Home Sweet Home
Man is here to live, to feed, Under the sun we are good.
Living to serve, we are To serve the metal culture to see, Kneeling rock and song of song In the pastures on the tongue.
In a swamp of dirt and mud Crouching while the bullet flies, Quivering belly in the mud.

The Tunisian campaign since the Chateaux D'Orléans of this war.

The Italian, of course, Milan and Genoa are beginning to learn what German strategists have known for years.

With all the noise around there's no room for us to wonder.
It has been a bad thing if we had built that, it's paid us for years ago.

Welland, Takashita has predicted that some day Japan's forces will enter New York Harbor. A good line to feed Japan but we doubt if they'll take enough hashing to do it.

We see it in Washington paper where Melvin Douglass, the green star, has enlisted in the Army, but we're not quite sure yet whether he enlisted in the Army in Washington or in the Washington area.

Many women are getting men's wages these days. There's nothing new about that though, except the method. So Peters burg Independent. Yeah, they're been getting them for years, but it isn't so much trouble now.

The army will no longer take men over 35. However, it was only a year ago that men over 30 were being released. Don't give up, old timers. East Myers News Press. Next time you know they'll be refusing women in the Army.

Don't get the idea that the war is won just because we are ahead and continuing to make progress. Washington, D. C. is over and the last month hasn't before starting to shout King West Citizen. The hole is never won until the last putt is tunk.

Now that fuel of rationing has become a deadly reality, home owners should buy themselves a thermometer. When the fuel oil is out, they can look at the thermometer and if it says 50 degrees, they will know that they are not really cold, they merely think so.

One of the arguments against the use of intoxicating liquor has even the most ardent wets have never been able to answer.
Fact is that in nearly every application for a position of any importance or responsibility and in every letter of inquiry to those whose names have been given as reference the question is asked: Does the applicant use liquor?
Tampa Star-Advocate. That's worth thinking about.

Gov. Holland says "Before the war ever started a million men from other states will have seen Florida. Do you think they will ever be satisfied with anything else but Florida?" Before the war is over thousands of men who have never heard of Sanford will be stationed at our local air station for two months or longer.
We can help make their stay more pleasant and what is more, if they like it here, they will want to come back after the war is over.

There ought to be money in raising chickens these days, particularly if you know anything about raising chickens and they raise eggs are being imported from Florida at the rate of about one thousand cases per week.
The state is consuming cases at the rate of three thousand cases per week. Florida will certainly be able to produce enough eggs to feed her own people and there should be money in producing eggs for Army men. It makes us shiver. The song was also known as John Brown's Body.

Do You Mind?

We always read the ads in a newspaper. Usually we read them first because as a rule they are so much better written than the editorials. The other day we read one over the signature of a prominent railroad. We hope every one read that ad, especially those who in this day of limited transportation facilities have to travel a good deal.

It was about "The Kid in Upper 4" and this is the way it read:

It is 3:42 p.m. on a troop train.
Men wrapped in blankets are breathing heavily.
Two in every lower berth. One in every upper.
This is no ordinary trip. It may be their last in the U.S.A. till the end of the war. Tomorrow they will be on the high seas.
One is wide awake... listening... your up into the blackness.
It is the kid in Upper 4.

Tonight, he knows, he is leaving behind a lot of little things—and big ones.
The taste of hamburgers and pop. the feel of driving a roadster over a six-lane highway... a dog named Shucks, or Spot, or Barnacle Bill.
The pretty girl who writes so often... that gray-haired man, so proud and awkward at the station... the mother who knits the socks he'll wear soon.

Tonight he's thinking them over.
There's a lump in his throat. And may be a tear fills his eye. It doesn't matter. Kid Nobody will see... it's too dark.

A couple of thousand miles away, where he's going, they don't know him very well.
But people all over the world are waning, praying for him to come.
And he will come, this kid in Upper 4.
With new hope, peace and freedom for a tired, bleeding world.

Next time you are on the train, remember the kid in Upper 4.

If you have to stand enroute, it is so many have a seat.

If there is no berth for you—it is so that he may sleep.

If you have to wait for a seat in the dinner car... it is to be... and thousands like him... may have a meal they won't forget in the days to come.

For to treat him as our most honored guest is the least we can do to pay a mighty debt of gratitude."

Salvation For Italy

Obviously Italy, for her own salvation, should pull out of the war and help herself instead of helping Hitler. Every consideration of common sense and historical policy demands it.

