Fewer school days?

By VICKI DeBORNIER

SANFORD — The Seminole County school district's proposed budget cuts that may eliminate the student museum and the environmental center as well as jobs at schools and at the district administration headquarters, could effect students directly in the classroom too.

In a memo to school board members from acting superintendent Richard Wells, a list of options for budget reductions calls for, among other things, a decrease in the number of student attendance days.

Students in Seminole County, and throughout Florida, attend schools 180 days per year. Year Round Education's modified calendar also requires 180 days of attendance.

Wells' suggestions are based on suggestions received from questionnaires completed by employees at both the school sites and at the county office.

The list also calls for an increase in the student-to-teacher ratio. Teachers now average about 30 students per class.

Another suggestion made in the memorandum was that no new textbooks be purchased by the district. Allowances would be made for the purchase of replacement books, however.

Other suggestion guidance counselors media specialists at the middle and high school levels. High school occupational specialists, 10-month assistant principals, athletic trainers, room custodians and clerical assistants are on the list.

Some middle school resource teachers, custodians and clerical assistants are also suggested. At elementary schools some custodial, instructional assistants and curriculum specialists are also being targeted.

According to the memo, no action would be taken on any of the suggestions until a final See Days, Page 5A

Civic leader George Touhy, 91, dies

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — George Touhy, 91, of 201 W. 18th Street, passed away at 6:18 p.m. Tuesday at Central Florida Regional Hospital. Many local people have considered him as a leader and guiding light in helping others through service to the community.

Close friend John Mercer said today, "Sanford has suffered a great loss, a loss that will not be replaced." Mercer considered him as "a dedicated civic servant who was always there when you needed him."

Before joining the Army in 1942, Touhy was employed by General Motors Acceptance Corporation, and managed financial branches in Charleston and Greenville, S.C.

He served for two years in the Army, which included a tour of duty in England, going on the inactive list as a Captain in October 1944.

Following his discharge, he was named as the new manager of Holler Motor Sales Chevrolet and Oldsmobile, which was located at the corner of 2nd Street and Palmetto Avenue in Sanford.

He later went on to serve as Executive Vice President of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Seminole County for many years.

Popular Sanford short-cut to be ditched

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — It has become a daily chore for Seminole County Expressway Authority director Gerald Brinton as he drives to work each morning.

On his way to work at the County Services Building, Brinton stops by Zayres Plaza and replaces the barricades at two entrances to the plaza. The result of the chore doesn't last long.

"Every morning, I zip through, turn around and replace the barricades," said Brinton. "Sometimes on Monday, I have to put them all back."

Ever since the authority took ownership of the former shopping center in 1990, Brinton has tried to block traffic from taking a shortcut between Airport Boulevard and U.S. Highway 17-92 through the inviting parking lot. Expressway attorney Lonnie Groot was concerned about the potential liability expense if someone was injured because of the cut-through traffic.

A first attempt by using a chain with flags was scrapped quickly after the chain was removed soon after it was replaced each day. Barrels and barricades last maybe until the next morning, Brinton said.

First woman elected head of Florida Bar

TALLAHASSEE — Florida attorneys have elected a woman to serve as president of The Florida Bar for the first time, the organization said.

Patricia A. Seltz, who will assume the presidency next June, was chosen president-elect Tuesday with 13,386 votes, compared to 12,474 votes for John Edwin Fisher of Orlando.

Fifty-five percent of The Florida Bar cast ballots in the election, the highest percentage in 12 years.

Seltz is a partner in the Miami office of Steel Hector & Davis and was the firm's first woman partner.

A graduate of Georgetown University Law Center, Seltz worked her way through law school covering the U.S. Supreme Court for the Dallas Times Herald.

Bar votes not to oppose resignation

TAMPA — The Florida Bar's Board of Governors has voted not to oppose the irrevocable resignation of Frank Ragano, noted criminal defense lawyer whose clients included Jimmy Hoffa and Santo Trafficante Jr.

The Bar was moving to revoke the license, but The Florida Supreme Court is expected to accept Ragano's petition to resign within the next 60 days.

"That means he would not be eligible for reinstatement," Bar counsel Joe Cramer said Monday. "It's forever."

A move to strip Ragano of his license to practice law came last May after a Bar referee found him guilty of misconduct for seeking a $75,000 loan from client Mary Haire the day she was to testify in her murder trial. She was acquitted.

Ragano also faced disbarment after being found guilty in 1990 of failing to report as income more than $100,000 he got from investors to make a movie on the life of Hoffa. He is free on bail while appealing the federal tax conviction.

Charity sues man over donation

WEST PALM BEACH — A charity golf event featuring Jack Nicklaus was supposed to raise $500,000 for a family service agency, but the Oklahoma man who promised the big donation hasn't sent the check, says a lawsuit.

"It's devastating," said Edwin Reed, executive director of the Center for Family Services of Palm Beach County, which counsels needy families and helps the homeless. "We cannot provide as much service to the people who need us because we don't have the money."

The center sued Dr. Gerold Craft of Jones, Okla., in Palm Beach County Circuit Court on Monday.

Craft, whose company provides livestock feed, said Tuesday he had told the group his donation was contingent on completion of a business deal that hadn't gone through.

"I told them I would give it, and I still will," Craft said Tuesday.

The family center and the PGA of America's Junior Golf program expected Craft to pay about $500,000 in return for calling the event his own, Reed said.

State files complaint over class

MIAMI — The Florida comptroller's office filed an administrative complaint against Prudential Securities and two others after accusations that students taking an investment class were misled and lost thousands of dollars.

The 14 adult students, who took a night class at a Dade public school from broker James McCormick, claim he deliberately misled them into high-risk investments which netted him fat commissions.

Florida Comptroller Gerald Lewis charged in the complaint released Monday that McCormick sold unsuitable securities to the students without telling them of the risk and traded in customer accounts without permission.

The complaint also names McCormick's former supervisor, Dade County branch manager Walter Ulbricht. They have 21 days to appeal.

"I never intentionally did anything wrong or said anything that was not absolutely true," said McCormick, who left the securities business a year ago and now sells cars.

Ulbricht referred questions Tuesday to Prudential spokesman Jim Daniel in New York, who said the company is trying to work out an agreement with the state.

Employee accused of selling tests

TAVARES — A state employee was arrested on charges of illegally selling more than 100 commercial drivers license test sheets for $200 to $400 each.

Acolla Martin, 44, of Mount Dora is accused of entering the satisfactory results in the drivers license bureau's computer to make it appear applicants had passed the tests.

Martin, a 12-year employee, was charged Tuesday with five counts each of official misconduct, unlawful issuance of driver licenses, unlawful compensation and computer fraud.

The Florida Highway Patrol arrested Martin at her office near Tavares. She was released late Tuesday from Lake County Jail after posting $28,000 bail.

Gas, electric rates to rise

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Public Service Commission approved interim rate increases Tuesday of $31.2 million per year for Florida Power Corp. and $3.27 million for Peoples Gas System.

Both increases will affect a number of residents in Seminole County.

Beth Pittenger, with Florida Power Corporation said, "The rate increase will affect a total of approximately 98,000 of our customers in all of Seminole County. The area is mostly on the southwestern side of the county and includes most of Longwood."

A Winter Park FPC office spokesman explained, "Our specific area of service has unusual lines, but most of the northern part of the county is served by Florida Power and Light, while we serve most of the area south and west of Five-points on Highway 17-92."

Peoples Gas System also serves portions of Seminole County including most of Longwood. A spokesman at the company's Orlando office said, "Our area is generally south of S.R. 434, with a few exceptions in certain subdivisions." He could not immediately comment on how many customers are in the county.

The interim rates for FPC will be in effect until the commission acts on requests for permanent increases later this year.

Florida Power's 1.1 million customers will see their rates climb by 3.4 percent effective in 30 days. That will be a $1.53 per month increase for 1,000 kilowatt hours, considered about average use, from $70.85 now to $72.38.

The St. Petersburg-based company, Florida's second-largest investor-owned electric utility, serves a 32-county area of Central and North Florida. It is seeking a $145.9 million annual permanent increase that would drive rates up 12 percent.

Peoples' 200,000 customers will get an average 3 percent interim increase on their bills beginning with the April billing cycle. The price of 20 therms of natural gas, considered average monthly use, will go up by 56 cents from $18.30 to $18.86.

The company is Florida's largest gas distribution utility and serves most major markets.

State says dismiss class-action suit by poor women

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — The state wants to dismiss a suit by poor women — including one infected with the AIDS virus and another whose fetus was badly deformed — seeking state financial help with their abortions.

As long as the women insist on using pseudonyms, the state has no way of finding out anything about them, including whether their case is valid, Florida attorneys argued.

