Master Mind of the Plank Defeated by Small Klan Issue Question

And the man on which the Democrats use their next campaign in which any party could justly and which will cause reasonable considerable worry during four months.

Death Toll in Ohio Tornado Now Placed at 83

FIRST REPORTS OVERESTIMATE CASUALTY LIST

Property Loss Placed at Thirty Million Dollars. While Several Hundred Persons Reported Injured, Many of Whom Are Seriously Hurt. Death List May Be Larger as Complete Survey is Made

CLEVELAND, June 30.—Eighty-three are known dead in Ohio today as the result of Saturday's severe wind, rain and electrical storm which swept the coast of Lake Erie from Sandusky to Lorain wrecking a large portion of Lorain and parts of Sandusky.

Although the loss of life is not as great as was first believed, relief workers said today the list of dead may grow. Several hundred persons are reported injured, several scores of them seriously and property damage is estimated at more than $30,000,000.

The greatest loss of lives was in Lorain where the latest count showed 59 dead and 118 injured, a score of them suffering severe hurts. The property loss there was upwards of $30,000,000, 125 city blocks having been demolished. At Sandusky it was found that only six persons were killed although a hundred were injured and property valued at $2,000,000 was destroyed.

Cleveland fatalities. There were seven fatalities in Cleveland, although the property damage was small. Pittsburgh reported sixteen persons killed in western Pennsylvania, while Meadville reported three.

Meantime, those seeking the nomination but admittedly without anything like the numerical strength on the first ballot that will be mustered by either William C. McAdoo or Alfred E. Smith, were continuing their quiet campaigning and laying plans against the time when, they predicted, there would be a break away from both the former treasury secretary and the New York governor.

Fortunes of Candidates. Wherever leaders or delegates congregated today there was discussion of the possible effect upon the fortunes of this candidate or that resulting from the action of the convention early yesterday in rejecting the anti-Klan plank, the McAdoo and Smith managers claimed that the result, if anything, strengthened their positions, but other candidates or their managers were in disagreement with that view.

More Dark Horses Talk. With balloting only a few hours away there was more than the usual crop of "dark horses" talk. Leaders grooming such "horses" expressed the opinion last night that forty ballots would be taken before the Smith and McAdoo forces would turn to a compromise candidate.

Those interested in the candidacy of Senator Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana heard that in the event of a Smith-McAdoo deadlock the adherents of these two candidates would swing their votes to John W. Davis of West Virginia.

CANDIDATES FOR NOMINATION ARE VERY CONFIDENT

Issue Statements on Eve of Election in Which Optimistic Tone is Sounded in All of Them

NEW YORK, June 30.—On the eve of balloting in the Democratic national convention, leading candidates for the presidential nomination were busy Sunday night consolidating their positions and issuing pronouncements of their confidence in the outcome.

McAdoo, who took the nomination but admittedly without anything like the numerical strength on the first ballot that will be mustered by either William C. McAdoo or Alfred E. Smith, were continuing their quiet campaigning and laying plans against the time when, they predicted, there would be a break away from both the former treasury secretary and the New York governor.

Wherever leaders or delegates congregated today there was discussion of the possible effect upon the fortunes of this candidate or that resulting from the action of the convention early yesterday in rejecting the anti-Klan plank, the McAdoo and Smith managers claimed that the result, if anything, strengthened their positions, but other candidates or their managers were in disagreement with that view.

More Dark Horses Talk. With balloting only a few hours away there was more than the usual crop of "dark horses" talk. Leaders grooming such "horses" expressed the opinion last night that forty ballots would be taken before the Smith and McAdoo forces would turn to a compromise candidate.

Those interested in the candidacy of Senator Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana heard that in the event of a Smith-McAdoo deadlock the adherents of these two candidates would swing their votes to John W. Davis of West Virginia.

It also was stated that either Gov. Charles Bryan of Nebraska or Gov. Jonathan M. Davis of Kansas would be second on such a compromise ticket.

PROMINENT BUSINESS MEN GIVE VIEWS ON PROBABLE NOMINEE

Very little hope for the selection of William Gibbs McAdoo as the Democratic Party choice for the presidency, is held by many prominent business men of this city according to a survey made by a representative of The Herald this morning when he interviewed them on their views as to the probable choice of the convention now in session.

According to the majority of those interviewed they are equally sure that Al Smith has no chance. Some of McAdoo supporters are of the opinion that he will win despite the tremendous fight that he has on his hands.

The general belief was expressed that out of the deadlock would result the selection of a dark horse. Popular choice, according to these men, lies between Ralston, John W. Davis and Carter Glass.

