Yellow Jackets Come From Behind; Joe Moss Hits For 21 Krider Scores 20

By RENT CHETLAIN
LEESBURG (Special)—A confident Scott-constructed basketball machine romped off to a whopping 17-13 first period lead and moved it up 30-25 by intermission but suddenly wavered, grinding to 41-40, but they edged and then fought hard in the last period only to fall, 57-55, here last night.

Those incomparable Seminole Jay Vee cagers crushed the Leesburg JVs to extend the Fed winning streak to six straight wins with but a single setback this season. Giant Joe Moss poured in 21 markers from the court, underlined and at the side board on tip ins.

The Leesburg victory over the Scottmen gave the Seminoles a dismal record of 9-1 record in non-conference games, but they still own a nifty 3-1 mark in East Florida Conference.

Lanky Jimmy Krider was the outstanding player. He scored 20 points and grabbed 11 rebounds. Jack Krider, also a big man, had 12 points and 11 rebounds. The other scorers were: Walter Duda, 12 points; Charlie Shaw, 11 points; and Jimmy Carter, 10 points.

Oviedo Ekes By Lyman, 41-37, For 6th Straight Win In CFC.

Final Period Rally Staves Off First Lion Setback In CFC This Season

OVIDIO (Special)—Bolstered by the return of Jimmy Newman and Jimmy Carter, a pesky Lyman High quintet all but upset the high school boys.

Walter Duda, Charlie Shaw, Jimmy Carter, and Jimmy Newman were the stars for Oviedo. Duda scored 15 points, Shaw 12, Carter 10, and Newman 8. Lyman's Jimmy Jones was the only other scorer, with 10 points.

Oviedo's victory over Lyman gave them a 6-0 record in the East Florida Conference. Lyman's record stands at 1-5.

The game was a close one, with Oviedo leading 21-19 at the end of the first period. Lyman fought back to tie the game at 31-31 at the end of the second period. Oviedo took a 41-37 lead at the end of the final period.

Sports Roundup

NEW YORK—The cloud is not much bigger than a skillet at the moment, but we have a deep down feeling after reading the latest news from Australia that it's touch and go whether the next Olympic Games will be held at Melbourne. This country could get the meet.

There plainly has been a great change since we were in Melbourne just over three weeks ago and had an extended talk with Arthur W. Cole, the big shot industrialist who had been coaxed into taking on the enormous task of organizing the 1956 carnival.

Cole, retired and wealthy, accepted the job only because he felt he was needed and that he would be given pretty much of a free hand in unloading what was fast developing into an unorganized mess.

Now, less than a month later we read that they apparently are right back where they started.

This presents, incidentally, more of a problem than just erecting a new stand to replace the ancient structures on one side of the field which went up originally during Queen Victoria's reign. The cricket ground isn't anywhere near level.

One side of the field is, in fact a dozen feet higher than the other. Cole didn't anticipate any difficulty with the state of Victoria's new laborite government about obtaining promised funds for building the new stadium, but we note that Premier John Cain has ordered work halted pending conference with the cricket crowd.

There is strong opposition from some quarters to building anything new at this time except low-cost housing.

The only comment reported to have been made by Cole was the cryptic remark that "instead of the games we now have a sit argument." That sounds like a man who was getting fairly well along with his work.

The day he decided to leave enough will be a bad one for the Aussies.

10 College Cage Coaches Agree New Free Throw Rule Is Failure

By RUP WATSON
NEW YORK (Special)—Coaches of the nation's 10 best college basketball teams were pretty much agreed today that the new free throw rules have increased scoring without decreasing the number of personal fouls, but they didn't agree at all on the rules' effect on style of play.

All of the coaches except Ken Laeffler, coach of fourth-ranked La Salle, thought that the rule awarding a bonus free throw if the first one is missed had increased scoring. Similarly, Honey Russell, coach of undefeated Seton Hall, top-ranking team in the country, was the only coach who thought the rules have cut down fouling.

The coaches were asked how the new rules had affected their team's style of play, the number of personal fouls called and the number of points scored.

"The rules help the team with the ball," Russell said. "They help the kids in the personal foul column and also in the scoring column."

Laeffler, who guided La Salle to the National Invitation Tournament championship last year, said his team is "collecting less points from the foul line than before the new rule."

"Today a player figures if he misses the first foul attempt he'll make it on the second," Laeffler said. "But actually when a player is careless in shooting the first time it makes him more careless the second time."

Russell also praised the rule awarding two free throws for foul personal fouls committed in the final three minutes.

"Fewer teams can't foul in discriminate," he commented. "Now a team that's losing in the last three minutes has to use skilled defensive players instead of haphazard ones."

Hank Iba of eighth-ranked Oklahoma A&M, like Russell a defense-minded coach, commented that the rule "amounts to a 10-point advantage for the offense."

WILLIE PEP WINS
MIAMI BEACH (Special)—Former featherweight champion Willie Pep, Hartford, Conn., won from Davey Mitchell, Toronto, Tuesday night with a unanimous decision in 10 rounds.

Pep, who weighed 120½, used a left jab and outclassed Mitchell all the way. The Canadian weighed 131 pounds and appeared reluctant to fight.

Although Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians did not have a good year in 1952, he managed to pitch his 11th one-hitter.

Acquisition Of Ferris Fain Is Boost To Chisox Pennant Dreams

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO (Special)—Landing reliable Ferris Fain from the Philadelphia Athletics has pumped the Chicago White Sox full of 1953 pennant dreams.

General Manager Frank Lane today was in a state of high elation over his successful year-long attempt to reel in the 30-year-old first baseman who led American League batters with 341 in 1951 and 327 last season.

To get consistent hitting Fain, the latest bit of trade bait that has been dangling for two years, the White Sox gave up their only proven long ball hitter, first sacker Eddie Robinson.

That others were involved in the off-season's biggest baseball deal is somewhat inconsequential. The A's also donated Bob Wilson, rookie second baseman who batted .269 for Indianapolis in the American Association in 1952. The Sox gave up outfielder Ed Metzger and infielder Joe deMaestri, both of whom were unsuccessful in previous flings with Chicago.

The relinquishing of Robinson, 32-year-old power swinger, who batted .266 last season, was viewed as some misgiving among White Sox fans who have thought all along that Lane was shopping for another long-ball hitter.

Robbie in the last two years has driven in twice as many as Fain, 221 to 111.

This fact gave rise to some speculation that perhaps Lane eventually would trade Fain, possibly to the New York Yankees for outfielder Hank Bauer and first baseman Jack Collins.

"We're not a far club for the Yankees," snapped Lane. "I expect Fain to be our first baseman for the next five or six years. We aren't dickerling for him a year ago and kept it up. Only in the last week did we offer Robinson in any such deal."

Lane said Fain will fit in perfectly. "With the definite program we've been planning at Comiskey Park for years in getting a pennant winner."

"We're not a farm club for the speed, defensive ability and hitting ability," he added. "We are designing it around the spaciousness of Comiskey Park, where we play 77 games. Fain will do better for us there than Robbie. Robbie should do better at Philadelphia, just like Gus Zernial did when we traded him to the A's. Both clubs benefited in the trade."

Florida Winter Golf Tournament Begins
ST. AUGUSTINE (Special)—The 28th Florida Winter Golf Tournament opened here today with 72 amateur golfers on hand including defending champion Dan Sikes, Jacksonville, and two other former winners.

An 18-hole qualifying round will single out a championship flight of 16 who'll play 18 holes daily through Sunday over the par 72 Ponce de Leon course.

Sikes, former captain of the University of Florida golf team, is exempt from qualifying.

The other former winners are Jimmy Paul, Daytona Beach, who also plays out of New York; and Frank Allan Pittman, Pa., who won the tournament three times.

13 Major Leaguers Ink Playing Pacts
NEW YORK (Special)—With the first squads due to report to their spring training camps in less than a month, major league contract signing continues unabated.

Thirteen players, nine of them pitchers, were listed among the satisfied yesterday.

Ted Gray of Detroit, Clyde King, Johnny Schmitz and Ivan Johansen, all of Cincinnati, and Ray Myers of the Post, who also signed, were the hurlers to join the fold.

The others were shortstop Chico Carrasquel of the Chicago White Sox, Andy Seminick, Cincinnati, Johnny Bucha, Detroit, and Del Wilber of the Boston Red Sox. The latter three are catchers.

Meanwhile, at Pittsburgh, Ralph Kiner, the Pirates' home run slugger, was sharply critical of the club's insistence that he take the maximum 25 per cent pay slash.

Furore Builds Up Over Staged Raid For Invited Brass

General Collins Will Be Asked To Give Explanation Of Operation In Korea

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Short (R-Mo.) said today Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, will be asked to explain to Congress the details of the controversial "Operation Smack" in Korea.

A congressional uproar developed in the wake of reports that American troops were hurled in a futile and presumably costly attack against a Korean hill post Sunday before invited generals and war correspondents.

A bill was introduced in the House by Rep. Short (R-Mo.) today calling for a full-scale investigation to determine whether American boys were used as expendable cannon fodder for publicity purposes.

Short told the House today that the Army Services Committee, which he heads, had gotten into touch with Gen. Collins now in Japan and Korea on an inspection trip, and asked him to explain on his return just what happened.

"It is inconceivable to me that military leaders would willingly sacrifice human lives," Short told the members.

In any event, he said, the House would get "the true story when General Collins returns."

Collins is expected back Saturday night.

The invited spectators at the combat raid were supplied in advance with timetables of the action, but dispatches from Korea today said it was customary to have such operational plans for any battle action. These reports said officers frequently were on hand to learn combat lessons.

Hoffman's resolution asked the secretary of defense to explain "whether this raid was actually for justifiable military purposes or whether it was staged for some as yet unknown purpose."

The resolution probably will be referred to a House committee which may summon Wilson for an explanation.

Pentagon officials said they have requested a full report from the field. Hoffman's resolution also called for a report on "Operation Smack."

Another Republican House member, Bray of Indiana, said yesterday he had demanded an explanation from the Defense Department. Bray, an Army reserve colonel with four years' service in the Pacific, said he was "mad as hell" when he heard the story.

Mothers March On Polio To Be Held In Sanford Tonite

Between the hour of 7:00 and 9:00 o'clock tonight several thousand women from the surrounding area will conduct the "Mothers March on Polio" in conjunction with the national drive for funds with which to fight infantile paralysis.

Several organizations in Sanford have been recruited to take part in the march, according to Mrs. Wight Kirtley, representing the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority and Mrs. W. C. Messinger, representing the First Baptist Church. Members of the Florida Class of the First Baptist Church and other interested volunteers will also assist in the drive.

Tomorrow morning at Seminole High School auditorium the students will play the three volleyball games. It was reported by Homer George who explained that the program will be designed as a "March of Dimes" benefit. The school is aiming at raising $100, said Mr. Harris. Another feature of the program will be a talent show put on by the faculty members and musical selections by C. B. Schirag and the Vibra-Harp. The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend the program.

Drive For Funds For Industries Reaches $25,000

Cowan Asks Business Men To Volunteer Their Assistance

The drive to raise funds for Sanford Industries, Inc., which is being organized by Ralph Cowan and the Sanford Industrial Committee under the sponsorship of the City Commission has reached the half way mark of the minimum goal of $50,000. Mr. Cowan announced at noon today.

With $25,000 in pledges already realized, Mr. Cowan expressed confidence that the goal would be reached before the end of the week and urged all those who had not been contacted and who are really interested in the industrial growth of Sanford to give their faith by sending their checks voluntarily.

Volunteers who are aiding in contacting the various 3,000 business and professional men in the city are Fred R. Wilson, Lester Thorne, Judge R. W. Ware, Judge Douglas Stenstrom, John Williams, Ben Katz, W. A. Stempier and Bradley Osham.

"But the field is so great," Mr. Cowan said, "that these men cannot possibly contact everyone by themselves and we are therefore asking every business man and other person interested in permanent year around payrolls in Sanford to send in his check without waiting to be contacted."

Those who have ordered their interest in this corporation and the amount of their pledges are as follows:

- Handall Chase $1,500
- Herman $1,000
- Cowan's $1,000
- Yountman Drug Store 1,000
- Therrell $1,000

George, On His 75th Birthday, Is Gloomy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.) on his 75th birthday today pleaded the nation in a title of semi-detestable and uncertainty because of the Korean War.

