Ummm, good, says smiling Pinecrest Pilgrim Roger Riggs, 5.

Pinecrest Pupils Become Pilgrims, Indians For Day

Almost 200 Pinecrest Elementary School kindergarten pupils from seven classes dressed up as Pilgrims and Indians for their early Thanksgiving feast Tuesday morning in the school cafeteria.

In preparation for the event they made their own costumes, including Indian beads from macaroni. During the week they made pumpkin pie, pumpkin bread, cornbread patties, pudding, and cranberry sauce in their classrooms.

The menu included turkey and dressing, cranberry sauce, fruit cup, green beans, rolls, and pumpkin pie.

They had as surprise guests school principal Carem Gager, who showed up dressed as an Indian and assistant principal Kathy Procon, who came as a Pilgrim. They also had a visit from a real Cherokee Indian chief, who brought along goards, a tomahawk, and other Indian artifacts.

The children sang Indian songs at their feast and a Thanksgiving play was presented today at the school by Ramona Manning's second grade.

Dog-Catch Law Sought To Close Run-Home Loophole

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Dogs that run to the safety of their owner's property to escape county dog catchers will still face the wrath of the law, under new legislation being proposed by the Seminole County Commission.

Once the dog catcher has seen the dog off his property, the owner could be ticketed and subject to a $26.50 fine if the proposal is accepted by the county's legislative delegation and passed by the Legislature. In addition the owner would have to pay redemption fees if the dog is hauled into the county dog pound.

Currently if a dog manages to get back in his own yard before a dog catcher can grab it, a deputy sheriff has to be called to pick it up. Under the proposed law, its owner will get a ticket anyway.

"We want a law with teeth in it," said Jim Easton, county assistant administrator.

Easton said today that while the county has a leash law, enforcing it has become a problem.

"We cannot levy an administrative fee on violators and with the logjam in the county court system of cases considered more important by the state attorney's office, we have difficulty prosecuting the owners of dogs running at large," Easton said.

He said that the county's three full-time dog catchers are picking up 10 to 30 dogs daily which are overcrowding the county dog pound to the point where expansion will be necessary if something isn't done. And there's a backlog of complaints about dogs running at large that haven't been answered, he said.

Currently, if a dog running loose is picked up and taken to the dog pound, the owner need only pay a redemption fee of $20, plus a license fee of $6 if it doesn't have one already and another $5 if the animal needs a rabies shot.

Under the legislation the county is proposing, the violator would be ticketed and could pay a fine of $26 rather than have his animal impounded.

"Our ordinance does not have a penalty provision permitting the owner to pay a fine rather than go to court," Easton said.

At this point the owner of a dog running loose is warned the first time it is caught. Afterwards it is impounded. And Easton says some of the same owners are paying the impoundment fees over and over again as their dog is picked up numerous times.

"We think the administrative fine will impress them and that most of the owners will pay the fine rather than face the possibility of going to court. If the dog is picked up the owner would have to pay both the fine and the redemption fees," Easton said.

Very few owners of dogs running at large have been processed through the county court, Easton admits. Because of the requirement that the state attorney's office file the complaint and take it through the full judicial process, it isn't often done. The process is time consuming and costly and assistant state attorneys busy prosecuting more serious crimes don't have the time, he said.

If the proposed law is introduced by the legislative delegation, violators could pay a $26.50 fine, much like they would a traffic ticket without the necessity of going to court, Easton said. "This would bring about quick justice."

"We figure in most cases the people will opt to pay the $26.50. We want the delegation to put teeth in the law," Easton said.

Glenn Re-elected Chairman

By Mary Matlack
Herald Staff Writer

Sandra Glenn, a Seminole County Commissioner since 1974, has begun her second term as commission chairman.

She was re-elected by a unanimous vote Tuesday.

The commission elected Robert Sturm, a former commission chairman, vice-chairman, also by a unanimous vote. He replaces Commissioner Robert "Bud" Feather in the post.

During the afternoon sessions, administrators from Florida Hospital-Altamonte offered to pay $450,000 for a county-owned building located behind the hospital on East Altamonte Drive, but commissioners said they won't settle for less than $500,000.

The building sits on about one acre of land and is in need of repairs that will cost several thousand dollars, Assistant County Administrator Jim Easton said.

Florida-Altamonte sold the 12,636-square-foot structure to the county in 1970 and has been leasing it for $1,000 per month for the past 10 years.

In other business Tuesday, commissioners agreed to offer $16.9 million to purchase Sanlando Utilities, the county's largest water and sewer company. The money will be raised through the sale of bonds, Mrs. Glenn said. The utility serves about 7,000 customers in Seminole and Orange counties.

The commission, bowing to pressure from Oviedo residents, denied a request by the city of Winter Springs to waive the two-year wait for re-zoning of a 29-acre tract near the Tuskawilla subdivision.

Seminole Seeking State Money For Parks

Seminole County parks will receive much-needed additions and renovations if the County Commission obtains partial funding for the work from the state.

The commission voted Tuesday to apply for a $143,000 grant to pay for new facilities at Red Bug Lake, Lake Mills, Sandalando and Soldiers Creek parks. The money is available through the Florida Recreation Development Assistance Program and each state dollar received must be matched by two local dollars.

In accordance with recommendations by Leonard S. Carswell, Jr., manager of the county Parks and Recreation department, the commission agreed to provide about $54,000 from its general funds and $43,000 from its in-kind service account to match the state funds requested.

Planned projects include a restroom at Soldiers Creek Park; picnic shelters and a restroom at Red Bug Lake Park; shelters and additional parking areas at Lake Mills Park, and playground equipment to be installed at Red Bug Lake and Sandalando parks.

The county will not know whether the grant has been approved for 60 days, Commission Chairman Sandra Glenn said.

"We're just one among many asking for the funds," she said.

Clues Sought To Woman's Mysterious Disappearance

Seminole County investigators are mounting a massive search today for a Sanford woman who disappeared Friday.

Sheriff's spokesman John A. Spolski said officers would be combing the area of Lake Emma Road South of Lake Mary Boulevard hoping to find some sign of Christal Brodie, 56.

The car Mrs. Brodie was driving when she left her job at Ross Supply, Inc., of Longwood, was found Sunday morning partially submerged in a lake behind Sobick's business office on U.S. Highway 17-92.

The gold colored Toyota was identified at the lake site by a co-worker of Mrs. Brodie who had loaned the car to her. The car is registered to Edwin Rosenfeld of 4821 Elderwood Lane, Orlando, a sheriff's report said.

Spolski said that if ground and air searches don't find Mrs. Brodie divers will be called out to search area lakes.

Manager Slightly Injured

S&L Hold-Up

Two hold-up men got away with an undisclosed amount of cash from First Federal of Seminole County on U.S. Highway 17-92 at Hunt Club Boulevard, Tuesday afternoon.

At 2:25 p.m. the men entered the Forest City branch of the bank. One produced a handgun and told the teller to "Get back; get down," the FBI said.

The teller followed the bandit's orders, but the only other bank employee present, manager Jane A. McArdle, 47, was pulled from her chair and shoved to the floor by one of the robbers.

An FBI investigator said the men emptied the cash drawer and locked the two women in the men's restroom.

The robbers reportedly fled the through the front door of the bank and drove away in an older model, beige Maverick.

Mrs. McArdle's shoulder and arm were slightly injured when the robber shoved her, a Seminole County sheriff's deputy reported. She was treated and released from the emergency room of Florida Hospital Altamonte Springs.

Seminole County sheriff's investigators said men they are seeking in connection with the robbery are both black with short hair, about 25 years old. One is about 5-feet, 6-inches tall, the other 5-feet, 10-inches. —Susan Loden

Hot Fudge Warmer Puts Heat On County

Seminole County is being sued over a hot fudge warmer.

It all began when the fudge warmer allegedly overheated and caused a fire at the Sweetwater Deli at Sweetwater Square near Longwood in 1981, the suit says.

American States Insurance Co., which filed the suit in Seminole Circuit Court, says the Seminole County Department of Public Safety seized the hot fudge warmer and sent it to the Ocala Fire College for testing and the college returned the fudge warmer to the Department of Public Safety last June. Now the insurance company wants to inspect it.

Assistant Seminole County Attorney Randy Hillman says the county is willing to turn the fudge warmer over to the insurance company for testing in a private laboratory.

"That's no problem. All we would require is a written agreement that the hot fudge warmer would not be damaged since further litigation concerning the fire could come up later," Hillman said. He said he doesn't know why the insurance company decided to file a suit before just asking for the thing. "They never discussed it with us," he said.

The suit says "there is a serious question as to the reason the hot fudge warmer overheated." But Ray Pippin, Seminole County fire department investigator, says the tests at the Ocala Fire College showed that the fudge warmer did not overheat.

William E. Johnson, a lawyer for American States, said it was standard procedure for fire investigators to seize property for testing when it is suspected the property might have caused the fire.

When told by a reporter that Seminole County is willing to turn the fudge warmer over to the insurance company, Johnson said he wasn't aware of that when he filed the suit.

Homeowners Wait For Water Verdict

A Seminole County Health Department spokesman said today results from the testing of water samples collected from seven private wells Monday have not been returned from a Jacksonville state laboratory as yet to the Sanford office.

Health inspectors are looking for traces of the deadly pesticide EDB, found in nearby Sanford wells Friday.

The chemical analysis is being done at a state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services laboratory in Jacksonville. The samples were sent there by courier Monday.

In the meantime, county health inspectors sampled the well of another nearby homeowner on Country Club Road and took some 21 samples from private wells close to the Rolling Hills Golf Course near Longwood.

Russ Miller of the county health department's environmental health unit, said today that the Jacksonville laboratory is being swamped with samples that must be tested from areas not only in Seminole County but also from Volusia County where it is suspected the EDB may have infiltrated private wells.

And the county health department said that homeowners who don't want to wait for the possibly delayed results from the state laboratory may have their water tested themselves through a private firm.

The names of private firms capable of doing the work, a health department spokesman said, can be obtained from the county health department office at the sheriff's department building at the Sanford Airport or by calling 323-1893. The names of testing firms can also be found in the yellow pages of the telephone book under a listing of "Laboratory, Testing," the spokesman said.

