Dismal Weather Puts No Damper On Holiday Shopping

The drizzling rain, chill in the air and gusty winds apparently won't deter shoppers from their appointed rounds on this the kickoff day for Christmas shopping.

The weather may in fact bring more customers out, according to Jack Stanko of Sanford's J.C. Penney's, Inc.

"This weather will do nothing but help us, because they can't do much of anything else except shop," he said. "The colder and rainier the weather, the better for us," he said.

Penney's like many other stores, got a jump on the day by opening early, but Stanko said that bumping his store's opening from 9:30 a.m. to 9 a.m. didn't bring in a great influx of earlybirds, because he said, most shoppers probably weren't aware of the early opening. He expects to have a fullhouse throughout the day.

Opening at 7 a.m., K-Mart in Sanford in the first couple hours hosted a about two hundred shoppers who braved the 52 degree temperature, drizzle and northwest 21 mph winds that gusted up to 31 mph. And store personnel said that it looked like a good start to a busy day.

"I think people want to get out and shop in weather like this," K-Mart manager Jim Walker said. "The people who wanted to get out early were here early."

Shoppers started filing into the Altamonte Mall, Altamonte Springs at 8 a.m. and stores there will remain open an extra half hour. They will close at 9:30 p.m., said mall representative Kellie Jones.

"I don't think the weather will hurt shopping," she said. "It isn't a hurricane and people who want to shop are going to come out no matter what the weather."

Shoppers at the Altamonte Mall and at other shopping areas along state Road 436 in Altamonte Springs, will find getting to the mall and other stores a little easier than in past months because road work in that area has been postponed until after Christmas.

Soviets OK Arms Talks Resumption

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — A year ago today, the Soviets walked out on nuclear arms talks, but now the United States is "ready to go" with a new round of negotiations, a difficult first step aides say could eventually lead to a superpower thaw.

National security adviser Robert McFarlane announced on Thanksgiving that Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko would meet in Geneva, Switzerland, Jan. 7 and 8 to discuss an agenda for future arms control talks "with the objective of reaching mutually acceptable agreements on the whole range of questions concerning nuclear and outer space arms."

Although Moscow said these would be new talks and not a resumption of the strategic force and intermediate-range missile negotiations they walked out of a year ago, the agreement represents eight weeks of Washington-Moscow discussions sparked by President Reagan's offer at the United Nations in September, McFarlane said.

Since then, Reagan won an election landslide, forcing the Soviets to recognize the U.S. position would not change, and Soviet leader Konstantin Chernenko has apparently consolidated his power within the Kremlin.

With the scenery in place, the actors began walking on stage a week ago.

Chernenko indicated through diplomatic channels he would like to see the talks begin anew. Reagan tentatively approved the idea Monday and gave a final go-ahead Wednesday as he vacationed at his ranch in California's Santa Ynez mountains.

"This is good news," McFarlane quoted him as saying. "It is the first step on what will be a long and difficult road. But the world is depending on us."

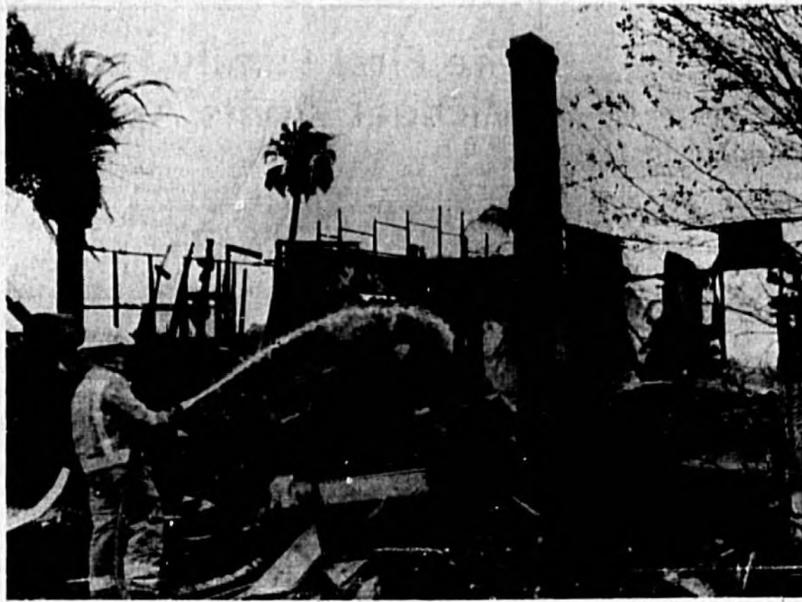

McFarlane, who announced the resumption of talks at a White House news conference piped to Santa Barbara for questions from reporters traveling with Reagan, provided few details.

After NATO began deploying nuclear cruise and Pershing 2 missiles in Europe, the Soviets walked out of the intermediate-range arms talks Nov. 23, 1983. In December, the Soviets broke off talks on intercontinental weapons.

In late June, the Soviet Union called for talks on limiting space weapons but insisted on a testing moratorium before sitting down, which the United States would not accept.

CBS news, quoting "reliable administration sources," said the U.S. is considering a possible three-year moratorium on U.S.

Vacationer's House Burns To Ground

10 Die On State Roads; No Deaths In Seminole

From Staff and Wire Reports

A 50- to 60-year-old house near Midway burned to the ground early today becoming the only calamity reported in Seminole County as the four-day Thanksgiving Holiday enters its second day.

There were no serious traffic accidents in Seminole, but statewide at least 10 fatalities on the roads, according to the Florida Highway Patrol.

In the Midway fire, District Commander W. Schaefer of the Seminole County Fire Department said the unoccupied house at 73 Cameron Ave. had been burning for about two hours before the fire department was called at 4 a.m.

The owner, Julian Dunn, 43, has been in Tenn. since Tuesday. Schaefer said. The fire was reported by Dunn's brother, Buddy Dunn, 46, who lives at 68 Cameron Ave.

Schaefer said the 1½-story wooden house was fully engulfed in flames when the firefighters arrived.

The home burned flat because the fire was roaring by the time it was reported and was fueled by the aged pine which is very combustible, Schaefer said.

"It's like having gasoline stacked up... We did what we could with the house," he said.

Schaefer said the 11 firefighters who fought the blaze during a cold early morning drizzle saved a nearby garage and barn. Three fire engines, one tanker and a rescue truck were called to the scene.

No injuries were reported. Several fire inspectors were on the scene today investigating the cause of the fire.

Elsewhere in Seminole County, no serious accidents, injuries or fires were reported. Officially, the holiday period is 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday.

Among the 10 killed in the state was Anthony J. Wianiewski, 27, of North Fort Myers, who died Thursday after a three-car crash in Cape Coral. The pile-up occurred when a car stopped on the highway to pick him up.

Cape Coral Police said Wianiewski was entering the car when it was rear-ended by a second car. He was thrown free, but a third car struck the second vehicle, then rolled over Wianiewski.

In Melbourne, Scott Michael Devit, 17, was killed Thursday when the car he was riding in rammed into the rear of a slow-moving firetruck on I-95. The Highway Patrol reported the driver of the car apparently did not see the firetruck because of a heavy rainstorm. The firetruck was leaving the scene of an

Consultant To Tell County How Things Should Be Run

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County commissioners are scheduled Monday to hear how an outside consultant thinks county administration should be changed.

The meeting is set for 2 p.m. at the County Services building on First Street.

George Hubler of Public Administration Service, McLean, Va., said the priorities suggested in a recent management study will be detailed at the work session and County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm said many will be carried out.

A wage and salary report, the second phase of the management study, is scheduled to be delivered to the county commission by Jan. 11.

Sturm thinks there should be two deputy county administrators, instead of the current one, with the county administrator in charge of day-to-day operations. But Hubler's report said the administrator should be in charge of staff agencies, such as budget and purchasing, and deputy administrators in charge of operating agencies such as road, parks and public works.

Hubler's report also suggested that the county commission make up its mind whether it wanted a county administrator or an executive secretary.

Sturm said, "I think the county commission should set policy and the county administrator should handle day-to-day operations," he said.

This was one of the main complaints of County Administrator T. Duncan Rose III — that his directives were thwarted by department chiefs going over his head directly to the county commission. Rose resigned earlier this fall. His last day on the job was last Friday.

Hubler's report also cited a lack of cooperation and coordination among county departments.

Sturm said he is asking the county staff to look into re-ordering its priorities concerning communication, cooperation and coordination, but he added the request was not a reaction to the management report. It came, he said, from a feeling he got from employees during talks over the issue of the county versus the unionization move. He said he felt the employees didn't feel they were fully informed about what is going on in county government. The unionization move was voted down by the employees last week.

"With more knowledge of what's going on, controversies can be eliminated," Sturm said.

Hubler said he compiled his report from personal talks with Sturm and Commissioners Sandra Glenn, Barbara Christensen and Bill Kirchhoff, and department heads as well as his own observations of operations and systems analysis.

He said he was unable to make an appointment with then-County Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather and made no attempt to talk to the man who defeated him, Fred Streetman.

Meanwhile, Sturm said he has instructed the staff to have agenda materials for Tuesday's official meetings and the Monday workshop sessions at the county services building no later than 1 p.m. on the Friday before to give commissioners "freer and fuller information."

"If a department head does not have his report in by 1 p.m. Friday, his items will be delayed one week unless an emergency exists," he said.

Items for official action on Tuesday will be discussed at Monday's workshop and matters such as space needs and progress reports on on-going studies and activities will be taken up at Tuesday's work session, Sturm said.

American Soldier Wounded

Russian Defects Across Korean DMZ; 1 Killed

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — A South Korean soldier was killed and an American wounded today in a gunfire exchange with North Korean guards chasing a Russian defector across the Demilitarized Zone, U.S. Embassy sources said.

The United Nations Command said the shooting broke out this morning when 20 to 30 North Korean army guards crossed the Military Demarcation Line at the truce village of Panmunjom in pursuit of a defector visiting the area as a tourist, the Command said.

"The defector is a Russian, he is in the Seoul area in good health," the U.S. Embassy sources said. "He was not hurt, and is being questioned as to his intention."

Officials would not identify the Russian. A South Korean soldier was killed and an American serviceman wounded during the clash that began at 11:50 a.m. (9:50 p.m. EST, Thursday), officials said. Two North Koreans were believed dead and two others wounded, officials said.

Under the current security arrangements military guards of both sides cannot cross the MDL into the other's territory within the DMZ.

It was the most serious incident at the truce site since Aug. 18, 1976 when North Korean guards axed to death two U.S. Army officers on security duty.

The 1976 incident threatened the Korean Armistice in effect since July 1953. As a result the two sides worked out new security arrangements separating their guards along the MDL.

The command officials said the UNC has requested a meeting of security officers at Panmunjom to preclude further incidents following today's clash.

The dead and injured soldiers were not identified.

The latest bloodshed occurred while South Korea and communist North Korea were holding talks on two fronts. The incident is certain to cool the improving relations between the two Koreas.

Earlier this month, government and business officials of the two sides held a round of economic talks to pave the way for mutual trade and possible economic cooperation.

At the same time, Red Cross officials of both sides met to discuss ways to help separated families in the two Koreas reunite. Both sessions were held at the truce village.