But he saw a chance of possibly making some headway toward peace with Russia.

President Eisenhower, he said, is in a position to deal concretely with any proposal sincerely put forward by the United States.

George said that Eisenhower's State of the Union message to Congress next Monday will be eagerly read and studied for any positive program relating to Red China and Korea.

Any such program, he said, has some chance of "turning the tide" in a state of concern as to just what might be the new administration will follow.

George, seventy-five and healthy, has spent two years in the Senate last November, he is ranking Democrat on both the Senate Finance and Foreign Relations committees.

Sanford Man Honored

Lt. Col. J. Ross Adams Jr., formerly Commanding Officer of the 142nd Fighter Squadron, Delaware Air National Guard, received five Korea war combat medals at a formal awards formation held by the 14th Fighter Bomber Group, California Air National Guard, Jan. 25, at Van Nuys, Calif. The awards included a cluster to the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Bronze Star, and three clusters to the Air Medal. The DFC was awarded to Col. Adams for leading a group mission of 35 F-84 Thunderjets in a napalm bombing attack which completely destroyed a hand grenade factory near Yvon Young, North Korea. The Bronze Star was awarded for administrative skill in commanding the 7th Fighter Squadron, 4th Air Force, under combat conditions. The Air Medal was awarded for "meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight," including a strafing mission during which Col. Adams and three other F-84's destroyed 17 enemy troops. Col. Adams is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ross Adams of Sanford.

Wave Of Murders And Robberies In Baltimore Raises Citizens' Wrath

Baltimore, Md.—A wave of murders and robberies in the country's sixth largest city has touched off an angry reaction that spread today from the homes of wealthy citizens to the halls of the State Legislature.

The granddaughter of an early Maryland governor and her 35-year-old companion died under pitiless bludgeoning of an axe-wielding burglar.

A gentle, widely admired librarian was senselessly slashed to death in a 75-cent robbery. These recent crimes and dozens of other burglaries, robberies and auto accidents have alarmed the city's law-abiding citizens.

Send half of the criminals to the pen for 20 years and hang the other half," wrote one indignation letter to a member of the state lawmaking body.

Baltimore women going out these evenings to solicit contributions for the Mothers March on Polio are accompanied by police officers, firemen and volunteers from the civil defense minute men.

Yesterday, five civic leaders of the city met to discuss the situation.

Final arrangements for the Junior Chamber of Commerce Civic Center, which opened this afternoon at the Mellonville fair grounds, were discussed by District President, Jerry Hammer.

Mr. Hammer stressed the importance of a well organized and smooth functioning leadership program in building up the membership and the effectiveness of the club.

"Most of the Jaycee clubs that have undergone this leadership program," Mr. Hammer began, "have increased their membership by 100 percent or more."

Turning to the Seminole County situation, he inquired as to how the proposed formation of the Ovidio club was progressing.

Douglas Stenstrom, president, replied that the initial inquiry found that Ovidio was too small and the interest was lagging because Ovidio is a little agricultural town where most of the young men work in the day and vacation in the summer time.

Hammer suggested that the Seminole club should hold a joint meeting with some of the young men in Ovidio.

Mr. Stenstrom gratefully accepted the suggestion and said the Sanford club would try to work something out.

It was announced that Dick Chamber had accepted the chairmanship of the Jaycee Boy Scout program, and that William Herlihy was the new Junior Chamber Chamber chairman.

John Kender, chairman of the Jaycee Fishing Man committee, announced the committee had finished the map and passed out some of the new brochures.

Sweeping Overhaul Is Urged For Government Activities Scattered All Over World

Appointee Will Sell His Stock To Obtain Okay

Secretary Of Army Designate Agrees To Divest All Ties

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert T. Stevens said today he would divest a personal interest in the rifle company if the Senate Armed Services Committee insists he must in approval as secretary of the Army.

"If the committee feels I should dispose of my stock," he said, "I am prepared to do so."

Stevens, who earlier had asked for more time to decide the question, said he hoped the committee members would not "take quick action" on the issue.

Stevens went before the committee after President Eisenhower made a personal effort in the fight for speedy confirmation of his selection for secretary of the armed services.

Eisenhower decided to send for nominations to the Senate and in advance of their actual dispatch asked for hearings by the Armed Services Committee on the nominees.

The hearings quickly developed that the administration was relying heavily on an order issued by Charles E. Wilson, the new secretary of defense to clear the way for approval of Stevens and Hal Alex Tallott, secretary of the Air Force designate.

The Senate seemed inclined in advance to approve Robert Anderson, secretary of the Navy designate. He holds no stocks which have come into controversy.

The Wilson order directs that any stock held by a nominee must turn over to someone else any business matter involving a concern in which he has an interest.

Stevens presented to the committee a resignation from John W. Hayes, one-time Democratic presidential nominee, that he could retain his stock in the family concern and meet requirements of the law in the light of Wilson's order.

But the senators pressed him as to whether he would be willing to sell stock if that measure failed. Stevens made clear that he felt he should not be required to sell his stock in the J. H. Stevens Co. if he had to do so, he said, he feared that other people whom the government might want to call to service might be unable to respond.

"I plead with the committee to consider the best interests of the United States," he said.

At the outset of the hearing, Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass.) read a letter from Eisenhower asking for the hearing. He also called the committee's attention to Wilson's directive.

Telephone Rites Join Sanford Girl With Man In Guam

Miss June Howell, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Howell, became the bride yesterday of Sergeant Walter B. Caldwell, USAF, in a telephone telephone wedding ceremony.

Sergeant Caldwell is stationed on the island of Guam in the Pacific where he expects to be joined by his bride in about two months.

Mrs. Caldwell, a Sanford beauty operator, had been advised by telephone operators earlier this week to be at the office of Seminole County Judge Douglas Stenstrom at 4:00 p.m. yesterday.

She and her mother along with Miss Martha Grayson, her friend and witness, and the Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Brooks Jr. were in the judges office ready for the ceremony at the time selected.

However, they were notified by a post coast operator that the call had been postponed until Saturday. Friends actively by the Sanford group resulted in locating the groom, who finally found a witness at the end of the ceremony.

Dr. Brooks, pastor of the First Baptist Church, solemnized the wedding sitting at Judge Stenstrom's desk while the bride used an extension in the adjacent room. The romance started in the servicemen's home town of Montgomery, Ala. The couple have not seen each other since August.

GRASS FIRE Two grass fires were reported burning yesterday afternoon. Fire Chief M. N. Cleveland stated this morning, One took place at 2:54 p.m. on the lakefront at Magistana Avenue, and one at 5:25 p.m. in Florida Heights on South Sanford Avenue.

Eisenhower Hopes To Attend U. Of F. Centennial, He Tells Hillis Miller

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told a University of Florida official today he hopes to be able to attend the centennial of the University of Florida.

However, the university's president, Dr. J. Hillis Miller, said the president would have to put a question mark after the invitation. He has been invited to attend the centennial of William and Mary College and Dartmouth College. So he would like to go but he hopes to be able to make it.

A formal invitation to the president of a formal session was introduced to Eisenhower by the White House today by Dr. Miller. The invitation was given to the President by Gov. Mcarty and Hal Alex Miller, state campaign manager for Eisenhower during the election.

The entire delegation of Florida congressmen seven of whom are graduates of the university, also wrote letters.

The parents of Eisenhower's daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Eisenhower, have a number of occasions.

Episcopal Parish House Is Robbed

Approximately $15, of which $11 were in bills and the remainder in silver currency, was stolen last night when the Episcopal Parish House office was broken into and several steel cabinets forced open, it was revealed today by Police Chief Roy Williams.

Pollomon W. R. Cosgrove and O. E. Rostowall, answered Mr. Kirkhoff's call early this morning when the latter discovered the broken cabinets.

According to the police report, the person or persons who perpetrated the burglary, must have entered the church office through the west alley window or door. A green and cream colored ballroom fired boy's bicycle with red trim and white wall tires was discovered in the alley and police took the bike back to headquarters.

As yet, no one has been arrested, Chief Williams said.

MAYOR RE-ELECTED WILLOWOOD (AP)—Mayor John Wallace was re-elected to a fourth term in Wednesday's city election. Opponents were Dr. Charles G. Martin and Bob Bullard.

Senator Johnston Declares Minimum Of 100,000 Employees Could Be Relieved

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-S.C.) urged a sweeping overhaul today of the government's activities abroad, saying at least 100,000 employees overseas could be discharged.

He recommended not only an immediate reduction in "the variety, scope and size of our foreign programs and activities" but major changes in the organization and management of government operations around the world.

His proposals were set out in a report submitted to Vice President Nixon on the Senate president. They were based on a survey Johnston made last fall as chairman of the Senate Civil Service Committee of federal pay and personnel practices in the Near East, Africa and Europe.

Johnston said: "While great progress has been made in the execution of our many tremendous projects abroad, the very foundation of our foreign policy is being damaged by an undertone that is steadily increasing its pressure."

This underflow of law derives its strength from streams of infection overlapping authority, duplication of effort, wasteful practices, overstaffing and irresponsible and uncoordinated supervision and direction.

Johnston also said "We are losing the respect and good will" of the people in Western Europe due to our "over-the-top" foreign policy. He said more than 100,000 employees could be discharged.

The report also said that the "large number and high cost of U. S. employees abroad and the extent of the government's operations tend to breed distrust, suspicion, contempt and jealousy."

Johnston, who has opposed many foreign aid appropriations, said billions of dollars could be saved if his recommendations were adopted. He said more than 100,000 employees overseas could be discharged.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today approved two legislative proposals for their study.

They were Whitworth W. Aldrich to be ambassador to Great Britain and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord to be U. S. representative on the United Nations Human Rights Commission.

The approval came quickly after the two had testified before the committee. This action is a requirement that an FBI report be in hand before the committee acts.

Peacock Is Named To Head Scout Drive

W. J. Peacock, cashier of the Florida State Bank, has been named county chairman of the Boy Scout drive during National Boy Scout Week from Feb. 7 to 14, John Pearson, chairman of the Seminole County Boy Scouts, announced today.

Boy Wright, teller at the Sanford Atlantic National Bank, will serve as county chairman, and W. A. Feague, principal of the Oviedo School, will be the chairman for Oviedo. Mr. Pearson added, Additional chairman will be selected for other Seminole County towns.

A request for all churches, schools and civic organizations to lend their support to the drive, and to appoint captains and teams to aid in the solicitation was also made by Mr. Pearson who said, "Character building and good citizenship are the two foundation objectives at the Boy Scouts of America."

CABBAGE CROP LARGER GAINESVILLE (AP)—The winter cabbage crop is an estimated 15 percent larger than last year and retail supplies will be plentiful in the Southeast in February, Director H. H. Clayton of the Florida Agricultural Extension Service said today.

INCOME TAXES

Louis W. Tealinger, Director of Internal Revenue for the District of Florida, announced today that an Internal Revenue Agent will be at the Chamber of Commerce office between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on Feb. 12 and 13, for the purpose of giving advice on income tax returns. While most taxpayers will be able to prepare their own returns, according to the announcement, this service will be rendered where needed at no charge to the taxpayers.

 TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

Colleges, churches and industry put old men on the shelf after a certain age has been reached. Humanly cannot afford to lose the fruitful lives of men rich in experience and beautiful in character. Old people in a home are a benediction. They shall still bring forth fruit in old age. — Ps. 92:14.

The Kentucky Bankers Association is contemplating two-seated tractors so that bankers can ride beside the man that grows the crops to better understand his problems. Now, in order for the farmer to understand the banker's problems we suggest some extra keys to the vault.

Ralph Cowan's campaign to raise funds for Sanford Industries, Inc. gets off to a flying start with more than $15,000 in pledges the first day. But something like $50,000 will be needed to give the organization the financial strength it will have to have to do the sort of job that is needed. Prosperity and jobs for people, is everybody's business, and Sanford Industries, Inc. is a sort of business that everybody ought to be engaged in because that is what it is, furnishing jobs, payrolls and prosperity for everyone.

An aide of General Van Fleet comes back from Korea and reports that the war may last 50 years. It would not be the first 50 years war in the world's history, nor even if it lasted a hundred years. But we do not think it will. We do not think the American people will be satisfied to let it last 50 years. This business of going on fighting was forever, of young men looking forward to nothing but service in the army, is distasteful to most Americans. They will find a way out.

