Lake Mary School To Open With 2 Grades

By CHARITY O'CARDO Herald Staff Writer The new Lake Mary High School will begin its operations with ninth and tenth grades only, the Seminole County School Board approved Wednesday. The school will open in August 1981 with 1,000 students, with approximately half that number coming from Lake Brantley High School. It is not known yet which schools the other students will come from. After 1981, one grade per year will be added until it reaches four grades in 1983. The school will have a capacity of 2,200 students. The board also approved a new student transfer

Council To Mull Vote By Crossings

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer The Lake Mary City Council, 7:30 p.m. meeting today, will discuss including residents of the Crossings in a straw ballot on whether a horse track should be allowed in the city. A representative of Florida Land Co., developers of the Crossings, last week requested that city officials permit the residents of the planned unit development, located on the city's western boundary, to participate in some fashion in the straw ballot of the Lake Mary municipal election on Dec. 2. The city received a referendum decision denying a variance to L.H. Sandertin to permit those residents to vote separately on Dec. 2 on the one issue, but that the city could not spend any money for an appeal of a committee to study the employee salary structure, appointment of an election and canvassing board for the Dec. 2 election and consideration of advertising for bids for a city police car.

2nd Heroin Arrest May Close Probe

By DAVID M. HAZLER Herald Staff Writer Five ounces of heroin was seized and a man arrested in a Sanford motel room as police wrapped up an investigation already responsible for another large heroin bust. A Sanford detective entered a room at the Cavalier Motel, U.S. Highway 19/92 shortly before 6 p.m. Tuesday and arranged to purchase the drug. But instead of returning with cash, he returned with detection from the Seminole County Sheriff's Department. Social Investigations Division arrested Domingo Borges, 19, of Rochester, N.Y., on state heroin trafficking charges. Borges said the drug was worth about $200,000 when cut into individual doses. Sanford Det. W. R. Bernosky said the arrest was the second and probably the last to come out of the investigation which led to the arrest of another Rochester man and the seizure of 10 ounces of heroin on Oct. 27 at Lake Motel Holiday Inn in Sanford. Borges was ordered held at the Seminole County Jail in lieu of $10,500, deputies announced. He is charged with possession and trafficking in heroin. Deputies say the drug seized was not as high in quality as the 10 ounces of almost pure heroin seized last month, when Andre Santana was arrested by Sanford police and Federal Drug Enforcement Administration agents.

ARREST FOR BURGLARY An 18-year-old Sanford man has been arrested on charges of burglarizing two Sanford homes and selling stolen goods. Jay Spray, 203 Bradshaw Drive, was arrested Tuesday on one count of burglary, two counts of grand theft and one count of dealing in stolen goods. Police charged him with the Oct. 31 break-in at 414 Editha (Lulu) and the Oct. 28 break-in at 2508 Sanford Ave. on the same day. They say when they arrested him he was carrying two pass book tickets which led them to stolen goods. MULTIPLE BURGLARIES CHARGED A 30-year-old Sanford man has been charged with committing at least 16 separate thefts in Seminole County at his home on warrants charging him with a total of 16 counts of grand theft and eight counts of burglary.

Carter Loss Slows Release Iran Hostage Panel Head:

By United Press International The head of Iran's hostage investigating panel predicted the release of the 52 Americans will take longer because of President Carter's loss to Ronald Reagan, and he revived the threat of spy trials for the captives if Iran's four conditions are not met. "We would have finalized the matter earlier if Carter had been re-elected," Hojatoleslam Mousavi Khameini, deputy speaker of Iran's parliament, was quoted as saying Wednesday, the day that the disposition of Reagan's stunning victory became known. Reagan assumed office July 20, leaving the Carter administration 10 weeks to deal with the hostage dilemma, and Wednesday Algerian Ambassador Hediha Malik, the U.S. intermediary with Iran, met for one hour with Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher.

Afghan Warns Pakistan

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) - Afghan President Babrak Karmal, back in Kabul with full Kremlin support gained during a three-week visit to the Soviet Union, has warned Pakistan not to aid anti-government rebels. In a speech over Soviet-controlled Radio Kabul monitored Wednesday in New Delhi, Karmal bluntly told the Pakistanis not to aid the Muslims rebelling against the Afghan regime. "Conditions have changed," Karmal said "in spite of continuous armed aggression against Afghanistan from Pakistan and Iran, we have displayed maximum restraint."

'Dead Duck' Congress May Delay Bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) - With the new Senate firmly under Republican control and the House governed only by a shaky Democratic majority, the lame duck session of the current Congress promises to be short and unproductive despite a pile of pending legislation. The lame duck session - now being called the "dead duck" session - begins Nov. 12 with numerous bills still hanging, including the fiscal 1981 budget and all government money bills. Rep. Bob Michel, R-Ill., now No. 1 in the House GOP leadership and a candidate for the top spot in the new House, suggested that all remaining legislation be postponed until the new Reagan-era Congress meets next year, with the government continuing to run under a temporary continuing resolution. "I would think we would have to explore the possibility of a caretaker resolution," said Michel in a telephone interview from his Peoria home. Senate GOP leader Howard Baker of Tennessee, who vowed he would be re-elected and become majority leader of the new Senate, said he would like to work on the budget and major appropriations bills now, but put off any other substantive legislation - including a tax cut - until the new Congress next year. Congress has given final action to none of the appropriations bills that are necessary to run the government during the fiscal year that began Oct. 1. Nor has it passed a budget resolution for the current fiscal year. Democrats would like to complete action on all of this legislation, then pass other bills that clearly would find disfavor with the conservative new Congress, including a three-year extension of the Legal Services Program. Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia even talked Wednesday of passing a tax cut bill during the lame duck session. However, top Democratic leaders and staff members conceded that it would be impossible to do in the lame duck session any more than the Republicans want to do. A Senate filibuster easily could tie up that body, and the GOP House minority has often illustrated its ability to delay legislation despite a commanding Democratic majority. "Hell, Baker's going to win," said a top House Democratic source. "They've got too many ways to stop us." The Senate, which was controlled 59-41 by Democrats, was dramatically reversed to a 53-47 Republican majority in Tuesday's election. The House, although remaining in Democratic hands, fell from a 273-159 Democratic stronghold (with three vacancies) to a less commanding 242-192 majority.

NATION IN BRIEF

Carter Cools At Retreat, Prepares For Session

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Carter is taking a few days off at Camp David to ponder his future outside the White House and to make plans for a smooth transition of power to Ronald Reagan. But he made it clear in an Oval Office meeting with White House reporters before taking off for the mountain hideaway Wednesday that he is still in charge and will be until Jan. 20. Carter said he is preparing an agenda of the bases he must touch before leaving office, including preparation for a special session of Congress this month. He also will be meeting with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin in Nov. 17, hoping to keep the Middle East peace momentum going.

Stock Market Soars

NEW YORK (UPI) - Never before has the financial community reacted so enthusiastically to the election of an American president as it did to Ronald Reagan's landslide victory. The unexpected margin by which the conservative Republican claimed the White House sent the stock market soaring Wednesday, with trading volume reaching a record $4.1 billion shares. The Dow Jones industrial average, up nearly 30 points at the outset, held 15.96 points of the gain to close at 953.16, despite late profit taking.

Franklin To Move To Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) - An avowed white supremacist who is the chief suspect in a rash of nationwide racial killings will be moved to Utah to face federal and state charges in the ambush slayings of two black joggers. The Salt Lake County Attorney's Office filed first-degree murder charges Wednesday against Joseph Paul Franklin, who is also a suspect in the May 1979 attempted assassination of National Urban League Director Vernon Jordan in Fort Wayne, Ind. In Florida, meanwhile, U.S. Magistrate Paul Game Jr. ordered Franklin returned to Utah to face related federal charges filed Oct. 31 in the killings of David Martin, 16, and Ted Fields, 20.

FBI Joins Atlanta Search

ATLANTA (UPI) - Two FBI agents joined the search today - temporarily - for a killer terrorizing the black community, but Mayor Maynard Jackson angrily insisted the city needs full-time support from the bureau to solve the murders of 11 children and the disappearance of 4 others. At a "Day of Reconciliation" memorial Wednesday, Jackson lashed out at the FBI before joining a crowd of 200 who linked hands at the Central City Park Amphitheater, praying for the victims. Church bells tolled in the distance. Jackson said he had urged FBI officials in Washington on at least four occasions to help the city's 35-member task force with the investigation of the killings and disappearances in Atlanta's black neighborhoods over the past 16 months. He said he was turned down each time. Eleven of the children were found dead and four are missing.

Tanker Truck Explodes

RICHMOND, Calif. (UPI) - A tanker truck being loaded with nitrates outside exploded at a compressed air chemical plant, blowing out three sides of the building and jolting residents up to 30 miles away. The only worker inside the plant was not injured, despite being knocked down by the tremendous blast. There were no serious injuries among residents who breathed the noxious fumes or were struck by flying glass.

Agging Manson Denied Parole

AVACVILLE, Calif. (UPI) - Eleven years after the shocking Tate-LaBianca killings, an aging but spirited Charles Manson - imprisoned for murdering the mass murderers - dreams of climbing trees, smoking marijuana and wandering the desert where no one can touch him. The California Medical Facility's most notorious inmate - turned down for the third straight time in his flamboyant plea for parole - holds little hope of ever realizing his wish.

Paula Forecasts 'New Beginning'

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) - Republican Senator-elect Paula Hawkins says the GOP's newly won control of the U.S. Senate means "a new beginning." On the heels of her narrow victory over Democrat Bill Guter, which wasn't settled until Wednesday, Mrs. Hawkins said the GOP's new Senate majority, which grew to 54 of 100 seats Wednesday, will help President-elect Ronald Reagan accomplish his goals. The Reagan Administration's first problem will be "soothing inflation," she said in a wide-ranging news conference. But she added, "Energy is our number one bottleneck." Mrs. Hawkins said she is in complete accord with Reagan's campaign promises of a balanced budget, reduced federal bureaucracy and strengthened national defense. "I'm claiming victory and I'm also excited to tell you the latest count shows the Republicans will have 55 seats in the Senate," Mrs. Hawkins said. That, she said, will mean "a new beginning to the U.S. Senate." Mrs. Hawkins said she has been promised by Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, who will become majority leader, that she will get the committee assignments she wants. "If I had one (committee) choice for Florida, it would be agriculture. Energy would be my second choice," she said.

Sorely Misnamed Development Bank

If the sponsors of a certain bill now pending in the House of Representatives have their way, bad risks in the marketplace will have access to a substantial line of credit — at the expense of the taxpayers of this country.

