Spring Training Site May Be Offered

Lake Mary Aims To Snare Major League Team

By Richard Truett
Herald Staff Writer

A major league baseball team could be spring training in Lake Mary as early as 1987.

Wes Rinker, owner of the Florida Baseball Schools in Sanford, told the city commission Thursday night that five teams are looking for new spring training homes and most likely the league will expand with up to six new teams in the fall.

"If Lake Mary is interested, it can have a major league team," Rinker said confidently.

Rinker said either the Cincinnati Reds, New York Mets, Texas Rangers, Baltimore Orioles or the Chicago Cubs could be lured to Lake Mary for their spring training.

Mayor Dick Fess said that it is imperative that the city make a move now.

"If we wait the land will be too expensive," Fess said. He is in the process of naming a committee to study the matter.

Rinker said a spring training team would bring in $5 million to $15 million a year. He said this figure includes everything from gate receipts to restaurant bills.

City commissioners were very interested in the proposal.

These five teams are unhappy with their spring training homes leaving city officials an opening to lure them to Lake Mary.

"If we don't have dreams and visions, we don't have a future," Commissioner Burt Perin chief said. "Baseball is a clean industry. I'd like to see what we could do," he said.

Rinker said three teams who hold their spring training in Arizona are looking to move to Florida. He is looking for communities for the teams. He cited Port St. Lucie as an example of a town that could have had a team. Rinker said the city reneged twice on building a stadium.

Missing P&Z Vote Stalls Asphalt Plant

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

Residents won the first round Thursday in their fight to keep a proposed asphalt plant from being built near their neighborhood after Sanford's Planning and Zoning Board knocked out a paving company's request to install petroleum fuel tanks.

About 200 residents whooped and applauded jubilantly after the commission voted 7-2 to deny the request. The vote, however, does not mean the asphalt plant may not be built. The company could present plans for the facility without the fuel tanks.

Getting permission to install the two 30,000-gallon fuel tanks and one 10,000-gallon diesel tank was the first hurdle Orlando Paving Co. had to clear to get the plant on the way.

The fuel tanks request, tagged with a P & Z disapproval 7-2, cannot be taken to the city commission. To do so the vote would have to have been 5-4, according to Bettie Sonnenberg, city building official. A vote of 6-3 or greater among the 9-member board may not be

The company wants to build a $3.5 million plant on an 18-acre site at 2150 Country Club Road in west Sanford. Petroleum, and other materials would be mixed into asphalt at the plant and shipped to other businesses, according to Wayne Evans, executive vice president of Orlando Paving.

The proposed plant is supported by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce's Industrial Action Committee which says the plant will upgrade the property.

The site, part of a larger 67-acre tract Orlando Paving is trying to buy, is already zoned medium industrial which allows for asphalt plants. But before the

Glenda Ross

Oviedo Woman Feared Victim Of Foul Play

A 44-year-old Oviedo woman, missing since June 2, may be the victim of foul play, Seminole County sheriff's investigators say.

Glenda R. Ross, of 890 East Chapman Road, apparently walked away from the home she shares with her daughter's family at about 8 p.m. June 2, investigator Dan Prast reported.

Her daughter, Dia Colleen Leck, told deputies her mother was upset over a pending trip to Denver, Colo., and she is considered suicidal.

Mrs. Ross has a history of emotional problems, a sheriff's report said.

An avid smoker, Mrs. Ross would often flag down motorists on state Road 520 near her home, and ask them for cigarettes, sheriff's spokesman John Spolski said.

He said investigators believe Mrs. Ross, who is 5 feet, 2 inches tall and weighs 98 pounds, may have been the victim of foul play, because she has never left home like this before.

She was last seen wearing a white shirt, blue jeans and cowboy boots. Her eyes and her shoulder-length hair are black. Mrs. Ross is described by deputies as being a chain smoker. She favors Carlton 100s, they said.

She was reported missing on June 3. Deputies say she has no friends in the area.

The sheriff's department has asked that anyone with information on Mrs. Ross call Prast at 322-5115.

10 Finalists Chosen For Police Chief Job

Ten finalists for the Sanford police chief's job, including acting Chief Steve Harriett and Sanford police Sgt. William Hasson, were selected by the city's Civil Service Board Thursday.

The board whittled the list from 60 applicants garnered during a 6-week national search. The 10 will now be considered by the city commission which is expected to make a final selection later this month. The commission is scheduled to discuss the list at its 7 p.m. meeting Monday in the commission chambers.

Board Chairman John Darby said each of the applications were reviewed very thoroughly, adding that two or more of the members agreed on every one of the 10 names.

Board member Gordon Frederick said the board aimed for impartiality in its selections, but added acting chief Harriett "is eminently qualified."

The job pays $27,872 to $39,991 a year. Qualifications are a bachelor's degree in criminology or police administration with five years of "progressively responsible" experience that includes supervisory and administrative responsibility.

The 10 finalists and their backgrounds are:

- Gus Beckstrom Jr., no age listed, of Oviedo. Beckstrom has been with the Winter Park Police Department since 1967 in the department's vice, intelligence and lakes patrol divisions. He has a bachelor's and master's degree in criminal justice.

- Robert Fortney, no age listed, of South Miami.

security company for 10 years before that he was with the Metro-Dade County Police Department, moving up from patrol officer to lieutenant. He has bachelor's and master's degrees in criminal justice.

- William Hasson, 43, no address listed, is a sergeant in the Sanford Police Department's investigations division. He has been with the department since 1973 when he started as jailer. He then moved up to patrolman and then detective in 1979. In January, he was named assistant chief of detectives. He has an associate in arts degree and a bachelor's degree in criminology.

Nation's Unemployment Rate Still Hovering Around 7.3%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate in May stayed at 7.3 percent for the fourth consecutive month as the economy added 345,000 jobs, but the jobless rate for new college graduates rose, the government said today.

Service industries and retail trades were the big winners in the May job market while factories hardly changed from the weak performance of the last several months.

The 7.3 percent civilian unemployment rate is not only the same as every month since January, it is also the average for the past year.

The lack of any improvement in the jobless rate for four months has accompanied an economic slowdown that kept the gross national product expanding a scant 0.7 percent in the first quarter.

There were still 8.4 million people out of work in May but the number of them unemployed because they were laid off or fired — 3.9 million — was the lowest since prior to the 1981-1982 recession.

The rest of the unemployed are people just entering the job market who cannot find work.

On the negative side was the indication in the report that the amount of underemployment is growing, as people who want full-time jobs can find only part-time positions. This category rose by 240,000 in May to nearly 6 million.

On Thursday major U.S. retailers reported disappointing sales in May as consumer confidence eroded and buying slowed down in the absence of sales.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., the nation's largest retailer, said sales dropped 1.3 percent from a year ago.

Allen Sinai, an economist for Shearson Lehman Bros., says, "Employment gains will be more modest in coming months given the slower growth in the economy."

The service industries, from health care to insurance, added 100,000 jobs in May as did retail stores.

Construction employment was up 30,000 during the month, totaling 200,000 additional jobs this year.

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Ronald Cooper of Eugene hit a $10,000 lottery jackpot and lost. No sooner had he won the prize than the state Department of Justice reported Cooper owed $12,000 in back child support payments. The agency garnished his check before Cooper could get his hands on it.

Trip To Bathroom Saves Woman

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

A 64-year-old Sanford woman narrowly missed injury after a black Dodge, driven by two suspects being chased by police, crashed into her bedroom and almost landed in her bed.

Rosa Coachman, of 1502 Williams Ave., said she got out of bed to go to the bathroom at about 11:20 p.m. Saturday. Seconds later she heard a crash down the hall of her woodframe house that sent her to the floor. Rushing back to her room, she found the front end of a car protruding through the wall, its lights flooding the room and the engine still running.

"It came right into my bedroom window," Mrs. Coachman said. "He hit it a good lick, he had to put the whole front end in the house."

The suspects, two men wanted for driving with their headlights off, immediately got out of the car and fled, she said. Highway Patrol trooper M.A. Tindel chased the suspects but failed to catch them, according to an FHP report.

The crash sent glass, wood splinters and dry wall material ripping through the room. An air conditioning unit was also knocked to the floor. Mrs. Coachman said she was lucky she had the urge to go to the bathroom when she did.

"I couldn't sleep that night or the next night either. Where can you go that's safe anymore?" she asked.

The car, headed north on

Williams, plowed through a neighbor's yard, mowing down her hedges, before crashing into the house. Terrence Brooks, of 1504 Williams Ave., said she was watching television when the crash occurred.

"I heard a siren but I thought it was the TV," she said.

Not only did Mrs. Coachman escape injury, but a last minute change in plans probably saved her 2-year-old granddaughter, according to Larry Coppedge, the girl's father. He said he and his wife planned to go to Daytona Beach to celebrate his wife's birthday and leave their daughter at Mrs. Coachman's house. The girl usually sleeps with her grandmother when she visits, Coppedge said. But at the

Third Septuplet Dies; Sister Clings By A 'Thread'

ORANGE, Calif. (UPI) — Sam and Patu Frustaci, who were holding their tiny son in their arms when he died, today turned their prayers to Bonnie Marie, the sickest of the four surviving septuplets whose life is "hanging by a thread."

James Martin, the third of the Frustaci septuplets to die, lost his struggle against lung disease at 11:04 a.m. PDT Wednesday after 17 days of life. He weighed only 1 pound 6 ounces at birth and never gained an ounce.

Bonnie Marie, the fourth born during a premature Caesarean section May 21, continues to fight for her life, but with only a "very, very small chance for survival," said Dr. Carrie Worcester. Bonnie weighed 1 pound 12 ounces at birth and has lost 4 ounces.

All the septuplets have suffered from hyaline membrane disease, which makes their lungs tend to collapse after each breath because the air sacs lack a lubricating substance. All are on ventilators in the neonatal intensive care unit of Children's Hospital.

Worcester said the other babies — Patricia, Stephen and Richard — remained in critical but stable condition and are making "small improvement daily."

TMI Unit Begins Restart

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Preparations were under way to heat the undamaged reactor at the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant today, the first phase of the unit's planned restart, a spokesman for TMI's operator said.

The heat-up of TMI's Unit 1 was originally set to begin late Thursday but was rescheduled for early today, chiefly because an air valve in the reactor's ventilation system malfunctioned during testing, said Gordon Tomb of GPU Nuclear Corp.

During the heat-up, expected to take one or two days, the temperature and pressure inside the reactor's water-cooling system will be brought close to operational levels.

The restart of first atomic reaction is set for Tuesday unless the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia grants a request seeking to block the action.

The NRC last week voted to lift the shutdown order on Unit 1, idle since its twin was damaged in March 1979 in a near meltdown — the nation's worst commercial nuclear power accident.

And The Winner Is ... 'Milieu'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Balu Natarajan, 13, whose family still speaks their native Indian language, Tamil, at home and the winner of this year's National Spelling Bee, is a confident youth who almost always spells without hesitation.

"If I know a word, that's usually how I operate," Natarajan said Thursday after correctly spelling the French-derived word "milieu" to beat Kate Lingley, 13, of Dover Foxcroft, Maine, who stumbled on the word "barago" — meaning a confusing mixture or hodgepodge, misspelling it "ferago."

The two youngsters duelled through only three words in the 14th and final round of the 58th annual Scripps Howard National Spelling Bee that brought 168 champion spellers to the nation's capital to pit wits and memories against the dictionary.

Natarajan, of Hollingbrook, Ill., credited experience — this was his third trip to the finals — and luck for his winning performance.

Close Watch Being Kept On 'First' Heart Transplant

TAMPA (UPI) — Doctors kept a close watch today on a 12-year-old Tampa businessman they said was Florida's first recipient of a heart transplant.

Thomas N. Thrasher, given less than two months to live, underwent a four-hour operation at Tampa General Hospital Thursday, receiving the heart of a young man who had been pronounced brain dead.

Thrasher was listed in critical but stable condition early today, a normal report on patients who have undergone transplant surgery.

The next four to five days is the critical period when there is danger of rejection and infection, said Dr. Edward Spoto, the admitting cardiologist.

After the operation, medical director Dr. Thomas McKell announced it as the first heart transplant performed in Florida.

The Miami Heart Institute disputed the claim. Newspaper clippings showed that institution performed a heart transplant April 24, 1969, on Harry Goodkin, 56, a Boston salesman who died 14 days later of a lung infection. No other heart transplant has been performed at Miami Heart Institute since then.

FALLAHANSEE (UPI) — Safe drivers will get more for their money beginning July 1 when it comes time to renew their driver licenses.

Leonard R. Mellon, executive director of the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles, said Thursday his agency is preparing for a key change in license renewal policy approved by this year's Legislature.

Under the change, drivers with a conviction-free record for three years will be issued a license lasting six years instead of the current four. Drivers with convictions will continue to get a four-year term.

The fee for a license will be $15 regardless of the term. At renewal time, the safe driver will simply get more for the money than the driver who does not maintain a clean record, Mellon said.

Spy Ring May Have Passed Soviets Secrets On U.S. Nuclear Alert Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The largest spy ring in decades apparently has given the Soviets a roadmap for evading the Navy's undersea network of sound sensors that warn against a nuclear attack, military experts say.

A Navy expert said Thursday it would be reasonable to assume that as a result of the security breach alleged to involve at least four spies, the Navy may have to resort to the costly measure of rebuilding or modifying the Sound Surveillance System, called Sossus.

Questions also arose about lax Pentagon security that permitted the family and friend spy operation to flourish for as long as 20 years.

At a news conference to announce recommendations to tighten controls over classified material, Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said there was no evidence that one of the four men charged, yeoman Michael Walker 22, ever received a security clearance. Walker allegedly had access to stacks of secret data while on the nuclear aircraft carrier Nimitz, his last Navy assignment.

The central figures in the coast-to-coast investigation — John Walker, 47, of Norfolk, Va., and Jerry Whitworth, 45, of Davis, Calif. — received top secret clearances as Navy radiomen in the 1960s. Also charged in the case is John Walker's brother, Arthur, 50.

John Walker's clearance never was updated and Whitworth's was not reviewed for nine years, Pentagon spokesmen said.

If the allegations are substantiated, Whitworth's involvement would indicate the ring penetrated Navy operations on both coasts.

The Pentagon continued to assess the damage and one government official remarked, "Assume the worst."

Pentagon spokesman Michael Burch said

Thursday Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger's level of concern about the release of classified data had "gone up because of what he continues to learn."

John Walker and Whitworth served on ships that have been largely outmoded but sources said their alleged selling of keylists — codes used to send messages securely — could have helped compromise the Sossus network.