Here is what some of the citizens had to say about who will be the nominee:

J. C. Dent: "Although McAdoo's chances are not so great for the nomination, he is the best man the Democrats can nominate because he has a larger command than any of the other candidates."

E. D. Mohley: "I think McAdoo will eventually be nominated, even if after a hard struggle of several days. He is the only man the Democrats can offer who can beat Coolidge, and if he is nominated, he will sweep the country."

R. C. Maxwell: "Smith doesn't stand a chance. McAdoo has a fighting chance. Ralston of Indiana is a strong dark horse and stands a good chance for the nomination."

L. G. Stringfellow: "McAdoo is the most logical man and I believe he will be the nominee of the present convention."

J. D. Jenkins: "As long as there's life there's hope, for McAdoo."

Schelle Maines: "It looks as if neither Smith nor McAdoo will get the nomination. Some 'dark horse' stands the most chance."

J. D. Davidson: "Neither McAdoo nor Smith stand a chance. The nominee will not be an extreme southern man; he will probably be a man from the Middle West. Since his brilliant speech several days ago, Baker of Ohio stands a good chance for getting the nomination."

Wall Street is running Smith and that will beat him, and the Smith interests have already beat McAdoo, I believe."

Dr. R. M. Mason: "I believe there is no longer a chance for McAdoo or Smith to be chosen because of intense opposition between the forces representing them. Ralston or Glass may be the nominee, according to the present looks of affairs as expressed in the newspapers yesterday."

W. E. Watson: "Although McAdoo is my choice, I don't believe he stands a chance."

Felix Frank: "Neither Smith nor McAdoo have a chance to win. Ralston of Indiana stands a good chance to get the nomination."

W. M. Haynes: "From present appearances it doesn't look as if McAdoo will get the nomination. It's hard to tell just who will be nominated."

McADOO URGES SUPPORTERS TO STAND BY HIM

On Eve of Election Former Treasury Head Makes Charges That Efforts Are Being Made to Prevent His Nomination—Despite This Fact He is Confident of His Election—Delegates Cheer

By RUBY LEACH
Special Correspondent The Herald
NEW YORK, June 30.—William Gibbs McAdoo, in a stirring address made at a supper given last night by him for delegates that are supporting him, urged that each delegate be in his seat henceforth and that he remain there until the session is over. "Don't go out to lunch," he said. "Take it with you." Wilson's contest began by a one-third strength, so we have a splendid chance for victory. No candidate ever before entered the Democratic convention with 32 Democratic votes. Remember, states lined up for him. Remember that maximum of strength we have isn't going to be developed on first ballot.

"You must not submit to this New York propaganda which comes under the disguise of hospitality," he continued. "Some of you would want to accept at home, it is a device to keep you from the convention."

Mr. McAdoo urged his supporters not to accept gifts or be unduly impressed with them. "I would be ashamed to employ a man who would do that," he said. "Some people are simple enough to think that they will win the race," said Mr. McAdoo.

"But it's a lean horse that wins the race," interrupted one of the ring-side rooters and the audience took that up and repeated it.

The McAdoo leaders, which included the Florida delegation, were exuberant, enthusiastic and feverishly determined at some of the remarks made last night. Every remark of McAdoo's was cheered extravagantly. They decided not to be influenced by the alleged hospitality or false reports of the subsidized press.

McAdoo stood on chair to make his speech. He radiated personal magnetism, as usual and everybody commented upon it.

"My dear friends," he said, "this occasion is most wonderful tribute that any man could have and I would rather have it from my friends than be president of the United States. The fact that you would come to this crowded hall, and upon no orders from the press, is evidence that people are mightier than press."

He spoke of the opposing faction of the Democratic party as representing liquor interests and as being unprincipled, corrupt, unscrupulous and unscrupulous. "These boot-leggers and their allies and their means and their defiance of law of our country are doing more harm in America than all the Bolsheviki of Russia together. We will eradicate them," he said. "I don't wonder that they don't want to be president. For all of these years the papers tell about me, but I do sometimes feel a bit concerned because you might believe them." (Cries of "No we don't believe them.")

Mrs. Alexander Thompson of Oregon made a passing speech for McAdoo.

