

SPORTING GOSSIP

Same Old Story

"If you have tears to shed, step out in the wood shed and shed 'em."

The same thing happened at Sanford yesterday that has happened about eight times recently in rapid succession. Orlando lost the game in the ninth through rotten playing and many think poor judgment.

Wilson was put in the box to pitch when out of condition and after protesting, stating that he had understood that he was not to pitch that day and had spent two hours in the lake swimming. At least three other pitchers were here and there seems to have been no reason why one of them could not have been used. Langford, of Rome, Ga., was slated to pitch the game but was ill, but there were Vaiden and Randall, either of whom were in pink of condition. Notwithstanding he claimed to be out of condition, Wilson allowed only six hits, while Ray, the great strike out pitcher, gave up eleven, many spectators looking for Sanford to take him out of the box before the game was over.

At the beginning of the last half of the ninth Orlando had Sanford beaten by a score of four to three and it looked like it was all over but the shouting, but, you never can tell. Lowe, the first man up singled to left, Brittain was hit by the pitcher, both advancing a base on a passed ball. Bundy, the next man up, hit a slow ball to pitcher, who fell, throwing wild to White at score, both Lowe and Brittain scoring.

In the first inning Stump made a clean hit to center and Howatt one to right, sending Stump to third, Howatt stealing second, but with two men out Orlando failed to score, Randall going out from short to first.

In the second Bowen was safe through an error by first, Boyer following with a clean hit to right, sending Bowen to third, and in an attempt to catch Boyer stealing second Bowen scored. White went out from second to first; Wilson struck out and Brewster went out from short to first.

Nothing was done by Sanford until the fourth when Farmer, the first man up, walked, Swink sacrificed him to second and Moreland hit to right for two bases, scoring Farmer; Roberts hit to right fielder, who dropped the ball, Moreland scoring, Lowe retiring the side from pitcher to first.

In the fifth Orlando tied the score, Wilson hitting to pitcher and beating the ball out by a crafty slide, Brewster sacrificed him to second, Cole was walked on purpose, Stump hit to first, Wilson taking third and Cole second, Howatt hit a long fly to right, Wilson scoring on the throw in. Randall grounded to first, retiring the side.

In the seventh, Orlando marked up two more. Brewster flied to center; Cole was safe by an error on the part of the first baseman; Stump hit for two bases on left, scoring Cole; Howatt singled to right, scoring Stump; Randall was hit by a pitched ball. At this stage of the game, Bowen was taken sick and was replaced by Vaiden, who fanned; Boyer hit through short, but White fanned, retiring the side. In this inning Orlando made three hits and two runs and it looked very much like a blow up, but Ray kept his head, striking out two with two men on bases.

In the eighth Sanford scored again, Ray putting a safe one to left; Farmer was out on a fly to right; Swink hit to center; Wofford fanned; Moreland hit to third who fielded the ball well but lost his head, failing to touch the bag which would have caught Ray at third Roberts went out on a fly to center, retiring the side.

As given above, the ninth resulted disastrously, Sanford scoring two runs and winning the game with none out.

Summary—Runs: Sanford 5; Orlando 4. Hits off Ray 11; off Wilson 6. Struck out by Wilson 7; by Ray 8. Bases on balls by Ray 2; by Wilson 2. Hit by pitcher, Brittain and Randall. Errors, Sanford 2; Orlando 3.—Reporter-Star.

Sanford 2, Orlando 0

Two to nothing tells the story of another close game gone to Sanford and like many others, was handed them by errors at critical times.

It was a good fast game with the exception of the fifth inning when on two errors and a scratch hit (a bunt hitting foul and rolling fair) Sanford put two across the plate. The first scored from third on a sacrifice fly and the next one on a hit to second who fumbled.

"Gen." Lee and Langford were the opposing pitchers and it was a mighty twirling battle from start to finish with honors about even—the men behind Langford losing the game for him. Lee was in fine form, allowing only four hits and striking out six men. Langford gave up five hits and struck out three men, but walked only two against Lee's four.

The features of the game were a two base hit by Brewster and a double play pulled off by Bowen and Brewster. Roberts also made a quick recovery after misjudging Bowen's long fly to left and got it before it hit the ground. Roberts, at first, thought the ball was going over the fence and started to climb up after it when the ball made a sudden drop and so did Roberts, and he managed to nab it a few feet inside the fence. A one hand stab of a pop out by Bowen after he had fallen among the autos was also quite spectacular.

Sanford played a new man, Childras, on second, and he showed up well. Wofford was shifted to third and Brittain warmed the bench.—Reporter-Star.

- Beulah—J. A. Reaves, J. S. O'Berry, W. H. Robinson, inspectors.
- Zellwood—H. C. Jones, C. H. Baker, Wm. Edwards, inspectors.
- Longwood—Chas. Ensminger, Mr. Dunn, W. H. Woodberry, inspectors.

Orlando and Brick Roads

The movement to bond this road district in the interest of the building of good roads is gathering force slowly but surely, according to a statement made this morning by Seth Woodruff, the father of the plan.

"I think I have sounded public opinion on the measure pretty thoroughly," said Mr. Woodruff, and I find it is well nigh universally favored. The people I think have awakened to the absolute need for good roads. And the sentiment seems to favor this method. The men with whom I've talked seem to feel that the plan for building good roads by direct taxation has been thoroughly threshed out, and found to be impracticable."

Mr. Woodruff said that he will begin the circulation within two weeks of a petition, asking the county commissioners to call an election to determine whether or not the bonds are to be issued.—Reporter-Star.

Will Return to Sanford

Louis Jamies has been in the city several days looking over his farm and other property. He has been engaged for several years in Jacksonville on the experimental farm and having a practical experience in the farming game proved a valuable acquisition to the experimental farm, as it took a good man to endeavor to raise Sanford products on Jacksonville soil.

Mr. Jamies is seriously considering returning to Sanford and settling down for life, as he states that in all his experience he has never seen any land or section as well adapted for the high priced winter vegetables as the Sanford section where irrigation and drainage can be worked to such good advantage the year round.

His many Sanford friends will welcome Louie back again and hope that he will make a fortune this season to celebrate his return.

The California Crop

The news to the effect that the California fruit crop for the present year is exceedingly small, while not received as good news, is none the less of importance to Florida growers, as if there is a great shortage in the California crop, Florida should reap the advantages in greatly increased prices for her fruit, which is recognized as the best there is to be had from anywhere at any price. The situation should be carefully studied by all who have fruit. They should acquaint themselves with the facts so that they may not be imposed upon.

Marlow Succeeds Wagner

D. C. Marlow has arrived in the city and will succeed D. G. Wagner as trainmaster of the Jacksonville division. Mr. Marlow is a railroader of many years' experience, having been in the general offices at Wilmington and afterward coming to Lakeland and other points where he has been engaged for some time. He will now make Sanford headquarters and will receive a warm welcome from the people of this city.

STATE HAPPENINGS BOILED DOWN FOR THE BUSY

A Brief Resume of Florida Happenings That Will Interest The Hurried Reader

Two carloads of machinery have arrived in Lakeland for the new 100-ton ice plant. Work on the brick building is progressing rapidly. The plant when completed will represent an investment of $100,000.

A water softening plant is now being urged for St. Augustine municipal water works plant by several citizens. It is stated that for small expense such a plant can be installed and it changes the artesian water, making it better for drinking and for bathing and other uses by softening it.

Shipments of pears from Archer during the past two weeks have been heavy. The fruit is bringing good prices in eastern markets.

West Tampa is to have a new post office. The present building is inadequate to handle the volume of business passing through that office, so United States has issued orders to lease a larger building.

A large saw mill is to be erected near Elkton at an early date. The mill will also manufacture barrel material which will supply the surrounding community.

There is a movement on foot for the organization of a young men's Civic Club in St. Augustine. Such a club would no doubt prove very beneficial to that or any other city.

Five miles of the Jacksonville-St. Augustine highway in Duval county is to be bricked. Brick are now being hauled and scattered alongside the John Anderson boulevard from Loretta to Bayard. This will bring the paving almost to the St. Johns county line.

The vegetable growers of Manatee county are organizing into an association for mutual benefit.

Miami's celebration, which occurred in the past week, was conceded to have been far beyond its expectations. The largest number of visitors that the busy city has had in all its sixteen years as a city was accorded to its birthday party.

On Wednesday of last week there was consummated in Brooksville the organization of the largest semi-public service corporation in the history of Hernando county when the Brooksville Light & Power Company took over the Brooksville waterworks and the ice plant, the new company to be operated under the name of the Brooksville Light & Power Company.

At a meeting held in Vans Agnew and Crawford's offices, at which a majority of the attorneys practicing in Osceola county were present, the Osceola County Bar Association was formed. W. B. Crawford, Judge Parker and R. G. Johnson were appointed a committee to draft resolutions and outline a constitution and by-laws. After this feature has been attended to, the organization will meet to perfect a permanent, body. The local lawyers feel that it is their duty to militate against the itinerant and non-eligible practitioners who have been encroaching on the legitimate business of the attorneys in this county. It seems that a great many notaries public are performing the functions of a regular attorney and this, according to the Bar Association, is not permissible. It is the intention of the new body to prosecute all such violations and in all other matters to conserve the province of the legitimate lawyer.

At the morning service last Sunday Pastor Kilgore extended an invitation to the male members of his congregation to remove their coats if they so desired, and a few availed themselves of the privilege. Now, if he would permit the ladies to remove their headgear were man would take more comfort in attending divine service, and also be able to see as well as hear the preacher.—Bradentown Herald.

Banks and trust companies over the country are to be asked by the Democratic National Committee to receive and remit to their proper places all campaign contributions, not only to the Democratic but to the Republican and Progressive parties.

SANFORD GIRL TAKES HONOR

Little Margaret Neal Wins First Prize in Baby Show

Sanford undoubtedly has the finest lot of beautiful and healthy children that can be found and while Sanford people are aware of this fact, the babies do not attract our attention as readily as that of a stranger, probably due to the fact that we have more babies and prettier ones than our less fortunate neighbors. But let the Sanford people take a trip to another state and the comparison of children redounds to the credit of our city and never fails to carry off the honors.

At a baby show given last week at Monticello, Tenn., little Margaret Neal carried off first honors among the vast assembly of little southern beauties. Margaret is the little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Neal and with her mother is spending the summer at Monticello, Tenn.

The Nashville Banner describes the awards as follows:

Nearly 1,000 people paid a dime each to see the show and were well rewarded for the outlay for all the children were beautiful and each deserved a prize. In the first class, one year olds, the prize went to Ralph William Richmond of Monticello, a handsome brunette. In the second class, a Nashville boy carried off the honors, Geo. Crockett Webb, a beautiful brown eyed blonde, the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Dwight Webb.