One source said that if the Soviets "knew when we located one of their subs they could probably get a good idea of where our sensors are so they could figure out how to avoid them."

In other developments, law enforcement sources identified Navy technician Gary Walker, the half-brother of John and Arthur Walker, as a mysterious fifth suspect in the case, dubbed F-1.

Migration

People Are Flocking To Florida, Texas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans continue to migrate to the South and West, and the population is declining in five of the large Frost Belt metropolitan areas, the Census Bureau reports.

Florida and Texas have 10 of the 11 metropolitan areas that grew by at least 20 percent since 1980, the July 1, 1984, estimates from the Commerce Department's Census Bureau show. Another 10 metropolitan areas grew by 15 percent to 19 percent, four each in Florida and Texas.

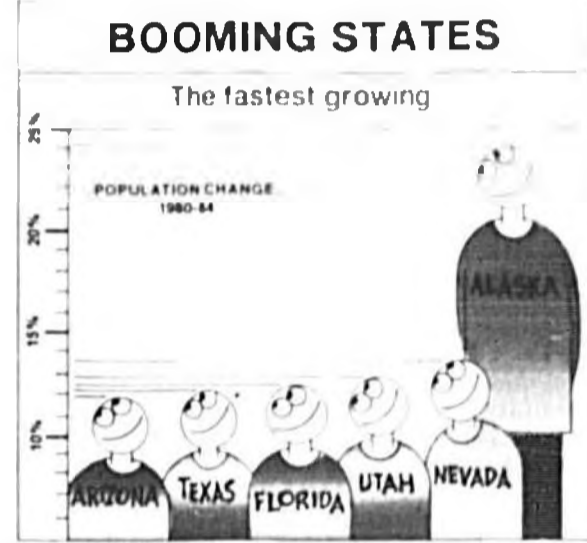

Five large metropolitan areas — Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Milwaukee and Pittsburgh — continue to lose population as in the 1970s. But three other big cities that had been losing residents — New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis — have reversed the trend.

The bureau said a total of 55 of the 277 areas grew by at least 10 percent, all of them in the South and West. They include 17 in Florida, 15 in Texas and seven in California.

Among the Texas cities, Midland reported a 37.5 percent population growth. Bryan College Station had a 25.4 percent increase, Odessa a 25.2 percent rise, Austin 20.3 percent and McAllen-Edinburg Mission 19 percent.

In Florida, Naples reported a 28.9 percent population growth, Ocala a 27 percent rise, Fort Pierce 25.8 percent, Fort Myers-Cape Coral 23.2 percent, West Palm Beach-Boca Raton-Deerfield Beach 20 percent, Melbourne-Titusville-Palm Bay 20.7 percent and Orlando 17.7 percent.

Anchorage reported a 30 percent population increase.

Alaska is booming. Unlike the 1890s, it's people this time, not gold. The population of Alaska grew by almost 25 percent in the early 1980s. Runner up Nevada dealt with an increase, meanwhile, of about 14 percent.

As far as rankings, the bureau's list shows Houston has bypassed Washington as eighth. Among others moving up are Atlanta from 16 to 14, Tampa-St. Petersburg-Clearwater from 22 to 20, Phoenix from 24 to 22, and Salt Lake City-Ogden from 41 to 37.

There are 37 metropolitan areas of 1 million or more.

Is It Mengele? We Won't Know For Days

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — Officials say it will take days before they know if an exhumed body is that of Nazi war criminal Josef Mengele, the world's most wanted man who sent thousands of concentration camp victims to their deaths.

American, German and Israeli experts flew to Sao Paulo to help investigators compare the remains dug up from an unkempt grave Thursday with records being provided by West Germany.

Federal police chief Romeo Tuma said he was "90 percent certain" Mengele, the doctor responsible for the murders of 400,000 inmates — mostly Jews — at the Auschwitz death camp in Poland during World War II, drowned in Brazil in 1979 and was buried in the grave.

Tuma said he hoped 1937 dental records and other information would arrive today from West Germany.

Famed Nazi hunters Simon Wiesenthal and Serge Klarsfeld both said they doubted the body is that of Mengele, a fugitive with a $8.4 million price on his head.

Wiesenthal interviewed in New York said he is "90 percent certain the body was not Mengele's."

In Paris, Klarsfeld said "I don't believe it any more than the German judicial system believes it. I am skeptical of this report. If he had in fact died, his surviving family in Germany would be the first to announce it."

Lake Howell Senior Class Small But Intense

Although Lake Howell High School is graduating one of its smallest senior classes ever, the school had the largest student bodies in its history, according to Assistant Principal Carol Sutton.

About 350 are expected to graduate at ceremonies at the school's stadium Saturday morning at 8. But overall, Lake Howell's halls were teeming with more than 2,100 students this year, Ms. Sutton said.

"It was a fun year where there was a lot of participation," she said. "Kids really began to take an interest in school."

Lake Howell held its largest prom ever with about 650 students dancing the night away at the posh Lake Buena Vista Plaza. Ms. Sutton said past proms have never drawn more than 400 students.

"We finally had tons of money to do something nice," she said.

But painting the town wasn't the only category the "Silver Hawks" excelled in. The school's marching band, which will be in the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade this fall, took first place in the 12-state Festival of States competition, Ms. Sutton said.

In the academic sphere, two Lake Howell students, Jonathan Hull and Victor Lacombe, were awarded National Merit Scholarships. Three other students were "commended" National Merit students.

Twenty-eight seniors were "Pride Award" winners in math, social studies, science and writing.

On the athletic field, the "Silver Hawks" walked away with honors in football, cross country, track, softball, wrestling, basketball, volleyball, swimming and tennis.

Eleven football players were All County or All Conference, as were two members of the girls cross country team and three members of the girls track team. Three members of the boys track team were also named All County and All Conference.

Eliem Brooks of the boys basketball team was named Most Valuable Player and Seminole County Player of the Year. The girls volleyball team was Five Star Conference champ.

These achievers as well as the other graduates will be honored at ceremonies Saturday. A baccalaureate service is scheduled for tonight at 7:30 at the school stadium. Charles Scott, coordinator of the Young Life program at the school, will be the guest speaker.

Oviedo High Class Of 85 Studied Amidst Rapid Change

Oviedo High School's 262 graduating seniors managed to tack the winds of change at their school this year and lead it to further honor and achievement.

Between the clutter of renovation and the massive influx of new students, the school experienced much change this year, according to Mary Strock, faculty advisor to student government.

Because of the booming growth in the Oviedo area, the face of the school and its student body is changing rapidly. Ms. Strock said to accommodate more students the school added more portable classrooms, bringing the total to 16.

Storage rooms had to be converted to classrooms so the students would have places to learn, she said. And the dust hasn't settled yet. The school is scheduled to undergo a multimillion dollar renovation next year, adding more parking spaces, classes and labs.

So with all the hubbub, this year's batch of seniors had to be leaders, Ms. Strock said. And they were. "The kids handled it well. They did a good job of maintaining the peace," she said.

In a message to the students, Principal Charles Webb echoed that same theme.

"While surrounded with unprecedented growth and overcrowded conditions, you have helped maintain a high level of order and achievement both socially and academically," he said.

On the social level, Ms. Strock said the senior students opened their arms to the army of new students.

"The students really worked together. We had a lot of new students in the middle of the year and the other students took them under their wing," she said.

"They even got a date for one student who came here two weeks before the prom."

On the academic level, the class of 1985 had four National Merit Scholarship "commended" students, a finalist in the National Outstanding Negro Student competition, two students appointed to national military academies, 14 Florida Academic Scholars, and 17 National Honor Society members.

Also sprinkled in the group are 26 "Pride Award" winners who showed outstanding achievement in Seminole County in math, writing, science and social studies skills. The school's trigonometry-analytical geometry team won first place in the county math contest.

The "Lions" also excelled in the sports arena. The girls volleyball and softball teams were District 3 regional champs and the girls tennis team was district champ. The boys track team finished second in district competition.

Swimmer Andy Gill was state champ and All American, and golfer Cheryl Morley kept the galleries cheering with her district championship. Tara Salmieri was district doubles tennis champ and wrestlers Mark Clements and Jerry

Senate OKs Contra Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate gave President Reagan a badly needed victory by supporting the anti-Sandinista rebels in Nicaragua but also set strict limits and warned him to emphasize diplomacy rather than force with Managua.

Critics said an aid package the Senate approved Thursday night was paving the way for the use of U.S. troops one day to replace the rebel force. Supporters said the aid's purpose is to avoid that possibility.

The Senate voted 55-42 to release $14 million in non-lethal aid for the rebel Contras and $24 million next year as part of a State Department funding bill that faced more attacks today.

The measure allows the CIA to distribute food, medicine, clothes and similar supplies — but nothing that can inflict bodily harm.

The bill calls on the administration to negotiate directly with Managua to end the conflict in Central America and repeals the law banning any U.S. aid for any group for military operations in Nicaragua — a measure the House insists on retaining.

The Senate brushed aside arguments by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and others that humanitarian aid was actually logistical support and it frees other resources for arms.

The Senate also called on the administration to support regional Contadora negotiations led by Colombia, Mexico, Panama and Venezuela.

The key test of Reagan's program is set for next week in the House, which has killed all assistance for the Contras.

Sanford Man Faces 30 Years In $32,000 Coke Deal

A Sanford man, accused of paying an undercover agent $32,000 for a kilogram of cocaine, has been convicted of trafficking in the drug.

Brady "Dicky" Austin, 33, of Emerson Lane, faces up to 30 years in prison and a minimum $50,000 fine when sentenced Aug. 30 by Seminole Circuit Judge Dominick J. Saffi.

Austin was arrested by undercover agents Nov. 16 in the parking lot of Bahama Joe's restaurant, 2508 S. French Ave., Sanford, following several days of investigation.

Brady unsuccessfully argued through the trial that he was entrapped by the agents.

The state maintained Austin was a willing participant in what he thought was a drug deal.

According to court records, Austin told agents he had been in contact with his "money people" and wanted to buy one kilo of cocaine for $32,000. He told his financiers, however, that it would cost $34,000. He also told the agents he wanted to buy a second kilo a couple of hours later.

Austin then took $2,000 out of

NO DRESS DUI

A 31-year-old Winter Springs

woman dressed only in a pullover blouse when she was stopped by Altamonte Springs police has been charged with careless driving, driving under the influence and possession of a controlled substance.

The woman, who was stopped after her car was seen weaving on state Road 434, was barefoot and had articles of clothing piled on the front seat of her car, a police report said. The arresting officer had the woman put on her skirt before getting out of the car to take a roadside sobriety test which she reportedly failed, a police report said.

Police reported finding marijuana, cigarette rolling papers, a cigarette clip and two tablets believed to contain phenobarbital (barbiturate) in her purse.

Merisa Claire Payne, 41, of 107 Keith Court, arrested at 3:33 a.m. Wednesday, has been released on $1,500 bond. She is scheduled to appear in court June 24.

Robert K. Chard, 56, of 143 Wildwood Drive, Sanford, told sheriff's deputies someone stole his disabled 1972 Volkswagen when he left it parked and locked at the Handy Way at Lake Mary Boulevard at Lake Emma Road near Lake Mary. The $1,500 car was stolen between 4 and 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Work On Jail Expansion Could Begin Next Month

By Donna Estes

Seminole County's jail expansion from a 200-bed facility to 736 beds could be under construction as early as next month.

Bids for the construction, opened in the purchasing department at the County Services Building Wednesday, showed Great Southwest Corp. of Tampa with a low base bid of $10,817,000. Le Cesse Corp. of Florida Orlando, $11,650,000. Metro Constructors, St. Petersburg, $10,984,000.

The bids are being evaluated by architects Watson & Co., Sheriff John Polk and the county's construction manager, Robin Lalibridge.

JoAnn Blackmon, county purchasing agent, said an evaluation package will be submitted to the county commission for consideration at its June 24 meeting.

Polk said the winning bidder must have people on the job ready to begin the construction within 10 days after a bid is accepted.

Polk said he expected seven or eight firms to bid on the project and was disappointed that only three firms did.

If alternates are accepted in addition to the base bid, the cost of the construction could reach as much as $14,039,500, he said.

Polk said the base bid deletes one of the planned jail pods which would contain 96 beds.

The alternates, putting that 96-bed pod back in at a cost of $1,027,000, upgrading lighting at the jail, plumbing improvements and painting, $190,000, turning dormitories in two of the present pods into single cells, $457,000, adding a larger cooler for food which will be needed in the future, $25,000.

In addition, architects fees, soil borings at the site, adjacent to the present jail at Five Points, furniture and equipment and a new telephone system, $950,000, and a contingency of $571,000.

If we (the architects) did the planning correctly and they (the contractors) do their job, there may be some change orders, but there shouldn't be $571,000 worth," Polk said.

Polk said the work should be finished by April or May, 1987.

The jail expansion is supposed to be paid for from the proceeds of the penny sales tax, approved by the voters in November for construction of the jail, renovations of the courthouse and building a road into the jail off U.S. Highway 17-92.

Those proceeds are estimated at $136 million. The tax, under state law, can be levied for one year only and will expire Dec. 31.

Salvadorans: Let 'Em Stay

Some good may come from the U.S. government's recent crackdown on people providing sanctuary for Salvadoran refugees. Publicity surrounding the crackdown apparently stirred widespread American concern for the Salvadorans. Religious groups such as the American Jewish Committee, the U.S. Catholic Conference and the National Association of Evangelicals have now joined human-rights organizations in supporting legislation to halt Salvadoran deportations. Continuing support is essential to ensure congressional action this year.

The Reagan administration could end the dispute instantly by granting Salvadorans "extended voluntary departure" status, which would allow them to stay in the United States until conditions improved in El Salvador. Such status has been granted refugees from Afghanistan, Ethiopia, Poland and Uganda. But U.S. officials apparently fear that sheltering Salvadorans would reflect badly on U.S. policy in Central America. They insist that most undocumented Salvadorans come to this country in search of jobs. Most of those caught are deported. A few get political asylum, which requires a person to show justified fear of being singled out for persecution. In 1984 the Immigration and Naturalization Service granted asylum to 503 Salvadorans and refused it to more than 13,000.

Salvadorans come to the United States for a complex mix of reasons. Economic hardship undoubtedly plays a part, but more important is fear of the generalized violence that attends the conflict between the Salvadoran government and leftist guerrillas. Although not true political refugees, the Salvadorans need a temporary haven, which legislation introduced by Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., and Rep. Joe Moakley, D-Mass., would provide. The bill has 154 co-sponsors in the House and 23 in the Senate. It would suspend deportations while the General Accounting Office studied conditions in El Salvador and in refugee camps established for Salvadorans in nearby countries. The GAO also would attempt to discover what happens to Salvadorans forced to return. U.S. officials say that most go unharmed; sanctuary supporters say many are killed.

