

Soviets Gave Diplomats Afghanistan Cover-Up Story

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet diplomats were instructed to tell leaders throughout the world that the Soviet Union had invaded Afghanistan to defend the Central Asian nation against an unidentified "third country."

Information reaching the White House said the Kremlin roused its diplomats in several capitals Thursday night and early Friday and instructed them to present what sources called "a patently contrived excuse for their intrusion into Afghanistan."

The Soviet ambassadors in meetings with foreign leaders claimed the Russian forces were sent across the border "to defend Afghanistan against a third country."

Authoritative sources said that when a foreign minister asked a Soviet ambassador to name the third country intervening in Afghanistan, "the ambassador couldn't think of the name of one to be used."

The Kremlin justified its intervention on the basis of its "peace and friendship" treaty with Afghanistan. But, the sources said, Russia actually assisted in a coup d'etat and the installation of a "puppet they brought in with their own forces."

American officials believe this should give some pause to other nations with similar treaties with Russia.

Meantime, officials are comparing the actions of the Soviet Union to the attempted takeover of Azerbaijan, a province of northeastern Iran, following World War II. The Soviets held the province until President Harry Truman insisted they withdraw.

The last time the Kremlin used its military forces in a blatant border crossing was in 1968 when it suppressed rising opposition in Czechoslovakia.

Reporters were informed that Carter feels it is not going to be easy for the Soviets to dominate Afghanistan because historically the people are "highly motivated to preserve their own independence."

He also believes that when "an atheistic military regime like the Soviets and their puppets" try to impose control over the relatively independent tribal, religious people, the problems that they have will be quite severe.

China Insists Soviets Leave Afghanistan

PEKING (UPI) — China delivered a note to the Soviet Union today demanding that Moscow pull its troops out of neighboring Afghanistan, and calling the invasion "a threat to China's security."

Deputy Foreign Minister Zhang Haifeng summoned Soviet ambassador J.S. Shcherbakov to protest "the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and its intervention in the internal affairs of that country," the official Xinhua news agency said.

"The Chinese government demands that the Soviet authorities immediately stop their aggression and intervention in Afghanistan and withdraw all their armed forces from that country," Xinhua quoted Zhang as telling the Soviet amassador.

"Afghanistan is China's neighbor and therefore the Soviet armed invasion of that country poses a threat to China's security. This cannot but arouse the grave concern of the Chinese people," Zhang asked the ambassador to report "this solemn and just stand of the Chinese government" to Moscow, Xinhua said.

Harsh criticism of the Soviet military thrust accompanied the summoning of Shcherbakov. Xinhua said the incursion was part of a strategy to seize oil-producing areas, control sea lanes and out-flank Europe.

It said the Soviet invasion "poses a grave threat to peace and security in Asia and the whole world."

More Soviet Troops Enter Country

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Thousands more Soviet troops today swept into Afghanistan, large numbers of heavy tanks, motorized infantry. He said the number of troops was likely now greater than 25,000.

But the Asian diplomats said today the number of Soviet troops in the landlocked mountainous country has reached nearly 50,000.

Brzezinski said the troops entered at two points, from the Soviet border cities of Termez and Kushka.

Brzezinski said Sunday the invading Soviet army included "armored formations, large numbers of heavy tanks, motorized infantry." He said the number of troops was likely now greater than 25,000.

U.S. Huddles With European Allies

LONDON (UPI) — Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher called a meeting today with five key Western allies to consider the implications of Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, a move he said "outraged" the world community.

Christopher, who arrived Sunday night for the hurriedly convened meeting at President Carter's order, called on representatives of Britain, West Germany, France, Italy and Canada to join in the consultations.

Carter conferred by phone over the weekend with several allied heads of state but today's meeting at the British Foreign Office was at the level of deputy ministers. All five nations have publicly condemned the Soviet action.

After the meeting, Christopher planned to fly to Brussels, Belgium to discuss the Soviet-backed military coup in Afghanistan with NATO representatives.

U.S. Ready To Defend Pakistan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has warned the Soviet Union it is prepared to honor a nearly 20-year-old defense agreement and use armed force to aid Pakistan should Soviet troops in Afghanistan cross Pakistan's border.

National security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski said Sunday President Carter authorized him to publicly reaffirm America's defense commitment to Pakistan.

Pakistan has provided a haven for Islamic guerrillas fighting the Soviet-backed regime in Afghanistan.

Brzezinski said Carter reaffirmed the U.S. commitment during telephone conversations with Pakistan's leader, Gen. Muhammad Zia-ul-Haq.

