

Unusual Interest Shown As Big League Teams Get Started This Afternoon

By Davis J. Walsh, International News Service

NEW YORK, Apr. 16.—Baseball, the master hand that twangs the strings of a country's emotions, will play its theme song into the ear of a watching crowd this afternoon. It will be played loudly, brightly and with ostentation, as is baseball's way, but to the ear that has become tone deaf with listening in vain since last October, the alternate note of the bat and the whining sinner of the base hit will be duet music, indeed.

For this is to be baseball's biggest moment. It is to be the official opening of the Major League season when the 16 ball clubs, have at each other on terms of equality for the first and last time and somehow, the virus engendered by the parades, the bands, the flag raisings and presentations get under your skin—and stay there until October. It is an experience that is age-old in years but ever new to the eye of the beholder.

It is for the better reason that upward of 270,000 Americans stand ready to rally around the turnstiles at the parks in eight Major League cities. Everything, in fact, is in readiness for the great season and all that baseball asks is the boon of favorable weather.

Unfortunately, it doesn't figure to get this. The latest available forecast declared for generally unsettled conditions, which reminds one of the fallow whose family moved in Des Moines—but not with everybody. Anyhow, rain or shine, the following is the program for the 1929 inaugural.

It is a season that promises to run the gamut of dramatic possibilities for baseball is to be inaugurated. There is, for example, the promised four-way vendetta in the National League among the Gants, Cubs, Pirates and Cardinals, with the question of Hornsby's added value to the Cubs looming large in the equation. Chicago, therefore, should go for this Cub-pirate meeting today in a body.

Another question centers around Ruth and his ability to carry forward his pace of recent seasons. Will Ruth collapse and the Yankees with him? Can the Cardinals come back to win another pennant after the venerating they took from the Yankees last Fall? Are the Athletics about to fold up with their greatest chance before them and, if so, will the Browns come on from third place to make the contention?

These and many other questions, as yet unanswered, serve to give the 1929 season a bit of interest that was lacking when the Yanks were parading to their pennants.

FRUIT PEST IS DISCOVERED IN TWO COUNTIES

plant quarantine administration of the United States Department of Agriculture, who have come to Florida to arrange for federal cooperation in the eradication effort, represented the department at the Gainesville conference yesterday. He expressed approval of the action of the Florida board. The chief inspectors of Georgia and Mississippi were present at the meeting and expressed confidence in the Florida and federal officials and in the adequacy of the control program as outlined by them.

Speakers at the plant board meeting emphasized the need for hearty and complete cooperation of grower and property owners of the quarantined area with all agencies concerned in eradication of the pest. Officials of the Florida Citrus Growers, Clearing House association, the Florida Citrus Exchange, the State Horticultural Society and the State Department of Agriculture pledged their cooperation in the fight.

The Mediterranean fruit fly, as its name implies, is found mostly in the countries that border the Mediterranean Sea, including Spain, Italy, southern France and all of the islands that dot the waters of the sea. It also exists to some extent in the West Indies. It is described as about the size of a house fly. It borrows a hole in the fruit and lays eggs, which hatch into worms that quickly devour the fruit. The flies propagate quickly and spread rapidly, it was stated.

Because of the danger which it offers, the fruit fly has been the object of rigid inspection of all fruits and vegetables coming into the United States from countries in Southern Europe. A number of means have been suggested as to how the fly made its entry into the United States. The Herald has been informed by local persons interested in the eradication work that one belief is that the pest could have been brought into Florida by the hurricane of two years ago.

The infected section in Orange and Seminole counties has only been under surveillance for 10 days or two weeks, it was learned. One grove was found to be almost 100 per cent infected in Orange county. Other groves within a radius of five miles were found to have the fly in varying degrees. Inspection service in the infected

STORY OF RUTH'S BETROTHAL ADDS TO ENTHUSIASM

Pending Marriage Of "Bambino" Helps To Bring Out Throngs

NEW YORK, Apr. 16. (INS)

—Coincident with the inauguration of the nation's annual frenzy, hobby or what have you—the 1929 baseball season—thousands of fans, enroute to Yankee stadium to see Babe Ruth enact his time-honored role of sultan of swat were augmented today by other thousands, in which the fair sex was no mean minority, eager to gaze upon the mighty Bambino in the invisible mantle that enshrouds a bridegroom-to-be.

