AROUND THE CLOCK

By John A. Spolaki

There's another motel . . . right around the corner. This particular corner is at S R 46 and I-4, on the Hickman property, and the motel is the 8 Day Motel.

There'll be 120 rooms, plus a restaurant.

The exciting part is that the rooms will rent for $8 per day; double beds will go for $10; and if you're looking for a master bedroom, it'll be $12.

Those who have stayed at this national chain, which has most of its present motels in the Carolinas and Georgia, say the accommodations are excellent.

Welcome, guests. (Now we can diplomatically get rid of those northern "strangers" who insist they're related to us, and will be at our house for a day or so until they can see Disney World. The last one who stayed, insisted he was my brother . . . darn if I can ever remember Mom feeding him around the dinner table, though . . .)

Not too much fanfare, but believe me those folks who've been coming to Sanford (at the Chamber of Commerce parking lot) every other Wednesday have collected more than a few of those empty beer and cola cans.

Last month (March) 3,543 pounds of cans were redeemed . . . and in case you're wondering how many cans that would be, it's $2,900 that otherwise would have been littering the area or taking up valuable space in landfills.

SHOW US SOMEONE who yawns for the good old days and we'll bet you've discovered the person who yells loudest when the electric power is interrupted for two minutes.

It's been bothering me some; let's try it on for size with you: "Between July 1, 1970 and December 31, 1971, no less than 26,122 legal abortions were performed in New York City hospitals and clinics.

"This is a death toll approximately SIX TIMES the number of all American lives lost in battle in Vietnam (45,779 as of April 1 . . .)

The abortionists, of course, contend that what they are extinguishing is not life, but merely potential life, and that up to some indeterminate point the fetus is not a human person but a thing, and therefore expendable.

Unfortunately, even under the new law, more than 60 aborted fetuses have been born showing signs of life. Of these, almost all subsequently died; one is living with its parents, and another is hospitalized.

So . . . if you listen to some of the "do gooders," it's absolutely wrong to continue with capital punishment. For the record, the year 1960 produced 56 deaths, via capital punishment . . . the high 'st in the past 12 years.

Since 1967, there have been no executions at all in the United States.

Evidently, under the new dispensation, it is wrong to kill convicted murderers, but right to kill innocent babies.

ON THIS DATE IN HISTORY . . . In 1963, textile executive Buford (Coy) Cozzolino filed this county's first workmen's compensation claim. Explained he, "I was hugging the receptionist in the stock room when suddenly I got stabbed by my own Happy Face button."

CROSS-SEMINOLE ARTERIAL HIGHWAY

That white streak extending to the top of this aerial photo is the bed for the new State Road 46, extending between Interstate 4 (across the picture) and the Seminole-Lake County Line at the Wekiva River, C. A. (Bill) Benedict, district engineer at DeLand for the State Department of Transportation, said today the $28.2 million project will be opened for traffic in September. (Bill Vincent Photo)

For Further Usage

By ANN SIECZKOWSKI

"If a decision is made to save the old courthouse, there would be considerable savings to Greenhut Construction Company in that the demolition of the building, costs of sidewalks, gutting and landscaping would be removed from the work schedule. And also in the saving in overtime fines which the company now faces." Greenhut Construction Chairman Greg Drummond enumerated the reasons why Greenhut should be interested in considering the proposition to save the old courthouse. He also was interested in connecting the company's savings with the possible costs of renovation of the building.

Dick Matz, speaking for Greenhut Company, said the board could either order a work plan change or solicit a proposal of change. Drummond said before any definite decision could be made, the alternatives and costs would have to be thoroughly studied. To be considered in this study would be a comparative cost of using present facilities or adding a floor or a new wing.

Commissioner Sidney Vihlen brought out the high costs of the work necessary to meet the different county building codes. Continuing, he said, "I personally could never vote one dime for any permanent renovation of this building. I don't think we should plan on more than one, two or three years."

The decision was to request the architects and the construction company to make a structural study as to amount of work necessary to renovate for safety and bring an estimate of the costs back to the board.

U.S. OFFICIALS say North Vietnam's drive below the demilitarized zone is expected to climax at Hue in the next week or 10 days, with the South Vietnamese hard put to hold the ancient city.

SEN. HUBERT H. HUMPHREY, a narrow victor over Gov. George C. Wallace in the Indiana primary, clings to a slim edge over Sen. George McGovern in an Ohio contest likely to go the wire.

THE BODY of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI for nearly 48 years, goes on public view in the Capitol rotunda today. There are expectations that the passing of the man will mean the passing of an era.

MIAMI BEACH officials vote today on whether to bid for the Republican National Convention. They are reported sharply divided.

WEATHER

Yesterday's high 87 low 65. Partly cloudy with chance of showers. Highs in 80s, low in mid and upper 60s.

Pleasant spring weather finally got a few words in today as a huge storm system that lashed much of the nation between the Rockies and the Appalachians finally began to die out.

HHH Pulls Through In Ohio And Indiana

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, a narrow victor over Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace in the Indiana Democratic presidential primary, maintained a small lead over Sen. George McGovern in Ohio early today as the closest primary contest of 1972 headed toward a photo finish.

Even if Humphrey held his 13,000-vote lead for the 38 at-large delegates, McGovern was running strongly enough around the state to win a significant share of the 133 Ohio delegates to the Democratic National convention.

With most of the votes still to be counted in populous Cuyahoga County (Cleveland), which casts close to 25 per cent of the Democratic total, and in Hamilton County (Cincinnati), Humphrey led for 80 delegates, McGovern for 50.

Humphrey claimed the final results would show "a great victory in Ohio."

McGovern's camp, however, was equally confident. "I think we have beat him," claimed Frank Monkiewicz, the South Dakota senator's national political director. He added that the primary results "demonstrate that Humphrey does not own the blue collar vote."

A massive voting staff in Cuyahoga County complicated tabulations.

There was one more loser: Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington. A poor fourth after 2 1/2 weeks of stumping Ohio, he said he would follow the course of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie and stop campaigning in primaries while remaining a presidential candidate.

Humphrey and McGovern centered their Ohio efforts on appeals to blue collar workers that echoed "alliance in stressing the need for tax reform. McGovern also sought to cut into Humphrey's long-time strength in Black areas."

Academy Speaker Named

Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr., retired commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps, will be the commencement speaker at Sanford Naval Academy next month.

General Chapman, a native Floridian, will speak to a graduating class of 55 at Sanford Civic Center Saturday, June 3. He will review the academy's battalion of midshipmen in its final dress parade on June 2 at Sanford Stadium.

Born in Key West, General Chapman was graduated from the University of Florida and was commissioned a Marine lieutenant in 1935. His military career in World War II and right up to his recent retirement as commandant of the Corps has been marked with accomplishments and many honors. He has been awarded three Distinguished Service Medals, the Legion of Merit, The Bronze Star and the Navy Commendation Ribbon.

The Sanford Naval Academy, established in 1963, will observe its sixth graduation ceremonies this year. The academy began as a junior school and added a grade each year until the full preparatory school curriculum was attained. Enrollment, now close to capacity, grew from the original 64 students to a peak roster of close to 350 midshipmen within five years. Boys from more than 40 states and many foreign countries have been attracted to the academy.

The school is proud of its college acceptance record as virtually 100 per cent of its graduates have been accepted in institutions of higher learning.