NEW YEAR'S EVE IS FOR THE BIRDS
Long before man invented the calendar, New Year's Eve and the hangover, birds were flying over Lake Monroe in search for a meal. As this year and decade come to a close, this crane will take little notice of man's celebrations tonight, being content to welcome in the new year by standing in a swamp somewhere and dreaming of a fat fish.

Another Boat-Dock Hearing Sought

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

It looks like the Seminole County Commission and the Kenneth A. Russell's of St. Johns River Estates will start the new year by continuing their dispute over the length of the Russell's boat dock.

After a year of controversy, the county commission ruled Dec. 4 that the dock on lot 10, block C, 1701 Missouri, extends further into the canal behind the Russell's property than the county building permit allowed and must be shortened.

But the Russells have asked for a rehearing, according to Assistant County Attorney Bob McMillan. No date has been set for the rehearing, he said.

Early in 1979, the original permit to build the dock was withdrawn by the county and a stop-work order issued when it was pointed out that the structure was going to extend 22 feet into the canal — 12 feet further than the county permitted.

The dock also violated the area's subdivision regulations and increased the Russell's neighbors.

It also irked County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, the Russell's district commissioner, who said the Russells ignored the county's stop work order and refused to pick up certified letters directing them to shorten the dock.

After the dock was completed, the Russells applied for an after-the-fact building permit, but were turned down by the commission.

If the Russells are turned down in their appeal, they could challenge the board's decision in court.

Iranian Hostage-Takers Change Minds, Agree To Meet Waldheim

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Militant students today agreed to meet with U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim but indicated he is wasting his time if he expects to negotiate release of the 50 American hostages.

The militants' about-face, apparently prompted by Iran's official acceptance of the visit as a "fact-finding" mission, came shortly before Waldheim's departure for a scheduled New Year's day arrival in Teheran.

New Year's will be the third holiday and the 59th day of the Americans will have spent in the close confines of the sprawling U.S. Embassy compound. They also passed Thanksgiving and Christmas there, seen only by the students and a few hand-picked visitors from the outside.

The U.N. Security Council is putting the finishing touches on an American-sponsored resolution that, in effect, would give Iran until Jan. 7 to free the hostages or risk a council imposed economic blockade.

New Jury Code Going Into Effect

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Twelve laws passed by the 1979 Legislature, including a complete rewrite of the state's jury code, go into effect Tuesday.

The new code provides for a fine of up to $100 to not comply with a jury summons and makes it contempt of court for an employer to not let an employee off work for jury duty or to punish him for it.

Also, a juror will no longer have to be a resident of Florida for a year or more, although he or she must be a Florida resident and a registered voter.

Judges will have discretion for the first time to excuse lawyers and physicians.

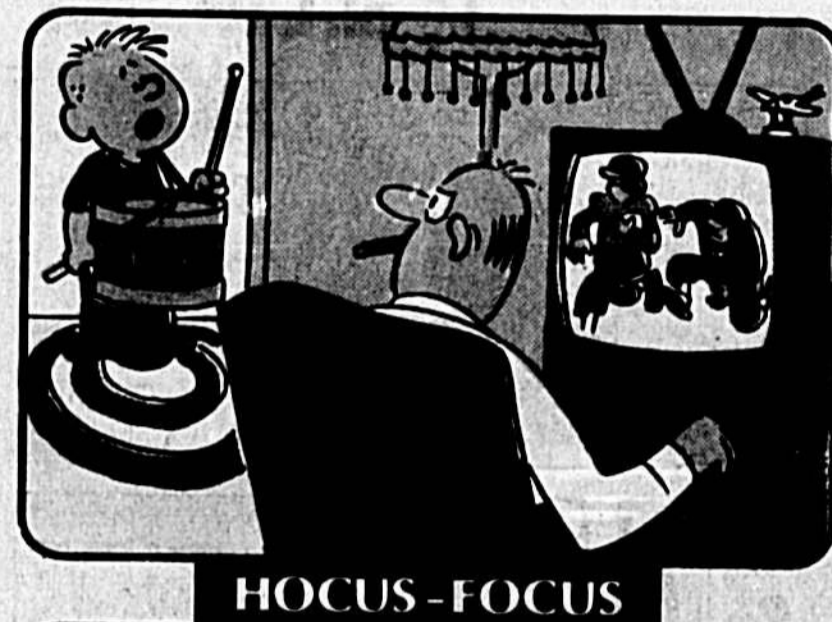

Pregnant women and women not employed full time who have children under 15 will be excused upon request.

