

Soldiers Assassinate Egypt's Sadat

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Rebel soldiers assassinated President Anwar Sadat today in a grenade and machine gun attack as he reviewed a military parade in a Cairo suburb, hospital sources said.

The 63-year-old Egyptian leader was rushed by helicopter from Nasr City, an eastern Cairo suburb where the attack occurred, to the Maadi armed forces hospital, in southern Cairo, where he underwent emergency surgery.

The president later died of his wounds, hospital sources said.

The cabinet was summoned into emergency session and a special announcement was expected later today. Parliament will meet at 11 a.m. (5 a.m.

EDT Wednesday.)

Also wounded in the assassination attack were Egyptian Vice President Hosni Mubarak, Defense Minister Gen. Abdel Halim Abu Ghazala, some foreign diplomats and three American military observers at the parade.

There were no reports of troop activity or any indications of a move against the government.

Witnesses said at least 20 other persons, among them some foreign diplomats, were wounded.

The shooting occurred at about 6:40 a.m. EDT nearly two hours after the parade, which commemorates the October 1973 war, had started.

A military vehicle broke away from the march, stopped and four or five soldiers ran toward the reviewing stand where Sadat, flanked by Vice President Mubarak and Abu Ghazala, was sitting.

The soldiers exploded two hand grenades and then opened machine gun fire. Everybody hit the ground, but Sadat's guards fired back, witnesses said.

Witnesses said the assailants took advantage of a diversion caused by a flight of aerobatic jet fighters over the reviewing stand, with dignitaries looking skyward as the attackers fired into their ranks.

Sadat, the onetime firebrand revolutionary who rose to Egypt's presidency after the death of Gamal Abdel

Nasser, had brought Arabs and Israelis closer to peace than ever before and forged a close though informal alliance with the United States.

Hospital sources, asked about reports that Sadat had died, confirmed the news about 5 p.m. (11 a.m. EDT).

"Yes, it is finished," one source said. Asked to be more specific, the source replied "He is dead."

At the time of the attack Sadat was reviewing a parade of the latest military equipment Egypt had received from the United States, demonstrating to Moscow's Middle East allies that it remains the most powerful Arab nation.

The parade is staged annually on Oct. 6 to commemorate the Egyptian "victory" in the 1973 Arab-Israeli war. But this year the parade appeared to serve also as a warning to Libya, one of the Soviet Union's major Middle East allies and a major Egyptian foe.

The massive parade of military equipment from the United States was designed to demonstrate to the Soviet Union's Middle East allies that Egypt remains the most powerful Arab nation.

A group called the "Independent Organization for the Liberation of Egypt" claimed responsibility for the attack on Sadat.

Lease OK'd For County Humane Unit

By DARLENE JENNINGS
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commission voted 3-2 today to sign an amended lease agreement with the Humane Society of Seminole County during its public hearing.

The society was in danger of losing its lease agreement with the county when a primary donor withdrew a $200,000 pledge. According to the terms of the original contract, the society was to have adequate funds in hand to build the facility.

Commissioners Sandra Glenn, Barbara Christensen and Chairman Bob Sturm voted to amend that portion of the contract. Sturm said it is not the county's business to tell the society how it must raise the money for the new shelter.

Commissioners Bill Kirchhoff and Robert G. "Bud" Feather voted against the signing of the new lease. Both have been opposed since the beginning of the negotiations to determine the site on which the facility will be built.

Feather also was concerned that the society might not be able to come up with the necessary funds to complete the shelter within the next two years, as required by the contract.

The lease becomes effective today. The Humane Society's public relations director, Pauline McDonald, said the society does have a building fund set up and is receiving donations daily for the new facility.

The shelter came dangerously close to losing the lease with the county when Thomas Van Zandt withdrew his donation because, he said, the County Commission "had dragged its feet on accepting the money."

Van Zandt, a retired Maitland engineer, said he specified in June, when he first offered to donate the money, that the county use the money by or before Oct. 1, 1980 for Van Zandt's "tax purposes."

Van Zandt said Monday that Joanne Prager, president of the Humane Society, was also aware, and had agreed, to this stipulation of the donation.

"I'm convinced Seminole County doesn't want a Humane Society shelter," said Van Zandt. "The commission has been very uncooperative in getting the lease ready," he added.

The county commissioners had scheduled final signing of the Humane Society's lease agreement with the county at today's public hearing at 9:30 a.m.

The county agreed Aug. 25 to lease a three-acre site on the east side of U.S. 17-92 at County Home Road to the society for 30 years for $1 per year. The land is valued at $100,000, according to Commissioner Feather.

But the original lease agreement between the society and the county was approved by the board based on Van Zandt's promise to donate $200,000 to the society. Now that the offer has been retracted, it is possible the society could face losing its lease agreement.

Van Zandt contends that signing the society's lease should have taken the county no more than an hour and a half, anytime after the agreement was struck — that signing is a simple procedure. He also said he offered the county the use of his lawyers to speed up the process, but the county commissioners declined his offer.

Van Zandt said Monday he still intends to donate money to the shelter, but at a later date and not in the same amount as promised before. He said he has made other investments with part of the $200,000.

"The next time I offer to donate money to the society, I will make it a flat gift to the society," Van Zandt said. "The society does a fantastic job, but what they need is support from the public."

Both Commissioner Feather and Chairman Bob Sturm said Monday they were "sorry to hear the society didn't get the $200,000 they had been promised," but Feather added the society has been pledged money from other sources.

Two of the society's advisory board members, Art Grindle and John Whittington Jr., told the commissioners several months ago they would each pledge $25,000 if the Van Zandt deal should fall through.

During the public hearing in August on the then proposed lease, both Commissioners Feather and Bill Kirchhoff were opposed to leasing the county-owned land to the society because of the value of the land and Kirchhoff's view that growth in the area might present problems for the society in the future.

AFDC Cutbacks Will Hit Seminole

About 7,000 households in Seminole County, most of them made up of unmarried mothers with children, will be cut off or see their benefits cut when federal cutbacks and new federal welfare regulations affecting the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program become effective.

Technically, the cutbacks were effective Oct. 1, but it will take the state several weeks to reprogram its computers to implement the changes, according to state officials.

The reductions, mandated by the Reagan administration, mean that a family of four receiving a 150 percent "standard of need" — $345 a month in assistance — may not earn more than $1 over $345 and continue to receive AFDC assistance.

"Under the new guidelines," said Cynthia Sucher, public-information specialist for the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services for four counties, including Seminole, "a family can work only 24 hours a week at the minimum wage. If the family works over that amount, then it will not be eligible for AFDC checks with the new regulations."

"In a way, this cutback acts as a 'disincentive' for people with children to work a full week and remain eligible for AFDC," she added.

Also, the 10,272 persons on the food-stamp program in the county cannot earn over the poverty base standard of $345 per month for a family of four. If the AFDC family earns more than that, it will no longer be eligible to receive food stamps.

In addition to the federal cuts in the AFDC program for the state, federal aid has been slashed for other programs for the poor, including such social services as day care and foster care.

The state expects to lose $300,000 in federal day care funding, according to Ms. Sucher.

"Single-parent households, where the mother is the head of the house, are expected to be hit hardest," said Ms. Sucher, "because most of these mothers are in the low-income category and any change will affect them the most."

According to Ms. Sucher, the following changes can be expected in the AFDC system as a result of the cuts and new regulations:

— About 3,900 households in the county will lose all assistance from AFDC because of sharp reductions in the amount AFDC families are allowed to receive from work or from other sources, such as Social Security.

— An undetermined number of families are expected to be dropped from AFDC because of a new rule that requires the state to consider the income of a stepparent in determining whether dependent children should receive assistance. Previously, only the income of the natural parent was considered. Ms. Sucher said the inclusion of the stepparent ruling may "turn out to be a disincentive for marriage."

— A limit of $1,000 has been placed on the value of property that an AFDC family is allowed to have. This figure excludes the value of the home, but an AFDC family's car is considered in the package. The car, in Florida, may not be worth more than $1,500 according to the Blue Book.

— Under the new program, pregnant mothers now will receive assistance only during the last three months of a pregnancy, rather than for the entire nine-month term. Ms. Sucher said she sees problems with this because the first three months of the term are "important for the health of the unborn, and if the mother can't afford to eat right, the health of the baby and the mother could be adversely affected."

She also said the county will not know the full extent of the cutbacks until after they start taking effect.

Casselberry Chief, Firefighters Quit

Resignations 'Alarm' Residents

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

In the wake of the resignation of three Casselberry firefighters and the city fire chief, citizens voiced their concern over the loss of department personnel at Monday night's city council meeting.

"I am alarmed by the mass resignation of the chief and firefighters," Frank Lucadamo, 1002 Wolf Trail, Casselberry, said. "I feel much of the blame rests on the shoulders of this council."

Lucadamo added he feels council has "turned a deaf ear" to the needs of the fire department as requested by Fire Chief Kenneth Gaines. He said the low morale among fire personnel is a result of council's refusal to provide the fire chief with the personnel and equipment needed to run a fire department.

"I feel Chief Gaines is a good chief and he should know what he needs to operate the department," Lucadamo said.

Councilman Frank Schutte said the council had no control over these decisions of firefighters to resign. He added in past years the council has done many things, including pay raises, incentive pay and added benefits to help improve morale.

Gaines, who has served as fire chief for the city for 19 months said he is resigning to join Orange County's fire department because of the "better chances of advancement with Orange County." The 30-year-old chief is currently making $19,800 annually with Casselberry. When he joins Orange County on Oct. 16 he will make $12,600 annually, a loss of $7,200 annually.

Gaines said he concurs with statements made earlier by resigning firefighters Bill Adkins, Carey Hobbs and David Hollenbach, the city council has not supported improvements and expansion of the department and its personnel.

Gaines said the cut in salary is not the most important factor to be considered. He said he is looking forward to being relieved of the constant demands upon his time as required of a department head with Casselberry. He said there is also plenty of opportunity to advance within the ranks of the Orange County fire department and as he advances, the salary will increase eventually to where he is as fire chief and then upward.

According to Mayor Owen Sheppard, the fire chief and other personnel have had substantial salary increases during their short time with the city.

Sheppard said Gaines has been elevated from an annual salary of $15,769 in Oct. 1, 1980 to his current annual salary of $19,800, or a raise of $4,031 in the past year.