Californiaian Takes Lead on First Ballot And Slowly Gains Strength As Does Smith With 241 1/2 Votes—Balloting is Proceeding Very Slowly

No Indication Given On Early Ballots Which Way Tide of Election is Going

Balloting Proceeds Without Demonstration Or Indication of Heated Struggle Which Held Sway Saturday—Managers Confident

Eighth ballot: McAdoo 444 6-10; Smith, 273 1/2; Davis, 57; Underwood, 48; Cox, 60; Glass, 26; Ralston, 30; Silzer, 28.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, June 30.—The fifth ballot brought no decision in the Democratic convention nor any changes indicative of any result. Smith and McAdoo forces are holding fast and making slow gains picking up scattered votes here and there, and the field of favorite son candidates is still joggling alongside waiting for somebody to be eliminated.

A survey of the first six ballots shows that McAdoo made a gain of 12 votes from the first ballot to the sixth, starting the roll call with 431 1/2 and on the last ballot had 443 1-10. Smith had gained 17 votes, jumping from 241 to 258. Underwood held his own throughout the six ballots, polling 42 1/2 votes throughout the early ballots. The largest gain made by any active candidate was by John W. Davis, who had 31 on the first ballot and 57 1/2 on the sixth, a gain of 27 1/2. Dark horse candidates were holding on with unusual tenacity.

The balloting was probably a little slower in shaking down the situation than some leaders expected. Many of them had thought five ballots would bring some indication of which way things were going to break.

On the fifth ballot the two leaders stood: McAdoo 443 1-10; Smith 261. David L. Rockwell, managing the fight for McAdoo, said everything is going all right.

There was nothing notable in voting on the first two ballots. It was quiet and orderly and almost without feeling of tension that goes with first test strength in a national convention.

The convention started voting without any recurrence of disorders of Saturday night over the Klan issue and re-arrangement of the platform.

NEW YORK PRESS GANG INTERVIEWS GEORGIA WOMAN

Miss Colley Who Swung Klan Issue Over to Bryan's Side is Center of Much Interest at Convention

NEW YORK, June 30.—Miss Marion Colley of Washington, Ga., is the most talked of, most interviewed woman in New York. No celebrity of stage, screen or day's adventures approaches her "publicity."

She is the woman, who faltering and frightened, arrested by howling, threatening and pleading men in the Georgia delegation, struggled to her feet in Madison Square Garden Saturday night amid the scenes of tumult and confusion and charged her vote from "aye" to "no" on the question of singling out the Ku Klux Klan by name in the Democratic platform.

She tried to tell Chairman Walsh above the roar and din that she was being told party success would be endangered by a vote "aye," but the chairman under the ruse prevailed her down and demanded her to vote "aye" or "no" without explanation.

Gasped Word. And while the irate, pleading and threatening men about her, urged at her arms, sought to hold her to her feet when she was too frightened to stand up alone and shouted for her the "no" they were urging.

The little yellow car crossed the street to join his father, it is said, and as he stepped from behind an automobile standing at the curb he got directly in front of the car driven by Mr. Farwell.

Farwell, who was driving west on the street and saw the boy, stopped the car and called the boy to the curb. The boy was unharmed, but the car was damaged.

They were selected after a careful consideration of many of Sanford's younger set to be the entrants of the Sanford club in that contest.

Some of the Ralston supporters have suggested a Ralston-Homer S. Cummings or a Ralston-Governor Silzer ticket to offset such a nomination, but Thomas Taggart, the Indiana leader, who is backing Senator Ralston against the field, has agreed to neither so far as has been made known.

Man, Wife and Three Sons Beaten to Death

CHICAGO, June 30.—Beaten to death and carefully covered by sheets or blankets, the bodies of Otto Eder, taxicab chauffeur, his wife Frances and their three sons, Roy, age 11, Harvey, age six, and Jack, age three, were found in their home late last night. No disorder was found in the house. A stamp of robbery was apparent. Police said they thought the family were killed by a half wit relative or a boarder filled with the lust to play.

Premier Herriot Is Firm in His Stand On Ruhr Question

PARIS, June 30.—Premier Herriot is determined that the Ruhr must continue to be occupied and that funds to cover the expense of the occupation must be provided. Even though he should be defeated by his insistence on this point he made his stand clear in the chamber of deputies Saturday. Declaring that to leave the Ruhr would be tantamount to abandonment of the rights of France and when asked for a vote of confidence on the question, it was given him by a large majority.

Clearly the premier staked the life of his newly-born cabinet on the vote for the 300,000,000 franc appropriation. He issued a public statement to the effect that the Ruhr must be occupied and that the French government will not be deterred by any opposition.

Fight Over Klan Will Be Held on Convention Floor

tion that it was not strong enough in its declarations regarding the league; others that it was too strong, and still others argued that if there was to be a referendum it was not necessary to make the league an immediate issue.