Another new law specifies that two people can be listed as co-owners of a motor vehicle on the registration, in order to solve some problems involving inheritances.

In the event of the death of one of the co-owners, the other person would assume total ownership.

Also going into effect is a massive rewrite of the uniform commercial code covering major business transactions. The measure is designed to clear up ambiguities resulting from recent court decisions.

A proposal aimed at increasing sales of Florida fruit to Floridians also takes effect on New Year's Day. It allows growers and shippers to stamp fruit or produce to show it was grown in Florida and requires that fruit or produce shipped into Florida have the state or country of origin stamped on it.

Kennedy Declines Criticism Of Carter Debate Pullout

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, ending a Florida vacation Sunday, declined to join in criticism of President Carter for backing out of a debate in Des Moines, Iowa, next month. The Democratic presidential candidate flew back to Washington aboard his chartered Boeing 727 after spending a six-day Christmas vacation at the Palm Beach mansion of his mother, Mrs. Rose Kennedy. California Gov. Jerry Brown has criticized Carter for his withdrawal from the three-way debate, accusing him of using the Tehran hostage situation for his political advantage. Carter had said he wouldn't be able to appear because of the crisis. Kennedy said he "didn't want to speculate on presidential motivation."

Minimum Wages Rise Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal minimum wage goes up 20 cents an hour New Year's Day — giving an estimated 5 million American workers immediate pay raises. In all, some 57 million workers are covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act that will boost the minimum wage from $2.90 per hour to $3.10 per hour Tuesday. The maximum amount of overtime income that a person aged 65 to 71 may earn without losing Social Security benefits rises from $4,750 to $5,000. Those under 65 may earn $2,700 instead of the current $2,400. There is no earnings limit for those more than age 71. Wage earners making more than $22,900 a year — about 13 percent of the work force — will pay up to $183.90 more in Social Security taxes during 1980 than they did in 1979.

Junk Food Leaves Schools

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pupils will get a short reprieve on the ban of "junk food" that was to have stopped the forenoon sale in schools of sodas, chewing gum, frozen ice desserts and some but not all candy bars by January 1. Even so, children might as well make New Year's resolutions to stop buying junk foods until after lunch, because Agriculture Department officials said they expect the new rule to go into effect in less than a month. "We're not going to change the Jan. 1 date," said Jodie Levin-Epstein, an assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman. She said some school systems already are restricting sale of such foods to children even before a final federal mandate is issued.

Girl Questioned In Blaze

CHICAGO (UPI) — Police said they were questioning a teenage girl in the arson fire of an apartment building that sent residents jumping from windows to escape the flames. The fire was one of two in which 13 people were killed and more than 50 others injured. Both blazes broke out in apartment buildings only a mile apart and within hours of each other on the city's North Side, but authorities said they were apparently unrelated.

KC Firemen Reject Offer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Firefighters who have refused to work for 10 days in a labor dispute with the city have rejected the city's latest contract offer. After the union's executive board turned down the offer Sunday, city officials said they would go to court Monday to have contempt of court citations issued against the union members.

"He was brave because he battled so much illness and never complained."

Did 'Man Of Year' Khomeini Teach U.S. A Vital Lesson?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Time magazine named Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini its 1979 Man of the Year, citing him as the year's most influential newsmaker. The magazine's cover story, released Sunday, said the revolution the 78-year-old Islamic leader led in Iran might set up the balance of world power more than any event since Adolf Hitler's conquest of Europe. "Time's letter from the publisher said 'the editors had little difficulty' deciding to bestow on Khomeini 'may have taught the U.S. a useful, even vital lesson for the 1980s. He has shown that the challenges to the West are certain to get more complex, and that the U.S. will long fight this fact as its peril.'"

1979...An Eventful Year In Local News Closes Decade

What Should We Do With Our Hospital?

The future of Seminole Memorial Hospital became a major issue in 1979. As the year draws to a close, expansion, renovation or relocation of the facility remain possibilities. Beginning with the hospital board of trustees' discussion in May of renovation vs. building a new hospital, the fate of the 100-bed hospital has been a hot topic for hospital employees, county officials and area residents concerned most of the year. The suggestion of New York consulting firm of Booz-Allen & Hamilton that a new hospital be built outside of Sanford drew protest from some doctors and others, but many agreed that the facility should be moved south to growth areas of Seminole County.