The city's fire department salary range for firefighters is $11,730 to $14,105 annually and the Orange County fire department pay scale for firefighters ranges from $12,600 to $16,889.

As chief administrator for the city, Sheppard will head the department until an interim fire chief can be named or a replacement found for Gaines. Sheppard said he is considering but has not decided who he will appoint as acting chief

Willis Pleads Guilty

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Ralph Lee Willis, director of Seminole County Animal Control, pleaded guilty in Circuit Court in Sanford on Monday to two felony charges stemming from a July 28 shooting spree in which one man was shot in the neck.

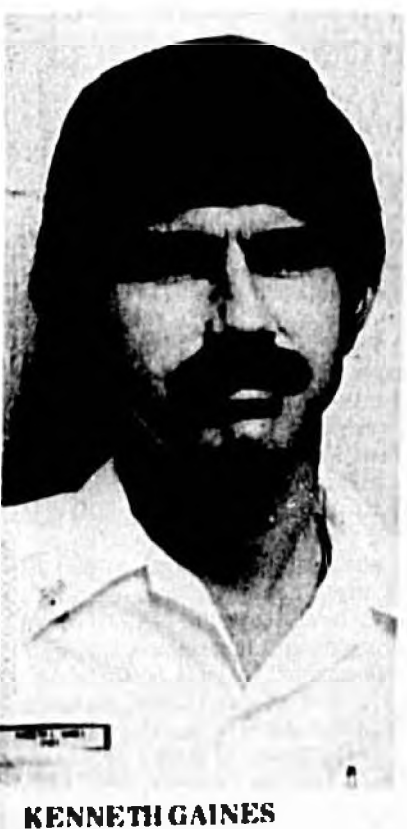

Willis, 59, of 99 Exeter Court, Sanford, pleaded to aggravated assault and battery and was freed on $1,000 bond. Judge Joseph Davis Jr. deferred sentencing pending completion of an investigation into Willis' background. He could receive up to 20 years in prison.

No decision had been made this morning on Willis' continued employment with the county, but county Personnel Director Lois Martin said, "If policy is followed, he will be dismissed immediately. Conviction of or pleading guilty to a major offense is grounds for immediate dismissal."

Willis originally was charged with two counts of attempted first-degree murder and aggravated battery. He could have been sent to prison for up to 75 years if convicted on those charges.

NATION IN BRIEF

Acid Rain Threatens 15 Eastern States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Only one eastern state seems to run little risk of environmental and economic damage from acid rain while 15 others are rated "extremely vulnerable," says a study by the largest U.S. conservation group.

Of the 26 states east of the Mississippi River, National Wildlife Federation researchers found in the most affected category: Connecticut, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Ten other states — Alabama, Georgia, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Ohio, Tennessee and Virginia — were placed in the "moderately vulnerable" category by the study released Monday. One state, Florida, was rated only "slightly vulnerable" by the researchers who studied each state's rainfall acidity, geology, soils and water chemistry for clues to potential acid rain damage to fish, crops, soil and structures.

Ex-Officials Back AWACS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With a bipartisan roster of former U.S. foreign policy makers backing him, President Reagan now is trying to persuade current lawmakers to accept his proposed Saudi arms deal.

Thirteen men who helped shape U.S. foreign policy since 1950 threw their weight Monday behind Reagan's proposed sale, which Secretary of State Alexander Haig seemed to present to the Senate on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

Former presidents Gerald Ford and Richard Nixon are among those already backing the plan, and Reagan hopes to add Jimmy Carter's name to the list when he meets with Carter next week.

Court Opens New Term

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court's 1981-82 term, already distinguished by the first woman justice, will decide disputes between the White House and Congress, environmentalists and the military, and a woman and a television network.

Those issues topped a list of about 25 cases granted review Monday by Sandra Day O'Connor and the eight other justices on the first day of their new term.

Voting Act Still Alive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The enforcement provision of the 1965 Voting Rights Act, hailed as one of the most successful civil rights measures of all time, is over one hurdle but still must clear two others to be extended indefinitely.

The House late Monday, following a stormy debate during which a bipartisan coalition crushed an effort by conservatives to weaken the provision, approved a bill to extend the measure. The vote was 288-94.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Israel, Saudi Arabia Join In Naval Rescue Effort...

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israel, using the United States as a go-between to gain Saudi cooperation, rescued a grounded Israeli missile ship and its crew from a sandbar off the barren Saudi Arabian coast.

Israel military sources confirmed the unusual deal between the two enemies, who do not have diplomatic relations, after the story leaked out of the Defense Department in Washington on Monday.

The Israeli sources said the ship made it back to the southern Israeli port of Eilat about two weeks ago, but details of the operation in the Gulf of Aquaba had been blacked out by military censors.

...Then Condemn Each Other

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Israeli and Saudi foreign ministers traded condemnations in nearly simultaneous speeches to separate audiences, branding each other's nation a main threat to peace in the Middle East.

While Saudi Foreign Minister Prince Saud al-Faisal was telling the United Nations Monday that Israel is an aggressor, Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir was telling the Foreign Policy Association that Saudi Arabia is "one of the major obstacles" to peace.

"Israel is a heavy burden on the international community," Saud told the General Assembly, calling for an end to "unlimited American support" for the Jewish state.

Moscow: 'We Told You So'

MOSCOW (UPI) — The exhumation of Lee Harvey Oswald's body burst "like a soap bubble" the theories of conspiracy fanatics who see Soviet spies under every bed, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported.

"The newsmen who had gathered in anticipation of a big sensation had their hopes dashed when medical experts stated beyond doubt that it was Oswald himself that had been buried in his grave," Tass said Monday.

Oswald's grave was opened Sunday in Dallas and his remains identified, disproving a theory that Oswald's identity was assumed by a Soviet agent before the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in 1963.

5 Busted For Pot-Related Offenses

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

Saturday was an unlucky day for at least five persons allegedly possessing or dealing in marijuana. Seminole County sheriff's deputies arrested three persons in the early morning hours and a husband and wife that afternoon in separate incidents involving possession, delivery, manufacture and cultivation of the illicit drug.

Greg Alan Myer, 34, and Penelope Jane Myer, 39, of P.O. Box 643, Geneva, were arrested shortly after noon Saturday and transported to the Seminole County Jail. They were later released on $8,000 bond each.

After deputies executed a search warrant at the couple's home, they were charged with cultivation and possession of a controlled substance, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

"A large quantity of marijuana plants were harvested on the property and an undetermined amount of cured marijuana, drug paraphernalia and suspected cocaine were found inside the residence," deputies reported.

In another incident, David Steven Cockran, 19, of 2461 Falmouth Road, Maitland, was arrested for reckless driving and possession of marijuana.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported Cockran was clocked driving 95 miles-per-hour on State Road 46 and was stopped in Geneva.

He was staggering when he exited his car, deputies said. They reported a green leafy substance was found as Cockran tried to hide it in his pants.

He was released from the Seminole County Jail on $500 bond. At 2 a.m., an undercover deputy arrested John Michael Braddy at the Lelaure Time Bar on State Road 46 in Geneva.

According to the deputy's report, he met Braddy, 18, of Box 241 Eustis, Fla., at the bar. The deputy said Braddy asked him if he wanted to get stoned, then "pulled a bag of marijuana from his pants and rolled a joint."

The deputy reported he then asked Braddy if he would sell the bag and Braddy agreed to sell it for $35.

Upon delivery, Braddy was arrested, and transported to the Seminole County Jail, the deputy said. He was charged with possession and delivery of a controlled substance and later released on $3,000 bond.

Deputies also arrested Lupe "Wally" Aguilar, 35, of Forest City Saturday.

Aguilar was spotted about 5:30 a.m. by deputies who reported seeing him weaving through traffic. He was arrested in the Meat World parking lot at the corner of County Roads 419 and 428.

He was charged with driving under the influence and an unlawful blood alcohol level in addition to possession and manufacture of a controlled substance and transport to the Seminole County Jail. Bond was set at $5,000, but it was later waived by a judge and Aguilar was released.

riding on State Road 434 west of Interstate 4 near Longwood late Saturday when Poole ran over some dirt and gravel and lost control of his motorcycle. According to a Florida Highway Patrol report, the motorcycle jumped a concrete median before coming to a rest. No charges were filed.

Seminole County Public Safety Director and Fire Chief Gary Kaiser said Poole, 45, suffered a broken clavicle, three broken ribs, lacerations of the head and knee and a bruised hip. His wife suffered minor abrasions and an injury to her left heel requiring 27 stitches.

Kaiser said Poole had just returned from his annual vacation and had worked one duty day before the accident occurred. He said Poole has been with the Seminole County Fire Department since 1974. He was off duty at the time of the accident and does not use a motorcycle in the course of his duties with the department, Kaiser said.

THEY GOT HIS GOAT

Alfred G. De Lattibaudiere, 807 1/2 Sanford Ave., Sanford, reported to police that around noon Sunday three males beat his goat to death with large sticks, then carted off the carcass, he said.

The animal had been kept in a fenced-in field, DeLattibaudiere said.

GIRLS FOUND

Four Tusawilla Middle School students, who were reported missing Wednesday and possibly enroute to a rock concert in Tampa, have been found.

The girls, ages 11, 12 and two age 13, were reported absent from school Wednesday. An investigation led deputies to believe the girls had pooled money for a trip to the Tampa concert.

But the girls were found about 5:30 p.m. Thursday by their parents, deputies said. All four were returned to their families.

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT

Pointing a gun at several patrons in the Deluxe Bar on Southwest Road outside Sanford, netted Tyrone Wheeler, 35, a trip to the Seminole County Jail just before 7 p.m. Saturday.

Wheeler, alias "Pops," of 1908 W. 15th St., Sanford, was charged with aggravated assault and released on $500 bond, according to the sheriff's records department.

STOLEN PROPERTY BAD DEAL

Roger Chris Pope, 70, of 1225 E. Tulane, Altamonte Springs, was jailed at about 3:15 p.m. Friday on a charge of trafficking in stolen property. Bond was set at $5,000.

According to a sheriff's report, Pope is accused of selling a silver tray for $126 at a mall stamp and coin shop on Aug. 19. The loot is suspected of being taken during a recent burglary in Orlando.

Building-Use Fee Scale Up For Discussion

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Fees for use of the auditorium and meeting rooms of the Eastmonte and Westmonte recreational facilities in Altamonte Springs will be discussed at today's City Commission meeting at 7 p.m. in City Hall, 225 Newburyport Ave.

