After Another Rules It Unconstitutional

Judge Upholds Drug-Trafficking Law

C. VERNON MIZE, JR.

By TESI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A Seminole circuit judge has upheld the constitutionality of the state's drug-trafficking law just weeks after another circuit judge threw it out on a technicality in another drug case.

Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor denied a lawyer's request Thursday to have the drug-trafficking law thrown out in the case against Mark Anthony Williams, 22, of 2919 Autumnwood Trail, Forest City.

Williams' lawyer had asked McGregor to declare the drug-trafficking law unconstitutional, saying the law had never been passed by the state Legislature. The lawyer said the legislators failed to read the proposed trafficking law by title three times, as required and, therefore, the law is invalid. McGregor disagreed.

Following McGregor's denial of the motion, Williams entered a plea of guilty to a lesser charge of possession of more than 20 grams of marijuana and could face up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine, prosecutors said.

"We had no problem with the plea because we had expert testimony that there was less than 100 pounds of marijuana exchanged in the drug deal," said prosecutor Alan B. Robinson. "If he had been convicted of or pleaded to trafficking, he could have faced a maximum of 30 years in prison with a minimum of three years to serve. We decided to go with the sure thing after hearing what the experts had to say."

Williams was arrested by undercover drug agents on April 5 after agents said he possessed more than 100 pounds of marijuana with a street value of about $25,000.

Meanwhile, state prosecutors say they are not pleased by last month's ruling by Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr., who declared the state's drug-trafficking law unconstitutional. Prosecutors have appealed Mize's decision to the Fifth District Court of Appeal in Daytona Beach.

Mize's decision came in the case of two Orlando men, Jeffrey Laine Lynn, 30, and Lester Conrad Bridgman, 23, who were both arrested by undercover agents June 21 in the parking lot of the Live Oak Center off U.S. Highway 17-92 in Casselberry. Lynn was charged with possession, delivery and trafficking of about $2,000 worth of cocaine, while Bridgman was charged with three counts of possession, delivery and trafficking of the illegal drug, agents said.

"Lynn and Bridgman's lawyers used the same argument that Williams' lawyer used, and Mize granted their motions," Robinson said. "We have the case on appeal."

"We really didn't have much choice but to appeal it because had we refiled on a simple drug possession charge, we would be conceding with Mize that the law is unconstitutional and would, therefore, not be able to use the trafficking statute again," Robinson continued.

In his order, Mize said that while the House of Representatives and Senate of the Florida Legislature journals indicate the bill was passed on April 6, 1979, and May 26, 1980, "transcripts of the proceedings of the House on April 6, 1979, and May 26, 1980, clearly reveal the Legislature failed to take the two-thirds vote necessary to permit the bill to be read three times. Further, the title of the act was not read prior to its passage.

"The legislation has not been re-enacted by the Florida Legislature and therefore the act is still invalid due to the improper procedure used in its passage," Mize said, dismissing the drug-trafficking charges against Lynn and Bridgman.

"What we have here is a case of one judge who is interpreting the law differently than another judge," said Seminole Sheriff John Polk.

"That's why we have appeals courts so we can get another opinion. The case is being appealed," the sheriff added.

Workers Get 4% Pay Hikes

By DONNA ESTES

Lake Mary's 21 city employees will be getting an early Christmas present this year.

The City Council Thursday night unanimously approved a 4 percent across-the-board pay raise for the employees, retroactive to Oct. 1, the first day of the 1983 fiscal year.

The retroactive lump sums will be included in employee paychecks next Wednesday the day before Thanksgiving. The income will range from $39.68 for the lowest paid employee to $97.09 for City Manager Phil Kulbes.

The increase in salaries will cost the city during the 1983 fiscal year some $10,523.82 for both general fund and utility department employees.

It will be the first pay raise the employees have received in 14 months.

The action was taken after the council approved a contract with a Ft. Lauderdale firm—Long and Associates—to complete a formal job classification and pay plan for the employees by Dec. 31 at a cost of $1,561.

While Councilman Dick Fess urged that the pay raise be held off until after the study is completed, he voted with his colleagues for approval.

Fess said with the study the employees could see what the council is trying to do about their jobs.

The council in its 1983 budget included funds totaling 8 percent of employee wages for pay hikes later in the fiscal year. Councilman Ray Fox, absent because of illness, said at budget time that the pay raises when given should be based on merit rather than cost of living.

Carolyn Long of Long and Associates Ft. Lauderdale, said the study will include salary survey information pulled together within a plan. It is also to include job descriptions of all 21 employees.

Mrs. Long said the plan as prepared should be good for three to five years and can be updated periodically by the city hall staff.

At the Dec. 2 council meeting, Mrs. Long is to submit an additional proposal

Over County Scheme

Workers Fired; Bosses Quit

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Two Seminole County vehicle maintenance workers have been fired and their supervisors have resigned in connection with a scheme to sell used oil from county vehicles.

Steve Simpkins, equipment service section chief, and James Longwell, an equipment service worker, have been fired by County Administrator Roger Neiswender after it was learned that used oil from county vehicles was being sold to a recycling company and the money was being pocketed by county employees.

Chris Huff, vehicle maintenance supervisor, and Walton "Buck" Torres, vehicle maintenance superintendent, resigned after a meeting with Fleet Manager Frank Kilgore.

Neiswender said there is no proof that Huff and Torres were receiving any of the money received from the sale of the oil but both admitted their knowledge of the sales by employees.

The oil was drained from the vehicles and left for an employee of a Sanford recycling company who picked it up and left money, which later was picked up by county employees, Neiswender said.

The sales apparently had been taking place for at least two years.

Kilgore, who was hired in September to manage the maintenance of the county's 480 vehicles, said even though the county has no policy for use of the old oil, the

Council Stands Firm On Its Trailer Decision

The Lake Mary City Council balked at a proposal to grant any more special consideration to a Humphrey Road woman about the trailers located on her property and were threatened with a lawsuit as a result.

The council stood by a September decision, ordering that one of four trailers be moved by Jan. 17 from a 2.72-acre tract owned by Emily Hoyle, off Humphrey Road.

And Mrs. Hoyle told the four council members present, "If I have to, I will take this to court. If you won't go along, I will go to court."

Last Spring, City Manager Phil Kulbes reported to the council he had found 14 trailers, in various states of repair on several acres of property owned by several persons in the Humphrey Road area.

He said none of the trailers conformed with city law at that time, permitting one mobile home on a 10-acre agriculturally zoned tract.

To cure the problem with trailers proliferating in the city outside established mobile home parks, the council repealed the provision allowing trailers on 10-acre agriculturally zoned parcels and agreed to consider allowing each existing trailer to remain on a case by case basis.

Mrs. Hoyle appeared before the council in May, again in June, in September and again Thursday night concerning the four trailers on her property.

The council previously granted Mrs. Hoyle permission to keep the trailer where she lives for the remainder of her life, but advised that it could not be replaced, nor could substantial improvements be made.

The council granted five-year permits for two of the other trailers to remain on the site. And Mrs. Hoyle agreed with the board that she would remove the fourth. She said at the time that she had a buyer for the fourth trailer.

In September, she asked for an extension of time to Jan. 17 to move the trailer.

Thursday night, she was back before the council seeking permission to structurally combine a trailer that has the five-year permit with the one which was to be moved.

City Manager Phil Kulbes said it would take an "imaginative program" to structurally combine the two trailers, since they are two different brands.

He also noted it would take good carpentry and electrical work for the project to be successful. He said he was concerned.

City Attorney Robert Petree urged the council to turn the matter over to the Planning and Zoning Board, asking the board to perform the fact-finding mission on the issue and to act as consultants to the council.

Kulbes said combining the two trailers would change their structural design, adding the process would also change adversely the trailers' ability to withstand winds and storms.

Former planning and zoning board member Bill Durrenberger told the council that Kulbes should not be given the responsibility of designing the structure for Mrs. Hoyle.

Appearing before the council with Mrs. Hoyle was Mary Gill, who lives in a trailer on Mrs. Hoyle's property and who wished to buy the fourth trailer to combine it with her own.

Petree said he was concerned "a little bit about the city's liability" if it granted the request. He said a new law is being made that would give the city some responsibility if it inspected such a project and granted a permit and the structure collapsed.

The council voted to stand with the Jan. 17 deadline — DONNA ESTES

Commissioners Want Administrator Just Like The Man Who's Leaving

ROGER NEISWENDER

When Seminole County commissioners interview the four finalists for the county administrator's post this weekend, they're going to be looking for someone who is a lot like outgoing Administrator Roger Neiswender.

"I'd like to find somebody who's similar to Roger," Barbara Christensen said.

Sandra Glenn said the best solution would be to convince Neiswender not to leave. But since he's made the decision, she wants to find a successor with many of the same qualities he possesses.

"We need someone to manage the day-to-day business on a professional basis and to keep the commission informed of what's going on," she said.

Mrs. Glenn wants someone who is honest. "I want someone who can be trusted and will tell the same story to all the commissioners." She said it's important for commissioners to get the facts of a situation as they are, not as they would like them to be.

Mrs. Christensen said she wants someone who is intelligent and "can generate innovative ideas."

Robert Sturm is looking, "for the best man possible." The best man possible, Sturm said, will have the attributes of being a take-charge guy and being a good communicator.

Robert G. "Bud" Feather said Neiswender's successor should be "someone that is an independent thinker."

Feather is looking for someone who is personnel-oriented "and one who can make decisions, not just for the short-term but for the long-term consequences as well."

The four commissioners said they also want someone who has his own convictions about what should be done and isn't afraid to take a stand on something they may not agree with.

Mrs. Christensen said she wants a strong-willed professional "who can convince the board if we're wrong."

Yes-men are out of the question, she said. "I'm not looking for someone I can run over."

Mrs. Gleason echoed those feelings. "We need someone strong enough to speak their convictions and make sure commissioners get the real story."

Neiswender will resign as county administrator on Tuesday to become head of the Orlando office of Post, Buckley, Schuh and Jernigan, a consulting engineering firm.

Commissioners will be interviewing this weekend the four men who remain from the list of 63 who applied to succeed Neiswender.

The four, Lawrence Arrington, 32, assistant Leon County administrator; David B. Collier, 45, a senior associate with Kelton & Associates consulting firm; Jim Easton, 39, assistant Seminole County administrator and T. Duncan Rose, 36, assistant Alachua County administrator.

Hour-long interviews are planned with each applicant and a decision is expected on Monday.

Whichever candidate is selected, comparison with Neiswender, the only administrator Seminole County has ever had, is inevitable, Sturm said.

Speed-Up Of Tax Cut Stands Little Chance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Key Republicans in Congress are sending a clear message to President Reagan that a six-month speed-up in next year's tax cut, viewed as a possible way to stimulate the economy, would stand little chance of passage.

Reagan received blunt political counsel Thursday from House and Senate Republican leaders, who said they doubted they could push through a change in the effective date of the 10 percent tax cut from July 1 to Jan. 1.

"We just don't have the votes," House Republican Leader Bob Michel said he told Reagan during a wide-ranging, hour-long meeting to review priorities for the lame-duck session of Congress that begins Nov. 29.

Senate GOP Leader Howard Baker, who also participated, said jobs and interest rates are the chief economic priorities.

Beached Whales Killed

WELLFLEET, Mass. (UPI) — Marine life experts say an infection may have caused 65 pilot whales to lose their way and beach themselves on a tiny Cape Cod island, where 11 of the dying mammals were put to sleep. Only one whale is still alive today.

Rosalyn Ridgway of the New England Aquarium said Thursday about a dozen of the 7-to 18-foot mammals were found alive Tuesday, but all but one were killed because they were in "very poor condition" and could not be moved off the beach.

The lone survivor, a 750-pound female thought to be 3 to 4 years old, was taken from Lieutenant's Island in Cape Cod Bay to the Mystic Conn. Aquarium, but was not expected to live.

Gunman Shoots Himself

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — A Florida prison fugitive who took seven employees hostage in a grocery store released his victims unharmed today, then shot himself in the chest, saying he did not want to return to jail.

The suspect, identified as Joseph Raymond Greer, 40, shot himself once in the chest with a .38-caliber revolver seconds after releasing his last hostage at 4 a.m. He was taken to St. Francis Hospital, where he was listed in critical condition, police said.

The suspect allegedly robbed the McCartney's food store shortly after 10 p.m., then ordered manager Tom Leech to go with him for a ride, police said. Leech apparently bolted when the two got outside the store and the suspect went back inside the store and took seven employees — six females and one male — hostage.

U.S. Households Shrinking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American households are getting smaller and smaller, largely because of falling birth and marriage rates, higher divorce and separation rates and the fact more people are living alone, the Census Bureau reported today.

The bureau, updating a previously noted trend with a March survey, said the average size of an American household is now 2.72 persons, down slightly from the 2.73 average of 1980 to last March. There were 61 million family households, up about 1.5 million in a year and nearly 10 million in the past 12 years.

Lake Mary Plans To Take Over Historic Cemetery

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

The historic, 88-year-old Lake Mary Cemetery may be taken over by the city before the first of the year.

The City Council Thursday night directed City Attorney Robert Petree to work with the Lake Mary Cemetery Association, trustees of the facility, to come up with an agreement protecting both the city and the association in the takeover.

Collin Keogh, representing the association, told the council 49 spaces are available in the cemetery which has some graves dating back to the 1800s. The city could earn as much as $20,000 from the sale of those spaces, Keogh said.

He noted that the association sells the spaces for about $75 each and in some cases has given space to old Lake Mary families at no cost.

In addition, the association earlier told the council it will turn an interest-bearing account of $16,000 over to the city along with ownership of the facility.

Currently, costs of upkeep total about $45 a month, Keogh said.

"There are a lot of things we (the association) would like to see done with the cemetery," Keogh said. "But we don't want the cemetery to become a political football."

Petree said his only political attitude concerning the facility is his interest in preserving historic sites.

He noted that he had earlier counseled the governing body that with every acceptance of property comes a related responsibility.

Petree said he will be meeting with association trustees to figure out just how to make the transfer.

The cemetery funds have to be placed in trust, he said, and policy must be established by the city on the distribution of the remaining spaces.

But first, Petree said, the "ancient" handwritten document that established the cemetery must be thoroughly examined.

Petree said the city could enter into a binding contract for maintenance of the cemetery into perpetuity.

He said that he and the cemetery association trustees will work out the details after the Thanksgiving holiday and report back to the council.

Two weeks ago, the council reversed an earlier decision on taking over the cemetery. The vote was unanimous. In August, the council voted 3-2 to turn down an offer to take over the facility.