I refer to the House bill no. 7902, a proposal to establish a so-called National Development Bank with $5 billion in assets provided by the taxpayers. The word "bank" is a misnomer, of course, for no private bank operates in the way the National Development Bank would operate.

The House bill says that borrowers must prove that they are unable to obtain funds on reasonable terms from other sources.

If a borrower is unable to obtain a loan from a commercial bank, one can be sure that his project isn't a sound business investment. Private lending institutions are eager to make loans to individuals and organizations that are credit-worthy and that have practical business projects in hand.

Why should the taxpayers be called upon to finance projects that skilled, professional lenders reject? The country doesn't need to aid impractical, unsound schemes.

If I'm benevolent to aid sick industries or fly-by-night businesses, yet many imagine this is the ultimate in do-goodism. This misplaced generosity, involving taxpayer funds, wouldn't add to the wealth of the country. It is a band-aid approach that does more harm than good. The $5 billion that would be given to the National Development Bank is $5 billion that would be taken away from the people and that, otherwise, would be applied to productive enterprises.

A labor movement is free only when it gives its members freedom; they were told in the opening address from Herman W. Benson, executive director of the sponsoring organization, the New York-based Association for Union Democracy.

"By that standard, a big part of the union brotherhood is genuinely deceitful" and democratic and surely deserves its reputation as part of a gross, free labor movement," Benson continued. "But there's a whole other piece of the labor movement — and it's no small one — that is sick. It's sick with corruption and authority."

"If a man gets up to speak and he wants to criticize his union officials, he's fined, he's tried, he's suspended, he's expelled, sometimes beaten, sometimes blacklisted — sometimes a really effective reformer is murdered."

Under its new president, Lane Kirkland, the AFL-CIO today has abandoned any effort to defend the democratic rights of its members or eradicate corruption," charged Benson.

But if there is to be no leadership from the top down, the commitment of those at the meeting here suggests that the impetus for needed reform could come from the bottom up.

For example, the Detroit-based Teamsters for a Democratic Union committee reform of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, claims to have almost 10,000 members in more than 40 chapters throughout the country.

Insurgent Teamsters have taken control of a local in Spokane, Wash., and won one or more elections in other locales in Boston, Detroit, Los Angeles and Oakland, Calif.

At U.S. Steel's Homestead Works in Pittsburgh, a slate of reformers has gained control of United Steel Workers' Local 187, restored democracy to that organization and instituted a broad range of services for its members.

"The old officers were in bed with management for so long, they should have filed for maternity benefits," said Ron Weisen, the local's president. "All they do worried about was their personal gain."

The U.S. Postal Service is looking for a site for a new 17,000 square foot Longwood Post Office. Ironically because of the growth trends in the Longwood Post Office's service area they hope to find a site a quarter-mile west of Interstate-4 outside the city limits.

Longwood Postmaster Jean Brown hopes they will keep the city's present postal facility on the corner of Church Street and County Road 427 as a classified station to provide window service, lock boxes and drawers and city routes.

Congratulations to all those hard working volunteers who helped put this year's United Way of Seminole County drive over the top. Stranberg-Carlson's corporate and employee donations and pledges totaled $53,171 and company representatives were applauded at the Victory Banquet. Joe Smith, company official later modestly confided he wished his group had not been spotlighted in this manner. "With payroll deductions what we did was not that hard, it was all those who were out there pushing the payments who deserve the credit," Joe declared.

That's the kind of unselfish spirit that helps the United Way reach its goal and brings in the money needed by the many worthwhile agencies which benefit from the campaigns.

Many of the campaign volunteers are staff members of volunteers at the various agencies collecting in the commercial division. They often went many miles and put in hours of their time getting turned down many times for every $5 or $10 they received. This can get discouraging.

Golden Age Games Chairman Jim Jernigan is spending some sleepless nights trying to remember all those last minute details that have to be taken care of before the six-day event opens Monday. He is hoping for a big turnout for the opening ceremonies Monday at 9:15 a.m. at the new location, Sanford City Hall.

Spectators are especially welcome at events such as swimming and track and field and seating will be provided. If you enjoy watching athletes give it everything they've got, you ain't seen nothin' till you've seen those Golden Ages compete. Open up and cheer them on and show the sponsors "General Foods" Post Cereals officials the community supports the Golden Age Games.

ROBERT WALTERS Reform, From The Bottom Up

DETROIT (NEA) — From Alaska to Florida, they converged on a nondescript motel at the edge of this city's airport on a recent rainy autumn weekend to pursue the work of colleagues who earlier were breadwinners and killed.

They heard chilling accounts of painters who had been murdered, of truck drivers who had been kidnapped, of pipe-welding thugs and of dock workers who had been intimidated by threats of harm to their wives and children.

The occasion was the First National Conference on Union Democracy, whose organizers initially expected no more than 75 people to attend. But almost four times that number registered for an unprecedented convention on strengthening the rights of union members and combating labor corruption.

"A labor movement is free only when it gives its members freedom," they were told in the opening address from Herman W. Benson, executive director of the sponsoring organization, the New York-based Association for Union Democracy.

"By that standard, a big part of the union brotherhood is genuinely deceitful" and democratic and surely deserves its reputation as part of a gross, free labor movement," Benson continued. WASHINGTON WORLD Questions That Kids Ask

WASHINGTON (UPI) — You don't want to take a 14-year-old kid on a business trip. It's not so much the bottomless appetite (mine says he's suffering from terminal hunger), nor that the hotel room begins to look like his room back home within minutes of his arrival. It's the incessant questions.

Take my son Eric, please.

As a belated birthday present, I brought him along to Santa Fe, N.M., where I was scheduled to give a talk to the New Mexico Press Association.

While there, we took the opportunity to do a bit of touring. We drove north through the craggy landscape to Bandelier National Monument, a park that surrounds Frijoles, the remains of an ancient Indian pueblo village, carved into the red lava cliffs.

Some noble bricks and tiny cave rooms, their ceilings blackened with the soot of cooking fires, are all that is left of what must have been a crowded, bustling small city of several hundred people.

"What happened to them?" Eric asks. "There is no certain answer to be found in the guide books. No sign of sudden violence that would indicate a defeat in a tribal war. No large collection of skeletons indicating a sudden plague, or starvation, or drought."

Apparently, I explained, the tribe after 200 years just packed up in 1609 A.D. and disappeared. Culture, like people, have a life span, and then they grow tired and disappear. This is not the sort of answer that satisfies a 14-year-old.

"As we drove back, we took a detour through Los Alamos, where the first atomic bombs were designed and built. The work goes on still, behind chain link fences topped with barbed wire, decorated with signs saying, "Danger, Explosives."

Eric begins, "You mean ...? No, they do not increase intruders with atomic land of intelligence to Rosanona. He was employed by a senior Democratic senator."

— Finally — and potentially most dangerous — is the Defense Intelligence Agency's concern that a Soviet "mole" may have penetrated to the highest levels of the U.S. government, and now has access to closely held White House information.

A top-secret DIA report recently concluded that "a definite change in the Soviet underground nuclear test program occurred in 1978 resulting in increasingly higher-yield devices." The significance of this change lies in the fact that it occurred shortly after the United States secretly changed its method of measuring the strength of Soviet nuclear tests in such a way that the Russians could explore bigger bombs without violating existing treaties. The DIA analysis decided this was "more than coincidence," and pointed to the hair-raising possibility that information about the new measuring system had been leaked to the Kremlin by one of the very few high U.S. officials who knew about it.

Added to the cases already made public in recent years, the investigations currently being pursued paint a grim picture of our nation's intelligence security. The Russians apparently have experienced little difficulty increasing greedy or glibble American to provide military secrets the Kremlin wants.

And while Barnett was well paid for his treachery — $92,000 — and Lee and Boyce collected more than $80,000, the KGB doesn't spend more than it has to. It paid young Kamples, for example, only $3,100 for priceless data on the CIA's most advanced satellite surveillance system.

Footnote: The White House was panicked at the thought that the Barnett scandal would hit the front pages — and stay there — during the presidential campaign. The Justice Department, therefore, sat on the case for several months after the FBI obtained a confession from Barnett.

But I got wind of the story, and called CIA Director Stansfield Turner, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and William G. Miller, staff director of the Senate Intelligence Committee. Realizing the story was about to blow up in their faces, the Carter people handed it to The New York Times in a version carefully calculated to make the Justice Department look good.

Justice, meanwhile, struck a plea bargain with Barnett. The damage-control mission case worked: Unlike Alger Hiss, whose case dragged on for years, Barnett was quickly confessed to the back pages without embarrassing second thoughts — at least, not before Election Day.

WILLIAM STEIF Domestics And Social Security

A noted American composer employed a maid for eight years. Her wages included the Social Security payment she and the composer were supposed to pay, and he repeatedly reassured her that the payments had been made.

But when the maid retired and applied for her Social Security benefits, there was no record of any payments on her behalf. The Internal Revenue Service, which collects the Social Security payroll tax, assessed the maid's eight years of Social Security taxes — both the employer's and the employee's halves — and also assessed penalties for non-payment. The penalty is 0.5 percent for each month of non-payment, 1 percent yearly.

There's no statute of limitations if no tax return has been filed. The IRS can go as far back as necessary to collect back taxes.

Household work is part of what's lately been labeled "the underground economy." It doesn't pay very well, and that's why a lot of domestics prefer to take their pay wholly in cash. If they had to put up their half of the Social Security tax their pay would be cut 6.13 percent yearly (rising to 6.6 percent Jan. 1).

Employers prefer not to pay their half of domestics' Social Security taxes because some think they can get their household work done on the cheap and many don't want to bother with the paperwork.

Remit: Thousands of women are cheated out of their Social Security disability protection because to qualify for such payments a worker must have worked five of the 10 years prior to disability.

Who are America's domestics?

The Labor Department says there were 819,000 in the nation 1978 (compared with 1.2 million in 1969), almost all female, average age 56.

61 percent are black, 4 percent Hispanic; half are in the South, almost a fifth in the Midwest.

Both sides — domestics and employers — should try to understand that paying the Social Security taxes are important.

For household employers, the payments are a way to insure against the employer's fate, a major assessment years later. The employer files the return, withholding the employee's share.

For the domestic, the payments are a way to insure against ill health, and to insure benefits later on. Any worker who earns $20 every three months is credited with a quarter of earnings in the Social Security System and those quarters, piling up, can be a valuable asset.

If you want to know more, write or visit any of the more than 1,200 Social Security offices in the nation and ask for a free copy of Publication No. 10021, "Social Security and Your Household Employee." The offices are listed in your phone book under Social Security Administration.

Carter Officials Suspects In Spy Probe

WASHINGTON — The recent exposure of former CIA agent David Barnett's sedition to the Soviet Union is only one chapter in a history of treachery that has shaken the American intelligence community in the past four years. And more revelations can be expected in coming months.