Discussion of this question delayed until exceedingly late in the night consideration of the Klan issue, and some committeemen expressed doubt that the two controversial subjects could be put in shape for presentation to the national convention at the hour of its convening—9:30 a. m. today.

Compromise League Plank
The compromise league plank was a composite of the plans submitted by Owen D. Young of New York, formerly a member of the Dawes reparations commission; John H. Clarke, president of the league of nations non-partisan association; Newton D. Baker, Senator Caraway of Arkansas, and Alfred E. Lucking, member of the committee from Michigan. Its text follows:

"The Democratic party pledges all its energies to the outwearing of the whole war system. We refuse to believe that the wholesale slaughter of human beings on the battlefield is any more necessary to man's highest development than killing by individuals.

Only Hope for World Peace
"The only hope for world peace and for economic recovery lies in the organized effort of nations combining to remove the cause of war and substituting law and order for violence.

"Under Democratic leadership a practical plan was devised under which fifty-four nations are now operating and have been for the past four years, while the United States government for the last four years has no foreign policy and consequently has delayed the restoration of political and economic conditions in the world which has impaired self respect at home and diminished prestige abroad; has curtailed foreign commerce and ruined agriculture.

"Therefore, the Democratic party declares the purpose of the next administration to do all in its power to secure that moral leadership in the family of nations which is the providence of God we are called upon to assume.

No Substitute.
"There is no substitute for the league for nations as an agency operating for world peace. Therefore we declare in the interest of peace that we will establish a permanent foreign policy under which these supreme questions may be settled not subject to change.

"It is desirable, and wise and necessary to lift this question out of partisan politics, and that we take a census of the American people by a referendum election, advisory to the congress, to be held officially under action of congress and free from all contentious political questions.

Shall U. S. Be Member?
"Shall the United States become a member of the league of nations under such reservations to the covenant of the league as the United States may care to establish? Immediately upon an affirmative vote we will carry out such mandate."

Of Supreme Importance
"It is of supreme importance to civilization and mankind that America be placed on the right side of the greatest moral question of all times. The Democratic party declares its principle of rendering assistance in the high purpose of establishing world peace through the league of nations and the world court of justice which it recognized as institutions representing the supreme effort of statesmanship."

"The compromise league plank was adopted after lengthy and heated discussion by a viva voce vote and thus the league question was disposed of by the platform committee and put up to the convention itself.

made. "We want this to be a strictly social event," Mrs. Hylan said. The music was wonderful, Mrs. Elizabeth Marbury, Tammany hall boss, created a sensation when she entered late, leaning upon her cane. She is mighty, both in size and influence, and everyone stood up when she entered. About 2,000 were present.

Isidor Cohen, of Miami, came into the Bryan headquarters the other morning. He has been in New York five weeks, and although the business that brought him here was concluded two weeks ago, he stayed over for the convention. Mr. Cohen expressed himself as being of the opinion that Bryan has as good a chance as anybody to win the nomination.

He left the immense McAdoo button adorning the top of the Florida pennant he wore. dates to the usual accompaniment of noise making. When the end of the seventeen hours had been devoted to that stage of the convention and seconding speeches for condition came at last there was only a feeble remonstrance against the proposal of party chiefs to adjourn until Saturday. The decision was accepted generally as meaning that the convention must run over into next week as most of the delegates appeared to agree that a drive to wind up the show by tonight would be futile.

Besides the 16 entered, formally on the roll of candidates, three or four others probably will receive the complimentary votes of their states for the first ballot or two, distributing the convention strength so widely that several roll calls will be necessary before the rival managers can completely get their bearings. These trial votes, to be taken before final adjournment tonight, will give the political campaign a working basis for the jockeying and maneuvering that is expected over the week end.

16 Placed in Nomination
The 16 placed in nomination when the roll closed just before adjournment late Friday are as follows:

- Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama.
- Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas.
- William G. McAdoo of California.
- Willard Saulsbury of Delaware.
- Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana.
- Jonathan M. Davis of Kansas.
- Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.
- Woodbridge N. Ferris of Michigan.
- David F. Houston of Missouri and New York.
- Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska.
- Fred H. Brown of New Hampshire.
- George S. Silzer of New Jersey.
- Alfred E. Smith of New York.
- James M. Cox of Ohio.
- Jarvis Glass of Virginia.
- John W. Davis of West Virginia and New York.

Thursday's Nominations
Six of these, Cox, Bryan, Brown, Silzer, Glass and John W. Davis, were placed in nomination at Friday's session, and the nominating speeches for them were interspersed with a dozen seconding speeches for those whose names had previously been put before the convention. Demonstrations of varying proportions, accompanied every mention of the name of a candidate, but both delegates and convention officials had begun to weary of the long monotony of oratory and noise, and a sigh of relief swept over the vast assemblage when it all came to an end.

