New Law Requires Stronger Car Bumpers

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Legislation requiring stronger bumpers on new cars sold in Florida beginning with 1974 models became law at midnight without Gov. Reubin Askew's signature. The law will require all new cars sold in Florida after September 1973 to be equipped with front and rear bumpers capable of withstanding crashes at 5 miles an hour. The measure took effect shortly after Douglas Toms, National Highway Traffic Safety administrator, disclosed in Washington that federal bumper standards would be the same for 1974 cars. Askew signed Wednesday a bill setting standards for factory-built housing. It was among more than 90 measures which became law. The factory-built housing law requires modular homes sold after July 1, 1971, to meet standards set by the state Department of Community Affairs. Standards yet to be laid down would assure that all modular homes be "structurally sound and that plumbing, heating, electrical and other components thereof are reasonably safe." An 11-member council appointed by the governor would advise the department in writing the standards. Askew let become law without his signature a bill by Rep. Jerry Melvin, D. Fort. Walter Beach, making it unlawful to destroy for any purpose sea fish and sea grapes within 200 feet of the shoreline on either private or public property. They can no longer be harvested for commercial use, under the law. An 11-member "kidney disease board" is created with authority to set standards for "determining eligibility for care and treatment" of persons needing extensive and hard-to-get kidney dialysis. Only three dialysis machines currently exist in the state, one each in Jacksonville, Miami and Tampa. Two other bills signed by Askew give Comptroller Fred Dickinson responsibility for delivering state warrants and permits him to hire two law enforcement officers "to prevent all acts of a criminal nature directed at the property in custody" of his office. The legislative auditor criticized allegedly poor security in parts of Dickinson's office last year. Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner's department was armed with power to stop the "soring" of horses for public show or sale, and given a $17,500 appropriation to carry it out, under another bill signed by the governor. "Soring" is a practice of damaging a horse's legs with blistering agents, lacerations, licks, nails or wedges to cause pain and affect his gait. The new law also prohibits drugging of horses for show or sale. Military servicemen on leave wouldn't need state licenses to fish in fresh water lakes and streams under a bill signed by the governor and sponsored by Rep. William L. Gibson, R-Orlando. Restrictions on laws dealing with the possession of sea turtles were tightened under a new measure also discontinuing permits for the capture of the turtles. Another bill changes the name of the Department of Air and Water Pollution Control to the Department of Pollution Control, on Sept. 1.

Human Bomb Kills Two, Then Blows Himself Up

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON Associated Press Writer SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — With homemade grenades strapped to his body, a leftist wanted for the assassination of Chile's former vice president machine-gunned two detectives at their headquarters Wednesday then blew himself up, seriously wounding a third detective. Police said Heriberto Salazar, 45, was one of three members of the extremist Organized Vanguard of the People who were accused of killing Edmundo Perez Zujovic last week. The others were Ronald Rivera Calderon, 23, killed by police Sunday, and his brother Arturo, 26, who killed himself rather than surrender. Police said Salazar went in from the front door of the downtown headquarters of the plainclothes police. Chile's equivalent of the FBI, whipped out a submachine gun and fired a burst that killed two detectives. Then he ran back toward the entrance and set off the grenades, killing himself and wounding a detective nearby. Riot police cordoned off the area, believing there might be more terrorists, but a search showed Salazar was alone. Another terrorist attack was reported earlier in the day against a plainclothes police officer in the country's interior.

$1.3 Billion Spending Bill Showdown Vote Due Today

By JOHN VAN GIESON TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A $1.345 billion compromise appropriations bill headed today for final conference committee approval and showdown votes in each house of the Legislature. Gov. Reubin Askew met with House leaders Wednesday night in Speaker Richard Pettigrew's office to map strategy for passage of the bill. Strong pockets of resistance which formed in reaction to conference committee elimination of the $38 million education equalization program from the spending bill, delayed its approval in the House. "In my judgment there are sufficient votes to protect the interests of the school children, which the conference committee report does not do," said Majority Leader Don Nichols, D-Jacksonville. Nichols and Rep. Terrell Summers, D-Tampa, led the opposition to the compromise bill, hoping to pull along the support of

Askew's Divorce Bill Approved By House

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A revised divorce reform bill sponsored by Gov. Reubin Askew and adopted by the House was expected to be introduced in the Senate today, where leaders have expressed some reluctance to take up measures other than taxes and spending. However, Senate President Jerry Thomas said the bill "would receive the same dignity as all bills and stand on its respective merit." On Tuesday Thomas had complained that Askew's expansion of the bill was an "overreach" and had the effect of beginning another "general session." But divorce reform was included in Askew's expansion of the bill, and said Thomas, "the Senate will honor the governor's request." House Speaker Richard Pettigrew said he hoped the Senate would take up the measure, allowing couples to end marriage without having to accuse each other of misconduct — as quickly as possible. The session is expected to end Friday, and the bill has yet to win committee approval in the Senate. "I hope the governor will condemn the Senate in the strongest possible way if they don't take up the divorce bill," said Pettigrew. The bill has many of the features of a "no-fault" divorce. Askew vetoed during the general session. Following strong opposition to the governor's veto from both Democrats and Republicans—Askew redrafted it, deleting many of the provisions he found unacceptable. Askew's bill—as passed by the House—retained the major concept of the earlier version, that of eliminating specific grounds for divorce other than irreconcilable differences between spouses or mental incompetency. However, Askew lengthened the time required before a divorce partner could seek a divorce for incompetency from two years to three years.

Brazilian Warships Fire On U. S. Boats

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — American fishermen ducked machine-gun bullets fired by a Brazilian warship Wednesday, according to a Tampa shrimpboat owner, as the South American nation began enforcement of a 200-mile sea jurisdiction. "They attacked seven trawlers off Brazil's northeast coast, said Sahlman, executive Donald Sahlman. "Our crews had some nervous moments before making their getaway." Brazil announced last year it was claiming a 200-mile cushion from its seacoast. The United States government has refused to tell its fishermen to honor anything but the standard 12-mile limit. Sahlman said the seven trawlers, two from his Tampa company, were told to "get the hell out" of Brazilian waters. They were 75 miles from shore, Sahlman said. First report of the attack came from Rip. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., who made the announcement in Washington following talks with Sahlman and other fishing industry leaders. A spokesman for the congressman said Gibbons had appealed to President Nixon to send a Coast Guard cutter to the scene to protect American fishermen. Gibbons' announcement followed a report by the Brazilian AJB news agency from Belem that a Brazilian warship was sailing toward a fleet of foreign fishing vessels, with orders to detain them for fishing illegally. The report said the vessels were believed to be American because of the names Gulf Wind and Lucky Strike. Earlier the Navy Ministry in Rio de Janeiro would not confirm the report, and the U.S. embassy there said it had no information, but Wednesday night a State Department spokesman in Washington said the depart-

Contest Finalists Compete

Four finalists in the "Miss Deltona" contest will be selected Wednesday, June 23, at 2 p. m. in the Community Center and the public is invited to attend. To be eligible girls must be residents of Deltona and have attended 7-12th grade last year. The winner will be chosen from the finalists at the annual Deltona Fourth of July celebration. A picnic will be held following church at the community center with the program beginning at 2 p. m. After the invocation local servicemen's groups will present the colors. One of Deltona's outstanding youths will give a patriotic speech. Jerry Weber will be master of ceremonies. A talent show featuring, among others, "The American Band" with their specialized dance group will precede the selection of "Miss Deltona."

Breakdown Shows 8 In Seminole 60 New TB Cases Reported In Area

A total of 60 newly reported cases of tuberculosis were found in the Central Florida area during the first 20 weeks of 1971, according to the Central Florida Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association. This compares with 48 found in 1970 during the same time period. The statistics are based on the weekly morbidity reports released by Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, Division of Health. A breakdown of new TB cases by county indicates Lake 11, Marion five; Orange 31; Osceola three; Seminole eight, and Sumner two. The CFTBDA Mobile Chest X-ray unit, operating in the six county area, took 17,443 films during the first five months of 1971 compared to 17,891 during the comparable time period in 1970. TB patients from the Central Florida area hospitalized at State TB Hospital totaled 37 on June 9, 1971, according to the CFTBDA. The use of modern tuberculosis drugs has shortened the necessary hospitalization period of persons diagnosed with TB. The average period of hospitalization in 1969 was 48 days, compared with 160 in 1968 and 234 in 1965. The hospitalization period is continuing to decrease at the W. T. Edwards Tuberculosis Hospital in Tampa where the majority of patients from this area are hospitalized.

Individual Stock Owners Selling To Institutions

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
 NEW YORK (AP) — Directly and indirectly, there are now about 13 million shareholders in America's corporations, or about 17 percent of the population. The figure has grown rapidly in the past decade; a continuation is expected.

As a result, many small investors continue to find themselves ignored when they attempt to purchase stock. It is difficult to find any defense for such refusals, but such considerations somehow can be ignored.

The registered representative, or salesman, is told that he must maintain an average monthly commission at a certain level, perhaps $50 or $60.

Rather than turn down the small investor flatly, however, some salesmen try to talk him into buying mutual fund shares, mainly because the funds can afford to pay that big commission.

It also means that, should the trend continue, the "liquidity" of the market could be endangered. One individual seeking to sell 50 shares always has a buyer, but does one institution trying to sell 10,000 shares?

There may also be a more subtle danger hidden in this trend. It is this: Should individuals be responsible for their own decisions, or must they take a year's rest and pay a third party to make decisions for them?

This, essentially, is what institutionalization means. And a not certain but likely consequence of such behavior is that the small individual will fail to obtain his share in America's growth because he must get help from a professional manager, get rich.

The record of the pros is not that good. Often they fail to attend the business but they never fail to take their fees. Many advertise "expertise," when the truth is that they purchase their decisions from still another party.

The situation is commonly dismissed by the professionals and their spokesmen—they speak with one voice while the individuals speak randomly—but it is there and it won't disappear and it must be dealt with.

One indication of the concern was revealed recently when the New York Stock Exchange itself decided to dispatch an aide to visit brokers for the express purpose of rebuilding the small order business.

As a result, many small investors continue to find themselves ignored when they attempt to purchase stock. It is difficult to find any defense for such refusals, but such considerations somehow can be ignored.

Boy's Shooting Results In Riot

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Peaceful protests Wednesday against the shooting by police of a 15-year-old boy evolved into riotous racial outbreaks of brick throwing, fire bombing and looting in Jacksonville's eastside ghetto.

Police said a $40,000 fire was ignited at the Palm Furniture Co. while firemen lay helplessly on the floor of the station next door dodging debris and light gunfire.

Vandals crashed windows at a liquor store and two groceries and looted the Florida Avenue businesses, police said.

Five persons were reported to be injured—including four passing motorists and one policeman—by flying debris but none required hospital treatment. At least six persons were arrested, police said.

Large groups of blacks from the area had marched under heavy police protection earlier in the day, moving from the ghetto to the Duval County Courthouse to protest the killing last week of a young black.

The officer has since been bound over to a grand jury by a county coroner's jury. He has also been suspended. The incident took place during the investigation of an automobile being driven by the young boy when the youth attempted to flee.

Police said the youth scampered into some bushes and was shot by the officer.

Wednesday night's troubled area stretched 20 blocks north of the Gator Bowl football stadium.

Fire Department spokesmen said firemen at the neighborhood station were finally able to begin fighting the furniture store blaze when police controlled the raging crowd.

Police said at least two other fires were set.

Public Housing Plan 'Scuttled'—Charge

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A $2 million cut by the House-Senate appropriations committee will completely scuttle a land acquisition program for public housing, says Athalie Range, secretary of the Department of Community Affairs.

The appropriation was in Gov. Reubin Askew's budget request, and in the original House appropriations bill.

"The Senate completely turned us down," said Mrs. Range. "And when it went to the conference committee, they didn't even give us the courtesy of hearing us."

The agency said the money would have been used to provide matching loans to counties and cities for acquisition of land for low-cost housing. She said $100,000 appropriated "in lieu of" the $2 million by the conference committee "does us no good, at all. This is restricted money, and must be used for salaries and not for land purposes."

She said the conference committee action—made in attempt to arrive at a compromise state budget—compounded "the vast shortage of housing in this state."

Leading to the deletion of the $2 million, she charged, was Senate conferees' unwillingness to consider the item.

"I spoke with some of the Senate conferees and they told me it was a good appropriation, but that the president of the Senate would never go along with it."

There is a "living fear" among the seven Senate spending bargainers of Senate President Jerry Thomas, she claimed.

"There aren't seven Senate votes on that committee, there is only one. They do everything he wants."

'Bacterial Scourge' Killing Lake Apopka

WINTER GARDEN, Fla. (AP) — Dying Lake Apopka's thousands of wildlife victims succumbed to a bacterial scourge which is capable of dissolving tissues in the infected animals, scientists studying the mystery plague announced Wednesday.