Demonstrators Say They'll Continue S. African Protest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional delegate Walter Fauntroy and two others, jailed for an "act of conscience" at the South African Embassy, say they will continue to protest that nation's racial policies.

Fauntroy, U.S. Civil Rights commissioner Mary Berry and Randall Robinson, the head of a black foreign policy lobby known as TransAfrica, pleaded not guilty Thursday to charges of unlawful entry stemming from a sit-in they staged Wednesday at the embassy.

Fauntroy, the city's non-voting representative in Congress, Berry and Robinson were protesting the recent imprisonment of black labor leaders by the white minority South African government.

"Ours was an act of conscience in response to the repressive actions of the South African government," said Fauntroy, adding that he hopes the protest will let those who oppose the apartheid government in South Africa know they have international support.

1 Escapee Still At Large

BURKEVILLE, Va. (UPI) — A posse using tracking dogs and a helicopter early today captured four of five inmates who escaped a Virginia prison by cutting holes through two fences.

None of the fugitives offered any resistance, a spokeswoman at the medium-security Nottoway Correctional Center said.

A search continued for the remaining fugitive, Anthony Fox, 29, serving life plus 335 years for rape, sodomy and abduction.

The escape was discovered about 6 p.m. Thursday when a female guard spotted the inmates dashing across a parking lot from the outer fence of the prison. They disappeared into the woods before she could get off a shot, said Corrections Department Spokesman Wayne Farrar.

The escape was the latest in a series of embarrassments for Virginia's embattled Corrections Department. Six death row inmates escaped from the state's toughest prison — the "escape-proof" Mecklenburg Correctional Center — in May and eluded authorities for 19 days.

Trawler Search Resumes

NEW YORK (UPI) — A fleet of search planes and ships scoured the Atlantic Ocean off the coast of Virginia today following the sighting of an empty lifeboat from the lost fishing trawler, Amazing Grace.

The search for the 87-foot trawler was called off Wednesday, a full week after the fishing vessel became lost.

The last word from the ship was a radio message from its captain, Paul Robles, last Wednesday. He said the vessel was taking on water about 100 miles east of Ocean City, Md. The message was not a distress call, the Coast Guard said.

The lifeboat contained an open knife, but its required two days of provisions were missing.

The sighting prompted the Coast Guard to dispatch a jet to resume its search of the area Thursday night. Air Force, Navy and Coast Guard planes were summoned to the scene today.

Protesters Challenge FP&L Nuke Storage Plan

MIAMI (UPI) — Florida Power & Light Co. has received federal permission to double nuclear waste storage at its Turkey Point plant, but environmentalists have challenged the move, fearing a radioactive meltdown could result.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission issued two amendments to Turkey Point's permit Wednesday, allowing FPL to increase from 621 to 1,404 the number of spent fuel rods it can place in the plant's two steel-lined, water-cooled storage tanks.

FPL spokesman David Wolverton said that unless more on-site storage was approved, the Turkey Point plant would have run out of storage space in two years. The additional storage would take care of the plant's needs through the year 2000, he said.

But the Center for Nuclear Responsibility, a Miami environmentalist group, has challenged the decision, asking the NRC for a hearing.

Center director Joette Lorion said overpacking the storage pools with the hot, radioactive rods could cause cooling water in the pools to boil away, allowing the rods to burn through the containers and leak radiation.

Condemned Killer Seeks Stay

MIAMI (UPI) — One of two convicted murderers scheduled to die Thursday in the electric chair is seeking a stay in federal court today as psychiatrists prepare to examine the other condemned man to determine if he is mentally competent.

Attorney Mark Cooper, representing Jesse Joseph Tafero, filed a petition in U.S. District Court in Miami today. Cooper had argued unsuccessfully in the state courts that Tafero did not receive adequate representation at his trial and that his death sentence was excessive, compared to life terms given two codefendants.

Both Tafero and Gary Eldon Alvord are scheduled to die Thursday in the electric chair at the Florida State Prison in Starke. Both lost their final state appeals Wednesday.

Tafero, 38, was sentenced to die for gunning down Florida Highway Patrolman Phillip A. Black and Donald Robert Irwin, an off-duty Canadian police officer, as they approached his car at a rest stop on Interstate 95 on Feb. 20, 1976.

Alvord was condemned for the strangling of three Hillsborough County women in 1973.

The First Family Feuds; Michael Wants Apology

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — President Reagan's oldest son, Michael, says his stepmother Nancy is jealous of his family and she should apologize for saying he has been estranged from his father.

Saying not everyone in his family lines up "like a duck," Michael Reagan Thursday asked Mrs. Reagan to apologize for saying he has been estranged from his father for three years.

The younger Reagan, in an impromptu news conference in Omaha, Neb., where he and his wife, Colleen, spent Thanksgiving with her family, said, "I feel like somebody knocked the air out of me."

Aside from an occasional "squabble-type thing," within the family, Reagan said he feels no estrangement from his father. He blamed distance — living a continent apart — for their infrequent communication.

"I think it's not an estrangement as much ... as a jealousy Nancy might have towards me and my family, you know, being the son of another marriage," he said.

"We have the only two grandchildren of the president. I have noticed since that time that Nancy has not been as warm toward us and it's not really anything bad, I think, as a mother ... she would like to have her kids have the grandchildren of the president. I think there's a jealousy there."

The president has never met Michael's younger child, 19-month-old Ashley.

"I think Nancy really needs to apologize to Colleen and her family for the disruption she caused," he said. "Her timing was terrible. We had been planning a very nice Thanksgiving here" — the first time in the couple's nine-year marriage that they spent the holiday with her family.

"Nancy is the type of person who is very beholding to my father, through all the years," he said. "Sometimes she doesn't understand that everybody doesn't line up like a duck."

His feud with the first lady erupted Wednesday after Mrs. Reagan said in a published interview Michael and his father have become estranged over the last three years.

Earlier, in a telephone interview with KABC radio in Los Angeles, the younger Reagan, 38, a professional power boat racer, said he did not attend his father's election-night victory celebration in Los Angeles because he and his wife were in London celebrating their wedding anniversary, as they do every year.

The first lady, he said, "sometimes misunderstands that, because she thinks that everybody ought to think 400 percent about Dad all the time, and she should think that because she is his wife."

Study: Elderly Should Also Kick The Habit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — People over age 65 who have smoked for years can still dramatically reduce their chance of death from coronary heart disease by kicking the habit, Yale School of Medicine researchers say.

The scientists found the death rate from coronary heart disease in a group of elderly people was 52 percent higher among smokers than among non-smokers, ex-smokers and pipe and cigar smokers.

The smokers' death rate was 75 percent higher than that of ex-smokers.

Coronary heart disease, also known as atherosclerosis, is a blocking and hardening of main arteries leading to the heart. The disease afflicts an estimated 4.6 million Americans and is a major cause of heart attacks.

"The results indicate that cigarette smokers older than age 65 years who have been smoking for several decades can benefit from discontinuing smoking," the team wrote in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The researchers said the effects of smoking were "at least partly reversible within one to five years after quitting."

The researchers cautioned that they measured only deaths from coronary heart disease, not incidence of the disease, and so did not know whether the increased death rate resulted from a higher incidence of disease or a higher fatality rate.

They also said they did not measure other factors, such as personality and exercise.

The Yale team said doctors may be reluctant to advise otherwise healthy elderly patients to stop smoking, feeling a few more years will make little difference.

Chrysler To Press Suit Against GM-Toyota

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. will continue its legal battle against the General Motors-Toyota joint venture even though the new Chevrolet Novas will have been in production for three months by the time the case is heard.

Chrysler has filed suit in federal court in Washington seeking to block the joint venture. Chrysler says the deal is anti-competitive because it joins GM, the world's largest automaker, with Toyota, the third largest.

Chrysler had hoped the suit could be heard before production began. But Chrysler Executive Vice President Bennett Bidwell said because of pending criminal cases, the judge assigned to the Chrysler civil suit cannot hear the case before March 4.

"We don't intend to give up," Bidwell told United Press International Wednesday. "It's in their (GM-Toyota's) interest to prolong the process until it might be viewed as academic. "If we lose, we lose, but damn it, we want to be heard," he said.

GM Chairman Roger Smith has said production would begin at the joint venture site in Fremont, Calif. on Dec. 4. The Chevrolet Nova, as the car will be called, will go on sale in April or May.

On another subject, Bidwell said Chrysler and the United Auto Workers are in a "feeling out phase" in light of the union's desire to reopen its current contract.

The pact does not expire until October, and Chairman Lee Iacocca has said he intends to stick to the contract, although he is willing to listen to union proposals.

While officials from both sides have met, the UAW has not yet formally requested a reopening. Bidwell said the ball is in the union's court.

"We're sure not going to go to their place. It's their move," said Bidwell. "Our official position is that a deal is a deal. On the other hand, we're not going to stand behind the door with the doors locked."

Survivors Of Gas Explosion Blame State-Owned Oil Company

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Survivors of the gas explosion that decimated a poor neighborhood killing at least 370 people laid the blame for the inferno on the state-owned oil company, Petrolcos Mexicanos.

Ecology and Urban Development Minister Marcelo Javelly Thursday said other gas refineries within metropolitan Mexico City would be moved outside the city limits. However, the minister did not say when such action would begin.

Representatives of the survivors took a formal complaint to the municipality of Tlanepantla, citing negligence on the part of Pemex, the state-run oil company, which used the gas distribution center along with other private companies.

Pemex director Mario Ramon Beteta has dismissed charges that lax safety measures were responsible for the disaster. Pemex has blamed the private gas distributor Unigas.

Fernando Gomez Ruiz, manager of the National Association of Gas Distributors, rejected accusations of neglect, noting the Unigas installations are nearly intact while only a few Pemex gas tanks escaped the explosions.

Israel Must Return Arab Lands

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — King Hussein has urged the Palestinian parliament-in-exile to ratify a Middle East peace proposal based on Israel's withdrawal from Arab lands.

The Palestine National Council begins a working session today after opening its 17th assembly Thursday despite boycott calls by Syrian-backed members of the Palestine Liberation Organization seeking the ouster of Yasser Arafat as PLO chairman.

Arafat asked the 378-member council — the highest policy-making body of the Palestinians who fled their homeland during the 1948 Arab-Israeli war — to endorse his continued leadership.

Hussein's plan calls for a U.N.-sponsored conference to be attended by all parties to the Middle East conflict and the five permanent U.N. Security Council members.

Israel seized East Jerusalem and the West Bank from Jordan, the Golan Heights from Syria and the Sinai Peninsula and Gaza Strip from Egypt in the 1967 war.

Hunt To Begin For Nazi Fugitive

ASUNCION, Paraguay (UPI) — The Paraguayan government says it will begin a nationwide manhunt for Nazi fugitive Josef Mengele, known as Adolf Hitler's "Angel of Death" at the Auschwitz concentration camp during World War II.

Four members of a team searching for Mengele in Paraguay said that following their meeting with senior officials Thursday, they promised the government would initiate the investigation, which was to include foreign observers.

Mengele allegedly was the doctor who decided which of hundreds of thousands of prisoners arriving at Auschwitz would be put to death, signalled by a wave of his white-gloved hand.