"We're trying to discover what we need to be able to properly answer the complaint," John T. Willett, one of the Orlando lawyers retained by the state, told the St. Petersburg Times for a story in today's editions.

Their motion cites other reasons the lawsuit should be dismissed, but the anonymity issue has infuriated abortion-rights advocates, who say pseudonyms often are used in such cases.

"What do they think Roe v. Wade is?" Jerri Blair, who represents the women, asked in reference to the 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion. "Do they think that was the woman's real name?"

Blair says she's willing to tell the state who her clients are and even let its lawyers depose them.

But her opponents "would not agree to be bound by an order of confidentiality, which I think is outrageous, considering one woman is HIV positive and the other was carrying a fetus that was severely deformed," she said.

Private donors have paid for the abortions of the two women, who now are the lead plaintiffs in a class-action lawsuit.

Charlene Carres, an attorney with the American Civil Liberties Union, said the motion seems to be a ploy to discourage the plaintiffs by embarrassing them.

"To be really frank, this looks like an act of meanness," she said. "It's an effort to avoid the main issue by requiring people to bare the most intimate details of their lives."

"That's got nothing to do with it," said Willett. He would not comment further.

The lawsuit names the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services as a defendant.

Committee debates personal income tax

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Nearing a May 7 deadline, the Florida Tax and Budget Reform Commission is pulling together the income tax, business tax and tax limit proposals it will propose putting in the state constitution.

A personal income tax remained among possible proposals approved by a constitutional drafting committee Tuesday, though member Bill Bryant Jr. said, "That has not been what we've heard a lot of support for."

Other constitutional changes the commission may propose for the November ballot include a value-added business tax that would do away with the need for lengthy review and elimination of sales tax exemptions.

Some members griped about the pace as the committee approved measures for discussion by the full commission today. The group begins voting at an April 1 meeting on what constitutional changes to propose. Chairman Tom Rankin said.

"We've been working for two years, we've got a month to go, and we don't have a number yet," Tallahassee attorney Steven Uhlfelder said of a proposed limit on state taxes and fees.

The proposal is to hold revenues to a percentage of statewide personal income but it doesn't say what percent. Rankin, a Tampa businessman, said that can't be filled in until the proposal is in final form.

The committee also approved proposals that would place in the Florida Constitution some of the types of budget reforms the Legislature enacted in the session that ended March 13.

They include a budget stabilization fund that would put away money in high revenue years to fill gaps when revenues sag, and a 72-hour public review period before a final vote on a state budget bill.

Another proposal would change the constitution to say the governor and cabinet can cut appropriations between legislative sessions.

That would eliminate the need for special sessions like the one held in December after the state Supreme Court said the executive branch can't take away what the Legislature appropriated.

The value-added business tax proposed by Miami attorney Parker Thompson would take the place of sales and other taxes on business, eliminating the need to deal individually with sales tax exemptions.

"All of this is going to be linked up somehow in one or two revision packages" to go on the ballot, Bryant said.

Governor signs bill ensuring health care

Florida first state to provide for all

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — The private sector can't extend care to all Floridians and slow the increase in costs by 1995, the state will step in. Florida is the first state to adopt such a policy that everyone has a right to receive treatment.

The options would be either a "play or pay" plan that levies a fee on employers who don't provide health benefits or a single-payer system to consolidate administration of health financing — setting rates, collecting premiums and paying bills — in one state agency.

The biggest immediate impact of the bill will be felt because of a section that deals with small-business insurance. The legislation requires insurers to sell policies to all small businesses but gives them the flexibility to negotiate benefits and costs if the customer rejects a standard or basic policy.

Another key section of the bill proposes a "buy-in" to Medicaid, the joint federal-state health care program for the poor. The state wants to divorce Medicaid from welfare programs like Aid to Families with Dependent Children and supplemental Social Security.

Chiles planned to travel to Washington on Thursday to meet with congressional leaders and administration officials to persuade them to support waivers for both Medicaid and Medicare, the federally administered health care program for the elderly.

The bill also creates the Agency for Health Care Administration, which will be headed by a governor-appointed director. The new agency will be responsible for regulation and planning now scattered between the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, the Department of Professional Regulation and the Health Care Cost Containment Board.

The new agency is charged with producing an interim report by this December, recommending the basic health care plan all Floridians should be entitled to.

Final recommendations are due by December 1993.

Cars burglarized

Sanford Police arrested Michael Joseph Proctor, 20, of Altamonte Springs Tuesday. Officers reported finding him and two other men breaking into cars parked at Aristocrat Motors, 4175 S. Orlando Drive. Although a K-9 dog and other officers searched the area, they were unable to locate the other two men. The items were among $1,700 reported taken from a home in Sanford. Only $1,300 of the items were recovered. Police report Sutton admitted selling some of the equipment to purchase crack cocaine. The truck had been reported stolen in Madeira Beach in Pinellas County. Sutton has been charged with grand theft auto and burglary. A second man said to have been with Sutton could not be located.

Lovely politics

Journalist E.J. Dionne aptly concluded in a recent book, "Why Americans Hate Politics," that voters resent being manipulated by candidates and their handlers. Increasingly, political campaigns, as reflected on television and echoed on radio, have become so trivialized and petty as to demean the democratic process.

Despite their professed desire to deal with substantive issues, candidates often resort to superficial 30-second sound bites and attack ads on television. Although more substance and detail is available in newspapers, magazines and journals, the print media nevertheless also swallows the same bait as does its electronic counterparts.

No wonder about half of all registered voters stayed home during the 1988 presidential election. In the last three decades, in fact, there has been a steadily declining turnout at the polls.

But this year could be different. A healthy series of debates among the Democratic presidential contenders has forced them to define their positions in more detail and also given voters an uncommon opportunity to examine their views.

More than in previous elections, the electorate this year is looking for complex answers which cannot easily be reduced to sloganeering. Voters want to know which candidate has a program to address the nation's economic and social problems. And they are not going to be satisfied with empty rhetoric. In short, they want candidates to level with them.

There are several ways this need can be satisfied.

For example, cable television's Discovery Channel provided 20 minutes of free air time to four presidential candidates. Hosted by Walter Cronkite, the three-hour program included presentations by former California Gov. Jerry Brown, Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas and former columnist Pat Buchanan. President Bush declined to participate.

Speaking without a backdrop or Tele-Prompter, each candidate had the opportunity to state his vision. This setting enabled viewers to listen carefully to what the candidates were saying, without being distracted by slick visuals.

Afterward, a panel of political analysts evaluated the format. Their suggestions included having average voters ask follow-up questions so that the candidates could expand on or defend their statements.

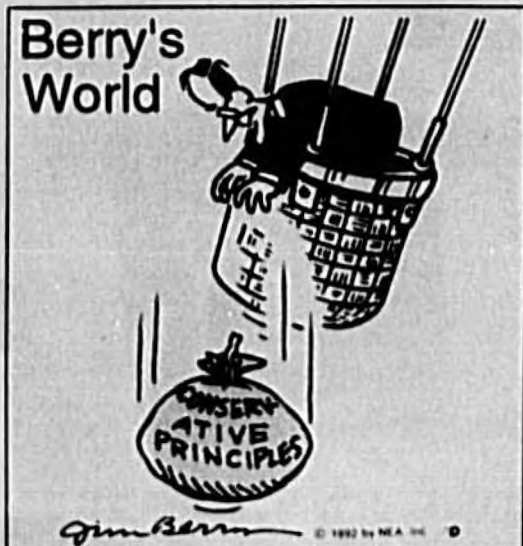

Several months ago, a Harvard University research team proposed that the three major TV networks and other news organizations broadcast in the fall two 90-minute presidential debates and one vice presidential debate. In addition, coverage of five issue-oriented conversations with the candidates would be rotated among the networks and carried live by the cable news organizations and public broadcasting stations.

The John and Mary Markle Foundation has offered to finance at least one-third of the $15 million it would cost public television to provide air time to the presidential candidates.

The plan is to feature a weekly political forum in September and October, with daily broadcasts during the week prior to Election Day. The New York-based foundation also recommends the candidates be offered increments of free air time, ranging from two to 15 minutes, to address specific issues on the weekly and daily programs.

Such forums could help elevate the level of political discourse above patriotic images and brief sound bites that, with the assistance of slick political campaign consultants, have come to dominate broadcast media coverage.

Better yet, straight talk from the candidates would encourage American voters to stop regarding democracy as a spectator sport.

Give us more beauty, hold the beast

Have they no shame? It's Academy Award time. And those licentious folks in Hollywood may choose as Best Picture a movie that features violence and sexuality, including potential carnality between a lovely young lady in bondage and a vicious animal!

Yes, the favorite is "Beauty and The Beast." I have been sensitized, having just moderated a conference on "The New Global Popular Culture," sponsored by the American Enterprise Institute (my home base). Some learned scholars, conservatives and liberals denounced the ugly state of American pop culture. Some pined for the days when the movie industry was rigidly self-censored. (Luckily, others disagreed.)

