Sanford rave moves to Orlando at 2 a.m.

By MARIA OREM
Herald Staff Writer

A rave went on as scheduled at the Tsunami Beach Club Friday with the club closing promptly at 2 a.m. abiding by a city ordinance and without incident.

As ravers purchased their tickets at the door, they were handed maps saying the party would continue at the Cyberzone, a club off Lee Road in Orange County.

Raves are all-night dance parties featuring synthesized techno music and have often been associated with illegal drug use.

Early this week, city officials had braced for the rave, with Sanford Mayor Larry Dale notifying the Sanford Police Department and enlisting the support of the Seminole County Sheriff's Office in case of any incident. Dale said last week he was concerned with the estimated crowds of up to 18,000 people which could be attending the rave.

The actual number of people who attended the rave at Tsunami was about 200. When the lights were turned on at about 2 a.m. signifying that the club would be closing, the party goers fled out of the building. Many discussed plans of driving to the club in Orange County.

The rave, billed as FUSION 97 had been originally scheduled for Memorial Day weekend in

Sanford takes a close look at cost of canine officers

By VICKI DeSORMIER

It's "ruff" being a police dog in Sanford. The city's Police Chief Joe Dillard said he's taking a close look at the canine unit in his department to see if it is worth the costs.

The unit, which consists of three canine and three human officers, has come under scrutiny after Cpl. Michael Ansley turned in a request for more than $9,000 in overtime pay.

Ansley told department officials that the hours were for a year-long period. See Canine, Page 3A

Protest brews over influx of transient laborers downtown

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

They're mad as hell, they say and they want something done about it.

Residents and business owners in the downtown historic district are not pleased with their new neighbor.

Facetter Personnel, a business which finds work for manual laborers on a daily basis, has leased a 1,000 square foot storefront at 104 S. Park Avenue.

Because of the nature of the business, many transient laborers arrive well before the 4 a.m. cattle call, sometimes the night before, in hopes of getting a job.

Business owners are disturbed that those waiting for work have already started sleeping where they can and using alleyways as bathroom facilities.

Virgil Hurley, owner of Glass Addicts Stained Glass Creations, in an open letter to Helen Stairs, the rental agent who is working out a rental agreement with the business, said he believes it was a mistake to lease the property to such a business.

"When someone loves and cares for something, they do not urinate on it," he wrote.

Hurley and others have started a petition drive to try to force changes. Signatures are still being collected.

Meanwhile, an "open letter to Helen Stairs" is being distributed in the historic district.

The flyer was given out at homes and businesses from 2nd Street to the waterfront and from French Avenue to Sanford Avenue. Others were distributed in other pockets of the historic district by concerned residents.

The facility began operating at its current location on Monday. It does not have an occupational license at the present location (it was formerly located on French Avenue in Sanford), former city commissioner and community activist Lon Howell said.

Stairs referred questions to her attorney, Rick Colegrove, who also confirmed the business is operating without a current occupational license.

Don Florian of the city's code enforcement department, said businesses are given a grace period when they move from one location to another to make necessary changes in their licensing.

Licensing violations are the least of the problems citizens are having with the new business, however.

According to Howell, Sanford Police have been called to the area "at least five times in the last four days."

Hurley confirms he has had to call the police on a couple of occasions already. On Wednesday night they were called, for example, he said, to respond when a man was found sleeping on the sidewalk outside his business at 9:30 p.m.

"It's true," said city Commissioner Brady Lessard, who represents the downtown district. "I saw it with my own eyes."

Lessard said it was "disturbing" to him that the Sanford Main Street program had allowed "such an incompatible business" to relocate into the historic commercial district.

The commissioner "guesstimates" that the business brings between 100 and 200 job seekers to the downtown streets over the course of

Survey airs businesses' concerns with education

By MARIA OREM
Herald Staff Writer

A recent survey conducted by the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce has highlighted a concern many businesses and educators have had for quite some time: how to prepare the local workforce for the growing job market.

About 165 people attended the chamber's luncheon June 27 at the Orlando North Hilton where the survey results were presented. Guest speakers were Seminole County Commissioner Randy Morris and Seminole County Public Schools Superintendent Dr. Paul Hagerty.

The survey, "Seminole Business and Workforce Assessment," conducted in partnership with the chamber, Seminole Community College and BDO Seidman, Account-

Some teens make a positive difference

By MARIA OREM
Herald Staff Writer

It was all work and almost no play for the more than 100 teenagers who arrived in Seminole County this week. They came from all over the country with a single purpose in mind — to help residents in need with home repairs and remodeling.

St. John Lutheran Church in Winter Park was the host this year for Group Workcamps, a national program made up of youth ministry groups, and with workcamps in about 20 states. The church identified the local sites with the help of area agencies and churches. St. John also donated $8,500 of materials and provided about 100 volunteers from the church to coordinate the project.

Headquartered in Loveland, Colo., and established in 1977, Group Workcamp has co-sponsored 193 workcamps, providing service opportunities for 64,000 young people and their adult sponsors. This year, the group plans to repair more than 1,300 homes across the country.

Under adult supervision, Christian teen-agers perform home repairs for residents who, because of limited income, age or disability, cannot do the work themselves. The teens commit their labor for one week during the summer to a specific workcamp which they are assigned in advance. Accommodations are provided and the teens pay for their food and transportation. A $325 registration fee required of the teens is largely covered by the individual churches through fund-raisers.

On June 29, 135 young people arrived at Indian Trails Middle School in Winter Springs where they camped out this past week until Saturday when they left for their home towns. They worked on 23 different sites in Sanford, Bithlo and Oviedo doing everything from roofing to plumbing to painting.

Homemade lemonade greeted the team of four youths when they arrived at Mae Yount's house in Sanford. By the second day of work everyone was calling her Grandma Mae as she moved from room to room, asking the kids if they wanted some peanut butter cookies or banana bread. Yount's friendly and outgoing nature kept the teens entertained as they worked in the oppressive heat.

Kate Kirksey, 16, of Rockville, Md., said she was glad she got to meet Grandma and plans to continue working with the workcamps next year.

"I know it's helped her out to live better and more comfortably," Kate said.

The other members of the team agreed and said they would all do this again. The group included Laura Gallagher, 17, of New Jersey; Kyle Rockwell, 15, of Ohio, and Garrett Slaughter, 16, of Maryland. Adult members were Tom Crouse of Bryan, Ohio, and Cathy Moss of Norfolk, Va.

Yount was invited to Indian Trails Middle on Tuesday where she was treated to dinner and a talent show.

"They provided the transportation," she said, adding, "it was the best." See Teens, Page 5A

Spirit of independence felt at Sanford's July 4th celebration

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

While her husband and father smoked cigarettes and supervised the operation, Maria Gambrello, her five children and her mother spread out a blanket and arranged the fast food picnic in the center.

"They say, 'while in Rome do as the Romans do,'" Gambrello laughed. "We're from Rome and we'll do as the Americans do."

"The family was one of many drifting from foreign lands" at Friday evening's Fourth of July fireworks display in Sanford.

The All-American celebration here had a definite international flavor.

Rame Patel arrived in central Florida last week to visit his family in Orlando. He came to Sanford specifically to see the fireworks and to look around downtown.

"I heard this was a very American town," he said. "I wanted to see an American town. I think I should like to live here if I come to live in the United States," he said.

Patel said he wanted to see the celebration of "such an important national holiday" because he was interested in history and "because (I) like to party."

The Gambrellos said Sanford is so different from Rome, but a community celebration is the same no matter where one travels in the world.

"We all like to celebrate happy times with people we know," Pietro Gambrello said. "It doesn't matter if you are from Roma or from Sanford."

Reena Spencer of York, England said she wanted to watch an American Independence Day celebration because she thought it was ironic.

"Me, an English woman, sneaking in to see what you Colonists do to celebrate your freedom from us," she said, giggling quietly. "It's like getting to see how the other half lives."

Her companion, James Sheffield, was happy to have the chance to take part in a street party celebration with Americans, "because they really know how to have a good time."

Chang Pei and her children have been in the United States for two years, coming from China.

Last year they did not celebrate the Fourth of July, but this year they wanted to do things like their American neighbors.

"We have a good time and eat hot dogs and watch the fireworks," Chang said. "We are Americans now. We are doing American things."

It didn't seem to matter where people were from, they were all impressed with the event along the waterfront on Lake Monroe.

"This has got to be the best Fourth of July celebration in the country," Jessica Lamb of Sanford said.

Some people stayed close to home this holiday, it seems.

Canine

Dillard said that's still too much and wants to see if the program can be scaled back or simply eliminated to save money for the department, which has been looking for similar cost cutting measures in other areas as well.

Dillard acknowledged that the canine program at the Sanford Police Department has been a successful one, but said he can not have any unit which is not cost effective.

"We've had very good success with the canine unit," Dillard said. "I think they've been good for us. We just want to make sure the money is being used in an effective way."

Dillard said he questioned the excessive overtime hours incurred by Anasley because officers in that unit are given an hour a day for the care and training of their canine partners.

"And supervisors are always willing to arrange their schedules to include time for the dogs," Dillard said.

