Farmers Back Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) contingent of farmers and food processors expressed strong support today for President Carter's crucial natural gas pricing legislation, saying it will cause only a marginal rise in feed prices.

A shortage of natural gas something the bill is designed to guard against - would be much worse for comment, they told the president.

The 18-man delegation met with Carter at the White House this merning and heard the president make a renewed pitch for the compromise bill to gradually lift federal controls on the price of natural gas by

Charles Carey, president of he National Food Processors Association, said "the most devasting thing" that could happen to food prices would be shortages of natural gas, and, he said, "this is what this bill will deal with."

Pressing For Energy Plan

The fragile agreement by House-Senate con-ferees on the deregulation of natural gas price offers Congress an opportunity to act, at last, on its own version of President Carter's national energy

The opportunity should not be allowed to slip away as it seems to be doing. This slippage was the main reason Mr. Carter cut short his vacation to begin intensive lobbying to prevent the deal from disintegrating.

How successful he will be remains uncertain. But there is no alternative. The conference committee has now approved, in much-amended form, four-fifths of the administration's energy package. The committee's inability to agree on the pace and scope of natural gas deregulation has held up progress on the entire program for nearly a year. There could be no more dramatic demonstration of the urgent need for a comprehensive mational energy strategy than the recent crash of the dollar in international money markets. As long as the United States is compelled to import nearly half of its oil requirements at ininficit will threaten the strength of the dollar.

The gradual deregulation of natural gas prices, even over a period of years, as envisioned by the conference committee, is expected to boost production enough to displace up to one million barrels of foreign oil per day, or about 13 percent of current imports.

Conservation and coal conversion measures included in the energy package would add significantly to those savings.

The argument for deregulation of natural gas prices, entirely aside from oil conservation considerations, is overwhelming.

For the last two winters, natural gas supplies have fallen nearly 20 percent short of national demand. Artificially low prices dictated by the federal government only perpetuate these shor-

The conference committee, and, we trust, a majority of Congress correctly perceive the current price ceiling of 42 per thousand cubic feet as far too low.

The higher prices consumers would have to pay would likely be at least partially, and perhaps totally, offset by increased supply. And some natural gas at higher prices is better than no gas at bargain prices.

The specifics of the deregulation compromise leave something to be desired. The seven-year pace of deregulation would be glacially slow and the phased price increases would continue to limit exploration and ex-The compromise would also allow the Congress

ANGLE-WALTERS Grumbles But No Fighting

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Carter loyalists at the Democratic National Committee are taking to chances that the party's mid-term conference in Memphia this winter might turn into a rebellion against the president.

Party Chairman John White and the DNC hierarchy have rigged the agenda and rules of the Dec. 510 conclave so tightly that conference delegates will be all but precluded from mounting any significant challenge to Carter's leadership.

It is a risky maneuver, for the procedural manipulation has angered many liberal activists within the party who had hoped to force a showdown on the failure of both Carter and Congress to fulfill the promises of the Democratic platform.

But it will probably succeed, despite the grumbling now going on. The liberals, black, union leaders and others most disenchanted with Carter and Congress are not yet ready to declare open warfare.

They read the same opinion polls as the president, and they realise any major Memphis confrontation over issues would inevitably be viewed by the press as the start of a "dump movement within the Democratic

"No one really wants the type of fight the Carter people are obviously afraid of," said one liberal organizer, "but the more they bottom down the hatches, the more they run the risk that sheer fruitation will precipitate the very fight

The one issue that could ignite a liberal revolt against Carter at the Manphis conference is probably national health insurance, where the president's caution has already provoked an open split by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his powerful allies in the United Auto Workers and

But Kennedy, who insists he will not be a presidential candidate in 1980, cannot afford to not likely to lead the way for fear their efforts would be perceived as a draft-Kennedy gesture. There will be 1,633 voting delegates to the mid-term conference, about 80 percent of whom will have been chosen by the end of September at various conventions and in primary elections. So far, liberal activists libely to have no great affection for Carter are picking up anywhere from 35 to 50 percent of the delegate sents.

But no matter how many potentially heatile delegates wind up in Manghis, they will be hard pressed to create any real mischief. The first two days of the conference will be devoted to speeches, parties and workshops that have no power to submit resolutions to the floor of the convention. Only on the afterneon of Sunday, Dec. 18 - when most delegates will be anxious to head for the airport to catch the last planes out of Memphis - will the conference devote an hour or so to debating and voting on resolutions.