The British nation has been traditionally a friend and associate of Britain, and in recent times has been rather closely linked with America—until the advent of Mussolini.
That fiery upstart, who at first seemed to be a savior for Italy in a period of distress, has proved to be her worst handicap.

It was Mussolini who created modern Fascism, and Hitler merely copied his system, with weird variations. For a time Italy seemed to thrive under it. Industry recovered and the helpless nation gained power. But the pupil surpassed the teacher in the art of government by personal force.
Hitler gradually elbowed the Duce aside, took over Italy and made it virtually an accessory to his criminal war against civilization. Now Mussolini, broken in health and spirit, is merely a "yes man" for the teutonic intruder.
The Italian people are in great distress and poverty, unwilling tools of Hitler in his efforts to save his own crazy system.

The United States government, by its proved friendship to the Italian people, has opened the way for an Italian revolt against slavery. Britain, through Churchill's recent speech, has given the Italians a more direct invitation to swing over to the Allied Nations. They will yet break their chains and join the free powers.

WHAT ABOUT YOUR SOLDIER?

By MRS. ERNEST HOUSHOLDER

This is the morning of Sunday, Dec. 6. All the world has been enveloped in a heavy fog, but now the fog is dissolving into tears.
The tears are running down the faces of the leaves of the boughs of the trees; they are dropping from the arms of the trees and even the oranges seem to be weeping.

We know that in an hour or two the newspapers will bring in headlines reminding us that a year ago this Sunday the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor. We know that editors, columnists, war correspondents will turn out grandiose comment and graphic stories as to what took place there.

We can have no place in that, for we are not qualified. All we know at the moment is that the whole world seems gray, defeated, sobbing. But, better than that, we know that Mother Nature and human nature are much alike. We know that fog and tears are always followed by sunshine and tears.

So go to it, you ole Japs! We are coming out on top, in spite of all you did. And you know who we are? We are the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA!

And this is Monday, the second of December. Just a few hours since the sneak attack upon Pearl Harbor.

Last year upon this date we could not sleep and a melody kept creeping into our mind which we thought we had completely forgotten. But to this melodic words seemed to click into place. The tune was the "Hymn of the Pilgrims" and as a child, we used to sing it always, by rote, and tears moistened our eyes as that we could not bear that line about "the grave moulder in the grave."

March Of Time Depicts American People In Wartime

The current issue of the motion picture, "March of Time," which is entitled "Mr. and Mrs. America" shows how people of the United States have responded to war and emphasize the support the workers on the home front are giving the men who are doing the fighting. Charles Morrison, manager of the local theater, stated this morning, adding that the film will be shown with the scheduled feature Sunday and Monday.

Mr. Morrison, in describing the editorial picture said:

"It has made great changes in the American scene, and the American people have made contributions and sacrifices to insure ultimate victory. But The March of Time reminds moviegoers that the army of workers on the Home Front is essential to the successful prosecution of the war, and gives due credit to the people at home who have been going quietly about their jobs, building up the men in the front lines."

"An important feature of the film is a pictorial "mail" letter from "Mr. & Mrs. America" to their son in the service, telling him what the folks back home are doing and how they are backing up the boys by their own efforts on the Home Front. The letter tells of the scrap drives, how volunteers get in the harvests, recounts Civilian Defense activities and sums up the state of mind of the people about the war and their determination to see it through."

Glamour Is Better Distributed Among Opera Goers Now

By JOHN SELBY
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The Metropolitan Opera is formerly opened and doing business at the familiar Broadway stand. But it is no longer the human body we used to know—like the human body, it grows all over again.

Tickets are still sold on the basis of music and glamour. Only the tickets are sold at a $5 top instead of $7, for the first time in more than 30 years, and the glamour is better distributed.

Last Monday there were the same gaudy lurid posters, the same blinding flash bulbs, and the same costly glasses from box to box and seat to seat, to be sure the neighbors were not better done out. But the dress and costume jewelry trades have spoiled the show. The old

It's not quite so glamourous when on your way to your box in a new and theoretically exclusive gown, you pass its exact copy going upstairs to the family circle. Nor is it possible to tell if the new pieces don't come from an imitation at more than four times.

It used to be that the Met depended almost altogether on imported artists—there were Americans in the roster all the time, but mostly they carried spears. The situation is exactly reversed now: 44 percent of the entire troupe is American, and the Metropolitan is importing its own artists to South America and other available opera-minded countries.

And in the old days, which means pre-depression days, Gatti-Casazza used to end practically every season with a profit. Those were the days when the subscription sale was rock-like and secure; this winter the war has cut it down, although Edward Johnson, the general manager, expects single sales to cover the drop.

