

Advantages Of Canal To Coast Again Explained

(Continued from Page One) Jacksonville, Mr. Lawson's opinion and observations, said to be in response to a questionnaire relative to the preliminary survey for an Intra-coastal Waterway from Pensacola Bay to the Caloosahatchee River, and for a Cross-Florida canal connecting the East Coast Canal with the proposed West coast canal, follows:

"In connection with the brief and other data, filed under the above general heading by Judge A. F. Knotts, president of the Florida Inland Waterways Association, the writer desires to present for your consideration a project regarded by most people residing in the populous Central Florida and East Coast sections as being a highly important link in the proposed Cross-State Canal.

"It is believed that the great need, as well as the feasibility of a Cross-State Canal connecting the East Coast Canal with the proposed West Coast Canal will hardly be questioned, but it is likewise believed that inasmuch as the tonnage-producing and tonnage-consuming areas are fairly evenly distributed along the entire length of said canals that the connection between the two, in order to provide maximum benefits, should be made at points approximating their centers.

"The W. J. Larochee-Lake Harney-Oklawaha route meets this viewpoint so far as its western terminal is concerned, and when the St. Johns River is reached that waterway then provides, of course, an excellent northerly outlet to the point of its connection with the East Coast Canal. It would seem, however, that portion of the splendid natural waterway of the St. Johns River which stretches southward from the mouth of the Oklawaha, and which is now navigable to Sanford, and easily made navigable to Lake Harney, and which is practically sea-level for this entire distance, should be utilized in connection with a relatively short connecting link between the Upper St. Johns and Indian Rivers, to provide a more mid-state eastern terminal for the proposed Cross-State canal. And especially is this true since the link in question would provide, in itself, a direct eastern waterway outlet for one of the largest tonnage-producing sections in the state.

"Having these things in mind, a re-survey has been made of that link in the old Government East Coast Canal project which connected the St. Johns River with the Indian River, a map of which new survey is hereto attached marked "Exhibit A", and made a part of this brief. By reference to this map it will be noted that the proposed canal link would leave the St. Johns River at a point some three miles south of Lake Harney, and run south 60 degrees east to a point intersecting the Government Survey in Shad Lake, thence, following the Government survey, to the canal terminal at Indian River.

"This new location would lessen construction costs, provide a more easily maintained canal prism, and save four and one half miles in distance. The yardage necessary to be moved in cutting this canal eight feet, 60 feet in bottom width, with a side slope of 1 1/2 to 1, and 14 miles in length, would approximate 3,750,000 cubic yards, and as the earth formation would lend itself to hydraulic dredging, it will be seen that the cost of digging the canal would probably not exceed $400,000.

"The project would also involve some work in the St. Johns River between Sanford and Lake Harney, and a careful estimate, based on available government records as to depth and width of present channel, indicates that the yardage which would have to be moved in connection with this phase of the work would approximate 950,000 cubic yards. On the whole, it appears that the improvement of the St. Johns River channel from Sanford to point of proposed canal intersection; a depth of eight feet, and a bottom width of 60 feet, and the construction of a canal of the depth and width shown that point to the East Coast Canal, could be accomplished at an expenditure approximating $750,000, exclusive of the cost of extending two railways and one highway crossing, concerning which definite information is at hand.

"This project would provide a direct waterway outlet to the East Coast Canal at this point thereby insuring an emergency discharge route in the event of emergency obstruction to either the St. Johns River or the East Coast Canal.

"The people of Florida desire commercial use of the waterways. By virtue of the fact that the waterways are still in the great unimproved state, the commercial use of the waterways is being hampered.

joying the same character of waterway facilities as are contemplated in the projects under consideration, she has thus far failed to develop any impressive volume of water-borne tonnage, has been repeatedly referred to as raising some doubt as to whether the people of Florida would make extensive commercial use of inland waterways even if they were provided. This phase of the matter seems so pertinent and seemingly has had so much weight in determining the question of "justification for expenditures" involved, that it may not be out of place to try and clarify this aspect of the situation.