The investigation into costs is not limited to Anasley, who was paid his overtime hours, Dillard noted.

"We need to take a look at the unit to determine if this is an area where cuts can be made," Dillard said, noting that the assessment of the unit could reveal a great need for its continued support. "We're just starting to look at costs and productivity so we don't know yet."

With the "worst case scenario" (dissolution of the unit), Dillard said the human officers would be reassigned and the dogs (which could bring about $3,000 each) would be sold.

The chief said he does not know when a decision could be made in this matter, but anticipates it would be made before the end of the summer.

Protest

the day. Such a large number of transients moving through the area each day "is not acceptable" to Lessard.

"Its job (Main Street) is to avoid this sort of thing," Lessard said. "They should have seen the building was empty and gone out looking for a suitable renter."

As the rental agent, however, it is Stairs, not Sanford Main Street, who has the final say in who moves into the building. That decision, Colegrove said, is a business choice.

"She has a responsibility as a realtor to the principal to get the property rented to someone who will make a payment every month," he said.

Hurley and Bob Kuhn, who owns a downtown business and who leads the Neighborhood Watch program in the historic district, said they sent suitable potential renters to Stairs. Hurley said the interested parties were told the store was not available.

"There are a lot of pissed off people who want to know why she didn't rent to those people first," Kuhn said. "This is a pressure cooker of people who want to ask Helen if there was no other way to get out of this."

Kuhn was hoping to organize a community wide protest if Stairs did not find a more appropriate renter for the facility, but he does not have the specifics worked out for that at this time.

Meanwhile, Lessard said he is confident that the city, Stairs and Pacesetter could resolve the matter amicably.

"I've talked with Pacesetter Personnel and they seem willing to talk about this," Lessard said. "I think we can work this out."

Officials from Pacesetter did not return telephone calls.

Rave

Lampabut was cancelled. For the past week, city officials and Jim Hattaway, attorney for FSV Inc. which Tsunami is a part of, had disagreed on the interpretation of a city ordinance which dictates what time clubs serving alcohol must close.

According to the ordinance, entertainment establishments must close at 2 a.m. However, Hattaway had said Tsunami is more like a concert hall and therefore could stay open past 2 a.m. once they stop selling alcohol.

Although club owner Stan Smith had sought an injunction to be permitted to stay open past 2 a.m. for the Fourth of July rave, a mediator ruled on Thursday that the club must close at that time.

Harold Photos by Sherrill Lynn Hill

Teens attending the rave at Tsunami Friday night waited quietly in line to purchase tickets at the door. Once inside, mood lighting and dancing bodies cast surreal shadows over everything. The rave closed at 2 a.m. as per city codes, but moved to Orange County where ravers could stay until morning.

Thanks, Commissioner Lyons

Thank you Sanford City Commissioner Kerry Lyons for having the backbone to untangle the "big hang up" in the city's lackadaisical action regarding Pine Shadows Apartments. Lack of code and police enforcement at a complex one block from Seminole High School is not only a detriment to the apartment and neighborhood residents, but to all of Seminole County. How ironic that conditions with eyesight of students in Seminole County's Academy of Health Careers classrooms have been so slow in being rectified. Students from other Seminole cities will be drawn to a magnet school only if the path is appealing.

We applaud you, Mr. Lyons, for being instrumental in having city action taken to clean up Pine Shadows Apartments. You are working hard for our district.

Labor pool downtown

I have had the pleasure of watching Sanford's Historic District bloom into something very special.

Most of my neighbors, as well as business leaders, have worked hard for many years to achieve these results. Best example would be the article in Orlando Magazine that includes our area with others such as Winter Park, College Park, etc., as one of the top nine desirable neighborhoods to live in metro Orlando.

This could only have been accomplished by maintaining a common goal. Even though we have many organizations: Waterfront Steering Committee, Chamber of Commerce, Crime-Watch, Main Street, Sanford Historic Trust to name a few, we have all worked toward a common goal.

I recently learned that the daily labor or labor pool that had been located on US Highway 17-92 has now moved to the downtown business district. I feel this is not a move in a positive direction. I can only hope, as this becomes more of an issue that all business leaders will see the importance of their decisions. This will create more continuity and Sanford will be a premiere city.

Aesthetic Realism

We learned over the Internet about the "School to Work Curriculum" being implemented in Seminole County, which aims to solve the problem behind the many recurrent questions asked by students, including "Why do we have to learn this?" This question is being asked in the midst of tremendous economic hardship throughout America, as students are concerned about whether there will be jobs at all after school, and are deeply worried, even hopeless, about their futures.

We are students of the philosophy Aesthetic Realism, founded by the great American educator Eli Siegel. We passionately want every student and teacher in Sanford to know the purpose of learning was explained, after centuries, by Eli Siegel. It is "to like the world through knowing it." It is the purpose of life itself. This purpose and what interferes with it was the subject of a thrilling public seminar given at The Aesthetic Realism Foundation in New York City last month, titled "The Aesthetic Realism Teaching Method Explains Why Students Don't Learn - & How They Can."

The speakers, Lois Mason (social studies, New Utrecht HS), Patricia Martone (ESL, PS 97M) and Arnold Percy (instructor, The Aesthetic Realism of Eli Siegel As Teaching Method) are three of the instructors of the bi-weekly workshop. The Aesthetic Realism of Eli Siegel As Teaching Method. They were joined in this seminar by students in the workshop, New York City teachers, representing kindergarten through high school. The seminar richly documented how students, despite all that they are up against, are happily learning about the world and themselves. It was resoundingly clear - students want to learn and they can when they see that the world has a structure that can honestly be liked - it is aesthetic. The Aesthetic Realism teaching method is based on this mighty principle stated by Eli Siegel, "The world, art, and self explain each other: each is the aesthetic oneness of opposites."

For the first time in history, Aesthetic Realism makes plain the largest opposition to liking the world and to learning. It is contempt. Contempt, Eli Siegel defined, is the common, hurtful "disposition in every person to think he will be for himself by making less of the outside world."

As part of the excited audience, we heard teachers illustrate with passion and exactitude how subjects such as mathematics, earth science, drama, have the aesthetic structure of the world in them - they put opposites together. They showed how students' desire to know comes alive and their interest flourishes when they see this. For example, we were very moved as Ann Richards (English, Norman Thomas HS) spoke in her paper about a lesson she gave to her class on the play, The Miracle Worker by William Gibson. Miss Richards showed technically how the opposites of for and against make this drama, which has stirred people deeply for many years, powerful.

Sexual harassment and me

I must be very ugly because nobody has ever sexually harassed me. I once thought that it was just that I was never in the right place at the wrong time. Once, I had my spirits lifted for just a fleeting moment when after leaving a Magic game a woman stoned out of her mind, on apparently drugs and/or alcohol, whistled at me but then I realized it was somebody behind me and my self esteem was again dashed to an all time low. It seems that everybody is experiencing all these new things that have popped up in the last few years like child abuse, sexual harassment and others. They're remembering all kinds of things that they didn't know happened to them.

Maybe I was abused when I was younger and better looking? There were times when women made approaches, but I considered it good luck. How stupid? I thought it was really great...but now I've learned that I was just a toy to them. Boy am I mad! I never thought about it until recently. How much could I have been harmed by all of this? I really need to see a shrink though to find out how deep the injury really is. It's funny, but at the time I thought it was really terrific, but what do I know? Here I am at my age about to find out what these women did to me. They used me, played with my feelings...they didn't care! I was just there for their perverse satisfaction. To satisfy their fleeting desire...those animals!

Something deep inside me tells me I would let them do it all again. Why am I feeling this way? Does this mean that I have been harmed in some other way that I am not aware of...perhaps something that doesn't have a name yet? Why did I ever think that what was happening was good? What made me think that I was enjoying it?

At the time I thought my self esteem was at an all time high. What a trick they pulled on me, saying nice things just to get their way with me. I was so young and innocent. Now that innocence has been taken from me and I will have to endure my final years with the reality that they didn't want me for me. There was no deep feeling for my well being. Do you know how it feels to think that all those years of wonderful memories for me meant nothing to all those young women. I'm glad that I didn't realize sooner, for I had, at least, the perception that my life and been full of cherished moments. I even bought candy and gifts.

Sometimes, as I grew older I would buy a bottle of wine. They didn't care about the wine! They wanted me! That's why they only drank a small portion while they insisted that I HAVE more! I didn't see what was happening to me. I was just a young man with stars in my eyes, innocent and pure.

The candy was probably given to the dog because somewhere in the recesses of my mind I seem to remember seeing dogs with chocolate all over their faces. Could it be just a dream or a reality buried deep in the tormented mind of a young man being used without realizing it? Oh, I did think I was having a wonderful time. That the world was wonderful and I was important to these beautiful young women. Oh, if only I had known! Would I have been different? Would I have avoided these encounters now that I know what I know?.....NOPE!!!!

One person who doesn't have to prove anything

If you just read the caption of today's column, without reading the whole column, you might think that we were talking about "Superman", when actually the person we are focusing on is a man Altamonte Springs' lady named Gail Swift. Gail has lived in Florida for 25 years.