At the Sept. 21 commission meeting, the commissioners deferred establishing fees for the facilities' use until the proposal could be reviewed thoroughly.

The proposed rate schedule is based on a two-hour minimum usage, with per-diem rates based on any eight-hour period, according to the resolution establishing the fees.

The proposed auditorium usage rates are: $5 per hour for sanctioned groups, which includes self-governed groups of 20 or more persons who further the city's recreation program; $10 per hour, or $75 per day, for civic groups, which includes community-service clubs and politically oriented groups; $30 per hour, or $200 per day, for non-profit groups, which includes organizations recognized as non-profit organizations by regulation; $45 per hour, or $250 per day, for private groups, which includes commercial groups, organizations and individuals.

Proposed meeting-room usage rates are: $2.50 per hour, or $18 per day, for sanctioned groups; $4 per hour, or $25 per day, for civic groups; $6 per hour, or $25 per day, for non-profit groups, and, $8 per hour or $50 per day for private groups.

Usage of city recreational facilities by groups directly sponsored and governed by the city Recreation and Civic Services Department and city-approved outside governmental agencies will not be charged.

The commission also is slated to discuss a request by a non-profit civic organization, Beta Sigma Phi, to waive fee requirements for use of the Westmonte Civic Center for a Valentine's Day ball on Feb. 6 or Feb. 13.

According to Donna Frank, Beta Sigma Phi representative, the waiver is being requested because the annual ball is held for charitable purposes. This year, Ma. Frank said, the organization has chosen the Ronald McDonald house as the recipient of money received from the charity ball.

In a letter to City Manager Jeff Etchberger, Recreation Director William James said Beta Sigma Phi could come under one of three categories, including non-profit, private groups, or civic, if the commission grants it such status.

James warned that waiving the fee payment could be "precedent setting," and although he noted the worthiness of the cause, he said the city has charged similar groups in the past for facility usage.

James said the organization has not indicated the amount of the contribution to the charity nor the method of payment.

In other action, the commission is slated to discuss a request from developers of Seminole Industrial Park to extend water service to a portion of the industrial park west of the Sanford Flea Market, off U.S. Highway 17-92.

The request is being made to extend existing water lines to an additional section of the development not currently served by the city, developers said.

Weinberger: America Must Buy Time While Rebuilding Arsenal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger today began selling the president's nuclear strategy to Congress and the public — saying America must "buy all the time we can" while rebuilding its arsenal.

Prior to scheduled appearances before Senate and House committees, Weinberger defended President Reagan's MX missile and B-1 bomber decision during interviews on three television networks this morning.

The defense secretary said the mobile MX nuclear missile system proposed by the Carter administration — in which missiles would have been shuttled among shelters in the Southwest — would not have done enough soon enough.

With the Reagan administration proposal to put the missiles in existing silos, Weinberger said on NBC's "Today" show, "we will be able to get the MX as it comes off the production line and put it immediately into much stronger silos that will survive" for three to four years.

Weinberger acknowledged the decision to harden existing silos and put the missiles there while working out other hardening methods is "just a matter of buying time," but added, "It is far better than nothing... Our margin for being wrong is exceedingly small."

Paramedic Issue Delayed At Least One Week

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Petitioners for a citywide advanced-life-support (paramedic) program will have to wait at least one more week before the Casselberry City Council will place their program request on the council meeting agenda.

During a work session Monday night, the council voted unanimously to delay acting on the petition until City Attorney Ken McIntosh can study the committee's proposed resolution for a paramedic program.

Questions were raised concerning the validity of the 704 signatures on the petition, although they have been validated by the supervisor of elections. It was determined at Monday night's meeting that the name of one petitioner had been dropped and another added after signatures already had been placed on the petition supporting the program.

Councilman Frank Schutte asked

McIntosh to research the matter to determine whether the names of those who signed prior to the name change of the petitioners are acceptable.

Frank Stone, a city firefighter and spokesman for the committee to institute a paramedic program, said the change was made at the request of a petitioner who said she supported the program but could not support the tax hike to pay for the program.

The proposed program will cost $150,000 annually, funded by a tax of $1.25 per $1,000 of assessed property valuation. If the program is approved, the tax rate will increase to $3.20 per $1,000.

'Smokey The Bear' Cracking Down On Speed

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The State Highway Patrol is cracking down on highway speed demons. The patrol said Monday nearly twice as many drivers were arrested for driving between 66 and 79 miles per hour than for pushing the speedometer from 56 to 65 miles per hour in the first six months of this year. It said nearly 10,000 were arrested for exceeding 79 miles per hour.

The patrol said 90,464 motorists were arrested for going from eleven to fifteen miles per hour over the speed limit of 55 miles per hour. That compares to 51,423 arrests for speeding from one to 10 miles over the limit. The patrol said 4,591 of the speeding arrests were truckers.

Graham Pledges Jobs

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham Monday night announced a step-up affirmative action program of jobs for disabled citizens.

Among those actions are requests for state agencies to identify employment opportunities available for disabled citizens and a review by the Department of Administration on the effectiveness of existing affirmative action plans for employing the disabled.

Graham also had called for a Department of Administration review on job requirements "to identify those which artificially hamper the employment of disabled citizens," and a review and report by state agencies of their contracts with businesses owned by disabled citizens.

Ma Bell Can't Get More $

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Southern Bell Telephone Co. can't decide in the middle of rate increase proceedings if it wants an extra $328 million instead of $288 million, a Public Service Commission lawyer says.

"The commission is bound by the petition as originally filed because we have given public notice of the $288 million legally," Doc Horton of the PSC's communications department said Monday.

The PSC begins final hearings on the Southern Bell rate case Wednesday and has set aside up to two weeks for the proceedings. It will make a final decision later this year. It is unlikely the PSC will approve even $288 million.

Southern Bell has filed for a basic rate increase of $288 million a year in revenues, but a supplemental filing submitted in June would raise its revenues to $328 million a year.

Survivalist To Get 10

MIAMI (UPI) — Robert Lisenby, a Vietnam veteran and "survival" instructor has agreed to plead guilty to bringing weapons and explosives into Miami.

Lisenby, 31, of Troy, N.C. agreed to enter the plea in Dade Circuit Court and will be sentenced to 10 years in prison, to be served concurrently with any federal prison term imposed.

Lisenby was arrested in March leading a group of 11 survivalists on a training mission in the woods and swamps near the Crystal River nuclear power plant in Citrus County.

Measles Emergency In Lee

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI) — Lee County health officials have declared a "measles emergency" and have ordered mandatory inoculation for all school-age children.

In the wake of an outbreak of red measles, or rubella, county officials Monday ordered all public and private school students to present proof of immunization or face possible suspension.

The order was originally confined to high schools, but was implemented in all public and private schools.

Juniors To Try Again

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Juniors in Florida's public schools, apparently the first students who must pass the functional literacy test to earn diplomas, get a second crack at the exam this week.

The literacy test will be given to 24,000 11th graders who were unable to pass the exam last April.

The state will begin enforcing the diploma requirement on graduates of the 1982-83 academic year, this year's 11th graders, if it can meet the remaining objections of the federal courts.

Also taking the test are 11th and 12th graders new to the Florida system and 19,000 seniors who were tested before, but didn't pass.

Antitrust Suit Settled

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Attorney General Jim Smith has announced settlement of the state's antitrust suit against Conoco Inc. In return for a $100,000 payment, most of which likely will be eaten up by state legal costs.

Smith said Conoco — formerly Continental Oil Co. — did not admit to any of the allegations or liability for price-fixing. It settled to avoid the cost of lengthy litigation, he said.

Conoco was charged with conspiring to fix wholesale and retail gasoline prices and to raise prices by contriving a shortage of gas, diesel fuel and home heating oil from 1969 to the present. The suit was brought in 1973.

Auto Dealer Gets Relief From Fines... For Now

A Casselberry businessman was granted partial relief Monday night from approximately $14,000 in fines due to building codes violations by the Casselberry City Council provided he corrects all violations prior to 5 p.m. on Oct. 26.

Council voted 4-1 Monday night to grant Grady Cobb, operator of 436 Auto Sales, 870 Semoran Blvd., relief of $100 from the maximum $300 per day fine imposed since Aug. 10 for failure to correct building code violations as stipulated by the Codes Enforcement Board. Council further said if the corrections are not made, in full, prior to 5 p.m., Oct. 26, the full penalty of $300 per day will be resumed until compliance with the codes is made and the previous $15,000 fine held in abeyance since last week's meeting will be included. The total fine, should Cobb fail to comply with the codes by Oct. 26 will be $21,300 and subject to increase at a rate of $300 per day following until corrections are made, council said.

Councilman Jim Lavigne, the lone dissenter in the council action providing relief, said he did not feel Cobb is worthy of any relief. Lavigne said Cobb received notification he was in violation of codes as early as May, 1980 and has had plenty of time to correct the situation.

Councilmen Frank Schutte and Tom Embree said while they agree with Lavigne that Cobb does not deserve relief from the penalty, they feel because of the confusion surrounding violations and conflicting testimony given concerning which violations were to be corrected Cobb should be given partial, yet minimal, relief.

City Building Official Frank Broyles said existing code violations include improper wiring, stored inflammable materials, blocked ingress and egress to the structure, and other fire code violations which must be corrected for compliance with the Codes Enforcement Board.

Cobb told council he will have all violations corrected within the 15 day limit, from Oct. 5 to Oct. 26.

F&R Land Offer Rejected

An offer by F&R Builders, developers of the Villas of Casselberry, to donate two parcels of land to the city for recreational purposes in compliance with city ordinance was unanimously refused Monday night by the City Council.

Ray Anderson, representative of the firm, told the council his company was willing to donate a .34-acre parcel of land which surrounds a 20-by-20-foot well site and a 1.74-acre land site to fulfill the city's required land donation.

The ordinance was imposed previously by the council to offset developmental impact in the area, according to city officials. It required a 2.108-acre donation of the 2.108 acres' fair market value. In the case of Villas of Casselberry, the fair market value of the property is listed at $46,376. The firm has elected to donate land instead of cash.

Councilman Bill Grier told Anderson the city would benefit more from one parcel of land than two in which one of the two has a well site situated in the middle, rendering the property virtually worthless for recreational purposes.

