Coto accepts Volusia County job

Grace will begin internal review for deputy county manager position

By Russ White Staff Writer

SANFORD - Cindy Coto will talk contract with Volusia County officials on Friday morning — the last step before resigning her job as Deputy County Manager in Seminole County to become Volusia's top executive offer.

The Volusia County Council selected Coto, a long-time resident of the county on Tuesday to be its next county manager. The Volusia vote was unanimous.

Coto, 44, said this morning that her leaving Seminole for Volusia is a "bittersweet" development.

"I've worked for Seminole County for 22 years," she said. "This is home, family. Still, I know this is right for me. I have no regrets," Volusia has been searching for a manager since Larry Arringion resigned on March 1. Contract negotiations failed with two selected candidates.

"I don't expect that to happen with Cindy Colo," said Seminole County Manager Kevin Grace. "She's a long-time resident and the person the Volusia officials very much want to guide them. Obviously, we're going to miss Coto's plans were to start the new job in November. Grace said he will initiate a search for a contract in Volusia. "We will do an internal review and search first," he said. "If necessary we will look elsewhere." Coto worked her way to a $110,000 a year salary in Seminole County. Her contract with Volusia includes a salary of

Coto's replacement once Coto has signed

$120,000 to $140,000. Coto resides in rural Samsula, just west of New Smyrna Beach. Seminole

Thome Greene becomes mayor by default

By Michalie Jeria Managing Editor

LAKE MARY -- The last day to qualify for the November election was Friday, and it appears there won't be any City Commission debates before people head to the polls.

The three candidates for Lake Means are suffered to the polls.

"When the current terms are up, they will automatically begin Lake Mary City the new terms."

and mayor are and mayor are running unopposed. Deputy City Clerk
Mary Campbell said
City Commission candidates include incumbent Gary Mary Campbell Lake Mary Deputy City Clerk

Brender and newcomer Michael McLean, and the only mayor's candidate is current Deputy Mayor Thom Greene.
"When the current terms are up, they will automatically begin the new terms," Campbell said, "City Commission will probably swear them in during the second meeting in November unless a special-called meeting is held." Lake Mary Mayor David Mealor announced last year his intentions to run for state representative in the November election. He is vacating a position he has held since 1996. Mealor has also served as Lake Mary's deputy mayor, and was first elected to City Commission in 1988.

After Mealor's announcement, several individuals showed interest in running for the mayor's seat, including Brender and Greene. However, Brender said earlier this year he will seek another term as City

Commissioner. "I feel I can best serve my city in my current seat." Brender sald. tunning for City

Commission In July, Greene officially announced he was running for mayor. Greene has served on City Commission since 1996 and has served as deputy mayor since 1998.

McLean is running for City currently occupied by Greene. It will be the first time he has served as City Commissioner.

According to Campbell, since all three candidates are running unopposed, their names will not appear on the November ballot.

Bates urges his supporters to back Adams for commissioner

SANFORD --- Po

"I'm delighted to get support from Dudley Bates, whom I respect a great deal," said Adams, who said he would have dropped out of the District 3 race had Bates defeated Van Der Weide in the Republican Primary. Adams positioned himself to be in the General Election by moving from Republican to Non Party candidate.

Expect fair to good bass action in the stretch of river from Puzzle Lake south to Lake Winder. The part of the river is very narrow, and bass have literally 'nowhere to hide" when the water is in the channel. Plastic worms and a wide variety of lures are all effective. Bass tend to hold in deep bends, creek mouths, and other irregular features.

Sebastian Inlet has fair fishing for snook, trout, flounder, redfish, and jack crevalle. Live shrimp or finger mullet are the top batts. Trout are also hitting on the grass flats just inside the

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that big ground seas have made offshore fishing difficult. Plan on king mackerel being close inshore and on finding a few cobia on 8 A Reef and Pelican Flats. Wahoo and dolphin are slow. Ponce Inlet has fast action with live or dead shrimp. Plenty of sheepshead, drum, redfish, jack crevalle and adyfish are ready and walting. Trout and redfish are rated as good in Mosquito (left to right), Linda Gregory, Jim Berko

Killing the queen key to controlling imported fire ants

Imported fire ants are small, reddish brown to black in color, measuring between 1/8 to 1/4 inches long. They are known for their aggressive nature and their painful sting.