The divorced, single mother of two adult children was born in New Orleans with a congenital defect, the absence of a right hand. This condition has not stopped Gail from taking care of her family or enjoying life. In an age when greater independence for the disabled is now being focused on with greater importance, the energetic Gail has known that for years.

A woman with a very strong work ethic, Gail has done many different things. For the last year she has been working in customer service and sales at Colonial Medical Supplies in Winter Park. Gail enjoys her job at Colonial mainly because it has given her the opportunity to help other disabled people.

When I asked her how her disability helps her in dealing with the disabled customers that come to her store, Gail said that her disability gives her greater empathy and insight for the disabled and also gives her a desire to help the disabled even more.

Daughter Jackie and mom, Gail Swift disabled even more.

Gail has also owned and operated her own upholstery business for five years. Upholstery is a craft she learned at Seminole Community College. She has also worked for the K-Mart Corporation in sales and customer service, a job at which she sometimes worked 60 to 70 hours a week.

There are two things that Gail lives by. These are "Fighting Injustice", especially against the disabled, and "Try New Things".

Gail Swift is the kind of person who continually strives to better herself and society.

Her other interests include plants, teaching Sunday School and painting, something that she has done for a long time now.

Gail also used to teach arts and crafts and would love the opportunity to do that again sometime, hopefully in a public school environment. She loves children.

When reminiscing about her own childhood (she has been disabled since birth), Gail said she could not stand people feeling sorry for her. This is something many disabled people do not like.

The main thing she has learned in life is that many disabled people over-compensate for their disabilities and continue to try to prove something to the outside world. Another thing that we have to avoid is the desire to blame others for our own shortcomings. This is something that even non-disabled people need to learn. This is one person who doesn't have to prove anything!

If you have a non-profit group or organization relating to the disabled and have a fund raiser or special event coming up, let us know about it.

Stability, integration, kudos to county

If you wonder why kids can't add and subtract these days, maybe it's because of the role model set by the School Board. The Superintendent's contract ran for three years. He had served one year of that contract so only two remained. Chairman Sandy Robinson negotiated a new contract in which the length of the contract was to be reduced. Now, the contract, which had been reduced by service to two years runs for 3 1/2 years. A new clause, which requires a 180 day notice of termination, was added along with the extra year, thereby "reducing" the length of the contract from two years to 3 1/2. "New math?"

Talk about slick moves. What this does is locks the Superintendent in, not only through the remainder of Chairman Robinson's, Vice Chairman Morris's and Barbara Kuhn's term, but keeps him through the end of Larry Furlong and my terms as well. Before his contract is up and he can be released without costing taxpayers upwards of $500,000 for a buyout, it is possible that every board seat will consist of new members. Of course, Chairman Robinson, Dr. Kuhn and Jeanne Morris did stress the need for stability...you can't get more stable than that.

Of course, newly elected Board members could always decide to just buy out the contract. After all...this deal was not of their making, so it's not on their shoulders. What a legacy...

Kudos are in order for the County Commission's handling of the crowds at the recent adult entertainment ordinance hearings. It's interesting to compare philosophies between the County Commission and other governments when it comes to spending the time to listen to constituents. Over 450 citizens signed up to speak at the meeting. The Commission Chairman and three of the members indicated that they were there to listen - and listen they did. They heard about the topic from all sides and in ad nauseum. But they listened.

They know how important it is to listen to the people who voted them into office.

The School Board brought in Dr. Marce Sneed, Esquire, to discuss the Desegregation suit and the Consent Decrees. She holds both a doctorate in education as well as a law degree - and has been practicing desegregation law since 1983. Dr. Sneed briefed the Board about the upcoming Unitary Status move, as well as, some details about the current Consent Decree actions around the country. Two notable things happened that stand out in my mind.

#1 was that Dr. Sneed gave the Board her opinion on negotiating with the Justice Department. After reviewing the Decrees, it was her opinion that the Board can implement the method they want to meet the goals of the agreed upon Consent Decree. This was radically different from what Board members have been led to believe in the past.

#2 was that instead of just talking about going after Unitary Status, a Board consensus was developed that it should be "full speed ahead". The Justice Department had requested, during Bob Hughes tenure as Superintendent, that Seminole County request unitary status from the Court. For some unexplained reason, Hughes did not follow through. Since he was appointed 5 years ago, Dr. Hagerty has taken no overt action towards this goal either. For the last year or so, Chairman Sandy Robinson has talked about working towards the goal, but until Dr. Sneed was brought in to clear up the picture, nothing was being done. Now it is! The first step will be to develop data showing the School System's performance in faculty assignments, staff assignments, facilities, transportation and extra curricular activities over the past decade or so. These are 5 of the 7 factors upon which the Court's decision will ultimately lie. The others are student assignment and quality education. This data will be evaluated and if the system is found to be in compliance, the Board may decide to proceed towards applying for a partial granting of unitary status. If the system is found not to be in compliance, then corrections will be made by the Board.

Why bother? Well, depending upon some pending court cases, once the County is granted unitary status, a lot of the Justice Department leashes come off. Will that bring back segregated schools and low performing classes of students? Not likely given the level of public knowledge and interest in test scores of their children. And not if the school system concentrates on educating children - all children.

most wonderful evening."

By Thursday, the group was almost finished painting the inside of the house. They had also built a door for Yount's breezeway and were getting ready to shampoo the carpet. Yount's daughter and son-in-law were visiting from North Carolina and had invited the team to an appreciation barbecue.

"I'm so proud of them," Yount said. "They did a great job, and they have such harmony working together."

Yount, who has lived in the modest home since 1981, said she was very happy with the new neutral color of the walls because it made everything seem bigger and brighter.

Since her husband's death in 1992, Yount has lived there alone, putting off home repairs because she could not afford the expense. Yount also has a daughter in Deltona, six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Yount especially wanted to mention her church, Good Shepherd Lutheran in Sanford, and to also thank the people at St. John Lutheran for all their good work.

"This has been a godsend," she said. "I thank God and these kids from the bottom of my heart."

At about the same time Yount's home was being painted, just a few streets away, Allen Gibson was getting a new screen door installed and a wheelchair ramp. While there, another team of teens decided to paint her carport.

Gibson, who has lived in her home since 1971, recently had quadruple bypass surgery following a heart attack. After her husband's death in 1971, Gibson said she worked as a crew leader for migrant farm workers off Celery Avenue up until the time of a car accident in 1985 which left her unable to walk without assistance. She can get around with a cane, she said, but she runs out of breath easily and sometimes has to use her battery-operated wheelchair. The new ramp will allow her to get out more often, Gibson said.

"They are very nice, beautiful people," she said of the teens as she watched them from her porch having a water fight during a break.

"It's good to learn how to help one another. This teaches them to be nice and very kind young people."

The youngest member of the group, Robin Fox, 14, of Mt. Pelier, Ohio, said she wanted to make this trip because she wanted to make a difference.

Ashante Stokes, 17, of Hartford, Conn., came to Florida two years ago with a workcamp and decided to do it again because, "It was fun."

Other team members include Heather McCullough, 15, of Ohio, Kevin Crumpler, 16, of Maryland, and Kristi Fowler, 17, of Alabama. Adult member, Bill Stockburger of Norfolk, Va. said he has done seven workcamps and plans to continue.

"These are unbelievable," Stockburger said. "You get to meet wonderful people. I like to do things for my faith and not just talk about it. People need to do more and talk less."

tants, gauged the county's business environment and addressed employer needs. The survey was distributed to 514 county businesses of which 98 responded generating a 19 percent response rate.

Among key findings on the survey, 91 percent rated the county as an excellent place to do business; 80 percent expect sales to grow within the next year; 63 percent expect employment levels to rise; 54 percent found that the local workforce is not adequate for their company's needs. According to the survey, business leaders are also concerned about the lack of workforce training and education, as well as poor work ethic.

In response to concerns about the workforce, attendee Larry Strickler, regional manager for BellSouth and a former county school board member, praises Hagerly's comments and agreed with the superintendent's appraisal of the school and business environment.

Realism

In the character of Annie Sullivan, for and against worked for the same purpose as she wanted to have Helen Keller join rightly with the world. Annie was passionately against any coddling of Helen, any false protecting of her, including from her family, that would continue to keep her imprisoned within herself. And Annie was also unrelentingly for Helen learning words, their value and meaning. She knew words were Helen's life-line and through learning them she was going to be truly full of possibilities, because despite tremendous obstacles, she wanted to learn about the world and she succeeded. Today Helen Keller is seen as an important woman in history.

The students in Miss Richard's class had large emotions seeing that the opposites of for and against are not only in literature, but also have to do with choices they make everyday about school, their families, work, each other. As they saw the need to be for and against accurately, including giving an exact form to their anger at economic injustice, is emergent in everything they do, and is the means of knowing themselves, and therefore worthy of learning. This is evidence for the mighty fact, which Aesthetic Realism alone teaches--contempt will be defeated when students see the world has a structure that can honestly be liked and respected.

