Candidate Endorses Waterway Program Including Canal

TAMPA (UPI)—Former Sen. Claude Pepper, gunning for votes in the September Democratic Primary, has endorsed the development program proposed by the Florida Waterways Committee.

Pepper wired members of the committee meeting here Friday he would give his "vigorous support" to the five-point program of integrated waterways development, including a controversial barge canal between Sanford and Titusville.

Committee president John Krider and other members, also hoping to draw active support from Sen. Spessard L. Holland, said Holland previously stated he favored development of Florida waterways, but was non-committal on endorsing specific projects.

Holland told the group by telephone "I will be for any Florida waterways program which meets with the criteria of the U. S. Corps of Engineers and wins their approval."

Pepper endorsed without reservation the committee's entire program which included five major projects.

They were: A cross-state lock barge canal from Yankeetown to the St. Johns River; extension of the Intracoastal Canal from St. Marks to Fort Myers; the Sanford-Titusville canal, including canal services to Orlando; deepening the Fort Myers-Stuart Canal to a depth of 12 feet; and deepening the Intracoastal Canal from Eau Gallie to Miami and eventually to Key West.

Reunion Brings Navy People Together For First Time Since '44

Former Navy people, civilian and military, assigned to the Sanford Naval Air Station during World War II during 1943-44, gathered in Sanford for their first annual reunion Saturday and Sunday.

Few of these Navy people had seen each other in 14 or 15 years but all of them had enjoyed the hospitalities of Sanford during their stay here during part of their Navy career.

Heading up the reunion was newspaperman "Preacher" Allen who, during WWII was a Yeoman attached to the local air station.

Former Navy people came to Sanford from nearly every direction and along with local citizens and those living in various Florida cities, the crowd at times reached more than 50.

In the group were such Navy people as civilians, clerks, shore patrol, metallurgists, and master at arms, electricians, pharmacist mate, paymaster, a marine sergeant, and an officer of the deck.

These former Navy people poured in to Sanford Saturday and Sunday, right on up to the time that a gigantic barbecue was held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Lake Monroe home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holly.

Mr. and Mrs. Holly, friends to the servicemen during their stay here, prepared a lavish barbecue of chops, ribs, steaks, and chicken garnished with salads and pickles, hot breads and gold drinks.

Construction. Games and contests for the young folks and a feed of ranehburgers, baked beans, potato chips, pickles and cold drinks for everyone were the features of the evening.

Dunn Enters County Commission Race

Vernon W. "Curly" Dunn, of Fern Park, announced today that he would be a candidate for the Board of Seminole County Commissioners, District 4, subject to the Democratic Primary of Sept. 2.

Dunn is a candidate for the seat on the county commission now occupied by B. C. Dodd.

The new candidate has been a resident of South St., Fern Park, since December 1953, having moved to Florida in January, 1953 from Clinton, N. C. where he resided after being placed on the Retired List of Naval Officers in 1949 after more than 30 years of continuous service.

For two years, prior to leaving Clinton, Dunn was manager of the Clinton Chamber of Commerce, a position from which he resigned to move to Florida to fulfill a dream of many years of a retired life of golfing and fishing.

Dunn said "Being retired, having no other job, nor wanting one, I can devote full time to the duties of Commissioner and I believe that with my experience and background I can assist in the management of the county government."

In pointing to the growth of the county, Dunn said "With adequate roads, schools, and other public buildings as deemed necessary by competent authority, a fair and equitable tax structure, Seminole County will naturally continue in rapid growth and prosperity."

"No person, place, or thing stands still," Dunn said, "it is either progress or retrogress."

Henry J. O'Connor, United States Navy, has been selected for promotion from aviation ordnanceman first class to commissioned officer with the rank of Ensign.

Ensign O'Connor enlisted in the Navy in Sept. of 1942. During World War II he served in the Central Pacific in the Marshall, Gilbert and Marsannas Island campaigns. In 1946 he saw duty in the New York City Military Police. Later the same year he was assigned duty with the United Nations.

Pepper Steps Up Campaign In South Florida Today

TAMPA (UPI)—Former Sen. Claude Pepper moved his stepping political campaign from South Florida to Hillsborough County today. He will speak at rallies in Plant City and Tampa.

Meanwhile, his opponent in the September Democratic primaries, Sen. Spessard L. Holland, was scheduled to return to Miami from Washington before resuming his campaign, also in Tampa.

Pepper stoutly denied Sunday night that he favored socialized medicine and charged that he was being victimized by a group of doctors thinking of their pocketbooks and not of the public welfare.

The former senator was called on to clarify his stand on both socialized medicine and segregation during a television interview over WFTS-TV's "Important."

Holland was also asked to appear on the program, but station officials said the Barrow Democrat refused because of "a strong personal feeling" between Holland and station president G. T. Baker.

Pepper said, "I am not in favor of socialized medicine and never have been. When I was in the Senate I favored a national health insurance comparable to social security benefits."

Dr. W. C. McConnell, secretary of the Pinellas County Medical Society, attacked Pepper last week for supporting the Murray-Dingell-Waner bill when Pepper was in the Senate.

Pepper said, however, that he "respected and honored doctors," but "the difference is that they're thinking of their pocketbooks and I am thinking about the public's health."

Commenting on segregation, Pepper said he would support the laws of the land. But he added that he felt there was "room to exercise reasonable discretion" in enforcing integration in the South. He suggested that it might be left to individual district judges to work out.

Holland, who cut short his South Florida campaign last week to return to Washington, will meet with campaign workers on the Gulf Coast Tuesday. He will appear on a statewide television program Wednesday night from Miami.

keeping abreast other progressive counties or less to them, falling behind with the laggard. My every official act will be measured by one rule, said Dunn "It must be according to legal requirement, it must be for the good of the county as a whole, and it must be progressive—without waste."