The anti-case is that movies are worse than ever, reveling in obscenity, nudity and brutality, often with an anti-American, anti-establishment, anti-religious subtext. Television, they say, is just as bad. Popular music may be worse because it can also be racist, misogynist, satanic and druggy. All this, it is said, is more pervasive than ever. From VCR to MTV to boom box, our children are being corrupted.

It is a serious issue. Our cultural situation, broadly seen, may indeed be at the root of our problems, including economic ones. (Just consider the costs of crime, drugs and out-ofwedlock birth.)

Are we corrupting our youth? It is useful to try to measure first. Let's look at the movies.

A.D. Murphy, box office analyst for "Variety," confirms the pervasiveness. He says "More Americans watch more movies, more often, in more ways, than ever." When television arrived, movie admissions fell from $4 billion (1948) to about a $1 billion (1961), where it has remained. But at-home markets boosted total viewership sky-high.

If movies are more pervasive than ever, so what? Are they bad stuff?

The dozen biggest hits released in the 1980s were "E.T.," "The Return of the Jedi," "Batman," "The Empire

From VCR to MTV to boom box, our children are being corrupted.

Strikes Back," "Ghostbusters," three "Indiana Jones" movies, "Beverly Hills Cop," "Back to the Future," "Tootsie" and "Rain Man." This is not exactly your run-of-the-mill, dirty dozen of pornographic violence.

So too in 1991. Murphy calculates that half of all admissions go to the top 30 films. Looking at the top 30 offers a flavor of what people are seeing.

"Home Alone" was in first place. "Terminator II" was second. I loved its campy, stylized violence; it could have starred Donald Duck rather than Schwarzenegger.

Of the remaining top 30 movies, I saw "Dances With Wolves," "City Slickers," "Doc Hollywood," "Awakenings," "Thelma and Louise," "Hook" and "Beauty and the Beast." My 7-year-old daughter saw "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles."

I still hope to see these, probably on cassette: "The Silence of the Lambs," "Robin Hood," "Sleeping With the Enemy," "Addams Family" "Boyz n the Hood."

And so on. Yes, there is some violence and some sex there; yes, there is some political subtext, rarely conservative. But mostly these are enjoyable, well-made stories, just like in the good old days.

Amelia Earhart mystery solved

BOSTON — The detectives have come back with their evidence. One rubber heel for a woman's size 9 shoe. A threaded top from a bottle that once held stomach medicine. A piece of aluminum skin from the fuselage of a pre-World War II plane.

These artifacts are now offered up as proof that Amelia Earhart died on an inhospitable atoll in the South Pacific. The 39-year-old pilot and her navigator attempting to add another first to her list — The First Pilot to Circle the Globe near the Equator — missed Howland Island. Out of fuel, they'd landed at Nikumaroro. Out of water, they died there.

"For 55 years, her fate has been a mystery," said Richard Gillespie presenting his finds at a news conference. "Today that mystery is solved."

Well, maybe. The Fate of Amelia Earhart has produced a cottage industry of speculators and mystery lovers. In the early years, there were rumors that Earhart had been taken prisoner by the Japanese, rumors she'd disappeared to assume another life. A few even believed she was Tokyo Rose.

Today's Amelia Earhart buffs are a more scientific bunch. But they remain skeptical and are likely to keep the case open. So be it.

Frankly, I find the mystery of Amelia Earhart's death less intriguing than the mystery of her life. If this woman has remained in the limelight long enough to please even her ardent publicist and husband, George Putnam, it's not because of her disappearing role. It's because of her historic role.

She is still one of that string of "first women" who stretch back through time. It links the first woman pilot to the first woman astronaut, to the first woman fighter pilot. For some the title is a breakthrough and for others a burden, but each changes the world a bit.

Amelia Earhart, "girl pilot," "aviatrix," was born in 1897 in Kansas and never saw a plane until she was 10. She didn't start flying until she was 23. In 1927, at the tail end of one woman's movement and long before another, she was a 30-year-old Boston social worker with a pilot's license, scrimping her way out of debt.

Out of the blue, Earhart was asked if she wanted to fly across the Atlantic. In the 1920s, flying was still something between a feat and a stunt, between pathbreaking and barnstorming. After Charles Lindbergh crossed the Atlantic and became an American hero, some people seeking attention for another flight, came upon the idea of the "girl pilot."

So, ironically, in an era when her chances were severely limited by being a woman, Earhart got this chance because she was a woman. When she leaped into fame as the first woman to fly the Atlantic, she was a passenger.

This tall, curly-haired, flight-jacketed woman who might have passed for Lindbergh's sister, quickly came into her own, breaking records and preconceptions, showing her strength.

One month, an article appeared saying it couldn't be done — "Why I Believe Women Pilots Can't Fly the Atlantic" — an outspoken warning by Lady Heath. The next month she did it, solo. Again and again, she was greeted with the peculiar applause and celebration that we reserve for women who do what we tell them they can't do.

Earhart's personal life was also marked by independence. On the eve of her marriage to Putnam, who both promoted and pressured her, she wrote "Dear George...I may have to keep some place where I can go to be myself now and then, for I cannot guarantee to endure at all times the confinement of even an attractive cage."

The place Earhart went to most often was the sky. In some ways, her career became being Amelia Earhart. Flying and speaking about flying, flying and writing about it. She made her living from her life, her fame fed by the string of firsts that must have become harder and harder to achieve.

Before she set off for the final trip around the world, weary, underprepared, with a hard-drinking navigator, she told friends that she had just one last big trip in her. She never finished it.

Had she made it home, Earhart might eventually have ended up like the pilot Beryl Markham, living in a bungalow on the edge of a Nairobi race track. Or she may have become an honored foremother at the front of some latter-day parade. Instead she became the heroine, perhaps a touch too romantic, but properly courageous, of any girl who wanted to fly in the face of convention.

"Women must try to do things as men have tried," she wrote in 1935. "When they fail, their failure must be but a challenge to others."

So let the aviation buffs set off again in search of bones and the serial number on a plane. In the end, the mystery of the spirit, the secret of daring, and the puzzle of courage are more intriguing and much harder questions.

For 55 years her fate has been a mystery. Today that mystery is solved.

Congress' stomach comes before bank

WASHINGTON — If members of Congress had paid as much attention to the House Bank as they do to other matters — like what they have for lunch — the rubbergate scandal might have been caught on the first bounce.

But, the alaphod operations of the bank went unnoticed by lawmakers for years. Even when the scandal first broke last summer, they didn't recognize how bad it was. They had their minds on weightier things, like food.

About the time the General Accounting Office was polishing off its damning report on bounced checks, the House leadership was congratulating itself on an ambitious culinary reform package for Capitol restaurants. Members had been bellyaching for years that the food and the service left much to be desired.

Rep. Charlie Rose, D-N.C., chairman of the House Administration Committee, spearheaded the reforms, with an emphasis on fresh veggies and a Southern accent to the meals. The House Members' Dining Room was refurbished under the direction of Heather Foley, wife and unpaid office boss for House Speaker Tom Foley, D-Wash.

These guys may not put too much stock in balancing a checkbook or a budget, but the quick resolution of the food crisis demonstrates that they know how to take care of business — personal business.

That image of a Congress that fiddles while Rome burns is what Americans are carrying into the voting booth this year. Congress takes care of itself while it allows the savings and loan scandal to mushroom into a trillion-dollar calamity. Congress runs up the national debt and gets free overdraft protection at the House Bank. Congress eats a salmon lunch for under $10 while America is brown-bagging it.

Over on the Senate side, they've also found that there is such a thing as a free lunch. The Senate restaurants and lunch counter operations spent $99,601 more than they took in during 1990, the most recent year audited by the General Accounting Office. That doesn't include the more than $2 million the Senate tossed in from taxpayers' money to pay for salaries, remodeling projects and new equipment. Nor does it include the $400,000 the taxpayers threw in to pay back an old loan. Nor does it include the free rent and utilities in the Capitol building. The bottom line — taxpayers subsidized their senators' lunch bill for well over $2.4 million in one fiscal year.

Paying back loans isn't a problem for the Senate when it can dip into the taxpayers' pockets. The $400,000 was borrowed in 1988 and promised for repayment in 1989. When the debt came due, the Senate simply appropriated $400,000 in tax money to the restaurant and called it even.

The House restaurants try to be self-sustaining, but it isn't easy when members sign the tab and then don't pay it for years. When that little indiscretion was exposed last summer, the outstanding amount owed the House food services system was more than $300,000. Some of the tabs were five years overdue.