It is heartbreaking and wrong that in our bountiful land, people endure unbearable living conditions, forcing children to live in shelters and to come to school hungry, cold and tired. What every child in America deeply wants to feel is given beautiful form by Ellen Reiss, the Class Chairman of Aesthetic Realism, in the international journal The Right of Aesthetic Realism to Be Known #1255:

"...The purpose of our minds, Mr. Stegel showed, is to like the world. It is a purpose that wants to win in (a) Brooklyn girl, despite the horrible poverty and the trouble she has already endured. The most beautiful thing in mind--her mind--is the desire to feel, 'Things and people outside of me are as real and full as I am! I want to try to know the world, have it truly and accurately within me; that way I will really be myself. And I want to see things, people, facts so justly that my seeing will add to the beauty of the world.'"

This urgent, kind purpose is being attained in New York City classrooms right now, as the teachers told of their unprecedented results. The boredom and restlessness which many children began the school year with, including asking the question teachers dread hearing "Why do we have to learn this?" changed to a lively interest in things. We heard how students became kinder. The fighting, name calling, including racial slurs, stopped as they saw more meaning in each other. They are now more hopeful about their lives and their futures because they are learning the central purpose of what education is for "To like the world through knowing it."

As a teacher of physical education and health for 19 years, I, Rhonda Rosenthal, have seen the urgent need for the Aesthetic Realism teaching method. Through seeing how the aesthetic structure of the world is in the sports they care for and in the subjects that affect their daily lives, such as mental health and nutrition, my students, like those told of in the seminar, learn and become kinder.

This great education is taught at the Aesthetic Realism Foundation, a not-for-profit educational foundation, located at 141 Greene Street, New York, NY 10012. Tel: (212)777-4490. Aesthetic Realism is taught in classes, and individual consultations, in person and via telephone, throughout America and abroad.

Sincerely,
Rhonda Rosenthal

Thought I'd heard it all

After 27 years as a public school teacher, guidance counselor, mental health counselor, and high school administrator, I thought I had heard it all. In the words of a great comedian, "You ain't seen nothin' yet." At a recent Seminole County Chamber of Commerce event at which the school system's role in providing local businesses with competent employees was discussed, Dr. Paul Hagerly, superintendent of Seminole County Schools demeaned and diminished the value of every employee in the school system. A school system for which he is the designated leader and standard-bearer.

Every critic of the public schools must be leaping for joy by his shortsighted, asthmatic statements, such as: "Industry mistakenly thinks that a high school diploma means something...it doesn't now and never has." "The diploma is little more than evidence that a student stayed in one place for four years."

If the high school program is simply a holding area for unschooled teen-agers for four years, why do we need a six-figure salary superintendent? A recent newspaper article describes a work force lacking interpersonal skills, poor reading and writing skills and a poor work ethic. The solution according to the superintendent is for industry to develop training that will teach students what they need to succeed at work. And then the classic Pontius Pilate response, "I wash my hands of the problem." Hagerly states, "the challenge isn't for the school system, it's for the business community."

The business community is the victim of Dr. Hagerly's failure to provide a learned, skilled, responsible, challenged work force. I suggest the School Board of Seminole County look inward, get its own house and leadership in order, and then dialogue responsibly with the business community.

Greatest country on Earth?

Independence Day has become, especially for many of our younger citizens, simply a time for fireworks and firewater. In an effort to educate my young daughter about the true meaning of the Fourth of July celebration, I set her on my proverbial knee and gave her a brief historical account of the founding of these United States.

I shared with her the sentiment that this is the greatest country on earth. "Are you sure?", she asked. To her six year old mind, there are enough serious problems in this country to give her pause in passing such judgment. "There are lots of people who throw trash on the ground," she continued, "and its not really very safe."

Indeed. From the mouths of babes... As we continued our talk, we discussed the role of everyday citizens in making the American Dream a reality. Our country was founded on high ideals, but like the blue prints of a great building they are nothing but a dream without caring individuals who are willing to place brick to mortar. It takes commitment and dedication from ordinary people to make those ideals a reality.

As my daughter grows, she will undoubtedly find other reasons to doubt the validity of our claim to greatness: racism, poverty, war.

She will also come to know the work of millions of ordinary Americans who, in the course of their everyday lives do a little extra to make this country great. People who show compassion for their fellow man. People who are builders, not destroyers. People who give without taking.

I am convinced that if we all do our part, we can make this country so great that there will never again be a child who responds to the question, "Do you think there is someplace better?", with the reply, "I'm not sure Daddy, but there might be."

Closing costs vary

Special to the Herald
SANFORD—Closing on a new home should be an exciting time. But to some, it ends with a big—often unwelcome—surprise. According to a recent study conducted by Management Consultant, Dove Associates, Boston, Mass., one out of every four homebuyers is surprised during their closing. About 55 percent of the surprises are due to unexpected cost increases.
"Closing costs are one of the least understood aspects of the home buying process," said Steve Jenn, regional vice president for the Sanford area of Norwest Mortgages Inc., the nation's leading provider of home mortgages. "However a good lender will take the time to answer questions and walk you through the process."
Closing costs tend to vary from lender to lender, but are generally considered any costs associated with the purchase of a new home. Today, these costs range between 2 percent and 7 percent of the home's purchase price and include three basic categories: 1) out-of-pocket expenses; 2) prepaid items; and 3) mortgage points.
Out-of-pocket expenses are fees for appraisals, attorneys, credit reports, deed recording, tax services and other miscellaneous expenses. These fees are for services usually performed by a third party and directly charged to the borrower.
"Most out-of-pocket fees are necessary and legitimate," Jenn said. "However, whenever the borrower sees a fee which they don't understand, they should ask about it."

Homeowner's insurance, mortgage insurance and costs to set up an escrow account are considered prepaid expenses. Escrow accounts are a service provided by the lender through which they will pay annual insurance premiums and various taxes on the borrower's behalf. The amount that goes into these accounts is based on the first year's premiums, plus an additional amount to help build the account for future premiums. Prepaid expenses are difficult to determine because they vary with the type of property and the time of the closing.
Jenn said a mortgage point is equal to 1 percent of the mortgage loan amount and is actually an adjustment to yield that helps reduce the interest rate.
For example, a $100,000 mortgage can be obtained at 7.75 percent with two points or 8.25 percent and no points. The lower interest rate cuts the mortgage payment about $35 per month, but demands an additional $2,000 (mortgage points) at closing.

Creative advertising reaches out

By KELLIE WEAVER
Herald Staff Writer

Advertising is one of the most expensive and important aspects of any business. Local business owner, Doug Patterson, has found a solution to this problem.
Driveby Broadcasting/DJ is the advertising wave of the future and Patterson is the only person in the state who distributes the ingenious product.
"I heard about the advertising idea through a fax that I received," Patterson explained. "I was skeptical at first, but after contacting the company and learning about Driveby Broadcasting/DJ, I realize that this is the way all advertising will be done in the future."
So, what is the newest way to advertise and how does it work?
Since there are hundreds of available stations on the radio that are not being used, there is a lot of advertising space available over the airwaves. Basically, Driveby Broadcasting/DJ utilizes this open arena and allows customers to advertise their service or product.
Advertisers record a message of up to three minutes into a low powered radio unit and plug it into any outlet. The unit loops the message so that it repeats over and over and transmits the advertisement to whatever open radio station the customer has chosen up to a three-quarter mile radius. The message can be changed as often as the advertiser likes.

The only other thing the advertiser needs to do is place a sign in front of their business to let passers by know what station to tune in on their radio to hear the message.
Instead of paying huge advertising bills on a regular basis, business owners can take advantage of 24-hour radio advertising for a one-time investment of about $2,000.
"The initial investment seems a little steep, but when you think about all of the money that is spent on advertising in other areas, the unit more than pays for itself within a short time," Patterson said.
Strip malls and businesses that have several stores or vendors can even purchase the radio unit and rent out air time to the other retailers. The unit will store many messages and simply repeat the different three-minute blocks in the loop.
Driveby Broadcasting/DJ has already caught on in many other states. Theaters used the advertising device to promote the movie Batman Forever. Also, schools have used it to keep their communities up to date on school events.

Doug Patterson has found an alternative to expensive advertising with Driveby Broadcasting/DJ.

"I am real excited about this business venture," Patterson said. "I am ready to get out of the business I'm in and I truly believe that this is going to be the way everyone does their advertising in the near future. Right now, advertisers will get a lot of response because it is new and people will want to check it out. Then the convenience and reachability of the advertising will keep people tuning in."
With technology constantly improving and upgrading the advertising industry is finding a way to use the improvements to help their customers reach more people in a more cost effective way. Driveby Broadcasting/DJ is just another way of doing just that.

Does business have what it takes?

In the course of my weekly counseling sessions, I am often called upon to give an opinion about the proposed business. What many people don't realize is that in many cases I am factoring into my judgment about the business with my feelings about their suitability. What I mean by their suitability, is do they have the drive and talent to make it succeed?
I have seen successful ideas succeed and great ideas fail because of the human factors. Most small business owners work extremely hard and very long hours. Their families are called upon to make many sacrifices of time, money and personal relationships. Nothing is sadder than to go charging off to pursue your dream and to turn around and discover that no one is there to enjoy it with you. So this first factor you must consider is how will the business affect my family and are they willing to accommodate it.
Second, you need to do a very detailed assessment of

Small Business
your own strengths and weaknesses. The fantasy of being your own boss is a very seductive lure. But can you handle the stress that goes with it? Suppliers will call you at home looking for payment. The IRS will seize your personal accounts to settle business taxes in some extreme cases. The bank you got the loan from will come against your personal assets if you personally guaranteed the loan (almost everyone is required to).
Can you live without any money coming from the business for the first 6-12 months in spite of good sales? You have to pour all earnings right back into the company.