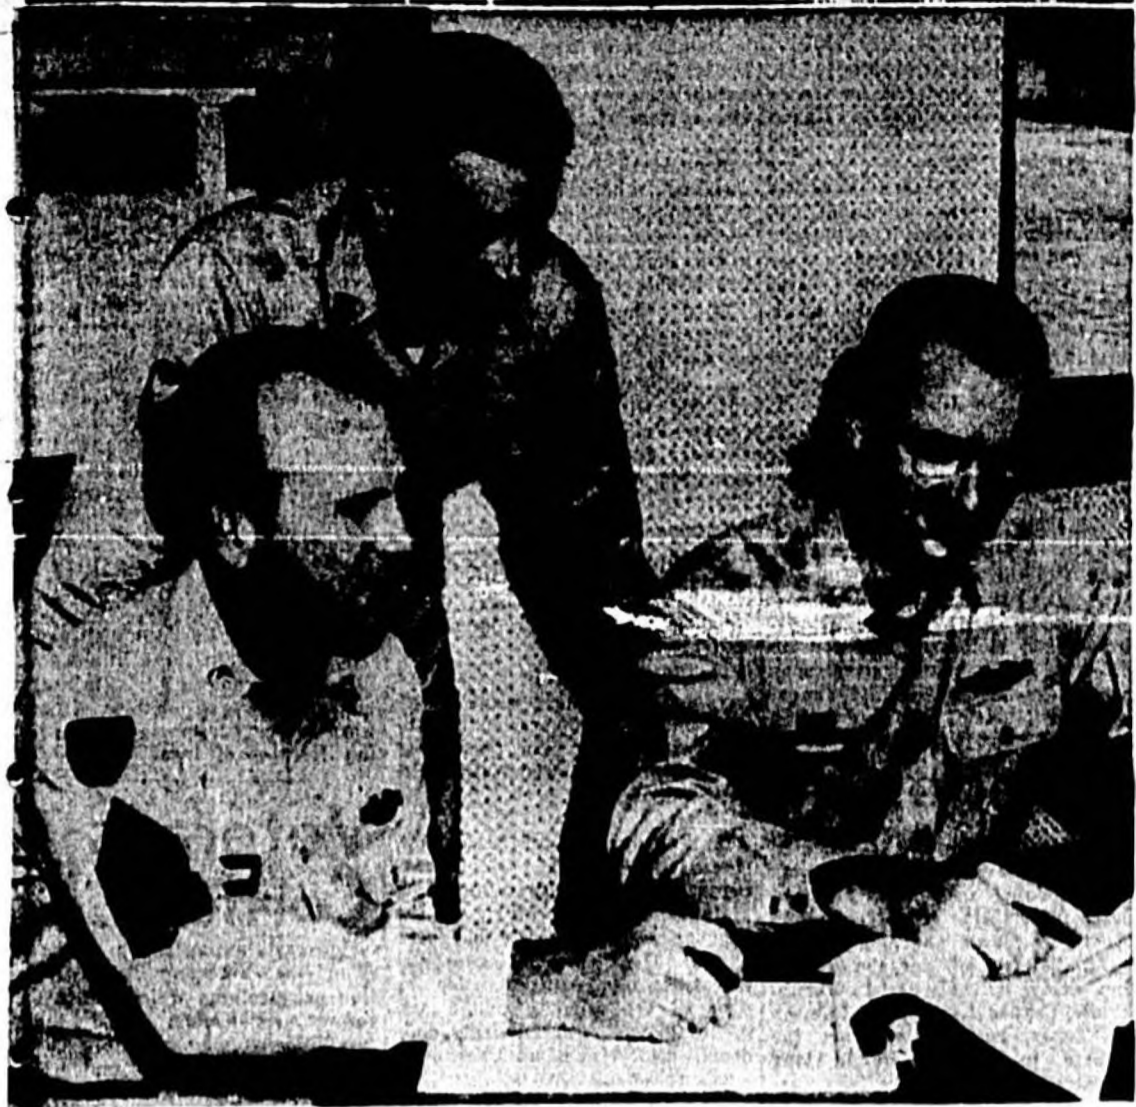

"I offer my services as a citizen of Seminole County, wishing to contribute whatever efforts I can in the capacity of Commissioner, and willing to pay my fair and equitable share of the cost of good county government," he said.

Subject to the Democratic Primary of Sept. 2 and on this basis I earnestly solicit the support of every progressive, forward-minded citizen of Seminole County who will afford such support—with no strings attached—for I shall work for the good of all, special favors or no one," said Dunn.

48 Seminole County Farms Take Part In ACP During '57

Seminole County farmers used Agricultural Conservation Program cost-sharing assistance to establish conservation practices on 48 farms in 1957 according to Homer Ballard, Co. Office Manager for the County ASC Committee.

Total assistance received through the 1957 ACP by farmers in the county amounted to $20,197.00. Federal assistance amounted to less than 50 percent of the cost of performing the approved conservation practices.

Ballard stated that the farms in the county on which conservation practices were reported carried out under the 1957 ACP represented 25 percent of the farmland, and two percent of the cropland in the county.

Some of the major conservation practices performed on Seminole County farms under the 1957 ACP were as follows:

Initial establishment of permanent vegetative covers in orchards for control of erosion on 252 acres.

Initial establishment of a permanent vegetative cover on farmland for soil protection or as needed land-use adjustment on 573 acres.

Vegetative covers improved for soil or watershed protection on 201 acres.

Constructing and enlarging permanent open drainage systems to dispose of excess water 185 acres adequately drained.

