Week of meetings

SANFORD — Trying to phone a local government official may be difficult during this week. Practically everyone is holding a meeting on one day or another.

●Monday, Feb. 27 — Sanford City Commission — Work session at 5 p.m., commission meeting at 7 p.m., 300 N. Park Ave., Sanford.

●Tuesday, Feb. 28 — Seminole County Board of Commissioners agenda review at 9:30 a.m., meeting at 1:30 p.m., 1101 E. First St., Sanford.

●Wednesday, March 1 — Seminole County Board of Commissioners special work session, 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., 1101 E. First St., Sanford.

●Wednesday, March 1 — Council of Local Governments in Seminole County (CALGO) meeting, 7 p.m., at Seminole County Commission chambers, 1101 E. First St., Sanford.

●Thursday, March 2 — Lake Mary City Commission work session, 4:30 p.m., regular meeting at 7 p.m., 100 N. Country Club Road, Lake Mary.

Center closed

LAKE MARY — The Frank Evans Center in Lake Mary will be closed from Feb. 27 through March 5. Parks and Recreation Director John Holland said the closure is needed to have some floor refurbishing work done on the building. All activities originally scheduled during the week for the Frank Evans Center are being moved to the Lake Mary Community Center.

For further information, contact Holland at Lake Mary City Hall, 324-3053.

HRS appointment

Dianne Mongelli has been appointed as the new program operations administrator. The announcement was made by Robert Bridger, HRS District 7, Aging and Adult Services (AAS) administrator.

Mongelli will be responsible for all AAS operations, services for adults 60 and older, and the disabled ages 18 to 59, in Seminole County. She will also manage SSI-related eligibility programs in Apopka and Pine Hills.

Prior to her new appointment, she worked for four years as a human services specialist with the AAS program.

Two Lottery games cancelled

Two instant lottery games are coming to an end and winning tickets must be redeemed by April 21.

Winning tickets in Double Dollars and Holiday Cash should be turned in for payment at a lottery retail location or a Florida district lottery office. Lottery secretary Marcia Mann announced last week.

There are 16 instant games still available.

Vacca: Oust mayor

Longwood Mayor Benson is sorry commissioner's feelings are hurt

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — A city commissioner is calling for the ouster of Mayor Iris Benson and has requested a special meeting of the commission to discuss the matter, along with the negative image of Longwood.

On Thursday, Annamarie Vacca requested a special meeting be called next week to discuss the mayor's conduct and the city's negative image. A special meeting may be called by the mayor or by three of the five commissioners.

Citing a number of instances when Benson's sometimes brash handling of situations since becoming mayor three months ago, Vacca said she has lost confidence in Benson as chairman of the commission.

Vacca called for a special meeting to discuss the situation but said she will put the item on the regular March 6 commission meeting agenda if two other commissioners do not concur in calling the special session. No commissioners had responded to the memo by mid-afternoon Friday, according to the city clerk.

Missing tapes

By SANDRA ELLIOTT

LONGWOOD — A burglary, missing portions of tape recordings and a coverup led to the resignation of a president in 1974 as the Watergate scandal unfolded before the American public.

Last week, rumors began flying and speculation soared, after the tape recording of the Feb. 20 Longwood City Commission meeting disappeared. The missing tapes became the hottest topic in town for politicians.

SANFORD — The media center at Midway Elementary School is unusually noisy this day.

There's a constant murmur of stories being read aloud. Puppets peek out from behind books to lend a huffy smile or word of encouragement to young readers.

And there are squeals of delight from youngsters finding out they are the proud owners of what may be their only book.

The RIF (Reading Is Fundamental) program stormed into the school with free books for youngsters who might otherwise not have the opportunity to own a book.

Veda Blake, a community volunteer, and a dozen students from the COMPACT program from Seminole High School arrived to distribute the books and make sure the youngsters were on the right track to reading the material they had selected.

"They get so excited," said Nikki East, a

County fair was new, now it's improved

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

CASSELBERRY — Last year it was new. Now it's improved.

The Seminole County Fair, now in its second year, has nearly doubled in size and in activities for young and old.

The midway, always the focal point of any fair, now offers over 80 rides along a half-mile neon strip of whirling lights and blaring music.

Cumberland Valley Shows' nationally famous "State Fair Midway" includes rides that take fair goers and twist, flip and turn them inside out. From the Mega Loop to the Super Slide, there are rides to thrill even the bravest rider.

For the younger crowd, however, there are still plenty of ride opportunities. A miniature Ferris wheel will bring the little ones high enough to get a spectacular view of the fairgrounds without being frightened and the spinning teacups and the Bear Affair give them a thrilling turn on the attractions without flipping them out.

Ride operators were prohibited by company policy from speaking to the press, but several

Opposing school lunch cuts

Congresswoman Corrine Brown, who represents a portion of Seminole County including Sanford, strongly opposes any efforts to cut school lunch or other child nutrition programs. The congresswoman made this statement:
 "The school lunch program has worked well since 1946—it's not broken. American's children are our most important resource for the future. Studies show that if a child is hungry, taxpayer dollars are wasted because hungry kids can't learn.
 "According to the Children's Defense Fund, millions of children will go hungry by cutting school lunches, food stamps, child care, Head Start meals and WIC programs. Republican double-talk that 'cuts to school lunches aren't cuts, but block grants to states' deceives the American people."

senior who has taken part in the RIF distributions at Midway for several years. "They love to see you and to have you read to them."
 East is interested in a career in exceptional education. She has made a special friend in one of the classes in a young boy named Chris. Chris has Down's Syndrome.
 "I taught him how to do patty-cake last year," she said. "And he remembered this year and he remembered me. It's been a whole year."
 Kevin Butler is in the 11th grade now, but he remembers when he was a student at Midway and he received books from RIF volunteers.
 "I remember them writing my name in my book and reading it to me," he said. "It was so exciting. I wanted the chance to come back to my old school and do the same thing for these kids," he said. "It really inspired me."
 He said that, though he isn't a voracious reader, he sees the importance of reading.
 "So I don't want to just hand them the book and let them go," he said. "I tell them to take the book home and read it or have their mothers read it to them."
 Senior Josh Stokes said he signed up for the program because he loves working with children. He said nothing compares with seeing the faces of the young people when they receive the book and realize that it is theirs to keep.
 "And then they ask you to read it to them," he said. "It's a complete rush. They just light up."
 Junior Andre Carson was a little skeptical about reading to the children when he first signed up for the program.

 After all, he said, he's not really an avid reader.
 "But they get so excited," he said. "Just seeing their faces light up is so great."
 Carson said he will be back next year.
 Reading isn't really a passion for the adult coordinator of the group either. Blake says she reads for "information" only.
 "But I just love seeing those kids pick out the books they want and sit down with the COMPACT students and read," she said. "There is something very special about that."
 Blake said she has always loved the idea of RIF providing books to young people who would have no other way of getting them. She was inspired by her mother who "lived and saw the world through books."
 In addition to the volunteer hours she spends coordinating the Midway program, Blake has been able to help the program financially recently.
 "When my mother died three years ago, she left me a little money," Blake said. "I made a contribution to the Dividends (school volunteer) program where I'd been doing all kinds of work for 13 years. Dede (Schaffner, Dividends coordinator) said she knew exactly where to put the money. And she put it out here to RIF."
 Blake said she believes her mother would be pleased with the donation.
 She continues to give "a little something" to the program. But she says she does it for a selfish reason.
 "I want to make sure the program is here every year so I can come read to the kids and see their faces," she said.

State forest plans near completion

State rep tours property he helped acquire

By STANLEY BROWNE
 Herald Staff Writer

OVIDO — A "fast-track" effort to preserve a slow moving river, and the lands around it, may be nearing completion according to Division of Forestry Orlando district manager John Koehler.
 Little-Big Econ State Forest has grown by more than 4,000 acres since late last year, to 6,500 acres, with a potential of reaching 40,000, which will include CARL (Conservation and Recreation Lands) program lands in the Econ-St. Johns River Corridor and the Lower Econ.
 A conceptual management plan for the new state forest should be completed by May 31, and the official opening of the property is expected somewhere between April and June.
 "We're on the fast track now," Koehler said, referring to the monthly meetings held by the project team, which include representatives from the D.O.F.,

Seminole County Planning and Development Department, St. Johns River Water Management District, and David Barth, the project consultant from Glatting Jackson, Inc. The last meeting, held earlier this month, addressed project status, updates on land acquisitions, current activities on the site and identification of issues by working groups such as "wish lists" from the Florida Trail Association and the Florida Freewheelers, a bicycle group.
 One of the main issues in the enhancement of the public use areas of the forest is the location of the canoe ingress and egress points. Seminole County has taken responsibility of the launch point at the bridge on State Road 419 between Oviedo and Chuluota. But further land acquisition was necessary before the egress point, which is the responsibility of the D.O.F., could be determined.
 "It's like putting a puzzle together without all of the pieces," Koehler said.

 State Rep. Bob Starks (R-Winter Park), who spearheaded acquisition of the land for the forest, toured the area Wednesday, Feb. 18. "It had been a couple of years since he had been on the property," Koehler said. Also getting a firsthand look at the new state forest was Earl Peterson, director of the D.O.F., and Ray Gieger, chief of operations, out of Tallahassee. This was the first time they had seen the forest. The entourage made seven stops, starting at the bridge at S.R. 419. One stop was made at the ranger's station in Chuluota, which has a temporary office to house the senior forester and the ranger who will be in charge of the management of the forest and from where permits for use of bicycle and horse trails will be issued.
 Starks emphasized that plans for use of the forest continue to be aimed at "low impact." Hiking trails, horseback riding, bicycling and canoeing will be

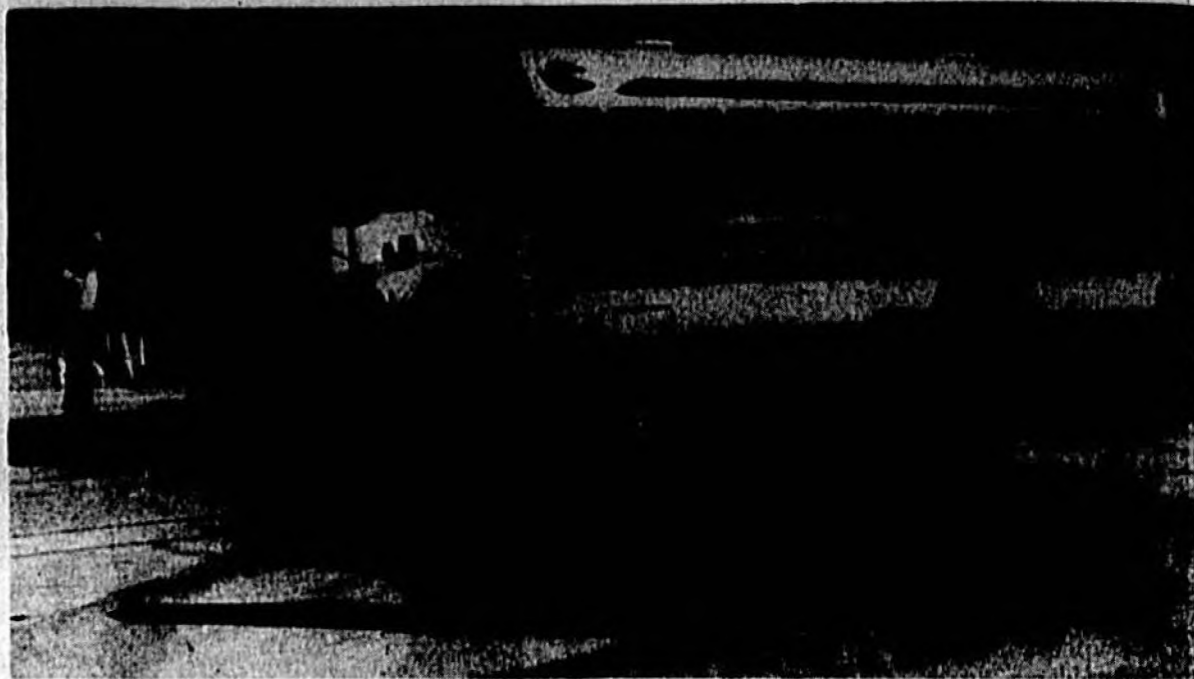

Rep. Bob Starks is the primary public usage. The main thrust of purchasing the land was to protect the environmentally sensitive waters and lands in the southeast corner of the county. "We need to manage the forest so we can use the forest," Starks said.

School bus drivers move 'em out at the Road-E-O

By WYNNE BUCHHEIM

WINTER SPRINGS — The morning chill had not even left the air when the crowd of precision driving fans began to gather near the course.
 As the engines were warmed, fans adjusted their lawn chairs, some atop their vans, and plugged in their headsets.
 No, it's not the Daytona 500. It's the Seminole County School Bus Safety Road-E-O.
 Debi's Demons, The Dazzling Five and The Wanna Be's were among the racing teams preparing for the first race of the season.
 Daniel Romero said he heard his neighbors talking about the Road-E-O because their cousin was one of the drivers. He decided to chit and see for himself just how well the drivers can maneuver the vehicles. "It's amazing to me that they can drive those big, clunky things so smoothly," he said. "I think the bus driver I had when I was a kid did demolition derbies instead of this."

 Drivers had to back into a stall that is a mere 10 feet wide. In addition to not hitting the sides, they have to avoid hitting a back barrier as well. Another test challenges them to pass over two lines of tennis balls that are 18 inches apart.