Valedictorian for this year's graduating class will be Midshipman, Ens. Douglas W. Bullock, of Stuart, who has been accepted by the U.S. Naval Academy and the U.S. Coast Guard Academy.

Altamonte Frowns On Gas Facility

By DONNA ESTES

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Three members of the City Council Tuesday expressed grave doubts concerning the wisdom of permitting an eighth prospective gasoline service station at or in the near vicinity of the intersection of Interstate 4 and Wylor-Douglas Road and no action on the request pending receipt of recommendation from the zoning board.

The site of the newest announced gas station referred to as a "gasoline pumping facility" is requested as a part of the planned Daze End motel to have 190 rooms and be located north of Spanish Trace Apartments on a 2.7-acre tract expected to be expanded another four acres with acquisition of additional land.

Councilman Helen Keyser, a constant opponent over the years of an overabundance of gasoline stations, noted five service stations are to be situated in the vicinity now while Mayor Lawrence Swoford added there are also sites for two more.

Request of the Council was to permit a variance to allow the "pumping facility" as part of the motel to be used for the most part by motel occupants, but also available for street traffic as well.

Councilman Dan Dorfman said one has to seriously question whether it would be wise to allow another one and personally could not see that one at the motel would be an asset to the area.

Mrs. Keyser at the same time stated she is opposed to the idea and "I don't care if they are only going to sell it by the cupful."

In other action, Council authorized request for bids by next week's meeting for a two post hydraulic hoist to be used for the city's big trucks at the maintenance garage.

Estimated cost of the equipment was $2,000.

Approved location of a street light at the intersection of Orange Road and Maitland Avenue and withheld approval of another at Newburyport and Fern Street pending recommendation from Councilman T. A. Reddoff.

Dade JC Dump Raiders

By GARY TAYLOR

WINTER HAVEN—Miami-Dade North ranked first in the state and second in the nation, blasted the Seminole Junior College Raiders 10-1 in the opening game of the 1972 state tournament held today.

The Falcons outbit the Raiders only 12-11 but three of those hits were circuit clouts. Tim Booker led the Raiders with three hits while Frank Cacciatore had two hits.

The Raiders hopes are still alive in this double elimination tournament as they take on the loser of today's Manatee vs. Gulf Coast game at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Dade North slugger Warren Cromartie hit a solo homer to put the Falcons on the board in the bottom of the first inning. The next two batters singled but pitcher Cacciatore got out of the inning without giving up another run.

The Raiders jumped on starter Mike Supernak for four runs in the top of the fourth. Roger Danson led off the inning with an infield hit and Larry Parrish singled to left before Booker smashed a lone home run over the 380-foot mark in left center field. Three more singles in the inning accounted for the fourth run.

The Raiders missed scoring threats in the sixth and seventh innings but the Falcons did not.

(Complete game details in tomorrow's Herald.)

May Lose $50,000 Seminoles 'In The Dark' About Money

By BILL SCOTT
Seminoles High School Athletic Boosters Club failed in its efforts to acquire $50,000 in Board funds to construct a football stadium there.

IT NOW SEEMS doubtful that Seminoles High will get $50,000 for new lights at the Sanford Municipal Stadium as was approved recently by the school board.

He said if $7 additional teachers are hired to keep the present pupil-teacher ratio, the remainder of the $80,000 must go toward that situation.

President Nixon Will Deliver Hoover Eulogy

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The body of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI for nearly 48 years, goes on public view today in the Capitol Rotunda amid expectations that the passing of the man who led the passing of an era.

There seems little doubt that no matter when President Nixon names to replace the 77-year-old bachelor, found dead in his Church, the one Hoover attended, at 11 a.m. Thursday.

Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery in the nation's capital, Hoover's lifelong home. His only survivors are nieces and nephews.

Hoover, whose body was found in his bed, died of natural causes. His death was attributed to "hypertensive cardiovascular disease" — an ailment linked to high blood pressure — although the immediate cause might have been a heart attack.

Clyde A. Tolson, 72, Hoover's longtime friend and No. 2 man in the bureau, was named immediately to take charge. Nixon was to name an acting director today, most likely a Justice Department attorney but not Hoover's permanent successor.

The President ordered flags at all public buildings and in installations lowered to half-staff. Tribute to Hoover, who served eight presidents and 16 attorneys general, poured in from friends and foe after his death. Most praised him as a man of honor, courage, integrity and love of country.

"No individual in the history of this nation contributed more to the great causes of liberty under law and Americanism," said Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said bootleggers, bank robbers, saboteurs and draft-card burners disabled Hoover "for the qualities that endeared him to all other Americans, his total dedication to principle and his complete incorruptibility."

Coretta Scott King, widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who reportedly was a subject of intense F.B.I. surveillance in the 1960s, said the bureau under Hoover had compiled files of "lies and sordid material."

Engineer Hired For Airport

John S. Bristol Associates, Miami consulting engineering firm, has been engaged by the Sanford Airport Authority to prepare a master plan for Sanford Airport.

Bristol's firm was hired by the Airport Authority at a cost of $36,000, of which $2,000 will be paid by the authority and the remainder coming from federal and state grants, J. S. Cleveland, airport manager, stated.

Elements involved in the airport master planning grant for Sanford Airport are:

- Inventory, demand capacity analysis, facility requirements, environmental study, airport layout plans, land use plan, fixed base operation and terminal area plans, airport access plans, schedules of proposed development, estimates of development costs, financing, report preparation, printing and miscellaneous and public information sessions.

Cleveland said the pre-study phase by Bristol is underway and application to the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) and state is expected to be made by May 11 for aid in funding.

The airport manager said the state will assist in the rehabilitation of the airport control tower, not to exceed $4,000.

Purpose of the master study plan, which will last five years, will advise what areas should be set aside for industry, a second fixed base operator and other uses, such as improved ramps and runways.

Pulitzer Prizes: More Than Awards

One of the highest points in the career of the reporter surely comes when the prestigious Pulitzer prize is awarded and his name is on the document.

This year the prize was given to Jack Anderson, the investigative journalist, for his explosive columns exposing the actual facts of what took place in high governmental circles when the Indo-Pakistan war was being waged.

At the same time the trustees of Columbia University, which makes the Pulitzer decisions, named The New York Times for its award for public service in printing the historic and controversial Pentagon Papers.

Both of these awards were given even more prominence than usual when the trustees issued an unusual accompanying statement. In it they noted that they had "deep reservations about the timeless and suitability of certain of the journalism awards" but named no names.

However they did add a sort of disclaimer explaining that "had the selections been those of the trustees alone, certain of the recipients would not have been chosen."

But the Pulitzer awards were made. There can be little doubt that Joseph Pulitzer, the publisher whose whole career was flavored by a persistent and incessant search for the news and who championed at all times the people's right to know, would have approved.

These journalistic achievements were made at a time when the freedom of the press has been challenged almost consistently by the Nixon administration and even held up to ridicule and attack by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Thus those who believe in the rights bestowed by the Constitution and its Bill of Rights, will find comfort in these Pulitzer awards now being made public.

Indeed, it might well be more than an indication that the gravity of these times and the apparent slide of government into an approved posture of concealment (witness the loose use of the "Top Secret" rubber stamp) is being challenged in depth by more than the members of the Fourth Estate.