Establishment of summer and winter cover crops to protect land from erosion 275 acres.

The county office manager also stated that the 1958 ACP is essentially the same as the 1957 program.

Farmers who need help with new and additional conservation on their farm should contact the ASC, County Committee Office, in the courthouse, Sanford.

Industrial Growth Predicted For 4 Florida Counties

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Mushrooming industrial growth has been predicted for four western Florida counties because of rising land prices in Pinellas and Hillsborough counties.

An economic study said the industrial land prices would double in Pinellas and Hillsborough counties in the next four years, causing industries to go to Pasco and Sumter counties.

The 80-page report said the land cost factor would also help Orlando and Citrus counties.

The report is the first of eight prepared for the State Development Commission in its program to help underdeveloped rural areas. City and county officials will discuss the report at a public meeting in Brooksville Thursday.

Large tracts of industrial land are available in Pinellas and Hillsborough counties now, but if and when they double, industrial interests will automatically push northward, the report said.

It recommended the four counties try to attract such industries as precision machinery manufacturing, aircraft oriented industries, electronic and electrical machinery companies, large and mobile home plants and leather tanneries.

Ancient Christian - Pacifist Debate

By LOUIS CASSELL

United Press International

Can Christians conscientiously support the use of military force to resolve international disputes? Pacifists answer that question with a categorical "no." Most Christian theologians, Catholic and Protestant, answer it with a heavily qualified "yes."

The debate has been going on for centuries. It is always intensified by events, like the current Middle East crisis, which force people to think of war as something more than an abstract possibility.

Although pacifists have historically been in the minority, they have one great advantage in the ancient debate: their position is much more simple, clear-cut and easy to explain.

Essentially the pacifist argument goes like this:

Antithesis of Jesus

War is totally evil. It is destructive of human life and human values. In this era of nuclear weapons particularly, it can never have a "good" outcome. It is the complete antithesis of the spirit of Jesus, who commanded his followers to love their enemies, to turn the other cheek when struck, and to return good for evil.

At this point, pacifists branch into two schools. The "pure" pacifist says simply that he will follow a policy of non-violence, whatever its consequences may be. If the consequences are disaster, he is prepared to accept that as the price of bearing loyal witness to what he conceives to be the teachings of Christ.

The "practical" pacifist argues that non-violence is a workable plan for avoiding the ultimate catastrophe of nuclear war. He says that if Christians refuse to bear arms against an enemy, the enemy will be won over by their example of love, and there will be peace.

Christians who are non-pacifists agree that aggressive or "preventive" war cannot be morally justified under any circumstances, and that even a defensive war is inherently contrary to Christian teachings. But they believe there are some circumstances in which a willingness to resort to force is the lesser of two evils.

Between Two Evils

Prof. Robert McAfee Brown of Union Theological Seminary puts it this way:

Suppose you are walking down the street and see a thug beating up a defenseless man. You know that Christ has commanded you to love your neighbor. In this particular situation, and how are you to express your love? If you refuse to intervene in the struggle, you tacitly give support to the thug. If you intervene, you have to use force.

A distinguished Catholic writer, John Copley, put the same argument in different words. Militarism is evil, Copley wrote in the magazine Commonweal, but Christians must also recognize that American armed might "has kept us from destruction."

"What peace we have is the bitter fruit of mutual fear. Therefore I could not conscientiously advise the U.S. government to strip itself of nuclear defenses. And as long as I want America to maintain these fearful weapons, I must share the moral burden (of their possible use)."

Cheers May Be Coming From The Wrong Side Of The Stadium

Some casual observers have been startled to see that organized labor is supporting the Kennedy-Johnson bill, while business leaders oppose it.

"But didn't you want a bill to control labor abuses?" they ask businessmen.

"And have you given up fighting Federal labor laws for the first time?" they ask labor.

The seeming paradox isn't a paradox at all. The bill which came from the Senate Labor Committee, true, does contain some provisions intended to check flagrant subordination of union funds. And it does require that union members should have some say in the matter of election of officers.

Organized labor, in the person of AFL-CIO president George Meany, had agreed in advance to accept these minimum requirements of honesty and decency. And of course, the businessmen have no objections to honesty and decency in unions.

Labor's support for the bill and businessmen's opposition to it stem from the same portions of the proposed legislation. The provisions of this section would open the doors for new abuses by whittling away controls already in the Taft-Hartley Act.

One provision would place a host of supervisory personnel under union jurisdiction. To labor this is a welcome field in which to add new members, especially under compulsory membership union-shop contracts. To management it means loss of supervision of operations, divided loyalties and resulting higher costs and higher prices.

Another change in the Taft-Hartley Act would permit pre-hire union-shop contracts in the construction trades. Labor is for it, because under this section it can force contracts upon employers before they have any employees, and be sure that all who take jobs will be union members with no organizational effort required of the union. Businessmen oppose it as a part of their opposition to compulsory unionism in any form.

A third difference exists over a provision which would allow economic strikers to vote in representation elections. The labor leaders want it because it would allow strikers who have been replaced to vote for the union as bargaining agent. The businessmen don't like it because they will find themselves having to deal with a union which doesn't represent the employees who actually are filling the jobs. They feel it takes all the risk out of striking, and thus gives more power to unions which already have enough power to force agreement to just about any demands they can think up.

This isn't the full story of labor's approval, nor of businessmen's disapproval.

But it does serve to show that this is not the control bill that labor leaders dreamed. And it's not the curb on abuses that businessmen feel is imperative. It doesn't tackle the problem of union immunity to the laws everyone else must obey, the use of the secondary boycott against innocent third parties, organizational picketing to pressure employers to force employees into unions, and the monopolistic union practices that have led to wage-price inflation.