For the Babe had been vanquished by a warrior who has felled greater foemen than the idol of young America—a warrior, whose field equipment consists of but little more than a bow and a quiver of arrows.

The rumor had it that perhaps the Babe was already a Benedict when he trotted out for batting practice today—that perhaps, a quiet wedding took place last night.

The lucky girl? Miss Claire Hodgson, beautiful former "Follies" lass who, if she is not already the Babe's bride, is surely going to be. The Babe admits it himself.

Babe, as befitted a bridegroom-to-be, was fumblingly embarrassed when he appeared with Miss Hodgson at the city hall yesterday and asked for a marriage license. City Clerk Cruise, a marrying man—he's married thousands—offered to tie the knot then and there but the Babe smilingly declined.

"I don't know just when it will be," he declared as he was hemmed in by reporters. Some day this week—probably," Miss Hodgson said she was 28, the daughter-in-law of James M. Hodgson, of Jefferson Hill, Ga. She gave no address.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Joe M. Merritt, a lawyer of Athens, Ga., and is the widow of Frank Hodgson, who died in 1924. She has a daughter, Julia, aged 13.

Babe gave his address as New York and his age as 35. He said he is the son of Catherine and George Herman Ruth of Baltimore, both of whom are dead.

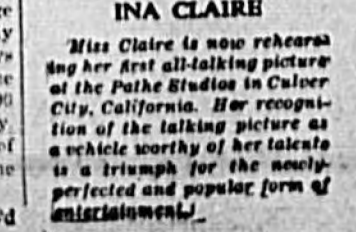

Ruth's name had been linked with Miss Hodgson's ever since his first wife, Mrs. Helen Woodford Ruth, perished in a mysterious fire at the home of Dr. Edward H. Kinder in Watertown, Mass. on Jan 11 last.

region is expected to be strict. Not only will shipments be banned but passing automobiles will in all probability be stopped and examined in an effort to throw around the area the most extensive safeguards.

So far as could be learned here no certain means of controlling the spread of the fly have been evolved in this country. With the quarantine in force and while inspectors scour other portions of the state to ascertain if the pest has located elsewhere, the nation's foremost plant experts will devote their attention to an effective formula for killing off the fly.

upon these profitable enterprises under normal conditions can not be maintained. Meanwhile their continued output tends to aggravate the situation. Local taxes have doubled and in some cases tripled. Work animals have been steadily repaired and replaced. The consumption of farm products. There are many other contributing causes.

The general result has been that our agricultural industry has not kept pace in prosperity or standards of living with other lines of industry.

There being no disagreement as to the need of farm relief, the problem before us becomes one of method by which relief may be most successfully brought about. Because of the multitude of causes and because agriculture is not one industry but a score of industries, we are confronted not with a single problem alone but a great number of problems. Therefore there is no single plan or principle that can be generally applied.

An effective tariff upon agricultural products, that will compensate the farmer's higher costs and higher standards of living, has a dual purpose. Such a tariff not only protects the farmer in our domestic market but it also stimulates him to diversify his crops and to grow products that he could not otherwise produce, and to export to foreign markets.

The great expansion of reduction abroad under the conditions I have mentioned readers foreign competition in our export markets increasing serious, therefore, that the American farmer, having been greatly handicapped in his foreign market by such competition from the younger expanding countries, should ask that foreign access to our domestic markets should be regulated by such a tariff as will result in increasing the surplus production, as such will defeat any plans of relief.

BRAZIL NUTS ARE SENT FROM FORD RUBBER EMPIRE

Magnate's Grant Upon Amazon River Gives 2 Useful Products

NEW YORK, Apr. 16.

Brazil nuts are arriving at the Bush Terminal in Brooklyn from the rubber empire of Henry Ford near the Amazon River. Ford's enormous grant, according to officers of ships from that region, contains many Brazil nut trees a hundred feet or so in height.