 The bus drivers do not simply execute light curves and accurate stops, they also had to display their skills in the care of the children they transport.

acknowledged they were seeing more families with small children so far this year, noting there was more for them to do with the wee ones than ever.
 For those who might want a giant fluorescent pink dog or an inflatable red electric guitar, the midway abounds with games of skill and luck. It's difficult to escape the call of the vendor who wants to challenge boyfriends to demonstrate their athletic prowess in order to win a gift for their lovely date or to mother to win a plush toy for their precious little child.
 The calls from those competing for the fairgoers' dollars are loud, but friendly.
 In addition to the rides, the fair has a plethora of entertainment and exhibition opportunities. From the "Milk, Inc." working dairy barn in a tractor trailer to the display of live llamas, pigs, poultry and rabbits there are plenty of animals.

 The "Wild Ones," bicycle, skateboard and in-line skate show thrills the crowds with a magical show of skill and speed.
 Handmade crafts and tasty food exhibits, as well as the student art exhibitions, have more than quadrupled in numbers this year. The quality is exceptional.
 At 8 each evening, the sky comes alive with a free fireworks and laser show. The Sky Magic '88 show is produced by the Stone Mountain (Ga.) Laser company. The thrilling event is twice the size of last year's event.
 The fair, complete with the corn dogs, sausage sandwiches, pizza, strawberry shortcake and funnel cakes, will run through March 5.
 Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for children six to 12 and seniors over 60.

sermon given by the Rev. Carroll Varner, pastor of the First Methodist Church.
 The procession took place with the Misses Carmen Guthrie and Betty Hintermister at the piano. The Rev. H. Irving Louttit, rector of Holy Cross Episcopalian Church, delivered the invocation and the Rev. F.M. Marler, pastor of the First Baptist Church, read the scripture. A solo was rendered by J.M. Stinecipher and the benediction was delivered by John B. Root, pastor of the Congregational Church.
 On Monday night, June 2, a piano recital by pupils of Mrs. Fannie Stembridge Munsom was presented in the SHS auditorium in honor of the Class of 1930. Assistant talent was Madam Bettinetti.

 Class Day exercises were held on Tuesday evening, June 3. The class marched in to the strains of their class song. The salutatory was given by Phyllis Smith, class history by Clifford Beasley, and valedictory by Juanita McMullen. Professor G.E. McKay, principal, gave out the athletic and other awards. The graduates then "capped and gowned" their successors, the junior class.
 Commencement exercises were held Friday, June 6, in the auditorium. Welcome was given by Mr. H.C. DeBoe, chairman of the Seminole County Board of School Trustees. The Rev. W.P. Brooks Jr., pastor of First Baptist Church, gave the address and superintendent of public instruction, T.W. Lawton, gave the scholastic awards. Professor McKay then awarded diplomas to 84 graduates.

 Officers of the Class of 1930 were Charles T. Butler, president; Katherine Schrader, vice president; Dorothy M. Haynes, secretary; Juanita McMullen, treasurer. Sponsors were Mrs. Eloise Wimshaw and Mrs. Gladys M. Williams.
 County school board members were Fred T. Williams, E.T. Haines, and C.W. Culpepper. Other trustees were B.O. Shinholser and W.M. Haynes. Lake Mary Eula Kay (later Mrs. Jimmy Holtzclaw), Mabel Chapman, Minnie Beas Echols (later Mrs. Louis Garner), Irvin Fleisher, Nellie Williams (later

POLICE BRIEFS

Drug arrest while serving writ

A sheriff's deputy attempting to serve a writ Wednesday ended up arresting the individual on three drug-related charges. Jeffery David Conant, 34, 700 E. Airport Blvd., was arrested for possession of cocaine, less than 20 grams of marijuana and drug paraphernalia when a deputy arrived to serve a writ of bodily attachment. A woman identified as Conant's girlfriend told the deputy the man no longer lived there, although the deputy heard a male voice inside the apartment before knocking.

The woman allowed the deputy into the apartment and attributed a noise coming from the bedroom to her pet squirrel. The deputy found Conant in a walk-in closet when the woman took him to see the pet. Conant said small bags containing the controlled substances were his.

Warrant arrests

Reginald Nathan Clark, 36, no address listed, was arrested on a warrant for failure to appear/criminal mischief. A computer check showed he was also wanted on charges for aggravated battery, criminal mischief and vandalism.

Telly Savalia Medlock, 20, 1000 Maple Ave., Sanford, violation of probation/possession of cocaine. He was arrested after a computer check during a traffic stop for failure to stop at a stop sign showed the outstanding warrant.

Clarence H. Latimer II, 39, 128 Centennial Drive, Sanford, misdemeanor warrant.

Betty Ann Pierce, 34, 1455 N. County Road 427, violation of probation/worthless check, two warrants for failure to appear/uttering a forged instrument and FTA/burglary to a conveyance.

Robert Lavern Dixon, 49, 136 Meadow Blvd., Sanford, FTA/battery.

Cherone Lanell Cooper, 22, 5960 Midway Ave., Sanford, violation of probation/grand theft.

John Joseph Maiorana, 35, 2417 Marshall Ave., Sanford, violation of probation/battery.

Incidents reported to sheriff

A Deltona man reported he was robbed Thursday about 2 a.m. in the 1800 block of Rinehart Road after his car broke down by two men he thought were stopping to help him. A fanny pack containing keys, ATM cards, pocket computer and checkbook was stolen.

A homeowner in the 1800 block of Long Pond Drive reported a Rem Smith and Weason handgun with two loaded magazines were missing from his bedroom. The gun was valued at $800.

A Longwood man reported his stepfather, who resides in Virginia, threaten to kill the man's brother and stepbrother.

Two portable toilets valued at $800 were destroyed by fire at the Sweetwater Oaks Beach on Fox Valley Road, Longwood on Wednesday. A Lake Brantley high school student is a suspect in the arson which also destroyed a wooden fence valued at $250.

A set of locked hubcaps valued at $400 were stolen Wednesday from a vehicle parked at a motel in the 2000 block of State Road 434, Longwood.

A Lake Mary man reported his cellular telephone was taken from a stables in the 100 block of Wisteria Drive, Longwood, on Wednesday.

Two men alleged a Lake Mary man committed fraud offering them stock in a bar he was opening in exchange for loans when he had no authority to issue stock. The bar is in the 3800 block of West Lake Mary Boulevard.

Incidents reported to Sanford police

A man leaving Seminole Gardens Wednesday night said another man riding a bicycle threatened to shoot him if he did not relinquish his radio.

Two trucks were taken from a business in the 100 block of Commerce Way after keys were taken from the manager's office during a break-in. One truck was recovered at Crystal Lake Drive and Lake Drive, a second truck is still missing.

A woman in the 400 block of Celery Avenue reported someone burglarized her home and threw the contents of her dresser drawers around the house. Nothing appeared to be missing.

Traffic stops

Alan Glenn Tye, 31, of Sorrento was stopped by sheriff's deputies on Lake Mary Boulevard Thursday. He was charged with driving with a suspended license.

Christopher B. Hamilton, 20, of Orlando, was stopped at 13th Street and Lake Avenue Thursday. He was charged with driving with a suspended/revoked license.

Anna K. Winterstein, 24, of Geneva, was stopped on Lake Mary Boulevard by Lake Mary police Thursday. She was charged with driving under the influence.

Florida Bar takes action against several attorneys

By SANDRA BLANKETT
Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A Seminole County attorney was suspended from practicing law for 60 days, effective Feb. 11. He was also placed on probation for 18 months in a recent court order from the Florida Supreme Court.

Royce Derrell Pipkins, 288 E. Altamonte Drive, P.O. Box 162845, was suspended pursuant to a court order dated Jan. 12. He was one of five attorneys suspended statewide. In addition, the court disbarred another attorney, placed one on probation and publicly reprimanded another.

Pipkins allowed his personal life to interfere with his law practice, according to the disciplinary report from the Florida Bar. During Pipkins' involvement in his divorce, he was distracted from returning telephone calls and communicating important information concerning the progress of client cases. Pipkins also violated several trust account rules, the report states. He was admitted to the Bar in 1984.

Orlando attorney Beryl Bonita Thompson, P.O. Box 690473, was publicly reprimanded for professional misconduct pursuant to a Florida Supreme Court order dated Jan. 5. An audit of Thompson's trust account revealed that she failed to maintain the minimum records and follow the minimum required trust accounting procedures. Thompson was admitted to the Bar in 1983.

Other attorneys receiving penalties were:

William Martin Golan, 1230 S. Myrtle Ave., Suite 105, Clearwater, suspended for 90 days effective Feb. 25. Golan pleaded guilty to preparing a revocable trust agreement for a client, deleting a section and replacing it with a new section which included his own children as beneficiaries. He was admitted to the Bar in 1974.

Charles Gener, 4100 W. Flagler St., Suite K, Miami, suspended for six months effective Feb. 11 on an order dated Jan. 12. Gener knowingly misrepresented the identity of a person in attendance at a deposition, in violation of the Rules of Criminal Procedure. He was also found guilty of indirect criminal contempt in an order entered in July 1983. He was admitted to the Bar in 1974.

Courtney Legare Johnson, 225 E. Church St., Jacksonville, suspended for 91 days, effective immediately, on a Jan. 26 court order. Johnson received a $5,000 fee from a client for handling of a lawsuit but never took any legal action other than to cancel a scheduled deposition. As a result, the lawsuit was dismissed. Johnson failed to respond to at least 11 separate attempts by the client to get information on the status of his lawsuit. After dismissal of the case, Johnson failed to comply with the client's requests for return of the files and $5,000 retainer fee. As a condition of reinstatement, Johnson must pass the ethics portion of the Florida Bar Exam and make $5,000 restitution to the client. Johnson was admitted to the Bar in 1983.

Frank Theodore Johnson, 1331 W. Case St., Suite A, Tampa, placed on probation for 18 months after pleading guilty to violating Bar rules in two separate incidents.

Jerry B. Schreiber, 19 W. Flagler St., Suite 207, Miami was suspended from all practice for 90 days, effective Feb. 4. Schreiber was also placed on probation for one year. He pleaded guilty to several trust account and IRS tax violations. He was admitted to the Bar in 1973.

J. Jerry Zeltzer, 490 Lincoln Road, Suite 258, Miami Beach was disbarred from all practice of law in Florida, effective Feb. 25. Zeltzer was found guilty of several offenses, including land sales fraud, filing a false affidavit, fraudulent disposal of assets, making a false oath on a bankruptcy petition.

E.B. Stowe, goodbye

Memorial services for E.B. Stowe are being held at 3 p.m. this afternoon at Brisson Funeral Chapel. Stowe passed away this past Wednesday evening at the age of 100.

While we doubt few people in this area could say they never heard of him, only those interested or involved in art feel they may have known him quite well. Even at his advanced age, he was a frequent guest at various art shows over the past several decades. His paintings, displayed at various locations in the city were scenes of natural beauty showing the St. Johns River in the way people want it to be seen, and always remain.

He started in Sanford as a celery farmer, back in the days when the city was the Celery Capital of the World. Following the devastating freeze which wiped out the ground's ability to grow citrus, and Stowe's eventual retirement from growing, he became active in art.

Painting after painting came from his easel, each with more beauty than the last. Even at his advancing age, he continued to give people a view of nature they may never have noticed before.

He taught art. Many people who are presently winning competition in various art shows locally and throughout the area, proudly boast that they studied under E.B. Stowe.

He was an inspiration to these artists. Hardly any of them would ever dispute that.

But he was even more to many other people. Like a male version of Grandma Moses, he showed us that even after retirement, and during his 80s and 90s, he could continue being a vital part in the lifestyle of our city and Central Florida.

No doubt, we will eventually see a time when an art gallery or museum in our area is named in his honor. A modest man, he would have hesitated if such a thing would have been tried in recent years. Yet we believe he deserves our highest appreciation.

E.B. Stowe, the man, may no longer be physically in our city, but his works will live on for many decades to come. When we look at one of his paintings, and we WILL, whether or not we are art lovers, let's extend our thanks to this humble man for showing us that age and retirement need not be a stopping point for any person.

Extending thanks

Providing dinner and hospitality in picturesque surroundings for hundreds of people is no easy task. The many members of the Woman's Club of Sanford, who worked very hard, made our Italian Night a success.

We extend thanks to the following for their help: Winn-Dixie, Food Lion, Goodings, House of Bread Bakery, Todd's Quality Tomatoes, Buck's Catering, Kmart, Food Supply Inc. of Daytona Beach, Dutch Mill Nursery, our entertainers, Mike Hartman and Sylvia Gray and our chefs, Carl Dietrich and Bill Foster.

"Sir, I would like to take a leave of absence for — or — personal reasons."

Family, church, school, community

Carol Thames, an administrator for Volusia County schools, has definite convictions about her role as wife and mother. She is married to Larry Thames whom she indicates is the most relaxed person she knows. He is employed by Florida Power and Light Corporation and has worked there throughout their marriage. His hobbies are fishing, hunting, gardening and riding a motorcycle. He marvels at the number of projects in which she becomes involved. He encourages her to rest.

She considers her 8-year-old son, Ashton, a gift from God. Ashton is a third grade pupil at Blue Lake Elementary School in Deland where she is employed. She affirmed that well-rounded personality development dictates focusing on the cognitive, physical and spiritual realm.

Reading is the cornerstone of his cognitive development. She reads to him and he reads to her; they enjoy it immensely. She is concerned not only about his cognitive development but more importantly that he is a "good person." She believes that it is imperative for him to be self-confident, self-reliant, self-disciplined, tough but sensitive to the needs of others.

Ashton's physical development revolves around basketball, basketball camps, clinics and tournaments. Running is also a part of his physical fitness program. Thames participates with the basketball team and as her T-shirt indicates, she is the team mother.

Religious instruction is the foundation for proper appreciation of life and teaching values. Thames and Ashton attend Sunday school and church together. Last year she taught his Sunday school class.

SENIORE OPINION

At work Thames is an administrator for the Exceptional Education Department at her school. She loves the opportunity to work with children who have special needs. They are physically impaired, emotionally handicapped and learning disabled students. There is no substitute for the joy experienced as she witnesses these students surmounting hurdles and learning.