Phony Dermatologist Facing 4 Years In Jail, $4,000 Fine

A Casselberry man charged with practicing medicine without a license has pleaded no contest to lesser included charges of unlawfully using the title of medical doctor.

Mansour Ails Baker, 37, of 300 Wyndham Way, entered the plea Monday before Seminole Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. who set Jan. 18 for sentencing. Baker could receive up to one year and a $1,000 fine each for the four counts. He was originally charged with three counts of practicing medicine without a license and one count of unlawful use of the title of medical doctor.

Assistant State Attorney Beth Ruthberg said she found no record of Baker receiving a medical degree or being licensed to practice medicine in Florida. According to court records, Baker opened a dermatology office at 95 N. U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry, between Jan. 18 and April 19. He attracted the attention of authorities after he advertised dermatological services and cosmetic products.

Records show that Baker was issued an occupational license by the county for a medical practice Jan. 18. He was arrested April 19 after an investigation by the Department of Professional Regulation, Tallahassee.

The DPR launched its investigation after receiving two complaints about Baker, one from Sharon A. Winkleman who filed her complaint March 17 after visiting Baker March 5 about a free consultation advertised in the newspaper.

She said that while she was in Baker's office, she was pressured by him to schedule a return visit. She said he acted like a "new doctor." After she told a receptionist the next day that she was not returning for further visits, she received a bill for $60 in the mail, she said.

The same month Ms. Winkleman visited Baker, according to court records, the Orange County Medical Society wrote Baker and told him that his advertisements offering dermatological services and cosmetic products were not acceptable to the society.

The group's president, Dr.

Wallace M. Phillips Jr., wrote Baker that. "It is the opinion of the Orange County Medical Society that the marketing of a medical specialty (dermatology) with commercial products (cosmetics) is inappropriate and that the use of the wording 'free consultation' in advertising is solicitous."

On April 18, after receiving a second complaint, this time from a registered nurse, the DPR sent an investigator to Baker's office. The nurse reported that Baker offered to cut a mole off her back.

The investigator, John Spanogle, made an appointment with Baker for an alleged skin problem caused by frost bite. Spanogle reported that Baker, after a short examination, donned surgical gloves, rubbed vitamin E on the supposedly damaged area and massaged it with a vibrator.

Spanogle — who was charged $38 for the visit — said he saw no Florida licenses on display in the office though there was a document in German and one from the Red Cross.

Britain May Join U.S. In Leaving UNESCO

LONDON (UPI) — Britain says it will follow the example set by the United States and pull out of UNESCO at the end of 1985 if reforms are not made by the U.N. organization.

Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe, claiming Britain did not believe UNESCO provided "value for money," made the announcement Thursday in a debate in Parliament on Britain's foreign aid budget for 1984-85.

"I am writing to the (UNESCO) director general, giving him notice of withdrawal. Unless rescinded, that notice will become effective on Dec. 31, 1985," Howe said.

UNESCO, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, has come under fire for alleged overspending and inefficiency, and bias against the West — charges levelled by the United States when it announced last year it planned to withdraw from the organization by the end of 1984.

County Wouldn't End Holiday To Fix It

15 Vehicles Damaged By Pothole

About 15 vehicles were damaged when they hit a pothole at a roadwork site on Wekiva Springs Road Thursday, but Seminole County road department workers refused a sheriff's department request to end their holiday and repair the hole.

Deputy Judith Thorn reported that she became aware of the hole in the south side of the road at 11:07 p.m. Thursday when she saw a wrecker towing a car and asked what the problem was. Ms. Thorn was informed that about 15 cars had lost hubcaps, damaged their wheel rims or suffered flat tires after hitting the 2-foot wide, 8-inch deep hole.

Barricades were in the area, but did not shield the hole, the deputy's report said. When Gene Deamark of the road department was called by sheriff's department representatives at 11:12 and again at 11:40 p.m., he refused to send workers to repair the hole, saying the barricades were enough and the hole would be repaired during regular working hours today, the report said.

Breakwater Drive, Oviedo, lost $10,000 worth of items to a burglar while he was away from his home between Oct. 10 and Wednesday. Deputies report that the thief who entered the home after prying open a door took cash, jewelry and other items. A suspect has been named in the case.

ROADSIDE BATTERY
Two men were treated for injuries they received when their car was forced off Red Bug Lake Road, Casselberry, by another vehicle and two of the four men in that car attacked them, a sheriff's report said.

Job Martin, 19, of 144 Roann Ave., Oviedo, and Brian Parker, 18, of Gainesville, told deputies that one of the assailants picked up a metal pole from a nearby real estate sign and hit them with it. Both were treated at Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs and released, the report said.

The victims could not give deputies a description of the assailants who attacked them at about 2:20 a.m. Thursday, but said they were driving a white Chevrolet, the report said.

PUNCHER CHARGED

A Sanford man who reportedly entered a Sanford home and punched another man in the face and later threw pieces of concrete through windows of the victim's car has been charged with battery, criminal mischief and resisting arrest.

Sanford policeman Gary Harrell reported responding to a disturbance call at 215 Academy Court, at about 7:15 p.m. Wednesday and was told by Clarence Dawkins Sr., Mary Kelly and Robert Addison that the suspect had knocked on the door and been let in. The man reportedly attacked Dawkins and Harrell reported that Dawkins had a large lump on his forehead, a bloody nose and the left side of his face was scratched and swollen. No reason for the attack was given in the report.

After the attack, the suspect went outside and threw broken concrete through the windshield and rear window of Dawkins' car, the report said.

Faheem Farahka, 30, of Jitway Avenue, was arrested at 215 Academy Ave. at 7:23 p.m. Wednesday. He was later released on $500 bond.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Edward S. Lambeth, 53, of 303 Hidden Hollow, Sanford, was jailed at 12:40 a.m. Thursday after his car swerved in the southbound lane of U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, and caused a Florida highway patrolman to take evasive action to avoid hitting his vehicle from behind.

—Bruce Jeffrey Willard, 24, of 171 Masters Blvd., Winter Park, at 3:35 a.m. Thursday on U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park, after his car was seen traveling 32 mph and weaving.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Windy storms spoiled Florida's Thanksgiving with more than 7 inches of rain that flooded homes, washed out highways and sent sun-seeking northerners and turkey-cooking southerners scurrying for shelter. The National Weather Service said 7.09 inches of rain soaked West Palm Beach Thursday and early today. To the north, warnings for gale-force winds were posted today from Cape Canaveral to Savannah, Ga. Floodwaters 3-feet deep arrived for the holiday in two West Palm Beach trailer parks. Mildred Eitel, 63, had planned to host a Thanksgiving dinner in her trailer, but moved it to her son's home because of the flooding. A friend sent his fishing boat to pick up the party. "I never went to dinner in a boat before," Eitel said while sailing out of the neighborhood with a 22-pound turkey on her lap.

Continued from page 1A earlier accident in which a Cape Canaveral man, David N. Smith, 29, died in a head-on collision on the Interstate near Wickham Road south of Rockledge.

The Highway Patrol said Smith's car was southbound in the northbound lane when it collided with the other car.

Two men were killed Wednesday in Orange County when William Brown, 47, of Boca Raton lost control of his vehicle, spinning sideways on state Road 84, and covering both the eastbound and westbound lanes. An eastbound car driven by Noel Nader collided with Brown's car, killing both men.

A Hialeah man, Vernon Bruner, 30, was killed Wednesday on State Road 9-A when his car left the roadway, struck an illegally parked vehicle and flipped over.

Details were not available on the other four accidents. Highway Patrol officials predicted as many as 42 people would be killed in traffic accidents.

Nationwide, Thanksgiving revelers were expected to shift their attention from family gatherings to less sedate pursuits today, and police increased patrols to hold down a weekend traffic death toll that experts say could reach 500.

A United Press International count showed at least 66 people had died on the nation's roads since the holiday weekend began. That figure includes Florida's 10 fatalities and eight in Ohio.

Among those killed elsewhere was a 21-year-old Delaware man who swerved to avoid a metal traffic barrier left in a street by a prankster, police said.

The National Safety Council predicted as many as 500 people would die and another 17,000 to 20,000 would suffer disabling injuries before the long holiday weekend ends.

Police took extra precautions today, saying they expected more drunk drivers would be on the nation's roads tonight and Saturday night.

"The family gets together on Thanksgiving and then people whoop it up on the weekend," said Trooper Ed Hoopingarner of the Illinois State Police. "A lot of people will be out on the road and a lot of people will be out partying."

"We'll have extra patrols tonight and Saturday night," Hoopingarner said. "They'll be looking for violations, trying to keep traffic in line."

Extra patrols also were ordered in California, New York,

Massachusetts, Georgia, Pennsylvania and Tennessee. Most departments said their emphasis would be on preventing accidents before they could happen.

"We feel that the cost of a citation is preferable to a driver being indicted for manslaughter or negligent homicide because he or she was responsible for killing an innocent pedestrian," said Mississippi Patrol Chief George Saxon.

In Tennessee, troopers were ordered to enter taverns to try to prevent people who had been drinking from driving.

testing of space weapons and a temporary suspension of addition deployment of Cruise and Pershing missiles in Western Europe.

McFarlane twice suggested that progress on arms control could lead to easing of tensions in other areas as well.

"I think that the relationship between arms reduction talks as well as the climate of the relationship as reflected in regional disagreements is clearly accepted by the president. They are related," he said.

"We're going into the roadside taverns. We will be checking and hoping we can get drunk persons and stop them from going into the cars," said Col. Bill Jones of the Highway Patrol.

"It might slow them down and keep them from getting killed," Maryland's state police superintendent urged drivers to use seat belts.

"You wouldn't think of sending valuable property anywhere without the proper packaging," said Col. W.T. Travers Jr. "Why then, do people get into a car without putting on their safety belts?"

Asked if the talks would mark the start of a thaw in relations, McFarlane said the process that began in September with Reagan's U.N. speech and his White House meeting with Gromyko resulted in the absorption of each side's world views.

"We're at a moment where each side has decided to make a determined effort to reduce tensions — we surely have — and that this discourse ought to encompass arms reduction, disagreements over regional issues from Afghanistan to Central America, bilateral issues in which there is an opportunity for more exchanges, trade, the resolution of problems."

Military Services Fight Consolidation

Even during peacetime, the Army, Navy and Air Force battle amongst themselves, wary of any attempt to economize by consolidating their efforts.

Millions of dollars are spent needlessly each year because the services won't share anything. At one point, they even refused a money-saving proposition to purchase a belt buckle common for all.

Four years ago, top civilians in the Pentagon attempted to create a single command to handle military transportation. It would have eliminated expensive duplication of effort — for instance, the Army moving troops by land and then the Navy taking over the task of moving the same troops by sea. The Navy wanted no part of the idea.

Again, a proposal to save money by joint distribution of consumable items, joint warehousing and supply of material separately purchased by each service, was turned down. If the services would have agreed to consolidate this task alone, it would save the taxpayers $100 million a year.

The services fear consolidation chiefly because they would have to share with or turn over to civilians the posts now filled by admirals and generals.

This poor cooperation can have serious consequences when it affects military operations. In the invasion of Grenada, for instance, Marine and Army troops had trouble communicating, simply because their radios broadcast on different frequencies.