You cannot thumb your nose at London's policemen. They are the only organized police force in the world which does not carry guns, and the government means to preserve respect for them. So Derek Bentley, 19 year old youth, is hanged in Wandsworth Prison, not for shooting a policeman, but for being there when one was shot. He was an accomplice in a hold up, and his pal shot the policeman, but the pal was only 16, too young under British law to be responsible, and so Derek paid with his life. You cannot have law and order unless there is respect for law and order.

Florida taxpayers, as well as the parents of young children, should keep up with the proceedings of the State budget hearings where it has just been disclosed that public schools will need $176,000,000 during the next two years, or more than half the total sum requested by all State agencies. Nearly $40,000,000 of this amount is slated for new school buildings, so badly needed if the 30,000 new school children next year and the other 30,000 children the year after, are to be accommodated. The problem of financing Florida's public schools is not a simple one and is going to require the best brains in the state to solve.

When an Alabama Negro convict told an Ohio judge that he preferred to return to Kilby prison in the heart of Dixie to finish out 99 years on a robbery sentence, the judge could not believe his own ears. He asked the prisoner, "Are you sure you want to do this?" "I'm sure the Negro was a trusty at Kilby that he'd been treated all right and that he enjoyed life there. He reflected on some of the other prison cases which have occurred in the last few months in Ohio and New York, all coming from eye witness confessions, and he said, 'Well, sure, I'd like to see that Negro ready to do this.'"

Blocked By Courtesy

President Eisenhower's first choice for the important post of Ambassador to India was Val Peterson, former Governor of Nebraska. Because of the opposition of the two Senators from Nebraska, confirmation of the appointment seemed impossible and President Eisenhower had to withdraw Peterson's name.

So far all the Eisenhower appointments have met with general approval. The President has a way of gathering good men about him that is heartening to the people who elected him. It must be presumed that he considered the appointment of Peterson carefully, weighed the man's worth and found in him the abilities and qualities needed in an Ambassador for India.

The opposition to the appointment was raised by the senior senator from Peterson's home state, Hugh Butler, with the support of Nebraska's junior senator, Dwight Griswold. Had the appointment come to a vote Butler would have declared Peterson "personally obnoxious." This is a Senate technique which usually results in a vote against confirmation of an appointment.

Butler was a last-ditch backer of Senator Taft for the Republican presidential nomination while Peterson supported Eisenhower. The two men also opposed each other in a bitter primary battle for the Republican Senatorial nomination from Nebraska. Apparently Butler is unwilling to let bygones be bygones.

It is difficult to see why an able man should be barred from serving his country in an important capacity simply because he has offended a senator from his home state. It is even more difficult to understand why the majority of the Senate should let one or two men block such an appointment instead of deciding the matter on the basis of the merits of the appointee. The practice of "senatorial courtesy" sometimes seems like an act of discourtesy to the American people.

Spirit In Pictures

There has been a great deal of justified criticism of the infant television industry. Producers sometimes violate rules of good taste, the programs are frequently aimed at a mental level that is an insult to the intelligence of audiences and some of the presentations are dull and uninteresting. But the recent telecasts of the inauguration ceremonies are a good example of the tremendous potential TV holds as an instrument of communication.

Because of television millions of Americans were able to watch their new President take his oath to fulfill his duties faithfully. Those who watched the inaugural drama unfold could not help but get a better idea of what democracy means and of how it works.

The pictures of the man leaving office and the man about to succeed him formed a graphic statement of how smoothly authority can be transferred in a free country where the people make their own decisions. The camera studies of the face of President Eisenhower, grave and unsmiling as he took the oath, smiling and confident after the solemn ceremony was over, could not help but inspire those who watched it.

Democracy is more than a code of laws and a system of executing them. It is a spirit shared by men who believe that freedom is more precious than wealth, that man has the dignity to govern himself. It was not just the details that were captured by television on inauguration day; something of the spirit and the faith of this country was caught by the cameras and mirrored across our land for all to see.

Laying Down The Law

Soviet lawyers, came in for recent criticism by the official Russian newspaper "Izvestia." Apparently the barristers are not careful enough about their ideology. In an outstanding example of complicated phrasing and gobbledygook Izvestia warned:

"Soviet jurists must energetically struggle with manifestations of bourgeois ideology in our jurisprudence." The Communist newspaper was advising the lawyers that they had better forget any western concepts of justice they might still hold. In a land where a man is definitely guilty upon accusation, where human rights are ignored, where trials are simply ceremonies for public confessions of guilt, it is not surprising that lawyers should be restrained. What is surprising is the fact that there are still lawyers left in the land.

"Keep that up and first thing you know, they'll be giving you a speaking part."

1952's Good News
 North Carolina State

Among 1952's good news was a trend toward diversification of our industries. This is most apparent in counting up the businesses which have come into the state from outside—either as new enterprises or relocation of old ones. A State News Bureau summary shows that some of the major industries announced for North Carolina last year were Westinghouse Electric Co., Raleigh, $12,000,000 meter plant; P. Lorillard Co., Greensboro, multi-million dollar Old Gold cigarette plant and leaf processing factory; Gorham Manufacturing Co., Asheville, silver-ware plant; Talon, Inc., zipper plants at Belmont, Stanley and Woodlawn; Western Electric Company, Winston-Salem and Greensboro, electronics; Sylvania Electric Products Co., High Point, TV cabinet plant; Cornell-Dubler Corp., Sanford, electronics plant.

The Babcock and Wilcox Co., headquartered at Barboursville, Ohio, and the world's largest makers of steam boilers, went into production in a new plant established in the World War II shipyard in Wilmington. Other metal working and machinery developments during the year included production of steel tanks by Gary-Carolina Co., Rocky Mount, and establishment or expansion of plants by Blue Corp. and Standard Designers, Inc., in Asheville, and Whiting Machine Works in Charlotte.

In the chemical field, Reichhold Chemicals, Inc., completed a new plant in Charlotte for making synthetic resins. Robertson Chemical Co. completed a fertilizer factory near Statesville.

The year 1952 was a boom in idea production and establishment of a government buying depot in Spruce Pine. A year of mines began selling through it. In Asheville the Furman Mfg. Co. tripled its production. Near Henderson, the Tongest Mining Corp. doubled its capacity for producing this strategic metal, becoming the second largest producer in the U. S.

Expansion of electric power facilities continued with a tremendous surge. Carolina Power & Light Co. began a 235,000kw steam plant on the Cape Fear River near Wilmington, and made 100,000kw additions to its relatively new steam plants at Goldsboro and Lumberton. Duke Power Co. went ahead with building expanded capacity that will aggregate over 500,000kw by 1954; Virginia Electric & Power Co. began a $27,000,000 hydro-electric plant at Roanoke Rapids; and generations of power began at the Bugs Island government plant which will distribute its output in areas served by the Virginia Electric and Carolina Power & Light. Generating capacity was expanded both by Nantahala Power & Light Co., in Jackson County, and by TVA at Fontana and Chatugee.

North Carolina leads the South Atlantic states in power production, according to the National Association of Electric Companies, which predicted that expansions now underway and planned will increase the State's generating capacity to 250 million kw by 1955. North Carolina is still a state of textile and tobacco production. But each year thousands of additional citizens have new opportunities to go into other industries. As this new army of workers is trained, its presence will inevitably contribute to the inducements we offer for further diversification.

To the Editor: Please accept the sincere gratitude of the Seminole Tuberculosis Association, its board of directors and all its members for the support your paper and its staff gave to the 1953 Christmas Seal Sale.

Your generosity in devoting news and editorial space to the recent Campaign to raise funds to fight tuberculosis was an important element in its success. It was another example of the public spirited support your newspaper has always given to every effort to improve the health and welfare of this Community.

The association now moves into a new year, firm in the conviction that the months ahead will bring great progress toward our goal: The Defeat of Tuberculosis, the No. 1 killer among infectious diseases.

Tuberculosis can be conquered. It will be conquered with the cooperation of an alert, well informed public. The contribution of newspapers such as yours toward this end cannot be estimated. It can only be accepted with deepest gratitude.

Mrs. J. P. Cullen, Publicity Chairman, 1952-53, Seminole Tuberculosis Association.

THE WORLD TODAY
 By JAMES HARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—In office only 10 days, President Eisenhower already has had a bumpy time of it with Congress, where his own party is in control.

He has not had a break with the lawmakers. He has not suffered any major defeats or reverses at their hands yet. But they have refused to rubber-stamp his suggestions.

Most of his trouble has been over men he picked for high office. But the groundwork was laid this week to make it easier for Congress to block any Eisenhower attempts at reorganizing or streamlining the government.

His first bump was the nomination of Charles E. Wilson, former president of General Motors as secretary of defense. When Wilson told the senators he saw no reason to sell his G. M. stock, the senators said "Whoa."

They pointed out he might have to pass on government contracts with G. M. if he was secretary. He said he could do it impartially. That wasn't the point, they said. They reminded him: There's a law forbidding a government official to make a government business with a firm in which he has money interest. They made it clear he couldn't be secretary unless he sold his stock.

After thinking this over, he said he'd sell it. They approved him. But among men he had picked to be his top assistants were two in exactly the same fix as he was.

They were Robert T. B. Stevens for Army secretary and Harold E. Stashoff for secretary of the Air Force. Both have financial interests in firms doing business with the government.

Wilson says he thinks he has a plan to keep them from dealing with their old firms, let them keep their holdings, and still get Senate approval. But unless they sell, they may not get that approval.

Eisenhower reportedly had wanted to make Stashoff secretary of the Republic as governor of Nebraska, U. S. ambassador to India. But Nebraska's two Republican senators, Hugh Butler and Dwight Griswold, are said to have told Eisenhower "Nothing doing."

They could prevent Senate approval of Peterson simply by telling him other senators he was obnoxious to them. Butler was re-elected last year but Peterson had tried to beat him for the job.

Eisenhower's financial aide, Paulson, one of his administrative assistants at $15,000 a year, a job which didn't need Senate approval. Stashoff was told to let James P. Conant, outgoing president of Harvard, to be U. S. high commissioner in Germany. There may be a Senate fight over that, too.

Some Roman Catholics are critical of Conant because they say he attacked the parochial school system in a speech last year. Other senators claim his remarks were misinterpreted.

Eisenhower's fellow republican, Sen. McCarthy, a Wisconsin Catholic, who said he had received a "tremendous number" of complaints about Conant's remarks against Senate approval.

Sen. A. B. Chandler, D-Mo., a South Dakota Methodist, drew a bead on Conant from an unexpected direction. "Too bookish," he said, "to be high commissioner."

When President Truman wanted to reorganize a government agency he sent his plan to Congress. Unless either House disapproved, the plan went through. House or Senate could block it by a specified vote.

The same situation faces Eisenhower. But all 15 Republicans on a House committee voted to make it easier—by lowering the required vote for the House to block Eisenhower than it was in the Truman cases. All 14 Democrats on the committee voted on Eisenhower's side.

In the Senate a committee approved a bill—with Republicans and Democrats voting for it—to do what the House committee wants. Sen. McCarthy and Sen. McClellan, Arkansas Democrat, pushed this idea.

Since in each case it was only a committee acting, nothing is final until the full membership of both houses vote on the proposal.

Nearby cabins also were damaged by water and smoke.

Huge Lumber Firm Is Turned Over To Adventist Church

PRINCETON, Ore. (AP)—A 10 million dollar lumber manufacturing business was turned over to the Seventh Day Adventist church yesterday by a man and his wife.

The business includes the Harris mill here, one of the nation's largest finished furniture plants at Chicago Heights, Ill.; Alexandria, Va.; and Cleburne, Tex.

Charles H. Harris, 62, explained the gift this way: "I have tried to be faithful in my business with the Lord and He has given us far more than we deserve. Now we are giving our business to Him."

He returns from his church, hostels and schools of the denomination in his country and abroad. President Truman is the pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist church, which regards Saturday as the Sabbath.

Harris will continue as manager of the firm until Charles J. Nagle, secretary of the North Pacific Union Conference of the church at Portland, becomes familiar enough with the business to assume the post.

