NAVY BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

Measure Provides For Building Of Nations Fleet Up To Limits Of Treaty By 1936

WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed the Vinson naval construction bill today.

It provides for the building of the nation's fleet up to treaty limits. The measure authorizes construction of more than a hundred new ships.

The President proposed further reductions in naval strength in the 1935 disarmament pact, as he signed the measure.

The President said "Because there is some misapprehension of fact in relation to the Vinson bill, it is only right that its main provisions be made wholly clear. This is not a law for construction of a single additional United States warship. The general purpose of the bill is only the statement by Congress that it approves the building of our navy up to and beyond the strength in the various types of ships authorized."

Eckerson Cannery To Remain Open For At Least Six Weeks

With the grapefruit season nearing an end, officials of the Eckerson Fruit Cannery, Inc., stated this morning that instead of closing down their plant within the next few days, they will continue operations for several weeks, canning tomatoes that are grown in Central and South Florida.

The cannery has been considering such a step for the past two seasons, and with experiments having proven successful and a large number of orders already on file, decision was reached to mark tomatoes for commercial use at the Sanford plant this season.

The canning of tomatoes began this morning, and under present plans, operations will continue until the end of the tomato season some weeks hence. The plant will also can grapefruit, which is available, alternating the work so that operations will continue daily. It is understood locally that tomatoes have never been canned commercially in Central Florida. Tomato canning operations should continue for at least a month or six weeks, it was stated today.

Residents Of Tupelo Enjoy Low Power Rate

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Mar. 27.—(AP)—The Public Service yesterday made public the light bill of three residents of Tupelo, Miss., under the heading "Before and After TVA in Tupelo."

A department store's first TVA bill was $2.69 for 362 kilowatt hours compared with $65.14 for 366 kilowatt hours before TVA. H. A. Smith, who uses electricity to light his home and to operate a cooking stove and small appliances, paid a TVA bill of $1.77 for 227 kilowatt hours while his previous bill for kilowatt hour was $11.26.

Central Florida celery growers are expected to gather at the Court House here tonight at 8:00 o'clock to participate in the selection of three growers-members of a committee of 14 which will control the destiny of the state's celery industry under the provisions of a celery marketing agreement which reached here yesterday with Secretary Wallace's tentative approval.

The meeting was called by the committee of three men who were appointed to select the growers in a public hearing in the Court House here last night.

The growers who have been working for the past few days in securing other growers' names to petitions that are to be sent to Secretary Wallace just as soon as a majority of the state's large shippers of celery sign the agreement, reported satisfactory progress today.

The petition calls upon Secretary Wallace to approve and sign (Continued On Page Three)

SHIPMENTS OF TEXAS CITRUS BEING HELD UP

Discovery Of Mexican Fruit Fly In Border Area Brings Action

WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—(AP)—The border of plant quarantine today held up shipments of citrus fruit from the Texas side of the Rio Grande Valley of Texas southward across the season on Apr. 5, although it originally was intended to permit shipments until Apr. 20.

Explaining the change in date, the bureau said that for several weeks Mexican fruit flies have been caught from time to time in traps on the Texas side of the border and the department believes it necessary to institute the most rigorous control without delay to avoid the danger of fruit fly infestations in the citrus orchards of the Texas citrus zone.

By maintaining a period, each year during which there are no citrus shipments from the Texas side of the border, the department believes it necessary to institute the most rigorous control without delay to avoid the danger of fruit fly infestations in the citrus orchards of the Texas citrus zone.

ROOSEVELT TURNS DOWN MONEY BILL

Veto Kills Independent Offices Act As Well As Clauses Aimed At Benefiting Vets

WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today turned thumbs down on the money bill that would have liberalized allowances for veterans.

The veto message, first, with which he has killed any major legislation, was ready to be sent to Congress this afternoon.

It is expected to hit at the legislation which overrode the Economy bill of a year ago, and bear down most heavily against the Veterans' Amendment.

An almost immediate vote was in prospect in the House, and a Senate vote was expected shortly thereafter.

The whole independent offices bill to which are attached amendments providing for veterans' benefits and for the restoration of federal pay cuts is now dead unless Congress overrides the veto which is considered highly improbable.

In the bill are money supplies for various government departments.

The Senate yesterday approved the House program restoring about $212,000,000 to war veterans and federal employes against $333,000,000 voted by the Senate and sent the much-labeled independent offices bill to the White House where Democratic leaders insisted it faced a certain veto.