Capitol Hill is indeed the "last plantation in America," a plantation that costs $2.3 billion a year to operate. There is free in-house medical service at a time when Congress can't pass a health-care bill. There is a $3,000 tax deduction for housing expenses when home affordability is at an all-time low for the common people. There is even a free TV studio so lawmakers can record sound bites to keep the folks back home mollified.

They had their minds on weightier things, like food.

School board rejects offer to buy land on French Avenue

By VICKI DeBORNIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Acting on the advice of the facilities department, the Seminole County school board rejected the offer made by a Clearwater developer to purchase 10 acres of land on French Avenue in Sanford.

The land, which takes up most of the block bordered by French Avenue and Elm Avenue and by 17th and 18th streets, has been for sale for several years, but there have been few offers on the property for which they are asking $615,000.

Rick Hardwick is offering $550,000 for the land, which he would like the city of Sanford to rezone commercially. His plans call for, he said in a recent letter to Jay R. Marder, the city's director of planning and development, call for a small neighborhood center of about 60 to 70,000 square feet to include a grocery store, a drug store and one out-parcel user.

Several years ago, public outcry against the plan caused the developers of the Winn Dixie plaza, now located across French Avenue near 15th Street, to withdraw their offer on the property.

The citizens who objected to the sale complained that the land, with a makeshift baseball diamond and green grassy areas is one of the few remaining "green areas" in Sanford.

Dianne Kramer, the school district's facilities planner, said the district was not concerned with what Hardwick planned to do with the land, only that the sale was contingent upon the rezoning of the property.

"We don't like all the contingencies that he has built into his offer," Kramer said. "He could tie this up for a year."

While Hardwick is waiting for the rezoning from the city, no one else would be permitted to make an offer on the land.

Kramer and acting Supt. Richard Wells recommended that Hardwick's offer be rejected and that the school board ask that he pay the asking price of $615,000 for the land.

"And we will ask that he eliminate some of those contingencies," Kramer explained.

Sun scholars at SCC

Some students at Seminole Community College see no point in wasting time between classes. Taking advantage of the bright sun in the quadrangle between the main classroom buildings, the library, the student center and the administration building, the students work on their labs while studying. The grassy area is a meeting spot for students at the Sanford campus, but the bright rays always bring out the sun worshipping scholars.

Rushdie makes appeal for help

By MIKE FRIMOLSER
Associated Press Writer

ARLINGTON, Va. — The invitation sent to Washington journalists and educators promised a speech by Mike Wallace of television's "60 Minutes," but that was just a ruse.

When a door swung open and the guards stiffened, it was author Salman Rushdie who walked through to make a case that the world is losing interest in protecting him from the death sentence pronounced by the late Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini three years ago.

Khomeini decreed "The Salanic Verses" was "blasphemous" to Islam and offered a million-dollar bounty for anyone who would kill its author.

Last year, the book's Japanese translator was murdered in one attack and the Italian translator was severely wounded in another. Both strikes were believed to have been inspired by Khomeini's denunciation of the book.

Still, Rushdie, 44, in a rumpled maroon jacket, his hair overlapping his collar, seemed at ease Tuesday night at a Freedom Forum conference on barriers to free expression.

He could even joke. A Pakistani in the audience told him that not only Iranians — but Muslims the world over — were ready to carry out Khomeini's decree.

"Well, thanks for the information," said Rushdie, drily.

But there's a distinction, he went on, serious now.

While many Muslims would like to see him dead, Rushdie said, Iran's threat constituted "terrorism by remote control, terrorism by edict and bounty ... state-sponsored professional terrorism."

This, he said, represents a threat not only to him but to the freedom to publish and the freedom to read.

"Today it's me," he said. "Tomorrow it will be you."

Rushdie suggested that Britain, which has guarded him around the clock and moved him periodically from one safe house to another since 1989, may be eager to shed that responsibility.

Budget

The county does have about $8.2 million in appropriated road construction dollars that might be used for delayed projects, said county budget director Jean Kussab, Commissioner Jennifer Kelley suggested a portion of the money might be used to pave Jungle Road in east Geneva. The $500,000 project was delayed last year due to anticipated revenue shortfalls.

One area the auditors recommended improving was two county "enterprise" funds for water and sewer services and landfill operations. Although the county water and sewer fund ended the year with nearly $2 million in revenues beyond expense, the amount was $671,000 less than the income from the previous year.

The excess earnings amount is approaching the safety level required under county water and sewer improvement bonds and may require a rate increase. County Manager Ron Rabun said he is reviewing the need for a rate increase and possibly refinancing 1987 water and sewer bonds.

Another area that may need a rate review is the county solid waste fund, which operates the county garbage dump. Again, revenues exceeded expenses by $806,000, but that was almost half the excess amount the county received the year before. County recycling officials are reviewing the need for a rate increase to meet expenses and cover the eventual costs of closing the county dump and sealing it forever some 50 years or more in the future.

"Every morning, they drive up, move a barricade or two out of the way and then they're on their way," Brinton said. "Some people, I guess with an old beat up truck, just drive right through 'em. I guess people are mad we blocked their shortcut."

Authority members have approved spending $1,750 to permanently remove the two plaza accesses at the western end of the center. The money will come from the rents the authority collects from the nearby-fully-leased shopping center.

Brinton said county traffic engineer Steve Decker recommended removing the asphalt entranceways, digging out the ground between the parking lot and Airport Boulevard roadway and creating a ditch.

during the March 5 City Commission meeting.

Many of the citizens appointed to the board have already had connections with various aspects of the City Charter. Mahoney is a former City Commissioner. Greene and McMenamy are both presently members of the city's Planning and Zoning Commission.

Sawyer, with no previous board service, had studied the Charter extensively during a recent successful drive to bring about a cap on certain city spending without a public referendum.

According to Mayor Randy Morris, "The chairmen of the three city boards have agreed to serve on the Charter Review Committee." They would include J. Craig Spearman, of the Business Advisory Board, John Hauck of the Board of Adjustment, and Lowry Rockett of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Commissioner Jore originally suggested the board members serve on the Review Committee, "so these boards have in-put for coordination."

Commissioner Duryea agreed, saying he felt the board members have knowledge of the codes and City Charter and possibly more insight.

During the most recent City Commission meeting, City Manager John Litton suggested four main goals the Commission may wish to have the review committee address. They included, Form of government, Composition of the Commission and role of the Mayor, At-large representation, and Length of terms of the Mayor and Commission.

Litton added, "We will also provide the Charter Review Committee with the housekeeping revisions to the Charter which were recommended by the City Staff last year."

Each of the proposals however, was rejected by the members of the Commission. The new suggestions include the proposed housekeeping changes. The Commission is also asking the Charter Review Committee to look at "Better defining the role of Mayor," and "Excluding the Utility Department from requiring referendums for bond financing and multi-year expenditures."

Morris has sent a letter to each of the board members. In it he suggests, "While these three areas had the unanimous consensus of the Commission for review, it is not the intention of the Commission to limit the purview of your study to just those items."

Morris cautioned the Commission, "All of your meetings are held under Florida Sunshine Laws and are thereby public meetings." He stressed, "Due to Sunshine restrictions, please DO NOT contact City Commissioners. During your deliberations we will keep at an arms length relationship with the committee."

The first meeting of the committee is scheduled for 7 p.m., March 30, in the commission chambers at the Lake Mary City Hall. The meeting will feature an explanation of the Sunshine Law by the City Attorney. The committee will also select a chairperson to officiate at future meetings.

The Mayor has suggested meetings continue through April and May, with the revision report being forwarded to the City Commission by early June.

Senate offers budget version

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The head of the Senate tax panel says expanded liquor taxes and higher intangibles taxes on the wealthy could ease spending cuts for education, social services and corrections.

Sen. Winston "Bud" Gardner, D-Titusville, added his $503 million package to the proposals before the state Legislature on Tuesday.

Action on a budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 isn't expected until a late May session, but Gov. Lawton Chiles has asked lawmakers to begin discussions. He's pushing for his own nearly $1.4 billion sales-tax-exemption and business tax package.

Gardner also proposed using $11 million from working capital reserves to continue aid for the medically needy that is slated to end April 1. The program helps people who can't qualify for some welfare benefits because they work, but can't afford medical insurance.

Chiles is determined to continue it, said his budget director, Doug Cook. "He's very concerned about the working capital fund as well, but we're talking about people's lives."

Cook called Gardner's revenue proposals "a good first step. Two weeks ago we were talking about zero. This week we're talking about $500 million."

Senate President Gwen Margolis, D-North Miami Beach, said she didn't know what chance Gardner's plan had. "But he's certainly raising the issues, and he's not talking about the astronomical figures the governor's chatting about."

Gardner proposed raising $194.9 million for public schools, $44.7 million for community colleges and $83.3 million for universities.

Extending a tax on retail on-premises alcoholic beverage sales to all retail sales would raise $272.5 million of that, even with a 25 percent cut in the tax rate, he said.