New Elements
One or two of the demonstrations were not able for the new elements

they brought into the perplexing turmoil of the convention. But on the whole the day was the most featureless since the opening which of the gavel on Tuesday.

At the start of the session there was a touch of the unusual when the name of Cox of Ohio was placed before the convention by Newton D. Baker, President Wilson's wartime secretary of war. In tribute to the past services of the speaker himself the delegates stood and cheered when he took his place on the platform. Then, when he eulogized the Wilson policies and the league of nations, he was answered by applause that lasted several minutes and gathered strength as it progressed, until almost the whole convention was on its feet cheering.

Finally with a eulogy of his candidate as one who kept the faith as the standard bearer of the party four years ago and has borne himself courageously even in defeat, Mr. Baker threw the delegates into a prolonged demonstration voicing noisily the gratitude of the party to a leader who had fought its battles against overwhelming odds. Delegates from every state took part in the vote of approbation given the 1920 nominee as a reward for his party stewardship.

A similar tribute to past leadership was accorded a moment later when Gov. Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, was nominated for the honor three times accorded to his brother, the great commoner. Again the applause was warm with gratitude and every state was represented in it. A Democratic convention was cheering once more a name that so often had been a thing of magic and power.

ADOPT PROPOSAL FOR REFERENDUM ON LEAGUE PACT

States into the league and made an impassioned address at the last in support of his position. He was practically alone in his fight, however.

For Referendum
Unofficial reports were that these states and territories were among those voting for a referendum:

- Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Iowa, Kentucky, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, North Carolina, Georgia, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Texas, Vermont, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Alaska and the District of Columbia.

Against Referendum
Voting against a referendum were: Delaware, Idaho, Louisiana, New Hampshire, South Carolina, Utah, Virginia, West Virginia, Washington, Indiana, Maine, North Dakota, Ohio, Hawaii, the Philippines and Porto Rico.

Although practically all of the members were convinced that the Klan issue would have to be left to decision by the convention, the committee went fully into the subject and discussion was free and general with some impassioned addresses both for and against, denouncing the invisible empire by name.

William H. O'Brien, the committee member from Indiana, declared before discussion in the closed committee room got under way that New York, Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Minnesota and Colorado were ready to sign a minority report on the Klan, demanding that it be denounced by name.

It appeared at the outset that a majority of the committee was opposed to denouncing the Klan but prepared to approve a plank on religious freedom and denouncing organizations whose purpose is to deny this fundamental right of the people as set out in the constitution.

presented in it. A Democratic convention was cheering once more a name that so often had been a thing of magic and power.

BANKERS' VIEWS ON CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

The attitude of the American Bankers Association on co-operative marketing favors proper organization to facilitate the orderly movement of farm products, but holds that the co-operatives are as amenable to economic laws as any form of business and cannot be used to gain special benefits for the farmer contrary to the influences of supply and demand and other normal factors. This view was formulated recently by Frank W. Simmonds of the Association before the National Council of Farmers' Co-operative and Marketing Associations at Washington.

"It would be unfortunate for the farmer if he becomes imbued with the idea that co-operative marketing in itself is a panacea for all agricultural ills," Mr. Simmonds said. "Co-operative marketing, well organized and wisely managed, can be most helpful in solving market problems. It may prevent untimely dumping, it may secure better credit facilities, it may extend existing markets, it may even create new markets, but obviously its operations will be as amenable to economic law as those of other business enterprises.

What It Cannot Do
"Co-operative marketing cannot prevent other countries with cheap land and labor from selling in foreign markets at a price unattractive to us. It cannot successfully override the law of supply and demand or maintain for any length of time an artificially high price by withholding a product from market or unduly limiting production. Sane, orderly marketing must be accompanied by sane, orderly thinking.

"We may wisely take a leaf from Danish experience and emphasize efficient, economical, maximum production of standard grade products, for however important co-operative marketing may be in solving the exigencies of the present time, it is only one link in the chain of agricultural problems."

The American Bankers Association, Mr. Simmonds said, believes that solutions of farm problems "should be sought through private enterprise and not through government aid," and approves the endeavors of farmers for orderly marketing.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EM

On Investing in Mortgages

"Aunt Emmy, what do you think of mortgages as investments?" asked Ethel.