Councilman Gene McDonald led the move to turn down the cemetery offer on the grounds of escalating maintenance costs. He was joined by Councilmen Dick Fess and Ken King. McDonald has since resigned.

When Pat Southward and Cliff Nelson were appointed to replace McDonald and Vic Olvera, who had resigned to run for mayor, Mrs. Southward again brought the issue before the council.

She urged reconsideration, noting a city responsibility to safeguard the community's heritage. Incumbent Councilman Ray Fox supported the takeover from the beginning as had Mayor Walter Sorenson. Olvera also supported the cemetery transfer.

Mrs. Southward was able to persuade Fess and King to change their votes.

Holiday Season Getting A Slow Start

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government did more to help the personal income of Americans last month than did private business, statistics show, pointing out the latest symptom of the continuing recession.

Personal income — the government's broad measure of earnings before income taxes — went up 0.7 percent in October, the Commerce Department reported Thursday.

But Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said more than half of the improvement was the effect of a new unemployment benefit program, cost-of-living increases for other government payments and a federal pay raise.

Personal income increased at a $19 billion rate in October to an annual $2,620.8 billion — $2.6 trillion, the department said.

After-tax disposable income also climbed 0.7 percent in October following a 0.3 percent jump in September.

Private economist Robert A. Kavesh of New York University's graduate school of business said the month's personal income improvement of only 0.3 percent, without the government contributions, was "not enough after taxes even to keep up with inflation."

"It's just another sign the economy is dragging its heels, doing nothing," he said.

The administration agreed to the extended jobless benefits on top of the existing 39 weeks to attract enough congressional votes to pass the $99 billion tax increase legislation in August.

Private wages and salaries went down at a $1.8 billion rate, commodity producing payrolls declined a $3.8 billion rate in October.

Factory payrolls, hardest hit by the recession, dropped at a $4.4 billion annual rate in October.

The Commerce Department report also showed spending, economists say must increase substantially if the recession is to end, went up only a weak 0.1 percent. The previous month in what looked like a surge in comparison, it increased 1.1 percent.

"It certainly doesn't look like a banner Christmas coming up, not in the slightest," economist Kavesh responded.

Black Teachers Oppose Tougher Licensing Exam

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Black educators are fighting a plan to stiffen the public school teacher licensing test, saying the exam would become an academic electric chair for minorities.

The commission meets today to discuss the proposals, but probably will put off until early next year a decision on whether to recommend to Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet that the test be made tougher to pass.

Teachers seeking a certificate in Florida for the first time must pass the exam, which some Department of Education officials have concluded is too easy. Currently, about 84 percent of prospective teachers taking the exam pass it the first time around.

Dr. Walter Mercer, representing a coalition of community college and university teachers called Concerned Black Educators in Higher Education, warned that the new scores would make the test unrealistically difficult and too difficult for blacks still suffering from the effects of education in inferior, segregated public schools.

Gasoline Prices Down

MIAMI (UPI) — Statewide, gas costs at self-service pumps slipped a penny a gallon in November, the American Automobile Association reported Thursday. Prices at full-service pumps remained unchanged, an AAA survey of gas prices throughout the state showed.

Since July, self-service gas prices have dropped about 3 cents a gallon. Gas retailers sliced the cost of full-service fuel about 1.1 cents a gallon in the same period, the survey showed.

The association reported average price for regular gasoline at self-service pumps is $1.141 a gallon. Self-service unleaded gas averages $1.226 a gallon, while average costs at full-service pumps are $1.336 for regular and $1.399 for unleaded.

U.S. Must End Economic Warfare Against Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI) — Prime Minister Nikolai Tikhonov offered hope for better East-West relations but insisted the United States must open the way toward improved ties by ending economic warfare against the Soviet Union.

Tikhonov told a group of visiting U.S. businessmen Thursday the current deep freeze between the superpowers cannot be blamed on Moscow. "Relations are chilly," he said, "and to be frank, not through our fault."

Washington must renounce the use of embargoes, sanctions and other economic tactics as political weapons before the Soviets can trust Americans as trade partners, Tikhonov said.

Walesa Being Smeared?

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Lech Walesa's wife today said she was not surprised by the military government's reported attempt to discredit the Solidarity leader with pictures showing him with women in sexually compromising positions.

NHI: Nightly News said Polish authorities showed the pictures and audio tapes to Roman Catholic Church officials shortly before his release last Friday, ending 11 months retention.

In addition to audio tapes and pictures showing the union leader with women in sexually compromising situations, security agents had documents they claimed incriminate Walesa in financial irregularities.

The agents said the tapes and pictures were made before Walesa was interned last December, when martial law was imposed in Poland.

Bishops Oppose Nuclear War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's Roman Catholic bishops have agreed, after an extensive debate, to fashion a final draft of their letter condemning the arms race and challenging U.S. nuclear policy and vote on it in May in Chicago.

On Thursday, following one of the most controversial debates in the history of the U.S. Catholic hierarchy, the 287 bishops attending the four-day annual meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops generally brushed aside Reagan administration objections to their proposed anti-nuclear war statement. Instead, they told their five-bishop committee, headed by Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin of Chicago, they liked the "general thrust" of the 105-page proposed pastoral letter which condemns any first use of nuclear weapons, endorses the politically controversial concept of a freeze on nuclear weapons and questions the morality of the U.S. strategy of deterrence.

jections to their proposed anti-nuclear war statement.

Instead, they told their five-bishop committee, headed by Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin of Chicago, they liked the "general thrust" of the 105-page proposed pastoral letter which condemns any first use of nuclear weapons, endorses the politically controversial concept of a freeze on nuclear weapons and questions the morality of the U.S. strategy of deterrence.

When approved, the statement will be used as a teaching instrument to help the nation's 50 million Roman Catholics inform their con-sciences on such issues. No statement of the U.S. hierarchy has drawn as much attention as this proposed pastoral letter which seeks to outline church teaching on war and peace issues and to assess that teaching within "the new moment" created by nuclear weapons.

And no statement has been as publicly and extensively debated by the bishops. During this meeting they spent as much as one-third of their time discussing the lengthy document, including a two-hour public session on Thursday in which some 30 bishops took the floor to comment on the statement.

Not one of them, however, mentioned the Reagan administration's last minute effort to influence the debate — a seven-page, single-spaced letter from White House national security adviser William Clark and circulated among the 287 bishops attending the session on Wednesday.

"I can't specify that it had any influence on today's discussion," said Archbishop John Roach of St. Paul-Minneapolis, the president of the bishops' conference. But he added that Clark made "a very valid point that we do not adequately acknowledge the sincere efforts" toward disarmament being made.

Bernardin said the debate showed the bishops "are supportive of the current thrust" of the statement.

But they did raise questions about the document's use of the Bible, its language on the just war and pacifist traditions in church history, and the problem of deterrence.

In addition, some prelates, including Archbishop James Hickey of Washington and Bishop Joseph McNicholas of Springfield, Ill., urged a more patriotic tone and a sharper denunciation of totalitarianism.

"We seem to be afraid of doing a little flag-waving, of being patriotic," McNicholas said.

Food Stamp Cheating Alleged

Sheriff's Dispatcher Arrested For Fraud

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A Seminole County sheriff's dispatcher is free from the county jail today under the pretrial release program following her arrest at 4:05 p.m. Thursday for food stamp fraud.

Colleen L. Foster, 32, of 61 Kent Court, Sanford, was arrested at the jail Thursday on two counts of obtaining public assistance by fraud, jail officials said.

According to sheriff's spokesman John Spolski, the "public assistance" in the charge refers to food stamps obtained by fraudulent methods.

"Ms. Foster has been working here as a dispatcher since March, 1981," Spolski said. "She's been a good worker. We've had no problems with her. This is an unfortunate incident."

Spolski said department officials are scheduled to meet with Ms. Foster today to discuss circumstances which led to her arrest, adding that they will also consider whether or not Ms. Foster should be terminated because of her arrest.

POOL CONTRACTOR CHARGED

A swimming pool contractor is free on bond today following his arrest Tuesday on charges of misappropriation of funds, forgery, contracting without a license and two counts of grand theft after a Longwood couple said they paid him almost $14,000 to build a pool that has not been completed.

David James Bamberg, 35, owner of Paradise Pools of Central Florida, State Road 46 near Upsala Road, was jailed after Thomas and Margaret Luka told the Seminole State Attorney's office's Consumer Fraud Division that they paid Bamberg almost $14,000 to build them a pool in September 1981 and that the pool is only half finished.

At the time the contract was signed, the Lukas said they paid Bamberg $12,000. Six weeks later, construction on the pool stopped and in December 1981, the Lukas said they began getting notices from companies demanding payment for materials.

Later, the Lukas said Bamberg asked for two checks totaling $1,890 and that shortly thereafter, Bamberg cashed both checks, one to Paradise Pools and another to a sub-contractor.

WOMAN FACES JAIL TERM

A Goldenrod woman could face up to 90 days in jail and a $500 fine following her conviction to a charge of reckless driving which stemmed from the March traffic death of a Maitland motorcyclist.

Martha Tinker Tempest, 43, of Econlochatchee Trail, was found guilty Wednesday of reckless driving after being charged with vehicular homicide in March in connection with the death of William Kenneth Brickel, 18.

Ms. Tempest could have faced five years in prison and a $5,000 fine if she had been convicted of the original homicide charge, prosecutors said.

A six-member Circuit Court jury deliberated for about an hour before rendering its decision in the one-day trial before Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi.

The fatal accident occurred when northbound Brickel hit Mrs. Tempest's vehicle while she was attempting the turn, deputies said.

MAN HELD ON DRUG CHARGES

A 23-year-old Sanford man was being held in the Seminole County jail today following his arrest Wednesday on charges of possession, sale and delivery of marijuana and carrying a concealed firearm.

Willie James Miller, of 1822 Coolidge Ave., was being held under $5,000 bond following his arrest after undercover narcotics agents said they purchased a bag of marijuana for $5 from a man at Southwest Road and 18th Street near Sanford at about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Agents said they returned to the area about a half-hour later, and were offered more of the illegal drug by the same man whom they identified as Miller.

Agents confiscated 48 bags of marijuana, one bag containing six black capsules and a fully-loaded, 22-caliber revolver which they said Miller had concealed under his jacket.

MICROPHONE, CASH MISSING

Someone broke into the Lake Howell High School along Dike Road in Goldenrod and stole a microphone from the audio-visual supply room and an undisclosed amount of money from a copying machine and a teacher's desk.

Deputies said the theft of the microphone occurred between 2 p.m. Nov. 4 and 1:30 p.m. Nov. 5 and that the theft of the money occurred between No. 11 and Monday.

employees had no right to sell it.

"Anything that belongs to the county belongs to the people of this county," he said.

Kilgore said he had no way of determining how much oil was involved in the scheme over the past two years but other county officials said the sale of the oil, which sells for about 40 cents a gallon, could have netted several thousand dollars over two years.

Neiswender said the county would negotiate with private companies for the sale of used oil from the maintenance shop.

In another case involving misuse of county material, Judge C. Vernon Mize has ordered a file on John Varney, former facilities and parks coordinator, made public.

Varney was fired after his arrest on grand theft charges. His file, sealed at the request of the state attorney's office to aid in the investigation of the parks division, revealed that Varney pleaded guilty to one theft charge.

As part of the July 28 plea arrangement, Varney received five years probation. In return for the probation, Varney agreed to cooperate with investigators.

Assistant State Attorney Alan Robinson said the file was originally sealed because his office wanted to keep secret Varney's cooperation in the investigation.

Since Varney's work has ended, it's no longer necessary to keep the information sealed, Robinson said.

He said the investigation into the Parks Division is continuing but he would not speculate on any further arrests.

An administrative probe of the county's parks division has led to the resignation of three people, Division head, Butch Alexander, Henderson Ferguson and Johnnie Butler.

Ambulance Rates Up

New ambulance rates, which go into effect Dec. 1, have been released by the Seminole County Department of Public Safety.

Last month, Herndon Ambulance Service Inc. was given a contract to continue service in Seminole County through Sept. 30.

Under terms of the new agreement, the rate for emergency calls will increase to $70 from the current $60 rate. Non-emergency calls between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. will also cost $70. Non-emergency calls between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. will cost $50 under the new contract. Round-trip transfers will cost $80 under the new rate structure.

The mileage charge on service within Seminole County will increase to $2.50 from the current $2. A 10-mile maximum charge will remain in effect.

Additional charges under the new contract include: first aid, $5, special handling, $10; obstetrics care, $15; oxygen, $12.50 paramedic services, $25 and waiting time, $30 per hour.

There will be no charge for use of the cardiac monitor.

Jobs Program Has Some Merit

Jobs are at the top of the agenda for the special session of Congress.

If the conflicting results of the mid-term elections could be joined into any single mandate, it would be that unemployed Americans want work.

Private enterprise, not the government, is the best provider of jobs, best because it creates jobs with a future, jobs that pour dynamism into the economy.

But there come times in history when private development is so stymied that the government must step in to provide job relief for people at the bottom end of the wage scale.

Today, with 10.4 percent of the work force unemployed — the worst level in 40 years, since the Great Depression — Congress is getting the message.

Different job creation programs are being discussed, but it is too early to tell which will attract the most votes, which will do the most good and which will do the least harm to the economic recovery.

House Democrats are putting together a nearly $7 billion program that they estimate could generate 600,000 jobs. About $3.6 billion would be spent on civil engineering projects: repairing roads and bridges. America's infrastructure is literally falling apart, and a compelling argument can be made to target federal projects to improve transportation while reducing unemployment.

The Democrats want another $3.2 billion to be spent on subsidies for housing mortgages, to help families buy homes and put the housing construction industry back to work. An additional $200 million would be devoted to the creation of a Civilian Conservation Corps, reminiscent of the one in the 1930s, to help young people find work and help local governments maintain public facilities and build conservation projects.

But the main problem with this program is its price tag. The government deficit is already approaching $200 billion, a sum which is putting a terrible burden on the economy and stifling private investment.

By spending too much on a short-term fix, we will mortgage our future and delay the recovery. Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis has proposed a better plan: A 5-cents-a-gallon federal gasoline tax increase would fund a massive transportation system repair program that would put as many as 320,000 people to work.

About 75 percent of the money would be targeted for roads and bridges, about 25 percent for mass transit. The gas tax would also help energy conservation.

The Lewis plan was originally rejected by the Reagan administration, but now it appears to be receiving indirect support from that quarter.

It shows some bipartisan support in Congress; it was praised by House Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.

We think the 5-cent tax increase has merit, but with one qualification: Gasoline taxes have a way of continuing long after their original purpose has been achieved. This program should have a termination date.

