BONUS KILLERS FOR EX-MILITARY?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate wants to kill a 1 per cent bonus on cost-of-living pension increases for retired federal civil service and military personnel. Under present law in effect since 1969, federal retirees receive a 4 per cent pension increase whenever the cost of living goes up 3 per cent and remains at that level for three months. The extra 1 per cent was intended to compensate retirees for the time lag in computing cost-ofliving pension increases. But its operation led to a 72 per cent increase in federal pensions since 1969, compared with a cost-of-living increase of 56 per cent. The elimination of the bonus was approved Wednesday by the Senate by voice vote and sent to a House-Senate conference that is deciding whether federal judges, the president's Cabinet and top federal executives earning $37,800 a year or more will get a pay raise of about 4.8 per cent Oct. 1 along with all other federal employes. Both the House and Senate have voted to deny the costof-living raise to legislators. But the House went further to cut off the adjustment this year to the judiciary and top executive branch officials. Elimination of the 1 per cent kicker on federal employe pensions was proposed by Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C. who said it would save nearly $200 million in the next fiscal year and $3.8 billion by 1980.

Hollings' proposal was adopted along with a modification by Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., to replace the quarterly cost-of-living pension adjustments with semi-The Associated Press revealed in Feburary 1975 that the formula, designed to keep federal pensions in step with inflation, actually propels them increasingly ahead. The House last month voted 238 to 143 in favor of a bill to end the kicker for civil service retirees, but it failed to pass under a procedure requiring a two-thirds majority.

Parents Win Bid For A School Bus

The familiar orange school bus should be traveling the streets of Altamonte Springs' Trailwood subdivision again next week following action taken by the seminole County School Board Wednesday night.

The board, responding to a heavy turnout of parents from both the Trailwood and Bel-Aire-Weathersfield areas, agreed to restore courtesy busing service for Trailwood children who attend Spring Lake Elementary "We will make every effort to have (the children) bused by Monday morning," said School Supt. William P. (Bud) Layer. But School Transportation Director Fred Taylor told the board that the county presently is operating with 16 overloaded buses and that the situation must be resolved before another vehicle will be available for

Kathryn Hix, president of the Spring Lake PTA, read a statement to board members on behalf of both groups of parents. She said Trailwood parents were concerned because the school bus had been removed from their neighborhood at the start of the current school year, forcing children to walk to class along "a desolate, one-lane dirt road impassable by bicycles because of heavy sand" and occasionally traveled by automobiles Mrs. Hix read from the minutes of a school board meeting Dec. 4, 1974, at which the panel voted to provide courtesy busing in the Trailwood section until improvements were made, including construction of a bleyeld path to the Spring Lake school. "Now listen, you can't build a bicycle path on other people's property," Layer said. "I think the statement (in 1974) was that we would get together with the county commission and see if (building a bicycle path)

School board attorney Douglas Stenstrom agreed with Layer that only the commission could legally grant permission for construction of a bicycle path or for barricading the dirt road to vehicular traffic.

But Stenstrom added that all action taken by the school board has the effect of being law and must either be complied with or changed. "The busing has got to be provided until three members of this board reverse it with official action," Stenstrom said. "Otherwise. you're going to put yourselves in a position to ose a lawsuit." Board member Pat Telson pointed to the fact that the county commission was also mentioned in the 1974 minutes as being responsible for making improvements in Trailwood, but Board Member Davie Sims

Fuqua-Bevis Runoff In Doubt

MIAMI (AP) — Former Tallahassee Mayor Russell Bevis is optimistic he can beat Rep. Don Fuqua, D-Fla., in a runoff election. The question is, will there be a runoff?

Fuqua's aides said late Wednesday that there won't be. They claim their count of the Tuesday's primary vote shows Fuqua with just enough over 50 per cent to give him a victory - a claim which may take days for election officials to officially substantiate or history imports and exports each exceeded $10 billion in a single month in the United States. Now the bad news. The United States bough $827 million more from other countries in July than they bought from us, which constitutes our worst deficit in trade for the last two years. It is possible to become too alarmed at imbalances in trade because international commerce has many self-adjusting mechanisms. For example, if the red ink continues to appear on U.S. gers too long, the value of the dollar in relation to other currencies will drop. The tendency would be for the United States to buy less abroad as foreign goods became more expensive and American goods would become bargains in in-

The July figures are different, however. Fully $527 million of the deficit represents an increase in the import of oil from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. More than that, the United States has doubled its dependence on direct supplies of Arab oil in the first half of 1976. according to authoritative trade publications. Fully 12.4 per cent of our oil supply comes from the nations that imposed an embargo on us in 1973.