"First mortgages, when speaking, are sound investments but not all first mortgages are good," Aunt Emmy replied. "You must exercise care and judgment if you know all about the property or if you are dealing with a real estate concern that has a reputation for success and honesty, you will be safe. But it is well to advise before investing. Go to the bank, talk the whole thing over and be guided by their advice. Real estate transactions are better to be safe than sorry. It is any question as to party or if the building on property should be given a few inches of the lot line, you would undoubtedly have trouble.

"Even guaranteed mortgages should not be bought on speculation. Never buy a mortgage without knowing the value of the property it covers and of the property in the vicinity. Be sure a good lawyer looks out for your interests. With your small capital there is too much risk in buying every mortgage.

"Remember that taxes and insurance must be paid regularly if they are due. You must know they are paid, and remember, that the property you lend money on should be worth considerably more than you are lending."

"What about second mortgages?" inquired Ethel.
"Sometimes they do, second mortgages are good investments under certain conditions. But it is not advisable for an investor limited means to buy them. In case the first mortgage should be foreclosed, the holder of the second mortgage should be in a position to protect his interests by being able to buy the first mortgage. That means you would have to have money on hand."

"Ob, Auntie," exclaimed Ethel, "you rather frighten me about mortgages."

"No, my dear, don't feel that way," said Aunt Emmy. "It is a matter of care and knowledge of conditions. Even if you don't know about them yourself, you can select yourself by taking the advice of your bankers. Don't trust much to your own judgment."

A movement was launched also to organize millions of women workers—particularly those of the south. They are, left to right: Miss Agnes Nestor, Chicago; Miss Pauline Newman, Philadelphia, and Miss Ethel Smith, Washington, D. C.

An international authority on jewelry recently prescribed for evening wear, pearls and more pearls. The retiring pearl oyster and its synthetic cousins must be leading a much harassed life these days, for the vogue of pearls, pearl trimmings and pearl beads is at its zenith. It rivals the rage for chiffon, but does not run contrary to it, for chiffon and pearls are nearly always found in company in the evening hours. The girl who likes frills and furbelows will revel in the new evening dresses, which are made in chiffon, Chenette, and other sheer fabrics. This type of dress, which Lanvin especially sponsored at the Paris openings, is soft and feminine in character, with gathered tunics, sometimes double panels ending in a point, or long loops ending in a point. White and silver embroideries were also used by this dressmaker, big pearls in the border and pearls chains falling from the arms.

All of these tendencies are illustrated in the dress sketched, which has just been relayed to us by Henri Creange, French fashion authority. It is made of chiffon, and shows also pearl embroideries, rounded panels and silver lace veiled with chiffon. The panels are finished with pleating, which gives a delicate effect. The dress would be charming for summer dances, for it suggests moonlight and romance, and all the other accompaniments of the summer flirtation. It is interesting to note that the softly swathed belt is passed under the diaphanous panels and appears boldly only at the front and in the large side bows. Also, that the décolletage is round in the front and square at the back, although a string of pearl beads hang loosely at the back to give a long rounded line.

Simple, Plus

What could be more simple, or more elegant, or more fascinating than this simple outfit of white and silver? It is a dress that combines the most difficult effects of style and color in a more delicate and more elegant than the most elaborate. This is what Paris is advocating.

"Pau"

As they would say in the Hawaiian Islands from whence comes Mrs. John H. Wilson, as delegate, all is "pau" after the "pikuk". Which means: this lady is enjoying a little rest after the stormy sessions. The island "local color" is supplied by the lei and the fan of peacock weaving.

Miss Florence Price Becomes Bride Of Ralph W. Lossing

A wedding of interest was solemnized this morning at 10 o'clock when Ralph W. Lossing and Miss Florence Price were married, Dr. F. D. King officiating. Mr. Lossing is the nephew of A. J. and A. C. Lossing of this city and a young man of sterling qualities. Miss Price is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Price and has a host of friends among the young people of the city. Mr. and Mrs. Lossing left immediately after the ceremony, in their car, for St. Petersburg.

Celebrates Birthday At Silver Lake

Miss Mabel Ingram celebrated her birthday Thursday afternoon at Silver Lake.

After a delightful swim ice cream and cake was served. Just before the jolly party broke up watermelons were cut and enjoyed.

Those invited to help Miss Ingram enjoy her birthday were Mrs. and Mr. William Ingram, Mrs. W. Gary, Mrs. C. W. Spear, Miss Fannie Yawn and J. K. Gary.

C. L. Walker left Sunday morning in his car for Asheville and other points of interest in North Carolina. Mr. Walker will return the latter part of this week.

Mrs. R. H. Bassford, of Valdosta, is spending the day with her sister, Miss Olive Letzette. Mrs. Bassford is enroute to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Letzette, at Daytona Beach.