Harris, who said he and his wife decided years ago that "nothing has always been a basic tenet of the Christian faith," has orchards, two wheat ranches and a cattle ranch which he will retain.

Scotland Yard Has Joined Probe Into Fire Aboard Liner

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (AP)—A Scotland Yard expert joined detectives combing the British liner Queen Elizabeth today for clues to the cause of a fire that broke out and was quickly put out last night in a main deck cabin of the world's highest ship.

It might have been accidental, it might have been willful, said Southampton's chief constable, Charles Box, after the mid-veiling blaze.

Reporting the fire, the British Scotland Yard sent a specialist press suggested sabotage to examine charges word which had been carefully preserved after the fire.

The $3,673-ton Cunard liner is in drydock, undergoing her annual overhaul before resuming transatlantic service to New York Feb. 11. Officials noted that smoking is banned among workmen refitting the ship.

The investigation into the blaze coincides with inquiries now underway into the fire destruction last week and in Liverpool of the Canadian transatlantic liner Empress of Canada. Three small mystery fires broke out aboard the liner Queen Mary, sister ship of the Elizabeth, while she was in drydock here last month.

Swarms of anti-aircraft and South American anti-aircraft planes rushed aboard the Elizabeth at the fire alarm. The blaze was declared under control a half hour after the firemen arrived.

The fire apparently started in the clothes closet of a main deck cabin. The cabin was the chief casualty—cracked by the flames and firemen's axes chopping away the paneled bulkhead and ceiling to prevent the blaze spreading. Nearby cabins also were damaged by water and smoke.

Naturalist Notes

The Audubon field trip held Saturday, Jan. 24, turned into almost as much of an exploration of Florida's nearby beauty spots as a bird count. Only seven persons made the trip, the others having been scared off by lowering skies in the early morning hours. Mrs. Donald Norton acted as leader in the absence of Mr. Davidson who was unable to come this time. Alexander Springs, the original destination, proved to be a beautiful spot, with park facilities still in the process of construction.

The woods adjoining the springs were alive with warblers of various sorts and a Florida gallinule was seen at the edge of the water. A limpkin was heard, but could not be located. As Mrs. Norton remarked, however, one can look straight at a limpkin and not see it unless it moves for it blends so perfectly into the background.

Excursion was having far too good a time to go home, so it was decided to visit Juniper Springs, which, with its old mill, aquarium and scenic trails proved to be a beautiful and interesting. Lunch was eaten there, then, having gone so far, why not go farther? Why not, indeed? So off to Silver Glen Springs. This part of the trip proved a bit rugged, being over a sandy clay road not yet surfaced and "washboards" no end.

Miriam Vinup, car ran out of gas or nearly so and she made the final two or three miles on a prayer as it spoke. It was south of, though, for the springs were blue and beautiful beyond words to describe, there was a fish camp, consequently a car pump. What more could heart desire? So home again, and on the way spotting a Wilson's snipe to add to the bird count, making a total of some 350 species for the day.

At the regular Audubon meeting held in Geneva the preceding Monday evening, the speaker, H. James Gut, archeologist, told us that in the Pleistocene Age which ended about 10,000 years ago, there were four glacial periods. During the greatest of these the sea was thought to be about 200 feet lower than it is now and Florida must have been much wider than it is now. Between times there were warm, or interglacial periods. The fossil of about 72 species of Pleistocene birds now extinct have been found.

There are six principal fossil dig sites in Florida. Among the extinct fossils uncovered have been a turtle and a tortoise similar to the eagle, but larger, also a turkey having three spurs on its leg instead of one. Bones of birds that are not extinct, but no longer come near Florida, have also been found. These include the trumpeter swan, condor and a wood rat.

Mr. Gut spoke of the difficulties encountered in assembling skeletons of tiny birds and animals, but such as the shows, mules, etc. The work must sometimes be done under a microscope, the bones cleaned,

DESIDERIO ALBERTO ARNEZ IV, born to actress Lucille Ball last Monday, appears completely untruffed as he makes his camera debut in the arms of Nurse Evelyn St. Leo, in the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, Hollywood. The infant, named for his father, Desi Arnez, followed the script of his parent's TV show which was filmed weeks in advance.

HUGS DRIVE TONIGHT

MIAMI (AP)—An estimated 100,000 mothers will conduct a house-to-house money-raising campaign for the March of Dimes tonight in 64 of Florida's 9 counties. State Chairman Joe Hall says.

The march, starting at 7 p.m. (EST), will include every home in every block in all counties except Duval, Washington and Jackson, Hall said. These counties will have their campaign Friday night.

Porch lights will welcome mothers to collect for the fund.

Hall said Florida had its worst polio year in 1952 and more than $500,000 was spent on 616 cases.

Mrs. Brinson Elected Fine Arts Chairman

Mrs. W. B. Brinson was elected as chairman of the Fine Arts Department of the Sanford Woman's Club during a meeting held yesterday at the club house on Oak Avenue. Officers elected to serve with her were Mrs. Clyde Ramsey, vice chairman; Mrs. J. O. Huff, secretary; Mrs. J. M. Moore, Mrs. W. P. Vesley, Bible; Mrs. Frank Evans, literature; Mrs. W. M. Phillips, music; Mrs. Wight Kirtley, courtesy; Mrs. E. A. Montfort, membership; Mrs. Paul J. Chesterson, program; Mrs. C. L. Holding, finance; Mrs. W. R. Jennings, house; Mrs. A. C. Starke, press.

The nominating committee was composed of Mrs. R. T. Warren, chairman, Mrs. J. E. Coulter and Mrs. J. N. Gillon.

Following the business session and election of officers, a clever skit was presented by Mrs. S. G. Harriman and Mrs. John L. Lee. Young Miss Allison Lee also presented several expert and enjoyable piano selections.

Members enjoyed a tea after the program with Mrs. W. R. Jennings, Mrs. Chesterson and Mrs. John Kader as hostesses. The tea table was overlaid with a lace cloth and centered with an exotic and artistic arrangement of deep red gerbera daisies and glossy green leaves in a matching green container.

LaRoche Relative Dies In Macon, Ga.

ELDER SPRINGS—(Special)—Mrs. J. LaRoche was called to Macon, Ga. on Monday as the result of an automobile collision near Roberta, Ga. which claimed the life of her sister, Mrs. Ruby Jenkins, along with three other persons. Among the guests invited were her husband, Robert E. Jenkins, and son, Gary, five years old. Word was received here by Mr. LaRoche that Mr. Jenkins was still in critical condition and not expected to live.

Brownies To Meet At Jewish Center

Mrs. Carraway Jolts Mrs. Adams Out Of Powell Meet

Carraway Goes Into Finals To Engage Winner Of Smith-McDaniels Match

By KENT CHELAIN

The long ball hitting and smooth consistent play of Mrs. Andrew Carraway finally caught on with the 6th annual Powell Women's Golf Tournament sensation, Mrs. Ross Adams, a darkhorse entry who shocked a defending champion Ellen Betts, 1-up, and gained a semi-final berth by dropping youthful Cecil Heard.

Mrs. Carraway mastered the surprising Mrs. Adams, 2-1, in the first match of the semi-final round at the Mayfair Inn Seminoles Country Club yesterday afternoon.

By eliminating Mrs. Adams in the semi-finals, Mrs. Carraway advanced into the coveted finals to be played Sunday afternoon at the Mayfair Seminoles course against the winner of the Mrs. E. B. Smith-Mrs. F. McDaniel match, which will be played later this week.

In yesterday's semi-final round, Mrs. Adams' timely scrambling game matched the long-ball hitting Mrs. Carraway on the front nine but early in the back stretch Mrs. Adams fell one-stroke off and faltered completely on the 17th to end the thrilling semi-final match with Mrs. Carraway going to the finals by winning on a two-stroke lead with one hole left.

Mrs. Adams' elimination of Ellen Betts in the second round assured a new winner in the five-year-old Powell trophy tournament this year, since Miss Betts had annexed the first title in 1948 after the long two succeeding years with Mrs. Raymond Lundquist and Mrs. J. Williams winning in the intervening years.

Thus the three remaining contestants will be vying for their first Powell trophy.

All-Breed Dog Show Draws 468 Entries

ORLANDO (Special)—A record entry of 468 dogs will compete in the Ninth Annual All-Breed Dog Show and Obedience Trials in the new hangar at Orlando's Municipal Airport Tuesday, Jan. 30.

More than 50 different breeds will vie for honors in the largest show ever staged here. Judging in the various breed classes will start at 9:30 a. m. and continue throughout the day with the climax to come during the evening session with the showing of the Best Dog in Show. While the Best Local Dog in Show will not be selected this year, entries from Orlando and other cities in Central Florida have been unusually heavy. It has been largely responsible for setting the final total to a new record.

This show will be the final stop on the Florida circuit, seven other shows having held similar shows in the past weeks.

Johnny Jones Increases Lead To 151 Points With 16.8 Average

Oviedo Prep Flash Has Almost Twice As Many Markers As Bob Driskill

Despite being held down to only eight points against Lyman last week, Oviedo's wonder boy, Johnny Jones, increased his Seminole County basketball scoring lead to 151 points, nearly twice as many as his nearest rival, Lyman's Bobby Driskill, the official averages compiled by the Sanford Herald revealed today.

The prodigious 15-year-old cage phenomenon from Oviedo not only leads the county in total points but also in baskets, 61, and average points per game, 16.8.

Driskill stands second to Jones with 77 markers but rates in an even tie with Sanford's Gordon Clark for the second high average points per contest at 10 points.

Third place is held down by Driskill's Greyhound teammate Charlie Shaw, who has 77 markers. This is only one more than Sanford's Jimmy Krider and Junior Metts possess.

In the top ten listed with averages, the leaders are almost the same. Jones is first, of course, but Clark is tied with Driskill for second and third high point producer, Charlie Shaw drops down the ladder to No. 7.

It is interesting to note that in the top ten you will find that the Lyman, with the poorest scoring and most miserable record in the county has placed four players who place the tie.

Junior Metts is far and away the leading free throw artist with 10 all told. This is the only category that Jones doesn't have complete domination over.

No. Six's Gain On Mixed Loop Leaders

A forfeiture of the three games by the cellar dwelling No. 2's to the second place No. 6's enabled the Six's to gain slightly on the front running No. 1's, who took two of the three from the fourth place.

Four's in Mixed Bowling League action at the Sanford Bowling Alley last Monday night.

The third place No. 3's continued to also upward by coasting in a 2-1 triumph over the No. 5's behind the pin busting antics of Mixed Loop leader George Pezold, who again scored the circuit's top game and series of the evening with scores of 185 and 503, respectively. Bobby May was high for the losers with a 447 total.

Bob Burnett, connected for a high 435 series to pace the winning No. 1's over the No. 4's who were led by the 409 series of Hedenbaugh.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The chances are good that there will not be another undisputed world middleweight champion for years. It might even be that Sugar Ray Robinson, who retired recently to become a song and dance man, will go down in the record books as the last of the 160-pound kings.

You think this unlikely? Then you haven't studied with any care the joint hare-brained plan of the National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission to find a successor to the Sugar Ray. It required a lot of joint thought, or what passes for same in boxing circles, to come up with a scheme so completely unrealistic, unsound and, shall we say, plumb silly.

All the boys have done as their first major contribution toward chaos is to name 11 of our middle weight—good, bad and indifferent—“contenders” for the vacated title, and then invite them to begin fighting one another. At least half the group—that's 5½ of them—cannot by any stretch of the imagination qualify as real top-fighters.

No effort has been made to match them. No distinction has been made between Bobo Olson, who is by any reasonable measure this country's leading aspirant for a crown, as millions of television viewers will attest, and the No. 11 entry on the list, who probably is laid up with a broken leg.

No recognition is given the fact that Randy Turpin of England, who defeated Robinson once and came very near doing it the second time, has a more valid claim to recognition than any of this country's fighters. The new joint board, however, went out of its way to proclaim that it wouldn't touch crown, as millions of television viewers will attest, and the No. 11 entry on the list, who probably is laid up with a broken leg.

The No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll shared the spotlight with Houston's 71-70 surprise victory over St. Louis in the Missouri Valley Conference.

It was the first home court defeat for St. Louis in 15 games.

The Oklahoma Aggies took a lighter hold on first place in the Missouri Valley by whipping Wichita, 73-59.