Congress is aware of the parochial interests on the part of the armed services. It should pass legislation to increase the powers of the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and give the joint chiefs a permanent military staff, so that the problem can be confronted for the good of the military establishment as a whole.

Shuttle Salvage

NASA's space shuttle program has been given a tremendous boost with the retrieval of two errant satellites by Discovery and its crew.

In salvaging the Palapa and Westar satellites, the shuttle astronauts proved that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has a future in the used satellite business as well as in launching and repairing space communications equipment.

Without the shuttle, all satellites would have to be launched by rocket. This initially cheaper option is favored by some in Washington, who covet NASA shuttle expenditures. The problem with this approach is that satellites can't be recovered if they develop technical problems; they become space junk and a costly loss to insurance underwriters.

By investing $10 million in the shuttle salvage operation, underwriters for the Palapa and Westar now have a chance to recover some of the $100 million they paid to the Indonesian government and to Western Union after the satellite launch fizzled last February.

Discovery's salvage operation was especially important because the congressional Office of Technology Assessment has just published a report that tries to shoot down President Reagan's next goal in space, a civilian space station. Making the shuttle program a dependable business venture should open the eyes of some of its nearsighted critics.

BERRY'S WORLD

Rick Brunson

By the time this year's class of freshman high schoolers become seniors in 1989, they will be taught by teachers who are better paid and more qualified than ever before.

That is one of the chief goals included in Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington's "Getting Ready For 1989" report, recently made available to the public.

In 1981, the state Board of Education set as its goal to become "a state of educational distinction." Since that time, Gov. Bob Graham and the legislature has pushed to make sure Florida's schools are among the top 25 percent in the nation by 1986. The recent report is an update and an extension of the state plan to reach those goals.

In some areas, such as standardized test scores, Florida students have met the challenge. In others, such as teachers' salaries, the state has fallen short.

Originally, Turlington called for teachers' salaries to be in the top 25 percent in the nation by 1986. But in most school districts, teachers have yet to see that noble goal materialize on their pay stubs. Now Turlington is calling for salary increases to be in the upper quartile by 1989.

If teachers are not paid more by that year, they will be more qualified, according to the report.

A combination of "improved compensation, recognition, preparation, certification, selection, appraisal and continuation of professional development" will result in teachers who can do their jobs well, the report said. Other areas to be upgraded include middle school curriculum — to prepare fourth through eighth graders for tougher courses in high school — and information sharing — school districts will be automated in order to share information.

People who have extra space on their bookshelves may want to scat down to the school board's textbook department Nov. 26-30. The school board will be giving away textbooks to anyone who will box them up and take them away. Books on all kinds of subjects and ranging from kindergarten to 12th grade levels will be available.

The textbook department is located at 911 Palmetto Ave., Sanford, and is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Congress Ends In Disgrace

By Elliot Bronner
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., and Sen. Pat Leahy, D-Vt., and Warren Rudman, R-N.H., were right — the way the 98th Congress was forced to decide how to spend the taxpayers' money in the session's final days was a disgrace.

Between 40 and 50 House members and senators, each with at least one staffer to back them up, packed into a room off the Senate chamber in the closing days to reconcile differences in spending bills adding to nearly $500 billion dollars. The scene gave new meaning to the term "boiler room."

The travesty was compounded by delays that forced Congress to pass a record four stop-gap spending bills while the problems were solved. Each of the three men voiced loud complaints about the process in its closing stages — complaints showing frustrations with the budgeting and spending mechanism in Congress. Complaints about the system are almost an annual affair.

Congress got into the bind of more work than time because although the House had passed virtually all of the 13 regular appropriations bills that keep the government operating, the Senate — where far more relaxed rules apply — had not matched the House's pace. Just four bills had been enacted and sent to the White House.

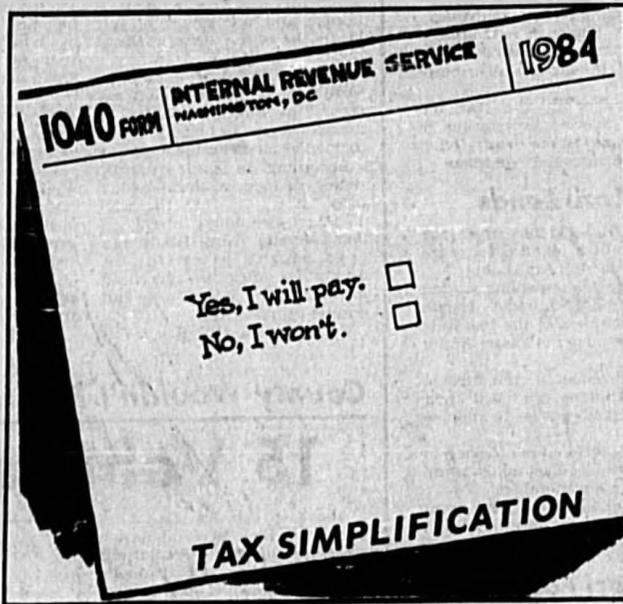

To save time, the remaining measures were lumped into a massive "continuing resolution," but even that was not finished until well after the fiscal year began Oct. 1. It eventually was passed Oct. 11, a day before Congress adjourned.

Before the conference committee, when the House Appropriations panel worked on its version of the measure, Conte observed that a handful of members were deciding the fate of major programs and then offering the packaged result to the 435-member chamber on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

Later, during the conference meeting, Conte — with one eye on the deadlocked conference and the other on the calendar rapidly headed for Election Day — mused aloud: "We're becoming the laughing stock of the nation. We can't do the work of the nation. Let us go home and try to win reelection."

During the conference itself Leahy took note of the technical complexities of the various bills and the fact that in many cases negotiations were conducted and agreements reached between the staffs of the House and Senate members responsible for a particular area. The results were then offered to the principals for final decisions.

"It may turn out we're constitutional impediments to the staff. We're not even impediments now," Leahy wryly remarked.

Ferraro Diminished

Geraldine Ferraro was supposed to give some zip to the Mondale campaign, and did so initially, but the overall impression now is that Walter Mondale gained some personal stature in defeat, Ferraro was diminished by her national exposure.

Mondale, at the end, behaved with a good deal of style and dignity. He remarked that there comes a time in life when you have to face the fact that you should do something else, and said that he planned to practice law. There were no complaints or excuses. One almost forgave him for the repeated use of the word "decency" during the campaign, which asserted an insufferable and unsupported claim to a monopoly on moral virtue. Mondale ended up appearing to be a better man than he had previously allowed himself to be, and perhaps if he had allowed himself to be photographed smoking a cigar or drinking a Chivas the voters would have found him more endearing.

Feminist commentators are still celebrating Geraldine Ferraro as the heroine of "the first ever." Ellen Goodman, for example, is pleased with Ferraro. "Are we better off," she asks, "than we were four months ago? Ask the woman who reached out to her at rallies. Ask Carrie Giardino, a fourth grader who ran for school president in South Yarmouth, Mass., on a Ferraro ticket — 'If that Italian woman can do the job...so can this one' — and won."

There may be something in Ellen Goodman's point there, the first woman on a national ticket, but in terms of female achievement one would think that Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, Ambassador Jeanne Kirkpatrick, and Sen. Nancy Landon Kassebaum would have a more substantial importance.

My own impression is that Ferraro emerged from all this as a diminished provincial who has all along been willing to cut corners in her own behalf. In her political career, all of her "mistakes" have been in her own favor. This is also true of what we know about the operations of her husband.

The House Ethics Committee will presumably address itself to her sworn statements on her disclosure forms that she had no financial involvement with the Zaccaro firm of which she was an officer.

Ferraro, throughout the campaign, had two standard responses to these and other matters. She was, she said, suffering from a double standard because she is a woman and an Italian-American.

But she simply did not answer any of the relevant questions, and if her name had been Ed Meese she would not have gotten away with it.

The various investigations are going forward, both as regards her and Mr. Zaccaro, and in due course we will have the results. But the overall impression remains one of shabbiness, provinciality, and cry-baby excuse making.

Mrs. Ferraro is widely believed to be planning a Senate race challenge to Alphonse D'Amato two years from now, but she might have had a much better chance there if he had not seen so much of her this year.

SCIENCE WORLD

Of Mice, Men And Smoke

By Patricia McCormack
UPI Health Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Do mice that smoke cigarettes have anything in common with people who have a tobacco habit?

That question arises from a nine-year, multimillion dollar study in which mice were rigged to inhale cigarette smoke.

No one knows the answer exactly. That is, no one to date has established that mice and men — or women, either, for that matter — have much in common.

The latest study using special mice bred for research was paid for and reported by the Council for Tobacco Research. It found that inhalation of the smoke did not produce any squamous cell lung cancer, a type of lung cancer often reported to be linked with human smoking.

You may ask: How did they get mice to smoke cigarettes, anyway?

This was dealt with by placing the little rodents in holders that permitted nose-only exposure to smoke generated by a machine.

The report on research by scientists at Microbiological Associates Inc., an independent research company in Bethesda, Md., is titled, "Chronic Exposure of Mice to Cigarette Smoke."

More than 10,000 mice inhaled the smoke from over 800,000 cigarettes during the research, which with related projects, cost $12 million.

Researchers found that mice in which lung cancers were first induced by a chemical did not get significantly increased lung cancers when later exposed to long-term cigarette smoke inhalation.

A summary of the report, from the Council for Tobacco Research, said three large smoke inhalation experiments were done with specially made high-tar, low-nicotine and high-tar, high-nicotine cigarettes.

"Two experiments assessed the carcinogenic potential of smoke either alone or in combination with a chemical carcinogen given prior to smoke exposure," the summary said.

Among findings, cited in the summary:

— No squamous cell lung cancers, a type often reported to be associated with smoking, were found in the smoke-exposed, sham-treated or control animals. Sham-treated mice were given MCA but no smoke exposure.

— Mice got squamous cell cancers and other types of lung tumors when pretreated with methicholanthrene, a potent carcinogen. Daily exposure to smoke did not change the types of MCA-induced tumors compared to sham-treated controls.

— Many sham-treated animals had a higher incidence of all malignant lung tumors than animals given MCA and then exposed to smoke.

China To Resell U.S. Arms To Iran

WASHINGTON — Before they've even negotiated a deal to buy U.S. military hardware, the Chinese are dicker to sell some of it to Iran, according to recent intelligence reports classified higher than top secret.

The People's Republic of China, which wants to buy arms from the Pentagon without the standard agreement not to resell them to third parties without U.S. approval, did not volunteer the information about the highly secret negotiations with Iran. It was picked up through clandestine intelligence-gathering.

Sources at the National Security Agency told my associate Dale Van Atta that Peking fully intended to hide any sales to Iran. The Chinese told Tehran that, as part of a separate agreement, the weapons would be routed through a Mediterranean country that is a member of NATO. In an evenhanded gesture, the Chinese also offered Iran any military items they may get from Soviet bloc countries.

Peking has already been selling the Iranians some Chinese-made helicopters, howitzers and missiles that have been rendered surplus by modernization of the divisions along the Sino-Soviet border.

After four years of war with Iraq, the Iranians badly need spare parts for the American hardware the Khomeini regime inherited from the shah. They found two U.S. allies to sell them the goods: Israel and South Korea.