"A falling nut may sometimes hit a picker on the head and kill him. Mr. Ford's managers, we hear, are determined to make the most of the varied products growing in the jungle he has acquired. The nuts arrive at Bush Terminal are sometimes piled up higher than a human being."

"How is it that a nut the size of a Brazil nut could kill a person whom it landed?" was asked.

"The Brazil nuts known to commerce, 15 or 20 of them, grow inside of a large outer covering bigger than a coconut. A passer beneath one of the hundred foot Brazil nut trees at the season when they are falling does well to keep a weather eye above him. After the Brazil nuts arrive at Bush Terminal, they go to several large nut cracking factories in the neighboring sections of Brooklyn.

"Here the outer shells of the main nut are saved open with regular machine saws. The nuts then go to nut emporiums, or sometimes also to candy manufacturers right in the Bush Terminal neighborhood, and the finished candies are distributed in carload or less-than-carload lots from Bush Terminal to all parts of the country."

Henry Ford's rubber empire on the Amazon, from which some of the Brazil nuts come is located near Para. Its chief purpose is the raising of rubber trees to furnish tires for his cars. Ships that leave Bush Terminal not only go up the Amazon River system as far as the Ford rubber empire, but purchase their course sometimes farther, sometimes more than 2000 miles up the deep stream, until they come to the Peruvian city of Iquitos. In places far up the river system, the foliage is so high and luxuriant that it forms a canopy right over the deep narrow stream, where the ocean going ship is passing.

"The Brazil nut game in the jungle was once comparatively safe," a ship's officer recounted. "The natives waited until the nuts, in their large outer shells, fell of their own accord. This meant that some of them fell too late to be in good condition when they reached New York. So as the Brazil nut demand increased, they had to begin shaking the trees. This was hazardous operation, since falling nuts endangered the shakers. Now they are supposed to have a shaking device which enables them to stand off at a distance and agitate the tree, thus bringing down the nuts, without injury to themselves.

NERVES SEEMED "ALL TO PIECES"
Texas Lady Says When She Took Cardui Her Improvement Was Steady.
Sherman, Texas.—Mrs. Ida Stone of 817 South Throckmorton Street this city, writes the following: "I was having dreadful nervous spells. I felt like crying all the time. I was so blue. I felt like something awful was going to happen. I was swollen and my face was puffed. "I was up and down. When I would get up out of bed for a few hours, I would go 'all to pieces.' "I tried different medicines, but did not get any better. One of my friends who came to see me one day told me to try Cardui. She had taken it and found it of great benefit. She said it should help me, because I was suffering like she did. My husband brought a bottle home to me, and I began taking it. It was not long until I noticed a change for the better. I kept on taking Cardui for several months. I took thirteen bottles. My improvement was steady and permanent. When I had finished taking it, I felt in better health than I had been in years."

Minneapolis Has Become Outstanding Plane Port Of U.S. In Last Two Years

BY J. B. LINGOLN
Secretary, Aviation Committee
Minnesota Civic and Commerce
Association
Written Specially for International
Special News Service

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 17.—The city of Minneapolis, located in the northern terminal of several commercial air lines, has become one of the outstanding aviation centers of the country during the past two years.

Aviation activities in Minneapolis date back to the formation of the Aero Club of Minneapolis which was organized in 1920. The club's members developed the idea of building a landing field for an airport. This field, which was leased, was made possible through the cooperation of a group of civic spirited citizens who underwrote its establishment and who built a hangar. This field was primarily established to provide facilities for the government air mail service which was established in 1921. This air mail service was discontinued after about three months operation but these same business men continued to finance the flying field looking forward to the future development of aviation.

Activity Slackened
Following the discontinuance of the air mail service, there was very little activity for about a year and a half at which time the War Department authorized the establishment of a Minnesota National Guard Aero Squadron. The squadron was organized and equipped and the State Legislature authorized the construction of three hangars at the flying field. Shortly after the establishment of the National Guard Aero Squadron which is now known as the 109th Minnesota National Guard Aero Squadron, the flying field was dedicated as the World Chamberlain Flying Field in memory of two Minneapolis flyers, both sons of prominent citizens who were killed in the World War.