City Said Goodbye To Beloved Woman

An event that had a great deal of emotional impact upon the community this past year was the death of Mother Ruby Wilson, 70, in a Jan. 31 automobile accident. The founder and president of the Good Samaritan Home, Sanford, and the First Haven child day care center, she was loved and revered by the entire Sanford community for her dedication and faith. The car which she was driving was involved in a head-on collision at Country Club Road and Lake Boulevard. She was also founder and pastor of the First Willoughby Church and was known for helping white, black, young or old, never turning away anyone in need. Funeral services were held at the First Willoughby Church, and the civic center were attended by approximately 1,000 persons. She had cared for and had been a positive influence on the lives of many young people and helped them with their education. Among them were Dr. Dick Jones, a St. Louis minister, and Dr. Donald Brown, president of Wake Forest College. Both spots at the funeral, as did Heskiah Ross, who had helped her at Good Samaritan Home since 1963 and took over as pastor of the church after her death. She had been grand marshal of the annual Sanford Christmas Parade.

Sheriff Predicted Invasion Of Smut

Beginning in January, Sheriff John E. Polk suggested to county officials that they had better put some tough anti-smut ordinances on the books or else. By December, Polk proved to be a prophet as topless dancers flocked to Seminole County after crackdowns in Orange County and neighboring cities. After arrests and restrictions on dancers elsewhere, Mike Pinter, owner of the Club Juana, one of Seminole County's three topless clubs, reported that girls were arriving in droves looking for jobs. Polk continued to urge the county to adopt ordinances relating to topless entertainment and massage parlors, adult bookstores and prostitution. "The word is out that Seminole County is the place to come," Polk said. "I'm urging the commission to go ahead and adopt these ordinances before the problem arrives. You might say I want to close the barn door before the horse gets in."

Setting Goals For The Eighties

Economist Irving Kristol, writing in The Wall Street Journal, says that the decade ahead promises to be an absolutely ghastly period.

It was only ten years ago that oil sold for $2.40 a barrel. In recent weeks, it has been selling for $40 on the spot market. It won't take many OPEC price hikes to get a barrel of oil to $50 or $60 or more.

The crisis in Iran may lead to enormous troubles for the U.S. throughout the Muslim world. Egypt after President Sadat will be a very different country. The conservative government of Saudi Arabia may be living on borrowed time.

In the 1970s, the United States lost several important allies. Therefore, it is very isolated today. If the world perceives the U.S. to be in rapid decline, the rats will abandon the sinking ship.

The No. 1 need for the United States in the decade ahead is to restore the nation's military might, which is the foundation of its security.

President Carter has announced various defense improvements, but they are completely inadequate. He envisions a fleet of 550 ships in the 1990s. This is only a little more than half the number of vessels in the U.S. Navy at the end of the Vietnam War.

Since he took office, Mr. Carter has whittled away the naval construction program. He fought against a new nuclear aircraft carrier until public opinion turned strongly against him and world events compelled him to agree to a new floating airfield.

Where would we be today if we didn't have two carriers on station in the Arabian Sea?

For years, we have heard America described as an "affluent society" or a "post-industrial society." These notions were very destructive. They encouraged the American people to believe that they were so rich that they could pour billions into global welfare programs.

The country needs a political leadership alert to the realities of the 1980s. This leadership must stress rebuilding of military and industrial power. It must understand that we can't afford huge foreign aid programs. It must be realistic about the need for intervention in situations that affect our survival as a nation.

These issues and considerations should be the stuff of the 1980 election campaign. The time is past for a politics of domestic and foreign giveaways. Slogans and clichés are no substitute for a foreign policy, which includes economic policy.

The public has a right to know how the candidates plan to handle the crises which are bound to occur in the eighties.

Will the candidates renounce accommodation with the foes of the West? We must demand straight answers in this election year.

BERRY'S WORLD

"HAVE I GOT A PROBLEM FOR YOU? It's the 'polls' - now we have to worry about OVERCONFIDENCE."

Around

The Clock

By DONNA ESTES

A recent survey by the American Automobile Association (AAA) of Florida showed that 91 percent of its members responding to the poll favored mandatory driver education courses for anyone under 18 and nearly three-quarters (72 percent) believe the minimum age for the purchase of alcoholic beverages should be raised above 18.

The question asked in the survey was: "Would you favor making a driver education course mandatory for anyone under 18 before getting a driver's license?"

Speculation recently has been that driver education courses by putting more young people on the road at the early age of 15 may actually be contributing to the high rate of traffic fatalities among young drivers.

However, of those polled 91 percent were in favor of mandatory driver's education for anyone under 18 as a prerequisite for gaining a driver's license; five percent were opposed and two percent had no opinion.