Meeting in Vienna recently, members of OPEC said that oil prices will be reviewed at the organization's next meeting Dec. 15 in Qatar. There is little doubt about what will happen Walter J. Levy, the influential oil economist in London, has completed a study recently which concludes that there will be a short term shortage of oil by mid 1977, accompanied by a substantial increase in prices. "The central question that will arise in the world oil economy in 1977," he adds, "will be how that its production ceiling needs to be raised." Currently Saudi Arabia produces 8.8 million barrels of oil a day. However, it can afford to produce anywhere from 3.5 to 11.8 million, which clearly puts it in the driver's seat so far as prices nd heeds of energy are concerned. In retrospect, the embargo of 1973 seems almost like a dream. Few Americans probably can recall the plea from President Nixon in 1973 for a Manhattan type of crash project to assure that the policy of the United States could not be held hostage by Middle East oil producers.

More recently in January, 1975, President Ford proposed in his State of the Union message that in he "near term" — by 1977 — the United States halt its dependence on growing oil imports. By mid term - 1975 to 1985 - he wanted the United States to be free of the fear of any embargoes. After that, he felt, the United States should be able to supply the free world with energy.

Not only have we not taken the first step, we are crawling backwards. Three years after an embargo rocked the nation down to its heels, the United States is a greater oilcoholic than ever and isn't even talking about taking the cure. Comfort and convenience are taking precedence over the rubber workers and the Goodyear company reached a set-tlement that can only be described as inflationary. It provides a 36 per cent wage boost over a three-year contract. That averages 12 per cent a year. A few more settlements like this and we will be back into double-digit inflation. The public interest in avoiding inflationary wage set-tlements is clear. And yet public officials seem powerless to intervene. They do not even protest.

Meanwhile, the economic losses resulting from a fournonth shutdown of the rubber plants will never be recouped, either by the companies, the workers, or the general public. There must be a fairer and less costly way of settling labor disputes than the strike and settlement method. Public officials should study more rational methods used in other countries,

Libya's Maps Expand Nation

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) - The Libyan government has issued new official maps expanding the country's southern border to take more than 52,000 square miles of territory from Algeria, Chad and Niger. The apparent annexation was made without fanfare, war or protests from Libya's neighbors. The territory is thought by some to be rich in iron ore, uranium and phosphates. Prime Minister Abdul Salam Jalloud has denied that his government seized land in the border areas.

Stray Animals Pose A Threat In Region

NEWS ITEM: New York - A mother who left her five-day-old daughter alone with a starving German Shepherd while she went to get money for food returned to find the baby dead, partially eaten by the dog.

Can it happen here? Seminole Anima Control Officer Bruce Clark says "yes." It can, he warns, unless something is done to halt the spread of pets without owners. And, out at the animal control center at Five Points, Clark and his workers kill 500 cats and dogs a month because the animals have no owners.

Many of the animals, Clark says, are picked up off the streets, or, in some cases, the owner realizes he can't afford to feed the dog or cat so he brings the animal in for the final coup-de-grace. "I wish some of them (former owners) would come out here and watch me put the pets down," Clark says bitterly. He blames the current animal problem on "irresponsible ownership" and says if humans aren't careful the problem of stray dogs and cats on the streets will be "out of control."

Seminole County will see incidents similar to the one in New York City. Already, Clark says a high number of dog-bite victims are being reported in Seminole County. About 50 persons are bitten each month by the approximately 30,000 to 40,000 pets in Seminole, Clark says. Of course, Clark notes, he deals with only bite victims who He said about 90 to 95 per cent of persons bitten are bitten by household pets, or former household pets that haven't been fed. But the real tragedy, as Clark sees it, is the number of animals that receive monthly injections in the heart to end their lives because nobody will claim them. At any given time about 120 animals are on hand at the facility.

After a dog or cat is picked up, the animal s held for five days while officials make efforts to contact the owner. Then the animal is placed out for adoption for an additional

If the animal isn't adopted, Clark kills it. Clark points out that "putting the animal to sleep" is preferable to "scraping it up off the highway with a shovel."