Big Walter Dukes flipped in 20 points for Seton Hall, but the Pirates of South Orange, N. J., got a kind of trouble ahead when Villanova rallied in the second half to beat North Carolina State, 89-81. Villanova won on the accurate set shot of Larry Hennessy and Bob Schafer who got 21 and 20 points, respectively.

In other leading games Navy swamped Muhlenberg, 107-72; the Pirates of South Orange, N. J., got a kind of trouble ahead when Villanova rallied in the second half to beat North Carolina State, 89-81. Villanova won on the accurate set shot of Larry Hennessy and Bob Schafer who got 21 and 20 points, respectively.

Bobby Thomson To Attempt To Annex Stolen Base Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Bobby Thomson, one of the fastest men in baseball, will try for more stolen bases this season with the blessing of manager Leo Durocher.

For years, Thomson's speed has been the National League's. They talked of a match race with Sam Jethroe, Durocher was willing to let Bobby attempt anybody in the league. Still is. But he never stole bases.

In 900 games with the New York Giants, Thomson has stolen a total of only 25 bases. Last year he pilfered only five. Even in '51 when his play-off homer won the "miracle" pennant, he stole only five.

In 1950 the team was three. "He just doesn't seem to get that extra step," said Durocher at the Giants' office after Thomson signed his contract for a reported $35,000. "Sometimes he's there with plenty of spare. Other times he's thrown out when a man like Al Dark would have made it."

Thomson said quietly listening while the manager made apologies for his failure to steal bases. "I always thought I could be in the same class with Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson in stealing bases. But I don't run enough." Durocher seemed interested. "Maybe I'd better take a hint,"

he said, "and cut him loose more often. One reason we don't have him steal so much is this: when he's on first he's sure to score on a long single to the outfield. He's almost as well off on first."

Thomson figured he could steal bases by surprising the other clubs. "They never expect me to do," he said. "I don't have any reputation as a base stealer. They seem to think I've got two left feet or something like that. I'd like to try."

Bobby Layne, Detroit Lion quarterback, holds 14 team passing marks for lifetime, average and this year's performances. Layne joined the club in 1948.

George Barr Is Due To Arrive Here Tomorrow

Barr Ump School To Open In Longwood Week From Today

George Barr, famed ex-National League umpire for 19 years and originator of the first school for umpires in 1935, will arrive here tomorrow to commence elaborate preparations for the opening of his 17th annual school for umpires to be held at the Longwood Hotel in Longwood a week from today, Jan. 26. It was announced yesterday by Dick McLaughlin.

Barr, who was appointed as the president of the K-O-M class D league during the baseball meetings last winter and who has been serving as the Armed Forces chief umpire in the Pacific Theater for the past two years, wrote McLaughlin that he left his home in Tulsa for Sanford yesterday.

In the letter, Barr stated that he was anticipating the biggest grand opening he has ever staged and that he wants to extend a blanket invitation to all the citizens and his friends in Sanford and Seminole County to attend the opening at the Longwood Hotel next Thursday.

Several of the top Army brass are scheduled to be on hand for the opening along with such diamond notables as Mrs. Christie Mathewson and Mrs. John J. McGraw. In addition to the two previously mentioned women, Florence Chadwick, famed woman English Channel swimmer, attended last year's opening of the Barr school.

A reporter from the Atlanta Journal will also be in attendance and he is slated to write a series of articles and take pictures of umpire training methods at the school.

According to McLaughlin's letter, Barr expects an increased enrollment this year with about 60 attending, which will be 10 more than matriculated for last year's session in Longwood. Included in this year's class will be 16 soldiers from the 3rd Army, who will be housed at the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station.

During the winter Barr finished his latest look on arbiting entitled, "Baseball Umpiring" in which he has popularized the newly coined phrase, "There are no bonus umpires."

Tragically struck the Barr staff last summer when Ward Mohs, manager of the Barr school was drowned while on a fishing trip in the rushing waters of the Canadian River in Oklahoma.

He said, "and cut him loose more often. One reason we don't have him steal so much is this: when he's on first he's sure to score on a long single to the outfield. He's almost as well off on first."

Thomson figured he could steal bases by surprising the other clubs. "They never expect me to do," he said. "I don't have any reputation as a base stealer. They seem to think I've got two left feet or something like that. I'd like to try."

Colored Players Are Gradually Being Signed By Southern Clubs

By MERCER BAILEY

ATLANTA (AP)—In professional baseball as in other things, race-conscious Dixie is beginning to lower the barriers which have kept Negroes on the outside looking in.

Such fielding mixed teams of Negro and white players won't be the general practice in the South this year; neither will they be glaring exceptions to the general rule.

Naturally, it didn't take a lawsuit or a Supreme Court order to start the transition in baseball as it did in the higher education and public transportation in the South. Negro players are being used or given tryouts because club owners want them.

Generally, a survey by the Associated Press showed, Negroes are being hired for one or two reasons: (1) A belief that Negro stars in the lineup will boost attendance, or (2) some particular Negro is a better ball player than the best available white man.

It also is a general rule that a Negro playing on a team in the South must be outstanding; not merely an ordinary performer.

Teams scattered from the Carolinas to Texas plan to use Negroes in the 1953 season, and some have been using them for several years. But there are areas, however, which still are closed to mixed baseball teams.

Birmingham, Ala., for example, has a city ordinance which bans non-Segregated performances. And in other localities deep-rooted prejudices have become unwritten laws which effectively bar mixed sports events.

Such areas of discontent and legal barriers probably will keep the Class AA Southern Association an all-white circuit for the immediate future, at least.

The survey showed that Negro players will be used or given tryouts this season in the Texas League and the other six organized leagues in the Lone Star State, in the South Atlantic League, the Tri-State, Gulf Coast, Florida Interscholar, and possibly other leagues.

In some loops, like the Class B Florida International, it's an old story; in others, like the Class A South Atlantic, it's something new. The transition has drawn mixed reaction from front office spokesmen. Said Walt Campbell, business manager of the Savannah (Ga.) Indians, first team to hire Negroes in the South.

"The presence of Negroes on South Atlantic League squads this year puts the circuit in step with organized baseball in general. I find it hard to see how it could be any other way."

Bobby Shantz earned the title as "best fielding pitcher" by handling 78 chances without an error during the season.

Florida Is Tired Of Hearing About Track Subsidies

GAINESVILLE, Fla. —Florida folks are tired of hearing that race track money is buying them a winning football team. Sure, some money from dog and horse racing goes into athletic scholarships. But it is just as legal, they will tell you, to operate dog and horse racing in Florida as making soft drinks in Georgia, automobiles in Michigan or shoes in New England.

If money from these industries goes to support university athletic programs, why all the fuss about Florida doing the same with money from a by-product of its big industry-tourism?

The race tracks are permitted, not forced to hold an extra day of racing to provide scholarships in the three-state colleges. There is nothing in the state law which says the money should go to athletes, but it is taken for granted that Florida football fortunes. The fund supplied $133,322.73 to the University of Florida this year. The State Board of Control, a group of citizens appointed by the governor to administer state colleges, gave lesser amounts to Florida State University and Florida A. & M. College for Negroes.

Percy Beard, athletic general manager, said the race track funds were supplemented by money from the University Athletic Association to cover the athletic program.

A full scholarship at Florida costs $1,440 a year. That includes room, board, fees, books and $15 a month for laundry and dry cleaning—maximum aid permitted athletes in the Southeastern Conference.

The SEC also says member schools may have no more than 110 athletic scholarships.

"We might point out," Beard said, "that the number of student athletes receiving scholarships from the University of Florida has not appreciably increased during the last three years, but the number of non-athletes receiving aid has increased."

The number of athletes on full scholarships hasn't increased either, since Bob Woodruff came to Florida as head coach and athletic director in 1950. Then there were 110; now there are 114.

But Florida has climbed from the lower reaches of the conference football standings to the upper bracket. The 1952 season record of seven victories and three defeats was the best here since 1929.

Then the Gators made their first bowl excursion and beat the nation's top offensive team, Tulsa, 14-13, in the Gator Bowl.

Florida success started a new flurry of gags and disparaging remarks about the race scholarship program—a subject that lay rather dormant while Florida remained a favorite homecoming opponent and whipping boy.

No doubt race track funds made it easier to raise the money it takes to field a grade A football team. But Florida fans insist it isn't responsible for the winning. Unlimited funds from any source

Baseball Meeting To Consider Sale Of St. Louis Club

By ORLO ROBERTSON
NEW YORK —What had promised to be a quiet meeting of baseball officials this week end in New York now figures to be a turbulent affair with the possible sale of the St. Louis Cardinals high on the agenda of the National League owners.

There is nothing in the books that says Fred Saigh, convicted in St. Louis yesterday of federal tax evasion, must sell the club first. The Cardinals' president said after being sentenced to 15 months in prison and fined $15,000.

"I will have to dispose of the Cardinals. There is no way I can stay in baseball."

Baseball officials for the most part, including Commissioner Ford Frick and League President Warren Giles, declined to comment on the conviction. A source high in the sport, however, pointed out there are two possible steps that can be taken.

The rule that gives him power to bar anybody from baseball on the grounds detrimental to baseball.

2. The National League executives can use a clause in their constitution to keep a person from owning a club.

The same high baseball authority said a Houston, Tex. group had made inquiries about buying the Cardinals. The Texas group was understood to have asked whether it should try to negotiate a deal directly with Saigh or talk business with the National League.

The source also said it would be practically impossible to move the franchise in 1953, if the club was sold to an outside group.

Saigh, in St. Louis, flatly stated he had made no plans as yet to dispose of his stock. He also said there are no deals pending.

But in Houston, George W. Starke, multimillionaire oilman said he might still be interested if it is a reasonable business deal. "It was definitely interested in the purchase of the Cardinals," Starke said. "I have had no time to keep up with the financial side of the Cardinals since Nov. 1951."

know what their present assets or liabilities are.

"I would be interested in them, too, as a civic institution because I believe baseball is a great public interest."

The sale of the club, including its minor league franchises, probably would cost $10 million, said K. M. Landis, "ran a lot of men out of baseball for a lot less." He also said he didn't see how Saigh could do anything else than get out of baseball as the result of said their only option was the action.

Meteoric And Turbulent Rise Of Fred Saigh Ends In Prison Term

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—A meteoric rise to baseball success, followed by a fall as sharp as his rise, ended today for Fred Saigh, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, who was sentenced to 15 months imprisonment and fined $15,000 for federal income tax evasion.

Pronouncement of the sentence came in Federal Court here yesterday as Saigh pleaded no defense in a five-count indictment returned against him last spring, and threw himself on the mercy of the court. The government at the same time agreed to withdraw three of the five counts against the short, dapper 48-year-old Saigh.

A few hours later Federal Judge Roy W. Harner sentenced him to 15 months in prison on each count, the sentence to run concurrently. He also fined him $10,000 on one count and $5,000 on the second.

Maximum penalty on each count is up to five years imprisonment or a maximum fine of $10,000 or both.

Saigh, who had broken into tears when informed of the indictment last spring, had to control his voice as he rose to address the court. "This means that I will have to dispose of the Cardinals," he said. "There is no way I can stay in baseball."

Saigh, himself a lawyer, commented he had seen men receive lesser sentences for income tax evasion.

"I think that you have been too tough with me," said he.

Judge Harner replied sharply: "You plead that you are guilty to those essential elements and if you were not guilty you should have stood upon a plea of not guilty. Don't come in and plead before me and then ask me to say you are wrong."

Specifically, the counts Saigh faced charged evasion of $10,200 in taxes. One claimed evasion of $14,551 in 1927 and the other evasion of $1,748 in 1928. The original indictment charged evasion of $49,620 in taxes from 1926 through 1929.

By his own statement Saigh is through in baseball. Free on $2,000 bond he has until May when the sentence will be enacted, to clear up business matters.

The prime portion of that business concerns his ball club, a four-million-dollar enterprise to which Saigh holds 90 per cent claim. He originally purchased the club from the late Sam Breaden in 1927 together with the late Bob Hannegan.

By what Saigh termed a "rain check" in the late 1920s, he and Hannegan were able to buy the club and its widespread minor league holdings for a cash outlay of only $200,000. The deal also included a $15 million dollar fund to be had as aid for construction of a new ball park.