In order to reach the conference floor for discussion, however, proposed resolutions must be submitted to the DNC by Nov. 27 and be cleared by Dec. 1 by a majority of the DNC's enecutive committee - which is firmly controlled by Carter loyalist John White.

ongressional spending of your hard-earned tax ollars. You may have heard about $136 million for a new Senate Office Building (the third) being built in Washington. Or you may have heard of some of the far-out scientific or military spending OK'd by Congress and the federal

Here is one that few people seem to have heard about: $46 million to build a memorial to Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

-Hold on No one quarter "ith the idea of a memorial to FDR. Today, 33 years after his death, even his implacable enemies would concede he was one of the most important U.S. presidents of the 20th century. And many people loved him. But $46 million?

That's only a start. The planners say the FDR demortal will require 40 permanent new federal obs and 20 "temporary" jobs. Estimated annual ost in perpetuity: $1.6 million.

In the light of the $500 billion-a-year federal udget, $46 million may not seem like a lot. But onsider this: It could build a bridge across the Ohio River; it could pave 100 miles of Montana roads; it could provide 2,000 spartments for senior citizens; it could pay 2,500 teachers salaries for a year.

There's something else. On Sept. 3, 1941, FDR told the late Justice Felix Frankfurter that "If they are to put up any elemental to me, 1 should like to to be placed in that green plot in front of the Archives Building (on Pennsylvania Avenue) .... I don't care what it is made of, but I want it to be plain." In 1966 a plain granite slab was placed just here FDR wanted it.

For $46 million the public will get: - A wall 1,100 feet long and 14 feet high, built of reddish granite quarried in South Dakota. The wall is expected to cost $10 million - Four "alcoves" holding bronzes b American sculptors George Segal, Leonard Baskin, Robert Graham and Neil Estern on

While wine is thought to be an upper class landing at National Airport just across the beverage, he said, beer is viewed as the working man's drink, a beverage for the less affluent. Sue Yung of Lawrence Halprin and Associates, the San Francisco landscaping firm that designed the memorial, says the FDR

Memorial is "an event, a progression. There's no object, per se, to look at. The whole memorial is really an urban park. It's not an architectural monument. It's a space from which you view the Washington Monument and the Lincols and Jefferson momericals."

"Wine had more of a mystique to it." But Muhleman thinks beer is gaining respect among conneissours of drink. "More people, and that includes the affluent, are drinking beer," he said. "They're becoming more conscious of quality, being more selective, they're getting more taned into beer."

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret M. Stevens of Longwood, and Henry D. Stevens Jr. of Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Wydra Sr. of Plymouth.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a white giana gown, fashioned along the Empire silhouette . Lace and seed pearls embellished the yoke, tapered sleeves and sweeping train. She carried a bouquet of off-white rosebuds and baby's breath.

Nancy Swanson was the maid of honor. Kathy Knarrenborg was bridesmaid. They wore peach-colored gowns. Edward Wooster served the ridegroom as best man.

Ushers were Ronald Wydra and Carlos Avila. Dennis Leone was the groomsman. A reception followed at the

NEW YORK (UPI) — The life story of Masureen "Little Mo" Connolly translates onto the television acreen as three hours of thwack-beek, thwachbeek. The real life story of Miss Connolly was spectacular, but the same can't be said for the television version, despite an excellent cast and the best of intentions. Maureen Connelly came out of the California sanshine, a poor kid playing what had been a rich man's game, a blende bundle of muscle and determination who bounced onto the tennis courts and became, at 16, the youngest wisney of the U.S. women's championship at Forest Hills; at 17, the youngest woman to win the Wimbleden championship. # 9 Holes, A Lawn, A Golf Club, Tennis Balls

Herman Schroeder is retired and like many other men his age looked for a hobby to occupy his free time. Golf is popular, but Schroeder had never played the game and then there was the cost of clubs, greens' fees and cart rentals to contend with.

Earlier this year, while visiting with his son-in-law in Albany, Ga., he learned the game of Lawn Golf, which is Schroeder's term for it. It is simple, easy to play, and all one needs are nine holes scattered about the lawn, a golf club and tennis

From a starting point one hits the tennis balls with a club — a No. 4 iron in Schroeder's case — toward a 6-inch hole 30 or 40 feet away. Each hole is a par 3.

"Scores run around par (27)," explains Schroeder, talking about his 9-hole course, which takes a player from the frontyard to the back and then returns to finish in the front. "Once in awhile it gets

Ask Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: On the series, "Soap," on the last show Jessica Tate was proven guilty of killing Peter. We know that she didn't do it - but who did? Will the series ever go on past that particular last show? MRS. R.E. NEUFELD. Chilliwack, B.C., Can.

That may have been the longest cliff-hanger in history. The show deliberately left everybody worrying over the summer, and they have promised me that all the loose ends from last spring will be cleared up first thing when the series resumes in September.