Community activities have focused during the last four years in establishing a local chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority in her community. AKA Sorority is an international service organization that had its inception on the campus of Howard University early in this century. Running an ad in their local paper resulted in the gathering of 18 scores for their initial meeting.

They worked as an interest group for a year and in their second year their group had expanded to 21 and they received their charter.

Shortly after being chartered, the question of housing surfaced and Stetson was there to welcome and assist them. Officials at Stetson University were more than supportive. Stetson surveyed their student population, collaborated with the Pan Hellenic Council and ARA's national office. Today, there are eight young scores living in the sorority house on Stetson's campus. The graduate chapter and Stetson cooperated in furnishing the house. The graduate chapter, Pan Chi Omega, pays for the house and holds their monthly meetings there. The objective is to have an undergraduate chapter chartered in the near future.

Relative to the historical African American who has most influenced her life, Mary McLeod Bethune, the founder of Bethune Cookman College, was cited. Thames has nothing but admiration for her because she started out with nothing but faith in God and hard work to accomplish a miracle. She left a tremendous legacy to African Americans. Because of her vision, the lives of many, many youth changed significantly through the education they received at Bethune Cookman College. Decades of graduates have contributed much to the life of their communities and this nation.

Escape: Into cartoons or books

I don't know if I've mentioned this before, but I have a little secret. I generally don't go around bragging about it, as a matter of fact to my more mature friends and associates, I am downright quiet about the whole sordid little thing. However, seeing as you are all my friends, I thought I might confess this hidden shame, sort of as a cleansing of my soul so to speak, and because I know you will understand the depths to which the poor old columnist has descended.

The truth of the matter is this: I am addicted to Saturday morning cartoons. There, I've said it ... in truth, I feel loads better for having done so. Can you folks ever forgive me? I mean I know some of you are kindhearted spirits. You sit there on Saturday morning in front of the tube pretending to be having some of that family time with your kids when you and I both know you secretly couldn't wait to jump out of bed to see the next exciting episode in the life of Spiderman or the Turtles or whatever. You can admit it, you're with friends here.

I think the whole reason for this quirk of ours gets down to basic escapism. In a world where our heroes are being viewed under critical microscopes. Where those we have sworn to emulate now stand in the docket accused of murder. In such a milieu there is comfort in the good triumphs over evil simplicity of super heroes on Saturday morning TV. And then there is the way in which such bigger-than-life idols actually accomplish their goals. Not with the dragged on infinite slowness of our overworked judicial system, but with immediacy and finality, and well, justice for all. Would that things moved half that well in the real world.

I think the members of the pre-TV generation might understand this love of fantasy you and I share. In their day, they had Buck Rogers and The Mask, and even Dale Evans and Roy. What made their heroes come alive, however, was even more startling than the incredible animations we get to view these days: they had no picture on their radios and crystal sets. They had to create the whole unfolding of each daily or weekly episode in their favorite hero's life in their minds. And you know what, I think that might have even been a little better. The older generation had to imagine what the horrible space creature looked like as he came through the imagined portal of doom; they had to conceptualize what Black Bart's evil sneer really meant to the captive True Tom. And they had to put forth mental effort to somehow see what the billowing tents of Araby might have looked like on some windswept and lonely eve as the evil empire was about to sweep down upon an unsuspecting sleeping detachment of the Foreign Legion.

What particularly interests me about the days of radio and its addicts is the further parameter that the listener had to also view their own personal visualizations of the plot lines from the content of their own experiences. When some farmer from east Whoverver, Ind. was right along with Red Ryder chasing down the bad guys through the even hadder lands, if he'd never seen a picture of those desolate hills, he'd have to create the reality of those forbidding climes from within his own mind. To some kid from "Inner City," N.Y., perhaps the endless deserts of Araby bore a strange resemblance to the environs of Coney Island. And accompanying Flash out into the stars after the dreaded Kling, well, who knows how many different versions of that same section of space were ultimately created in the minds of the listeners on earth? And to the parents of such dreamers back then, I think there was quite often another generation's level of understanding.

SENIORE OPINION

I am, of course, referring to the pre-radio generation which was forced to do its crime fighting and heroics reeling via the quaint old method of reading a book. No music for creating moods there, no stars ... those people were forced to go the full gamut of self visualization. They not only had to get into the head of the unknown composer of words, but to further see what he or she might have seen, while they were writing their little dime-store drama. And ... wait a minute ... we've got books too ... I actually have read one or two in my day ... sometimes they're even almost nearly as good as the cartoons. I could almost swear (personal favors coming). I personally know Doh PH's Admiral Sandecker over at NUMA. I'm pretty positive I have been in that section in New Orleans of which Ann Rice has written so poetically (and tediously). And I know intimately every member of the lynch mob in 1801 Corsicana, Texas who turned their vengeful hands to the unforgivable crime of burning at the stake a certain black man named John Henderson (some guy named Coe wrote that book ...).

When all is said and done, I suppose I will never really lose my love of cartoons, folks. But today, I believe I will find some time to read a good book. How about you?

Technology sale to China raises fears

WASHINGTON - The Clinton administration is proving once again that on arms proliferation issues profit often rules out over prudence.

At a time when American officials are threatening the People's Republic of China over its unfair trade practices, human rights abuses and weapons exports, the Clinton administration is poised to allow a controversial technology sale that many believe could help the Communist country upgrade its missile program.

"This (sale) would give China the technological know-how to make engines for long-range cruise missiles capable of hitting any city in Japan, Korea - all the way through India," one frustrated American official explained. "The administration knows this, but so far no one has had the political will to stand up and say no."

The proposed deal involves AlliedSignal Inc., the California-based aerospace giant. The company recently informed the government that it intends to sell China the manufacturing technology used to build its Garrett gas turbine engines. This follows on the heels of a controversial decision by the administration last year to allow the Garrett engines to be sold.

AlliedSignal officials told us the technology poses little risk since it is only suited to build aircraft engines. "We are not in a position to judge China's missile engine manufacturing capability," a company spokesman said.

Arms proliferation experts believe China wants the Garrett technology to establish a domestic production line for upgraded cruise missile engines. "Clearly, the Chinese could use this to make engines which are perfectly suited for that requirement," says Kenneth Timmerman, a security expert and director of the Middle East Data Project.

Confidential government studies obtained by our associates Dean Boyd and Dale Van Atta support Timmerman's view. "Garrett engines and/or production technology would provide an array of high... performance capabilities to satisfy (China's) military requirements well into the next century," one document alleges. Another study indicates that China could make engines capable of launching a biological warhead some 1,000 miles if it obtained these materials.

Despite the red flags, the Clinton administration last year lifted the export controls that normally cover the Garrett technology. This means that AlliedSignal is free to sell its manufacturing technology without government approval - unless the administration reverses itself. So far, there's been little indication that this will happen.

Ian Baird, the Commerce Department's deputy assistant secretary for export administration, maintains that there is no legal basis to oppose the sale. He says the Garrett technology is over 20 years old and "completely impractical" for use in cruise missiles. Baird added that AlliedSignal should be applauded for taking "the unusual step of advising" the government of the sale when it wasn't required to.

In the original engine sale, which came in the wake of the administration's 1994 decision, the engines were to be used in a military jet that China was developing with Pakistan. Many American officials opposed the deal at the time, after intelligence studies found that the Chinese recipient was involved in missile building and that the engines could form the basis for a new Chinese cruise missile.

On arms proliferation issues profit often rules out over prudence.

Festival

Festival is bringing the past vividly to life this weekend for the benefit of the needy in Seminole County. Most who attended the fair on Saturday were impressed with the quality of the entertainers, vendors and others.

"I think this is really cool," said Damien Dreiser of Sanford, who said he has never attended an anachronistic festival before. "This is the kind of stuff we read about in high school history class that sounded so boring. But seeing people all dressed up and talking like it was back then is pretty cool."

Marisa Kline traveled from Daytona with three of her friends to take part in the event. She said they were all glad to have made the trip.

"It's like living in a Shakespeare play," she said. "We should do this at school for all those kids who say they don't understand Shakespeare."

Davidia Lane, a classmate of Kline's, said she thought it was "especially neat" because of the costumes.

"The clothes are great," she said. "I could get into dressing like this."

The Central Florida Renaissance Festival is raising money and collecting food for 14 charities including The Temporary Living Center, America's Missing Children, Habitat for Humanity, Multiple Sclerosis, Meals on Wheels, Hospice of Central Florida, Seminole County Humane Society, The Children's Home Society, House of Hope, Visiting Nurse Association, Diabetes Research Institute, Greenpeace, Roadheaders Boys Ranch and Second Harvest Food Bank.

Last year, more than $65,000 and almost a ton of food was distributed to these organizations.

Admission to the event is $6 for adults, $4 for children and seniors over 50 and free for children under seven. A $1 discount is given to those who

Mrs. Boyd Coleman and my Latin and English teacher.

I hope this class is planning a 60-year reunion this year!

Missie Beck honored

While she was home for the Christmas holidays from Virginia Intermont College where she was a student, Miss Missie Beck was honor guest at a bridge party hosted by Mrs. Homer Little, Rod and Green were the predominant colors used for decorations which included vases of poinsettias.

High score prize, both powder, was won by Miss Katherine Benson while Miss Mary Celia Kinlaw of Wilson, N.C. was given a hat of stationery for her low score. Miss Beck received a handwoven lace handkerchief as a gift from the hostess.

Later in the evening, a sweet course was served to the guests by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Harold Morgan of Houston, Texas. Others present were Mrs. Martin Stinecopher, Mrs. Robert Wright, Mrs. George Gray, Mrs. Herman Morris and the Misses Beck Walker, Mildred Mitchell, Lucille Bohan, Ruth Walker, Thomas Walker, Missie Beas Bohan, and JoAnne Snow of Greensboro, N.C.

Mrs. Homer Little was the former Thomas Howell and was the lifelong class friend of Missie Beck. Many of you know that Missie Beck became the bride of William A. Kretzsch in 1906. Since that was assistant highway engineer with the state road department, the couple lived in Tallahassee until his retirement. They moved back to Sanford in 1920 with their two daughters Eva and Rose. Missie had also been a childhood friend of my mother's, as we were delighted when they bought the house next door to us on Park Avenue. Missie continues to live there and one could not have had a better neighbor (I now live behind her) for the past 43 years.

Sanford Historical Society

Since it has been in the Sanford Herald a couple of times recently, I'm sure that most of you know that I am the new president of the Sanford Historical Society. And I am assuming that you, too, are interested in Sanford's history since you are reading my column!

This is to inform you that the Society is sponsoring several events at the Sanford Museum on March 4-5 in commemoration of Florida's 150th birthday. Florida became a state on March 3, 1845.

Of special interest to all of you will be an exhibit of historic Sanford postcards from the collection of Jim Carr. Jim lives in DeLand, but his roots are in Sanford. He is the son of Janette Ratliff Carr, Seminole County's law librarian and Sanford native. Jim is an avid collector of Sanford memorabilia, some of which he has donated to the Sanford Museum. He has also placed several items there on loan. His postcard collection is huge and curator Alicia Clarke has had a hard time selecting those to place on display.

Jim Robison will be on hand March 4 to autograph his book, "Flashbacks: The Story of Central Florida's Past." Co-author is Mark Andrews.

George Scott will be giving a demonstration of palm frond weaving during the weekend. He makes ornaments based on ancient Native American designs.

The Society will be having a bake sale and will also have their 1988 pictorial calendar for sale, along with special magnets and buttons.

The Sanford Museum hours for this special weekend of March 4-5 will be 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. This is your chance to tour the newly expanded museum and also enjoy these special events. I hope to see all of you there!

Annex

meeting, a request will be considered to annex a portion of property which would include approximately 70 acres of land recently purchased by the college in the northeastern area of the campus.

SOC spokesman Craig Orsone commented, "Most of the college land was incorporated by the city of Sanford since the start, but we recently purchased this land and plan to build the new access road from Lake Mary Boulevard on it."

"The city is ready to hook up reclaimed water to the area, and we will need it annexed in order to have utilities and water available on the property," he continued.

The new access road will be near what has been called "Hospital Road." An old cemetery is located adjacent to the property believed to have been used many decades ago for burials of poor people who may have died while in local hospital facilities. Complete information on the history of the land however remains clouded with time.

Orsone said the actual work on the hospital road access should begin by early next year. No specific dates have been established at this time, pending the determination of a contractor for the project.

Work on widening that portion of Lake Mary Boulevard, between Lake Mary and U.S. Highway 17-92 is still in progress.

Sanford City Manager Bill Simmons is recommending the commission authorize the city attorney to draw up an ordinance for the annexation. The request was filed in January by the college's board of trustees.

a safe student pick up, crossing a railroad track and inspecting the vehicle before a run.

"This is a lot of fun, but it's serious stuff," said Nancy McNamara, executive director for elementary education, who was serving as a judge in the back up test for the Road-B-O.

McNamara said she has been a judge for several years and looks forward to doing it all year long.

"This is so great," she said. "I love this."

Sharon Dins has never driven a bus, but says she has a lot of respect for the drivers who take her children to and from school every day.

"I think they're very special people," she said. "I want to support them."

Longwood

Benson received the backing of freshmen commissioners Bill Winston and Jim Carico to become mayor in November. The mayor serves at the pleasure of the commission so the question remains whether Vacca can garner support from Commissioner Ron Sargent and at least one other commissioner to remove Benson.

The rancor between Vacca and Benson seemed clear at the Feb. 20 commission meeting when the commissioner complained the mayor interrupted her when she had the floor. Vacca also claimed the mayor was abusing her authority when she ruled Sargent out of order after finding the topic he was discussing was inappropriate at that time.

Vacca cited Benson's treatment of City Administrator W. Shelton Smith, city staff and sometimes the public as inexcusable.