A year earlier Saigh had broken into St. Louis with a circus with purchase of the Railway Exchange Building in downtown St. Louis. The two business transactions started him on his way to becoming a multimillion-dollar real estate promoter and baseball power.

But while success came fast, trouble came later. In 1928 he flashed into Saigh's baseball career as well. Many say it was Saigh who was instrumental in the removal of A. B. (Happy) Chandler as commissioner of baseball. Their run-ins were many, including Chandler's refusal to allow the Cardinals to play night ball games on Sundays.

Yet baseball on the whole has remained silent on Saigh's sentence. "No comment" was the rule rather than the exception. Fred Frick, baseball commissioner, said there "are too many legal angles in this situation" to comment immediately.

Walter O'Malley, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said: "I'm sorry as I liked the little guy."

Saigh's attorney, R. H. McInnis, pictured him as a self-taught lawyer who had no formal education in law. The government contended examination of the case showed him to be well versed in tax matters.

Ted A. Hollinger Jr., assistant U. S. district attorney, said Saigh had been uncooperative with government agents during an inquiry into his taxes. He added Saigh had mentioned the possibility of a $15,000 a year position in the Cardinal office to an investigating agent.

McInnis denied Saigh ever had done so.

Baltimore called upon Gov. Theodore McMillin to demand an anti-crime program. Right before their visit, the governor had promised "the full facilities of the state" in a drive on crime.

The visitors complained that magistrates sometimes fail to provide sufficiently severe sentences and of a need for more police. A special Maryland Senate committee has scheduled a meeting for next Friday in an attempt to find a solution to the burgeoning crime problem.

Attending will be ranking police officials, state attorneys and judges from Baltimore city and from Anne Arundel and Baltimore Counties.

Meanwhile, state lawmakers at Annapolis report an unprecedented volume in mail, telegrams and telephone calls demanding more severe criminal laws.

Claiborne Named Atlanta Bishop Of Episcopal Church

MOBILE, Ala.—The Rt. Rev. Randolph H. Claiborne today accepted an appointment as bishop of the Atlanta diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church "subject to the necessary canonical consent."

He said he was tendering his resignation as suffragan bishop of the diocese of Alabama, a post he has held since July 1, 1929. In this capacity as assistant to Bishop C. C. J. Carpenter of Alabama, he has made his headquarters here.

Bishop Claiborne explained that his appointment must be approved by a majority of the standing committee and a majority of the bishops of every Episcopal diocese in the United States. Normally, this is a formality.

He was offered the Atlanta post earlier this month following his election by a special diocesan council meeting in Athens, Ga. A native of Farmersville, Va., Bishop Claiborne attended high school at Marietta, Ga. After his ordination, he became rector of St. James Episcopal Church in Marietta, Ga.

The Alabama Episcopal diocese in its recent convention here set up machinery for replacing Bishop Claiborne as suffragan bishop. A special convention will be called, and delegates to the meeting here will serve as delegates to the special convention.

which took part in the attack said in Korea today that "in all the operations a dress rehearsal is completely wrong."

The spokesman, who could not be identified for security reasons, said he considers Gray's criticism unfair and added: "There is no theatrical trappings. Not a single one. This is a deadly serious business and every one over here knows it."

In a statement, Hoffman said: "I am sure our invited guests were watching the operations in that where auditors performed for the entertainment of invited guests in the time of the Roman emperors."

Hoffman's statement also said: "It is bad enough to fight a purposeless, unending war, where the men who are doing the fighting are sacrificing their lives, but it is wicked to use them as expendable cannon fodder for propaganda purposes."

The attack, planned since Jan. 10 moved about schedule, airplanes, artillery, tanks, until the infantry ran into deadly Communist ground fire and hand grenades within 15 yards of Spud Hill's crest.

The soldiers finally pulled back to their own lines.

The spectators watched from a forward observation bunker. The were provided with mimeographed seven-page timetables, bound in cardboard with a three-color decoration on the cover.

In further explanation of the affair, the division spokesman said today: "Every operation has an operation order and all we had was a complete operation order. An operation order is a timetable. It says that certain things will happen in a certain sequence. The only difference between this one and any other operation order was that this one had a little fancier cover. And it was a home made cover at that."

Another officer of the same division said the attack was held to test and demonstrated the effectiveness of close air ground support. This was why military officials were on hand, he said.

And, he added: "If we were going to have a similar operation tomorrow, we would do the same thing whether there were visiting generals or newsmen there or not."

There were indications in advance that both Western Europe and the Far East would be discussed.

LONDON, Eng.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill returned home from America today full of confidence that "nothing but good can follow" President Dwight Eisenhower's flying visit to Korea.

Tanned and full of bounce after a Jamaican holiday and talks in New York with Eisenhower, the 78-year-old leader plunged right back to work. He huddled with Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, who held the reins of government while Churchill was away, and scheduled talks with other senior Cabinet ministers.

Earlier, in Southampton, he held an eight-minute news conference aboard the liner Queen Mary which brought him home. Asked whether "useful and positive results are likely to follow Eisenhower's trip to Korea," Churchill replied: "They are, asking that question in America."

"But," he added, "I am sure nothing but good can follow from seeing things for himself on the spot."

He parried most other questions on his talks with Eisenhower but said he now feels "much better equipped" to take part in any coming debate in Parliament on foreign affairs.

Famous Woods Of Vienna Are Barred To Western Visits

VIENNA, Austria.—The famous Vienna Woods, which inspired waltzing Johann Strauss, are forbidden territory for Americans stationed here.

All but a fringe of the beech and chestnut covered hills, which comprise the Wienerwald, are in the Russian occupation zone of Austria. Under the rules of the four-power occupation of Austria, the greatest part of the woods are off limits not only for troops of the Western nations, but for all American, British and French tourists visiting Vienna.

Only by taking Russian escort and detouring for two or three days can Westerners see on the highest peaks of the woods in winter or late in summer in the nearby vine growing villages hidden deep among the green hills.

But even under Russian control the Vienna Woods have not lost their attraction to the Viennese. They still are the city's biggest playground to summer and winter. They are, in fact, even more popular today than before the war, because shortage of money prevents most Viennese from spending week ends or vacations in the Alps.

Under the 100-year rule of the Hapsburgs the 30-mile long belt of woods and meadows on Vienna's west and north were kept sacred as an imperial hunting preserve. Today construction of airport still is forbidden for most of the area.

Past Records Of 2 Treasury Aides Indicate Caution In Tax Cutting

By FRANK O'BRIEN
WASHINGTON—On the basis of past performance the two chief policy-making aides to Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey—Marion Folsom and W. Randolph Burgess—can be expected to plug for caution in cutting taxes, a balanced budget and anti-inflationary money policies.

They may also be expected to favor longer-term funding of the national debt, accepting the consequent rise in interest rates and the manifold impact on the national economy of increased interest.

However, the winds of political and economic necessity blow hard at the summit of high office in the confines of private life. And they may veer Folsom and Burgess of their well-known economic courses.

Folsom, long treasurer of the Eastman Kodak Company and a prominent figure in the Committee for Economic Development (CED), is to be under secretary of the Treasury in charge of tax matters. Folsom has been chairman of CED the past two years, and many of his views have received prominence through the reports of this organization of businessmen and educators formed for the purpose of studying and commenting on the national economy and government policies.

Burgess came to the Treasury from the National City Bank of New York, where he was chairman of the Executive Committee. He will be special assistant to Humphrey in charge of debt management, and in that role will exert a strong influence over the nation's pocketbook.

His influence may already have made itself felt in the announcement Tuesday that in its first debt refunding operation the new administration will give holders of a short-term government security an opportunity to exchange for a medium-term obligation, with a probable rise of something like three-quarters of 1 per cent in the rate of interest.

Burgess, like Folsom, has long been connected with federal reserve banks. Burgess is the author of several books and has in the past been an outspoken critic of Democratic economic policies.

The views of Folsom and Burgess are better known than those of their boss, Humphrey, who has been a Cleveland industrialist with a passion for staying out of the limelight. However, Humphrey is known to share the strong inclination toward a balanced budget as a key to sound national economic policy, and it is believed the three men generally share views. Humphrey is a past chairman of CED.

In a message to Treasury employees this week, Humphrey hinted that Folsom and Burgess might be regarded as masters in their own policy houses. He said he looked to his chief advisers to take "real responsibility" and to provide leadership in their fields.

Burgess' past pronouncements appear to indicate his thinking means long more or less classical conservative economic lines. Folsom has expressed more unorthodox views, and has indicated that in time of economic distress he might favor turning temporarily at least toward deficit spending.

Men have said in the past business men have said in the past that when nothing but continued inflation could be seen ahead they will now share responsibility for keeping the nation from deflation. They show signs of turning downward.

Both men appear to favor keeping taxes high enough to bring about a balanced budget.

In CED reports and testimony before Congress, Folsom has in past times of deficit financing suggested that if no other means were found, a sales tax should be

Chinese Position Hit By Tank-Led Raiders

SEOUL—Tank-led Allied raiders hit a Chinese position southwest of the Panmunjom truce conference site today and killed an estimated 27 Reds with bullets, grenades and flame throwers.

An Eighth Army spokesman said his unit and raiders struck in sub-zero weather at daybreak, after Allied airplanes and artillery blasted the hill and its 30 to 40 defenders.

On the central front, a platoon of Chinese Reds attacked an Allied forward position but was driven off after an hour and 15-minute skirmish. Another platoon-sized Red attack northwest of Yoncheon was beaten off. Only patrol clashes were reported elsewhere.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force reported 30 fighter bombers pounded a sprawling troop-billing area north of Sinchon near the West Coast. Pilots said they destroyed 33 buildings and damaged eight. Further north eight U. S. Sabre jets and five MIGs tangled in two dogfights. The Air Force made no damage claims.

B29 Superforts bombed two Communist storage centers near the Pongmyang during the night.

Part of the U. S. Second Corps in Japan, the 1st Cavalry Division is undergoing intensive field training. It was rotated from Korea in late 1951 after 17 months of combat duty.

Sgt. Mack, who entered the Army in October, 1948, was stationed at Indiantown Gap, Pa. before transferring to the Far East while in Korea. He served with the 25th Infantry Division.

Basementless House And Automatic Laundry Have Streamlined Living

By EDWARD S. KITCH
CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—The basementless house and automatic laundry equipment have streamlined modern living.

This is the opinion of Rudard A. Jones, director of the space study laboratory of the Small Homes Council of the University of Illinois. Jones is experimenting to find the ideal house plan and how best to use space in a small house.

The space laboratory is a flexible dwelling erected a year ago on the campus. It is used to study family living habits. Flexibility of room arrangement in the experimental house is possible by movable interior and exterior walls.

So far, eight floor plans have been studied under controlled conditions. Two families have lived in the house. Traffic through the various house plans is clocked automatically by electronic eye rangefinders in the kitchen. Occupants of the house also comment on the plans.

It generally was concluded that location of a first-floor laundry in a utility area off the kitchen was most satisfactory. Although the

NEW YORK—A new approach to world economic problems appears in the making. Some of the first signs of a new international security Director Stanley Hall, off shortly for Europe, took a look at what seems to be wrong there.

Dulles gave a very strong in his speech Tuesday night. He said that since the war there had invested around in Europe in Western Europe's economic recovery and in France's recovery. He said that the United States would have to be "rethinking" on its position.

The second set of vital statistics, Secretary of State Acheson and Chairman of the Budget Committee R. A. Butler, will be sent to Washington in the next month. They will be carrying the print of a British economic wealth plan for increasing trade and resolving the dollar over world currencies.

But of these two sets of statistics, the British plan is the more important. Both Acheson and Butler are expected to return to the White House since the end of the war. It has fallen short of expectations.

The American plan should be done in the next few months. The British plan, on the other hand, is expected to be in order, reportedly, in the next few months. It is expected to be in order, reportedly, in the next few months.

Tiny Piece Of Equipment Holds Key To Mystery Of Capital Train Wreck

By ARTHUR EDWIN
WASHINGTON—A small piece of equipment—only a few inches wide and less than a foot long—continues to be the star in the mystery of Washington's runaway train wreck.

The equipment is an air valve, known among railroaders as an angle cock. There's one at each end of every railroad car.