Deltona Woman Killed As Car Smacks Tree

A 19-year-old Deltona woman was killed when her car ran off the highway and struck a tree near Deland at 2:26 a.m. today.

Sharon Mary McCracken, of 868 Tamelane St., was southbound on U.S. Highway 17-92 just south of Deland when her 1970 Volkswagen ran off the highway to the left, entered the median and struck a tree, the Florida Highway Patrol said.

Miss McCracken was dead at the scene, a spokesman for the Volusia County medical examiner's office in Daytona Beach said. She was the only person in the car.

The victim's mother, Donna McCracken, of the same address, said her daughter was employed at a Winn Dixie supermarket in Deltona. She described her daughter as an "outgoing" person.

The cause of the accident was under investigation today.

Seminole Students Give Good Account

The future of any nation rests with its youth. And if Seminole and Lake Mary high schools' students are any example, Seminole County can be assured we'll be well-represented in the shaping of this country's future.

The Evening Herald had the distinct pleasure this past Sunday night to spend some five hours with 17 students from both high schools to view the ABC-TV presentation of The Day After, and to discuss the docudrama's depiction of a nuclear holocaust.

The students — young men and women — gave a most admirable account of themselves. Their obvious interest in, and perceptive observations of, world affairs, human endeavor and international politics was, to say the least, a clear indication of the guidance and education their teachers, to their credit, are providing.

Despite the hype over the movie's significance and its message of pending doom for mankind unless, as some would lead us to believe, something is done to eliminate nuclear arsenals — even if it means unilateral disarmament by the United States, or initiating a nuclear arms freeze that perpetuates disparity keeping the United States at a disadvantage with the Soviet Union — the youngsters held their ground for maintaining a strong national defense ... to defending the values and way of life developed in the United States over the past 200 years or so ... even at risk of death.

Better Red than dead was not the order of the evening. If anything, better dead than Red was the call.

The students not only participated in the event knowledgeably, but with enthusiasm, courtesy, and an openness that defies description. Their willingness to share their views so frankly was refreshing, and how well they have a handle on this complex problem was comforting.

The students and Evening Herald reporters were able to view The Day After in comfort, undisturbed, at the library of Seminole Community College, thanks to SCC President Dr. Earl Weldon and Chief Librarian Thomas Reitz.

We're told time and time again about how important our community college is in terms of serving the community. And we're told as many times how important their library service is to Seminole County residents. Sometimes we tend to forget. But the message is driven home when we get to ask for SCC cooperation in putting on an event of community interest. It would be difficult to find the spirit of cooperation so amply demonstrated by SCC personnel surpassed.

Missiles To Europe

American cruise missiles recently began arriving in England to a predictable reception of heavily publicized protests wrongly blaming the United States and President Reagan for an escalation of the arms race.

While there can't be too many people on either side of the Iron Curtain happy about the missile shipments, it would be instructive for opponents to review the history of this controversy. If more did, Soviet embassies rather than the NATO air bases, would be the proper target of protest.

A total of 572 cruise and Pershing-2 missiles are being sent to Europe in the coming months — primarily at U.S. taxpayers' expense — because our NATO allies requested them in 1979. This was in response to the Soviet Union's replacement of its old SS-4 and SS-5 missiles in 1977 with mobile, accurate and multi-headed SS-20 missiles capable of destroying every city in Western Europe.

Our NATO allies, with the past three U.S. presidential administrations concurring, correctly saw the Soviet missile monopoly as a way to intimidate and split the alliance. But at least the West's response has been to back up deployment with legitimate and repeated offers of disarmament.

Since taking office, President Reagan has made a half-dozen proposals not to deploy the missiles if the Soviets dismantle theirs aimed at European targets.

Moscow's response has been anything but disarming. It has tripled the number of SS-20s aimed at Europe since arms reduction talks began in Geneva four years ago while mounting propaganda barrages extolling the virtues of a freeze of its missile superiority. It has manipulated the nuclear peace movement with apparent success although its blatant support of freeze candidates in western Europe flopped with voters.

The Soviets even have threatened to field new missiles with their (reportedly unwilling) puppet Warsaw Pact allies in eastern Europe. Their latest stunt was to walk out of the Geneva talks after the West German Parliament endorsed the deployment of missiles to western Europe.

BERRY'S WORLD

"NOW what?"

By Charles Cobb

Are automobile safety belts worth the hook-up?

You bet your sweet life they are! Yet most of us don't take the time to buckle up, says Florida Crime Watch.

Less than 20 percent of the nation's drivers wear safety belts, according to the National Safety Council. The council also conservatively estimates that of the 50,000 Americans killed on our highways each year, at least half would have been saved had they been wearing safety belts.

A Florida Highway Patrol trooper with 25 years experience who has assisted in thousands of serious highway accidents said: "I've had the distasteful job of helping thousands of people seriously injured in automobile crashes. Many were dead on arrival at the hospital, but I have never unbuckled the safety belt of a person who was dead. In my opinion 90 percent of all the fatalities I have been associated with could have been prevented had the person worn a safety belt."

Here are some excuses people give for not wearing safety belts, all of which are erroneous:

• "I don't want to be trapped in the car in case of fire." State troopers say this is an unsubstantial and invalid claim.

• "I'm a safe driver. I won't have an accident." That's what the 50,000 people who lost their lives last year thought.

• "I'm only going a short distance." More than two-thirds of all accidents occur within 25 miles of home, and half of all fatal accidents occur at speeds under 40 miles per hour.

• "It's too much trouble. I don't have the time." It actually takes less than three seconds to put on a safety belt.

Here are some of the reasons why people should use safety belts:

• In an accident you would not be thrown out of the car, hit the pavement and be run over by another car or crushed under your own.

• During a sudden stop or accident you will not be thrown against the windshield or metal parts of your car.

Properly adjusted you will arrive at your destination less fatigued. Safety belts provide support and improve your posture while driving. Buckling up can remind all that accidents happen even to the most careful drivers.

JULIAN BOND Reading Election Results

The recent round of nationwide elections were generally viewed as good news for the Democrats.

The victories of black and female candidates — most of them Democrats — demonstrated that the two groups the "out" party is counting on to vote them "in" next year are ready and willing.

But there's also a warning in these successes.

The results do not show conclusively that women and blacks will vote in large numbers if no one who looks like them appears on the ballot.

The results: The re-election victories of mayors Dianne Feinstein in San Francisco and Kathryn Whitmire in Houston and the election of Martha Layne Collins as Kentucky's first woman governor — all with heavy black support — demonstrate that there's little "gender gap" for black voters.

The victories of black mayoral candidates Harvey Gantt in Charlotte, N.C., and James Sharp in Flint, Mich., were helped by record black turnouts. In Philadelphia, where Wilson Goode was elected mayor, it was clear that black voters intended to be heard.

But throughout the nation, black turnouts were highest where black candidates appeared on the ballot. This raises doubts about whether the more than 90 percent black turnout recorded in Philadelphia (and in Chicago earlier this year) can be repeated when two white men face each other in next year's presidential election.

Since black candidates in the East and South (like Kenneth Gibson in Newark, N.J., and Andrew Young in Atlanta) are lucky to receive more than 10 percent of the white vote, increased white cross-overs are a welcome indication that race may be playing a smaller role in municipal politics.

But no matter how heavily whites vote for black candidates, blacks must improve their own political participation radically.

In the last five presidential elections, no more than 58.5 percent of registered blacks voted — and that was nearly 20 years ago, when Lyndon Johnson defeated Barry Goldwater.

In the Hubert Humphrey-Richard Nixon contest of 1968, black voting percentages nationwide declined almost a full percentage point, a reduction sizable enough in one place — Illinois — to give the Republicans the state and the presidency.

When Nixon squashed George McGovern in 1972, black voting strength had declined even further, to 52.1 percent. And despite Jimmy Carter's popularity with blacks, the percentage of them who voted in 1976 dropped to its lowest point — 48.7 percent.

In 1980, a poor 50.5 percent black turnout helped Ronald Reagan win six important Southern states.

Despite the hoopla and excitement of a presidential contest, the turnout rate for black voters is proportionately higher in off-year congressional contests.

So, anyone serious about increasing black political power has to begin now to look beyond the registration process.

SCIENCE WORLD

Food Allergies: Fact Or Fiction?

By Lidia Wasowicz
UPI Science Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Each time 5-year-old Matthew ate corn, he would — as he put it — "go wild," punching, kicking, screaming and hitting.

Convinced of a link between the yellow kernels and his outbursts of temper, Matthew's parents sought help from a food allergy specialist.

The little boy was hospitalized and fed corn in disguised forms "until it was coming out of his ears," recalled Dr. S. Allan Boch, senior staff physician specializing in allergy at National Jewish Hospital and Research Center in Denver, Colo.

"We sneaked corn into his hamburgers. We gave it to him in capsules. We fed him corn sugar, corn starch, corn protein. The result — nothing."

When Boch met Matthew a few months ago, the boy greeted him with, "Corn makes me wild," the doctor said in an interview. "After I told him he had been eating disguised corn at the hospital and the problem seemed to have gone away, he started eating corn in the open, with no adverse results."

During the six-month followup, Matthew's father reported no more corn incidents.

"But he told me, 'Once in a while he still gets like that so now we're watching the preservatives. We think it might be that,'" Boch said. "Never mind the possibility this just might be a normal 5-year-old kid or that something unrelated to food was causing the problem."

The case illustrates the "extremely widespread" and potentially dangerous error of blaming food allergies for everything from obesity, migraines, fatigue, and depression to arthritis and hyperactivity, said Boch, who has been conducting food allergy studies for a decade.

Real allergies — "scientifically reproducible adverse reactions to food" — exist in only 5 percent of the population — mostly in children under three, said Boch, associate clinical professor, the Department of Pediatrics, the University of Colorado Medical Center.

"Food is so tied up in our culture and society, we tend to blame it for everything," said Boch, author of a new primer for the general public on food allergies. "If at 4 p.m. you get a stomachache, or even a headache, the first question you probably ask is: 'What did I eat for lunch?'"

One problem, Boch said, lies in inaccurate, easily misinterpreted and expensive tests — that run as high as $400-$500 — to detect food allergies.

