Crime report

By VICKI BOGEMAN
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — As cities go, Sanford ranks first in almost every category of crime in Seminole County, according to statistics provided by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement. This past week, a woman was abducted at knife-point from her historic district home. Not far away, in a downtown area infamous for drug deals, a young man was shot to death, dropping a trail of blood-stained baggies filled with marijuana before

Teacher arrested for trying to bribe city official

By ROGER HARNACK

SANFORD — City Commissioner Lon Howell said he was surprised when he opened an envelope to find a $200 bribe in it, a payoff for his vote to allow liquor sales at a local nightclub, after he had already said he would support it. Howell received $200 and a business card for Stoooges nightclub earlier this week. Not knowing what to do, he went to police. "I've never had that happen before," Howell said. "When I went to the (police) chief, I was scared to death."

Police requested Howell wear a transmitter to a meeting with nightclub co-owner George Currie, who is also an exceptional education teacher at

Seminole High School in Sanford. "When they wired me, I was scared to death," Howell said. See Bribery, Page 8A

Eagle Scout project encourages bats to gobble up pesky insects

By JEFF BERLINGO
Herald Staff Writer

It isn't unusual to see a bunch of bats at a baseball field.

Usually, though, they are in the hands of ballplayers, not flying around trying to eat everything in sight.

Even more unusual is that they are perfectly welcome and here's why:

The Lake Mary Sports Complex which is home to baseball, softball and almost every other kind of youth and adult recreational activity sits by a swampy area next to the woods off of Country Club Road. As a result, mosquitos and just about any other nasty little flying creature considers it to be their home and humans to be nothing more than visitors.

It would be hard to guess how many parents have missed their child's first homerun or soccer goal because they were awaiting at something hovering around their face.

Sanford commissioners are recycling several issues

By NICK PPRIFAP

SANFORD — It will be deja vu this Monday as the Sanford City Commission reconsiders a number of items discussed in the past.

One matter, pertaining to economic incentive money to help major businesses, will focus on another application for funding.

An ordinance pertaining to persons living temporarily in recreational vehicles on residential property is on Monday night's regular commission agenda on first reading. The matter has been discussed during a commission work session on Oct. 14, when the city manager was asked to prepare an

Running for Sanford mayor: Larry Blair

Editor's note: This is one in a series as the Herald continues profiling mayoral candidates in Sanford and Lake Mary.

By RUSS WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — If cats and dogs were eligible to vote, Larry Blair probably would be the pick of the litter in Sanford's mayoral race.

Several thousand kitties and puppies have had their day at Blair's Care-O-Sell Pet Palace, located at 407 W. 25th St. He's been their tender, loving groomer for 25 years — pet man to the neighborhood.

A frisky five-month old poodle named Sadie keeps Blair company at his pet palace, reluctantly sharing his affection with the visiting animals. Blair says it's only natural for Sadie to be jealous, and occasionally he just lets her pout it out on her own.

At 50, Blair has decided to make a pet project of the mayor's race, running for office for the first time. His campaign promise is that he will leave Sanford a better place than he found it.

"I've been here 25 years, and I love Sanford," he says. "It's a unique town and I see it growing enormously in the next few years. I'd be the kind of mayor who listened to the people and tried to do what they believe is right. I'd like to push for improving the lakefront, if that's what the people want."

Lake Mary candidates outline positions to voters in forum

By JEFF BERLINGO
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary candidate's forum at Timacuan, held Thursday night, Oct. 24, was more like a gathering of best friends than a heated political debate.

Few punches were thrown as the candidates basically reiterated their positions in front of a crowd of about 75 mostly-Timacuan residents.

The forum was the second in four nights but the first in which all candidates were present. Steve Weigel, running against incumbent Gary Brender for Seat 1, was absent from the first forum, held Monday, Oct. 21, at the Forest.

Each candidate was allowed to respond for 90 seconds to questions submitted by the audience. The order of respondents was the same all evening so candidates such as Weigel and Brender went first while mayoral candidates Myer Michael Burg and current deputy mayor David Mclear had at least 15 minutes to formulate their answers.

The burning issues of the evening were pretty much the same as at the Forest forum: noise generated by the flight path of planes landing at the Orlando Sanford Airport, quality of life and rising stormwater levels, especially in Timacuan.

At the beginning, each candidate was allowed three minutes to make an opening comment. Weigel went first. A general manager at Red Lobster in Sanford, Weigel said he believes in regular town meetings.

"If there are problems, I need to come out here and talk about them," he said.

Brender was next and said his current regime is on the way to stronger directed growth, saying he knew how to best deal with the issue while maintaining a See Candidates, Page 8A

IN BRIEF

New park to open

DeBARY — The grand opening of Gemini Springs, a Volusia County park, will be today, Sunday, Oct. 27, beginning at noon, until 5 p.m.
 Located on Dirksen Road, west of Interstate-4 and east of U.S. Highway 17-92, the park officially will be dedicated with a ribbon cutting ceremony at 1:30 p.m. Other events include tours, games and activities, bands, exhibits food and crafters.
 Shuttle buses, provided by Voltran, will be running from the I-4 exit (#53) park and ride lot, from the Target shopping center in Orange City and from the Deltona Plaza on Deltona Boulevard. The shuttle ride and admission to the event is free.

MDA event moved

SANFORD — Because of an overwhelming response from the community, the MDA Halloween Lock Up, originally scheduled for Oct. 31 at Jake's Cafe in downtown Sanford, will be moved to the Lake Monroe Marina Hotel, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on the same date.
 For additional information regarding the MDA event, contact Stacey Sullivan, program coordinator, at 677-6665.

Spray recalled

The Solaris Group has called for the voluntary limited recall of Oriho Diazinon Plus insect spray. The recalled product comes in green plastic, one-pint containers, with lot codes: A31246M, A31276M and A31278M stamped in black ink on the back of the container below the label.
 Diazinon Plus is a concentrated insecticide that, when mixed with water in a hose-end or tank sprayer, is used outdoors to control bugs on flowers, shrubs, fruits, vegetables and lawns.
 Solaris said the recalled product lacks an emulsifier ingredient that enables it to mix thoroughly with water when diluted, and may result in an uneven application. As a result, the spray may not be effective in controlling insects. It could also leave a residue higher than allowable on fruits and vegetables. Consumption of unwashed fruits and vegetables with these high levels could possibly lead to temporary effects such as headaches and nausea.
 The company has not received any reports of consumer health problems at this time.
 Customers who believe they may have the recalled product are asked to phone the Oriho Consumer Helpline at 1-800-225-2883. The Solaris Group, a unit of Monsanto Company, will arrange for product return and refunds.

Legal aid money

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The Seminole County Bar Association Legal Aid Society in Altamonte Springs has been named as one of 38 agencies from throughout the state to receive grant money from The Florida Bar Foundation. The grants are funded by Florida's Interest on Trust Accounts program.
 The amount to be granted to the Seminole County facility is $65,008. Some legal aid organizations received a considerably higher amount, with Tallahassee's Legal Services office being granted over $1.3 million.
 Florida Bar Foundation President Stephen E. Day, a Jacksonville attorney said, "These grants help assure that the less fortunate in our society have access to the legal system to uphold their rights."
 Last year, this program was able to provide legal assistance to 121,000 low income Florida residents. Of those handled, 32 percent were family law, 18 percent concerned housing, 12 percent were income maintenance, 10 percent were consumer rights and 10 percent were consumer problems.

Spooktacular

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department will present a Halloween Spooktacular this Wednesday, Oct. 30, from 6:30 until 7:30 p.m., at the recreation department, 300 N. Park Avenue. The event is for all youngsters age 12 and under. Costumes are recommended with food, prizes and games planned. Admission is a canned good which will be distributed to those in need.

Idyllwild kids step back in time

By JEFF BERLANDONE
 Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Believe it or not, at Idyllwild Elementary School, first graders are being taught to paint all over the walls.

Their teachers even supply the paint and offer encouragement.
 It's all part of learning about prehistoric days. Students in Jana Katz' first grade class, with the help of art teacher Jeanne George, are getting hands on experience while learning about the ways of life for the first humans, millions of years ago.
 For first graders who are just starting the school year, they are a pretty knowledgeable bunch of kids.
 Quintel Barnes explained how prehistoric drawings were originally found inside caves.
 "Some little kids were playing with their dog and it went into one of the caves," Quintel said. "They chased the dog and found big animals drawn inside the cave."
 Classmate Aaron Torres added that the caves were found in France and Crystal Nace pointed out that most of the animals were long ago extinct. As their teachers teased out more questions to the students, nearly every hand in the class shot up with more information about the prehistoric days.
 After answering some questions, the kids got to show off their knowledge. Mrs. George wanted to give the kids some hands-on knowledge so she found an old corridor on the school grounds that used to be a hallway leading to a pod. The corridor is narrow and dark inside and looked like, well, a cave.
 "The minute I walked into this tunnel, I said 'this is a cave,'" Mrs. George said.
 She got permission to have the kids make their own prehistoric drawings on the cave walls and arranged for different colored paints that were very easily removable from young faces and hands.
 Recently, the kids traipsed into the cave and went to work, some drawing animals and others using their imaginations.
 Andrew Santorelli drew a bull.
 "I just thought that's what the cavemen would draw," he said.
 Andreas Johnson drew a horse and Iqitya

MacArthur drew a colorful boomerang.
 "This has been fun. I learned all about the cavemen," Iqitya said.
 Mrs. George said other projects like this are planned with the support of principal David Scott.

Hamilton kids on

Hamilton Elementary School in Sanford kicked off Nationwide Net Day Saturday with a carnival on campus. Students and community members were treated to games, food and fun, as well as informative information. While, student Chris Novak (bottom photo) was learning the importance of smoke detector batteries from Sanford Fire Inspector Tim Robles, school security officer Andre Redding, right, was getting soaked in the 'Push-em' game. BellSouth donated services to wire the school computers in the spirit of President Clinton's wish that schools nationwide should have access to the Internet.

The way we were: Last chapter in hospital association saga

I'm sure that some of you will be relieved to know that this is the final chapter in the saga of the Fernald Laughton Memorial Hospital. I have thoroughly enjoyed researching and writing this and hope you have enjoyed reading it.
 There were no minutes saved for the annual meetings of 1954 or 1955, so we come to the final meeting of the association held September 10, 1956.

 Members of the association who attended this last meeting were: Mrs. W.E. Baker, Mrs. R.M. Ball, Mrs. Charles H. Cole, Mrs. Gertrude Gilbert, Mrs. Philip Marz, Mrs. A.J. Peterson, Mrs. F.E. Rounhill, Mrs. H.W. Rucker, Mrs. Ruth Scott, Mrs. J.E. Spurling, and Mrs. R.E. True.

Also T.E. Tucker, president; T.W. Lawton, president emeritus; Andrew Caraway; Randall Chase; H.H. Coleman; Sanford Doudney; Joel S. Field; Gordon Frederick; Rev. Richard Lyons; John W. Meish; W.B. Miller; E.J. Moughton, Jr.; A.B. Peterson, Sr.; H.B. Pope; R.W. Ruprecht; A.E. Shinholser; Ralph A. Smith; George Touhy; F. Hasky Wight; and Fred R. Wilson.