The flying field has continued to be the home of the 109th Minnesota National Guard Aero Squadron. In 1925, the Post Office Department authorized the establishment of contract air mail routes, one of which was established between Chicago and the twin cities with its Northwest terminal located at the World Chamberlain Flying Field and service was started in June of that year. The route after going through the development stage is now continued to operate and today is on a paving business municipal airport.

Minneapolis, like many other cities in the country, developed air-mindedness to a great extent immediately following Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's famous transatlantic flight. At that time, agitation was started for a municipal airport. This agitation brought about the need for a more concerted development of air-mindedness resulting in the appointment of a large Aviation Committee of the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce Association, comprising 100 members representative of the various business interests, aviation enthusiasts and pilots. At the same time the Minneapolis Chapter of the National Aeronautical Association was formed and the two groups, which to some extent comprised the same people, got behind the municipal airport project. Subsequently, on June 1, 1926, the World Chamberlain Flying Field was acquired as a municipal airport by the Minneapolis Board of Park Commissioners and plans were made to develop the field as one of the finest airports in the country.

In May 1928, the aircraft operators in Minneapolis conducted the first Northwest Aircraft Show at the World Chamberlain Municipal Airport, with the cooperation of the Minneapolis Civic Commerce Association. This show which was attended by more than 60,000 people had a very stimulating effect on the citizens of Minneapolis and vicinity and did a great deal to further establish air-mindedness. The U. S. Army and the aircraft industry in general, were well represented at this show.

Has Eight Hangars
Today, there are eight hangars located at the municipal airport, of which three are owned by the Universal Air Lines, Inc., and one by the Northwest Airways, Incorporated. Both commercial companies operating regular services between Minneapolis and Chicago. The Northwest Airways, Incorporated operates the air mail service and a passenger line to Cleveland via Chicago. Both of these companies use tri-motored equipment and are giving highly efficient service to the public of the Northwest. Three of the hangars are owned by the States of Minnesota and are used by the 109th Minnesota National Guard Aero Squadron. The eighth hangar is used by the Naval Reserve Aviation Squadron VNT-180 which was established in Minneapolis during the summer of 1928.

and technicians like David Mark Griffith and Samuel Goldwyn. "With our public in artists and our combined staffs, we will be able as a corporation to turn out either talkies or silent films of the super variety, and yet not to be caught out if public liking for the former turns tall.

"All want new outlets for their films. They want their own theatres if they can get them. We have 20; Warner Brothers 300. Think what that means in saving of distribution and sales expenses. With our combined organization we can show our pictures in 10,000 theaters throughout America and at the same time keep the others guessing in production and quality. That is our answer to those who are fighting us."

"Doug" said that the only cool man in Hollywood is Charles Chaplin. According to Fairbanks, "Charlie" is taking the whole thing philosophically, saying: "The public will judge. I await the public's verdict."

Fairbanks says that Chaplin is not against the talkies and will make one if he makes up his mind that the people want it.

Fight Upon Federal Reserve Board Has Gained New Force

WASHINGTON, Apr. 17.—(INS)—The anticipated congressional assault on the Federal Reserve Board and its policies looks today from two sources.

Representative Reid, Republican of Illinois, introduced a resolution in the House proposing an investigation by a committee of five members to determine whether the board is committed to a policy of competition with the proposed European "world bank" which would force the United States into the League of Nations.

At the same time, Representative Black, Democrat of New York, accused the board of "endangering American prosperity" by its high on speculative loans and in aiding the stabilization of foreign banking systems.

"If my resolution is adopted," said Reid, "I shall insist that the investigation shall not be merely a dry matter but a thorough inquiry into the activities and policies of the federal reserve system during the 10 years which have followed the World War.

The people of the Middle West are thoroughly aroused because there was a heavy prosperity in the commercial world which seems to have been jolted by the action of the Federal Reserve Board."

Miami-Gassing, consumers of Dade County used 3,382,162 gallons of the product during month of February.

Dade City residence will be remodelled and provided with modern facilities for use as hospital.