An "aeromonas infection" in which bacteria become able to break down the tissues of alligators, turtles, fish and birds is the culprit which has stricken Lake Apopka, said Dr. Frank Hayes, head of the University of Georgia School of Veterinary Medicine.

"It is difficult to comprehend that a nation with the technical capability to place men on the moon can be stricken by the problem of restoring health to 31,000-acre body of water," Hayes said at a news conference called to announce his findings.

Even as the team reported its results, the central Florida lake experienced a major fish kill due to signs of oxygen depletion. It was the latest in a series which began in the early summer of 1967 when heavy loads of fertilizers and muck began pouring its waters from farms on the northern shores.

The investigation indicated that enrichment by the muck farms set the stage for a speed-up in the growth of bacteria and a change in the eating styles of fish and wildlife as they consumed larger amounts of the bacteria-filled prey.

Also contributing, the team said, was "stress" caused by the buildup of organic ooze on the lake bottom and overcropping.

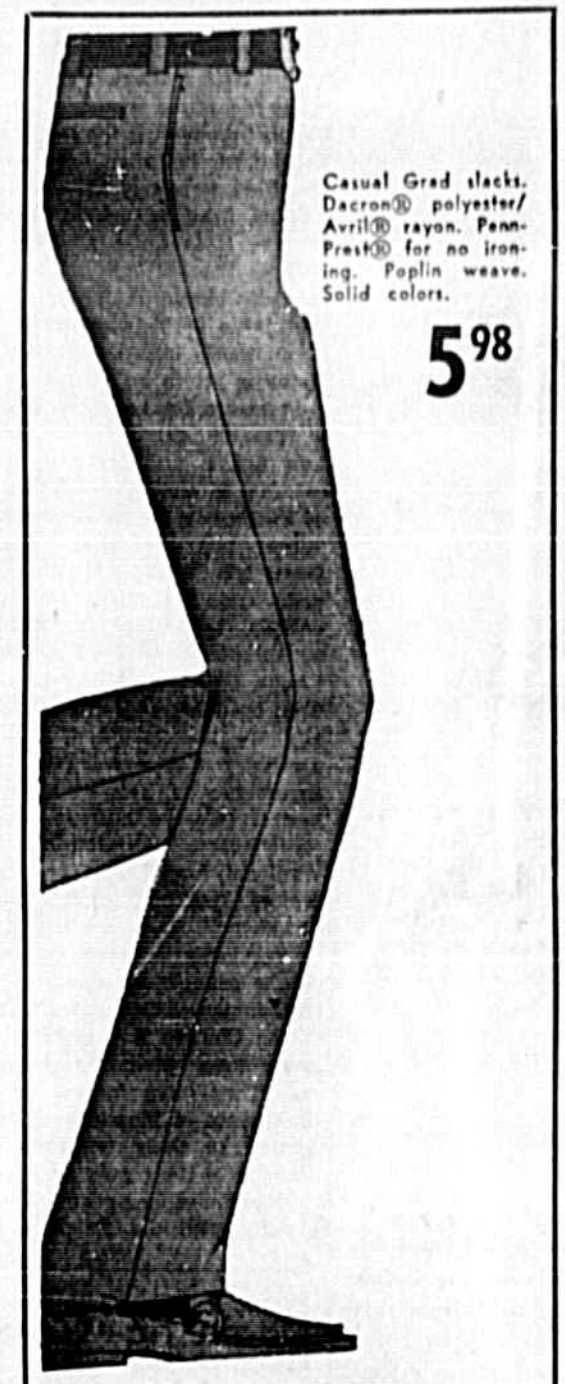

Dr. Hayes said the bacteria are present in perfectly healthy waters too, but they have not multiplied to such an extent in other Florida lakes because the conditions present in Lake Apopka are not present currently in the other lakes.

"The environment for perpetuation of the organism is not as conducive in other lakes as it is in Lake Apopka at this time," he said.

Dr. Wilfred Fisk, director of the Orange County Health Department, said there are only 18 recorded cases of humans contracting the disease. Their conditions were connected with other causes, he said, but he noted that the lake could be dangerous for water sports such as skiing.

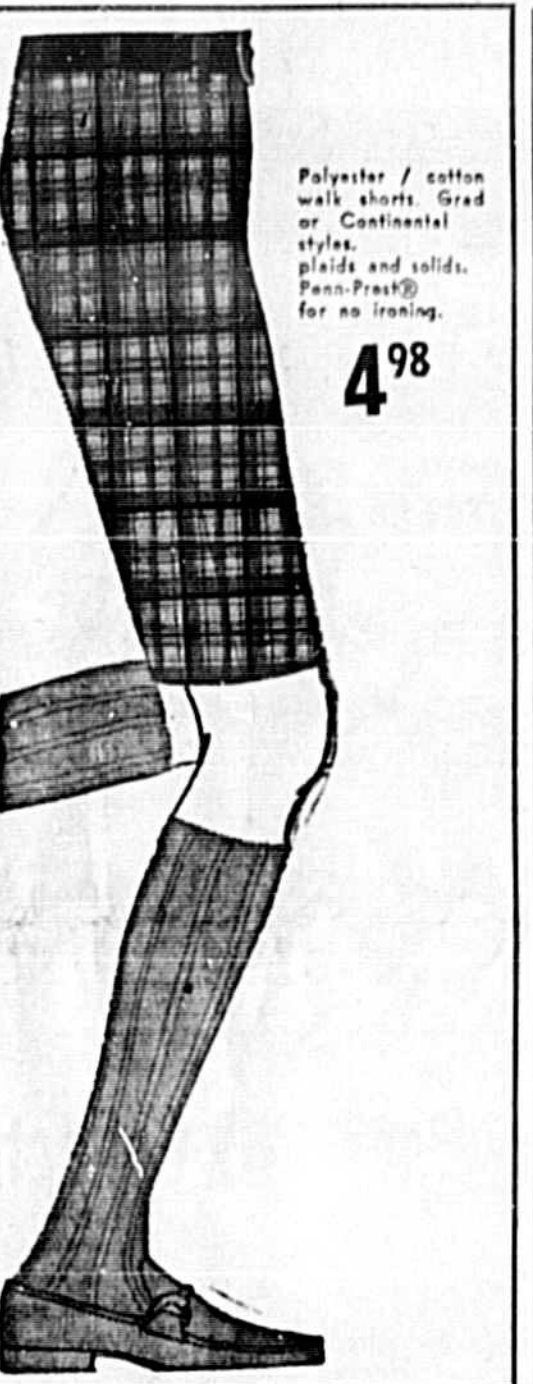

Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission Director Dr. Earle Frye said, however, no steps were being taken to quarantine the lake for other recreation or fishing.

Re-Vamping Of Florida's Public Education

If there is one most disturbing result of the sessions of the Florida State Legislature, it is the undebatable fact that the education system of this state needs a hard-headed revamping.

come keenly aware that their usefulness and ability is being challenged. Recently the issue was put into sharp focus by the words and actions of one of Florida's leading citizens.

Legislators who must face their constituents when the sessions are over, thus, are confronted with a situation which is not of their making but one for which they must seek satisfactory explanations.

Here in Seminole County a tendency to expand the operations at the county school headquarters with new positions being created and the shifting around of educators from purely educational tasks, for which they were qualified, into other posts for which no professional aptitude or training is on the record is in explicable.

War Amendment Doesn't Have Much Chance In House

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An amendment to cut off money for the Vietnam war headed for a House vote today, given less chance of passage than a tougher move that failed in the Senate Wednesday.

Chiles' Idea Turned Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—Borish-looking U.S. Senate rookie Lawton Chiles was hounded Wednesday by the Hatfield-McGovern amendment authors offering their support for the Florida lawmakers' bid to halt financing of the Vietnam War. "My first contact with Sens. Mark Hatfield and George McGovern came just before the vote," Chiles said. "They realized my proposal had a chance. It was pretty evident their bill would be defeated." As it turned out, both amendments were turned down in the Senate. Hatfield-McGovern lost by a 53-42 vote after Chiles' measure was downed 54-44. "My proposal was strictly my idea," said Chiles. "I had not huddled with Hatfield or McGovern before. I was searching for a way to set a date to end financial backing of the war and still protect our prisoners of war." Chiles' plan was to end financial support of the war by June 1, 1972, with the stipulation that all American prisoners "back home, safely in the United States" at least 60 days prior to the deadline. The young Democrat said his proposal was designed to create a deadline "without limiting the powers of the President." Chiles' fellow senator from Florida, Republican Edward Gurney of Winter Park, voted against the freshman's bill. "We can only have one President," said Gurney, "only one commander in chief. At this high time the Senate realized this and stopped trying to become a committee of 100 to run the war."

One immediate result of the Senate action was to increase chances of extended debate against the two-year draft extension, vehicle for the antiwar amendments.

Hatfield said there is "a very good likelihood" of a filibuster against the draft bill itself. Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, who has threatened to talk the measure to death, said the vote "merely strengthens" his resolve to do so.

Hatfield and McGovern, sensing their amendment would fail, spent much of Wednesday in behind-the-scenes negotiations with Chiles who had announced plans for a different substitute proposal, and a group of moderate Republicans who oppose the war but have been reluctant to set a dead line.

"This is running out," Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Armed Services Committee, declared. "It will plague us for decades to come."

But Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said, "We've done our share. It's time to get out." Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, chairman of the Republican National Committee, called the Chiles proposal "a vote of no confidence in the President."

N. Y. Times In Court On Pentagon Secret

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times goes to court today to argue against a government move to inspect the secret Pentagon documents on which the newspaper based its articles on U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

Air School Is Proposed

Moore said that the commission should either abide by the policy it set or "get it off the books." Commissioner Julian Stenstrom then read the ordinance establishing the SIC with an express interest of luring industry to Sanford. Meyer then asked if it is proper to contact the SIC and the Chamber of Commerce to see if either group had any prospects for building 300 Moore directed that Knowles contact the SIC to determine if they have any prospects for the building. Cleveland said that he recommended approval of the proposal if nothing else, the city will get the needed renovations of the two buildings. Cleveland said that no appreciable amounts had been lost on other leases at the airport. Knowles concurred with Cleveland's recommendations. City Attorney William Hutchison said that according to the interpretation given by the city, the policy that the aviation school was not industrial. He said that in the charter of the SIC prepared by him that it is not the intent that anything that is strictly industrial is to be considered by the SIC.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Murray T. Gurfin scheduled a 10 a.m. hearing after the government Wednesday made a new effort to obtain the papers and "other classified documents" it believes are in the Times' possession. Asst. U.S. Atty. Michael Hess asserted that examination of the papers "is important to the proper presentation of the government's case" in seeking an injunction against further publication of the controversial series.

Gurfin denied a government plea for recovery of the documents Tuesday when he ordered the Times to suspend the series for four days pending a Friday hearing on the injunction.

The Times said it would not voluntarily surrender the documents. On Tuesday it expressed concern that the government might be able to trace the source that gave it the documents. The Times argued that the First Amendment shields newspapers from disclosing confidential sources and noted that other copies of the 7,000-page study are available to the government.

Fifteen copies of the 47-volume study entitled "History of United States Decision Making Process on Vietnam Policy" were disseminated. The study

The directors adopted a resolution requesting the Federal Communications Commission to hold a public hearing in Sanford on the closing of the Western Union office here.

A resolution by the Seminole County Commissioners regarding the closing the Sanford branch of the Western Union Office has been turned down by the Federal Communications Commission. Chairman Greg Drummond told The Herald today that a reply has been received and the FCC has revised the idea. However, Drummond said the FCC promised to consider all aspects of the case before making a final decision.

Secret Papers Read By Mail Theft Ring

By LAWRENCE L. KNUSTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Top-secret missile plans and other government documents appeared often in mail pouches from which a conspiracy operating nationwide stole $100 million in valuables, an admitted thief has told Senate investigators. The thief, Robert F. Cuda, 29, said although afraid of the secret papers, he read some of them out of curiosity. But he never tried to sell them, he said, and either burned them or floated them out to sea. The object of his more than 175 thefts, the federal convict said, was not espionage but the millions of dollars in securities, diamonds, travelers' checks, furs and cash carried in U.S. registered mail. He said he sold his loot as a fraction of its true value to fences controlled directly by the crime syndicate in New York and New Jersey. Surrounded by armed U.S. marshals and granted immunity

Ordinance Update Slated For Agenda

By LARRY NEELY
Consideration of procedures to update the current Sanford zoning ordinance is one of nine items, including three public hearings, on the agenda of tonight's Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission meeting which is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the commission meeting room in the city hall. The City Commission recently adopted a new land use plan recommended by the planning and zoning body which now has the task of preparing a new zoning ordinance. The commission will also consider a request to rezone from R-2 one and two family residential to R-3 multiple family on a parcel in Roseland Heights at the northwest corner of the intersection of Onora Road and Magnolia Avenue. They will also consider two requests for rezoning in the third section of Dreamwood. One requests a change from R-1A single family to R-2 multiple family on a parcel of land located on the north side of 25th Street between Maple and Holly Avenue. The second request for a change in zoning in the third section of Dreamwood requests a change from R-1A single family to R-2 multiple family on a parcel of land located on the north side of 25th Street between Maple and Holly Avenue. The commission will also take under consideration the preliminary plat of twenty West Subdivision which is located between West 25th Street and 24th Street and Chase Avenue and Georgia Avenue. The present zoning for the area is R-1 single family. Zoning classification for the recently annexed section three of the Idylwild Subdivision will be taken up at tonight's meeting. Also scheduled for discussion is the preliminary draft of the new sign ordinance and procedures for holding public hearings which will include fees, notices to property owners and voting action by the board.