Anderson told the council he did not have any problems with donating the one parcel of land, providing the 2.108 acres is available in one parcel. He said Seminole County recently advised the firm a 30-foot easement must be installed along the eastern side of the property, near the Eastbrook Canal, which is parallel to the property included in the proposed donation to the city.

Council members said they would be willing to accept the land donation if it is determined the total 2.108 acres can be donated excluding the easement.

Councilman Frank Schutte said he does not feel the city should have to accept the easement in the donation. He added the city should not be made to compromise its ordinance.

Council members further said that if the donated property is available at the site proposed by the builders excluding the easement, they will accept the donation pending agreement by the firm to prepare a legal document for property ownership transfer between the two entities, fill the land site with fill dirt approved by city officials and Jammal & Associates (the company that took recent soil samples of the land), provide a temporary access road with a six-inch curb to the land site by March 21, 1982, prepare the required stabilization fee, and give ownership of sewer and water lines in the development to the city.

Anderson, along with his lawyer, said there would be no problems with compliance of the stipulations outlined by the council provided the land is available excluding the county-required easement. If the land is not available, a new proposal will need to be drafted, council members said.

His Honor Will Be Honored

Judge George C. Young, chief U.S. district judge of the Middle District of Florida, will be honored by the Orange County Bar Association at 3 p.m. Oct. 23 in the federal building on Hughey Avenue in Orlando.

Young, who has served 20 years on the federal bench — longer than any other U.S. district judge in Florida during this century — is retiring Oct. 19.

Although Young is retiring as chief judge, he will remain on the bench working in the capacity of senior judge. He will retain his office and staff, but will not handle a full caseload.

"Losing Hair? Try This At No Risk"

HOUSTON, Texas— If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss... but is really growing hair! They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself! Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in the family," it is certainly not proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. If you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc. will supply you with treatment for 32 days—at their risk—if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail. Adv.

Ireland's Four Green Fields

"Four green fields, each of them a jewel, till strangers came, and tried to take them from me." So goes an Irish ballad lamenting the loss of Ireland's northern province, Ulster, to British rule. Partition of Ireland came in 1921, at the same time that the Irish Free State, now the Republic of Ireland, won independence from England. Six decades of violence, polarization, military occupation and, most recently, hunger strikes have been the tragic legacy of dividing the emerald isle.

The British Labor party recently called for reunification of Ireland. This represents the first time that a major British party has backed the joining of the majority Protestant Ulster to the predominantly Catholic Republic of Ireland.

Americans must not interfere in Irish and British affairs. But as a nation with a large Irish and English immigrant population, we can only hope that the decades-long quest for Irish reunification be resolved peacefully, to the benefit of both Catholics and Protestants. Both groups have learned to live together in America, and peaceful co-existence is possible in a reunified Ireland. But reunification must be based on respect for the political, religious, social and economic rights of all parties.

Protestants outnumber Catholics 2 to 1 in Northern Ireland. But Catholics outnumber Protestants about 20 to 1 in the Irish Republic. The fears of Ulster Protestants, descendants of English Protestants sent by King James I to colonize Northern Ireland in 1603, are that they would lose their autonomy and their culture by becoming a minority in the republic.

Their concerns are not trivial. But Ireland has no state religion, and forbids government aid to the Roman Catholic church. Sectarian education is supported by the government, and there are no public elementary schools, but both Catholic and Protestant schools receive funding. Freedom of religion is guaranteed to all persons in the Irish republic, including the 4 percent who are Protestants and tiny minority of Jews who live there.

On the other hand, Ireland's sweeping social legislation, such as the total ban against divorce is repugnant to Protestants. Divorce should be legalized for people whose religions do not bar it. Birth control legislation should be reconsidered. The Irish government has shown willingness to include this issue in negotiations for reunification.

Equally important, regional political autonomy must be extended to allow provinces a greater say in local affairs. Political representation is crucial for Protestants in any future government.

What is essential is a spirit of mutual respect and confidence, of tolerance, of conciliation, of compromise. The continued violence on both sides in Northern Ireland kills that spirit.

The British Labor party's resolution would carry more weight if Labor were in power. But it is a step in the right direction for a peaceful, negotiated settlement.

As the resolution says, the key is the "consent" of the one million Protestants of Northern Ireland. That consent will only come if both sides reach out to each other across the boundary of hatred, ignorance and misunderstanding that centuries of violence have erected between them. Ireland's four green fields — Leinster, Munster, Connacht and Ulster — should become one unified and peaceful republic.

BERRY'S WORLD

By DIANE PETRYK

It's got to be the most airline ad campaign in a decade.

More than 30 million adult Americans have kicked the cigarette habit and millions more are trying. Among adults, only one in three still smokes. In the population as a whole, it's one in four. Even counting cigar and pipe smokers, nonsmokers are a clear majority according to the American Lung Association.

That must be why the tobacco industry is running scared.

So scared they would institute an advertising campaign encouraging nonsmokers to smoke and smokers to keep lighting up just to make someone else rich.

The ad campaign, launched in the southeast, stresses the economic hazards of abstention from smoking.

"Tobacco means 48,000 jobs in Tennessee," part of the campaign designed for that state said. "Tobacco helps pave Tennessee roads, build Tennessee parks and support Tennessee social programs. In fact, tobacco contributes more than $613 million to Tennessee's economy."

The message is being repeated, albeit altered, for Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia and Kentucky.

Well, tobacco may create a few jobs for the little guy, but you can bet most of the $613 million isn't lining his pockets.

The ad campaign comes from the Tobacco Institute, a Washington-based industry trade association that denies charges by health experts that smoking can be dangerous to health.

The lung association, on the contrary, quoting from a study by the U.S. Surgeon General, reports the direct cost of treating smoking-related illnesses in this country is between $5 billion and $8 billion a year. Another $12 billion to $18 billion is reportedly the cost of lost wages and productivity among smokers.

Those billions of dollars match the Tobacco Institute's economic hazards of abstention anyway.

In January 1974, the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health adopted a Nonsmokers' Bill of Rights. The council is composed of 34 organizations, including the American Lung Association, concerned about the effects of tobacco smoking. The bill declared three basic rights:

— The right to breathe clean air, free from harmful and irritating tobacco smoke. This right supercedes the right to smoke when the two conflict.

— The right to speak out on the discomfort and adverse reactions caused by tobacco smoke.

— The right to take action through legislative channels social pressures or any other legitimate means to prevent or discourage smokers from polluting the atmosphere and to seek the restriction of smoking in public places.

In the face of pro-smoking propaganda such as the Tobacco Institute's, non-smokers should be more determined than ever to exercise these rights.

ROBERT WAGMAN

A Race Worth Watching

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There will soon be another entrant in the much-watched race for the U.S. Senate seat of California Republican S.E. Hayakawa. Ultra-conservative Rep. Robert Dornan is about to announce that he will join the field of candidates for the GOP nomination that already includes the incumbent, Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., Rep. Paul McCloskey, San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson and possibly first daughter Maureen Reagan.

The experts say that Dornan's entry into the race complicates an already complicated situation. For months the congressman could not decide whether to run for the Senate or for re-election to the House. It appeared for a while that he would wait until 1982 to run for the Senate seat of Democrat Alan Cranston, but the redistricting plan just pushed through the Democratic-controlled state legislature apparently settled the matter or him.

Dornan represents persons living along a narrow strip of land that extends along the Pacific Coast from north of Los Angeles to just south of the city. Traditionally the district has been described as culturally liberal and economically conservative. Party registration last year was 47 percent republican and 41 percent democratic with the rest listed as "independent."

In his past two campaigns, Dornan has narrowly defeated Carey Peck, son of actor Gregory Peck. In 1978, Dornan's margin of victory was only 3,000 votes. Last year, although the district contained Ronald Reagan's home and went heavily for its favorite son, Dornan managed to win by 9,000 votes.

Now the state legislature has increased the democratic registration in the district to at least 54 percent. Most of the experts agreed that Dornan could not win re-election in such a district.

The greatest strength that Dornan brings to the Senate race is his ability to raise money. The former television broadcaster is one of the darlings of the conservative movement.

He raised and spent $1.8 million for his 1980 race against Peck; that is believed to be the most that any House candidate has ever spent on a single campaign. Most of the money came in the form of small contributions solicited by direct mail from conservatives across the country.

Dornan reportedly has vowed to raise and spend at least $3 million in the upcoming primary race. That could very likely buy him the nomination.

Republicans say that Dornan's entry into the race and another redistricting problem could cause Goldwater to pull out of the senatorial primary. Goldwater had hoped to be "the conservative" in the race but now would have to share the conservative vote with Dornan.

The House district of first-term Republican Bobbi Fiedler has also been radically redesigned. Mrs. Fiedler won a narrow 1980 victory — fewer than 800 votes out of 180,000 — on her record as the leader of the anti-busing forces on the Los Angeles school board. But the state legislature has made her district much more liberal and Democratic; it has also put her into the same district with Goldwater.

California republican leaders seem to think that Goldwater could win re-election in the new district whereas Mrs. Fiedler could not.

How Conservative Lobby Manipulates

WASHINGTON — The National Conservative Political Action Committee (NCPAC) is widely regarded as an organization of hot-eyed ideological fanatics determined to save the world from liberals. In fact, it is a slick, cynical group of professional manipulators who believe the voters can be gulled by expensive negative campaigns.

The depth of NCPAC's cynicism is revealed in its battle plan for next year's state and congressional elections in Texas. Polls have convinced NCPAC's chairman, Terry Dolan, that Texas and Florida are conservatism's land of opportunity in 1982.

My associate Vicki Warren obtained a copy of NCPAC's invasion plan for Texas, authored by Dolan himself. The cover page is labeled "PRIVATE AND CONFIDENTIAL," and on top of that, the seven inside pages are stamped "TOP SECRET."

It is a revealing document. Dolan suggests at one point that NCPAC's 1980 campaigns demonstrated that voters are fools who can't or won't look beneath the surface. As he puts

JEFFREY HART

What Is Conservatism?

For someone who speaks around the country, as I have been doing, before student and other audiences, "What is American conservatism?" is an often repeated question.

It is also highly pertinent to the debates now going on within the Reagan administration between old and new right, between economic free marketers of the monetarist and supply-side persuasion, between libertarian individualists and the new religious right.

When I am asked to define conservatism, I begin by insisting that my definition concerns American conservatism — meaning that British, French, Spanish and other conservatisms would have important differences. All of the Western conservatisms are related, members of the family, but they have different histories and emphases.