Where else will the public find out the facts about big government, big business or big labor except when the investigative reporter is set on the trail and backed up by the publisher who is true to the ancient creed of his profession?

For the history of journalism is starred by those who have given lustre to the kind of news pursuit which is, at the moment, personalized by Jack Anderson and institutionalized by The New York Times.

Nixon Aim: Boom By Election Day

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)

It is not generally realized just how very determined President Nixon is to have a booming economy by Nov. 7, 1972.

But his urgency in speeding economic recovery is leading him into actions which could boomerang greatly in the next several years.

At the Pentagon, at Health Education and Welfare, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and other large-budget agencies, the bureaucrats who oversee what they are spending so that a maximum amount of money is pumped into the economy in the months just ahead.

The plan is, further, that some considerable spending which would normally take place in November, December and January will be moved forward where possible to hit in the early fall.

Where earlier spending is not feasible, attempts are being made to signal future contracts and future spending in ways that are sufficiently concrete to encourage industry to gear up before November, expanding employment and facilities and increasing inventories.

Behind the scenes, all stops are out in the White House effort to convince the Federal Reserve Board that the supply of money must be regularly increased at a pace great enough to sustain strong economic growth in the months ahead.

The budget deficit for fiscal 1973 and that projected for fiscal 1974 are at levels which almost insure unending inflationary pressures if the same type created by President Johnson's unbalanced war budgets. These pressures, economic analysts now say, brought on the inflation of the present and past several years.

Neither President Nixon nor the Congress apparently have the strength of will to decide on what is not urgently essential in the current budgets and determinedly chop out the deadwood.

The distortions of these policies are already appearing. Despite the overly high unemployment rate, there are women at a faster rate than their business justifies—in anticipation. This could mean slower-than-normal increases in employment at later stages in the recovery.

A money supply arbitrarily increased at a too-rapid pace—combined with heavy federal spending and other artificial stimulants—could effectively destroy the most stringent attempts to bring inflation under control.

If the inflation pressures increase in the manner outlined above, the price controllers can get as tough as they please, but prices will have a way of rising nevertheless.

This reporter has talked at length with economists who believe that under the best of circumstances we are boxed in permanently at least with an inflation rate of three to four per cent a year. Pressures of the type outlined above could drive those rates up well above that range for the years just ahead.

Polltakers Just Don't Ever Give Up

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Another polltaker rang the doorbell again last weekend.

Some people are on the lists for pornographic mail or invitations to all-expense-paid trips to Mexico to look at parking lots. I get all the polltakers.

"Hi, are you watching television?"

"Yeah."

"Who are you watching?"

"Kareem Abdul Jabbar."

"What primaries is he entered in?"

"He's not in a primary. He plays professional basketball for the Milwaukee Bucks."

"I see. Well, I'm conducting a private poll on the presidential candidates and the primaries."

"But the Illinois primary was over a month ago."

"Yes, I know. But our client is very interested in learning who you would have voted for if you hadn't voted for the man you did vote for."

"Why?"

"Well, sir, you see since there are so many candidates, excuse me, so many primaries, it's very likely that some candidates will drop out of the race and that would strengthen our client's position, especially if he could secretly reveal the results of a private poll showing that he would have won various primaries that he lost."

"Oh."

"So, would you mind telling me who you would have voted for if you didn't vote for the man you voted for?"

"Don't you want to know who I voted for?"

"It's immaterial. It only matters who your second choice would be. Sometimes it's better layoff or because of the tight schedule, you know."

"Yeah, but the fans don't believe that."

"What do they believe?"

"They believe if you lost it's because you weren't good enough."

"I'm sorry, sir. My client could never accept that as a poll result. Thanks anyway. See you after the California primary."

"You'll still be taking primary polls after the last primary?"

"Oh, sure. At least several candidates already have asked for samplings showing that most people don't believe in primary results anyway."

One Man's Opinion

Student Attitude Calmer Nowadays

By DON OAKLEY

"Thirty Per Cent of Collegians Would Quit U.S." ran the headline on one news story following a 1971 survey of college students' opinions and attitudes.

Anyone reading no further than that would be left with the impression that America's disenchanted youth are planning a mass exodus—and good luck to them.

But the question which elicited this response was only one of a great many questions in the annual survey commissioned by the JDR 3rd Fund, established by John D. Rockefeller III. It was buried on page 47 of a 246-page report, "The Changing Years on Campus," prepared by New York University psychology professor Daniel Yankelovich.

The question read: "Is there any other country or society that you think you might prefer to live in?"

Of the 30 per cent answering "Yes," more than nine out of 10 suggested they would prefer Australia, Western Europe, Scandinavia, Canada or Great Britain. The societies in these countries can hardly be called drastically different from that in the United States.

Had the students been asked, "If you had the chance to travel for a few years, is there any country or part of the world you would prefer to visit or live in?" the responses would probably have been much the same, not only for college students but for anybody else.

In any event, the overall impression of the survey is far from indicating universal disillusionment with or radical alienation from American society on the part of college students.

For instance, while expressing doubt that American democracy or justice work as well in practice as they are supposed to in theory, the "mainstream" students, who were seven out of 10 of all students surveyed (a total of 1,344 on 50 campuses), held moderate political values.

But the question which elicited this response was only one of a great many questions in the annual survey commissioned by the JDR 3rd Fund, established by John D. Rockefeller III. Time Off Tempts the Junketeers

WASHINGTON — In its wisdom, Congress early last year decided to go along with frequently stated requests to take an extended time off late in the year to regroup thoughts and visit constituents.

The month-long August vacation of 1971 was unusual but well received by members who have long realized that a year-round grind of hearings and floor debates can take its toll on tempers and intelligent value judgments.

The Congressional Record, daily bible of Capitol Hill affairs, has noted, however, that at least 80 members, plus some staff assistants, decided that more than a rest was in order. They took a trip to the Far East on a collective junket which cost the taxpayers more than $31,000.

Taking off at various times during August under the blessing of a "parliamentary group to Korea," the group, headed by Speaker Carl Albert, visited Taiwan, Hong Kong and the Philippines, in addition to looking in on the legislative matters of Korea.

A rundown of the members participating was included in an accounting of congressional travel for last year. The trip was unusual in two respects: it was the single highest outlay for any congressional trip and done without the normal fact-finding cover of a standing committee.

Two California congressmen — one a labeled conservative and the other an acknowledged liberal — have joined forces in an unusual appeal to the House Ethics Committee. The committee is the House watchdog over impropriety by members.

Vice-Presidential Note

The No. 2 Spot: Don't Knock It

By SAM STEWART
Copy News Service

As the onrush of primary elections and the climax of conventions will tell us, a lot of people would like to be president but because they are not the voters of the country to be the obvious choice.

To date, that is.

Which means for a pause just to think about the office of vice president, which certainly is No. 2 in the land and is, as we are so often reminded, only a headshot away from the presidency itself.

The framers of the Constitution and the authors of the 25th Amendment stressed the success: if it should happen to the president, the vice president moves up.

John Adams was vice president under Washington, and became the nation's second president. Thomas Jefferson was a vice president under Adams, and became president. Thus the first two vice presidents went on to become president, not because of the death of a president but because they were named to the voters of the country to be the obvious choice.