So don't be confused if the cheers seem to be coming from the wrong side of the stadium.

Question Of Physical Fitness

Physical fitness is based essentially on factors—good food, enough sleep, and proper exercise to develop strength and agility. Keep these factors in mind for a moment, and think of them in relation to a question often asked these days: How well do U.S. children measure up in terms of physical fitness?

Most youngsters in this country receive an abundance of the nourishing food required for growth and energy. There is little evidence that they get less sleep than children elsewhere, though television may cut into sleeping time somewhat. Most U.S. children also have easy access to playgrounds to assure them all the exercise they need.

Refusal Causes Political Undertow

By GEORGE J. MANDER
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Refusal of the Democratic-controlled Congress to confer statehood on Hawaii this session is bringing on a political tug-of-war both in the island territory and in this country.

Congressional Democratic leaders have plainly indicated that Hawaii statehood won't come up for action this year despite prodding by President Eisenhower.

The President pointedly declared that Hawaii should be brought in to the Union, particularly since Alaska won long-coveted statehood last month. Otherwise it would be "rank discrimination," he said.

Congressional observers frankly admit they can't pinpoint the reason why Hawaii has been given the brush-off. They recall that statehood bills for both Alaska and Hawaii have always been closely linked in the past. Ten years ago, Hawaiian statehood won House approval but Alaska never got out of committee in either the house or Senate.

Politics has always been a backstage factor in the statehood situation and it's still behind the scenes in the Hawaiian statehood.

Washington observers assigned a political motive to the Hawaiian statehood holdup drive that arose in the wake of the Alaskan victory.

They said it was a quickie operation cooked up by the administration with the interior Department spearheading it.

They said it was a quickie operation cooked up by the administration with the interior Department spearheading it.

Forty years of Republican domination in Hawaii was broken in 1954 with election of a Democratic-controlled Legislature. The territory will vote this fall, with the full House and one-half of its Senate on the political firing-line.

With those political blue-chips at stake, it was natural Republican strategy to try to put the blame on Democrats for failure to get Hawaii admitted to statehood with Alaska.

The administration brought to Washington Gov. Quinn and two Republican associates to start the 11th hour new drive for statehood. They'll go home without action but with political ammunition to use in the territory's elections. On the national scale, the statehood issue has political overtones.

Southerners Fought Alaska

Southerners fought Alaska statehood and will fight Hawaii's admission because they fear the four additional senators which would result would ally themselves with Northern and Western liberals. This would weaken the balance-of-power influence Southerners exert in the Senate.

The issue of Communism also comes to life when the Hawaiian question comes up.

Last Week's Good And Bad News

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Last week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

The Middle Eastern situation erupted last week in one of the gravest international crises since the end of World War II.

It started with a revolt in pro-Western Iraq by subversive army elements friendly to President General Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, who aspires to the mastery of the Arab world.

In a dramatic series of subsequent events, the United States landed Marines in Lebanon at the request of the Lebanese government. Soviet Russia demanded the United States withdraw at once and threatened, if it did not, "to take the necessary measures"...

United States paratroopers landed in Jordan, adjacent to Lebanon... British paratroopers landed in Jordan on the appeal of King Hussein, who had united his country with Iraq as the Arab Federation...

On Wednesday, the Soviet government reacted. It delivered to United States Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr. a blistering angry statement. It called on the United States to withdraw from Lebanon at once. Otherwise, the statement said, Russia "reserves the right to take the necessary measures dictated by the interest of peace and security."

King Hussein of Jordan appealed to the Big Three allies for help.

On Thursday, the news came that United States paratroopers flown from European bases had landed at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization air base at Adana, in southern Turkey, during the night.

A few hours later, British paratroopers landed in force in Jordan. Russia announced its military maneuvers, and Soviet troops were observed moving close to the frontier of Iran.

President Eisenhower, a 111-day-long conference with administration and congressional leaders, called for an emergency meeting of the United Nations Security Council.

On Tuesday, United States Marines landed, in a perfectly-executed amphibious operation from units of the Sixth Fleet, on the beaches of Beirut, the Lebanese capital. They occupied the airport and other key positions under the eye of the friendly public and made friends with admiring children.

The U. N. Security Council met. United States Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. asked the U. N. send a police force to Lebanon to preserve its independence, replacing the American troops.

Russian Delegate Artyev A. Sobolev demanded the U. N. order the Government, either directly or indirectly, which is inconsistent with the conscientious performance of his governmental duties.

"2. Uphold the Constitution, laws, and legal regulations of the United States and of all governments therein and never be a party to their evasion.

"3. Give a full day's labor for a full day's pay; giving to the performance of his duties his earnest effort and best thought.

"4. Seek to find and employ more efficient and economical ways of getting tasks accomplished.

"5. Never discriminate unfairly by the dispensing of special favors or privileges to anyone, whether for remuneration or not; and never accept, for himself or his family, favors or benefits under circumstances which might be construed by reasonable persons as influencing the performance of his governmental duties.

"6. Make no private promises of any kind binding upon the duties of office, since a Government employee has no private word which can be binding on public duty.

"7. Engage in no business with the Government, either directly or indirectly, which is inconsistent with the conscientious performance of his governmental duties.

"8. Never use information coming to him confidentially in the performance of governmental duties as a means for making private profit.

"9. Expose corruption wherever discovered.

"10. Uphold these principles, ever conscious that public office is a public trust."

"11. Put loyalty in the highest

Veterans Corner

Here are authoritative answers from the Veterans Administration to questions of interest from former servicemen and their families:

Q. Can I go to school under the War Orphan education program while I am in service?

A. No. Under the law, eligible persons in military service may not receive War Orphan schooling. When you are discharged you may enroll under the program.