Gala Banquet Retires Tom Paulk

By CECELIA FARMER

An elaborate retirement banquet was held June 5 at Delton Inn honoring T. M. (Tom) Paulk, who retired May 28 after 44 years of service with the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad.

More than 60 friends, relatives and co-workers turned out for the festive evening. Highlight of the decorations was a nine foot train "The Tom Paulk Special," 1927-1971. Centerpiece for the head table was also a locomotive with candy striped carriages. Old type switchman's lanterns were used on the tables with arrangements of daisies and carnations along with candles, blue, yellow burning tapers and ferns.

The honor guest was presented a rod, reel, tackle box (full of fishing equipment), a box of cigars and a carnation boutonniere. Mrs. Paulk received a yellow orchid corsage.

Master of ceremonies was Frank P. Dunn and presiding

FRANK DUNN, Jr., "the boss" and emcee at Tom Paulk's retirement festivities, congratulates the general honor guest as he wishes him "good luck."

Forty-four years of railroading is a long time but Tom Paulk is obviously happy about joining the "honey do" set. Photo shows the honor guest, his wife and family members from out-of-town attending the memorable event, from left, Mrs. C. W. Crosby, Mrs. Paulk, the guest of honor, Mrs. Betty Peterson (daughter) and Mrs. Viola Metts.

At the guest register book were Mrs. Hattie Boyd and Mrs. Joyce Gustafson. M. E. Smith gave the invocation and benediction and background music was provided by Henry Bacon. E. J. Boel and W. A. Cook presented an original skit concerning items the honoree left at the office on the day he retired. J. E. Dickens gave a tribute and resume of Mr. Paulk's service with the railroad. A native of Cairo, Ga., he started as a messenger in Thomasville, Ga. Assignments as a clerk during his 44 years of service found him located in Thomasville, Tampa and Sanford where he now resides.

Slides taken during his last week of work and at home were shown to the group. No banquet would be complete without the honor guest making a speech, so Mr. Paulk made an "appreciation" talk and stated that he and his wife, Margaret, planned to go places and do things they had wanted to do but had no time for them until now.

Among the guests were six couples who have retired from SCL; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Dampier, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Sheppard, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Tillis and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cole.

Out of town guests included the couple's daughter, Mrs. Betty Peterson, Jacksonville; Mrs. Paulk's two sisters, Mrs. Viola Metts, Waterboro, S.C.

In The Good Ole' Summertime... There's Nothing Like A Good Corn Boil Feast

LOOKED FORWARD to all year long by those fortunate enough to be on the Axel Ormberg's guest list is their annual corn boil featuring corn fresh from their garden. Guests are shown feasting from a variety of delectables in the shade of tarps set up on the spacious lawn of their Casselberry home.

MR. AND MRS. AXEL ORMBERG are being supervised by baby Laurie Eagan in the preparation of their corn. The corn is fresh from the stalk and guests look forward to this picnic all year.

By MARILYN GORDON

Mr. and Mrs. Axel Ormberg entertained June 12 with their annual picnic at their home on Seminole Boulevard, Casselberry.

The Ormbergs are organic farmers and their vegetables, besides being grown with tender loving care, are far bigger than anything seen at the market.

The corn was still on the stalk just a few feet from where it is boiled.

Lucky guests attending were Dr. and Mrs. David Hicks and son John, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Ward, Mr. Lawrence Layne, Mrs. Adis Haslett, Mr. and Mrs. John Layne and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Keith and Mr. and Mrs. William Willis.

Also Mr. and Mrs. David Holmstrom, Mr. and Mrs. James

Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dewitt, Ray Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stroussler, Mr. and Mrs. John McVicker and Mrs. Ben Gordon and Debra.

I hope everybody had a chance to see the Springfield NHRA Championship from Dallas over the weekend on Channel 9 TV. It was very well presented and the handling of the action was breathtaking. For about 10 minutes we saw a twin engine Chevrolet powered gas dragster. He is sponsored by a toy manufacturer who has come up with a unique way to gain attention to the car. Its transparent plastic valve covers. You can actually see the valve rock arms moving back and forth at 1,500 RPM. It's a Gas!

The pre-race contest was won by Ronnie Sox who may be the greatest drag racer of them all when it comes to handling a four-speed. In my opinion his only opposition may come from Bill (Grumpy) Jenkins. Don Garlits showed us he is still the man to beat in the 1/4 mile with his 6.49's. That's a 4 second down the quarter mile all day long and of course went top fuel.

Stock car racing is going through a crisis as the independent drivers drop out of competition during the NASCAR season due to the carburetor plate restrictions which have put the 429 Ford and the 436 into a considerable disadvantage. Several major contenders have threatened to discontinue their racing efforts this season and I think that stock car racing will suffer accordingly if something isn't done about the manner in which the NASCAR officials make decisions concerning the size of the so-called carburetor plates. The NASCAR season looked like the greatest ever in the beginning but lately the inconsistency of the top competitors has some of us who know and respect Bill France wondering what's going on at NASCAR headquarters in Daytona. We shall see if the drivers and manufacturers can get together with the NASCAR officials and work out a solution before the Firecracker 400 coming July 4.

By the way, July 4 falls on a Sunday this year and much to my amazement the ideal time to have a race, that's when it begins. My gripe with NASCAR on having a race on Sunday morning is not just on religious grounds. Many radio stations are obligated to their listeners to broadcast religious messages of various kinds from the many denominations on Sunday. These stations will be unable to broadcast live coverage of this race as a result of NASCAR's incredible decision. Many thousands of radio listeners will be deprived of the opportunity to hear one of the top Grand National races of the year because of poor scheduling. There certainly would have been no problem in scheduling the race on Saturday, July 3. Come on Mr. France, wake up over there!

The 24 hours of LeMans is one of the premier endurance races in the world. Enzo Ferrari said before this year's event that winning LeMans was more to him than winning the Manufacturers Championship. Since Porsche has already won the championship, Enzo may feel that this would be the only way for Ferrari to regain its prestige. This year is the last year that five litre sports racing cars, in the so-called unlimited class, will be legal in the World Championship. Last year the limit for this overall class will drop three litres (352 cu. in.) which is the same size engines as the Prototypes, the class just under sports racing.

As a matter of fact, the Ferrari team will probably go with their three litre Prototypes in their return to the World Manufacturers Championship next year. The Prototype driven by Mario Andretti and Jacky Ickx at Sebring this year was leading the race when it fell back with gearbox problems. Next year the Alfa Romeo team ought to be the team to beat at some of the shorter races. They have already won several races on these types of courses this year.

Well, I might as well point out that the Ferrari team may have to wait until next year when they finally get themselves together as a force. Before they finally get together with Dr. Helmut Marko and Guy Van Lennep driving to the win in their Martini-Rossi team Porsche 917. A 917 was also second with Sam Posey and Tony Adamowicz finishing third in the North American team Ferrari. Actually the year is in doubt until the last minute as the leaders were in terrible mechanical condition at the end of the season. Enzo Ferrari is the old Brooklyn Dodger cry "WAIT TILL NEXT YEAR". I might point out that a 507 Ferrari won Grand Touring driven by Luigi Chinetti and Bob Grassman. I'd like to see that Ferrari against the Corvette. John Greenwood or Dave Hines at the Watkins Glen Six Hour endurance race in late July. Who would you go with in a race between the highly sophisticated Ferrari with an ability to corner as well or better than any race car in the world and the more powerful Corvette with that Aluminum 427 cubic inch V-8 and make straightaway speed. I hope the clash in Grand Touring takes place in New York for this race maybe as interesting to observe as the race for the overall win.

My prediction that Jackie Stewart would be the man to knock off the McLaren team of Denis Hulme and Peter Revson almost came true at Bowmanville, Ontario as Stewart's 800 horsepower all-aluminum Chevrolet was leading the first Can-Am race of the year by five seconds and building a lead when his transmission broke, putting him out of the competition. The Can-Am race is coming to Road Atlanta north of Atlanta, around July 11. If you can, don't miss it.

The Can-Am racers are the fastest racing cars in the world with the possible exception of what runs for the various land world speed records at Bonneville. To give you an idea of what kind of difference there is between the various and other types of racers, the fastest a stock car has gone in qualifying is 194 miles per hour at Daytona and 199 at Talladega, Ala. Mark Donohue in a 512 Ferrari went 199 miles in an hour on a third event (it had just been through 12 hours of racing at Sebring). The speed of 199 miles an hour was set at Sebring at Daytona which was set by Cale Yarborough in a Mercury.

In Can-Am competition last year the McLaren Chevrolet and Lola Chevrolets and the Ford were as much as 10 miles an hour faster than the Ferrari 512's and Porsche in qualifying for the various races in the series. You have to see to believe them so don't forget Road Atlanta on July 11.

Gordon's In Control Of Second Half Play

Ralph Pillow Motors has won one and lost one in this week's action in Seminoles County Women's Softball Association play. The win was by a landslide, 23-3 over McRoberts Tires, but the loss was the important one.

It came at the hands of Gordon's Druggs, 18-5, and could be very decisive in the outcome of the Sanford League. Ralph Pillow Motors will play the first half with their only loss coming by forfeit to Wilson Mader when they were out of town at an invitational tournament.

Gordon's, currently setting the pace with an undefeated record, was paced in the game by Debbie Green who was three for four. One of Green's was a double. Joan Turner was two for three, but both doubles. Lou Stasey also had two hits.

Ralph Pillow paced the losers with two hits, including a triple. Lynn Stevens also tripled. All of Ralph Pillow Motors' runs came in the third inning.

Joan Helms was the pace-setter for Ralph Pillow in their win over McRoberts Tires. She was five for five with two home runs and a triple. Fritze Pillow and Winnie Dodgin each had three hits, including a homer. Jo Stodermire and Donna Rollings had two singles and a double each and Jeanne Bialazewski has three singles. B. J. Janke and Lynn Stevens each had a single and a double. Lou Helms had two hits. The winners had 27 hits.

Pam Temple paced McRoberts Tires with two hits. Candy Ferrill, Dennis Caruthers and Dawn Gzell had the only other hits for the losers.

The comments were reported in Thursday's Los Angeles Times by columnist John Hall, who interviewed Aubrey the day after Hall reported that Angel players had guns in their lockers and that dissension on the club was rampant.

Aubrey said he didn't believe in votes of confidence for managers but said he gave his complete backing to Manager Lefty Phillips. He added that he planned two moves to help prevent violence from flaring.

The hiring of a special player counselor—"somebody like former Detroit manager Mayo Smith"—to work closely with the players and the manager. He would concern himself with the little problems that arise between the players and front office. He would be a neutral advisor to both sides.

Mid-Florida Riders Club Eyes Orlando Motocross

All entries in the mini-bike event must be accompanied by a parent. Riders under 21 years of age must have written consent of parent.

In addition to Sunday's action, many of the Mid-Florida Riders Club members will be in attendance at the Johnny Lee Motocross School on Saturday.

The school will also be held at the Orlando Sports Stadium from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. No entry fee is required but donations will be accepted.

The Mid-Florida Riders Club will hold a meeting tonight at the Seminole Motorcycle shop at 8 p.m.

In contrast to the opinion of most of the Mid-Florida Riders Club is not a "motorcycle game". It is an organization formed to promote safety on the highways concerning the operation of motorcycle or motor bike.

The club is trying to stir interest in young couples with cycles or singles who can obtain titles. All of the aforementioned individuals are invited to attend tonight meeting at the Seminole shop.

Porter, reached in Chicago where he started training camp with the Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association, declined to comment and referred all questions to his lawyer.