There were 32 angle cocks on the 16-car train that plunged off the end of the rails and into Washington's Union Station Jan. 18. But only one has come in for much attention at a hearing, now in its fourth day, held by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC).

That's the one at the rear end of the third car of the train. Testimony has shown that the brakes on the electric locomotive and the first three cars were okay. On the last 13 cars they apparently didn't work at all.

The ICC has pointed to the angle cock, and it's fairly well established now that it was the guilty mechanism.

How did this supposedly approved piece of equipment close? William J. Patterson, ICC com-

Meteoric And Turbulent Rise Of Fred Saigh Ends In Prison Term

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — A meteoric rise to baseball success appeared at an end today for Fred Saigh, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, who was sentenced to 15 months imprisonment and fined $15,000 for federal income tax evasion.

Pronouncement of the sentence came in Federal Court here yesterday as Saigh pleaded no defense in a five-count indictment returned against him last spring, and threw himself on the mercy of the court.

The government at the same time agreed to withdraw three of the five counts against the short, dapper 48-year-old Saigh.

A few hours later Federal Judge Roy W. Harper sentenced him to 15 months in prison on each count and $5,000 on the second.

Maximum penalty on each count is up to five years imprisonment or a maximum fine of $10,000 or both.

Saigh, who had broken into tears when informed of the indictment last spring, had to control his voice as he rose to address the court.

"This means, I am sure, you will have to dispose of the Cardinals," he said. "There is no way I can stay in baseball."

Saigh, himself a lawyer, commented he had seen men receive lesser sentences for income tax evasion.

"I think that you have been too tough with me," said he.

Judge Harper replied sharply: "You plead that you are guilty to those essential elements and if you were not guilty you should have stood upon a plea of not guilty. Don't come in and plead before me and then ask me to say you are wrong."

Specifically, the counts Saigh faced charged evasion of $12,200 in taxes. One claimed evasion of $14,531 in 1947 and the other evasion of $1,738 in 1949. The original indictment charged evasion of $49,620 in taxes from 1946 through 1949.

By his own statement Saigh is through in baseball. Free on $2,000 bond, he has until May when the sentence will be enacted, to clear up business matters.

The prime portion of that business concerns his ball club, a four-million-dollar-plus enterprise to which Saigh holds 90 per cent claim. He originally purchased the club from the late Sam Breadon in 1947 together with the late Bob Hanagan.

By what Saigh termed a "pinch" in the tax law, he and Hanagan were able to buy the club and its widespread minor league holdings for a cash outlay of only $25,000. The deal also included a $15 million dollar fund. Breadon had set aside for construction of a new ball park.

A year earlier Saigh had broken into St. Louis baseball with the purchase of the Railway Exchange Building in downtown St. Louis. The two business transactions started him on his way to becoming a multimillion-dollar real estate promoter and baseball power.

But while success came fast, Saigh's financial troubles followed. He was indicted in 1951 for failure to file his 1949 federal tax returns as well. Many say it was Saigh who was instrumental in the removal of A. H. (Happy) Chandler as commissioner of baseball. Their run-ins were many, including Chandler's refusal to allow the Cardinals to play night ball games on Sunday.

Yet baseball on the whole has remained silent on Saigh's sentence. "No comment" was the rule rather than the exception. Fred Frick, baseball commissioner, said there "are too many legal angles in this situation" to comment immediately.

Walter O'Malley, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said: "I'm sorry as I liked the little guy."

Saigh's attorney, R. H. Melville, pictured him as a self-taught lawyer who had no formal education in tax law. The government contended examination of the case showed him to be well versed in tax matters.

Fred A. Hollinger Jr., assistant U. S. district attorney, said Saigh had been uncooperative with government agents during an inquiry into his taxes. He added Saigh had mentioned the possibility of a $10,000 a year position in the Cardinal office to one investigating agent. McRoberts denied Saigh ever had done so.

Crime Wave

Baltimore called upon Gov. Theodore McKeldin to demand an anti-crime program. Five days before their visit, the governor had promised "the full facilities of the state" in a drive on crime.

His visitors complained that magistrates sometimes fail to provide sufficiently severe sentences and of a need for more police.

A special Maryland Senate committee has scheduled a meeting for next Friday in an attempt to find a solution to the burgeoning crime problem.

Attending will be ranking police officials, state's attorneys and judges from Baltimore city and from Anne Arundel and Baltimore Counties.

Meanwhile, state lawmakers at Annapolis report an unprecedented volume in mail, telegrams and telephone calls demanding more severe criminal laws.

Two bills were proposed on the floor of the General Assembly yesterday. One would make the carrying of a pocket knife with a blade as long as three inches as much as a crime as the packing of a handgun. The other would require police licensing of the purchase of pistols and revolvers.

Another bill slated to be introduced would make the possession of at least one handgun in unapproved lands as

Claiborne Named Atlanta Bishop Of Episcopal Church

MOBILE, Ala. — The Rt. Rev. Randolph R. Claiborne today accepted an appointment as bishop of the Atlanta diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church "subject to the necessary canonical consent."

He said he was tendering his resignation as suffragan bishop of the diocese of Alabama, a post he has held since July 1949. In this capacity as assistant to Bishop C. C. J. Carpenter of Alabama, he has made his headquarters here.

Bishop Claiborne explained that his appointment must be approved by a majority of the standing committees and a majority of the bishops of every Episcopal diocese in the United States. Normally, this is a formality.

He was offered the Atlanta post earlier this month following his election by a special diocesan council meeting in Athens, Ga.

A native of Farmersville, Va., Bishop Claiborne attended high school at Marietta, Ga. After his ordination, he became rector of St. James Episcopal Church in Marietta, Ga.

The Alabama Episcopal diocese in its recent convention here set up machinery for replacing Bishop Claiborne as suffragan bishop. A special convention will be called, and delegates to the meeting here will serve as delegates to the special convention.

which took part in the attack said in Korea today that "in call the operation a dress rehearsal is completely wrong."

The spokesman, who could not be identified for security reasons, said he considers Irvin's criticism unfair and added: "There are no theatrical trappings. Not a single man. This is a deadly serious business and every one over here knows it."

In a statement, Hoffman said: "I am sure our people want to know whether these invited guests were receiving a special honor for the role they played in the performance of the entertainment of invited guests in the time of the Roman emperors."

Hoffman's statement also said: "It is bad enough to fight a purposeless, unending war, where the men who are doing the fighting are sacrificing their lives, but it is wicked to use them as expendable cannon fodder for propaganda purposes."

The attack, planned since Jan. 10, moved along on scheduled airplanes, artillery, tanks — until the infantry ran into deadly Communist ground fire and hand grenades within 15 yards of South Hill's crest.

The soldiers finally pulled back to their own lines.

The spectators watched from a forward observation bunker. They were provided with mimeographed seven-page timetables, bound in cardboard with a three-color decoration of the mountainside.

In further explanation of the affair, the division spokesman said today: "Every operation has an operation order and all we had was a complete operation order. An operation order is a timetable. It says that certain things will happen in a certain sequence. The only difference between this one and any other operation order was that this one had a little fancier cover and it was a home-made cover at that."

Another officer of the same division said the attack was held to test and demonstrate the effectiveness of close air-ground support. This was why military officials were on hand, he said.

And, he added: "If we were going to have a similar operation tomorrow, they would do the same thing whether there were visiting generals or newsmen here or not."

Members of the council in addition to Wilson and Stassen are Vice President Nixon and Secretary of State Dulles.

For this meeting, Eisenhower also called in, among others, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, retiring chief of the Central Intelligence Agency.

There were indications in advance that both Western Europe and the Far East would be discussed.

Past Records Of 2 Treasury Aides Indicate Caution In Tax Cutting

By FRANK O'BRIEN
 WASHINGTON (AP)—On the basis of past performance the two chief policy-making aides to Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey—Marion Folsom and W. Randolph Burgess—can be expected to plug for caution in cutting taxes as a balanced budget and anti-inflationary money policies.

Folsom may also be expected to favor longer-term funding of the national debt, accepting the consequent rise in interest rates and the manifold impact on the national economy of increased interest.

However, the winds of political and economic necessity blow hard at the summit of high officials in the confines of private life. And they may veer Folsom and Burgess of their well known economic courses.

Folsom, long treasurer of the Eastman Kodak Company and a prominent figure in the Committee for Economic Development (CED), is to be under secretary of the Treasury in charge of tax matters. Folsom has been chairman of CED for the past two years, and many of his views have received prominence through the reports of an organization of businessmen and educators formed for the purpose of studying and commenting on the national economy and government policies.

Burgess came to the Treasury from the National City Bank of New York, where he was chairman of the Executive Committee. He will be special assistant to Humphrey in charge of debt management, and in that role will exert a strong influence over the nation's pocketbook.

His influence may already have made itself felt in the announcement Tuesday that in its first debt financing operation the new administration will give holders of a short-term government security an opportunity to exchange for a medium-term obligation, with a probable rise of something like three-quarters of 1 per cent in the rate of interest.

Burgess, like Folsom, has long been connected with the service banks. Burgess is the author of several books and has in the past been an outspoken critic of Democratic economic policies.

Folsom and Burgess are better known than those of their boss, Humphrey, who has been a Cleveland industrialist with a passion for staying out of the limelight. However, Humphrey is known to share their strong inclination toward a balanced budget as a key to sound national economic policy, and it is believed the three men share generally similar views. Humphrey is a past chairman of CED.

In a message to Treasury employees this week, Humphrey hinted that Folsom and Burgess may be regarded as masters in their own policy houses. He said he looked to his chief advisers to take "real responsibility" and to provide leadership in their fields.

Burgess' past pronouncements appear to indicate his thinking runs along more or less classical conservative economic lines. Folsom has expressed more unorthodox views, and has indicated that in time of economic distress he might favor turning temporarily at least toward deficit spending.

Men have said in the past but men have said in a time of inflation and when nothing but continued limitation can be seen ahead. They will now share responsibility for keeping the nation from deflation, keeping the nation from turning downward show signs of turning downward.

Both men appear to favor keeping taxes high enough to bring about a balanced budget.

In CED reports and in testimony before Congress, Folsom has in past times of deficit financing suggested that if no other means were found, a sales tax should be

Chinese Position Hit By Tank-Led Raiders

SEOUL (AP)—Tank-led Allied raiders hit a Chinese position southwest of the Panmunjom truce conference site today and killed an estimated 27 Reds with bullets, grenades and flame throwers.

An Eighth Army spokesman said hit-and-run raiders struck in sub-zero weather at daybreak, after Allied warplanes and artillery blasted the hill and its 20 to 40 defenders.

On the Central Front, a platoon of Chinese Reds attacked an Allied forward position but was driven off after an hour and 15-minute skirmish. Another platoon struck Red attack northwest of Yonchon, was beaten off only after patrol clashes were reported elsewhere.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force reported 30 fighter bombers pounded a sprawling troop-billeting area north of Sinchon, near the West Coast. Pilots said they destroyed 55 buildings and damaged eight.

Farther north eight U. S. Sabres jets and five MIGs tangled in two dogfights. The Air Force made no damage claims.

B29 Superforts bombed two Communist storage centers near the Pyongyang during the night.

MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT receives contributions to the March of Dimes Campaign from her grandchildren, Nina, 10, and Haven, 12, who revealed that they had been stricken with polio last summer, but are now fully recovered from the disease. 11-Month Service In Korea Ended By Mack

WITH THE 1ST CAVALRY DIV IN JAPAN (Special)—Sgt Robert E. Mack, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Williams, Route 2, Sanford, has arrived in Japan for duty with the 1st Cavalry Division after serving 11 months in Korea.

Part of the U. S. security forces in Japan, the 1st Cavalry Division is undergoing intensive field training. It was rotated from Korea in late 1951 after 17 months of combat duty.

Sgt Mack, who entered the Army in October, 1948, was stationed at Indiantown Gap, Pa., before transferring to the Far East while in Korea. He served with the 23rd Infantry Division.

Basementless House And Automatic Laundry Have Streamlined Living

By EDWARD S. KITCH
 CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The basementless house and automatic laundry equipment have streamlined modern living.

This is the opinion of Rudard A. Jones, director of the space study laboratory of the Small Homes Council of the University of Illinois. Jones is experimenting to find the ideal house plan and how best to use space in a small house.