Behind-the-scenes pressure from Washington last summer got the South Koreans to stop their sales to Iran, which had consisted mainly of artillery shells. But no amount of pressure has moved the Israelis, who publicly deny the whole arrangement.

So the arms sales continue, through middlemen, who make only cursory efforts to disguise the Israeli involvement. For example, arms dealers are currently looking for a country willing to pose as the "end-user" of Israeli M-48 tanks that would actually be shipped to Iran.

The United States is not happy with the Israeli-Iranian arms traffic, but intelligence officials realize that the deal is helpful to Israel and thus to U.S. interests in the long run. They explain that the Israelis sell arms to Iran because they get oil in return; they prefer Iran to Iraq; it helps prolong a war that weakens the Arab world — and they need the money.

In fact, an account of an Iranian Cabinet meeting last May indicates that Tehran is unhappy at the doubling of arms prices in the past two years.

Ayatollah Khomeini hasn't been relying on the Chinese and Israelis alone to supply his war machine. Iranian arms buyers have been ranging the globe in search of $2 billion worth of munitions.

At about the time South Korea was asked to stop selling arms to Iran, North Korea stepped in and began supplying land mines and rocket grenades.

Khomeini's arms scouts have also found some promising sources in Argentina and Brazil. They're bargaining with Argentina for tanks, French-made Mirage fighters, Israeli Dagger fighters, some old destroyers and a helicopter. Brazil appears willing to palm off on the desperate Iranians some amphibious armored cars, small boats, mortar shells, hand grenades, rockets, bombs and ammunition.

Footnote: NSA sources believe that China is determined to become a net exporter of weapons. For example, about a month ago the Chinese quietly delivered three frigates to Egypt at the Mediterranean port of Alexandria. If Peking succeeds in its apparent intention to sell more munitions than it buys, it would mark a new direction for the communist giant.

New Drug May Rekindle Sexual Desire In Just About Anyone

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Sixty people have volunteered to participate in tests of a drug that researchers hope will kindle the desires of adults who are somewhat lackadaisical about sex.

The drug is aimed at anyone over 25 who lacks sexual desire, no matter if they have exhausted all other remedies. If they once had the urge and lost it, or if they never had the urge to begin with, researchers at Philadelphia Medical Institute said.

"We're talking about people who find themselves without any real, sustained interest in sexual activities," said Dr. Joseph Mendels, the Institute's medical director. "They may still want to have relationships with persons of the opposite (or same) sex but the notion of sexual desire seems to have dissipated."

While scientists have not determined the causes of a loss of sex drive, experts estimate about 20 percent of the adult population is affected.

Information about the drug is being withheld under an agreement with the manufacturer. But Mendels said initial tests showed most people did not develop side effects.

Mendels said researchers are not quite sure how the drug works, but they believe the medication changes a chemical balance in the brain that regulates sex drive.

Mendels said the pill takes "certainly weeks, perhaps several months" to produce results.

Earlier Dismissed By Seminole Judges

Court Reinstates Loitering Charges

Charges against three Sanford men arrested for loitering and prowling have been reinstated by the 5th District Court of Appeal.

Seminole County judges had dismissed the charges, saying they were unconstitutional. That prompted the State Attorney's Office to appeal the lower courts' decisions.

In an opinion received Tuesday at the Seminole County Courthouse, the high court ordered Jack Thomas Rash, 29, of 500 Park Ave., Darrell Anthony Johnson, 25, of 2590 Frog Alley, and Anthony McGill, 25, of 2741 E. 20th St., to stand trial.

Johnson and McGill were arrested behind Midway Elementary School Jan. 3, and Rash Dec. 1 behind Atlantic Bank, Park Avenue and First Street, Sanford.

County judges Harold Johnson and Wallace Hall dismissed charges against the men after Assistant Public Defender Meryl L. Allawas argued that the Florida loitering and prowling law was unconstitutional because it was similar to a California law that had been declared unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The appeals court justices, however, said the state statute was different enough from the California law to keep the Florida law valid.

The California ordinance stated that a person who "loiters or wanders upon the streets or from place to place without apparent reason or business and who refuses to identify himself and to account for his presence when requested by any peace officer to do so..." was guilty of a misdemeanor.

The Florida law states: "It is unlawful for any person to loiter or prowl in a place, at a time or in a manner not usual for law-abiding individuals, under circumstances that warrants a justifiable and reasonable alarm or immediate concern for the safety of persons or property in the vicinity.

"Among the circumstances which may be considered in determining whether such alarm or immediate concern is warranted is the fact that the person takes flight upon appearance of a law enforcement officer, refuses to identify himself, or manifestly endeavors to conceal himself or any object..."

The Florida law also states that the officer must, prior to arresting someone under the statute, allow the person to explain his presence and conduct.

The high court said the Florida law was not as vague as the California law because it not only mentioned prowling and loitering but stipulated that there must be a presence of a public threat or breach of the peace.

As is customary when a case is ordered by local courts, the Sanford men will have to stand trial.

JUST FOUND & RELEASED FOR SALE

GENUINE UNITED STATES GOV'T. SILVER DOLLARS

U.S. MINT STATE .900 FINE PURE SILVER

GOV'T. SILVER UP TO 100 YEARS OLD

UNITED STATES COIN RESERVE

United States Coin Reserve, a distributor of Government Currency, through its audit of coin depositories has found 10,000 uncirculated Government Silver Dollars dating back as far as 1878. These treasured coins will be released to the American Public for one week only at a guaranteed price of $84.90 each...an incredible $26.00 less than a major advertiser! All Government silver dollars are to be held in guarded vaults in the United States until shipped. Orders received later may not be honored due to volatile fluctuations in the precious metals markets, and checks may be returned uncashed.

U.S. CONGRESS CREATES SHORTAGE

These beautiful pieces of American Silver were created by the United States Mint over the last century. During WWI because of a major silver shortage, Congress and the Federal Government were forced to melt down 270 million silver dollars increasing the value of these coins dramatically. Their silver content then as today is almost one Troy ounce of .900 fine silver. Despite fluctuations in the price of silver, Morgan Silver Dollars have had an average annual appreciation of 26.5% in value over the last 10 years alone!

AUDIT REVEALS GOVERNMENT SILVER

Through a normal procedural check of coin banks and depositories this latest audit reveals an unknown stockpile of rare Government Silver. This fully preserved rare United States Silver after having been stored in vaults for decades will now finally see its distribution in the hands of the American Public. Although all opinions, estimates, information and projections can't be completely guaranteed, they do represent the judgement of the U.S. Coin Reserve; a division of Verret Enterprises, a private corporation. Also due to the massive meltdowns it's estimated that very few of these Government Morgan and Peace Silver Dollars still exist and that these 10,000 are some of the only ones available today.

GOVERNMENT SILVER RELEASED

All American citizens will qualify for this great investment of Government Silver Dollars and should call or send money to insure that your order will be filled. We do not expect for Government Silver dollars to last more than one week because this find from our coin network is very rare. All of these government Silver dollars then as today contain almost one Troy ounce of .900 Fine pure silver. Silver dollars are up to 105 years old and are guaranteed to be in uncirculated condition - MS63-65. All Silver dollars are guaranteed by the United States as to their silver content and accompanied by a Certificate of Authenticity.

STRICT LIMIT

Since our price of $84.90 each is an incredible one half of our full market value, we expect an avalanche of orders to come pouring in. Therefore, we advise you to get your order in early before the strictly limited supply at this price is sold. We offer a 4 day examination period for each order; orders returned within that time will receive a full refund. A limit of five hundred coins per order will be strictly adhered to! So, avoid disappointment. Act now!

AMERICA'S MOST BEAUTIFUL COINS

These American relics have a history as illustrious and as varied as the coins themselves. Soon after the first issues appeared in 1878 these coins were nicknamed "cartwheels." This is because the surface has such a brilliant silvery luster that when one turns the coin at a slant a white halo is seen moving back and forth over the coin. This beautiful Gov't Silver more than any other U.S. Coinage is highly symbolic of American Freedom and Liberty. The Morgan Liberty head wears what is known as a Phrygian Cap, this was worn by the Roman slaves at Phrygia when they finally won their freedom. The Peace Dollar instead of legal tender origins was really begun as a commemorative to celebrate the end of the First World War. Hence the name - Peace Dollar. On the reverses of both coins we find two distinctive American Eagles representative of the fearless heroic spirit found in American Patriotism. These coins are the most famous and popular of all U.S. Issues. This is no small wonder when one considers the large one ounce crown size, the breathtaking figures of Liberty and the powerful American Eagles all representing the strength and resilience of America and it's currency.

Where's Beef? Winter Park's Offensive Line

WINTER PARK — Anyone naive enough to ask "Where's the Beef?" tonight at Showalter Field needs only to look in the direction of the Winter Park offensive line.

When seventh-ranked Winter Park and Lake Mary line up for the region football championship at 8 p.m., there will be a noticeable ill to the field. Look down and you'll find the Winter Park offensive line.

The two guards, two tackles, center and tight end will be brought in courtesy of Iowa Meals in six separate semi-tractor trailers.

Make that five, there are two young men who weigh "only" 200 pounds. They can come in on the same load.

There's another rumor going around that the way who tell the Winter Park offensive line from the Florida Gator offensive line is the brand on the right cheek. The Wildcats' mark is XXX. Florida's is 888. Also, none of the Wildcats bench presses 400 pounds...yet.

You better believe it is Grade A beef, too.

The six hole openers are five pounds shy of 1,500 pounds but since Thursday was Thanksgiving it's a good bet they'll surpass it after a couple of swallows. That's an average of 250 pounds per man.

Guard Brad Holloway is the heaviest at 290. Tight end Jay Jane is next at 280 and tackle Jim Crowley tips the scales at 275. Center Doug Sagas weighs 240. The "lightweights" are 210-pound tackle John Beavers and 200-pound guard Don Maddox.

Not only are they large but they are tall, too. Holloway is 6-6. Sagas, Crowley, Maddox and Jane are each 6-2. Beavers is 6-1.

Just ask the nine opponents on Winter Park's schedule. The Wildcats outmashed them, 319 yards to 82. The name of Gergley's game is ball control.

"Controlling the football is what we like to do," said Winter Park coach Larry Gergley Thursday morning while preparing the "Cats" for an 11 a.m. workout. "Eventually, we know we'll get the ball offensively."

And once they get it, they like to keep it. While rolling up 3,198 yards on the ground this fall, Winter Park has averaged eight yards per run. Elroy Harris, the Florida Athletic Coaches Association Player of the Year, is the prime mover. The senior tailback has 1,738 yards in 207 carries. He is averaging 8.4 yards per try and has 26 TDs.

Thanks to Harris, bulldog fullback Terry Miller, quarterback Rich Esposito and the offensive line, Winter Park ranks first in rushing and first in total offense in Central Florida. The second star is due largely to the first, but with a running attack like this, why pass? Winter Park is averaging 71 yards through the air.

Winter Park's throwing of the football, however, is the last thing on Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson's mind. It's his job to find a way to get between the chuck roasts and the sirloins. "They sure got a tall, beefy bunch," said Nelson. "It's tough to get around them."