America needs to put its unemployed, able-bodied workers to work. The job at hand is to shore up our deteriorating transportation network.

The country is waiting for Congress to put its lame duck shoulder to the wheel.

BERRY'S WORLD

"HEY! C'MON, MAN! I'm 'arrogant, rude and smug' because I got LOW SELF-ESTEEM."

Altamonte Springs Mayor Ray Ambrose has issued a proclamation that recognizes the contributions of the community's youth and which celebrates Optimist International's Youth Appreciation Week.

The Optimist Clubs of South Seminole and Longwood will, in honor of youth, distribute free bumper stickers that state "Appreciate Youth, Our Greatest Natural Resource". Bumper stickers will be distributed Saturday, at 9 a.m. at both the Longwood and Altamonte Springs Post Offices and Sunday, 1 p.m. at Eastmonte and Westmonte Recreation Facilities and at the Winn Dixie-434 Shopping Center in Longwood.

They will also be available from Optimist Members at breakfast meetings that are held at 7:30 a.m. at the Holiday Inn, Route 436 and Wymore Rd., each Friday.

For those Central Florida residents interested in the area's early beginnings, the Winter Park Telephone Speakers Bureau now provides programs on the history of North Orange and South Seminole counties.

The programs outline the early beginnings and important milestones reached for the cities of Maitland, Winter Park, Altamonte Springs and other unincorporated areas in Seminole and Orange counties.

The programs are available free of charge to any civic and service group, social club, church group, school or other recognized audience within the Winter Park Telephone Company service area.

Winter Park Telephone customers interested in more information about this program and the many others available should contact the Winter Park Telephone Speakers Bureau.

The Florida Symphony Orchestra will present special free concerts for senior citizens and their guests on Friday, Nov. 26. Alfred Savia will conduct as the orchestra performs selections from "The Student Prince," in "The Pines of Rome," a Strauss waltz and other favorites. The afternoon performances at 2 and 3:30 are open to seniors on a first-come, first-served basis at the Edyth Bush Theatre in Loch Haven Park. For more information, call the Florida Symphony office (629-4545). These concerts are made possible by grants from Orange County, and the City of Orlando.

The Central Florida Chapter of the American Red Cross has a new service for homebound senior citizens called Dial-A-Friend. Each day, at a previously arranged time, a Red Cross volunteer telephones the homebound senior to check and see that they are well. If the telephone is not answered after the volunteer has tried three times within an hour, a call will be made to a neighbor or other backup person who will visit to see why the phone was not answered.

If the backup person fails to arouse the senior citizen, Red Cross will alert the emergency services system. A brief outline of the receiver's medical history will be retained by Red Cross, as prior knowledge of diabetes and heart trouble would facilitate immediate emergency action. Homebound senior citizens who need this service may call Community Volunteer Service at the Central Florida Chapter of the American Red Cross at 894-4141.

Vote On The Freeze

Among the menagerie of ballot initiatives considered by voters Nov. 2, proposals for a "freeze" on development and deployment of nuclear weapons stood out starkly. In 40 voting jurisdictions around the nation, from New England villages to California, voters were offered a chance to cast a vote on the "peace" issue.

The freezers won big. Their initiatives passed in nine of the ten states that held them, and in 28 of 30 local elections. The perception, then, is that President Reagan, who opposes the freeze and pulled out all sorts of stops to defeat it, lost. Presidential opposition apparently prompted the freeze advocates to increase their campaign efforts, which were rewarded.

Despite the talk of the midterm elections as a referendum on "Reaganomics," the votes on the freeze flag it as the most important public issue of the day. It addresses the most vital of national issues, which are at once profoundly personal questions: war and peace, survival or defeat, life or death. The freeze advocates, we hear, are for peace, disarmament, justice.

They thus give themselves a huge head start in the morality sweepstakes. Just recently, the U.S. Catholic bishops jumped in, with a draft statement condemning nuclear weapons, after years of support for the concept of a just war as a means of national defense.

So there are wonderful things to be said about the motives of many who support the freeze—many, but not all. But yet, one hesitates when the freezers offer a barrage of good intentions as answers to the hard, cold questions of national security. One hesitates further, looking at the roster of far-left, pro-Soviet individuals and groups promoting the freeze—the U.S. Peace Council, the War Resisters League, to name two—and wonders why.

After all, a freeze is, literally, a freeze, a solidifying, the enforcement of permanence of status quo. Today, the Soviet Union possesses 1,398 intercontinental ballistic missile launchers. The U.S. has about 1,000. The Soviet advantage in other strategic weapons is similar. If the lower figure is frozen, so is the higher. Is that what the freeze advocates want?

No, no, they say, we want to prevent nuclear war. That's what they say, and some surely mean it. But, as President Reagan struggles to reduce the nuclear arsenals of the superpowers through hard-headed strategic arms reduction talks in Geneva, the nuclear freeze supporters are not very happy.

They see Soviet nuclear advantages, as everyone else does, and they want them frozen. That is exactly what a freeze would get us. That is why the freeze movement, including the reverent bishops, are wrong.

Reagan Target Of Dirty Tricks Forgery

WASHINGTON — Campaign dirty tricks didn't leave town with Richard Nixon. Someone tried a rather crude forgery in an attempt to discredit President Reagan and Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., the new Republican national chairman.

Perhaps the forgery was only meant as a joke, but Laxalt and his staff aren't laughing. And the U.S. Attorney's office in Washington is looking into the matter.

The document in question is a letter on what the U.S. Attorney's office says is Laxalt's official Senate stationery, purportedly written on Sept. 9 by the senator to Richard Richards, then-chairman of the Republican National Committee. It is addressed to "Dear Dick" and signed, "Yours, Paul."

"I have thoroughly studied the plan designed to defeat the Democrats in 1982," the letter begins. "I think on the whole it is excellent but not aggressive enough." It continues:

"I conferred with the President the other day and my assessment coincides with his. The President drew attention to the urgency of taking resolute measures to prevent the election of Liberal Democrats ... including discreditation of their professional and private lives."

"The President noted in particular that the election of Governor Brown to the Senate

Future City Is Booming

HOUSTON (NEA) — Like millions of other loan applicants, George P. Mitchell encountered considerable resistance when he went to the bank to borrow money. In fact, the bankers thought he was at best naive and at worst demented.

That's because Mitchell wanted to use the money to carve out of a desolate forest 30 miles north of here a city so large that it represented the most ambitious "new town" construction project ever attempted in this country.

Mitchell's dream included homes for 160,000 people, employment opportunities for 100,000 workers and a vast array of educational, recreational and commercial facilities — all carefully integrated into a $5 billion venture known as The Woodlands, the nation's most elaborately planned community.

"We had problems with the bankers worrying about credit," Mitchell says in recalling his 1974 experience with local financiers. "They refused to honor their verbal agreement to lend me $10 million" to begin work on the project.

Two years later, the bankers returned to reinstate their offer, but Mitchell says he told them, "Forget it, you're too late." Today, The Woodlands is well on its way to becoming a living monument to the vision, initiative and dedication of a truly extraordinary businessman.

Born in Galveston, Texas, 63 years ago to parents who had emigrated from Greece, Mitchell secured his first job in the petroleum industry as an oilfield roustabout and roughneck, moved up to become an exploration engineer and geologist, and then formed his own company.

Today, he is president and board chairman of Mitchell Energy & Development Corp., one of the nation's largest independent oil and gas producers. Headquartered in The Woodlands, the firm last year generated more than $1 billion in gross revenues and $115 million in net earnings.

The no-nonsense businessman, who probably qualifies as a billionaire, also is an executive with a social conscience who sponsors the biennial Woodlands Conference on Sustainable Societies and has invested or donated $20 million to restore Galveston's historic business district.

But Mitchell's pride and joy is The Woodlands, a "city in the forest" whose quality of life is so appealing that sales of new homes have been booming throughout the housing depression of recent years. Almost 16,000 people already live there.

Apartments, cluster homes, townhouses, detached houses and modest estates can be purchased at prices ranging from $38,000 to more than $500,000. Elderly residents eligible for federal assistance pay as little as $30 to $50 per month to rent attractive garden apartments.

Three 18-hole golf courses have already been completed and two others are planned.

Other recreational facilities include swimming pools, a fully equipped athletic center, an ice-skating rink, an equestrian center and 30 tennis courts.

Those who commute into the Houston business district are served by a 40-vehicle van pool, but The Woodlands has already attracted almost 300 employers.

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

New Vote Needed

NEW YORK (NEA) — Disarmament enthusiasts have been busy ever since Election Day, depicting the approval of nuclear freeze referenda in eight states as evidence that the voters want all sorts of dubious things, from an immediate cessation of production and deployment of all nuclear weapons to the abandonment of the MX missile program.

This is natural enough, however mistaken it may be. After all, the main emphasis in the various referenda was on the desirability of a nuclear freeze, and the qualifications, implicit and explicit, tended to get lost in the shuffle.

But the qualifications were there, nonetheless, and served handsomely to assure cautious voters that nothing ill-advised was being called for.

In the first place, most Americans assume that this country and the Soviet Union are currently more or less equal in the number of nuclear weapons possessed and deployed. In the second, the referenda were always careful to call for "appropriate verification," nobody being disposed to trust the word of the Soviet Union in such important matters.

Unfortunately, both of these reassuring reflections are mistaken. Comparisons of the number of nuclear weapons possessed by the two sides are difficult to make, because of differences in size, yield and similar factors; but there is far less mystery about the number each side has deployed. Here the Soviet Union has an important edge: It has already deployed hundreds of intermediate-range ballistic missiles, armed with nuclear warheads and aimed at Western Europe, on the soil of its East European satellites and the border areas of the Soviet Union itself. Comparable missiles (the Pershings IIs) are not scheduled to be deployed in Western Europe by the NATO powers until autumn of 1983.

It follows that an immediate freeze on all further deployment of nuclear weapons would give the Soviet Union a permanent edge over NATO. Does anyone seriously believe that most people who voted for the nuclear freeze, referenda know this and just don't care?

As for the issue of verification, this has been around for a long time, so far as concerned, deployment of nuclear weapons, and the experts differ among themselves. Some say current technical means of verifying Soviet deployment (i.e. by means of space satellites) are adequate; some say they aren't. But nobody pretends for a moment that the Soviet Union has ever agreed to any effective way of verifying a freeze on Soviet production of nuclear weapons, which could be continued, underground in total secrecy. Does anyone really believe that the millions who voted on Nov. 2 for a freeze on "production ... with appropriate verification" were aware of this?

Accordingly, I suggest that the Reagan administration put its formidable weight behind a new referendum proposition.

sacks of quarters to the nearest video-game arcade; this would keep them amused at far less expense to the taxpayers.

Consider the Marines' super-duper "computer navigation system" for infantry platoon leaders. As envisioned by its backers, it would read maps and compute the shortest distance from A to B — something any reasonably competent Boy Scout could accomplish with a map and a $3 compass.

But the Marines' computerized map reader will require a backpack-carried satellite relay, a centralized battlefield management computer and, of course, a full-color video display unit back at headquarters. The system is still on the drawing board, but Pentagon computer experts told my associate Ron McRae that the continued addition of expensive and useless optional equipment may mean the thing will never get built.

"We do have a genuine requirement for better battlefield computer systems," said an exasperated officer, "but someone always wants an R2-D2 instead of something that works. We've had to pay contractors to rewrite the system specifications 23 times, and they never get any more realistic."

Not to be outdone by a bunch of jarheads, the Army has spent even more on its computerized battle gadgets. The TACFIRE, for example, is a $100 million computer that's supposed to take the guesswork and human error out of laying down artillery barrages.

The central TACFIRE computer collects information by radio from smaller computers at the gun batteries, digests it and then relays aiming instructions back to the gun crews.

Artillerymen say such a system might have been helpful back in World War II. But they say the smaller computers provided to the individual batteries can tell the gunners everything they need to know. In short, there's no real need for the cumbersome and costly TACFIRE system.

Properly used, modern computers could do as much for the armed services as they already do for the average American household. But so far, the space-age gimcracks have simply gobbed up money like a super-Pacman gone wild.

One reason, according to computer specialists, is that the Pentagon is often penny-wise and pound-foolish — trying to hold down costs by hiring inexperienced personnel, skimming on worthwhile projects to plan grandiose systems, and setting unrealistic deadlines for contractors.

When inexperienced personnel botch their jobs, poor planning wastes money and impossible deadlines cause costly foulups, it's the taxpayers who get stuck with the bill.

Invoking Mercy For Angels Of Suicide

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It's said that historians will likely record the latter half of 20th century America as an era of the ultimate emancipation. During the period the people have struggled to gain a remarkable series of individual rights, from integration to women's liberation to free sex.

And the battle isn't over yet. Not according to Derek Humphry, anyway. He advocates the right of people to help kill each other. Humphry is founder and director of the Hemlock Society, a California-based organization dedicated to the notion that death is preferable to life for some people, primarily the critically ill, and therefore they should if they wish be permitted to seek help in arranging their own "self deliverance."

In other words, the society promotes assisted suicide. And it's not kidding. Humphry says people have in recent times won the right to kill themselves (most of the prohibitions against suicide were struck down in the 1960s), but it remains wholly against the law for a second party to assist.

For example. Take the case of a man afflicted with a debilitating, painful and incurable disease. He may legally decide to die of his own hand, but, Humphry says, if anyone helps him, either friends, relatives or attending physicians, they are subject to arrest, prosecution and even incarceration.

And Humphry should know. He helped his wife commit suicide in 1975. That's how he got into the business of hawking self deliverance. He says he was a writer, a newspaper reporter, specifically, and he was thrust into a kind of philosophical twilight zone by the forces of human compassion.

He was living in England at the time (he's British), and his wife, Jean, was bedridden with bone cancer. He says it was a classic case of its kind. He says his wife asked him to help her die, which he did, by placing poison at her side, and the Crown very nearly charged him with the crime of murder.

As it turned out, Humphry was not punished. But he says he was forever politicized by the controversy generated by his act of mercy. England was stunned. Humphry was vilified. So he decided to explain himself to a suspicious public, and, as well, to encourage others to follow his lead.

Enter the Hemlock Society. Humphry founded it in 1980 after moving from England to Los Angeles. The organizational name was taken from the poisonous plant that Socrates was supposed to have used to kill himself. Over the months Humphry says the society has attracted 6,500 paid up members.

Founder of the Hemlock Society, Derek Humphry (insert) preaches that human compassion is a valid reason for helping another person to commit suicide.