Acting first, the Senate accepted the less liberal House provisions on pay by 69 to 19 and then concurred in the smaller House version appropriations by 48 to 39.

However, a slight change was made in the House bill to assure that no combat World War cases would be affected adversely.

Spurred to the other side of the capital, the clarifying clause was quickly agreed to and the bill made ready for Presidential action.

Administration chieftains in both Houses expressed the belief the measure, carrying vast sums for all the government's independent agencies like the interstate commerce and trade commissions, in addition to the $242,000,000 of increases for veterans and federal workmen would be vetoed.

They based their prediction on the House being restoring about 20,000 World War veterans to the rolls at 75 percent of their former benefits, without review of their cases to determine whether their disabilities were service-connected.

It was indicated the President would oppose this provision on the ground it would put back on the rolls many "non-veterans" cases disability brought about by the veterans' own misbehavior.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT: Love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law.—Galatians 5:22, 23.

THE NEWER CRY

I am weary, O God, of dark lamentations, Of angry voices and sullen faces, Of empty hands stretched heavenward...

See where an Oklahoma oil promoter died penniless out in Shanghai the other day. That's about the only way that's left to die nowadays.

April is nearly here, or about that time of year when young men's thoughts are supposed to turn to something or other...

The trouble about this high level argument of protecting infant industries is that most of them are overgrown babies, or in their second childhood, already.

Florida is honored by having President Roosevelt come to this state for his annual fishing expedition. If the tarpon are wise they will bite freely or they may find themselves under a code.

Congressmen are talking about investigating the "brain trust" to see if there are any communists in the bunch. They might read some of Professor Turgid's books and save themselves the trouble.

Secretary Wallace is slated over the objection of withdrawing some 60,000,000 agricultural acres out of production by means of the AAA. It is thus proposed to feed the hungry by getting rid of the supply.

Business internationally knows bankers and industrialists appealed to all the governments of the world, the other side, to stabilize their currencies. That's kind of like New England weather, something everybody talks about but nobody does anything about.

Will Rogers says that the only reason for any country going to war is because they didn't know how to fight sooner or later anyway. That he adds that it had to fight some number of times. "I would fight like a man and the like the boys." Some people think it is a good idea to get the kids out of school.

A Big Job

President Roosevelt's diplomatic handling of the delicate labor situation in the automobile industry where, after hours of tedious conferences with the leaders of both sides, he effected a settlement of the controversy, only serves to emphasize again the growing responsibilities of the office of Chief Executive and the work which the American people are all too willingly throwing upon his shoulders.

Time was when the president confined himself largely to the running of the government. He was commander in chief of the Army and Navy, a job in itself sufficient for most ordinary men. He made a speech on the opening day of Congress in which he reported upon the state of the nation. He signed, or vetoed (usually he signed), bills passed by Congress on its own initiative after considerable debate pro and con.

And further, what was more important, perhaps, he laid the cornerstones of public buildings, placed wreaths on the tombs of unknown soldiers, dedicated libraries and museums, received honorary degrees at college commencements, with pardonable pride, and took part in fitting ceremonies at his induction into the Blackfoot Indian tribe, had himself photographed wearing a ten gallon hat and white cowboy chaps, shook hands with an endless procession of "my people" at the White House, and took long afternoon naps.

Even so, the ordinary president of days passed was worked to death. The strain of important public office was terrific. The constant necessity of public appearances produced a wear and tear for which the human body was not prepared. Public handshaking became such a menace at times that the signing of important bills had to be delayed. Certain it is that few of our presidents ever chose to run for a third term.

But the president of today and probably the president of the future has a far more difficult time than his predecessors. "In the good old days" he not only had to do all the things which occupied their time, he not only signs the bills which are to become the law of the land; he writes them. He not only has to keep his cabinet members on friendly terms with each other; he has a professorial vocation, a "Brain Trust" if you please, to keep on sneaking terms with cabinet members, and with the inhabitants of the highest houses and senate chambers.

We find only distant our foreign policy and builds an our Navy to enforce it but he has to see that the Army follows the mail and if not why not. And when a commoner's union gets in a row with a trade union, he is called upon to act as judge of the dispute and later as the hall of the court. He must see to it that the banks extend liberal credit so that business men can maintain the wave levels of boom time years, and yet he must be absolutely sure that the banks remain sufficiently liquid to meet all demands of their nervous depositors.