My definition of American conservatism comes in three parts.

First, it includes representative government and the constitutional process. The process of deliberation by representatives was present from the beginning, from the signing of the Mayflower Compact before the settlers had even landed. It evolved through the colonial legislatures and, after the War of Independence, issued in the Philadelphia Constitution.

I say "the constitutional process" because the Constitution is not only a document but a set of rules. They involve debate and deliberation and usually compromise. They demand restraint and civility. The Federalist Papers really represent a book of constitutional etiquette. All of this is one part of American conservatism.

The second part is cultural and religious. America is part of Western culture, "from Homer through the present," as T.S. Eliot put it — though he himself also knew that its roots go much further back than Homer. The great books, works of art, and music represent an extended dialogue on Western man, a dialogue that moves forward in time; and though it changes, it always retains its distinctive Western character. The West as we know it emerged from the fusion of Athens and Jerusalem, reason and faith, and that fusion is part of Western distinctiveness.

As part of this second cultural-religious point, I am willing to assert that the West is Christian. This always causes a stir, but even a cursory glance at its history indicates the fact. The West without Christianity is unimaginable. Our holidays are "holy days" in their origin, many of them, and the texture of our language is suffused with Christian assumptions.

Finally, third point, I say that an American conservatism is predisposed toward the free market economy. Not only does its spirit accord best with republican political assumptions, but it seems to be the most effective system for the production of goods and services. You can trace the emergence of the free market over the course of several centuries — and emergence that has a certain historical naturalness. Socialism, in contrast, would be a throwback to earlier modes of the directed and controlled economy.

There's the definition. Question period. Hands fly up into the air.

"Can an atheist be a conservative?"

"Yes. I can cite illustrious examples. George Santayana, for example, and David Hume. But it seems to me that because they lacked the Christian component there is something incomplete about them. They are a bit like the Venus de Milo — what you see is very good, but where is the rest?"

"Can a Jew be a conservative?"

"Again the answer is yes. We have had many important conservative thinkers who were Jews. I think of Will Herberg, of Frank Meyer. I could name dozens. And much of Judaism is intimately related to Christianity. They share the Old Testament, for example. But, historically, Judaism affected Western culture through Christianity, through the fusion I mention with Athenian thought and Greco-Roman universalism. Of course, Christians can learn a great deal from other religions, which always have a place in the republican polity.

This definition of American conservatism seems to me useful and, in fact, correct. It permits one to identify distortions and exaggerated emphases within the conservative camp at the present time. And, I have found, my audiences almost always leave discussing it and arguing about it.

ROBERT WALTERS

Labor's Harassed Probers

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The First Amendment to the Constitution presumably guarantees freedom of speech to all Americans, but one government bureaucrat decided earlier this year that it didn't necessarily apply to his subordinates.

Frank A. Yeager, the Labor Department's acting deputy inspector general, issued an inter-office memo that said "employees are not to discuss substantive agency matters with unauthorized individuals during or after office hours without prior approval" from senior department officials.

Yeager has since been replaced and the memo has been withdrawn, but the episode was only the most recent example of persistent attempts to harass and humiliate employees in an especially important agency of the federal government.

The Labor Department is charged with investigating violations of federal laws by corrupt labor organizations, union officials and recipients of departmental funds, but it historically has evaded those oversight responsibilities.

For example, the Senate Permanent Investigations Sub-committee recently concluded that the department's highly publicized investigation of a Teamsters Union pension fund "was a failure, the victim of poor management, incompetence and bureaucratic infighting."

The inspector general's office is supposed to act as a watchdog for the entire agency, insuring that sensitive investigations are not accidentally or purposely mishandled by inept or corrupt officials.

But the Government Accountability Project, an exceptionally determined public-interest organization, has compiled considerable evidence to document its claims that the inspector general's office has been "a corrupt and mismanaged agency."

Those are serious charges, but the experience of William R. Gamble III, Nicholas J. Mangieri Jr. and other veteran criminal investigators who have worked in the inspector general's office suggests the allegations may be valid.

Gamble, an off-commended veteran of 10 years in the department, was working in the Miami office when he began investigating a "million-dollar pyramid scheme" that involved possible criminal wrongdoing on the part of 15 to 18 people, some of them politically influential.

In late 1979, only one day after he had briefed a senior department official on the probe, he was summoned to Washington, summarily removed from the case and inexplicably transferred to the department's Los Angeles office.

Gamble fought back, publicly charging Labor Department officials were misusing federal funds earmarked for criminal probes. Although the department claimed to employ 125 criminal investigators, Gamble offered evidence that fewer than 15 were actually at work.

Gamble then became the subject of a vendetta-like criminal investigation. After monitoring his telephone conversations, opening his mail and placing him under the surveillance of a squad of FBI agents, the department finally found cause to fire Gamble. He had mailed personal material in postage-free government envelopes, thus saving $116.84 worth of stamps.

Lake Brantley's Otis Clatt goes high in the air to make a spectacular catch against Lake Howell defender Charles Hodges Friday night. The Patriots blanked Howell, 14-0, in a key Five Star Conference meeting. Lyman and Oviedo also won as Seminole County enjoyed a successful weekend. Coach Jerry Posey's Fighting Seminoles had the weekend off. They play at Apopka Friday.

Forecast Failures Reach Ledge; Beathard, Vierling, Stripp Win Big

If you are wondering why this column did not appear Monday, it was because it took the Winter Springs Fire Department all of yesterday to coax me from the top of my condominium ledge.

It didn't seem that long ago that I was sailing along with a fine 14-6 record, never seriously challenged by any of the other panel members who pick our football games each week.

Then came the weekend of Sept. 26. My wins and losses decided to change sides. I correctly forecast just three of 10 games. Well, anyone can have a bad day. Even our NFL expert, Cliff Nelson, bombed out that weekend.

So, with renewed vigor, I went about predicting last week's games. I laughed a little (very little as it turned out) when my panelists continued to pick Seminole County teams to win.

But the laugh was on me. Oviedo used a six-second field goal in the last quarter to whip Osceola, 17-16. 0-for-1. Lyman blasted DeLand, 20-6. 0-for-2. And Lake Brantley took apart Lake Howell, 14-0. The Silver Hawks were the one country team I did pick. 0-for-3. So much for Friday night.

Saturday, I showed signs of improvement. Trinity Prep trounced Heritage Prep, 20-0. Central Florida tipped Miles, 6-0. 2-of-5. Closing in on .500 and respectability.

But then Florida State knocked off Ohio State, 36-27, and the Gators manhandled Louisiana State, 24-10. Miami, though, annihilated Vanderbilt, 48-16, to move me to 3-for-5.

Only Sunday's pro games remained, where two wins there would give me a salvagable 5-for-10. I got a first hand account of the "Doug Williams Air Show."

Everything was going fine. The Bucs were winning, 14-10, but big Doug had just taken a bigger Doug English helmet under the chin and looked for all the stadium that he might flop himself into unconsciousness.

Sam Cook
Sports Editor

I figured without Williams, the Bucs are deadlier than usual. Wrong. Williams came back like a champion. He fired two more TDs and the Buccaneers won going away.

I could handle that all right, but when I returned home to find that the Dolphins had tied the Jets, that was too much — I scaled the four-story condominium like Spiderman.

Sometime Monday, I don't remember when, a nice man in a red helmet coaxed me from the building into the house where he fed me some broth and told me about three bears and some blond-haired chick.

I told him I wouldn't try the "Golden Gate Bridge Act" again. And he appeased my apprehensions by telling me the phone number of a mysterious lady who would help me with my picks. He guaranteed success. I've got a surprise for you Friday.

But... enough talk about losers, let's see who knew what they were talking about this past weekend.

Once again, our lady guests did very well. Rookie Joyce Vierling hit 7-of-10. Joyce is the wife of Trinity Prep coach. Ron Vierling. The Preppers also had a good weekend with a 20-0 pasting of arch-rival Heritage Prep. Linda Beathard, back for her second try after a not so spectacular 4-of-6 the first time around, was also tied for first place with seven correct ones. Linda is the wife of Lake Mary coach, Roger Beathard.

Joyce had six in a row before dropping Florida State, the Bucs and the Dolphins. Linda had six straight too before missing the same three as Joyce.

Sportswriter Billy Stripp also picked seven right, but took a little different approach. After dropping 2-of-3 prep games, Stripp hit seven in a row. He correctly diagnosed the FSU upset of Ohio State and the Bucs victory.

Joe DeSantis will get the "Comeback Picker of the Week" award. After a disastrous first three weeks where he went 3-of-7 each week, Joe rebounded with a 6-4 ledger.

Sandra "Back to 500" Glenn was obviously shaken by the alleged "Brown Paper Bag Incident" and fell to 5-5. The Seminole County commissioner does, however, still lead the regulars with a 23-17 mark. Stripp is on her tail with a 22-18, while I'm even, 20-20. DeSantis is improved at 15-25.

Next week will feature the return of Martha Posey and Mary Montgomery — along with a very mysterious lady. Who will she be?

CLIFFHANGERS — Lake Mary's Cliff Nelson went against his formula twice and got nailed both times. "I had Houston and New England to win, but then changed it," muttered Cliff.

Cliff did salvage something from the week, though. He picked the Philadelphia victory over Atlanta exactly. A field goal beat the Falcons, 16-13. Cliff finished 8-6 for the weekend.

Eagles Rid Monkey From Back, Nip Falcons

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The monkey finally is off the backs of the Philadelphia Eagles although, for a moment, it looked as if it wanted to establish permanent residency.

The unbeaten Eagles used three field goals by red-hot Tony Franklin Monday night and a defense that yielded just six points on four Atlanta trips inside its 20 to take control of first place in the NFC East with a 16-13 victory over the Falcons.

The victory gave the Eagles a 5-0 start for the first time in their history and marked their first triumph over the Falcons in four tries dating back to the 1978 NFC wildcard playoff game.

For a while, however, it looked as if the Falcons were prepared to perform their customary last-minute heroics. The Eagles were coasting with a 13-0 lead in the third quarter before Atlanta spurred for 10 points in 12 seconds on Mick Luckhurst's 33-yard FG and a 20-yard return of a Wally Henry fumble by Kenny Johnson on the ensuing kickoff.

"I thought, here we are playing great football in the first half and leading and those things happen," said QB Ron Jaworski, who threw a 30-yard pass to Charlie Smith for the Eagles' only TD with 1:31 left in the first half.