Creation

This model is wearing one of the latest creations of Jean Patou that gives a very good idea of what skirt lengths and lines for fall will be. The waist is lengthened and the skirt shortened until the belt practically cuts it half and half. There is nothing to relieve the severity of cut but the wide leather belt of white leather with markings in Chinese red. The dress and hat are of the same material, black kasha.

A Point of Rare Distinction

There is one outstanding feature among the many that Coral Gables enjoys which counts most with visitors. It is that no matter how much they read about Coral Gables or others tell them about it, the realization of what it is when they come to Coral Gables is always greater, always more beautiful, and more compelling. The reason is that we do not attempt to tell the whole story of Coral Gables in any announcement. We point out certain points of interest, but we do not attempt to tell the whole story. It is not possible to do anything else. Coral Gables has gone far beyond the stage where full and adequate description can be given. And besides, we would not wish to be unmerciful. Its attributes and its atmosphere are best described by the eye. You can see it for yourself. You can feel it for yourself. You can hear it for yourself. You can smell it for yourself. You can taste it for yourself. You can feel it for yourself. You can hear it for yourself. You can smell it for yourself. You can taste it for yourself.

The impress of its matured beauty upon the individual mind instantly and completely. Without invidious comparison with other fine properties, the natural advantages of Coral Gables enjoy world-wide establishment as the most of all Florida's fine suburbs with discerning taste. Its record of sales and the splendid profits which investors have taken within the last two years are ample sufficient to capture the attention of everyone who wishes to find a profitable real estate investment.

The best way to know all about it is to come and see Coral Gables. Comfortable buses leave this city every week for Miami and Coral Gables. It is one of the most desirable investments that you can make. You make the same investment obligation and see for yourself exactly what Coral Gables is the most talked of suburban property in Florida.

Hunt's Washington Letter

BY HARRY E. HUNT
NEA Service Writer.

NEW YORK—"Kansas," said William Alden White, in the editorial which first introduced him to fame, "can raise something else besides hell."

And in proof of the Kansas journal's statement the Sunflower State is holding up for the consideration of the nation, at the Democratic convention here, the figure of Jonathan M. Davis, Kansas-bred and Kansas-born, as the man who can pull the Democratic party across the election line now.

All the direct efforts in Davis' behalf have been aimed, ostensibly, at making him the compromise candidate for president. That's the way the game is played. No one really expects Davis to be nominated, of course. Not even the most optimistic booster from his own home state.

But by shooting at the presidency, by aiming high, it is hoped the Davis trajectory may carry him to second place on the ticket and bring him the nomination for vice president.

THE claim that is made first and foremost for Davis is that he is a real dirt farmer. Although as governor of the sovereign state of Kansas he does not wear a collar and polished shoes in his office, his real preference is for the overalls and jumper of the farmer. And instead of a golf club, he prefers to grab a pitchfork or a hoe handle.

Davis was born in Kansas 53 years ago and has lived all his life on a farm. His avocation, however, has been helping to shape public affairs. He served eight years as a member of the Kansas House of Representatives and four as state senator before the election, two years ago, as governor.

Between raising corn and hogs, Davis has been a diligent student of history and economics. He has a natural aptitude for absorbing information and for applying it practically. As a result, his fellow

Kansans describe him as "an intellectual giant, who can talk with a professor or a farm hand with equal grace and who knows equally well the business end of a plow or of a governmental policy."

He is no untrained political war-horse, but a true leader. "There is in him an economic maniac. He's a sane, practical, horse-sense farmer and citizen who knows the problems and the needs of the average American. He represents the common people and he comes from the heart of the country."

NEXT to Davis, as a candidate aimed at the presidency but counted on to score in the vice presidential circle, is Carl Vrooman, of Bloomington, Ill.

Vrooman, 51 years old, looks (more nearly so). He's a slender, erect, brown-mustached man with a bright eye and an engaging smile.

Vrooman also is urged as a "dirt farmer" candidate. He operates some 4500 acres of farm lands in Illinois and Iowa. Unlike Davis, however, Vrooman doesn't often get between the plow handles or heave the pitchfork. Still, it's from his farms he makes his living and, as he says, when the farmers lose money he loses money.

He wears the tan of a farmer, but his bearing and general appearance make it appear rather the tan of the tennis court and the golf links than of the hay field. For he's a college man, an authority on agricultural and railroad economics and when in New York lives at the Harvard Club.

MORE and more the delegates to the New York convention—that is, those of them from the west and south—believe now is the time for the farmers to make hay.