He must make positively certain that no Mississippi negro lobbied his home to some land grabbing Shylock who jolly happen to have a mortgage on it and he must provide the farmers with all the money they need to take care of their obligations and put in new crops. At the same time he must be sure that no farmer plants more than the specified amount and that at least 40,000,000 acres are taken out of production.

For the working man he must see to it that he is paid at least thirty cents an hour, and that certain ones are paid more than that, and that no one works more than a certain number of hours so that more people can be given jobs doing the required amount of work. At the same time he must find some way of encouraging inventors to help stimulate industrial enterprise in order to furnish more jobs, and he must make sure that prices, while being high enough not to underwell a competitor, are not so high as to arouse the consumer.

All in all it is a large order which we have given the president. We expect him to have the wisdom of a Solomon, the persuasive ability of a Demosthenes, the political sagacity of Diarwell, the patience of a Job, the moral fiber of Sir Galahad, and the constitution of Jack Dempsey. And if he should fail to come up to our fullest expectations, how many of us would be charitable in our comments?

Fallacious Dieting

"Food Fads," instead of being healthful, quite likely may be less healthful than a diet made up of ordinary foods, according to the United States News. Another popular notion—that certain combinations of foods are harmful—is also disputed.

Dr. Hugh S. Cummings, Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, has this to say about diet: "The best foundation for the all-around diet, either in times of prosperity or depression, is still to be found in the old dietary standbys—bread, meat, milk, fruits and vegetables."

"Within the last few years the attention of the general public has been focused upon foods and foodstuffs and nutrition in general to a remarkable degree. Many persons bearing the self-conferred designation of nutritionist, with limited knowledge of the subject, have been urging upon the public the inclusion or exclusion of various important articles of diet."

"Many of the food faddists have a sincere conviction that if it is their duty to save mankind from himself as relates to the ill produced by improper diet and other evils."

METAL TRADE IS SUFFERING FROM LABOR SHORTAGE

Situation May Become Acute When Risen Production Comes

NEW YORK, Mar. 27.—(AP)—The metal trade at the present time is seriously handicapped by a shortage of skilled labor and the demand will become acute as production picks up beyond the 25 to 50 per cent capacity figure of the present time, according to a survey published in the American Machinist recently.

"Had enough in most branches of the metal working industry," the publication says, "the situation is now acute in shops where machine tools and other production machinery are built. In presenting a series of specific instances of shortages of skilled labor in the metal trade, American Machinist states that these reports 'give a picture that contrasts sharply with statements made by officials of the machinists' union on the widespread unemployment of its members. One reason for the discrepancy,' the publication adds, 'is the definition of machinist. A lathe or drill press hand who has run one of these machines and holds a union card, and who therefore calls himself a machinist, would be as useless on the more complex machine tools as an office boy at the general manager's desk.'"

"For the immediate present," American Machinist declares, "the best interests of the metal employer and the community will be served by finding a way to permit the skilled men, of whom there is a scarcity, to work longer hours. In order that their particular machines and operations shall not constitute bottlenecks in the production line, thereby restricting output as a whole and forcing out of work the less-skilled operators. 'Most of our apprentice schools,' the magazine says, 'have been empty during the depression. They must be filled at once. Probably we shall have to resume something similar to the 'vestibule school' of war days in order to train men quickly. If every means for the rapid training of machinists is not used we shall certainly run into a jam that will block the path to prosperity.'"

City Heads Act To Prevent New Health Menaces

That the millions of tiny black flies which have been swarming through fine screens into the homes of persons living in an area extending at least one half mile from the farm in every direction, had their origin in this pile of decaying grapefruit hulls was an opinion voiced during the discussion which ensued when Mayor Leffler's situation was called to the attention of the city commissioners. Commissioner H. J. Lehmann, by a delegation of property owners.

Mayor Leffler, declaring that "I do not represent Chase and Co. on this Commission and I have no say to grind in the matter," stated that he had made a personal investigation of the complaint. He reported that conditions in a home in San Lanta were "deplorable" because of the infestation of tiny flies, as well as the odor of the rotting hulls.

He also stated that arrangements for the carting of the hulls from the Eckerson plant to the Chase farm were not made through his office as executive vice-president of the Chase firm, and that when he learned of conditions, he ordered the hulls plowed under at once. This action apparently has not had the desired effect. Mayor Leffler stated for reports have come to him that the flies appear to be hatching underground and coming through the earth.