Seminole Memorial Hospital had begun operations on January 25, 1956. Randall Chase, who had continued as chairman of the executive committee, reported that there was approximately $19,000 on hand to pass on to the Seminole Memorial Hospital and also about $7,000 in notes from the Rhoda B. Ewing Estate. All bills had been paid, most accounts collected and old bills had been written off.

 A long resolution was adopted which provided for the transfer of assets of the association to the board of trustees of the Seminole County Public Hospital, designated as Seminole Memorial Hospital. The conditions remained that the name Fernald

The vehicle he was said to be driving, identified in the sheriff's report as a 1981 Mitsubishi, was reported stolen an hour earlier from the parking lot of Sam's Wholesale Store in Cassiberry. Singleton has been charged with grand theft auto, burglary to a conveyance, and driving with a suspended license.

Oviedo police are also investigating Singleton in connection with the shooting of two persons, one of whom was killed.

As they were questioning Wynn, said to have been the driver, they said he fled on foot. He was subsequently located at Edward Higgins Terrace.

He was charged with possession of cocaine (HCL) with intent to sell or deliver, possession of cocaine (base) with intent to sell or deliver, and resisting an officer without violence.

Smoke detectors and time change

By STEPHEN J. WILSON
Sanford Fire Department

An average of three children a day, approximately 1,100 children under the age of 15, die each year in house fires. Ninety percent of fire deaths involving children occur in homes without smoke detectors. Sadly, many of these tragic deaths could be avoided with a working smoke detector.

To help parents, guardians and children in our community we have joined forces with the International Association of Fire Chiefs and Energizer brand batteries to encourage children and their parents to adopt a simple habit that could save their lives. Change smoke detector batteries each fall when turning the clocks back to standard time.

Although 93 percent of American homes have smoke detectors, nearly one-third don't work because of missing batteries. With the early warning that a working smoke detector can provide, residents stand a much greater chance of escaping to safety. In fact, a working smoke detector cuts the risk of dying in a home fire nearly in half.

Clocks should have been turned back at 2 a.m. this morning. If you haven't done it yet, do it now and take an extra minute to install fresh batteries in your smoke detectors. Then push the test button on the smoke detector to make sure the device are working.

We recommended that families also plan two escape routes from their homes and practice them regularly. It's a good idea to preassemble a fire safety kit, including a working flashlight, fresh batteries, important phone numbers, and supply of cash.

Remember, a smoke detector is a family's best defense against fire. Keep it in top working condition with an annual battery change. You never know when you'll need it most.

Pedestrian struck and killed by truck

By ROGER HANNAH

OVIEDO -- A Geneva woman was struck and killed by a pick-up truck Thursday evening after she tried to cross State Road 426.

Nora L. Howell, 53, of 1406 Swamp Lane Road, Geneva, was pronounced dead at Orlando Regional Medical Center at 11:18 p.m. Thursday night by a physician at the hospital.

According to Florida Highway Patrol Trooper Cpl. P.C. Wright, the accident occurred at approximately 7:30 p.m. when Howell tried to run across the roadway.

Witnesses at the scene told troopers one vehicle was able to stop. However, a 1986 Chevy pick-up, driven by Robert T. Allen, 20, of Winter Springs, was not.

Allen took evasive action, slammed on the brakes, but still hit Howell.

Allen's pick-up slid onto a concrete median. The pedestrian was knocked several feet, landing in the passing lane of east-bound 426.

Allen was uninjured in the crash, as was his passenger Charles DeNave, 19, also of Winter Springs.

Initially, troopers said they did not believe alcohol was a factor in the accident. However, Cpl. Wright subsequently said that would not be determined until the investigation is completed.

As of Saturday, no charges had been filed.

life and to establish a healthy business environment.

To establish a better business environment, he said he would establish a small business council to make for more homegrown corporations. To do so would be to target more monies into the Lake Mary infrastructure, he said.

Forner also disagreed with Brender's assertion that the quality of water was better than in the past 25 years as the reduction in orange groves had reduced chemicals going into the water.

The final candidate for Seat 3 was Linda Mylrea-Morris, a self-employed manufacturer of Paradise Pepper Sauce. Already involved in the Lake Mary Boulevard beautification project, she also promised to maintain the high quality of life in the city and to work on flood improvements.

Mylrea-Morris asserted that there was a limited amount of space left for commercial development in Lake Mary. She offered two choices: establish economic incentives to maintain low millage rates or to raise taxes.

Mealor led off in comments for the mayoral race. Mealor already has the endorsement of outgoing mayor Lowry Rockett and is a longtime active member of the community.

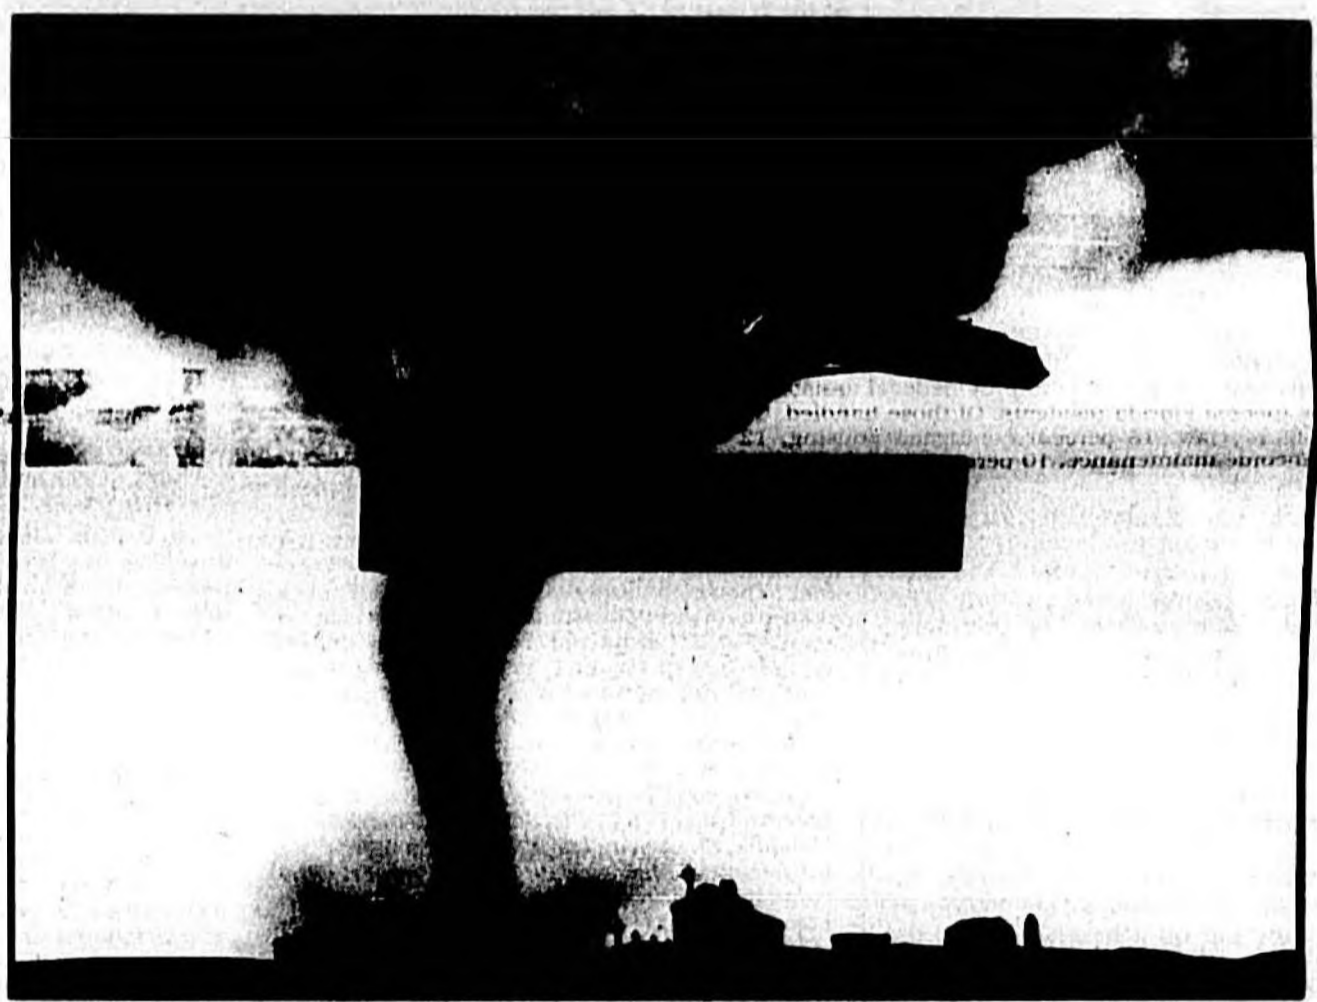

"We are a city of superlatives," he said. "We have a commitment to the best quality of life."

Mealor said he would establish several criteria for corporate incentives to refute the charges of corporate welfare that Burg has offered. Among those would be to offer incentives only if a corporation offered a certain amount of new jobs as well as a specific allotment for capital improvements.

Burg, always critical of the current administration, was the last to speak for the evening's rotation. He used most of his time to attack Rockett and claimed he would be a different type of mayor.

"Politicians only tell you what they want you to know and what they want you to hear," he said. "I'm not a politician."

He also charged, "We don't need Sanford's water." Burg said a quick way to come up with a quick money flow would be to reduce the salary paid to city manager John Little which currently sits at just over $70,000 annually. Burg said he would move that money into the city's lakes and senior citizen funding.

The two-clerk ordinance

We believe a letter submitted to the Sanford mayor and members of the city commission is worthy of public publication. Scheduled for Monday evening's city commission meeting, the matter is now public record, and we hereby include it.

"I am writing to you requesting that I may be put on one of the upcoming agendas. It is regarding the law which was passed for the convenience stores. I would, as do others, like to include all franchisees and any other stores who have one person opening or closing, especially stores which carry money.

My niece, who is 19 years of age and is a mother of a three-year-old, was robbed Oct. 10 at 1:05 a.m. She was alone. She tried to push the alarm and it did not work because it was not re-set from the time they were last robbed, three years ago.

Lucky for us, we are not having to mourn the loss of a life. We were lucky. But there are others who might not be.

We would like to try to avoid these situations for other people who might have a loved one working in a similar place.

The lighting at her work place which is here in Sanford was poor. There are no lights in either front or the back where the garbage must be taken. Also, the camera did not pick up anything because the manager failed to put the television back on the correct channel.

We should not have to worry about going to work and wondering whether or not we're going to make it home.

We would like to request that convenience stores as well as the franchise and other stores have two people on, no matter the time of day and also at night.

We also would like a committee or something be set up to ensure us that every safety precaution is being taken to make the employee as safe as possible while at work. The employer is not looking out for us, therefore, it is up to us to do something about it. I hope I have your support."

This letter says a great deal.

First of all, while there is a law regarding having two clerks in a convenience store during late-night hours, almost any one of us who has ever gone into one knows there are many other times when only one clerk is on hand because the other has either "recently quit," has gone "out on a break," or "in the back room getting the stock ready for tomorrow morning."