Bedeas Barnett, the public has already learned about three other Americans who sold secret documents to Soviet intelligence: William Kamplies, Andrew Lee and Christopher Boyce. The public has also been told about the reported death of the top American spy in the Kremlin — code-named Trigon — whose cover may have been blown by a White House official's careless remark at a Washington diplomatic party.

But what the public doesn't know is that a major spy scandal may be developing, its proportions unmatched since the exposes that rocked the country after World War II. The Justice Department is investigating several cases involving leaks of sensitive information to the Soviets by U.S. officials and private individuals.

Because more positive proof is needed, it would be unfair to name actual names. But here are the details, given to my associate Dale Van Atta by sources in the White House, the Romanion's identification of a former Senate staff member as a purveyor

Prep Grid Front Shows Light Week

Joe DeSantis
Sports Editor

Almost only counts in horse shoes and hand grenades. But last week's prep picks were almost perfect, save for Ovielo's homecoming loss to Eustis.

Just when I was getting warmed up to a pair of open dates for local teams means slim pickings for Friday night.

No problem, I'll take a 4-1 showing anytime. Last week's performance boosted the season totals to 30 horse shoes and 11 hand grenades for an improving 681 percentage.

With the countdown:

Both the Lyman Greyhounds and Fighting Seminoles schedule. The timing couldn't be better for either squad. Lyman is still looking for its first win of the year at 0-4 while the Tribe has dropped six straight and stands at 1-7. In a fitting return to action next week the Seminoles host the Greyhounds.

Cardinal Gibbons at Lake Brantley.

Patriot head coach Dave Talles would like to forget about the results of this game last year almost as much as he'd like to dwell on Lake Brantley's convincing 29-0 win over Mainland last week.

"After that game and almost two weeks of rest we were hungry to play," laughed Talles about Thursday's picnic at the expense of the Buccaneers.

The Patriots had better come ready to play against Cardinal Gibbons this week though.

A year ago passing wide David Buckley drilled Lake Brantley all night long with pig point passing, making the Patriot's long ride home from Ft. Lauderdale even longer.

Buckley is back but Cardinal Gibbons isn't quite as strong as a season ago and currently sports a 4-3 record, identical to Lake Brantley's.

"He drilled us last year," recalls Talles of Buckley's passing prowess. "There's a lot of colleges looking at that kid." Buckley is a tough.

Junior Jay Poug has been playing pretty tough for Lake Brantley lately too, as evidenced by his performance against Mainland in which the 180-pounder played a hand in all four Patriot scores.

With two conference losses and a current 4-3 overall record, Lake Brantley still has a mathematical shot at the conference crown and a better shot at a post-season bowl bid. The Patriots won't be anxious to fly away those possibilities.

Lake Brantley 28 Cardinal Gibbons 21.

Ovielo at Lake Howell.

Here come those horse shoes and hand grenades again. Last year it was Ovielo with the horses, also Marvin McClenon, Troy Kessinger, Marty Neese and Mike Scott. This time around Lake Howell possesses the hand grenades in the likes of a kamikaze defense and fullback Carl Carlson.

This contest used to be one of the nastiest around the county. But that was a few years back. Veterans that remember those days are few and far between on either roster.

Ovielo stands at 2-4 while Lake Howell plays host at 5-2. At stake is 400 prize and improvement on the season's record for the Lions.

Lake Howell is playing for a shot at a Rotary Bowl berth and outside conference hope and to secure the school's best ever football finish.

Lake Howell 24 Ovielo 18.

Let's see what other games we can dig up since there's such a tight local schedule.

How about Spruce Creek over New Smyrna Beach by 13; Titusville over Daytona Mainland by 12; Apopka over Winter Moore by 15; West Orange over Boone by 9; Edgewater over Colonial by 6; Evans over Oak Ridge by 12; Winbar Park over Jones by a cart of hand grenades and fireworks; Hernando over St. Cloud by 8.

Bulldog-Gator Clash Looms Big College Crown Could Be Decided In SEC

LPI Sports Writer

This year's national college football championship could be decided here in the Southeast within the next nine days.

Victories over Florida and Auburn could vault the 2nd-ranked Georgia Bulldogs to the top if Alabama, dropped from first to sixth by last week's 6-3 loss to Mississippi State, should knock off top-ranked Notre Dame next week in Birmingham.

And, with 2nd-ranked Southern Cal barred from the bowls, that could set the stage for a Georgia-Alabama Sugar Bowl matchup with the winner winding up as the No. 1 team in the country.

"The rankings are not too important to me right now," said Georgia coach Vince Dooley. "What is important is that we are unbeaten and there are only two teams (the other is Notre Dame) that have not lost. If we keep winning, the other thing probably will fall into place."

The Bulldogs favored over the remaining five teams in the Fighting Irish still has to visit 17-ranked Southern Cal as well as Alabama, are a one-touchdown pick for Saturday's game against 20th-ranked, one-seater Florida in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville.

But Dooley, as usual, is worried.

"We came out of the South Carolina game pretty beat up," said Dooley. "We know we'll have all we can handle Saturday. (Florida coach) Charley Pell has turned the Gators around. They've got basically the same people they had last year when they didn't win a game, but they were played with injuries then and now they are playing the way people thought they would a year ago."

Georgia defensive back Chris Welton likes the Bulldogs' chances for going all the way. "If we play like we're capable of playing," he said, "I don't know if there's anybody in the country we can't beat."

However, like Dooley says, Georgia can't afford to look too far ahead. The Bulldogs must beat both Florida and Auburn in order to win the Southeastern Conference championship outright and earn the league's automatic Sugar Bowl berth.

Georgia and LSU, a 20-point underdog at Alabama Saturday, are currently tied for the SEC lead at 4-0 with Alabama, Florida and Mississippi State close behind at 3-1 — and all five are still in contention for the Sugar Bowl.

If Florida upsets Georgia and wins at Kentucky the following week, the Gators would go to the Sugar Bowl if Mississippi State beats LSU. If the Bulldogs beat Florida but Alabama, Auburn, the bowl bid would go to the Mississippi State-LSU matchup.

District 9 Volleyball Top Seeded Tribe Moves To Semi's

There were few surprises if any in Wednesday's opening round action of the District Nine Volleyball Tournament at Seminole High School.

Top seeded regular season champ Seminole High pushed its 16-4 record with an easy win over eighth seeded Spruce Creek 15-9 and 15-10 to lead a foursome into today's semi-finals.

Other first round matches saw Deland turn back Lyman 15-9 and 15-3; Lake Howell handled Apopka 15-8 and 15-6; while Lake Brantley struggled past fifth seeded Daytona Mainland 15-13 and 16-11.

Today's semi-finals are scheduled to start at 4:30 with Lake Howell squaring off against Deland and the bustling Seminoles meeting county rival Lake Brantley at 5:30.

We got another solid team effort," praised Danalyn Knight of the front running Seminoles. Knight singled out Lisa Harper and Toni Hardy as exceptional spikers while Johnnie Bennett, Deslee Hogan, Jackie Link, Gina Willis, Laura Grace and Cindy Pendarvis turned in their usual solid efforts. Pendarvis, called up from the Lady Seminoles junior varsity squad, was especially effective filling in for Jackie Link, forced out of action with a twisted ankle. Link is expected to make the Tribe lineup for tonight's semi's.

"We're taking it day by day," said Knight of the Tribe's hopes for a state championship title. We can't take anything for granted...but we are going for broke."

The Lady Seminoles nail down the district crown, the first step towards a state title doesn't appear to be all that difficult.

Seminole High's Lisa Harper gives the Fighting efforts helped top seeded Seminole advance to today's semi-final round.

Luster Of Rivalry Gone From Annual Lion-Silver Hawk Meeting

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Writer

GOLDENHORN — What a difference a year makes. Just as Lake Howell's Sam Weir and Ovielo's Joe Montgomery were saluting along with a perfect 7-0 record attempting to break into the 3A state ranking.

They never did make the state poll, but Ovielo finished 12-1 including a coverd place state finish. Their only loss came to Ovielo's state champion Milton.

Ovielo also made 4 Lake Howell 21-6.

This year, unfortunately for the Lions, the pair has lost its power. Ovielo is 2-5. They are rebounding after losing their top four players to graduation.

One are halfback Marvin McClenon (Tennessee Tech), quarterback Troy Kessinger (basketball-Carson Newman), end Marty Neese (West Point) and leading fullback Mike Scott, who sat out this year to pull his grades up, but will attend Tennessee Tech.

"We're still got some good athletes," reminds Montgomery, "but they're mostly on defense. Defensive end Keith Edwards, 6-foot-2, 190-pound linebacker Roy Payne and monstrous 260-pound tackle Tui Williams anchor the sometimes impressive Lion defense.

In the Ovielo victory, the "Black Friday" crew gave up 13 points to Lake Weir and six points to Leesburg. On the average, however, Ovielo gives just over 19 points per outing.

This output has Montgomery worried since his offense is struggling along at just under nine picks a game.

"We lost four pretty super athletes," Monty said about McClenon, Kessinger, Neese and Scott. "But to compound matters they were all around the ball now we have young kids around the ball."

Some of that youth includes a pair of juniors, quarterback Robert Isner and split end Jimmy Hamilton, who Montgomery calls "one of our best athletes."

Sophomore John Quintana, a converted defensive back, will also get a look-out at quarterback.

While Ovielo has floundered after its superb showing of last year, there has also been a reversal six miles away at Lake Howell — for the positive.

At this point a year ago, the Silver Hawks were 3-2. They lost to Ovielo, but downed Boone to the season finale for a 4-6 state best over at Lake Howell.

This year Weir's warriors have bested that mark with five wins in seven tries. Both losses were regarded as upsets to the reigning fullback Mike Scott, who sat out this year to pull his grades up, but will attend Tennessee Tech.

The Mainland loss severely dented the Hawks quest for the Five Star Conference title. Front-running Spruce Creek is two games ahead. Creek would have to lose to Lake Howell a week from Friday and also lose its final game against Deland.

"This would probably create a three-way tie among Spruce Creek, Howell and Deland, if the latter keeps winning. The Silver Hawks would probably get the conference title. Front-running Spruce Creek is two games ahead. Creek would have to lose to Lake Howell a week from Friday and also lose its final game against Deland."

"Most of that stuff is over," said Montgomery. "The days of the big rivalry are gone. One of the reasons we keep playing them is that they're our only tie with Seminole County."

To which Weir concurred. "That stuff rivalry gets old. We're tired of it and it doesn't mean anything anyway. It'll be a good game, but that rivalry is a thing of the past."

The past, nevertheless, will be revisited Friday at 8 p.m. at Lake Howell Stadium.