It has likewise attracted controversy. Critics say the society is balanced on a thin line that separates mercy from common sense. Even some people who subscribe to the concept of clinical euthanasia say that the idea of allowing people to assist one another's suicide is, at best, terribly risky.

It's tailor made for abuse, for one thing. Law enforcement officers say that Humphry's plan could open up whole new horizons for anyone who wants to kill a wife, or a friend. "All they would have to do," says a California jurist, "is to claim that, 'Well, judge, she begged me to do it.'"

And there is another grave danger. Some psychologists worry that the encouragement of any kind of limited suicide might lead to increased self deliverance outside those boundaries. Recently, people in France were shocked to learn that two men killed themselves after reading a book on how to do it.

Humphry, by the way, has written a similar book on the subject. Two of them, in fact. One is titled "Jean's Way," a chronicle of his wife's death, and the other, reprinted this year, is "Let Me Die Before I Wake." Humphry says he would be saddened if either of them encouraged a senseless suicide.

And yet he expects the books to promote "constructive self deliverance." That is, assisted suicide among the hopelessly ill. The purpose of the Hemlock Society is to advise people who may be considering such things that, while it is illegal, it is a "conscionable alternative" to long suffering.

Humphry says the society doesn't actually promote suicide, per se. "We don't take a position on it one way or the other." What the society does do is provide information to members, and others, who may or may not be suicidal and who want to know the arguments and history of hands-on euthanasia.

The society also seeks to legitimize its efforts. Humphry says he wants to change the laws that prohibit assisted suicides. He says sick people should be allowed to declare in writing that they want help in ending their lives; he claims that the declarations would minimize the possibility of abuse.

And even if some abuse continued, Humphry believes it would in the overall be worth it. For it would relieve countless people from having to choose between the law and the suffering. "We must be allowed to carry out the last wishes of our loved ones," he says. In short, it should be a right.

Study: Work Ethic Stronger In South

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — The work ethic is stronger in the South than in any other region of the United States, two university researchers said.

Dr. Norval Glenn, a University of Texas sociology professor, and Dr. Charles N. Weaver, a St. Mary's University management professor, said the stereotype of the Southern worker as lazy, shiftless and lacking ambition is all wrong.

Their findings were reported in the November-December issue of the Texas Business Review.

The researchers said their findings are especially important as "more managers of companies consider relocating to the Sunbelt."

Glenn and Weaver used data from seven national surveys conducted from 1955 to 1980 and answers to questionnaires distributed between 1974 and 1980 by the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago.

For the study, the South included Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Texas.

Roughly 70 percent of Southerners and non-Southerners said they would continue to work even if they had enough money to live comfortably the rest of their lives.

The study showed more Southerners (39.6 percent) than non-Southerners (33.8 percent) said they enjoyed their work so much it was difficult to put it aside.

Also, more than 57 percent of the Southerners said they were satisfied with their work, compared to more than 49 percent of the non-Southerners.

Those margins, the researchers said, "while not huge, are large enough to be of some importance."

And about two-thirds of both groups said they believed people get ahead by hard work rather than luck.

But Glenn and Weaver said Southerners had a slightly larger proportion of "work oriented" responses to the two key questions.

"This, the most crucial evidence we have indicates that the stereotype is not accurate," they said.

Fly The Luxurious Skies Of FirstAir

MIAMI (UPI) — At a time when most airlines are cutting back service to the lowest-cost 'no frills' flight they can offer and still stay in business, a new airline plans to buck the trend with old-fashioned luxury.

FirstAir, a Los Angeles-based airline, plans this spring to begin 20 weekly roundtrip flights between Miami and New York, New York and Los Angeles and Los Angeles and Honolulu, flights unlike anything previously available to the public.

"The basic concept will be truly first-class travel — the kind of personalized service that hasn't been seen in travel in the last 100 years," said FirstAir founder Clifford Perlman, a businessman who founded the Lums restaurant chain and until recently controlled Caesars World, Inc.

To being with, passengers will avoid the usual airport hassles of baggage check-ins and ticket lines with a limousine service that carries customers directly to their Boeing 727.

Once inside, passengers will find a living room atmosphere, complete with tables, lamps and comfortable chairs. On call will be a manicurist, hairdresser and secretary. A restaurant will be open on each flight.

Also available will be a copying machine, a stock market ticker tape, telephones and four conference rooms to accommodate those seeking space for private consultations.

Best of all, each flight will carry a maximum of just 20 passengers.

Naturally, such perks do not come cheaply. The one-way fare between south Florida and New York will be $627, while it will cost $1,500 from New York to Los Angeles.

This compares with the current lowest available prices of $129 and $199 for the two routes.

Kids' Book Drive To Aid Sanford Head Start

In celebration of National Education Week, seventh grade students at Sanford Middle School have been conducting a book drive to benefit the students of the local Head Start program at Sixth and Palmetto.

Students have pledged to do one extra household chore to earn money to contribute to the book fund. Many students also contributed books from home suitable for the children at the center.

In this way, these students are helping to further the cause of education by starting the program at the earliest level. It is hoped that these books will help foster a love of books in these students.

A presentation of the books will be made at the Head Start center at Sixth and Palmetto on Friday at 10:20 a.m. The coordinating teacher and a representative from each class which conducted the drive will be at the center to present the books to the children.

For further information, persons may contact Wanda Currie.

Sheriffs Unit Buys Scout Camp

The Florida Sheriffs Youth Fund has announced its purchase of a 132-acre camp, currently known as Camp Ticochee. The site, located 15 miles north of DeLand near Barberville, has been owned and operated as a camp since 1954 by the Citrus Council Girl Scouts of America.

A price of $325,000 was agreed upon.

The wooded property includes a small lake, a swimming pool, 22 wood-frame buildings and other facilities designed for camping. The Youth Fund will use Ticochee for its own summer-camping and wilderness programs.

The Youth Fund, a non-profit corporation sponsored by the Florida Sheriffs Association, operates three residential group child care programs—the Boys Ranch near Live Oak, the Girls Villa near Bartow, and the Youth Ranch near Clearwater—for the benefit of dependent, neglected, or homeless boys and girls between the ages of eight and eighteen. It provides counseling and referral services to numerous other children and their families through a network of professional family social workers.

The Youth Fund summer-camping program began in 1981 with a small pilot project at the Boys Ranch. The following year, camping facilities were leased at several established Boy and Girl Scout campsites and more than 200 boys and girls enjoyed a week of summer camping.

Having acquired Ticochee, the Youth Fund plans to provide a camping experience to approximately 500 youngsters in 1983 and possibly even more in subsequent years.

The Wilderness program is a year-around program. It will be based at Ticochee but may move from place to place to provide youngsters with varied experiences.

This program is designed to help dependent, neglected, or homeless youngsters who need a period of transition between their circumstances at the time of intake and their entry into the structured environment of a residential program such as the Boys Ranch, Girls Villa, or Youth Ranch.

Easy Come, EZ Go

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service's new tax form — the 1040EZ — is titled, styled and aimed at making it easier for 22 million Americans to pay their 1982 income tax.

The form is for single taxpayers with one personal exemption, no dependents, and income coming only from wages, salaries, tips and up to $400 in interest.

IRS Commissioner Roscoe Egger Jr. said Tuesday the form can be filled out in three-fourths the time it takes to prepare a 1040A short form and will save the agency $500,000 annually in processing costs.

The 1040EZ cuts total answers from 22 to 11 and uses shorter sentences.

"This represents a giant step forward in simplifying income tax returns," Egger told a news conference. "One out of five American taxpayers will be eligible to use the 1040EZ."

Egger said the 1040A form also has been simplified, with readability brought down to the eighth-grade level and a step-by-step approach that "walks taxpayers through" the filing process.

The commissioner said people using the new form will not miss out on deductions or benefits offered by filing the 1040A. "Based on filing patterns, the one out of five who might use the 1040EZ would have no different result if they filed the 1040A," he said.

Some 60 million taxpayers use the regular long 1040 form. Of the 38.7 million filers who used the 1040A in 1980, roughly 23.6 million were single, 8.4 million were married filing joint returns.

Spruce Creek Hangs 0-10 On Tribe

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

DAYTONA BEACH—Jo Jo McCloud waved. And waved again. Then he put his head down in the end zone and cried. After Spruce Creek's Kenny Kovach stepped in front of McCloud and intercepted a Mike Futrell pass with 37 seconds to play here Thursday night—that was all there was left to do. Spruce Creek 21, Seminole 14.

By surviving a last-gasp drive by the Fighting Seminoles, Spruce Creek drove the final stake into the heart of a dying Sanford team which will be remembered as the only team in the history of the school not to win a football game.

The final ledger read 0-10. Titusville Astronaut (16-10), Lake Howell (13-10), Edgewater (36-14), Apopka (42-14), DeLand (27-7), Lakeland Kathleen (41-0), Lake Brantley (15-14), Lyman (47-6), Mainland (40-22) and Spruce Creek (21-14) all claimed victories.

"Never, never," answered Seminole coach Jerry Posey when asked if he thought this calamity could ever happen at Seminole. "I thought we'd win at least three or four games and maybe surprise a few more."

There were no surprises Friday night. Just hard running by both clubs. Seminole's Rendell Manley, in his first game back from a broken bone in his ankle, was superb with 148 yards in just 10 carries.

The Hawks' Billy Elmore, however, was better. With a chance at the 1,000-yard barrier and nothing to gain for the 4-6 Creek, coach Brent Hall fed the 5-9, 168-yard tailback the ball all night.

Elmore responded with 205 yards in 30 carries. He totaled 1,080 yards for the year and was the prime reason Thursday's bus trip home was the longest ride of some of these young Seminoles' lives. Not to mention a few distraught coaches.

Elmore made it look easy. Most of his yardage came straight up the middle. Then he would flash to the outside and run and run and run.

Manley, who totaled 584 yards in less than five games this year, averaged over 10 yards per carry for the season. But the broken bone in the Apopka game kept him out of five others.

Spruce Creek took the opening kickoff and moved easily down the field, scoring in 14 plays and eating up almost seven minutes of the clock. John Lavin took an inside counter and sprinted around the right end for 14 yards and the touchdown. Stacy Smith's kick gave the Hawks a 7-0 lead at 5:20 of the first quarter.

Seminole started quickly too. Tim Lawrence ripped off 13 yards to the Tribe 24 and had an open field in front of him but ran into one of his teammates and tripped. Manley flashed his old form on the next play, going 16 yards around the left side.

Four plays later, though, Lawrence's halfback pass was picked off by Kovach to end the threat.

Harold Gaines, nevertheless, returned the favor when he neatly intercepted a Sean Hamilton pass and returned it to the Spruce Creek 39. A personal foul on the Hawks tacked on 15 more, giving the 'Noles a first down at the Spruce Creek 24.

A holding penalty negated the gain on the next play. McCloud, starting in place of injured (shin bruise) Clifton Campbell, scampered around end for 17 yards to the 22. Fullback Ron Burke went for five, Lawrence for seven on a crucial fourth-down play and Manley for five to the Spruce Creek 5 as the first quarter expired.

McCloud then took a pitch around the right side for the final five yards and a TD. Paul Griffin split the uprights for a 7-7 deadlock with 11:55 to go.

The Hawks blew two scoring chances in the second quarter. Wide receiver Stacy Mobley let a fourth-down pass slip through his hands at the Seminole 3 halfway through the second quarter. With 4:41 to play, linebacker Brian Debose separated Land Lowery from the pignskin and Gaines jumped on it at the Seminole 29.

Tribe safety Tim Herring intercepted a desperation Hamilton aerial to end the half at the Seminole 10. Although the game was tied, Spruce Creek dominated the first 24 minutes with 159 yards rushing to Seminole's 83. The first downs were 8-3. The Hawks had 30 yards passing, the Tribe zilch. Elmore had 115 yards on 19 attempts.

Tullis, Brantley Circle Wagons For Greyhounds

Dave Tullis is an honest man. He doesn't know how his Lake Brantley Patriots are going to beat the Lyman Greyhounds tonight — but they're gonna give it their best shot.

"There's no weakness that I can see," Tullis said Thursday. "They have so many weapons. You can't concentrate on one guy or the others will hurt you."

Not only are the 'Hounds good, they're hot. In the last two games, Lyman has buried the opposition, 93-14. A victory tonight at 8 gives coach Bill Scott and the Greyhounds the first Five Star Conference and district championships in Lyman history. Lyman is 5-1 and 6-3.

"I saw them against Spruce Creek and they did almost what they wanted," said Tullis about the 37-point rout. "We don't have anything special planned. We'll go with what we have all year. If you change your game plan now, I think you're taking a defeatist attitude."

The Patriots, 2-7, started horribly, losing their first six games before nipping Seminole, 15-14. In four of the past five games, though, Brantley's defense has been superb.

Donnie O'Brian is a hard-nosed linebacker and he gets help from Scott Horwitz, Dean Shirley, John Desmet and Scott Salmon. Salmon, a sophomore, had eight tackles in last week's 17-0 loss to DeLand.

"We weren't ready to play last week," Tullis said about his defense. "But we will be Friday. We have to play a real good ball game to stay in the game."

While Brantley's defense has been consistent, its offense has not. The Patriots have been shut out five times. And with linebackers Mike Hill and Paul Ellis staring the Patriots in the face tonight, a sixth time is not out of the question.

"If you load up on Hill, the other linebacker (Ellis) kills

Rams Search For Phantom Against 'Cudas

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

The curtain comes down on the 1982 football season tonight at 8 and, unless the "Phantom of the Opera" makes an appearance for Lake Mary, the Rams will not be called back for an encore.

The New Smyrna Beach Barracudas invade Lake Mary Stadium and carry a 5-4 record into battle with the 1-8 Rams soon to be, not counting miracles, the 1-9 Rams.

The game is classified as "Homestaying" for the Rams who have no seniors at the second-year high school. Lake Mary's first senior class will graduate next year.

The Barracudas are a better team than their 5-4 record shows. This is the same squad that lost by just one point to Palatka, the state's top 3A team and probably one of the top teams compared to any class.

"New Smyrna Beach is tough, any team that loses to Palatka by one point can play with anyone," Lake Mary coach Roger Beathard said. "But then, we don't have an easy one on our schedule."

New Smyrna Beach shut out St. Augustine, 10-0, last week while the Rams were roasted by Cocoa Beach, 33-7, avoiding the shutout with nine seconds left in the game.

"We had some improvement on offense and played a good second half," Beathard said of the Rams' encounter with Cocoa Beach. "But there is still so much to improve on."

Probably the most improved Rams are fleet-footed running back Patt Murray and the versatile Donald Grayson. Murray has gained 262 yards this season after getting off to a very slow start. Grayson caught three passes last week and has also been running back kickoffs and punts and playing monster man on defense. Murray's kickoff returns were the highlights of Lake Mary's loss last week.

