DeBary, Deltona Zoning Aired

Citizen concern was very much in evidence at the monthly meeting of the District Five Zoning Commission in Deltona Monday night. About 160 people were in attendance — largely proponents for the proposed shopping center and mobile homes park — complex between DeBary and Breesewood and for the construction of a supermarket at Deltona on Saxon Boulevard at Deltona Avenue. Twenty-six requests for change in zoning and approval of construction projects in Southwest Volusia and New Smyrna Beach were acted on. Fifteen of these applications were concerned with obtaining approval of the "conditional" use of single mobile homes or trailers. Most of these requests were approved or accepted for advertising.

They'd Elect A Dog... Instead Of Incumbent

PIERRE, S.D. (UPI)—A Republican official stated in disbelief as election returns drew a picture of a Democratic sweep in South Dakota. "My God, they would elect a dog or anything rather than go with an incumbent this year," he said. As the returns continued to flow in Tuesday night, it became apparent that the Democratic party had scored its most stunning victory in the GOP-dominated state since President Franklin D. Roosevelt led a raid on the South Dakota statehouse in 1922. Key Lead Way was named the Democratic victory more surprising to political observers was that it

Officers Release Expected

They said there appeared to be only a few technical details to be cleared up before the four men are allowed to fly back to Turkey from Leningrad, Armenia, where they have been held since their light aircraft, a Beechcraft U8, landed there Oct. 21.

Spiro Agnew's Political Future Question

By FRANK CORMIER Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—The political future of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew remains a question mark following what President Nixon has described as a Republican victory in Senate and House contests. Some members of Nixon's inner circle remain divided on whether Agnew should be nominated for second place on the ticket in an expected Nixon bid for re-election in 1972. Some of Agnew's critics within the administration say they will be watching how the vice president conducts himself in the months immediately ahead.