At the commission meeting, Benson angrily told Smith she felt "blinded" by a proposed appropriation introduced on first reading for speed bumps in a city subdivision when the commission had not established any policy on the matter or even agreed the installation would take place. She also expressed her extreme displeasure that a report on speed bumps was not properly documented, explaining who had written it or when the data was gathered.

Vacca and the mayor were also at odds over city construction site signs which Benson approved without consulting the commission. Vacca objected to the names of current commissioners being on the signs as free political advertising. In addition, an election in two years might render the signs obsolete should incumbents not be re-elected or not seek another term.

Benson claims the current tempest is simply a misunderstanding. The mayor telephoned Vacca Friday but Vacca did not return the call, taken by an answering machine, due to Sunshine Law provisions prohibiting commissioners from discussing business outside a public meeting forum.

Although the mayor admitted she attempted to contact Vacca, she said it did not violate the Sunshine Law.

"I did call her house this morning to apologize to her if I said anything to her to hurt her feelings," Benson commented. "It's a shame Commissioner Vacca is so compelled to go to this extreme."

"It takes two to violate the Sunshine Law," the mayor continued. "I was talking to a machine, a machine doesn't count. I am an attorney and I know the Sunshine Law."

"It's campaign time,"

Vacca contacted the city attorney, Richard S. Taylor Jr., after receiving Benson's message and was advised it could be considered a violation if the two talked directly. Vacca prepared a memo to Benson stating she could not return the call.

Vacca claims the mayor did not allow citizens to participate in a discussion of Wildcat flooding problems at a special meeting in December. Some citizens are held to the regulation three-minute time limit during public participation while others are not. Vacca alleges the mayor's tone, manner and content of statements may be abrasive and that style does not present an image of a receptive, concerned city government to the public or even city employees.

"The mayor constantly interrupts," Vacca said. "She repeats motions or statements in her own words, sometimes putting a different slant on them. We aren't stupid, the commissioners can speak for themselves."

Some observers have suggested Vacca's call for Benson to step down as mayor is politically motivated or is payback for Benson opposing Vacca's Washington D.C. trip for the National League of Cities Conference. The commissioner denies it.

"This is something to be considered this long before the trip ever came up. I was assured things would get better given a little time, but that hasn't happened."

Benson said as mayor she has worked to improve, not tarnish the city's image. She noted her involvement on behalf of the city, including securing a grant for the beautification of State Road 434, service on the Juvenile Justice board, establishment of a business advisory council to attract and keep businesses in the city in order to broaden the tax base. Benson was recently elected president of CALNO, the council of local governments.

"All I did was call her this morning," Benson said Friday. "I'm meeting my commitments. This is a throwback to Wrongwood. I am conducting city business to bring the city back to Longwood. I do everything I can to better the city and promote goodwill. I feel badly if Commissioner Vacca's feelings are hurt."

IN BRIEF

New at Stirling

HEATHROW — Stirling International Realty, Inc. of Heathrow has named Robert A. Finn and Ann Vanderburg as sales executives. The announcement was made by Roger Soderstrom, co-owner and founder. Stirling is presently constructing a large office complex northwest of the Interstate 4 and Lake Mary Boulevard intersection.

New at Olympia

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Olympia Homes of Altamonte Springs has named David C. Scott as construction manager for the community of Eastern Park. Scott is a 17-year veteran in the development and construction fields.

Eastern Park is located on Alafaya Trail, south of Chapman Road. Olympia has recently announced a new community to be built in Lake Mary in the near future.

Fair invitation

Florida Agriculture Commissioner Bob Crawford is inviting agricultural firms from throughout Florida to exhibit their wares at the 59th Annual Florida International Agriculture Trade Show.

The event will be May 10-13 at the Kissimmee Valley Livestock Center in Kissimmee.

For information on exhibiting at the fair, phone (804) 454-4555.

Trip awards

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Two salesmen for M/I Homes of Altamonte Springs were recent winners of trips to Mexico as top sales for the company according to David Byrnes, division manager. For the four-month period ending November, 1984, Michael Berry and Duke Duncan sold 58 homes for a dollar volume of close to $5 million.

At the same time, Byrnes said that Jeff Brow was named salesperson of the month for January, selling five homes for $729,983.

Southern Realty

LONGWOOD — Southern Realty Enterprises, Inc., Longwood, has announced top sales associates in real estate for the year 1984. Craig Clark and Patty Holapple were named Million Dollar Producers, and Jack Lesler was named Multi-Million Dollar Producer.

Southern has also announced that Sharon Germaine has now joined the staff as a sales associate at the Longwood office.

New board members

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Two Altamonte Springs individuals are among five named earlier this month to the 17-member board of director of Central Florida's construction trade association, Associated Builders and Contractors, Inc.

They include Timothy J. Dwyer, with general contractor Braasfeld & Gorrie, Inc., and John J. Kelly with general contractor McDevitt Street Bova, Inc.

Other Central Florida persons named included R. Frank Craddock Jr., and Terrence Helms of Orlando, and R. Lance Walker Jr., of Winter Park.

The association has also named Randy L. Brooks as 1985 president. Brooks has served on the board of directors since 1986. He is a vice president with Angard-Juergensen, Inc., an Orlando-based metal buildings general contractor.

Duffy joins Stirling

HEATHROW — Stirling International Realty, Inc., has named Terrence M. Duffy general manager of its newly organized residential division. Roger Soderstrom, founder and managing partner made the announcement.

Duffy comes to Stirling with close to 30 years experience in real estate sales and management. He was twice named Realtor of the Year by the Seminole County Board of Realtors, and also served as its president.

Stirling is presently constructing a new major $1.3 million showcase facility at the intersection of Interstate-4 and Lake Mary Boulevard.

Dr. Phillips cautious

The Dr. Phillips Institute for the Study of American Business Activity, at the University of Central Florida College of Business Administration, has come out with its latest summary of the Central Florida Economic Status.

The study says Central Florida economic performance managed to hold its own good pace over the three months ending in January, 1988. Signs of continued strength outweigh some clear-cut signs of weakness.

The report says good trends have been sustained in the local unemployment rate in December, payroll job creation in December, and traffic registered at Orlando International Airport in both November and December. It includes private construction improvements for three months ending in November.

The report indicates that while many aspects of the local economy are improving, hotel occupancy rates remain on the business conditions alert list, along with existing single-family home sales.

Former commissioner takes new job

Furlong joins Fidelity National Title Insurance

By Mike Pappas
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Former Seminole County Commissioner Larry Furlong has joined Fidelity National Title Insurance Company. He has been appointed Vice President for Major Accounts, and will concentrate on business development in Central Florida.

Furlong had spent several years in the title insurance industry prior to his election to the County Commission in 1980.

"I am thrilled with the opportunity to join a progressive company like Fidelity National Title," Furlong said. "I have always admired Fidelity Nation's commitment to quality service and customer satisfaction. It is also great to be with the Central Florida area's market leader."

Furlong continues to be involved in community affairs. He has been appointed to the Sheriff's Citizens Advisory Committee by Sheriff Don Eslinger, and was recently elected to the Board of Directors of the Boys and Girls Clubs of Central Florida.

He is also a member of Seminole H.O.P.E., a coalition working to reduce crime and drug abuse in Seminole County. He also continues to remain active in the Private Business Association of Seminole, Central Florida Irish American Club, and University of Mississippi Alumni Association.

Fidelity National Title Insurance Company is reportedly the fastest growing title insurance company in the country, having grown from a 48th ranking in 1981 to the nation's fourth largest title insurer today.

Fidelity is also the market share leader in the four county area of Seminole, Orange, Osceola and Brevard. Fidelity's local office is located at 280 Wekiva Springs Road, Suite 148, in Longwood.

Larry Furlong

Doctors join management program

By Mike Pappas
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Florida Independent Physicians Association, Inc. (FIPA) has entered into a joint venture with Coastal Healthcare Group, Inc. to provide management services to FIPA's physician contracting network. Longwood Dr. Orlando Garcia-Piedra says he is extremely pleased with the joint venture.

The FIPA encompasses all 67 counties in the state, and includes over 5,000 physicians.

Locally, FIPA Region 7 includes Seminole, Orange, Osceola and Brevard counties, with about 750 physician members.

Garcia-Piedra is on the boards of directors for both the state and regional FIPA. He has offices at 5788 Marsh Way Circle in Longwood.

He explained his reasoning. "The goal of managed care is to balance quality and access with cost efficiency," he said. "FIPA believes that Health Maintenance Organizations (HMOs) need to establish relationships with physicians that treat physicians as the managers of the healthcare system."

"Inasmuch as physicians are in fact the only individuals who are trained and licensed to examine patients, diagnose illnesses, prescribe medications, order appropriate diagnostic tests and perform indicated procedures, admit and discharge patients, etc., they are the true determiners of the utilization of the healthcare system, and therefore, its most logical managers," he commented. Joseph C. Cauthen, M.D., president of the state FIPA said, "Our board believes that this partnership will enhance FIPA's ability to achieve its goal of establishing a broad-based, competitive, cost-efficient physician directed integrated delivery system."

According to Steven M. Scott, M.D., Coastal president and chief executive officer of FIPA, this joint venture involves the capitalization and formation of Florida Physician Services, Inc., a corporation owned 60 percent by FIPA and 40 percent by Coastal. Florida Physician Services will be the operations management arm of FIPA and its regional entities.

Specific terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

Watermolen earns CIA designation

Watermolen, senior auditor for Seminole County Clerk of Circuit Court, Maryanne Morse, has been named as a Certified Internal Auditor (CIA) by the Institute of Internal Auditors (IIA).

The CIA designation is awarded to internal audit professionals who have met the rigorous requirements of the IIA's CIA program, including a four-part examination, as well as character and experience requirements.

Watermolen has been with the clerk's office since February of 1984.

The CIA exam, administered twice a year in three languages, was given to 1,189 candidates at 189 locations around the world. Of these, only 448 became Certified Internal Auditors.

The more than 20,000 CIAs worldwide are members of a recognized professional group and benefit from rapid career advancement and greater acceptance in the role as advisor to management.

How to raise more money

The Central Florida Chapter of the National Society of Fund Raising Executives (NSFRE) will host a luncheon program on March 18, focusing on "Effective Fund Raising Strategies."

The program will be held at the Downtown Radisson Hotel, 80 S. Ivanhoe Blvd., in Orlando, beginning at 11:45 a.m.

Featured speakers include Kathy Beattie, a Certified Fund Raising Executive (CFRE) Consultant, Warren Johnson, vice president of development at Rollins College, and Larry Ogle, vice president of development at Hospice of Central Florida.

Advance reservations are recommended, and may be made by contacting John Riddle of the American Diabetes Association, at 660-1926. Cost to NSFRE members is $18, and $20 for non-members.

Professional meetings scheduled for March

By Mike Pappas
Herald Staff Writer

A number of meetings for professionals and persons involved in a variety of occupations have been announced for the next few months. Due to the large amount of people expected to attend, the meetings are being held in the Orlando area. Most of them however, involve members or interested persons in the Seminole County and Sanford area.

The following meetings are included among the many:

● March 8 — The Florida Real Estate Exchange (FREE) has scheduled a two-day marketing session beginning March 8, from 1 until 5 p.m., and 7 until 10 p.m., and March 9 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The meetings will be held at Howard Johnson, 3835 McCoy Road, Orlando.

FREE is a state organization of real estate brokers and agents specializing in marketing properties through creative techniques, including tax-deferred exchanges.

For reservations or further information, phone Mill Armistrong (407) 647-0137.

● March 8 — "Malls, the Changing Face of Shopping" will be the topic at the next International Council of Shopping Centers (ICSC) meeting on March 8, 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Featured speakers include Kim Entomson, vice president and Group Manager J.W. O'Connor (Altamonte Mall), Stan Aranda, and many others. Panelists will be speaking about changes at their centers and what they see happening in the local marketplace including new developments and redevelopments.

The luncheon will be in the private parlor rooms above Sumbly's Arcade at Church Street Station. For further information, phone Karen Scott at 349-1155.

● March 15 — One of the largest public seminars in the Central Florida area will be coming to the Orange County Convention Center. The program, called "Success 1988" will feature notable leaders such as Zig Ziglar, Peter Lowe, Dr. Ted Broer, Colin Powell, Tom Hopkins and Dr. Robert Schuler.

The lineup of community and world leaders will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tickets at the door will be $225. Advance registrations start at $49.

For information phone 1-800-770-4963.

● March 16 — A workshop titled "Dramatically Increase your Cash Flow Overnight," is being brought to the Central Florida area by Cambridge Capital Management of Boca Raton. Leading experts in alternative financing will discuss strategies to increase cash flow by 40 to 150 percent.

The workshop is free, and will take place Saturday, March 16 from 8 a.m. until noon, at the Holiday Inn, across from Universal Studios in Orlando.

Seating is limited to confirmed reservations. For additional information, phone 698-0769.

● April 11 — More than 100 exhibitors will be part of the biggest display of machinery ever in Florida at the Advanced Productivity Exposition (APEX) scheduled for April 11-13 in Orlando.

Over 36,000 square feet of exhibit space has already been reserved at Orlando's newly-expanded Orange County Convention Center. Exhibit space is 60 percent sold out.

Over 3,000 manufacturing professionals are expected to attend this event, billed as the largest longest-running machine tool and metalworking show in Florida. The event is sponsored by AMTDA, the American Machine Tool Distributors' Association.

Exposition hours will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, April 11; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday, April 12; and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday, April 13.

For additional information, contact the Customer Service Center in Dearborn, Mich., 1-800-733-4763 between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

● April 25 — The Florida Chamber of Commerce will host its Seventh Annual Advanced Growth Management Short Course April 25 and 26 at the Radisson Plaza Hotel, Orlando.