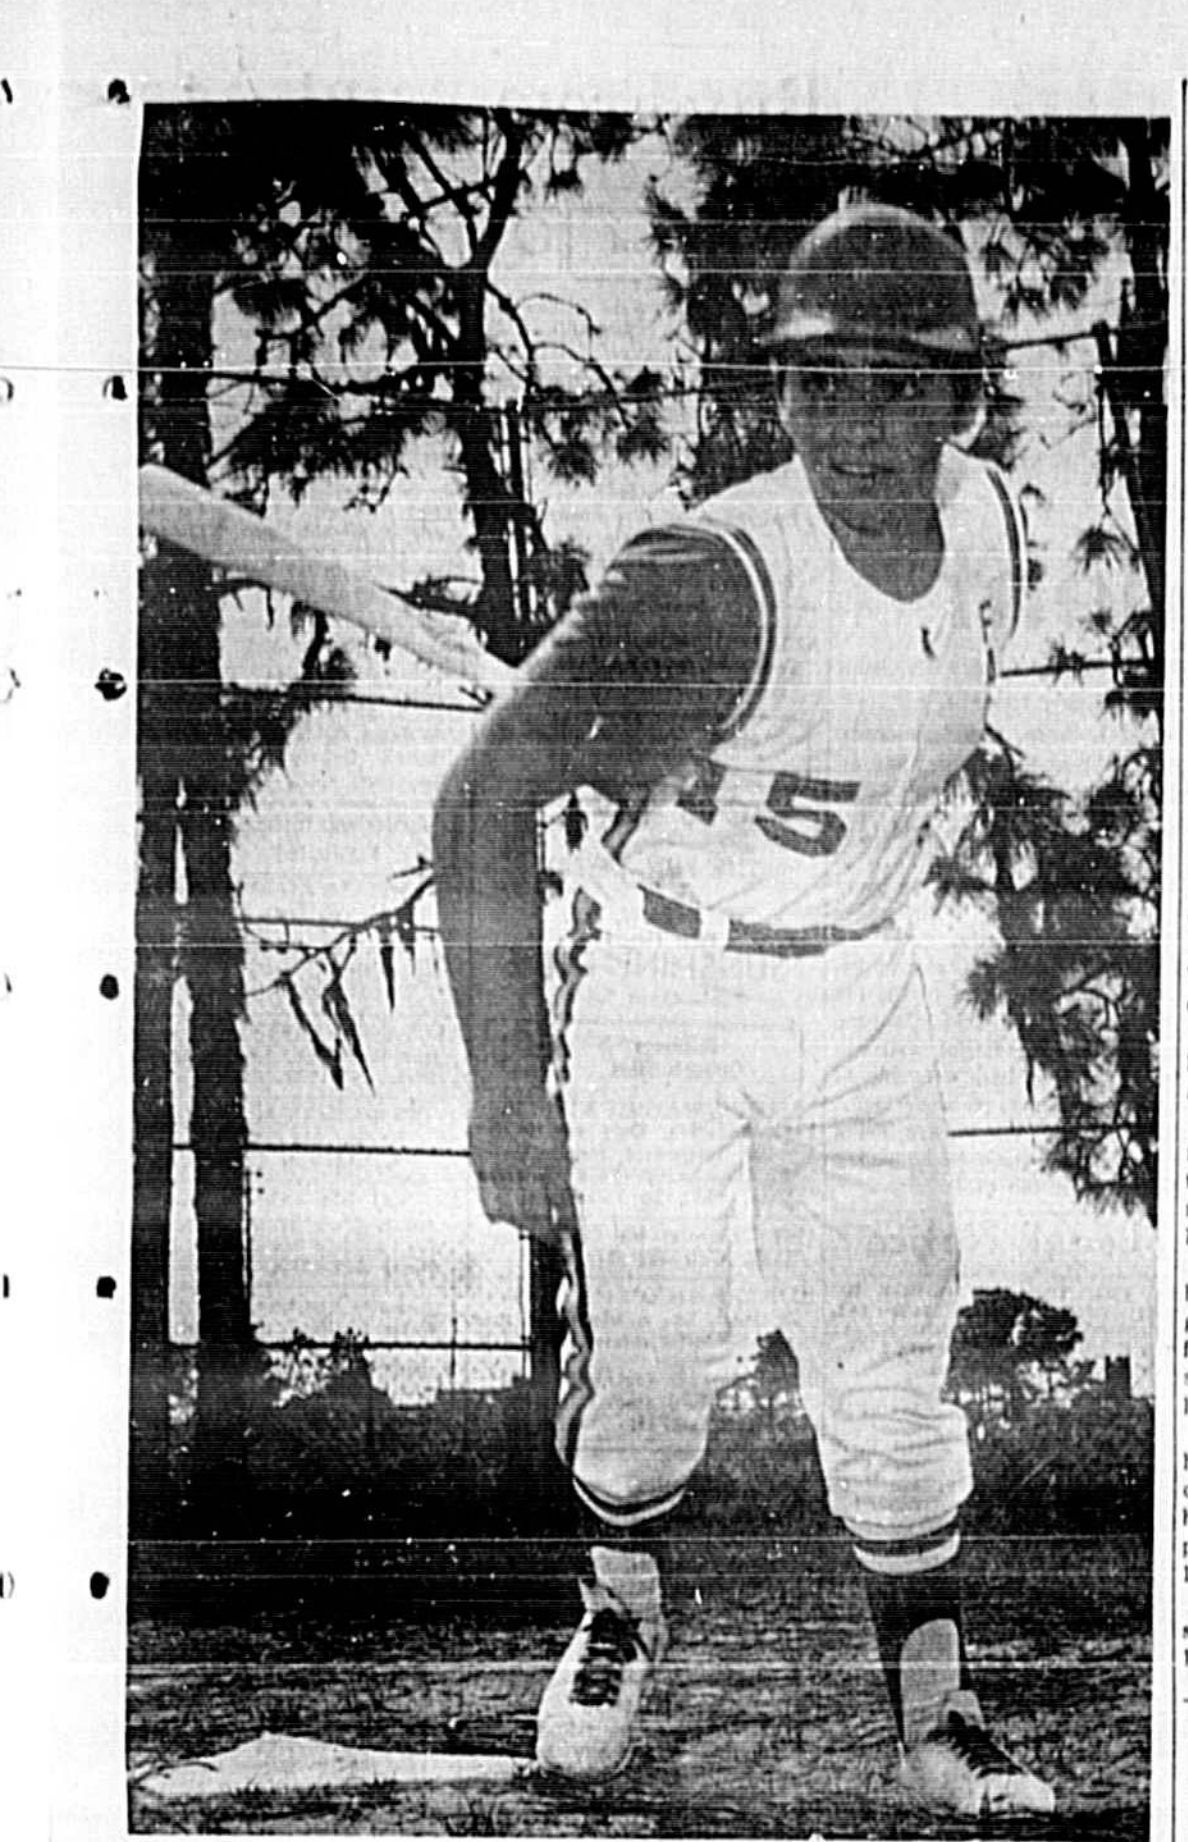

The 6-foot-8 star, who averaged 23.5 points a game for Villanova last season, signed with the Bulls this spring, prompting a suit filed by the Pittsburgh Condors of the ABA, who claimed they had been given his signed contract by the league.

The latest development in the case was precipitated here when Federal Judge Edward C. McLean refused to seal the documents filed in the case of Pittsburgh against the Bulls.

Although Porter's attorney, Richard G. Phillips of Philadelphia, argued that leaving the papers unsealed "could do irreparable damage" to Porter and his alma mater, the papers were left open for anyone to inspect.

The papers included a document that said Porter signed with the ABA last Dec. 16 and that the contract was assigned by the ABA to the Condors. The contract, according to the documents, called for a salary of $30,000 for a year for seven years, an "unfunded bonus" of $15,000 for signing, a new car and another $10,000 bonus May 1, 1974.

VALUABLE MEMBER for next year's Seminole Junior College baseball team is the way Paul Russo of Tampa's Leto High School has been described by SJC coach, Jay Bergman. Russo, the latest to sign with SJC's diamond team, batted .554 this past season and played in the 1971 High School All-Star game. He played third base for Leto High.

Mike Epstein Slams Four Homers

BY KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Mike Epstein took a drive around the park and enjoyed it so much that he did it three more times in a row.

Before he ran out of gas, the Oakland A's first baseman had come home with a major league tying record-four consecutive home runs.

"I'm hitting better," said Epstein, who didn't have to tell anyone after drilling his third and fourth homers in a row in Wednesday night's 5-1 triumph over the Washington Senators.

Not so incidentally, fabulous Vida Blue gained his 14th victory for Oakland with a six-hit try.

WINNERS OF THE last four U.S. Open Championships, from left, were perennial favorite Jack Nicklaus (1967), Lee Trevino (1968), Orville Moody (1969) and Tony Jacklin (1970).

Stoneman Fires A One-Hitter

BY HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Here's today's baseball quiz: What's the difference between the no-hitter Montreal's Bill Stoneman pitched against Philadelphia in 1969 and the one Denver, Colo., threw at San Diego Wednesday night?

That's easy. One hit, right? Wrong. The difference, says manager Gene Mauch, is "six walks and 2 1/2 years' experience."

That's wrong, too. The difference, if you really want to know, is four walks and 30 months' experience.

At any rate, Stoneman, a 27-year-old right-hander, ran his record to 9-4 by blanking the Padres 2-0 tying his own club record of 14 strikeouts and allowing only three baserunners.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia's new New York Mets whipped Los Angeles 7-2, Pittsburgh beat Houston 6-4, Cincinnati ripped St. Louis 10-0 and Atlanta edged the Chicago Cubs 6-5.

Stoneman finally is consistently displaying the form the Expos have been waiting for after seasons of 11-19 and 7-15. In his no-hitter, which came in the ninth game ever played by the expansion Expos, he walked five and struck out eight.

Wednesday night he walked only one and hit 14 strikeouts gave him the NL lead with 122.

"I'm sure," Stoneman admitted, "I knew I had a no-hitter going, but I wasn't worried at all. It was my best game of the year. It went the way I planned it."

Contract Provisions In Spotlight Again

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The contract provisions in professional sports that tie a player to a club are again in the spotlight because of the latest development in the proposed merger of the American and National Basketball Associations.

'Fourth' Fiesta Features Fireworks

By LARRY NEELY

Highlighting the annual Fourth of July Fiesta sponsored by South Seminole Jaycees will be a "Little Miss Firecracker" Pageant. The event is slated to be held on the Jai Alai fronton parking lot on Highway 17-02 in Fern Park. Starting time for the day's festivities has been set as noon on Saturday, July 3, and will conclude with a giant fireworks display after dark.

Girls age three to six, including the Little Miss Firecracker contest. The judging will be based on charm only with party dress attire. There is a nominal entry fee.

Anyone desiring to enter a child in the contest should mail their entry to the South Seminole Jaycees, P.O. Box 478, Altamonte Springs. All entries must be accompanied by the entry fee and should include the name of the child being entered, the name of her parents or guardian, home telephone number and complete address.

The winners and the first and second runner-up in the contest will receive trophies. There also will be many other prizes going to the winners, donated by the area merchants.

Among those who will be judging the Little Miss Firecracker pageant which is slated to begin at 8:30 p.m., are County Commissioner Chairman Greg Drummond and Florida Jaycee President Randy Avon.

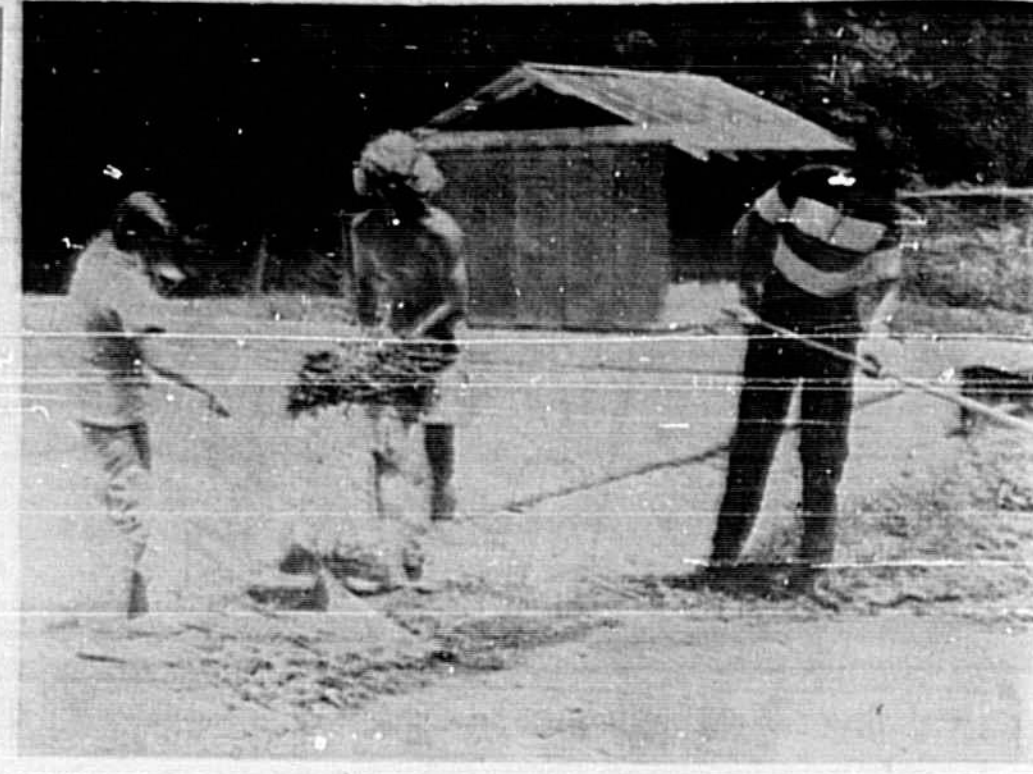

Following the Little Miss Firecracker pageant will be a trained dog exhibition presented by K.C. Inc. of Orlando, and a law enforcement demonstration by the sheriff's department.