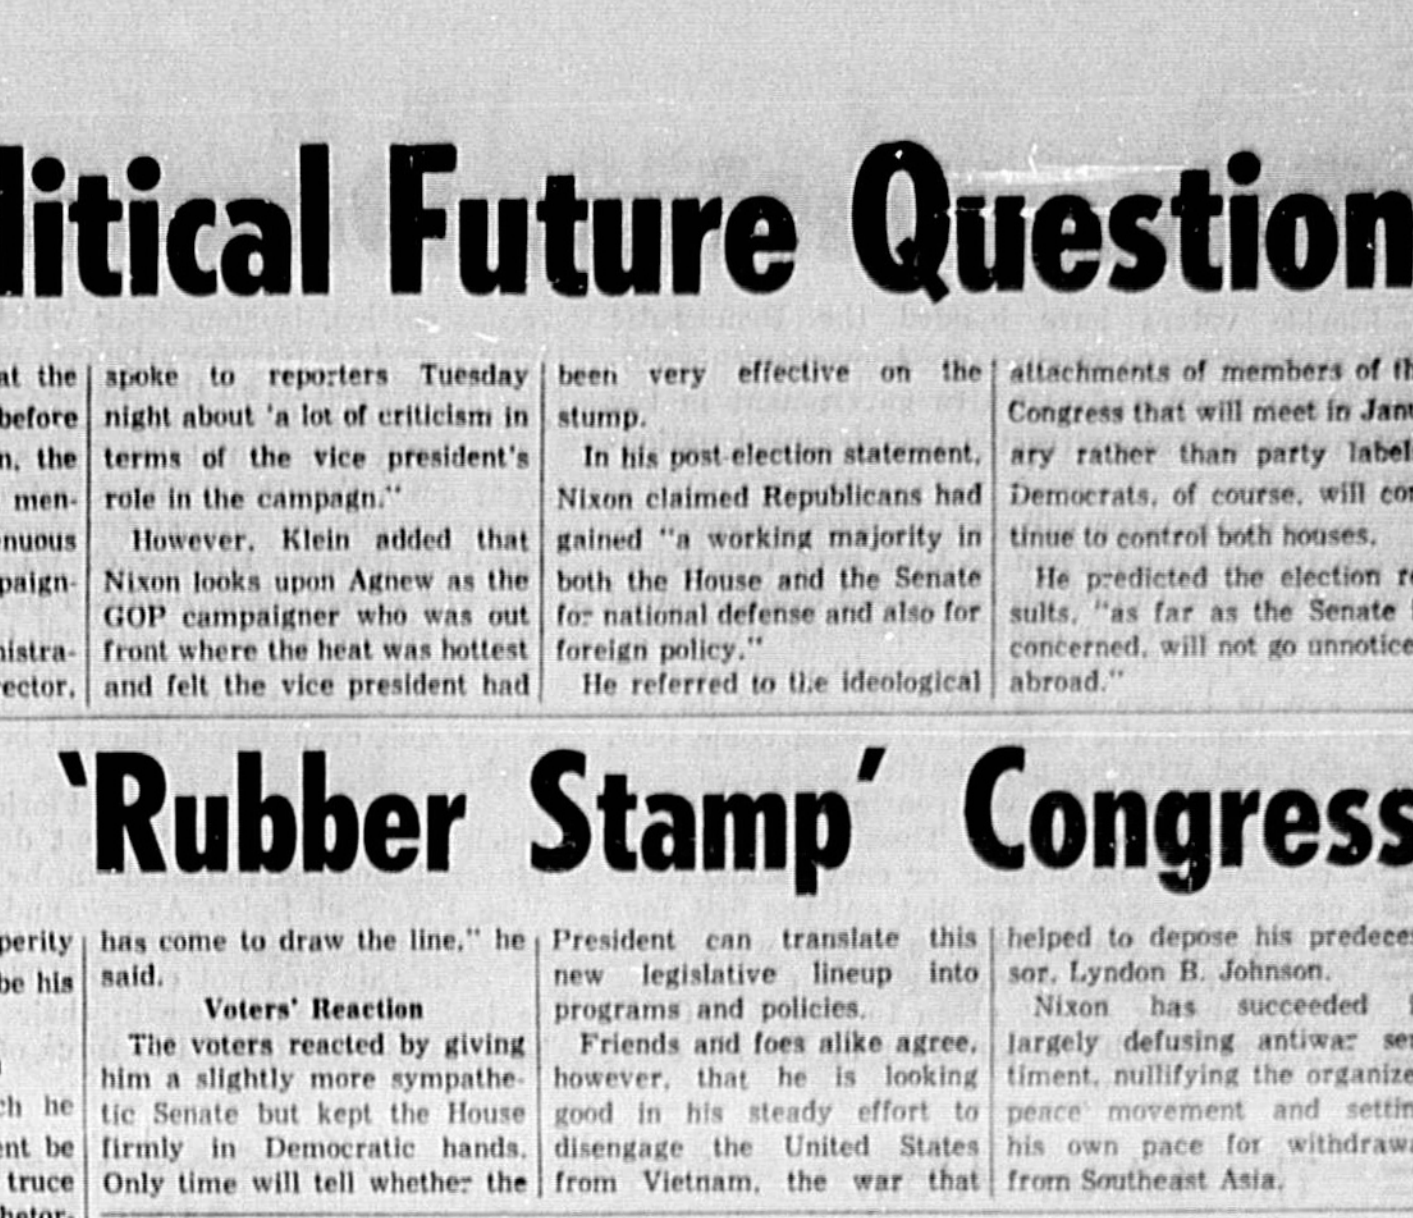

Nixon Seeking 'Rubber Stamp' Congress

By HELEN THOMAS WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two years ago today in the post-midnight glow of his hairline presidential election victory, Richard M. Nixon held up his arms in triumph and remembered the little girl at the train station in Deshler, Ohio, whose placard read: "Bring us together." As the 37th President of the United States, he promised that unity would be the touchstone of his administration. Americans, he said, would go "forward together."

