TALKING MOVIES TO MAKE ENGLISH WORLD'S TONGUE

Barrymore, Roberts And Others Praise Invention's Merits

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 7—(INS)—John Barrymore, James Gleason, former stage favorites, now screen favorites, and other stars, believe that the talking picture will assist a world language. The dream of Esperanto is about to come true, they are convinced.

"English will become the Esperanto language of the world," one of these 'talkie' enthusiasts exclaimed. "While English may be a difficult language to learn," he continued, "it must be understood that foreign people are to understand the talking pictures. For a long time picture-synchronized with the English tongue will rule the world and the world will simply have to learn English in order to enjoy the pictures. This will make for better understanding between the peoples of the earth, and the dream of the Russian savant who invented Esperanto will become a reality—but in English."

That's just one side of the picture, add the picture, in this case, has many sides. Hollywood is a picture-making machine and many of the stars and their fans are bilingual with a leaning toward the one speech, the speech of the mother or fatherland. They are convinced their particular language will conquer the world and through the talking picture.

The great foreign producing companies are erecting sound studios with the hope that their talking pictures will also conquer the world. France, Germany and Italy, according to word received here, are going into the 'talkie' contest, and each one expects to triumph in the world market and possess its particular brand of speech on the picture fan from Hollywood's big mountains to India's coral strand.

Black hair and severe clothes may make a girl look manish but they attract, it is the latest dictum in Hollywood. One of the cast-directors remarks:

"Never in the history of films has the strictly feminine girl been so much admired as today. We are 'em with soft eyes and soft smiles."

There's no soft pedal on that talkie, either. The 'talkie' has been used to be much talk of the world of all. It connotated health, luxury, aristocracy. Now it is in vogue because it rustles the ears of the head set and lingers in the mind of the masses.

The faintest sound on the talking apparatus and registries on the film. Costumes have to be made of the softest fabrics to prevent snatching reports coming through the noise boxes. Styles will demand the silent soft chiffons and satins instead of the previous taffetas and broadsides.

"Silk hose and bloomers report to lead on the finished picture. It is on back to the old cotton stockings of farm days or strut without hose. Even silk underwear gives a 'sizzle.' Wow! that'll make the stars squint."

All of which means that performers in the 'talkies' will have to wear noiseless clothes. Here's what material experiments have revealed.

Robert Armstrong was obliged to discard corduroy trousers while making his 'quiet scene.' They were too loud. He wore woolen slippers in the audible sequences.

James Gleason, playing detective, had to take the silk lining from his coat and substitute cotton.

Performers with long hair are allowed to shuffle across the screen. The crackle of the hair is registered by the delicate microphone.

Even all the problems, the life of the 'talkie' player is not without its joys. Merita fans—who are their traveling companions—will enjoy this item:

PLANE SAFETY TO FEATURE MEET IN NATION'S CAPITAL

U.S. Aviation Experts Will Attend Conference of Flying Men

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(INS)—America's delegation at the International Civil Aeronautic Conference to be held here Dec. 12 to 14 on suggestion of President Coolidge, will have considerable assistance when technicalities are discussed.

Secretary of Commerce William F. Whiting has appointed 29 aeronautical experts to serve as technical advisors to the American delegation so it may understand and be in a position to explain the more complex phases of aviation.

Local aviators noted the absence of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as an advisor. The list, however, contained the names of some of the fliers who became popular by trans-Atlantic flights.

To Stop Tragedies The object of the conference is to discuss methods of lessening the danger of air tragedies and of building commercial air lines. The European experts will describe the progress made in the old continent in air passenger service.

It was explained that although the United States has been tardy in promoting passenger air travel, the government's air mail service is a noted achievement. Causes of air accidents and their prevention will be the feature of the sessions.

Those named by Secretary Whiting as advisors are: Harry H. Adams, National Aeronautic Association, Washington; Col. A. S. Barber, U. S. Chamber of Commerce; William E. Boeing, Boeing Air Transport, Seattle; Dr. George K. Burgess, National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, Washington; Dr. William F. Durand, Stanford University; Charles J. Chatfield, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Charles H. Colva, Pioneer Instrument Company, Brooklyn; Dr. W. B. Coolidge, General Electric Company, Schenectady; Sherman N. Fairchild, New York, Maj.-Gen. James E. Fechet, War Department; Harrison N. Hanshue, president Western Air Express and president American Air Transport Association, Los Angeles.