The question concerning the purchase of alcoholic beverages was: "The minimum age in Florida for the purchase of alcoholic beverages is 21. Would you favor keeping it at 18 or raising it?"

Twenty-five percent of those polled voted to keep it at 18; three percent voted to raise the age to 19; 11 percent voted to raise it to 20 and 54 percent voted to raise the age to 21. Four percent voted to raise the age to more than 21 and three percent had no opinion.

Responses to other questions were as follows: Florida's gasoline tax is fixed at eight cents per gallon. Revenues from this tax are used by the state to fund its highway building and maintenance program. If additional funds for highway program should be needed, would you prefer the state to increase the gasoline tax or to use funds from other tax sources. 49 percent favored increasing the gasoline tax; 46 percent favored using other tax sources and three percent had no opinion.

If a gasoline tax hike were necessary, over two thirds (69 percent) said they would prefer a single increase in the fixed tax and 26 percent would choose increases that vary with the per gallon price.

Sixty-four percent opposed the use of gasoline tax revenue for mass transit construction and 72 percent opposed the use of gasoline tax revenue for mass transit operation.

Evolving Senate Ethics

By ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NSA) — Compared with the major congressional scandals of past years, the formal accusation of misconduct filed recently against a single West Coast congressman clearly falls into the "small potatoes" category.

But the decision of the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct to initiate a full investigation into certain financial transactions of Rep. Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., represents a watershed in the evolution of ethical standards on Capitol Hill.

Both House and Senate established ethics committees more than a decade ago, but in the ensuing years those panels generally have restricted themselves to perfunctory activities that wouldn't bruise oversized egos or tarnish cherished political reputations.

The significance of a legislator on his own initiative and has pursued the matter to the point of publicly accusing the target of the probe of serious violations.

Over the years, the two ethics committees have received hundreds of complaints against members of Congress. But the investigations into the charges — usually distinguished only for their superficiality and accuracy — too often have produced results legitimately criticized by critics as whitewashes.

Public displays of Congress' dirty laundry have been confined to cases where outside pressures made full-scale, open investigations an uncomfortable but unavoidable alternative. Some examples:

Journalistic investigations: The first major probe conducted by the Senate's ethics committee involved charges against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn. But the reluctant panel opened its investigations only after months of relentless pressure and damaging disclosures from columnist Jack Anderson.

The more recent investigations conducted by both ethics committees into allegations of influence peddling by Korean businessman Tongsun Park were a grudging response to allegations in the Washington Post and other newspapers.

Justice Department action: To maintain the appearance of propriety, the ethics committees in recent years have opened their own investigations after it became obvious that federal prosecutors were pursuing criminal probes along identical lines.

Recent examples included the cases of Democratic Rep. Joshua Ellberg and Daniel J. Flood, both of Pennsylvania, and Charles D. Diggs Jr. of Michigan.

Scorned women: This arcane category is unlikely to attain any significant permanent status, yet "mystery" divorces involving a pair of lawmakers led directly to the two most visible Senate investigations in recent years.

Soviets Make Our Poison Their Meat

WASHINGTON — While deploring the Iranian threat to world peace and orderly diplomacy, the Soviet Union has been moving quietly to exploit the situation to its own advantage.

By keeping a low profile and engaging in its usually cynical double-dealing, the Kremlin hopes to emerge as the dominant power in a newly divided Iran. To this end, the Soviets proclaim their support for the Iranian revolutionaries, while simultaneously working to undercut the new regime behind the scenes.

The Russians obviously welcomed the center of the pro-Western clash — indeed, may have helped to foment the revolution in a tricky business, even for such experienced dealers in duplicity as the Kremlin bosses. Intelligence sources here say that the Russians are probably no more in control of events in Iran than we are.

But working both sides of the street can be a tricky business, even for such experienced dealers in duplicity as the Kremlin bosses. Intelligence sources here say that the Russians are probably no more in control of events in Iran than we are.

The Soviets would like their oil-rich neighbor to be continually beset by turmoil, to remain militarily weak, economically drained and politically threatened.

Canada Trying Again

By DON GRAFF

Fighting words though they may be to much of the English-speaking majority, French would appear to provide the best description at this point for Canada's upcoming election — de la vu.

Again Pierre Elliott Trudeau will be leading a Liberal old guard against Joe Clark, the youngish knight out of the far West at the head of a coalition with little in common other than dislike of Trudeau and his party, his policies and often vehemently his personality.

Again differences of conventional political program and ideology are compounded by contradictory economic interests of West, East and the near-orphan Maritime Provinces. And by the English-French language confrontation that continues to destroy virtually every attempt at normal political communication in Canada.