Streaking Lions Take On Cocoa Beach

Although their schools are more than 70 miles apart, Oviedo and Cocoa Beach have created a heated rivalry over the past few years. Last year it took the Lions until the last five minutes of the game to edge the Minutemen, 10-7.

This year's contest at Oviedo, the Lions' Homecoming, promises to be another thriller as both teams come in with 6-3 records. Cocoa Beach avenged two straight losses by destroying Lake Mary, 33-7, last week, while the Lions who have won five straight, demolished Bishop Moore, 43-12.

"Homecoming usually gives your team an added incentive," Minutemen mentor Tom Scanlan said. "We were fired up for our Homecoming last week and I'm sure Oviedo will be just as intense this week in their Homecoming."

Intensity has been the Lions' credo the past five weeks. Oviedo, after averaging just over seven points in its first four games, is averaging 29 points in its last five games while allowing an average of 12 points per game.

The fuse that ignited Oviedo's offensive explosion as late as Barry Williams who gained 204 yards in the first win of the five consecutive victory streak, a 35-21 leveling of Leesburg.

"Homecoming usually gives your team an added incentive. We were fired up for our Homecoming last week and I'm sure Oviedo will be just as intense..." —Tom Scanlan

Last week J. W. Yarborough fueled Oviedo's fire with 120 yards rushing. Both Yarborough and Williams have gained over 700 yards in the '82 season and both are juniors.

Another reason behind the Lions' surge is quarterback Jodie Huggins who has completed 25 of 48 passes for 304 yards, all in the past five weeks. Huggins' main target is the versatile Ken Ashe who is a glue-fingered receiver that is also a dangerous runner when he gets the ball. Ashe has caught 23 passes for 336 yards this season.

One thing that hasn't just come to form the past five weeks is the Oviedo defense. Dubbed "Black Friday," the Lions defense has been ferocious all season long. Senior linebacker Tommy Johnson leads the way with 60 solo tackles and 27 assists. Johnson also has two interceptions and a pair of fumble recoveries to his credit. Eric Putman and David Butterfield are also having fine seasons. Putman with 37 solos and 21 assists and Butterfield with 37 solos and 25 assists.

Placekicker Rob Moody has been kicking well lately, he has two field goals and 17 extra points for a total of 23 points. Williams leads Oviedo in scoring with 48 points.

While Oviedo has a couple of outstanding running backs, Cocoa Beach has one main ballcarrier, Dean Vallone. The senior fullback has gained 927 yards on the ground this season and has scored 13 touchdowns. The Minutemen have a fine passer in quarterback Mike Allen who passed for 147 yards and two touchdowns against Lake Mary last week.

Both teams are hungry to finish the season at 7-3. Oviedo would like to end the regular season with a win in preparation for the Rotary Bowl and an encounter with Seminole County foe Lake Howell Saturday, Nov. 27 at Lyman High School. —CHRIS FISTER

Silver Hawks Battle Underrated Boone

Just a year ago, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks were sailing along with a three-game winning streak and 0-9 Boone left to play. After losing their first six games, the Hawks were ready to cap a second-half success story.

The cap, though, never contained the Braves. Boone went crazy, running up 24 points to shut out the Hawks in the last game of the year.

Tonight at 8 at Lake Howell, the two teams meet again. Two considerably better teams. "Boone's definitely the best 3-6 team around," pronounced offensive line coach Glenn Maiolini.

A look at the record will confirm that proclamation. Boone has lost to Lyman, West Orange, Colonial, Oak Ridge, Evans and Winter Park. Losses to powerhouses Evans and Winter Park were by just three points in each case.

Quarterback Jim Buckridge and wide receiver David Hepburn form the best passing combination in Central Florida. Harold Hill is an excellent blocker.

The Silver Hawks, meanwhile, are 5-4 with a Rotary Bowl game against Oviedo coming up Saturday, Nov. 27. Coach Mike Biscaglia was disappointed with the Hawks' play in last week's 23-12 setback to Apopka.

Junior fullback Jay Robey has been the cog in the Howell running attack all year. Robey leads the county with 814 yards and a 6.5 average per carry. His eight touchdowns share the county lead. —SAM COOK

Trinity Prep Takes On Powerful Father Lopez

When the coaches met to fill out the open dates on their teams schedules, it didn't seem too bad at the time for Trinity Prep's Ron Vierling to schedule the Green Wave of Lopez High. After all, Father Lopez, under coach Bud Asher, was coming off a lackluster 2-8 1981 campaign and the way Asher sounded, 1982 wouldn't be much better.

Either Asher is a pretty good coach or a pretty bad liar. Father Lopez is 9-0 in '82 and ranked sixth among the state's top 2A teams as the Green Wave will look to down the Saints this Saturday at Trinity Prep.

"He really conned me," Vierling said of Asher. "He was crying about how he was 2-8 last year and didn't have much more and I went for it. And now look at them, it really makes me mad."

Trinity Prep, 5-4, would like nothing better than to ruin Asher's perfect season but it is a task that will require perfect football. Father Lopez averages 28.8 points per game and 264 yards of total offense a game and the defense gives up just 4.5 points per game.

The Saints record is 4-5, as far as on the field play goes, but Trinity gained a win after Heritage Prep, who beat the Saints, was forced to forfeit because of an ineligible player. Trinity Prep was idle last week after losing to Melbourne Central Catholic, 17-6, two weeks ago. The Green Wave edged Crescent City, 13-7, last week. Father Lopez crushed Melbourne CC, 55-0.

Running backs Reggie Edwards and Jeff Hawk lead the Green Wave offense. Lopez averages 195 yards rushing per outing. The Father Lopez passing attack averages 68 yards per game. Edwards leads the team with 11 touchdowns while placekicker Tim Cook is one of the top kicking specialists in Central Florida.

KENNY CHEESEMAN

State Meet County Runners Compete At DeLand Saturday

Winter Park's Brian Jaeger showed Lake Howell's Kenny Cheeseman last Saturday he wasn't going to make the same mistake twice.

Two weeks ago, Jaeger allowed Cheeseman to take a gigantic lead in the district cross country meet. Only a last-mile kick by the Wildcat senior Cheeseman by three seconds at the chute.

"Cheeseman led by about 130 yards with a mile to go," said Lake Brantley girls coach Jim Marshall. "He really had to go that last mile to catch him."

In last Saturday's regional, however, it was a different story. Jaeger took the lead from the outset and easily whipped the Silver Hawk junior by 15 seconds with a 15:18 three mile.

No doubt Jaeger will follow the latter strategy Saturday when the State Cross Country Meet is held for all classes at DeLand's Airport Course.

Qualifying from the county were the Lake Brantley girls, Lyman's boys, Cheeseman, Lake Mary's Derek Tangeman, Trinity Prep's boys and

Cross Country

Trinity Prep's girls.
Here's a breakdown of the times and events:

- 8:00 a.m. A-AA girls
- 8:45 a.m. A-AA boys
- 9:30 a.m. AAA girls
- 10:15 a.m. AAA boys
- 11:00 a.m. AAAA girls
- 11:45 a.m. AAAA boys

Marshall's Lady Patriots are out to improve on their less-than-satisfactory showing in the regional. "We didn't run very well," said Marshall about the third place finish. Brantley was behind Winter Park, a team it tied for the district title, and champion John I. Leonard.

The Brantley crew has no visions of first place Saturday either. That position is pretty much a foregone conclusion, since Orange Park has the top three runners in the 4A poll and the number 10 runner. Number five won't be too far behind either.

"I hope we can finish from second to seventh," said Marshall. "Kathryn Hayward (12:05 two mile), Ellen Stern (12:18) and Joanne Hayward (12:39) have been pretty consistent. We need a good effort from our four (Barbara Holmes, 13:04) and five (Laura Barnhill, 13:15) girls."

"If they can run below or around 13 minutes, we'll do well." Kim Lubenow (13:20) and Kim Pacetelli (13:55) are the Patriots other runners.

In the boys' meet, Lyman will need another strong performance from junior Brian Hunter if the 'Hounds hope to make up 33 points on Edgewater. Lyman was second to the Eagles in the regional at Boca Raton.

Hunter, who has run second fiddle to Doug McBroom all year, ran a 16:28 three mile for seventh place. McBroom was eight seconds ahead in sixth. Coach David Huggins will also need Carl Schmalmaack, Linc Anthony, Marc Overbay and Wayne Straw to turn in their best efforts.

In the 3A boys' race, Tangeman wouldn't mind getting the same improvement he did from the district to the regional. Two weeks ago, the Lake Mary junior ran a 16:23 three mile. A week later, he shattered that effort by 50 seconds to place fourth in the regional.

In the 1A-2A meet, coach George Austin qualified both his girls and boys from Trinity Prep. Fabulous freshman Adrienne Politowicz ran away with the girls' title in 12:13, just eight seconds off her season's best, as the Saints finished a distant second. Katie Sams, an eighth-grader was seventh in 13:10.

Sophomore Tommy Matthews is the boys' top threat. He ran a season's best 16:07 for third place as Trinity finished third in the regional. Scott Urrichio (6th, 16:33) and Jamie Vierling (10th, 17:10) are the other top Saint runners.

Payne, Raiders Debut Tonight Against Edison

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor
Seminole Community College's Raiders will take the floor for the first time tonight at 8:30 under the guidance of someone other than Joe Sterling. The Raiders battle Edison Junior College.

For 16 years, "Gentleman Joe" worked the sidelines, program tightly rolled into his hand, and produced win after win after win for the powerful Raiders.

After last year's 21-6 season, however, Sterling, 57, stepped down. He was immediately voted into Seminole County's Sports Hall of Fame, quite an honor since just three people (Tim Raines and Red Barber) made it on the Hall of Fame's first induction last fall.

Sterling was succeeded by Bill Payne. The 37-year-old former junior college All-American has coached for 11 years in the prep ranks. He was at his alma mater, Colonial, for six years and brought the Grenadiers their best record ever. He was at Seminole the past five and did the same for the Seminoles with a sparkling 31-3 mark during the 1979-80 season.

Payne has a lot to succeed. As the only coach the Raiders have ever had, Sterling won 351 games and lost 116. That's an average of 22 victories a year. Included are a state championship and numerous trips to the final eight.

"It's definitely a tough act to follow,"

JC Basketball

reiterated Payne last week. "But I believe this team can be better than some of the teams coach (Sterling) has had the past few years."

The cornerstone for Payne's credo is 6-10 center Rudy Kuiper, a native of Arnhem, Holland. Payne feels Kuiper is the best center in the state, including the four-year schools.

"I feel he is a better big man than Reggie (Butler) was last year," said Payne. "This kid is an outstanding player."

Joining Kuiper in the starting lineup will be guards Ricky Sutton, Keith Whitney and Jimmy Payton. Delvin Everett opens at forward.

"We're going to be extremely quick and we're going to make the tempo of the game to our advantage," said Payne. "Our guards are extremely good at getting the ball inside. They know they've got to go to certain people in certain situations."

Those people are Kuiper, 6-6 forward Luis Phelps and 6-8 forward center Ronald Koldenhof, Kuiper's buddy who came across the ocean with him.

SCC's outside shooting, though, has Payne suspect.

"As soon as people realize that we'll go inside, they'll sit on our big people and we'll have to find someone to shoot the ball," said Payne.

He hopes that someone will be Sutton, Whitney or Payton. Whitney, who prepped for Payne's 31-3 team at Seminole, is a streak shooter but hasn't found the range in practice, according to Payne.

Payne, nevertheless, feels this year's squad will be in the 22-victory area. "I can't really put my finger on what we do really well, Payne continued. "We don't shoot the ball that well and we don't run that well."

"But I think the kids play together very well. They know what to do and when to do it. We've gotten some surprises out of kids we didn't think would be able to step in and help automatically," he added.

Tonight's first round of the SCC Raicer Tournament, Miami Dade North, runner-up for the national championship last year, takes on Palm Beach. Tip off is 6:30 p.m.

Two losers play the 6:30 consolation game Saturday night and the winners meet at 8:30 for the title.

There is no charge for admission.

Seminole, Hawks, Patriots Open With Cage Jamboree

The Seminole, Lake Howell and Lake Brantley girls varsity basketball teams will compete in a jamboree at Rollins College in Winter Park Saturday with games beginning at 2:30 p.m.

Other schools participating include, Spruce Creek, Bishop Moore, Eustis, Daytona Beach Mainland and Leesburg.

The Lady Seminoles are coming off their greatest season, a 21-6 record and co-champions in the Five Star Conference. Coach Ron Merthie expects the Tribe to be strong again this season with a crop of talented returnees.

The starting five Saturday will be, Dieder Hillery (6-1), Mona Benton (5-7), Maxine Campbell (5-6), Arlene Jones (5-6) and Tammy Pringle (5-8). Benton, Hillery and Campbell all started last year. Benton is a sophomore while Hillery and Campbell are juniors.

"We have experience, good outside shooting, speed and height," Merthie said. "We will be able to do whatever we need to, we can play slow or fast and make any adjustments necessary."

Adding strength to the Tribe this season will be Sharon Jenkins (5-3), Dee Goebelbecker (5-5), Teri Hardy (5-7), Patricia Campbell (6-0) and Gene Stallworth (5-8).

Seminole will have Leesburg and county foe Lake Howell as its opponents in the jamboree.

The Lady Patriots of Lake Brantley are looking to improve over last season's 10-14 record with three seniors and two juniors in the probable starting lineup. Returning for their senior years are Rhonda Vasquez (5-8) who averaged 12.3 points per game last year and made the all-conference first team, Linda Trimble (5-8) who averaged 14.2 points and also made the first team all-conference team and Karen Pritchett (5-9) who averaged six points and five rebounds a game.

The two junior starters are Linda Nunez (5-3½) who is one of the county's top ballhandlers and made the second team all-conference team last year and Tracey Melike who played junior varsity last season and will be counted on for strong rebounding and inside shooting.

Jill Patrick (5-6) will be the team's sixth player. Patrick is also a senior and is one of the best free throw shooters and passers on the squad.

Other juniors include Kim Longhouser (5-3) transfer from Germany and Anne Murray (5-9) who played varsity last season.

Two sophomores and a freshman fill out the remainder of the Lake Brantley roster. The sophomores are Michelle Brown (5-7) and Angie Williams (5-6) both of whom played JV last year and the freshman is Sherry Asplen.

One of the most sizeable teams in the area is the Lady Silver Hawks of Lake Howell. The Hawks have six players 5-9 or taller, they have four seniors and nine juniors on the squad.