Yet we have hardly ever seen any citations handed down because of a violation of the two-clerk ordinance, even when there has been a crime committed. There always appears to be some excuse.

Yes, we agree completely with this person. We believe any store open at night or early morning should have two clerks on hand at all times, and visible within the store, not out back having a smoke.

Check the crime reports in the Sanford Herald. Convenience store and other store robberies in the late hours are not uncommon. If we add drive-away gas purchases, they may rate third only to residential burglaries and vehicular burglaries.

We hope not only the city of Sanford, but all of Seminole County and the entire state of Florida will be more concerned over this problem than has been indicated by their actions (or lack thereof) in the past.

Making sense of the sugar tax vote

A penny a pound, more ink, air time and hand wringing have been devoted to the support of or opposition to Proposition 4, than any other issue on the ballot, including the presidential election. No one in this state can turn a channel on their local television networks or flip a page in their local newspaper without being harassed and intruded upon by either the proponents or opponents of Proposition 4. Various actors, carpet baggers, snake oil salesmen, and others appear or are quoted on a regular basis to decry the atrociousness of the tax, or to lambast its opponents. The facts surrounding the merits of the Proposition have been obscured by all the rhetoric. For a penny a pound, Proposition 4 is not as simplistic as its slogan, nor as draconian and over-reaching as its proponents have declared.

The fight over the effort to levy this tax/fee, is as illuminating as the argument against its imposition is disingenuous. To listen to the opponents of Proposition 4, it will both destroy the sugar industry in this state, by putting thousands of small sugar cane farmers out of business, and destroy thousands of precious good jobs in the sugar industry for hard-working Floridians. This appeal has become especially vulgar in certain targeted communities as the aforementioned carpet baggers, snake oil salesmen, and others line their pockets while acting as spokesmen for an industry who's disregard for the environment is only exceeded by its disregard for those who have to work the fields. Sure there are some small growers, but the industry is dominated by several large family clans. You see, sugar is the Texas tea of South Florida, and the sugar barons who run these enterprises are to family farms what Disney is to Flea World. That the sugar industry, or more accurately the family dynasties that comprise what we in Florida have come to know as Big

Seminole Opinion

JAMES SWEETING

Sugar, seeks to portray itself as either a collection of small family farmers in the classic Rockwellian sense, or a benevolent community-oriented industry is shameful. Jobs will not be lost because the industry would not be economically viable after the imposition of a penny a pound fee, but because the industry seeks to threaten the livelihood of its employees as extortion to persuade the voters of this state to tow their line. Sometimes you are able to judge the size of the dog in the fight by the amount of fight in the dog, and if you take a look at the campaign in opposition to Proposition 4, sugar is big dog in this state.

We must observe two fundamental givens of modern public perception to view the merits of Proposition 4 clinically. First, the only good tax/fee is a repealed one. Second, government is evil when it compels a citizen to pay for services for which he or she does not directly benefit from. Fee or tax, whatever you call it, Proposition 4 is a method for the government of the State of Florida to raise revenue. Money will go out of private pockets and into public coffers. Another billion for the bureaucrats may be overstatement, but there is no denying that this is a tax, and someone is going to pay it. However, the destruction of the Everglades is a tax also. See if I make money by destroying my property, it is one thing. But when I, while destroying my own property, ruin the property of my neighbors, then I am expected to pay for it. This fact particularly holds true when the destruction occurs while I am in the process of lining my own pocket. If nothing is done to preserve or protect the Everglades, then we all suffer a tax, in that the environmental resource is lost to us presently and in the future, and the continuing opportunity cost associated with the destruction of the Everglades, and the water table in South Florida is astronomical. To do nothing is so short-sighted that it is simply no longer a viable option.

We are left with three options: tax the production, tax the general population of the State of Florida, lose the resource. The first option is the only fair option: those who use the resource and those who damage the resource should pay for it. Sugar production is no different from any other industry or individual and should be required to pay for the mess that it has contributed to. Great wealth has been created for a very select few in cane fields of South Florida, on the backs of thousands of farm workers. It would be a crime to preserve that wealth on the backs of the taxpayers who contribute to the general revenue of the state. For if the Proposition does not pass, then the funds for the restoration must come from all of our pockets, if it is to happen at all. And if it does not happen, then in our short-sightedness and desire to maintain the wealth of a privileged few, we have destroyed a resource for generations. It is undemocratic, for the taxes of the masses to preserve the wealth of the few, and it's simply foolish to sacrifice a resource as great as the Everglades to preserve that wealth.

Police deserved raise

I was present at the city commission meeting that took place on Monday, October 14, 1986. As a well informed concerned citizen, I would like to express a few thoughts about the meeting that addressed the interpretation of the Fraternal Order of Police's union contract with the city concerning pay raises. The attorney for the city repeatedly pressed home the point that Sanford's police officers were being treated no differently than all other city employees when the concern over a pay increase was being considered.

One of the most important values that my parents convicted me of was to stand up strong for your beliefs. They taught me that a man should put his time, money and efforts into those ideals to which he is committed. To call that sleazy and lacking any semblance to Christian values puzzles me.

It is little wonder that a lot of people are unwilling to get involved in the political process of our great country. For a person to take a stand publicly and then be called names by the local newspaper is hardly my idea of encouraging community involvement.

Another issue that was discussed was making our officers back down from the grade step they had achieved through merit. Is this another example of how well the city plans? If I recall correctly, the last raise our officers did receive was taken back by the city after a few short months. Who received that money? Where did it go? Now you want the officers' earned merit grades! What incentive is there for our officers to continue to do an outstanding job? What more do you plan to take from them?

Thank goodness this is an election year and a few of the commission seats are up for re-election. Mayor too. Maybe some new people can give Sanford some new and better management possibilities. Shame on you Mayor Smith. Shame on you Commissioners Thomas and Eckstein. You could not have done your homework very well if you think the job of a police officer and the other city employees should be compared! For the money you spent on attorney fees to keep from giving our officers a pay raise you could have given them the much deserved and over due raise.

I appeal to all the citizens of Sanford to come out and vote in this election year. Let us ban together and vote for new and better people who understand the job our officers are faced with every day. These new people will also be able to understand that the officers' pay has been behind for years.

Reply to story

I take great exception to your editorial of October 13, 1986 wherein you criticized me and my family for contributing to the Unified Christians of Central Florida. My family and I thought that the candidates endorsed by this group were more closely aligned to our values than the candidate endorsed by any other group.

It is little wonder that a lot of people are unwilling to get involved in the political process of our great country. For a person to take a stand publicly and then be called names by the local newspaper is hardly my idea of encouraging community involvement.

Editor's note: We agree with Mr. Dale that a man (or woman) should stand up and speak out for what he or she believes in. Unfortunately, Mr. Dale did not stand up, but stood behind the hastily formed Unified Christians, a Political Action Committee whose express mission was to re-elect county Commissioner Daryl McLain. When pundits claimed the race was too close to call, and theorized the vote might be decided by the conservative Christian voters, a handful of powerful Republicans, including Dale, hatched the brilliant scheme to confuse that voting block. The Unified Christians' endorsement was confused with that of the 10-year-old group United Christians, who endorsed McLain's opponent in the runoff, Paul Lovstrand.

If Mr. Dale believes as he says in standing up for his beliefs, we might suggest next time he do it in his own name. Send out a flyer that might read, "Hi, I'm Larry Dale and I'd like to tell you about my conservative Christian friend and candidate, Daryl McLain."

One would have thought that McLain would have gotten the message when he was voted out as a commissioner and I can tell you that voters sure don't want him for mayor.

People should remember that McLain is one of the chief reasons that Sanford is in the mess it is now. Don't forget that he wanted the city to give him free lifetime health insurance. The only thing motivating him to run now is his ego.

McClanahan is the driving force behind the problems that are plaguing the police department.

We need new and younger blood in the city government, not his stale ideas.

Not the guy for the job

Having read in the paper about mayoral candidate A.A. Mac McClanahan's exploits with Ernest Hemingway some 50-odd years ago, I'm sure that in his mind it happened that way. I'm sure that McClanahan owes his wife since she undoubtedly saved him from getting one of the worst butt-kickings of his life. Everyone knows who knows anything about Hemingway that he was an excellent boxer.

One would have thought that McLain would have gotten the message when he was voted out as a commissioner and I can tell you that voters sure don't want him for mayor.

On a recent Sunday, your paper posed a pregnant question: "Who profits if the county keeps the Economic Incentive Plan in the budget." Whether or not to continue paying corporations to locate in Sanford is a Seminole County is a political decision involving expenditure of taxpayer money. Politics has to do with the distribution of advantages and disadvantages of profit and loss, if you will. Before listing who profits and who loses if this plan is kept in the budget, I would like to give it a more appropriate name. "Corporate Give-Away Plan" is better than either Corporate Incentive Plan or Corporate Welfare Plan. I think. Incentive or welfare payments from government coffers should not be needed by corporations with healthy bottom lines.

In my opinion, those who will profit from the so-called Economic Incentive Plan (as kept in the county budget) are: (1) corporate officers and stockholders; (2) Economic Incentive Plan employees; and (3) cities receiving county funds to subsidize their own giveaway plans. County taxpayers who have already lost $2,500,000 diverted from much-needed county services or possible tax relief can expect to lose more if this corporate giveaway plan is continued.

Toll roads

I have proposed several times, that in conjunction with the building of new roads, that we make good use of the Bee Line, Green Belt, (toll roads) etc. The tolls on these roads should be reduced, eliminated, or subsidized by a portion of our road improvement revenues to help reduce the impact on our predominantly residential streets and roads. Alternative routes are now being taken because of these costs. If we were to lower the tolls providing access via an E-Pass and a $25 flat fee per month for those who choose to use these roads on a regular basis, I believe we would reduce the traffic on our city and county roads. There is a great number of people working in Orlando and south of the city in the tourist areas, at least 10,000 to 15,000, that simply cannot afford what amounts to $60 to $80 a month to use the toll roads to get to and from work. This, I believe is a major contributing factor in our road problems. It does not make sense to build new roads within the cities and counties that are in a large part the alternate routes for these people to get to and from work. Common sense would tell you that we could get traffic off the now congested roadways by using roads that are not being used to the degree that they could be used. Certainly at the very least, it would reduce traffic on the city and county roads that we are expanding to six, seven and eight lanes. The Green Belt is a wonderful example of wasted, virtually under-used roadway paid for by the taxpayers who need access to it, but cannot afford the costs.

Now in order to make these roads available, we need a cooperative venture between the cities, counties and roadway authorities. As taxpayers, we should demand that this concept at least be tried for a period of one year. I think that you will find that this will reduce congestion on city and county roads. It will increase revenues on the toll roads and it may end up costing us nothing or very little. A portion of the road tax revenues could be used if we went the way of a subsidy. I believe the taxpayers would certainly be in favor of using a small portion of those monies to try a program of this nature. With cooperation, this concept could be put into effect within a very short time period. Let's put these roads to use.

In checking further, I have found out that some people are actually paying close to $1,000 a month (monthly) to use these toll roads--from the Oviedo area and beyond.

he collapsed. Downtown Sanford is a paradox of charm, nostalgia, beauty and danger. Joggers breathe the early morning lakefront air, pounding the pavement by Lake Monroe, where prostitutes also roam, and are routinely arrested.