This is the way it works in the business world, generally. If it more or less taken for granted that the vice president can count on promotion when the presidency becomes vacant, he's groomed with that in mind.

This is often the pattern in such organizations as service clubs, chambers of commerce, lodges, and so on. The top vice president is openly or tacitly regarded as the president elect.

But not so in government. Since Thomas Jefferson, only one vice president of the United States — Martin Van Buren — has become president simply by being elected. Going back to the election of 1836, that's quite a spell.

The other vice presidents who became president: John Tyler, Millard Fillmore, Andrew Johnson, Chester A. Arthur, Theodore Roosevelt, Calvin Coolidge, Harry Truman and Lyndon Johnson — were promoted when the president suddenly died.

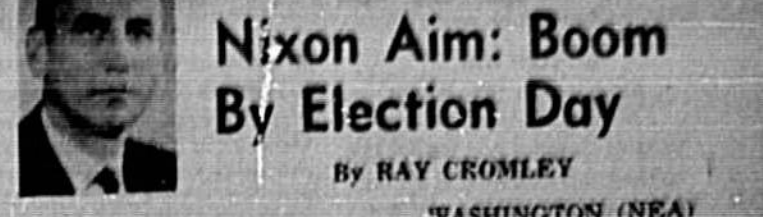

For well over a hundred years, then, no man holding the office of vice president has been nominated and elected to the presidency.

(We're talking about consecutive years, obviously — a direct promotion, in effect. Richard Nixon failed in his 1960 effort to step up directly from the vice presidency; that he did it eight years later is not relevant here.)

The fact that the vice president is not voted on separately — and in effect stands or falls on how his chief does — has taken emphasis from the vice presidency to the point, at times, of belittlement. No longer is a vice president thought of in the dictionary sense as one who takes the place of a president.

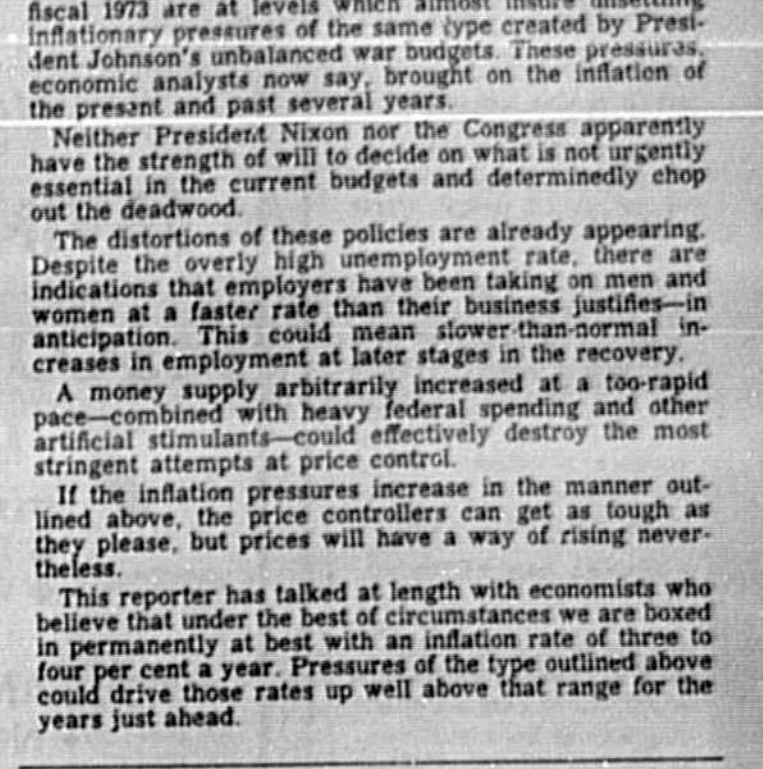

Thus the vice presidential candidate is chosen on the stated premise that he will appeal to a certain geographical or philosophical area, perhaps "balance the ticket," or smooth ruffled convention feathers.

Once that have served their political purpose, vice presidents are usually consigned in history to oblivion. For instance, what presidents did these vice presidents serve under: George M. Dallas? William H. King? John C. Breckinridge? Schuyler Colfax? William Wheeler? Thomas A. Hendricks? Levi P. Morton? Garrett A. Hobart?

Bean Soup Texas Style Is Fiery, Rich And Filling

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

The late Will Rogers once said he judged a town by the caliber of its chili. If so, the homespun philosopher must have loved most communities in Texas, Arizona and New Mexico.

But the spice-laden cuisine of Texas in particular goes far beyond chili. It includes such rib-sticking delights as smoked barbecued ribs and a wonderful bean soup that has captured the fancy of Clint Marchison Jr., owner of the Dallas Cowboys football team. He has named the soup after his football outfit.

Deciding to popularize the soup and a special Texas chili whose recipe he refuses to divulge, Marchison has opened the Dallas Cowboy a spacious restaurant in midtown Manhattan. It is said to be one of the few places along the eastern seaboard serving true Texas fare.

Texas specialties include such tangy dishes as tortillas (corn cakes) quartered, deep-fried and served with red beans and chopped pickled pigs' feet, meat smothering with onion dressing and a classic dressing of the region — pecan pie which is also one of Marchison's favorites.

Much of the Southwest's cookery traces back to the days of the Spanish conquistadores who learned from the Mayan and Aztec Indians how to perform feats of magic with corn and produce tortilla cakes and tamales; husked cornmeal baking a nugget of chopped, spiced meat. They also learned how to puree the avocado, season it with hot red peppers and produce guacamole, the appetizer that is popular at cocktail parties all over America. The people of Texas have some hard notions about food. For instance, they scorn beans with their chili, preferring the fiery dish in unadorned form. This does not mean that they don't like beans, as evidenced by Clint Marchison's Dallas Cowboy soup. Here is his recipe:

2 lbs dried white pea beans
6 quarts water
1/2 lb bacon diced

1 lb diced ham
1 teaspoon Tabasco
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons seasoning salt
1 cup catsup

4 cups chopped celery
2 chopped onions
2 chopped carrots
3 chopped cloves
1 small chopped green pepper

2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon paprika
Use large soup pot, first cooking bacon about 3 minutes.

Then lightly saute vegetables till wilted. Add all rest of ingredients and cook 2 or 3 hours until beans are tender. Season to your taste.

By THE BASKOMES
Copley News Service

BRONXVILLE, N.Y. — From coast to coast, college students lately have become interested in natural foods that in the usual campus dining hall fare. Sarah Lawrence College is a notable part of this trend. Of the 700-odd students at the college, a constantly growing percentage restrict their diets to natural foods by taking their principal meals in the college's health food bar.

Under the supervision of Martha Wetmannel, who has been with Sarah Lawrence as their dietitian since 1947, the health bar, familiarly known to the students as "Martha's Place," provides an entirely different tone and atmosphere from the college dining hall. It is plain and simple and the prices are moderate. Menus are built around highly nutritional soups, brown rice, fresh eggs, fruits and salads, unpreserved yogurt, herbs and fruit juices.

Soups are made without meat stock as some student diners are reluctant to consume today's meats that may be artificially aged and fattened with injections of chemicals and antibiotics.

Martha's is a thick vegetable soup seasoned with herbs and made with lentils, beans, peas, brown rice and fresh vegetables, even using celery tops and outside lettuce leaves.