The seniors are Cathy Binkewicz (5-8), Leigh Lowe (5-10), Cindy Blocker (5-7) and Kecta McPherson (5-9). Juniors for Lake Howell are Kathy Barma (5-2), Sherry Green (5-8), Chiquita Miller (5-10), Monica McNeil (5-10), Mary Johnson (5-7), Christie Scott (5-8), Elizabeth Detrich (5-9) and Janene Brown (6-3).

Burgess Readies For State

The Lyman boys and Lake Howell girls swimming teams along with two swimmers from teams that did not qualify, will compete in the 4A State Swimming Championships this weekend at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

Seminole High's standout sophomore Chuck Burgess qualified for the state meet in the 100 backstroke with a time of 59.06, which placed him third in the district. Seminoles' boys and girls teams did not qualify.

The Lyman boys placed second in the district behind state powerhouse Winter Park while the Lake Howell girls were third in the district behind Winter Park and West Orange. The top three teams in the district qualified for state.

Individual qualifiers included Lyman's Jennifer Gage (1:01.7 in the 100 fly), Lake Howell's Karen Acre (1:57.44 in the 200 free and 5:11.19 in the 500 free) and Nina Aspinwall (1:08.57 in the 100 backstroke) and from the Lyman boys team Chris McLelland (23:51 in the 50 free) and Brian Thayer (54.41 in the 100 fly).

Thurmond's 3 Touchdowns Lead Midget Rebels Romp

The All-American Midget Rebels remained undefeated in Pop Warner Football by rolling to a 48-12 rout of the Union Park Panthers.

After falling behind 6-0 early in the game, the Midget Rebels reeled off 48 unanswered points to raise its record to 8-0. Steve Thurmond scored the first three touchdowns for the Rebels, one on a spectacular 74 yard run.

The running of Thurmond, Chad Groseclose, Andy Dunn, Ryan Lisle, Chris Brown and Skip MacMillan accounted for 367 yards on the ground. Quarterback Shane Letterio added 94 yards passing to the Rebels' offensive explosion.

The defense, led by Robb Boss, Jim Boman, Jason Bray and Steve Chasey, held Union Park to just 84 yards of total offense.

The Rebels travel to Venice this weekend to meet the undefeated champions of the Gulf Coast, the Venice Crusaders. The Crusaders have given up just one touchdown this season.

Saturday, Nov. 27, the Rebels will entertain the Maryland State Midget Champions at Lake Brantley High School. Maryland is undefeated after 11 games. Kickoff is set for 3 p.m.

The Junior Midget Rebels also fell behind early but came back to edge the Winter Park Wildcats, 14-7.

Winter Park took an early 7-0 lead on a 99 yard interception return and the extra point. A 56 yard scoring pass from Jimmy Waring to Todd Fuggi quickly erased the Winter Park lead and Johnnie Griffin scored the go-ahead touchdown.

The Rebels' offense gained 224 total yards with Griffin gaining 70 yards to lead all rushers. The Rebels defense, led by Waring's two interceptions and Scott Allen's six tackles, held Winter Park to just 69 yards total offense.

Matt Turse and Allen also intercepted passes while Marc Groves and Lance Stewart each recovered a fumble. The Junior Midgets' record now stands at 6-2.

The Junior Pee Wee Rebels closed their regular season with a 27-12 victory over the Apopka Eagles.

The Rebels trailed by the score of 6-0 early before Jamie Wallace scored from three yards out and the Rebels increased their lead on Dusty McDougald's nine yard run in the second quarter.

Second-half touchdowns by McDougald and Chris Koepeck put the game on ice for the Jr. Pee Wee Rebels. McDougald led the Rebels with 160 yards on 27 carries while Wallace carried 14 times for 76 yards.

The Rebels' defense, led by Shawn Malone, Jeff Whitney, Scott Shedlock, Jeff Sorenson, Jason Culver, Ron Hodges, Darvin Boothe, Jimmy Griffin and Kevin Morro, held Apopka to minus six yards rushing in the second half while the Rebels' offense piled up 286 total yards for the game. —CHRIS FISTER

...Interception Sends Seminole To 10th Setback

The hard-running senior added quickly to that sum in the third quarter. Carrying three straight times, Elmore picked up 55 yards to the Seminole 21.

After Lavin plunged for two, Hamilton hit Mobely with a perfect down-and-out pattern to the right corner of the end zone for a 19-yard touchdown. The Hawks sandwiched Seminole's Dion Jackson between two receivers to make it work. Smith's PAT put Spruce on top, 14-7, with 6:09 left in the quarter.

Four minutes later, a fumble by Futrell gave the Hawks the ball on the Seminole 32. Three plays later, Spruce Creek faced a fourth four at the Seminole 17. Elmore promptly rambled 12 yards for the first down at the 5. Two plays later, he went in from two yards out for the score. Smith's kick made it, 21-7, with 2:01 left in the third quarter.

The Tribe, feeling the season slipping away, finally came alive with 5:12 to play in 1982. Taking over at its 10, after the Hawks' only punt of the night, the Tribe wasted no time. Manley took off around the left end and didn't stop until 90 yards later. The startling sprint picked up the 'Noles and Griffin's extra point pulled Sanford to 21-14.

All that remained, however, was for Spruce Creek to run down the clock, which it had done very well all night. But hero Elmore almost wore the goat's horns when he coughed up the football and Debose covered it with 3:27 to go at the Spruce Creek 42.

Burke busted for 15 to the Spruce Creek 27. Burke went twice for three and Manley churned for six yards on a nice second effort to the 15 for a first down. McCloud went side right for five more to the 10 as the clock ticked below a minute.

Facing a second and five, Futrell faked a handoff to Burke and dropped to throw. McCloud wondered up his middle and signaled for the ball in the end zone. He signaled again.

Futrell saw him, fired the pass, but Kovach stepped in front of McCloud to end the Seminoles' most disastrous season. Just 37 seconds remained as the jubilant Hawks mobbed Kovach.

"Mike (Futrell) just wanted too long to throw the ball," said Posey about the play. "He has two receivers on that play and he's got to read the defense. By the time he threw, the guy (Kovach) had already rotated over."

Although Seminole moved the ball crisply into scoring position on the ground, Posey didn't feel the 'Noles could run it over. They had one time out left.

"They put an extra man on the line. Our belly series had been real wide open," said Posey. "But the last two times we hit it, it gained just three yards each time."

"Plus, the clock was running down (37 seconds) and we thought the play action pass would get it (the touchdown)," he added.

It didn't, but then nothing else did this season either.

Spurrier Resigns; Heads For Tampa?

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — Duke offensive coordinator Steve Spurrier says he will resign from the football team's coaching staff after the Blue Devils' season finale Saturday.

"I can't say I'm gone forever (from Duke)," Spurrier said, "but I won't be here next season."

Spurrier, winner of the 1966 Heisman Trophy while a quarterback at the University of Florida, is expected to be named the first coach of the new United States Football League's Tampa Bay Bandits.

Pro Football

John Bassett, one of the Bandits' owners, has scheduled a press conference for Monday at 7 p.m. in Tampa Bay to announce the team's coach. Thursday, Spurrier refused to say he had the Tampa job, but he did say "all indications" pointed that way.

Spurrier, 37, served as an assistant football coach at Florida and Georgia Tech before moving to Duke in 1980.

Turkey Trots At Speed World

It will be dragsters, funny cars, pro stocks and jet cars burning up the quarter mile drag strip in Orlando this week-end. Orlando Speed World will once again be the site of NHRA's famed Turkey Trots as over 200 cars will compete in this event.

Friday night at 8, eliminations will start in all classes. Cars will be on hand during the day up until 4 p.m. for practice so that many of the out of staters can get their machines dialed into the track. Gates will open for spectators at 4:30 p.m. and at 9 p.m. the rock band "Stranger" will perform for the crowd.

Friday's event will consist of the tracks regular bracket races. Lowell Martindale of Sanford is a steady winner in this event.

Saturday will be the first official day of the Turkey Trots as the gates will open at 12 noon with time trials from 1 p.m. until 7:30 p.m. Elimination will begin at 8 p.m. All classes will be in competition as well as the jet cars in side by side battle.

The gates will open early Sunday morning as the expected overflow crowd will be able to watch practice starting at 9 until noon. Racing will start at 1 p.m. The jet cars will also be on hand Sunday.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Saturday, November 20, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY
November 20, 1982

This coming year you are likely to find many new interests and involvements. Things or people which made you unhappy in the past will gradually fade in importance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be careful today about prejudging situations or people. Relax and enjoy yourself and let events follow their natural course. What lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday? Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic combinations and compatibilities for all signs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Strive to be prudent in management of your resources today and all should work out well. You'd get into trouble through wastefulness or bad loans.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your friends will welcome your company today, but you won't wear well if you start tossing your weight around by telling them what to do and how to do it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) To accomplish your aims and purposes today, alternative courses of action may be required. Have some backup plans ready just in case they're needed.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) One of your friends at a gathering today may be more of a busybody than a conversationalist. Don't let things be pried from you that you want kept secret.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be sensible regarding the goals which you hope to realize today. You're capable of much, but if your expectations are unrealistic you may be disappointed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's best to get distasteful chores out of the way early today. If you delay, they might not get done at all. Do the hard stuff first.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There's a possibility you might step out of character today and be a little too possessive or demanding of the one you love. Be understanding.

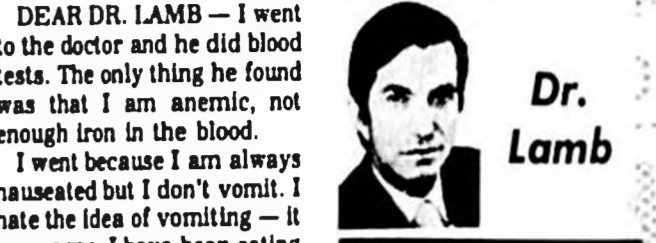

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Should a disagreement arise between you and your mate today, take action to rectify it promptly. Misunderstandings can be resolved if you don't wait too long.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your coworkers will resent it today if you try to shift onto them things you should be taking care of. Do your share and a bit more.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Enjoy yourself today, but try to keep your spending within reason. There's a possibility extravagance could spoil your good time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Overall conditions look good for you today, but there's a chance that you might create a problem where none exists. Keep a cool head.

The Aspirin Habit Is Quite Dangerous

DEAR DR. LAMB — I went to the doctor and he did blood tests. The only thing he found was that I am anemic, not enough iron in the blood.

I went because I am always nauseated but I don't vomit. I hate the idea of vomiting — it scares me. I have been eating up aspirin and Alka Seltzer. I mean actually eating them — just pop them in my mouth and chew them up. It seems to help a lot.

I know that is probably the worst thing in the world to do but I have been doing it for quite some time now. I would like to stop and never have to do this anymore. Can you tell me what to do?

DEAR READER — You are right, it is about the worst thing in the world you could do. Salicylates decrease the normal blood clotting mechanism. That is the reason that aspirin is sometimes used to help prevent recurrences of heart attacks and strokes in men (it has not proved to be useful in women).

Also salicylates may increase the irritation of the lining of the stomach. And you are anemic, which may be from oozing blood from your stomach lining. Or you may have an ulcer that isn't faring at all well with your horrible treatment.

Go back to your doctor at once and stop your aspirin and Alka Seltzer immediately. I do not know why you are nauseated but you need to find out. Meanwhile if you do have indigestion, as a temporary measure take an antacid.

DEAR DR. LAMB — All we hear anymore is to eat whole-grain foods. Just what are whole-grain foods? What do they include? Also, is white bread all bad for a person? Should we eat all whole-wheat breads? I can eat them for a few days, then I crave to go back to my white bread. I buy my bread in a good bakery and not a grocery store. It has a lot more body to it.

DEAR READER — It means what it is called — foods made from the whole-grain product, such as wheat, rather than a refined product. The main difference is that the refined product has lost part or all of the husk or bran. White flour is a good example of a refined product. The main loss is the bulk that the bran provides.

That is not all bad either. The bran does decrease the absorption of some minerals that your body needs. White bread does contain about the same amount of vitamins because it is enriched. An example of a whole-grain cereal would be shredded wheat made from whole-grain wheat. If you get enough bulk from other sources, you can use white bread. For example, use a whole-grain cereal for breakfast and eat plenty of salads, fresh fruits and vegetables. Then whole wheat bread becomes less important as a source for temporary problem is not a two spades and the ace of trumps. South gets the other 10 tricks.

Now let's see what happened to the unfortunate South after East figured out that there was one chance — slim, but far better than no chance at all.

All East did was to cash his ace and king of spades and continue with a third spade to give declarer a chance to ruff in one hand and discard from the other.

That ruff and discard is normally the sort of play that declarer looks for, like a kitten looks at a dish of the cream. But this declarer didn't like it at all. He saw the handwriting on the wall which read, "You are going down."

He ruffed in his own hand and led a trump to dummy's jack. Now East came up with a continuing play to kill declarer. He ducked that first trump and won the second. Then he led a fourth spade!

There was good old West with the 10 of trumps which was sure to be the setting trick.

How To Prevent Cold Damage To Tender Ornamentals

Cold weather in Central Florida usually is not severe, but from time to time temperatures drop low enough to injure tropical and tender ornamental plants.

There are several factors which influence the susceptibility of ornamental plants to cold injury: severity and duration of the cold, rate of thaw, species, age and vigor of the plant, amount of protection, and site factors such as soil drainage, amount of shade and air circulation. Native plants are usually more cold hardy and adapted than plants introduced.

Certain Florida plants need winter protection more than others. These are citrus, poinsettia, cassia, rubber plants, hibiscus, allamanda, bougainvillea, philodendron, succulents, copper plants and coleus. Also, young plants are more susceptible to cold than more mature ones.

Try to follow these guidelines for protecting ornamental plants and citrus trees from cold damage:

(1) Put potted plants inside or under the protection of a porch roof or garage.

(2) To increase ornamental plants' resistance to cold, follow a fertilization program that includes at least three or four fertilizations per year, including reduced fall and winter fertilizations (healthy plants are more resistant to cold than diseased, insect-damaged or poorly-fertilized plants).

(3) Place tender plants so that they have good air and water drainage. Arrange plantings, fences and other barriers around the plants to protect them from cold winds.

(4) Protect roots by mounding or mulching if extended periods of freezing temperatures are expected. If the roots survive, the plant can be salvaged and new top growth developed. For mulching, use grass clippings, straw, bark, leaf mold or similar materials.