In the third prize, early haired Juanita Rapier of Chattanooga was winner. Fourth class, Geo. P. Stafford of Birmingham was winner, a handsome lad. In the fifth class, a dainty blonde lassie, Margaret Neal of Sanford, Florida, was the winner.

Hastings Ships Seed Potatoes

Days shipment of seed potatoes for fall planting are now being made from Hastings, says the Hastings News. While for the spring or main crop, northern grown seed potatoes must be planted for the fall or second crop, home grown seed is used. Each year the farmers save a certain number of barrels of potatoes from the spring crop, storing them in a barn or loft or cool shed. During the summer these potatoes furnish a supply of tubers for the largest being taken for that purpose. Those left are used for seed. Hastings farmers obtaining best results from planting potatoes the size of walnuts and using them uncut. The fall crop is planted during September or early in October and the same cultural methods are followed as with the spring crop. Fall potatoes mature by the first of January and may be harvested in time to allow the same ground to be used for the spring crop.

This crop is used to supply local demand and a ready demand is found for them at from $1.50 to $1.00 per barrel from a b station. As in former years growers have a surplus supply of seed and this is now being offered for sale at prices ranging from $1 to $1 a barrel according to quality of the stock.

Orlando Lady Killed

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 18. — Three young women were killed and a fourth was probably fatally injured late today near Frostburg, when a Baltimore & Ohio eastbound passenger train, running over the Western Maryland railroad extension, struck the party just after they had stepped off the west bound track to avoid an approaching freight train.

The Dead—

Mrs. Oscar Schneider, Orlando, Fla., 27 years old, who came to Frostburg for "home coming week."

Jennie Schneider, 32 years old.

Bessie Williams, 32 years old.

The injured—

Edna Raley, 27 years old, head crushed and internal injuries, probably will die.

Minnie Schneider, 30 years old, bruised and suffering from shock.

SANFORD PENNANT DAY

Winning Team To Receive Flag Next Thursday

WILL BE MADE GALA OCCASION

Sanford Splendid Base Ball Team Will Be The Honorees Of The Great Fete Day

Sanford ball team won the pennant. Of course you have heard of the wonderful series of wonderful games played this season between Sanford and Orlando and how the wonderful playing of the Sanford team won the pennant.

Said pennant is in process of making and next Thursday will be the glad occasion when the heroes of the diamond will swell out their manly bosoms and receive the reward of merit in the shape of a pennant.

Thursday will also be Boost Day and every loyal fan is supposed to come out and help along a good thing.

The series is drawing to a close and enthusiasm is not exactly at fever heat on account of the easy victory for Sanford but Orlando claims that on the occasion of our Boost Day and Pennant Day they will take the game just to demonstrate that they can play ball. However, we will not worry about the game if it is a good snappy one, and the crowd now promises to be a record breaker and plenty of fun.

The band will play and the ladies will be there to do the honors and the ball park will resemble the stadium at the Olympic games. The last grand rally of the season and plenty of excitement. Half holiday will give every one a chance to see the game.

Await More Evidence

New York, N. Y., Aug. 16. After being in session for more than two hours today, the grand jury considering the Rosenthal murder notified Whitman that they didn't feel warranted in handing up further indictments of murder in the first degree until more evidence has been heard. This evidence is expected to come from Schepps, now enroute from Hot Springs. No additional indictments are expected until his arrival. This turn in affairs came suddenly after Assistant District Attorney Moss this morning had practically completed the case against all the defendants before the grand jury.

The grand jury met at noon today and it was generally reported that indictments would be handed the court before the end of the day. The coroner's inquest was late getting under way. Many prominent men were impounded on the ship, Daniel Frohman, a theatrical manager is the foreman.

Schepps Safe in Jail

New York, Aug. 20. Schepps, the alleged paymaster of the murderer of Rosenthal, arrived here this morning and was taken immediately to the west side prison where he was locked in a cell. Although only a material witness, Whitman said he would be arraigned as a matter of form.

There was a clash between Whitman and the detective of the police department when the train pulled in with Schepps. The detective said that Deputy Commissioner Dougherty sent him to take Schepps, and he tried to take charge of the prisoner, but the prosecutor would have none of it. Schepps was taken immediately to the west side prison and put in a cell.

FIRE FIEND AT BARTOW

County Seat of Polk Suffers Serious Loss Last Sunday

Sunday morning at 3:30 an alarm of fire awakened the sleeping inhabitants of Bartow. As the fire was in the heart of the city it caused no little fear. The brick building on Broadway belonging to Jasper Summerlin and occupied by T. P. Carpenter, Hardware Company and a Greek fruit stand and restaurant, was totally destroyed, as well as the contents of the two stores. It is not known just how or where the fire originated, whether in the hardware store or in the fruit store, but likely in the latter.

So rapid was the spread of the flames that it looked almost hopeless at first to try to confine the fire to the one building, but the heroic efforts of the Bartow volunteer fire company succeeded in getting a number of streams of water upon the flames and it was soon apparent that the fire was under control. The hardware stock was not covered by insurance, only a small amount, $1,000, being carried on the stock. The loss is a great one to T. P. Carpenter & Co.

The J. N. Hooker brick building on Broadway and Summerlin streets, occupied by the M. B. Johnson garage, was damaged considerably, entire inside of the building burning out and destroying the stock of supplies carried by Johnson, also damaging a number of machines belonging to the company. A number of machines belonging to private citizens were also badly disfigured and might as well as been burned as for the use they will be as pleasure cars in the future. The Johnson company carried no insurance whatever, so their loss is a total one. The building is cracked, scorched and marred, the entire front being burned out, the windows all out and the damage considerable to it, as the walls will likely crumble from the heat. The gasoline in the rear was carried out by a number of brave men and fortunately there was no explosion. Drs. H. O. Cox, E. A. Law and A. A. McLeod were among the ones having cars in the garage that were badly damaged. Dr. Cox had two machines in the building, as the doctor is away in Canada on a camping expedition with a party of Bartow friends.

Death of Mrs. Laughton

Geo. H. Fernald received the sad intelligence last Friday morning from Mrs. Fernald of the death of her mother, Mrs. E. J. Laughton, which occurred in Boston on that date. Mr. Fernald left immediately for Boston to assist in the arrangements for the funeral.

Mrs. Laughton had been spending her winters in Sanford and had many friends here who were shocked to hear of her sudden death. Mrs. Fernald and Mrs. Laughton left here several weeks ago for the north and at that time Mrs. Laughton was apparently in the best of health. Further particulars will be given later regarding the funeral.

Special Session of Legislature

The efforts of the Jacksonville Board of Trade to obtain a special session of the state legislature for the purpose of considering legislation to enable the city of Jacksonville to acquire and improve properties for municipal terminals have been crowned with success and, after consideration by Gov. A. W. Gilchrist, following a visit from a committee designated by the local trade body, a proclamation convening the legislature in session at noon on Oct. 1st, has been issued from the executive offices at Tallahassee.

The proclamation in question bears the date of Aug. 17 and is directed to the members of the two branches of the legislative body. The issuance of the call for the special session is generally regarded as the first step in an almost certain victory for the proposition, inasmuch as a large number of the members of the legislature are believed to be heartily in favor of the bill.—Times-Union.

Important legislation that must be acted on before congress adjourns stands today as follows: Panama canal bill before the President. The legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bills, in conference between and now before the senate, with provisions abolishing the commerce court. The naval sundry bill and army appropriation bills, in conference between the two houses. The general deficiency appropriation bill, before the senate committee on appropriations. The Indian appropriation bill, conference report pending in the senate.

The coming week will be one of moderately high temperatures in the southern states and generally over the middle west, according to a bulletin from the weather bureau. In the northern states and west of the Rocky mountains temperatures will be near or below the seasonal average. "The precipitation during the week," the bulletin says, "will be light and local over the southern half of the country and generally above the normal in the northern states. The next disturbance to cross the country will appear in the northwest Tuesday and across the middlewest about Thursday, and the eastern states Friday or Saturday. There are no indications at the present time of a disturbance in the West Indies.

The question whether colored attorneys shall be admitted to the American Bar Association will be submitted for decision to the annual meeting of the organization next week at Milwaukee. The executive committee of the association tonight made a special report regarding election to membership of three negroes. This report will be presented at the annual meeting as a basis for action.

Governor Marshall will be officially notified that he is the choice of the Democratic party for Vice President of the United States at 2 o'clock today. The event is expected to bring on one of the most notable gatherings of Democrats ever held in Indianapolis. Weather permitting, the ceremonies will be held in the open. There is to be erected at the Indiana Democratic Club a stand facing the square. Thos. Taggart, National committeeman from Indiana, will make an address today at noon. This will be followed by a parade through main town streets which will end at the club house. Mr. Taggart will introduce Judge Alton B. Parker of New York, chairman of the notification committee, who will formally notify the Governor of his notification.

The plans are in pursuance with the campaign popular subscription idea. Chairman McAdoo made it known by giving out a statement embodying a letter which he announced he had sent to every bank and trust company in the United States requiring them to agree to receive and transmit subscriptions to each of the three national parties. He accompanied his letter to the banks with a letter from Nominee Woodrow Wilson, who declared that "to bring about an election of the President through a campaign financed by popular subscriptions would be a distinct and gratifying triumph."

General William Booth, head and founder of the world-wide organization of the Salvation Army, whose health has been slowly giving away since he was struck with blindness last June, is reported to be in a grave condition. General Booth was 83 years old on April 10 last, and because of his advanced age little hope is held out for his recovery. Nevertheless prayers for a continuation of his useful career are being offered up in every Salvation Army station in all parts of the world. General Booth is the son of a Nottingham carpenter. He chose preaching for a profession, but his sympathy with the poor took him to London and in the slums of the East End he started the work that has developed into an everlasting monument to his memory.

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A Chief Is Among Ye Taking Notes and Faith, He'll Prent 'Em'—So Says Saunterer.

¶ The following paragraph in a recent issue of the Tribune has attracted considerable attention and brought forth a number of contributed comments from readers:

St. Louis women have cut their hostility down to sock length. The tendency of the fair sex to reduce gradually the amount of clothes they wear causes some apprehension that they may ultimately get back to fig leaf.

Among those whose interest was excited is a gentleman signing himself "An Old Married Man," who subjoins the following verses:

Little girl, you look so small,
Don't you wear any clothes at all
Don't you wear a shiny skirt
Don't you wear a pretty skirt
Just your corset and your hose,
Are these all your underclothes?

Little girl, when on the street,
You appear to be all feet,
With your dress so very tight—
Don't you wear a pretty skirt
Not a thing to keep you warm—
Crazy, just to show your form.

Little girl, you won't live long,
Just because you dress all wrong
Can't you wear more underclothes
Than your corset and your hose
After awhile I do believe,
You will dress like Mother Eve.