"It is well understood, of course, that the commercial use which is made of a canal or inland waterway must depend on the character and quantity of available tonnage, on the one hand, and the availability of proper craft for an economical transport, on the other. The available out-going tonnage, originating in the territory adjacent to Sanford, consists almost entirely of fruits and vegetables, and up to this time, proper craft for its transport has not been available. The writer does not believe that fruits and vegetables can be satisfactorily handled by barges, but does believe that such products can, and will, be handled by relatively fast welded-steel, shallow-draft, refrigerated vessels, capable of taking cargoes of fruit and vegetables from inland waterway loading points and delivering direct to northern and mid-western market centers, and at a tremendous saving in transportation costs as compared with existing rates. Indeed, it can be stated most emphatically, that such craft is even now being developed, in the hope that by the time such vessels can be made available in sufficient numbers to become a real factor in fruit and vegetable transportation, the adequate waterways will have been provided to enable these vessels to render the service desired.

"I might also mention, in this connection, that this new type of craft above referred to will be "sea-going", and capable of making even faster speed at sea than it would be able to make in most inland waterways. For this reason, and from my point of view at least, it would appear that any feasible inland canal project which taps a large fruit and vegetable producing area in Florida, and which would shorten the distance required for vessels to reach the open sea, was worthy of consideration.

"I will not go into any details as to available tonnage, either outgoing or incoming, as this phase of the matter has already been covered by the brief of Judge Knotts, and report of Engineer Knott with the Cross-State Canal section with the Cross-State Canal project. However, it may not be out of place to mention that there was produced, in the season of 1930-31, in the territory lying west of the St. Johns River, between Sanford and Lake Harney, and within one hour's truck haul of said river, a total of 23,120 car loads of fruit and vegetables, valued at $16,982,684. It is safe to say that at least 25% of this tonnage would be shipped through the canal link under consideration, and out to sea and northern market centers, via the most available inlet, as soon as a suitable craft could be provided. Surely it would not require any great savings on tonnage of this volume to justify the expenditure of the sum required to construct this canal.

"While I am aware that questions pertaining to volume of tonnage the canal might be expected to handle, coupled with the matter of savings to be effected thereby, are paramount in the consideration of a project of this kind, I do feel that there are some other phases which are inseparable part of this mid-state connecting link between the Cross-State Canal, St. Johns River and East Coast Canal, which are worthy of consideration.

"The first of these is the fact that the upper St. Johns River valley, from Lake Monroe south to Lake Washington, comprises some 250,000 acres of low, flat, wonderfully rich muck lands, most of which overflow for periods ranging from a few weeks to several months during each "rainy season". This periodic overflow renders these lands worthless for farming purposes, and almost worthless for even pasture purposes. The construction of the canal between the St. Johns and Indian rivers, would carry off a large percentage of this surplus water practically "as it fell", thereby cutting some two feet or so from the peak rises, greatly lessening the period of overflow, and creating the greatest potential dairying section in Florida. Relief from this top two feet or so of present flood stage levels, would also add great additional value and security to some 150,000 acres of border valley land, much of which is now under intensive cultivation.

"It is not believed, especially in view of the canal action in lowering the flood stage levels just referred to, that any flood stage head which might develop at the western end of the canal, would be sufficiently high to cause any injurious or objectionable water velocity through the canal. And, while the low water level of the St. Johns River terminal is only about eight inches higher than the mean water level at Indian River, it is believed that this gradient is sufficient to prevent salt, or even brackish water, from flowing westward through the canal under any conditions which would likely arise.

"There is still another indirect benefit which would result from the construction of the canal link in question which I wish to mention, although I understand that it is regarded by most government engineers as not entitled to much consideration, and that is the contribution it would make to Florida's recreational advantages. Personally, I have never been able to draw any satisfactory line of demarcation between a project designed to save money, which, in turn, is presumably to be passed on to the comfort and enjoyment of life, and a project which contributes directly to such ends.