Deserts include brown rice pudding with raisins and Indian pudding made with unadorned molasses. Various delicacies made with unpreserved dried fruits and fresh fruits are available as well as carrot or oatmeal cakes.

The fact that Martha's student customers prefer highly nutritional foods does not necessarily brand them as "health food nuts." If anything, this preference indicates that they give more thought to the evaluation of what they eat than does the average person. Nor are they preservatives. And they realize the limited availability of guaranteed organic foods. Martha uses these only when she is sure of the reliability of the source.

One of Martha's favorite recipes is her Banana Bread. No student would disagree that there is never any left over at the end of the day.

BANANA BREAD
2 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
1/4 cup chick pea flour
2 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. salt
4 eggs, beaten
4 over-ripe bananas
1 cup honey
Two-thirds cup soybean or peanut oil

Cream together the bananas, oil, eggs and honey. Add dry ingredients and mix well. Fill buttered loaf pan and bake in moderate 325-degree oven for one hour.

This bread is used primarily for sandwiches made with two basic spreads that Martha has developed. One is made by mixing 1 pint cream cheese, 1/2 pint shredded carrots, 1/2 pint raisins, flavored with touches of lemon juice and sour cream, and salted to taste. The other spread is a mixture of peanut butter, apples (using peels and seeds) and raisins mixed well and put through a meat grinder.

Left-over banana bread may be buttered and crumbled and spread out in a buttered baking dish. Then sprinkle with raisins, cut up dates or figs or both, and ground almonds, walnuts or cashews.

Make a custard based on a proportion of 4 cups of milk mixed with 6 eggs slightly beaten. Mix eggs with a little cold milk first, and add scalded milk gradually while mixing. Pour over the bread mixture and bake in a 350-degree oven until set — about 45 minutes. Place the pudding in a large pan of hot water while baking so for any custard.

Serve with whipped cream or a sauce made of 1 cup of sour cream mixed well with 1 beaten egg yolk and 1 tablespoon of pure honey.

Pat Hewson's Honey-Mustard Baked Chicken

Orange-Strawberry Compote
PAT HEWSON'S HONEY-MUSTARD BAKED CHICKEN
The sweet sauce that accompanies this chicken tastes good over rice, too.

Broiler-fryer chicken (2 1/2 to 3 pounds)
1/2 cup honey
1/3 cup prepared mustard
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 cup butter, melted

Place chicken, skin side down, in a 3-quart oblong glass baking dish (13 1/2 by 8 1/2 by 3 1/4 inches) or similar utensil. In a small mixing bowl mix together the honey, mustard, lemon juice and salt; spoon 1/2 cup of the mixture over chicken. Cover and refrigerate at least 2 hours or overnight. Pour butter over chicken. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 30 minutes; turn skin side up and bake until tender, another 30 minutes. Remove chicken from baking dish and keep warm. Stir remaining honey mixture into dripping; baking dish; return to oven to heat about 5 minutes. Return chicken to baking dish and spoon sauce over it. Makes 4 servings.

STUFFED CELERY
The stuffing is a mixture of peanut butter and bacon.
2 1/2 cup creamy peanut butter
3 slices extra-crisp cooked bacon, finely crumbled (about 3 tablespoons)
(1) to 14 four-inch pieces cleaned celery with leaves when possible

Stir together the peanut butter and bacon. Stuff celery pieces with mixture. Cover and chill until serving time.

Note: If bacon slices don't cook to extra crispness, crumble or chop, then re-fry slightly, draining well. In cleaning celery, peel outside of tough green outer stalks with a swivel-blade vegetable peeler.

Martha's Cooking Delights Lawrence Students

By THE BASKOMES
Copley News Service

BRONXVILLE, N.Y. — From coast to coast, college students lately have become interested in natural foods that in the usual campus dining hall fare. Sarah Lawrence College is a notable part of this trend. Of the 700-odd students at the college, a constantly growing percentage restrict their diets to natural foods by taking their principal meals in the college's health food bar.

Under the supervision of Martha Wetmannel, who has been with Sarah Lawrence as their dietitian since 1947, the health bar, familiarly known to the students as "Martha's Place," provides an entirely different tone and atmosphere from the college dining hall. It is plain and simple and the prices are moderate. Menus are built around highly nutritional soups, brown rice, fresh eggs, fruits and salads, unpreserved yogurt, herbs and fruit juices.

Soups are made without meat stock as some student diners are reluctant to consume today's meats that may be artificially aged and fattened with injections of chemicals and antibiotics.

Martha's is a thick vegetable soup seasoned with herbs and made with lentils, beans, peas, brown rice and fresh vegetables, even using celery tops and outside lettuce leaves.

Deserts include brown rice pudding with raisins and Indian pudding made with unadorned molasses. Various delicacies made with unpreserved dried fruits and fresh fruits are available as well as carrot or oatmeal cakes.

The fact that Martha's student customers prefer highly nutritional foods does not necessarily brand them as "health food nuts." If anything, this preference indicates that they give more thought to the evaluation of what they eat than does the average person. Nor are they preservatives. And they realize the limited availability of guaranteed organic foods. Martha uses these only when she is sure of the reliability of the source.

One of Martha's favorite recipes is her Banana Bread. No student would disagree that there is never any left over at the end of the day.

BANANA BREAD
2 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
1/4 cup chick pea flour
2 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. salt
4 eggs, beaten
4 over-ripe bananas
1 cup honey
Two-thirds cup soybean or peanut oil

Cream together the bananas, oil, eggs and honey. Add dry ingredients and mix well. Fill buttered loaf pan and bake in moderate 325-degree oven for one hour.

This bread is used primarily for sandwiches made with two basic spreads that Martha has developed. One is made by mixing 1 pint cream cheese, 1/2 pint shredded carrots, 1/2 pint raisins, flavored with touches of lemon juice and sour cream, and salted to taste. The other spread is a mixture of peanut butter, apples (using peels and seeds) and raisins mixed well and put through a meat grinder.

Left-over banana bread may be buttered and crumbled and spread out in a buttered baking dish. Then sprinkle with raisins, cut up dates or figs or both, and ground almonds, walnuts or cashews.

Make a custard based on a proportion of 4 cups of milk mixed with 6 eggs slightly beaten. Mix eggs with a little cold milk first, and add scalded milk gradually while mixing. Pour over the bread mixture and bake in a 350-degree oven until set — about 45 minutes. Place the pudding in a large pan of hot water while baking so for any custard.

Serve with whipped cream or a sauce made of 1 cup of sour cream mixed well with 1 beaten egg yolk and 1 tablespoon of pure honey.

FAMILY DINNER
Pat Hewson's Honey-Mustard Baked Chicken

Orange-Strawberry Compote
PAT HEWSON'S HONEY-MUSTARD BAKED CHICKEN
The sweet sauce that accompanies this chicken tastes good over rice, too.

Broiler-fryer chicken (2 1/2 to 3 pounds)
1/2 cup honey
1/3 cup prepared mustard
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 cup butter, melted

Place chicken, skin side down, in a 3-quart oblong glass baking dish (13 1/2 by 8 1/2 by 3 1/4 inches) or similar utensil. In a small mixing bowl mix together the honey, mustard, lemon juice and salt; spoon 1/2 cup of the mixture over chicken. Cover and refrigerate at least 2 hours or overnight. Pour butter over chicken. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 30 minutes; turn skin side up and bake until tender, another 30 minutes. Remove chicken from baking dish and keep warm. Stir remaining honey mixture into dripping; baking dish; return to oven to heat about 5 minutes. Return chicken to baking dish and spoon sauce over it. Makes 4 servings.