As you tough enough to get up when you are sick and still open up and work a full day? Small businesses don't have sick leave or vacations for owners until many years down the line.
Can you handle being sued for any number of things including things beyond your control? In today's society any real or imagined damage to the public results in legal action in many cases. You can be sued for anything, no matter how outrageous.
Are you a manager? Can you motivate and organize your employees to achieve? If not, perhaps a one person business is more suited for you. Can you deal with conflict? Small business requires its owners to race and successfully deal with conflict on a daily basis.
Nothing is as exciting as putting it all on the line and opening a small business. The energy boost that comes from knowing that it is all up to you is amazing. The ability to see your decisions put into action immediately is fantastic. But you must honestly ask yourself if you are suited for the responsibilities that go with it.

Book turns novice into home repair pro

Special to the Herald
Leaking faucets, broken window panes and cracked walls are just a few of the common problems that try the patience and pocketbooks of homeowners and renters. Most of these problems are too small to justify calling in a contractor. So they remain undone and a constant source of inconvenience and irritation.
However, a new book by a nonprofit consumer group, shows that most of these repairs are easier than they appear to be and within the ability of almost anyone. The book presumes the reader has no knowledge at all about doing home repairs. It provides simple step-by-step, clear, precise directions, with hundreds of illustrations that can make a person who considers himself "all thumbs" into a competent do-it-yourselfer. Its the next best thing to having an in-person expert going through the repair with you.
For those who are novices, the book starts with a picture of each tool, nail and screw necessary and an explanation of how and when they are used. What to look for in diagnosing a repair problem, the tools and particular materials you'll need to fix it and how to go about it all are simply stated with easy-to-understand drawings.

In addition to faucets, window panes and walls, the booklet has information on simple electrical repairs, how to fix screens and storm windows, plumbing and masonry repairs and even instructions on hanging pictures and shelves.
This book will definitely save you money on repair bills. In fact, many of these jobs can be done in less time than it requires to locate a competent repairman willing to do the work.
SMALL HOME REPAIRS MADE EASY can be obtained by sending $5.95 (plus $1.50 p & H) to Consumer Education, 1980 Springfield Ave., Maplewood, NJ 07040.

Charging is no longer limited just to hoops

Lately, the baseball highlights on SportsCenter have resembled NHL hockey highlights. The typical scenario is, superstar hits a 500-foot homer off journeyman pitcher.

Journeyman pitcher is so offended by the moonshot that, to keep the next batter "honest," he fires his following pitch at the next batter's head.

The batter charges the mound and, unfortunately, never gets near the pitcher who couldn't do his job as well as the batter.

Both players receive a four-game suspension which means four games are missed by the everyday player at the plate and the suspension ends right at the time the pitcher's next start rolls around.

Of course, the barbarian on the mound is completely justified for throwing at the batter. How dare the batter have the nerve to go deep on the journeyman's best 80-mile-an-hour fastball?

In fact, it reminds me of an incident that happened right here, in the sports cave recently.

I spent an entire half-hour researching a big story on some jayvee badminton team and thought I put a pretty good effort into the next day's edition.

Imagine my shock when I opened up the rival newspaper the next day and saw, right up there in 600-point pica, a banner headline, "SANFORD GOES BATTY OVER BADMINTON!"

Under a byline of Stanley Slantinel, the article led off with, "Birdies are being flipped everywhere."

Dammit, why couldn't I have come up with that?

How dare Stanley Slantinel make me look bad when my best wasn't good enough.

I rallied up the Sanford Herald staff and decided to do something about it.

We charged after the rival newspaper.

I saw Slantinel standing there with a smug, "I didn't mean to," look on his face and went after him. I was temporarily restrained by one of his editors but broke free and was about to...well, I didn't know what I was going to do, but, for God's sake, he did his job better than I did!

Obviously, I had to keep Slantinel "honest."

I finally reached him and fired some choice pronouns at him but he fought back with some uncomplimentary adjectives.

Now I was mad!

Just as I was about to reach for my thesaurus, Slantinel and I were mobbed by about 50 co-workers from each side. Slantinel and I were covered up quickly as the insults started flying everywhere and we were reduced to nothing more than a few one-syllable nouns.

All over the newsroom, pressmen were slinging non-sequiturs at each other and our receptionist even got into a verb-clearing brawl with her counterpart.

Eventually, the whole ugly situation was settled when our hired goons out-synonymed their

Sanford All-Stars put on a display against Old-Stars

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — The young pups ran the old dogs ragged at Zinn Beck Field on Wednesday evening.

The 16-year-old All-Star team that will represent Sanford at the Florida Babe Ruth Baseball Babe Ruth Division State Tournament next weekend in the Ocala played almost flawless baseball in beating a group of Sanford Recreation Department employees and Babe Ruth coaches 18-1 in the second annual Food and Fun Exhibition.

The All-Stars' offense came up with 12 hits, including six doubles, and a quartet of pitchers combined on a one-hitter, striking out nine and walking six.

The game was set up for the All-Stars to get a chance to play a game together before the state tournament, but it was also used as a fund raiser. Prior to the game, and all during it, barbecue plates as well as other food stuffs were on sale with the proceeds ticketed to help offset the All-Stars' expenses in the state tournament, and hopefully beyond.

While some money was raised, this will all go to the 16-year-old team. Sanford will also be sending a 17- and 18-year-old team to the state tournament, also in Ocala on the same weekend, and more funds are needed to make it a better trip.

Anyone who can contribute something to help the boys on the two teams, please contact the Sanford Recreation Department at 330-5697 starting on Monday.

The 16-year-old All-Star team and the 17-18 year-old All-Star team will square off in another exhibition game at Zinn Beck Field on Monday starting at 5:45 p.m.

The Old-Stars took the initial lead in the game in the top of the first inning as, with one out, Anton Grooms singled, stole second.

Construction closes Farm 13-Stick Marsh

SANFORD — The Farm 13/Stick Marsh Reservoir near Melbourne will be closed to the public for improvement of boating access facilities.

Closure of the reservoir is tentatively scheduled during July through December, but actual construction should take only 120 days. Anglers planning a trip to Farm 13 should call the St. Johns River Water Management District (SJRWMD) at (904)329-4404 for information on access to the reservoir.

The Army Corps of Engineers cooperated with the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) and the SJRWMD on the project design. The Corps will oversee the construction of permanent restrooms, fishing pier, boat launch staging area, improved parking area and landscaping.

OUTDOORS

JIM SHUPE

Farm 13/Stick Marsh is a 6,500-acre impoundment in northwest Indian River County and is known as one of the best bass fishing areas in Florida. The reservoir is part of the SJRWMD Upper St. Johns River Basin restoration program.

SHUPE'S SCOOP

STICK MARSH IS THE HOTTEST BIG BASS SPOT IN THE ENTIRE STATE. IT IS CATCH-AND-RELEASE FISHING. SO TAKE ALONG A CAMERA TO RECORD YOUR CATCH.

FISHING FORECAST

Bass fishing will continue to be low through September. Air and water temperatures will have to cool in order for bass to become more active. Puzzle Lake still remains one of the top picks because the water is low and bass are contained to the narrow river channel. Bream and catfish will continue to bite worms and mussels throughout the summer.

Sebastian Inlet has great catch-and-release snook fishing. Live shrimp and one-ounce jigs are the most popular offerings. A few redfish, flounder, sea trout and jack crevalle can also be caught around the rocks. Snook and tarpon are also present in good numbers back in the Sebastian River.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports great offshore action. King mackerel, cobia and dolphin are roaming A-Reef and Pelican Flats. The water is very clean, so don't venture too far offshore. Tripletail are biting in the buoy line while flounder and sheepshead are hitting in the Port. Trout and redfish are rated as good on the flats of the Banana and Indian Rivers.

Sheepshead and small bluefish dominate the action at Ponce Inlet. A few redfish, drum, bluefish and jack crevalle are also present. Live or dead shrimp is the favorite bait. The tip of the north jetty is the best spot. Redfish and trout are rated as good in Mosquito Lagoon.

Good food, good fun

Part of the reason for playing Wednesday's exhibition game was to raise funds to help support the All-Stars when they play in the state tournament in Ocala next week. Doing the cooking (above, left to right) were Jimmy Milam, All-Star manager Ken Erickson and umpire Tommy Raines. Trying out the cooks' hard work (right) was Albert Scutt, who gets his change from Laura Erickson.

moved to third on a grounder by Darryn Lopez and scored on a throwing error. The All-Stars tied the game in the bottom of the second inning as Michael Robinson reached on an error and stole second. Freddie Hawkins Jr. and Justin Erickson both bunted for singles to load the bases and Robinson scored on a perfect suicide squeeze bunt by Danny Coulter.