The space laboratory, a flexible dwelling erected a year ago on the campus, is used to study family living habits. Flexibility of room arrangement in the experimental house is possible by movable interior and exterior walls.

So far, eight floor plans have been studied under controlled conditions. Two families have lived in the house. Traffic through the kitchen is clocked and counted automatically by electronic eye occupants of the house also commented on the plans.

It generally was concluded that location of a first floor laundry in a utility area off the kitchen was most satisfactory. Although the basement was useful for storage, it is believed not necessary to comfortable living.

Laundry schedules were three to five times a week. These said Jones, required only about five minutes of the householder's time for each cycle of laundry. This compares to the seven manual operations required for a single cycle by older washing methods.

To overcome the shortage of storage space in basementless houses, closet storage space was widened at least four to five feet and made available for use. A larger than average garage is found a necessity for storing tools, odds and ends.

The ultimate goal of the study is to make the small home more livable. Most folks, it seems, sit in the house. Traffic through the kitchen is clocked and counted automatically by electronic eye occupants of the house also commented on the plans.

BUS STRIKE ENDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The biggest 62-day strike (AP) ended early today and some buses started rolling.

Full resumption of service was not due until tomorrow.

The strike of 8,200 drivers and maintenance men was entering its 29th day as the last of eight struck private bus companies signed an arbitration formula.

The strikers were ordered back to work by union chiefs.

A three-man arbitration board will handle the wage-hour dispute between the companies and the CIO Transport Workers Union.

TO END ARGUMENTS

NEW YORK (AP)—Defense counsel are expected to complete their Federal court arguments today in behalf of the 13 second string Communist leaders convicted of conspiracy.

Lawyers for the Reds claimed scores of grounds yesterday as they began arguing for an order of acquittal or for a new trial.

Tiny Piece Of Equipment Holds Key To Mystery Of Capital Train Wreck

By ARTHUR EDSON
 WASHINGTON (AP)—A small piece of equipment, only a few inches wide and less than a foot long—continues to be the star in the mystery of Washington's runaway train wreck.

The equipment is an air valve, known among railroaders as an angle cock. There's one at each end of every railroad car.

There were 22 angle cocks on the 16-car train that plunged off the end of the rails and into Washington's Union Station Jan. 15. But only one has come in for much attention at a hearing, now in its fourth day, held by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC).

That's the one at the rear end of the third car of the train. Testimony has shown that the brakes on the electric locomotive and the first three cars were okay. On the last 13 cars they apparently didn't work at all.

All fingers of suspicion have pointed to the angle cock, and it's fairly well established now that it was the guilty mechanism.

How and why did this supposedly approved gadget become clogged? William J. Patterson, ICC com-

NEW YORK (AP)—A new approach to world economic problems appears in the making. Some foreign firms may get it started.

The first set of studies by the Secretary of State Dulles and the Security Director Stassen, which will be off shortly for Europe, will look for what seems to be wrong there.

Dulles gave a very strong hint in his speech Tuesday night that since the war the U. S. had invested around 30 billion dollars in Western Europe's recovery and in trying to get the continent's economies back on their feet. Dulles said America would have to do the "rethinking" on its part.

The second set of studies will be off shortly for Europe, which will be headed by the Secretary of State Dulles and the Security Director Stassen, which will be off shortly for Europe, which will be headed by the Secretary of State Dulles and the Security Director Stassen.

Out of these two sets of studies, an approach could take its form. Both visits seem to be from a recognition that the U. S. has had to fall short of its obligations.

The American idea should be done as a matter of course, and there is no doubt that it ought to be done in order economically to help Europe.

The British plan naturally is the problem from the other side of the ocean. They think U. S. should lower its tariffs there, encourage import and more foreign goods, and American dollars in developing sources of commonwealth.

In return, the British would be ready to offer one-third of their convertible assets.

First steps toward the plan be taken in London. The plan has already been made. The British would be ready to offer one-third of their convertible assets.

The pound reached a new devaluation high Monday, rising 8.5% in American dollars. London.

Exposition Begins
On February 23

ORLANDO (Special) — Florida's proudest products, citrus, cattle and truck vegetables, will hold a special place in exhibits and shows at the Central Florida Exposition which gets under way in Orlando on Feb. 23 for six full days and nights.

Jobs of homemade preserves, delicate needlework, masses of curly spring flowers, polished prize citrus and dozens upon dozens of ribbon-winning products of Central Florida will catch the spotlight of the first annual fair.

And in 1953 for the first time, cattle comes into its own at the fair with the staging of the best cattle show. Crawford T. Bleckford, general manager of the fair, in announcing the addition of the best show, said the directors introduced this attraction to spotlight the fast-growing cattle industry. He said the cattle show will also augment the agricultural background of the annual fair.

Pair officials have established uniform times for receipt of exhibits in all departments. Entries in all departments must be received between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Thursday and Friday before opening days. Exhibits made for sale, cakes and bread in domestic science exhibitions, which can be delivered until 6 a.m. on Monday, opening of the fair.

"The problem of my wife then is to find some way of getting his attention—short of setting fire to his newspaper."

"This particular evening Trella Mae decided on an experiment to see just how deep a coma her little man could get into. So, as soon as he was comfortably settled in his easy chair and had started reading the newspaper, she said to herself, 'Dear, I finally saw our mind that morning. You don't read any more, do you?'

"Wilbur!" said Trella Mae, cupping her hands to her voice would carry better. "I said I saw our mind. Are you angry with me?"

McCarty Pledge To Improve Highway 1 To Be Carried Out

Road Board Indicates Everything Possible Will Be Done Within Fund Limit

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The Florida Road Board today indicated it will do everything in its limited budget for this year to permit to carry out Gov. Dan McCarty's campaign pledge to improve U. S. Highway 1 down the east coast.

The main east coast stretch of the road is being improved by the board's hearings on projects it will include in its 1953 work budget. Board members listened and with making definite commitments, gave every indication all possible work on U. S. 1 will be attempted.

A delegation from St. Lucie, the governor's home county, stressed U. S. 1 as its main primary road problem.

"Something must be done about U. S. 1," State Rep. Frank Fee said. "The road is in a dire straits and the communities along the East Coast will object to a turnpike if that is considered feasible."

Strongest opposition to the proposed $9 million dollar toll came from St. Lucie and other East Coast cities which would be bypassed by the suggested super highway.

U. S. 1 is a four-lane highway from Ft. Pierce north to the Indian River County line. Fee asked that it be four-lane south of Ft. Pierce to the Martin County line.

Fee also asked extension of the beach highway, AIA, from Ft. Pierce south to Martin County.

"We look upon St. Lucie as the capital county now," Board Chairman Richard H. Simpson quipped. "Duval and Calhoun have been taken care of and we want to look after St. Lucie now." Former Gov. Fuller Warren was born in Calhoun and lived in Duval.

The Brevard County delegation said it now is making a survey of right-of-way for four-laning U. S. 1 with the idea of "monopolizing a little" of the present roadway to "avoid higher priced properties."

The delegation asked if the board would approve a shift in the routing of the highway through the county.

"I think the board would be inclined to go along as far as possible," Simpson said.

Evans County pleading for inclusion of Martin County's toll bridge projects which would be financed by revenue bonds, endorsed St. Lucie's request for extension of AIA from Ft. Pierce south to the bridge projects near Stuart.

"I have a letter from Gov. McCarty saying he would like to see Ft. Pierce to Martin County beach road would be completed during his administration," Crazy said.

Annual Meet Of Hospital Board Re-Elects Tucker

Reports Are Made On Year's Operation Of Fernald - Laughton

F. E. Tucker was re-elected president of the Fernald Laughton Hospital Association for the third successive year at the annual meeting of the directors held in the County House yesterday afternoon.

Other officers re-elected were Mrs. C. H. Cole, vice president; S. P. Douglas, secretary; treasurer, Mrs. R. E. Trout; recording secretary, O. P. Herndon, auditor. Members of the executive committee re-elected were: Randall Chase, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Roy Holler, Mrs. Trout, A. P. Shindler, W. V. Rutting, H. B. Pope, and H. H. Cole.

The financial report was presented by Gordon Bradley who explained that the amount still not yet been completed but who gave as tentative figures operating revenues for the year of about $104,000, representing a net operating loss of about $2,500, or approximately the amount of the decline in revenues from the previous year.

However, donations and contributions during the year resulted in an increase in the net worth of the hospital from $247,116 to $298,394, while current assets increased from $12,249 to $18,402, and current liabilities decreased from $9,167 to $6,614, presenting what was called a very good picture for the year.

The report of the executive committee was presented by Mr. Chase who also proposed that the surplus furniture which had been left to the hospital since during the year be presented in an outright gift. The directors unanimously approved this motion.

A resolution prepared by Mr. Shindler was adopted providing that the assets of the Fernald Laughton Hospital, when liquidated, be turned over to the new hospital, whether built by the County or the Fish Estate, which ever be erected first.

An amendment to this resolution offered by Mr. Pope provided that the certain furniture and other equipment especially dedicated to T. W. Lawton, the late Dr. Pileston, the late Dr. Knox and others be retained in the new hospital and appropriate plans be affixed to the dedicated items.

Mr. Tucker reported on the work of the hospital during the year and expressed the opinion that the board of County Commissioners had not been unreasonable in determining to study the requirements of the law in such proceedings or in asking the trustees to comply with certain requirements prior to instituting such proceedings. Another meeting with the county commission is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 3.

Mrs. C. E. Glan presented the nominations for the nominating committee.

Mr. Chase made a report for the executive committee on the first full year's operation of the hospital at the old site at 502 Oak Avenue following removal from the Naval Air Station site in which he pointed out the necessity of making a slight increase in charges due to the elimination of revenue from private rooms and the elimination of rentals amounting to about $300 per month.

During the year he revealed that all current bills had been paid, a loan of $6,000 from the Sanford Atlantic National Bank for renovation expenses had been paid, and that a similar advance from the City of Sanford for the same purpose amounting to $5,000 is still unpaid.

He also pointed out that the Navy Department has accepted an option to purchase for $22,500 the interest of the hospital association in certain land and personal property at the Naval Air Station. An exhaust fan has been installed in the operating room at the hospital, two new refrigerators have been purchased and a thermostat installed control the heat in the building.

"The Jeep station-wagon, which was purchased when operations were at the Naval Air Station, has been turned over to the County School Board for the transportation of underprivileged children, estates to the Forest Park School in Orlando," Mr. Chase's report concluded. "The County assumes all liability and expense of operation. In the opinion of your chairman this is one of the finest uses that could be made of it." (Continued On Page 12)

Second Cabinet Meeting Ends In Veil Of Secrecy

"I Guess It Went All Right," Says Labor Secretary Durkin

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower met today for the second time with his Cabinet and before those present declined absolutely to discuss the meeting. The session lasted just under three hours.

Attorney General Herbert Brownell was the first member of the Cabinet to come out where correspondents were waiting. He smilingly refused to answer any questions and said, "You will have to see Hagerly."

But presidential press secretary James C. Hagerly said he had no news. He would not say whether Eisenhower's State of the Union message, to be delivered in Congress Monday, was reviewed or what specific subjects were considered.

Secretary of Labor Arthur W. Goldberg trailed Brownell out of the meeting and told reporters "I guess it went all right."

Durkin was asked about the controversy over the government's cost-of-living index. A new index has been brought out and some labor unions which had contracted to the old index are trying to reopen their contracts. There is pressure for industry to revise the old index and also from some unions which found an advantage under it.

Durkin told newsmen his department has no money to revise the old index. He said funds for that were cut off at the end of last year.

$719 Is Raised In Sanford Mothers' March On Polio

Expressing appreciation to those who participated in the "March on Polio" last night from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m., Mrs. V. C. Messenger and Mrs. Wight Kirtley, co-chairmen of the march at the Sanford arena, this morning revealed that a total of $719.00 was collected on the march.

"It was wonderful to see the money pouring into the Herald office last night and the enthusiastic response of the women of Sanford," Mrs. Messenger said. "I hope that the money collected will be put to good use in the fight against polio."

The march was held at the Sanford arena, which was filled with people. The women carried signs and sang songs. The total amount collected was $719.00, which will be used for the purchase of polio vaccines for children in the Sanford area.