Some people have allergic reactions to their venom that go from rashes to swelling and sometimes paralysis. These social insects live in large colonies in the soil, with a Ferrer characteristic domeshaped mound at the entrance. Introduced into the United States from South America during the 1930s, the red imported fire ant now covers over 260 million acres in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Puerto Rico

Control Methods

Several methods of control have been attempted to manage the imported fire ants. The basic methods include the use of bait applications, individual mound treatments, and a combi-..... nation of both hait and mound treatments. So far, no method has proven to eradicate completely fire ants from infested areas.

Most baits are a combination of a toxic substance dissolved in soybean oil, which is a food source for fire ants. The toxic-oil combination is then absorbed into corn grits, which makes the product easier to handle and apply, and more accessible to the

The small size of the corn grit make it easy for the arts to carry the bait back to the colony or to extract oil from the bait, and carry it back to the nest. The slow acting toxicant allows the ants to feed the toxic oil to other members of the colony before

When they feed the queen and she dies, the colony will eventually die. When there are many queens, all of them must die in order to get a good control, otherwise re-infestation will occur.

There are four different toxicants being used in baits for fire ant control. Hydramethylnon (Amdro) is a slow-acting poison that will kill all ants that eat the chemical. It may take one to five weeks for the product to kill about 90 percent of the ants in a Fenoxycarb (Award and Logic) are considered insect growth regulators, because they do not kill the ants directly but sterilize the queens and prevent them from laying worker eggs.

Another chemical Abamectin (Ascend) prevents queens from laying any kind of eggs. Those weeks to kill about 90 percent of the individuals in a colony.

Boric acid has also been used in baits but their effectiveness is not well documented.

To be effective, baits require that ants pick up the bait and feed the chemical to the rest of the colony. Baits are usually placed near the colony for easy access to the mound.

Chemical Mound Treatments

A solution of an insecticide and water can be applied as a drench over the mounds. The chemical needs to kill the queen to be effective. Many times a large number of ants die during the treatment but, if the queen survives, re-infestation will

For best results, the drench should be applied to an undisturbed mound on cool, sunny mornings. If drenches are applied in het, dry weather, most of the ants are deep within the mound and the drench will probably not be effective in controlling the ants.

The procedure should be, first saturate the entire mound with the solution and then soak a 12inch swath around the base of the mound, and finally, pouring the remaining drench on top of the mound from at least 3 feet to obtain penetration of the liquid into the Insecticides formulated as granules or dusts can also be placed on too of the mound and with a sprinkler can, pour 1 to 2 gallons of water over the chemical to produce the solution that will penetrate the soil and kill the ants, specially the queens. Watering may not be necessary with some products (always fol-

Gravestone not billboard for local business

DEAR ABBY: My dear father passed away recently. My mother ordered a headstone in my father's memory from a local business.

By coincidence, my children and I went to visit my father's place of rest in the late afternoon on the day that the headstone was installed. While saying some prayers for my father, my 9-year-old daughter noticed a tag on the headstone. Upon tak-ing a closer look, I discovered that it was a metal business card that had been wedged into the concrete between the base of the headstone and the top portion. The business card had the name and telephone number of the "monument designer" on it.

I immediately pulled the metal business card out of the drying con-crete. Had we come to visit my father's place of rest a day later, that advertisement would have been cemented into eternity along with my father's memory.

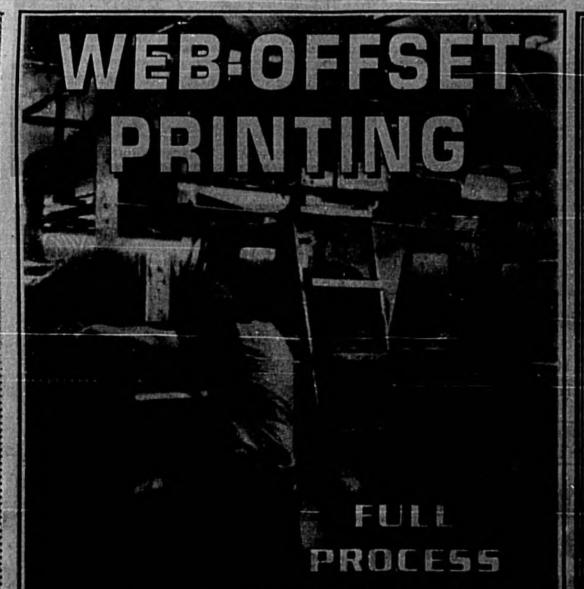

How dare anyone attempt to take advantage of such a solemn and ther his business interests! Your