"Since the alcoholic beverage lobby is so strong, I thought that it was only right that it be tied to such a strong lobby as education," Gardner said.

"We welcome it," said university system Chancellor Charles Reed, attending the news conference.

Ending tax breaks for laundry, dry cleaning, pet, lawn and garden and tree services, race-horse feed and rare coins would raise more education funds.

County budget increases from mid-year adjustments

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County budget is about to bulge by more than $37 million.

That will be the result of today's mid-year adjustments by Seminole County commissioners. The county makes the adjustments to revenue and expense predictions so money doesn't fall short in some areas by the end of the fiscal year on Sept. 30. The adjustments, if approved, will increase the budget approved last September from $283 million to $320.4 million.

Despite declining revenues in the county's $73.8 million general fund, county officials' frugality resulted in a $1.6 million increase to the county "rainy day" fund. According to current county Office of Management and Budget projections, revenues from the half-penny of the state sales tax shared with counties will be $813,000 less than the $10.2 million expected. State-shared revenues are expected to fall $172,575 below the $4.6 million projected amount.

A projected $3.5 million shortfall in water and sewer revenues will force a rate increase, said OMB Director Jean Kasab. The shortfall won't require a reduction in operations, but will require a reduction in reserve and construction accounts, Kasab said.

Although it appears county buffers are overflowing, much of the extra $37 million comes from two areas. About half of the difference results from the anticipated sale of $15.4 million in bonds to finance the first phase of the county's land preservation program. The bonds are expected to be sold by next month to finance a land-buy program. Voters approved a $20 million program in 1990.

Commissioners will consider a list of recommended purchase prospects for the environmental preservation today.

The largest portion of additional money represents $7.6 million in unspent impact fees for road improvements. Kasab said she had overestimated the amount of money needed for road construction this year, which, she said, is not a bad thing.

"If I overestimate, then we can transfer the money to reserves for next year," said Kasab. "But if I underestimate, then we don't have the money available to do the work."

The $7.6 million was transferred to another road construction account, which due to accounting practices, doubled the amount in county ledgers. Other unspent road revenues will bolster the reserve account by a total of $10.5 million.

Smart cars unveiled in Orlando

By Associated Press

ORLANDO — America is leading other countries in the design of computerized "smart cars" which steer drivers away from clogged roads, said U.S. Transportation Secretary Andrew Card.

General Motors on Tuesday formally unveiled its travel technology, or "TravTek." It has been placed in 100 Oldsmobile Toronados to be tested for one year on Central Florida roads.

The cars are fitted with computers, video screens and other equipment that monitors highway conditions and plots the most efficient course to a given destination.

"This is not just a toy, not a Nintendo game," said Card, adding that the technology, also being tested in California and Illinois, could translate into jobs and exports.

Card told a small crowd at Orlando's Expo Center that the technology puts the United States well ahead of Japanese and German competitors.

The Federal Highway Administration is one of five major partners underwriting the $12 million joint venture. GM, Florida's transportation department and the American Automobile Association and the city of Orlando also contributed funding. Avia Rent-a-Car System Inc.

will lease 75 of the vehicles. The rest will be rented to local drivers. AAA will screen and train people wanting to try out the cars.

The road test involves 1,200 square miles, 75,000 intersections, and 10,000 miles of roads in Central Florida. Drivers punch in a street address or the name of a local destination. The computer then displays the best route on a 6-inch video screen, using information from NASA's Global Positioning Satellites, electronic road sensors and video cameras along Interstate 4.

If traffic jams or a road blockage appears, the computer maps a new route. Throughout the journey, the computer's synthesized voice gently reminds the driver where the car is and ought to be.

LOS ANGELES — CBS is back on track in the ratings after being derailed briefly by ABC. CBS was the top-rated network last week with a 12.3 rating. ABC was second with a 12.1, and NBC had an 11.1, the A.C. Nielsen Co. reported Tuesday. Each ratings point represents 921,000 homes.

Cosmonaut finally back on Earth

By GENE BERMAN
Associated Press

ARKALYK, Kazakhstan — A Russian cosmonaut who had blasted off from the Communist-led Soviet Union returned to a different world today after 10 months aboard the space station Mir.

Sergei Krikalev, who rocketed into space on May 18, 1991, landed in Kazakhstan at 11:51 a.m. aboard the Soyuz TM-13 spacecraft along with fellow Russian Alexander Volkov and German Klaus-Dietrich Flade.

While Krikalev was in space, Communist governments toppled throughout Eastern Europe, his old country ceased to exist, his hometown of Leningrad was renamed St. Petersburg, and the once-proud Soviet space program had to turn to the West for money.

Krikalev (whose name is pronounced sur'-gay kreek'-uh-lawf) was given smelling salts and appeared a bit dizzy after being lifted from the spacecraft today. But Commonwealth television reported that he was feeling "marvelous."

Krikalev spent 313 days in space. Volkov blasted into orbit in October. Flade had spent just eight days on Mir, going up with the first Russian space mission since the demise of the Soviet Union.

Ground workers lifted the three from their spacecraft, placed them in chairs and wrapped them in coats.

Atlantis begins sending space data back home

By SUSAN HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Atlantis' astronauts beamed back to Earth today images of vibrating streamers of light from an aurora and filmed the glowing charged particles the space shuttle leaves in its wake.

The shuttle and its seven-member crew blasted off Tuesday from Cape Canaveral, Fla., on an eight-day mission to study Earth's fragile ozone layer and other aspects of the atmosphere.

The 10-minute black-and-white video of the aurora showed the irregular strands of light that appear in polar regions when charged particles from solar magnetic storms collide with particles in Earth's upper atmosphere.

Atlantis' flight is the 46th shuttle mission and the first devoted to atmospheric research. Coupled with research being done simultaneously on the ground, it is expected to yield the most detailed look at the atmosphere yet.

All but one of the 13 scientific instruments in the cargo bay — an ultraviolet telescope to probe galaxies — are studying Earth.

Protest vote exists with Democrats, too

By TOM RAUM
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Move over Pat Buchanan. The anti-Bush vote is now keeping company with an anybody-but-Clinton contingent on the other side of the ballot.

Jerry Brown's victory in the Connecticut primary on Tuesday demonstrated that a substantial anti-establishment vote lurks on both sides, Republican and Democratic.

And it looms even larger than the weekly one-third protest vote that continues to hound President Bush, even though he won again in Connecticut.

Democratic front-runner Bill Clinton's surprising loss to Brown suggests the Arkansas governor has his work cut out for him as attention shifts to the volatile New York primary two weeks from now.

A defeat in delegate-rich New York could seriously undermine Clinton's credibility as the presumed Democratic nominee.

The same forces of unrest that Buchanan rallied to embarrass Bush in earlier primaries are now being harnessed on the Democratic side by Brown.

"Brown is tapping the same kind of outsider vote," said Paul Erickson, senior Bushman adviser. "1992 will be remembered as the year of the outsider."

The situation is improving for Bush as Buchanan fades from the scene. But Clinton's problems seem to be compounding as Brown supplants Buchanan as the prime grenade-thrower of this unpredictable presidential season.

The only solace that either side may draw is that the "anti-Bush" vote among Republicans may eventually cancel out the "anti-Clinton" vote among Democrats in the general election.

"My guess is both of these candidates are going to come into Election Day with a one-to-one ratio of favorable to unfavorable," said GOP pollster Bill McInturf.

McInturf said the best thing Bush has going for him is that "the Democrats are going to nominate a potentially flawed candidate."

Bush was hammered by much the same basic protest vote in Connecticut that has pursued him from the New Hampshire primary.

The difference is that the Buchanan vote, which was 37 percent in New Hampshire, had fallen to 22 percent by Connecticut. An uncommitted block of delegates claimed 9 percent and former Ku Klux Klanman David Duke received about 2 percent.

Bush aides — and to an extent the president himself — attributed the negative vote to Connecticut's battered economy. And Bush campaign chairman Bob Teeter stressed that "every week, these primaries have been better for us."

But the combined vote against Bush was still in the one-third range, where it has been all season — and this in one of Bush's claimed "home" states.

The real surprise of Tuesday was the strength of Brown's showing on the Democratic side, a candidate who was dismissed as a minor entry just a few weeks ago. Add to that the fact that former Massachusetts Gov. Paul Tsongas drew 20 percent even though he quit the race five days earlier.

In fact, some 64 percent of those who voted in the Connecticut Democratic primary cast a vote against Clinton.

"Not only have we seen an anybody-but-Bush vote, but this suggests that there's a substantial anybody-but-Clinton vote," said Stuart Rothenberg, a political analyst and newsletter publisher.

"Here's a guy who's the anointed candidate of the Democratic establishment. Every pundit in town has given him the nomination. It strikes me that there continue to be elements of both parties as well as among independents not happy with the choices."