Lake Howell's Sam Weir has the Silver Hawk football program on the right flight path with a 5-2 record heading into Friday night.

Osborn Rolls On At Rolling Hills

Golf Review

By RICK CASTELLUCCI
Herald Golf Writer

Pete Osborn, Class 'A' Professional at Rolling Hills Country Club, just had an anniversary. For on November 1st, he celebrated his 16th year as Head Professional at Rolling Hills.

Pete, who originated from New Haven, Conn., was raised in Lake Worth located near West Palm Beach. He got his Class 'A' card and became a member of the East Central Chapter of the PGA in 1966. In 1967, that organization named Pete Osborn its 1966 Professional of the Year.

"I think it's one of the most prestigious honors you can receive," said the 42-year-old, Pleasanton, Oregon. "Because it comes from your peers. It's an award for doing what you can for golf and for your organization."

Pete, who jokes about his four blue eyes (he wears glasses), says he got his pro card in 1964. He has since received 1600+ advice to any junior who needs help.

"I just received a plaque from my kids for having our annual summer clinic," smiled the proud father of four children and grandfather of two. "I've had a clinic now for 15 years in trying to promote junior golf for our club."

Pete boasts of his dozen or so protégés who have won golf scholarships to various colleges. One of his students, Terry May, won a scholarship to East Tennessee State, and now plays on the Florida Mid-Tour.

Pete is the co-holder of the Rolling Hills course record, remarked Pete.

Terry and club champion for the last two years (another of Pete's students) Chuck Lytle shot 64's.

Pete's wife, Sandra, has a career of her own. She teaches handicapped children and is the Administrator of Non-verbal Communication Evaluation Center of Orlando. The Osborn's children consists of two now grown up and on their own plus his delightful 11-year-old daughter Shannon, who is in the seventh grade at St. Mary's Magdalen of Altamonte Springs. But the apple of Pete's eye is 16-year-old son Kent, who as a freshman at Lyman, is on the basketball team.

"He's bigger than me," laughed the six-foot, one-inch Pete. "There's no doubt that Pete Osborn, father, grandfather, Professional of the Year, 1966 President of the S.C.P.C.A., and overachiever for 16 years the choice of Rolling Hills members is a humble but satisfying man." The wives who does not look forward for another anniversary, his 20th NAPIER WINS SECOND INVITATIONAL AT ROLLING HILLS

Billy Napier of Orlando won the 54-hole Rolling Hills Invitational by one stroke over Glen Kirk, also of Orlando and

Rolling Hills veteran pro Pete Osborn

Jim Keedy of Leesburg.

The 25-year-old Napier has won the Invitational for the last two years. Billy's scores of 72-68 for a 20-hole total, was three strokes more than that, but he lost with a 79-79.

"The course played like this year," said the owner of Napier's Golf Repair. "I guess with the course being in better shape, more grass on the fairways, the ball didn't get as much roll."

Billy, Glen Kirk and Jim Keedy were locked in a tie-up until the 17th when Keedy triple bogeyed and thus made it a two-man race. Both Napier and Kirk were seen at the 18th hole.

"I didn't know we were tied," explained the former Tennessee pro. "In fact I didn't know I had won until somebody told me."

When he walked off the 18th green Napier thought he was tied and there would be a playoff.

"I was putting my glove in the bag and then to go over to get a drink when one of the spectators came over and told me I had won. I don't keep up with other peoples scores," told Billy, matter-of-factly. "I just hit each ball as it lies. If I win, and if I don't, I don't."

Billy Napier, at the start of the final day, was two strokes behind both Keedy and Kirk. The champion picked up the strokes on the two former leaders and according to Glen Kirk, "he was one stroke ahead going into the 18th hole."

"The missed short 16-metre putt to bogey 11," said the runner-up. "He made a terrible chip on 17 but made a fantastic comeback in sinking a six-footer to save par."

Both Keedy and Kirk want a fortunate, for when disaster fell on Keedy's 17, Kirk bogged both 17 and 18 and thus handed the championship to Billy.

Silver Hawks Blast Panthers

By GEORGE GORDANO
Herald Sports Correspondent

The Chrome Panthers ended their season with a dismal 3-4 loss to the Lake Howell Silver Hawks.

Lake Howell piled up 19 first quarter points and dominated the game with an alert defense, part of the reason they are ending their season at 5-1. The Panthers, who like Bass, was the Silver Hawk's workhorse for the evening. He scored in the first quarter on Lake Howell's first drive. After making a total of five times while recovering four, the one that was lost was a crucial one. Willie Bass, who ran for good yardage throughout the game, fumbled on the Lake Howell one yardline in the third quarter after a 4 play drive which started at the Lake Howell 49 yardline and was helped by a 25 yard run by wingback Steve Grey. The only score for the Panthers came in the fourth quarter on a nine-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Mike Frazier to split end Steve Alexander. The 3-point conversion came with a pass to Grey.

That score made little difference at all. The Silver Hawks scored a TD with 6:24 left in the game on a one yard run by running back Jody Foster. Robert Kerr kicked the extra point to wind up the night's scoring. Lake Howell was sparked by the running of Foster and by his backfield partner William Lang, who, like Bass, was able to add insult to injury, the Silver Hawk's faked the extra point attempt once more. Don't get me wrong, open Chris Shanks did the job for a 2-0 Halftime Silver Hawk lead.

The Panthers looked as if they would turn the game around in the second half, especially when Bass took the second half kickoff at his 18 yardline and ran 82 yards for the score. The play was nullified, however, by a penalty on the Panthers.

The Panthers finish with a 5-4 record, a game behind last year's 9-21 standing.

Botts Wins Weekly

Margaret Botts nailed down the weekly feature in Mayfair's Women's Association one-half handicraft event Wednesday.

Botts claimed the championship flight honors with a 34% followed by Ada O'Neil, Marge Horne and Grace Saylor.

"A" flight laurels went to Mary Ann Williams with a 33% followed by Miriam Andrews, Ann Moore, Stella Brooks and Grace Sauer.

Barbara Ffakke took the "B" flight competition with 31% followed by Kathryn Park, Vivian Pierce and Loraine Miller.

Heading out the weekly event was Alice Potter's 20%, good enough for the top spot in "C" flight play followed by Fran Albrecht and Ann Beam.

A LOT OF THE ABUSES CHILDREN ENDURE ARE EVEN WORSE THAN BROKEN BONES.

Horrible as it may seem, battered children are only a part of the child abuse problem. About one million children in America are abused every year. Some are emotionally abused, others sexually, and still others suffer from neglect. The situation is desperate but not hopeless. Over 90% of the abuse can be helped. We know what to do but we can't do alone.

Abused children are helpless. Unless you help.

NBA Roundup

Sizzling San Antonio Dogs Suns With Defense 114-84

LPI Sports Writer

In the old days, the San Antonio Spurs go by the size of their high-octane offense, with scoreboard totals changing faster than pinball scores and almost providing them with a unique opportunity to play defense.

So for those who remember the Spurs as the epitome of the playground game, the idea that they could hold an opponent to 84 points in a single game might have been unbelievable only if the game had been called after three quarters.

But the Spurs' 114-84 Wednesday night over the Phoenix Suns was no typographical error, and indications are that it is a life in the NBA for the Spurs without the 26-foot jumper.

"That's by far the best we've played and that's against a great team," said Spurs coach Steve Albeck after handing the Suns only their second loss in 13 games.

The Spurs' big weapon was guard James Silas, who scored a season-high 30 points to give him 10,821 in his eight-year career that stretches back to the old Dallas Chaparrals of the ABA.

Silas had 18 points in his eighth game to push the Spurs ahead 82-64 and did not play in the final period. The Spurs held Phoenix to only 21 points in the second half as Silas hit on just 12 of 41 field goal attempts.

San Antonio, which outrebounded the Suns 37-36, held Phoenix to four field goals in the fourth quarter.

George Gervin, the defending NBA scoring champ, seemed to symbolize the new Spurs. He took just 10 shots during the game and finished with 14 points, but the Spurs won easily.

"We really blew them out," Gervin said. "Silas is a great threat. He can score any time. They were double-teaming me and my job was to get the ball to Sil. He had to score and he did."

Leavard Robinson had 17 points to lead Phoenix but was held to a single point in the second half.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Boston edged Atlanta 104-97. Philadelphia edged Detroit 107-103. Chicago defeated New Jersey 120-106. Kansas City beat New York 111-102. San Diego defeated Cleveland 117-104. Golden State beat Houston 108-96 and Denver defeated Seattle 125-107.

Warriors 106, Cavaliers 91.

They're scored 30 points and Pe Barry Carroll and Farris Short added 24 points to lead Golden State to their seventh consecutive home win.

Nuggets 125, SuperSonics 117.

David Thompson scored 39 points, including 15 in the final quarter, to pace Denver. With Denver up by 10 with 30 seconds left, Thompson cooled off seven straight points.

WE PROUDLY SALUTE Golden Age Games

It's that special time of year again in Central Florida... time for the Post Fun 'n Fitness Golden Age Games, sponsored by General Foods' Post Cereals and the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce. Formerly known as the Golden Age Olympics, the annual event for participants 55 and over is scheduled for Nov. 10-15 in Sanford. In addition to the many athletic events, there will be less strenuous activities for everyone to enjoy such as the hobby show, talent show, beauty contest and dinner dance. The opening torch-lighting ceremony will begin at 9 a.m. at the Sanford City Hall on Monday, Nov. 10. The Golden Age Games over the past six years have involved the whole community and brought national attention to Sanford, a fact that Jack Horner, executive manager of the chamber is proud. Honorary Chairman for this year's event is Buster Crabbe, former movie star and Olympic swimming champion. Jim Jernigan, director of Parks and Recreation for the City of Sanford is the general chairman.

U.S. Residents Irked Over Geographical Ignorance

DEAR ABBY: This letter is in response to the letter from Hawaii. Your Hawaiian correspondent was put out by the number of people who didn't know that Hawaii was part of the United States. We who live in NEW Mexico are constantly running into the same situation. Let me give you a few examples: New Mexico was the only state in the union whose license plates were stamped with "USA" in the lower right-hand corner of the plate. I have also seen maps in which New Mexico was completely omitted! As a counselor who assists students in applying for financial aid to further their education, we have been asked why they did not seek aid from their own country! (Meaning Mexico.) And this from so-called educated administrative assistants and executive secretaries! Many people visiting New Mexico comment on how surprised they were that they didn't have to go through customs or present a passport. They actually thought New Mexico was a part of Mexico. FROM MEXICO: THE NEW ABBY, if IN A BIND is unable to control her daughter's sewing habits, a simple lockout device with a key is available from her local cable company, most likely at no charge other than a small security deposit. However, I think you should know that cable TV brings to the home the same programming transmitted on the airways. The R-rated shows, to which your refer, are also transmitted over the same cable, but are a product of one of the pay services. IN A BIND had to pay extra for these R-rated movies over and above what she pays for her regular basic cable TV. In justice to all the cable TV companies around the world, I hope you publicize the fact that there is a way of controlling children's viewing habits short of removing the cable from the home. MARK ANDERSON, GREAT FALLS, MONT.