"Endorsements are great," McLain said. "They are good for morale, but in reality, the endorsements we need are from the voters.

"Mr. Nicholas said privately he would support me and that he would tell his friends."

McLain, a two-term incumbent, has been endorsed by a number of the county's ranking officials including Sheriff Don Eslinger and Republican Executive Committee Chairman Jim Stelling.

McLain said that he and Nicholas agree on the majority of key issues.

"I respect Don Nicholas and hope to work with him the next four years," McLain said. "I also respect those who supported him the primary. These are good people who want what is best for our county."

Meanwhile, backers of Bob

West continue to post snipe signs ("Go West, Go Away

McLain") at intersections in the District 5 area. Nicholas said he is offended by non-authorized signs as these which are not identified.

<sup>2</sup>I am troubled with many things that seem to be on Mr. West's agenda," Nicholas said. Nicholas isn't the only one. Seminole County Schools Superintendent Paul Hagerty spoke at the Sanford Rotary Club two weeks ago and told the Rotarians that West's election would be a "travesty." Hagerty said West's support of abolishing the penny sales tax could be a serious blow to the school system.

Seminole County Public Schools stand even higher than the state average on the percent of women in the workforce. According to John Reichert, Executive Director of Human Resources and Professional Standards, taking into account all personnel, including bus drivers, teachers, service personnel and others, he said, "Seminole County Schools have a staff of 77.8 percent female, and 22.2 percent male." Regardless of the fact that our local public schools didn't receive special recognition, the statistics regarding female employment are outstanding.

"I also call him every morning and while I am on break." Spatch said. "In essence, he is in the classroom."

According to Spatch, nothing stops the 6-year-old. "It amazes me how much life he has in him, especially with everything he has been through," Spatch said. "He is so bound and determined, and he is so eager to learn."

Last week, Jonatan was told if he did ail of his school work, he could go to the space center. On Thursday, he received his reward.

Before entering the space center, David eagerly showed his twin brother around the classroom. It was the I'm looking for some performance enhancing swim togs for this year's Golden Age Games.

What I have in mind

What I have in mind is a synthetic sharkskin body sult. You've probably seen the Olympic swimmers wearing these sleek suits.

They're faster than sharks, of course. Who knows what a sharkskin sult will do for me. It may reveal my amble body form rather than conceal it. When's the last time TOO BAW & COMPEN-DAS EMIDDISK MILL S

Lisa Jones, the Golden Age Games director, seemed surprised anyone would go to such lengths to enhance their performance. "You're kidding.

Not at all," I said. "Wesn't Minnesots Fats considered a pool shark?"

"He played pool, he didn't swim," Ma jones replied. Oh!

Weat," Ms Jones said, reminding me that more than 120

"Not this time," I said. Instead, I did the scissors. Of course, I failed twice.

Ms Jones, spotting a rescue vehicle, suggested I retire.
"Whoa," I said, "Here comes my Western Roll."

I sensed the moment I began iny sprint to the bat I could would soar. The object was to soar all of me four feet. It was over in seconds. I made it. Mil Jones smiled. "Good technique," a man told me. "You'll be back next year, right?"
No, I won't. For a month after the Golden Age Games, I had difficulties moving my neck. Bodies as old as mine aren't designed for the jerks and bounces off a high jump landing pail. That would be my last Western Koll.

The other day, as I filled out my Golden Age Games competition form I skipped past canoeing and high jumping. It I do anything this year, it will be at the Name That Tune

Whatever happens, I want to slip into one of the synthetic sharkskin body suits. As the world around my body changes, I need to change my