The day's events will close with the giant fireworks display.

The Fourth of July Fiesta has been planned as an extravaganza event by the South Seminole Jaycees. There will be 18 entertainment booths from dawn through midnight. Concessions of all varieties will be available throughout the day. Several special surprises are planned, including a visit from Boon the Clown.

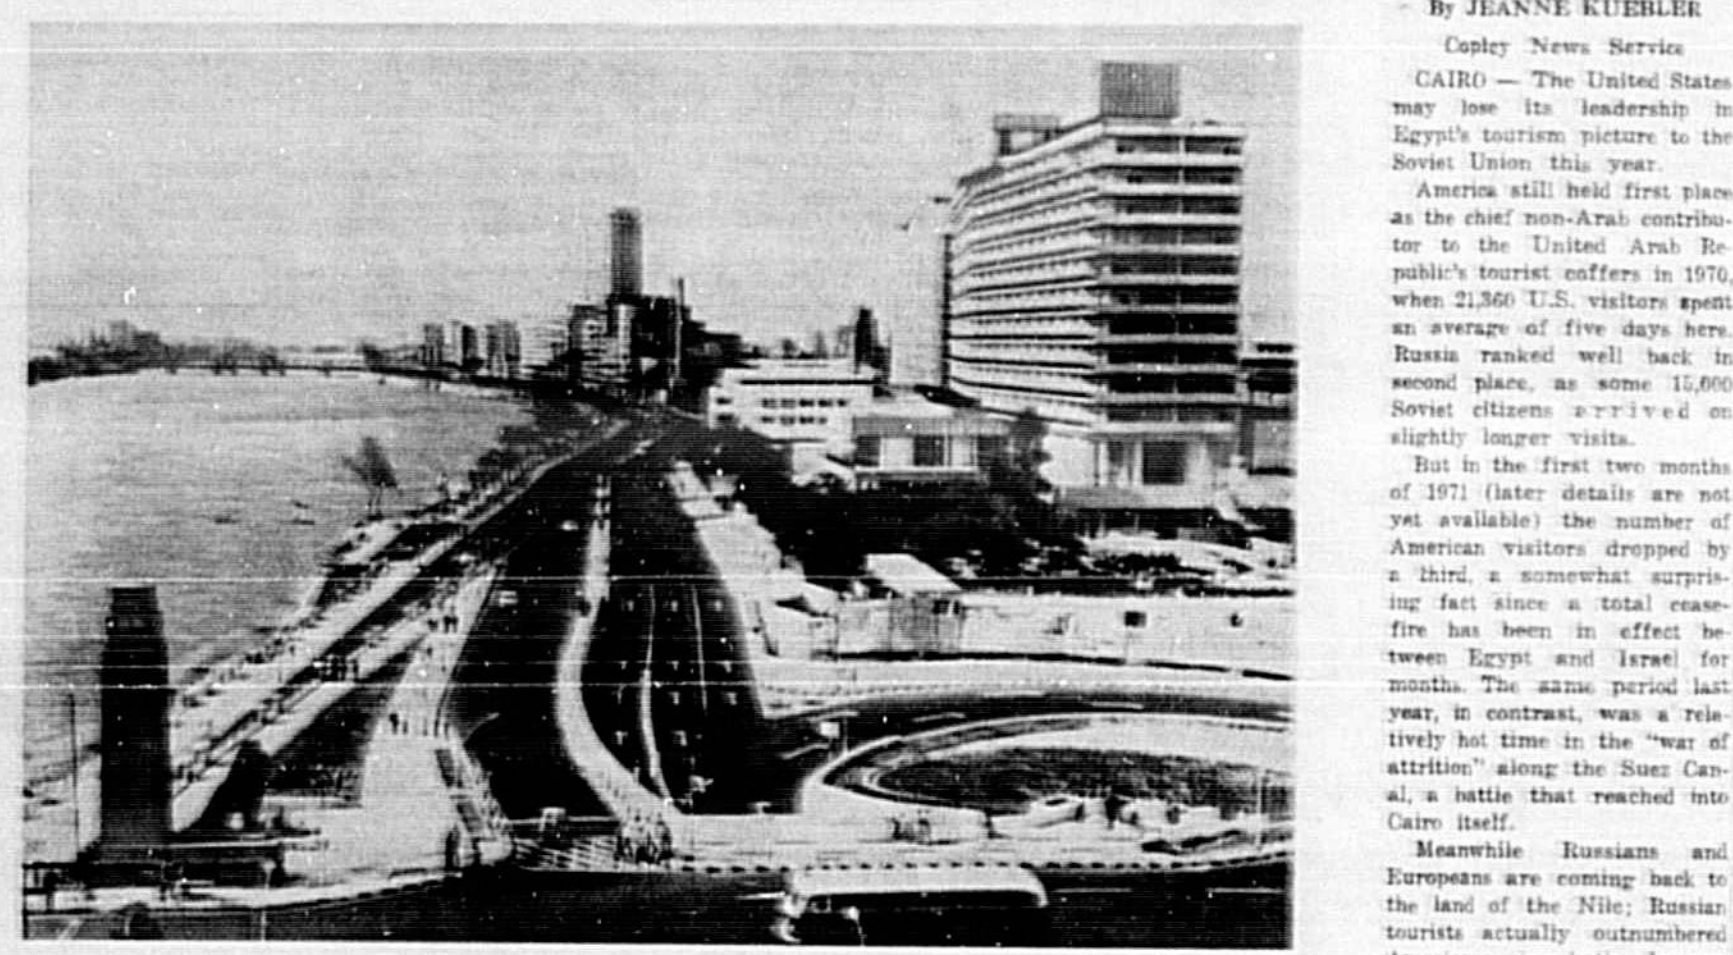

On hand to help with the traffic and crowd control will be the Youth Deputies sponsored by the Jaycees.

Each year the Fourth of July Fiesta of the South Seminole Jaycees has become an increasingly popular and successful event and this year's fiesta is being planned as the best ever.

Sky Marshals Forces May Be Cut Soon

By VERN HAUGLAND

AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a new rash of air piracy and the first slaying of a passenger on a hijacked plane, the chief of U.S. sky marshals says his force may be cut late next year.

Gen. Benjamin O. Davis, director of civil aviation security, says a 75 per cent trimming of his 1,200-man force is foreseeable if airport ground security continues to improve.

"It is likely that we will all ways have to have sky marshals to prevent air crimes," Davis said in an interview. "But I would think there would be about one-fourth the number we have now."

Davis, a retired Air Force lieutenant general, said displaced marshals could go to other government security jobs.

Putting armed marshals aboard planes is a hazard and unpopular with the government, airlines and passengers, but essential for the time being, Davis said.

He called "shocking extremely disturbing" the fatal shooting of a 65-year-old Connecticut businessman aboard a hijacked Trans World Airlines jetliner at Chicago's O'Hare Field last Friday.

"Nevertheless, the solution toward which we are all pushing remains, and it is complete security on the ground—keeping dangerous persons off aircraft," Davis said.

Citing an example of ground security efforts, Davis said one major airline has spent $750,000 to buy enough weapons-detection devices to cover every boarding gate at every airport it serves.

All a closed May 31 meeting of the American Association of Airport Executives, he outlined these previously undisclosed security slips at different major airports.

"Two teenagers running away from home walked aboard a parked jet airliner with plans to stay away, and were found asleep there."

Drugs smuggled through three parked 720s looking for liquor.

Another aspect of Egypt that has been ignored, the deputy minister feels, is the nation's prospects as a health spa. The hot dry air at Aswan and Helwan is recommended for arthritis, rheumatism and other ailments. Groups of Scandinavians have begun to make regular trips in the winter to Aswan.

Finally, in a program unusual for an Arab country, the nation's prospects as a health spa. The hot dry air at Aswan and Helwan is recommended for arthritis, rheumatism and other ailments. Groups of Scandinavians have begun to make regular trips in the winter to Aswan.

This year the Department of Tourism will bring some 6,000 high school and college students from Denmark to live for a month in a special youth village near Luxor, working with the farmers of the area while studying Egypt's history and culture.

And there will be a repeat of last year's successful "floating university" on the Nile, with foreign students using one of the river steamers as a hostel during a trip up the historic river to Upper Egypt.

Through Unique Plan Eckerd Aides Buy Stock

CLEARWATER — Approximately 2,100 Jack Eckerd Corporation employees today were given options to purchase 200,000 shares of the company's common stock at $20 per share under the Jack M. Eckerd personal stock option plan. The stock closed on the New York Stock Exchange on June 7, at $48.75 per share. The announcement was made by Jack M. Eckerd, board chairman.

This is the third year the company's employees have been given an opportunity to participate in the personal stock option plan. The unique plan was set up in December, 1969, by Eckerd. There is no comparable plan offered by businessmen in America today.

When the plan was set up, Eckerd set aside two million shares of his personally owned common stock to the Jack M. Eckerd Trust. The two million shares represent approximately 30 per cent of the outstanding stock of the corporation and almost 90 per cent of Eckerd's personal holding. The rest is owned by more than 8,000 stockholders, including many employees.