Just how bad is crime downtown? And what do residents think should be done about it?

To some shopkeepers in the downtown Sanford historic commercial district, crime is simply out of hand, but to others, it is simply a risk of doing business.

Dorothy Daniels has operated Main Street Antiques on First Street for three years. She said she has been frustrated by not only the crime, but also the lack of police protection she has received in the area.

Prior to opening her shop here, she said, she had operated an antique store on Ivanhoe Row (a group of exclusive antique stores north of downtown Orlando on Orange Avenue).

"I never had any problems there, but it has been trouble here since the beginning," she noted.

Daniels said she has had her purse stolen from behind the counter at the store on two occasions, she has had small items pilfered from the shelf and she has had to lock up all items of value.

"It has been very discouraging," she said. "I have thefts every day here."

She said she came to Sanford because she thought it would be "the next Mount Dora," but she has become disenchanted with the city and plans to close up shop after Christmas.

Daniels said there are simply not enough police officers to protect the downtown area. She can not, she said, afford to hire her own security personnel for the store.

Claudia Webber, the Sanford Police officer assigned to police the downtown area, is doing a fine job, Daniels said, but she can only be one place.

"If you call and she's handling an accident, she just can't be here too," Daniels said.

A short distance away Rose Ann England operates Sanford Antiques.

She, too, has had her purse stolen from the store on two occasions and small items have been pilfered on a regular basis.

"But, for goodness sake," she said, "that would happen anywhere."

England said the downtown area is "wonderful" and she finds nothing wrong with the services of the police department when problems do arise.

"I don't have any reason to think this area is any different than anywhere else," England noted. "I think no matter where you put a store, there are going to be people who are going to commit crimes."

England, whose shop has been here in Sanford for seven years has no plans to go anywhere. As a matter of fact, she said, things seem to be improving.

"It used to be that we had a lot of problems with transients who would come onto the property and do a lot of vandalism," she noted.

"But the city has done so much to move them out of the area that we don't have that problem any more."

Cmdr. Dennis Whitmire of the Sanford Police Department said he has not noticed an increase in criminal activity in the downtown area. He said that things seem to be improving.

"I don't see things getting anything but better," he said.

Whitmire noted that shopkeepers could prevent much of the crime in their stores by taking some preventative action.

He suggested that purses be locked up and that items be arranged for display in a manner that makes it easier for shopkeepers to keep a better eye on the merchandise.

"Sometimes shop owners can be their own worst victims," Whitmire said. "They have to take some steps to prevent crime before it happens."

Still, Bob Kuhn, the founder of the Neighborhood Watch Program in the downtown area said there needs to be greater patrolling in the historic district and throughout the city of Sanford, but he feels the mayor and some members of the city commission fail to see the problem of crime as being as bad as it is.

"The mayor and the other powers that be in Sanford just don't seem to understand what we're up against," he noted.

Statistics provided by the FDLE show that Sanford is first in the county in nearly every category of crime.

According to the 1985 statistics (the most recent available), there were three murders, 39 incidents of rape, 170 robberies, 331 aggravated assaults, 806 burglaries, 1,498 incidents of larceny and 269 reported cases of auto theft.

Sanford was first in all but larceny and auto theft. The city ranked second in those categories.

The statistics also show that of the seven municipalities in Seminole County, Sanford's police officers are sixth in terms of their starting salary and fifth in terms of the maximum salary earned.

"That tells you something, doesn't it?" Kuhn asked.

Fred Rogers, who is one of the driving forces behind the renaissance of the Ritz Theatre downtown and who is converting a house at the corner of Third Street and Park Avenue into a bed and breakfast said that policing needs to be stepped up, but that bringing more activity to the downtown area would reduce crime.

"The more economic activity we have down there, the less crime there'll be," Rogers speculated.

He believes more resources need to be allocated for the police department.

Rogers said he believes the problem of crime is not an isolated one in Sanford and the increase in crime is not due to any problems within the law enforcement community here. The society in general is more violent, he noted, but the community has to find ways to deal with the changing mores.

Running away from the problem, he said, was not an option.

"We have a hidden gold mine here in Sanford," he said. "It should be marketed by the city and used by all of us. The city has to get more involved in fighting crime. We need to all get involved."

The trustees had erected and designated the easterly wing of the Seminole Memorial Hospital as the Fernald Laughton Memorial Wing at a cost of over $250,000. On the south wall of the east wing of the first floor was a bronze plaque inscribed with the words "In Grateful Memory to George H. Fernald, Mabel L. Fernald, Eliza J. Laughton who assisted in establishment of the Fernald Laughton Memorial Hospital, 1919-1955".

After the president and secretary were given the authorization to conduct any other items of business, the meeting was adjourned. Thus passed into history the Fernald Laughton Memorial Hospital Association and a new era was begun as Seminole Memorial Hospital, located at 1101 E. First Street. This county hospital was operated until the opening of Central Florida Regional Hospital in 1982 now known as Columbia Healthcare Center.

ordinance for consideration.

Ordinance 3917 says in part,

"Upon request by the owner of the recreational vehicle and the owner of the residential property, the city manager shall have the authority to grant permission for a recreational vehicle parked on a residential property to be occupied, with appropriate conditions and stipulations."

There will be a time limit of no longer than 21 days per calendar year, per residential property, either at one time, or non-consecutively.

The 21 day limit is already in effect, but City Manager Bill Simmons said a new proposed ordinance has some changes.

"The original ordinance was for a one time only permit," he said. "Which means that if someone comes and stays in their vehicle for only 24 hours, they have used up their rights for the whole calendar year. With this change, there can be a few days here, and a few days then until it adds up to a total of 21 days."

Simmons said the other point in the new proposed ordinance requires approval be asked by both the RV owner and the property owner. "That would prevent an RV owner from moving from place to place during a year, and in effect, getting around the ordinance. It would also prevent a property owner from having one RV after another on their land for long periods of time. Both persons have to ask for this approval."

Another matter scheduled on the agenda, but only for discussion during the work session, is the oft-discussed curfew ordinance being proposed for Sanford.

One of the questions to be answered was whether the curfew would be placed in just specific areas such as those around public housing or in downtown Sanford, or city wide, or under some other determination.

Also questioned was where violators who are apprehended by police would be taken, or how they would be handled.

Still another matter back for consideration, is what to do about the Sanford Memorial Stadium. While most of the commissioners agree that the stadium is a valuable part of the city's history, the question is whether the cost of putting it back into condition, repairing unsafe construction, and relighting the facility, would be worth the amount suggested to be spent, slightly under $1.2 million.

There will also be another in a series of requests for economic development incentive money. This time, it is for Florida Extruders. At the first commission work session this month, on Oct. 14, Mobilite/Invacare's application for incentive money was considered.

Also back for more discussion is the advertising of the charter referendum for the city, to be included in the Nov. 5, 1986 general election.

The work session this Monday will begin at 4 p.m. in the city manager's conference room on the second floor.

The regular meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the commission chambers of Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue.

●Alaqua, a country club community, will unveil plans later this month for six new luxury estate homes costing upwards of $1 million each. The announcement was made by Stirling International Realty Partner Roger Soderstrom. Six of Central Florida's most experienced custom home builders have been selected to participate in the Signature Collection, which will go on display the end of this month at the Alaqua Sales Center.

New homes: A site for strong eyes

By DAVID BYRNES
Special to the Herald

The most difficult and time-consuming task in production home-building is the selection and acquisition of appropriate sites. Site selection is perhaps the only task that can singularly make or break a development, and poor site selection has led to the downfall of more than one homebuilder whose work otherwise evidenced exemplary quality.

Selection of appropriate home building sites is dependent on a number of factors, not the least of which is the market segment(s) the builder intends to target. The reputation of the local school district for example, would be of less importance to a builder of retirement or resort communities than fire, police protection, and healthcare systems.

Over the past 20 years, public education has become a dominant element in the home purchase decision of young families. The public school district is even more important to entry-level buyers who are proportionately more inclined toward public schools than, for example, buyers of luxury homes who might better afford private schooling for their children.

Pricing is the paramount issue in determining whether a site is feasible and all pricing is based on timing. In Florida especially, sustained growth has boosted property value with such predictable pace that equity growth has achieved parity with the American Dream of home ownership.

Indeed, today's overpriced parcel may well be the deal of the century in eight to 10 years, but our own site selection priorities are more immediate.

Development access was the third and final significant factor in the Timacuan acquisition. Frequently, we acquire sites for residential development based on our projections of the time it will take for residential development to receive approvals from the various governing boards, whether it is local planning and zoning board or a full-scale development of regional impact.

home sites in Timacuan in north Seminole County and expects to close on them by November.

Byrnes concludes "In the Timacuan acquisition, we were able to purchase a significant number of lots in an upscale, well-maintained country club community. We acquired small lots, many of them only 50 feet wide, on which we can build homes priced in the low $100,000s." He predicts the homes will be a significant part in the housing in the Lake Mary area.

NOTE: In observing how builders seek out sites for new development, Byrnes cites the Timacuan area as among some of his company's finest examples of site selection. M/I Homes is working on a land deal for 89

85-year-old Harper Mechanical expands into numerous markets

By SUSAN BLEXNID
Special to the Herald

SANFORD — While there have been many brief items presented in the Sanford Herald business pages about Harper Mechanical Corporation, the business, while performing outstanding projects, appears to remain little known to many Sanford residents.

Harper Mechanical Corporation, 5401 Benchmark Lane in Sanford, has been in business since 1911 and was a major player for many years in the defense industry. In fact, Harper's distinct and pervasive work at Cape Canaveral became so recognizable that "Harper fittings" was a term coined by defense contractors to describe one of the company's techniques.

Today, the company is fueled by a new management team that realized an emphasis on defense contracts offered little stability to the company. Harper is now focusing on commercial/ design-build work and is seeking negotiated rather than bid prices.

Harper continues to deliver high-tech performance to Cape Canaveral, but now its future is based on a wide range of projects in numerous market segments.

Some of Harper's recent customers include Embry Riddle Aeronautical University, Alamo Rent-A-Car, and phase three of the Orlando/Orange County Convention & Civic Center.

Work is currently in progress at the new Orlando Science Center and the Florida Hospital Walt Disney Memorial Cancer Institute.

Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Numerous individuals will gather Monday at Black Bear Golf Course in Eustis to participate in a fund-raiser for the ACCEPT Pregnancy Center in Longwood. The event was scheduled to raise funds to assist in operations of the facility.

Helping is good business

CBIS (Cincinnati Bell Information Systems, Inc.), recently sponsored 'Community Action Day'. Approximately 150 employees from the business, located in the Heathrow International Business Center, volunteered on six different projects, benefitting organizations in the Sanford/Geneva area. One of the projects involved helping Habitat for Humanity during its 'Blitz Build' of two houses on Pine Avenue in Sanford. One is the home of Janie Mae Galloway (front right, by banner).

Twenty-eight CBIS employees, including Jeff Karakoosh (center) and Karen Williams (right) assisted other Habitat volunteers in painting and roofing. Fifteen gallons of paint, 1,000 roofing nails and 250 shingles were used; 80 tiles were set and 200 pounds of construction garbage was removed from the site. This is the first home for Galloway, who has three children.