Q. Premiums on my World War II GI term insurance policy are under $100, since I am totally disabled. Do I have the right to convert to a permanent plan?

A. Yes. You may convert to a permanent plan other than an endowment policy, without a medical examination.

Q. My husband died of a service-connected condition. Does the size of my income have any bearing on my compensation?

A. No. However, income limitations do apply to death pensions with military service.

Q. Does a Spanish-American War veteran have to be disabled in order to draw a VA pension?

A. Not necessarily. VA pensions are payable to Spanish-American War veterans over 60 years of age, even though they may not be disabled.

Garden Gate

By Mrs. W. E. Brinson
BEGONIAS FOR TROPICAL TOUCH

You can achieve a tropical effect on the grounds or in the patio of your home with large growing begonias. The effect is equalled by few other landscape subjects!

Named after Michel Begon, a French promoter of botany, specimens range from hot-house conservatory to window garden subjects. Many of them are grown primarily for foliage, others for the showy bloom.

Although the begonia is treated mostly as a pot-plant, some kinds can be used for bedding. They make a satisfactory border or accent for the grounds of a Florida home.

First, select the site, then make a trench just as you would for a trench for roses. Sand, peat, composted manure, and other compost materials make a very good filler for the bed. Fill the holes to within six inches of the surface, then add the plants or rhizomes.

The size of the trench depends on your plants. For the smaller border kinds, dig it a foot wide and a foot deep. For the large growers make it two feet wide and 18 inches deep.

The two best begonias for low borders in Florida are the semiperfoliate hybrids and star begonia. For the sunny border, semiperfoliate hybrids can be had with either red or green foliage, and flowers in shades of red, rose, pink, and white. There are also strains with double flowers.

Spraying in the summer months with a fungicide will minimize most of this season's troubles. Star begonias get their name from the shape of the leaves, which are deeply cut and beautifully marked. They are low rosette growers, and send pretty spikes of pink flowers up in winter and early spring.

Star types are among the finest shade border, bedding or rockery plants for our area. They are resistant to almost all pests and will keep looking good for many years.

Among the large growing relatives of the star begonia there are three that deserve mention. Begonia reclinifolia looks very much like an overcast star type, while begonia nolumbifolia and begonia popenoi have large round-

Couple Proves Dancing Skill

While spending a social evening at the "Alabi" lounge in Palm Beach recently Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Cushing won prizes for their dancing ability.

The "Alabi" sponsors a weekly dancing display and a contest following the show. Male members of the audience dance with female members of the dancing team, and the male professional dancers choose partners from the audience. A male and female winner is chosen by three judges, all professional dancers, by his or her dancing ability exhibited while dancing with the performers.

Bob Cushing, dancing a jitterbug, was the first prize winner and his wife Evelyn was the runner-up in the female division.

The Cushings are spending a week's vacation at MacDonald's Singer Beach Villas in Riviera Beach and were with the MacDonalds celebrating Mrs. MacDonald's, formerly known in Sanford as Miss Marian Cushing, birthday.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Schirard, of Loch Arbor, announce the birth of their first child, Susan Martha. Born July 13 in the Seminole Memorial Hospital, their daughter weighed 7 lbs.

The child's maternal grandmother is Mrs. William Weidie, and the paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Schirard Jr. of Loch Arbor.

Their luxuriant growth lends an air of the tall spikes of pink and white flowers appear in the late winter. These plants do best with frequent light fertilizing and daily watering and their resistance against most common garden pests is proverbial.

The cane stem begonias are upright growers which reach to four, six, or even eight feet tall. They are often called "angel wing begonias" and are excellent shrubs for the shade corner. Their leaves can be light or dark green, and some varieties have silver white leaf markings.

The flowers are relatively large and the various species and hybrids have red, pink, white and orange blooms. Heavy mulching and weekly spraying for fungus in the summertime are small but for the splendid show of blooms that may last from fall through late spring.

Yard begonias require extra water and fertilizer, weekly fungicide (Fermate or Copper A) on cane stem and semiperfoliate types in summer, chlordane dust for caterpillars or grasshoppers, black leaf 40 and Red Arrow with a spreader for scale.

Visitors Day, June 27, the Brownies invited parents and friends to share in their fun. Many people took advantage of the invitation and saw for themselves the helpful and interesting things the campers did daily. Mrs. Frank Russell, camp director, had as her unit leaders, Mrs. W. D. Bridge, Mrs. A. J. Bolton, and Mrs. W. A. Donaldson. Lucy Moon, Kathleen Moon, and Phyllis Lyons, served as senior aides.

Attention All Sorority Women

There is an attempt being made to construct a list of the national sorority women living in Seminole County and the sorority to which each belongs.

Those who have moved to this county in the last five years would most probably find their name missing from the list which the inter-fraternity council uses for ticket circulation for its annual Christmas dance.

Since this list is being used as a basis for the sorority list, all those not certain that their names are included on it are asked to contact Miss Nan Cushing by calling FA 2-2607 after 3 p.m.

Oleg Cassini Answers Sack With New Fashion

It's "The Angeliqee Look" for Fall—a look that top designer Oleg Cassini calls "the answer to the sack look, which is dead."

Inspired by Angeliqee perfume, "The Angeliqee Look" presents the appealing concept that every woman can embrace her femininity by melding fragrance with fashion.

Mr. Cassini's Angeliqee silhouette follows body contours with relaxed but supple construction from shoulder to hemline. The whole feeling is one of almost softly rounded and universally flattering. Fabrics carry out the ultra-feminine look of the Angeliqee silhouette with subtle use of lace over satin, tulle net crepe, of chiffon over organza. Mink-like collar-capes of lace and chiffon give the gown a look of "dressing luxury."