Other Experts Col. Paul Henderson, vice-president Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., Washington; Richard F. Hoop, Haysden Stone and Logging, New York; Comdr. Jerome C. Hunsaker, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, New York; Clement Melville Keyes, president, Curtiss Airplant Company, New York; Prof. Alexander Klemin, Daniel Guggenheim School of Aeronautics, New York; Capt. Emory S. Land, Guggenheim Fund for Promotion of Aeronautics, New York; and Charles L. Lawrence, president Wright Aeronautical Corporation, Paterson, N. J.

Dr. G. W. Lewis, director, National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, Washington; George C. Loening, vice-president, Loening Aeronautical Engineering Corporation, New York; Glenn I. Martin, Cleveland, O.; Dr. Charles F. Marvin, U. S. Weather Bureau; Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, Chief of Bureau of Aeronautics, Navy Department; John Francis O'Ryan, Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., Philadelphia; Fred B. Rentschler, president Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Company, Hartford, Conn.; Ray Stearns, General Electric Company, Schenectady; William Bushell Stout, president and general manager, Dearborn, Mich.; and J. P. Trippe, president Pan-American Airways, New York.

Well, Mother, daughter writes that she's working too hard to come home for the holidays, but I guess the truth is she thinks she'll have a better time in the city.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

John VI. 68. Lord, to whom shall I go, Thou hast the words of eternal life.

REVERSION

Mary Magdalene, out of whom went seven sins, Strayed with the multitude, To hear John preaching in the wilderness, Add to see his raiment of gold camel's hair, She heard his poignant voice pleading— Calling men and women for repentance.

His eyes melted tremulously into his, And with a hand on her right heart She hurried on, saying, "Thou art my Lord, Thou art my God."

"I was muzzle'd with his lily-limbs, His azure, sandaled feet, His sun-bronzed hair, His ripened-berry mouth, Until I saw the Christ In his celestial eyes."

By Kate Slaughter McKinney

It costs four billion dollars to run the United States government for one year, which is equivalent to the cost of the Panama Canal.

Those shirt studs which Thom as Ryan left his son were made with real panic. It wasn't until today after all.

"Undeatable fourtals" is the new shabby designation for those who come to Florida in the winter time seeking someone to tell something to that nobody wants.

Whatein bet a million dollars on Hoover's election, but never lived to enjoy the fruits of victory. Our friend Schmidt didn't bet that much but he did live to enjoy his wheelbarrow ride.

As a sheriff's sale in Jacksonville recently an ox cart brought over a cent. Sheriff's sales seldom bring much, but we could not imagine a worse combination than a sheriff's sale and an ox cart.

Something new in styles says a fashion report, are newspaper fronts. We like the idea, although they probably tear pretty easy and will in a rain storm, but we venture the guess that all of them are read, except those that are water.

Speaking of the Old Spanish Trail, Arthur Brisbane says: "The trail takes you through northern Florida, past the old Spanish missions of energetic, modern San Antonio. And once well started you can leave your motor out of doors, and sleep out of doors, in some freezing until you come back to the northeast."

New York gunman tried to good his promise to a pal who had been sentenced to Sing Sing by Judge Donnelly. It is hardly promisingly to try to one's promise. The gunman tried to kill the judge, when Donnelly was jammed and he became the victim of the bullets of the captain, and died.

Mr. D. Rockefeller has again been named as the richest man in the world, at $100,000,000. Rockefeller is the owner of the North and South American Petroleum Co., the largest of his kind in the world.

Some eight thousand people are expected to attend the annual convention of the Florida State Bar Association at the University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla., Dec. 10-12.

The High School's Newspaper

High School students, in their theoretical discussions, have learned that Gutenberg invented printing in 1440. They know something of its evolution since that time, when vague impressions were made from wooden type on a crude hand press, through the inventions and improvements of Peirres, Stanhope, Clymer, Gordon, Hoe and others which brought printing to its present degree of approximate perfection.