STUFFED CELERY
The stuffing is a mixture of peanut butter and bacon.
2 1/2 cup creamy peanut butter
3 slices extra-crisp cooked bacon, finely crumbled (about 3 tablespoons)
(1) to 14 four-inch pieces cleaned celery with leaves when possible

Stir together the peanut butter and bacon. Stuff celery pieces with mixture. Cover and chill until serving time.

Note: If bacon slices don't cook to extra crispness, crumble or chop, then re-fry slightly, draining well. In cleaning celery, peel outside of tough green outer stalks with a swivel-blade vegetable peeler.

Homecoming On Lake Harney

Geneva Festival Is This Weekend

By LIZ MATHEUX
GENEVA — The Geneva Historical and Genealogical Society again will sponsor the annual homecoming festival for members and their friends at Sieg Pavilion in Fort Lane Park on Lake Harney for two days beginning Saturday.

Athens May Get An Elevated Railway

ATHENS (AP) — Fast, sleek commuter trains whizzing round the Acropolis on elevated tracks — venerable Ionic columns trembling under the roar of screeching steel — skycrapers proking the blue Attic skies where, long ago, Miltiades routed the Persians at Marathon.

Paragators Will Perform At Casselberry Fun Day

CASSELBERRY — The Paragators sky diving team will be but one of the many attractions at Fun Day Saturday in Secret Lake Park. The major long has been convinced that radical changes are required if Athens is to continue to be a habitable city in the next few decades. "We must take our measures" is Ritos' watchword, and as the first of these measures, he has personally endorsed the offer of a Japanese firm to knit the most populated part of Athens together with a network of elevated railways. Ritos would like to erect about 25 miles of elevated railway, connecting the major residential and business areas of the

The Geneva Historical and Genealogical Society Museum will be open Saturday 9-11 a.m. with members admitted free and a small fee for visitors. Sunday hours are 2:30-4 p.m. A fish fry will be served and members requested to bring a salad and/or a vegetable and/or

The festivities will be continued at 6:30 p.m. at Geneva Community Hall with the introduction of family groups. The annual business meeting will be conducted at this time also. At the close of business, a free sandwich supper will be served to all in attendance. Planned entertainment will be presented.

On Sunday, following church services and weather permitting, the merry-makers again will depart for Sieg Pavilion at Fort Lane Park to enjoy a chicken dinner with all the wrimmings at 1 p.m. In event of inclement weather, Geneva Community Hall will be the site for the Sunday dinner. Sanitary facilities are available so that any members who have tents, campers or trailers may plan to stay at the park during the festival. A caretaker is on the grounds. Anyone desiring further information may contact Mrs. W. B. Heath at P.O. Box 403, Geneva, Florida, 32722.

A Rock Lobster Recipe

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Although lobster and other seafood dishes are year-round delights, homemakers begin to think of preparing them now that summery weather is here. This probably is a hangover from days when seafoods were more seasonal than now. Refrigeration and freezing techniques put delicate seafoods in reach of most supermarkets' shelves. Here is a different approach to lobster ... a Rock Lobster Polynesian, using South African rock lobster tails, flaked coconut, apple and curry powder. Serve this with hot rice or try a cold rice salad as a contrast to the hot casserole.

ROCK LOBSTER POLYNESIAN

- 3 packages (8 ounce each) South African rock lobster tails
- 1 can (2 1/2-ounce) flaked coconut
- 3 cups milk
- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 sour apple, peeled and chopped
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1/2 cup flour
- 2 tablespoons curry powder
- Juice of 1 lemon
- 1 teaspoon ginger Salt

Drop frozen rock lobster into boiling salted water. When water reboils, boil for 1 minute. Drain and drench lobster with cold water. With scissors, remove underside membrane and pull out meat in one piece. Cut into slices. Combine coconut and milk and heat to the boiling point. Strain coconut and milk, pressing out all liquid. Reserve. Melt butter and saute apple and onion until soft. Sprinkle with flour and curry. Gradually stir in coconut milk. Cook while stirring until sauce bubbles and thickens. Stir in lemon juice and ginger. Add rock lobster slices and reheat until bubbly. Season to taste with salt. Serve spooned over rice. Garnish with quartered pineapple slices. Makes 6 servings.

Bread making at home is a reward in itself. Very close to an old-fashioned taste and texture is a Molasses Skillet Bread with a honey glaze. Bake this in a cast iron skillet, cool and serve from skillet for a touch of nostalgia.

MOLASSES SKILLET BREAD

- Bread: 1 cake compressed or 1 package dry yeast 1/2 cup lukewarm water 2/3 cup milk, scalded 1/4 cup sugar 1 teaspoon salt 1/4 cup butter or margarine 1/2 cup light molasses 2 1/4 to 3 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour 1 egg, beaten 1 cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked Glaze: 1/2 cup honey 1/2 cup butter or margarine

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Pour scalded milk over sugar, salt, butter and molasses; stir to dissolve butter. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in 1 cup flour and egg. Add softened yeast and oats. Stir in enough additional flour to make soft dough.

Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas; knead until smooth. Round dough into ball; place in greased bowl; brush lightly with melted butter. Cover and let rise in warm place until double in size, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down; cover; let rest 10 minutes. Turn out onto lightly floured board or canvas. Roll into a 23x6-inch rectangle. Cut in half lengthwise. Pinch lengthwise edges of each strip together to make two 23-inch ropes. Place one rope of dough around outside edge of a buttered 8-inch (measured across the bottom) cast iron skillet. Wrap second rope into a coil in the center of the skillet. Pinch together the ends of the 2 ropes where they meet. Brush lightly with melted butter. Cover; let rise in warm place until nearly double in size, about 45 minutes.

Bake in preheated 350-degree oven 30 minutes. Beat together honey and butter until smooth. Brush half of honey glaze over bread. Bake an additional 5 minutes. Brush with remaining glaze. Cool 10 minutes and serve warm. Makes one loaf.

Glorified real estate advertising is hardly new. When Eric the Red discovered Greenland in 982, he gave the Arctic island its misleading name in a successful bid to attract Viking colonists.

Delicate Apricot Pastries

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Delicate Apricot Pastries make an impressive dessert guests will enjoy while the hostess smiles knowingly. They are made with convenience foods such as pie crust mix, cream cheese and canned apricots. Ideal for a party, the apricot pastries also go well with ice cream or sherbet.

- APRICOT PASTRIES
- 1 can (30 ounces) apricot halves, drained
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 2 tablespoons cornstarch
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 1 package (10 ounces) pie crust mix
 - 1 package (4 ounces) cream cheese, softened
 - 1 tablespoon milk
 - 1 egg yolk
 - 1 tablespoon water

Place apricots in electric blender or food mill. Blend sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan. Add apricot puree and lemon juice. Bring mixture to a boil, stirring constantly; simmer one minute. Remove from heat and cool thoroughly.