If the ladies do not think it presumptuous on our part, we will offer the following rejoinder for their use:

Married man, you are a fake,
Cut your chaff, for mercy's sake,
Why should you lay slightest stress
On how we poor girls dress?
If you don't like what we wear,
Old grouch, then why do you stare?

If we do not please you, pray
Turn your face the other way,
We'll not melt for one or two
Blear eyed rubbers like you—
If like Eve we chanced to roam,
Why couldn't we keep you home?

¶ There are several young men around town that are specially noticeable because they never work. They wear good clothes, seem to have money and, according to all outward appearances, are pampered children of fortune. But are they?

In looking up their pedigrees you usually find that their poor old father or mother worked ten hours a day to keep the village sport in good clothes and smoking tobacco. It brings to my mind the following description of Walt Mason of the "village sport."

"His clothes are loud, his necktie red, his hat far back upon his head, his hair profusely banged; and rather than get down to tacks and work with men who strain their backs he says he will be hanged. Brass jewelry his bosom frets, he smokes the cheaper cigarettes, and plays a hand at pool, the latest rag-time song he sings, and knows a raft of useless things he never learned in school. He knows how many rounds it took John Sullivan to cook Tug Wilson years ago; and he can tell you, by the watch, how long it took the farmer Gotch to lay the Frenchman low. He knows the story of the steeds which broke all the records by its speed 'way back before the wars, and he has soaked his scrambled brains with facts concerning aeroplanes and yachts and motors cars. Alas, his ignorance is dense, when asked the way to build a fence or work a patent churn; he never planted peas or trees—? such useless, trifling things as these he never tried to learn. The things to which he'd turn his hand are things for which there's no demand—his knowledge has no sale, and so he makes his penny bets and smokes his spinach cigarettes before the village jail. Some foolish damsel at his side one day goes forth to be his bride, and having made the aplice, she buckles down with mop and tub to make a living for a dub too cheap to have a price."

Claiming that his wife, Elinor R. McBride, gave too much time and thought to society, and on one occasion compelled him to cook his own meal that she might grace the drawing room, James O. McBride was today granted a divorce by the circuit court.

The complaint charged "cruelty, abandonment, harassing him and not properly attending to her household duties." "Her whole desire and dominating thought," testified the husband, "has been to dress lavishly, paint gaudily, attend theaters, card parties, moving picture shows, go automobile riding, give card and theater parties and dinners, buy face cream, paint, hair tonic, anti-fat, candies and ice cream and have it charged to me."

The above item is from the Jacksonville Metropolis and shows the trend of events regarding some of the latter day society leaders, who give more time to society than to their families. While I do not need to caution the ladies of Sanford about the neglect of their husbands there are times when it did seem that there was more attention given to card parties than to domesticity and I did call attention to the case of several members of the male persuasion who were obliged to cook their own meals or go without because wifery had become innoculated with the bridge fever. Here's hoping that none of our ladies will get the "bug" as bad as the above mentioned Jacksonville lady.

¶ The modern version of St. Anthony Comstock who presides over the predigested destinies of the Orlando Citizen seemed greatly peeved at me last week because I favored a man buying a newspaper on Sunday instead of getting it through the mail, as this paragon of propriety receives his papers. He even intimates that I am a bold, bad man and do not echo the sentiments of the pure in heart, as he does with his kodaked views. He wound up his little hawl of yarn by saying that he would not clean Sanford's streets or sewers.

We do not want you, dear Howard, on that job. When our streets and sewers need cleaning we will engage a man who comes from a town where they have streets and sewers in order that he may know a street or sewer when he sees them. That will be about all the the sewage for today.

¶ I understand that the new depot will be finished some time in the early fall and if it is Sanford ought to have a good paved street out that way in order to create a good impression with the winter visitors. I do not know what the council intends to do in this regard, but hope they will get busy and give us a better street. There are several plans for building streets to the depot and any of the good streets leading out that way would do, but let us have one soon and get it by Christmas, please.

¶ What a lot of things we do from custom or habit. It is apparent enough why we dress like other people, and why we try to ape them in many ways. We escaped being grouped with the odd, or the slouchy, or the uncouth; and by this means win favor and make progress; but we must do it within prescribed limits, or we are eccentric and perhaps uncompanionable. This is a communal requirement. But why think you do we eat when we are not hungry, drink when we are not thirsty, become fond of things that disagree with us, work to make more money when we have enough. Are polite to certain classes of people for whom we have no respect? It is easier to ask questions than to answer them; and I am not going to try to give you an answer to these inquiries, since you are as capable as I, and may find for yourself a satisfactory answer. It may help us more if we all think out an answer for ourselves.

BIG ONION FARM

Atlanta Man Will Conduct a Large One Near Ocala

D. H. Kirkland of Atlanta, a very wealthy man of that city, last winter purchased a large tract of land from Kyle & Yonge, who have reclaimed a vast tract of property on the Ocklawaha River in Marion county.

Mr. Kirkland expects to raise principally onions, to which this soil is admirably adapted. He is very enthusiastic over that section of Marion county and thinks it has a wonderful future for farming purposes.

The City Farmer

The country Rube who came to town used to be a stock joke. Most of the men at the head of the city's biggest affairs came to town as Rubes. The tide of migration has turned, and with it the joke has turned upon the city man who has the idea that a few thousand dollars and a few books on agriculture will make him a successful farmer.

Even a stupid turnip is said to know a city farmer as soon as it sees him, the peas fairly rattle in their pods with derision as he passes; wandering too near the bee hive with a book on honey making, he gets stung in three places, his cauliflowerers turn out to be cabbages, the thunder sours his milk; the drouth gets his corn; the peaches drop off before they ripen; the rot strikes his potatoes; the hogs destroy the watermelons everything he has goes wrong, and "farming is a failure." Yet in spite of these difficulties, the city farmer, in every part of our land, is making good, and especially in this part of Florida and is getting more than dollars out of his experience.

A well handled hoe will back to press all of his dyspepsia. Swinging an axe or grubbing hoe will tone up his nerves as no other tonic will. On the prongs of the fork he can pitch away the worst attack of "the blues." In the wake of these plow he picks up strength to meet any emergency. The dash of the shower that wets him to the skin composes his spirits for any crisis. Neighbors looking over the fence may think he is only weeding tomatoes, or spitting wood, or digging potatoes. But he is doing infinitely more. He is rebuilding strength, enkindling spirit, quickening his brain, purifying his heart, and blessing his soul.—Ex.

Adopt An Acid Test

Gainesville, Aug. 16.—Adopting the report of the commission named by Secretary McTear to fix a standard of mature oranges, the Florida fruit growers who assembled here today adjourned late in the afternoon. A ration of 100 lbs of sugar against acids in the standard fixed in the report of the commission for mature oranges.

The meeting which was held in the engineering hall at the University of Florida, was attended by over 150 prominent growers, only twenty-nine of which were members of the Florida Citrus Exchange.

General Manager W. C. Temple of the Florida Citrus Exchange, was among those present, and made one of the most interesting talks of the day.

The convention was called to order by Secretary of Agriculture W. A. McRae, who was permanent chairman. He explained how the movement to establish a standard of maturity started, and called attention to the men who had been appointed on the commission, and their fitness to judge the ratio. In the permanent organization Josiah Varn was elected permanent secretary.

To Restrict President's Power

Washington, Aug. 16.—Senator Bacon of Georgia today continued his attack upon the use of the American navy and army for intervention of disordered countries and offered a bill to restrict the use of these forces by the executive branch of the government. This measure would make it impossible for the President to order troops into a foreign country when Congress is in session without the consent of Congress. A similar provision to the army appropriation bill was presented to Bacon last night, but was rejected.

A Good One

The following conundrum has been handed to the editorial department but so far none of the force has been able to answer it: If brick roads cost six thousand dollars a mile and ball teams cost eight and a half thousand dollars a season, how long would it take Sanford and Orlando to build a brick highway of their own if they should cut out the ball games and have a friendly rivalry to see which town would build the most miles of the road?—Reporter-Star.

FOUND RIGHT MAN AT ONCE

Seedy and Unlikely Looking Individual Knew All About City's Street Railway Troubles.

A man once came to Newton D. Baker, mayor of Cleveland, and said: "My town is going to have a street railway right. I want to know all about Cleveland's."

"I shall be only too glad to tell you all I know," said Mr. Baker, "but unfortunately I have appointments until one o'clock. Will you come back?"

"How can I most profitably put in the two hours here until that time?" asked the stranger.

The answer was "Go out on the public square, sit down by the most unlikely man you can find—the one who looks most as if he didn't know the difference between a franchise and a double track. Ask that man to tell you about Cleveland's street railway fight, and when you come back I will tell you whatever you haven't been able to learn from him."

The man came back at the end of two hours. "I needn't keep my appointment here," he said. "I found an old chap whose feet were out of his shoes, whose elbows were out of his shirt sleeves, and who looked as if he had just sobered up for the first time in a month—in short, I found the unluckiest looking individual at large. I put one question to him and he started right in at the beginning and filled in all the details and brought me down to date. There's nothing for you to tell me unless you know what a going to happen. He hasn't been let in on that."—The Hurvey.

ROUGH MANNERS OF THE PAST

Drinking Trick In Which English Monarch Figured—The First Fingerless Gloves.

Drinking tricks figured in diplomacy in the time of Henry VIII. Mrs. Henry Cust quotes the king's challenge to Hubertus, the representative of the Palgrave Frederick. He sent for two huge goblets, filled with wine and beer respectively, and gave the envoy his choice for a "drinking out" test. In vain Hubertus pleaded that his master had actually instituted a company of the Golden Ring to put down such contests, any member who broke the prohibition to lose his ring and give it to the poor. Henry refused to prove that the Englishman was the better man, promised to find the forfeits himself and drank his beer at a draft, while it took the German four gulps to account for the wine.

How early did mankind think of the convenience of the fingerless glove? Little was said of gloves in ancient times but in most cases it is obvious that they had fingers. Those worn by the secretary of the younger Pliny, used when he visited Vesuvius, so that he might keep on jotting down notes in spite of the cold, must have been fingered, no less than those of the gladiator in Athens, who wore gloves of hide so that he might handle the heat while hot and get in advantage of his bare handed fellow gladiators.

Of all "aptitudes," the mechanical is least likely to manifest itself in a feminine brain. The young woman whose visit to a locomotive works is described in Young's Magazine, was doubtless interested in what she saw, but her account of the processes observed leaves the reader to doubt her entire understanding of them.

"You pour," she told a friend, "a lot of sand into a lot of boxes, and you throw old stove lids and things into a furnace, and then you turn the red-hot stream into a hole in the sand, and everybody yells and shouts."

"Then you pour it out, let it cool and pound it, and then you put in it a thing that bores holes in it. Then you screw it together, and paint it, and put steam in it, and it goes splendidly, and they take it to a drafting-room and make a blueprint of it."

"But one thing I forgot—they have to make a boiler. One man gets inside and one gets outside, and they pound frightfully, and then they tie it to the other thing, and you ought to see it go!"—Youth's Companion.