"I cannot, therefore, resist suggesting that this canal link would provide a superb scenic "loop" trip for hundreds of yachts and other pleasure craft, whose owners and guests might tire of the restrictions of a simple "back and forth" journey; that it would provide a central point of refuge and safety for owners who will, at times, need to seek immunity from salt water pests; that it would result in the establishment of numerous year-round boating bases in the deep, protected lagoons which abound in the upper St. Johns, thereby materially contributing both to the number as well as to the pleasure of tourists and visitors. And, may I add, it is things of this kind which would lend encouragement to the slogan "See America First", and help foster a spirit of love and admiration for places and things American, and hence we can ill afford to ignore them.

"I believe that every state in the Union has some particular niche in our great galaxy of states which it is best adapted to fill, and which it is the duty of our government to assist it in filling. Florida's niche is two-fold—she should supply her sister states to the north with winter-grown fruits and vegetables, using gov-

"Dictators" Are Scored By Mayor Key

(Continued from Page One) said, that things have worked out as they have. I believe there is a great blessing in store for us. We hope to do, good here, to such persons not trained before and to imbue them with a spirit of service and responsibility they never knew before. What we want to do is to contribute our little bit to the kingdom of God and to help our fellow man, we want to get oriented with Him who gave so much that we might have life. That is what a church is for—nothing else."

Attendance at the initial meeting of the new Sunday School group were urged by the mayor to go to church and were told the class would meet early enough to permit attendance at church later. Persons who are regular attendants at other Sunday school classes and who are happy in their work there were advised by Key to remain in their present classes.

Strawing money that the class do all in its power to serve mankind, to help feed the hungry, clothe the needy, the mayor said. "Where I thought before I was accustomed to that little group had taken care of the poor. He said he would like to see them do so similar work." Religion, as well as several other events, will be discussed in future lectures, the mayor said.

You purchase shoes, fruit and candy. You call for cigarettes.

It's like this:

WHEN YOU GO TO BUY A PAIR OF SHOES, you examine the leather, the way the shoes are made, their shape. You try them to see if they fit—if they satisfy you.

Why not follow the same method in purchasing your cigarettes? You want cigarettes that are made from the very best tobacco—mild, ripe, sweet. You want them made right. You want them free from harshness and bite and "pinches." In other words, you want cigarettes that satisfy you.

WHEN YOU GO TO BUY FRUIT—oranges, grapefruit, apples—you want ripe fruit, fruit that has matured before being taken from the tree; fruit that has been handled right and packed right; fruit that's the same throughout—not green on one side and ripe on the other.

Why not apply the same test in purchasing your cigarettes? You want cigarettes made from tobaccos handled right by the farmer—ripened, sweetened in the sun and cured right. You want cigarettes that taste the same, day in and day out. You want them pleasing in taste—mild and satisfying.

WHEN YOU BUY CANDY, you want to know, above all things, that it is pure. Is it real candy or are there a lot of other things mixed in with it? And you want it fresh. You want it freshly made and you want it so packed as to reach you just as it was when it was made.

Why not apply the same test when you buy your cigarettes? You want a cigarette that's pure; for purity counts in cig-rettes just as it does in candy. Then again, you want a cigarette that's just as fresh as when it was made.

Now, if you apply to cigarettes all the tests that you apply in buying shoes and fruit and candy you will purchase CHESTERFIELD like millions of other smokers.

First, because tobacco men will tell you that in Turkey, Kentucky, Georgia, the Carolinas, Virginia, and Maryland, only the mildest, ripest tobacco is bought for CHESTERFIELD—tobacco cured by the sun's pure rays, by the farmers' slow-burning ovens, and finally by great high-pressure steam drying machines. In the tobacco regions where they grow tobacco and know tobacco, CHESTERFIELD is usually the leading seller.

Second, because the carefully selected CHESTERFIELD tobacco leaves are blended and cross-blended. This exclusive CHESTERFIELD blending method is not just mixing together different tobaccos—it is mixing them in such a way as to bring out the finer qualities of each. It's like producing a new and better type of tobacco—tobacco with greater mildness, more smoothness, much better taste.

Third, because the cigarette paper is selected with the same care. CHESTERFIELD paper is the purest, the best that money can buy. Then the cigarettes are made and packed by machinery in clean, sanitary factories. And the moisture-proof, protective packaging—free from heavy inks or oily coatings—keeps you just as if you passed the factory in the morning and bought your CHESTERFIELDS from the machine.