Tomorrow these students are going to learn something of the more practical side of printing. They are going to publish The Herald themselves. A highly organized staff of young men and women will assume full charge of every department of this newspaper and devote their best energies to the production of a constructive, profitable, and newsworthy. There will be advertising managers, and solicitors, editors and reporters, a circulation personnel, proof reader and make-up men.

The Herald feels that in giving this opportunity to the students of the High School that it is co-operating with the teachers and parents of this community in the development of better manhood and womanhood of rapidly approaching years. It is not a simple task to publish a newspaper, but the students are entering upon their duties with a confidence and determination which bespeak the greatest success for their endeavors.

For them The Herald urges the utmost assistance which the merchants and the people of Sanford are able to give. Their work will be rewarded by twenty per cent of the gross advertising profits from the issue and fifty per cent from the street sales. The proceeds derived by their work will be devoted to the present to the High School from the senior class, a gift which has long since become a custom.

There will be many clever stories in the issue, many thought-producing editorials. There will be much worth while material of all kinds, and the issue, we have every reason to believe, will fully merit the attention and support of every individual in Sanford.

Finis

With only two games of any importance remaining to be played, namely, the Florida-Tennessee and the Georgia-Tech-Georgia struggles, the sound of thudding pigskin and the crash of towering men have faded from the playfield of collegiate sport and have left a chapter in the history of football unique in its record for thwarting all attempts at prognostication. Those who have strained their mentalities from week to week in an endeavor to pick the winning teams are well acquainted with the uncertainty of such a task and are about ready to admit that the best way to shine in the world of gridiron prophets is to go against one's better judgment and always back the team which is lated to lose.

How well is this brought to our mind when we look back on our own futile efforts to foretell the outcome of some of the premier engagements of the past season. The bluish haze invariably rushes to our face when we recall that we have vainly selected New York University to defeat the Orange Aggies, Georgia to beat Florida, Army to sink Notre Dame and Yale to take Maryland, prophecies which when made seem to be well justified but in the light of later event appear to be the work of one not quite out of the first grade in our own embarrassing position we are relieved in knowing that we are not alone in that interminable and disillusioned series who weekly sought to solve the football puzzle.

The result of the uncertainty in America's greatest college sport is that interest, which even now appears to be at the saturation point, shows evidence of "ever" increasing. The time when one team can sit complacently upon the throne of the conqueror without serious difficulty has passed. Every college from the farthest and most obscure corners of the United States is developing aggregations which can do battle with the most heralded and hitherto invincible juggernauts, and this fact has tended to stimulate interest to a degree never before enjoyed by sport. But perhaps the most salubrious effect of the precariousness of attempting to dope the outcome of football games is that it minimizes the activities of gamblers. Here is one sport in which betting is about as dangerous as steepchasing. We have only pity for those who tried to make a living from wagering on the football games of the season just closed.

REAL OR FAKE MIAMI HERALD

When is a fake masterpiece? What makes a masterpiece a masterpiece? These two questions are intimately related in connection with the recent disclosure of the sale of paintings and statuary to wealthy collectors and museums. These so-called works of art were offered as the originals by famous artists of old. In reality they were the products of skillful hands of the new.

In some cases it was difficult for even an expert to notice the differences, and some of the authorities accepted them as genuine. They were shown on exhibition in museums. Small fortunes were paid for this art. But it was art appearing under false pretenses. Consequently it is not art, and becomes largely worthless. Why?

Why is the product of antiquity so marvelous while that reproduced in the present is not considered worth possessing? If one is as good as the other; if the closest study does not reveal the defects or differences, the modern copy is just as much of a masterpiece as the first, except that the originality belongs to the master artist, but the work itself is on a par with the initial creation.