DeConcini and Moakley have tried before to win temporary refuge for the Salvadorans. They think they can succeed this year because of recent attention on the Salvadorans' plight and on government actions against sanctuary workers. The anti-sanctuary campaign has died down, but the need to plead the Salvadorans' case remains. Letters or telephone calls to DeConcini, Moakley and other members of the House and Senate would help.

Who's In Charge?

A new rule requiring members of the U.S. Davis Cup team to sign a pledge of good conduct may be necessary, but it isn't being issued by the right officials.

The pledge was demanded by Louisiana-Pacific, a sponsor of the U.S. team. Louisiana-Pacific's intrusion only clouds the line between athletic competition and the growing commercialism of sport.

Tennis stars John McEnroe and Jimmy Connors both quit the team in protest against the new rule. Although they have profited from commercial sponsors, they refuse to play under the new rule.

Rules are supposed to be enforced during match play. Referees and judges who preside at matches are allowed to warn, take points or even fine if a player's behavior is not appropriate.

It is the officials who should get tougher and make players forfeit matches for un-sportsmanlike conduct. A few forfeits would put an end to it. It is not a matter that should be left up to commercial sponsors to enforce.

Time To Reverse Arms-Spending Orgy

The recent House action in freezing military spending for the coming fiscal year at last year's level is a long-overdue step toward common sense. It will, however, still leave the military budget at the highest level in our national history, despite the fact that we are not at war and no one is seriously threatening us. I have believed for many years that military spending should be cut substantially — not just frozen at the swollen, wasteful levels of the present. There is justification for a 25-percent cut to force the Pentagon and the Congress into making some hardheaded choices among competing national priorities, foreign policy objectives and weapons systems. Such a cut would help get rid of sloppy procurement practices, cost overruns and a preposterous nuclear overkill.

A major reason why the House balked at Reagan's defense budget is the growing evidence that simply dumping more and more money into the Pentagon does not mean more national defense. Veteran reporter James McCartney summed it up recently: "Four years after the launching of President Reagan's $1.1-trillion defense buildup, the nation is producing fewer combat aircraft, has fewer land-based intercontinental missiles and fewer strategic bombers — and the size of the Armed Forces is just about the same."

"The input in money hasn't been matched by the output in stronger defense," says Republican Sen. Charles Grassley of Iowa. "It is clear now that we put too much money out too quickly," says Democratic Sen. Lawton Chiles of Florida.

Retired Admiral Gene LaRocque's respected Center for Defense Information has recently made a compelling case for freezing the defense budget at last year's level without sacrificing any important part of our defense.

In 1980, the Pentagon budget was $144 billion. This year, President Reagan asked for $322 billion, which the House cut to $292.6 billion — still more than double the budget of just six years ago. The basic reason for the wild explosion in arms outlays is that Congress capitulated in 1981 and 1982 to the carelessly conceived Reagan military expansion. Instead of choosing carefully from the Pentagon's perennially expensive shopping list of new weapons, Congress bought everything on the list — the MX, the B-1, new cruise missiles, new aircraft carriers, reconditioned old battleships and now Star Wars.

The problem with authorizing all these new weapons in peacetime is that the start-up costs appear seductively small, but they quickly escalate into gigantic costs for 10, 20, 30 or 40 years to come, depending on the deployment schedules and the life of the weapon.

Once a new weapon is authorized by Congress it is almost impossible to halt its development because it quickly gathers a cheering force of Pentagon and congressional advocates, defense contractors seeking profits, and defense workers seeking jobs — plus congressmen trying to please their constituent pressure groups.

As matters now stand, 39 percent of all federal income taxes will go to the military.

The time has come for Congress to reverse the arms-spending orgy and to protect the American public against a military juggernaut that is escalating out of control. The recent House action is the best evidence we have that at long last Congress may be assuming a more responsible role on the side of sanity and safety.

Surgery Still Best For Stones

By Elizabeth Pennell
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — For at least the next decade, the 1 million Americans a year who discover they have gallstones can expect to continue to pay $1 billion for surgery to have their gallbladders removed and their pain relieved.

Dr. Thomas LaMont, chief of gastroenterology at Boston University Medical Center, says non-surgical treatment of gallstones is still in its infancy.

While using ultrasonic waves to chop up stones seems to work for kidneys, the technique when applied to the gallstones can cause complications in the lungs and leaves fragments inside the gallbladder to cause new problems, according to Dr. Johnson Thistle, professor of medicine at the Mayo School of Medicine in Rochester, Minn.

And daily pill-taking for one or two years dissolves stones in only about half the people taking this medication.

Many researchers are still leary of a new procedure called contact dissolution in which liquid ether is inserted into the gallbladder to eat away stones.

The gallbladder acts as a receptacle for the collection of bile, a dark fluid that aids in digestion and which is manufactured by the liver. Although the gallbladder plays an important role in digestion, the body can function with the gallbladder removed.

Gallstones are lumps of solid material that form in the gallbladder. They range in size from a tiny speck to an inch or more in diameter.

LaMont said improved understanding of gallstone formation, most of which are consist of cholesterol, has provided researchers with leads to new treatments and possible prevention of this common, painful problem.

"In a decade, we'll have a very effective, rapid medical treatment," he said.

He and his colleagues have identified a protein in mucous that may provide the scaffolding around which cholesterol clusters. In animals, excess cholesterol stimulates secretion of the protein, mucin, which may prompt stone formation.

"It may be that mucin serves as a glue to hold the stone together," said LaMont. Inhibiting mucin secretion may retard stone formation, while drugs that dissolve the protein could result in faster destruction of existing stones.

No Cease-Fire In Press-Government War

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — The revolving door through which some reporters leave for big government jobs — and later return to the media — can be a tricky apparatus, and every so often someone gets his foot caught.

That's what happened to Leslie Gelb, who went back to work at The New York Times after serving two years as director of the State Department's bureau of politico-military affairs. Gelb's predicament raises interesting questions about this continuing traffic between the world of government secrets and a profession that is supposed to dig them out.

Could a former government official take advantage of his clout when he becomes a reporter again? Sure. Did Gelb? No.

In fact, his brief State Department career cost him a story. But that didn't keep some people — including, apparently, the State Depart-

WASHINGTON WORLD

Handling Covert Aid

By Robert Shepard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The CIA has been much abused in recent years for its role in providing covert military aid to various foreign governments or factions. Sen. Malcolm Wallop is proposing to spare the agency by giving the job to the Pentagon.

The Wyoming Republican offered the idea during recent debate on the defense authorization bill, saying the Pentagon — not the CIA — has the expertise needed to hand out military aid in a manner to make it truly effective.

Wallop did not press for a vote on his amendment, which was fortunate since the idea is fraught with difficulties, as indicated by the response from some of Wallop's colleagues.

It was agreed, however, that the idea would be given due consideration by the Senate Intelligence and Armed Services committees.

Wallop said the military and paramilitary aid provided by the CIA to various foreign groups has often proven to be less effective than it should have been — "In other words, our side has lost."

"It does precious little good to send hundreds of millions of dollars of equipment unless it is done according to proper military criteria with certain military expertise," Wallop told his colleagues.

Wallop also noted the domestic and international furor that develops when it is revealed "that this or that liberation movement is assisted by the CIA."

His idea is to have specially trained U.S. military personnel, operating in small teams, "go in and help organize and assist and develop deterrent resistance to all kinds of Soviet military entanglements in various countries around the world."

It was unclear from Wallop's remarks why he thinks there would be less furor at the disclosure that U.S. military men, presumably in uniform, were operating secretly or openly in some foreign country.

Such missions clearly would constitute a degree of U.S. military intervention in foreign conflicts. Critics could reasonably ask where the line would be drawn between a few small "teams" of advisers and expanded forces that could become a significant factor in the fighting.

World opinion aside, many members of Congress could be expected to loudly oppose the assignment of U.S. soldiers to foreign conflicts. Even in El Salvador, where the United States is openly and formally aiding the government, Congress has been obsessed with holding to a limit of 55 U.S. military advisers and keeping them well out of the actual fighting.

Wallop said the CIA does not particularly want the job of providing covert aid to foreign military forces, but it is doubtful the Pentagon would be much more enthusiastic about taking on the task and all the pitfalls involved therein.

Chairman Dave Durenberger, R-Minn., of the Senate Intelligence Committee, responding to Wallop's proposal, said the president already has the authority to designate some agency other than the CIA to be responsible for "special activities" such as covert aid, but has never found the need to do so.

WILLIAM RUSHER

British Civility A Myth?

LONDON — The death of 38 soccer fans, most of them Italian, in the course of a riot by partisans of an English team at the European Cup Final in Brussels has shaken this basically good-natured country to its core.

The tragedy has brought into sharp question some of England's most cherished values: a love of sport, tempered by good sportsmanship, and a worldwide reputation for imperturbable civility. How can such qualities be reconciled with the sight of hundreds of crazed English soccer fans charging into stands reserved for supporters of an Italian club, before the match even began? True, nobody could foresee the collapse of a retaining wall, which was the proximate cause of most of the deaths. But people who set such human tidal waves in motion are rightly held responsible for the results, whether foreseeable or not; and it is greatly to England's credit that there is absolutely no visible disposition here to find excuses, let alone deny responsibility.

What probably bothers the English most is the damage this episode has done to their self-image. These people, who traditionally "hate a scene," whose national radio news is parodied as announcing unflappably that "The world came to an end at eleven minutes past two this afternoon" — these English, who privately discount the horrors of Northern Ireland as all one could expect of the Irish, and who still tend to think of the Welsh and the Scots as wild tribes upon their borders, are beginning to wonder if they themselves are as schizoid as some critics consider the Japanese: all bowing and tea ceremonies on top, but capable of metamorphosing instantly into crazed, banzai-shouting killers.

It probably isn't so bad as all that, but the English would be well advised to modify their self-image a bit in the direction of realism. Those Liverpool soccer fans are no doubt a pretty rough crowd, but they aren't all that far from the modern English norm. Granted, most of them were probably at least a little drunk. It took that quintessence of liberalism, The Washington Post, to blame their behavior on "bleak industrial cities" where "wages are low" and "unemployment is extremely high." One of the reasons unemployment is so high in Britain is that unemployment compensation is so generous. These lads, after all, had no trouble making it from Liverpool to Brussels for the match.

Gelb couldn't recall ever having seen the document during his two years at State. Just to make sure, though, he called friends in his old office and was assured that they were unaware of the document and the policy it described.

For the determinedly scrupulous Gelb, the knowledge that key officials in the State Department had been left in the dark all these years was something he could not ethically write about, since it stemmed directly from the two years he had worked for the government. So he didn't include the information in his story.

Former government employees are forbidden to divulge secrets they learned in their jobs. This time, a meticulous reporter apparently decided he couldn't reveal that, while he was a government muck-a-muck, he hadn't been told a secret that he should have been told.

The mind reels.

1985: The Year Of Champions

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

When you look at a map of Florida, Seminole County is one of the smallest. But, when it comes to prep athletic competition, many of the bigger counties are dwarfs compared to Seminole.

Seminole County was in the state spotlight on a number of occasions in the 1984-85 school year. Seminole High brought home state championships in boys track (4A) and the decathlon. Lyman High's girls soccer team won the state title after finishing second in 1983-84. Lake Brantley's boys soccer team wasn't even considered the top team in the county during the regular season in 1984-85, but went on to finish second in the state.

The county also had its share of impressive individual performers including Seminole High freshman Shownda Martin, Tribe miler Billy Penick and Seminole triple jumper Alvin Jones in track and field, Oviedo swimmer Andy Gill, Lyman high jumper Ralph Philpott and Oviedo golfer Cheryl Morley to name a few.

Here is a look at some of the highlights of Seminole County athletics in 1984-85:

FOOTBALL: LAKE MARY 'RAMPAGE'

Best record — Lake Mary went on a "Rampage" in 1984 as coach Harry "The Ram" Nelson's team soared to a 9-2 record and the Five Star Conference and 4A-9 District titles. The Rams bowed out in the region title game though to a powerful Winter Park team. Nelson's two-year record at Lake Mary High is 15-5. Seminole's Jerry Posey and Lake Brantley's David Tullis retired from the coaching ranks. Dave "Mr. Intensity" Mosure replaced Posey and Fred Almon succeeded Tullis.

Biggest upset — Seminole High's tenacious defense, which claimed a number of victims in 1984, held the powerful Apopka Blue Darters in check en route to the biggest upset of the season, 21-7.

1,000 yard rusher — Oviedo's Charles "Pop" Bowers, a senior, was the only county rusher to gain over 1,000 yards in 1984.

Player of the year — Seminole's rugged defense was anchored by senior linebacker Mike DeBose who was named the Evening Herald's Player of the Year.

Biggest crowd — Some USFL teams can't even draw as many fans as jammed the Lake Mary High stadium for the Rams encounter with county rival Lake Brantley. There were more than 11,000 in attendance at that game which was also given one of the biggest buildups of any prep football game during the 1984 season. This game was what school spirit is all about.

VOLLEYBALL: HOWELL, OVIEDO TOPS

Conference champions — Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks and coach Teresa Tinsley won the Five Star Conference title in 1984 while Oviedo's Lady Lions claimed the Orange Belt crown for the fifth straight season. Lake Howell bowed out in the district championship game while the Lady Lions and coach Anita Carlson won the district and the region (for the first time) before falling one win short of state in the sectionals.

Heavy hitters — The Oviedo trio of Mary Lokers, Fran Foster and Stephanie Nelson gave the Lady Lions one of the most devastating attacks in the state. Lake Howell had a hard-hitting pair in seniors Beth Saunders and Eileen Thiebauth and Lyman's Kim Forsyth was extremely hard to stop when she was on.

Wildest hit — In a junior varsity match, Seminole's Cindy Bengel couldn't decide whether to go for a spike or a pass. So, instead, she headed the ball over the net. The official said it was a no-no.

Best all-around — Lake Howell's Saunders and Seminole senior Beth Nelson were two players who could do it all, serve, pass, set and spike. Both were First Team All County selections and Saunders was Player of the Year.

CROSS COUNTRY: RAM BOYS TAKE 4TH

Top boys team — Lake Mary's Rams and coach Mark Magee were not only the top team in the county and conference but were the surprise of the 4A State Meet by finishing fourth. That team consisted of Matt Palumbo, Ken Rohr, Bobby Howard, Harold Pitts, Jim Shepherd, Eric Peterson, John Amrhein and Tom Walt.