Franklin, who booted FGs of 38 and 34 yards in the first quarter following interceptions by linebackers Al Chesley and Reggie Wilkes, capitalized on a fumble recovery by defensive end Greg Brown and kicked a 43-yarder early in the fourth quarter.

But here's where Lady Luck finally made up four years of frustration to the Eagles. Steve Bartkowski, who completed 23-of-46 for 232 yards, hit Alfred Jenkins with an 18-yard pass for an apparent Atlanta touchdown but holding was detected against the Falcons. Luckhurst later hit a 43-yard field goal with 6:45 to play.

The Eagles held the ball the rest of the way thanks to a roughing-the-kicker penalty and a 39-yard run by rookie fullback Hubie Oliver.

The Falcons, who fell into a three-way tie for first place in the NFC West with the loss, held the advantage in total yards (339-268) and offensive plays (76-52) while keeping the ball for nearly 34 minutes. But once they traveled deep into enemy territory, the stingy Eagle defense turned them back.

Chesley's interception halted the Falcons' first drive at the 18. Atlanta later moved to the Philadelphia 2 but a bad snap caused Luckhurst's attempted 19-yard field goal to clang off the left upright.

The Eagles continued to have their problems with the Falcons' defense. They gained 63 of their 107 rushing yards on their final ball-control drive. Montgomery strained to pick up 44 yards in 12 carries, bringing his four-game total against Atlanta to 149 in 60 attempts.

So Philadelphia turned to Franklin for most of its scoring. Next-to-last in field goal percentage among NFL kickers last

Ex-Sooner Held To 75 Yards

Bucs' Defense Stymies Sims

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

TAMPA — Tampa Bay's Doug Williams received a lot of credit for engineering the Buccaneers' 28-10 demolition of the Detroit Lions Sunday, but the real reason the Bucs won Sunday was a 1979 commodity — defense.

Playing without its leader and one of the National Football League's best defensive ends — Lee Roy Selmon — the Tampa gang was in super running back Billy Sims' shadow all afternoon long.

And when you stop Billy Sims, you stop the Lions. Especially when the Pontiac, Mich. crew is without starting quarterback Gary Danielson as it was Sunday.

Sims, a Heisman Trophy winner from Oklahoma, exploded into the NFL scene two years ago. At an even six feet and 211 pounds, the well-muscled Lion is strong and very fast. It is his speed that ranks him ahead of Otis Anderson and Walter Payton in the opinion of some NFL experts.

The Bucs defense, though, wasn't awed Sunday. Led by nose guard David Logan (13 tackles, one sack), linebacker Cecil Johnson (10 tackles, two interceptions) and rookie linebacker Hugh Green (nine tackles), Tampa shut off Sims and Company.

Going into the game Sims was churning out 100 yards per Sunday. He had 404 yards on 92 totes for a 4.4 average.

The ex-Sooner speedster did run for 76 yards, but it took him 34 carries. Sims did have a 14-yard gain, but he was thrown for losses of one yard on three different occasions. Twice he was held to no gain.

The Bucs 3-4 defense saw to that. "As long as I'm coach here," said John McKay on his weekly talk show, "We're going to run the 3-4 defense. It's the best defense for pro football."

And for one Sunday, Sims agreed. "I've run into the 3-4 before," mused

Sims. "But Tampa Bay plays it a lot tougher than anybody else."

"We didn't capitalize on a lot of things today. No question we missed Gary (Danielson), but you have to play with the people you got," pointed out Sims.

Sims seemed to be getting his act together on the last four plays of the third quarter. Detroit trailed, 14-10, when Eric Hipple replaced starter Jeff Komlo at quarterback.

Hipple called Sims' number four straight times and Billy replied with gains of five, four, three and eight yards for two first downs, moving the ball to midfield.

While Sims was taking a short breather, however, Hipple mishandled a snap and defensive tackle Bill Kollar, another standout Sunday, pounced on the ball to end the Detroit threat.

Three plays later, Williams found James Wilder behind everybody for a 37-yard scoring strike, and it was curtains for the Lions.

Seven plays later, Johnson picked off a Hipple pass with 7:53 to play and Williams moved to Bucs into range before finding tight end Jim Obradovich wide open in the left corner of the end zone for a six-yard finishing-touch TD.

While Sims wasn't real pleased with his showing, he promised better production when the Buccaneers come to Pontiac. "Up one week, down the next" Sims observed. "That's the good thing about football, you get another chance. We're going to get them in the Silver Dome."

Cure For Stinginess Won't Come Cheap

DEAR ABBY: All my life I have been very cheap, and the older I get, the cheaper I get, but I can't seem to help it. I am now 41, and I know that my friends and co-workers must talk about me behind my back. It's beginning to bother me.

I have enough money, so that's not the reason I'm cheap, but I go out of my way to avoid picking up a check, and sometimes I even lie and say I don't have any money with me.

What makes me act this way? And how can I get over it?

CHEAP IN TRENTON, N.J.

DEAR CHEAP: There is undoubtedly a deep-rooted psychological reason why you and your money are seldom parted. However, if you are sufficiently motivated to get over your cheapness, you can do it, but it won't be cheap. Through psychotherapy (there we go again!), you can be conditioned to loosen up.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column in the Delaware State News, a faithful girl Friday, signing herself "Lakewood, Calif.," said that her boss would give her $200 if she could guess within $200 the price of an elegant sofa shown in a magazine.

"Lakewood" said she guessed $280. The boss said the price was $3000 and refused to give her the $200, saying that her guess was just $1 low.

You concurred with her calculation that $280 is within $200 of the $3000, but I think she missed it by a whisker — Abe Lincoln's whisker on a penny, that is.

To be within $200 of $3000, her guess would have had to be at least $2800.01. The boss was wrong too. Her guess was 1 cent low instead of $1.

PICAYUNE PENNY IN DOVER, DEL.

DEAR PICAYUNE: Picky, picky, picky. Others (but not many) wrote to nail me on the error. As a "Promoter of Precise Phraseology" in San Francisco pointed out, the secretary's error was not in math, it was in ambiguous language.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent letter offering some informative tips on how to treat people who are blind, you listed many things the blind can do for themselves. However, you failed to mention one sport enjoyed by the blind that most people find truly amazing: downhill skiing!

Here in Aspen, Colo., there is a program called BOLD (Blind Outdoor Leisure Development), with about 125 trained local guides who guide sightless people wherever they want to ski on the mountain. We provide them with skiing lessons free, as well as rental equipment at no cost to them if they wish. We even take them out for evenings of "apres-ski." We help about 50 blind skiers a winter.

ROBERT E. LYON, SNOWMASS, COLO.
DEAR ROBERT: Kudos to you and those with the BOLD program.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that the child we adopted when he was 5 weeks old is now 30 and has leukemia. He is doing fairly well on chemotherapy pills, but his doctor says he may have to have a bone marrow transplant from a compatible person — meaning a blood relative.

Of course, since he is adopted I will need to know how to reach his birth mother if he is to have a transplant. Whom should I contact in the city of his birth in order to trace his birth mother? I'm sure there must be lawyers or agencies that do this.

NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: Get in touch with the adoption agency that placed the child with you. In some (but not in all) states, it will cooperate. Also write to ALMA, P.O. Box 154, Washington Heights Station, New York, N.Y. 10033, and list your name. This organization does an excellent job of "matching" adoptees with their natural parents when all parties concerned are eager to be reunited.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. Write to Abby: 12000 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 5000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Debbie Shannon, left, Public Affairs Chairman of the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford, introduces guest speaker Gretchen Molatch, center, to Nancy Crawford, club president.

Guardian Ad Litem Needs Volunteers

Gretchen Molatch, Circuit Coordinator, State of Florida Guardian Ad Litem Program, made a presentation dealing with the Guardian Ad Litem Program to the Junior Women's Club of Sanford at the Club's September general meeting.

Guardian Ad Litem is a citizen who volunteers to become part of a court program to represent the best interests of a child who becomes involved in the judicial system due to abuse and neglect.

The Guardian Ad Litem represents the best interest of the child in five basic ways, which are: investigator, monitor, protector, spokesperson and reporter.

A Guardian Ad Litem volunteer can be any person who has common sense, good judgment and the ability to care. Mrs. Molatch said.

Seminole County has been a pilot county for the Guardian Ad Litem Program and due to the efforts of volunteers, the program has produced great results, the speaker said.

For information regarding this program, contact Gretchen Molatch at the Seminole County Courthouse.

Attending FAU On Scholarship

Steven L. Weldon of Sanford, is attending Florida Atlantic University this fall under FAU's scholarship program which provides two-year scholarships through Phi Theta Kappa chapters at two-year colleges throughout the state.

A graduate of Seminole Community College and Seminole High School, Weldon will major in business administration and computer science.

He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Earl Weldon, 122 Krider Road, Sanford.

MRS. WILLIAM THOMAS CORSO Miss Hoffman, W.T. Corso Repeat Vows

Katharine Mary Hoffman became the bride of William Thomas Corso on Sept. 19 at All Souls Catholic Church, Sanford. Father William Ennis officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Lt. Cmdr. George A. Hoffman, Sr. USN Ret., of Fern Park, and Phyllis M. Hoffman, 111 Parkview Drive, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Audrey Corso, 127 Garrison Drive, Sanford, and the late John Charles Corso, Sr.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown of white Venise lace with a Queen Anne neckline. The gown was accentuated by tapered sleeves adorned with deep satin insets, a full A-line skirt with a deep border of satin and Venise lace cascading into a sweeping chapel train. Wearing a floor-length matching veil trimmed with Venise lace appliques, the bride carried a cascade arrangement of cattleya orchids accented with stephanotis and caladium leaves.

Susan Richards, sister of the bride, attended her as matron of honor. She wore an underdress of white coupe de ville with an overdress of pink chiffon, and carried a single white rose tied with pink ribbon and accented with baby's breath.

Attending as bridesmaids were Gail Bonjione, and Judy Hoffman, sisters of the bride; and Jean Chick and Patricia Corso, sisters of the groom. Their gowns were similar to that worn by the matron of honor in the colors of mint green, baby blue, peach, and lavender.

John Corso, Jr., brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsman were James and George Hoffman, brothers of the groom; Elliot Chick, the groom's brother-in-law; and Steven Richards, brother-in-law of the bride.