The agricultural vote, it is conceded, will determine the next president. A close representative of agriculture, then, either in first or second place on the ticket, may be depended on to cut a wide swath.

AL SMITH'S DEMONSTRATION

Here's how Madison Square Garden appeared at the height of the demonstration for Al Smith. Thousands joined in the song of "Sidewalks of New York" as bands played the famous Tammany marching song. "East Side, West Side" men and women shouted until they were hoarse. And outside on the streets many thousands were gathered to celebrate in honor of Smith.

Appoint McWilliams As Aviles Delegate

ST. AUGUSTINE, June 30.—Col. W. A. MacWilliams has been officially appointed as one of the delegation that will represent this city at the Aviles celebration in Spain. Colonel MacWilliams was one of the first to receive an invitation to make the trip, but owing to a previous decision to attend the International Bar Association convention in London, he declined. A postponement in the date of the Aviles celebration made it possible for him to accept. An effort is now being made to have Major H. E. Marahburn, U. S. Infantry, stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., sent to the celebration as a representative of the federal government. Major Marahburn is described as one of the most proficient Spanish scholars in the United States army.

Many Social Affairs Planned British Heir

LONDON, June 30.—Rumors that the Prince of Wales informed the royal family that having passed his thirtieth birthday he would begin looking about for a bride, have caused a hurried arrangement of an unusual number of social affairs to which the prince has been invited.

LAKE WORTH PROPERTY

LAKE WORTH, June 30.—Assessed valuation of property in this city is expected to go above the six million dollar mark this year, it is understood here. This is exclusive of municipally owned property worth more than $2,000,000. The official figures are expected to be made public sometime soon.

IN KILLED AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 30.—Chicago's week-end recreation cost the lives of 15 persons. Nine were killed in automobile accidents, and six were drowned.

To Offer Complete Program July 2-3-4 at Halifax Frolics

DAYTONA, June 30.—Despite the fact that they cannot be classed from a population viewpoint with some other cities in Florida, Daytona, Seabreeze and Daytona Beach boast that in the Halifax Summer Frolics, the dates of which are July 3, 4 and 5, they are going to present to visitors the most complete and varied amusement program yet staged in the state. This because of widespread interest in the movement, and with men, women, children and babies participating.

Features of the three-day program include automobile, horse and airplane races on and above the Ormond-Seabreeze, Daytona Beach race course, and aquatic sports in the Atlantic; fireworks displays over the Halifax river; local and all-Florida beauty contests in which prizes of picture contracts are offered, float and children's costume parades along the river and ocean; street and beach dancing; balls in the Clarendon and other tourist hotels; baseball games and golf tournaments.

Every community, every club and several thousand residents of the Halifax county will be represented or participate in the festival, to which Mayor Archibald of Daytona, Mayor Gold of Seabreeze, Mayor Rigby of Ormond, extends a joint invitation to all Floridians.

"Because of unprecedented and unexpected interest manifested by our people, the event will exceed our original expectations in every phase," is the promise contained in invitations the chief executives are mailing to friends throughout the state.

Preparations have been made for housing record crowds at reasonable rates.

In the Swim

Whatever the outcome of the Democratic nomination, you'll have to admit that Governor Al Smith of New York is in the swim. These unusual formal shots were made at Sea Gate, L. I.

EVERT TRUE BY CONDO

MOM'N-POP "The Mystery Deepens For Pop." By TAYLOR

PARTICOLORED PARTY DRESSES ARE POPULAR

WHICH is said not by way of launching a tongue-twister, but merely as the main theme of an incontrovertible fashion fact. It is a new note, writes Henri Orange from Paris, to mix two different colors in the same dress. Old pink and blue are a favorite combination for evening as shown in the striking Mirro-knee evening gown illustrated. But different as are the colors so mixed, there is always some unifying link to bind them together as a whole. In this case it is the silves embroidery which appears on both the skirt and the cape back of the bodice.

The dress itself is extremely simple in line, depending on the richness of the material, a heavy lustrous crepe satin, and its striking coloring for its undoubted chic. But it is the line of beauty, the curve, then this dress achieves true beauty, for every part of it is gradually tapered. There are, however, no "suspensory curves" about the waist, who can be presently conscious of looking too best and at the same time being in the vanguard of the mode.

There are two distinct types of evening dresses which were launched by the Grande Couturiere at the Paris exposition—the halter dress and the dress with the capelet. The latter is the one which is the most popular.

The popularity of Chero-Cola is proved by the crowds that are drinking it on every hand. When soft drinks are sold you find people joying Chero-Cola in the Twain.