This feeling of experts demonstrates such of the nonsense linked with art. People will rave over the beauty of some picture until they discover it is branded as a fake. Then they will begin to point out its weakness and condemn the painting as worthless. Berlin is amazed by the sale of some 30 spurious works, supposed to be by Vincent Van Gogh. They brought prices up to $12,500, several going to Americans. They were sold on the decision of a Dutch expert, regarded as a leading Van Gogh specialist. Others now assert they were counterfeit, and yet authorities differ. If they cannot tell what difference does it make so far as art is concerned. In Italy a couple of sculptors were kept busy producing works of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. They were employed by clever frauds, without knowing to what purpose their creations were put. They have been passed off upon American art collectors as masterpieces of the Italian Renaissance. Museums and experts were duped again.

Of course, Europe laughs at the trick played upon rich Americans. While the ignorant proletariat everywhere undoubtedly can smile at the pretense of the art worshipers who cannot detect the contrast between the fresh article of a modern and the antique. Mr. Average Man feels that he has been duped in his theory that a 16-cent picture may contain just as much art and beauty as the half-million-dollar painting of the master.

MRS. EDWARD CONRADI TAMPA TIMES

This splendid woman, the wife of Dr. Edward Conradi, president of the Tampa Chamber of Commerce for Winter, died at her home in Tampa, Fla., Dec. 5, 1923.

Mrs. Conradi was widely known and highly respected in this city. She was the wife of a prominent physician and was a member of the Tampa Chamber of Commerce.

This Afternoon

There is a tide in the affairs of men, Which takes at the flood, leads on to fortune.

Taking Florida's Everglades at the flood and the psychology in favor of federal aid at equal flood Florida's Senator Fletcher has introduced a bill in the United States Senate authorizing the appropriation of five million dollars for control of Lake Okechobee's early waters in favor of the black gold of the soil when those waters sometimes spoil and sometimes serve.

If there was ever a time for such a measure and for supreme efforts on Florida's part towards its recovery, today is that time. With the memories of last September's drama and disaster in the Everglades still fresh in the national mind, with an approaching national administration which has expressed and has reason to feel a lively sympathy with Florida's needs, with the sun just beginning to shine again through the clouds that dimmed for the moment Florida's bright economic day with the president-elect enroute to a long vacation in this state with the tourist tide from all over the country flooding Florida, war again all the logic of the hour contrives a perfect syllabus in favor of the efforts for federal aid which Senators Fletcher and Dammell have inaugurated.

In support of these efforts, the whole course of Florida should now be made loud in the Everglades Florida's great problem, and her richest promise. That should be the nation's problem and purpose as well as Florida's, all wisdom and all justice proclaim.

Forecasting of weather at its arctic source is the plan of Professor Rudolph Samoilich who proposes that Russia and the United States co-operate in the establishment of a chain of permanent stations at the most northern points of Russia, Siberia, Alaska and other arctic frontiers for mutual interchanges of data on atmospheric conditions in the Polar regions such as would make possible the determination, weeks in advance, of weather for the greater part of the Northern hemisphere.

Somebody should do a little operating to establish similar light weather intelligence stations in the well-known doldrums where tropical storms have a habit of being born and setting forth on travels as ruthless as Sherman's to the sea.

If no Florida college or university has as yet conferred an honorary degree on Arthur Brisbane, he has lately qualified for such an honor by dint of his discriminating words in favor of this state and its future. The world-wide favorable publicity he has given Florida's worth the creation of an academic "Doctor of Florida" degree which would make him "Arthur Brisbane, D. F."

Mr. Brisbane's interest in the New York stock market is so patient and persistent as to introduce an almost comic note in his advice against stock speculation. The market is going higher and higher, he repeats, great fortunes are to be made through wise purchases, no one can afford to be a bear on the United States or its stock market. "But," he always adds, "don't speculate!"

The recent morning birthday of the Leesburg Morning Commercial calls attention to a newspaper whose every appearance and performance would suggest that it is published in a city of at least fifty thousand population when, as a matter of fact, the population of Leesburg is only about eight thousand. How the Commercial gets that way we don't know but it certainly does.

held no active connection with the college, she was quite interested in its affairs and there are former pupils of the institution scattered throughout Florida who recall what she meant to them during college days and now feel as if they had lost a member of their own family. Some of the stories which have come to us of what Mrs. Conradi did for some of "the girls" while they attended the college are not short of inspirational.

When such a one passes on the general public shares the sorrow of the immediate family, and the world and the cause of the split and betterment suffer a marked loss.