DEAR DICK: The other night I saw "Jaws 2." The friends I was with said that Robert Shaw was actually killed during Quint's death scene in the original "Jaws," and that the blood that squirted out of Quint's mouth was actually Shaw's own blood. I disagree, and hope you can clear up the puzzle. JENNIE ANDERSON, Portage, Mich.

No puzzle, Jennie. Your friends either have a lively imagination or else they're pulling your leg. Robert Shaw survived the filming of "Jaws" without any problems, and the blood you saw was good old Hollywood fakery. And my sympathy on your head for having to sit through

DEAR DICK: Just recently, I saw Eddie Money. Boy, was he great! But now the problem is I also heard that he was in a dangerous accident. Please tell me he wasn't! DEBBIE KRAFT, Milford, Ind.

OK, I will - he wasn't. He was in a relatively minor accident in New York, six months ago or so, and he walked away from it. He didn't even have to go to the hospital. Odd coincidence - the cops who came to investigate that accident happened to be old friends of his, from when he, too, was a New York cop.

DEAR DICK: Whatever happened to "Gilligan's Island"? I say they took it off because of bad ratings. ELIZABETH AN-TISDALE, Mattawam, Mich.

That's just about right. Ratings are almost always the cause of a show being dropped. You'll be happy to learn that they are shooting a twohour movie, in which the Gilligan group finally gets off that dumb island. All the regulars are in , except for Tina Louise.

DEAR DICK: Do you give out addresses? If I wrote to somebody in care of a studio or network. would the letter get to the person in most cas-What is the zip code of Beverly Hills? CONNIE KASDORF. Plainwell, Mich.

One more time - no, I don't give out addresses. Chances are your letter in care of a studio or network will eventually reach the star - if it is a good letter. Bad letters are screened out. Beverly Hills is big enough for three zip codes - 90210, 90211 and 90212.

DEAR DICK: Is it true that Shaun Cassidy was fined a lot of money for coming in late for work on "The Hardy Boys" show? I also heard he was getting, or strendy is, married. Is that true? S.E.M., Tucson, Ariz.

Dick Shawn, Richard Benjamin and Arte Johnson are others in the cast of "Love At First Bite." Been wrote the title seng, which Diesee Warwiche has signed to sing over the titles.

On TV NEW YORK (UPI) - There may be money in "Vegat" for ABC and CBS is "Flying High" about the first ratings reports on the pilot of its series by the same name. Highlights of the day's schill tes in this tournament from Flushing Mesdow Park in Corona, New Corona, New York.

Creep

Most of the Nielson ratings during the summer could interest only a sponsor, with the top 10 all repeats.

But now that the opening of the new season approaches, pilots of new shows are creeping onto the screen.

The good news for ABC came in the ratings for the wook ending Aug. 37. The two-hour pilot of its "Vega6" ran as a "summer movie" and tied with "Barney Miller" for 18th mars areas 19th place, earning a 32 percent share of the audience in its time slot. That's good.

The early returns for CBS' "Flying High" shows that imitation may not only be the sincerest form of flattery, but also the most successful. The show features the test show features the topid adventures of three stewardesses, an obvious imitation of "Charlie's Angels."

Working under the hypothesis that if to show a lot of three girls is good, to show more of many girls is even better, the pilot did just that.

Scathing remarks about the poer script, the slow pace, the lack of depth to everything about the show except the cloavage, down't diminish the fact that "Flying High" received a whopping 64 percent share of the viewing addence in New York, 41 percent share in Chicago and 66 percent share in Los Anasies.

More came for ABC with its "28-38" magazine show. The first aftering was poorly conceived and received - by both critics and audience. New it has moved up and last week tied with "Geed Times" for 23rd place — that's not "60 Minutes" territory but it's more than respectable for a news show.

News shows other than the magazine variety normally score more in the neigh-barhead of Harry Rossour's first CBS News Special since rejoining that network. His two-hear "1907" rashed Sith two-hear "1907" rashed Sith en a Nielsen list of 20 cm tenders. MASKED VIOLENCE?

SCI-FI is the mask that has been put on violence this fall, according to Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, Inc., the advertising agency which publishes a yearly report on the new TV season. BBDO says the networks are disguising blood and guts with fantasy this year: "New and returning science fiction-type shows and their special effects portray very unrealistic, and therefore less objectionable, violence." The masks on many of "Battlestar Galactica's" characters (series star Richard Hatch is seen here) and the super-human comic book qualities of "Wonder Woman" and "The Incredible Hulk" are a world away from the street crime and murder of the defunct action-adventure-mystery emperors like "Baretta" and "Kojak." Put that in your ray gun and blast it.