Brown Upsets Clinton, Bush beats Buchanan

By JOHN KING
AP Political Writer

NEW YORK — Jerry Brown promises to carry his Connecticut upset forward into New York, where a chastened Bill Clinton leveled new attacks against his lone Democratic presidential rival and vowed a "good fight."

"This is a sea change," Brown said after squeaking by with a 1-point win over Clinton, 37 percent to 36 percent, in Tuesday's Connecticut primary election. "It's not the end of the story."

President Bush again thrashed conservative commentator Patrick Buchanan, 67 percent to 12 percent. But when support for uncommitted and David Duke was added to Buchanan's votes, the protest vote against the president still represented one-third of the total.

"I'm pleased with the results," Bush told supporters in a telephone call. "This is a screwy year. Frankly, I'm much more optimistic now."

Clinton vowed to halt Brown's insurgency, aggressively attacking the former California governor's flat-tax proposal and promising "we'll roll up our sleeves" to regain momentum in the April 7 contests in New York, Wisconsin and Kansas. "I always knew we were going to have to fight for this," the Arkansas governor said.

Despite Brown's surprising win, Clinton maintained his lead in the delegate race. Clinton won 22 delegates to Brown's 21 because of allocation rules, stretching his delegate lead over Brown even in defeat.

The Connecticut results were still trickling in when Clinton and Brown shifted the focus to the contests ahead, with the most attention on the biggest trophy: New York. Both men campaign there today.

Brown's call for a 13 percent flat tax "declares war on New York," Clinton said, maintaining that it would trigger an accompanying 13 percent sales tax. "It would triple taxes on the poor, increase taxes on the middle class by 30 percent and lower taxes on rich Americans."

Brown said Clinton's information came from "those folks in Washington who love" the current tax system.

In addition to their post-election speeches, Brown and Clinton also appeared together on ABC-TV's "Nightline" program, where both endorsed the use of force if Iraq refused to cooperate with U.N. nuclear inspectors.

Both also tried to position themselves as Washington outsiders.

"I don't think you can posture yourself as an outsider next to me," Brown told Clinton.

"He became a convert to this reform the day he announced for president," Clinton retorted.

It was a pointed but polite preview to what promises to be a hectic campaign over the next two weeks.

Early-season thrillers

There are two ways to hit a home run. Tarral Bender (middle, top) hit a two-run shot over the fence for the Rinker Material Dodgers Tuesday before teammate J.J. Bryant circled the bases with an inside-the-park homer. Powered by the early fireworks, the Dodgers rolled to a 11-10 win.

Rinker Dodgers, FD&L Cubs post one-run victories

SANFORD - High scoring one-run decisions were the story of the day in the Sanford Recreation Department Little Major League at Ft. Mellon's Roy Holler Field. In the opening game of the evening, Chris Downer singled in Shane Burness with the winning run in the bottom of the sixth inning as the Rinker Materials Dodgers outscored the Cattle Ranch Cardinals 11-10.

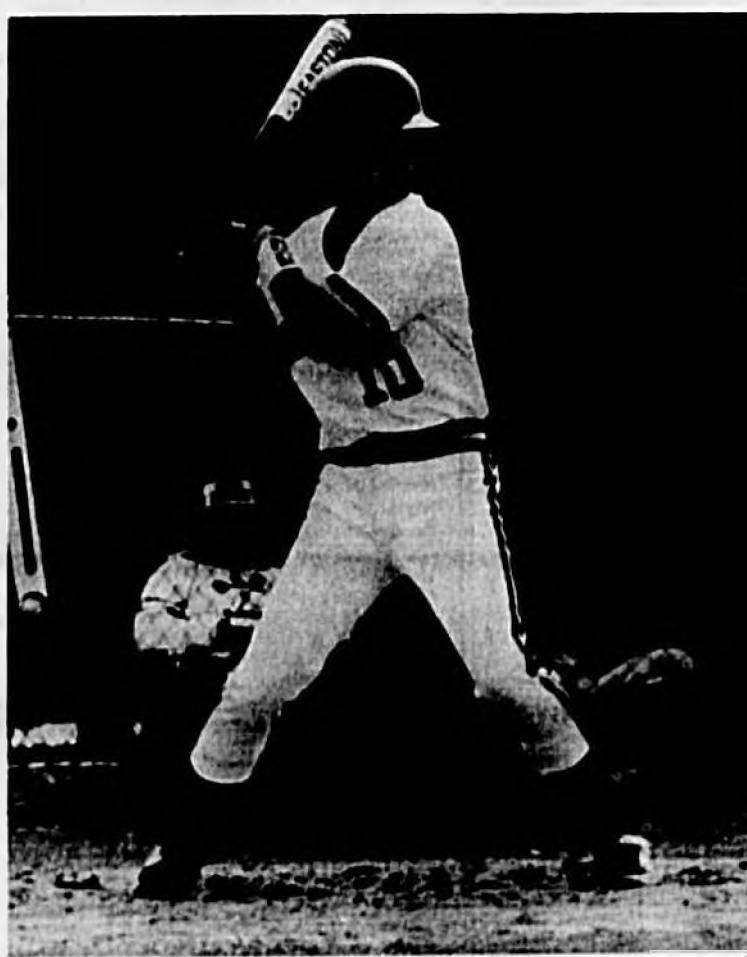

Russel Brothers help Ameribuilt to Tuesday title

SANFORD - Russel Brothers Aluminum opened the door and Ameribuilt stepped through to claim the championship in the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Tuesday Night Polar Bear Softball League at Chase Park. Riptide and Ameribuilt had entered the night's action tied for the top spot in the league, but Russel Brothers held Riptide to only one run in five hits in posting a 10-1 victory in the opening game of the night, meaning all Ameribuilt had to do was win their game to garner the title.

Ameribuilt finished the season with a 7-3 record, while Riptide and Russel Brothers tied for second with 6-4 marks. E-Z GO finished fourth at 5-5 with Sanford Boat Works and AAA Tree Service both ending 3-7.

Lions make a little go a long way

OVIDO - A little offense can go a long way. The Oviedo and Deltona high school varsity baseball teams combined for only eight hits in a Class 4A-District 9 contest at Oviedo Tuesday night, but they were enough to score seven runs. Kevin Twigg provided the difference, lining a 1-1 pitch up the middle with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning to score Mark Bellhorn with the winning run as the Oviedo Lions edged the visiting Wolves 4-3.

Oviedo High School graduate Greg Hughes had a double, single and two runs scored for Seminole Community College in the Raiders' 6-5 loss to Valencia Community College in a Mid-Florida Conference game Tuesday.

ORLANDO - Oviedo High School graduate John Hernandez hit a two-run home run off of Lake Mary High School graduate Curt Prom Tuesday afternoon to lift Valencia Community College to a 6-5 win Mid-Florida Conference baseball victory over visiting Seminole Community College. Little Majors

Johnathon Early and Jose Velazquez highlighted a two run second for the Cubs with back-to-back doubles and Eady led a three run third with another double to give the Cubs a 6-5 advantage.
The Cubs added another run in the fourth to lead 7-5, before Ricky Anderson doubled in the final run for the A's in the fifth inning.
Doing the damage for the Cubs were Eady (two doubles, run), Velazquez (double, run), Marcus Sheppard and Neil Fedder (one single each), Terrance Daniels (two runs) and Jarod Fedder, Freddy Hawkins and D.D. Sheppard (one run scored each).

Pacing the A's offense were Anderson (double, single, run), Charlie Collier (two singles, run), Gerard Williams, Justin Spangler and Steven Power (one single and one run scored each) and Shane Rowland and Sylvester Wynn (one single each).

Oviedo

Oviedo head coach Mike Ferrell, "But Erik (Jordan) has suffered four tough losses this year, so I guess he was due."
Jordan replaced sophomore Todd Bellhorn with the bases loaded and one out in the sixth inning with the Lions leading 3-1. The senior righthander got a strike out and made a nice play on an attempted bunt for a single to retire the side.
But the old bad luck that had cost him victories or saves in earlier contests almost came back to haunt him again in the seventh.
With one out, Deltona's Nelson Buxo bounced an infield single over the mound. Mike Maples, a former Sanford Recreation baseball star, then lined a hard single that bounced past the leftfielder and went to the wall. Buxo scoring and Maples winding up on third. Allen Westphall then lofted a long sacrifice fly to tie the score at 3-3.
But the Lions made a winner of Jordan in the bottom of the seventh. Mark Bellhorn led off with a bunt single and went to second on a sacrifice bunt by Jordan. Ricker Werner flew out to deep center with Bellhorn advancing to third before Twigg delivered the game-winner.