UDC Chapter Seeks Confederate Photos

Norman de Vere Howard Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy met at the home of Mrs. Troy Ray for the October meeting with Mrs. Glenn Winbush as co-hostess. President Mrs. Charles Stenworth conducted the meeting. Historian Mrs. Fred Harris and Mrs. Donald Dunn brought 157 pictures relating to the Confederacy made at home of the late Mrs. Laura Caldwell and press clippings and pictures from Cleveland, Tenn. Chapter members were asked to bring more pictures for the scrapbook to be judged at the annual division meeting. Mrs. F. E. Roumillat thanked members on behalf of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary for the chapter's cooperation with the collection of coupons and stamps, their current project for a worthy cause. It was announced that reading classes no longer needed by members and friends to be given to someone in need of them. Cmdr. G. R. Strickland, USN (ret.) a historian, and an authority on southern history, spoke on "Mental Television" and its widespread effect during election time. He covered several major issues in his informative talk from Civil Rights, agreeing and disagreeing to Social Security. He said he is against, in general, any constitutional amendment. He was accompanied by his wife, Linda. Refreshments in the Hallways were served to the following members and guests: Mrs. Corley, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. I. D. Hastings, Mrs. H. B. McCall, Mrs. Ray, Mrs. Roumillat, Mrs. Stenworth, Mrs. M. R. Strickland, Mrs. W. B. Wallace, Mrs. Winbush, and the Stricklands.

Pre-Civil War Fashions Modeled

RSVP volunteer Margaret Williams 88, right of Casseberry, and Irene Brown, left, of Flagship Bank, chat with models Rose Miller and Dianne Bache, both wearing pre-Civil War dresses at the Retired Senior Volunteer Program's Fashion Show For Seniors. The attire shown by the models was on loan from Col. and Mrs. Herbert Watson of Winter Park. They were modeled in addition to the regular fashions in the show which was sponsored by Flagship Bank of Seminole County. Diane Bache modeled the silk chiffon wedding dress which Col. Watson's maternal grandmother was married in before the Civil War. She was born in 1834 and died in 1927. Rose Miller showed a stunning point d'esprit black dress.

Her Blood Pressure On Roller Coaster. DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 46-year-old female. My blood pressure has always been on the high side but six months ago my blood pressure was 178 over 120 and I was having some bloods. Now I'm taking Dyanzide and it's been around 130 over 90, sometimes higher. Twice this last month I've been dizzy and my blood pressure was 118 over 84. What's happening and what should I do about it? My doctor said not to worry about my blood pressure being 130 over 90. A doctor that specializes in women's disorders said that's too high and has to come down to find out the reason it's so high. Do I believe you? DEAR READER - Everyone would agree that your initial pressure of 178 over 120 was far too high and your readings of 130 over 90 show a significant improvement, although my medical management. Sometimes the best that can be accomplished is to control the situation even though one might not achieve the most optimal results. Excessive deposits in your arteries which lead to heart attacks and strokes. More recent studies have shown that individuals with even mildly elevated blood pressure do better if they're treated to lower their blood pressure. Specifically, they're less likely to have strokes. Some patients do better on a combination of medicines and your doctor will advise you. The dizzy spells could be an indication that you're getting as much medicine to lower your blood pressure as your particular system will tolerate. All these points are why there's no absolute rule that can be used in the treatment of every case of elevated blood pressure. And that's why each case has to be treated individually by the doctor who knows the patient and the patient's response to the medicines used.

State Republicans May Gain In House. MIAMI (UPI) - A count of absentee ballots during the night showed the Democrats held onto one Broward County seat but lost another in the last two Florida legislative races to be decided. The final tally showed Democratic incumbent Linda Can retained her job in the 8th District with 56,300 votes - 56.3 percent - to Republican challenger, Maureen Downing, who had 43,7 percent. But in the 8th District, Dr. Robert Woodman, a dentist making his first try at public office, unseated Democratic incumbent Steve Warner. Republican Woodman had 36,143 votes or 51 percent to Warner's 34,857. Woodman's election gave the Republicans seven new members in the Legislature as a result of Tuesday's balloting. Three cliff-hanging races were decided late Wednesday by absentee votes, but the loser in one demanded a recount, county elections officials said. Rep. Joe Gerstein, D-Miami, squeaked past Republican Ed London. Republican Daniel Webster topped Henry Swanson in Orange County District 41. In Duval District 2, Republican Tom Drudge Jr. bested Democratic Nancy Fair, who was demanded a recount. The House gains the coattails of Ronald Reagan had GOP leaders saying their new power - and planning to use it in upcoming reappointment battles to further entrench their party. With the seven new representatives, the Republicans would have 39 of the 120 House members - close to the one-third needed in procedural battles over such things as cutting off debate and limiting amendments. Minority Leader Curt Ruster of Dunedin pointed out.

Bank Subsidiaries To Merge. JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) - Atlantic Bancorporation has become the first bank holding company in Florida to take advantage of a new banking law that allows the merger of bank subsidiaries. R. J. Walker, president and chief executive officer of Atlantic Bancorporation, announced Wednesday that the holding company's 16 subsidiaries, with 69 banking offices around the state, will merge into a single $1.8 billion bank based in Jacksonville. The new bank will be known as Atlantic National Bank of Florida Inc., said Walker, who will be president of the merged bank. Edward W. Lane Jr., chairman of the holding company board, will be chairman. "The proposed merger could be accomplished by mid-year 1983, assuming no unexpected delays, at which time Atlantic will have more than 70 banking locations in Florida," said Walker.

Florida Teacher Pay May Rise. TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) - The Cabinet has unanimously approved a $8.8 billion state education budget designed to improve teacher salaries and raise education standards in the state. The proposed two-year budget calls for a $1.8 billion increase in state spending for education and represents a 25 percent jump in the first year over current spending. Gov. Bob Graham, who abstained from voting on the proposal, is expected to cut it before submitting it to the Legislature for approval. As is, the spending plan would require additional tax revenues. The proposed budget includes a $4.67 pay raise for teachers to bring their salaries closer to the national average and unspecified increases for college and university faculty. "We believe at the present time Florida is an average state in its education effectiveness," Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington said. "We believe Florida should be among the best and the best." Board of Regents Chairman Hubose Ausley called the proposal "a realistic budget" and said out-of-state educators consider Florida "to be on the cutting edge of what's happening in higher education."

Deceased President Jimmy Carter is expected to write his memoirs, and as the first Southern Baptist he has expressed the desire to do some missionary work.

As a last word of consolation, former White House aide said today.

Carter also is "determined to leave with grace and class" when he turns over the Oval Office to Ronald Reagan on Jan. 20, the aide said.

Carter has passed the word that aides should cooperate with the Reagan team for a smooth transition to the new administration.

Release of Hostages Now Top Carter Goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, soundly defeated in his reelection bid, will focus his attention on negotiating the release of the 52 American hostages in Iran, a White House aide said today.

Reagan's Hometown Jubilant Over Victory

DIXON, Ill. (UPI) — By the rockets red and the bombs bursting in air, Dixon Tuesday night celebrated the election of one of its own as president — Ronald Reagan.

By the thousands they roared, cheered and sang as they gathered in a bandstand at the intersection of Hennepin and First Streets and packed the downtown saloons.

After President Carter conceded defeat, fireworks sparked in the sky over the northwestern Illinois city of 19,000 where Reagan then known as "Dutch" — spent much of his youth.

Jane Gannon, Pat MacNamara, Jan Cannon, and Edward Schultz, ranging in age from middle age to quite old, all knew "Dutch."

"He taught me how to swim," Mrs. MacNamara recalled of the former Dixon lifeguard. "He was so nice."

"We used to pronounce his name 'Reagan' then, but now it's 'Reagan,'" Mrs. Gannon said. "He was always just like the way he is in television that debate the other night. So relaxed and nice."

Mrs. Cannon said, "His mother was such a nice woman. She used to sing in the choir."

Schultz added, "I used to play football with him in 1924. Maybe we weren't so good, but we were a trophy."

Laws For An Energy Crisis

The Iran-Iraq war rages amid threats of a cutoff of oil from the Persian Gulf Region. At the moment, more than sixty tankers are lying off the Strait of Hormuz, the choke point of the Arab world, and the oil spigot of the Western industrialized nations. If the strait is closed it's said the price of a barrel of crude oil will rise to $100.

But not all the bad energy news comes from the Middle East. This month, when the first "lame-duck" session of Congress in more than 30 years convenes, the energy crisis may well be prolonged by actions taken in Washington, D.C.

The late-year session is required because Congress, entangled in a dilemma of how to avoid the appearance of busting the federal budget, ran late with its appropriations bills for government agencies, and then couldn't agree on giving the American people a tax cut. The "lame-duck" session will feature voting by defeated and retiring members of Congress on matters for which they will not be held accountable.

Several energy-related measures are pending: first, an Alaska lands bill which would determine how much of that vast, energy-rich state could be explored by the energy industries. The Senate and the House of Representatives have both passed the bill. The Senate measure favoring exploration of the Arctic coastal plain near the already-productive Prudhoe Bay field. The House bill is skewed towards conservation, locking up 127 million acres as federal parks, and is opposed by energy developers, and, by the way, the people of Alaska, who are more interested in orderly exploration of their resources than easing the environmentalist consciences of non-Alaskan legislators.

A compromise bill was offered by Rep. Morris Udall (D-Az) which would allow more exploration, but lock up an additional 3.5 million acres. A fight is certain.

A second major issue is a "Superfund" bill, which would tax the oil and petrochemical industries at a mandated rate on both refinery production and petrochemical feedstocks, in order to create a giant public fund to clean up oil and chemical spills and non-nuclear hazardous waste dumps. Three bills are pending, respectively in the House, Senate, and a compromise bill of them had. The one that is passed, if any, would raise from $750 million to $4.1 billion over 5-6 years, with between 75 and 88 percent coming from industry, the rest from government.

The deepest flaw in this uncritical approach to the chemical waste problem is obvious: companies would have no incentive to police themselves. If a giant cleanup fund is created out of the hides of every oil and petrochemical company, why should individual companies worry about spills? Never mind the extra billion dollars or so in federal funds that would be tossed in. The Superfund legislation would mean more Love Canals, not fewer.