Cover the roots to a depth of 6 to 8 inches. However, if just a brief overnight freeze is expected, you might do better by pulling the mulch back from your plants to allow more ground heat to help insulate the foliage.

(5) Use shade correctly. Pines and other trees that cast a light shade can help the plants thaw more slowly. Plantings that thaw more slowly usually show less cold injury than plants growing in locations where they are exposed to the early morning sun.

A sudden drop of temperature below the freezing point in the fall or early winter can injure plants more than the same temperature conditions during January or early February. And temperatures that drop gradually over a day or two usually cause less damage than temperatures that drop rapidly.

I would suggest the following precautions against freeze damage:

(1) Water plants thoroughly before an expected freeze. Often cold weather is accompanied by cold winds that can dry out plants. Also, a moist soil holds and releases more heat than a dry soil.

(2) Give plants physical protection by covering the upper parts of the plants and the root areas on the ground with plastic or burlap. Use stakes or frames around the plants to prevent the plastic from touching any foliage. Be sure to remove all coverings immediately after the danger of a freeze has passed.

(3) Heat the plants. Heating is still the most widely used means of preventing cold injury in commercial plantings of foliage and flower crops, nurseries and large ornamental plantings.

A simple method of heating ornamental plants around the home is to use a light bulb under an opaque cover such as a sheet, black plastic or similar coverings.

Strumming On The Old Banjo Slated

Phillip Steinmetz Jr., 13, of Orleto, will perform on the five-string banjo at "A Day in the Country" to benefit the Seminole County Humane Society of Seminole County on Sunday, Nov. 28 at Wilco Sales, State Route 46 west, in Sanford.

Phillip is the grand nephew of Grandpa Jones of Hee Haw and Grand Ole Opry fame and was taught the old-timey "drop thumb" style banjo by Grandpa and his son, Mark Jones.

Phillip will pick five tunes, two of his own composition and three old classics: "Old Joe Clark," "Boil Them Cabbages Down," and "Cripple Creek."

The festivities will begin at noon and will include a parade of horses, Seminole dog fanciers obedience demonstration, special country western music by Rusty Lewis and Roger Soule, arts, crafts, refreshments for sale and a variety of door prizes.

A donation of $5 per person will be charged with children under 12 admitted free.

Adding Tip To Tab May Solve Fair Gratuity Issue

DEAR ABBY: This is for "One Foot in the Poorhouse," the waitress who came up with the brilliant conclusion that most people don't tip 15 percent because they can't figure 15 percent of the bill.

She said she was sick of breaking her back to give excellent service for a measly 10 percent. Then she had the gall to send you a "tip table" for people to carry in their wallets for quick and easy reference!

Where is it written that a person has to tip 15 percent — or 10 percent? Or anything, for that matter?

I always thought a "tip" was optional. MAZOOK IN NOE VALLEY, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: Hooray for the waitress who sent you the 15 percent tipping chart.

As a waitress, I serve people daily whose minds go completely blank when I present the check. Some don't know what kind of tip to leave. The chart will be useful for them. At least they will know that a 15 percent tip is the going rate for excellent service.

And please stress that we could never make it on the minimum wage paid by the employer. We do this kind of work only because of the tips.

WORKING MY BUTT OFF IN BUTTE

DEAR ABBY: I have to say a few words to that waitress who wants to help "dumbbells" figure 15 percent of the check.

Do you tip the man who helps you try on 20 pairs of shoes? Do you tip the bus driver? Or the pilot? How about the mailman? Or the garbage man? Or the milkman? And let's not forget the nurse who gives you a bath, makes your bed and empties your bedpans.

I'm a schoolteacher. Nobody ever tipped me. I am not complaining, but I'm tired of people who take a job waiting on tables and then gripe because they don't make more on tips. If they don't earn a decent salary, they should find another line of work.

FED UP IN DENVER

DEAR ABBY: Most people who depend on tips for a living (waiters, waitresses, doormen, hairdressers, manicurists, drivers, etc.) appreciate cash tips because they can be pocketed easily and not declared as taxable income.

I suppose some people are 100 percent honest about cash tips, but I never knew one who didn't cheat a little now and then. Me included.

ONLY HUMAN IN HOUSTON

DEAR ABBY: You told "Poorhouse" that some people tip only what they can afford. This reminded me of my father's advice as I embarked on adulthood: "A tip is part of the cost of the meal. If you can't afford the tip, you can't afford to eat out."

"Never leave less than 15 percent. If you have only a dollar in your pocket, don't order more than 85 cents' worth of food."

SHARON IN DALLAS

DEAR SHARON: Did your father own a restaurant?

DEAR ABBY: My father is a surgeon. Suppose he sent the following bill:

Surgery $3,200

15 percent tip $ 480

Amount due: $3,680

What would you think?

DOC'S SON, HILLSBORO, KAN.

DEAR SON: Your father would be cutting his own throat.

DEAR ABBY: "One Foot in the Poorhouse" has the other foot in her mouth. Please tell us where she works. I'd like to go there and "stiff" her.

EX-WAITRESS, PALM SPRINGS, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: When are Americans going to get smart and take a lesson from the Swiss, the French and the Italians? They build the tip right into the bill. I, as a customer, would prefer it. I'm sorry for waiters and waitresses who must rely on the generosity of those they serve to make ends meet. It's downright degrading.

FOR HUMAN DIGNITY

If you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 33623, Hollywood, Calif. 90032.

Bessie and LeRoy Barrow celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Wednesday. What makes the Barrow marriage tick? 'Forgive and forget,' Barrow says.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

Bessie and LeRoy Barrow of Route 2, Sanford, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday. They moved to Sanford in 1963 from New Smyrna Beach and previously lived in Orlando for a number of years.

Bessie Hall became the bride of LeRoy Barrow on Nov. 17, 1932, at Claxton, Ga. Bessie was born at Swainsboro (Emanuel County), Ga., and LeRoy was born at Glenville (Tatnell County), Ga.

Although he is now retired, Mr. Barrow is still a cattle dealer, his line of employment in earlier days. Mrs. Barrow has always been a homemaker with the interest of her family foremost.

The couple have one daughter, Mrs. Marlene Huskey of New Smyrna Beach; and two sons, Wade Barrow of Daytona Beach; and Bobby Barrow of Sanford.

There are nine grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

In celebration of their 50th anniversary, their children will entertain them at a party on Thanksgiving Day at the Huskey home in New Smyrna Beach.

Mr. Barrow says cattle is one of the special loves in his life. "I just love to be out on the farm and help out," he says.

In counting his blessings, Mr. Barrow continues, "We've been very lucky to raise three children (one adopted). They are our most prized possessions. We are all close."

What makes a 50-year marriage successful?

Mr. Barrow says, "You have to work hard to get along together. Forgive and forget and look forward to tomorrow."

Stephanie Wells Bride Of William A. Cleveland

Stephanie Jean Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wells of Sanford, and William Arthur Cleveland, son of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Cleveland, of Deltona, were married Sept. 17 in First United Methodist Church, Deltona. The Rev. Marvin Park officiated at the candlelight, double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Sue Sellers of Sanford, the bridesmaid and Donald Ewen Jr., Deltona, was the best man.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's parents after which the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to New Smyrna Beach. They are now making their home in Deltona.

Jazzercise

Or, How Sweating And Straining To Music Can Make Exercise Much Less Of A Bore

By LORI DREW
Herald Correspondent

The crowd gathers around the small stage ready for all the jazz ... and a whole lot more.

Carley Simon, Queen, Tchaikovsky, Donna Summer and Willie Nelson will spin on the turntable as a group of weight-conscious women prepare to spin, twist, turn, jerk and push their bodies into myriad positions for a 50-minute workout easily mistaken for fun.

"I tell my classes it's a one-hour vacation," says 26-year-old Claudia Almand from the top of the stage. From that position comes the music and an almost-magical energy as she instructs and then leads her Jazzercise students with an uncanny motivation.

On the floor of the Sanora Homeowners Association Clubhouse in Sanford, a dozen women of varying sizes and shapes, clad in colorful leotards and tights, work on loosening up, then tightening their body muscles to the beat of the music and the encouraging words of Mrs. Almand.

"Give me a turn and push two, three and single and single and double and..." The women follow their leader, increasing their own coordination, flexibility, posture and stamina while working on cardiovascular and metabolic improvement as well, all for $2.50 per session.

"It's really easy to follow," says Mrs. Almand the petite Eustis woman, adding "I took a class in Jazzercise for two years then decided I wanted to be certified to teach."

After sending in her resume, teacher recommendation and full-length photo of herself to corporate officials in Carlsbad, Calif., Mrs. Almand was selected for a pre-audition. She then underwent a three-day class in Atlanta during which she was required to learn 15 routines and then perform them proficiently within two weeks.

A physiology exam was mandatory, as was her "book work" for handling the financial portion of her new endeavor should she be selected by the judges to become another of the thousands of women in 46 states and 11 foreign countries certified to teach more than 300,000 students.

Once trainees like Claudia Almand are accepted into Jazzercise, the job of keeping them tuned to the same beat continues.

"Every six weeks, I receive video tapes in the mail from California with 26 new routines to learn and teach to my students. We (instructors) are even evaluated seven times a year," she says.

But aside from the regulated routines and rigid specifications each instructor must adhere to, Jazzercise differs from traditional exercise in that it is designed to work every part of your body, according to Mrs. Almand.

"But the main thing is that it exercises your heart, letting your mind go on a vacation. What really sets Jazzercise apart from other exercise programs is its See GETTING IN SHAPE, Page 2

While instructor Claudia Almand makes Jazzercise look easy, it's not. It's hard work, designed to melt off the pounds and firm up the entire body. It also happens to be fun. You guys can do it, too.

Assessing the loss

Network bosses are undoubtedly celebrating the end of the NFL strike, but they're just as likely crying in their champagne over what the walkout cost them. You can bet your season's tickets lost revenues ran into the millions. Page 2.

Still plugging

Since 'Animal House,' Tim Matheson has been cast in a series of silver screen bombs. But he has survived it all and has turned his efforts to television, co-starring in 'Tucker's Witch.' But even that is rough going. Page 7.

Costly cartoon

Unless you go for Saturday morning cartoons masquerading as prime time drama, you probably won't like ABC's 'Tales of the Gold Monkey.' TV critic David Handler calls the show "childish and preposterous." See his review on Page 8.

Canadian Football A Poor Substitute For The Real Thing

NEW YORK (UPI) — If anyone showed a profit in the NFL strike it was only because he guessed right and bet a bundle on the day it would end. Everybody else lost, and what they lost can only be measured in megabucks.

The players lost their paychecks, hot-dog vendors lost their business, owners lost at the boxoffice and the networks lost advertising revenues that would have run into the millions had the strike not been called.

The networks, of course, will claim they really didn't lose a dime, but then they show their books only to the Almighty and the Internal Revenue Service.

To be sure, they did manage to pick up some loose change on Canadian football, boxing, old movies and other pigskin substitutes.

Still, at rates charged per 30-second spot for the NFL — and there are 25 commercial spots per game, with 112 games lost in the strike-bound season — they would have preferred peace and harmony.

An advertising time-buyer, who requested he not be quoted by name because he, too, likes peace and harmony, said all three were left anemic for lack of football.

"NBC and CBS get $90,000 to $95,000 a spot," he said. "ABC gets $150,000 on Monday night. CBS and NBC, however, could run double headers in their time spots and consequently double the commercial take.

"Then there are low line-up games on Sunday afternoon — regionalized games, not full network. They could get $65,000 to $70,000 per 30-seconds for them."

Then, he said, there is the matter of giving back money already pledged on the basis of alternative programming — something network executives tend to equate with blasphemy.

"NBC said to the sponsors, 'Roll with us on Canadian football and when the ratings come in we'll adjust accordingly, either in cash or commercial make-goods," the buyer said.

"Well, those ratings were so bad NBC dropped the whole idea and, as did CBS, turned to boxing where they could get $20,000 to $25,000 per spot.

"They're going to have to give back money."

ABC's ratings were equally disastrous. Since ABC's NFL coverage falls in lucrative prime time, they had to dig into old film files to fill slots emptied by the strike.

James Bond looked as good as anything, so at one point, ABC ran "Moonraker" as a substitute for Monday night football. It pulled a Nielsen rating of 15.3 and an audience share of 25. In 1981, the NFL game got a rating of 22 and a share of 35.

With rating points translating directly into dollars and audience share representing the percentage of all homes watching the tube during the time slot, the losses were obvious.

Then there was the matter of the $60 million the three networks shelled out to NFL teams in the first two weeks of the walkout under a contract clause covering the event of a strike. There were no games, and hence, no sponsors to make up that loss.

But the time-buyer, who speaks the arcane language of commercial television, said the real problem for the networks lay in "manpoint demographics."

These are the yardsticks by which sponsors of many products measure the number of men they actually are reaching with a given spot, and the buyer said even revenues from substitute programs could not offset the loss.

"The demographics can't be made up," he said.

There are no profits this year for anyone.

...Getting In Shape With All That Jazzercise

emphasis on emotional as well as physical fitness. The program is calculated to lift your spirits along with your derriere," she says. "It's a celebration of the body that gives you a chance to shed inhibitions, release tension and escape worries while shaping up."

The shaping up in Sanford started Sept. 15. "Sanford never knew about Jazzercise before then," Mrs. Almand says, even though Jazzercise was born in 1979.

At the Sanora clubhouse, Mrs. Almand motivates women of all ages during eight classes each week. "Jazzercise is for all ages," she says. "I have ladies in my classes who are grandmothers. Students range from their 60s to high school teen-agers."

And what they go through in their Jazzercising is 50-minutes warm-up, peak work and cool down periods including 12-15 minutes of continuous cardiovascular exercise. In addition, Mrs. Almand attempts to instill a sense of community involvement into her students, akin to her own social commitments in Eustis.

The full-time Jazzerciser is also a member of the Jr. Women's Club in Eustis and a bowling league there. She was chairwoman of the American Cancer Society drive there and was selected as one of the "outstanding Young Women of America." Now, she is trying to expand her area of involvement to Sanford by offering her time and Jazzercise experience.

"Through Jazzercise, we raised money for Muscular Dystrophy to buy Christmas toys for needy children, and all kinds of benefits like the $36,000 we raised for the American Heart Association in Altamonte Springs. Now we're trying to do the same for the March of Dimes."

This week, several of the 100 weekly students at the Sanora complex teamed up with their instructor in warming up runners for the Golden Age Games. And Mrs. Almand has already offered free class coupons to community blood donors.

As for getting involved in Claudia Almand's Jazzercise classes, all you need is a leotard and tights or loose-fitting clothing and $2.50 per session (with the rate decreasing as the number of classes attended increases.)