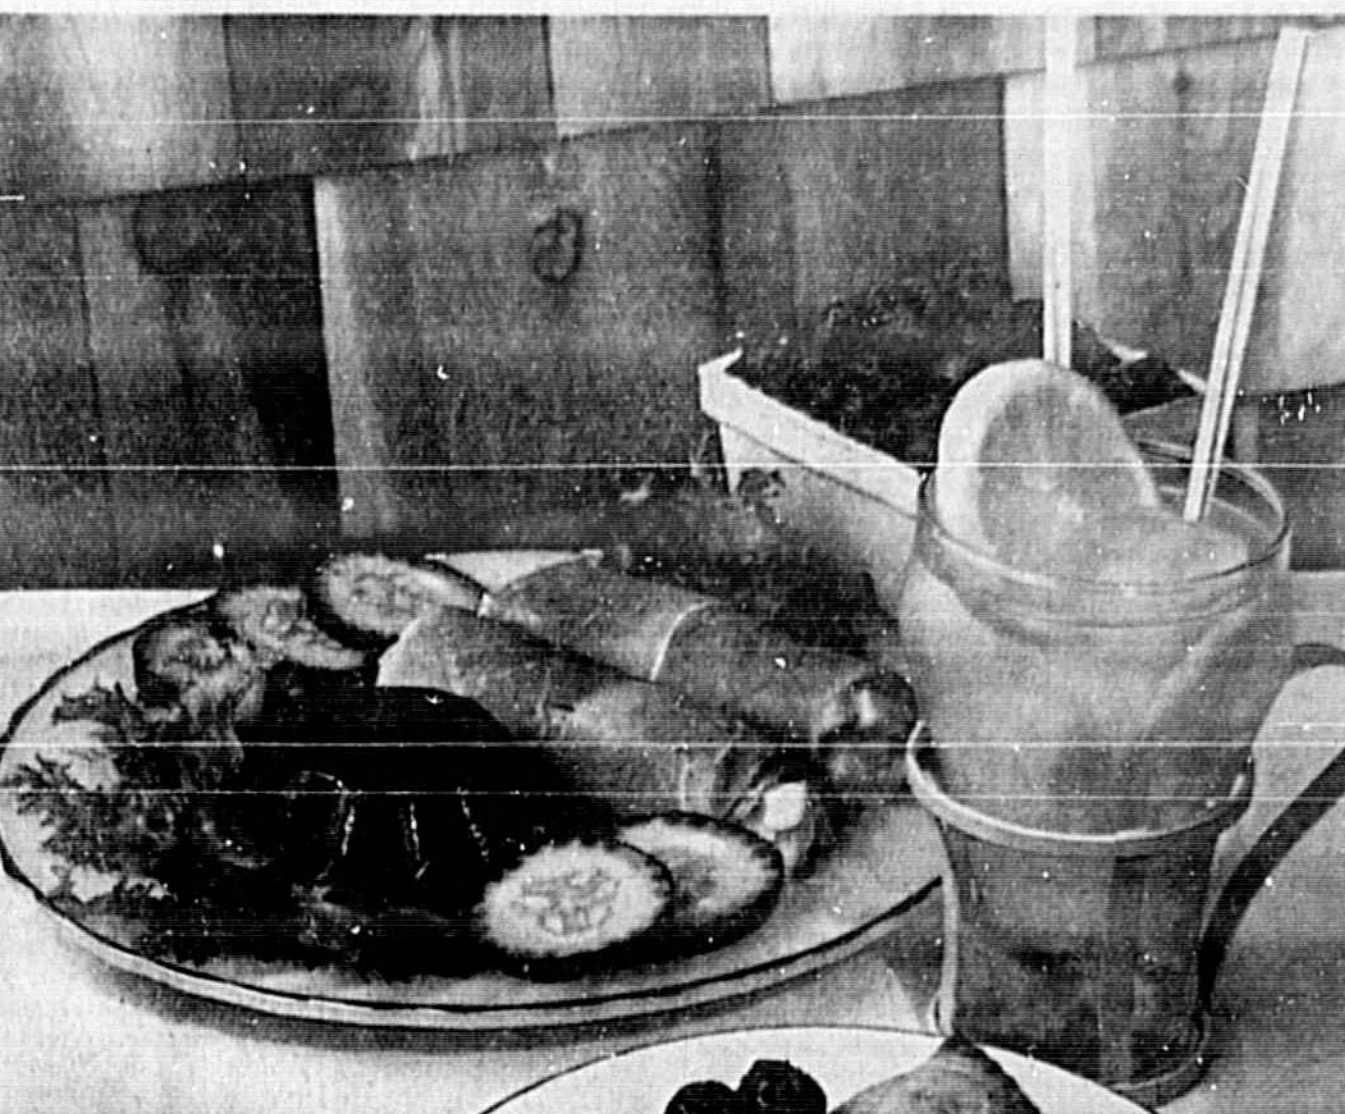

"To me," said Eckerd, "the personal stock option plan is a way to reward all our employees responsible for the success of our company and give them a part of the action."

"The personal stock option plan is good for employees because it gives them a tremendous incentive to do a good job for our customers because it provides them with better, more efficient service, and for our stockholders because it does not dilute the stock they hold and many purchases in the future."

Last year, 1,800 employees given options to purchase 148,000 shares of the common stock. All employees who have worked for the company for one full calendar year are eligible to receive stock options. The options are based on length of service and salary.

This year, for example, an employee who has been employed six years and who earned $7,800 in the 1970 calendar year will be entitled to buy 116 shares of common stock—60 shares based on years of employment and 56 shares based on salary. Next year, the same employee will be eligible for an additional option.

The options granted each employee cannot be exercised before 4½ years after 8½ years. The option terminates if the employee doesn't exercise it or if his employment with the company ends.

SUMMER'S BEST is this cool meal made with nature's fresh fruits and vegetables, all in season. Ham rolls stuffed with potato salad, fresh tomatoes to aspic, crisp cucumber slices, and Cheese Turnovers with Fresh Blueberry Sauce make the menu.

Zesty Cool-Off Dinners

Let summer sizzle while your family cools off with a well-planned meal. Lighter food is fine in summer if you're careful to stress nutrition. A delicious summer main dish is ham rolls stuffed with homemade potato salad. Accompany it with gelled tomato aspic, very specially flavored with fresh tomatoes. Frame the aspic in crisp cucumber slices. For beverage, serve sparkling fresh lemonade. A substantial dessert, Cheese Turnovers with Fresh Blueberry Sauce, concludes this cool meal.

FRESH TOMATO ASPIC

3 pounds fresh tomatoes
3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
2 tablespoons water
½ cup chopped fresh onion
¼ cup chopped celery
2 teaspoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon paprika
1 pint fresh blueberries
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water

Coarsely chop tomatoes to make about 8 cups. Combine in medium saucepan with lemon juice, 2 tablespoons water, onion, celery, sugar, salt, paprika, pepper, bay leaf and Worcestershire sauce. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. Strain tomatoes mixture, reserving liquid. Soften gelatin in ½ cup cold water in small cup; place over boiling water and stir until dissolved. Stir into strained tomato liquid. Pour into 6 individual ¾-cup molds. Chill until firm. Garnish with chervil and cucumber slices. Makes 6 servings.

CHEESE TURNOVERS WITH FRESH BLUEBERRY SAUCE

Turnovers:

1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 cup (8 ounces) cottage cheese
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons flour
2 teaspoons grated fresh lemon rind
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 package (10 ounces) pastry mix
1 egg
2 teaspoons milk
Blueberry Sauce:
½ cup sugar
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
1 pint fresh blueberries
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Combine cream and cottage cheeses, two tablespoons sugar, flour, lemon rind and vanilla; beat until smooth. Prepare pastry mix according to package directions. Roll out half of pastry and cut three 5-inch rounds. Repeat with remaining pastry. Place a scant ¼ cup of cheese mixture in center of each pastry round; fold in half. Moisten inside edges of pastry with water and press firmly with a fork to seal. Prick tops. Beat egg with milk and brush over tops of turnovers. Place on a baking sheet and bake in 400 degrees F. oven 20 to 30 minutes or until golden brown. Remove to wire rack to cool.

To prepare blueberry sauce, combine ½ cup sugar and cornstarch in saucepan. Add blueberries, water and lemon juice. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Simmer 1 minute. Remove from heat. Stir in butter or margarine. Cool slightly and serve over turnovers. Makes 6 turnovers and 2½ cups sauce.

There Is No Need To Go Abroad

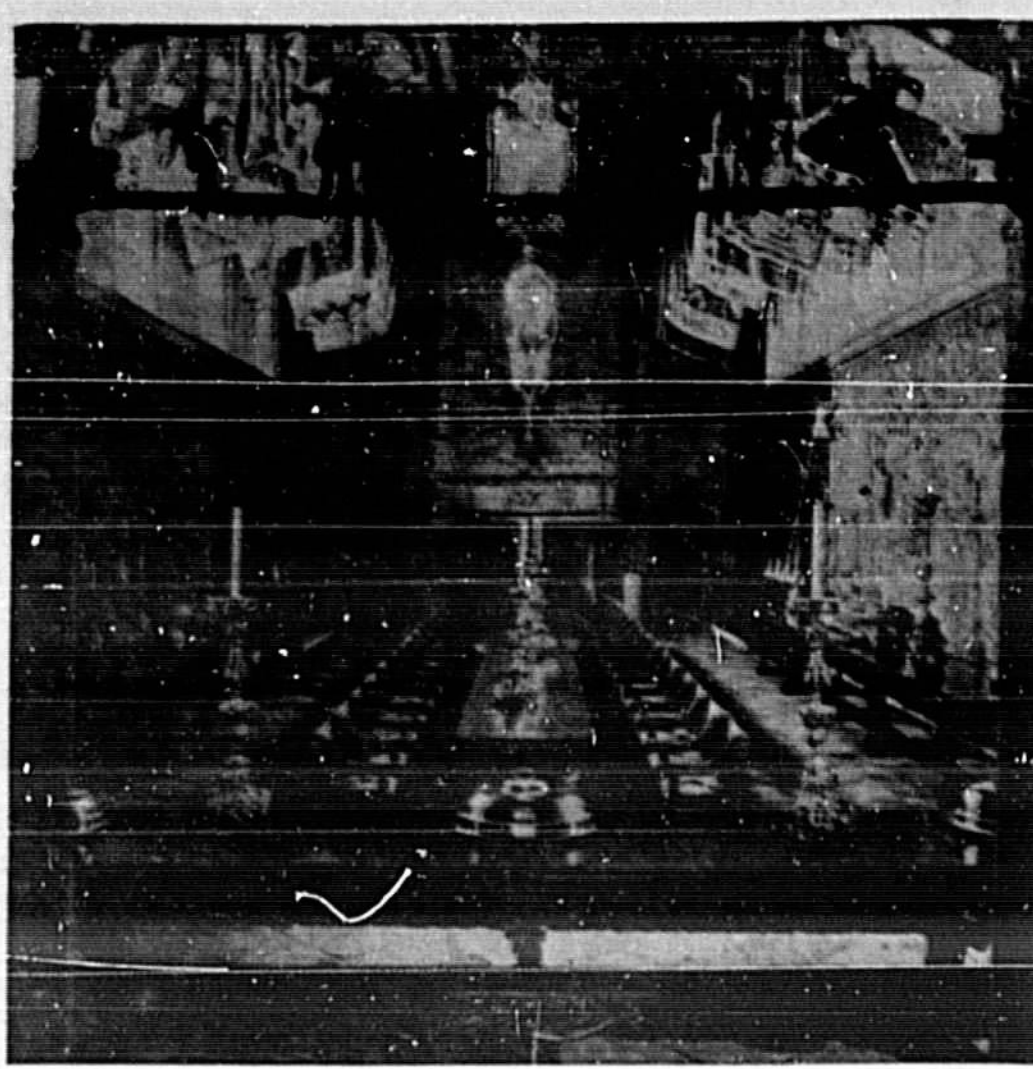

By ROBERTA MCDOW
Copley News Service

SAN SIMON, Calif.—Americans longing to see Egyptian statues, gaze at a Greek temple and look into a Roman pool don't have to go abroad. It's all here with a great deal more at San Simon, William Randolph Hearst's baronial estate.

Walking by the white marble Neptune pool and up the terrace, visitors can hardly visualize this site as a family campground with a good view of the sea.

But until 1938, this crest had little to distinguish it from the other hills of California's Santa Lucia Range. That year Hearst began the complex of buildings that would house much of his extensive art collection and become one of the most lavish private homes of the century.

But until 1938, this crest had little to distinguish it from the other hills of California's Santa Lucia Range. That year Hearst began the complex of buildings that would house much of his extensive art collection and become one of the most lavish private homes of the century.

WHERE guests dined—This is the huge dining hall in Hearst's San Simeon castle, where guests dined under medieval banners. It is lined with monastery stalls and priceless tapestries.

Displayed in a museum, the art collection at Enchanted Hill would be fabulous. But it is even grander when blended into a home. The mosaic floor from the ruins of Pompeii, for example, is much more interesting here as a real vestibule than it would be back in the dead city.

The honor of harmonizing these many separate treasures into one coordinated whole belongs to architect Julia Morgan. Essentially, she had to design the buildings inside out, determining the size and position of the rooms from the art objects that were to go in them.

Construction was not yet complete when Hearst died in 1951. Six years later the hill was given to the state which operates a variety of tours through the complex. After any of them, visitors agree that the Enchanted Hill is worth the $8 million to $40 million it cost to create.

For Sale . . . Cheap

By HUGH VAN SWERINGEN

ELLENDALE, N.D. (AP) — For sale, cheap. One state college in a quiet rural community, surrounded by grain fields stretching to the horizon in southeastern North Dakota, the school, with buildings valued at $2 million, will close July 3 and is available to the right buyer, perhaps for token payment.

While a state committee grapples with the problem of finding a suitable new owner, teachers and other faculty members face the dismal prospect of abandoning unoccupied homes and moving elsewhere in hopes of finding new jobs.

"I'd be lucky to even give my house away," says Dave Law, a history professor and father of six.

Like many of the other 48 faculty members of the Ellendale Branch of the University of North Dakota, Law, 46, is having a hard time finding a new position and expresses bitterness at the legislature's decision to close the college.

"We ought to be rewarded with more than a kick out in the cold with not even a word of thanks," the 16-year staff member said.

Most of the 160 students don't like the closing either. "Politicians a lot to do with it. A lot of legislators are against this area," ventured Dale Davis, a student from the nearby community of Minnagan.

The legislature's action was brought on by declining enrollment and a January 1970 fire which destroyed 80 percent of the college's classroom space.

Society Elects Officers

LONGWOOD — The Central Society meeting Tuesday night at the Christ Episcopal Church Parish Hall in Longwood, elected officers to serve the rest of the year. Charles Meisinger was named president and others included Dick Bennett, vice president; Dorothy Pearson, recording secretary; and Fred Hestline, treasurer.

The group passed a motion to apply for membership in the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

Albert Fitz and Betty Jo McCleod were appointed to the by-laws committee and Katie Munson and Grace Bradford to the ways and means committee.

The ways and means committee will be in charge of an antique auction in the fall.

There was a discussion on the possibility of moving the "In-Side-Outs" house, which was built in 1870, from Altamonte Springs but no action was taken as land is not presently available on which to place it.

A motion was made to amend any existing by-laws to establish an annual membership fee of $10.

Facing Health Officials Cruelty To Children By Parents Is Perplexing Problem

By CAROLYN COIL
And JEANNE VAP
Copley News Service

One of the most perplexing problems facing health officials in this country concerns the cruelty of many parents toward their children.

The old controversy over the rights and wrongs of corporal punishment is incidental to the problem.