"Skin tests are hard to read and understand. Blood tests are reliable but extremely expensive. Cytotoxic tests — used in runners' clinics — in which a technician scores how white cells disintegrate when interacting with food extracts — are so subjective and unreliable, they shouldn't be done at all."

The only scientific way to prove true food allergies, he said, is through "double-blind tests" in which the patient is given the allegedly offensive food without his knowledge.

The most common symptoms associated with food allergies are gastrointestinal — vomiting, diarrhea, nausea — and such skin problems as hives. A few patients may develop respiratory problems.

"If you want to evaluate the symptoms and their link to food, all you need to do is put the child on an elimination diet for a week. If he's not better by then, it's highly likely the diet's not the culprit," Boch said.

JEFFREY HART Jesse Jackson Blunders

Things like this can get a co'umnist down.

No sooner do I write a column declaring that Jesse Jackson provides some welcome charisma to an otherwise gray Democratic field than the fellow commits a catastrophic strategic blunder, and maybe we are back to boredom after all.

When he declared for the presidency, Jesse Jackson had a lot of options. His political history had not been ideologically rigid, and both he and his organization PUSH had often spoken of self-help and black enterprise and the necessity of first-rate education.

All of these positions are in the American political mainstream.

Who knows? Jackson might have come forward as a candidate attacking artificial restraints on black enterprise. He might have demanded an end to restrictive licensing practices, such as the imminently expensive taxicab licenses and the restrictions on interstate trucking that fall so heavily on potential black enterprise. Jackson might well have come forward as an advocate of freedom both at home and abroad, but instead he is blowing it.

He remains the only Democratic presidential candidate who can make a great speech, but he is rapidly becoming a sectarian candidate of the extreme left — which is tragic.

For example, I have before me an advertisement for the November 12 march on Washington, which opposed President Reagan's policy in Grenada and in central America.

"U.S. Marines Out of Grenada" reads the headline. Then we get the entire co'umnist menu. "Stop the Attacks on Nicaragua." "No U.S. War in Central America and the Caribbean" and, ludicrously, "Emergency Campaign: Help Replace What Reagan Destroys — Send Oil to Nicaragua! Bring a Can of Motor Oil to the Nov. 12 March."

The featured speaker at this jamboree is... the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

If Jackson thinks that an identification with Third World communism is going to do him a lot of good with voters in this country, well, he is just out to lunch politically.

Reagan's move into Grenada is so popular that even Speaker Tip O'Neill has done a back flip. He first condemned it as gunboat diplomacy, and then, three days later, allowed that the policy was justified. The medical students were in danger, he now thought. What he really thought was that he and his fellow Democrats were on the wrong side of the issue. He and the rest of Congress had been inundated with mail supporting the president. The medical students had celebrated their release in the Rose Garden, thanking Reagan. Congressmen, reporters, and pollsters roaming around Grenada discovered that 90 percent of the islanders welcomed the American intervention. Speaker O'Neill, a wily political survivor, knew when to get out of the way.

Not so Jesse Jackson. Walter Mondale must be breathing a sigh of relief. Jackson was supposed to be capable of hurting Mondale in the southern primaries and maybe in the big cities of the North.

Although in a few cases additives and preservatives have been shown to produce allergic reactions, "nobody's confirmed that sugar causes hyperactivity in kids — yet you hear that claim all the time."

In a study of 500 children from birth through age three, which started in 1980 and will be completed next year, Boch found food provides an easy "scapegoat" to blame for problems that may result from more complex factors.

"Pretend you have a kid who is driving you up the wall. Do you want to go to the doctor's office and hear that the child has emotional problems and that you need family therapy or do you want to hear that all you have to do is eliminate a food from his diet?" Boch said.

Misdiagnosed food allergies can result in malnutrition brought on by overly restrictive diets and in "misdirected energy," Boch said.

"I know adults who just exhaust themselves fooling around with their diet when they ought to be expanding that energy to do more productive things with their lives," he said.

JACK ANDERSON

Evita's Restless Odyssey

WASHINGTON — When a million Peronistas rallied in Buenos Aires two nights before the recent Argentine election, they roared the loudest not for the party's presidential candidate, Italo Luder, nor the party's founder, Juan Peron. The face that dominated the posters, banners and leaflets was that of Peron's second wife, Eva. The Argentine workers still adore Evita, who has been dead for more than 30 years.

The magic of her name and the almost mystical reverence with which she is regarded by millions of Argentines — many of whom were not born when she died in 1952 — were made clear in posters that proclaimed, "Eva presente" (Eva is with us).

Her hold on the Argentine working class was once explained by the U.S. Defense Intelligence Agency this way: "Through her devotion to the urban poor, she rapidly overshadowed her husband in the eyes of the workers and the revolutionary left, and in time her image grew to personify the Peronist movement."

Evita was only 33 when she died, wasted by cancer to a mere 80 pounds. Her brief life had been a remarkable one, taking her from the slums of Buenos Aires to the presidential mansion. In death, the odyssey of Evita's mortal remains was, if anything, even more fantastic.

My associate Dale Van Atta pieced together the story of Evita Peron's body during a recent visit to Buenos Aires. Her life has been romanticized in the hit musical, "Evita," but the saga of her cadaver sounds more like "Love At First Bite." Here are the bizarre details:

When Evita died at 8:25 p.m. on July 26, 1952, Peron immediately called in Dr. Pedro Ara to embalm her. Ara was a professor of anatomy who happened to be one of the Spanish embassy's cultural attaches at the time.

Millions of mourners filed by Evita's casket, and after the funeral in early August, the corpse was moved to the Confederation of Labor headquarters, where Ara set up a laboratory to continue his painstaking work.

The body remained in the labor union building for three years, while government officials worked on plans for a monument as huge as the Statue of Liberty. But when the military overthrew Peron in 1955, a lieutenant colonel and a squad of soldiers seized the building and removed the body, fearful that the Peronistas would snatch it for use as a totem to rally behind.

Concealed in a plain box, Evita's body was taken in the back of an army truck to a marine base, where the truck remained for a day before the commandant discovered its contents and nervously ordered it removed from his jurisdiction. For lack of a better destination, the truck was simply parked on a street in downtown Buenos Aires. It was Christmas Eve, but the grisly Christmas package was left unopened.

The body was next loaded into a crate marked "radio equipment" and stashed in the office of the army's information chief until he was transferred in June 1956. The crate disappeared, its whereabouts known to only a few top military officers.

In the late 1960s, Argentine journalist Tomas Eloy Martinez learned the closely guarded secret: Evita's body had been sent to Bonn as part of an Argentine military attaché's household effects and was buried either in the embassy basement or in the garden of the ambassador's residence.

Martinez and a diplomat did some digging — literally — on the embassy property. But they were too late. The body had already been moved and reburied under a false name in a cemetery in Milan, Italy.

After negotiations with Peron, who was living in exile with his third wife, Isabel, Evita's body was turned over to the Perons on Sept. 23, 1971.

The coffin was usually kept in an upstairs room, though visitors sometimes saw it on the dining room table. According to one fascinating report, Peron's private secretary, Jose Lopez Rega, an astrologer and spiritualist, encouraged Isabel to lie on the coffin to soak up Evita's magic vibrations — while Rega chanted incantations.

Peron returned to power in 1973, and after Isabel succeeded him the next year, she brought Evita's coffin back home and put it on display in a Buenos Aires suburb. But the magic proved non-transferable.

A military junta overthrew Isabel in 1976 and Evita's itinerant corpse was quietly turned over to her two sisters the next year. It now lies in a family crypt in the Recoleta Cemetery in Buenos Aires.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Artillery Shelling Shatters Cease-Fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Anti-government artillery shelling broke a cease-fire on Lebanon's independence day just as children were ready to return to school in Christian areas of Beirut.

No casualties were reported Tuesday in the violence that marred Lebanon's 40th independence day observance and a Sept. 26 cease-fire.

Education Minister Issam Khoury had said schools might reopen today in Christian east Beirut after being closed for a week because of sporadic shelling of residential areas by rebel forces, official Beirut radio said.

As government officials wondered whether the shelling was meant to sabotage back-to-school plans, a four-member committee of representatives from the Lebanese army and the Druze, Shiite and Christian militias planned to meet today to discuss cease-fire violations.

Gas Blast Probed

TOKYO (UPI) — Police today suspected an explosion that ripped through a giant barbecue restaurant and killed 14 people was caused by an accidental ignition of a massive pool of leaking propane gas.

The blast killed 11 young women and three men around lunchtime Tuesday. Police said 27 other people were wounded, including three who were in critical condition today.

Investigators sifted through debris of broken glasses and twisted steel pipes at the devastated barbecue restaurant at the sprawling Yamaha Recreation Complex in Kakegawa, 144 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Assad Had Heart Attack

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — President Hafez Assad has been taken out of intensive care after suffering a heart attack last week, Western diplomatic sources said.

Assad became ill Nov. 13, the day before he was scheduled to open crucial talks in Damascus with Lebanese President Amin Gemayel.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Jailhouse Beating Victim Gets $120,000

MIAMI (UPI) — The Dade County jail failed to provide adequate protection for a businessman who was beaten by two prisoners while jailed on drunken driving charges, said a jury that awarded the executive $120,000 in damages.

The jury made the award Monday, agreeing that Normand Theriault should have been protected from the inmates.

Theriault, an account executive for a food brokerage firm, was arrested Dec. 14, 1974 on charges of drunken driving. He was placed in a holding cell at the Dade County Jail with about a dozen other men waiting to be booked.

Once in the cell, he began "yelling for help and asking to make a phone call," said Theriault, who was 40 at the time of the arrest.

Two inmates told him to be quiet. He didn't and the inmates beat his head against a wall, giving him a concussion and breaking a cheek bone. Several years later, he had to have cataracts removed from both eyes in surgery that doctors claim was necessitated by the jailhouse beating.

Freighter Crew Rescued

MIAMI (UPI) — Ten crewmen who fled their sinking freighter in life boats were rescued off the southwest coast of Florida late Tuesday when a Coast Guard cutter spotted their emergency flares.

The captain and two other crewmen who stayed behind to try to save the listing 295-foot vessel were brought aboard the Coast Guard cutter Cape Gull a short time later, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

All 13 people on board the freighter were safe, and were to be brought to the Miami Beach Coast Guard station today, the spokesman said.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the hold of the Honduran-registered container ship Nuevo Rio had begun to flood from a cause not yet determined.