Two other main silhouettes are featured in Mr. Cassini's new Fall collection: the dagger and the anjora. The former follows the basic curve of a dagger, with the bonom and hip neatly outlined; the anjora, shaped like a violin, is found in many of the designer's street wools; a front inset panel narrows the skirt in a smooth curve that ends just below the knees.

Obviously, Fall fashion emphasis is on femininity — from the elegantly casual collars being created to complement this new "Angeliqee Look" to the significance of Angeliqee fragrances for completing every costume.

New York's Fashion group resorts to circus terms to describe the trend in millinery for Fall. "Under the Big Top, best describes the new hat styles," said the commentator at the Group's recent accessories show. The big hats come in fur, mohair and other pile fabrics.

NEW "ANGELIQUE LOOK" FOR FALL. Pale green Chantilly lace over fitted ice blue satin gives the gown illustrated here a look of luxurious femininity, heightened by a softly flowing effect which Mr. Cassini achieves with the over panel of lace.

THE CARD OF THANKS
 Very often a Card of Thanks in The Sanford Herald means a good which is difficult to fill in any other way. Not only is a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have done good but also a courteous acknowledgment of the service and the efforts of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot be mailed.

Newspaper Cards of Thanks are accepted as publicly known. Emily Post, the noted authority on etiquette, feels they serve many good uses.

There is no prescribed form for a Card of Thanks. It can be as brief or as detailed as you desire. When the occasion comes you will find a sympathetically understanding member of our staff to assist you.

THE "IN MEMORIAM" NOTICE
 It is the custom of many families in this country to commemorate a bereavement by an "In Memoriam" notice in newspaper classified columns. They had a real close friend. Preserver of a collection of a suitable verse brings back to those families, and recollections. As Eliza Cook, the English poet has so beautifully expressed it:

"How sweetly sweet are the echoes
 That start
 What memory plays an old tune
 On the heart."

Most frequently an In Memoriam is inserted on the anniversary of death. However, other dates, which it is too early to insert or meaningful are also selected. The birthday of the departed, the wedding anniversary, Memorial Day, even Christmas are among other significant occasions chosen.

If you are hesitant to express your thanks (thanks is good for you) for the memory of the Herald's "In Memoriam" column, these express in poetic beauty the emotions of the living. Among them are verses appropriate to any circumstance.

THE RATE
 Cards of Thanks and In Memoriam notices, due to the fact that they may run to considerable length, are billed at $1.50 per column per week.

Try and Stop Me
 By BENNETT CERR

AT AN AMUSEMENT PARK last summer a college student who had wangled a vacation job on the scenic railway noticed that one sickly, shaking old gent made no effort to get out of his front seat when a ride was completed, but sat huddled down waiting to go 'round again. Furthermore, the ticket taker never bothered to ask him for his fare. The student approached him after five rounds and said, "Pardon me, but do you get a particular thrill out of this ride?"

"Thrill?" sneered the old man. "I hate it! It makes me acutely sick to my stomach."

"Then why do you, like the music, go 'round and 'round'?" asked the student.

"The skinfint who owns this concession," explained the old man, "owes me 10 dollars, and I'm going to take it out on him in rides if it kills me!"

"A minor operation," explains Melinda Drake, "is an operation performed on somebody else."

County Planning Stopped By Citizens Group Today

Passive Approach By Commission Adopted

The Tax Study and Planning Committee appointed by the County Commission some weeks ago met last night at the Court House and adopted a letter of recommendation that will be signed by those members in agreement and presented to the Board of County Commissioners when they meet today.

The report says that "believing that the ad valorem tax rate in Seminole County has reached a maximum level, the Committee feels that every effort should be made to refrain from doing anything which will increase the present tax rate and which may result in undermining the present livable county taxes."

Anticipating presentations that seemed likely to come before the Board of Commissioners today, the report continued: "The Committee respectfully urges you and each of you to act wisely and cautiously before voting on any proposed new capital improvement which will require additional ad valorem tax millage."

Those dissenting with the approved procedure, expressed the opinion that something definite should be recommended and if in the search for additional revenue the re-evaluation of property in the county was indicated, that recommendation should be made.

G. A. Spear Jr. reminded the study group that the Board of County Commissioners under the present laws has the responsibility of re-assessing the property in the county and of fixing the millage rate. That responsibility, he added, could not be passed on to the Tax Advisory Committee, whose job was indicated in its name—advisory.

Abolishing or minimizing tax inequities, it was said, hinged to a large extent on the Homestead law and until the state legislature tackled this problem and solved it nothing could be done at the local levels to equalize taxes for services provided. A strong opinion was expressed that with any legislation for re-evaluating or adjusting the tax structure there should be a companion provision fixing a ceiling on millage.

It was pointed out that the experience of counties in which a re-evaluation or reassessment had taken place with a compensating downward adjustment in millage, it was only a matter of a year or so until the millage was increased and taxes were higher than they had been before the reassessment action.

Emphasis was placed on the singular conditions affecting Seminole County because of its basic agriculture economy. The report points out that adjustment of taxes here is more complex than usual because of the "thousands of its acres used for ranching, farming and citrus, and agriculture profits and income, or the ability to pay taxes out of income are in no way increased by a growing local population or by industrial growth and income."

Speaking of the Homestead Exemption law the Committee's report said "It appears that because of the homestead exemption amendment, this form of taxation is inadequate to meet the increasing county and school financial needs, and it is necessary that legislation be adopted to tap new and added sources of revenue and provide a more equitable tax assessment formula which will result in providing a more uniform tax revenue."

Small craft warnings flew during the night from Hispaniola, which includes Haiti and the Dominican Republic, eastward to the northern Leeward Islands.