Thoughtful John Chinaman.

"The virtues of a Chinese laundryman never have been half told," said the woman. "Not of my laundryman, anyhow. He is such a motherly old soul. The other day he brought my handkerchiefs home folded in two different ways, some squared, some cat-cornered."

"Why the different styles in ironing?" I asked.

"John pointed to the stack of cat-cornered handkerchiefs. 'These holey,' he said. Then to the square pile, 'These good. In big bully, not gettee mix and go out with holey handkerchief.'"

"Kind old John. His idea was all right, but doesn't keep me from getting mixed, for I can never remember which shape means holey and which means whole, so I am likely to disgrace myself with a holey handkerchief after all."

PORTABLE GRAIN-LOADING ELEVATOR

Loading Grain Into Cars by Means of a Portable Elevator.

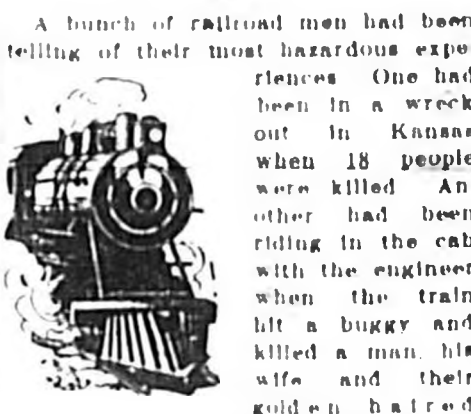

Several portable grain-loading elevators, which may be operated by an electric motor or by a gasoline engine, are being used with considerable success by an Illinois line, which devotes special attention to the handling of grain on its line extending through the famous corn-belt of Illinois. Regulation steam-road freight cars, operated on the electric line, are placed on sidings, located at frequent intervals, and the farmers bring the grain for shipment to them in wagons. The first of the elevators used was driven by a gasoline engine, but the lately installed similar machines are operated by electric motors, taking current from the trolley wire. The grain wagons are tilted in the manner shown, and the load feeds into a receiving box of the elevator. A wagon-load of grain can be transferred into a car in ten minutes—Popular Mechanics.

HIS TIME OF DANGER

RAILROAD MAN TELLS OF MOST SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Overmuch Good Nature Led to What Might Have Been a Disastrous Collision, According to Ex-City Passenger Agent.

A bunch of railroad men had been telling of their most hazardous experiences. One had been in a wreck out in Kansas when 18 people were killed. Another had been riding in the cab with the engineer when the train hit a buggy and killed a man, his wife and their golden-haired daughter. Still another had been on a runaway car that was stopped with in a few feet of a broken trestle over a deep canyon out in Colorado.

The most distressing accident that ever befell me in all my railroad career," spoke up the man with the saw-colored mustache, "was when I was city passenger agent of a road out in Los Angeles.

One day a young fellow came to me and wanted to map out his route for a wedding trip. I engaged a state-room for him and a lot of things like that, and then he called me to one side and told me with a serious face about two feet long that there was one more important thing he wanted me to do for him. He said I must help him to identify the girl he was going to marry that evening.

"Whaat!" I says, "help you to identify her?" I was startled, for it looked as if the young chap must have had his reason kind of unseated by the anticipations of approaching wedded bliss. But he was in dead earnest about it.

"You see," he tells me, "I did all my courting by mail and I've never seen the object of my affections. She is coming in on the train this afternoon and I might not recognize her. I know only that she is very beautiful, for I have her photograph."

"He took her picture to show it to me. She was a pretty girl, all right. I told him it oughtn't to be any trouble to recognize her from the picture. But he said his was a timid, shrinking disposition where young women were concerned, and he wouldn't take a chance on approaching the wrong girl when the crowd got off the train not for anything. He looked at me with pleading eyes like a child, and coaxed me to go down to the station and see if I couldn't pick her for him. So I went down.

"Well I held the photograph in my hand, looking first at it and then at the crowd, and right up among the first bunch that climbed off the day coach was a slick-looking little dame that I thought must be the one.

"She wasn't dressed what you would call swell, but her clothes looked neat and seemed to fit her everywhere at once. I wondered how it could happen that such a girl would have to answer an advertisement in order to get a man, but there wasn't much time to ponder over that.

"As she came through the gate, I walked up to her, with the bridegroom right at my heels, and says I, clearing my throat nervously:

"Do you happen to be Miss Twin-Kleton, the girl that—"

"Before I could finish I dashed if she hadn't thrown her little arms around my neck and was gurgling in my ear. 'You're just the darlinest boy ever I was afraid you might not know me, but I knew you,' and a lot more like that, before I could break her clinch and get her stopped and introduced to the bridegroom.

"That was the most serious railroad accident I was ever in."

The KUPFONEN GABINET

LOVE is not getting, but giving, not a wild dream of pleasure, and a madness of desire—oh, no, love is not that—it is goodness and honor, and peace and pure living—yes, love is that, and is the best thing in the world, and the thing that lives longest. —Henry Van Dyke.

SOME LUNCHEON DISHES.

These dishes are suitable for either luncheon or supper:

When there are bits of left-over chicken (not enough for a meal) prepare it by cutting it in small pieces, add to a white sauce and a cupful of tender cooked celery. Serve on rounds of buttered toast.

When there are a few slices of cold roast pork left from dinner, chop and mix with equal parts of celery, add dressing and serve on lettuce leaves. Veal and lamb are equally good served in this way.

Milk toast is a most delicious dish for supper. Prepare the toast not later than five minutes before serving; dry it in the oven until hot, then toast a golden brown; dip the edges into hot water to soften, spread generously with butter and pour over a white sauce made of two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour cooked together and a cup of thin cream or rich milk added. Two cups will be needed for a large dish of toast. A little grated cheese of pronounced flavor grated over the dish just before serving adds to it.

Bits of bacon left from breakfast added to a white sauce and served with poached eggs is a change that is quite acceptable from the everyday poached eggs.

The old-fashioned codfish served in a good white sauce with steamed or baked potatoes is a dish which most enjoy.

If one has a little cold boiled ham chop it and add it to a thick white sauce, which may be used to cover broiled chops, then fry in deep fat and serve piping hot. The chop will need to be treated to egg and crumbs, as are croquettes.

Fish chowder is another dish which may be served at almost any meal except breakfast.

Hash served in mounds with a poached egg on each is a nice way to serve both of these common dishes.

Potatoes scalloped and seasoned with cheese or mixed with hard cooked eggs varies that time-honored dish. The addition of a few fresh mushrooms is relished by most.

Nellie Maxwell

One of the Pioneers.

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, who died recently in Portland, Ore., was one of the pioneer settlers of that state, going there in 1862. Portland at that time was a mere hamlet, the whole northwest being a single territory that reached to the British boundary. She was identified with much of the life of the country in its early history, her father having been an Indian commissioner.

There was a girl in our town,
 And she was wondrous tall;
 But still she wore high willow plumes,
 For it was fashion's call.
 —Denver Republican.

There was a girl in our town,
 And she was square and short;
 And so, of course, she wore a hat
 That looked just like a wart.
 —Cincinnati Enquirer.

There was a girl in our town,
 Not short, tall, slim or fat;
 Symmetrical and trim was she,
 Just like a base ball bat.
 —Buffalo Evening Times.

There is a girl in our town,
 Imported, if we're right,
 Who plasters on the paint so thick
 That she is out of sight.
 —Houston Post.

There was a girl in our town,
 Who was quite a model flirt,
 But so awfully knock kneed
 She couldn't wear a hobble skirt.
 —Apalachicola Times.

There was a girl in our town
 Whose dress was awful tight;
 The boys, of course, all turned their heads
 Whenever she hove in sight.
 —Ocala Banner.

There is a girl in Jasper
 As beautiful as spring,
 Her eyes as blue as Heaven's sky,
 Her hair black as raven's wing.
 —Jasper News.

There are girls, and girls and girls
 In city, vale and hill,
 But the sweetest, dearest girls
 On earth are found in Gainesville.
 —Gainesville Sun.

There is a girl in our town
 Who wears her dresses short;
 It brings the blushes to my cheek
 When the summer breezes court.
 —Sanford Herald.

As a luxury the lobster no longer occupies the supreme position on the dining table; porter house steak costs more by eight cents a pound.

One of the greatest corn and wheat crops in the history of the country is reported from the western states. It will be interesting to learn what the excuse will be during the winter and spring for the high price of flour and grain.

An auto racing expert says: "When you're in a racing car at high speed keep your mouth shut." To which he might have added—And after you've struck a tree or stone wall and reporters flock around you don't forget yourself and open it.

Sanford has a Ten Thousand Club. Hope it is not like Jacksonville's recent Half Million Club.—Ft. Pierce News.

Not in the same class, Arthur. Sanford is the head of navigation on the St. Johns and Jacksonville is—aw, never mind.

The Miami Herald says: "Miami is going to begin a war of extermination upon the rats. The Womens Club is back of the proposition, which means there will be something doing and that without delay."

The something doing means that the ladies will be climbing chairs to escape the festive rodents.

Since the papers of the state are determined to hang the names of "Sodom" and "Gomorrhah" on Jacksonville and Tampa, we would suggest that they also select a Lot and his wife. Also a pillar of-salt.—Jacksonville Metropolis.

Let Claude L'Engle and Nellie Gray have the part. They have studied the lines and are waiting for the call boy.

A statement by the editor of the Sarasota Times that "the largest apiary in Florida is at Key Largo," is met by the editor of the Apalachicola Times with a correction. He says that the "largest apiary in Florida is in the vicinity of Apalachicola, that of Mr. Marchant, whose product will treble that of the Key Largo plant."

All of which brings the question from our Macaroni Delta correspondent if an apiary is a place where they raise apes?

SPEAKING ABOUT ROAD HOGS

After one has driven a car for some time you discover that all the fools are not automobilists. Some of the craziest people outside of the state institution are some of the drivers of teams. They have no more idea of the rules of the road than the cow made famous in song and story who crossed the road because she crossed the road, and some of these cranks who are always howling about the recklessness of the auto are the most reckless and ignorant drivers on the road. If stringent laws have been framed to hold down the auto driver just as stringent laws should be made to protect the automobilist from the dippy drivers of vehicles. Not one driver in twenty knows how to turn his team to avoid an automobile going and coming and they are just as apt to turn the team right into an approaching automobile as not. The whole truth of the matter is that the drivers of teams seem to think that the automobile can perform all kinds of stunts in the flying game and can get out of the way at any time and place, give all the road if necessary and be a mind reader and guess just what the fool driver of the team expects to do ahead of time. The road was made for both classes of vehicles and both are supposed to use good sense and judgment in driving on the public highways. Everyone keeps to the right always, except the automobile passing a carriage from behind when the carriage keeps to the right and the auto passes to the left. This rule is difficult to impress upon the mind of the driver of the vehicle and he invariably turns to the left and right into the automobile. Half of the accidents could be avoided if each traveller would learn the rules and follow them and then try and be fair to the other fellow. An automobile driving along a sandy road in deep ruts can hardly get out of them and in passing another vehicle is apt to skid or fail to get out in time. If the vehicle driver realized this and gave the auto some privileges, especially to a lady driver the passing could be made much more pleasant. There are many concessions to be made on both sides and there are road hogs on both sides. The auto has come to stay and the day is not far distant when all the people will own a gasoline buggy of some kind.