"I was a little surprised they pitched to Werner," said Ferrell. "And I was very surprised they pitched to Twigg."
Deltona's heroics wasted a masterful pitching job by Todd Bellhorn, who had a no-hitter through three innings and allowed only two hits and one run while striking out seven over the first 5½ innings.
"We try to limit Todd to 100 pitches," said Ferrell about removing his starter. "He had already thrown 97 pitches and still had the sixth and seventh innings to pitch. So we knew he wasn't going to throw a complete and decided to go ahead and go with a fresh arm."
Oviedo had taken a 2-0 lead in the third when Mark Bellhorn doubled and went to third a wild pitch as Jordan walked. After Jordan stole second, Bellhorn scored when Werner's grounder got through the third baseman for an error. Jordan was thrown out at the plate trying to score on the same play.
Werner, who wound up on second, advanced to third on a wild pitch before Twigg rapped a sacrifice fly to right.
The Wolves got a run back in the fourth when Maples doubled and scored two outs later on a double by Dana Flaherty.
The Lions' third run came in the fifth inning when Jordan went all the way to second when his grounder went right through the legs of the third baseman and scored when Werner's grounder to shortstop was thrown away at first base.
The win raised Oviedo's record to 10-7 overall, while Deltona fell to 3-11.
Oviedo will host Lake Mary Thursday starting at 7 p.m. A Lions Booster Club picnic to raise money for the team will be held prior to the game.

Softball

Doug Wollver (run) and Keith Denton (RBI).
Doing the hitting for Riplide were Donnie McCoy (double, run), Frank Turner (single, RBI) and Todd Morgan, Wayne Gager and Sonny Eubanks (one single each).
Doing the damage for Amerbuilt were William Harrison (triple, double, single, two runs, two RBI), John Viggiani and Robert Barnett (two singles, one run and one RBI each), David Schultz (two singles, run), Rod Vermilio (single, two runs, RBI), Dan Thorne, Pete Harrison and James Bruce (one single, one run and one RBI each), Steve Wagner (single, RBI) and Arnold Schwegar (single, run).
Leading the Sanford Boal Works attack were Jerry Govereale (triple, single), Craig Tosal, Bob Montalvo and Ramon

Tosal (two singles each) and Danny Littlefield and Ray Adcock (one single each).
Contributing to an 18 hit AAA Tree Service offense were Randy Yates (double, two singles, three runs), Clayton Nichols (three singles, run, two RBI) and Randy Rawlings (double, single, run).
Also contributing were Brantley Brumley (two singles, two runs, two RBI), Lee Hood (two singles, two runs, RBI), Steve Woodley (two singles, two RBI), Wes Tankley (triple, two runs, two RBI) and Keith Sparks (triple, two runs).
Providing the offense for E-Z GO were Robert Kerr (three singles, run, RBI), Chris Wire (home run, single, run, two RBI), Rick Closson (two singles, run, RBI), Tom Bledsoe (double, two runs), Eric Torlan (double), Mike Johnson (run, RBI) and Bobby Sanders and Dave Craft (one run each).

SCC

each other."
With the score tied 4-4 after seven innings, Lyman High School graduate Kevin Waincort began the Matadors' game-winning rally by working from a former Little League teammate, for a walk. After Waincort was sacrificed to second, Hernandez hit a shot that the wind helped carry over the center field fence.
SCC tried to rally in the top of the ninth. With one out, Oviedo High School graduate Greg Hughes singled to right. Hughes advanced to third when Waincort, playing shortstop for the Matadors, fielded a ground ball by Jack Niles and threw it away.
Stanley Evans followed with a bloop single into right field that scored Hughes. But Valencia pitcher Sean Carroll retired Chad Epperson on a fly ball to center field and struck out Joey Golinaki to end the game.
"Sean was a little flat," said Mable. "He's usually a slow starter, but he didn't have his good stuff today. Today, he was a bulldog and just gutted it out. The kid showed he's got some heart. He was at 123 pitches today. That's a lot of pitches. But he'll recycle back in four days and take the ball."
Carroll and Prom both turned in gritty performances. Carroll turning in a complete-game effort to raise his personal mark to 4-4 while Prom entered the game in the second inning saddled with a 4-0 deficit and held the Matadors while the Raiders worked their way back into the game.
Waincort had an RBI double while Sean Thomas stroked a two-run home run that rode the wind over the scoreboard in left field as Valencia jumped on Raider starter Dwayne Clark, a graduate of Lake Howell High School, for four runs in the bottom of the first inning.

The Raiders got one run back in the third inning as Niles singled and scored on Evans' triple. In the fifth, Hughes led off with a double and scored on a single by Epperson. Golinaki also had an RBI single while Blaine Barosso drove in a run with a sacrifice fly to tie the score.
Meanwhile, Prom retired the first 11 batters he faced and 18 of the first 22 before walking Waincort to open the bottom of the eighth.
Afterwards, Prom drew kudos from Pantelias, who said that Prom (now 1-3) has been a victim of spotty offensive support in most of his outings.
"We had 11 strikeouts today," said Pantelias. "We're averaging nine strikeouts a game. We're giving away nine outs before the game ever starts. The guys are working hard and doing a good job, but you have to put the ball in play. They're afraid they're going to fall."
"We're still in the conference race. Nobody's running away with it. We have eight losses, but a 16-8 record would put us to the state tournament. That means we have to win the rest of our conference games, but we're capable of doing it."

Cook embraces vegetarianism

By DEBORAH YINGLING
Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — Twenty years ago Barbara Oshel made a decision that changed her life dramatically. For health reasons, she decided to become a vegetarian. She had visited a slaughterhouse with a friend who was a farmer and noticed the unhealthy appearance of the cattle. "I thought, there's something wrong here. I had a question so I went out and started buying books to gain the knowledge of what was happening and of course learned about all of the pesticides, herbicides, the cancers in the animals. I really started from a health aspect of it," Oshel relates.

Oshel has raised ten foster children. Eight of them still enthusiastically embrace vegetarianism though they ate meat while they were teenagers. Not everyone in her family was happy when Oshel decided to make such a radical change in her diet. "My mother looked at me when I started this and started to cry. She said, 'You're going to die. She really and truthfully thought I would die from doing this.'"

In today's vegetarian cooking there are many easily accessible sources of high quality non-animal proteins. Oshel says that the theory of necessary combination of various sources of amino acids has changed. "Now the reading (literature) has changed. They used to say you had to combine proteins. You had to be so worried about what you ate. It's really not true. Peanut butter and jelly sandwiches are a complete protein."

Oshel points out that according to modern research the main source of energy is complex carbohydrates, not meat. She says that by eating a balanced diet containing different vegetables, fruits, grains and nuts you will get all of the required nutrients for good health.

Barbara Oshel specializes in vegetarian dishes.

She states that there are many health benefits derived from a vegetarian diet. Oshel believes that the typical American diet that is high in animal protein is the cause of the high rate of heart attacks and strokes. She also says that a vegetarian diet will provide the dietary fiber now recommended by many physicians. "Meat doesn't have any fiber. Everyday you read in the newspaper the health benefits of eating more fruits and grains," Oshel says.

Oshel, who has been involved with helping the homeless, is also concerned with environmental and world hunger issues. She feels that some of these problems could be resolved if people would adopt a vegetarian diet. She quotes a Brown University study saying, "If we all became vegetarians we could feed one hundred twenty percent of the population. There wouldn't be world hunger."

In proclaiming the environmental issues of a vegetarian diet, she says, "It takes two point five gallons of water to grow a pound of wheat and two thousand five hundred gallons of water for a pound of meat." Oshel further cites information supplied by the Farm Animal Reform Movement (FARM) in linking the destruction of millions of acres of forestland including the rain forests in South America that are being converted to grazing and cropland to raise farm animals.

Some vegetarians opt to use cheese, milk and eggs but Oshel is a vegan, or one who does not eat any animal products at all. She does use cheese and dairy products when cooking for guests. She says that the vegetable and soy based meat substitute products are often a good replacement. They are actually too good for her personal taste. She says, "It reminded me so much of beef that I just couldn't eat it."

Oshel says that a common misconception of cooking an all vegetable meal is that it is difficult. She states that it does not take much time or effort to prepare. "Everyone thinks of vegetarian food as something that is hard and that you spend hours making it," states Oshel. There are many vegetarian convenience foods currently available she says. Meat substitute products and convenience foods are sold by many grocery stores and health food stores.

Oshel says that it is easier to make a gradual change to a vegetarian diet. She suggests trying some frozen vegetarian convenience foods or ordering vegetarian dishes when eating out. She says that there are many sources of information on the subject of vegetarian cooking. Oshel is currently the secretary for the Voices for Animals of Central Florida, a local organization. Three-cheese pie tasty

By AILEEN CLAIRNE
NEA Food Editor

Americans just love desserts. For some, a meal is not a meal unless it is topped off with coffee and a rich dessert.