The All-Stars took their first, and last, lead in the third inning as Tug Daniels singled with one out, moved all the way to third on a ground out by Joe Watson and scored on a passed ball.

The All-Stars took control of the game in the fourth inning as they plated six runs. Robinson singled and Freddie Hawkins Jr., Erickson and Tony Reyes all walked to force in a run. Coulter again squeezed home a run and another crossed the plate on a throwing error trying to get Coulter at first.

After a pop up, Daniels double home a run and Watson followed with another run to bring home the fifth and sixth runs of the frame.

The game then turned into a rout in the fifth inning as the All-Stars came up with 10 runs.

Daniels had a two-run double. Erickson, Robinson and Hawkins each had an RBI double. Reyes had an RBI single and Andrew Brown had a sacrifice fly during the outburst.

Contributing for the All-Stars, which are coached by Ken Erickson, were Tug Daniels (two doubles, one single, three runs scored), Michael Robinson (one double, one single, four runs scored, one RBI), Justin Erickson (one double, one single, two runs scored, one RBI) and Freddie Hawkins Jr. (one double, one single, two runs scored).

Also contributing were Joe Watson (one double, one run scored, two RBIs), Tony Reyes (one single, one run scored, two RBIs), Randy Casey (one single, one run scored), Danny Coulter (one run scored, two RBIs), Barry Porter Jr. (two runs scored), Joe Perry (one run scored) and Andrew Brown (one RBI). Jason Scutt also played for the All-Stars.

Providing the offense for the Old-Stars were Anton Grooms (one single, one walk, one run scored), Robert Smith (one walk, one hit by a pitch) and Danny Lopez, Durrell Riggins, Miguel Coronado and Jim Schaefer (one walk each).

Also playing for the Old-Stars were Kenny Daniels, Dean Smith, Chris Green, H.G. Webb, Freddie Hawkins Sr., Barry Porter Sr., Jimmy Milam and Jimmy Bonomo.

Timacuan keeps on improving

Timacuan just keeps getting better and better.

Not only is the course in great shape and as challenging, yet accessible as ever, but it is also one of the best courses in the country for its practice facilities.

Start off with the practice green. The speed is true to the other 18 on the course and there are enough putting holes to avoid the crowds that can clog up other greens.

The greens undulate at parts and right next to the Timacuan "19th hole."

Right across the street is Timacuan's new pride and joy, the chipping facility. A slightly beaten up green (practice your putting across the street) is surrounded by a large chipping area with small hills and varying cuts of rough. There are also two large sand traps to work on the short game. Once again, the facility is large enough to avoid overcrowding and, for now, is usually empty enough to ensure a quality practice session.

Walk a short 60 degree wedge to the right for the Timacuan driving range. Instructors are plentiful, a large body-length mirror awaits for anyone trying to detect a flaw in the swing, and plenty of markers are arranged to practice very shot.

The course is in almost as good a shape as it was last November when it reopened. Florida's summer sun can do a lot of damage to any track but Timacuan is holding up quite well.

If you've played it since the reopening, try it again while the rates are lower for the summer and if you haven't played it yet, head out to Lake Mary soon.

Chip Shots

Timacuan Golf and Country Club's Mike Bender recently finished with half of a $1,200 paycheck after a strong finish at the Alachua Country Club's Top Flight/North Florida PGA Two-Man Team Championship. He teamed with Will Frantz of the Country Club of Ocala.

Alachua Country Club has joined the ranks of the many golf courses in the area offering junior clinics. A large group of Tiger Woods and Karrie Webb wannabees are expected to be on hand for the Alachua clinics, open to boys and girls aged 7-17, for the three-day clinic July 15-17. Cost is $100 per session.

The camp will be limited to 30 players and will be coordinated by Gary Ellis, Director of Golf Operations at Alachua.

Sweetwater Country Club will be the site of this week's Central Florida Junior Inter-Club championship event on Tuesday at 4 p.m. The tournaments consist of six to eight players from each participating club, providing two members are girls.

Lake Brantley High School's Jeff Corr was named a finalist for the Class 6A golfer of the year honors as voted by the Florida Athletic Coaches Association. Another former Lake Brantley golfer, Jeff Corr scored a hole-in-one on the 15th hole to win the Florida Junior Invitational at Mission Inn Resort.

Corr finished second last year and took a four-shot lead with three to play after the ace. He fired a final-round 71 to notch the win.

DORIS DIETRICH

Saxon cited for 50-years in sorority

There are all kinds of golden celebrations — wedding, employment, business and class reunions to name a few.

But a Sanford woman holds the distinction of being a 50-year member of an organization, an accomplishment about which probably only a precious few can boast. Jane Saxon is very proud that she has been a member of Beta Sigma Phi for 50 years. She joined the sorority in June, 1947 in Annapolis, Md. her home at the time.

Jane was later to marry her husband, Bruce, a Navy man, while she was employed at the United States Naval Academy. She told about when they were transferred to Chula Vista, Calif. where they didn't know a single soul. She made contact with a Beta Sigma member there who took over, showed them the ropes and assisted them in finding a home. Jane made a friend and sister for life.

She cited similar stories about Beta Sigmas she has encountered on her travels during the years. "No matter where you go, you meet friends," she said. "It's a tie there. It's intangible — but it's there."

The Saxons lived in Pine Crest from 1955-1959 when Bruce was stationed at Sanford Naval Air Station. They moved away, but returned 18 years ago and have been in Sanford since.

Jane has created her niche in the Sanford community. Her lovely soprano singing voice has been heard in a number of choruses including the Sanford Woman's Club Chorus. Also, she currently sings in the choir of Grace Methodist Church in Lake Mary.

Her artistic talents branch over into intricate quilting creations which have won her blue ribbons in the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs Arts and Crafts Festivals. Jane is also a member of the Order of Eastern Star in Annapolis.

Jane credits Pat Brooks and Connie Williams with taking her under their wings when she and Bruce came to Sanford. "They helped through the transition," she said.

At the recent Beta Sigma Phi Founder's Day Reunion, Jane was presented a bouquet of yellow roses from Helen Hamner, president of the Sanford Beta Sigma Phi City Council. The yellow rose is the flower of the national sorority.

What makes the sisterhood of Beta Sigma Phi so special to Jane?

"It's the closeness," she said. "You truly make dear, lifelong friends."

MARIAN STARTS FIFTH TERM AS PRESIDENT

Marian Rethwill has been installed as the president of the Sanford Pilot Club. Marian is bound to make a good president. She's had lots of experience. This will make her fifth term as the club president.

Serving as the president of one organization is enough for the ordinary person. But not Marian. As vice president of the United Methodist Churchwomen of the First United Methodist Church of Sanford, she was advanced to the helm due to the death of Lottie Echols, president.

How is Marian going to handle all this and her other obligations?

"I'm going to need all the help I can get," she said. Marian sings in the church choir and recently took leave from the church's Carillon Ringers, a rousing bell ensemble. She also sings in Seminole Community College's Community Chorus where the chorus is currently rehearsing "The Messiah."

As the Pilot president, Marian is the official delegate to the Pilot International Convention to be held in Hawaii this month. She and her co-pilot, Lester, are getting their bags packed to head to the tropical paradise where they plan to convene and spend time with friends.

Upon their return, the Rethwills will pack up their motor home and head for Minnesota to visit family and friends. They plan to visit Maggie Valley, N.C., and other points en route.

Pilot Club ends year presenting awards, leading installation

Special to the Herald

The Pilot Club of Sanford convened on June 17 for its final Sky's the Limit Hot Air Balloon Trip and meeting of the year.

It was an exciting evening for presenting awards and installation of officers.

Perfect attendance awards were presented to seven members: Mary Jo Cochran, Ruth Gaines, Mae Pawlson, Marian Rethwill, Atha Sanders, Doris Stein and Bonnie Wolf.

Atha Sanders was honored as "Pilot of the Year" presented by the 1996 recipient, Bonnie Wolf.

Highlights of the year were reflected with the Sanford Herald, Sanford Orlando Kennel Club and RSVP receiving certificates of appreciation for their support of the club.

President Ruth Gaines expressed thanks to officers and members with a presentation of the newly published booklet "Florida District Pilot History."

Incoming president Marian Rethwill presented the past president's pin and a memories scrapbook.

Doris Stein conducted the 57th installation of officers ceremony using a patriotic theme. She thanked the outgoing officers and presented each with an American flag decorated with red or white carnations. Stein also read the Pilot Code of Ethics and concluded the ceremony with an installation prayer.

The 1997-98 officers are: Marian Rethwill, president; Mary Jo Cochran, vice president; Atha Sanders, secretary; Carol Sprouse, treasurer; and Ruth Gaines, Bonnie Wolf and Desiree Tucker, directors.

It was officially announced that Florida District Governor's theme of the lighthouse: Pilot Guide to Friendship and Service was accomplished with a Georganna Mullis painting of Florida East Coast of Aerial Light.

Also the evening's program cover sketch of a lighthouse was designed by Doris Stein's grandson, Layne Stein, an accomplished artist.