At the same time, teachers benefited from the technological background of CBIS employees Alicia Bowers (seated, right) and R. James Reichard (standing, center background) in a teach-the-teachers workshop held at Goldsboro Elementary. The workshop included a session on technology for the future and exercises for learning reinforcement.

Blair

It's important we focus on what's the biggest need. We have to set our priorities and work together on them."

A slender man with blue eyes and an ample supply of steel grey hair, Blair appears to be quite comfortable in his own life. He and Ellen Blair have been married three years. He has a 20-year-old daughter from a previous marriage.

A couple of years ago he won a state liquor license and invested in a Sanford bar named Stoooges. He says it is a long-term investment, allowing a few extra dollars for retirement. "I sort of fell into it," he says.

Even before he entered the mayoral race, Blair was a familiar face at city commission meetings, keeping a watchful eye on the business aspects of Sanford. He says he wants to be sure the city does all it can to enhance the efforts of the big and small business man. "We've got to encourage not discourage, reach out to not turn away from businesses," he said.

It ruffles Blair that there are some terrific business opportunities in the heart of town, vacant business properties only a block away from the city library. "If we offer the proper incentives we can help a lot of folks get into business right now - using some of these vacant lots."

Blair is past chairman and current member of the Seminole County Housing Authority and a past president of the Sanford Jaycees and Daybreakers Toastmasters. He is a current member of the Sanford Sunrise Kiwanis.

He collects old-fashioned radios and often tunes in a handsome 1938 Zenith floor model to listen to music as he grooms the pets of the city.

Blair says he is grooming Sadie, the poodle, for appearances in fashion shows. Sadie succeeds the late and great Bonnie, who was Blair's fashion poodle for 14 years until she passed into dog heaven.

Meanwhile, Blair is grooming himself to be mayor of Sanford.

Bats

Anyway, 16-year-old Brandon Willis had a plan to rid the area of the bugs. Brandon lives in Sanford and is a boy scout in Troop 854 at Holy Cross Lutheran Church in Lake Mary, where he is going after Eagle Scout status. To achieve that, a scout must show leadership abilities by creating a community-related project and have it approved by a board.

While Brandon was trying to come up with an idea, Terry Diedrich, Activities Coordinator for the Lake Mary Parks and Recreation Department, was battling the bug problem.

Brandon then remembered learning in sixth grade that bats eat up to 500 insects an hour and came up with a plan to build bat houses in the trees around the ball fields.

"Bats naturally prey on mosquitoes and we saw some of them in the area," Brandon said. "We decided to design a place for them to live."

There are now about 10 bat houses in the area and Brandon made a sign for everyone to read at the park, explaining that the bats were welcome to control the insect problem. It also indicates that they cause no harm to humans.

Instead of putting together a car wash, Brandon took his plan to local businesses. He got contributions, including a large one from Don Willis Air Conditioning and Julie Bolton, a private citizen. Brandon may have gotten financial help but he has run the whole show by himself.

The project is just the beginning for Brandon. He is a student at Seminole Christian Trinity and wants to chase a degree in environmental work when he gets to college.

Bribery

But he wore the transmitter and went to the meeting anyway. Police tape recorded the meeting, during which Currie gave Howell an additional $200.

Following the meeting, police charged Currie, 47, with bribery and booked him into the John E. Folk Correctional Facility on a $1,000 bond.

Howell was one of three commissioners who initially rejected the nightclub's request for a zoning variance which would have allowed the nightclub to sell liquor at its 2491 Park Avenue location. Currently the club serves only beer and wine.

Under the city's zoning ordinance, the nightclub would not have been allowed to sell liquor because of its proximity to nearby churches. The variance would have allowed the sale of alcoholic beverages.

Mayoral candidate Larry Blair joined Currie last week in requesting Howell review the variance request to allow liquor. Blair is Currie's partner in some real estate ventures including the night club, Stoooges. The liquor license for Stoooges was issued in Blair's name by the State of Florida.

"The sad thing is, I had already told them I would support the idea," Howell said. "I will support the idea because I believe in it. But you are talking bribery and I'm not going to be a part of it."

When contacted Friday, Blair said he was shocked by Currie's arrest because he understood from the discussion with Howell that Howell would vote for the liquor license.

"I thought he was supporting us. I'm blown away by this charge. I don't know anything about it to comment on it," he said.

Blair's statement was backed up by Currie, who told police Friday that Blair was not a party to the attempted bribery.

Currie also told police he was uncomfortable about giving Howell the money, but said he did it because he heard that's how the Sanford City Commission operated.

Howell has denied ever accepting a bribe.

"You're talking about bribery and I'm not going to be a part of it," he said.

On Friday, it was unclear what impact Currie's arrest would have on his teaching career.

Business: What in the world is a USP?

Small Business

Wayne Hardy

What in the world is a U.S.P.? And how does it relate to my business? Well, the letters stand for "Unique Selling Proposition". It is one of those concepts that sound so simple when we hear it, but most of us fail to realize it's power. It is a single, unique benefit or promise that your business claims or gives to the consumer. This benefit or claim differentiates you from your competition. It is one of the most effective ways a small business owner can stand out from the crowd and compete against all.

What do I mean? Ask yourself about the most dominate retailer of the 20th Century, what was their U.S.P.? Does the phrase "Satisfaction Guaranteed or Your Money Back" bring back memories? How many of us even today buy only Craftsman Tools? We do this because we know if they break, they will be replaced, no questions asked.

I know what you're thinking right now. I satisfy my customers complaints, and I handle their product claims. But that is on the back end of the transaction. What about the front end? Do you publicize your policies and do they set you apart?

I heard a story today about a drain service contractor located in the western states. The owner stepped back and looked at his business from his customer's point of view. He discovered that he was just one of the pack in a crowded marketplace. So he asked himself what could his company do that would be unique and set him apart from the rest. The idea that emerged was to set up service appointments that were guaranteed. The policy that he developed and featured in all of their ads was very simple. It simply said that if we are more than one minute late for our appointment we will deduct $15.00 from our fee. If we are more than 15 minutes late, the service call is free. Imagine you are a homeowner with a backed up drain and you have to take off from work to get it fixed. Do you think you care if the company you called is the most expensive in the area. What you really care about is getting the problem fixed with a minimum of disruption to your life. What kind of reaction are you going to have to this company when it shows up on time. Guess what, when they show up, the service tech literally rolls out the red carpet so that his boots and activities don't disturb your carpet. If he does cause any mess that the company-supplied vacuum can't remove, the carpet cleaning is free. What kind of referrals do you think they receive? Needless to say they dominate the market and don't look back. Does this policy cost them sometimes? Sure, but look at what they gained. ## TAKE BACK OUR CITY

★ ELECT DEAN RAY ★

FOR MAYOR CITY OF SANFORD

Dear Fellow Citizens,
As promised, I am continuing to keep you informed as the race for Mayor here in Sanford heats up. The past few weeks have given me the pleasure to meet many of you and listen to your concerns about our city. We have discussed many issues, from drugs to schools, and taxes to roads. It has been a great joy for me to realize how interested many citizens are about city affairs. I sincerely hope that when Election Day arrives, you will consider me, Dean Ray, worthy of your support.

As you may have seen some new names and big money have entered the race. While I welcome the challenge of these new candidates, I do wonder where they have been. As examples of the typical politician, they now attend Neighborhood Watch meetings and other gatherings that they have shown little interest in prior to this election. As the race continues, whether you decide to vote for me or not, please remember that I have been in the trenches with you on a number of issues all along. Win, lose, or draw, I can assure you I will not abandon these issues or the city I love.

If you have any questions about these issues or any others, please don't hesitate to call me. Remember, every Sunday until the Election I will be discussing different issues in this section of the Herald. I look forward to meeting each and every one of you in the near future.

Sincerely,
Dean Ray

IN BRIEF

AROUND THE STATE

Florida St. 31, Virginia 24

LALLAHASSEE — Chad Busby passed for 316 yards and two touchdowns, and Warrick Dunn scored on a 65-yard run as third-ranked Florida State (8-0, 5-0) avenged its only ACC loss with a 31-24 victory over No. 11 Virginia on Saturday.

Busby had his best day as a starter, completing 25 of 36 passes, including TD passes to Wayne Messam and E.G. Green. Another scoring pass was negated by a holding call.

Last year, Virginia ended Florida State's 29-game Atlantic Coast Conference winning streak with a 33-28 win in Charlottesville.

On Saturday, Virginia (5-2, 3-2 ACC) scored with 2:43 left on a 21-yard pass from Tim Sherman to Germaine Crowell. The Cavaliers got the ball back with 1:30 left, but their hopes of another upset vanished when Sherman's fourth-down pass was picked off at midfield by Florida State's James Colzie.

Torre's brother gets heart

NEW YORK — New York Yankees manager Joe Torre had another reason to rejoice: His brother Frank underwent a long-awaited heart transplant.

Dr. Robert Michler, director of the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center's cardiac transplant service, said Torre would be able to watch television Saturday night as the Yankees try to win the World Series against the Braves.

On Thursday night, the Yankees, who had lost the first two games of the Series at home, beat the Braves for the third straight game in Atlanta.

Torre was matched with a donor's heart at 3 a.m. and the operation started at 8:30 a.m., taking four hours.

Frank Torre, 64, played from 1956-60 with Milwaukee Braves teams that won two National League pennants and one World Series. He retired in 1963 after two seasons with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Agreement to be announced?

NEW YORK — Negotiators for players and owners just about finalized the long-sought baseball labor agreement, then argued about when to announce it.

The players' association wants the deal announced immediately, before owners consider whether to ratify it, sources on both sides said.

Acting commissioner Bud Selig doesn't want an announcement until after owners meet to consider the contract, which if approved would end a labor war that has lasted nearly four years and included a 232-day strike that sharply decreased interest in the sport.

While players already have given their executive board the authority to conclude a deal, it's still unclear whether owners will approve the contract, which would ensure labor peace through the 2000 season.

Shula nominated for Hall

CANTON, Ohio — Don Shula, who retired as the winningest NFL coach in history with 347 victories, heads the list of those nominated for the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Shula, who won two Super Bowls in 34 seasons with the Baltimore Colts and Miami Dolphins, was among 10 nominees who are eligible for election for the first time.

Others include offensive linemen Jim Covert and Russ Grimm; defensive linemen Jerome Brown and Dexter Manley; linebackers Hugh Green, Matt Millen and Jerry Robinson; defensive back Deron Cherry; and placekicker Pat Leahy.

Former Cardinals and Chargers coach Don Coryell and Washington Redskins chairman of the board Jack Kent Cooke also were nominated.

Breakless in Satellite

Turnovers, questionable calls doom Tribe

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Editor

SATELLITE BEACH — The better team did not win this game.

Seminole High School dominated on both sides of the ball Friday night, but could not get the big break it needed as Satellite High School clinched the Class 5A District 6 championship with a 14-6 triumph over the Fighting Seminoles at the Percy L. Hedgerock Sports Complex.

Despite the loss, Seminole (2-5 overall, 2-2 in 5A-6) is very much alive for a spot in the state playoffs.