The United States Congress has not distinguished itself in the area of energy legislation this year. Its two main accomplishments, the "windfall" profits tax and the "synfuels" bill will both contribute to the growth of government power over the energy industries, and the inevitable reduction in energy production in the U.S.

The windfall tax already confiscates 70 percent of revenue on upper and lower tier (older) oil, and will take $227 billion from the petroleum industry by 1988, if it is phased out on schedule. The synfuels bill sponsored a federal corporation that will spend $20 billion in the next 5 years to produce 500,000 barrels of "synfuels" per day; a dollar of federal money for a nickel's worth of energy—maybe.

BERRY'S WORLD

WASHINGTON — When President Carter was casting about for a way to punish Iran for seizing the hostages a year ago, he ordered the Immigration and Naturalization Service to go after Iranian students who were staying illegally in this country. It was an unfortunate choice of weapons.

The INS, for years a budgetary stepchild of the Justice Department, had enough problems already. The Iranian Student Case was an assignment it didn't need.

The confidential findings of Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., chairman of a House immigration subcommittee, make it appear that the attempted crackdown on illegal Iranians has hurt the INS more than it has Iran. A special "management review" by a team of experts from the President's Management Improvement Council confirms that immigration agency is — to put it bluntly — a bureaucratic nightmare.

From the files of the various investigations, my associate Lucretia Laguna has compiled these disturbing facts:

— INS has spent more than $3.3 million so far in its will-o'-the-wisp search for Iranian

Around

And Back At The Rumor Mill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Omni magazine is running a contest in which a $100 prize is being offered for the best unconfirmed rumor.

The periodical says there hasn't been a really good one in circulation since the rumored death of Paul McCartney in Beatles fame in 1968. Rumors it considers up to standard include:

— "No astronaut ever went to the moon. The famous 'landing' was filmed at a secret government base in Nevada."

— "The American Medical Association is secretly subsidizing the tobacco industry because of the immense profits in cancer treatments."

— "Walt Disney's body is frozen in 'suspended animation.'"

— "During the Eisenhower administration, a UFO crashed and killed its occupants. The green bodies are now on ice at Wright Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio."

Man and boy, I have spent enough time checking out rumors to qualify as a connoisseur. So perhaps I can be of some help to amateur rumormongers who are planning to enter the contest.

The five main points on which rumors are judged are clarity, bouquet, body, balance and taste.

Cheap rumors tend to be high evanescent. Some quickly evaporate. Others sink of their own weight.

As a balance, a rumor must be semi-true, unconfirmed but also unrefuted. The rumor is proven either true or false, it turns to vinegar.

Most vintage rumors are fortified with conspiracy to provide more body and longevity. By its very nature, the existence of a conspiracy is difficult to establish. Therefore, conspiratorial-type rumors last longer.

For a rumor connoisseur, the most valuable asset is the ability to tell the difference between genuine hearsay and idle gossip, foul canards or whispering campaigns.

Although not necessarily factual, an authentic rumor like genuine folk music, titillating, or tale bearing, on the other hand, is fabricated for ulterior purposes from wishful suspicion and malicious speculation.

Following are a few "rumors" from my personal collection. Some are genuine and some are fake. As a test of your rumor-sampling skill, see if you can tell which is which.

A number of inventions that would greatly improve gasoline mileage in automobiles have been suppressed by the big oil companies.

A member of the U.S. Senate who is notably short in stature actually is a tall child.

The Ayatollah Khomeini has cancer of the colon and does not live long to live.

"One of the candidates in this year's presidential primaries was the illegitimate son of Buffalo Bill."

If you picked one, I and 3 as the vintage specimens, you may have what it takes to be an Omni prize-winner.

WHITE HOUSE

When The Hostages Are History

As years go, it must at this point be judged as one of the most dramatic events in American history — both those actually captive in Tehran and millions of their frustrated countrymen at home — have been held hostage by a situation that for all the nation's power and effort has defied resolution. Direct diplomacy, recourse to the established international channels for the settlement of grievances between nations and, with one damaging slip, immense forbearance have gotten the United States nowhere with a threat of force — if that last is the appropriate world for a society in such an advanced stage of disorganization as Iran — obvious to all but its own revolutionary vanguard.

For many Americans, it may seem to have been a year like no other. In fact, however, not quite.

Remember the Pueblo hostages. Almost forgotten now, they were the crewmembers of the U.S.S. Pueblo, the Navy electronic intelligence ship seized by North Korean patrol boats in the Sea of Japan.

That was on Jan. 23, 1968, creating a crisis that shows some striking similarities to that of the Tehran hostages.

The North Korean regime, then possibly the most virulently anti-American in the communist world, was also impervious to the usual processes of diplomacy and what limited leverage the United States were able to exert short of resorting to force. And at one point there appeared to be the possibility of exactly that eventually as the American negotiators in the area was strengthened and a limited call up of reservists ordered.

Feeling in the public and Congress was high as the administration appeared to be running out of options. And it was a presidential election year.

There are also significant differences between the Pueblo and Tehran. For one, the first was a relatively isolated event. It occurred in an area of concern to several parties of some consequence — the Soviet Union, People's China and Japan, in addition to the United States — but was of peripheral importance to the rest of the world. And it was essentially peripheral to the primary American concern of the period: Vietnam.

The Pueblo hostages, on the other hand, are one aspect of a larger and complex crisis focusing on a region of primary political and economic importance to the rest of the world. And it was essentially peripheral to the primary American concern of the period: Vietnam.

The Pueblo hostages were released Dec. 21, 1968, six weeks after the American presidential election and a month short of a year after their seizure. In return, the United States handed North Korea an "apology" — subsequently rescinded — for the intelligence intrusion upon North Korea. Whatever value this may have had for the North Koreans, it was undoubtedly of less importance than time in bringing about the release. The propaganda value of the Pueblo hostages for their captors had been exhausted, they had become old business.

The Tehran hostages, although much more convoluted, may bring developments in Tehran. Much has happened since Nov. 4, 1979, and the seizure of the American embassy. The Shah is dead and an issue, even as concerns his disputed wealth, of receding importance.

And in time, attrition as it may be to conceive of now, the events of this may have become almost forgotten.

Money Control Problems

By DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the next two weeks thousands of commercial banks, mutual savings banks, savings-and-loan associations and credit unions across the country will take an important step toward transforming the nation's financial system.

Under the Monetary Control Act which became law March 31, these depository institutions will for the first time be required to report weekly to the Federal Reserve System on the amount of their deposits and also begin maintaining reserves against those deposits.

One purpose of the act was to subject all depository institutions, whether or not they are members of the Federal Reserve, to the same reserve requirements and privileges. There are about 8,000 separately chartered institutions in the country which receive deposits about half of them credit unions.

Of the total, only about 5,400 commercial banks are members of the Fed. These constitute 27 percent of the nation's commercial banks but they tend to be larger banks and together hold 71 percent of commercial bank assets.

It is largely through the reserves of this core of member banks that the Fed conducts monetary policy. By influencing the level of reserves of the banks the Fed controls the money supply, which in turn affects inflation and economic growth.

Until 1978 only member commercial banks and a few Edge Act corporations, subsidiaries offering international banking services, were subject to Fed reserve requirements. The 1978 International Banking Act added U.S. branches of foreign banks, but until now they have not actually had to maintain reserves.

Under the Monetary Control Act, all depository institutions eventually will have to report deposits or maintain reserves until May 1981.

Institutions with less than $2 million in deposits — about 17,000 — will not have to report deposits or maintain reserves until May 1981.

Many savings and loan associations are finding it "not an easy task" to comply with the new reporting requirements, said Edward Ollarvas, an economist with the U.S. League of Savings Associations in Chicago.

Bruce July of the Credit Union National Association said credit unions, some staffed by volunteers, have "neither the application nor the impact on monetary policy to require this sort of effort."

YARD OF THE MONTH

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Heaves, 382 Lakewood Ave., Lake Mary, show the Lake Mary Garden Club's Yard of the Month which the club awarded the couple for November. The attractive brick home is offset by a well-cared-for lawn and beds of different varieties of flowers. The couple do their own yard work and Mrs. Heaves also grows roses.

CHOIR CONCERT SCHEDULED

The Marantha New Life Church, sponsored by the Methodist District of Church, will appear in a concert Saturday, at 7:30 p.m., at St. Augustine High School. Special guests will be Elaine Williams and Charles Graham along with the Marantha Street Band.

Orchids Do Well With Basic Good Cultural Care

Flowering orchids are spectacular additions to anyone's landscape, greenhouse, or house plant collection. Orchids usually do very well with just when they reach a certain point in their growth, they need to be divided and repotted. These two important steps can often be areas of concern for the home gardener.

To continue producing flowers, most orchids need to be divided and repotted. However, there are ways to repot orchids, depending on the variety. So, for the sake of time and clarity, I go into detail about just one orchid type, the Cattleya.

Cattleya (Cat-tee-ahs) which is the most popular orchid grown in Florida. A mature Cattleya will grow over the pot rim when it's ready for division. Usually, you'll have to break the pot to remove the plant. But save the broken pieces. They can be cleaned and used to cover the drainage holes in the new pots. Very carefully separate the orchid roots from the pot pieces.

Now, look at the plant very carefully. You'll see several enlarged, bulblike formations in the stem. They're called "kecks" and they're the buds that new plants will grow. Use a clean knife for each cut. Then, make clean cuts, so that three or four bulbs are left in each group. Several new plants can be started from one mature cattleya as long as there are three or four bulbs in each division.

DEAR ABBY: I've never seen a problem like mine in your column, but I hope you can advise me. I am in love with a man who has his own admission is a homosexual. He is a very fine person, and I love the world of each other. Abby, I have been in love with him for several years. I don't care if he is a homosexual. He would make a wonderful husband and companion.

My husband and I are coadjutors to six children. We remember them on all gift-giving occasions — birthdays, Christmas, Easter, confirmations and graduations, but not one of them has ever remembered us. Their mothers telephone to say that Abby or Susie has received our card with check enclosed.

Orchids Do Well With Basic Good Cultural Care

Flowering orchids are spectacular additions to anyone's landscape, greenhouse, or house plant collection. Orchids usually do very well with just when they reach a certain point in their growth, they need to be divided and repotted. These two important steps can often be areas of concern for the home gardener.

To continue producing flowers, most orchids need to be divided and repotted. However, there are ways to repot orchids, depending on the variety. So, for the sake of time and clarity, I go into detail about just one orchid type, the Cattleya.

Cattleya (Cat-tee-ahs) which is the most popular orchid grown in Florida. A mature Cattleya will grow over the pot rim when it's ready for division. Usually, you'll have to break the pot to remove the plant. But save the broken pieces. They can be cleaned and used to cover the drainage holes in the new pots. Very carefully separate the orchid roots from the pot pieces.