23 Florida Counties Off Limits To Russians

By United Press International
The U.S. State Department has barred Soviet diplomats from traveling to 23 of Florida's 67 counties — but baffled county officials can't figure out why.

"I don't know why the Soviets would want to come here anyway," said Nassau County Clerk Jerry Greeson. "We don't have anything for them here, except for maybe the paper mill."

Nassau County is one of four counties recently closed to Soviet diplomats, journalists and business executives. Franklin, Gulf and Polk counties also were closed to the Russians under a new State Department travel policy issued last week.

The new policy opened 14 Florida counties from which Soviet visitors had been banned for 16 years, and closed four that had previously been open to Russians.

In all, 23 of the state's 67 counties remain out-of-bounds for Soviets. A State Department spokeswoman refused to explain why, except to say the decisions were based on "national security considerations."

Soviets are not welcome in Orange County, the home of Walt Disney World, nor are they allowed to go to Alachua County, where the University of Florida is located in Gainesville.

Russian diplomats can visit Clay County, which boasts a Navy base at Green Cove Springs and an Army installation at Camp Blanding.

But they cannot go to neighboring Bradford County, home only to huge farming and timber industries and four state prisons.

"I wouldn't think the state prisons would have anything to do with it," said Bradford County Clerk Gilbert Brown. "It seems to me that if they restrict Bradford, why wouldn't they restrict Clay?"

Marla Johnson, deputy clerk of Franklin County's Board of Commissioners, was perplexed by the decision to close that county. "We have an airport, but that's about it," said Ms. Johnson.

The United States has restricted travel by Soviets since 1951, about 10 years after Moscow barred Americans from certain parts of the Soviet Union, the State Department spokeswoman said. About 20 percent of each nation is off limits to citizens of the other.

The new guidelines were issued after a lengthy study of the Kremlin's 1978 revision of the Soviet Union's travel restrictions, she said.

The residents of Columbia County don't know why they're out of bounds to the Soviets, but some think it's just as well.

"Why would you want Russians in your county," asked Juanita Havird, civil defense director. "I'm not a Communist, my country's not Communist, and overall, I would hope that the Russians would never step foot in here."

Classy Golden Agers Prove Tennis Is Lifetime Sport

The recent Golden Age Olympics held in Sanford on an annual basis clearly pointed out what I try to tell 200 students each semester — tennis is a lifetime sport.

It is a game that you can play and have fun at from the time you are about six until you are 106. It was a delight and pleasure to have part of the Golden Age tennis tournament held on the SCC courts.

Even though it rained a lot and many confusing things happened, the Golden Agers just kept their composure and really enjoyed playing. As one gentleman from Michigan stated, "I came to Sanford to participate in the tennis events and that's what I'm going to do." I believe most of the players would have stayed and waited it out even if we'd had a hurricane.

I was impressed greatly by the patience and understanding of the players. Many would report for a match at say 1 p.m. and find that they could not play until 3 p.m. They would just quietly wait it out and go on the courts with a great deal of enthusiasm and zeal when they finally did get to play. I guess patience and understanding comes with age.

I have been around too many junior and men's and women's open events where, if the slightest thing goes wrong or if anyone is asked to change the time of a match, etc., etc., the participants blow the roof off. If some juniors around the state, or open event players, lose a match they are very likely to break their rackets or anything else that's in their way. Some have been known to cheat, many use horrible language, and the tennis court is turned into a tedious battlefield.

Larry Castle

You know, during the time I watched the Golden Agers play I did not see one racket thrown in anger, I did not hear shouts of obscenities, I did not see one bad call. The players were very competitive and surely wanted to win, but everything was done with good sportsmanship and a genuine concern for the well-being of others.

I think we should all take a lesson from our Golden Age friends. Enjoy the game for what it is and what it offers and leave the frustrations that so often creep into our games alone.

Can they play? You bet they can play. The group I saw was the 60- and 65-year-old players. Many were sporting bandages on their knees, elbows, ankles, and wrists. Most did not move as well as I'm sure they did a few years ago, but to replace what had been lost physically the players have become smarter and more controlled in their play. Shots were not hit extremely hard, but were well placed, control of the ball was the key. Like a chess game they planned their shots and moves well in advance.

Frankly, it was just fun to watch. Rallies were long as were the sets and matches, often lasting two hours or more. As often as not a player would come off the court and rest for a while and then go right back on for another match.

Our hats are off to the Golden Agers one and all, but for me I have a genuine fondness for the ones who participated in the demanding sport of tennis. They showed real class and set a great example for all of us to follow.

Phillips Ignites Raiders In OT

The last time Seminole Community College's Raiders were in an overtime game, their opponents went on a 19-6 blitz to pull out the victory. Tuesday night, Mike Phillips ignited the Raiders' come back from a 22-point fourth quarter deficit and SCC turned the tables in OT, outscoring Florida College, 15-8, en route to a 98-91 victory in junior college basketball action at Florida College in Tampa.

SCC now stands at 5-2 for the season and will be back in action next Tuesday at Indian River CC. Florida College, the defending state JC champions, fell to 3-3 for the season.

"It was a great come from behind victory," SCC coach

J.C. Basketball

Bill Payne said, "We didn't lose faith when it looked pretty bleak."

Florida College led by nine points, 38-29, at halftime and built a 22-point cushion, 78-56, with nine minutes left in the game. But, behind the clutch play of Phillips and Delvin Everett, the Raiders outscored Florida College, 27-5, in the last nine minutes to send it into overtime.

SCC's depth paid off in overtime as three starters, guards Lenny Grace and Jimmy Payton and forward Bernard Merthie all fouled out in regulation. Phillips and Mike Tolbert came off the bench to take the guard slots and ignited the Raiders in OT. Tolbert scored five points in the extra period and Phillips added four.

Phillips gave the Raiders the momentum in overtime as he came up with a steal after the tipoff and raced down court for a layup and a 85-83 SCC lead. The Raiders never trailed after Phillips' layup.

Six players scored in double figures to lead the balanced SCC attack with Grace's 19 points leading the way. Everett added 15 points, Tolbert and Luis Phelps tossed in 13 each, Phillips contributed 12 and Payton netted 10.

Rams Roll Past Tribe

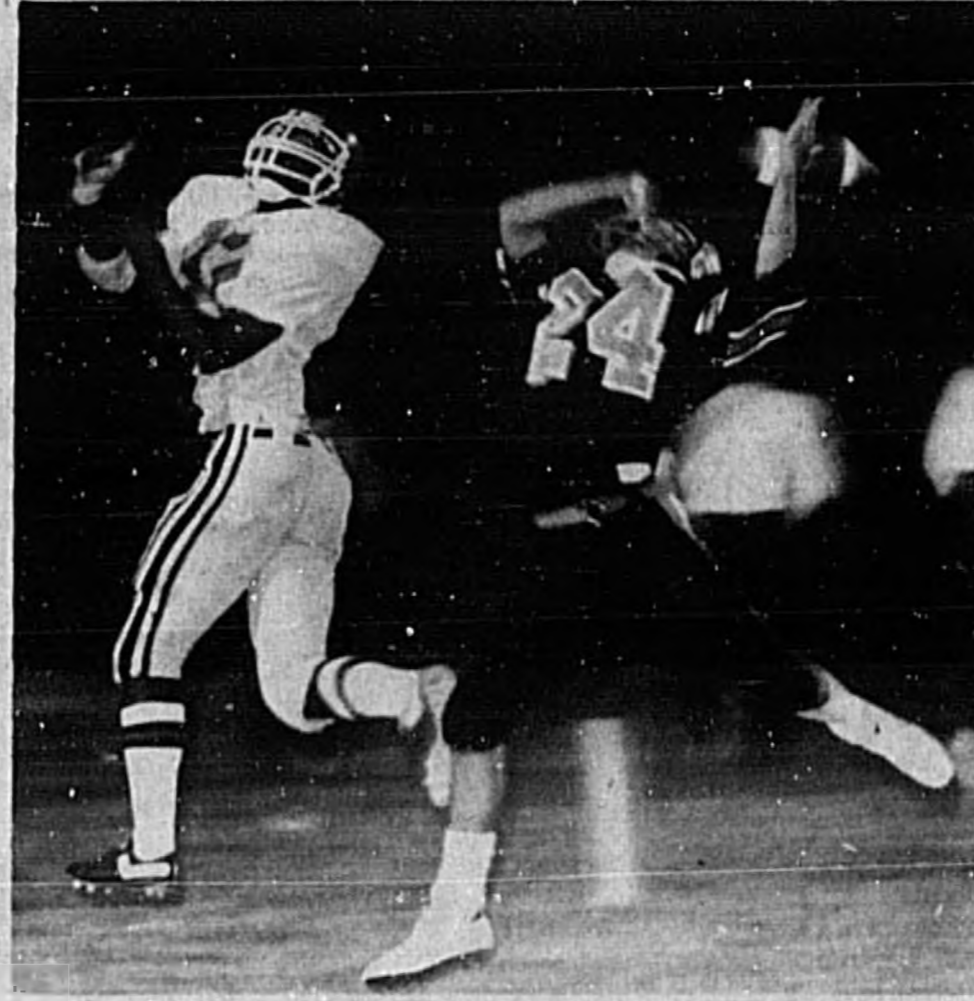

Tony Fiorentino scored three goals and Donald Kelly added one goal and two assists to lead Lake Mary to a 6-0 rout of Seminole Tuesday in a prep soccer jamboree at Lake Mary High. Jerry Meyers and Atsushi Ichihara added one goal each for the Rams.

In other action Tuesday, Jeremy Mason and Rob Moody each had an unassisted goal to lead Oviedo to a 2-0 blanking of New Smyrna Beach. Chris McMannis scored the only goal of the half to lead Lake Brantley to a 1-0 victory over DeLand and Steve Ichner and Don Cutlar scored a goal apiece as Bishop Moore upended Lyman, 2-0.

Five Seminole County basketball teams will get their first taste of action tonight in the Rotary Bowl Basketball Jamboree at Lyman High. Lake Mary, Lyman, Lake Howell, Seminole, Lake Brantley and New Smyrna Beach will compete in the jamboree which begins at 7. Each team will play two quarters.