"HISTORY" LEESBURG COMMERCIAL

Hardly a day passes but we come upon a new assertion of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce that the average Floridian is refreshing in his ignorance of Florida. The proof crops up in meetings of clubs and other organizations, in the columns of the newspapers and in conversations.

A gentleman who might be termed a Florida pioneer passed to his reward in a South Florida city a few days ago at the age of 89. He had been a resident of Florida 44 years, and was widely known because of his activity in the construction of railroads in the state during the 'Eighties and 'Nineties. And of course, his death was the occasion of a review of some of the work he had done. Among other things it was told in several newspapers how he had been associated with the construction of the Silver Springs, Ocala and Gulf Railroad, "the first railroad from Ocala to what was then known as Diston City now Gulfport." Diston City was a community on the Pinellas peninsula on the outskirts of St. Petersburg.

The Silver Springs, Ocala and Gulf Railroad was, and is, a link from Ocala to Homosassa via Dunedin and is now a part of the Atlantic Coast Line. It never was projected to Diston City. The first railroad to the Pinellas peninsula arrived from Sanford by way of Trilby. The error in placing the Silver Springs, Ocala and Gulf Railroad in south instead of central Florida in itself is trivial but such mistakes are encountered on every hand, day after day, year in and year out.

A nationally known weekly is publishing in its current issue a series of fiction stories by Robert W. Chambers with many of the scenes placed upon Amelia Island, in Florida. On a number of occasions since the initial appearance of the series the State Chamber has been asked "Where under the sun is Amelia Island?" It has developed that thousands of Floridians do not know that the site on the northern end of an island nearly 20 miles in length and under the sun is Amelia Island, a bit of ground whose story makes those of Jamestown, Plymouth Rock, Manhattan Island and other early settlements in this country insignificant and uninteresting narratives by comparison.

WHAT'S SO FRIENDLY AS A REAL GOOD PIE? Fragrant, crinkly-edged, inviting—what has more friends than a nicely browned pie fresh out of the oven? Make it with Snowdrift—and the friendship lasts right down to the final bite. Snowdrift crust is flaky and tender—it's rich—it's truly delicate—a delicious shell for your most luscious filling. Just by itself Snowdrift looks good to eat—so fluffy and snow-white. The texture of it is creamy, never hard and unmanageable, even when it's chilled for pie crust. You appreciate that when you start to blend it with flour. Or with sugar to make your nicest cake. Just get a can of Snowdrift and see. Everyone should have a good quick pastry rule. Here's one that many users of Snowdrift call delicious.

Hoover's Problems Jacksonville Journal

Farm relief as a national issue is vital with us. Likewise the inability of the Republican administration to function upon public measures, although there is no lack of unity at the ballot box, is well illustrated by the fact that the majority try to look upon.

Just now there is a difference of opinion on the point of trying to pass legislation at this session of Congress, or waiting until the next president and the new program take effect. For our part we are inclined to vote with those who favor delay.

Off the bat we are able to point to long delays already. Mr. Coughlin and a Republican congressional leader could agree upon any measure. It is not a promising outlook that they will do so. Then again we never expect more than a lame duck congress. It is an inherent weakness of the system of the early days of the country. We believe that Secretary Hoover on the right track. In 1921 he had the right course and the president took off from a successful after they are elected. It will be a pretty business.

Mainly we favor the postponement of legislation approaching farm measures in its importance until the new administration gets into office. It will be Mr. Hoover's administration and we believe it will meet its test.

Mr. Hoover has a farm program of his own. He has promised to solve the question of farm relief by bringing all his administrative ability to bear upon the issue and sitting down with a long list of elected with him, we believe he has been under no great strain, which has been so freely admitted. We are not concerned with the politics of farm relief. That has been shelved for at least two years. It is Mr. Hoover's question, and we believe he will meet the opportunity to do it. Besides, the short session of congress has enough else to do to comply with Mr. Coughlin's requests to keep a busy.