Whether or not a parent believes a child should be smacked for being naughty, most people are shocked and outraged when they see a child battered and bruised, beyond belief, the victim of some parent's unreasoning, savage fury.

Sixty thousand such cases in the United States are reported every year. Some officials fear the real figure may be much higher.

One is Dr. David G. Gill, of Brandeis University, who conducted a nationwide study sponsored by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which describes it as "the most comprehensive study of child abuse ever undertaken."

Dr. Gill puts the yearly figure of bad child beatings at 25 million, although he admits the figure is an estimate.

His conclusion, after analyzing 18,000 child beating reports from every state, is that "American culture encourages in subtle — and at times not so subtle — ways the use of a certain measure of physical force in rearing children in order to modify their inherently mischievous inclinations."

His belief that child abuse stems from society's acceptance of corporal punishment is based on the low incidence of such abuse in cultures that have strong taboos against striking children. The American Indians, for example, discipline their children mainly through example and shame.

A majority of the 18,000 cases studied was found to have resulted from "more or less acceptable disciplinary measures taken by parents or guardians in angry response to actual or perceived misconduct."

Bruises and welts were the commonest type of injury, followed by scratches and cuts. Burns and fractures were also among common injuries.

In another part of the study, Dr. Gill writes, "Rarely if ever is corporal punishment administered for the benefit of the attacked. Usually it serves the immediate needs of the attacking adult who is seeking relief from his uncontrollable anger and stress."

Mental sickness on the part of the parent has been cited frequently in the past as an underlying cause of child abuse. Experts in touch with the problem today mention other psychological factors.

Leonard Lieber, a psychiatric social worker with the Community Service Division of the California Department of Social Welfare, says 95 percent of women who abuse their children were physically and emotionally abused themselves as children.

"If a child grows up being beaten, he grows up thinking it was deserved," explained Lieber, who works with several mothers who abuse their children.

He said the children grow up feeling "no account" because their parents beat them. They also think that since the parents loved them, the beatings were justified. Then, when the child becomes a parent and sees himself in a child, he often beats the child, subconsciously recalling the cycle of his own childhood.

Lieber said another circumstance which can lead to child abuse is confinement with children. The young mother with three or four children who is with them day after day can be under extreme pressure.

"Very often children are not so scapgoats for bad husband-wife relationships," said Roland Summit, M.D., head physician, Psychiatric Community Consultation Service, Los Angeles County Harbor General Hospital.

"Fathers resent the competition of the wife's attention and react by rejecting or punishing the child," he said.

Summit said because removal of the child is a stigma, parents will conform to get the child back, but if there is not a real change in the style of relationship, some kind of insecurity will be perpetuated.

"So many girls have been brought up with a couple of

Sometimes in a large family, the children come so rapidly that the mother does not have a chance to recover from the birth of one child before another is on the way.

"The never-ending responsibility of chores gets to her. Then she can't take it anymore and strikes out. The kids get it because they are the easiest to reach," he said.

Another source of abuse is problems in the marriage itself.

"Very often children are not so scapgoats for bad husband-wife relationships," said Roland Summit, M.D., head physician, Psychiatric Community Consultation Service, Los Angeles County Harbor General Hospital.

"Fathers resent the competition of the wife's attention and react by rejecting or punishing the child," he said.

Summit said because removal of the child is a stigma, parents will conform to get the child back, but if there is not a real change in the style of relationship, some kind of insecurity will be perpetuated.

"So many girls have been brought up with a couple of promises: marriage and motherhood. Pat phrases tend to be romanticized. It is expected that they will be good mothers," said Dr. Summit.

But, he added, motherhood is a role performance. Society idealizes the role of mothering. It implies if a mother feels resentment with the role, then there is something wrong with her.

"It is hard to admit failure at mothering," said Dr. Summit. "As a result, child abusers often hide their problem."

"Child abuse usually comes to light in the emergency room or in pediatric."

"The parents often deny it because it is such an alien thing, especially if it is a repetition of how they suffered in childhood."

Dr. Joel Klein, senior resident in pediatrics at the same hospital as Summit, said that to many different hospitals and give fanciful stories about the child's injury.

Parents who abuse their children classically take them to many different hospitals. That way, said Dr. Klein, children often have been repeatedly abused before authorities find out.

Tips On Sun Bathing

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Sharon Harvey, better known as Miss Tanya, isn't an entertainer. Yet she's one of the most recognizable figures in the country. Her bikini likeness has been blown up to as large as 40 feet on billboards.

Discovered by an executive of the Tanya Hawaii Corp on a beach in Hawaii while she was studying speech therapy at the University of Hawaii, Sharon's name has become linked with sun-tanned beauty and she offers these tips on how to achieve a healthy, even tan.

It is important to remember that sun rays are reflected from sand and water and you can burn even while sitting under an umbrella. A hard day is a hazard, too. The sun's rays are actually magnified by the droplets of water in the air.

"Practically no one can get a tan in one day. The first exposure period should be no more than 15-20 minutes per side. This should be increased by about one-third each succeeding day.

Apply tanning lotion or oil to all parts of the body exposed to the sun including ears, ankles and feet.

Reapply frequently, especially after swimming.

When the skin is "sun conditioned" with a basic tan, the tan may be deepened by applying tanning butter or coconut oil with no sunscreen added.

Apply tanning lotion after showering and before retiring. It functions as skin moisturizer and wards off peeling.

Do-It-Yourself: Maintain Your Bicycle

By ME FIX

Most garages have so many bicycles in them there is no room for the family auto. Not only does every kid in the family have one but so do mom and dad, motivated by a desire to keep fit as well as have fun. While your bike will give you no trouble than your auto, it does need maintenance. And since maintenance is something you can do yourself, you can keep your bike running with little financial outlay.

Major repairs are best left to a skilled bike mechanic. Major items are brakes and the more elaborate gear-shifting devices. But there is little else on a bike that you cannot repair or replace yourself and even brakes and gears will be less likely to need repairing if you take care of them.

Include the youngsters when you do these jobs. They can then take over. Teach them — and yourself — that good bike care begins by keeping the bike clean and dry. Exposed parts that have become muddy and wet should be wiped off as soon as possible.

You can take care of all adjustments with screwdrivers and a few wrenches. You will need a medium-weight lubricating oil, a little grease and some kerosene. As you can see, most of what you need you probably have already.

Points On Pets Breed Clubs Help Dogs, Owners

By ELOISE KEELER
Copley News Service

With the growing popularity of large breeds of dogs, many responsible breeders are urging new owners to join a breed club — to learn about their particular breed regardless of whether they plan to show their dog at dog shows.

In general, breed clubs are organized to promote a certain breed. One, the Great Pyrenees Club of California (an affiliate of the Great Pyrenees Club of America) has elaborate programs to protect all dogs of their breed and assist all owners.

Recently I was invited to a Py-in — fun match and picnic — sponsored by this club, held at a big park in Palo Alto. About 85 huge white dogs, natives of the Basque country in the Pyrenees Mountains between France and Spain, milled about with their owners. Many competed in informal conformation and obedience classes.

After the judging, about a dozen pulled carts (most made by their owners) for children to ride in. On a big table, several dogs were tattooed inside right flank with their AKC registration, litter or ILP number for identification if lost or stolen.

Owners, many with families, had brought picnic lunches and sat in groups on the big lawn, gabbling with other owners about their pets and problems.

The couple who drove me to the picnic brought one of their dogs and another at home was expecting puppies. And although they had studied up on every aspect of breeding, they still eager to talk with other breeders.

Owners of older dogs had special problems to discuss. One owner had a dog with puppies. And there was a lot of fun and good fellowship shared with some of the biggest and best-behaved dogs I've ever seen. Male Pyrs average around 125 pounds.

And during that memorable day, from officers and members, I heard about the varied activities and aims of their club. The club sponsors two specialties (shows with dogs of one breed) a year, plus other get-togethers including the annual Py-in picnic. It publishes an informative monthly bulletin, "Py-News and Notes."

To help members keep track of each other and their dogs, a list of all the Great Pyrenees they can locate in California with birth date, sire and dam and owner's name, address and telephone number is sent to more than 200 club members.

For 11 years the club has had an X-ray project to have all breeding stock and as many other dogs as possible, X-rayed and cleared by a radiologist for hip dysplasia. Dogs that clean hip bearings, loosen the cone, squirt in kerosene and rotate the wheel. Lubricate before tightening.

One tool you will have to buy is a spoke wrench which is very inexpensive. Keeping the spokes at uniform tension will keep wheel rims in good condition.

Check tire pressure regularly. The correct pressure is stamped on the side of the tire. Balloon tires may range from 22 to 35 pounds of pressure, narrow tires at 60 pounds.

BIG MOMENT — Christian Woodhead, 3, sizes up Senator Casper of Edinbar, a Great Pyrenees owned by Mrs. Fred Wade of Sacramento, Calif. Such a big dog requires adequate fencing.

Their code of ethics provides guidelines for owners and breeders. Club members are made aware of the responsibility of owning a big dog.

A Pyr should not be sold to anyone who doesn't have adequate fencing. The code also stresses that as Pyrs were originally guard dogs, they should be trained properly from puppyhood.

Members immediately call animal shelters and pounds in their vicinity and may personally pick up roving dogs.

The code of ethics and rescue service of this organization have been successful for other breed clubs.

For further information, write to Mrs. Jeanne Yturbe, Corresponding Secretary, Great Pyrenees Club of California, Inc., 838 Rockdale Drive, San Francisco, Calif. 94127.

Their "rescue committee" is of particular interest. If a Great Pyrenees is lost or sent roaming loose, nearby rescue representatives are notified by members.

BEAUTY BEFORE AGE — Years don't count with actress Marjorie Lord. In fact, she refuses to add them up. Currently touring in "Forty Carats," a stage play, she poses backstage with her daughter, starlet Ann Archer.

Marjorie Lord: She Never Tells Age

By PEGGY WALKER
Copley News Service

Marjorie Lord is one of those actresses who never thinks about age in terms of years, and never, never tells her own age.

"An actress never should," said the stage and television star who is called on to play roles 10 years either side of her own age.

"It's one of the secrets of beauty. The minute you identify with an age, you limit yourself. You start shaping your personality to that age."

Her one word of beauty advice to American women would be to take a cue from European women and "stop being so age conscious—stop counting."

Miss Lord, who is playing the lead role in the touring stage play "Forty Carats," never started counting.

She played Danny Thomas' attractive television wife six years on the "Make Room for Daddy" series and came back with the unchanged good looks and verve she started with when the program reappeared last fall as "Make Room for Granddaddy."

Off stage the tiny-waisted, strawberry-haired actress is the mother of a daughter, 22, and a son, 24.

At nearly 5 feet 5 and 115 pounds, she has a figure to rival that of her starlet daughter Ann Archer.

She stays trim by eating sensibly. "I eat everything but in sensible proportions," and by watching her clothes, not the scale.

"If my clothes feel tight, I go on an egg-grapefruit-meat diet for three days."

She comes by a porcelain skin skin to that of a Dresden doll naturally.

No special cosmetic, no beauty secrets. Unfair! She said a weekly honey and almond facial and a weekly massage—"except

Queen Elizabeth In The Red

By TOM CULLEN
LONDON (NEA) — News that Queen Elizabeth's household is running into the red at the rate of $240,000 a year has created none of the public furor that the Rolls Royce bankruptcy did earlier.

Instead of appointing a receiver for Buckingham Palace, as he did in the case of Rolls Royce, Prime Minister Edward Heath has quietly appointed a parliamentary committee to look into royal finances. The committee is expected to recommend that the Queen's pay be raised substantially, if not doubled.

Where, one wonders, are all the republicans, the anti-monarchists, the knockers of all things regal?

"This is how I would serve all kings," John Thelwell, the 18th century radical, used to boast as he blew the head of foam off his beer. Where are the John Thelwells of 1971?

Grumblers there are in plenty aplenty. Cassandra who predicted, "The British monarchy will not outlast the present Labour Party" is well represented on the parliamentary committee set up to look into the Queen's finances. The Labour party is committed in advance to support any recommendation that the Queen's stipend be increased.

The Queen and her family are now costing the British taxpayer $114 million a year. If the committee's recommendations are approved that amount will be upped to at least $2 million. Is the taxpayer getting value for money?

According to a London newspaper's recent investigation, here's what the royal family did on a typical day to earn its keep.

At 11 a. m. the Queen held an investiture at Buckingham Palace at which she pinned medals on 176 chests. Afterwards she had a session with her dressmaker Norman Hartnell, and Prime Minister Heath called to tell her what was happening in Parliament.

Prince Philip (salary $96,000 a year) was far away in the Solomon Islands cracking jokes looking at how the natives live.