One matter of fact, the point is that the Met is still the star between the Met and booking agent in taxes. Last season, with taxes forgiven, the opera would have been $18,000 in the hole after bagatelle opera companies come bagatelle.

There is another evidence that opera circles are not long for the members of the Metropolitan Opera Club come together in solemn vespers. Since 1909 the all-mail members of the club has sat in two impressive rows in the ornate box on the second bayonet tier of their glowing red velvet seats. But they have been known for many years as the gingers.

But all was changed at the stroke aforementioned. From now on it will be proper for them to sit along in a dinner room, if the war brings dinner room. It means that you may as well wear a business suit and a bow tie if we want.

EDWARD JOHNSON took the decision. Opera executives were asked to meet recently for a conference to discuss the future of the Metropolitan. They had to agree that the present system was not good enough, a body of opinion in the

Rabbit Shortage May Produce Boom In Rabbit Raising

Features
WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—A nationwide meat shortage is expected to produce a boom in backyard rabbit raising.
Food supply authorities say rabbit production is one of the most feasible methods of increasing the family meat supply. Rabbit meat, they point out, is highly nutritious, palatable and economical and can be served throughout the year.
Government authorities say another economic advantage of rabbit raising is that all rabbitskinners, regardless of size or color, have commercial value.

However, if you are a novice going into rabbit raising—please, hurry—it's a good idea to obtain advice from reputable breeders or federal or state authorities.

That is the kind you will always find at

Associated Press Releases 1942 All-America Grid Team

By HERB HARKER
Associated Press Sports Editor
DETROIT, Dec. 11. (P)—Revealing the tremendous concentration of football talent in the country, the 18th annual All-American team, chosen today by Associated Press sportswriters and editors, places to those two powerful leagues, averages two men from each of the Midwest, West, East, South, and Pacific Coast conferences.

On the All-American squad of players, named after a nation, nearly two-thirds are drawn from the Middle West and the South, while the remaining one-third comes from the North, 10 from the Midwest, five from the Far West, three from the South, and two from the Southwest.

This year's All-American differs from last year's in that the 1941 team in the persons of Frank Gifford, Tom Harmon, and George Schacht, all seniors, backed up the 1940 All-American champion, Dick Kazmaier, of Wisconsin.

Rounding out the All-American backfield with Binkley are Glenn Davis, Georgia; Tom Harmon, Missouri; Wayne Chapman and George Schacht, Michigan; and George Schacht, University and Mike Shubowsky, Pittsburgh College, called the crack Wisconsin end, and Dick Viking, Minnesota's great fullback.

Schacht, now 60, first made headlines in 1938 as a high school president and made his mark in the 1939 game against Georgia, the year he became the first All-American to score a touchdown in his first game.

Named to the guard positions are Garrison Hamby of William Blount, Tennessee; Eddie Conkle, holder, and Chuck Taylor of Stanford's Indiana. The center is George Gipp, Notre Dame, and Alabama's Crimson Tide.

The line anchored by the huge Johnson, Kentucky's star, and is Bob Shaw of Ohio State's Schriner's running mate, and is the All-American to the left, the back line star, shares the tackle position with Jimmie Johnson, Kentucky, and Harry, Kentucky, and Columbia all give representation for the first time.

Players who figured in the selections will be in the armed services next year, except for the two All-Americans, the Buckeyes, who also are seniors.

As a matter of fact, it is doubtful that any All-American will be available for the fall season, because of the heavy征兵.

But, if the 1942 campaign was the last for the duration, the All-American would be a good one! It was the daffiest, most unpredictable season in memory. The veterans, heroes and freshmen were used to make up shortages in virtually every position.

But out of the excitement, one fact has been established: that no section in the country could match the power of the All-American team.

Players who figured in the selections will be in the armed services next year, except for the two All-Americans, the Buckeyes, who also are seniors.

As a matter of fact, it is doubtful that any All-American will be available for the fall season, because of the heavy征兵.

But, if the 1942 campaign was the last for the duration, the All-American would be a good one! It was the daffiest, most unpredictable season in memory. The veterans, heroes and freshmen were used to make up shortages in virtually every position.

But out of the excitement, one fact has been established: that no section in the country could match the power of the All-American team.

The caliber of play shown considerably in most other sections of the All-American backfield, as shown by the number of offensive and defensive strengths.

—First All-American, All-

America in a quarter century may well be the last for some time to come.