He indicated that scores of persons have protested to him, and that an effort to stamp out the nuisance, he had donated cans of fly-killers to the property owners.

Mayor Leffler admitted that his clean-up campaign had been "incomplete" because of the situation although he has made every effort to remedy the evil since it was brought to his attention.

Commissioner H. J. Lehmann was among those who reported that the flies were seen in great swarms, his home on Oak Avenue, while it was pointed out that many merchants have reported they in the downtown area, particularly around drug stores.

The Commissioners' only action in this matter was a decision to prevent future unsanitary conditions that might arise out of a similar handling of garbage. A copy of the city ordinance which sets forth the manner in which garbage must be handled, was ordered printed in the local press at once, and instructions were given that the ordinance should be enforced.

With Commissioner Lehmann voting "no," the Commissioners agreed to extend the time for the payment of 1933 city taxes from Apr. 1 to May 1. Under the terms of the city charter, must be paid by Apr. 1 of each year, it was pointed out, after which date they become delinquent and penalties are inflicted.

No action was taken on a verbal application made by Fred T. Williams for employment as city engineer on the present city sewerage project that is being completed by the FERA. Mr. Williams had pointed out that no FERA funds are available for future engineering work, and that if the project is to be completed, surveys will be needed.

Wade Fox, representing a local automobile concern, was told that although the city may be in need of automotive equipment for its police department, there is absolutely no money available except for necessary operations.

At the request of Commissioner V. A. Spoor, city crews will be sent to the airport to "clean up" after a group of CWA members who had filed a portion of the field. Commissioner Spoor stated that "about one-third of the field was made unavailable because the work was not completed," and "it won't cost very much to put the field in shape again.

No action was taken on Mayor Leffler's suggestion that the city might undertake providing telephones at all bridges leading from this county so that bridge tender might be notified to be on the lookout for persons who might commit a crime in the city or county.

Expenditure of about $80 to remove the yacht club building so that it will be made habitable for the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce was authorized when Clark F. S. Lanson had presented a three year lease that was signed by trade body officials.

On Commissioner Spoor's suggestion it was decided that the city will offer 13 flat for city lots and further notice, instead of buying them in at prices quoted by any group.

This decision was reached after the reading of a letter from Kenneth M. Keefer, chairman of the Homeholders' Protective Committee, who had stated that the committee is unable to secure any bonds which the city might purchase at this time. Mr. Keefer stated that the bonds are quoted at 14 flat but none is being offered, and he implied as to whether the city would care to purchase any bonds at 15 flat.

The Commissioners voted to accept an offer made them from Jacksonville for the purchase of two bonds at 15 flat.

By resolution, the Commissioners ordered the cancellation of 19 bonds that had been accepted for taxes for the past several weeks. Sanitary Inspector G. P. Paston cancelled them while the Commissioners "looked on."

Decision was reached to notify J. McLaughlin, local jeweler that the city is not liable because a portion of his building suffered damage when CWA crews drilled a sewer in the alley adjacent his store.

Mr. McLaughlin had notified the Commission by letter that it would cost $58 to repair the damage.

Commissioner Spoor stated that the city is not liable, to which Commissioner T. L. Duncan added, "And the CWA is to blame."

An ordinance prohibiting marriage dancing or other "obscene amusements" was passed after a final reading, although Mayor Leffler voted against the ordinance.

Clark Lanson reported that city crews now are at work laying a water main westward along the waterfront from Park Avenue to a point near the Standard Oil Co. property just west of the Central Florida Transportation Co. dock.

A hydrant will be installed here for the protection of new buildings and warehouses about to be erected.

Whether or not the city will accept Home Loan Corporation bonds in payment of assessments on property was a matter ordered held over for the next meeting.

Mrs. Margaret Richter was granted a widow's exemption of $150 on her property.

Permission was given for Officer C. B. Shaffer to move into the east wing of the Mayfair Hotel to replace J. T. Hardy, city waterworks employee who has removed his family to a home on Laurel Avenue.

Fleeman Duncan, who also sought permission to reside in the hotel as caretaker, was denied this permission, and the Commissioners also voted to turn down a request by J. J. Brackin, manager of the Coca Cola Co., that he be permitted to reside in the hotel in return for maintaining the grounds at all times.

An agreement was reached among the Commissioners whereby the city's 10 acre garage tract near the country club is to be leased to the Humilla Fruit Co. on a ten year basis.