With Merritt Island's 21-0 blanking of Osceola Friday night, the Tribe and Kowboys have two losses in the district, while the Mustangs have only one loss. A Seminole victory over Merritt Island (Nov. 8 at home) and an Osceola victory over St. Cloud would force a three-way playoff. A Tribe win and a Kowboy loss, however, would put Seminole in the playoffs.

"The kids are working real hard and we've gotten a lot better," said Seminole head coach Eric McPherson. "But we shot ourselves in the foot too much in the first half. I also felt like the turnover in the second half when Shaun (quarterback Eason) got hurt was the turning point in the game. We're driving and we make a big turnover with our backup in the game."

"If we score there and tie the game, I think we win easily. We totally dominated both sides of the ball, but that one instance hurt us. But the kids played a good game and battled all the way. And hey, we're still alive for the playoffs, we just have to beat Merritt Island."

All three of the Tribe's possessions in the first quarter ended in turnovers, two fumbles and an interception, and the first one led to a Scorpions score.

Satellite took over on the Seminole 48 and seven plays later Rashard Daviston barreled in from the four-yard line. Rusty Rosen added the extra point.

The score would stay 7-0 until mid-way in the fourth quarter, but a lot of scoring opportunities were wasted or wiped out on calls by the Tribe.

Early in the second quarter, Satellite quarterback Alvin Hall fumbled after he was crushed on a massive hit by the Tribe defense and Steve Brown scooped up the ball and ran untouched into the end zone 87 yards away. But wait, a clipping penalty at least 40 yards behind the play negated the touchdown.

Seminole would fumble for the third time late in the first half, but the Tribe got the ball right back on a Scorpion fumble.

Three runs got the ball to the Seminole 49 and the Tribe went for the home run. Just as Tracey Bass was blowing past the Satellite defender he went down after an apparent trip and the flag was thrown. But amazingly, Bass was called for

LAKE MARY — Ugh!

Before a packed house at Don T. Reynolds Stadium on Homecoming night, Rams' running back Drew Young was named Homecoming King and, for the Rams, it all went downhill from there and got uglier and uglier.

The Rams lost 19-11 to an Edgewater team that was 2-4 entering the game and, for the first time all season, frustrations began to show both on and off the field.

All season, the Rams have played to their opponents' level, turning in their best outings in losses to Lake Howell and Oviedo and playing just well enough to get by lesser opponents.

Their luck ran out Friday night and spilled all over Edgewater which got the break of the year to tie the win.

'Poetic' ending keeps Pats in playoff hunt

By RYAN ANDERSON
Herald Correspondent

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — It seems almost poetic that the Lake Brantley Patriots come from behind victory over the previously undefeated Lake Howell Silver Hawks Friday night at Tom Storey Field came down to an extra point in overtime.

Poetic, that is, when one considers that the Patriots' failure to convert extra points during four quarters of regulation put them in the overtime situation.

In the end, the Patriots (4-2 overall, 2-1 in Class 6A-District 4) edged the Silver Hawks (6-1, 2-1 6A-4) 38-37 in a Kansas Tiebreaker, winning their Homecoming game, and, perhaps more importantly, staying alive in the district race.

If Lake Brantley beats Lake Mary on Nov. 8 they will clinch a tie for second place in the district race. If Oviedo beats Lake Howell on Nov. 15, then the Lions and Patriots will earn the state tournament berth. But if Lake Howell beats Oviedo, and Lake Brantley beats Lake Mary, there would be a three-team tie and force a playoff to decide the two representatives.

With the game tied at the end of regulation, Lake Howell started first in the Kansas Tiebreaker with first and goal on the 10-yard line. The Silver Hawks scored two plays later on a seven yard scamper by Travis Vinson. Victor Nespeca's point after attempt was blocked and the Patriots took over on downs, needing a touchdown to stay in the game.

Lake Brantley also needed just two plays to tie the game yet again, when Ryan Pagan barreled five yards for the score.

With the game tied, the pressure fell on the Patriot special teams.

more specifically, the pressure fell on Lake Brantley kicker Bart Linamen. Convert the extra point and Lake Brantley wins. Miss the extra point and start the overtime all over again.

Lake Brantley knew that the extra point was anything but a given, since the Patriots had difficulty converting extra point attempts during regulation. Lake Brantley converted just one of five opportunities during regulation (two blocked kicks, two failed running attempts).

From Staff Reports

OVIDO — Jaimie Scott ran for a pair of touchdowns and the Oviedo defense stopped a late Lyman drive as the Lions clinched a tie for the Class 6A-District 4 championship with a 21-14 victory over the Greyhounds at John Courier Field Friday night.

Scott, a junior, ran for 108 yards and had touchdown gallops of 56-yards in the second quarter and two-yards in the third quarter. Leon Scott, Jaimie's brother, added 71 yards rushing.

Oviedo's other score, which ended up being the game-winner, came on a 63-yard pass from Andy Neufeld to Josh Greer in the third quarter that gave the Lions a 21-7 lead. Dan Dyke converted all three extra point tries.

Lyman took a 7-0 lead early in the second quarter on a one-yard run by Alvin Cummings.

Cummings, who gained 45 yards on five carries, also scored the Oviedo (6-1 overall, 3-0 in Class 6A-District 4) can win the district championship with a win over Lake Howell on Nov. 15, but a loss to the Silver Hawks would force a three-game playoff. If the Lake Brantley can beat Lake Mary on Nov. 8.

The Lions will be at Seminole next Friday, while Lyman (2-4, 0-4 in 6A-4) will be in Kissimmee to take on Osceola.

History lessons Clubs review Lincoln's death and America's First Families

What does a dedicated educator with diversified talent and energy to spare do when he retires?

Just ask Roger Harris, a longtime Sandfordite whose interests are unlimited.

Roger received his teaching degree from the University of Virginia. He fell in love with Sanford after his many visits to his aunt, Mrs. A.K. Shoemaker. His career in education began at Seminole High School in 1947 and remained employed by the Seminole County School District for 38 years, having retired as assistant superintendent for business and finance. He received a master's degree from Stetson University, DeLand.

Roger has spent many years sharing his musical expertise with the community. He studied voice and piano for a number of years and enjoyed music as his avocation. He accompanied the late Dick Aiken who had his own radio show years ago in Sanford and also coached the late opera star, Richard Hottelaw. As choir director at the First United Methodist Church for 25 years, Roger said this was "a most enjoyable period" of his life.

At the Kiwanis Club and other gatherings, Roger is known for his humorous version of playing the popular "Birthday Song" off key. A history buff from way back, Roger enjoys researching the Civil War in his retirement.

The knowledgeable historian was the guest speaker at the recent Epailon Sigma Omicron, a reading society of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs. The group met at the home of Ruth Gaines in the historic district of Sanford. Carolyn Cornelius assisted as co-hostess.

Emy Sokol, program chairman, introduced Roger Harris as the guest speaker. According to Libby Prevatt, "Roger is a true southern gentleman who held the ESO ladies spellbound as he reviewed a book by Robert Mills entitled 'It Didn't Happen the Way You Think.' This is a book on the assassination of President Lincoln and the aftermath."

Roger said for many years questions have been fielded about this great murder mystery. Some of them are: Why was the President left unguarded especially since he requested a guard on this night? Why were two guards never arrested after the President's death? How was John Wilkes Booth able to get so close to the President without interference? (It was common knowledge that Booth had been to the theatre the day before and bored a hole in the wall). How could a military court be allowed to try all the suspects and hang them — even a woman who had nothing to do with the assassination? Was Edward Stanton, President Lincoln's Secretary of War, the real villain and an accessory in this murder? Why were all the telephone and telegraph lines cut that fatal night?

Roger clarified some of the answers and gave the women a lot to think about.

The hostesses served a variety of homemade sandwiches and pastries from a table featuring a centerpiece of fall flowers flanked by gold candles.

Shirley Mills, ESO chairman, presided over the business meeting and read a note of thanks from Seminole County North Branch Library for the two books the ESO presented in memory of Charlotte Marie Smith. The chapter will add new books to the library every year on Mrs. Smith's birthday.

Memories live forever in albums

By Susan Wanner
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Photo albums and photos fill the Sanford home of Cindy Irwin. With a hobby of organizing her treasures into beautifully crafted memories she shares her gift with others in hopes of creating memories for them too through, Creative Memories, the company from which she purchases her albums.

Irwin admits that her love of carefully identified and organized photos came from her mother. As she displays the wonderfully detailed albums from her childhood relatives she beams as she then showed how these "memories" can be transferred to albums that will "last forever."

"I guess I've always been a photo album fanatic," she mused. "I have so many albums from when I was a kid. My mom passed on albums from when I was a kid. I still love looking through them."

Her initial interest in Creative Memories came from "someone in the neighborhood" who was involved. "I saw her album and fell in love with it," she said. "I was so impressed with the materials used. Most albums have poly vinyl chloride (PVC) in them. Creative Memories albums have mylar. The PVC damages the pictures. It emits a gas that's harmful to the photos."

She continued by saying, "I love the way I'm not hindered by the way I put the pictures in the album. It holds six photos per page. It won't yellow. The company has been in business for many years. They have researched this and the albums are 100% guaranteed."

Irwin shared that the albums come in three different sizes. Pages can be written on and borders and various stickers may also be applied. All are acid-free.

Fitting anyone's budget is also a plus, according to Irwin. "They have pocket pages to hold certificates too," she said. "You can add borders to brighten up the page or one of the three kinds of scissors to make the borders attractive."

Another thrill of Irwin's hobby is teaching classes to help others see the joy she has found. "I'm having an open house so people can come in and get ideas from other people's albums."

In displaying her album Irwin had brilliantly decorated one page with her daughter's photo with the title, "Cute as a Button." On the page she added button stickers and borders cut in fancy style.

Another page included pictures of family members with birthday cakes. The contents were sprinkled with birthday cake stickers and colorful trim.

LAKE MARY

MARY ROWELL

Ann and Don Reynolds have turned their retirement hobby into a business. The two make baskets and wood carvings for their business Reynolds' Hammock Crafts. They brought a sample of their work to show the Lake Mary Woman's Club there are as many kinds of baskets as there are cultures in the world. Ann makes Appalachian and Nantucket baskets. In her collection at home, she has German baskets, Cherokee baskets, Inuit baskets and many, many more. Don says he and Ann never leave anywhere without buying locally made baskets.

Appalachian baskets are made for utilitarian reasons. Everything has a purpose. Ann displayed a basket made to fit on stairs, one that holds a wine bottle, one that holds jelly jars and one that holds newspapers. Baskets can be made from almost any wood, but Ann uses white oak, brown ash and reeds. Wood is sturdier than reeds, but all of Ann's baskets are made to last a lifetime. Appalachian baskets are finished with a coat of stain or minwax. There is big discussion in the basket community about what's the best thing to use on Nantucket baskets. Some people use varnish and some use polyurethane. The difference appears with age. A varnish finish allows a basket to darken with age. A basket covered with polyurethane looks the same year after year.

Baskets can be made any size. Ann displayed a wide variety of sizes that she makes. She also displayed a few she doesn't make. Ann brought miniature baskets from the Cherokee to show how you can make them. Two were the size of a child's finger. They were miniature arrow quivers. Ann wore two baskets! She had a pair of basket earrings that she showed off. Ann doesn't make the miniature baskets because she says you have to have really good eyesight.