There are some changes from the situation of last May's election, however. Trudeau, who put off retirement as Liberal leader when defeat of Clark's budget compelled a new election, has declared himself in for the interim. Should the Liberals be returned to power, he has promised to turn over the government to a new prime minister "well before the next election."

Trudeau's intentions may or may not make his party more attractive to those voters — and they are legion, particularly in the western provinces — who are most turned off by him personally. But it leaves as a question mark who would be replacing him, and thus who the electorate would be opting for in the long run.

The one thing the last election seemed to have made clear last election was that a majority of Canadians did not want more of Trudeau. And they certainly did not get it in Clark, Canada's very own "Joe White" when he squeaked into the prime minister's office. They have gotten to know him better in the seven months since and while there are undoubtedly needs for his official performance, dynamic isn't one of them.

The fall from precarious grace of Clark's minority government came in parliament's rejection of a budget focusing on restructuring national energy policy. (Sound familiar out there, America?) Clark sought a gradual equalization of Canada's internal market, thereby encouraging both conservation and new development to make Canada self-sufficient.

The 25-year-old quarterback, starting his first playoff game, threw a 35-yard touchdown to running back Wendell Tyler to give the Rams a 7-0 lead with five minutes remaining in the first half.

The prospect is enormously appealing to Clark's native Alberta, with less than 10 percent of Canada's population but 85 percent of oil and gas reserves. But not to the populous East, particularly Ontario which is home to a third of Canadians and a half of all industry. The enormous transfer of wealth contemplated would roughly repeat in reverse what has been occurring on the world scene between the industrial economies and the oil-exporting countries.

Under a 1973 agreement with the dash, the Russians were to build a pipeline for export of Iranian natural gas to Western Europe through the Soviet Union. The transit fee was to be paid in natural gas — 12 billion cubic meters a year. But after the revolution, work on the pipeline has stopped, and Khromin is considering dropping the project altogether.

So far what could count is that bringing U.S. leaders, their opponents in the Kremlin and also faced with difficult decisions regarding the present and future course of Iran and its troublesome revolution.

On the other hand, the unpublished report notes, the Kremlin might seek to take advantage of the discontent among the various Iranian nationalities by attempting to establish pro-Soviet states among these people.

Interestingly, Iran's petroleum reserves figure as importantly in Kremlin strategic planning as they do at the White House. The Central Intelligence Agency, in widely disseminated findings, reported that under 1980 the Soviet Union will be unable to fill its own domestic oil and natural gas needs.

Steelers Humble Dolphins 34-14

Pittsburgh Takes No Prisoners

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — When Robin Cole went to bed Saturday night he tossed and turned, thinking about his job the next day. He tried counting sheep but all he saw were dolphins.

"I didn't get to sleep," he said Sunday. "I played this game over and over in my head. I did it a couple of times. But you know, it kept coming out the same way. A winner every time."

Cole may have had a night's sleep, but he didn't waste his time. Helping to shoulder the burden placed by the Pittsburgh Steelers' loss of injured All-Pro defenser Jack Ham and Mike Wagner, Cole came through just fine Sunday as that fabled defense played its role to sparking perfection in a 34-14 victory over the Miami Dolphins.

The victory sends the Steelers to their sixth AFC championship game in eight years next Sunday and kept alive their hopes of winning a fourth — and second consecutive — Super Bowl trophy. This time in Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 20. Houston's upset over San Diego Saturday set up a replay of last year's Steeler-Oiler tie game at Three Rivers Stadium.

"I'm dead tired and I'm gonna crash when I get home, but I'm not gonna celebrate tonight," said Cole, an outside linebacker who turned in three solo tackles and one assist against Miami. "We still have two more to go. I'm not gonna celebrate until I'm westbound."

The Steelers have made a habit of trouncing playoff opponents the past two years, pounding Denver 33-10 and Houston 34-5 a year ago. But even after the rout of the Dolphins Sunday, they refused to flex their muscles.

"Don't be deceived," said safety Donnie Shell. "Miami has a great team. We got a great effort today and that's what did it for us. It's gonna take an even greater effort next week to beat Houston."

"In situations like this we throw it all at them. We've been there before. We have to get down and play solid football. That's what it's all about or else it's all over."

In the Dolphins' solemn dressing room down the hall, the warm-weather team sat absorbing its season-ending defeat and throwing out from Pittsburgh's biting 23-degree climate. Two of its brightest stars wondered if it was their last game.