Top girls teams — Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks and coach Tom Hammontree, ranked first most of the season, had an off day at the 4A State Meet but still came away with a fourth place finish. That team included Lisa Samocki, Amy Ertel, Nancy Nystrom, Marsha Fonseca, Mary Fonseca and Michelle Spearman. In the 1A State Meet, Trinity Prep's Lady Saints took second place. Lake Brantley's Jim Marshall called it quits as head coach.

Top boys individual — Seminole junior Billy Penick took 10th place individually to make the All-State First Team.

Top girls individuals — Trinity Prep's Adrienne Follitowicz won the 1A individual title with teammate Katie Sams finishing third. Lake Howell's Samocki was sixth in the 4A race.

Dual state qualifiers — Seminole High was the only school in the county to qualify both its boys and girls teams for the 4A State Meet.

BOYS BASKETBALL: TRIBE DOMINATES

Top team — In a year that Volusia County teams dominated play in the conference and district, Seminole High was the top county team as its only loss within the county was to rival Lake Mary. Seminole's Chris Marlette and Lake Brantley's Bob Peterson joined the growing list of county coaches who stepped off the hardwood. Bill Klein replaced Marlette and Steve Jucker took over at Brantley.

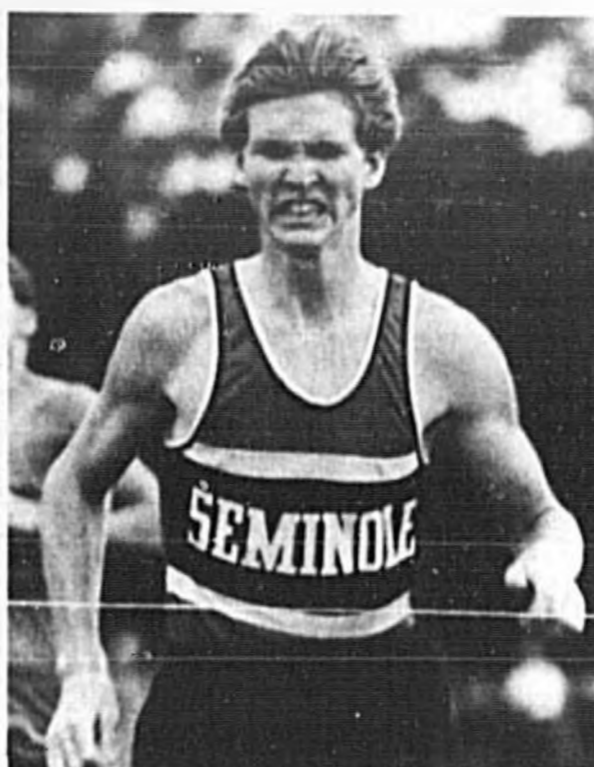

Leading scorer — Lake Howell guard Efreem Brooks pumped 20.6 points a game to take the scoring title and he was also the Evening Herald's Player of the Year. Brooks will play for Seminole Community College in 1985-86.

Leading rebounder — Lake Brantley's 6-8 center Greg Courtney led the county in rebounding with a 9.1 average and he also led in blocked shots at 1.8 per game. Courtney will play his college ball next season at Valencia Community College.

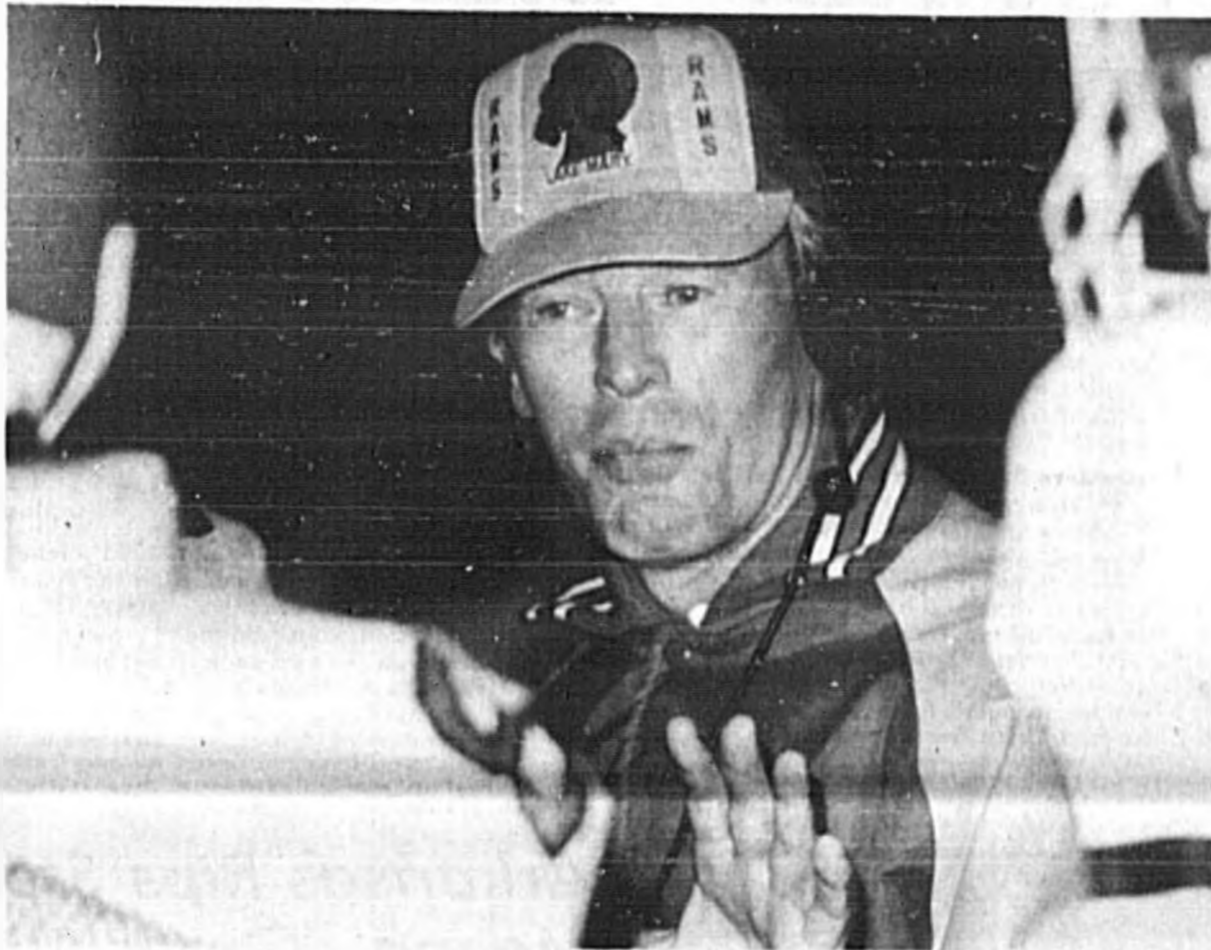

Upset of the year — Lake Mary was one of the most inconsistent teams in the county this past season but, when they were at their best, the Rams could beat anyone. Lake Mary proved that by knocking off Five Star champs Seabreeze, then Kim Mitchell kicks toward a 4A title.

Billy Penick strains to win state mile.

Lake Mary defensive coach Bob Becker makes point with the district champs.

Shownda Martin

Troy Turner

Sandy Gillies

Rod Metz

the top ranked 3A team in the state.

Fabulous frosh — Seminole's Craig Walker, a 6-8 center, and Andre Whitney led the Seminole freshman team to another unbeaten season then joined the varsity team where they contributed heavily in the latter part of the year.

GIRLS BASKETBALL: 3 WIN 20 GAMES

20-win club — It was a banner year for girls basketball in Seminole County in 1984-85. Three county teams all surpassed the 20-win mark this season including Seminole, 25-6, Lake Brantley, 24-6 and Lake Mary, 23-8. Lake Mary has won 20 or more games four years in a row. Seminole coach Ron Merthie stepped down and was replaced by Charles Steele. Brantley coach Renny bowed out and was replaced by Cindy Frank.

District champions — After trimming Lake Brantley in the semifinals, Lake Mary went on to upset Seminole to claim the 4A-9 District Championship. The Lady Rams, who have won three district titles in four years, lost a close one in the region to Orlando Evans.

Conference champs — Sanford's Lady Seminoles won the Five Star Conference title for the third time in the last four years.

Top player — Seminole High's Mona Benton was named the Evening Herald's Player of the Year for the second time in the last three years. Benton led the county in scoring (20 points per game), assists (5.9) and steals (4.2). Benton will begin her college career at Florida Junior College. Seminole teammate Catherine "Kitty" Anderson, led the county in rebounding with 14 per game.

Ice in her veins — Another Lake Brantley standout, Sherry "Ice" Asplen, played significant roles in two of the biggest upsets of the '84-85 season. She hit the winning shot with two seconds left as the Lady Patriots knocked off then number one (4A) DeLands and she made the key free throws that led Brantley to an upset of then sixth-rated Seminole.

Four year starter — Kim Averill can not only claim that she was a four-year starter for Lake Mary's Lady Rams, but that she played in every county basketball game of the school's existence. Lake Mary High opened in 1981-82 when Averill was a freshman. Averill will play at Mercer University in Georgia in 1985-86.

Long shot — Lake Brantley's "Downtown"

Michelle Brown heaved in an 80-foot shot at the airtight buzzer in a game against Daytona Beach Mainland. Brown's shot is believed to be the longest ever by a women's basketball player.

BOYS SOCCER: PATRIOTS 2ND IN STATE

District champions — Lake Brantley's Patriots peaked at the right time in the 1984-85 season as they won the district, region and section titles. The Patriots and coach Jim Brody moved into the state tournament where they won in the semifinals before dropping a tough 1-0 decision in the state title game.

Conference champs — Lake Howell's Silver Hawks, the top ranked team in the state much of the season, won the Five Star Conference championship but were knocked out of the district tournament by Lake Mary's Rams in one of the biggest upsets of the year.

GIRLS SOCCER: IT'S ALL LYMAN, 24-0

State champions — Lyman's Lady Greyhounds laid the foundation for a soccer dynasty in 1983-84 when they went unbeaten before losing in the state finals. In 1984-85, the Lady Greyhounds went one step further by winning the State Championship with a 24-0 record. Lyman has all but one player returning for the 1985-86 season. Coach Tom Barnes and his Lady Greyhounds have lost just one game in two years.

BOYS TRACK: TRIBE TAKES STATE

State champions — Seminole High and coach Ken Brauman won the 4A State Championship in impressive fashion in 1985. Seminole won every meet it competed in during the 1985 season and was never really threatened, even in the state meet. Seminole was led by individual state champions Billy Penick, in the mile, and Alvin Jones, in the triple jump. Other state place winners were Frank Barnett, second in the long hurdles and Leo Peterson, second in the long jump and triple jump.

Place winners — Lake Mary's Chris Palumbo capped a fine career by placing in the two mile while Lake Howell pole vaulter Dylan Rowe also placed.

GIRLS TRACK: SEMINOLES ARE 4TH

Shownda Show — Seminole's frosh phenom capped an incredible season with a state championship in the 880 run. Shownda set a record in the 880 every time she ran. It was a good year for distance runners as Lake Howell's Lisa Samocki and Lake Mary's Jill Buddenhagen each had excellent state meets. Fran Gordon, a Lake Mary senior, was second in the 440 dash.

WRESTLING: RAMS, TURNERS EXCEL

The Streak — Lake Mary's powerhouse ran its dual meet winning streak to 26 before losing to Miami Sunset. The Rams of coach Frank Schwartz won the Five Star Conference, district and regional championships. Schwartz stepped down after the season and was replaced by Doug Peters, his top aide.

Ob Brothers — Seminole's Turner brothers — Troy and Tracy — had great state tournaments. Sophomore Troy placed second while freshman Tracy was fifth. Lake Howell's Greg Buckley was fourth. Lyman's Chad Dublin was also fifth. Lake Mary's Bill Caughell and Scott Ross were also fifth. Rob Harmon placed second in the 3A state tournament.

SWIMMING: MCILL, JANOVALL TOPS

Individual titles — Oviedo's Andy Gill and Lake Brantley's Henrik Jangvall picked up individual state titles in the 3A and 4A meets, respectively. Gill, who will attend the University of Texas on a scholarship, won the 200-yard backstroke. Jangvall won the 500-yard free style.

GIRLS TENNIS: LADY HAWKS SHINE

Twins are tough — The Enriquez twins — Trish and Catherine — along with Dulce sisters — Emmylou and Edie — led the Lake Howell girls to their finest tennis season to date. Lyman's Kim Faulkner closed out a fine prep career.

BOYS TENNIS: PATRIOTS DOUBLE FUN

Mance, Brail No. 1 — Mark Mance, one of the top players in Florida, teamed with Rich Brail to win the state 4A doubles title. The Patriots were unbeaten in dual meets during the year and captured the district championship.

BASEBALL: LYMAN CAPTURES DISTRICT

District champs — Lyman's Greyhounds and coach Bob McCullough, behind the strong right arm of Derek Livernols, upended Lake Mary for the 4A-9 District title. Lake Mary was the Five Star Conference champ. Lake Brantley coach Gary Smith stepped down after the season.

Hitting leaders — Oviedo's Eric Shogren won the county batting crown with a .500 average. Lake Mary's Rod Metz, the Evening Herald's Player of the Year, was second in hitting at .426 and led the county in homers with nine and runs batted in with 40.

Pitching leaders — Lake Mary's Anthony Laszic and Lake Brantley's Brad Dunn both finished at 9-1 while Livernols was 9-2. Livernols led in strikeouts with 111 and Brantley's Tim Smith had the lowest ERA at 1.78. Livernols signed with the Boston Red Sox this week and begins his pro career Monday.

SOFTBALL: LADY HAWKS WIN 20

Best record — Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks and coach Jo Luciano compiled a Lake Howell 20-6 record including the West Orange Invitational title.

Leading hitters — Lake Howell's Eileen Thiebauth led the county in hitting with a .533 average and tied with Oviedo's Mikki Eby for the runs batted in lead with 32. Lyman's Denise Stevens led in home runs and triples with five each.

GOLF: MORLEY, PATRIOTS SHINE

District title — Oviedo's Cheryl Morley, who played the course with the boys all year, moved over the distaff side for the district and won it all.

Patriots have drive — Coach Jim Estocin steered his Lady Brantley Patriots to the district team title and a strong showing at the state meet in Sarasota.