One of the problems with basket making is the competition. All baskets are made by hand. Even the cheap ones you buy for Easter baskets. Baskets can not be trouble competing with imported baskets. On a trip to China, the Reynolds visited a place that made baskets. Hundreds of people work for slave wages to turn out baskets quickly. (The pay is usually $1 a day.) The cost of these baskets is low, but so is the quality.

Don does the carving. He makes wooden lids and bottoms for the Nantucket baskets and some of the Appalachian. He also carves and paints holiday decorations. He brought several angels and Santa to show the club. He also carves welcome signs with interchangeable scenes.

If you'd like to see some of the Reynolds' baskets you can check them out at several upcoming arts and crafts shows. The Mount Dora and the Halifax art shows, both continuing today; the DeLand show, scheduled for Nov. 16 and 17 and the Longwood show, scheduled for Nov. 23 and 24.

In club news, four new members were installed at Wednesday's meeting. Ethel Carlson sponsored Clara Cameron; Maryann Hoff sponsored Mabel Mey; Rosemary Traeger sponsored Jean Phillips; and Pat Fox sponsored Shirley Smith. New members were encouraged to sign up for upcoming projects.

Kennedy offered a package deal just for the Girl Scouts. First the girls had the opportunity to have their picture made with a volunteer in an astronaut suit. Other activities included a space briefing just for Girl Scouts, a bus tour of the facilities and the launch pad, the IMAX movie and of course, seeing all the exhibits at the Space Center.

The biggest thrill for the girls was the briefing and the tour. During the briefing, NASA personnel showed the girls the difference between the gas oxygen and liquid oxygen. The demonstrator put a balloon in liquid hydrogen and the girls watched in awe as the oxygen in the balloon got so cold it turned to a liquid state. The girls enjoyed the bus tour, but what they liked most about the tour was seeing the alligators. Kennedy is a wildlife refuge and the girls saw about half a dozen alligators sunning themselves on the banks of the canals. They also saw several rare wood storks. The Lego space exhibit was a really fun time as the girls got to sit down and make their own Lego creations.

Each girl received a patch and a badge wood model of the space shuttle to take home. Kennedy will be having Boy Scout Day in January.

in the White House. Her interest in First Families began when she was a member of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Missouri and has evolved over a period of 30 years.

The meeting coincided with the DAR National Day of Prayer, Oct. 11. The National Society this year celebrates its 106th birthday.

Members gathered at the Sanford Museum for an informal social time before the business meeting. Hostesses Teddy Ables, Carolyn Cornelius and Pat Fox used a fall harvest theme in table decorations.

Regent Heidi Haines and Chaplain Esther Anderson conducted the opening ritual. Pat Fox read portions of the President General's message and Betty Steffens led the singing of the first stanza of The Star Spangled Banner. An emphasis on studying the issues and on responsible voting was a focus of the National Defense message.

Members welcomed two guests: the regent's mother, Jenelle Haines, from Ft. Lauderdale, and Marie Mancari, Lake Mary. Mrs. Mancari is a potential transfer member from the General William Lee Davidson Chapter, Nashville.

Registrar Betty Bridgewater presented the names of three candidates for membership: Norma Jean Cadwallader, Rhonda Elaine Chatham and Nancy Morrison Williams.

Commemorative Events chairman Elisabeth Boyd displayed a colorful poster depicting significant October events in American history. According to Virginia Miller, they included the first Model-T Ford, Oct. 1, 1908; the first telecast from the White House, Oct. 4, 1947; the opening of the Naval Academy, Oct. 10, 1845; Columbus Day, Oct. 12, 1492; the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, Oct. 19, 1781; the launching of the U.S. Constitution, popularly known as "Old Ironsides," Oct. 21, 1797; Metropolitan Opera House opened in New York City, Oct. 22, 1853; Harvard College founded, Oct. 28, 1636; the Statue of Liberty dedication, Oct. 28, 1886; and Stock Market Crash, Oct. 29, 1929.

Ways and Means Chairman Dorothy Erisman explained several fund-raising activities planned for the future.

Members were encouraged to attend a unique program, "Come Meet Henry Plant Live," at the Sanford Senior Center.

Member Maureen Bravo reported that City Foundations: Mission Orlando is reaching out to all Central Florida and urging individuals and groups to support the "Forty Day Corporate Fast," an intercessory prayer endeavor for the country. The effort started Oct. 8 and will continue through Nov. 16.

The Regent announced that Mrs. Frank C. Stewart, Florida State Regent, will be the guest of Sallie Harrison Chapter at the November meeting.

2 couples tour north country

Two Sanford couples, Lottie and Lamar Echols and Jean and Henry Tamm Jr., have returned from a 14-day trip to Nova Scotia and Canada. The two couples previously traveled together to Alaska.

They spent 10 days aboard the Holland-American luxury liner, Miss Veendam, which Lottie described as "absolutely gorgeous...storybook pretty. It had everything. The food and service were out of this world...prime rib, lobster every other night..."

Jean said, "It was a wonderful trip. The ship was just fabulous. The food was marvelous...gourmet."

The foursome flew to New York and sailed into several North American ports before reaching Halifax. Lottie said seeing former President George Bush's summer home in Maine was a highlight of the trip. Lamar's daughter and family visited with them while the boat was docked at Boston. She was overjoyed with all the "gorgeous catholic cathedrals" in Canada. She was also enthralled with the Kennedy property in Canada.

Incidentally, while on the fabulous cruise, Lottie celebrated her birthday with aplomb aboard the ship.

"We had a great time," Lottie said, "and are looking forward to the next trip."

Jean said she enjoyed Canada. "I liked Quebec best," she said.

The Tamms are seasoned world travelers. They have been known to dash home from a trip, do their laundry and take off again.

They are departing Sunday for Paris to visit their daughter, Terri, and family, who have been making their home there for 10 years.

As Irwin put it "we have a gadget to round the edges of the pictures. We have colored backgrounds to add too."

Ovals, hearts and more are cut from stencil type plastic. "We have templates to trace on paper so someone can cut different shapes to mount the photos on," said Irwin. "We have three different adhesives to use on the pages."

Football, ice cream cones, clowns, flowers, candy, stars, cars, animals and even more stickers are also available. Irwin suggested that individuals retrieving photos from old albums and replacing them in "Creative Memories" albums should use dental floss so pictures don't rip.

Irwin summed up her hobby and now side business as a way to bring her child's heritage to life. "I love her and I want her to know who I was and to have her family history. Because my mother and father passed away I didn't know a lot of my family history. This is a great way to preserve that."

Irwin and her husband, Jeff, have been married for seven years. They have one daughter, Chandler and the family pet dog, Reebok.

The family has lived in Sanford for two years. Irwin is a member of a Mom & Toté group in Seminole County.

Respect for management

By JEFF BERLINCKE
Herald Staff Writer

Some of the real heroes of the Lake Mary football team never get their names in print. Their pictures are never in the paper.

No one cheers for them when the Rams score a touchdown or make a key defensive stand.

But coach Doug Peters knows some of the real heroes of the team are the girls who stay on the sidelines keeping equipment in game-shape, tending to the daily routine of Rams' football and catering to the players' every whim.

They are the Lake Mary football managers.

Arienne Bachove, Maria Rivera, Lis Drew, Cori Easton and Tiffany Jackson are the girls who tend to the mundane tasks necessary to keep in football team running each week and feel they are every bit as responsible for the team's 4-2 start as Peters and the players.

A typical game day consists of taking care of the players' equipment, keeping computerized lists detailing nearly every morsel of information pertaining to the team, answering phones, keeping the coaches' lives organized and all that is before the team ever takes the field.

Then they get busy. The managers make sure all the equipment is ready and repaired, lugging crates out to the field, tending to the wires connecting the field coaches with those in the press box and just being there for anyone who needs them.

Then there's the matter of providing security.

"A couple of years ago we were playing in DeLand and some fights broke out between their fans and our players," Easton said. "They started pushing us and the players and our cheerleaders around so we had to step in and make sure everything was safe. We just do anything we need to do."

As well as everything the coaching staff needs them to do. Peters described the managers as the backbone to the team.

Peters was described by the girls as an extremely organized coach, or at least someone who tries his best to be.

The coaching staff at least is a group of grown men, capable of handling themselves. The players...

"They need to be pampered," Rivera said.

"They know they better give us respect or they won't get any favors from us," Drew added.

So the players respond. The girls are always invited when the team holds a pregame meal and they are always invited for the postgame celebrations. After a Rams' road win, the girls dance right along with the players on the bus ride home but the managers pay the same mental price as the players.

"Right now I'm okay but in a few hours I won't be," Bachove said at noon on game day two Fridays ago. "We have to get our game-faces on just like the players. If we start getting goofy during the day we have to stop when the game gets closer. But the players include us. When they start to get obnoxious, they always include us."

The managers joined in the absolute silence as the Lake Mary bus made its way to Lake Howell for a key Seminole Athletic Conference battle two weeks ago. The smiles of earlier in the day were gone as the teams took the field. As kickoff rolled around, it was hard keeping an eye on the managers. While one was standing at Peters' side keeping his phone cords untangled, others were fixing helmets, finding equipment, cheering each Rams' success and showing an edge as Lake Howell boosted its lead to 23-0.

Then, the Rams got a break. Actually several as they cut into, then equaled the lead, sending the game into overtime. While the players whooped it up, the girls did the same.

A few minutes later, the tide turned again and the Rams walked off with a 31-30 bitter loss. The managers looked as upset as the players and while the players walked off the field, the Lake Mary managers crated equipment, rolled up what seemed like miles of telephone wiring and boarded the bus to go home with the team, as a team.

Lake Mary football manager Maria Rivera assists quarterback Shaun St. Dennis during the Rams' 31-30 loss to Lake Howell two weeks ago.

"It really affects us when we win or lose," Rivera said. "When they're depressed, we're depressed."

The one reward the managers get is a variety letter at the end of the season at the team awards banquet. Then, they have a chance to move on in college as any player.

Shira Goldberg was a Lake Mary manager who graduated two years ago. She now tends to the Florida State football team as a manager. While all the girls are looking at colleges, Bachove said she's thinking about following Goldberg and serving as a manager at Florida State.

But first things first. For now, the managers are just hoping to help lead the Rams to a conference championship. Who says girls can't play football?

Sabreena Sapp: Just one of the guys

By JEFF BERLINCKE
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole extra point specialist looks just like any other talented kicker in high school football. The kicks are accurate and even the opposing team has a hard time telling that this is no ordinary kicker.

Sabreena Sapp is believed to be the first player in Seminole history to score or even play in a regular season game. She scored in the Tribe's opener against Lyman, booting an extra point and has been designated by coach Ernie MacPhearson to kick all extra points for the rest of the season.

She hasn't missed one yet. Seminole's lack of offenses might not get her much playing time but she has enough to do as it is.

When she's not at football practice, she is sitting up for the Seminole undefeated girls' volleyball team which starts district play at home Wednesday as the top seed, presiding over the school's national honor society and serving as vice-president of the student government.