Republicans, Democrats Claim Victory.

By WALTER R. MEATS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans have defied the tradition, but Democrats gained statewide political muscle and the near defeat of a bitter Senate battle in Indiana symbolized today the split decision returned by America's voters.

MEMBERS of the South Seminole Community Library Association of Altamonte Springs are busy making items for their Nov. 16 Bazaar, and soon baking goodies will be in order too, as they are combining this Bazaar with a bake sale, at the Altamonte Community House, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Two of the hard working members include Mrs. George Hearn (left) and Mrs. Jack Melick Sr. (Marilynn Miles Photo)

President Nixon declared his hand has been "enormously strengthened" on defense and foreign policy by changes in the Senate.

Republicans managed a mid-term gain in the Senate, picking up two seats, with the Indiana outcome still in doubt. With Democrats and Republicans each likely to have the support of one-third party or independent electors, the Senate lineup stood at 54 Democrats, 45 Republicans.

It was the fifth time in this century the party of a President has won Senate seats in an off-year election. Democrats posted an eight-seat gain—smaller than history's pattern—with one race still in doubt. The lineup there: 23 Democrats, 180 Republicans. Most of the gains were in the Midwest.

No. Vietnamese Building Up Extensive War Materials

AIR-LAUNCHED from a B-52 mother ship at 45,000 feet, the X-24 lifting body takes off, using its rocket engine to gain higher altitude and speed. Wingless craft is one of three being tested by NASA and the Air Force in research to develop design of future space shuttle ships.

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. reconnaissance jets have detected an extensive building up of war materials in the southern provinces of North Vietnam awaiting shipment to Cambodia and South Vietnam, Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans said today.

Concluding a three-day inspection visit to Vietnam, Seamans said American bombers have stepped up raids along 200 miles of the Ho Chi Minh trail through southeastern Laos. However, he said that to the best of his knowledge U.S. planes were not attacking the staging areas in North Vietnam.

"So far we haven't seen enough to really know what is going to happen. The North Vietnamese have been severely hampered up to now by very heavy rains so we're just at the beginning of a critical period. I think it's too soon to try to make a projection as to what is going to happen over the next six months.

Despite the new enemy build-up, the secretary said the program to phase down American air operations is a firm, over-riding policy of the U.S. Air Force in Vietnam has been reduced to about 175 fighter bombers operating from four bases in South Vietnam. More than 300 fighter bombers and reconnaissance jets have been transferred out of the country.

Air Force	5.3	4.9

U.S. troop withdrawals in Vietnam and a general removal of Americans from the front lines is reflected in a decline in the combat death rate as shown in a chart for years 1968-69. Statistics from Servicemen's Group Life Insurance indicate this year should show a further drop.

The death rate for Marines in Vietnam has been about double that for soldiers, nearly five times that for sailors and almost 10 times that for Air Force men, according to statistics compiled for Servicemen's Group Life Insurance. Part of the reason could be that a larger portion of Marines in Vietnam were in combat roles compared to other services.

By Severe Air Turbulence Jumbo Jet Passengers Jolted

By TOM KELLY

NEW YORK (AP) — A Paris-bound Pan American World Airways 747 jumbo jetliner carrying 163 persons including Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., was forced to return here Wednesday night after being buffeted by severe air turbulence that injured 14 passengers and six crew members.

Two persons were hospitalized. An airline spokesman said injuries to the 20 ranged from lacerations to broken bones. Some persons with minor injuries were treated at the Pan Am terminal.

Four ambulances met the plane, the largest commercial aircraft in service, on its return to John F. Kennedy Airport at 11:30 p.m. It had taken off at 8:14 p.m. and hit the turbulence over Nantucket, Mass.

Javits was not among the injured but said he was "a little shaken up because it took a long while to get out of the turbulence." Javits, who was on his way to a NATO meeting at the use of a passenger, J. Conrad J. L. Melling, told newsmen, "We must have fallen anywhere from 2,000 to 5,000 feet in a matter of no more than five minutes."