MISCELLANEOUS: RAH...RAH...RAH

MVT — Most Valuable Trainers. Student, Jimmy Terwilleger, Seminole. Faculty, Roger Mosure, Lake Mary.

Best dance team — Lake Marionettes.

Best impression of a dance team — Lake Mary boys soccer team doing the Marionettes.

Worst impression of a dance team — Lake Mary boys soccer team doing an impression of their earlier impression of the Lake Marionettes.

Twins City — Could have been another name for Lake Howell High this school year. The twins included James and John Phillips (seniors), Jerry and Jeff Phillips (sophomores) of soccer, Michelle and Rochelle Spearman and Marsha and Mary Fonseca of cross county and track, Catherine and Patricia Enriquez of tennis and last but certainly not least Jolee and Kellee Johnson of volleyball and basketball.

No. 1 Fan — Oviedo's Mark Switzer. Mark's in a wheelchair but you can't go to an Oviedo sporting event without seeing him. He also uses excellent positioning to form the background in Evening Herald photographs, usually right behind the screen near the third base dugout.

As I said at this point last year, for all the athletes, coaches, fans and everyone else who made high school athletics in Seminole County a success and my job extremely enjoyable, as is evidence by this novel, this Coke, Pepsi, Diet Sprite, Bud, Bud Light, Perrier, is for you.

Lendl, Connors In Semis

PARIS (UPI) — Jimmy Connors, in perhaps his last chance to reach the final of the only Grand Slam event he has never won, today meets Ivan Lendl at the French Open tennis championships.

The 32-year-old American third seed has lost to Lendl in their last four meetings but said, "Over my career I've played my best tennis in the big events."

Lendl, the defending French champion, is at his most dominant on clay courts and in five matches so far this year on the slow red clay of Roland Garros stadium has not conceded a set.

The 25-year-old Czechoslovak already has four Grand Prix titles to his credit this year and is clearly in top physical shape.

"I still feel very good," Lendl said after defeating Argentina's Martin Jaite in the quarterfinals with a patient but clinical display of concentration and strength.

Connors is in his fourth French Open semifinal. He has never reached the final.

The other men's semifinal, between top seed John McEnroe and fourth seed Mats Wilander, may be a less passionate encounter — depending on McEnroe's mood.

Last year, McEnroe defeated Connors and Lendl beat Wilander, both in straight sets, then Lendl came back from two sets down to overcome McEnroe in a four-hour, five-set final.

Wilander won the French title in 1982, and defeated McEnroe in the quarterfinals the following year en route to another appearance in the final.

McEnroe has won their last four matches.

"I shall have to try to keep McEnroe in the back court and make him run as much as possible," the 20-year-old Wilander said. "I must win one of the first two sets."

Cheering loudly for McEnroe and Connors Friday will be Martina Navratilova, in hopes that at least an American will win the men's title at the French Open.

"I'm pulling for McEnroe or Jimmy," she said. "It would be a nice thing for them to win it — just to get that off their backs."

No American man has won in Paris since Tony Trabert in 1954 and 1955.

Navratilova will meet Chris Evert Lloyd in the women's final Saturday — a repeat of last year's final and the fourth time in the last five Grand Slam tournaments that the two have met in the title match.

The top two seeds had straight-sets victories in Thursday's semifinals. Navratilova beat Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany 6-4, 6-4 and Evert Lloyd ended the run of 15-year-old Argentine Gabriela Sabatini 6-4, 6-1.

Navratilova last year won the women's doubles, with partner Pam Shriver, as well as the singles. This year she is top seed in three competitions.

Friday, she and Shriver play fellow-Americans Betsy Nagelsen and Anne White for a place in the women's doubles final.

Afterwards, Navratilova and Heinz Gunthardt of Switzerland Thursday are scheduled to play a mixed doubles semifinal against Sabrina Goleis and Goran Pripc of Yugoslavia.

PARIS (UPI) — Order of play for the principal matches Friday on the 17th day of the French Open Championships.

Arkansas Rips Stanford; Magno, 'Canes Nip OSU

Baseball

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Arkansas coach Norm DeBriyn said his team seemed reluctant to show up at the park for its College World Series clash with Stanford.
 The Cardinal probably wished the Razorbacks would have stayed home.
 "The players didn't seem real anxious to get out here and play today," DeBriyn said after the No. 4 Razorbacks eliminated No. 1 Stanford 10-4 Thursday.
 "We hadn't been swinging the bats very well, even in practice. Today we busted loose a little," he said.
 In the nightcap, Kevin Sheary and Rick Raether combined for a six-hitter and Chris Magno slammed a run-scoring single in the eighth, lifting No. 6 Miami to a 2-1 elimination victory over No. 2 Oklahoma State.
 Arkansas, 51-13 on the year and 2-1 in the series, banged out 12 hits to advance to a berth Saturday against No. 3 Texas, 62-12 and 2-0. Miami, 61-16 and 2-1. Saturday plays No. 5 Mississippi State, 50-13 and 2-0. Texas and Mississippi State clash tonight.

George: Personally Vindicated — Billy: Players Get Credit

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the old days, had it turned out this way, you'd have seen an entirely different Billy Martin.

There would've been no holding him back.

He'd be walking around 10 feet tall, trying to look a little humble without doing a very good job of it, anxious to take on whomever or whatever was next in line just to see if he could top himself.

Not this time.

Naturally, it make him feel good that George Steinbrenner is giving him all the credit for the New York Yankees' big turnaround and that Steinbrenner is saying he feels "personally vindicated" for bringing him back to manage the Yankees a fourth time. But Martin isn't letting any of that go to his head.

"George has been super and it's nice to hear the things he has been saying about me, but you know as well as I do, the players make the manager," Martin said, standing up at his desk in the Yankee Stadium office before Tuesday night's game with the A's.

"The players are the ones who have been doing it, not me," Martin went on. "They've been taking the extra base, they've been working the suicide squeeze, they've been doing everything. We were 5-5 on our last road trip and we should've been 9-1."

Martin replaced Yogi Berra on April 28 at which time the Yankees had won but six of their 16 games and were last in the American League East. The general reaction to Martin's return was negative. Oh, no, not again, groaned most of the voices in the anvil chorus.

Where there was such a clamor more than a month ago over Martin coming back and Berra being shown the door, there is only silence now. Steinbrenner obviously is enjoying the whole scenario. Where are the critics now, he wonders.

How come no one is telling him what a genius he is for going against public opinion and bringing back Martin, under whom the Yankees had won 20 of 31 before Tuesday night's contest and were tied with last year's World Series champion Tigers for third place.

Steinbrenner says it's all Martin's doing. The manager is the one responsible for turning the Yankees around.

"Some people say it's Don Baylor's leadership or Dave Winfield's that got us going, Baloney," the Yankees' boss insisted. "The credit goes to Billy Martin."

Those words from a man who had harshly criticized Martin before were satisfying for the Martin, to say the least. He talked about another aspect, though.

"My greatest satisfaction has been the way the players have responded,"

Milton Richman
UPI EDITOR-SPORTS

Martin said, "They've made the job a pleasure, I'm eating good now. Much better than before. I just think it was a shame about all the junk that was said and written when I came back. Some said they didn't think I could manage anymore. I never had any doubt in my mind I could still manage. I don't even think that was the real issue with those who were criticizing. They were making it a matter of personalities between Yogi Berra and Billy Martin."

Martin claims there's no difference in him now from before, but there is, and even those players who were with the club his last time around have noticed it.

"He's more subdued," Winfield said. "The fires still burn inside him and he wants to win as much as he always did, but he's more restrained than he was before. The way he's with the umpires now is a good example. You know how he always used to kick dirt all the time when he was arguing a decision and he'd get mad. He isn't doing that anymore. Look, we'd appreciate the way he'd support us and go after the umpires, but the umpires didn't. That only made us a bigger target for them."

Martin firmly believes the Yankees can catch the Blue Jays and win the East. He wouldn't be Billy Martin if he didn't think that way. He hasn't changed that much.

The one thing he doesn't want is a strike.

"I hope it doesn't happen," he said. "I'd like to see both sides come to some kind of agreement on salaries. I think there should be a reasonable limit to them. A guy hits .240 and gets $400,000. I think that's ridiculous. Owners have to make a living, too. If there's a strike, who are we hurting? We're hurting the fans. How much can they pay to see a ball game? Players salaries go up, then the price of tickets have to go up. That's not right."

Martin's $400,000 plus makes him the highest paid manager. A guy in his office asked him how much he thought he'd be getting if he still was playing. "I'd be making a million," Martin said without blinking. "That would be wrong, too."

Apopka-West Seminole Takes 11th Straight Win; Munson Keys Goldenrod

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer
ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Apopka-West Seminole has won three one-run ballgames in its last four outings. And all three were by the same 8-7 score.

Thursday night, Apopka-West Seminole built a 6-0 lead but had to survive some shaky fielding before coming out on top of West Oak Ridge, 8-7, in District 14 Big League play at Lake Brantley High.

Apopka-West Seminole not only ran its record to 11-0 with the win, but also strengthened its team as coach Richard Coffey added Apopka standouts Mike Hinde and Tony Johnson to the roster.

Apopka-West Seminole returns to action Sunday in a doubleheader against Winter Garden with the first game starting at 5 p.m. at Lake Brantley High. Monday night at 7:30, Apopka-West Seminole will host Oviedo's Seminoles in a makeup game.

While starting pitcher Kenny Chapdelaine sailed through the first four innings, Apopka-West Seminole scored four times in the first and two in the third for a 6-0 lead.

In the bottom of the first, Tim Bruhl led off with a single, stole both second and third, and after Kevin Bass walked, scored on Jason Andrews' double. Mike Brown followed with a base hit to score Bass. Chapdelaine singled in Andrews and Brown scored on a balk.

Baseball

Meanwhile, Chapdelaine held West Oak Ridge scoreless on just one hit over the first four frames. Bass came on in relief in the fifth and that's when West Oak Ridge came alive and when Apopka-West Seminole's defense had a lapse.

In the bottom of the fifth, Hinde started to pay dividends quickly as one of the two new additions to the team slugged a two-run homer over the center field fence which Coffey estimated as a 425-foot shot. Hinde's homer gave Apopka-West Seminole a 8-3 lead.

West Oak Ridge came back with two runs in the top of the sixth with both scoring on Todd Lucas' bloop single. In the seventh, Arnick walked, stole second, and scored when Santiago reached on an error. With two outs, Arnick scored on Lucas' single to pull West Oak Ridge within 8-7. Bass reached back though, and struck out the next batter to end the game.

GOLDENROD WINS 2 MORE

The Goldenrod Elks improved to 13-0 for the season with a pair of victories over Azalea Park Thursday night in District 3 Big

Scott "Thurman" Munson is tearing up Big League.

League play at Azalea Park.

The first game was a completion of a tied ball game from earlier in the season. After seven innings, it was knotted at 10-10. Chris Davis pitched the top half of the eighth for Goldenrod and Tom Boucher dove in Kevin Lienard with the winning run.

In that game, Eddie Taubensee was 2 for 4 with two home runs and five RBIs. Scott "Thurman" Munson and Damon Marlette added two hits each.

In game two, Dave Marlette and Lienard combined on the mound for a four-hitter as the Elks blanked Azalea Park, 9-0.

Munson gave Goldenrod all it needed with a three-run homer over the centerfield fence in the first inning. Munson was 3 for 4 for the game. Taubensee, Victor Martinez, Davis, and Lienard contributed two hits each to the 14-hit attack.

Sun Bank Takes American League

Baseball

Sun Bank clinched the Sanford Little American League title some time ago, but it is still playing like there were no tomorrow. Thursday night, James Jackson and Derrick Taylor combined on a five-hitter as Sun Bank rolled to another win, 12-2, over Butch's Chevron at Westside Field.

Sun Bank, 15-0, will try to complete its perfect season tonight at 5 when it takes on Atlantic Bank in the season finale at Bay Avenue Field.

In Thursday's game, Sun Bank broke a 1-1 tie with five runs in the top of the second and never looked back. Key hits in the inning included Taylor's two-run double and RBI singles by Lorenzo Polk and Keith Armond.

Al Perkins was 3 for 4 with a pair of doubles and three runs to lead Sun Bank at the plate. Taylor added two hits and three runs while Polk also contributed two hits.

Bernard Eady had a pair of singles to lead the way for Butch's Chevron.

MEDCO TRIMS ATLANTIC

Atlantic Bank and Medco Pharmacy did all their scoring in the middle innings Thursday, and it was Medco that was more productive as it came away with a 12-6 victory at Fort Mellon Park. Floyd Henderson was the winning pitcher for Medco as he allowed just three hits.

Henderson, Albert Anderson and Andre Stokes led the way for Medco at the plate with two hits each. Anthony Duval had all three hits for Atlantic Bank, and all were singles.

BARNES LIFTS ADCOCK

Melvin Barnes rapped a pair of home runs and a single and drove in four runs Thursday to lead Adcock Roofing to a 11-7 victory over McRobert's Tires in Sanford Pee Wee League action at Chase Park.

Barnes slammed a two-run shot in the first inning that pulled Adcock with 3-2. Barnes and Quint Hunt added solo homers in the second as Adcock Roofing took a 5-3 lead.

Audra Rawling was the winning pitcher for Adcock, allowing two hits while striking out seven. David Steindal's double and Darris Beamon's single were the only hits for McRobert's Tires.

In Thursday's second game at Chase Park, two hits each by Charlie Farmer and Derrick Brinson, combined with 12 walks, lifted Butch's Chevron to a 15-10 victory over Kokomo Tools.

Burns, Archer Share Lead At Westchester

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI) — Aside from sharing the opening round lead of the $500,000 Westchester Classic, George Burns and Ernie Gonzalez have something else in common.

Both are quite surprised to find themselves in the front of the pack.

Burns, at least a regular on the PGA circuit since 1976, has been in this position before, showing two victories. But Gonzalez is a rookie who has survived the cut only twice in 10 tournaments and his career earnings amount to $1,704.

Nevertheless, the 24-year-old

Golf

Californian sank four long birdie putts coming home Thursday to shoot a 5-under-par 66 and earn a share of the lead with Burns.

"I didn't hit the ball as solid as I like, but I putted really well," Gonzalez said. "I've been struggling all year and getting into a lot of trouble."

"I called my fiancée (in San Diego) this morning and she said 'go out and play a good one for me.' I guess I played a good one."

Burns was surprised at his standing on several counts. First, he couldn't get in a single practice round at the 6,722-yard Westchester Country Club course because of a drenching rain Wednesday and then he had heard some tall tales about how forbidding the rough was.