Good... they've got to be good.

ated by deeds of sacrifice and heroism a true American patriotism, should not have heaped upon their heads the abuse of ecclesiastical and other mountebanks who were skulking in the rear when the time of test and trial came.

"The tribe of mountebanks who have exploited the prohibition question for their personal political or financial benefit has been one of the many causes that have afflicted this country as a result of this so-called prohibition law and the spirit of fair play and justice in the American people will justify you in seizing upon this term of vulgar abuse and wearing it as a badge of honor."

Brown Turner of Nashville, one of the incorporators, said the name was selected from a phrase. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church applied to members of the American Legion who voted at the Detroit convention to petition Congress for a prohibition referendum.

Leaders in the Nashville organization said the "immediate purpose" would be to "protect fundamental rights of liberty and property, to restore public confidence in government and to promote temperance by bringing about modification of the Volstead Act" to permit the "use and sale of light wines and beer."

Mayor Key Sunday spoke to the initial meeting of a non-denominational Sunday School group which was organized by his followers after he had been told he could not teach a Bible class at Grace Methodist Church if he continued to publicly criticize the prohibition law. The new class met in a downtown theatre.

Now that the Cards have proven to themselves and the world that this Lefty Grove person is anything but a parasite...

We can't help but believe though that Cochrane, Simmons, Fox, and Miller are going to stand by and see Grove, Earnshaw, Walberg, and others take it on the chin day after day.

GIRLS TEAM GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT AT BOYS' HANDS

Laundry Lassies Drop 17-15 Game In Final Inning Last Night

By E. H. CULLUM

The Florida Power & Light Co. Boys diamond ball team defeated the Seminole Laundry Girls team last night 17 to 15.

Going into the last inning trailing by eight runs, the girls staged a rally that netted six runs, being three short of the required number to win.

Ethel Gates started on the mound for the girls and for the first two innings held the boys to one run. In the third inning, Purdon, first up for the boys started the fireworks with a home run.

Young Lawson, a southpaw started for the boys, and pitched a fairly good game for the three innings he was in the box. Sallie Raburn, first up in the first inning singled; Doris Batterton drew a walk; Margaret Wright saw an error; with three on and no outs, Dot Powell, the Babe Ruth of the girls team came up, and, as usual, came through with a home run to deep center, scoring three runs ahead of her.

Purdon was the heavy hitter for the boys, having a perfect night at bat, three hits out of three times up, a home run, a double and a single. He was followed closely by Hughes, who got three out of five times at bat. Britt Raburn also got three hits out of five times up, a triple, double and a single.

The game tonight will be between the Seminole Dry Cleaners and Company D of the National Guards.

ODHAM IS LOST TO LOCAL OUTFIT FOR TWO WEEKS

Chance For Win Over Ocala Is Dimmed As Fast Back Is Hurt

By PETER SCHAAL

Seminole High School's chances of victory over the strong Ocala Wildcat eleven here next Friday afternoon received a setback when it was yesterday afternoon disclosed that H. B. Odham, rangy backfield candidate who looked good against DeLand last Friday night, had split a muscle in his left leg and will be out of competition for at least two weeks.

Young Odham, one of the most promising of McLucas' backfield men, has been progressing rapidly and was headed for one of the regular berths on the local eleven. Friday night he stepped into a breach occasioned when Fulton Hester received a deep wound over his nose.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 6.—(A.P.)—Three changes were made in North Carolina State's first string lineup yesterday as the Wolfpack began drills for its game Saturday at Charlotte with Clemson College of South Carolina.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 6.—(A.P.)—The loss of Alfred Austelle and Bob Stafford, giant sophomore tackles, for failure to meet the Tennessee faculty requirements has caused Major Bob Neyland to switch Babe Voss, another second year man from guard to tackle in an effort to take care of the reserve situation.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 6.—(A.P.)—Displeased over the showing of his South Carolina Gamecocks against Georgia Tech Coach Billy Laval yesterday afternoon, there would be a shake-up in the lineup before the eleven meets L. S. U. Saturday. He did not say what changes he might make.