Suez Canal Cease Fire Continues

By The Associated Press
The Suez Canal cease fire will continue after its expiration time tonight, but there is no prospect for a resumption of peace talks despite the U.N. General Assembly resolution urging Israel and the Arabs to start negotiating again.

The semiofficial Egyptian newspaper Al-Ahram said President Anwar Sadat had ordered Egyptian forces to continue the cease fire for a further short period, but not for another 90 days unless progress is achieved in the current peace efforts at the United Nations.

Sadat continued this with an order for a full alert on the canal front "regardless of any political development."

Al-Ahram said Egypt will continue to observe the cease-fire until the completion of current discussions at the United Nations and accompanying international efforts. This was seen as a reference to Egypt's campaign in the U.N. General Assembly to force the Israelis to return to the indirect negotiations for which U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring is the go-between.

Israel had said earlier that it would continue to observe the cease-fire until fired on, even if there was no formal agreement to extend it. But the Israelis remained firm in their refusal to return to the negotiations until Egypt pulls back a tank anti-aircraft missiles which Israel charges were shifted forward in the Suez area after the standstill agreement went into effect Aug. 7.

Egypt has been just as adamant in its insistence that its deployment of missiles along the canal has not violated the cease-fire and that none of the rockets would be pulled back. The Jordanian government also was considered certain to extend the cease-fire though there has been no formal announcement from Amman.

Parking Convenience Gives Way To Wall

By BILL SCOTT
Sanford and Seminole County motorists accustomed to parking cars on Park Avenue near the Sanford City Hall and county court house will soon have to forego this convenience and use an adjacent city parking lot which will mean a longer walk to the shortest point.

This change to a long-continued operation is scheduled to begin as soon as Greenhut Construction Company, builder of the just started county court house, can construct a plywood fence some four feet into Park Avenue to keep people away from the construction site.

A two-foot wooden walkway with a handrail will also be constructed into the street so pedestrians can walk without the danger of being struck by a fast moving automobile, and moving is what all vehicles will be doing, since all parking on the old court house down to the north end of Park Avenue will be prohibited for the next 18 months while construction is underway.

This some 13 parking spaces on both sides of the street will remain unused as the fence and sidewalk can be attached to the already existing fence line. City Commissioners approved taking away the parking after a discussion involving Commissioner Thomas McDonald, who stated the problem should have been taken care of earlier by the architectural firm.

Scientists Not Politicians Says Woman Physicist

By BILL STOCKTON, AP Science Writer
SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The first woman scientist to receive the Atomic Energy Commission's citation award says scientists engaged in politics don't necessarily have all the answers to social problems, even if some think they do.
"I think it's good for everybody to be politically involved, but I don't think a scientist, just because he's a scientist, has any more insight into solutions to problems," said Dr. Jane Diamond-Hall, former assistant director of Los Alamos, N. M. Scientific Laboratory, who retired June 30.
The invitation came at the laboratory's lowest point. Two atomic bombs had crashed the way. Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer had resigned as laboratory director and scientists were leaving in droves—some to return to pre-war research, others out of a sense of guilt about the fearsome weapon they had created.
"A number of scientists decided after World War II that they should try to influence the political scene—for one thing, they knew the atomic bomb had changed the course of history," Dr. Hall said, adding that during an interview on the patio of her home.
"If a scientist has technical knowledge that is going to influence the debate, then he must participate. But just because he is a scientist doesn't mean he is a great political figure."
Physics has been a family affair for Dr. Hall and her husband, David, also on the Los Alamos staff. Married in 1939 while they were graduate students, both received doctorates