The course, with over 100 instructors, is produced in cooperation with the Department of Community Affairs, 1000 Friends of Florida, Florida Association of Counties, Florida League of Cities, and the American Planning Association Florida Chapter.

Among instructors are DCA Secretary Linda Shelley, former DCA Secretary Tom Pelham, and former DER Secretaries Jake Varn and Vicki Tachinkel.

Do your banking at AAA?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HEATHROW — The American Automobile Association's 37 million members will soon be able to get a loan or make a deposit by phone, mail or computer at AAA's own banking center.

The federation of 123 motor clubs with some 1,000 offices nationwide announced Tuesday that it will go into the banking business with a financial partner sometime this summer.

"We envision this as a nationwide service for our members, but it depends on how many of our clubs participate," said Jim Gudinas, the managing director of AAA Financial Services.

Graeme Clarke, vice president of AAA Travel, Marketing & Financial Services, said the move is designed to make AAA membership more attractive. The federation provides members with a complete line of travel, insurance and auto-related services.

AAA also is the largest seller of American Express Travelers Cheques, with $2.5 billion sold in 1984.

The organization based at the Heathrow development near Orlando said it would build on the success of an existing credit card program that has 5.8 million holders of AAA/VISA cards and AAA/MasterCards.

John Milstead, executive vice president of the Florida Bankers Association, said AAA's entry into the financial field "is just another example of that trend" by major companies.

It should be a concern to traditional banks because "AAA is a very aggressive company," he said.

AAA will form a financial services company that will own an institution insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., officials said.

"AAA's financial services company will focus on non-traditional distribution, relying on delivery methods such as phone, mail and electronic communication," said Gudinas.

Requests for participating partners have been sent to 40 banks and thrifts nationwide, and AAA expects to put the plan into action this summer, he said.

The banking service would offer car loans and other personal loans but would not deal with mortgages and lines of credit.

Tapes

after city commissioner Annamaria Vaccaro called for a special commission meeting to discuss the conduct of Mayor Iris Sones. The two were at loggerheads more than once during the regular meeting in question.

The two events were quietly listed by specification.

Was this Longwoodgate or Wreagwoodgate? The tape was the only verbatim record of the sometimes contentious meeting. Talk of the "missing tapes" made phone lines sizzle.

City staffers looked high and low for the cassette Wednesday while City Clerk Gerri Sambril was out sick. She joined the search when she returned.

Sure enough, the tapes were nowhere to be found.

Sambril said she was not feeling well anyway and after putting in a 17-hour day Monday that stretched until the commission adjourned its meeting at 10:30 p.m., she might have done something stupid with the tapes. Tuesday was relatively quiet, considering it was the day after the commission meeting, but the clerk decided to take Wednesday off because she still wasn't feeling up to par.

When someone to listen to the tapes came in Wednesday but they could not be found, the search was on.

"I checked my pockets, my purse, everywhere," the weary clerk recalled Friday.

"Have you ever put something in the refrigerator that didn't belong there?" she asked, rhetorically. "Or been so tired and distracted you didn't know what you did with something? That's what happened. I could not remember what I had done with the tapes. I wanted my brain and could not remember."

Could someone have entered the unsecured office when staffers were out and perused the tapes?

City administrator W. Shelton Smith asked the clerk if they should call for an investigation so city police were summoned.

While describing the bread of missing tape to the officer, Sambril pulled a tape from her drawer and noticed it was dated Feb. 6.

"I thought that was odd because I'd filed those tapes," the clerk recalled. When she flipped the cassette over, she found the Feb. 20 date.

"I had written the wrong date on one side of the tape by mistake," the clerk said. The "missing tapes" had been in the clerk's desk while the frantic search was conducted.

Humane

second annual Central Florida Renaissance Festival today.

Festival sponsors have invited the Humane Society, and other charitable organizations, to participate and to raise funds for their various causes.

The HSSC volunteer group, known as "Maid Marion's Branch of Robin Hood's Gang" will be on hand, with some of the shelter residents, to answer questions about animals, offer counseling on adoption of shelter animals and accept donations.

Spencer developed her persona after a hobby involving Middle Eastern dance led her to write for a Middle Eastern magazine and then go on to study tarot cards and fortune telling. She has also learned to read crystals and palms. She has a master of arts degree in history, with a special interest in cultural history. Her master's thesis was written on the "effect of the belief in magical systems on English legislation in the Tudor-Stewart period." She's an artist, dealing in the surreal, a writer and a teacher. This will be her first time at the Renaissance Festival.

Belladonna has entertained audiences by telling fortunes for five years. She has performed for a wide variety of companies including IBM, Kellogg, Godiva, Walt Disney World and Universal Studios. She has donated her services to several animal-oriented welfare agencies including the Canine Companions for Independence and HSSC.

Spencer's true love for animals is apparent. Belladonna will be working for donations with only good fortunes told. "If you adopt, I'll tell you anything you want. I'll even do a magical spell to make it come true."

I have a great deal of fun with it (the fortune telling). The thing that I love the most is doing it for fund-raising. I can help the animals. So few people realize how much trouble the animals are in."

HSSC is a totally independent shelter, Spencer said. "We get no funds except what we can raise or what the community gives us. We don't get help from the national Humane Society, we don't get help from the state, the city or the county."

The Renaissance Festival is held to benefit local schools, charities and the arts. In addition to HSSC, the Greyhound Adoption Service and the Almond Home Coalition of Animal Foster Families, will be represented.

The Humane Society shelter is located at the intersection of U.S. Highway 17-92 and County Home Road, next to Flea World. The public is invited to visit the resident animals as well as view the progress being made on the new kennel facility. The shelter is open to the public every day except Tuesday and Wednesday, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

IN BRIEF

LOCALLY

Boating classes scheduled

SANFORD — A series of safe boating classes will be taught by the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary beginning next Monday, March 6, at the Seminole County Port Authority Building, 1510 Kastner Place Hidden Harbor.

Classes will begin at 7 p.m. Subjects that will be taught include boat handling, marlinpike, rules of the road, legal requirements, and other safety-related topics.

A certificate will be presented to all who pass the course. The course satisfies the requirements of anyone who must take one because of a boating infraction.

For more information or to register, call 323-9418 or (904) 789-8973.

AROUND THE STATE

Tar Heels escape FSU ambush

TALLAHASSEE — Jeff McInnis' steal with time running out saved third-ranked North Carolina, preserving an 80-78 victory Saturday that moved the Tar Heels into a three-way share of first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

With two seconds left, McInnis tipped the ball away from Florida State's Bobby Sura, who was trying to tie or win the game for the pesky Seminoles, who were in position for the upset despite never leading in the second half.

North Carolina (21-3, 11-3 ACC) led 46-39 at the half and pulled ahead by as many as 10 at 49-39 early in the second half.

James Collins scored 24 points for FSU (12-13, 5-10) while Sura, playing in his final home game, added 18 points and six assists.

Alabama rallies by Florida

GAINESVILLE — Eric Washington hit a 3-pointer with 2.7 seconds remaining to cap an 8-2 run over the final two minutes as No. 20 Alabama edged Florida 69-66 in a Southeastern Conference basketball game Saturday.

Florida (14-10 overall, 7-7 in the SEC) was led by Dametri Hill's 21 points. Alabama (19-7, 9-5) got 21 points from Antonio McDyea.

Florida still had a chance to win the game, but Dan Cross missed a running jumper with 13 seconds left.

Miami holds off USF

TAMPA — South Florida's late rally fell just short as the Bulls lost to Miami 4-3 on Saturday. Adam Finneston hit his first home run of the season for the Hurricanes to snap a 1-1 tie in the seventh inning. The Hurricanes added a pair of runs in the eighth to go up 4-1.

USF left seven runners in scoring position.

Wake Forest ekes by 'Noles

TALLAHASSEE — Designated hitter Craig Goodmark's fourth-inning three-run homer made the difference as Wake Forest knocked off top-ranked Florida State 4-3 in Atlantic Coast Conference action Saturday.

With the victory, Wake Forest goes to 4-1 overall and 1-1 in ACC play, while Florida State falls to 9-3 and 1-1.

J.D. Drew and Doug Mientkiewicz each collected two of the eight Seminoles hits to lead the offense.

AROUND THE NATION

Little cruises to 2nd win

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. — Chad Little overpowered the field Saturday on the way to his second straight Busch Grand National victory, this one coming in the Goodwrench 200 at North Carolina Motor Speedway.

Little, who earned his first career victory a week earlier at Daytona Beach, started on the outside of the front row. He easily took the lead from pole-winner and defending series champion David Green at the start and lost the lead only on pit stops in the 197-lap race.

It wasn't even close, with the Ford Thunderbird co-owned by NFL quarterback Mark Rypley, beating the Ford of runner-up Mark Martin to the finish line by 9.39 seconds — about a third of the 1.017-mile oval.

Va. Tech breaks USF Bulls

BLACKSBURG, Va. — Ace Custis scored 18 points and had five steals Saturday as Virginia Tech beat South Florida 74-64.

The victory gives Virginia Tech (19-8, 5-6 Metro Conference) 19 wins for the first time since the 1987-88 season. The Hokies also stayed alive in the battle for second place in the conference while the loss dropped South Florida (14-10, 4-7) out of that race.

Chucky Atkins led USF with 19 points. Donzell Rush added 16 points.

All-SAC soccer picks

Girls: Patriot seniors lead first team

Special to the Herald

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Kim Shrum and Allison Satterthwait, the only two seniors on Seminole Athletic Conference girls' soccer champion Lake Brantley's roster, capped their careers with All-SAC first-team selections.

Including Shrum and Satterthwait, the Patriots placed a county-best four players on the All-Conference first team.

Overall, Lake Brantley had eight players earn All-Conference honors, a total matched by conference runner-up Lake Mary.

Lake Brantley coach John Schaefer, who guided the Patriots to a 10-0 record in the conference (23-2-0 overall) and the SAC championship, earns the SAC Coach of the Year award.

Joining Shrum and Satterthwait on the All-Conference first team are Lake Brantley teammates Andrea Villet and Teresa Moon, the Patriots' sophomore goalkeeper.

Rounding out the first team are Angie Olson and Allison Neri from Lake Mary; Lake Howell's Tammy Zegledi and Nicole Nolan; Kelli Strickler and Michelle St. Louis of Lyman; and Oviedo's Karyn Hall.

Lake Brantley also placed Christie Monica, Ginger Sellick, and Margi Burkhart on the All-SAC second team with Maggie Tullis earning an honorable mention nod.

Megan Martin, junior goalkeeper Michelle Rovito, Jordan Kelgren, and Michelle Pierce of Lake Mary (8-2 SAC, 18-7-2 overall) were voted to the second team while honorable mention honors went to Brooke Kent and Julie Weber.

For the third-place Lake Howell Silver Hawks (5-4-0 SAC, 19-8-0 overall), sophomore Cally Howell was a second-team selection, Michelle Japak, Ai-di Nguyen, and Stacey Weatherby were honorable mention picks.

The Oviedo Lions (3-7-0 SAC, 14-12-1 overall) placed Ashley Radkevich on the second team and had Karen Murray, Jennifer Thompson, and Christy Duval earn honorable mention honors.

DeeDee Eubanks represents the Lyman Greyhounds (3-6-0 SAC, 8-18-2 overall) on the second team. Rebecca Hallman and Molly Maize made the honorable mention list.

Seminole's Fighting Seminoles (0-10-0 SAC, 2-17-1 overall) placed Lealie Weber on the second team while Tracey Hetrick, Jennifer Baker, and Laura Williams were honorable mention choices.

Lake Mary senior goalkeeper Greg Velho, named the state's Player of the Year by the Florida Athletic Coaches Association, is one of four Rams on the SAC's All-Conference first team.

Boys: LMHS's Velho tops selections

Special to the Herald

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Lake Mary High School senior goalkeeper Greg Velho, selected as the Florida Athletic Coaches Association's Player of the Year, leads the 1994-95 Seminole Athletic Conference boys' soccer All-Conference team.

Velho, along with Lake Mary teammate Aren Cook and Oviedo's Scott Thelen, are first-team selections to the FACA All-State team as well as anchoring the SAC All-Conference first team.

Lake Mary, which won the SAC championship with a 10-0 record and finished 24-4-1 overall, had 10 players receive All-Conference honors. By virtue of leading the Rams to the conference title, Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle is the SAC Coach of the Year.

Also being named to the All-Conference first team were Lake Mary's Don "Ace" Delaney and Nate Garcia; Paul Riggins, Brian Deibler, and Brad Massey of Lyman; Oviedo's Frank Ciento and Travis Weeks; and Trevor Smith of Lake Brantley.

Weeks is the only junior on the first team; all the rest are seniors.

Second-team selections from Lake Mary were Chase Greene, Scott Heath, Jason Tisdell, Jamie Bailey, and Alon Seifan. Dustin Garber was an honorable mention pick.

For Lyman (second in the conference with a 7-2-1 record, 21-5-1 overall), Toby Morris and junior forward Charles Whitmore were named to the second team while freshman goalkeeper Shane LaPlaca, Cameron Kirkeconnell, Dane Knudsen, and Mark Lewis were honorable mention selections.

Senior goalkeeper Darren Ockwig was the sole representative from Oviedo (third in the SAC at 6-3-1, 15-6-3 overall). Receiving honorable mention nods were Leo Mejia, David Schlatter, Eric Atwood, Tony Griffin, Cameron Zarbaugh, Jon Meert, Mike Varley, Mike Zigler, and Jack Prior.

Sophomore striker Jeff Yearick represents Lake Howell (3-7-0 SAC, 9-13-1 overall) on the second team. Honorable mention honors were Ben McKeeby, Derek Seaman, Austin Pinner, David Lewis, and Josh Kolcomb.