Fullback Larry Conka and guard Larry Little both indicated they are seriously considering retirement.

"I'll have to talk it over with my family," said Conka, the 11-year veteran whose nonconforming runs helped power Miami to two NFL championships.

Little, a guard in his 13th year, said he would meet with coach Don Shula today to discuss his future.

"I was injured the first part of the year but I started feeling good the end of the season," Little said. "But whether coach Shula may want to go with you, I don't know."

But Conka also paused to hail the Steelers' performance Sunday after the decade. "They'll have to beat Houston and earn it in the Super Bowl, but the Steelers can make a strong claim to the (championship) ring."

"I don't like the way they shut down our running game. They shut down the most — we never even threatened."

Shula, who predicted a Steeler victory over Houston next weekend, called the Steelers' performance Sunday sheer "domination."

"The disappointing thing is that we never really challenged the way I would have liked to," he said. "I can't be proud of the fact that we didn't challenge a game that meant so much to us."

Halfway into the final quarter, Evans still led 45-41 on two baskets by Manuel. Gelzer then countered with two free throws and a basket underneath to knot the score 49-49. Only 1:03 remained. Forward Tammy Cobbs added 10 points in the quarter.

Edgewater regained the ball and after a timeout ran the clock down to 31 seconds before 60-senior Debra Dyer hit the crucial basket for a 51-49 advantage.

In the next 19 seconds Evans lost the ball on a jump, but regained it when Oliver skillfully tipped an inbound pass back to the inbounder.

Rams Edge Dallas 21-19

IRVING, Texas (UPI) — The only thing keeping the Los Angeles Rams out of the Super Bowl is a team that lost the first 26 games it ever played.

Los Angeles may have had enough injuries to cause their insurance rates to spiral and it may have had to go with an inexperienced quarterback, but in the last professional football game of the decade, the Rams suddenly found themselves within reach of their biggest prize ever.

"We have found a way to lose for six years now," proclaimed Los Angeles defensive end Jack Youngblood. "That's a fact. But it's history, too. Today we found a way to put it together and I'm going to do everything I can to keep it going."

Three touchdown passes from Vince Ferragamo — the last with 2:06 to play and covering 50 yards to Billy Wade — brought the Rams a 21-19 divisional playoff victory over Dallas and finally ended the struggling, up-and-down season of the Cowboys.

The Rams have won the NFC West seven straight times and in four of the last five years they made it to the Super Bowl and they will have to do so on the road against the Tampa Bay Buccaneers — in only their fourth year of existence and owners of one of the most remarkable turnaround stories in pro football history.

The Buccaneers played 28 games before they won one. In the past four years have developed the NFL's leading defense.

Four weeks into the 1979 season Tampa Bay defeated Los Angeles 24-8. But seven weeks into the season Dallas had beaten Los Angeles 30-6 and the Rams were obviously a different team Sunday.

"If we play our next two games like we did today," said Los Angeles Coach Ram Malvaras, "we'll win it all."

The win centered around Los Angeles being able to slow Dallas' running game, something teams had been doing all day, and Ferragamo's ability to outlast the Cowboys' Roger Staubach, something nobody could do in 1979.

Ferragamo's three touchdown passes made up 35 percent of the Rams' total offense and symbolized the Cowboys' season in which they surrendered the first touchdown in their first game.

The 25-year-old quarterback, starting his first playoff game, threw a 35-yard touchdown to running back Wendell Tyler to give the Rams a 7-0 lead with five minutes remaining in the first half.

After Dallas had narrowed the deficit to 7-0 on Rafael Septien's 33-yard field goal, Ferragamo beat the halftime clock with a 43-yard scoring throw to Ron Smith which Smith caught between Dallas' Aaron Kyle and Randy Hughes in the end zone.

The Cowboys rallied to go in front 19-14 on a 1-yard touchdown throw from Staubach to Jay Saldi four plays deep in the final quarter.

But after Dallas failed to control the ball in the final minutes, the Rams got a final shot. Taking over at midfield after a punt, Ferragamo hooked up with Waddy on the first play for his 30-yard scoring play. Waddy caught the ball at the 27 and wove his way through the Dallas defense for the score.

Astronaut Stops Lake Howell For Fourth Place

Titusville Astronaut dashed the last hope of a place in the top four as they opened last Lake Howell 52-41 for fourth place in the Lady Hawk Invitational.

The Hawks jumped to a quick 18-13 first quarter edge behind 10 points by 5-11 center Nancy Ginzinski. The Hawks consistently beat the Titusville Eagles press and Ginzinski scored easily on sharp passes from Sonya Smith and Lori Marve.