Better learn the rules while the learning is good.

RAISING CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Florida ought to contribute at least $25,000 to the Democratic campaign fund this year.

From the present outlook it will not contribute $500.

The Tribune has thought out a plan for raising a handsome fund in this state which it hereby commends to National Committeeman John Crawford, Frank Mayes and the other good Democrats who have been taking the lead in what seems to be a hopeless effort to arouse enthusiasm of a financial nature.

Call on each man who expects to get Federal office under the Wilson administration to contribute to the campaign fund ten per cent of one year's pay of the office he intends to apply for.

There's your campaign fund in a jiffy. No less than twenty Florida Democrats have set their eyes on the big job that Joe Lee holds darkly down at Jacksonville. That office pays about $6,000 a year. That's $600 each from these twenty aspirants, or $12,000.

The Tribune knows of fifteen local Democrats who hope to sit in the easy chair now occupied by Matt Macfarlane as Collector of Customs at Tampa. That job pays $5,000. Fifteen assessments of $500 each—result, $7,500.

Fully forty brave and loyal Wilsonites of Tampa and vicinity are getting ready to storm the next president with petitions for Will Bean's postmastership post. Let them come across with $300 each or $12,000 for the cause.

Undoubtedly the lists of aspirants for these places in the other cities of the state are equally as large as Tampa's. Then there are a number of aspirants for Boss Chubb's place as well as for the various consulships, attorneyships, etc.

By applying this "system" to the ambitious Democrats who seek the "loaves and fishes" John Crawford will be enabled to send to Treasurer Rolla Wells not less than $50,000 as Florida's donation to the campaign cost.

Have it understood that no man whose name is not on the "paid in full" list will be endorsed for appointment by either the state or national organization or the members of Congress from this state—and how could they afford to refuse?—Tampa Tribune.

And as there are at least ten aspirants for the postoffice in Sanford that would be $2,500 for the campaign fund and the rest of us poor mortals would not need to give anything.

A MATTER OF IMPORTANCE

The new depot will be finished in sixty days or sooner. As yet the city council has taken no steps to build a road, street or cow trail to the new depot. It has been understood that Ninth street would be paved or clayed or strawed or at least made passable before the new depot was finished. At present there has been no provision made for a street of any kind. The winter season will soon be upon us and the tourists will see the worst part of the town at the new depot even if they are only passing through. If they decide to stop and come up town the sight of the street in the vicinity of the new depot will be enough to turn them away and they will take the next train out of Sanford. It must have occurred to the city council ere this time that a street to the depot would have to be built. It must have occurred to the city council that such a move was unavoidable and absolutely necessary. Then why the delay when such a delay is dangerous?

Summer time is the time to make the improvements that are so necessary to impress the stranger within our gates. Summer time is the time to prepare for the tourist and investor that follow the first frost.

Of what use are all our much vaunted brick streets and proposed roads when the chain is broken between the city and station? A clean parlor carries no impression when the guest is led through a dirty kitchen.

The Herald is well aware of the difficulties that beset the path of the council and the burdens under which they are groaning, but the time for action is drawing nigh. There should be some action taken regarding a new road to the new station or the city will suffer in comparison and receive a black eye that no application administered afterward will amuse.

FOR WILSON'S CAMPAIGN

Several weeks ago The Herald opened a contribution headquarters for Woodrow Wilson and invited all the loyal Democrats to come in, if only for one dollar. As yet there has been no response to the invitation and the list that has been on the street seems to have met with a similar fate. No wonder that public men and political parties often put themselves under monetary obligations to wealthy men and "the interests." The public at large knows that the battle is for their own good, and yet often hesitates to lend any monetary assistance. Having nominated Gov. Wilson shall we leave him embarrassed for necessary campaign funds? And if the people at large won't subscribe to pay his campaign expenses (a contest made for them) shall they go unpaid? Or if paid, shall they be paid by rich men, who would at least think they had a claim on the president if he were elected? The large use of money by a few rich men or by corporations is the curse of our politics.

The list will remain open at The Herald office until the campaign is over in order to see how many loyal Democrats really want to see a Democrat elected to office through the efforts of the real people, or how many so-called Democrats would rather see Taft or Roosevelt elected by the money of the corporations. You have the opportunity now, and the same opportunity may never be presented to you again.

WHERE ASSISTANCE COUNTS

You are guilty and so is every one else of saying or thinking that the duties of a newspaper embrace everything, from enforcing the law to showering prosperity on the community.

That the private citizen should co-operate with the newspaper or give some practical assistance in pushing the various commendable enterprises advocated never occurs to the average citizen.

Every newspaper worthy of the name is a booster. It is sincere in pushing every project that will benefit the community. It is always the most progressive institution in the city or town where it is published. Sometimes it travels a little too fast for some of its readers. It sometimes happens that the people who expect so much from their local paper not only fail to support its efforts, but actually oppose them.

If you want results join the paper in boosting. It cannot accomplish much without help.—St. Augustine Record.

TOO MANY PAPERS

It takes money to run a newspaper and it takes more money to run a real good one. Some towns will support one paper and a county seat town will sometimes support two papers. DeLand seems to have had one too many papers and the other two combined and bought out the dead one in order to give it a decent burial. In speaking of the transaction one of them speaks the following truth:

"In the future when anybody feels that he is not getting justice from either of the DeLand newspapers; we will sell him a page in either one and in this page he can seek justice as he sees it, and conduct his own paper to his own taste. The News and The Record are run as the owners consider to the best interests of the town and county; if others think differently we shall afford them every advantage in our power to get their ideas before the people in an inexpensive and comprehensive manner."

—O—

NOW BE GOOD

The Sanford Herald asks what is the matter with a South Florida Press Association. The hook-worm maybe.—Pensacola News.

South Florida editors are kept busy recording the progress of the section which is so rapidly distancing the rest of the state in population, wealth and development. They have time only for the yearly meetings of the Florida Press Association at which most West Florida newspaper men are conspicuous by their absence.—Plant City Courier.

BUSY SOUTH FLORIDA

All the towns of South Florida are now giving evidence of material prosperity and a desire for improvement which speaks well for what is usually the dull season.

Every town in this territory is reporting a half dozen or more new enterprises of some importance and each is enjoying a building boom, with creditable structures for business purposes and handsome homes going up on every side.

The assurance of a profitable citrus crop and of a constantly increasing influx of homeseekers and investors stir South Florida to commendable enterprise. The present summer has been, all things considered, the most prosperous that this section has known.

Let the good work go on.—Tampa Tribune.

THE HOUSE OF CUNNINGHAM

DUE to its individuality of service; its individuality of methods; its increasing efforts in behalf of home-owners, this house furnishing store has made itself known from one end of Florida to the other. Its prestige is by no means limited to Jacksonville—it is an institution for the State in general.

THIS store is the depot and market for the output of the finest furniture made in America, handling such products as are manufactured by Berkey & Gay; Chas. P. Lambert; Luce Furniture Company, and, in fact, all the very best concerns of Grand Rapids are fully represented. And upon the merits of such creations has this business attained the remarkable success that it is at present enjoying.

D. L. THRASHER

OFFICE IN HERALD BLDG. SANFORD, FLORIDA

PURELY PERSONAL

W. J. Woodbury of Longwood was in town Saturday.

D. G. Wagner has returned from a business trip to Kissimmee.

Will Leffler is taking a well earned vacation at Daytona Beach.

C. W. Rose of Orlando was looking up old friends in the city yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Herndon have returned from a trip to Daytona Beach.

S. Runge has returned from Coronado Beach, where his family is comfortably situated.

Arthur Smith of Savannah, Ga., is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Tehune for a few days.

J. D. Davison left today for Coronado Beach, where he will spend a week enjoying the fishing.

Dr. Oliver Miller and family and Frank Miller and family spent last Sunday at Daytona Beach.

G. H. Fernald was called to Boston last Friday by the death of Mrs. Fernald's mother, Mrs. Laughton.

Misses Mabel Hand, Linda Leffler, and Messrs. Hill and Betts returned from Daytona Beach yesterday.

Miss Vera Tehune has returned to her home in this city after a pleasant visit with relatives in Savannah, Ga.

C. H. Dingee spent Sunday with Mrs. Dingee at Dunedin where she is spending a few weeks with home folks.

Miss Kate Underwood has returned from a trip to Georgia, where she enjoyed herself for several months.

Many of the Sanford fishermen expect to go to Coronado Beach this week to take advantage of the fine bass fishing.

R. E. Huffman left last Saturday for his home in Gainesville, after several days spent in this vicinity on land matters.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thrasher and daughter, May, left yesterday for Yantic, Conn., where they will spend several months.

Chase & Co. are enlarging and equipping their packing house in this city known as the Barlow packing house—Orlando Sentinel.

T. B. Lanier, a tourist from Tavares was in the city yesterday. He is thinking of buying the city hall and using it for a tourist hotel.

F. T. Bird of the Geneva section was in the city yesterday and among other important matters renewed his subscription to the Herald.

After a pleasant outing for a few days at the beach, Braxton Perkins has returned to his post of duty at the Peoples Clothing and Shoe Store.

Miss Genie Wicker accompanied her brother and his wife to New York last week. They are anticipating a pleasant stay in the city for a short time.

Mrs. T. A. Newton at her pleasant home on Union street will be hostess of the Reading Circle of the Missionary Society of the Methodist church this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Alford and family of Tampa are the guests of Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Summers. Mr. and Mrs. Alford have just returned from a trip that covered the U. S. and Canada.

Supt. Keyser of the Crystal Ice Factory has returned to his duties after a summer in North Carolina. He is now driving a new HHereshoff car and hardly notices common people now.

A colony of Bulgarians have settled in Beck Hammock and many of them are getting ready for fall planting. Although not doing much with the English language they nevertheless want the Sanford Herald.

Mrs. W. S. Parker stopped over in the city for a few days this week to see Billy. She was enroute to Asheville, N. C., where she will stay during the heated term and return to their home near Stuart in the fall.

Mrs. W. T. Johns left last Sunday afternoon for Shelby, N. C., for a visit of several weeks with Mrs. Barr and Miss Blanche Johns. Later she will visit in Madisonville, Ky., and will probably be absent two months.