Now, look at the plant very carefully. You'll see several enlarged, bulblike formations in the stem. They're called "kecks" and they're the buds that new plants will grow. Use a clean knife for each cut. Then, make clean cuts, so that three or four bulbs are left in each group. Several new plants can be started from one mature cattleya as long as there are three or four bulbs in each division.

Once you make the division, place plants on a clean surface. Don't let the DEAR ABBY: I am a woman barber who styles and cuts men's hair in one of the better barber shops.

DEAR ABBY: You wouldn't believe the number of men who come into this shop with wax in their ears. I've seen wax building so thick it's a wonder they can hear. I'm not talking about poor, ignorant people. My clients are intelligent, well-dressed and well-to-do or they couldn't pay the kind of money I charge for a haircut.

I don't have the nerve to tell them. If I did, I'd probably be a very free person, and I don't want to see any clients.

If you have a solution, please print it. I can't be the only barber with this problem.

HOROSCOPE
By BERNICE BEDEOSI.
For Saturday, November 8, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY
November 8, 1980
In the year ahead you're likely to be far luckier than usual where your work or career is concerned, or when it comes to making money. Some big opportunities could unexpectedly come your way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
You could be a bit luckier than usual today in money or business matters. If an insider has a hot tip for you, by all means be attentive. In-formation, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 488, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10101. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
You'll not be lost in today. Whether you seek it or not, your peers are apt to place the mantle of leadership on your shoulders.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Although the thoughts of others are likely to be on trivial things today, you'll be thinking of ways to further your ambitions and goals. Success is likely to follow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
You have the ability to outdistance your competition today, but instead of invoking ill will your tactics turn them into routers and supporters.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Challenge today awakens in this is a good time to take a strong drive for success, rather than causing you to rather than causing you to will. Once you set your mind

WEST 10-11
SOUTH 10-12
EAST 10-11

Contract: With 28 points it ought to be a club, but even with a favorable first trick, careful, correct play is needed.

As a starter, South rises with dummy's queen of hearts, realizing it only has worth at this moment. At trick two he leads a club and plays the nine only to see it lose to West's queen.

West shifts to the 10 of diamonds and South should play dummy's ace to be sure of holding that first diamond in dummy. He leads a second club, loses the 10 and is up to eight to tricks when it holds.

He cashes the ace of clubs hoping the king will drop but it doesn't. Now he plays his king of diamonds. Both opponents follow so he is sure of a diamond for his ninth trick.

East wins the diamond continuation, cashes his king of clubs and leads a heart.

South wins, plays out his last diamond and says, "It's four if the queen and jack of spades drop." As they don't, he is held to his contract.

Prostrate Surgery Concerns Patient

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—Some time ago I had a prostate operation—a TUR. Now I find that when I reach a climax during sex nothing happens. Does this go with that type of operation or does the fluid find its way out of the system without harm? Should I refrain from sex because of that?

DEAR READER—I'm asked this question rather frequently and it tells me that many patients who have a prostate operation don't understand what its effects are. As you probably appreciate, a high percentage of men, as they get older, do require prostate surgery as it is an important point.

In the type of surgery that you had, the little valve at the outlet of the bladder is usually affected. As a result, when you reach a climax, the secretions actually flow backward into the bladder. Technically, we call this retrograde ejaculation. All the other sensations are normally there. Of course, the secretions are then eliminated the next time you empty your bladder.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 154, Prostate Gland, to give you more information about its functions and the problems you can have with it, including cancer of the prostate. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 160, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10101.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have read that no paternal blood actually flows through the fetus blood and there's no direct fetus blood flow to the mother's blood during pregnancy. Then just how does the developing baby get its oxygen and nourishment?

DEAR READER—Most people think of the circulation as the blood that flows through the arteries and veins. Actually that's only the tip of the iceberg. Fluid leaves the blood vessels early and moves out into the tissue.

The ultimate result is the circulation to the baby is a great deal like the circulation to your own body cells in terms of transferring nutrients and oxygen.

In some ways the placenta behaves like the lungs. Blood goes directly into the air sacs either. The thin capillary membrane separates the blood from the air.

The Games Senior Citizen Event To Open Monday

The unfair image of older Americans as senile and crochety folks sitting in their rocking chairs has been dispelled over the past five years by participants in the Golden Age Olympics in Sanford.

The sixth annual Golden Age event...now known as the Post Fun 'n Fitness Golden Age Games, will open here Monday and continue through Saturday.

This year the Golden Age Games' national sponsor, General Foods Post Cereals, is sponsoring Buster Crabbe, former film star and Olympic Gold Medal swimmer, as honorary chairman of the event. He will be in Sanford for the six-day event. The Golden Age Games are sponsored locally by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the city of Sanford and local businesses and organizations.

The opening ceremonies will take place at 9:15 a.m. Monday at the Sanford City Hall located at 300 N. Park Avenue. Lighting of the flame by torches carried by Orrin Graf of Daytona Beach and Harriet Boyd of Lake Mary will officially open the games.

Some 2,000 entries are expected this year from men and women 55 years and older who enjoy the challenges and camaraderie of intense physical competition as well as sharing their other talents. Entry forms and information are available at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, 400 E. First St.

Each event carries an entry fee of $1 (unless otherwise stated) and is payable at the time of registration. In order to award gold, silver and bronze medals to official first, second and third place winners in each event, there must be at least three participants.

Special awards will be given to the overall female champion, overall male champion and

KAZARIAN BEATS THE PRICE!

By STACI BIENVENU

"IF YOU'RE UNDER 25: If you own a van or a pick-up, or if you just need immediate Auto Insurance coverage — you need to call me. Yes, according to Ralph Kazarian, "You may be paying too much for your Auto Insurance."

Mr. Kazarian is fully aware that we, as drivers, are tired of reading deceptive ads about how we can beat the high cost of our auto insurance, but there is something definite that sets him apart — specialization. He's an unusual man in his line of business, for he is willing to give hard luck YOUNG DRIVERS a more-than-fair deal on their auto insurance.

"I feel that young people, in many cases, are unjustifiably charged high rates, and I know that many may be short on cash. That's why monthly payments are odd specially. Furthermore, there are a large number of drivers under 25 that are paying high rates due simply to their age; others are penalized because of their personal tastes in automobiles. Finally, customers who need minimum insurance coverage are turned away repeatedly. To overcome these situations is my whole reason for being in business."

Yes, this all sounds quite promising, but just how can Ralph Kazarian afford to offer a truly better price to you and me?

"I've shopped for years to find companies who offer the best possible rates for my particular customers. As a result, I represent 35 to 40 different companies who target their efforts to the specialized automobile and truck insurance market. This allows me to give my customers the insurance they need at the price they want to pay."

And Mr. Kazarian has proved himself to be quite successful in his approach. After 15 years in the business, he's established himself as an institution within the auto insurance industry in Florida. To prove his ambition and determination, he's opened nine offices in the last two years in the Central Florida area and has just recently remodeled his new Sanford office, which is located between Burger King and Flagship Bank on Orlando Avenue. (323-2454).

So...if you're really interested in finding out how to get the insurance you need...at the price you want to pay — stop by one of Ralph Kazarian's auto insurance agencies. —ADV.

The Decathlon winner. Medals will be awarded immediately following each event. Winners will accumulate points toward the overall championship. First place medals will count for seven points; second, five points, and third, two points. The person who compiles the best point total is declared the overall winner. The Decathlon Champion will be awarded a gold medal for first, silver for second and bronze for third and will be treated as one event. In case of a tie the contestants' performances will be compared starting with first event scheduled chronologically in which both competed. Winner will receive half a point as a tie-breaker.

Those whose talents lie in less physical activities also will have an opportunity to participate in events such as the Hobby Show held at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Wednesday through Friday, the Uni-Sex Beauty Contest, 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Sanford Civic Center; the Jubilee Dinner-Dance, 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the civic center; and the variety and talent show, 7 p.m. Thursday at the civic center.

For those who like to face their competition sitting down, there are events such as cribbage, bridge, canasta, pinochle, checkers, and dominos.

The Golden Age Games is open to all. There is no residency requirement. To be eligible to enter any of the events, participants must fill out a registration form and standard release form.

Senior athletes are expected to participate from all over the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico, as well as locally. Spectators are welcome to come out and watch all the activities. See the schedule in this section and follow daily results in the Herald.

Etchberger To Calm Altamonte Budget Storm?

By CHARITY CICARDO
 Herald Staff Writer

The biggest problem facing Jeff Etchberger, recently appointed Altamonte Springs city manager, is the $275,000 deficit in last year's fiscal year.

The new city manager wants to quell speculation and rumors about the deficit by presenting facts about the situation.

"I'm going to get the facts and the complete story and make a plan for solving the problem," Etchberger said Friday after meeting with City Commissioner Lee Bentley.

The Altamonte Springs commission found out about the deficit through a memo sent Oct. 30, by Bentley which stated the general operating fund would show a $275,000 deficit because of revenues not received as anticipated and expenditures exceeding revenues.

"We need to calm everybody down," Etchberger said. "The problem can be solved, but it will require tough decisions on the commission's and my part."

Etchberger said he is working on a plan that might be ready when he meets with the commission at a special work session at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Things have been moving fast for Etchberger, who was appointed city manager Thursday night by the Altamonte Springs commission.

Etchberger, 30, had turned in his resume for the job just two days before he was appointed to the position. Sitting in his office, where he still wears the hat of assistant Seminole County administrator, Etchberger will work part-time at both positions for two to four weeks.

According to Acting Mayor Lee Constantine, an agreement is being drawn by City Attorney James

Fowler which the commission will probably approve at its next meeting.

The agreement includes the salary of $40,000 and a car, which was used by Mayor Norman Piyol and contained $8,000 worth of police radio equipment.

"The radio equipment will go back to the police where it belongs," Etchberger said.

In its place, Etchberger will install a mobile phone. He also carries a beeper with him 24-hours-a-day, 7-days-a-week, so city employees can reach him.

"If there's a conflict, it will be resolved in a professional manner," he said.

"Everyone is important and everyone has a role and responsibility which they must carry out," he said. "But leave the overall administration of the city to the city manager."

Etchberger says he wants to meet with the public and present them with the facts.

"I want to quickly establish the professional credibility of the city. I want to present the facts as they exist," he said.

Etchberger said he likes a good problem and a good challenge and expects that will be his job as city manager.

"I'll be challenged. When things get slow or start running smoothly, then it's time for me to find another challenge," he said.

Etchberger said he won't run out of challenges in his new position of city manager for a long time.