It was decided to permit two Citypersons to stage a drive for the reduction of just the occupational license fees used by insurance companies whose agents have operated here for the past seven years. The Georgia will receive 50 percent of what they collect.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH
"Matter," was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, Mar. 25.

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And now they sin more and more, and have made them molten images of their silver, and idols according to their own understanding, all of it the work of the craftsmen: they say of them, Let the men that sacrifice kiss the calves. Therefore they shall be as the morning cloud, and as the early dew that passeth away, as the chaff that is driven with the whirlwind out of the floor, and as the smoke out of the chimney" (Hos. 13:2 and 3).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When we endow matter with vague spiritual power,—that is, when we do so in our theories, for of course we cannot really endow matter with what it does not and cannot possess,—we disown the Almighty, for such theories lead to one of two things. They either pre-suppose the self-evolution and self-government of matter, or else they assume that matter is the product of Spirit" (p. 119).

VOLUME OF INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY UP

with 78 in January. The seasonally adjusted index is based on the 1923-25 average as 100.

"The advance reflected chiefly increases of considerably more than the usual seasonal amount in the output of steel and automobiles," the board said, "while activity at most packing establishments declined."

"Activity at textile mills which in January had increased from the low level prevailing at the end of the year, showed a further moderate increase in February, partly of seasonal character. In the first week of March steel production showed a further increase and in the following two weeks remained unchanged."

"Factory employment and payrolls increased substantially between the middle of January and the middle of February to a level higher, on a seasonally adjusted basis, than at any time since the summer of 1932. Working forces on railroads also showed an increase while at mines there was little change in the volume of employment."

"The number of the payrolls of the Civil Works Administration declined from about 4,000,000 in January to about 2,900,000 in the week ending Mar. 1. At automobile factories there was a large increase in the number employed to approximately the level prevailing four years ago."

Substantial increases were reported also for the textile, clothing, shoe and tobacco industries. Freight traffic increased seasonally during February and the early part of March. Dollar volume of department store sales on a daily average basis showed little change in February.

The board said the value of construction contracts awarded increased in March after a February decline, with the total volume indicated for the first quarter "somewhat smaller than in the last quarter of 1933 but considerably larger than in the first quarters of 1932 and 1931."

The index of wholesale prices was put at 73.7 percent for the week ended Mar. 17 as compared with 73.8 the preceding week. The 1925 average is 100.

Swope Remains As FERA Head Despite Charge

ganized labor and civic leaders, including N. P. Yowell, Harry P. Lee, S. J. Sligh, chairman of the county commission; W. M. Hamer and John Baker, president of the Orange county Young Democratic club.

Troubles that have long dogged the track of the Orange county relief administration, were brought into the open, when Mr. Stone said that it was no time to "back water" and "I want complaints to spill it out of their craw."

As a result of the lengthy session a grievance committee will be formed consisting of two representatives of labor, two men at large selected by the Administration and a fifth party to be chosen by the four. This committee will hear all types of grievances that may occur and in event that settlement cannot be reached, Mr. Stone will review the case in occasional visits, which he said he intended to make over the state.

Charges of Frank L. Ferguson that fraud and graft tainted operation of relief trucks during CWA activity and that the county had made illegal purchase in acquiring 14 new trucks to be partially with CWA profits were referred to the department of justice after the state administrator informed the group that his duties had nothing to do with supposed violations.

"We can adjust matters when people are sore," the FERA chief declared, "but when it comes to matters of breaking the law, it goes to the department of justice."

Ferguson claimed that affidavits and testimony had been forwarded to state headquarters but had not been relayed to Washington. He said that Don Cheney, assistant to former administrator Marcus Fagg, had informed him that the data was in the office at state headquarters.

including its president, K. R. Kingsbury, who is on the code authority for the petroleum industry were named in the indictment.

The Associated Oil Company another major concern, its president, W. F. Humphrey, and 16 other officials were indicted.

The two major companies were charged with selling petroleum products through "controlled" organizations at prices lower than those posted in their own stations.

The indictment declared that the Standard Oil of California marketed its products under various trade names through the Signal Oil and Gas Company and the Signal Oil and Gas Company of California at cut rate prices. The Associated Company was said to sell its products through the Seaside Oil Company, which it controlled.

Officials of both the Seaside and Signal companies were named in the charges. Bonds for the defendants were set at $1,000 each.

