a four heart bid.

North didn't exactly know what was going on, but he did have very good club support, so North leaped to six clubs. South couldn't stand for this and bid a hopeful six hearts. At this point, South had finally run out of ideas, so he passed.

West opened a trump. Not that it mattered. North and South had stumbled into an unbeatable contract.

South won in dummy and led the queen of diamonds. West took his ace and led a second trump. South won in his own hand, ruffed a low diamond with dummy's last trump, came to his hand with a club, drew trumps, played out his diamonds and eventually took the spade finesse to make his contract.

"Beautiful, just beautiful!" said North. "It let you could fall in the river and come up with a fish in your mouth."

"Thank, blankety blank," said East and West.

Polly's Pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY—We have a friend who is completely blind. She runs her household quite normally and does the cooking, washing and ironing. She has difficulty identifying canned and packaged goods under the following system we work out. She writes in Braille on strips of paper whatever the contents of a can or package are and leaves enough space at either side of the pin pricks to place a thumb. She reads the word for the blind side of a piece of double-faced tape the same length, removes the protective tape from the other adhesive side and sticks this on the right can. Since we worked out this system she has just about everything labeled.

ed and has much more ease and freedom with her household chores. I do hope someone else will find this useful. —ARLENE

POLLY'S PROBLEM DEAR POLLY—I have two lamps with parchment shades that are covered with a red cloth and the parchment has turned an ugly brown. I tried to clean them with a soft cloth and the parchment is very poor. How can I whiten this parchment without ruining the shades? —JEAN

DEAR POLLY—So many of our adhesive side and sticks this on the right can. Since we worked out this system she has just about everything labeled.

Beauty after Forty

By Edyth Thornton McLeod

"Dear Edyth Thornton McLeod: I'm wondering if it would be unbecoming at my age to have my hair cut and colored? I'm 70, but my hair is good and I go out quite frequently. However, I don't want my pastor or my friends to think I'm 'dainty' at my age. I'm so tired of having ugly grey hair it has never come through a pretty gray or even 'pale white.' — F. L.

and lunch. I must get rid of these excess pounds because I do look awful! — Doty M. Nothing will reduce my weight, proper dieting. (And, dear readers, how do you expect to be able to even go to work much less do your work if you don't eat properly?) Not to eat breakfast and lunch is a foolish idea. Find in proper proportion a pretty gray or even 'pale white.' — F. L.

Forget about your age. Certainly you should have your hair cut and colored. I think you'll like the change very much. Have the hairdresser try out 'washes' of hair in different colors; see how each blends with your skin tone. I have an idea your pastor and friends will applaud you for becoming more interested in your appearance.

Remember, you're never so old for that which will make you more attractive and which you enjoy more than when you're young.

"I'm 61, I mean my weight down. Could I lose by doing exercises faithfully every morning before I leave for work? I also plan to lose breakfast