The Rams are looking to make some waves in their first year in the Five Star Conference. Lake Mary will get a good look at its first opponent of the regular season, New Smyrna Beach, in tonight's first quarter. The Rams open the season on Tuesday, Nov. 29 at New Smyrna Beach. Lake Mary's first Five Star Conference and home game is against Seminole on Dec. 6.

Lake Mary's outside strength is its biggest asset with Junior Darryl Merthie and seniors Billy Dunn and Fred Miller all excellent shooters with sophomore Chris Jackson a good swingman. Inside strength comes from Juniors Bobby Counts and Donald Grayson and seniors Neal Wellon and Jeff Reynolds. Grayson, Wellon and Reynolds may be a little slow to start out with as they played on the football team and didn't start basketball until Monday.

Tonight's second quarter matchup pits Lyman's Greyhounds against Lake Howell's Silver Hawks. The Greyhounds were the surprise team of the conference a year ago as they made it to the district finals before bowing out. Lake Howell was the conference doormat last season and the Hawks seem destined for another rebuilding year.

Lyman, which opens the season on Dec. 2 when it hosts Oviedo, lost three starters from last year's team including top scorer Alexis Cleveland, point guard Rod Hillman and power forward James Pilot. James Stewart is the top returnee for the Greyhounds and he will be joined in the starting lineup tonight by Lavache Nelson, Rick Neal, Ralph Philpott and Greg Walker. Greg Pilot, a starter last year, will join the team after Friday's football bowl game.

Lake Howell lost four of five starters from last season, but, the good news is, all five starters this season are underclassmen so the Hawks have something to build on. Last year's leading scorer, Erem Brooks, has been out with the flu and may miss tonight's jamboree. The Silver Hawks lineup tonight will include Juniors Tim Art and Scott Anderton at the guards, junior Crockett Bohannon at center and sophomore Haywood Beasley and Junior Keith Woolridge at the forwards. Lake Howell opens the season on Dec. 6 at Lyman.

Tonight's third quarter has the powerful Sanford Seminoles going up against Lake Brantley's Patriots. Seminole is one of the favorites to win the Five Star Conference this season while Lake Brantley has an experienced team and is banking on a transfer student to fill the spot vacated by Paul Hoffman.

Senior forward Willie Mitchell, an all-conference first team and all-state honorable mention selection a year ago, will lead the Tribe into action and will be joined in the starting lineup tonight by Bruce Franklin and Steven Gray at the guards, Jimmy Gilchrist at center and Tommy Stiffey at the other forward. William Wynn, just out after football, should join the starting lineup when the Seminoles open the regular season on Tuesday, Dec. 6 at Lake Mary. Seminole will also be in the Oviedo Outlook Christmas Tournament and the prestigious Kingdom Of The Sun tourney at Ocala Vanguard.

Mitchell averaged 14.9 points and nine rebounds per game last season and he developed into a fine outside shooter to go along with a strong inside game. Franklin a good assist man, is also one of the best defensive players around. Gray saw a lot of action last year and should help fill the spot of graduated senior Vernon Law. Gilchrist played only half of last season and he and Wynn will be instrumental inside for the Tribe in '83-84. Depth comes from Tracy Holloman, James Rouse, Willie Brooks, Kelvin Robinson, Rod Alexander and Kenny Gordon all of whom will see plenty of action this season.

Lake Brantley has three seniors in tonight's starting lineup (all three were starters a year ago) along with a pair of Juniors. Seniors Mike Evans and Mike Garrigues are the guards with senior Eric Trombo and Junior Leroy Brown the forwards.

The Patriots are expecting big things out of 6-7 junior center Greg Courtney, a transfer student from Oregon. Bench strength comes from Todd Hill, Austin Hodges and Rich Brail. Also joining the Patriots is John Gabrovic, a senior transfer student from South Carolina. Football players Dennis Groseclose and Rex Black will join the team next week. They are playing in tonight's Elk's Bowl at West Orange High. Lake Brantley opens the season on Dec. 2 as it hosts the Patriot Invitational Tipoff Tournament sponsored by Hardee's.

Komlo May Start For Tampa Bay — Terps, Vols Gear Up For Citrus

Football Roundup

TAMPA (UPI) — Jeff Komlo, signed as a free agent Oct. 7, will start at quarterback for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers against Houston Sunday if Jack Thompson is unable to play.

Thompson took at quarterback after the second game of the season, but missed Sunday's game with Chicago because of a bruised elbow.

Jerry Golsteyn, who started the first two games, started against Chicago and was ineffective, a way to Komlo on the second series of the final period.

Trailing 20-0, Komlo was under extreme pressure from the on-rushing Bears and his first pass was intercepted. He finished with four completions in eight attempts, but waded three times and lost one fumble which was returned for a touchdown.

McKay said Monday the total blame from the Bucs' lackluster offensive performance should not be placed on Golsteyn's shoulders, but said Komlo now is number two behind Thompson.

Komlo was with the Detroit Lions for three years and the Atlanta Falcons last year. He started 14 games as a rookie with the Lions in 1979 after Gary Danielson and Joe Reed were felled with injuries, throwing for 11 touchdowns.

But he played sparingly in 1980 and 81 and was picked up by the Atlanta Falcons on waivers last season. He saw no action with the Falcons and was waived this year.

The Bucs and the Oilers, both 1-11, meet at Tampa Stadium Sunday with the first round draft pick probably at stake. The nearest team to the Bucs and Oilers in the NFL cellar is the New York Giants at 3-8-1.

McKay acknowledged Monday that Thompson has not come through as the Bucs expected when they gave up Tampa's first round pick next year to Cincinnati to get him.

Thus, if the Bucs finish last in the NFL this season, the Bengals get the first choice.

ORLANDO (UPI) — The coaches of the two teams in the Florida Citrus Bowl — Maryland and Tennessee — say they've got a lot of homework to do before Dec. 17.

"We don't know a thing about them right now," Maryland Coach Bobby Ross said of the Vols. "We do know they've got a tremendous defense. It will be a tremendous opportunity for us."

Tennessee's Johnny Majors echoed the same fear.

"I don't know very much about them except what I've heard and read," said Majors. "I do know they've been very stingy about giving up points."

But Majors admitted he's heard of Boomer.

Boomer is Maryland quarterback Boomer Eason, a strong-armed lefthander who is the heart of the Terp offense.

He's led the 17th-ranked Terps to an 8-3 season and the Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

Citrus Bowl officials were happy the Terps and Vols gained their invitations on winning notes. Maryland had lost two games in a row and Tennessee was beaten by Mississippi two weeks ago.

But the Terps beat North Carolina State on Saturday. Meanwhile, Tennessee was blanking Kentucky, 10-0. The Vols are 7-3 and still face a meeting this weekend with state rival Vanderbilt.

"Maryland's going to be a very tough opponent for us," said Majors. "But when we play well, we're a good football team. This is a better football team that we've had in my seven years there."

Like Majors, Ross said he was happy to be in the Citrus Bowl.

"I felt very strongly about coming here from Day One," said Ross. "I love having the opportunity to play against Tennessee, a program of such rich tradition and history."

The upgraded Citrus Bowl, formerly the Tangerine Bowl, guarantees a payoff of about $500,000 to each team. Last year, Auburn and Boston College split $700,000.

Tuskawilla Discovers Junior Pee Wee Gold

The Junior Pee Wee Division of the Seminole Youth Sports Association football league has been up for grabs with excitement all year. It was only fitting that the championship game came down to the final quarter of the final game.

It was a battle of the division's best defense, Tuskawilla Gold, against the division's best passing offense, South Seminole.

For three quarters the battle raged until the defense finally got the upperhand when Todd Carlson picked off a Braniff Bonaventure pass and returned it 27 yards for a TD. Carlson then kicked his sixth straight extra point of the season as Tuskawilla Gold pulled out an exciting 8-6 victory and the division championship.

After Carlson's big play, which came after Tuskawilla was stopped on the South Seminole 17-yard line by a strong defensive stand, the Hurricanes bounced back with a long drive punctuated by a 46-yard pass from Bonaventure to Jerry Tucker. Carlson again made the key defensive play, overhauling Tucker at the nine-yard line.

The Warriors, with just 3:51 remaining and their time outs exhausted, drove the ball to the Tuskawilla 2. On fourth down, though, Gold linebacker Craig Doyle blitzed off tackle and smothered the runner at the 1, ending the threat.

It wasn't over yet. The South Seminole defense stiffened and held for three downs. Tuskawilla added to the comeback by running the ball out of bounds at its 3 with just 17 seconds to go and turning it over to the Hurricanes.

Bonaventure then rolled right and hit Tucker for the TD, the first against Tuskawilla in 21 quarters of action. The crucial tying extra point kick, however, slipped under the crossbar.

But, it still wasn't over. South Seminole recovered its onside kick, but the three seconds finally ticked off the clock and Tuskawilla Gold emerged with a hard-earned championship.

Carlson ran for 70 yards, Jon Machules added 53 and Chris Kezell chipped in 23 for the winners. Carlson completed 2 of 3 passes for 37 yards. Tim Benjamin nabbed one for 20 and Ryan Lorzeal grabbed another one for 17.

In other Junior Pee Wee action, Tuskawilla Blue pushed across 19 first-half points and then withstood a Milwee rally to post a 19-13 victory over the Tigers.

Todd Wallace ran for two TDs and Frankie Sales added another one for the winners. Scott Yurchinson tallied on a 69-yard scamper and Todd Cleveland bolted in from 41 yards for the losers. Cleveland ran for 80 yards while Yurchinson added 105. Dallas Simpson had eight tackles while Joe Tolbert and Bim Majors had five each.

Teague's Tigers and the Rock Lake Raiders battled to a 12-12 deadlock as Sadat Smith and Chris Stack each scored touchdowns. Smith and Stack each ran for 80 yards while Brian Meredith completed four passes for 85. Adam Orr hauled in one pass for 25 and Smith caught one for 50.

Chris Preuss, J.J. Johnston and Chris Reed were the outstanding blockers for coach Ron Meredith.

SYSA Football

In a Pee Wee contest, Milwee and Tuskawilla battled to a 0-0 deadlock.

Paul Bowen ran for 55 yards in 15 carries while Todd Patterson added 53 on 13 tries. Matt McKissock completed 1 of 6 passes for 23 yards to Roderick Roux.