Gainesville Alachua County will now about 2,000,000 pounds of tobacco this season.

Melbourne-Plans proposed for improving local flying field.

Bill Would Create New Commission To Film State History

TALLAHASSEE, Apr. 17.—(INS)—Creation of an historical motion picture commission to film the history of Florida was proposed in a bill introduced in the State Senate today by Senator W. W. Phillips.

The bill carries with it an appropriation of $50,000, and authorizes the commission, which would be composed of five members, to contract with motion picture companies for portrayal of the state's romantic history.

Two of the commission's members would be women, under the terms of the measure.

A bill creating a board of plumbing commissioners has also made its appearance, introduced by Senator Hodges of Tallahassee.

Another bill introduced concerned the abolition of the office of state tax equalizer, and is the companion to a bill already introduced in the House. It was presented by Senator Johns of Starke.

STATE CELERY MEN ORGANIZE AT LAKELAND

dueted advertising campaign is expected to be the solution to a problem with which celery growers have been battling for years. It was said.

The undertaking was described by the delegates to be one of the greatest efforts of its kind ever launched in this state being second in extent and importance only to the citrus clearing house association. Willingness of all the interested parties to cooperate was praised and interpreted as an excellent indication of the hearty endorsement which is expected to be given the scheme by growers here and in the Sarasota and Manatee sections.

As organized, the Florida Celery Association will function indefinitely, with each year's campaign expected to be enlarged and extended in proportion to the results that have been obtained in the preceding season. None of the details of the first year's campaign eventually is held.

The orders of the federal grand jury here before which he was summoned to tell supposedly of gangland conditions because he is afraid, Guzik admitted.

Capone was not questioned about gangland conditions by that body but about his income tax payments. Capone fears not only drastic action because of failing to pay, but also because he falsified a doctor's certificate stating he was too ill to leave Florida and come to Chicago to be questioned. Capone's friends are frank in admitting the gangster chief expects to receive a sentence of approximately six months.

June Consistory To Be Postponed Until Coming November

VATICAN CITY, Apr. 17.—(INS)—Pope Pius XI has vitentially decided to postpone the June Consistory until November's International News Service learns from a source close to the Vatican this afternoon.

It is understood that the postponement is due to the fact that the cardinal who presided over the consistory, which is held high prelates, some of them possibly Americans, when the consistory eventually is held.

Oil Magnate Is Held In Financier's Death

NEW YORK, Apr. 17.—(INS)—With Samuel E. Bell, elderly oil producer, free on $10,000 bail charged with second degree manslaughter in connection with the death of Arthur Morgan Smith, wealthy Cleveland and business man, the city of Cleveland has granted Bell's release.

Should he be indicted and convicted on the charge, he faces possible imprisonment of 15 years, or $1,000 fine or both.

The charge against Bell was the straggling of a dinner party at the Hotel Marguery here when he was staying. It is alleged that Bell knocked Smith to the ground inflicting injuries which resulted in the Cleveland man's death a few hours later.

Banquet Will Honor Plain Spoken Editor

AMARILLO, Texas, Apr. 17.—(INS)—Arrangements were being made today for a banquet in honor of Gene Howe, editor of the Amarillo News Globe, whose attack on Mary Garden and the program presented here by the Chicago Civic Grand Opera Company, caused widespread comment.

The banquet is to be a testimonial for an editor who isn't afraid to speak out. Meanwhile Mayor Ernest Thompson, husband of May Peterson, former opera star, and a group of Amarillo citizens have announced they will not pay a fine of $1,000, threatened to be due by the opera company.

"Sixteen of our business men signed the guarantee, and they do not intend to make good," said Thompson. "Our position is that we were not given what we were promised. We dare the Chicago Civic Grand Opera Company to sue us."

Ford Foresees A Utopia

HENRY FORD, who completed and delivered the millionth of his new "V8" cars more than a month ago, thinks that there is too much drudgery in the home. Perhaps he wants people to have more time for motorizing. At that rate, he writes in his new book, "My Philosophy of Industry":
"The great problem in the home today is too much drudgery. It may sound like an astonishing proposition to advance, but we shall soon find a way to do much of the cooking outside the kitchen, to do a lot and appetizing cooking at small times at a greater cost than that at which it is now being prepared in the workman's home."