On June 23, Rethwill and Stein attended the 61st installation dinner of the Pilot Club of Orlando Winter Park.

For more than 50 years the Pilot Club of Sanford has been instrumental in initiating and promoting numerous community projects. Annually the club presents educational scholarships, helps the deserving in the community and member Doris Stein has been chairman of naturalization

Central Florida Lady Magic to host national play-offs

Central Florida Lady Magic Basketball Team of 13-year-old girls will host the national play-offs of teams from throughout the nation. The play-offs will be held July 11-18 at the Walt Disney Sports Complex in Orlando.

The Central Florida Lady Magic Basketball Team will be playing other outstanding teams. Lady Magic had a season this year of 16-4 and were runners up at the state play-offs held in Tampa.

The team is coached by Mike Mitchell and Joe Heasley. These men were asked to coach this team of girls who want to play basketball, and not just stand around on street corners, talking and getting into trouble.

One of the Central Florida Lady Magic players is Kawanza Thompson of Orlando, better known by her teammates as K-K. She is a multi position player and says she is happy to have the opportunity to play on a team with so many talented young girls who love the sport. The sport is a great self-esteem builder to her. K-K doesn't live with her family, but she says she is glad to be a part of a loving, caring family, her god parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Johnson, who also have other kids.

K-K says she would like to play for the lady's NBA team that she watches on TV. She is presently a 9th grader at Edgewater, after attending Pace Center, an alternative school.

After seeing these Lady Magic play with Theresa Blount, Genesis Chorce, averaging 15 points per game, they will indeed be a winner at the Nationals.

This team of Lady Magic needs sponsors to help them attend the 8 days of National Play-offs in Orlando. They are in need of hotel rooms, fees to play, food and most of all the Sanford, Orlando, Winter Park, Altamonte, Longwood area well wishers to support, attend and cheer them on.

Other players are Matta Mitchell, Jackie Harris, Jamala Mitchell of Sanford; Toya Smith, Kawanza Thompson, Theresa Blount, Genesis Chorce of Orlando; Jodi Gregory, Longwood; Holly Aracich, Winter Park and Celeste Hudson, Altamonte.

Hobbyist of the Week

Country jewelry is crafter's niche

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY--For over five years Barbara Gorman has enjoyed relaxing with her hobby of crafts and creating treasures that have generated a large following of local folks as well as those in other areas. Family and friends have benefited too with gifts for Christmas and birthdays. But Gorman says it gives her so much joy in creating that knowing how much others love the crafts has added a deeper dimension to the work itself.

Her initial interest in the craft world began with counted cross stitch. Later a few friends wanted to take a toll painting class so she began her trip into other avenues through her new found skill.

"I now have a craft partner that makes a lot of things with me," she said. "We do a lot of shows together too. For about four or five years now we have done the Longwood art festival. For four years we have been in the Oviedo show and last year was our first year at Lake Eola. We've tried a lot of other shows, but have settled on these three."

Gorman has also made her crafts available at numerous craft stores in the area. Presently she sells some pieces at Back Door Crafts on First Street in downtown Sanford.

"We've tried the wholesale market," she said. "I advertised in Folk Art Treasures magazine. We had a sales representative last year to market our crafts. We also show our work at the Eustis Christmas House that is open six weeks each year."

Gorman told that one of the favorites among the public is their tin can Santas. "We took Barbara Gorman surrounded by her crafts on display at Back Door Crafts in Sanford.

100 to the Oviedo show and by noon they were gone. People seem to like recycled things. They seem to like something different. We paint bowling pins to look like Santas, penguins or soldiers. We make ornaments out of oyster shells. My partner and I have a texture that we have come up with and we use it on a lot of our work. It's our secret though. A lot of other crafters want to know how we do it."

She continued by saying, "We all have to find our niche. I've found my niche is country jewelry. I make watermelons, apples, cats, schoolhouses or patchwork. I make a lot of them in the shape of hearts. Sometimes I make them upside down or right side up. I always make a necklace, earrings and a pin to match. I have 16 designs that are all my own."

Decorating large straw hats by painting and decorating with flowers such as sunflowers or such is another favorite. Gorman mentioned that it was a real thrill when she was driving down Mellonville Avenue one day and saw a straw hat wreath she had made hanging on someone's door.

Due to some medical problems, Gorman has gotten a bit behind on the inventory and volume of work that she likes to keep, but has solicited the help of friends to do some detail work to get ahead again. She tends to pay them with some of her own creations.

"I also make crafts and give them as door prizes every year at our church's luncheon," she said. "I really like to share my crafts. I also love going to the shows and getting to meet the people."

Besides her crafts, Gorman has been employed full-time with the Seminole County Tax Collector's Office as an accounting clerk. She formerly worked for the City of Lake Mary Water Department for eight years.

She was previously a member of the Lake Mary Historical Commission. She has also been a member of Celebration Church in Lake Mary since 1979.

Her grandparents built one of the first houses on a Lake Mary lake. She has been a lifelong resident of Lake Mary.

Gorman is the mother of three children, Donnie, Jason and Rhonda, and has five grandchildren.

Girl Scouts visit Spain, learn safety

During their What in the World? day camp in early June Girl Scouts visited a different country every day. Thursday was Spain and an opportunity to earn the Hispanic culture patch. Safe Kids of Greater Orlando and the Seminole County Fire Department also came out to teach the girls about safety.

Laurie Olson from Safe Kids borrowed children from the audience to demonstrate seat belt safety. The problem with seat belts, she said, is that they're all designed to fit a 5'11" man. So women and children must be careful and must make changes. There are devices parents can buy to make sure a seat belt fits properly. Legally, children must be wearing seat belts in a car. A relatively new law also states that it is illegal for children to ride in the back of a truck. The Seminole County Fire Department brought one of their fire trucks out. They explained all the different equipment and even let the girls sit in the driver's seat.

In Spain, the children play many games similar to ones Americans play. The scouts played Simon Dice (Simon Says) and Bocce. Bocce is a game that dates back to the Egyptians, was adopted by the Greeks and Romans, and is very popular in Spain. It is said that bowling owes its existence to Bocce.

The scouts learned to count to 10 in Spanish and they also learned a few expressions. Mexico owes its language and much of its culture to Spain. As part of the Hispanic culture patch, the girls made colorful tissue paper flowers, a traditional craft of Mexico. They also learned Nearika, a yarn painting. Instead of using paint, you use different colors of yarn.

Next week, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and an international luncheon.

Dan Whitney inspects Travis Johnson's bike.

CUB SCOUTS LEARN BICYCLE SAFETY

If you're riding your bike on the sidewalk, does it matter which side you ride on? Yes, it does, as Cub Scout Pack 529 learned on Saturday, June 28th. The pack had gathered for one of their monthly meetings to earn their bicycle belt loop, one of the many recognition's cub scouts can earn.

Dan Whitney met the boys in the K-Mart parking lot to teach them the rudiments of bicycle safety and inspect their bikes. Even if you're riding on the sidewalk, you should always ride with the traffic, assuming, of course, there are sidewalks on both sides of the street. Dan also taught the scouts the proper way to signal a turn.

All the boys knew about the new Florida law requiring all children under the age of 15 to wear helmets when riding their bicycles. All the scouts brought their bikes and their helmets. Unfortunately, many of the boys were wearing their helmets incorrectly, something a lot of children do. They were wearing them on the back of the head. To be effective a helmet must fit over your forehead.

Dan showed the scouts some of the new helmets that have been designed for children. They are practically fool proof. The only mistake wearing them is not tightening the strap properly.

Take care of your bike is also important for safety. A bike with improperly inflated tires can lead slower reactions on curves, which can lead to crashes. Tires should be checked often. Bicycle tires need to be inflated to a higher pressure than car tires, and loose more air than car tires. The inflation for the average car tire is 35 pounds. For the average street bike 40 to 60 pounds. (More for mountain bikes.) But, just like car tires, bicycle tires should tell you on the side the proper inflation. And just like car tires, properly inflated bike tires last longer.

The last thing Dan did was to inspect the bike of every one of the scouts and siblings present and explain any problems that needed to be fixed. Pack 529's

DEPT. OF LABOR HAS NEW NUMBER

The Department of Labor and Employment Security in Tallahassee has a new 1-800-578-1547, Doug Jamerson, Secretary of the Department of Labor and Employment Security has the 800 number for the public to gain access to the information on wages, work and to gain economic self-sufficiency and the agency's WorkPay 8 for Florida Business Campaign. Wages is Florida's welfare reform program that emphasizes obtaining employment.

"The 800 number is a great addition to the services the department provides the public," said Jamerson. "People will need information on welfare reform and we want to provide them with answers to all of their questions as quickly as possible."

The WorkPay 8 for Florida Business Campaign builds on Florida's welfare reform law, enacted last year, by providing incentives for Florida businesses to hire welfare participants. Through this toll free number, employers can find out more about WorkPay 8 and the incentives available to them.

Over 38,000 people have entered the work force since October, it is a working success. The toll free number was established to respond to inquiries from anyone interested in learning more about WAGES. This number is available Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m.