The Kissimmee Sanford electric line will no doubt eventually materialize. Dr. Bennett and Architect Murray S. King first brought the scheme to the attention of the public some years ago and will no doubt live to see the realization of their dreams.—Orlando Sentinel

Geo. H. Fernald received a telegram Saturday morning announcing the death of Mrs. E. J. Laughton, Mrs. Fernald's mother. He left that afternoon for Wilton, N. H. The services will be held there on Tuesday and the interment will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery at Boston.

Cruse Barnes has returned from a three weeks' trip to the East Coast.

Miss Mabel Lundgren of Orlando is the charming guest of Miss Florence Robb this week.

Mrs. M. W. Lovell and daughter, Miss Carrie, are spending a few days in Washington and enjoying the sights of the nation's capital.

J. L. Miller is having a board walk constructed at his bakery on Magnolia avenue to give his patrons a better chance to gain access from the street to the building.

Major A. K. Powers was among the visitors to the city yesterday from Markham, where he and Mrs. Powers are spending a few months with Mrs. Powers' brothers, the Zagahary boys.

J. D. Davison, T. W. Briggs, Joe Fernandez and Verne Arnett left today for Coronado where they have rented a cottage and will do some tall fishing for the next ten days. All their friends expect fish from now until they return.

The Junior Epworth League of the Methodist Church will not hold their regular meetings for several weeks, as the superintendent of the league, Mrs. L. R. Philips, will be away for that length of time, and it was thought best to let the little folks have a vacation also.

The members of the Baptist church especially are reminded of the prayer meeting to be held tomorrow evening, 7:30, in the Baptist church, conducted by Rev. H. C. Garwood. Subject "Law and Grace," Rom. 5. A full attendance is desired and a cordial welcome is extended to everybody.

The Fancy Work Circle was entertained by Mrs. Tom Williams Friday afternoon. The members of the circle enjoyed their dainty fancy work and pleasant conversation. Delicious ice cream and cake were served by the hostess. Mrs. Williams' guests were Mesdames J. J. Purdon, T. S. Davis, W. T. Johns, H. R. Hill, Esterby, Barabary, C. C. Woodruff, J. K. Mettinger and E. L. Peabody, the latter two being visitors.

Married in Boston

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Tillinghast have arrived home after a trip to several eastern cities.

Mr. Tillinghast took his many Sanford friends by surprise and while on his vacation became a Benedict. The lady was Miss Frances S. Whiting and her home was in Holliston, Mass. While spending the winter in Orlando she met Mr. Tillinghast and the first meeting ripened into love, the culmination of which was the marriage occurring in old Trinity Church, Boston, on August 7th.

Mr. Tillinghast is the efficient manager of the Duchworth shoe store in this city, coming here from Orlando about one year ago and by close application to business and a pleasing personality building up a fine trade and making many warm friends, who are extending a glad welcome to him and his bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Tillinghast will make Sanford their future home and The Herald joins in best wishes and a long life to both.

School Election Today

Today is election day, although you would never know it unless you happened to stumble over the polls. Today we elect three school trustees and having no opposition the gentlemen will have a walk over. This very important matter is usually overlooked by a majority of the voters and a very light vote will be polled. C. R. Walker, L. R. Philips and B. F. Whitner are the candidates and are what might be termed perpetual candidates for this office, as no other men care to be burdened with the affairs of the school and these gentlemen seem to hold the job with honor to themselves and the school. It is almost safe to predict that the three gentlemen named will be elected today.

In Honor of Mr. Smith

Mrs. Tehune entertained a number of her friends Friday evening in honor of her brother, Mr. Smith of Savannah, Ga. Several highly amusing contents were enjoyed, after which delicious cake and punch were served.

The guests left at a late hour, voting Mr. and Mrs. Tehune a most charming host and hostess.

Those enjoying Mrs. Tehune's hospitality were Mrs. C. E. Walker, Mrs. W. H. Peters, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. A. A. Walker, Mrs. Renfro, Mrs. C. R. Walker, Mrs. Tehune, Misses Claire and Eva Walker and Vera Tehune, Messrs. Smith, Tehune, C. R. Walker, Williamson, Renfro, Dr. C. E. Walker and Clifford Walker.

SAYS WILSON WILL WIN

Congressman Clark Gives Views On Matters at Capital

Congressman Frank Clarke, who has represented the second Florida district in the nation's law making halls since 1904, and who was nominated for reelection at the late primary, arrived at his West Liberty street home a day or two ago, and when approached by a representative of the Sun he was in a most pleasant mood, characteristic of the gentleman, says the Gainesville Sun.

Mr. Clark was asked for an expression of his views on current topics, when he said:

"I really know of very little just now that would be of interest to the public. There are, however, one or two matters to which I might refer briefly.

"Congress has about finished for this session, and will adjourn in a very few more days. This session has been most interesting, and in many respects almost valuable one. We Democrats have been making history, and I think there is no doubt of the promising outlook for Democratic success in a national way this fall and it is due almost entirely to the work of the Democratic house under the magnificent guidance and leadership of our Speaker, Champ Clark aided by our great floor leader, Oscar Underwood.

"Are we going to win? In my judgment there is absolutely no doubt in the world of the triumph and overwhelming election of Wilson and Marshall. Gov. Wilson is a great man and will make a great President. Governor Marshall is of Presidential size, and is a tower of strength to the ticket.

"The fight is clearly between President Taft and Governor Wilson. The 'Bull Moose' party is, I think, pretty well regarded as a joke, and I am quite sure Colonel Roosevelt will be the worst beaten man who ever ran for President, except it be Eugene Debs.

Florida a Summer Resort
South with the birds in the fall, says the Pensacola Journal, and north with the birds in the spring, was the older order among those who could afford to have two homes during the year. It has been positively unfashionable for anyone to spend a summer vacation in his own section, and it has been considered positively ridiculous for a northerner or a westerner to come to the south during the summer.

He will frizzle and fry under the blistering sun in the north, he will be carried to the hospital with sunstroke—and all the while will poohpooh the idea of going south for the summer.

It is all a habit and a fashion, based on a very plausible argument, to the effect that if Florida is a winter resort, it cannot therefore be a summer resort. This delusion prevails even in the interior states of the south itself. It's a foolish delusion, a senseless habit, a fashion without reasonable foundation, and in the very near future, when the people of these United States discover what a delectable climate Florida has the year round this state will become not only the winter resort of the entire country, but the summer refuge of the south, and of a large portion of the north and west.

On the face of it it does seem nonsensical to go to the same place for relief in the winter from cold and in summer from heat. There is nothing foolish, however, in going from where you are to a more pleasant place in the summer, and that is what at least two-thirds of the people of America would do if they came to Florida—anywhere in Florida.

Newspaper Support

A newspaper, if it has any brains, conscience and muscle back of it, must continually decide between its duty and injuring its pocket. In any position but that of an editor the public is able to separate the individual home from the collective citizen. But if an editor does not please them its at his pockets they aim. Thus it is the newspapers learn who their friends are. The man who reads the newspaper and admires it all the year round, yet gives his business support to some other business concern, whose principles or whose actions of the editor he detests, is not a friend to the former newspaper. There are too many men who expect an editor to slave in defense of their pet notions and hobbies, advocate their views against the strongest opposition and coolly withhold the business support by which alone a country newspaper can live.

Talk about a paper having a public duty to perform, and an editor having to work for his principles, is cheap when others stand back and extend a lukewarm neutrality. The result is the editor may starve while laboring for his principles and the cause of right and justice, which they admire, but do not support.

Demonstrates Canning Industry

C. O. Hall landed in Sanford last season and rented a place on the west side. He is a native of Tennessee and naturally missed the big fruit crops and the preserves and canned goods that each and every good housewife puts up while living in good old Tennessee or any other state north of the Florida line. Mrs. Hall being a thrifty lady, decided to can some of the products of the Sanford lands and despite the advice of neighbors who said that vegetables would not keep in a warm climate Mr. and Mrs. Hall put up several barrels of sauer kraut, Egg plant pickle, jars of tomatoes and many other vegetables and they are now feasting on these canned goods while their neighbors are buying canned goods from the grocery and paying for the high cost of living.

Mr. Hall has great faith in the celery delta and the growing of winter vegetables and expects to make good this season on celery and lettuce.

Good Work for Clark

Frank Clark has done a good work for legitimate land agents in Florida, and elsewhere, by his manly and vigorous exposure of the Everglades scandal. The state might well supplement this exposure by cleaning its house and doing away with its paid employees, that are being seriously criticised. It is the continuation of conditions pointed out by Frank Clark, and the refusal of the state officials to act promptly in the matter that is costing Florida millions of dollars, not their exposure.—Panama City (Fla.) Pilot.

Home Gambling.

A man may gamble at home with impunity, according to the unanimous ruling of the appellate division of the New York supreme court. He may engage in any game of chance, and money may change hands, but it must be at home. The case which evoked the court's decision grew out of the arrest of a man who was caught in the act, with four others. In the police court he was held for the grand jury on the charge of being a common gambler. The county court sustained the charge, and the defendant's attorney carried the case to the appellate division. If the defendant had been caught gambling away from home his offense would have been a crime. The identical act committed within his own four walls is not a crime, for a man's home is his "castle," even if it is only a flat. Presumably the four other persons present at the game also lived at the same place, otherwise they would have been offenders against the law.—Boston Globe.

Georgia Peafowl 52 Years Old.

Hiram Dixon has a peafowl 52 years old. She is a curiosity to behold and people of the county delight in watching her majestically strut along as if she were yet sweet 16. The old bird has shed numbers of times, but the most recent is perhaps as beautiful as when she was in her prime. She now has as a latest addition a very beautiful colored fan, and her breast is coal black, while the balance of her plumage is a grayish white. Before moulting she was snow white, and her unexpected transformation is a source of manifest interest to her "acquaintances" and owners. Her age is vouched for by the best people of the county. She is shown every attention and is cared for as if she were one of the family, and her existence is a source of great pride to the family.—Swainsboro correspondence Augusta Chronicle.

Englishman Returns a Relic.

The duke of Sutherland, who has just arrived in New York, seems to be a "good sport." He was on the Olympic when it was tied up by a strike, and offered to stoke on the passage. He has bought much land in Canada and is urging his friends to go there and be real farmers. But the primary purpose of this long journey, as he proudly announced, is to deliver to the New York Yacht club the sternpiece of the original yacht America, which won the famous cup in 1851. On this sternpiece there is an eagle, with wings spread, and the name of the yacht. The old cup winner was remodeled in England and the sternpiece was placed over the door of a hotel in Ryde, Isle of Wight. Pretty good for the largest titled land owner in Great Britain.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Checking Chronometers.