Kristi Leigh Richards, the bride's niece, was the flower girl.

Following a reception in the Police Benevolent Association building, the couple honeymooned in the Grand Cayman Islands. The Corsos now make their home in New Smyrna Beach.

The bride is employed as a secretary in the felony division of the State Attorney's office in Sanford. The groom is a self-employed building contractor.

Bob Salinski, owner of Gator Fence Company, Sanford, offers free estimates on business and commercial fence projects. All his work is guaranteed for one year.

With 15 years experience in the fence business in the state of Delaware he moved to the Sanford area in June and started Gator Fence Company here. His wife, Margaret, is employed at Harcar Aluminum as a purchasing administrator.

Whether you need chain link fence to secure your business or residential property; wooden stockade fence to provide privacy; or post and rail fence to add a practical and rustic decorative note to your yard or acreage, Gator Fence Co. can meet your needs.

To get the best in fencing for reasonable prices call Gator at 668-4212. Bob says, "Don't be sorry later, call Gator."

Barter Is Big For Businesses

NEW YORK (UPI) — A dentist offers to trade expensive work on teen-agers' teeth for a Caribbean vacation for his family.

Pepalco, the huge beverage and food combine, swaps soft drink syrups to the Russians for vodka.

A manufacturer stuck with too many bicycles trades them for travel services, hotel space and advertising space and time.

These are examples of how the electronic computer, high interest rates and the complexities of foreign currency translation rules in accounting are giving added lifts to the booming business of barter.

The manufacturer wanted not only to get rid of the surplus bikes but to save enough cash to pay off the inventory loans on them and end the high interest charges. The services he got in return reduced his outgoing cash flow so he could pay off the loans.

Pepalco and other multinational companies probably are responsible for the largest single share of an estimated $20 billion in all kinds of barter engaged in each year in the United States, says Mike Cummings, New York franchisee for Barter Systems, Inc., of Oklahoma City.

"These companies avoid a lot of currency exchange headaches," Cummings said. He said barter companies usually agree to dispose of any surplus they accept in trade in noncompeting markets.

Barter has been growing in the United States for 20 years, said Larry Inks, one of the founders of Barter Systems. His firm did about $100 million in barter brokerage last year and has about 65 franchised offices.

Ross Digby, of Exchange Enterprises, Inc., of Salt Lake City, agrees. He and his brother, Gaylin, started in the business 11 years ago. Larry Inks and his partner, Dean Andrus, worked for the Digbys before starting Barter Systems.

The Digbys did $112 million in barter trade last year. They have 51 franchised offices.

Second Image To Give Free Mink Stole Away

To express their appreciation to their current customers and introduce others to Second Image's fine selection of consignment clothing, owners Aubrey and Margie Combs are giving away absolutely free a beautiful mink stole.

No purchase is necessary, just come in and sign up for the stole. To be eligible persons registering for the free drawing must be 18 or older.

The drawing will be held at 3 p.m. Oct. 31, at Second Image located at 3104 South Sanford Ave. (at the Airport Boulevard intersection in the Cumberland Farms Plaza), Sanford.

Second Image specializes in women's and children's wear and since Margie and Aubrey opened the shop six months ago the stock has increased 10 fold.

For the brides-to-be, Second Image has added a large selection of 30 wedding gowns and accessories that are offered for sale or rental at a tremendous savings. They have new and used gowns in sizes up through 18.

There is also a good selection of gowns for bridesmaids and the mother of the bride.

Second Image has women's clothing from size 3 to 56, children's sizes from infant to 20 for boys and 16 for girls. Women's fashions range from long and short formals to sportswear including designer jeans, sweaters, blazers, pant suits, dress slacks, coats, jackets, skirts, suits, blouses, and lingerie, many with famous name brand labels.

To round out your fall outfit, you will also find accessories such as handbags, scarves, jewelry and shoes.

Margie Combs, co-owner of Second Image in Sanford, models mink stole to be given away on Oct. 31.

You can also find the unusual at Second Image, such as riding boots and jodhpurs, 40s and 50s clothes, square dance dresses, World War II sailor uniforms and a "Phyllis Diller" dress if you are looking for a costume for that Halloween party.

You'll always find sale items at Second Image. Consignment items on the racks after 30 days are reduced up to 25 percent and after 60 days may be reduced up to 50 percent.

Items not sold in 90 days may be picked up by the consignee or become property of Second Image, except for wedding gowns and furs, which have no time limit.

Second Image is designed to take surplus family clothing accessories in consignment from local individuals and retailers. They are looking for designer styles in recent or current fashions in like new condition. Second Image is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday and until 8 p.m. on Friday.

Remember "you are always first at Second Image."

FP&L Tells County

Like It Or Else

By DARLENE JENNINGS Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commission was told Monday that it could either accept having two 500-kilovolt transmission lines laid through the county or meet with Florida Power & Light Co. representatives in Tallahassee to talk about it.

June Small, FPL project manager, and Carlos Alvarez, a lawyer for the company, explained to the board that under the 1980 Transmission Line Act, a state hearing officer can grant a non-procedural variance in case a county objects to placing transmission lines in a certain zoned area — for instance, a residential district.

The representatives said the company is not looking to put the lines in an area zoned as residential, however.

Alvarez said the state hearing officer can approve the zoning the company needs to lay the transmission lines from one end of Seminole County to the other, running west of the old Ocoee Airfield and between Lake Harney and Geneva.

Commission Chairman Bob Sturm observed that the new act "takes away local powers," but Alvarez replied that the state has determined this method to be the best way for setting up transmission lines.

Alvarez said the state hearing officer can approve the zoning the company needs to lay the transmission lines from one end of Seminole County to the other, running west of the old Ocoee Airfield and between Lake Harney and Geneva.

Commission Chairman Bob Sturm observed that the new act "takes away local powers," but Alvarez replied that the state has determined this method to be the best way for setting up transmission lines.

The new act is patterned after the 1974 Power Plant Siting Act. The 1980 act was adopted by the Legislature when the state found problems with the old act.

Ms. Small told the board the transmission line will run through six counties, including Seminole, and that the preferred corridor for the two lines is one mile wide and 175 miles long from Duval County's (Jacksonville's) substation to Pinellas Substation in Orange County — on the west side of the St. Johns River —, and also pass through Rice Substation in Putnam County and Rima Substation in Volusia County, Ms. Small said.

However, she said the mile-wide corridor will never actually exist as a marked area because it is only part of the "big picture."

What the company actually is looking for is a 330-foot right-of-way within and along the mile-wide corridor, she added.

After the state Department of Environmental Regulation grants the company a transmission-line license — expected in 1982 — FP&L will be free to start looking for the 330-foot right-of-way and then the mile-wide corridor "vanishes," according to Ms. Small.

"By having the wide corridor for transmission lines," she said, "it gives the utility more flexibility for looking for a suitable right-of-way."

It is possible for the hearing officer to recommend moving the corridor or ask the utility not to use certain portions of it, she said.

The new law, which permits superceding counties in zoning variances for transmission lines, was passed by the Legislature when the state saw problems with the act as it existed in 1974.

"It used to be that once the county decided about the utility laying lines, the developer could move along. But power companies have to go to all the county boards involved," Alvarez said.

"Different lines in different counties did not always meet at the county line, so the legislature saw a way to alleviate the problem by passing the act," he added.

The lawyer said the new act is "cost-saving" because it expedites setting up the lines without realignment for lines that don't meet at county borders.

NOTICE OF REGULATION OF LAND USE

The Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County, Florida, proposes to regulate the use of land within the area shown in the map in this advertisement. A public hearing on the proposal will be held on October 13, 1981, at the hour of 7:00 p.m., or soon thereafter, in Room 300 of the Seminole County Courthouse, Sanford, Florida. The public hearing is being held in order to discuss and hear comments on additions and revisions to comprehensive amendments to the adopted Seminole County Comprehensive Plan.

As part of the continuing process of keeping the Comprehensive Plan responsive to changing circumstances and perceptions of community needs, comprehensive amendments to the Plan have been prepared. The primary issues associated with the amendments are presented below. The Board of County Commissioners considered the comprehensive amendments in public hearings on July 28, 1981 and August 11, 1981.