Only if you have a heart condition would you require your doctor's permission, to start Jazzercising, Mrs. Almand said. She warns, however, "the first week you'll find muscles you never knew you had." One student says, "My first time, I thought I was going to die. I couldn't catch on. But I had already paid for a month, so I kept coming."

Another woman familiar with other exercise programs admitted, "Nothing compared to this. I really enjoy it. It's great!"

Classes are currently held Monday through Thursday at 5:45 and 7 p.m. Further information may be obtained by calling the Sanora Homeowners Association at 323-2188.

ARTS' Version Of Classic O'Neill Play

By ANN FERRAR
Vintage Eugene O'Neill contains fairly consistent ingredients: depression, despair, alcoholism, strong poetic references, middleclass Irish protagonists. His soul-searching autobiographical drama "Long Day's Journey into Night" includes all of these, but with one crucial difference: the ambitious version airing Nov. 23 on ARTS is performed by an all-black cast.

Ruby Dee, Earle Hyman, Thommie Blackwell and Peter Francis James portray the Tyrones, a family living in a seaside summer home in the early 1900s.

While the acting is as laudable as can be under the circumstances, the vast and improbable ethnic switch adds an element of unreality that makes some scenes hard to accept, particularly those in which the family's Irish background is the hook.

Ms. Dee as Mary Tyrone, the morphine-addicted mother, reminisces on her upbringing and convent-school days when she wanted to be a nun. Ms. Dee does a superb job, but the passage begs to be interpreted by O'Neill veteran Geraldine Fitzgerald or someone like her. (Ms. Fitzgerald directed the New York stage version for the Richard Allen Center for Culture & Art.)

Hyman as James Tyrone, the alcoholic actor-father, talks about his real-estate purchases. One can't help wondering how many blacks in the early 1900s were big property owners, with cooks, maids, chauffeurs, summer homes, etc.

If it was imperative to have a black cast, should the dialogue have been altered to iron out these wrinkles?

That would adulterate the playwright's work — but then, using a cast so far removed from the original has a similar effect. The characters lose part of their identity in the ethnic confusion.

If the viewer can overlook this, he'll appreciate that the Tyrones are just people with universal emotions, to which ethnic background is irrelevant. The characters are each mired in their addictions to escape life. Mary, ridden with guilt over the long-past death of her second son, remains in a drug-induced stupor to ward off the terror of losing another son. James drinks as a buffer against the twilight of his acting career.

The issue with this production is not whether we need a black version of "Long Day's Journey into Night," but whether we need more original works written by and for blacks. Cable TV — with its ability to focus on specialized interests overlooked by the commercial networks — seems the perfect medium to expose such works.

Rigney Still Around The Football

By MARK NOLAN

On Sunday, Nov. 21, CTV will present live coverage of the CFL Western Final game. The outcome of this game will determine who will be advancing to the Grey Cup, which will held one week later in Toronto, at 1 p.m. (ET).

Frank Rigney will be among the announcers for the Western Final. Originally drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles, of the NFL, in 1958, Rigney opted instead for the CFL, and became an offensive lineman with the Blue Bombers of Winnipeg. Nine of the 10 years spent at Winnipeg were under Bud

Grant, who is currently head coach of the Minnesota Vikings.

Why would a third-round American draft choice, fresh out of college (Iowa State), want to turn down the Philadelphia Eagles and play a somewhat different version of the game in a different country?

Says Rigney: "Basically, they offered more money than the NFL, and they also offered the opportunity to work."

During his years as a Blue Bomber, the team finished first in the Western Division for five straight seasons.

NEW YORK (UPI) — How can an actor rate his own show? Ask Peter Bonnerz and you'll get an analogy involving a painted sunflower seed.

The show in question is ABC's "9 to 5" in which he portrays Franklin Hart Jr., the new boss, in an office full of women fed to the mascara line with male chauvinist piggery. At least that's how the story line went in the original Jane Fonda, Rita Moreno, Dolly Parton movie.

Bonnerz — a gentle soul who really respects women — said the writers have softened that image.

"I consider Franklin to be not a negative character at all," he said. "He's a person who wants to be looked on as an efficient person — as an administrator who gets the job done. The good soldier."

"He wants to follow orders and give orders. He's a man who really does believe in the American dream ... He trusts the Golden Rule, the Boy Scouts, the church, the college, the military and the Kiwanas."

"Nothing he does on the show will be antithetical to the American dream."

With that established, how does Bonnerz rate the show — now cast with Miss Moreno, Rachel Dennison and Valerie Curtin?

The question brings an honest frown.

"As a performer, I could say it's one of the best shows on television," he said. "But as a performer, you don't have a view of what the show is. It's like asking the sunflower seeds in Van Gogh's painting, 'What's this painting look like to you?'"

"And they'd be saying, 'Well, it's black and it's got some orange stuff on the outer edges. It feels real foggy in here — you know, it doesn't have nice clean lines.'"

The answer would have done credit to Bonnerz' previous prime-time incarnation as Jerry, the eccentric dentist who shared offices with Bob Newhart before Newhart moved on to other endeavors. Behind the smiling molar that dominated his dental den, even Jerry was a thoughtfully honest man. "This show is about people working," Bonnerz said of "9 to 5."

"We're talking about what it's like to work in this country ... In some cases, we're talking about what it's like for women to work."

We're talking about how hard it is for anybody to make ends meet."

Making artistic ends meet is another question.

"Doing a television show is like reading a Dickens novel," he said. "In every chapter, there's something else coming up at you there."

If you're acting a Dickens piece, you have the opportunity to read the whole novel before you do it.

"But in a television show, you don't know if you're going to be there at the end of six years or eight performances because it's all down the line."

Still, Bonnerz is a firm believer that what he does for a living is vital to the well-being of everyone in his audience.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Tim Matheson exploded to fame overnight in "National Lampoon's Animal House" as the most attractive of the slobs that rambled through the college humor wreckage.

Although he'd been acting since childhood, until "Animal House" Matheson had failed to connect with audiences.

It's enormous success brought him to the attention of producer Steven ("E.T.") Spielberg who cast him in a major role in "1941," Spielberg's only bomb.

Even so, the handsome, athletic Matheson survived. His dark good looks and youthful demeanor continued to attract producers' attention.

Disney Studio plucked Matheson from the wreckage of "1941" to co-star with Don Knotts and Tim Conway in "The Apple Dumpling Gang Rides Again," which crashed and burned.

Then 20th Century-Fox starred him with Jack Warden and Susan Blakely in "Dreamer," bomb three. Matheson hung in there, starring in MTM's first feature film, "A Little Sex" and HBO's "Bus Stop."

With fewer feature films in production, Matheson turned to TV, starring with Kate Jackson in "Listen To Your Heart," a two-hour CBS romantic comedy to be telecast this season.

Currently, Matheson is starring with Catherine Hicks in "Tucker's Witch," a new sitcom, which finds

Luck, apparently, is not one of Matheson's strong points.

"It's not easy for a new show to crash prime time and stay there," he said, philosophically. "Three out of four new shows are cancelled. Maybe it's nine out of 10."

"But there's some hope. Networks are sticking with some new shows despite low ratings, like 'Hill Street Blues' and 'Fame.'"

"Tucker's Witch," deals with a husband and wife detective team. Mrs. Tucker is blessed with hit-or-miss powers to make inanimate objects move and precognition, neither of which help the Tuckers solve crimes.

The hour-long series combines a little of "Mr. and Mrs. North" with "Hart to Hart" with a touch of "I Dream of Jeannie."

Matheson is resigned to the inevitability of "Tucker's Witch" being wiped out by "Dynasty" in the ratings but thinks it may top "Quincy," if their first head-to-head ratings are any indication.

"We beat 'Quincy' and it's been on the air seven years," Matheson said. "Being opposite 'Dynasty' isn't that bad. It's better than going into an open time slot and having CBS expect us to win it."

"It's okay being an underdog and not having to be number one in our time slot."

All we have to do is make a good showing and take second. The network likes our concept and I think it will hang in there with us."

Matheson is no stranger to television. "Tucker's Witch" is his fourth venture into episodic series.

A decade ago he spent a year each as a regular in "Bonanza" and "The Virginian." Thereafter he co-starred with Kurt Russell in "The Quest," a series that Matheson would like to forget.

"Tucker's Witch" hasn't settled down yet," he said. "TV shows don't have the luxury of out-of-town tryouts like Broadway shows. You don't have a chance to find your stride before they drop you right into a competitive situation."

"The show is improving every week but I think we're only about 65 percent of what we will be in the future."

"I enjoy making feature films, but I'd rather be in a good TV series than mediocre movies."

"Right now it's important for me to keep busy. I played Pertruchio in 'The Taming of the Shrew' in Austin (Texas) and last summer I did 'Nude With Violin' at the Williamstown (Mass.) theater with Eileen Heckart."

"Anything is better than sitting around waiting for the right movie to come along. I lose my edge when I'm sitting around the pool not working. I look for the best available property and take it."

'Quincy' Copes Without Real Victims

DEAR DICK: I love to watch "Quincy," but I can't help but wonder — what are they looking at when the autopsies are being performed? S.U., Saginaw, Mich.

Basically, they are looking at nothing. They are actors, after all, and they are acting like they are looking at dead bodies. Generally there is a dummy on the table, to give the impression of a human form. But, no cadavers.

DEAR DICK: I own a 1968 Dodge Charger that I am going to be selling shortly. Some friends suggested I write to the "Dukes of Hazzard" and see if they might want it. Can you tell me who to write to? D.L., St. Clair Shores, Mich.

I can tell you who to write to, but he isn't interested. And he isn't interested because they use '69s, not '68s. Apparently there are some significant differences between the two models. If you (or anybody) has a '69, write to the show's transportation captain, Tom Green, at the Burbank Studio, Burbank, CA 91505.

Ask Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Could you send me the name of the book by actor Paul Sorvino in which he tells how he was cured of asthma. E.M., Albuquerque, N.M.

The name of the book is "How to Become a Former Asthmatic," but don't go looking for it in your bookstore. Not yet. William Morrow & Co., the publisher, tells me publication has been postponed, for some reason, and they have no idea when it will be published.

DEAR DICK: We watch Merv Griffin's show and have noticed how much weight he has lost. Can you please find out what diet he is on. He sure looks terrific. H.E.A., Trenton, N.J.

Merv has lost 40 pounds, his people tell me, and here's the story: James Coburn was a guest on the show, and it was Coburn who suggested that Merv consult his doctor, Dr. James Brawley. Brawley's theory is to find out what foods his patients are allergic to, and then have them avoid these foods. (This is the way the diet was explained to me, but please consult your doctor before doing anything yourself.) One of the things Griffin has avoided is coffee.

DEAR DICK: Ketty Lester on "Little House." Didn't Ms. Lester do a number of recordings back in the '50s or '60s? The name certainly rings a bell in my mind. H. E., Hull, Ga.

Ding dong. Yes, Ketty was a top singer some years ago.

Look Out, Jake! It's Another Rotten Plot

By DAVID HANDLER
"Tales of the Gold Monkey" is easy to dismiss as a TV rip-off of "Raiders of the Lost Ark," which it is. Still, it is worth noting.

After all, this is a top-drawer production that hasn't a thing in it for adults. "Gold Monkey" aims only to be childish and preposterous, and at this it succeeds smashing.

Expensively mounted and peopled by prestige performers like Stephen Collins and Roddy McDowall, "Gold Monkey" isn't so much a prime-time TV show as it is a very expensive cartoon. In effect, ABC has moved Saturday morning to Wednesday night, and it has flown it first class.

That isn't quite so easy to dismiss.

The time is 1938, the place is "Deep in the South Pacific." Jake Cutter (Collins) is a square-jawed, cigar chomping Saturday morning lead — a cargo pilot with his own Grumman Goose, Cutter's Goose.

Jake lives over Bon Chance Louie's Monkey Bar in Bora Gora, but spends most of his time flying in and out of trouble with Nazis, Japanese, treasure hunters, a treacherous Eurasian princess, mud people, Boga jungle fighters, giant apes, slave traders, volcanoes and Sarah White (Caitlin O'Heaney), a sweet, helpless damsel in distress who is supposed to be a singer but is actually an American spy.

She is not a very good one. Her only response to danger is to yell "Jaaaaaake!" That suits Jake fine. "I have this urge to be a knight" he informs us.

True to Saturday morning fashion, Jake's most meaningful relationship is with his dog, Jack, who has only one eye. Wears a patch. Jake carries on long conversations with Jack, who barks yes and no responses. Sadly, Jack gets most of the good lines.

Jack does not like Nazis. He growls at them. And he doesn't approve of his master's weaknesses, shuns him when he consorts with loose women or gambles away his, (that's Jack's) glass eye.

And let us not forget Jake's dumb, loyal sidekick, Corky

For plots, "Gold Monkey" simply ricochets from one dangerous confrontation to the next, in the manner of a video arcade game.

(Jeff MacKay), a nervous, forgetful mechanic with a severe drinking problem. (The latter is perhaps the show's only concession to prime time. Galactic annihilation and incipient cretinism are OK on Saturday morning, but dipsomania is not).

Corky has two basic lines — "Gee, I don't know, Jake," and "Hey, Jake, let's get outta here!"

Rounding out our cartoon cast is Bon Chance Louie, a French scoundrel who once escaped the guillotine. Now he runs a saloon. McDowall seems to enjoy playing him.

For plots, "Gold Monkey" simply ricochets from one dangerous confrontation to the next, in the manner of a video arcade game.

In the pilot episode, Nazi agents join forces with sly Princess Kogi (Marta DuBois). They're after a legendary gold monkey idol. So are the Americans. Trouble is, the idol is protected by giant monkeys and a volcano that's about to blow. Jake gets caught in the middle of the chase.

Can he and Sarah and Jack and Corky get the idol before the Nazis get it! And not get killed by giant apes?! What out — the volcano is erupting! Can Jake get the Goose in the air before it's buried under molten lava?

One week, Corky is shanghaied by a slave trader with a hook instead of a right hand. He has to fix the guy's ship or get eaten by cannibals. It's Jake to the rescue! Hurry, Jake, before the mud people attack the ship with spears!

Another week, we're off to a remote mountaintop Watusi village. Jake has to get across a suspension bridge! Boga jungle warriors don't want him to!

Can he make it? And watch out — the warriors are swarming the Goose now!

After three episodes of this, I'd had plenty. I'm over the age of 10. I guess I'll just have to find my entertainment somewhere else.

WHEN THIS PICTURE WAS TAKEN I WEIGHED 207 LBS.!