LPGA: OKAMOTO IN FRONT

MALVERN, Pa. (UPI) — Ayako Okamoto of Japan says she almost feels at home on the White Manor Country Club golf course.

Okamoto was a one-point leader after Thursday's first round of the $400,000 LPGA tournament sponsored by McDonald's.

She birdied the last three holes and used only 25 putts to shoot a 6-under-par 66. Myra Blackwelder of Oldsmar, Fla., who birdied six holes and bogeyed one, was in second with a 67.

Dennis Reduces 'Magic' To Just Another Johnson

NBA Playoffs

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Dennis Johnson, who has probably hit as many clutch shots in his NBA career as there are freckles splattered across his face, did it again.

And a man named Magic was reduced to being just another Johnson.

A play designed to give Boston star Larry Bird the final shot broke down Wednesday night and Bird, double-teamed as the clock dwindled to three seconds, whipped the ball back to Dennis Johnson, who drilled a 21-footer at the buzzer for the Celtics' 107-105 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers in Game 4 of the NBA championship.

Magic Johnson, who was defending Dennis Johnson on the play, was way out of position. All he could do was pray. And like many prayers, this one was answered. The answer was no.

"They took the shot we wanted them to take at the end," Magic said. "We wanted to make them throw up a 17- or 18-footer, and that's what we got. But the ball went in. We didn't want that."

The pressure shot deadlocked the series at 2-2. "After Larry got double-teamed down there, I expected to get the ball back," Dennis Johnson said. "I was the closest one to Larry and I was wide open. When I let it go I figured it had a 50-50 chance of going in."

The shot climaxed Dennis Johnson's best game of the series. He finished with 27 points, 12 assists and 7 rebounds. Magic Johnson, Dennis' point guard counterpart, had 20 points, 12 assists and 11 rebounds.

But Dennis easily won the Johnson & Johnson battle, hitting two clutch shots down the stretch before his game-winner.

With 7:30 left he hit a short jumper to put the Celtics ahead 93-92. He hit another short jumper with five minutes left to put Boston back on top 97-96.

Magic's best moment came with 19 seconds remaining when he followed up a miss by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, scoring from the lane to make it 105-105. But it turned out to be no more than a scene-setter for the other Johnson.

"There was nothing unusual about it," Magic said. "We doubled Larry, they kicked it back out to Dennis and he hit the shot. He's hit that shot before, I bet."

SPORTS

IN BRIEF

Top-Ranked Cowboys, Cowgirls Prepare For Silver Spurs Rodeo

KISSIMMEE — Top-ranked teenage cowboys and cowgirls will compete in the Florida High School Rodeo Finals, July 4-8, 1985 at the Silver Spurs Rodeo Arena near Kissimmee. The state's best high school ropers and riders will compete for scholarships and a chance to represent Florida in this summer's national finals, slated for late July in South Dakota.

The state finals will feature bareback riding, calf-roping, barrel racing, saddle bronc riding, steer wrestling and a crowning of the High School Rodeo Queen. The participants in each event will be the state's top 15 competitors, as determined by 13 high school rodeos held this year throughout the state.

The top four finishers each event will attend the national finals. Last year's Florida team was selected the number one high school rodeo team, in addition to receiving several other top titles.

The Florida High School Rodeo Finals will take place at 2 p.m. Thursday, July 4, at 7 p.m. on Friday, July 5 and at 5 p.m. Saturday, July 6. Tickets are $3 for adults, $2 for children and available at the gate. The Silver Spurs Rodeo Arena is located on Hwy. 192, one mile west of Turnpike Exit 65 and 15 miles east of Walt Disney World and I-4.

Seminole Sponsors Junior Golf

Seminole Golf Course will sponsor its annual Junior Program again this year for boys and girls ages 9 through 15.

Beginning on June 17 at 9 a.m. and continuing each Monday morning for six weeks, the program will sponsor group lessons using the new Seminole driving range and then nine holes of golf of supervised play.

Golf etiquette, rules and the basic areas of play will be taught and Juniors will establish a nine hole handicap at Seminole.

The Junior Golf Championship will be awarded with many other awards at the trophy party immediately following an eighteen hole tournament which will end the program on July 23.

For more information call the pro shop at 788-0667.

Pirates Slate June 18-19 Camp

The Pittsburgh Pirates will conduct a tryout camp for players between the ages of 16 and 22 years of age at Sanford Memorial Stadium Tuesday and Wednesday, June 18-19.

All American Legion Baseball players will need a permission slip from their coach or post commander or they will not be allowed to tryout at the camp.

The camp will start at 9 a.m. each day and will be completed when all players have a chance to tryout at the camp.

Astros Take 10th Straight Win

KISSIMMEE — Osceola's Astros continued to roll Thursday as they nipped the Fort Lauderdale Yankees, 10-9, for their 10th straight victory at Osceola Stadium.

Osceola plays a double-header at Winter Haven today. The Astros lead Winter Haven by 3½ games in the Florida State League Central Division.

Bob Parker singled and scored a run in three trips for the Astros.

Spinks Keeps Championship

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Jim MacDonald took a solid left punch in the nose from undisputed light heavyweight champion Michael Spinks in the eighth round and knew it was all over Thursday.

"It was either go down or have it (the nose) taken off of my face," said the unheralded challenger, who revealed that he suffered a hairline fracture of the nose during training three weeks earlier.

MacDonald dropped to one knee and referee Davey Pearl stopped the bout at 1:30 of the eighth round of the scheduled 12-round title fight.

Spinks, 175 pounds, complained after the fight that his left hand was sore from hitting the ex-Marine's head for more than seven rounds. He said he did not realize the nose was vulnerable.

"I kept hitting him in the wrong place and it was hurting my hand," said Spinks, now 27-0.

Favored Chief's Crown Receives Belmont's Post

Horse Racing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chief's Crown drew the inside post position and was promptly installed as 5-2 morning line favorite Thursday for the 117th running of the $512,900 Belmont Stakes, the final jewel of racing's Triple Crown.

It marks the third time the Bay Danzig colt has been made morning line favorite in the series. Third in the Kentucky Derby and second in the Preakness, the Roger Laurin-trained colt could become just the third horse to be favored in all three Triple Crown races and lose them all.

The entry of Kentucky Derby runner Stephan's Odyssey and Jersey Derby runnerup Creme Fraiche were made the co-second picks with Preakness winner Tank's Prospect at 3-1.

Eternal Prince, third in the Preakness, was a surprise last-minute entry for Saturday's event. He drew the outside position among the 11 starters and was posted fourth choice at 5-1.

Stephan's Odyssey and Creme Fraiche, who will start side by side from the seventh and eighth spots, are trained by Hall of Famer Woody Stephens, who will be trying to win an unprecedented fourth straight Belmont. Trying for the same feat will be Laffit Pincay, Jr., jockey of Stephan's Odyssey.

The field contains one other entry, Jacques Wimpfheimer's El Basco and Purple Mountain. El Basco was third in the Jersey Derby.

The field, with jockey and odds, from the post out is:

- Chief's Crown, Angel Cordero, Jr., 5-2; Tank's Prospect, Pat Day, 3-1; Southern Sultan, James Terry, 30-1; Fast Account, Chris McCarron, 15-1; Purple Mountain, Antonio Graell, 6-1; El Basco, Jacinto Vasquez, 6-1; Stephan's Odyssey, Pincay, 3-1; Creme Fraiche, Eddie Maple, 3-1; Important Business, Jean Cruguet, 15-1; Cutless Reality, Don MacBeth, 20-1; and Eternal Prince, Richard Migliore, 5-1.

Officials To Appeal Ban

Soccer

LONDON (UPI) — Soccer officials plan to appeal a ban on English clubs from worldwide competition, but Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher says Britons "fully understand" the move taken by the sport's international governing body.

The Federation of International Football Associations, meeting in an emergency session in Zurich, Switzerland, Thursday imposed the ban in the wake of a riot May 29 begun by English fans in Brussels that left 38 people dead.

English clubs have already been prohibited from playing in Europe indefinitely. The bans do not apply to teams from Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland.

The FIFA decision was greeted by English soccer officials with anger, sorrow and fears of financial ruin for major clubs.

Ted Crocker, secretary of England's Football Association, called the FIFA decision "totally unreasonable" and said it would be appealed.

"They have made us lepers of world football," FA Chairman Tel Mitchell said.

Just For You, Dad

Cassie Smith, 3, and Matthew Robertson, 17 months, are practicing "I Love You" smiles for their dads. The Junior Woman's Club of Sanford is sponsoring a Father's Day photo session to benefit the club's art scholarship for a deserving artist. "I Love You" smiles will be photographed Saturday, June 8, and Saturday, June 15, between 10 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., at Wee Kids Fashions, First Street, in Sanford. Cost of the framed photo is $5 each with the proceeds going to the scholarship.

Your Best Gift To Dad Is One From The Heart

DEAR READERS: Next Sunday (June 16) is Father's Day. Many believe Father's Day was invented by the merchants who saw a way to play on the sentiments of the buying public and stimulate business — after all, almost everybody has a father. (Look what Mother's Day has done for the florists, greeting card people and retail merchants!)

Regardless of whose idea it was, it's a good one that has taken hold, and continues to bring joy to dear old Dad.

Last year, my Father's Day column brought a surprising number of requests from editors of church bulletins, newsletters and other publications asking permission to reprint it. Many readers wrote to say that they had put my suggestion to use, and found it more appreciated than any gift they had given Dad.

I was encouraged to run it annually, so here it is:

DEAR ABBY: The week before Father's Day you wrote: "Don't give Dad another tie, shirt or wallet; give him something he will cherish forever — a letter telling him how much he means to you."

Well, I composed a letter on the bus to work that very morning, typed it up on my lunch hour and mailed it to my father in a beautiful card that evening. He was actually my stepfather, but he had been more of a father to me than my real father. I knew it would mean a lot to him, especially since he was in the hospital at the time.

He died on July 5, and I'm so glad I wrote that letter. Now I can live with myself, knowing that he knew how I felt about him.

Thank you so very much for making me put my thoughts of love and gratitude on paper. If this letter helps just one person to do what I did, it was worth writing.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR ABBY: A number of years ago, we bought a home in a nice, quiet, high-class neighborhood. Now one of our neighbors has made it look like a cheap flea market! She has one yard sale after another, which brings a lot of people in front of my house as well as hers.

Believe me, she doesn't need the money. The traffic is annoying, and so is the noise. And it looks terrible!

Dear Abby

Last summer she started selling vegetables from their small backyard. Now I think this is really tacky!

I am annoyed! What can I do outside of filing a complaint with the city? I am told by other neighbors that this enterprising neighbor manages to stay just within the law.

LOVE THY NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: If your enterprising neighbor manages to stay within the law, there is nothing you can do. Ask a lawyer if a yard sale qualifies as "an attractive nuisance."

DEAR ABBY: What should a woman do when a man gives her an engagement ring while proposing marriage, and she doesn't like the ring? Don't get me wrong, I love the man, but I don't care for the ring. Must I wear the ring the rest of my life and not let on that I don't like it? Or should I ask him, as tactfully as possible, to exchange it for a style more in keeping with my taste?

I've heard several opinions. My mother said she'd kill me if I opened my mouth.

CONFUSED IN QUEENS

DEAR CONFUSED: Be honest with him. Tell him you love him and know he wants to please you, so if it's possible to exchange the ring, you'd like to go with him and select one more in keeping with your taste. And tell your mama that Abby says if you're old enough to take a husband, you're old enough to make your own decisions.

Gardening

Ground Covers Reduce Lawn Chores While Enhancing Landscape Beauty

If you're anything like me, lawn mowing is a real chore. Vigorous St. Augustine lawns may require mowing as often as every four days. As I look at it, this time could be better spent doing other things in the yard or going fishing!

One way of reducing your lawn maintenance chores and at the same time enhancing the beauty of your landscape is to replace areas of your lawn with ground covers. Ground covers are particularly useful in those hard-to-maintain areas, such as between sidewalks, drives or walls. If you have areas of dense shade, where you don't seem to be able to grow any grass, ground covers are a good substitute.

In selecting a ground cover you must consider the plant type, growing conditions, and maintenance. The plant type should satisfy aesthetic and practical needs of your landscape. Ground covers vary from dichondra and lippia, which have characteristics and maintenance requirements similar to grasses, to low growing, spreading shrubs, such as shore juniper and dwarf forms of flex, firethorn, and carissa. Low-growing shrubs are helpful in areas where foot traffic is a problem. Mass plantings of perennials, such as daylilies, makes effective ground covers that provide color at certain times of the year.

Like other garden plants, ground covers do require some maintenance. Newly planted areas will need special attention until the plants are well established.

The growth rate of the ground cover can be used to determine the amount of fertilizer to apply. Vigorously growing plants, such as wandering Jew, requires more fertilizer than slower growing woody plants like cuphea. A complete fertilizer, such as a 6-6-6, 8-8-8 or 12-4-8 or similar mixture, applied at the rate of two to four pounds per 100 square feet of planting area in the spring and midsummer is adequate for most ground covers. An additional application may be needed in the fall for vigorous growing ground covers.

Water requirements vary, too, with different plants. Carolina yellow jasmine, for example, requires a fairly moist soil, while the fig-marigold tolerates dry sandy soils with only occasional watering to supplement the natural rainfall. Do your watering on an "as needed" basis, but the plants should not be allowed to wilt.

Weed control can be a problem. Weed sprays are not recommended as they may affect your ground cover plants. Care should be taken when applying weed killers to your lawn areas to prevent spray drift, which may severely damage the plants. Mulching, along with hand weeding, will usually control weeds until the plants are established. If you get your ground covers growing well, they'll compete with the undesirable plants.

Some of the most adaptable ground covers for our area include: Society garlic, small leaf Confederate jasmine, coonille or Zantia, dichondra, gopher apple, ferns, beach morning glory, and patridgeberry. Others you may want to consider are: Trailing fig, fig-marigold, algerian and English ivy, shore juniper, dwarf lantana, lily-turf, lippia, liriope, and wedelia.

For shaded areas, you can plant patridgeberry, bugle weed, coonille, ferns, ivies, lily-turf or mondo grass, liriope, peperomia, selaginella, wandering Jew, and wedelia.

Several ground covers can be used as effectively as flowering annuals for spring, summer, and fall colors and most have the advantage of being perennials. For spring and summer color, try bugle weed, yellow Jessamine, daylilies, lantana, periwinkles, purple setcreasea, and wedelia. Cuphea, lantana, lippia and wedelia provide fall and winter color. Bulbous plants, like crinum lilies, spider lilies, and amaryllis are also popular.