QUICK PASTRY. 1/2 Cupful Snowdrift 1/2 Cupful Flour 1/2 Teaspoonful Salt 1 Teaspoonful Baking Powder. Set together the dry ingredients and cut in the Snowdrift with a knife, keeping the mixture flaky. Then add the butter, egg and cool the pastry before rolling. This recipe makes one crust. FRUIT PIES. Whenever the fruit to be used in making pie, the procedure is the same. First line a pie-plate with Quick Pastry; cover the sides with a half-tablespoonful of Snowdrift. Fill the plate with the berries, peaches, cherries, or whatever fruit is to be used, mixed with from three-fourths to a cupful of sugar, or three cupfuls of fruit. Sprinkle with an additional tablespoonful of Snowdrift, add a teaspoonful of Snowdrift, set on the top crust, and bake. The oven should be hot in the beginning and then be reduced, about the crust has begun to brown a bit.

Actress Leaves In Borrowed Boat For Tampa Ending Row

HAVANA, Dec. 7.—(INS)—The Jolly Miss Frances Porter, former Atlanta, Ga., newspaper writer and actress, who theoretically boarded the "Jolly Roger" over her borrowed private yacht, the Malvera, was in the high seas today, hopeful that her troubles in Cuba were over.

The owner of the yacht, C. T. Whitehead, Atlanta millionaire, who is under a doctor's care suffering from scratches and bruises in chains were inflicted by Miss Porter, was left behind.

When the Malvera sailed late yesterday, after a week of hectic times in this port, Miss Porter, said she expected to make port at Tampa, Fla., some time today. Clearance papers for the Malvera were obtained by the United States Consul. Cuban immigration and police authorities breathed a sigh of relief when the Malvera was gone. The departure of Miss Porter solved a problem which was puzzling officials.

Immigration authorities had a deportation warrant for Miss Porter and the police had a warrant charging her with assaulting Whitehead, but both have been quashed. Whitehead was still confined to his hotel room, but was said to be better. It is understood that fears of blood poisoning have now been allayed by medical treatment.

HOOVER NEARS END OF CRUISE TO SOUTHWARD

Mr. Hoover's thoughts have begun to turn toward home. He is already planning his return.

Unless he decides to stop over in Mexico he will sail from some Caribbean port (not yet selected) directly for Florida upon the U. S. ship Utah.

The Maryland will anchor off Antofagasta tomorrow morning where Mr. Hoover will greet a Bolivian delegation headed by the Bolivian foreign minister. The President-elect will not go ashore. Bolivia has no coast which made it necessary for the Bolivian official to travel for a foreign port.

Reports that the recent Chilean earthquake had interrupted railway traffic from Chile across the Andes mountains were officially denied in a radiogram received on board today. Should there have been any such interruption Mr. Hoover planned to continue on the Maryland round Cape Horn, to Buenos Ayres. Now, however, the original plan will stand.

The Hoover party will leave the Maryland at Valparaiso on Monday morning. They will travel by electric railway to Santiago where they will spend the night. On Tuesday the overland journey for Buenos Ayres will start.

The mess bill of Mr. Hoover and his immediate party, including Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher, has been less than $4 a day since the warship left San Pedro, Calif., on Nov. 19. It was revealed today when settlements were made up to Dec. 1. The entire bill from Nov. 19 to Dec. 1 was $50.

MARKET DROPS AFTER JOLTING OF YESTERDAY

Market increased $100,000,000. This was a distinct surprise for the bulls, who had counted on an easing of the burden of money borrowing against the carrying of stocks of all grades.

The market boiled over in the first half hour, with sales above 1,000,000 shares, against 525,000 in the same period yesterday. A block of 30,000 shares of Sinclair Oil was turned over in one transaction at a loss of 2 1/4 points from Thursday's close. Standard Oil was weak, and most of the well-known copper, motor car, and steel stocks suffered a shrinkage of a point or two in the early trading.

Call money renewals were at 10 per cent which was 2 per cent less than at Thursday's close, though the highest renewal rate in 8 years. These were many bankers and brokers in Wall Street who were ready to forecast easier money conditions before the end of the month, despite the very heavy requirements for the year-end.

Close to a billion dollars will be needed to pay the January interest dividends, together with the settlement of other obligations of the big corporations.