Lake Brantley (2-7-0 SAC, 4-14-2 overall) placed Jason Beth and Chris Branding on the second team. Matt Hawkins, Phillip Cianculli, Dan Henry, Mike Kolman, Dan Fendrich, and Pat Ireland were honorable mention choices.

Honorable mention picks from Seminole (0-9 SAC, 4-13-1 overall) were Barry Henderson, Philip Falk, and Jason Cyrus.

Gold Coast does it to OCS again

From Staff Reports

JUPITER — The Orangewood Christian School boys' basketball team experienced an episode of deja vu Friday night.

And unfortunately for the Rams, it wasn't a pleasant experience.

For the second straight year, Orangewood Christian came up one game short of the Class A state tournament. And for the second consecutive year, the Rams were eliminated by West Palm Beach Gold Coast Corporate, falling 60-58 in the finals of the A-Region 2 playoffs at Jupiter Christian School.

Robert Jones scored a game-high 28 points as GCC rallied from a five-point deficit at the end of the third quarter, outscoring OCS 11-4 in the final period.

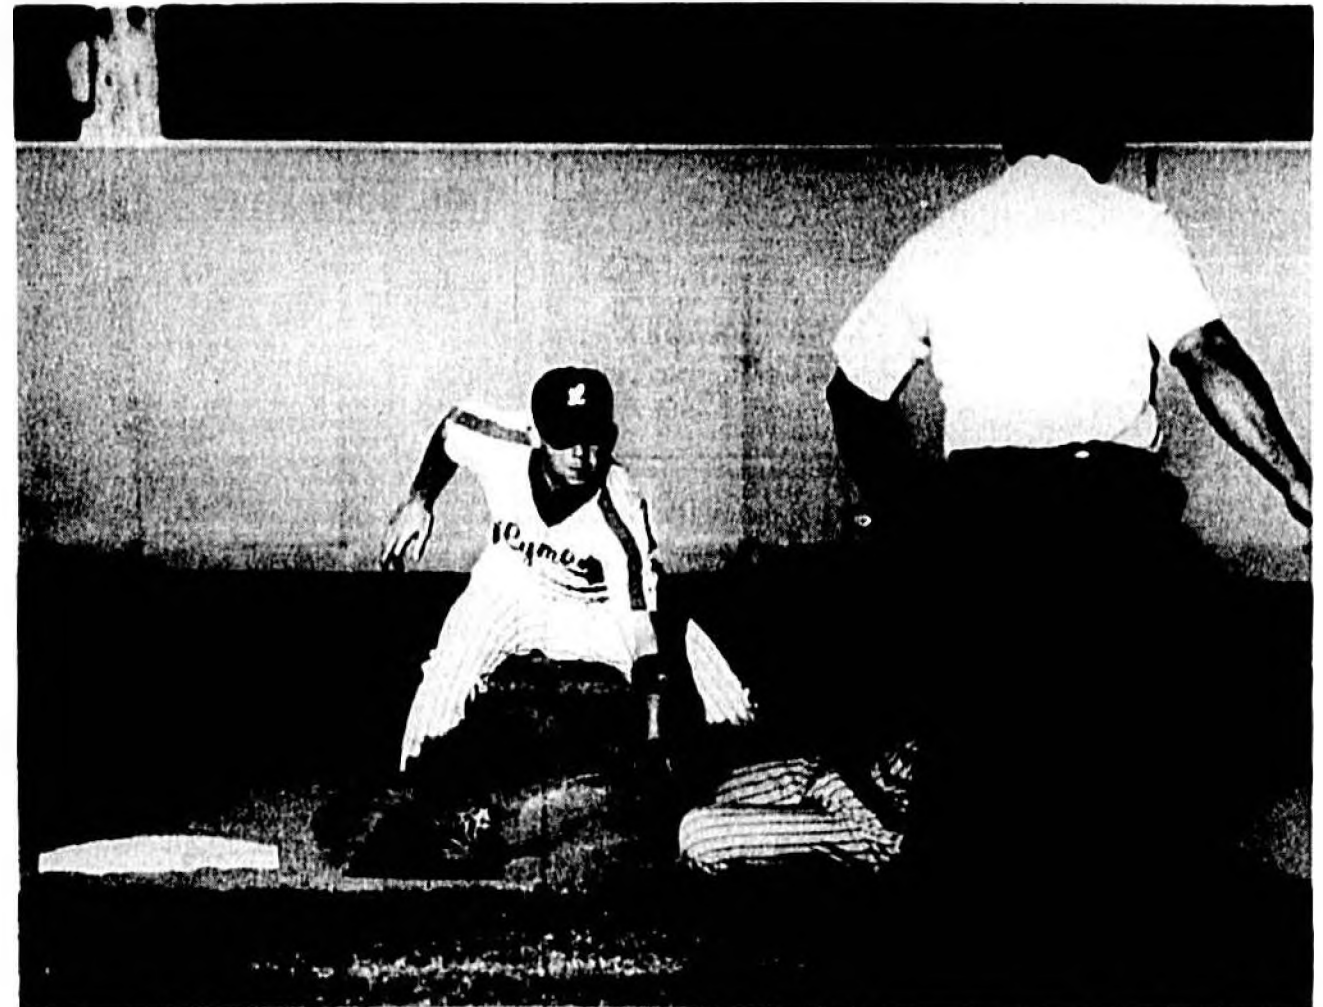

The loss snapped an 18-game winning streak for the Rams (ranked No. 2 in Class A), who end the season with a 26-4 record. Gold Coast Corporate (No. 5 in Class A) improved to 25-7 and will play Coral Gables Academy of Community Education in the state tournament in Tallahassee on Thursday.

Leading the way for OCS were junior Broderick Boule (18 points, 14 rebounds), junior Jakob Hardrick (14 points) and senior Jon Maffei (10 points). Other seniors playing their games for the Rams were Dan VandeStreek, Spencer Meier and Ben Mitchell.

'Hounds slug Lions in tourney final

By RYAN ANDERSON
Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — Swinging the bats with successful abandon, the Lyman Greyhounds trounced the Oviedo Lions 14-3 in the championship game of the Lyman Invitational baseball tournament at the Carlton D. Henley Athletic Complex Friday night.

The teams had met earlier in the tournament, the Greyhounds edging the Lions 4-3 in 10 innings on a run-scoring wild pitch Wednesday night, sending Oviedo into the losers' bracket of the double elimination tournament.

Friday's rematch was a different story. The

Bridal Tea honors Kristen Women attend FFWC Centennial Tea

SANFORD
DORIS DIETRICH

Kristen Kay Jarand was the guest of honor at a bridal tea Feb. 18 given at the Lake Mary home of Mrs. Harry (Ruth) Lee Jr. Ms. Jarand will become the bride of Wendell Springfield Jr. in March. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Roger Jarand and her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Springfield, all of Lake Mary.

Sharing the hostess role with Ruth were: Mrs. Jack (Joan) Ludwig and Mrs. LeRoy (Linda) Robb who left no stone unturned to create a perfectly lovely afternoon. From the quaint invitation featuring a whimsical teacup to the pink, purple and white balloons marking directions to the Lee home, the tea was the last word in elegance.

Forming the receiving with the bride-to-be, her mother and the bridegroom's mother was the bride's sister, Gretchen Jarand-Jones. Kristen wore a teal-colored dress, fashioned along the princess silhouette, with a V-lace collar and buttons up the front. Sue Jarand chose a fitted two-piece green dress, tunic-styled, accented with buttons. Janice Springfield wore a royal purple silk dress with matching covered buttons and embroidery detail. They all wore corsages, gifts from the hostesses.

Guests were directed to the dining room for refreshments served from a table overlaid with a white cutwork cloth complete with matching napkins. Russian tea and coffee were poured from antique silver service and a crystal punch bowl held sparkling fruit punch. Centering the beautifully-appointed table was an arrangement of mixed spring flowers in the bride's chosen colors of purple, pink and white.

An eclectic assortment of heirloom serving pieces offered heart-shaped cheese biscuits, freshly picked strawberries, miniature ham biscuits, chicken salad sandwiches, ribbon sandwiches, toasted nuts, butter mints, petit fours and mini eclairs.

Pouring were Gail Gruber, Joan Ludwig and Linda Robb, all lifetime friends of the bridegroom's mother who started kindergarten together and graduated from Seminole High School together.

Assisting the hostesses were Debbie Williams, Marilyn Williams and Patty Mahany. Sean Mahaney directed the car-parking.

The hostesses presented the bride-elect with a hostess set in her registered Gorham pattern.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Norman McMillan, Mrs. Lawrence Reel Jr., Mrs. Donald Mueller and Mrs. John Campbell, all relatives of the

Black History: 'It's never too late to learn'

"It's never too late to learn" was the theme of the Black History Christian Fellowship program held in honor of those who believe in the true meaning of the celebration of black history. The accomplishments of African Americans will forever be remembered, not just for a special chosen month, but for days, weeks, months and generations to come. Blacks will be honored for their contributions to this history of our country.

Mistress of ceremonies Monica May of 108 JAMZ radio contributed greatly to the evening's celebration, fellowship and praise sponsored by the Alpha Americans United Club. Three young men blended their voices as they opened the devotional part of the celebration with the rendition of "What A Friend We

Alvin and Jamlon Kilgore's beautiful voices carried older minds back to the days when African Americans sang those old hymns. Tom Reilly is an avid supporter of YMCA

YMCA support campaign opens in Seminole

Tom Reilly, certified public accountant of the firm Holland Reilly, is one of the two division coordinators of the Seminole County YMCA for the "Current Support Campaign," the annual fund-raiser for the Central Florida YMCA.

The reason that the YMCA holds an annual campaign is to build broad based community support among business organizations, to enlist a significant number of members and friends to support service to others, to interpret YMCA values to the community, and to provide and extend services to youth, adults and families.

It is an important aspect of the fund-raiser to establish that the programs offered by the YMCA have an established set of goals and objectives and that the programs have been created out of a community-based need, such as before and after school child care, and drop proofing our children.

The funds are used primarily for six program areas: aquatics, youth sports, camping, developing older youth leadership skills, family enrichment and child care

AARP studies health; Girl Scout Sunday scheduled

Lake Mary Dancers show AARP that line dancing is a great way to exercise.

Improving your health is not just a matter of exercising and watching your weight. Studies have proven that being socially active improves your health. These words of wisdom came from the AARP health reporter at the February meeting of the Lake Mary chapter.

A quality relationship also improves your health. Another often overlooked area of health is the quality of your sleep. If you have an old mattress and box spring, replace them. After all, you spend eight out of every 24 hours in bed. An extra firm mattress, Queen or King size is best.

At the January meeting of the AARP, some people admitted that they never wrote letters to their senators or representatives because they were not sure what form the letter should be in. For February's meeting, Legislative Committee Chair Wally Hill brought in a sample letter for members to use as a guide.

Community Service Chair Paulee Stevens announced that the seniors had made over 400 Boo Boo bears for the Seminole County Health Department. The health department will give one bear to every child getting an immunization at the Seminole County Fair. The Boo Boo bears were made by the seniors as a volunteer project with RSVP (Retired and Senior Volunteer Program). Every volunteer hour registered with RSVP means money back to Seminole County.

Paulee also announced that she is one of 40 people who has been invited to the Claude Pepper Institute. Paulee will be representing Lake Mary in the institute's summit on teen-agers and the elderly.

The guests for the meeting were the Lake Mary Dancers. Few people exercise when they are alone. The dancers were on hand to show AARP members that line dancing is a great way to exercise with other people, socialize and have lots of fun. Anyone interested in line dancing can stop by the Frank Evans Center any Friday at 10 a.m. and join in.

For seniors interested in seeing your legislators at work, the RSVP is offering a field trip to Tallahassee. The trip is scheduled for April 3 through 8. Activities on the trip include

Jaundoo-Feacher

LAKE MARY — George and Linda Jaundoo of Lake Mary announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon M.E. Jaundoo, to Richard L. Feacher, son of Dr. Jean Feacher-Jones and Marvin Jones, Winter Springs.

Born in Guyana, South America, the bride-elect is the maternal granddaughter of Mrs. Cecily Boliers of Trinidad, B.A., and the late Mr. Alfred Boliers. She is the paternal granddaughter of the late Mr. Frederick Jaundoo and Mrs. Elizabeth Jaundoo, formerly of Guyana.

Ms. Jaundoo is a 1986 graduate of John Bowne High School, Flushing, Queens, N.Y. She is a 1988 graduate of Queensborough College.

Bayside, N.Y. Ms. Jaundoo is presently employed as a foreclosure specialist.

Her fiancé, born in Sanford, is the maternal grandson of John and Wilhelmina Feacher of Sanford. He is the paternal grandson of Ralph Jones of Palmetto, and the late Mrs. Louvenia Jones.

Feacher is a 1983 graduate of Lyman High School, Longwood, and a 1988 graduate of the University of Southwestern Louisiana, Lafayette, La. He is currently employed as an accounts receivable representative.

The wedding will be an event of March 25, 1988, 3 p.m., St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Lake Mary.

Italian Night

The recent Sanford Woman's Club's Italian night attracted over 200 patrons to eat, drink and be merry in a charming Italian setting in the quaint and historic clubhouse on Oak Avenue.

Upon entering the club, patrons marvelled at how the spacious auditorium had been transformed into an authentic Italian trattoria overlooking the Mediterranean. Tables were attractively decorated with runners of greenery and flowers accented with glowing hurricane lamps. Large, impressive Italian posters, draped overhead streamers and dozens of hanging baskets created shades of romantic Italy.

The stage was lavishly decorated with potted plants and a variety of Italian artifacts including an heirloom fringed scarf draped the piano. Also gracing the stage was a romantic table for two. All dined up in black velvet and tulle chignon. Roberta Zittrower sangway into the setting and sat at the table where she was approached by a handsome Italian virtuoso, Michael Hartman. He belted out a delightful medley of rousing Italian tunes directed to the lovely Roberta who played oh, so hard-to-get until the end. But waitress, Mariha Yancey, was quick to give the singer her undivided attention to the delight of the audience. The guest vocalist was accompanied by Sylvia Gray.