Lake Howell's lead, however, diminished as quickly as it appeared in the second quarter when center Dana Baldwin threw in two turnaround jumpshots to make it 29-17.

The Silver Hawks rebuilt the edge to 28-22 before halftime when Ginzinski and Marve combined for five points, the last on a rebound shot by Marve with 51 seconds left.

The ballgame turned around just after halftime when 5-7 junior guard Candi Cairns hit two baskets for Astronaut. Melody Tolley got one for the Hawks, but 5-10 Kelly Bashlor converted underneath and was fouled by Ginzinski.

The foul, the left-handed senior's fourth, earned her a spell on the Hawk bench and when she went the Silver Hawks' hopes.

Bashlor missed the free throw, but Baldwin dropped in the rebound to tie matters at 30-30 with 4:14 remaining in the third quarter.

Two minutes later Smith gave Lake Howell its last lead 32-30 on a nice spin move on a drive, but the War Eagles countered with 10 straight points to put the game out of reach.

Ginzinski, who eventually fouled out in the fourth quarter, notched 16 points, while the diminutive Smith added 14. Baldwin completed an awesome shooting afternoon with nine for nine from the floor and two free throws for 20 points. 5-6 Joy Pendleton, Karon Cowart and Cairns all added eight apiece.

Titusville Astronaut: Baldwin 32-20, Cowart 22-8, Bashlor 3-0-4, Pendleton 4-8, Cairns 4-8, Myers 1-0-2, DeLoach 6-0-0, totals 24-22.

Vitamin E Will Not Improve Fertility

DEAR DR. LAMB: I read in my encyclopedia that wheat germ contains a male hormone. Since some people take wheat germ as a dietary supplement, is it possible that this hormone will further stimulate primary and secondary male sexual characteristics in these people? In other words, would it result in a deeper voice and an increase in body hair? If wheat germ does not have this effect, are there some foods besides this that do?

DEAR READER: I think it might be stretching it a little bit to say that wheat germ contains a male hormone. It's true that the vitamin E which is abundant in wheat germ is essential to fertility in animals. That's how it was discovered: Rats that were on a vitamin E deficient diet were unable to produce offspring. Similar effects have not been noted in primates which include human beings.

Animals and man have different metabolic systems. Just as man cannot manufacture vitamin C, even though most animals can, it appears that many animals need vitamin E whereas man does not need large amounts. Possibly this is because his metabolic system is able to use other substances in place of vitamin E.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 442, Vitamin E: Miracle or Myth, to give you more details about the commonly discussed virtues of adequate protein suddenly found his capacity to be improved. I'm afraid we're not going to find many examples of that in our overfed modern civilizations.

The truth is our overfed males may have an increased amount of fatty-cholesterol deposits in their arteries and this can affect their sexual ability when the circulation to the reproductive organs is involved. That's one more good reason for men to stay on a relatively low-fat, low-cholesterol diet and to avoid obesity.

There are no foods that the male can eat in his diet that will improve his secondary sexual characteristics. It is true, though, that if a person is on a poor diet, one deficient in calories or essential vitamins and minerals, that such a diet can affect his health to the point that it will indirectly affect his sexual capacity.

That's one of the explanations of why in many more primitive cultures certain foods were found to have a sexual benefit. The truth is that in such primitive societies food was a scarce commodity and a man who did not get a normal amount of protein in his diet and then started eating so-called sex foods which included adequate protein suddenly found his capacity to be improved. I'm afraid we're not going to find many examples of that in our overfed modern civilizations.

WIN AT BRIDGE

really unbeatable. With West holding both the ace of hearts and queen of clubs, it takes very careful play to bring the spade game home.

Oswald: "It is a matter of declarer giving himself every chance. He must win the trump lead in dummy and refrain from the luxury of drawing trumps. Instead, he leads a club at trick two and finesses his jack."

Alan: "West wins and makes his best lead of a second trump. Now South cashes his ace of clubs and dummy's ace and king of diamonds. Then he discards his last diamond on the king of clubs and ruffs a diamond. Now he gets back to dummy with his last trump, discards a heart on the 13th diamond, leads a heart, watches his king lose to West's ace, but still makes his 10 tricks."

Oswald: "He needed a 3-2 trump break and a 3-3 diamond break for this play to work, but he gave up nothing in taking this extra chance."

Oswald: "South might well have rebid in notrump, but he elected to jump to four spades after his partner's spade raise."

Alan: "Four spades is a pretty good contract, but three notrump by South is