Coach Thomas Demps cited Bowen, McKissock, Thomas Demps Jr., Andrew Stribling, Roux and Octavius Holliday for strong defensive efforts.

The SYSA has its "Fun Bowl" scheduled for this week.

Lakeview Crowns 3 More Champions

Elsewhere involving division winners, the Lakeview Dolphins' dynasty continued as they crowned three champions with the Mitey Mites of Willie Collier, the Junior Midgets of Tommy Thompson and the Midgets of Wes Childers concluded unbeaten seasons Saturday.

Collier's Mitey Mite Dolphins had the toughest time, coming back for a fourth-quarter TD to nip Jackson Heights, 14-12.

Phillip King rambled for 114 yards on 13 carries and both touchdowns for the winners. Corey Bennett added 22 yards on five carries.

"Our defense turned in an excellent performance," said Collier. "Kevin Johnson had 10 tackles while Jamie King and Anthony 'Red' Roberts had nine each."

Sammy Butler, Ronnie Parker and Paul Wilde each had four stops for coach Jim Johnson's defenders. Lakeview finished 7-0-1.

Thompson's Junior Midgets again relied on the sure hands of Terrance Eaddy, the strong arm of Jeff Blake and the power running of Kyle Reynolds and Arthur Bradford to bury Jackson Heights, 27-6. The Dolphins finished 8-0.

Reynolds ran for 13 yards and one TD while Bradford totaled 33 and one score. Patrick Dougherty added 13 more.

Blake completed 7 of 12 passes for 133 yards and two TDs. He was intercepted twice. Eaddy caught both scoring bombs — 45 and 27 yards — among his five receptions. Carlos Hartsfield pulled in two for 13.

Hartsfield and Dougherty led the defense with six tackles each. Thomas Lawson had five and Marshawn West intercepted his fifth pass of the year.

Childers' Midgets had the easiest time, running up a 31-2 win for a perfect 8-0 season and earning a berth in a bowl game at Atlanta Thursday and Saturday.

Speedy Jerod Jones ran for 144 yards on just six carries while Tracy Turner added 84 on three. Jones also completed two passes for 41 yards. Lenard Edwards snapped one for 25.

Jones opened the scoring with a 23-yard run. Robert

Moore recovered a Jackson Heights fumble in the end zone for 16-0 lead. Turner booted both extra points. Gary Whack gave the Dolphins a 24-0 halftime lead with a one-yard run and Turner kicked the point after.

Kenny Batton picked off a pass and returned it 85 yards for the score. Tarance Carr added the final point on a run.

Batton led all tacklers with 11 stops while Jones and Whack had eight each. Jeff McNair, John Curry and Moore had six apiece. Jones also had an interception. Batton and Moore recovered fumbles.

For the season, Lakeview surrendered just 10 points, four of which came on safeties. Batton had 67 tackles, eight fumble recoveries and four interceptions.

Jones led the offense with 968 yards in just seven games.

Childers was assisted by Darryl Britton as offensive coordinator and Bruce Boudreaux as offensive line coach and special teams coach.

Teague Mitey Mites 20, Milwee 12

Cuyler Davis ran for 118 yards and three touchdowns as the Teague Tigers spotted Milwee an early lead, then came back to win.

Davis scored on an 18-yard romp in the first quarter and Mike Speranza found Scott Simpson for the extra point. Milwee bounced back with two scores, however, to take a 12-7 lead after one quarter.

In the second quarter, Davis powered over from three yards out and then added a 30-yard jaunt for a TD in the third quarter. Randy Stegall muscled across the PAT. Stegall finished with 46 yards in five carries.

Simpson led the Tigers defensively with 10 tackles and a blocked punt.

For the season, Davis followed with solid blocking of Mike Johnston, Anthony Maio and Matt Svoboda for 472 yards and eight touchdowns.

Tuskawilla Mitey Mites 25, Rock Lake 0

Leric Chajowski ran for two scores while Daniel Lunsford passed for one and Sipper Clark ran for a fourth as the Warriors crushed the Raiders.

Lunsford, who completed 4 of 7 passes for 88 yards, opened the scoring with a 38-yard toss to Chris Simmons. Chajowski then added scoring runs of 22 and 15 yards before Skipper closed the door on Rock Lake by bullying in from four yards.

Tuskawilla's defense recovered four fumbles and allowed just two first downs while posting the shutout.

Rock Lake Pee Wees 25, Jackson Heights 6
Rock Lake fared a better in its Pee Wee matchup against Jackson Heights, scoring 25 points to post an easy win.

Mark Madigan broke loose for a 62-yard scoring run in the fourth quarter to avoid the shutout for JH. Madigan had five carries for 85 yards and M.R. Horne had 28 yards in four tries. Madigan completed 4 of 8 passes for 76 yards. Horne caught two for 50. Billy Newton had one for 13 and Kevin Nixton had one for 13.

Kevin Hall and Ricky Vaughn led the defense with nine and seven tackles, respectively.

Keith Stimpson had five attempts for 25 yards for the winners.

He bagged the hefty gobblers at Deseret Ranch southeast of Orlando recently, hitting the larger bird in the neck. The smaller gobbler, which was standing behind the first one, got pelted and keeled over, too. Feather said one of the birds dressed out at more than 18 pounds and the other at more than 10 pounds.

Porter Outruns Rogers To Capture Late Model

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Just recently crowned Florida State late model champion LeRoy Porter led every lap to win the 25-lap late model feature on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

The race was an extremely close contest between eventual winner Porter and fastest qualifier David Rogers. Rogers, who started in sixth spot, quickly moved up to challenge and was able to race Porter wheel to wheel on many occasions, but could never get by.

Stock Car Racing

Jimmy Sills was third, followed by Homer Williams and newcomer Timmy Klien, who was involved in a violent pre-race crash with Brian Wescott.

As a result from the tangle, Wescott climbed the front stretch retaining wall in a shower of sparks, heavily damaging his new race car. Heat winners were Rogers and Joe Middleton.

Early in the thundercar feature, machine shop operator "Pistol" Pete Starr went by the "Red Eye Express" of fastest qualifier/pole sitter Jerry Fitch and went on to win, besting fast heat winner Fitch. Buddy Teed, second heat winner Wally Patterson and Barry Layne.

Street stocker Wild Bill Kinley drove his Mercury Cougar to victory over Ben Booth. Ron DiCandia, Bob Collins and the 429 cubic inch Ford Torino of Pat Weaver.

U.S. Pershing-2 Rockets Begin Arriving In W. Germany

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — West Germans today awaited a shipment of the first U.S. Pershing-2 nuclear missiles for Europe following Parliament's vote to deploy the new weapons.

Anti-missile protesters briefly occupied the U.S. Consulate in Bremen during a Bundestag vote Tuesday to go ahead with NATO plans to install the rockets in West Germany if U.S. and Soviet negotiators fail to compromise at their arms control talks in Geneva. Such compromise seemed unlikely when the Russians walked out of the talks early today.

A crowd of 600 demonstrators blockaded the consulate in the Baltic seaport and 18 protesters burst into the building, locked themselves inside a room and refused to leave, police said.

When firemen threatened to break in, the protesters gave up and were arrested.

Police said 10,000 people marched through Hamburg in a torchlight parade under banners reading "Don't defend us to death" but an attempt by 4,000 to blockade the U.S. Consulate there was barred by police.

In Bonn, 102 demonstrators were arrested and police said they arrested 46 people in disturbances in West Berlin.

Juergen Moellermann, Foreign Office minister of state, confirmed reports that the new weapons would begin arriving today but declined to give details.

Other sources said the missiles would arrive in parts, to be assembled over the coming weeks and to be ready for use by late December.

The rockets are coming to West Germany as part of NATO's plan to install 572 new Cruise and Pershing-2 missiles in western Europe over the next five years if the U.S.-Soviet arms control talks in Geneva fail.

Arrival of the first missiles is expected to cause more protests by the West German anti-nuclear movement, which has said it will fight the deployment.

Quoting their own "intelligence," the anti-NATO Greens party said parts for the rockets had already arrived before Tuesday night's vote in the Bundestag, the lower house of Parliament. There was no immediate confirmation of the Greens' allegation.

The Parliament vote supported Chancellor Helmut Kohl's determination to deploy the missiles if there is no agreement at the Geneva talks. Because his Christian Democrat-led coalition enjoys a comfortable majority, there was little surprise when the 296-226 vote for deployment was announced.

Former Social Democratic chancellor Helmut Schmidt and 20 other opposition Social Democrats who support deployment against their party's official line abstained from the voting.

The Pershing-2 is a two-stage, mobile ballistic missile with a range of about 1,130 miles. NATO plans to ship the rocket to West Germany before adding 96 cruise missiles, which are not due until 1986.

West Germany, the only European country scheduled to get the Pershing-2s, will receive 108 of the missiles.

Arafat Given 3 Days To Get Out Of Town

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (UPI) — Yasser Arafat's loyalist guerrillas today defied a three-day Palestinian deadline to leave Tripoli, but thousands of civilians fled the war-torn city in fear of a new rebel onslaught.

"There is no cease-fire," Arafat told reporters before rushing out to inspect his troops manning sandbagged positions along the perimeter of the shell-pocked city.

Arafat's Palestinian opponents Tuesday gave the beleaguered PLO chief three days to get out of Tripoli and said he would be "chased in the streets of Tripoli" if he failed to leave.

Arafat had no direct comment on the threat, but an aide said the guerrilla leader was not afraid. "We are not scared. We have heard threats from all these groups and we were never scared," said Abu Chaker, who stood outside the white four-story building serving as Arafat's headquarters.

The three-day deadline apparently silenced most guns. Only sporadic sniper fire and isolated mortar fire punctured the otherwise uneasy calm.

The lull in the fighting encouraged thousands to leave the war-torn city. About one of three cars leaving Tripoli today was loaded with families carting bags and suitcases.

Thousands of people already have taken refuge in villages and towns south of the city. Refugees were seen living in unfinished high rise buildings.

In Damascus, the Syrian and Saudi Arabian foreign ministers held long talks Tuesday on the conflict pitting Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization fighters against PLO rebels armed and supported by Syria.