And Nelson has to do the "getting around?" with just two players weighing 200 pounds. Nose guard Darrin Washington and linebacker Billy Caughell are the lone 200-pounders although five other defenders fall in the 190 range. Nelson said the Rams will have to depend on quickness to offset the bulk.

Nelson's plan is simple in theory. "We will try to get as many people to the point of contact as possible," said Harry. "A lot of people talk about our offense, but we have been defending people all year. We have a great defense."

All those figures don't add up to scoring defense, which is the only true yardstick. Lake Mary has allowed just 69 points in 10 games. Less than a touchdown and accompanying PAT per game. The Rams have four shutouts, although three came against teams — Seminole, Lyman and Bishop Moore — who aren't offensive by any means. The blanking of Apopka, nevertheless, stamped the Ram 11 as (or real).

In the other six games, however, Lake Mary has been stingy, too. Deland, Oviedo and Lake Howell scored 10 points. Lake Branley tallied 13. Mainland earned 10 and Spruce Creek picked up 14 when the Rams went easily on the Hawks.

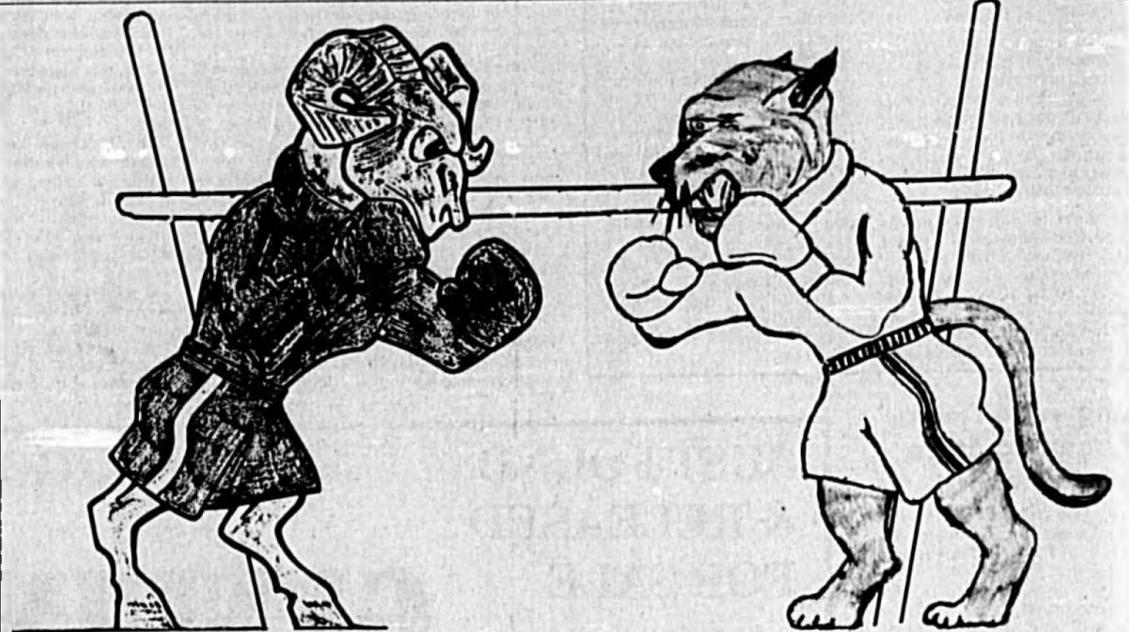

Some of this success didn't surprise Nelson who said he knew his ends (Todd Nedrow, Walt White and Mike Graham) and linebackers (Caughell, Don Meyer and Brett Molle) would be strong areas, but the secondary has surprised him.

"The defensive backfield has been the biggest difference," said the second-year coach. "Last year, some of these guys were too timid. They weren't aggressive and didn't like to hit people."

"Once a guy got past our linebackers, it was touchdown."

That has all changed now, said Nelson. Junior Ray Hartsfield has never been shy about unloading on anyone and Nelson said it's been contagious. "Ray has always hit like a truck," he said. "But this year, Kirk Pritchard, Scott Sperazza and Byron Washington are too."

Now, all Nelson asks is for the trucks to derail the semis.

REGION 4A-5 FOOTBALL: Lake Mary's Rams and Winter Park's Wildcats. Lake Mary, the District 4A-9 champion, is 9-1 with its lone loss coming to Lake Howell.

Winter Park, the District 4A-10 champion, is 9-1 with its lone loss coming to Lakeland. Kickoff is set for 8 o'clock tonight at Showalter Field in Winter Park.

Rams, 'Cats Expect 12,000

Nelson: We Won't Change Anything

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

WINTER PARK — Tonight's Region 4A-5 championship football collision between Lake Mary's Rams and Winter Park's Wildcats is really more than a football game. Why else would Winter Park athletic director Bob Mosher expect a record 12,000 fans for the 8 p.m. kickoff?

It will be the last time the Five Star Conference (Lake Mary) and the Metro Conference (Winter Park) do battle. Redistricting by the Florida High School Activities Association so chopped up the conferences that the Five Star will probably fold and the Metro is in limbo.

The coaches — Lake Mary's Harry Nelson and Winter Park's Larry Gergley — each has something the other wants. Nelson, whose Rams are in just their fourth year of operation, would like to establish Winter Park's tradition of excellence on the gridiron. Gergley, who is regarded as the dean of coaches in Central Florida by his peers, is still chasing the elusive state championship after coming close several times. He would like to join Nelson as the only Orange/Seminole County coach to stake that claim. Nelson won in 1970 at Bishop Moore.

The teams are as contrasting as their coaches despite identical 9-1 records. Nelson is a highly emotional individual who brings as much intensity into the game as possible. Gergley takes a low key, business-like approach. Winter Park systematically dismantles its opponents while Lake Mary has more of a penchant for the big play.

Seventh-ranked Winter Park, which won the Metro and District 4A-10, lost a 21-14 decision in its first game to Lakeland, then rolled off nine straight wins. Only Jones (32-22) and Titusville (24-20) challenged the powerful Wildcats. Lake Mary, which won the Five Star and District 4A-9, clawed for every win except two easy verdicts over Bishop Moore and Spruce Creek. Lake Mary was upset by Lake Howell midway through the season. Winter Park wiped out an injury-riddled Lake Howell team last week for the only common opponent between the two.

Nelson, who has a 15-5 record since taking control of the Lake Mary program, said he knows his team is the underdog but that it doesn't matter. "I really think we can beat them," said Nelson Thursday morning. "I'd be very disappointed if we didn't do well."

Nelson sees one BIG difference. "We are a very good blocking and tackling ball club," he said. "Winter Park is a very good blocking and tackling ball club with exceptional size (See Where's Beef? Page 8A)."

Despite the Winter Park beef, Nelson said his Rams plan to start slicing away early. He said that is something Apopka didn't do last year when the multi-talented Blue Darters lost to Winter Park in overtime for the region showdown.

"Winter Park beat Apopka last year because they outhit them," said Nelson. "That won't happen to us. We don't grab and hang on when we tackle. We pick the guy up and set him on his butt."

Gergley, nevertheless, said his "Cats won't be intimidated by aggressiveness — physical."

Bisceglia: Wildcats Were Nice To Us

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

WINTER PARK — Lake Mary's Rams and Winter Park's Wildcats have just one common opponent — Lake Howell. The Rams lost their only game of the season to Lake Howell, 10-7. The Wildcats bombarded the Silver Hawks, 49-14.

Which doesn't say much on paper for tonight's 8 o'clock collision for the Region 4A-5 championship at Showalter Field. Get there early anyway. Winter Park athletic director Bob Mosher said he expects 12,000 fans.

With that many people clamoring to see the game, however, comparing scores doesn't seem to be much of a variable.

And, it shouldn't be. Lake Howell surprised Lake Mary on Oct. 12. The Silver Hawks recovered three Lake Mary fumbles, turned them into a touchdown and a field goal in the first half, then held on with a great defensive effort.

Lake Howell didn't have any surprises for Winter Park. Minus nine starters because of injury or lack of academics, the Hawks were no match for the powerful Wildcats. They were ground up and spit out.

"And they (Winter Park) were nice to us," said Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia. "They beat us up in the first half, then ran the first team for just one series in the third quarter and pulled them."

With a 35-0 halftime lead, Winter Park coach Larry Gergley enjoyed that luxury. Although Bisceglia said he wouldn't pick a winner Friday, he did emphasize that "Lake Mary has its work for tonight."

Bisceglia said Winter Park's entrance was enough to send the employees running for cover. "The ticket takers couldn't believe the size of those guys (Winter Park)," said Bisceglia. "When they walked by them, they blocked out the lights."

It wasn't much different on Winter Park's first offensive series. "Our defense came up and said, 'Coach, I can't see the running backs,'" said Bisceglia. "Winter Park lines up shoe to shoe. It's like a massive wall."

Winter Park not only has the line, but it has three seasoned backs to run behind it. Elroy Harris, a 6-1, 195-pound tailback, is the meal ticket. Harris, a converted defensive end, ran for 1,738 yards on 207 carries. He averaged 8.4 yards per carry in 10 games. He's quick, strong and powerful.

"Harris is the best back I've seen," said Bisceglia. "He's better than (Apopka tailback) Sammie Smith. He's got massive arms and he bench presses 380."

"After the game, he took off his shoulder pads and started doing backflips all over the place. How many running backs can do that?" he added.

Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson, although much impressed with Harris, didn't put him in Smith's class talent-wise. "Harris is the best all-around back we'll see," said Nelson. "He certainly doesn't have the talent of Smith but he's a harder runner and has had a better year."

Bisceglia, too, was just as impressed with quarterback Rich Esposito. Esposito, who hit nine homers as the Winter Park shortstop last spring, was also a member of coach Howard Mable's U.S. champion Big League All-Stars.

Lions Knock Out Packers

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Detroit's critics have accused the Lions of being "on holiday" most of the season but the club rose up on Thanksgiving Day to put Green Bay's season to rest.

Detroit spotted Green Bay leads of 14-0 and 21-7 Thursday before roaring back behind three touchdown passes by Gary Danielson to post a 31-28 win that all but knocked the Packers out of the race for first in the NFC Central Division.

"This loss just put us out of any hopes for a post-season game," Green Bay coach Forrest Gregg said after lambasting his team for its shabby defense play against a team it squashed, 41-9, a month ago.

Chicago, 8-4, needs a win Sunday to wrap up its first division title since it won the NFL championship in 1963.

Green Bay's four-game winning streak came to an end and the Packers dropped to 5-8, 3 1/2 games behind Chicago with three to play. Detroit raised itself to 4-8-1 in defense of its division crown.

"This certainly makes a nice

Pro Football

Thanksgiving," said Detroit coach Monte Clark. "I'm certainly going to enjoy it."

"I'm pleased that the guys didn't hang their heads. They came out and played well; believed in themselves."

"This was probably the worst 60 minutes of defensive football I have seen in my life," Gregg said. "It was absolutely horrible. To do this on national television is embarrassing."

"You must play with great intensity each and every week on defense," Gregg said. "Your opponent is going to prepare for you each week and if you don't go in with intensity, they'll kick your teeth in."

Danielson passed for 305 yards, completing 24-of-33, and fired touchdowns of 10 and 21 yards to rookie tight end David Lewis plus a 21-yard shot to Jeff Chadwick.