Somewhere she finds time to maintain an outstanding grade point average that keeps her in the top-10 of the school and puts her on the wish list of colleges all over the country.

With all that, you have to wonder why she heads out to the football field every day to play for a team that is off to an 0-3 start. She obviously can't dream with the team and gets to listen to a lot of guys-only humor.

She doesn't mind a bit. On the field, opponents don't even realize there is a girl trying to score on them and Sapp doesn't even think about it.

"I just tuck my ponytail into the back of my jersey," Sapp said. "I don't look up when I kick so they might not even know."

Being one of the guys can be an inconvenience but it doesn't get her down. She said it's tough to get her uniform on in time because she has to wait for the guys to be ready. Then, someone comes over with her uniform and she joins the team. The jokes are no big deal.

"If they say something really vulgar they always apologize when they know I'm around," Sapp said.

One of the only problems she runs into is that MacPhearson won't let her tackle anyone. He admits that he has to keep her out of the action but Sapp wants to hit.

"I would like to tackle and I wish they'd let me," she said. "All the other kickers have been hit. Last season, I kicked off in practice and went downfield for the tackle. I'm sprinting down and all I heard was, 'Sapp, get away from there.'"

On the volleyball court, she never has to worry about being out of the action. She has played since her freshman year and is a leader on a Tribe team which recently finished an undefeated regular season. She has had help from coach Beth Corso in arranging the schedule so volleyball wouldn't interfere with the Friday night football games. There was a close call earlier when the volleyball team was in a tournament the same night as a football game but Sapp played, left the gym and made it to the field on time.

The two-sport athlete actually excels most on the soccer field. That's where her athletic future will take her, hopefully Sapp said, to Auburn or Virginia Tech. She is co-captain of the Seminole soccer team which starts play in just a few weeks.

For now, there is volleyball and football to worry about. Her parents have no problem with volleyball. Football?

"They loved the idea of it," Sapp said. "But I still think they get a little bit nervous."

Jen Alger: Rams' swimming sensation

Everything going very swimmingly for Lake Mary star

By JEFF BERLINCKE
Herald Staff Writer

Jennifer Alger became one of the best swimmers in Central Florida completely by accident.

When she was seven, she was struck by a car and had to go into rehab to recover. Her therapists gave her a choice between gymnastics or swimming to help in the recovery process and Alger decided she liked swimming a lot better.

Ten years later, she holds or shares three Lake Mary records, has a shot at the state championship, has been named the Rams' Most Valuable Player every year since ninth grade and is looking at continuing her career for a major college, possibly the University of Florida or North Carolina.

After that, the 2000 Olympics?

"I just want to set my goals as I go along," Alger said at the Longwood Aquatic Club, sitting alongside one of her coaches, Rene Tyler. "Right now I'm just trying to concentrate on a state championship."

Her coach, Fred Tyler, a former olympic gold medal winner himself, believes a state title is possible for Alger who finished sixth last year.

"I would say that Jennifer is the most talented, versatile female I've ever had," Tyler said only hours after spending time with current olympic gold medal winner Brad Bridgewater. "My goal is to have a state champion and she can do that if she's ready for it and willing to put in the work."

Alger got off to a nice start towards that goal with a win in the Southern Zonal Championship in August. Her versatility is valuable, not only to herself but also to the Lake Mary team.

While her best event is the 200 individual medley, consisting of two laps of the butterfly, breaststroke, backstroke and freestyle, she competes for the team in almost every event except the backstroke and went to the states last year for the 200 IM and the 100 breaststroke.

The states were nothing new; she has been there every year since her freshman season but now the stakes are getting higher. Besides the Southern Zonal, she went to All-Stars in South Carolina and the Junior Nationals in Tucson, Ariz. For now, one of the most important places to win is right in her own backyard. It seems like the Rams always come up just short of Lake Brantley in the Seminole Athletic Conference but this could be the year Brantley gets bumped.

"Overall, the team looks real strong right now," Renee Tyler said. "Jennifer has done a lot and that senior leadership is starting to show."

Alger is not alone. She has

The talent means Alger won't have to travel to the states alone but, once she gets there, sixth place won't be good enough.

"I was happy to place in the states but I know I should have gone higher," Alger said. "That's what I'm going to do this year."

She has another goal: the break Lake Mary's longest holding record on the board at the Longwood Aquatic Club. She wants the 500 freestyle record and is timing at only one second from the record pace.

Obviously, records, state championships and gold medals take up quite a bit of training time. Alger said she wouldn't do it if she didn't love it. A typical day is getting to the pool for an hour each morning, heading off to Lake Mary for school, back to the pool for afternoon practice, then home to study so she can maintain her 3.3 grade point average. There's also a social life to mix in and even Alger admits she gets pretty tired at times.

"Sometimes I don't want to practice all the time but once I get in the water, I love to do it," Alger said. "When you compete and have all that adrenaline going, it's the best feeling in the world."

"It's in her blood," Renee Tyler added.

In a couple of months, Alger may be experiencing a new best feeling in the world: a state championship.

Brian Pinckney: Lake Mary role model

By JEFF BERLINCKE
Herald Staff Writer

First of all, his sprained ankle has kept him out of all but a few series' of downs over the entire season. He played sparingly in the Rams only loss of the season, a 32-27 defeat to Oviedo two weeks ago.

Just as importantly, Pinckney was having problems with a young fifth-grader at Lake Mary Elementary who didn't seem to want to listen.

When he's not captaining the Lake Mary defense, Pinckney is making a difference at Lake Mary Elementary where he serves as an assistant with the STAR program at the school. He works with fifth-graders students who need special attention and his role on the football team makes him a role model for the kids.

"With the kids, it's not like they're not smart or disabled," Pinckney said. "They just need to learn to concentrate and to want to do their work. I know kids in my class a lot but I know that only one kid can cause the whole class not to learn."

Pinckney spends a couple hours a day at the school before heading back to the Lake Mary football field for practice. He said he thinks about a career in teaching but is getting some teaching of his own at the elementary school.

"You have to think about what you're going to say to them," Pinckney said. "The teacher has to come over and handle what's going on when there's a problem but if a kid is doing something wrong, I try to talk to them."

Lake Mary football coach Doug Peters said Pinckney is a natural for the role.

"Brian Pinckney is one of the true leaders around campus," Peters said. "He doesn't get affected by oh, that kid is doing this or that. He just goes on."

Even in his classroom, he has affected the progress of the Lake Mary defense. He plays with a load of intensity that has him

Jason Wyse whose play during Pinckney's absence has college scouts paying major attention.

Pinckney has also been key in the development of younger linebackers Cam Carter and Mike Stevenson.

"Those two grew up a lot by watching the way Brian works," Peters said. "When you have a player like Brian Pinckney go out, a team that wants to be good has to realize it is time to step up. The seniors have been outstanding."

Now that Pinckney is back, someone will lose some playing time as the Rams use only two linebackers in their offensive system but Peters said everyone will get a decent amount of time.

It's a nice problem to have," Peters said.

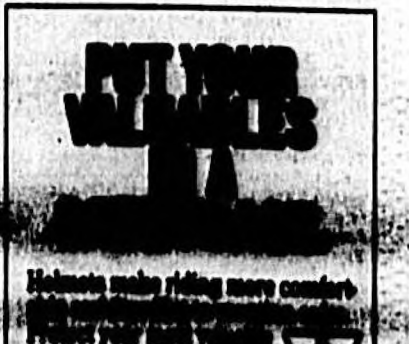

Pinckney's role model status is not limited to the football field. He missed the opening unable to run. The team lost that night but grew up, playing possibly their best game this season.

"I think the Oviedo loss let us learn a lot about ourselves," Pinckney said. "It gave us confidence knowing we could play with them. I don't know if a win would have done anything but blow up our heads."

While Pinckney spent time in the training room, the defense regrouped and pitched a 3-0 shutout against Dr. Phillips the following week. More importantly, the training room became a little less crowded as fullback Bobby Davidowitz, running back Laurence Rudolph and Chad Forbes began to re-emerge from their own injuries.

Real play, a head coach can teach Peters' goal of a player

Dad should not finance 30-year-old son's career

DEAR ABBY: My son (I'll call him Earl) was married in Palm Beach to a girl he has lived with for some time. Her family is quite wealthy. The wedding was elaborate and must have cost more than $75,000. Earl's mother, my ex-wife who is also quite wealthy, and I hosted the rehearsal dinner for 80 guests and shared the nearly $4,000 in expenses. My present wife, our daughter who is a junior in college on scholarship and full financial aid, and I flew in from our home in Los Angeles for the ceremony. We sacrificed to attend and give the newlyweds a cash wedding gift. Our total cost for the occasion was more than $6,000.

My home and business were destroyed in the earthquake in 1994 and my wife and I have been struggling ever since.

My problem: Earl is a talented rock musician. His dream is to have a career in music, and he has asked me to give him money for expensive equipment for a studio he intends to build in his home. His 30th birthday is in late November.

I don't know how to handle this. I want to help him. Don't tell me to co-sign with him for a loan because when I did that before, I ended up paying the whole amount. Part of me says, why didn't they spend our wedding gift for the studio or opt for a smaller wedding and use some of that money for their future?

As a divorced father, all I was ever asked to provide for my son was money, and this seems to be the ongoing scenario. What should I do?

debt to come through with the birthday gift your son is soliciting, I urge you to reconsider.

You are overdue for a loving but frank talk with Earl about the financial facts of life. At 30, he's old enough to arrange other financing to advance his career.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the 19-year-old bride-to-be who recently being asked her age: The insensitive comments made to her by others had nothing to do with how old she looked. They were meant to suggest that she was making a big mistake because she was too young to be contemplating marriage.

While statistics support the increased fragility of early marriages, those insensitive people should have trusted that "Irritated" and her fiancé had discussed the pros and cons and made a mutual decision to marry.

If some people believe that 19- and 20-year-olds are too young to take this important step, my advice to them is to keep their doubts to themselves, and wish the engaged couple the best of luck.

In the meantime, "Irritated" could just smile and respond, "Yes, we are young, but that means we'll have more happy years together."

ROBIN CAUSEBECK, ROCKFORD, ILL.

DEAR ABBY: I'm enclosing a poem that describes too many of us in our busy world today. I hope you'll think it's worth space in your column. It contains a message we all need reminding about. Too few people take the time, no matter how little, to drop a line, or call, visit or do a good deed for someone we know who is lonely, ill, or in need of a few moments of small talk.

MARILYN J. MONTGOMERY, NORTH MANKATO, MINN.

DEAR MARILYN: Thank you for sending it. It's well worth the space. Read on:

It's hard times as per a note. He hadn't time to rest a vote. He hadn't time to sing a song. He hadn't time to right a wrong. He hadn't time to love or give. He hadn't time to really live. From now on, he'll have time on end.

He died today, my busy friend.

DEAR READERS: I would like to pass along a lesson in life that is well worth remembering. An old philosophical fable tells us there once lived a lion who was so self-confident and ferocious that he devoured a bull. Having succeeded in this incredible feat gave him such confidence that he roared.

A hunter heard the lion's roar and promptly shot him. The moral of that fable is abundantly clear: "If you are full of bull, keep your mouth shut."