The Saudis have been trying to mediate an end to the fighting, which reportedly has killed more than 1,000 Lebanese and Palestinian civilians and fighters during the past two weeks.

A four-nation delegation representing Cuba, India, Senegal and Yugoslavia also arrived Tuesday in Damascus for the same purpose.

"No mind or logic can accept behavior aimed at changing illegitimacy into legitimacy," Saudi Crown Prince Abdullah Bin Abdel Aziz told the Kuwait News Agency KUNA.

'Hill Street Blues' Conrad Dead Of Cancer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor Michael Conrad, winner of two Emmys as the street-wise police sergeant who opened the Hill Street Blues television series by telling his charges, "Let's be careful out there," is dead of cancer. He was 58.

Michael Conrad... 'let's be careful out there'

Conrad died Tuesday at the Kenneth Norris Jr. Cancer Hospital, where he had been receiving treatment for about two years, a hospital spokesman said. The actor had been hospitalized about 10 days and was alone when he died.

The 6-foot-4 Conrad was an important member of the talented core of actors who turned Hill Street Blues, and its low ratings, into one of the most popular programs on television.

Conrad once described the hulking but sensitive Phillip Freemason Esterhaus, the head sergeant who provided an island of calm in the storm of the police station, as "a cop who's been out on the street too many years, and was burned out."

Esterhaus, unlike the actor who played him, was verbose and the writers gave him loads of fancy words with which to inspire his cops as he sent them out on the mean streets of "The Hill."

"I don't have the anywhere near the capacity to express myself," he said, "and I struggle with those words mightily."

Despite his illness, Conrad worked up to the end. Charles Haid, who plays officer Renko on the series, said his fellow actor "died in the saddle."

Conrad made 10 Hill Street Blues episodes this season, six of which have aired. It was not known how the producers would write his character out of the series.

Vivian Buck of Sanford is considered a pro in her field the restaurant and catering business.

Vivian is also one of those busy volunteers who was selected by the Kiwanis Club of Sanford for the coveted "Roberta Gatchel Woman of the Year" award. Mrs. Gatchel catered the Kiwanis luncheons and later bequeathed her estate to the club for benevolent causes. This year, Vivian was elected president of the Sanford-Lake Mary Unit of the American Cancer Society. She speaks with enthusiasm about the services the local unit offers. A new service, "Reach for Recovery," has been launched by the unit for mastectomy patients.

And now, Vivian says plans are in the making to organize ROCK - reaching out to cancer kids. This service enables a youngster to attend summer camp and participate in activities that normal children take for granted.

Toward fund-raising for services available through the local ACS unit, Vivian says the annual Cancer Crusade will be next April with Bettye Smith as crusade chairman. "Last year, we raised almost as much money as all Seminole County raised the year before," she speaks with pride about her unit.

Something else that Vivian is proud of is the new cookbook that the American Cancer Society Florida Division Inc. has recently published. Donations for the cookbook will be used to continue cancer research and education programs as well as many other services.

The delightful cookbook features a potpourri of recipes from probably the best cooks in Florida. "The cookbooks are selling like hotcakes," Vivian says. "The book is real good with usable recipes for everyday."

Vivian highly recommends the Sunshine 'n' Spice Cookbook for everyone, including Christmas gifts. The hardbound edition is bright Christmas red with gold lettering and is available for a $10 donation. The paperback version is $6.00. Colored photographs enhance the tempting recipes featured in the unique publication.

The cookbooks are available from Vivian, any member of the ACS Sanford-Lake Mary Unit, Gifts by Nan, Sanford, Central Florida Regional Hospital Gift Shop, and the local ACS office in the Flagship Bank build, downtown Sanford.

Woman Can't Locate Lover's 'Off' Button

DEAR ABBY: The man I'm dating exclusively is about to wear me out wanting sex so often. He's 42 and I'm 35. He wants sex twice a day, but he'll settle for once. I don't want sex even once a day; three or four times a week is plenty for me. I dread the weekends.

All our friends knew him when he was married to his first wife. They said he was after her all the time, and after 10 years she was so exhausted she divorced him. I can relate to that. If I don't give in to him, he pouts, nags and acts deprived until I do. I hate having to go through the motions just to satisfy him. I think sex should be a mutual pleasure.

We've been dating for two years and we really care about each other, but I refuse to marry him until this problem is worked out. I think there's something wrong with him. I've never heard of a man wanting sex so often.

NOT UP TO IT

DEAR NOT: Apparently there is a wide disparity in your sexual appetites. Worse yet, he's selfish and inconsiderate.

No woman should feel compelled to "go through the motions" to satisfy a man, or "give in" to stop his nagging.

You are wise to refuse to marry him unless this problem is resolved. If he really cares for you, he will go for counseling. If he refuses to go, say goodbye and wish him luck in finding a more sexually compatible partner.

DEAR ABBY: This is not really a problem, but it's been bothering me.

In the last census questionnaire I put down that our income was at a higher level than it really was — for the ridiculous reason that I didn't want future generations to think their ancestors were poor nobodies. (Actually our income had been much higher, but my husband was laid off at the time.)

I realize now how silly I was. Is there anything I should do about this exaggeration on the census questionnaire?

PROUD BUT FOOLISH

Dear Abby

DEAR PROUD: The people at the Census Bureau are aware that some people "exaggerate" their income, while others underestimate theirs. It all averages out. So the word from here (and there) is to skip it.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Hurt in Lexington," the widow who complained because nobody sent her a card or congratulated her on her wedding anniversary.

I am a 70-year-old widow, and if I were to receive anniversary cards I would consider it a mockery.

A wedding anniversary celebrates a couple's having been married for a certain number of years — but a marriage lasts only as long as both parties are alive. The marriage ceremony says "as long as ye both shall live" — or words to that effect. Therefore, when one person dies, the one remaining is no longer married.

The date of my marriage means a lot to me and I cherish the memories of past wedding anniversaries. But to celebrate the day alone? Absolutely not! My husband's death ended that marriage. I am no longer a married woman, and there are no more anniversaries to "celebrate."

The Problems Of Non-replaced Missing Teeth

Facial collapse is one of the aging elements and occurs when the teeth are lost and not replaced.

In the dental arch, teeth depend on other teeth for stability and mutual support. The muscles of the face also depend upon the teeth for stability and support.

When teeth are missing, they must be replaced if the patient wishes to maintain the health of the dental arch and normal facial contours.

Replacing lost teeth involves the use of a fixed bridge or partial denture - depending on the circumstances.

Incidentally, behavioral studies on persons who have lost a part of their body - combat casualties, accident victims, amputation or similar operations - have revealed that they feel a profound sense of loss, of being incomplete. These individuals may be repaired physically - but, psychologically, many of them never heal.

We now realize that persons who have lost their teeth share this painful syndrome. But the real tragedy is this, that loss of teeth is almost always preventable. Indeed, there is a devastating impact of being without teeth - the extent to which the loss of teeth can cripple the victim physically, physiologically - and most important, emotionally.

Take good care of your natural teeth. Let's avoid "old age" facial collapse.

Lake Mary Appears Likely To Approve Code Enforcement Board; Vote Set Dec. 1

The refusal of a Lake Mary resident to halt the operation of a business in a residential area, despite repeated warnings from City Attorney Robert Petree, may have been the spark that will finally lead to the creation of a municipal code enforcement board.

An ordinance creating the seven-member board is scheduled for public hearing and final approval at the 8 p.m. meeting of the Lake Mary City Commission on Dec. 1 at city hall, 158 N. Country Club Road. Lake Mary is the only city in the county without a code enforcement board.

Only Commissioner Kenneth King is opposing creation of the board because of a proposal that only persons in certain professions be appointed to the board.

The state law which empowers cities to create code enforcement boards calls for the membership to be composed of realtors, architects, sub-contractors, contractors, businessmen, attorneys and engineers, if at all possible. Terms of office will be three years after the initial appointments.

The commission is expected to approve the ordinance, but not implement it until sometime in January to give itself time to search out and interview appointees.

Petree has cautioned commissioners that the board will have nearly as much power as a court and that commissioners will have no authority to review its decisions or to control its members. However, members could be removed for cause, Petree said.

Petree said he will prosecute cases before the code enforcement board, taking only those cases before the board which cannot be handled cooperatively.

Mayor Walter Sorenson said by the time the board is appointed and in operation there will probably be a couple of cases involving junk cars parked in residential areas as well as the case of the person operating a business in a residential area.

He said before the city sends a violation of a city ordinance to the code enforcement board, letters will be sent encouraging them to come into compliance with city law. "I can't imagine that we will quit practicing normal courtesy," he said.

"We will try persuasion first," Sorenson said.

The board will have authority to hear cases involving violations of the city's building codes, zoning ordinances and nuisance laws and to levy fines up to $250. The board can't impose jail terms.

"We have had a few people say they would like to be involved in the board, but I'm not sure we have an architect or engineer who lives in the city," Sorenson said.

The proposed ordinance, patterned after state law, forbids payment of compensation to the board members and requires that all seven be residents of the city. —Donna Estes

Plan Could Solve Lake Mary Water Woes

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The city of Lake Mary could have a water plant large enough to serve all its present customers as well as at least one proposed new development for an investment of $355,000.

It all depends on whether a deal can be struck with Residential Communities of America, developers of "The Hills of Lake Mary," to install a 12-inch well and build a full-fledged water plant, designed to city standards.

Bill Goodman, one of the RCA owners, has said that he will build a water plant, not only big enough to serve his development of 700 to 800 housing units, but also large enough for the city's needs, if the city will pay the difference in costs.

Consulting engineer, Paul Porter told the Lake Mary City Commission Thursday night that it would cost Goodman about $600,000 for a properly designed plant to serve his development planned for a site off Rantoul Lane. To size the plant large enough to serve the 1,000 customers Lake Mary already has would cost another $355,000, Porter said.

After submitting a preliminary report to the commission on the city's water needs for some years to come, Porter and his firm, Conklin, Porter & Holmes was instructed to prepare a report showing the costs of a master plan for the city's water system.

Porter is to return to the commission with the report in two weeks. If the city agrees at that point to move forward with a master plan, City Manager Kathy Rice offered to work with Porter and his firm in gathering cost estimates for inclusion.