Blend pie crust mix, cream cheese and milk with pastry blender. Divide dough in half. Roll each part to a 10 x 12-inch rectangle on lightly floured surface. Cut into 2-inch squares; place on ungreased 1 1/2 x 1 1/2 sheet. Place rounded teaspoon of apricot filling in center of each square. Moisten diagonal corners, then overlap at center to achieve diamond shape. Beat egg yolk and water together; brush over pastries. Bake in 400-degree oven for 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes about 5 dozen tasty pastries.

Beets often are overlooked when a different and colorful vegetable is sought to wake up family taste buds. Beets are good hot or cold and offer many essential vitamins and minerals needed in daily diets. A tasty recipe that may be served hot or cold uses grape juice and wine vinegar with a touch of ground clove for added zip.

- CONCORD BEETS
- 1 can (1 pound) sliced or julienne beets, drained
 - 1/2 cup Concord grape juice
 - 2 tablespoons wine vinegar
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 - 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
 - Dash salt
 - 2 tablespoons butter or margarine

In a medium saucepan, combine all ingredients. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Reduce heat and simmer several minutes, stirring occasionally. Makes 4 servings.

Cake For Special Occasion

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press Food Editor

Here is the most elegant French-type layer cake I know how to make. Although the cake and frosting recipes are not spanning new, I did evolve this way of assembling them with a filling of apricot preserves and cognac and so I've named the dessert Gâteau Cecily out of my own conceit.

GATEAU CECILY
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup milk
1/4 cup butter
4 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup apricot preserves
1/4 cup cognac
Vanilla Butter Cream, see below

1/3 cup sliced almonds
1/3 cup sliced almonds
Grease and flour three 8-inch round layer-cake pans. Or if your pans tend to stick, line the bottom of the pans with wax paper, grease and flour the sides of the pans and the paper.
On wax paper, slit together flour and baking powder.
In a small saucepan heat milk until bubbles appear around the edge; set aside to cool slightly.
In medium mixing bowl with electric beater at high speed, beat together egg yolks and sugar until thick and ivory color. Gradually beat in milk and vanilla. At low speed gradually beat in flour mixture making sure all flour is moistened. Fold in butter. Turn into prepared pans.
Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 15 minutes. Place pans on wire racks to cool for 10 minutes. With a small spatula, around edges of layers using an up and down motion to prevent arising edges of cake. Turn cakes out of pans onto wire racks to cool completely.
Thoroughly mix together preserves and cognac, beating to break up any large apricot pieces; set aside and prepare Vanilla Butter Cream.
Place one cake layer on cake plate; spread with 1/2 of the apricot preserve mixture. Add another cake layer; spread with remaining preserve mixture. Add third layer. Cover top and sides of cake with Vanilla Butter Cream and refrigerate. At serving time, sprinkle top of cake with almonds, increasing down firmly; serve at once. Return any leftover cake to refrigerator.

VANILLA BUTTER CREAM
1 cup sugar
1/4 cup water
2 egg whites
1 tablespoon vanilla
2/3 cup butter, softened slightly
In a 1 1/2-quart saucepan over moderate heat, stir together sugar, corn syrup and water until sugar dissolves and mixture comes to a boil. Boil gently, without stirring, to 240 degrees on a candy thermometer or until a small amount of syrup dropped into cold water forms a soft ball that flattens on removal from water. Remove from heat and set aside.
In a medium mixing bowl with electric beater beat egg whites until they form stiff straight peaks; beat in vanilla. Gradually beat in hot syrup, cool.
In another medium mixing bowl, without washing beater, thoroughly beat the butter; beat in the egg white mixture, a few tablespoons at a time.

1 package (10 ounces) frozen succotash
1/2 cup water
Salt
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
Pepper to taste
1/4 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon minced parsley
2 tablespoons thin onion strips
Lettuce leaves
Sliced tomato
Cook succotash according to package directions using the 1/2 cup water and 1/4 teaspoon salt; drain. In a small mixing bowl, with a fork, beat together the oil, vinegar, 1/8 teaspoon salt, pepper and sugar; add succotash, parsley and onion; mix well. Cover and refrigerate at least an hour to chill and blend flavors. Serve on lettuce leaves and garnish with tomato and lettuce leaves.

English Plate Pie

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press Food Editor

British cuisine has always been noted for its good meat pies and the following recipe, developed by an English home economist now working in this country, deserves its share of fame. When tried at our house, it was gobbled up. However, we managed to slow away a couple of portions and found they reheated beautifully.

Why do we call this dish a "plate pie"? Because plate pie is an English term for a two-crust pie in contrast to a deep-dish pie. Typically English, too, is the filling made with beef and mushrooms and seasoned with Worcestershire sauce.

ENGLISH PLATE PIE:
2 tablespoons onion (finely chopped), 1/2 cup
1 pound ground lean beef
1 cup (generous) chopped mushrooms, 1/4 pound
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 beef bouillon cube (finely chopped), 1/2 cup
1/2 cup boiling water
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons cold water
1 package (11 ounces) pie crust mix
1 egg
1 tablespoon milk

In a 10-inch skillet heat butter; add to beef mixture. Stir in ground beef, mushrooms, Worcestershire and salt; cook for 2 minutes.
Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water; add to beef mixture. Stir flour with cold water to make a smooth paste; stir into beef mixture. Stirring constantly heat to boiling point; cook for 2 minutes. Remove from heat; set aside.
Prepare piecrust mix as label directs. Use half to line bottom of an 8-inch pie plate. Roll out remaining half to cover pie.
Fill pie shell with beef mixture; cover with remaining pastry. Flute edges and slit top for steam to escape.
Beat egg with milk to blend. Brush over top pastry.
Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until crust is well browned — 40 to 45 minutes. Let cool on wire rack for 10 minutes before serving.
Makes 6 servings.

Gingerbread with Applesauce
SCALLOPED EGGS AND CRABMEAT
A casserole-style main dish.
6 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups milk
1 tablespoon prepared yellow mustard
3/4 teaspoon salt
8 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 can (7 1/2 ounces) crabmeat, drained and flaked
1 cup coarse cracker crumbs
In a 1-quart saucepan over low heat, melt butter; stir in flour. Remove from heat. Gradually stir in milk, keeping smooth. Cook over moderate-low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and bubbly. Whisk in mustard and salt. In a 1 1/2-quart buttered casserole, make alternate layers of sliced egg, crabmeat, mustard sauce and cracker crumbs. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until bubbly hot — 30 to 35 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

LEANS TO NATURE
FRESHPORT, III. (AP) — The National Audubon Society, Freshport Garden Club members have been urged to support the creation of educational nature centers to learn the enjoyment of the outdoors.
One center in Greenwich, Conn., a 500-acre project, now is in operation.
As housing developments multiply and more and more shopping centers are built, land is used up in great acreages.
Mrs. Francis Kafka said "If each urban community would set aside a tract of land, this would benefit future generations."

'Enough Doctors' In State' - Claim

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Doctors are flowing into South Florida population centers faster than their potential patients, but small counties in the state are still without their first physician.
'We have enough doctors in Florida. We just don't have them in the right places,' Dr. Floyd K. Hurt told the opening session of the Florida Medical Association Wednesday.
'Four counties have no doctors at all and several have only one or two,' said the Jacksonville physician, who is president of the 5,020-member FMA.
Dr. Hurt said liberalization of the state's medical licensing law has 'lured physicians to Florida by the hundreds.' But most of the new physicians are setting up practice in Dade, Palm Beach and Broward counties and 'not in the places where they are needed most.'