Septien's Field Goal Lifts Dallas Past Pats

Pro Football

IRVING, Texas (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys had already played the role of turkey once this week so when kickoff time rolled around on a bright, crisp Thanksgiving afternoon they were in no mood to do so again.

"We were coming back from one of our worst losses in the franchise's history," said Dallas running back Tony Dorsett.

"We were anxious to get out on the field and show something to ourselves and our fans and our peers around the league. This game was a start in the right direction."

Four days after the Cowboys were humiliated by the Buffalo Bills, they came back Thursday to down the New England Patriots, 20-17.

Dallas' defense recorded 10 quarterback sacks and then, with the score tied, the Cowboys' much-maligned offense managed to drive the ball into position for Rafael Septien to kick a 23-yard field goal with four seconds to go.

"I think," said Dallas coach Tom Landry, "that it was as well as we've played in a long time." The decision enabled Dallas to move a half game ahead of the Washington Redskins and New York Giants in the NFC East and their 8-5 record also put the Cowboys within one victory of their 19th consecutive winning season.

New England is also 8-5, but the Patriots lost ground in their race for a wild card playoff spot and in addition, New England saw their last hope for the AFC East title disappear. Miami clinched the division title while sitting at home awaiting their Monday night meeting with the New York Jets.

Both defenses earned their money Thursday with Dallas safety Michael Downs starting the afternoon by intercepting the second pass thrown by Tony Eason and returning it 27 yards for a score.

Both sides had problems producing threats the rest of the day with the two teams combining for 21 punts.

Hurricanes Go After Eagles, Bowl Committee

United Press International

Unlike most teams in the nation, the Miami Hurricanes probably wouldn't trade quarterbacks with Boston College. They would, however, trade bowl plans.

The Miami players are unhappy that the Cotton Bowl committee has decided to invite Boston College when bids go out Saturday. No. 12 Miami will be out to prove the committee wrong today when the Hurricanes host the 10th-ranked Eagles in a nationally televised game.

The defending national champion Hurricanes, 8-3, are expected to go to the Fiesta Bowl instead against UCLA. Boston College, 7-2, has already agreed with Cotton Bowl officials to face the Southwest Conference champion Jan. 1 in Dallas.

College Football

"I'm not bitter toward Boston College because they're going to the Cotton Bowl," Hurricanes defensive tackle Kevin Fagan said, adding that the selection of the Eagles over Miami was "the bowl committee's fault. I want to do well because we're playing a worthy opponent. It's a chance to redeem ourselves."

"Maybe this will be a way for us to show the Cotton Bowl that it screwed up," offensive tackle Dave Heffernan said.

Today's game will also feature an aerial battle between Boston College's Doug Flutie and Miami's Bernie Kosar. Flutie, the favorite for the Heisman Trophy, is the major reason the Cotton Bowl made its early decision on the Eagles.

Kosar, who led Miami to the national championship as a freshman, has completed 62.7 percent of his passes for 3,195 yards and 23 touchdowns this season. Flutie has hit on 59 percent for 2,706 yards and 21 touchdowns in nine starts.

Flutie is the all-time major college NCAA passing yardage leader with 9,831 career yards but Kosar is ahead of Flutie's pace with 5,400 yards already.

Cotton Bowl Could Have Official Host

United Press International

If the Texas Longhorns can avoid the trap being laid for them in Waco, and if Texas Tech can find a way to upset the Houston Cougars, then the Southwest Conference can officially provide a host team for the Cotton Bowl Saturday.

But if those two possibilities do not occur, the SWC will have to do something it does not usually have to do before naming the host team in the Jan. 1 game — and that is wait until December.

With many of the nation's major college football teams having already completed their schedules and with almost all of the bowl spots finalized, the SWC still has plenty of business left.

There are six league games remaining — two of them to be played Dec. 1 — and five teams are still in the chase for at least a share of the league title and the Cotton Bowl spot.

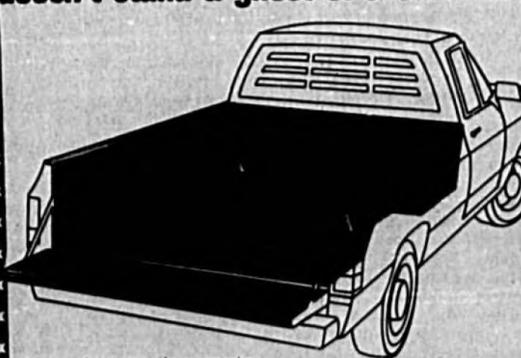

The most logical candidate is Texas, ranked fourth in the country and owning a one-game lead in the SWC race.

But a loss in one of their last two games — either against Baylor Saturday afternoon in Waco or against Texas A&M the next weekend in Austin — could bring about a nasty turn of events as far as the Longhorns are concerned.

Lake Mary Wins Opener

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor
OCALA — Lake Mary's Rams successfully opened the 1984-85 basketball season with a 77-65 comeback victory over St. Augustine in the first round of the Ocala Breeders Tournament Thursday night at Forest High School.

Lake Mary plays host Ocala Forest tonight at 7 in the semifinal round. A victory tonight pushes the Rams into the championship game Saturday at 9:15 against either Osceola Kissimmee, Savannah, Ga. or Jacksonville Ribault.

"They led the whole game," said Lake Mary coach Willie Richardson. "We played just six people. We were making enough mistakes as it was. We looked ragged but they looked as ragged as us."

St. Augustine, 0-2, came out pumping away behind all-state prospect Joe Logan and took an 18-14 first-quarter lead. Logan, who tallied 32 points before fouling out, kept the margin at four entering halftime, 39-35.

Richardson, however, said the Rams tested their press in the early going and got good results. "But we held off with it until later because we didn't want to get tired," he said. "The press in the fourth quarter was the key. It changed the complexion of the game."

The Rams, who fell behind by 12 in the third period, trailed entering the final eight minutes by four points. Senior Daryl Merthie and junior Matt Newby, though, spearheaded a defensive rush which turned the tide.

George Williams finally got the Rams over the hump with 4:20 to play when he dropped in a free throw for a 56-55 lead. Lake Mary converted 8 of 11 free shots in the last period to ice the win.

The Rams built their lead to five points in the last two minutes, then used crucial free throws by Eric Czerniejewski, Merthie and Newby to pull away to the final 12-point advantage. Newby hit 9 of 10 free ones while Merthie hit all four of his and Czerniejewski hit 4 of 8.

Alaskan Shootout

Teams Will Hunt More Than Caribou At Anchorage

United Press International

It's not exactly the playgrounds of New York City or the high-school gyms of Indiana, but if you're looking for some basketball this weekend you could do worse than Anchorage, Alaska.

The Great Alaska Shootout — not to be mistaken for a state-wide caribou hunt — begins Friday and simply has become one of the nation's better college basketball tournaments.

The three-day eight-team gathering is highlighted by No. 2 Illinois. The Illini are a bruiser this season and last Sunday showed as much in defeating No. 5 Oklahoma and All-America Wayman Tisdale 81-64 in the Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic.

Now it's Idaho State's turn to battle the team with the killer frontline of George Montgomery, Efreem Winters and Anthony Welch. At guard are Bruce Douglas and Doug Altenberger.

"We're going to have to hang on to the ball and keep them from getting second shots," said Idaho State assistant coach Vern Cohrs. "They're going to be a bigger, stronger team. We know we're in for a tough time, but you don't go into these games to lose."

Idaho State is led by forwards Doug Moratzka and Nelson Peterson.

In the other opening-round games, it's No. 20 Kansas vs. Maryland, Tennessee vs. Alabama-Birmingham and Oregon vs. Alaska-Anchorage.

Maryland-Kansas will be a good early test for both. The Terps are one of the best in the Atlantic Coast Conference with forwards Len Bias and Adrian Branch. Kansas has one of the country's top freshman in 6-foot-11 Danny Manning along with 7-1 Greg Drelling.

Tennessee relies on speed with Tony White and Fred Jenkins while Alabama-Birmingham goes

College Basketball

with an experienced squad led by Steve Mitchell and Jerome Mincy.

Oregon has one of the tallest trees in the Northwest in 7-0 Blair Rasmussen and Alaska-Anchorage of Division II counters in the middle with 6-9 Hansi Gnad.

Elsewhere Friday night, No. 1 Georgetown opens defense of its NCAA title in the balmy luxury of the Pacific. The Hoyas meet Hawaii-Hilo and the planet Earth stands a better chance of breaking orbit than Georgetown does of losing.

No. 10 Southern Methodist with 7-0 Olympic center Jon Koncak takes on Texas Southern, and No. 11 Nevada-Las Vegas with 6-9 Richie Adams faces Nevada-Reno.

At UCLA, Walt Hazzard debuts as Bruins coach against Idaho and Texas-El Paso begins what should be a strong year with a tuneup against Fort Lewis.

OSU'S MILLER WANTS 14 GAMES

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Ohio State basketball Coach Eldon Miller is among the majority of Big Ten coaches who would like to see the conference return to a 14-game league schedule.

The Big Ten previously played a 14-game schedule, but went to the double round robin, 18-game slate several years ago.

"I'm for a 14-game Big Ten conference schedule," said Miller. "The reason I'm for it is less missed class time in January and February, No. 1. Because, instead of those two road games, we'll add two more home games and we won't be traveling."

Penguins Locate Empty Net In 9-3 Thrashing Of Whalers

United Press International
The Pittsburgh net looked like a horn of plenty to the Hartford Whalers.

"We couldn't put the puck in an empty net before tonight," Whalers coach Jack Evans said Thursday night after Hartford posted a 9-3 rout of the Penguins. "Tonight it finally started to go in for us."

Greg Malone scored two goals and set up three others and Mark Johnson added two goals. Bobby Crawford and Torrie Robertson each added a goal and three assists for the Whalers, who snapped a four-game winless streak. The newly formed line of Malone, Crawford and Robertson combined for 13 points.

"We suffered through eight games of not scoring, and now that we got some goals, hopefully it will continue," he said.

Pittsburgh has not won since Nov. 14. The Penguins were without injured Mario Lemieux, the NHL's top draft choice, who suffered a strained left knee Wednesday night against Washington.

Canadiens 3, Black Hawks 2

At Montreal, Guy Carbonneau scored his second goal of the game on a breakaway with 4:48 left, snapping a 2-2 tie and handing Chicago its third straight loss. The Canadiens are 4-1-1 in their last six outings. Trailing 2-0, the Black Hawks received power-play goals from Darryl Sutter and Doug Wilson.

Pittsburgh Recalls Lamoureux

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Penguins have recalled center Mitch Lamoureux from their Baltimore farm club in the American Hockey League.

Lamoureux was called up to take the place of rookie center Mario Lemieux, who re-injured a knee in the 3-3 tie with Washington Wednesday night.

Lamoureux was Pittsburgh's sixth choice in the 1981 draft. He played eight games with the Penguins last season, scoring a goal and adding an assist.

Lamoureux has 10 goals and 14 assists for the Skipjacks this season.

World Golf Loses Sponsor

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The sponsor of the $200,000 World Championship of Women's Golf has decided not to exercise its option for staging the tournament in 1985.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer reported today that Chevrolet has withdrawn its sponsorship from the tourney that has been held at the Shaker Heights Country Club for the last four years.