In 1942 at the University of Chicago where research on tapping nuclear energy had begun.
They accepted positions in the metallurgical laboratory at the university. Then the properties of plutonium and uranium, the two fuels for a nuclear weapon were being studied there. From Chicago, the Halls went to the secret Manhattan Project installation at Hanford, Wash., where nuclear reactors produced the plutonium Los Alamos scientists used in the first atomic bomb.
For the young physicist, 1945 was a turning point. Their first child was born and they were invited to join the Los Alamos staff.
The invitation came at the laboratory's lowest point. Two atomic bombs had crashed the way. Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer had resigned as laboratory director and scientists were leaving in droves—some to return to pre-war research, others out of a sense of guilt about the fearsome weapon they had created.
"We went," she recalls. "Because we believed firmly that the work on nuclear weapons had to continue. Building nuclear weapons had to be done, there was no doubt about it."
How do Malcolm, 25, and Linda, 26, feel about Mom and Dad helping build nuclear weapons?

Security For Single Girls Over 35

NEW YORK (AP) — "Can a woman find happiness past the age of 35?" used to be the tag line for a radio show that even some of the over-30 crowd are too young to remember.
Heleen Trent, on the soap opera, hovered at the same age for nearly as long as Jack Benny has been 38. Whether the handsome millionaire bachelor, who always seemed to be just around the corner, whisked her away for a life of wedded bliss (security implied)—a lot of us will never know.
As a matter of fact, the odds for Heleen Trent's catching a millionaire are slim. According to the income tax returns for 1968, there were only 1,093 of them in the entire country. Total population in the United States is around 200 million, which would mean that Heleen Trent would have one fifty-thousandth of a chance to marry a man with a million dollar income.
If she never found anyone to provide for her, she might be one of the millions of people who live alone—and, at some point, her thoughts would turn to providing for herself against the darker side of middle age.
There are several rules of thumb for spending, saving and acquiring equity, as suggested by the Foundation for Full Service Banks: First, start by visiting a full service banker, who handles checking and savings accounts as well as investments.
For starters, he probably will recommend "automatic savings." That's the system through which the bank automatically transfers a certain sum—designated by you—from your checking account to your savings account each month.
As you get raises, you may want to increase your automatic savings allowance. When "windfalls" occur ($20 is not a windfall, just extra spending money; but $100 is a small windfall), time deposits are in order. Called certificates of deposit, they earn a higher rate of interest than regular savings because of the time factor—which may range from six months to five years. If you withdraw money in a time deposit before its maturity, your money earns interest at the regular rate, rather than the increased one which has reached an abundant size—that is, double what you've set for your "emergency fund." Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our son, 19, attended a boys' high school and never dated until he went to college. As a college freshman he met a girl and they became engaged. She is a year older than he, is of another faith, and she is an invalid, having had spinal surgery at age 13. She needs help to walk, and her condition is poor. Our son invited her to our home for a few days. (She lives 200 miles away.) It was heart-breaking! The poor girl made her bed to the best of her ability, but she loses the work of a child. She left fingerprints on the walls where she had tried to get around, unassisted. We've explained to our son that he will have a hard time getting insurance and hospitalization—that she will always need a full-time nurse, and she is incapable of caring for a baby. If indeed she could bear one...

After all, everything had been going beautifully. He won the heart lead in dummy and noted that he had 14 sure tricks and plenty of play for 12. He decided to start by leading a club toward dummy's queen, but he forgot to play to his own hand first. Back came the director, who ruled that South had to lead a club from dummy. A simple play of the deuce to his 10 would have forced...

We did this in our daughter's room several years ago and received so many compliments that we felt the job was well-worth the trouble. We painted the walls and ceiling the same light blue. When this was dry, we chalked-matched the ceiling in starched squares and with matching tape marked the areas at different heights on each stripe to be painted a darker shade of blue. The first stripe made a big cross with...

Black Market Sapping Lifeblood

South Vietnam Losing War To Corruption, Greed And Inflation

SAYGON (AP) — After months of black marketeering, corruption in high places and inflation are sapping the lifeblood of South Vietnam. The following is the first of a three part look at the economic and social forces in Vietnam by two AP reporters four years after their first look at corruption there.