Orlandoan Arrested For Disney Threat

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The son of a national dishware company president was arrested Wednesday and charged with making a telephoned bomb threat to Walt Disney World in an attempt to extort $250,000, police said.
Orange County Sheriff's deputies and U.S. Treasury agents identified the man arrested as 23-year-old Robert Hara, son of Joseph Hara, president of the Orlando-based Tupperware Co.
Orange County Sheriff Mel Colman said the younger Hara, a former Disney World employee, was charged with telephoning a Disney executive last March 13 and threatening to detonate a bomb inside the huge $400 million tourist attraction if he was not paid $250,000.
No bomb was found when authorities searched the amusement park.
Hara was arraigned before U.S. Magistrate Donald Dietrich, then released in his father's custody after the senior Hara posted $10,000 bond.

Chamber Unit Unanimous Hospital Sale Opposed

By BILL SCOTT
Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce legislative and national affairs committee voted unanimously today in opposition to the proposed sale of the Seminole County Commission of Seminole Memorial Hospital.
By a nine-to-zero vote, the committee accepted a motion by Mack N. Cleveland Jr., former state senator, going on record opposing the sale until more information concerning the proposal is known.
Accompanying the vote and included in the motion were letters from the Chamber committee to all five County Commission members seeking their personal feelings relative to the sale, plus letters to hospital trustees requesting information on each member's reaction to the sale of the medical facility.
The committee also requested county commissioners and hospital trustees establish a joint-study group to look into the proposition.
Philip Logan, chairman of the Chamber sub-committee on the sale, said he had learned that hospital does not necessarily have to be sold to the highest bidder, as had been thought previous when county property is transferred.
Cleveland said the law formerly required such property must be sold to the highest bidder after being declared surplus.
Logan read a resolution formed by his sub-committee, which stated objections to the sale; Facility was built with public funds for care of the public; the public would have no control under private ownership for rising costs to care for indigents; under private ownership, hospital would operate for profit, not necessarily for care of patients; comments asked by the trustees and medical staff for the hospital's operations in the past.
Cleveland said the hospital was voted on county-wide and said .14 mill tax is "no tremendous burden" to taxpayers as had been stated in an editorial in an Orlando newspaper fostering the hospital's sale.
Quoting a statement by Greg Drummond, County Commission chairman, that if the hospital is sold, the proceeds derived will go toward school construction in South Seminole County, Robert Daehn, committee chairman, pointed out Sanford has some of the "most horrible examples of schools in the county" and "if new ones are to be built, they should be replacements for the Sanford schools."
Indicating that only Commissioners John Kimbrough and Drummond had made statements wanting to sell the hospital, John Krider, Chamber manager, observed, "Do two people tell us how to run this county?" He added the County Commission individually should stand up and be counted" on this question.
Later, Commissioner A. L. Davis told The Herald, "I have not consulted myself as of this date for the hospital sale and I will not until I'm satisfied it will be in the best interest of the entire county."
Walter Giesler, committee member, wondered if health care should be sacrificed for schools, since education already received 79 per cent of the county's tax dollars.
Cleveland commented why something was not done to sell the Seminole health department property along with the hospital, if it is sold.

CALNO Drives Ahead

By DONNA ERTIS
LONGWOOD — Representatives of the three remaining cities of the CALNO Council of Local Governments Wednesday night agreed to invite the Seminole County Commission and the OVIEDO city government to membership in the organization.
At the same time, Longwood Mayor Kenneth Brown, CALNO Chairman, announced Mayor Curtis Brown of Casselberry, indicated his city stands by its action of two weeks ago in withdrawing from the group.
"I had hoped Casselberry would participate because it is in the planning area. However, we cannot postpone what needs to be done," Altamonte Springs Mayor Lawrence Swafford said.
And Longwood Mayor Terry Flansburg, of North Orlando, representing Mayor Granville Brown (iterated his municipality's hope that Casselberry would remain a member. The group left the door open for Casselberry to rejoin at anytime.
Meanwhile, CALNO has received written communication from George L. Gould, of the State Department of Community Affairs, pleading the previously approved state funds of $18,000 for various planning studies if the remaining three cities fund the $8,000 in matching funds for the grant.
Funding approved by the representatives pending final approval by the respective City Councils was Altamonte Springs, $4,800; Longwood $2,500 and North Orlando $1,500. Mayor Brown added that $500 will be forthcoming from Longwood to be used toward the costs of maintaining an office and personnel.

Mother Gets Probation In Fatal Beating Of Girl

By MARION BETHIA
Charlene Powers, who pleaded guilty to manslaughter on March 13, 1972, in the second degree murder, discharged her attorney, Clark Jennings, in the closing moments of the emotion packed trial on March 13, 1971, and entered the plea. She was placed upon presentence investigation and allowed to remain at liberty. She has since divorced her husband, Ronald Powers.
Powers was sentenced to life imprisonment on March 20 after being convicted in the death of her 27-month-old daughter, Lana Bennett, who was placed on probation, followed her testimony in Powers' trial which substantially led to his conviction.
Cleveland contended that it was cruel and unusual punishment for Powers to receive life imprisonment and his wife to be placed on probation, especially so since Powers had steadfastly maintained his innocence and Mrs. Powers had pleaded guilty.
Nevertheless, Circuit Judge Clarence Johnson Jr. castigated the defendant with the statement, "you talk of cruel and unusual punishment, the most cruel and unusual punishment I've ever seen is when you, a six-foot-four, 225-pound man beat to death a two-year-old, 27-pound child. You showed no mercy to that child. I hope you don't tell people in prison what you did."

'Where There's A Will There's A Way'

"Could you get someone to take me to see my children on Mothers Day?"
By ANN SIECZKOWSKI
According to the nurses at Lakeview, when they look around and don't see Trudy, they know where she is. She is reported to spend several hours a day in the physical therapy department working — working on the bars, the pull ups, and the other muscle strengthening equipment.
She goes to speech therapy in Orlando twice a week now and the United Church Women of Sanford provide the transportation for these visits to the therapist. Her speech is becoming much more clear as each week goes by and the sparkle in her eyes grows brighter.
She still uses her alphabet card to get the message across to one inexperienced in listening to her. Through an article in The Sanford Herald, Trudy now has a typewriter which helped immensely to strengthen her fingers, especially on the left hand and it also helps her in making her thoughts known.
Twice a month, Trudy goes to the nursing home's beauty shop, gets her hair done. She, like all women wants to feel and be beautiful. Now that she is able to do more things for herself, she has taken more interest in self-improvement. She loves to dress up. And she now walks with her cane all over the place without an attendant.
Walking with her about the home, and watching her continue to strive towards good health, seeing her as she tires, and as she pointedly ignores being tired and continues on down the halls, one can only feel immense admiration and respect for this spunky little gal who positively will not give up.
"I want to be with my children and my family," she pointed out to us on her little card. She also asked us to deliver a message:
"So many people have been so nice to me. I appreciate it. But could I ask one more favor? Could you get someone to take me to see my children on Mother's Day?"
A VISIT to the beauty parlor does a lot for the morale of any woman even when confined to a nursing home. Courageous Trudy Ledbetter, injured in an auto accident two years ago, is slowly gaining in her struggle toward recovery and return to her five children. (Ann Sieczkowski Photo)