His oldest son, Prince Charles, the same $140,000 a year when he reached the age of 21 in 1961, spent the morning jumping off a diving board at the Royal Air Force College at Cranwell, where he is learning to be a jet pilot. What the Prince of Wales was learning to do was to "ditch" or to hit the water properly after a parachute jump.

His sister, Princess Anne ($11,400 a year increasing to $35,000 when she marries), flew in a royal helicopter to Portsmouth, where she lunched aboard Lord Nelson's flagship, H.M.S. Victory with assorted bigwigs.

Her grandmother, the Queen Mother ($168,000 a year), kept an appointment with the Irish Guards, attended a private wedding, left for the steppe-chase at Cheltenham where her horse, Black Magic, fell at the second fence.

Princess Margaret, the Queen's sister ($38,000 a year), attended an opera in Stratford night in aid of the Victoria League for Commonwealth Friendship.

The $14 million a year which the Queen gets to run her household, which is called the Civil List, was fixed in 1952 at the beginning of Queen Elizabeth's reign. In reality, the Civil List represents a bargain struck between Parliament and the monarchy, whereby the Queen agrees to surrender the revenues from the Crown lands she owns in exchange for an annual stipend.

Inasmuch as the Crown lands include chunks of valuable real estate in the heart of London, plus 200,000 acres of the finest farm land in England, Scotland and Wales, Parliament made a good deal.

However, the Queen, like every British housewife, is the victim of inflation. In particular, the wages of the huge staff needed to run Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle have doubled in recent years with the result that the Queen had to dip into her own pocket to make up a $240,000 deficit last year.

No one, knows the exact size of Queen Elizabeth's private fortune, though $100 million would be close to the mark.

The Queen's private board includes masterpieces by Rembrandt, Rubens and Van Dyck, plus jewels, one of the world's finest stamp collections, and five tons of gold plate. Yet she cannot dispose of this treasure.

QUEEN ELIZABETH AT WORK, opening a session of Parliament with Prince Philip. Are taxpayers getting value for their money? Can Britain still afford one of the richest women in the world?

Suburban Housewife Teaches Children How To Cook

By JEANNE LEMER

UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Alice Paul Bartholomew, a suburban housewife, mother, food consultant and author, volunteered the kind of job most mothers would do anything to avoid.

She teaches children to cook. Her classes for 6-12 year-olds are part of the Lotus, N.J., community recreation program.

In an interview here, Mrs. Bartholomew said she started the classes in her home kitchen six years ago despite a warning from the recreation director—who was a bachelor at the time—that the children would burn themselves and cut their fingers.

"My own children cooked at the side of three," she said, "and I encouraged them to make simple things—drop cookies, gelatin desserts, instant puddings—so they could be with me when I was having dinner. I was working at the time."

Mrs. Bartholomew's husband is former child movie star Freddie Bartholomew, now an advertising executive. They have a son, 13, and a daughter, 15.

Her daughter by an earlier marriage also learned to cook at an early age, and appeared with her mother once a week on television cooking shows here.

Mrs. Bartholomew, who has conducted adult cooking classes as well, has recommended the advantages in teaching the young.

"Children hear you—they're aware of what you're saying and trying to do," she said. "They're especially with you and you must be receptive to what they're saying."

Mrs. Bartholomew said her first children's classes were for older ones. Now there are classes for first graders at the request of younger brothers and sisters.

She said she uses the same recipes for all ages, but different teaching methods. Many of the recipes are in "Medium priced rubber rug pads include those made of what the trade calls bubble rubber. This is so called because of its surface appearance."

It is wise when purchasing new carpeting to stop around and consult with reputable dealers serving in your community. They usually offer a broad variety of carpeting styles and colors, and back their products with good service.

A can opener should be sharp enough to make a smooth, clean cut. One way to keep the cutting edge sharp is to wash and dry it after each use.

Like saucers, fry pans should be flat on the bottom so food will brown evenly. Much of the time fry pans are used without a cover. If you're cooking, a light fitting cover is needed.

"Kids Cooking," a cookbook she co-authored (as Alice Paul) with Arthur Hawkins.

Her younger pupils, who come direct from school on Fridays, get juice and cookies right away and mill around a bit before they start cooking.

They also take two or three of the 1 1/2 hour sessions to prepare recipes that older children can do in one.

"You have to be careful about attention span," said Mrs. Bartholomew. "I don't expect the little ones to finish the tedious job of pushing dough. And I don't attempt to let them bake a cake from scratch and frost it the same day."

She said she capitalizes on children's fondness for cooking and baking by teaching them to make "good nutritional molasses cookies and old-fashioned oatmeal wafers."

"I do a lot of breakfast things with kids. I tell them 'even if your family doesn't have time to eat breakfast, there's no reason why you can't fix your own.'"

That's important, because the children, who divide up the food to take home, want it as visible as possible.

Ref and macaroni is one of the simplest recipes in "Kids Cooking" by Alice Paul and Arthur Hawkins.

In a frying pan over low heat, melt 1 tablespoon of butter, or enough to cover bottom of pan. Put 1 pound of ground beefless chuck or hamburger into pan and stir with wooden spoon or long-handled fork, keeping meat in small pieces, not chunks, but not until brown. Open a can of prepared macaroni with cheese sauce and add to meat.

Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon of onion salt, stir and heat until steaming. Serves 4 to 6.

Encouraging responsibility. If you make a decision to stir properly, you will have something good to eat. If you don't or if you forget to set the timer, if you goof off—you'll lose the respect of your mates.

lib to work with children of all ages. They may be so preoccupied with other things."

Mrs. Bartholomew described herself as "truly a clean Meyer, about nutrition"—a reference to the Harvard professor of nutrition who is a White House adviser on the subject.

5 More Arrested In Sunshine Law

SARASOTA (AP) — All five Sarasota County commissioners were indicted Thursday on charges they met in the home of an elected official to discuss secretly the public's business. It was the latest in a series of indictments under Florida's "Sunshine" law. They face $500 fines, six months in jail or both if convicted.

A Sarasota grand jury returned indictments against Kenneth Brumbaugh, Daniel Hows, Larry Rhodes, John Saba Jr. and Irving Snyder.

These commissioners were accused of meeting behind closed doors at Commissioner Snyder's home May 3 to talk about the resignation of the county administrator and the reappointment of a planning board member.

The five learned of the indictments during a public meeting and adjourned to surrender to Sheriff Ross Boyer. They were released without bond and arraignment was set for June 28 in the Court of Record.

They met with attorney Warren Goodrich, of Bradenton, late Thursday but refused comment to newsmen on Goodrich's advice.

Goodrich also refused comment on the case except to say he thought the canons of lawyers' ethics were directly in conflict with the "Sunshine" law. He said he is referring to attorney-client relationships involving investigation bodies.

The Sarasota investigation was led by Broward County State Atty. Phillip Shaller at Gov. Reubin Askew's request. Shaller recently conducted an investigation that led to four officials being indicted in North Fort Lauderdale. Two were convicted.

5 More Arrested Judge's Decision Makes Problems

By FRED VAN PELT. Where to elect there is but one choice. The Habson's choice—take that or none. Thomas Ward (1577-1633).

County Judge Wallace Hall has been placed in the position where he has three choices to settle a difficult question relative to indigent prisoners facing possible jail sentences of three months or more: (1) Find a source of money; (2) find an attorney willing to give his legal talents gratis; or (3) free the prisoner.

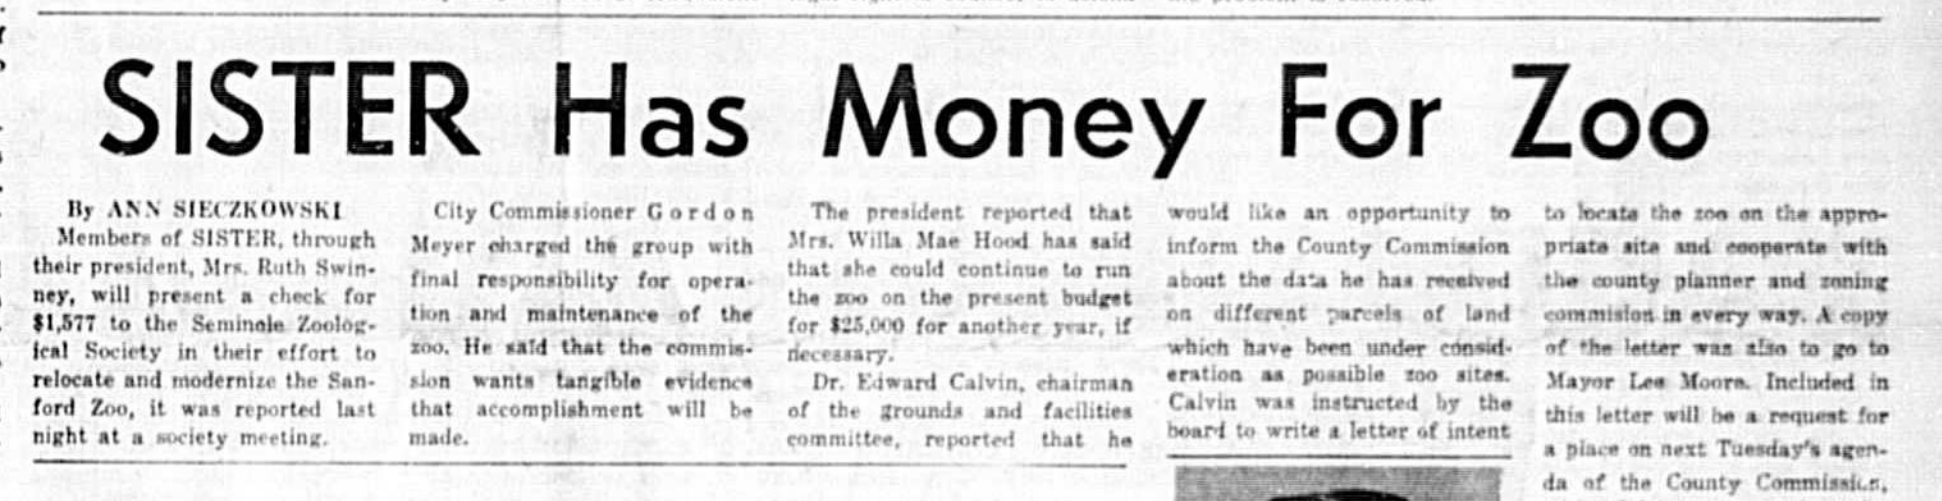

Judge Hall found himself in this dilemma following a ruling by U. S. District Judge George Young at Orlando earlier this week.

Last October Charles Conway was accused of fraudulent use of a credit card, according to District Attorney Stenstrom, who was quoted today by The Herald when the matter "came to light." Stenstrom is counsel for Sheriff John Pook.

Recently Conway wrote a letter to Judge Young, who accepted the misgave as a legal plea and ordered Pook to file a response to a writ of habeas corpus. Last Tuesday Young directed Hall to free Conway on his own recognizance.

Stenstrom explained that Judge Young's decision is that in a county court in which the accused, if indigent, and facing a sentence of three months or more, must be advised of his legal right to counsel to defend him and be given counsel, if he requests it.

Stenstrom pointed out there is no law providing funds for the payment of public defenders in county courts, such as are provided in Circuit Courts and above. And he added there are "hundreds and hundreds of misdemeanors in which the accused can be sentenced to three months or more in the county courts."

SISTER Has Money For Zoo

By ANN SIECKOWSKI. Members of SISTER, through their president, Mrs. Ruth Swinney, will present a check for $1,577 to the Seminole Zoological Society in their effort to relocate and modernize the Sanford Zoo, it was reported last night at a society meeting.

City Commissioner Gordon Meyer charged the group with final responsibility for operation and maintenance of the zoo. He said that the commission wants tangible evidence that accomplishment will be made.

The president reported that Mrs. Willa Mae Hood has said that she could continue to run the zoo on the present budget for $25,000 for another year, if necessary.

Dr. Edward Calvin, chairman of the grounds and facilities committee, reported that he would like an opportunity to inform the County Commission about the data he has received on different parcels of land which have been under consideration as possible zoo sites.

Airport Bill Okayed

House resolution 2300 which creates the Sanford Airport Authority was passed by the State House on June 2 and received a vote of approval from the State Senate June 3, according to Sanford City Manager Warren E. (Pete) Knowles.

Knowles said that Gorman told him that the legislative officers had signed the bill Monday and passed it on to Governor Reubin O'D. Askew. Askew has 15 days from the close of the current legislative session to act on the measure. If he does not take action on the bill it will automatically become law after the passage of the 15 day period, as the case with most local legislation.

Sanford city officials had been playing "hide and go seek" with the bill since the end of the regular legislative session and were unable to make a determination as to the disposition of the bill.

The Airport Authority will take over control of the Sanford Airport which is currently being operated by the city's Department of Aviation. The city will still have control over the facility as appointments to the authority will be made by the City Commission.