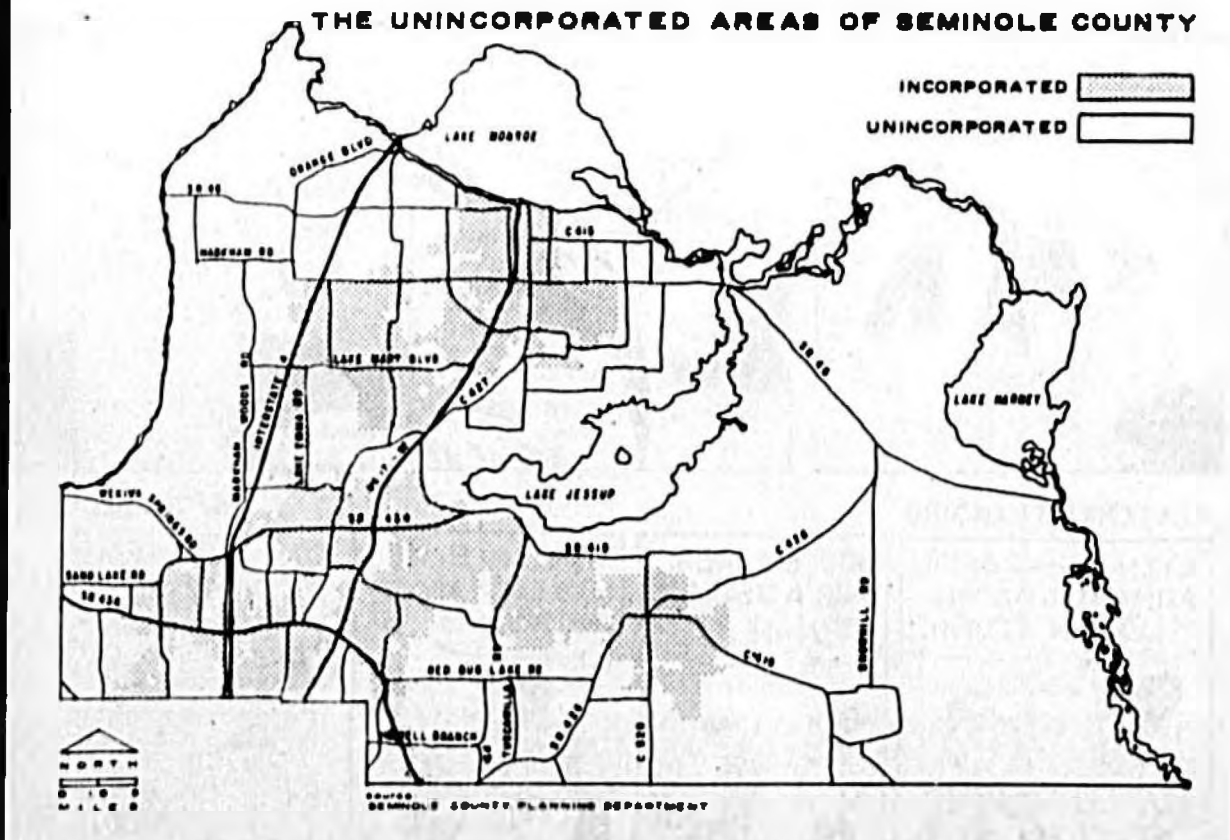

The purpose of the public hearings is to provide the public an opportunity to present comments to the Board of County Commissioners for or against the draft amendments. All interested individuals are encouraged to make their views known. To help in the public review a summary of the draft amendments, the draft amendments and the minutes of the Local Planning Agency public hearing where the amendments were discussed have been compiled into the report "Draft Comprehensive Amendments — 1981." The report is available for review at the Planning Department of the Courthouse in Sanford. A limited number of the reports are available for distribution to groups representing diverse business, professional, civic and community interests, and to members of the general public. All interested groups and individuals are encouraged to critically review these draft amendments, ask questions and provide reactions. Contact Woody Price, Planning Director at 323-4336 ext. 181 for information. Staff of the Planning Department is available to discuss the draft amendments should individuals or groups so desire.

SUMMARY
A. Amendments to the Short Range Development Plan
1. Identifies exceptions to Table 10 "Land Use Categories Defined in Terms of Zoning Districts" designations of zoning classifications permitted in land use categories.
2. Provides general definitions of land use categories.
3. Sets out criteria for allowing PUD zoning in land use categories other than PUD.
4. Describes intent and purpose of Transitional Areas.
5. Includes two alternative revisions to Table 10, "Land Use Categories Defined in Terms of Zoning Districts"
a. Alternative 1 permits a new zoning district (C-5 for Convenience

More Commercial) in all land use categories except Low Intensity Commercial.
b. Alternative 2 permits a new zoning district (C-5 for Convenience More Commercial) in only the non-residential land use categories other than Low Intensity Commercial.
B. Amendments to the Development Framework
1. Identifies Low Intensity Commercial as a land use category.
2. Introduces and provides policies for Transitional Areas.
3. Presents policy, pursuant to statutory requirement, providing for group home and foster care facilities in Medium and High Density Residential and PUD land use categories.
4. Clarifies density ranges for residential land use categories.
C. Amendments to "Appendix C — The Amendment Process"
1. Provides procedures and worksheets to be incorporated into "Appendix C — The Amendment Process" setting out how amendments to the Land Use Maps are to be reflected once adopted by the Board.
2. Presents revisions to "Appendix C — The Amendment Process" required because the four-fifths (4/5) vote requirement for specific amendments was deleted by statutory action.
(Preservation and Conservation land use categories are expressly excluded from consideration for amendment at this time.)
THE BOARD WILL CONSIDER ADOPTION OF THE FOLLOWING ORDINANCE:

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING ORDINANCE NO. 77-25, THE SEMINOLE COUNTY COMPREHENSIVE PLAN, PROVIDES FOR EXCEPTIONS TO TABLE 10 OF THE SHORT RANGE DEVELOPMENT PLAN; PROVIDES DEFINITIONS OF LAND USE CATEGORIES; PROVIDES FOR INTENT AND PURPOSE OF TRANSITIONAL AREAS; PROVIDES FOR CHANGES IN TABLE 10 OF THE SHORT RANGE DEVELOPMENT PLAN; AMENDS DENSITY RANGES IN DEVELOPMENT PLANNING AND REGULATION OF THE DEVELOPMENT FRAMEWORK; PROVIDES FOR ACQUISITION SITES FOR GROUP HOME AND FOSTER CARE FACILITIES; PROVIDES FOR LOW INTENSITY COMMERCIAL AS A LAND USE CATEGORY; PROVIDES POLICIES FOR TRANSITIONAL AREAS; PROVIDES FOR THREE-FIFTHS (3/5) MAJORITY VOTE OF GOVERNING BODY TO ADOPT SPECIFIC AMENDMENTS; PROVIDES FOR LAND USE MAP CHANGES TO THE MAP AND WORKSHEETS; PROVIDES FOR EXCLUSION FROM SEMINOLE COUNTY CODE, SEVERABILITY AND AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE DSOL For Wednesday, October 7, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY October 7, 1981 There could be some very pleasant things happening for you this coming year involving the security you want for yourself and your family. You'll be given the opportunity; just don't let friends talk you out of it. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The only person who is thinking down about you today is yourself. You might talk yourself right into being miserable by negative self-judgment. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Keep your opinions to yourself today, especially if they are demeaning toward another. You could find yourself in hot water if you voice them. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Being a nice person could get you thrown together with someone everyone else is trying to avoid. Speak up so they don't palm him or her off on you. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're in a sociable mood today, which might be just the reason you can't concentrate. It's best not to begin things which, once begun, must be finished. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Getting along with others will be no problem today, so long as you keep everything aboveboard. If anyone feels he or she is being talked about, hurt feelings will result. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Keep busy today. Avoid getting into discussions which might be touchy, especially with family members. Why spoil what could be a pleasant day? VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Mental pursuits won't necessarily be your strong suit today, so if you find your concentration straying, stop and do things which are routine. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You've heard the expression, "You are what you think." Well, this could be applied to you today concerning what you think your worth is in this world. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Charm and good humor work well for you, so don't give in to being argumentative, even when provoked. Keep your wits about you and laugh everything off. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) "Insiders" information which may be given to you today must be treated with the secrecy it deserves. Tell no tales and you can't be accused of the leak. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may not want to be alone today, but don't go so far as to pick up everyone's tab just to keep them around you. This could never bring you happiness. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't think you must babble senselessly just so others will know you're around. Most of the time, people prefer the company of a listener. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The only person who is thinking down about you today is yourself. You might talk yourself right into being miserable by negative self-judgment. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Keep your opinions to yourself today, especially if they are demeaning toward another. You could find yourself in hot water if you voice them. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Being a nice person could get you thrown together with someone everyone else is trying to avoid. Speak up so they don't palm him or her off on you. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're in a sociable mood today, which might be just the reason you can't concentrate. It's best not to begin things which, once begun, must be finished. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Getting along with others will be no problem today, so long as you keep everything aboveboard. If anyone feels he or she is being talked about, hurt feelings will result. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Keep busy today. Avoid getting into discussions which might be touchy, especially with family members. Why spoil what could be a pleasant day? Aspirin Unproven Heart Medicine

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am confused about using aspirin to prevent heart attacks and strokes. I have been taking aspirin because heart attacks seem to run in my family. Now I have read that aspirin doesn't help women but only helps men. That seems odd. Is that true? Why would aspirin work anyway? Does it thin the blood? If so, will it cause a person to bleed or hemorrhage? Should you take aspirin for high blood pressure? DEAR READER - There are lots of unanswered questions about the use of aspirin in preventing both heart attacks and strokes. So far it has been proved to provide some help in preventing men from having recurrences. It has not been proved to prevent attacks in people who have never had a stroke or a heart attack and it has not been shown to improve the outlook in women. Why? No one knows for sure. Aspirin in the correct dose - and authorities are still trying to find out what is the best amount, which may be smaller than commonly used - will help prevent the clumping of small cells in your blood called platelets. Platelet clumping is the first step in the formation of a blood clot. Cigarette smoking causes clumping. I don't think anyone should start taking even small doses of aspirin on his own to prevent heart attacks or strokes. As The Health Letter number 88, Aspirin and Related Medicines, which I am sending you explains, there are potential hazards to regular aspirin consumption. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Aspirin in the plain form or in combination with antacids or other preparations certainly can reduce bleeding. Chronic use of aspirin often causes irritation of the lining of the stomach. The combination of aspirin and alcohol, often used by people to treat a cold, is especially hard on the stomach and should be avoided by all. Despite its drawbacks, aspirin remains a rather safe medicine if a person knows its limitations and does not abuse its use. Its effectiveness may be limited some by taking it with meals but the food helps to protect the stomach from irritation. DEAR DR. LAMB - Would you write something about a brain wave test? I've been told they find out about your past with these tests. I have a friend who is going to have this. They say it doesn't hurt you but they hook you up to a machine with lots of wires to your brain. If it is real bad I won't tell her. DEAR READER - There is nothing to it. Your brain constantly creates electrical impulses. If it didn't you would be dead. Those electrical impulses are transmitted throughout your body but, of course, are strongest over the brain itself. The test simply attaches electrodes to the scalp to measure the electrical activity of the surface of your brain. The wires and electrodes are not attached to the brain in any way. Some techniques do involve putting very fine needles in the scalp but not through the skull or into the brain. Now the test will not reveal your past. Its uses are actually somewhat limited but it is an important test in studying brain function and evaluating symptoms that are sometimes caused by a change in brain function - such as unexplained fainting, headaches or visual disturbances.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Then he showed us today's hand and remarked that all South players in the weekly duplicate had bid and made four hearts. The play started with a diamond won by East as cheaply as possible and the lead of the diamond ace at trick two. All Souths ruffed and all Wests, but one, overruffed and led their remaining trump. South would lose the spade finesse, but could then ruff his two losing spades with dummy's last two trumps and make four. Against our hero, on trick two West played a low club without any apparent thought. In fact there was no thought. West hadn't seen his king of hearts at that point in time. Now South led the queen of hearts and rose with dummy's ace. After all East was marked with that king and it could be a singleton. If not, South could still take the spade finesse and make four or five depending on whether or not it worked. So he led a spade from dummy and finessed his queen. West took his king and said, "Look what I just found." Then he led his king of trumps that was the third defensive trick and the unlucky expert could only ruff one losing spade and was down one for a zero. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASS.)

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

The unlucky expert had cornered us for the first time in months. "Have I got the hard luck hand of all-time for you," was his start.