SAYGON (AP) — After months of black marketeering, corruption in high places and inflation are sapping the lifeblood of South Vietnam. The following is the first of a three part look at the economic and social forces in Vietnam by two AP reporters four years after their first look at corruption there.

There's no feeling of sacrifice here. It's like the war is a half a world away. Dwindling U.S. payrolls as the big contractors phase out and "Vietnamization" takes over the war effort and the plummeting value of the piaster raise the threat of widespread unemployment, a demoralized, underpaid army and civil service and growing discontent and disaffection in the overcrowded cities.

No matter how the war turns out on the battlefield as the Americans leave, the already anemic lifeblood of the nation is being sapped by rampant black marketeering, widespread money manipulation, a reckless rush to convert the nearly worthless currency to gold and hard goods and an ancient and honorless system of bribes, payoffs and kickbacks infecting the Vietnamese government, army, business and society.

These are among the conclusions reached by a team of Associated Press reporters who made a two-month study of the effects of profiteering and corrupt practices on the viability of the South Vietnamese government as America cranks down its military involvement.

Four years ago, at the peak of the U.S. buildup, the same AP team reported that hundreds of millions of U.S. taxpayer dollars had gone down the drain in theft, bribery, waste, black marketeering and money manipulation.

Revisiting the scene, the AP newsmen found that since then, the U.S. and Vietnamese governments had effectively combined to put the damper on a number of the more flagrant opportunities for smuggling and theft; had reduced diversion of U.S. aid goods and PX supplies through improved security and upgraded auditing controls, and had made a sizeable dent in the illegal money market by curbing the flow of GI money order and tightening up airport customs procedures.

But while the overall situation had improved markedly from the control standpoint, corruption in the meantime had become more sophisticated, more pervasive as the war subsided in the countryside and its instant effect on the shabby piaster. "The situation may founder on economic shoals far from the sound of the guns," warns Pham Kim Ngoc, the Minister of Economics in President Nguyen Van Thieu's government.

"Corruption, collusion, tax evasion, graft are major evils. Anyone who doesn't recognize them as such is a fool." From the American side echoes the same stern warning. "In a classified report, intended only for official eyes, a high level U.S. government task force concluded after an on-the-spot survey: "In this country, complicated by a long and costly war, there appears to be a climate which encourages many to engage in corrupt practices. "The adoption of austerity measures appropriate to a war-time situation and the strict enforcement of necessary controls are mandatory if the economic war in Vietnam is to be won. "But it isn't only Vietnamese who are weakening this country."

2 Votes For King Lost In Counting

By LARRY NEELY
Two votes cast at precinct 83 in Longwood in last Tuesday's general election have apparently disappeared into thin air. According to Mayor Ken Brown, he and his wife, Bettie, wrote in the name of Titus King who was running as a write-in candidate for the District 4 County Commission seat won by Republican Greg Drummond. When surveying the election results, Brown said he realized that no write-in votes were reported.

On the premise that one vote can make a difference, Brown said that he went to see Election Supervisor Camilla Brown. There he was referred to County Judge Wallace Hall. Hall confirmed the fact that indeed no write-in votes were recorded in precinct 83. Hall then advised Brown to contact Dorothy Gilson in Tallahassee concerning the procedure of registering an election complaint. Mrs. Gilson advised Brown to contact State Attorney Abbott Herring.

Brown then called Herring, who told him to write a letter of protest and forward it to the state attorney's office. Brown said that he received Herring's assurance that the matter would be thoroughly investigated only after Brown was identified as the mayor of Longwood and sports director of Channel 2 television.

Brown stated that he and his wife had gone to the polls with pencils in hand so that they could write in the name of King. He added that he and his wife voted on separate machines. The Longwood mayor stated, "All I want is to see to it that Bettie Brown's and Ken Brown's votes count. That's all."