While the sextant affords the navigator an accurate means of ascertaining his latitude, for longitude he must depend on the chronometer, which cannot be made to run with absolute accuracy, making it necessary to use several of these instruments for checking purposes. The Eiffel tower radio-telegraph station in Paris now dispatches diurnal time signals enabling all chronometers within range to be checked. This service has been in continuous operation since May 23, 1910. Day signals at 11, 11:02 and 11:04 a. m. and night signals at 12, 12:02 and 12:04 a. m. are sent out, each consisting of a warning signal of dashes and dots, ceasing two or three seconds before the actual time report, which is a single dot.

Prince Roland Bonaparte.

Prince Roland Bonaparte, undoubtedly the most interesting living representative of the family of Emperor Napoleon I., has great claims to distinction as a man of science, and has always been a munificent patron of scientific research. He recently celebrated his fifty-fourth birthday. Prince Roland is noted as a traveler. He is a giant in stature, but is extremely modest. Prince Roland is a Membre de l'Institut, and he is president of the French Geographical and other societies. His library contains over 200,000 volumes, and his botanical collection numbers over 2,000,000 plants from all parts of the world. Perhaps his best known work is "Les Habitants de Suriname."

Vaccinated Cop Faints.

Vaccinators of the department of health "scratched" 118 probationary "cops" the other day, and one of them—more than six feet tall and built like a Hercules—fainted when it came his turn, crumpling in a heap at the sight of the abrasion of his skin. Many babies in their mothers' arms submitted to the ordeal with just a whimper. It is not unusual for grown-ups to display more agitation than children when being vaccinated at the department offices, but there has been only one other occasion when a policeman fainted. That was two years ago, and he was also a big man.—Baltimore American.

An Heirloom

By Martha McCulloch-Williams

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

"Blessed be hobbie skirts," Allison ejaculated, surveying her slim litheness in the long mirror.

Rose, her sister, laughed softly, as she returned: "Better say blessed be bash! If grandad hadn't weighed near three hundred, you'd never get a skirt out of his Sunday best black broadcloth trousers."

"Don't you dare! If one breathes real loud in this village folk are sure to hear," Allison adjured turning to look at herself over her own shoulder. "And the gossips would say sacrilege rather than thrift. I'm sure grandad himself would approve—dead this ten years, what harm can it do to have his left-over clothes help us round a hard corner?"

"None in the world," Rose assented merrily, adding with a touch of wistfulness: "It is so hard—our stock passing dividends, just at this special time. We could do so much with that five hundred we haven't got."

"And other people doing all sorts of things. This town is going to be real giddy," Allison answered, sighing at the end of a giggle. "Three weddings already announced—that means at least a dozen parties of sorts—luncheons not counted."

"And tableaux for the Missionary society, and two Germans if no more," Rose chanted.

Allison took up the chant with, "And three strange—very strange—young men a-coming to the weddings—and likely to stay on awhile with their kin. Rosy-posy, I tell you, it's distinctly hard lines. A new party frock apiece is the most we dare hope for—and even they spell a month without butter. Pralse be you didn't make that new melton last fall—you would hardly have put it on, with Aunt Anne so ill. But whatever we would do if you hadn't thought of grandad, I surely don't know. Really, I believe, though it sounds like magic, I'll get a swaggar outfit from his suit."

"He wore it only once—poor dear," Rose sighed. "And he was always particular as to his clothing. I wish we dared spend a little for touches of color—though you can stand all —she had been measuring the waistcoat while her sister spoke.

It was very long, and had been built for a man over six feet. It was neither frayed nor spotted and had still its full complement of carved rock-crystal buttons. No wonder Aunt Anne cherished it—it was all that had come down to her, in the division of ancestral treasures, from the most distinguished of her great-grandfathers.

Fate ordered it that she came through the door from the living room just as Allison, scissors in hand, made to begin snipping the fine hand-set stitches. She had slipped a kimono over the unfinished frock she had contrived—the short coat, which would be new and jaunty by and by, hung raw and limp over the back of a chair at her side. All about was the litter and disorder inevitable to close contriving. Rose stood gazing at her sister—both were too intent to note the opening door. Suddenly Allison's hand fell—she held the waistcoat away from her, saying in a choked voice: "Rose—take it—back. I—I—somehow I can't spoll it—it feels as though it would be spiritual murder."

A hand fell upon Aunt Anne's shoulder—a soft hand, heavy with rings and only faintly wrinkled. It drew her back, leaving the door a little ajar. Very shortly the owner of it was saying, hushing Aunt Anne's sobbing while:

"To think you wouldn't come to me, your oldest friend. Anne dear, I'm ashamed of you—you know your girls feel almost as though they were mine. But your pride has had its reward. Not many girls under the conditions would forego as nobly as our Allison. Don't tell her and Rose we overheard—not yet, at least. It would hurt them to know we knew. But you are going to be sensible, and let me advise you those delayed dividends. Also you are to remember, care are a wicked extravagance when one has friends with taste, and next to nobody to fill them."

At that Aunt Anne cried harder than ever, but after a little agreed meekly to do as her friend bade. The friend, Mrs. Norris Lane, a rich widow childless, with two adored and adoring nephews, was undoubtedly the greatest lady of Charlotte town.

Perhaps there was no direct sequence of events, but people began to notice early in the season that Lane, Norris and Howard Lane, the great lady's nephews, were mighty attentive to the Agnew girls. Rose and Allison felt as if they had found a fairy godmother all at once. Aunt Anne had ceased worrying, she had only smiled mysteriously, and told them things were not so bad as they had threatened to be. Then at Christmas she surprised each of them with a dainty new gown, to which Mrs. Lane had added all the other things—gloves, fan, slippers, silk stockings and cobweb kerchiefs. Allison was not able to say thank you, for the lump in her throat. Even Rose had a lump, away her eyes. And that night, hand in hand they told Aunt Anne of their plight and what had withheld them from carrying it out. She patted their bent heads, saying as tears dropped upon Allison's bright hair:

"It would have been murder, dear children, murder of something in yourself, reverence for family, then and traditions. I am glad indeed you made the blank frock, much better one than let her goths ruin it in the end. But the waistcoat means something. It is a sort of potent of nobility. Only fine gentlemen wore such garments."

"I know," Rose broke in. "And we came near showing we didn't deserve to belong to him." Then the two ran away to make ready for a very late party. Aunt went, too. And as she came away she had the happiness of seeing with her approval a double betrothal.

For Special Road and Bridge District

The returns of the election held on July 11th, 1912, ordered by the Board for the establishment of a special road and bridge district, and the payment for the construction thereof by issuing bonds to the amount of $200,000.00, having been made to the Board by the inspectors of said election, the same were approved and canvassed by the Board and the canvass showed two hundred and nineteen votes for and thirty-nine votes against, establishing the special road and bridge district, the same to be paid by issuing bonds for the sum of $200,000.00 as a tax upon taxable property in said district, the majority being 180 votes in favor of establishing such district and issuing said bonds.

It is therefore ordered that the following territory shall be and constitute a special road and bridge district:

Beginning at a point on the Wekiva river on the east side, on the Township line between Townships 19 and 20 South Range 29 East, and running thence east along said Township line to the section post at the northeast corner of Section 5, Township 20 South, Range 30 East, thence running south on said section line to the section post at the south-east corner of Section 29 (on south boundary of Section 28), in Township 20 South, Range 30 East, thence running east to the waters of Lake Jessup, thence following the north line of the waters of said Lake Jessup to the St. Johns river, thence following the waters of the St. Johns river on the south side of said river to the waters of Lake Monroe, thence following the waters of said Lake Monroe, thence following the south line of said St. Johns river to its junction with the Wekiva river, thence following the east side of the waters of the Wekiva river to the point of beginning.

That said district shall be and the same is hereby designated as "Special Road and Bridge District Number One." It is further ordered that this order be published in Sanford Herald for thirty consecutive days, and ordered in open Board this 16th day of July, 1912.

"A FORMAL INVITATION"

A ship driven by a violent storm had at last foundered on the rocks near the shore, and the life saving crew was busily preparing to render assistance. In the excitement, an old lady approached the captain of the crew and asked if anything was being done to save the unfortunate sailors aboard the sinking ship. "Yes, mam," the captain replied, "We have sent them a line to come ashore." "Goodness gracious," exclaimed the old lady, "I should think they'd need a formal invitation."

Are you meeting with any problem in the care of your grove, pineapple field or truck farm, that you do not quite understand, and would you like to have expert advice to help you in arriving at a correct solution? If so, this line is being thrown to you. We place at your disposal the expert knowledge of Florida crops and soils, which has been acquired by over thirty years' experience and practical research along horticultural lines, and it makes no difference whether you are a customer of ours or not, any inquiry that you may address to us will receive our prompt and careful attention.

black with your yellow hair and blue eyes, I hate to see you nun-like."

"Oh if I only dare!" Allison exclaimed.

"Dare what?" Rose asked.

Allison answered with a breathless giggle: "Sacrifice our best heirloom—but Aunt Anne will never agree—"

"You mean the waistcoat!" Rose cried, catching her breath.

Allison nodded. Rose darted away up the stairs, to the garret where the waistcoat which had come down from a beau of colonial times, lay, dress-wrapped, in lavender. In a wink she was back with it, unwrapping the swathings. They fell apart, revealing a fabric of degree. Brocade whose satin ground, once a royal scarlet powdered with rosebuds yellow, white and pink, had faded to a soft delicate Indian red. Time had likewise improved the rose hues—they seemed to melt one into another. Allison gazed at the sight of the rich blendings. "It—it seems wicked—even to think of cutting it up," she said. "But Oh—wouldn't it set off my black?"

"It shall set it off," Rose said stoutly. "Aunt Anne would never agree—her conscience wouldn't let her. But once the thing is done she'll be glad. I found her, crying yesterday, over our bank account—she seems to feel it was her fault that things are as they are."

"Why! I do believe there's enough for a narrow panel besides ravers and muffs," Allison answered eagerly

SPORTING GOSSIP

Orlando Wins One

Saturday we won three to nothing, with Bundy, Sanford's short stop, pitching. Although a short stop, Bundy pitched a good game. He has good steam and throws some beautiful curves. He struck out nine men, gave up six hits and walked three.

Langford did the twirling for us and was in danger only one time when with the bases full, and none out, the next man flied to short right and Wallace, who was on third, was afraid to attempt to score. The man on second did not notice that Wallace held his bag and touched third—Wallace then ran off the bag and was caught at the plate. Making three out in about as many seconds, and lifting Langford out of the hole in which he was about to be buried.

We got our first run in the third when Cole was safe on error by first, and was advanced by Brewster's bunt to the pitcher, later scoring on Randall's hit to center. In the sixth we got two more when Brewster walked, Randall bunted to pitcher who tried to catch Brewster at second, but was too slow, both being safe. Howatt sacrificed to pitcher and both men advanced. Bowen hit a beauty single to right scoring Brewster and Randall. White fanned and Boyer flied to left.

Umps More seemed to be badly off on balls and strikes and kept the whole team kicking most of the time. This beefing did not add to the game, but you can't blame the boys for protesting on some of the decisions given.