Some of the exotic ground covers may be damaged or killed by low temperatures and thus are not permanent in our area. Most of those I have listed will probably survive our cold winters. If you want to reduce your lawn maintenance chores, why not try using some attractive ground covers. Then you, like me, will have more time for fishing or the beach.

Happy gardening!

Winning Ticket Thief Loses In Court

An Orlando man was convicted Wednesday of robbing an elderly man of a winning gambling ticket. A six-member jury deliberated just a few minutes before returning a guilty verdict against Samuel Getters, 25. Getters faces up to 15 years when sentenced by Seminole Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi on Aug. 30.

According to court records, Getters grabbed the winning ticket out of the hands of a 76-year-old dogtrack bettor at about 4 p.m. on Feb. 6. Security guards nabbed Getters but not after he passed the ticket to another suspect who fled. The second suspect got away.

The ticket was worth $150. Club officials put a stop payment on the ticket so it could not be cashed.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Israeli Withdrawal From Lebanon Still Not Complete

JERUSALEM (UPI) — A U.N. spokesman said hundreds of Israeli soldiers remained in southern Lebanon today, although Israeli sources a day earlier said Israel's combat troops had been brought home.

Timor Goksel, spokesman for the U.N. Interim Force in Lebanon, said today Israeli troops still held four positions in a U.N. buffer zone in southern Lebanon and shared three others with the Israeli-backed South Lebanon Army, a predominantly Lebanese Christian militia.

The last phase of the withdrawal is in its last stages, military sources in Tel Aviv said, amending statements Thursday that the withdrawal had been completed on the third anniversary of Israel's invasion of Lebanon.

Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir said in Paris Thursday "several hundred soldiers are left" in the country where an estimated 15,000 Israeli troops were deployed at the height of Israel's occupation.

The Jerusalem Post's military correspondent, Hersh Goodman, quoting senior defense officials, said the intention to complete the withdrawal was thwarted by "the sudden and unexplained disintegration of the South Lebanon Army."

It was not immediately clear what happened to the Israeli-financed militia, which military sources estimated is made up of about 1,200 men commanded by former Lebanese Army Gen. Antoine Lahd.

Shiite Takeover Stalled

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Shiite Moslem militiamen went on alert today after a second day of hit-and-run attacks by suspected Palestinian guerrillas who have been trying to stop a Shiite takeover of three Palestinian refugee camps in Beirut.

The alert came as Lebanese officials reported no progress in Syrian-mediated efforts to stop the fighting that has killed more than 500 people since May 19.

Shiite sources blamed the raids in Beirut on Palestinian guerrillas and their Sunni Moslem allies. They also accused them of triggering friction in the southern port of Sidon in a bid to ease the pressure on fellow Palestinians trapped in west Beirut's Bourj Barajneh camp.

Military sources said six people were killed in separate shooting incidents in Sidon Thursday.

In negotiations between the Shiites and Palestinians in Damascus, the leftist newspaper As Saif said the Shiite militia, Amal, continued to insist on the total disarmament of the Palestinians. The Palestinians were said to have agreed only to remove heavy weapons from the camps.

Soccer Ban To Be Appealed

LONDON (UPI) — Soccer officials plan to appeal a ban on English clubs from worldwide competition, but Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher says Britons "fully understand" the move taken by the sport's international governing body.

The Federation of International Football Associations, meeting in an emergency session in Zurich, Switzerland Thursday imposed the ban in the wake of a riot May 29 begun by English fans in Brussels that left 38 people dead.

English clubs have already been prohibited from playing in Europe indefinitely. The bans do not apply to teams from Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland.

The FIFA decision was greeted by English soccer officials with anger, sorrow and fears of financial ruin for major clubs.

Ted Crocker, secretary of England's Football Association, called the FIFA decision "totally unreasonable" and said it would be appealed.

Landscape Class Set At SCC

The Landscape Maintenance Class at Seminole Community College has been rescheduled for June 11 through July 16, from 7 to 10 p.m.

Topics to be taught include the selection of tools, fertilization, water management, lawn care, pruning, and pest control. The class will meet on Tuesday and Thursday in building 67.

For more information about this or other horticulture classes contact the admissions office at 923-1450, ext. 225 or 355.

...Plant

plant could go on the property, the company had to comply with city codes by getting permission to install the fuel tanks. After getting permission, the company would then present its site plan to the P & Z board for approval.

But Orlando Paving was stopped cold.

Ms. Franks told the commission the only issue they should consider was the fuel storage request. Commission Chairman John Morris agreed, trying futilely all night to keep debate limited to that topic.

But Commissioner J.Q. "Slim" Galloway, motioning for denial, said, "If we grant the storage you know something is going to follow. There is a better place to put it (the plant) than on the front door of a group of our permanent residents."

Galloway was then joined by six other commissioners voting the request down. Morris and Commissioner Brent Carlil dissented.

Before the vote, a fiery debate raged over sights, sounds and smells the residents feared the plant would bring to the area. A hot mix of facts, fears and passions fueled the debate for almost two hours.

Evans, passing around a jar of asphalt for the commissioners to sniff, said it could only be smelled 50 feet from the plant. The nearest house is 600 feet from the plant, Ms. Franks said.

But Brenda Gardner, of 121 Country Club Circle, Sanford, said "there's no way" the company could guarantee no odors would be smelled in the neighborhood. She said many of the residents had respiratory problems that would be aggravated by any fumes the plant emitted.

Robert Barrette, of 137 Country Club Circle, Sanford, showed slides of an Orlando Paving plant in Orlando and another plant in Orlando formerly owned by the company.

The pictures showed mounds of sand and asphalt, machinery as well as ponds and rubbish around the plant.

"These scenes are deplorable and even obscene in the truest sense of the word," Barrette said.

But Evans said the Orlando Paving plant was 30 years old and that the proposed plant would have no ponds and would be more efficient. Ms. Franks said the plant would have "state of the art" technology.

Some residents said they feared dust from the plant would blow through their neighborhood and another woman said asphalt might seep into the ground and pollute her drinking water.

But Bill Gardner, district engineer for the Asphalt Institute, who spoke on behalf of Orlando Paving, said asphalt hardens at 180 degrees so it wouldn't dissolve into the soil.

"It's used all over the world as a liner for water reservoirs," he said.

The residents also argued hotly that the plant, with its fuel tanks, could explode.

Joe Smith, of 1709 Peach Ave., Sanford, who said he used to be chief of the South Bay (Fla.) Fire Department, said even though the plant may employ about 15 Sanford citizens, it is not worth the risk of endangering the lives of 500 families due to a possible explosion.

But Ms. Franks said the fuel contained in the two 30,000-gallon tanks would be the least flammable fuel available. And the diesel in the 10,000-gallon tank would be the second least flammable on the market, she said.

Two concrete mix factories and two food processing plants adjacent to the proposed plant also have petroleum fuel tanks, Ms. Franks said. The real danger to the residents, she said, is a nearby convenience store which as highly volatile gasoline storage tanks.

Evelyn Cloninger, an attorney representing the residents, said the plant would have a "devastating effect" on the residents' property values.

"The only thing they have is their representatives" to protect their lifestyle and homes, she said. "They have enough industry in their area."

Another woman, Emma Patterson, of 2651 W. 27th St., Sanford, asked Evans, "How close would you like to live around the plant?"

"I wouldn't mind living that close," Evans said later, which drew jeers from the audience. One man yelled, "I'll sell you my house."

"I wouldn't want it that close to my home," Commissioner C.B. Franklin said, which triggered a wave of applause.

Ms. Franks said she will meet with Evans to decide whether or not to appeal the ruling.

last minute, Coppedge said the trip was called off.

Coppedge rushed to the house after Mrs. Coachman called him.

"After I saw the car and looked at the room, my first reaction was to thank God that it wasn't any more severe than it was and that no life was lost," Coppedge said. "My second reaction was that you never think something like this will happen to you. It happens to other people. I guess I was awestruck."

A wrecker crew removed the car, which left a 7-foot wide hole in the side of the house. Damage is estimated at about $2,500, Mrs. Coachman said. Coppedge patched up the hole temporarily with sheets of aluminum and plastic.

Mrs. Coachman's ordeal did not end with the crash, she said. Her bedroom remains a mess, awaiting an inspection by her insurance company. Her insurance representative would not inspect the room until a police report was filed, she said.

Mrs. Coachman was unable to get the police report until Thursday, she said, because she was told by Highway Patrol officials in Oviedo that Tindel files his reports once a week because he works in Sanford.

"I've waited and waited and waited" to get the matter settled, she said. She said she will not clean up the room for fear she may jeopardize getting her full claim for the damages.

"So I sleep on a bunk bed back there in the middle room."

...Team

Rinker said in addition to the five teams looking for new spring training homes, the league will be expanding and adding six new teams in the two-four years. This will create a further demand for spring training sites.

Fess said that the best way for a stadium to be constructed would be for a team and the city to build it in a joint venture and split the cost. Fess said the commission would start studying the prospects right away and incorporate it into the city's recreational plans.

It would take about 60 acres for a facility to adequately house a stadium suitable for a major league team. Fess said the facility would also comprise areas for soccer, football, swimming and diving, and basketball. "It will be a complete sports complex," Fess said.

Rinker said the Cincinnati Reds are unhappy in Tampa; the New York Mets would like to get out of St. Petersburg; the Texas Rangers want out of Pompano Beach and the Baltimore Orioles want to leave Miami. Lake Mary could get any of these teams, Rinker said.

Rinker said he feels the major league will make a mistake and vote to create six new teams at once instead of waiting two-to four years as planned. This could be done at their August meeting. If it happens, Lake Mary would need to have a set of plans already drawn up and ready to go if it hopes to persuade a team to make the city its spring home.

"As soon as we come up with the plans, then we can notify the teams. We are talking about a two-year timetable, maybe sooner," Fess said.

Rinker said that if the complex is built, it could be used by everyone. The major league team would use it 33 days a year. Rinker said a Florida State league team would use it as well as college and high school teams.

Rinker compared the facility to Lake Mary would have to build to Orlando's Lake Fairview on Lee Road.

"There are some good possibilities," Fess said.

Old lace is being recycled these days. No longer used just as dollies and tablecloths, something grandma handed down to the kids, old lace is being reworked into contemporary clothing, wall hangings, or pillow covers, anything a creative seamstress can imagine.

Enjoying A Fashion Renaissance

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Seemingly delicate webs of lace endure as a symbol of femininity, but the painstaking art of handcrafting threads into romance-inspiring, open-weave designs is seldom a skill passed from mother to daughter in the space age.

While contemporary women may no longer knit or crochet silken threads into lacy patterns, that doesn't mean they are out of touch, nor does it mean that lace is out of fashion.

Some of the lace made by our grandmothers, great-grandmothers and beyond has survived to be salvaged and reworked — bits and pieces of a more genteel time which add a soft touch to modern living.

Dealer of antique lace Mary Kennedy said her customers are very creative in their use of old lace.

"They're pulling it on their clothes," she said. "They're not using it for what it was made for. They have very ingenious ideas. They cut up lace from old chair back covers and use them for yokes across the back of a shirt and they'll use pieces of chair arm covers to make the cuffs. It makes a gorgeous piece of apparel."

Mrs. Kennedy, whose lace collection is on display in Winter Park, said it doesn't "bother me in the least" to see old bits and pieces of lace take on new form.

Fringes of lace pulled from tattered remains of less sturdy fabrics that have decayed can find new life as wall hangings, pin cushions or whatever the collector's imagination can devise. Dollies that once covered every conceivable bare surface in Victorian era homes and viewed in their original form as nothing more than antiquated dust catchers today have returned to favor as romantic pillow covers.

Another dealer, Sue Hudek of Orlando, says much of the old lace she sells is kept pretty much intact and used as it was intended — as bedspreads, shams and window shades.

However, as a dealer Mrs. Hudek also rummages through estate sales to find lacy remnants of the past that can be cut up and reshaped. But it doesn't always work out that way.

She tells about buying a 1907 wedding dress intending to slash the salvagable lace from the garment, but when she found that the gossamer gown withstood a wash in detergent and chlorine bleach, she put down her scissors.

She said the gown is unique in that it is made of knitted lace and even though it bears a $2,000 pricetag, that is four times less than what the New York market would bear for a similar handmade creation.

Both Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Hudek say they don't hesitate giving their lacy finds a chlorine bleach bath.

"People would die if they knew I bleached my lace," Mrs. Hudek said. "People won't like that, but I do, because if I don't bleach it — and I lose some that way — I can't sell lace if it's not good, if it's stained. I bleach it and if it's strong enough it stays together," she said.

More Educational Shows, Parental Control Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government should prod TV stations to broadcast more programs designed for children rather than trying to keep sex and violence off the screen, a leader of Action for Children's Television says.

Other speakers at a National Council of Churches hearing this week suggested a rating system is needed for material on cable TV so parents can have advance notice of the nature of the programs.

President Jack Valent of the Motion Picture Association said information about cable TV programs should be listed in cable TV schedules so parents can make a decision about letting children watch shows.

Valent disagreed that movie ratings should be more specific because, he said, there is no simple way to briefly and objectively describe why a film has a particular rating.

"To say 'western violence,' what does that mean?"

Valent asked.

In 1983, the National Council of Churches of Christ initiated a study of the depiction of sex and violence in films and television. Thirty-one Protestant denominations, with a total of 40 million members, belong to the council.

Panel members said they want to respect constitutional freedoms while responding to concern about the content of films and programs. ACT president Peggy Charren said a bill will soon be introduced in Congress to require television stations to run five hours a week of programs designed to educate children.

"I think that is the secret: if you have enough alternatives," she said. "The reason why you need legislation is this is a competitive business. You need rules."

Charren said parents also should exercise control over what they allow their children to watch.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., said he would propose legislation to have the Federal Communications Commission work on advisories that would tell parents about how much violence is shown in children's TV programs.

Simon said the National Coalition on Television Violence, based in Illinois, estimated that TV violence has doubled since 1980.

In the first four months of this year, prime-time TV shows averaged 13.8 acts of violence per hour, coalition figures showed.

Valent said the top-rated TV shows do not feature sex or violence and said such factors as family life, schooling and religious training had more impact on children than films or TV.

"I find that answer ... not very helpful," said the Rev. William Fore, a panel member. "The fact is the industry is not willing to adopt a system that would use simple words and phrases at the box office."

'Dallas' Damns Donna

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The producers of "Dallas" canned actress Donna Reed April 11 and now the ex-Miss Ellie Ewing is suing Lorimar Productions for $7.5 million.

To add insult to injury, Reed was replaced in the popular series by Barbara Bel Geddes who had voluntarily withdrawn from the role of Miss Ellie the year before.