Woods, Truck Fire Friday Afternoon

The Florida Forest Service reports a fire in a pulpwood truck and several areas of woodland just south of Lake Harney occurred last Friday.

County Ranger R. L. Gray, who was first to arrive at the scene, said that the fire started at or near the truck, at the site of the pulpwood cutting operations.

Ranger Norman Bristol called from Chulucota to send assistance to control the fire with fire-line plows.

A Florida Forest Service spokesman in Longwood said that there was just one wild fire in July last year, this is the fourth fire this month bringing the total for the year to 28 as compared to 60 for the first six months of 1957.

Important Meeting On Civil Defense Scheduled July 24

A meeting termed "Important to every person in Seminole County" will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in the Commissioners' Room of the Sanford City Hall, it was announced yesterday.

A. B. Peterson, Director of the Seminole County Civil Defense has notified the 23 members of his organization that "disaster preparedness will save lives."

Peterson told his organization members that "The Red Cross is primarily concerned with the needs and care of the individual—Civil Defense has the responsibility of warning, rescue, law enforcement, firefighting and the protection of property."

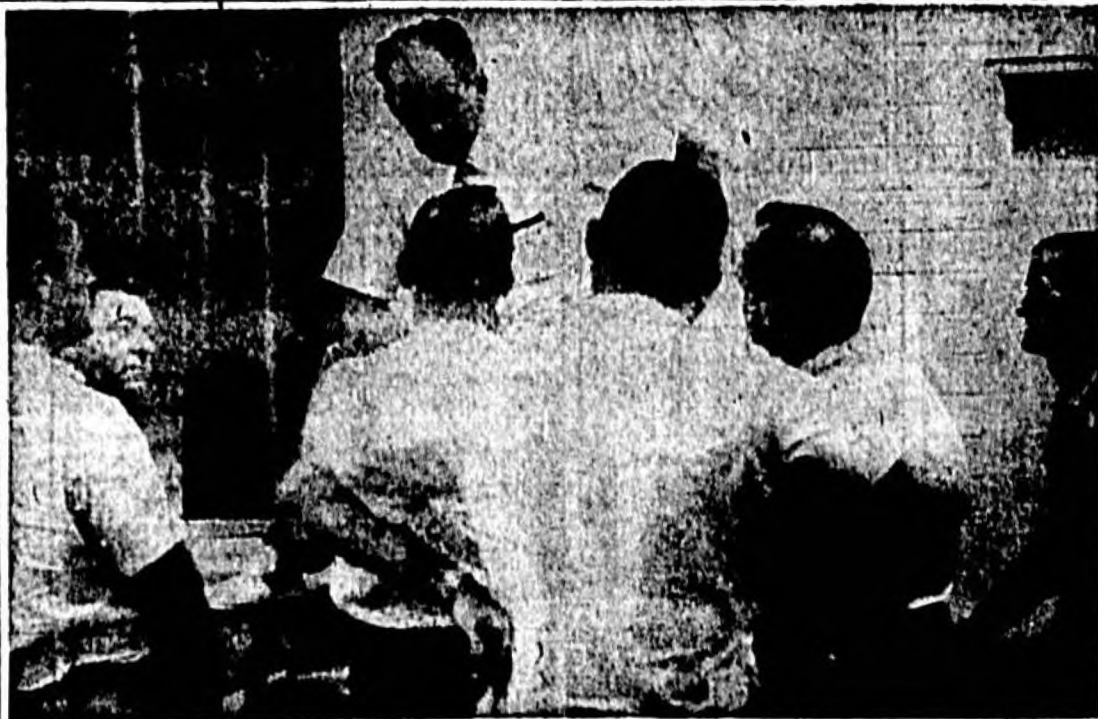

Mrs. Mary D. Knox, Executive Secretary of the Seminole County Chapter of the American Red Cross, was "enthusiastic in urging all interested people to attend this meeting as preventing disaster should be important to each and every one of us in this county."

Donald Doyle, Field Representative for the American Red Cross in this area, will attend the meeting and will introduce the principal speaker who is an expert in disaster relief.

Object of the meeting, Mrs. Knox pointed out, "is to review and bring up to date any existing written plans and assist in preparation of written plans where none presently exist."

Agreeing that fire protection is very necessary, Odham said "A city government is a corporation formed to serve the people in that business or occupation—and just because we live just outside the city, we cannot expect it to serve us, too."

However, Odham told the group, "As the developer of these homes I felt as if I had a moral obligation to furnish fire protection

Annexation Moved Closer Last Night

Sanford moved a step closer to the annexation of 1.28 square miles to the south and southwest of the city last night when more than 400 people met at the Pinecrest School to discuss "creating a fire district," annexation to the City of Sanford, or "do nothing at all."

Forms for petition were circulated among interested citizens at the conclusion of a meeting that continued for more than 2 1/2 hours. J. Bralley Odham, president of Odham and Taylor, and a strong proponent of annexation of outlying areas to the city, told the group that "We're going to discuss a problem that is of common interest to all of us."

Agreeing that fire protection is very necessary, Odham said "A city government is a corporation formed to serve the people in that business or occupation—and just because we live just outside the city, we cannot expect it to serve us, too."

However, Odham told the group, "As the developer of these homes I felt as if I had a moral obligation to furnish fire protection until you could come to some decision for yourselves."

Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, John Krider, told the huge audience, most of whom were residents of Pinecrest or Highland Estates, of the details necessary to create a fire district.

"First," he said, "it is necessary to secure a petition from at least 25 per cent of the registered freeholders in order to give the Board of Commissioners authority to call an election on the problem of fire protection."

Warren E. Knowles, City Manager for the City of Sanford, explained annexation of the proposed area from the moral, financial and technical phases.