Sister who wants piano returned strikes sour note

DEAR ABBY: Seven years ago, my sister called and offered me her piano. She told me none of her children wanted it, she was moving, and there was no room for it in her new place. Since I love to play the piano and am quite good at it, I said yes immediately.

I have moved twice since I had the piano. It is very heavy, and the second time I moved, I had to pay a piano mover to move it. In October of '96, my mother passed away. Then in December of '96, my other sister passed away, and I've been sick for quite a while myself.

Last February, the sister who gave me the piano called out of the blue and told me she wanted her piano back because her granddaughter was taking piano lessons and needed it so she could practice. I hadn't heard from her for quite a while, and it upset me that she had called not to inquire about my health, but to ask me to return something she had given me seven years ago.

She insists that she told me seven years ago that she was giving me the piano with the stipulation that if one of her children or grandchildren should decide some time in the future that they wanted to play, I would return it. My feeling is that it was inconsiderate of her to ask for the piano back, when she knew I was sick and depressed, regardless of any stipulation under which she might have given it to me. I explained to her that due to chronic fatigue and depression, I haven't been able to keep my house in order and that she could have someone come for the piano after I am well enough to straighten up my place.

I am writing to you because I would like to know if you think my sister was inconsiderate in making her request, or if I am just being overly sensitive about it.

STRESSED OUT, HURT AND CONFUSED, WHITEHALL, PA.

DEAR STRESSED OUT: If you and your sister had not spoken in some time, it is possible that she was unaware that her request was coming at a time when you were sick and depressed. Give her the benefit of the doubt and return the piano.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to "Lucky Lady" — to keep a small flashlight on the nightstand to use in finding her way to the bathroom when in strange surroundings — is fine, if she tells her hosts about it. Otherwise, they might think there's an intruder in their house, and shoot without bothering to ask, "Who goes there?"

MRS. WILLIAM H. SYLL, NEW ORLEANS

DEAR MRS. SYLL: That's good advice. Better to be safe than sorry.

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letters from women complaining about the lack of service they receive at lumberyards and hardware stores because they were female, I had to laugh.

The opposite is true for my husband and me. The secret lies with reverse sex discrimination. I put on makeup and wear a tight T-shirt and never lack for attention. My husband makes me come along with him, just to lure the sales clerks so he can get help.

JANIS IN CAPISTRANO BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR JANIS: Your letter proves that flies are attracted to honeys in tight T-shirts.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ROSIE: Happy Birthday to the most wonderful mother-in-law a person could wish for!

The Crossings: Feeling of unity

By SHARI BRODIE
Herald Staff Writer

It is possibly the largest association of its kind in Seminole County.

The Crossings Master Association oversees the functions of 14 homeowners associations in the community that is The Crossings. These 14 associations regulate the tenants of the deeds for the planned unit developments that include 4,193 total living units in a 1,450 acre area bordered on the east and west by Longwood-Lake Mary Road and Lake Emma Road, and on the north and south by Lake Mary Boulevard and Greenway Boulevard.

Of the 14 associations, three are apartment complexes: Pebble Creek, Colonial Village and Sun Lake. There are 1,577 units in these three complexes.

The community is located in unincorporated Seminole County, but has a Lake Mary address. The total population of The Crossings (total units x 2.5 people per unit) is approximately 10,482, more than the incorporated city that just about envelops the community.

The city of Lake Mary claims 8,206 residents. According to the latest demographics supplied by the Greater Lake Mary-Heathrow Chamber of Commerce, the total population of the 32746 and 32795 ZIP Codes is 24,476, which would put approximately 5,788 residents in the other Lake Mary-addressed community, also in unincorporated Seminole County, Heathrow.

Heathrow, almost Disney-esque in concept, original developer Jeno Paulucci envisioned a self-contained community with the best that the area had to offer. Located on prime Interstate-4 corridor property, the community is not growing up in the way it was originally conceived, but has evolved into the hub of technological business growth for Central Florida, enhanced with one of the most beautiful living areas in the county. The feeling of unity is pervasive in the gated community.

This is what Crossings Mister Association president Brinn Overby wants for The Crossings.

Overby is heading up the effort by the master association to "unify" the communities known as The Crossings, for the first time in the 11 year existence of the master association.

The master association includes Lakewood, Colony Cove, Canterbury condominiums, two Greenwood Lakes associations, Hidden Village condominiums, Lakeview Village, Remington Oaks, The Reserve, Sheffield, Silver Lake, the Highlands, Wyngate, Wynwood and the three apartment complexes.

Within the boundaries of the community, but not included in the master association, are the Brandermill, Raintree, Lakewood Shores and Heron Cove developments.

"I kind of look at it as the United States," says Overby, who not only wants the homeowner associations to work together, but wants to form partnerships with the churches and community organizations located on the perimeter of the neighborhoods. "The eventual goal of the board is to form partnerships with sub-associations and we would like to form partnerships with other entities."

These entities would include companies such as AT&T and Recoton and organizations such as the Northwest Branch of the Seminole County Public Library System, Lake Mary High School, Greenwood Lakes Middle School and the Seminole Family YMCA.

Overby also serves on the board of the YMCA. "The Y's growing up," he says of the current expansion project. "The Crossings is growing up."

The point is that all of these resources are available to residents and they should be used to the benefit of everyone.

The first project of this unification effort is a very visible one. It comes in the form of five sign walls, currently under construction, at locations that will define the boundaries of The Crossings: Greenwood Boulevard and Lake Emma Road, Lake Emma Road and Greenway Boulevard, Greenway Boulevard and Longwood-Lake Mary Road, Longwood-Lake Mary Road and Lake Way Road and on Greenwood Boulevard, just south of Lake Mary Boulevard.

The signs will be of Norwegian brick, mimicking red brick, with black ceramic tile and gold lettering.

The signs will be lighted and creatively landscaped. "This is all homeowners' money," says Overby of the budget being used to build the signs. He hopes that residents will take "pride in ownership," keeping a watchful eye for potential vandalism, as there will be no money for repairs.

The work on the signs should be completed in about three months at which time Overby says there will be an official ribbon cutting.

"We want The Crossings to be as familiar as 'I live in Heathrow,'" says Overby. "You should want to live in The Crossings."

Criteria for schools aired

The Seminole County School Board will have a special work session on Tuesday, July 15 to discuss the selection criteria for the Goldsboro Magnet School, the Northwest and Northeast cluster schools (Midway, Hamilton, Pine Crest, Idyllwild, Wicklow and Wilson elementary schools) and the middle and high school magnet programs.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the school board meeting room at the Educational Support Center, 400 E. Lake Mary Blvd., Sanford.

The work session will include an explanation of preference options, random selection options, International Baccalaureate (IB) program admissions/exit standards and preliminary plans, issues and options related to the proposed middle and high school magnet programs.

Clear Birthday

Sunday, July 6, 1997

In the year ahead, things for which you've long desired have good chances of becoming realities. The more ambitiously you pursue them, the more inclined friends will be to help you fulfill them.

CANCER (June 21-July 23) A trip to the mall could turn out to be fun today because you'll be sensible about your purchases. What you buy could remain among your favorites for a long time. Cancer, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10158. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Today you are likely to be successful at whatever you wish. You have strong feelings of self-worth that won't be in jeopardy if success doesn't come on the first try.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) Something constructive is stirring today that might be screened from your view. It will be a development that can be used to your ultimate advantage.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Conversing with old friends could be both informative and fulfilling today. Organize an impromptu get-together with those you feel the most comfortable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 23) You are in a good achievement cycle presently and you don't want to waste your energy on insignificant goals. Focus your efforts on meaningful objectives.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Participate in involvements today that provide you with positive philosophical input. What you'll learn you'll retain and use effectively at a later date.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Lady Luck might take a personal hand in your material affairs today. She may arrange something where you'll profit through the good auspices of friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A valued relationship that is among your most favorite can be strengthened in this cycle through collective give-and-take. Be sure to practice it today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today you could have an opportunity to do something productive that will benefit others as well as yourself. Your contribution will be a service only you can offer.

BRIDGE

PHILLIP ALDER

When you cut a sheet of paper, is it the upper or the lower blade of the scissors doing the cutting? Who knows? Who cares?

In bridge, though, one can occasionally rescue one's contract with the aid of a pair of scissors.

How would you plan the play in five clubs after West leads the diamond two?

Which is the best opening bid with that South hand? Obviously, beginning with five clubs might result in a missed slam if partner has two (or all three!) of the key aces. If you start with one club, though, the opponents might get together in the majors. It is a matter of personal style; however, I think a majority of experts would opt for five clubs.

South won the first trick with his diamond king and tried a sneaky club eight, which held. But West took the

The diamond two has all the aura of a singleton. If East has the trump ace, the resulting ruff is presumably unavoidable. But if West has the club ace, perhaps East can be kept off the lead. The best play is to win the first trick in the dummy and call for the heart king. If East covers with the ace, ruff and play on trumps, hoping West has both black-suit aces. Yet here East plays low. Now discard your losing spade, cutting the defenders' communication. Ruff West's return and drive out the trump ace. East never wins a trick, so West doesn't get the