When Lorimar dismissed Reed, she was given no reason for being sent to Coventry. Indeed, it was as much a mystery to her as any of the plot turns in a "Dallas" script.

Reed still has no idea why she was sacked. Certainly, it wasn't because she isn't a capable actress. Reed won an Oscar for best supporting actress in "From Here To Eternity" in 1953, and a flock of Emmy nominations for her long-running "Donna Reed Show" on TV.

Nor could she have been cashiered because she isn't motherly enough. Reed is the mother of a large brood in real life.

"I have absolutely no explanation for it," she said the other day in her Beverly Hills home. "The curious part of it is, I'm not really fired."

Reed was on vacation in Paris with her husband, Grover Asmus, when her agent telephoned to say, "I have bad news. I had lunch with Phil Capice ('Dallas' executive producer) and they are replacing you with Barbara Bel Geddes."

A shocked Reed asked why and was told the producers wanted to return to the "core cast" — the original members.

"The producers told my agent they wanted my concurrence for a news release saying I had agreed to step down," Reed said. "And they wanted an answer right away."

Reed demurred. She believed she had an iron-bound contract.

As she tells it, Lorimar signed her to a four-year contract with yearly options. Last October the company exercised options for the next two seasons. That meant Reed was assured of playing Miss Ellie for the 1985-86 and 1986-87 seasons.

"Beginning last week Lorimar paid me my first week's salary for this season," Reed said. "I presume they will continue to pay me, sort of like a stand-by actress for the rest of the season."

"I'm cashing the checks, but with a rider. It's not just salary I'm concerned with. I will lose about $10,000 per episode in residuals when the episodes are rerun in syndication and about $1,500 per episode in foreign showings. And just as importantly, is the loss of credit in appearing in a top-rated weekly show."

CNN Series Delves Into The Ayatollah's Iran

Six years after its stormy inception, the Islamic Republic of Iran remains a puzzle to most. To the Western eye, it is a country on the edge of madness, living and dying in the name of God. This month, CNN is airing a 20-part, four-week series, "Iran: A Land Held Hostage," allowing American audiences to take the most extensive look yet inside today's Iran.

Using 30 hours of original footage filmed in January and February of this year by Australian production company IMAGO, archival material from Iranian television and a collection of CNN interviews, the series presents a broad picture of the Khomeini revolution and its profound effects on Iran.

"The series depicts Iran as a country subject to much outside control over its 2,500 year history," says CNN Vice President and Senior Executive Producer Bob Farnsworth.

"We're showing a society that was ripe for change when the revolution occurred, a society unified by the incredible power of Islamic beliefs, and yet a people who may not have envisioned the society that the Ayatollah Khomeini would create for them. It is the story of a young republic struggling to take control of its own destiny."

Beginning Monday, the series first examines the five year war which has raged on the border between Iran and Iraq and the Islamic obsession with martyrdom that has shaped that war.

The story is illustrated by profiles of two soldiers, Muhammed, a 17-year-old in training for the volunteer army which accepts martyrdom, and Ali, a maimed vet who has missed his chance to give his life for Allah. The second part of the series traces the forces which have brought about the fundamentalist Islamic regime of today; the Shah's oppression, the revolutionaries' fervor, Khomeini's return, the takeover of the American embassy and the regime's consolidation of power.

The cultural, social and political influence of Islam's dominance is explored during the third week. The "Orwellian" presence of Islam is demonstrated at a school where future teachers are trained, by a

Bring Back Art And Don, 'Jeopardy' Isn't The Same

By David Handler
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The old "Jeopardy" held a unique position in TV game-show land. It was difficult. You actually had to be pretty smart to do well at it.

There were no gimmicks to this game. Just one twist: They provided the answer. It was up to you to come up with the question.

No glitter. No blinking lights. No celebrity co-contestants. No personality. Its host, Art Fleming, was dullness personified. He wore the same kind of drab, dark suit every day. He never joked with the contestants, never tried to be folksy.

Art was so dull he was outshone by the unseen studio announcer who introduced him — Don Pardo.

Actually, "Jeopardy" was so utterly bland that it developed a big college following in the late '60s and early '70s. My roommate and I never missed it.

I remember the comic Albert Brooks used to do a routine about Art Fleming groupies. They'd rush the stage screaming, "Take me, Art! Take me!" Art would politely fire back, as always, "Could you put that in the form of a question, please?"

"Jeopardy" became so hip that even Don Pardo developed a sort of cult following. It was no accident when he was chosen to be the studio announcer for "Saturday Night Live."

After a long layoff, "Jeopardy" has returned in syndication. It's a new "Jeopardy" and, I'm sorry to say, no match for the old one. The game is basically the same. But everything else has changed.

No Don Pardo. No Art Fleming. Our new host is some guy named Alex Trebek. He blow-dries his hair. He has a mustache. He wears a raffish pocket hankie. (Indeed, the closing credits boast that his wardrobe is provided by, gasp, Mr. Guy of Beverly Hills).

He jokes around with the contestants, calls the women "my dear" and, when it's time to go, turns to the camera and actually says, "We gotta go, folks. Until next time, have a good one."

Let's face it, "Jeopardy" has gone Hollywood.

There's a new set, with lots of blinking lights. The answers now appear on rows of TV monitors instead of those quaint printed cards. That wonderfully tinny old theme song just doesn't sound the same fed through electronic instruments.

As for the game, there seems to be an extra zero on the dollar values now, but there's still the same old Daily Double and Double Jeopardy and pivotal Final Jeopardy.

Many of the categories, like "mammals," "composers" and "physics," are still tough. Contestants are still called upon to come up with a question like "Who were the first men to split the atom?"

But it seems as if there are more easy categories than there used to be, choices like "Jimmy Cagney," "deserts" and "silly songs."

To be fair, "Jeopardy" is still a pretty good game show. It's still tougher than the competition, still relatively low in the frills department.

It's not my "Jeopardy" anymore. I miss Art and Don. I miss the old set. More than anything else, I miss the era.

I guess you can't go home again in TV game-show land either.

Dan 'Grizzly Adams' Haggerty Facing Income Tax Charges

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "Grizzly Adams" star Dan Haggerty, convicted in March of selling cocaine to undercover police officers, has been charged with failure to file federal income tax returns in 1978 and 1981.

Assistant U.S. Attorney David Nimmer, who disclosed the charges Wednesday, said Haggerty had incomes of $356,704 in 1978 and $208,660 in 1981, money earned from acting.

Haggerty, 43, faces two years in prison and a $20,000 fine if convicted of the charges, Nimmer said.

Haggerty's attorney, Gary S. Brown, said he expected the charges and had agreed with Nimmer that the actor would plead guilty, but said he was upset that a news release was issued by the U.S. Attorney's Office.

"We agreed to acknowledge that Mr. Haggerty had violated the law, though unintentionally," Brown said. "But the agreement was based on an understanding that no news release would be issued."

He said Haggerty will still plead guilty to the charges. Nimmer would not confirm or deny the existence of any plea agreement.

Haggerty was sentenced in April to 90 days in county jail and three years probation for furnishing cocaine to two undercover police officers last year. Superior Court Judge Aurelio Munoz, however, allowed Haggerty to remain free pending appeal.

Cox To Buy WFTV-9 For $185 Million

ORLANDO (UPI) — For the second time in less than a year, WFTV-Channel 9 is being sold. Cox Communications Inc. of Atlanta has agreed to buy the station for $185 million.

The current owner, SFN Companies Inc., of Glenview, Ill., paid $125 million for the station, which is an ABC affiliate, last July 16.

Several other companies wanted to buy the station, said Bill Schwartz, president of Cox. He declined to identify them.

...Lace

25 years, you'll have to forgive Mrs. Kennedy if she gets a little teary when asked about the care and cleaning of lace.
"Haven't you people done laundry all of your life? You put it in the washing machine with some chlorine. If it falls apart you bail it out with a skimmer. If it's good you use it."
Sanford antiques dealer Marie Richter said she washes lace "only if it's too grungy looking. I wouldn't bleach it, but I tell other people they can if they want to take the risk. Sometimes lace is too fragile to wash, but people buy it regardless," she said.
Mrs. Richter said small scraps of lace, which can be picked up for a couple of dollars, are in demand for doll's clothing. But when you start shopping more seriously the price goes up.
Much of Mrs. Hudek's lace is imported from Europe and China. Occasionally she comes across a piece, which because of a crown design woven into the pattern, she knows was made for royalty.
Lace holds an important place in the history of European monarchy.
Once upon a time it seems the kings and dukes and such were running all the really interesting affairs of state and the queens hadn't much to do.

So in order to stave off total boredom, "one queen tried to out do the others with the intricate lace she had made for her," Mrs. Hudek said.
Most of the earliest lace, she said, was made by nuns who had the time and patience for the craft, unlike today's woman.
Mrs. Hudek pointed to a lacy Irish window shade, with the figure of a girl woven into its center, and said, "This piece I have $65 on it. I wouldn't do that work for $65. I wouldn't do it for $365."
"It's gorgeous, beautiful. It's a lost art. People aren't doing it any more," she said.
Lace makers may be scarce but lace lovers aren't. Mrs. Kennedy said. There is a collector coveting almost any scrap that can be salvaged. Most collectors are youngsters who are nostalgic and appreciate an art form they would never even consider attempting, one which in another time might have been a part of their everyday lives.
"We've gone through a generation that can't make it. Even I can't make it. It's something that goes way back and it's very fascinating," she said.
And the fascination should endure as long as the fabric holds up. But once it crumbles away there will be no more, because today's machines just can't match the with which granny used to weave it.

Hill Street, U.S.A.—Chicago and LA

DEAR DICK — Could you please answer this question for me. On the opening of "Hill Street Blues," where is it filmed? Specifically, the scene where the police cruisers go under the bridge. Also, in what city does the series take place? — S.M.H., North Muskegon, Mich.

According to the "Hill Street Blues" original prospectus, it is set in "a large, unnamed metropolis east of Chicago." The opening shots were filmed in Chicago, as are the transition shots on the show every week (those are the shots of cruisers roaming the streets). Most of the action involving the principals, however, is shot in Los Angeles.

DEAR DICK — I enjoy the theme music for "Murder She Wrote." Could you tell me what it is called and where I can get the sheet music? — B.F., Ashtabula, Ohio.

DEAR DICK: Please settle a bet. I say the theme music of "Murder She Wrote" is played with a piano, my beau says it's a harpsichord. Help me win my dinner out! — L.G., Madison, Wis.

Like most TV series' themes, there is no title; it is merely referred to as "The Theme from 'Murder She Wrote.'" It was written by John Addison but has not been published or recorded as of yet. It is played on a piano, so eat hearty!

DEAR DICK — A friend of mine says he is a personal friend of Tom Selleck and that Tom will be visiting Reading this summer. I told him he's crazy. He said they were in Vietnam together and their outfit gets together every other year. What is Selleck's real name and does he have a brother living in Lancaster, Pa.? — J.L.G., Reading, Pa.

Ask Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: We want to know about Tom Selleck. We heard he was on "$25,000 Pyramid," and his partner lost the game for them. Now we heard she is suing for public humiliation because he laughed at her for giving an incorrect clue. Is it true? — Mrs. C.H.H., Trinity, Texas.

These letters illustrate some of the nonsense the stars have to put up with. None of the statements in either letter is true. Selleck never went to Vietnam (he was in the National Guard, that's all), is not coming to Reading, doesn't have a brother in Lancaster and his real name is Tom Selleck. He was never on the "$25,000 Pyramid," either, and that's an old (and not good) joke.

DEAR DICK — In the series, "Airwolf," how did Hawke get all of those oil paintings? Are they the originals or copies? — K.D., Hempstead, Texas.

Hawke got his paintings the way every actor in Hollywood gets things in the sets he uses — from the studio prop department. In this case, the set designer asked the Universal prop department for paintings and they went into the warehouse and came up with paintings to hang on the walls of the set. These happen to be originals, but done by anonymous painters in the style of renaissance painters, so their value is minimal.

DEAR DICK — We have an office bet going regarding the height of Bert Convy, game show host. How tall is he? (If he's under 5-foot-11, I win a pizza!) — D.B.S., Knoxville, Tenn.

Sorry, no pizza. Convy is 6-foot-1.

DEAR DICK — Recently, I saw a movie entitled "1990: The Bronx Warriors" on The Movie Channel. Could you please tell me who played the character Trash, the leader of one of the street gangs? I missed the credits. — C.H., Palmyra, Mo.

Trash was played by Mark Gregory.

...Reed

"It's very damaging to me and my reputation and it represents a huge financial loss. As long as I am in this sort of limbo, a stand-by actress, I can't work anywhere else.

"Recently I was made to understand Lorimar definitely hadn't fired me but wanted to pay me less than half of what my salary called for in the two years left of my contract."

Reed isn't having any of that. Her breach of contract suit, filed in Los Angeles Superior Court May 24, demands $2.5 million in general damages and $5 million in punitive damages.

She has not heard directly from any of Lorimar's executives who choose to deal with Reed through her agent.

Reed, however, has had many telephone calls from dismayed fellow cast members and the crew expressing shock, anger and condolences. The "Dallas" cast apparently was just as surprised as Reed when she was sacked.

"When I worked in the final episode, March 29, I had no inkling I would not be back, and neither did anyone else on the set," she said.

"I've never had any problems or arguments with management or the people involved in production. I'm a professional actress. I always reported to work on time with my part well in hand.

"I think the network — CBS — had something to do with the decision to replace me. At least that's what I gather from what Caprice has said to other people. I also had a good working relationship with Caprice.

"I really don't think they let me go because of my work.

When they picked up my option they spoke well of my acting and were quite complimentary. But the announcement that I was being replaced implies I wasn't doing my job. There's no way all this can help my career.

"If they had been displeased, they wouldn't have picked up my contract for two more years, would they?"

"The series has already begun production for next season and already I find myself missing the family feeling I established with the show. It's very, very sad."

murder trial judged under Islamic law, and Friday prayers in Tehran.

The series concludes during the first week of July with a look at how actions inside Iran relate to the world outside. Topics include the growing importation of outside technology, the "guns and butter" economic effects of the war, the export of the revolution and Iran's future after Khomeini.

"Iran: A Land Held Hostage," will air on CNN weekdays from June 10 through July 5 during TAKE TWO, airing noon to 2 p.m., THE INTERNATIONAL HOUR, airing at 3 p.m., and the CNN EVENING NEWS, airing at 10 p.m. At the end of each week, the series will be shown in a half-hour CNN Special Report, airing Saturdays at 6:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. and Sundays at 5:30 p.m.