The action was taken under the sanction of U. S. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, with whom Pierson M. Hall, U. S. attorney here, conferred on a recent visit to Washington. Since his return from the capital, Hall has been working with a staff of assistants preparing the charges.

It was reported here that the action last night followed months of inquiry by the September grand jury, which did not end its session in February as scheduled, because it desired to complete the investigation.

Hall indicated three more indictments against major oil companies are in preparation at present. The jury plans to continue its investigation early next week.

Daytona Boosts Its Water Service Rate

DACTONA BEACH, Mar. 27.—Revised water rates will go into effect here Apr. 1, with the minimum charge boosted from $1.25, now prevailing, to $2.75 a quarter, according to an announcement at the city hall.

This is to be done with a view to raising additional revenue, but also to make the small accounts support themselves.

However, under the revision consumers can use up to 5,000 gallons for the minimum charge of $2.75, while now the charge is $1.25 maintenance charge, plus 20 cents a thousand gallons. Users of more than 5,000 gallons will pay the $2.75, plus 20 cents for each additional thousand, under the revisions.

Claims of Cook and Reed were based on injuries each received last July 5 when a bus of the motor lines, during a drizzling rain, collided with an automobile driven by Reed. Cook is a government employe from Washington, D. C.

Indictments are all leading attorneys, financiers, bankers and heads of large organizations on the Pacific coast.

BILLY MITCHELL GLEEFULLY SAYS 'I TOLD YOU SO'

Colorful Army Officer Who Dared Criticize Service Vindicated

By ROBERT H. SMITH
WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—Billy Mitchell is back in the limelight again. Gosh! How he hates it. He has suspended fox-hunting and is going in for publicity in a big way. No one can deny that Mitchell is a wonder what it comes to winning front-page headlines.

Billy Mitchell is the same Colonel Mitchell who was "canned" from the Army during Coolidge Administration because he criticized the air service too freely. At that time he was assistant chief of army aviation, and it was felt that his remarks reflected too severely upon his superiors.

He said, in effect, that America's air defense was "rotten," that the equipment was inadequate and unsafe, that fliers were insufficiently trained, in fact, that everything was all wrong. He was invited to make good his accusations before a court-martial.

A spectacular trial took place and the court-martial decided he had not proved his charges. He was sentenced to five years' suspension from the Army without pay.

Rather than accept the sentence, Mitchell resigned from the Army and retired to his broad acres in the Virginia horse country near Middleburg. There he spent his time leading the life of a gentleman farmer.

Once he got tired of chasing foxes and went off to India to hunt tigers. But he stayed in the background and kept quiet until the Roosevelt Administration came to power.

As a frequent visitor at the White House and the Capitol, he confers with President Roosevelt and never misses a chance to testify before investigating committees in Congress. The "crack-up" of the Army in its efforts to carry out the presidential order to deliver the air mail has given the colonel a long-awaited opportunity to say: "I told you so," and the colonel is capitalizing it to the utmost.

Mitchell is a colorful, daring and outspoken person. He fits naturally into the New Deal.

Indians Expected To Rear 12 Children Under Latest Order

ROME, Mar. 27.—(AP)—Furthering his campaign to increase Italy's population, Premier Mussolini has had booklets printed for newly-weds, giving them tacitly to understand that each family is expected to rear twelve children, says the Associated Press.

There are spaces for that happy names of new additions to the family. The booklet is meant to be preserved as a family album and guide.

It contains advice on how to deal with various problems of married life and under the heading, "Rights and Duties of Matrimony," quotes articles of the civil code, governing relations between husband and wife.

Besides pointing out that the husband is the head of the family, it specifies that when the husband lacks means of support and the wife is able to do so she

UNION LEAGUERS PLASTER WALLS WITH GOLD BONDS

Reminders Of Follies Of 1929 Displayed In Rooms Of Club

CHICAGO, Mar. 27.—(AP)—Paper-hangers started plastering a million dollars worth of headache on the walls of the Union League Club Wednesday.

The follies of 1929 lived again in memory as the workmen pasted stocks, bonds, mortgages and a tasty array of Insull securities of the club's "Million Dollar room," dedicated to the insanity of the big boom.

Attempting to pass another car near the top of a hill or on a sharp turn, where a clear vision ahead is impossible, is an important cause of head-on collisions and side-swipes. Only a few seconds are saved by passing in these places instead of waiting for the safer straight-away, but lives, time and money are lost by taking such needless chances.