"It's going to take three to five years as a city manager to effectively implement just those obvious things," Etchberger said.

"I'm not a magician. It's not a quick job. It's going to take lots of hard work and effort."

Rumor Still Alive After 25 Years

DEAR DICK: Twenty-five years ago I lived in Oklahoma and heard a rumor that Dinah Shore's children were black. Recently a friend and I were talking and she said years ago she heard the same rumor. Is this true? E.N. JANEZ, Lake Jackson, Tex.

That dumb rumor has been popping up here and there for — as you say — at least a quarter of a century. It was never true and it's still just a dumb rumor.

DEAR DICK: In the movie, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner?" Katharine Hepburn's daughter was played by her real life niece, Katharine Houghton. What is she doing now? I never heard of her after that movie. ANN PERRA, Euclid, Ohio.

Her 15-quent tells me that she last heard from Katharine Houghton some months ago. At that time, she was living in Kentucky and doing regional theater. I talked to her at the time she did "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner?" and she was more interested in the stage than in films, so that report seems logical.

DEAR DICK: A friend and I have a small disagreement about a bit part in an old movie, "It Happens Every Thursday," with Loretta Young and John Forsythe. One of the people spoke a few lines to John Forsythe. I say it was Dennis Weaver. My friend says no. Can you help? JOHN HORTON, Michigan City, Ind.

I spoke to Forsythe who said, "Yes, it was Dennis Weaver." You are the big winner.

DEAR DICK: In the movies, "Star Wars" and "The Empire Strikes Back," who plays Han Solo and Princess Leia? LEONA DE BOER, Baraboo, Wis.

I thought everybody knew that Harrison Ford and Carrie Fisher were those two worties.

DEAR DICK: I have been trying to remember a series that Jim Davis was in, some 20 years ago. Jim Davis, the father of "Dennis," was in a Western series in which the character of Annie Oakley was also prominent. I hope you can research this for me. NANCY GUTLER, Las Vegas, Nev.

You, Jim, as far as I can find, did four series before "Dallas" — "Stories of the Century," "Rescue 8," "Rivermen" and "The Cowboys." In none of the above was Annie Oakley a prominent character. Is it possible you are thinking of somebody else?

DEAR DICK: Years ago, there was a Lucille Ball movie called "Best Foot Forward." For a long time, I've been wondering (and finally got around to asking) who the young man was who sang so beautifully. He played one of the more important military school cadet roles. MARVYL SCHOOLEY, West Covina, Calif.

I think that must have been Kenny Rogers. Kenny (like

Winter Springs Recount Ordered

Ballots in the four-way race for Winter Springs Council Seat Three, won on a nine-vote margin, will automatically be recounted soon, Supervisor 28 Elections Canulla Bruce said Friday.

The reason? The slim percentage win by Martin Trencor over incumbent John Bennett.

Under state law, any race which ends up with less than a 3 percent difference between the winner and runner-up for an immediate recount.

In the Seat Three race, Trencor scored 89 votes, 27 percent of the total votes cast. Bennett received 81 votes, 24.4 percent of the vote.

George Grier placed third with 25 votes, 27.7 percent. Businessman John Lynd placed a distant fourth, receiving only 20 votes, 13 percent of the total ballots cast.

The county's canvassing board, made up of County Judge Harold Johnson and county commissioners Bob Sturm and Richard Williams must conduct an actual recount in that race, returning the ballots through the election computer.

The other two Winter Springs races on the ballot were close, but not close enough to call for an automatic recount.

Jim Hartman beat Seat One Councilman incumbent William Jacobs by a 18-vote margin, winning his race 41.1 percent to 48.8 percent of the votes cast.

The three-way race for Council Seat Five ended with a 160-vote margin of victory for incumbent John Torcaso (42.8 percent of the vote).

Challenger Thomas Craven and John Maui received 26.3 and 19.8 percent of the votes cast respectively.

Mrs. Bruce said she suspects the canvassing board will be asked by one of the candidates to recount all the city races, however, when the margin is more than 3 percent, the board has the right to reject the request.

Persons wishing to demand a recount have five days from the day of the election to file a petition with the canvassing board, Mrs. Bruce said.

The election officer did receive a formal complaint about the conduct of the election in Winter Springs, said Mrs. Bruce, who added she will take action to prevent a recurrence of the problem described.

Former Winter Springs Councilman John Daniels complained some city voters may not have gotten ballots. He said county poll workers handed out ballots to people before punch machines were free, creating lines in front of the city registration table.

Because of the nature of Daniels' complaint, no formal action has to be taken. — DAVID M. RAZLER

Golden Age Games Week

'Super Senior' Graf Won Disease Battles

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
 Herald Staff Writer

Sanford's Post-World War II Golden Age Games, which open Monday with ceremonies at 9:15 a.m. at the Sanford City Hall, will offer something for everyone.

The Naval Training Center Band, Musicians' Guild dignitaries from Tallahassee and Washington and local officials will be on hand Monday to officially inaugurate the games.

Events to get under way Monday include tennis at 9:30 a.m., Spencer Courts; quarter-mile lake race, 11 a.m., from the Sanford Civic Center; synchronized swimming, 11 a.m., at the Lake Moore Holiday Inn pool; canoeing, 12 a.m., at Moore-Harbour; billiards-9-ball, 1 p.m., civic center; and sailing, 2:30 p.m., Moore Harbour.

For the first time, entrants in the bicycle events this year will be allowed to use their own bicycles if they prefer. This has been a sore point for some competitors in the past. Measures have also been taken to provide additional checkers and police protection along the route for safety. The route will also be better marked.

Spectators are welcome at all events and bleachers have been set up beside the pool for swimming events.

The synchronized swimming competition takes place in two parts, the judging of performance of individual figure movements and the standard patterns. The final and deciding score is the sum of the figures and routine scores.

Mary Rose and Fran Gioe are in charge of the synchronized swimming, which is sponsored by the American Red Cross.

Louise Wing, national solo masters champion in the 60-65 age division, is coming from Massachusetts to compete in the synchronized swimming again this year. Last year she was the 1979 Golden Age Games solo champion. Her photo was incorrectly identified in Friday's Leisure Magazine as Louie Wells.

Competition will continue throughout the week in a variety of events including Saturday with shuffleboard, and croquet at Fort Mellon Park and track and field and the decathlon at the Seminole High School stadium.

Monday is the deadline for purchasing tickets for Wednesday night's dinner-dance at the civic center. Tickets may be obtained at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce office along with information and entry forms for the various events.

Winners of Wednesday afternoon's dance contest will be spotlighted and the Sanford Serenaders will play for dancing at the dinner-dance.

Those who plan to enter items in the arts, crafts, needlework, ceramics, horticulture and collections displays in the Hobby Show should enter their exhibits from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Tuesday. There were 247 entries last year and more expected this year. There will be separate divisions for professionals and amateurs in the arts, crafts and ceramics division. New this year on the collection division is a category for miniatures.

Judges will be from out of the county and medals will be given in each division and ribbon in each category. The Hobby Show will be at the Chamber of Commerce on First Street.

The Golden Age Games are open to men and women 55 and older and each event carries an entry fee of $1.

'I run against myself. I just go out and do what I can do. If I beat 'em, I beat 'em. You meet a bunch of nice people at these events.'

'If I Had A Hammer...'

It was just amazing. But repairing the auto isn't going to be simple, he said Saturday.

"We're being hampered by the availability of windshields," he said. "Some are just hard to find for the cars that range in year from 1967 to 1975, he said."

He added that the firm's insurance doesn't cover such repairs.

Police said they have a suspect in the case: a man who threatened to destroy the car if after his car was repossessed. — DIANE PETERK

Five Miners Found Dead

MADISON, W. Va. (UPI) — A rescue team early Saturday found the bodies of five miners killed by an explosion 2 miles inside an underground coal mine near southwestern West Virginia.

"They're dead," said rescuer Milton Smallwood. "That's the sad thing."

Discovery of the bodies ended a grim search spanning nearly 24 hours, during which officials expressed hope the five men might be found alive.

"If the blast took two seconds," said West Virginia mine inspector Robert Thompson. "They didn't know what happened."

He said two of the bodies were found in one place and the other three were lying in an area about 100 feet away.

Thompson said the explosion in the Ferrell No. 17 Mine was a methane and air ignition "so powerful it caused damage over a distance of 8,000 feet."

Charles Bentley of Westmoreland Coal Co., which owns the mine, said a spark from a "locomotive-type" vehicle the men had used to get to their workplace may have set off the blast.

The five miners were identified as Howard Williamson, 29; Carlos Dent, 29; Fred Pickmore, 26; Herbert Kinder, 22; and Howard Gillenwater, 28, all from southern West Virginia.

Proposed SWAT Training Center Zoning Nightmare?

By DAVID M. RAZLER
 Herald Staff Writer

A 2,200-acre parcel of land on the St. Johns River at the extreme northwestern end of Seminole County will become training grounds for police, security guards and homeowners looking to learn about self defense, if a man now living in Longwood has his dream come true.

But county officials say the dream may be a zoning nightmare.

Retired U.S. Army sharpshooter Bert Waldren says his company, Operational Security Systems International (OSI), is about to close a deal on the land located next to a state wildlife preserve where he and the U.S. Army want to build a training center. Waldren says the site will be the home of the Pegasus Center, a school for police special weapons and tactics teams, private security guards and persons who believe they might be victims of terrorist attacks.

The school will also teach outdoor survival and home security to the general public, and the site of a manufacturing facility turning out bulletproof vests, cars and riot shields, he said.

County Planner Woody Price says

Waldren has a chance of getting approval for some of what he wants on that site, but definitely not the manufacturing facility.

OSI might not even be allowed to build its proposed one-mile track for training drivers how to get away from attackers, he said.

Waldren said he and three other persons, including retired Air Force Col. Drexel "Barney" Cochran, have formed OSI in order to provide a kind of training not available elsewhere in the country.

"Crime today has changed," he said, explaining he believes police and many citizens have to be able to handle attacks from terrorists with procedures not taught in police academies.

Waldren said his school will be open to police from across the country and possibly from outside the United States if the U.S. State Department gives its approval to the students.

The courses will also be open to private guards who pass background checks. "We're not interested in being a training center for police mercenaries," Waldren and Cochran recently left a school which had started out as a SWAT team training center, but had received a reputation for being a mercenary training center, Waldren said.

Before looking for property in Seminole County, Waldren and Cochran were employed by Mitchell Livingston Warbell III, owner and operator of the Cobray School near Atlanta, Ga.

Warbell has, over the past year, been the subject of television and magazine pieces because of his alleged training of mercenaries, and his claims he has participated and organized small private paramilitary operations.

"He got into the spook stuff," said