Aged Texas Sailor Enjoys 2000-Mile Airplane Journey

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(A.P.)—A 2000 mile flight for his first airplane trip did not dismay Representative John N. Garner of Texas, 62-year-old Democratic leader.

The white haired Texas crowed out of the open cockpit of his army airplane at Bolling Field yesterday after a fast flight from his home in Uvalde away down in South Texas.

"It did not bother me even if it was the first time I was ever in one of the dang things," Garner said. "As soon as I got used to the noise, it sang me to sleep. It was tiresome, when I was awake, because I couldn't do anything but sit."

Garner breakfasted at home Sunday morning and stopped a few minutes in Muskogee, Okla., and St. Louis and spent the night at Dayton, arriving here yesterday. He and his pilot, Lieut. William Olds, encountered a rain and electrical storm and "had to fly above it to get through. The Texan said he "got sorta cold" away up there.

Going directly to the capital, Garner first went to the speaker's office where his old friend, but political enemy, Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, held sway for 20 years. They were cronies for 25 years.

Looking around the dismaying room and glancing at the desk behind which Longworth sat, the Texan turned hurriedly and said: "It does not look the same."

Garner is serving his fifteenth term in the House from the Fifteenth Texas district and the Democrats organize the House in the coming Congress he undoubtedly will become speaker.

Wednesday he plans to return to Uvalde to remain until shortly before Congress convenes Dec. 7. He expects to fly back over the Southern route.

PARK FOREMAN BURNED

CLEARWATER, Oct. 6.—Charles Shaw, city foreman in charge of parks, was badly burned about the chest and back yesterday as he was refueling his fire truck with gasoline at the local fire station.

Bob Grove appeared nervous in the pitcher's box but Connie Mack, after the game, said the great left hander was quite calm through the contest.

Pick The Winner

Although 70 local football "experts" were entered in The Herald's Pick-The-Winner contest last week, we want at least 30 more to join in the fun, and try to win not only the football ticket to the Florida-Kentucky game at Jacksonville, Dec. 5, but the prizes offered weekly for the person guessing the largest number of winning teams.

Here are 15 games to pick from, most of them easy. This week we are offering new prizes. Through the courtesy of Churchwell's, one of Sanford's leading department stores, and Woodruff and Watson, fashion center for men, the two persons picking the most winners this week will be awarded trade receipts good for $10.00 in trade at either store.

To help you in selecting this week's winners, here's what the teams did last week:

Table showing results of 15 football games from previous week, including scores and winning/losing teams.

Now then, clip this coupon, place a "W" opposite the name of the team you think will win, write your name and address, and send it to the Sports Editor of The Herald before noon Saturday, Oct. 10. Remember, first lists in have the best chance to win the trade coupons at Churchwell's and Woodruff and Watson.

Here's this week's list:

Large table for picking winners, with columns for Name, Address, and 15 teams to pick from (e.g., Georgia vs Yale, Illinois vs Purdue, etc.).

GREEN VIEWS SOCIAL UNREST AS ALARMIN

"Thomas Jefferson wrote into the life of our nation, the bill of rights, which guarantees to all the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. I think labor can well add the right to work.

"Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness means nothing to the man who is out of work."

"The wage standard must be built up," he said. "The earnings of industry are most inequitably distributed. Instead of corporations declaring a 40 percent dividend to stockholders, they should divide the profits with the workers who have earned it.

"If they refuse to listen, then we will go to the sovereign people through the ballots and bring about a distribution of these large fortunes back to the people through the power of taxation."

The society, which has been in existence for some time, is reported to be in the process of organizing a large scale campaign to secure the passage of a bill which would place the citrus industry under the control of the government.

"The bill, which is being introduced in the legislature, would give the government the right to take over the citrus industry at any time, and to operate it in the interests of the public. This is a very serious proposition, and it is our duty to oppose it as vigorously as possible."

The society's activities have been reported to be very active, and it is believed that it will continue to exert its influence in the coming months. The citrus industry is one of the most important in Florida, and it is essential that it remain in the hands of the producers.