The patrons were served steaming spaghetti in a succulent sauce, tossed garden salad, crunchy garlic bread, sorbet and cookies and beverages, including wine for those so inclined.

Many families ventured out for the romantic evening. The Gielow clan, including Walter, Bill, Frieda and Dr. and Mrs. George (Ruth) Green, were having a good time at their table. Dottie and Bob Karna were spotted at another table enjoying the music. Dottie is a former

Centennial Tea

The Florida Federation of Women's Clubs is observing its centennial this year with celebrations in progress all over the state. The statewide event will take place at the state convention in Orlando in May.

In the meantime, each district was asked to stage its own observance before the big event. Several members of the Sanford Woman's Club ventured to the District VII celebration in Leesburg last Saturday afternoon to attend a Centennial Tea hosted by the Leesburg Woman's Club. Several state officers were in attendance to hear routine reports.

Attire for the event dictated 1988 fashions preferably, with hats and gloves a must. Club presidents attending were asked to wear a fashion representing the year their club was organized.

DeLora Lash, president of the Sanford Woman's Club, wore a smart black outfit stylish in 1913 when the club was founded. Jean Metts, a past club president, wore a green suit styled with a bustle and a matching green hat. Fran Morton, first vice president, wore a gray dress and flowered hat while Ruth Gaines, treasurer, wore a green suit and hat.

Fran Mitchell's costume was a blue skirt and crushed velvet top with a matching hat and Viola Frank wore a black outfit.

Linda Garranti, president of the Sanford Junior Woman's Club, chose a 1970's outfit complemented with a headband in keeping with the founding year of this club.

Charlotte Smith, a past club president and past PFWC president, was quite chic in an heirloom, ivory-colored dress with long, tapered lace sleeves and a high stand-up lace collar. She wore a matching hat enhanced with a delicate pink fabric rose and carried the gold mesh bag that her late husband presented her on her wedding day nearly 72 years ago.

From all reports, some lovely creations were worn and the women enjoyed turning the calendar back.

Catherine returns

Catherine Wheichel, a beloved retired school teacher, was back in town last week to attend the funeral of her brother-in-law John Pierce. Several years ago Catherine and her late husband moved to North Carolina where she still lives and "still loves."

Looking great and appearing in top form, Catherine also visited her family and friends while in Sanford. The community misses the vivacious born leader who is now sharing her expertise with her newly-found North Carolina friends.

ESO goes Round Robin

The Epistol Sigma Omicron Chapter, a reading society of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, met at the home of Ruth Gaines for the February meeting. Prior to the business session, the hostesses, including Hazel Cash and Charlotte Knowles, served appetizing refreshments of cranberry apple juice, coffee, mini quiches, mini muffins, finger sandwiches and toasted nuts in a Valentine setting.

Frances Mitchell, chairman, conducted the business meeting. The program was a Round Robin discussion led by Charlotte Knowles, program chairman, when members joined in to review books they are reading. Charlotte Smith gave a presentation of "Ladies of the Club." Kathy Kraanoff told about a list of books she has put together on "Women Make a Difference." Many famous women are included for their accomplishments including Eleanor Roosevelt, Mother Theresa, etc.

At the March ESO meeting, Kathy Kraanoff will present a program on herbs.

Ruth Gaines said there was a lot of interaction in discussing various books being read. "We had a good time of visiting and sharing," she said.

gro Mother" recited with grace and dignity by Doshia McDonald.

The first speaker of the evening was the Rev. Dr. Emory Blake, pastor of Progress Missionary Baptist Church and educator at Sanford Middle School. The Rev. Blake's words of wisdom to the audience of African Americans were to remind them that "nobody owes them anything, that as blacks we have come a long way, keep the day, week or month we have to celebrate, because it too will spread the message that African Americans have and are making history. God said that we are good, be a man of good character; we must hold to those truths that all men have a right to the pursuit of life and happiness. Overcome difficulties; what we are today determines what we will be tomorrow." He encouraged the young people to "have a charge, excel, accept true value, be a great people."

Messages and words of motivation were spoken by the Rev. Dr. Harry Rucker, pastor of First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church. His message of black history was taken from St. Luke 4:18. He asked the question of the audience, "Who's not here, why are they not here? Do we know who we are as a people, do we know the richness of the African American history? We must teach our children about their rich heritage, we must teach them to stop being violent. We as African Americans came to this country on the good ship, we are Jesus' precious cargo. When they opened the mouth of the good ship out stepped good, pure men, beautiful women. Let us not forget that we as African Americans have built this country. We are not lazy people; we have been left out of the history books but our contributions to America will continue to be written. No, we haven't overcome, we haven't arrived, we need to study our history and get angry because it is not being taught to the other race of people."

Dr. Rucker continued, "As African Americans we need to learn, to sit down and get it together. We are our father's children, we are witnessing our children losing it. They have no role models. Who will our children follow? Whose footsteps are there for them to fill? We must teach our children to be competitive, teach them the basics at home. There are issues we need to address, yes, the truth will set you free."

How great it would have been for the Seminole High chapel to have been filled to hear these great men of God rendering the wisdom of the black history celebration. Do we have the right to ask for what is due us as African Americans? Ask yourself this question. Have you contributed to the motivation of some young African American? Education indeed is the key to the door but you will have to work for what is rightfully yours.

"Be an Overcomer" was the poem delivered dynamically by the Rev. Dennis Norman Mitchell, student development counselor at Seminole High. "I am an overcomer — being an overcomer starts from you believing in yourself. Education is the key to success, go in the positive direction, remember that our children are our greatest resource. When they fall, lift them; when they cry, comfort them. It is never too late to be an overcomer, are you one?"

The encore of the evening was led by Lamar Richardson, sponsor of the AAU (Alpha American Union) and assistant principal. As members of AAU and various members of the audience joined in the closing selection "I Don't Believe He Brought Me This Far to Leave Me," an old gospel jubilee.

Thanks to the members and staff of AAU. The musical selection of gospel feelings was rendered by the SHS Gospel Choir, Fellowship and Praise Choir, and the dynamic voice of Latoahia Gunter.

Black Bowl set

The final community activity for the SHS black history observance will be Feb. 28, 7:30 p.m. — the Black Bowl, Mr. Brown's African-American history class vs. AAU.

based on positive relationship building and opportunities for personal growth.

Contributions to the Seminole Family YMCA give young people of all economic backgrounds the opportunity to participate in sports and other activities with other kids instead of watching TV alone at home, to have a safe and productive child care with caring, trained adults, to gain healthier minds and bodies through activities that both educate and foster good habits and health, and to develop leadership as they are encouraged to discover and use their talents to help others. No child or family is ever turned away from the YMCA due to lack of funds and family need is verified through certain criteria.

Tom Reilly has been a member of the board of the YMCA for approximately 10 to 12 years and beginning 16 years ago. He states that early in his sons' lives, he learned the value of the YMCA was the same as he and his wife shared as goals for their family. "Their staff is excellent, the role models for the children are wonderful, and the people involved are the people who share the same support for their community and ideals of service to others."

According to Tom, there are two types of people who volunteer their services for the betterment of the community; the first is the rehabilitator, the person who tries to help those that have lost their way, and the second is the person that tries to put those in the right direction from the beginning, and with programs like the YMCA, this type of volunteer is encouraged for life. One of Reilly's favorite programs sponsored by the YMCA is the Indian Guides and Indian Princesses.

Last year the Seminole Family YMCA served 4,019 people in the form of scholarships. Scholarships awarded amounted to $76,113. School-age child care scholarship costs amounted to $87,080 and served 875 children per month. A total of 1,500 campers last summer benefited from $5,883 in scholarships awarded. Interscholarship, sports and fitness classes cost another $10,000 and served another 2,000 students and children. No child is ever turned away from the YMCA due to lack of funds.

Thomas Reilly is a former Air Force pilot who was stationed at McCoy and New KC136. After he retired from the military, he and his wife decided to stay in the area and raise their three sons. In addition to Tom Reilly's dedication to the YMCA, he is also a member and past president of the Rotary Club of Longwood, a member of the Greater Orlando Chamber of Commerce, and the United Way and professional affiliation with the PCPA. If you are interested in contributing to the YMCA please contact Tom Reilly at 894-8803; your contribution is tax deductible.

Crime reviewed for clubwomen

During the February meeting of the Longwood Civic League Women's Club, Steven C. Falk, administrative sergeant of the Longwood Police Department, came to speak to the group about crime and specifically crime against the elderly population.

According to Falk, "If you are unsure about a particular situation, let us check it out for you; that's what we're here for." He also informed the group that one of the most common con games happening in the area is the door-to-door sale of magazines by those claiming to be putting themselves through college or some other worthwhile cause. Again Falk cautioned the reports to avoid taking matters into their own hands and to call the police for assistance even if they are uncertain as to whether the instance warrants the assistance of the police.

The theme of the February meeting was love, in honor of Valentine's Day. Eloise Duncan recited a poem by Helen Steiner Rice called "Love is like Magic," and also read scripture 1 John 4:8 incorporating the theme, God is Love. It was a beautifully enriching invocation. Eloise Duncan and Mary Brown were hostesses for the afternoon luncheon which included beautiful live planter centerpiece on the tables and creative appetizers. If you are interested in joining this group, call Caroline Blaine at 830-9459.

Answer question with a question

DEAR ABBY: Many years ago, I had surgery to enlarge my breasts. The procedure cost $3,000, and I suffered considerable pain. I never would have done it had I not been strongly encouraged by my husband — who is now my "ex."

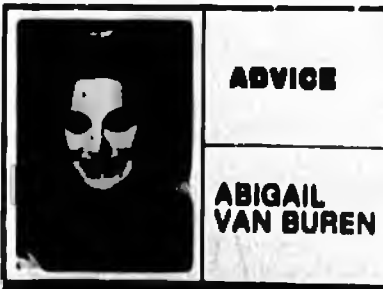

The problem I now face is the colossal nerve of folks who ask, "Are they real?" or, "Are they yours?" Such remarks are equally rude whether they come from a lingerie saleswoman, a co-worker or a new acquaintance.

Abby, how should I answer? I would like to say, "Yes, they are real" and they are mine," but I hate to lie. Any other answer would make it obvious that I do not want to answer because they are "altered" or "not real," which isn't something I care to advertise.

Perhaps through your column, people might realize their curiosity can cause embarrassment.

There are a variety of appropriate responses in addition to the obvious "It's none of your business." Choose one:

— "I can't believe you asked that."

— "If it were any of your business, you'd know."

— "What an incredibly rude question!"

— "If you forgive me for not answering, I'll forgive you for asking."

DEAR ABBY: At the age of 84, I am still trying to maintain a sense of humor, and pray that I will be able to do so until I pass on. I have always believed that laughter is the best medicine.

I couldn't resist sending in this quip regarding your column in which a reader suggested writing letters or exercising while awaiting to see the doctor.

Finally, the doctor came out of his office — looked over in the corner and said, "Amy, it's about your lunchtime — aren't you getting hungry?"

Hobby: Making colorful quilts

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Patsy Kern is used to patching things up. She's enjoyed her hobby of quilting for over three years.

Kern and her husband of 31 years, Kenneth, and son, Scott, have been longtime residents of Sanford. She has been employed for 17 years with the Seminole County School system as a teacher's assistant in the computer lab at Midway Elementary School.

Kern recalled the first quilt she ever made. "My first quilt was made when my son was in third grade," she said. "That was about 10 years ago."

Being self taught, Kern has also used resources and ideas from craft and quilting shows, library books, and as she put it, "trial and error." She regularly frequented the Amlah quilt convention for additional tips.

Kern has made 12 quilts in just the last three to four years. She spoke of the various patterns used. "I made a quilt for my niece called the Ohio Star," she said. "I made it all in pinks. It was the shape of a star when the quilt was completed."

She further described a quilt made for her nephew. "I made a quilt for my nephew that was red, white and blue," she said.

Patsy Kern displays quilted items.

"It had ships, sails and flags on it."

Her favorite style of quilt was cited as a sampler. "I like doing sampler quilts best," she said. "It's not boring and keeps you busy. Each square is different. There are 12 different blocks."

"I've made about three or four quilts as wedding presents," she said. "One I made was called a buckeye beauty. I made a burgundy colored quilt for a nephew for his wedding present."

Kern admits that she enjoys trying new patterns. "If I find one I like I try to make it," she said. "This is the third year in a row I've gotten a calendar from Oxmoor Publishing Company. They give a pattern for one square each month. The calendar shows you how to put the quilt together."

A recent project was a quilt she sold to a friend. "The quilt I made for my friend took 300 hours to make," she said. "I worked on it every night. It was a bedspread for a queen size bed. It was a double iris cabin pattern in a mauve color."

Materials totaling about $55 and a work time of 300 hours or more was what Kern identified as about average for many quilts. She acknowledged that many people don't realize the time involved in making a quilt.

She shared that at quilting shows some quilts have a price tag as high as $600. With the amount of hours involved she said the wage earned on these projects many times only equals about one dollar per hour of work.

For beginners, Kern suggests a simple pattern to be sure this was a hobby they wanted to be involved in. Bealdea material she recommended a sewing machine, and special quilting needles because the needles are shorter and sharper and easier to push through the material. She said that patterns are rated by one spool being for beginners, two spools for intermediate and three spools being for advanced quilters. She also recommended starting with a mini-quilt to see if you enjoy it.

Kern laughed as she spoke about a frequent spot she uses for her quilting. "Sometimes I take my quilting to a friend's house and baste the material together on their pool table. Basting holds the material together by making long stitches. It holds the top, batting and bottom together. I work on the basting there and then I can come home and quilt it together."