Porter said the city initially could go with a one-water plant concept or a two water-plant concept. And ultimately he said the city will have five wells to serve a population of 18,750. He recommended that the water system be built in six phases as needed.

Among the sites, he recommended for water wells and plants, are: near Sanford's water supply off Country Club Road near State Road 46A since large city-owned transmission lines are already there; in the Lake Mary Boulevard, Rinehart Road, Paola Road, Rantoul Lane area and along Rinehart Road.

He cautioned that the Lake Mary well should not be placed too close to the Sanford wells, which are already drawing down a great deal of water from the aquifer.

If a deal cannot be struck with RCA, Porter said a plant able to produce 1.63 million gallons of water daily to serve 2,100 housing units including two 12-inch wells and a 1 million gallon storage tank with aerator would cost about $1.14 million. The second phase to serve 2,100 to 3,500 housing units for a population of 8,750 would require another well, costing $75,000.

Ultimately, a system to serve 6,500 housing units of a population of 18,500 would require a plant with a capacity of 2.25 million gallons daily, high service pumps and ancillary equipment.

If the city began initially with two plants, Porter said this would cost about $2 million, but might save money in the long run.

In a related matter, the commission agreed to send a contract proposal to Jamie Jensen, a hydrologist, citing the work he will do on environmental studies for the city for $4,000.

The work includes preparing maps showing where development might harm the aquifer, where development might cause lake pollution in the city and the locations in the community where development should be discouraged.

'Mystery Boy' Is A Freeloader

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — An anonymous tipster has unmasked "Raven Darkholme" as a smooth-talking 19-year-old salesman who lived on welfare by fooling juvenile authorities with his comic book name and tale of abandonment.

"Raven" was taken in by state social workers and has baffled authorities for months by refusing to disclose his real name.

Authorities learned Tuesday that he is actually David Michael Peters and is 19 years old instead of 16 as he claimed. He was born Aug. 2, 1964 in Kansas, said Dale Nelson, the state attorney's investigator who tracked down an anonymous tip and established the true identity.

Peters concocted the "Raven" identity in order to get state help after losing his job as a door-to-door salesman, Nelson said.

"He was traveling through the eastern United States with this sales group when he was suddenly dismissed," said Nelson. "He landed in Fort Lauderdale without a job, no money, no place to stay and he was hungry. He conjured this idea to get help."

Peters was arrested Tuesday at Siranahan High School. He is charged with two counts of perjury for lying to a judge about his name and age and one count of grand larceny for obtaining state services to which he was not entitled.

Peters was jailed in lieu of $30,000 and is scheduled to be arraigned in circuit court today. Each of the third-degree felony counts carries a maximum penalty of 5 years in prison and $5,000 fine.

Peters telephoned Fort Lauderdale police in July from a downtown bus station, claiming he had been abandoned there by a vagabond woman who had raised him from infancy when his parents died.

Peters introduced himself as "Raven Darkholme," which police later learned was the name of a blue-skinned villain in the "X-men" comic book series. During subsequent court sessions, Peters said he was a Swedish-born orphan who fled to the United States to escape the clutches of a drug and prostitution ring.

Believing he was a juvenile, the state Health and Rehabilitative Services department took custody of Peters, placed him in a juvenile home, provided psychiatric treatment and enrolled him in high school where the principal described him as an average, congenial student.

Then about two months ago, Nelson said, a woman from the Tampa area telephoned authorities. She refused to give her name, but said she had seen a picture of "Darkholme" in a newspaper and recognized him as a young man she had worked with in a traveling sales group selling chemical cleaners door-to-door.

Kennedy's 'Camelot' Reassembles For Tribute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many of the top figures of President John F. Kennedy's "Camelot" marked the 20th anniversary of his death by reassembling in a white stone church to celebrate his life.

They were among the "best and brightest" of the Kennedy White House who helped forge the legacy that remains imbedded in America's mind.

They included Nicholas Katzenbach, the former deputy attorney general who helped him fight discrimination in the South, and Arthur H. Schlesinger, the former New York governor who negotiated his nuclear test ban treaty.

Also among the congregation was Abraham Ribicoff, who helped Kennedy obtain better health care for Americans, and Theodore Sorenson, who was one of his closest advisers.

Overall, scores of members of the Kennedy administration joined family and friends at Holy Trinity Church on Tuesday for a solemn yet joyful memorial mass.

"Remember him not in sadness but in joy," his brother, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., told the gathering of about 600. "He has never left us, and he never will."

Kennedy's sister, Eunice Shriver, and daughter, Caroline, were among the family members who gave readings during the mass, which combined quotations from his speeches with Bible passages.

Sen. Kennedy, delivering a closing tribute, said, "He has been made a legend, but we remember him as a man. We treasure him most as a son and a brother, husband, father, uncle, friend."

"His truest history is written in the hearts of people everywhere. ... He challenged us to do better, but he also understood that none of us — including himself — would never do as well as we should."

Appeal Planned In Alcohol Rehab Center Denial

The head of an organization that wants to locate an alcoholic rehabilitation center near Geneva says he will appeal a decision by the Seminole County board of adjustment denying a zoning exception for the project.

"I wasn't too surprised at the vote," said Jerry Kinzler, director of the Metropolitan Alcoholism Council of Central Florida, based in Orlando.

Kinzler said he thinks board members "are responding to emotions" of Geneva residents who vehemently protested the zoning change at the board's meeting Monday night.

He said the fears expressed about the center are based on "myths and basic misunderstanding of the disease of alcoholism."

Kinzler said the council already operates two treatment centers in Orlando, but seeks a third center in Geneva because the rural setting there would have a "therapeutic value" for persons recovering from alcoholism.

The board voted 4-1 to deny a request for a zoning exception on an 18 1/2-acre tract at Lake Harney and Lake Harney Heights roads that would allow the council to convert a home on the property into a rehabilitation center.

Kinzler said he will file an appeal on the decision with the Seminole County commission within 30 days.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY NOVEMBER 24, 1983
 Paths you've explored before will be the ones which will lead you to your greatest successes this coming year. Don't postpone victory by hacking your way through an unsurveyed forest.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Others will extend themselves for you today just because you are you. However, benefactors will shy away if you try to include outsiders. Order now: The New Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Send $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Mail an additional $1 and your zodiac sign for your Sagittarius Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your prospects for deriving economic benefits from a second source look promising today, but gains might not come in ways you originally envision.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Friends will go to bat for you today, but contacts in the workaday world may not. Don't request of them what you would ask of close pals.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your potential to achieve lofty goals is rather remarkable today. The only thing that could hold you back is if you doubt your own talents.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You might have a few rough knocks to contend with today. However, if you treat them philosophically rather than emotionally, you'll come out on top.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An old issue which was a thorn in the side for both you and your mate looks like it can be resolved at this time. Strive to make positive changes.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be very careful today not to show preferential treatment to certain companions while turning a cold shoulder to others.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Financial conditions are mixed for you today and you could gain as well as lose. Check your memory bank so that you don't repeat costly mistakes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Warmth, enthusiasm and generosity are your traditional tools which always produce good results. Don't invite failure today by not using them.

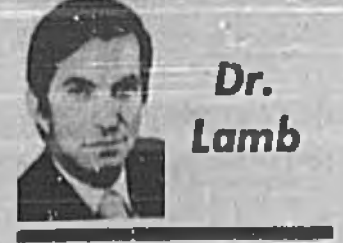

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's essential today to turn the other cheek. When you are forgiving instead of vindictive, evil is overcome.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Material gains could be denied you today because of your inability to see things for what they are. Be optimistic and hopeful, but also be realistic.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be tenacious. See things through today. You have the wherewithal to turn losers into winners, especially where money is concerned.

Alcohol Feminizing; Kills Male Hormones

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to direct this letter to the younger readers who are drinking alcohol. I started drinking in high school to "follow the crowd." My grades fell and the only thing I cared about was where the parties were and having a good time. Of course, I became an alcoholic. My life became unmanageable. I never held a job very long and my social life was below par.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I insisted my problems were not related to alcohol at all — my parents and the crazy world were at fault. Besides it was "cool" to drink.

I wrecked a number of cars, landed in jail, lost true friends and, most of all, I lost my self-respect. I cut my right wrist punching out a window, almost bled to death and lost the use of my hand. I'm 25 now and I don't have any more in my life than I had when I was 15.

But with the help of my future wife I got help at Alcoholics Anonymous. I have never felt better and have started to live again. It is not an easy road to take to admit you have a problem, but it is well worth it. Getting drunk and getting high is unreal. Living sober and being yourself is real. You don't need booze and drugs to enjoy life.

DEAR READER — Thank you for sharing your experience with others. And you do have more than you had when you were 15. You have regained your self-respect and recognized that you are the person who will decide your course in life, not your parents or the world. You are the one who will determine if you are to be an alcoholic, a problem to yourself and society, or a positive personality with positive effects on the world.

I would like to add that for males using alcohol is not a sign of masculinity. Alcohol destroys male hormones in the body and decreases the ability to form male hormones. Alcohol is a feminizing drug. And alcohol does much more harm to the body.

DEAR READER — I wish there was a solution. It is an autoimmune disease. That means your immune system starts fighting your own body and in this case affects the glands that provide normal fluids, such as your tear and salivary glands. It sometimes occurs in conjunction with rheumatoid arthritis. The treatment is as you have described it, using various solutions to replace body fluids.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

with any example hand.

Today's hand belongs in six diamonds. There are any number of ways of bidding to this contract; the one shown in the box was used by Howard Parker of Shreveport and Al Chiles of Little Rock.

Al won the club lead in his own hand and saw 12 easy tricks if trumps would break 3-2. So he cashed his ace and king and got the bad news. Then he looked around to see how to come to 12 tricks with that misfortune.

It didn't look easy. Al saw that he could not get there unless West held at least three clubs, so he had to assume that. Then he worked out that if West held 4-2-4-3, he could make his slam.

Two more club leads went through. The A-K of spades, a spade ruff, ace of hearts and a heart ruff followed. Now he led dummy's last spade and ruffed it for trick 11. Another heart was led and West could not keep the trump jack from being the twelfth trick.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby
 Fifty years ago Ely Culbertson said, "If you show me all the cards, the Culbertson system will bid to the right contract."
 What he meant was that if you want to, you can justify your own methods