A simple menu for family or friends becomes special when a delicious, attractive dessert is served. One such after-dinner treat is an unusual combination of a three-cheese pie crust filled with a strawberry-cream mixture.

To save time, make the crust in advance and make the easy filling and topping just before serving. The pie may be garnished with additional strawberries or colorful fruits such as kiwi, cherries, apricots and/or peaches.

A strawberry cheese pie can also be a special treat when the bridge club or another group comes over for a meeting.

STRAWBERRY CHEESE PIE

Crust:
3/4 cup flour
1/2 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese, shredded
1/2 cup Swiss cheese, shredded
1/4 cup medium Cheddar cheese, shredded
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons melted butter
Filling:
1 pound cream cheese, softened

1/4 cup powdered sugar
2 tablespoons whipping cream
2 tablespoons pineapple juice
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup strawberry pieces
Topping:
1 1/2 cups whipping cream
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
To make crust, mix all crust ingredients except butter in large bowl; mix in butter. Turn dough out onto lightly floured surface; knead about 3 minutes or until dough is workable. Press dough evenly into a 9-inch metal pie plate; flute edge and prick bottom of crust with fork. Chill 20 minutes.
Bake crust in 400-degree oven 15 to 20 minutes until golden brown. Remove to rack to cool.
To make filling, beat cream cheese and powdered sugar on medium speed in mixer bowl until smooth and creamy. Reduce speed to low; gradually add cream, juice and vanilla. Mix until thoroughly blended. Fold in strawberries. Spread mixture evenly into cooled pie shell; chill.
To make topping, whip cream to form soft peaks; add sugar and vanilla. Whip until stiff. Top pie with cream. If desired, garnish with seasonal fruit. Serve immediately. This kitchen-tested recipe makes one 9-inch pie (12 servings).

Microwave inexpensive pollock for this quick, easy, classic fish dish

By AILEEN CLAIRNE
NEA Food Editor

Next time, when planning a fish dish, shop around for less expensive pollock to be your main ingredient. Pollock, from the North Atlantic, is a firm-fleshed fish with the flake of more expensive haddock.

Cod or scrod (young cod) may be used for a classic fish Florentine instead of pollock but it, too, is more expensive.

The easiest and fastest way to cook fish is in the microwave. For example, fish Florentine with spinach and a light cheese sauce is microwave-ready in five minutes.

Since microwave ovens differ in wattage, it is best to check your instruction book to gauge the length of cooking time.

Microwave fish only for the minimum time recommended, since microwaved foods continue to cook during the standing period. Standing time for fish usually is 2 to 3 minutes before it is ready to serve.

FISH FLORENTINE WITH LIGHT CHEESE FONDUE SAUCE

4 4- to 6-ounce pollock fillets juice of 1 lemon
salt and pepper
1 bay leaf
Arrange fish in a single layer in a non-metal, 2-quart square or oblong casserole dish, with thickest parts or larger pieces toward the outside. Add lemon juice, salt and pepper and bay leaf. Cover with microwave-safe plastic wrap. Turn back corner of wrap to allow excess steam to escape. Cook on HIGH 4 to 5 minutes. Remove from microwave and let stand covered 2 to 3 minutes to complete cooking. Drain cooking liquid and reserve 2 tablespoons liquid to use in cheese sauce. Prepare cheese sauce and Tangy Spinach.

LIGHT CHEESE FONDUE SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk, plus 2 tablespoons reduced fish-poaching liquid

4 3/4-ounce slices light American cheese, cut in strips
1 tablespoon pimento, chopped
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard

Microwave butter or margarine in 1-quart measure or bowl on HIGH 30 seconds or until melted. Blend in flour. Gradually add milk and poaching liquid, stirring constantly. Microwave 3 to 5 minutes or until sauce boils and thickens, mixing well after each minute; continue microwaving 1 minute. Add cheese; microwave 30 seconds to 1 minute or until sauce is hot and smooth. Stir in pimento and dry mustard.

TANGY SPINACH

2 10-ounce boxes frozen, cut spinach
1/4 cup onion, minced
1 8-ounce container plain yogurt
1 tablespoon flour
2 teaspoons margarine
2 teaspoons celery salt
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
Microwave spinach according to package instructions. Drain

Immigrants left heritage and recipes adapted to microwave

One of the most interesting readings I've had during the past few days can be found in a cookbook I can hardly put it down. It is the Ellis Island Immigrant Cookbook by Tom Bernardin, first printing 1991. This gem is more than a cookbook. It is a history and chronology of Ellis Island, a portrait of the many ethnic groups that passed through its doors, recipes from each of the ethnic groups that have been passed along and tips on preserving a family recipe and much, much more.

As I read through the book, I kept thinking, "I have that recipe, but it's for the microwave," or "I know that recipe could be adapted to microwave cooking." Many of the recipes are for sweets, breads, strudels. These I will prepare conventionally, but some main dishes do lend themselves easily to our modern method of cooking.

So to all of our ancestors, wherever they came from, we thank them for the goodly heritage they have given us.

Many Germans came through Ellis Island during the late 1800s and early 1900s. My own grandfather came with his parents in the 1880s.

Rotkraut (Sweet and Sour Red Cabbage) is a favorite side dish.

GERMAN-STYLE SWEET AND SOUR RED CABBAGE
Slices of bacon
6 cups shredded red cabbage
1 cup sliced onions
3 medium apples, peeled, cored and sliced
1 cup chicken stock or canned broth
1/2 cup cider vinegar
3 Tbsp. sugar
Salt
Freshly ground black pepper
1 Tbsp. cornstarch
2 Tbsp. water
1 apple with peel, cored and sliced

Place bacon in single layer in 3-qt. casserole and microwave on 100 percent power 3-5 minutes or until cooked. Remove bacon from dish and reserve for garnish.

Combine cabbage, onions, peeled apples, stock, vinegar and sugar in the bacon drippings. Cover and microwave on 100 percent power 7-10 minutes. Stir and microwave on 100 percent power 4-6 minutes longer. Add salt and pepper to taste; blend cornstarch with water and add to cabbage. Cover and cook on 100 percent power 1-2 minutes, or until liquid is thickened. Sprinkle with crumbled bacon and garnish with unpeeled apple slices.

Serve with buttered noodles and Beef Roulades.

BEEF ROULADES
8 oz. pork sausage, crumbled
1 tsp. dried sage
1/2 tsp. dried thyme
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. black pepper
2 Tbsp. chopped parsley
3 cups cooked rice (white or wild or mixture)

1 (10 oz.) can condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 (1 lb.) flank steaks, pounded 3/8-inch thick
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup beef broth, canned
2 cups sliced mushrooms
1 cup half and half
1 Tbsp. dry sherry
In 1 qt. measure, microwave sausage, covered, on 100 percent power 3-4 minutes, or until cooked. Add sage, thyme, 1/2 teaspoon salt and pepper, parsley, rice and half the mushroom soup; mix well.

Sprinkle steaks with salt and pepper to taste. Spread rice mixture over steak and roll up steaks from long side, jelly-roll fashion. Secure roulades with wooden toothpicks and tie with kitchen string. Melt butter in heavy skillet and brown roulades on all sides. Transfer roulades to a 3-qt. casserole. Pour broth into skillet and deglaze, scraping up all browned bits. Pour broth over steaks. Transfer to serving plate. Remove picks and string and slice beef.

To prepare sauce, add mushrooms to cooking liquids. Cover and microwave on 100 percent 2-3 minutes. Stir in half-and-half, sherry and remaining soup. Microwave on 100 percent power 2-3 minutes or until just boiling. Pour some sauce over beef, sprinkle roulades with remaining chopped parsley and pass sauce, separately.

This is one of the recipes from the Ellis Island Cookbook. It is of German origin, submitted by a woman from Connecticut whose father came from Germany in 1905. It's simple! See if you can prepare it in the microwave oven.

KNOCKWURST AND NOODLES

1 lb. cooked knockwurst, cut in strips
1 onion
1 tsp. horseradish (or more, to taste)

Salt and pepper
1 can tomato soup
1/2 cup water
3/4 lb. cheddar cheese
1/2 lb. cooked noodles

Chop and fry onion in butter. Mix together all ingredients except noodles and cook over low flame until cheese melts. Add cooked noodles and serve. Serves 8.

Many other favorite recipes from all over Europe have found their way to this collection and I'll share them with you from time to time.

Who's cooking?

The Sanford Herald welcomes suggestions for cooks of the week.

Do you know someone whose food is always the highlight of company picnics, church potlucks, receptions or covered dish luncheons? It might be an acquaintance who has won a cooking contest or invented a new twist to the peanut butter and jelly sandwich.

Submit your nomination for Cook of the Week to the Herald People editor at 322-2611, ext. 34.