Although much of Kern's quilting is done by hand she said that not all people enjoy this method and her choice of patterns may be different than someone else. "When I choose a pattern I like to look in books that have color pictures," she said. "You can always change the colors but then you can visualize how it will look."

She displayed the frame she used for lap quilting. She also spoke to the fact that many enjoy a large quilting frame and it really is a matter of personal preference.

April 'outstanding'

April People is a senior at Seminole High School. She is president of Alpha Americans United, president of Cooperative Education Clubs of Florida, a member of the Future Business Leaders of America, and for four years has been a member of Southeastern Consortium for Minorities in Engineering.

April has been awarded the Outstanding Vocational Student award from the Seminole Vocational Association.

April says she feels that helping others helps her morale because the deed may have made some one's day a little brighter. She says she gets her motivation from her parents who many times told her to never say "I can't," or "I don't know," because there is no such thing. If you put your mind to something you can accomplish your goal. I am also thankful to those teachers who have motivated me by not letting me give up and cheering that if I continue doing the best I can, one day my good deeds will be reviewed by the most important motivator of all, God.

April has been accepted to attend Florida A&M University where she plans to major in computer engineering and minor in business administration. She is an active student community worker and takes part in many after-school activities. She presently works in the office of Dr.

S.K. Joshi as a part-time clerical assistant. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony People.

Brown honored

Estelle Brown is presently pursuing a bachelor of science degree in elementary education at Nova University/Orlando. She plans to secure her future as a pre-kindergarten teacher. Estelle recently received a scholarship from Alceitina Matthews toward her education which was presented during the Black History Month program at the Rescue Church of God. Mother Blanche Weaver is pastor.

Ms. Brown is the daughter of Mrs. Edith Brown.

ice. Elder Grady Roberson is the shepherd of his flock. The church is located at West Sixth Street. The community is invited to worship today with pastor and congregation.

History continues

Health is a family affair Wellness Wagon takes to the road

By DIANE D. MAIMONE
Special to the Herald

LONGWOOD — The residents of Seminole County can expect a honey-coated dose of health education and wellness to be added to their diets thanks to South Seminole Hospital's Wellness Wagon. The upgraded 8x10 foot utility trailer, complete with sports bottles, home emergency guides, health screening equipment and wellness literature, is staffed by hospital clinicians to provide at-the-work site and community health screenings and educational activities.

"As part of our growing commitment to health promotion in the community, the Wellness Wagon enables us to be on-site at local civic events, as well, as the work place to provide health education and screening services," says Ken Peach, vice president of support services.

The Wellness Wagon has already made a positive impact on the community with appearances at the American Heart Association Health Walk, the Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts, Wekiva RiverFest and Seminole Family YMCA Family Day. The most recent appearance took place Saturday at the Seminole County Fair and Exposition "A Family Affair" day, sponsored by the Seminole County Cooperative Extension Service and included numerous civic organizations providing free services to local residents.

A variety of functions can easily be performed from the eye-catching wagon including first aid treatment, various health screenings and education. Children and adults can take a spin on the Wheel of Wellness-a first aid game. Designed to look like mini Wheel of Fortune, everyone enjoys learning in this "painless" way. A staff nurse, dressed in white slacks and a red golf shirt, asks the question which coordinates with the number on which the dial lands. For example, the staff nurse asks the question, "what do you do if you get a nosebleed?" A child player answers, "put my head back and call mom!"

The nurse explains, "it's unhealthy to swallow blood and mom may not be around." Then the nurse provides the correct answer, "pinch your nose for 5-10 minutes, applying pressure to area, leaning forward slightly to prevent the swallowing of blood while calling or sending for help." Every player wins a prize regardless of the answer given. The important point of the game is that one person has learned how to handle an emergency situation.

We, at South Seminole Hospital, feel wellness and prevention education should be fun. Wherever we go, we draw a crowd as long as we leave the clinical jargon and sterile white lab coats back at the hospital. We try to make kids and adults feel comfortable around medical professionals and let them know that we are interested in keeping them healthy.

Health care and safety education should be everyone's responsibility. We can all learn as long as the method is not intimidating or complicated. These days, children need to be much more informed about safety and ways to avoid risks, especially in households with both parents working. Children are easily taught with this method and can become resourceful in a crisis situation. It may seem like a small step but we are excited about encouraging health awareness in children, as well as their parents.

Why I became involved with the American Heart Association

By MATT ARENA
Special to the Herald

LAKE MARY — He was my Little League baseball coach. He always worked hard to support his wife and four children, sometimes under adverse conditions. He was there to straighten me out when I chose a path that wasn't in my best interest. He was my role model. He was my father.

As I got older, I did my "own thing" and frankly never gave much thought about what my dad had done to shape my future. I went to college, got married and eventually opened my dream business in personalized fitness training.

One day, in March of 1990, I got a call that my dad had a heart attack. It was so sudden and unexpected. I thought he'd be around forever but then he was gone. From that time on I began to reflect on what this man meant to me.

Now I am a father, Joey, named for my dad, requires much time, love and discipline. I try to give him all the good things I received from my dad. Perhaps that is his legacy. But I also want to help others have longer and fuller lives and not be cut short by heart disease. By joining the American Heart Association, I honor my dad's memory and all he did for me. With the unquestionable support of my co-workers and the community, I know my small contribution can make an impact and help others.

By the way, I am now coaching Little League baseball...

Editor's note: Matt Arena is the local coordinator for Dance for Heart, to be held Saturday, March 4, at the Lake Mary Community Building, from 9 a.m. to noon. The three-hour dance exercise extravaganza is sponsored by the International Dance Exercise Association, Sanford Cardiology Associates, SunBank and AT&T, to raise funds for the American Heart Association's cardiovascular research and education programs. To sign up for the event, or for more information, contact Arena at 333-1927 or Brigitte DeBoni at 842-1320.

Dietician authors cookbook

By MARY REWELL
Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY — "Your Key to Healthy Persian Cooking" is the subject of a cookbook recently published by dietician and author Mehrnaz Sajedi. The book is the first for Sajedi, a Lake Mary resident. She held a book signing Saturday at Little Wing Books, in Lake Mary Village.

A registered dietician, Sajedi first began developing her healthy Persian recipes when she lived in Montreal, Canada. For seven years, she worked in a private practice and in a hospital as a dietician. She discovered that when Persians came to her with diet problems, Western diets didn't work because they didn't take into account traditional Persian cooking methods and habits. On her own, she began developing recipes that were healthy without losing the taste of the traditional cooking.

The cookbook contains 100 recipes. The first two chapters, however, focus entirely on menu planning. The menu planning is breakfast through dinner and includes information about how to deal with fast food meals.

Sajedi has degrees in dietetics and nutrition and agricultural business. She is currently a clinical dietician at Leesburg Regional Medical Center, responsible for outpatient counseling as well as intensive care with a medical floor. She has also worked at Arnold Palmer Hospital for Children & Women.

The body has a set-point weight, Sajedi said. If you starve your body, your body will try to compensate to keep this set-point weight. Starvation diets no only don't work, but they can be very dangerous from a health standpoint, and in the long run, futile. Only five percent of dieters have kept weight off after two years.

Sajedi said the keypoint to weight loss is moderation. Weight loss should be no more than two pounds per week. And a woman must accept the fact that their fat composition is higher than that of a man. When women get below a certain percentage, they compromise their fertility as well as their health.

Low fat is good, according to Sajedi, but you can't eat low fat all the time. She said she tried to reduce the amount of fat in her recipes without sacrificing the traditional taste of Persian cooking. This wasn't easy, as traditional recipes are heavy on the use of meat and of frying. Sajedi developed a way to pan broil recipes that gives the same taste as frying.

Sajedi is currently talking to the American Diabetes Association about a possible ethnic cookbook for diabetics.

If you missed the book signing at Little Wing Books, Sajedi will be at Metro West Village Saturday, March 4.

IN BRIEF

Neway named to director position

ORLANDO — Lisa Neway has been named Director of Professional Relations at Columbia Park Medical Center.

Neway has more than nine years of experience in the field of healthcare marketing. Previously, she was the director of marketing and physician relations at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford. She also served as a regional director of public relations at Humana Inc., and director of marketing and physician relations at Humana Hospital-Kissimmee.

For the past two years, Neway has been an advisory board member of the Boys and Girls Club of Seminole County. She is also a member of the Florida Society for Healthcare Public Relations and Marketing.

Neway holds a bachelor's degree in business administration, from Stetson University.

As director of professional relations, Neway will be responsible for physician relations and business development, and will provide marketing support. She also works in coordination with the Good Government Group and the Senior Friends program. Columbia Park Medical Center (formerly Lucerne Medical Center) is a part of Columbia Park Healthcare System. It is part of a four-hospital system which includes Central Florida Regional Hospital, Winter Park Memorial Hospital, Osceola Regional Hospital and Columbia Park Medical Center.

MDA to honor achievement

WINTER PARK — The Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) is seeking nominations for its fourth annual Personal Achievement Awards. The awards, given on the local, state and national levels, recognized the accomplishments and community service of people with disabilities caused by neuromuscular diseases.

Nomination forms are available from the local MDA office and must be submitted by March 7. Individuals or organizations may nominate any person affected by one of the 40 neuromuscular diseases in MDA's program. MDA initiated the Personal Achievement Awards program in 1992 to honor contributions of people with disabilities, especially in their own communities.

Local recipients are chosen by each MDA chapter and are invited to appear on locally broadcast segments of the MDA "Stars Across America!" Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon. The Telethon is seen in Central Florida on Channel 2, WESH-TV. Local winners are automatically considered for a statewide award, and the national winner is selected from state recipients.

Nomination for the 1995 MDA Personal Achievement Awards and additional information may be obtained by calling the MDA office at 877-8355.

Hospital seeks volunteers

ORLANDO — Florida Hospital is seeking volunteers of all ages to work in various areas of the hospital.

Volunteers work several hours a week serving as van drivers, information desk assistants, waiting room clerks and gift shop attendants, as well as filling clerical and patient care positions.

For more information, call the volunteer office at Florida Hospital at 897-1544 during regular business hours.

A New Breakthrough In Hernia Repair

Hernia repair is no longer major surgery. Recent advances like the mesh technique have made it as simple as a one-day "walk-in, walk-out" procedure.

A new laparoscopic technique now available at The Hernia Center of Central Florida has simplified things even further. Because this procedure requires only small incisions, it lessens pain and further shortens recovery time.

The Hernia Center is operated by Surgical Associates, an established team of skilled surgeons who have practiced in Central Florida since 1973 and have performed literally thousands of hernia operations.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) One of your greatest assets today will be your skill at getting your points across. To your credit, you'll do this by teaching, not by preaching.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The trend is in your favor for joint ventures, especially if you're involved with a group you were successful with in the past.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today you're not likely to ignore or discount the good ideas of others. You will, however, find ways to expand and improve upon their ideas.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There is a possibility you might reap hidden benefits today from a situation someone else created. He/she will profit from this as well.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Arrangements in which you work with others have a strong chance for success today. This is a time when everyone involved might gain in some manner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Even if you have to contend with difficult conditions today, don't be disconcerted or think of quitting. Consistency can turn things to your advantage.

By Bernice Bode Cool YOUR BIRTHDAY Feb. 27, 1988

Two of your favorite people from the past might play new roles in your life in the year ahead. Everyone will enjoy getting together again.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This could be a productive day for you, provided no one is looking over your shoulder giving you instructions. You will find dictators irritating, not inspiring. Major changes are ahead for Pieces in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4466, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may feel very determined to do things your way today. Your ideas will have merit, but pay attention to other people's ideas as well.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Give top priority today to matters that effect your material security. Do not let insignificant issues switch you to an unproductive track.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today you may deal with persons who aren't as broad-minded or creative as you'd hoped. Discussing expansive plans and programs with small thinkers may prove frustrating.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It may be difficult to distinguish between persons trying to take advantage of you and those who really need you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Friends who stood by their word in the past are apt to do so again in arrangements at this time. However, someone who didn't still can't be relied upon.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Although you think you're heading in the right direction, that doesn't mean your objective will be achieved today. Allow time for adjustments that may be required.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be patient with your long range plans today. If you try to accelerate the process before its time, it could set you back instead of moving you forward.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) New people who deal with you today will go away thinking you're a pretty nifty person. However, your family members may get a different impression.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Associates will strive to help you today if you're not pushy or demanding. Instead of dictating terms, use diplomacy and gratitude.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In a collaborative effort today, don't take any action without the consent of everyone involved. You will be held accountable for what you initiate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Friends will only back you up if they feel you're supportive of them. If you compete against them today, it could be every man for himself.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

John Ruskin, the English author and art critic, wrote, "Value is the life-giving power of anything; cost, the quantity of labour required to produce it; price, the quantity of labour which its possessor will take in exchange for it."

In bridge, sometimes exchanging one trick for another has great value, making the difference between success and failure.

On today's deal, West led the club king against four hearts. Then he switched to his singleton trump, which South won in hand with the queen. South saw that, from the auction, West held the spade ace. And diamonds would have to break 3-2, so that South's spade losers could be discarded.

South's first thought was an avoidance play in diamonds. He could lead twice through West, ducking in the dummy if West had to play the queen. However, as you can see, this line would have failed. East would have won a diamond trick and switched to a spade, defeating the contract.

Then South saw the right line. After winning the trump switch at trick two, declarer entered dummy with a trump, called for the club queen and discarded a diamond from hand. West was welcome to the trick, but now dummy's diamonds could be established without letting East get the lead. As a trump entry remained in the dummy, West had to cash his spade ace to stop the overtrick.

Hopefully the cost -- the quantity of labor -- required by South to produce this play wasn't so great that he made tired errors on later deals!