"This is another way of solving the fire service problem in this area," he said.

Tracing the action of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners and the reasoning behind the action, Knowles said "It was necessary to put the running of the city on a dollar and cents basis."

"The reason for annexation," City Manager Knowles explained, "is that the City of Sanford needs

A group of 100 citizens attended a hearing this morning before the Board of Seminole County Commissioners on the feasibility of providing plans for a Seminole County Court House and jail.

Nearly all of the 100 voiced disapproval of the use of county funds for providing plans until county commissioners could find an available source of revenue to start construction.

At the outset of the meeting, John Krider, Chairman of the Board of Seminole County Commissioners, pointed out that "the problem is not a new one but was handed to the present commission."

He said "The jail must be replaced since we do not have juvenile or mental facilities to take care of present needs."

"I would not vote for one 10 cents increase in taxes unless more people participate. I opposed increase in millage last year and will oppose an increase this year," he said.

"Do we need to plan or just sit here," asked Krider, and added "your county commission is here for one purpose—to serve you."

A Col. Jennings, whose residence, he told the audience in near Goldenrod, pointed out that the jail is deplorable, the Health Unit is more than deplorable.

However, he said, "We are interested in seeing an equal distribution of taxes." Col. Jennings remarked "All you have to do to evade taxes is to come to Seminole County—and they're infiltrating."

Others speaking on the proposed planning for future building included George A. Spear Jr., H. B. Pope and several unidentified speakers who asked to be allowed to make a statement.

The orderly meeting was interrupted by remarks between Chairman Krider and the speakers.

Spear told the meeting "One of the reasons this group is so stirred up is because I understand that at the last meeting there was an effort made to hire an architect to draw up plans and specifications. To advocate spending of such money is not good planning."

Krider told the audience that "We have been told that if plans are not made for a new jail our prisoners will be taken elsewhere to be confined and we will have to foot the bill."

Bralley Odham, one of the last speakers heard during the morning session, said "At this time, with all the other needs, I would be opposed to spending money for plans."

He commended Architect John A. Burton IV for his interest in the community and for work done for which he received no money.

Odham said "There are a number of people in this meeting who are opposed to anything."

He pointed out that schools must come first, and we must do something about the old folks home.

U.S. Will Go Along With Summit Meet At United Nations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said today the United States will go along if other nations concerned want a summit meeting at the United Nations.

The White House announcement followed British acceptance of Nikita Khrushchev's proposal for a head of state meeting on the Middle East provided the Soviet premier is willing to hold it within the U. N. Security Council.

While House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said:

"If such a meeting were generally desired, the United States would join in following this order of precedence."

Before Hagerty made his statement, it had appeared that the Western powers had been unable to agree on a reply to Khrushchev's summit proposal.

Britain Leads Way

This country, it was known, did not want an emergency big power meeting that might undermine U. N. authority and prestige.

Shortly before the British proposal Hagerty said there had been "no agreement" among the Western powers and no reply to Khrushchev.

Then British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd told the House of Commons that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan would be willing to attend a summit conference if it were held in the Security Council.

That apparently provided this country with something it could accept, Hagerty said:

"A United Nations Security Council meeting of the character suggested by Foreign Minister Lloyd is clearly within the contemplation of the U. N. Charter."

Hagerty also said that a draft of the U. S. reply to Khrushchev "has now been given to the NATO organization in Paris."

Would He Attend?

Reporters asked Hagerty if his statement meant that President Eisenhower would attend such a meeting.

"It means just exactly what I said and nothing further," he replied.

Before reading the statement, Hagerty told newsmen he would have nothing further to say about it. But he said "of course" when

VAH-3 Honors June Honor Boy Scouts

Heavy Attack Squadron Three at NAS Sanford, played host Sunday to the June Honor Patrol of the Lake Mary Scout Troop 242. The 12 scouts of the "Wolf" Patrol came aboard the Naval Air Station for a guided tour conducted by Lt. (jg) Henry Demers and Scoutmaster, Navy Chief Petty Officer Colman.

Aboard the station, the Scouts observed parachute packing, a safety equipment demonstration, toured the control tower, and inspected the Jet A3D "Skywarrior" and the propeller-driven P2V "Neptune" patrol craft.

All hands were fascinated by the sweep-wing jet bomber with its nuclear capabilities, and clambered up around and over the aircraft. One of the scouts served as a "downed" aviator in a life vest demonstration to the delight of the other embryos "Aldieses."

Wide Squall Area Headed For Cuba This Morning

MIAMI (UPI)—A wide area of tropical squalls howled through the Caribbean toward Cuba and Jamaica today.

But the Weather Bureau said the 400-mile long disturbance apparently had diminished a little during the night after lashing Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the Dominican Republic with winds up to 45 miles per hour and torrential rains.

Forecasters estimated the highest winds today were about 30 miles per hour. The disturbance at 4 a. m. EST was stretched across the Caribbean between the Dominican Republic and Cuba. It was moving westward at about 15 to 18 miles per hour.

The Weather Bureau labeled the disturbance as an easterly wave, a long line of squalls. An easterly wave is sometimes the forerunner of a hurricane.

But the Weather Bureau emphasized there were no indications the disturbance would build up into a full-fledged tropical storm or hurricane. A Navy hurricane hunter plane flew through the squall area Monday and reported no signs of a circular motion telltale of a tropical storm.

The squalls raked the eastern islands of the Antilles Monday with 45 mile an hour gusts. Parts of southern Puerto Rico were drenched with eight inches of rain in two hours.

Small craft warnings flew during the night from Hispaniola, which includes Haiti and the Dominican Republic, eastward to the northern Leeward Islands.