Sanford Wins Deciding Game

Sanford won the deciding game of the series yesterday, 3 to 1. It was a good game of ball with errors scarce and hits a plenty. It was the most interesting game here for quite a while, men being on bases on most every inning. Several times hits meant runs for us, but old Dad Wallace would then tighten up and there was nothing doing. Wallace kept us shut out until the ninth.

It looked as if we were going to take the lead in the first when Stump got one by Moreland in right for two bases and scored by an overthrow to third, but the umpires put him back on third. Quite a wrangle ensued and Umpire Tilden retired from the game leaving Moore to go it alone.

With a run lead in the eighth, the Sanford boys got to Randall for five hits netting two runs, but were stopped by Brewster's head work in holding the ball and tagging Roberts when he walked off first base.

In the seventh we had Bowen on third and Boyer on second with one out, but Bowen was caught at plate trying to score on a ball hit to short, and Brewster fanned.

We scored ours in the ninth, when Bowen was safe on an error and took third on White's hit to first and scored on Langford's fly out to left.

The last two innings were played in the dark and it was hardly possible to see the ball from the grandstand in the ninth.

The features of the game were the catches made by Boyer and Vaiden in the fifth, the fast work by Howatt and White in the seventh catching Roberts at the plate when he and Bundy attempted to work the double steal and the hitting of Farmer and Bowen.—Reporter-Star.

Will Play at Miami

Manager Robert J. Reed, of the Miami Base Ball Association, stated this morning that the crack Sanford team would be in Miami September 2 for a series of five games.

This information will be received with great joy by the Miami base ball fans, as it assures a week's classy program in the national game.

The Sanford boys have been playing in Orlando this week, and they defeated Orlando in the first three games. The Reporter-Star of Orlando gives an interesting account of the games with the head, "The same old story, Sanford wins again."

The Celery City team has given Orlando several smart surprises this season. The management has been good and from the first the boys have had unusually good luck.

Manager Reed stated this morning that nothing definite had been decided for the next two weeks. Manager Keely of Key West has not yet written about the proposed series next week at the Island City, and the boys do not yet know whether they will go to West Palm Beach or Key West next week.

A meeting of the directors of the Miami Base Ball Association was held last night. The gentlemen seemed to be enthusiastic over the plans to have Sanford here on September 2.—Miami Metrolite.

Death of Mrs. Paschall

Waldo, Aug. 20.—Mrs. W. V. Paschall, known all over Florida through her success in the poultry business, died in a sanitarium in Atlanta, on Aug. 13th.

Mrs. Paschall had gone to White Path, Ga., for a vacation and rest, and was suddenly taken ill there, friends taking her to Atlanta at once for treatment.

Mrs. Paschall was 62 years of age and a devoted Christian. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, four sons, two brothers, one sister and numerous other relatives.

The funeral took place here on August 14.

Revolution is spreading in Nicaragua and sanitary conditions about Managua, the capital, are distressing, according to State Department reports today from American Minister Weitzel.

Conferees on the naval appropriation bill agreed today to provide for one battleship at a cost not greater than $15,000,000. An appropriation of $2,635,000 is to be available for the beginning of the work. No agreement was reached as to size, dimensions or armament. The naval bill in other respects was adopted as approved by the previous conference, and is now acceptable to House and Senate.

Expenses of the recent convention of the Progressive party amount to $19,403, according to the report of the arrangements committee's treasurer filed today. The report says that receipts from the ticket and program sales were $13,262.55 and $1,265.39 respectively. Contributions from hotels and individuals represented the remainder of the convention fund and there is $474.63 remaining in the treasury.

The Moss committee today presented to the House two reports of its investigation of the Florida Everglades charges and the subsequent inquiry into the drainage division of the Department of Agriculture. The reports take up the charge that a certain circular unfavorable to sale of Everglades lands was suppressed in the Department of Agriculture through influence of real estate operators; the question of relations between Assistant Secretary Hays of the department and J. O. Wright, a former government employe in a land project at Lake Mattamuskeet, N. C., and the dismissal of C. G. Elliott and A. D. Morehouse from the drainage division of the department of technical charges involving the transfer of government funds from one account to another.

Lightning Strikes Girl

Tallahassee, Fla., Aug. 19.—Miss Myrtle Moody, a young lady about sixteen years old and daughter of Lee Moody, deputy sheriff of this county, received last night a lightning shock that came very near being fatal. The young lady late in the evening was sitting at the organ playing and during a thunderstorm got up and went to the window, where she was standing or sitting when she received the shock. Later her mother called her and not getting any response went into the room and found her lying across the window sill apparently dead. Her father came in in a short time and efforts were begun to resuscitate her, although she did not gain consciousness until early this morning. Her father stated this afternoon that the girl is getting along very well now, and he believes will recover all right.

My Worst Blunder
FAMOUS "BONEHEAD" PLAYS ON MAJOR LEAGUE DIAMONDS
Explained by Leading Baseball Players to
HUGH S. FULLERTON

BY GEORGE J. MORIARTY,

Veteran Third-Baseman Detroit Tigers, Who is Considered One of the Brains-iest and Most Popular Players in the American League.

When a ball tosser pulls an iron-headed play he usually immediately wishes all recollection of the said play to vanish forever. It doesn't, as he realizes the next time he boots a ball or muffs a fly. This is a case of rattling a skeleton that probably was buried long ago—except in my memory.

To reach the time and the place where my "boot" came off, I must turn back the history pages to the year 1905 and find myself in Minneapolis with the Toledo team of the American Association. The season had nearly ended and there had been a hot scrap for the base stealing honors throughout the year. Charlie Hemphill and Ollie Pickering had piled up a big bunch of stolen sacks, and at the time I did not own enough pilfers to feel safe about leading in that department at the end of the season.

We had Minneapolis beaten 7 to 1 in the seventh inning of this battle. I started our half of the eighth with a drive to right center, which I judged should have netted me three bases easily had I cared to run it out. When George J. Moriarty.

I reached first base on the hit I pulled up lame, limping all around to make it good. I figured we had the game sewed up, and my object was to stop at first, then steal second and third, and thereby add a steal or two to my credit, and incidentally increase my lead over the rival bag snipers.

The play turned out fairly well, as far as my average went, but pretty rotten for the team itself. I succeeded in stealing both bases, but while I was busy boosting my average two men had been retired on fly balls to the outfield, the third one went out, and I was left on third base. Then Minneapolis came in and proceeded to show how uncertain baseball is by scoring six runs by terrific hitting, tying up the count 7 to 7 before we could get them headed off. Then they got chesty, stopped us and won the game in the tenth inning. Had I made three bases on my hit, as I should have done, and not waited to steal second and third, I could have trotted home on the first fly out of the inning and the game would have been ours by a score of 8 to 7 at the end of the ninth, as Minneapolis failed to score in their half. I always was glad that we stilled off the defeat until the tenth to give everyone a chance to forget what I had done before it was over. My supposedly bright play in stalling in order to fatten my own average proved to be a terrible bone, the worst mistake I ever made. Still, it helped me a lot, as it showed me quicker than anything else could have done the foolishness of playing for individual records and the worse foolishness of thinking a game is won before it is over.

Scientific Name Given to Disease Which Afflicted Members of Polar Expedition Party.

In an address lately given before the Zoological Society of France, Dr. Jacques Liouville, the physician and naturalist who accompanied the Pourquod-Pas on her antarctic expedition, stated the chief physical troubles with which the crew had to contend were three in number, all, in his opinion, springing from the lack of fresh food. He therefore terms this polar malady "the disease of conserved food." The malady comprised symptoms of scurvy, polar anaemia and severe frost bites or chilblains, which frequently bled constantly. The underlying cause of all the affections is an alteration in the chemical composition of the blood—or "dyscrasia." The heart functioned badly, and the patients suffered from terrible shortness of breath, frequent drowsiness, and oedema of the lower extremities. They were easily exhausted and unable to march, while the slightest movement brought on intense palpitation. However, all these morbid symptoms disappeared within ten days when fresh meat was obtainable, and did not appear again after the fresh wild celery obtained at Tierra del Fuego had been enjoyed for some time. Dr. Liouville took a just pride in the fact that this was the first polar expedition which ever returned all its members to their homes in a state of perfect health. He had three surgical cases to handle. Recovery was highly satisfactory, which he ascribes partly to the entire absence of pathogenic bacteria and partly to the fact that there was not a trace of alcoholism in the patients—Scientific American.

CHORUS GIRLS WANTED EGGS

Incessant Demand Caused Irritated Chef to Come Forward With Indignant Protest.

The hauling of a theatrical company was in charge of Agent Lindsey says the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star. He contracted to take complete charge of a good sized operatic company for three days furnishing sleeper and meals en route. The contract was a good one and Mr. Lindsey determined to make the occasion memorable. "I will set the best table you can find in the state," said he to the theatrical agent. "I will guarantee there will not be a single complaint."

So he bought all the steaks and chops and lobsters and shell fish and all that sort of thing that he could find in the market and planted them in an ice box and hired a relay of chefs and undertook to feed those chorus ladies out of alenderness. There were forty persons in the company. At the first luncheon thirty-six of them ordered eggs.

"Got to order moah eggs by wire, Mr. Lindsey," reported the chef. "These heah chorus girls certainly do have the alg habit."

For dinner that night thirty-eight of the company ordered eggs in some style. The chef wired ahead for more eggs. At breakfast the next morning the entire company of forty wanted eggs, and not one of them wanted those eggs as any other one wanted them. At luncheon thirty-two demanded more eggs. That night the first pair to reach the diner asked for eggs. The chef walked right in and made the speech: "Nevah mine ob derin' no moah alg," said he. "They ain't no moah alg, You-all must think we cabbies a hen on this car."

One of the Knox Knocks.

Philander C. Knox, the secretary of state, received one day in his office a bunch of high-browed newspaper correspondents. In the number was William Hoster, who stepped to the front with a copy of his paper in which was one of his dispatches under big black headlines. The dispatch dealt with the affair of the department of state, and ran along glibly as if the writer had enjoyed the confidence of Mr. Knox regarding the whole matter.

"What do you think of this article?" asked Hoster, exhibiting no modesty as he handed the paper to the secretary of state.

"After looking this over," said Mr. Knox graciously, "I must say, Mr. Hoster, you are the nestor of Washington correspondents."

At this Hoster took on the aspect of a balloon and looked exceedingly pleased until Knox asked softly: "Mary's-nester."—Popular Magazine.

New Material for Floors.

They are making the floors of big office buildings in Germany of a mixture of magnesium chloride, pulverized magnesia and sawdust, laid from two to four inches thick. Consul-General Robert P. Skinner reports from Hamburg that such floors are waterproof, almost fireproof, crack free, warm under foot, elastic, sound proof and cheaper than pine flooring, tiling or stone.