Not So Far Fetched
The most of his theories, as his own personal success indicates, this Utopia which he pictures is not so far fetched. The commercial canneries of today have reduced the time it is now necessary to devote to the preparation and cooking of food in the home to a minimum. That the housewife appreciates this help is proved by the fact that one billion more cans of processed food were produced and sold in 1923 than in the previous year.

The canneries have not yet solved the problem of delivering the food to the home. The housewife, therefore, has been obliged to do a vast amount of the washing, peeling, staining and seeding of fruit and vegetables, the boning and skinning of fish and the picking of fowl to say nothing of the long hours women formerly spent cooking over a hot stove, that the American housewife has accepted a new freedom.

It is planned to have these directional beams located at 200-mile intervals over all lines.

RADIO WILL HELP GUIDE AVIATORS IN BAD WEATHER

Planes Will Have Directional Radio Coils

CHICAGO, Apr. 17.—(INS)—Partial application of a sudden frost of evening the problem of weathering a night of the National Air Transport line, a New York and Chicago freight plane, was delayed today.

Weather reports are transmitted to the pilot through voice transmitters from the ground stations. A different type of transmitter, and a number of receivers, are mounted on the plane, which are identified and receive the weather reports. There were 20 passengers on the Express. The freight had been stalled by fog.

beam. The radio beam, like a beam of light, spreads according to the width of two or more miles. Conversely, it converges nearer its origin. Thus the pilot can tell when passing a point by the intensity of the signals and the narrowing of the effective path of the beam. Further aid in locating a field in thick weather is given by what is known as a marker beacon which sends a strong signal that can be heard through the course signal and informs the pilot as he over the field.

Universal Aviation Corporation which recently announced that it is to place the Fokker Company, now announced the signing of contracts for ten additional tri-motored Fokker Monoplanes. President L. H. Piper of Minneapolis announced the planes "would be used on an important link of a transcontinental line." Neither Mr. Piper nor local officials would amplify this statement. The new planes are the Fokker D. T. 32 and provide the utmost in comfort, speed and air-worthiness. They are equipped with separate men's and women's washrooms, mail, express and baggage compartments, radio, radio broadcast receiving equipment and transmitting equipment for pilots communication to the ground.

Gen. Almazan Assures U.S. Not To Fear Of Warfare On Border

JUAREZ, Mex., Apr. 17.—(INS)—Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, U. S. A., Fort Bliss commander, today said the personal assurance of Gen. Kuan Anshou Almazan, of the Mexican Federal Army, that the United States has little fear from Guerrilla warfare along the international border.

Almazan informed the American Army officer that the federal punitive expedition will pursue the rebels under Gen. J. G. Escobar in Sonora where the federals hope to quench the last ember of the insurrection as quickly and as quietly as possible.

The federal commander indicated his belief that the revolt has been definitely crushed and that future operations will consist largely of "mopping up."

Gen. Almazan, because of his brilliant success in putting down the revolt will probably be appointed Secretary of War by President Portey Gil. He will succeed former President Plutarco Elias Calles who became secretary of war at the outbreak of the revolt.

Gen. Calles, it is understood here, will attend the Morrow-Lincoln wedding in the United States and then sail for Europe for a vacation.

HOOPER DECLINES

WASHINGTON, Apr. 17.—(INS)—President Hoover indicated today he would be unable to accept an invitation to address the southern newspaper publishers' association at Asheville, N. C., July 6, next.

Arrangements have been completed with the Pioneer Instrument Company, Brooklyn, N. Y., to establish a complete service department.

Weather reports are transmitted to the pilot through voice transmitters from the ground stations. A different type of transmitter, and a number of receivers, are mounted on the plane, which are identified and receive the weather reports. There were 20 passengers on the Express. The freight had been stalled by fog.

In thick weather, the pilot can determine the path of an aircraft where a directional radio beam narrows the path of the radio.