"What we had hoped to gain as far as our involvement with women by supporting the tournament had not worked out," an official for the automaker told the newspaper, "and that was the importance of visibility on a national level. What you have there is a very, very nice, local tournament."

Torn Cartilage Stops Sanders

PHOENIX, Arizona (UPI) — Reserve forward Mike Sanders will be sidelined for at least two months following arthroscopic surgery to repair torn cartilage in his left knee. Phoenix Suns officials said Thursday.

Sanders had been troubled by pain in the knee for over a week. He had missed four games because it was thought he was suffering from a hyperextension of the ligaments.

Team spokesman Tom Ambrose said he was told by team physician Dr. Paul Steingard that Sanders has a peripheral tear of the medial meniscus cartilage, which runs along the back of the knee.

The tear is located near the bone, Ambrose said. The surgery was needed to reattach the cartilage to the bone.

LaSalle Center Ruled Ineligible

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — La Salle center Albert Butts's violation of a rule limiting an athlete's participation in sports after his 20th birthday has made him ineligible to play the 1984-85 basketball season.

The 6-foot-9 Butts, 24, who averaged 14.2 points and 8.1 rebounds for the Explorers last season, was ruled ineligible because of the NCAA rule that states a year of collegiate eligibility is used when a student aged 20 years or older plays in "organized competition" before enrolling in college.

Butts played at Frederick Military Academy in Virginia for two years after leaving South Philadelphia High School and turned 20 during his second year at the school.

"That kid (Esposito) can really run," said Bisceglia. "He didn't hurt us much because he didn't have to. But he can really go with it."

The wingback is Brooks Dalrymple. The 6-1, 215-pounder is Winter Park's only two way starter (linebacker), but Gergley said he uses four or five other offensive people on defense "when the situation calls for it."

Gergley is most impressed with Dalrymple's blocking. "We've been getting excellent play from the tight end (280-pound Jay Jane) and the wingback," said Gergley. "Their blocking has been real good."

Bisceglia said prior to playing Winter Park that he wasn't sold on its defense. Although the Wildcats are ranked first in Central Florida in total defense (132.7 yards per game yield) and rushing defense (82.2 yield), Bisceglia was under the impression that since Winter Park's offense was on the field so much, it made the defense better.

"I really didn't think their defense was going to be that tough," Bisceglia admitted. "But they came out and our knooked our butts into the dirt. They will hit you."

Although Winter Park made a believer out of Bisceglia last week, the fourth-year coach said it wasn't like the year before. "Winter Park's defense is not as strong as last year," he said. "But the offense is much better. And they're so well prepared for you."

"They know everything you're going to do," he added.

STEAKOUT — One observer at the Lake Howell-Winter Park game passed along this tidbit, which shows when Harris isn't the meal ticket he provides Miller with the opportunity to be it.

Reportedly, Miller promised the offensive linemen a steak dinner if he gained 100 yards against the Hawks. Entering the third quarter, however, Miller was a few yards shy when Harris broke off a long one.

Knowing it was the last offensive series for the first-team backfield, Harris reportedly allowed himself to be caught from behind. Miller picked up his 100 on the next couple of plays and everybody ate happily ever after.

cally or vocally. "I don't think Lake Mary's emotion will be a problem for us," he said. "Everybody wants to beat us because of the tradition we've established. It's the same every week. The crowds are big and we are used to it."

Gergley pointed to the Jones' game as an example. "Jones tried to intimidate us by palying very hard and talking," said Gergley. "But we don't get intimidated. There were 10,000 Jones fans there and 1,000 of our fans. That didn't bother us."

Gergley, who boasts a veteran backfield of tailback Elroy Harris, fullback Terry Miller and quarterback Rich Esposito, favors a ground-devouring, clock-eating game. He will be content to march up and down the field behind Harris. The 6-1, 195-pounder ran for 1,738 yards and 28 touchdowns. Winter Park's massive offensive line, which averages 250 pounds per man, makes this possible. The Wildcats average 319 yards per game running the ball, tops in Central Florida.

Nelson, who would like to emulate Winter Park's style, doesn't have a back the caliber of Harris, but he has more. Seniors Charlie Lucarelli (693 yards) and Scott Underwood (517 yards) are proven performers. Seniors Pat Murray (281 yards) and Billy Caughell (power plays) are situation players.

While Gergley lays his plans on the table every week, Nelson is more prone to the new development. Last week, he promoted freshman John Curry to the varsity and ran him 22 times. The Lake Mary "Battering Ram" responded with 102 yards.

Nelson, too, has been nursing his passing game. Most of the year he's been content to send Donald Grayson long. Against Oviedo last week, however, he unveiled a shorter passing game. "We always send Grayson long to loosen them up," said Nelson. "That opens up the shorter routes."

Quarterback Mike Schmit is coming off his sharpest performance. He passes were on the mark against Oviedo and when he couldn't find the open receiver or was under the rush, he effectively threw the ball away. Schmit has completed 31 of 73 passes for 683 yards and five TDs.

Nelson said he has one new wrinkle for Gergley. "We'll put a little more motion in Friday. Gergley has a history of not paying attention to the motion man," he said. "We'll make him pay attention to it. We'll put Lucarelli, Curry or (Ray) Hartsfield out in the flat."

Hartsfield, who has been slow recovering from a sprained ankle in the Apopka game, has been pronounced 100 percent by Nelson. The 155-pound junior needs a big game if the Rams hope to surprise the Wildcats. Hartsfield is considered Lake Mary's most versatile performer while rotating among safety, quarterback, wide receiver and running back.

"We scored a lot of points early in the year before our speed people got hurt," said Nelson. "Now, those guys are healthy again. With Lucarelli and Curry running well, the big play is there. With Grayson on one side and Hartsfield on the other, our passing game is more explosive."

Nelson said he hopes a return to those three-touchdown games of early in the season is just around the corner, but he did emphasize nothing would change except the motion.

"We are not going to change a thing," he said. "I've seen teams make a whole bunch of changes because they play a team with a big reputation. That is a big coaching mistake. We've got faith in our players. They got us here."

Don't expect any flea-flickers or halfback passes from Gergley either. He said this year's team is probably better than the one which beat Apopka last year. "This team is much better offensively than last year but not as quick on defense," Gergley said. "We do have big kids. But the combination of that big line and a very skilled backfield lets us control the ball."

What Gergley doesn't want to see is Lake Mary imitate his offense. "We have to stop Lake Mary's disciplined offense from keeping the ball," he said. "Eventually, we'll get it."

Despite a defense which leads Central Florida by giving up just 132 yards per game, Nelson said he doesn't know if that defense is that good or the offense just keeps the ball all the time, making the defense seem better.

Gergley admitted as much. "We've had teams move the ball on us. We're not a dominant defensive team," he said. "We've done some bending but not breaking. Last year, we had a dominant defense because of guys like Paul McGowan and Mark Salva."

Still, the defense has given up just 116 points although 48 of those points came in the last three games.

Despite playing the favorite's role, Gergley said his team is not looking past tonight. "We look at Friday as a toasup. When you get into the playoffs, you have to be extremely lucky," he said. "If we win, we're ready to roll. If we don't, we'll put away our pads."

Fall, Winter Best Time To Plant Shrubs

Most of us like to add a new tree or shrub to our home grounds occasionally. And, the most common question is: when is the best time to plant? Generally speaking, the best time is during late fall and winter months. So, if you're thinking about it — now is the time to do it. This isn't a hard and fast rule, because the way a plant is packaged at the nursery has a lot to do with the best time to plant it.

Alfred Bessosen
Urban Horticulturist

Ext. 181

A couple of exceptions to the fall and winter planting rule are evergreens and palms. Evergreens are best planted in August or early September. And, palms should be planted during the summer rainy season.

Plants are usually prepared for sale in one of four ways. They may be "bare root," which means the roots are bare of all soil. They may be in a "packaged bare root" form, with the bare roots wrapped in sawdust, bark, or peat moss. Some plants are also sold "balled-and-burlapped," with the root ball wrapped in burlap. And, many plants are sold as "container-grown" specimens, in which case the root system isn't disturbed at all until planting time.

For the most part, "bare-root," "packaged bare-root," and "balled-and-burlapped" plants will have a higher survival rate if they're planted in the late fall or winter. "Container-grown" plants can be added to the landscape anytime. You'll probably pay a lot more for plants sold in containers.

When setting the plant, the first step is to dig a hole. Be sure you dig it large enough — at least six inches deeper and wider on all sides than the root mass of the plant. Keep the sides of the hole straight down rather than sloped. Loosen the soil in the bottom to allow for root development.

Your next step is to add some soil amendments to the earth you've removed from the hole — soil that will be used to fill in around the roots when you set your plant. These soil amendments are an important part of establishing trees and shrubs. Soil amendments are things like compost, pine bark, or peat moss. They help hold water and nutrients better in our sandy soils.

Mix one part amendment with every two parts of soil you plan to use in setting the plant. Then, place about six inches of the amended soil back in the hole. Pack this soil down fairly well, so the plant doesn't settle after it's set.

Next, stand the plant upright in the center of the hole, and turn it so that its best side is most visible. Make sure there is plenty of room for the roots when working with a bare-root plant — make a cone-shaped mound of soil in the bottom of the hole and arrange the roots around it. They should be spread naturally, not cramped or twisted. For a balled-and-burlapped or container-grown plant, handle the soil ball gently; be careful not to break it.

Make sure you place the plant at the right level in the soil. Planting too shallow causes the roots to dry out. Planting too deep can suffocate roots, and cause the base of the trunk to rot. On bare-root plants, you can usually tell what the right level is, because there is a color change where the base of the trunk meets the soil line. With balled-and-burlapped or container-grown plants, line up the top of the soil ball with the soil surface.

Don't try to remove the burlap on a balled-and-burlapped plant. Simply roll the material down away from the top of the soil ball after setting it in the hole — it will decay naturally. Container-grown plants are usually sold in metal cans or plastic pots, which must be removed and discarded before planting.

After the plant is set, you're ready to fill up the rest of the hole with more amended soil, and water again. Finally, make a rim of soil a few inches high and one to two feet away from the plant's trunk. This saucer-shaped basin will help hold water, and direct it to the roots of the plant.

Remember, a beautiful home landscape can represent a major investment, a sizable portion of which is accounted for by trees and shrubs. Plan carefully, and buy only from reputable nurseries, and take care of your new plants properly as soon as you get them home. Getting new plants off to a good start can have a lot to do with their health and appearance for many years to come. Proper care should begin the day you bring a new plant home. And, it's best if you already have the planting site ready.

If you follow the basic guidelines for planting new trees and shrubs, you could save time and money — and, be a step ahead in your efforts to develop an attractive landscape.

Happy gardening!

Geneva Extension Homemakers Mark 50th Anniversary

The Geneva Extension Homemakers recently celebrated its 50th year anniversary. Because of this accomplishment, the organization received a state award from the University of Florida for its 50 years of service.

Members celebrated by having an open house at the Geneva Community Hall. Homemakers members from the community, county commissioners and other Extension Club presidents were invited to the celebration.

The purpose of Extension Homemakers is to extend knowledge to other members of the community to arrive to promote a better way of life for all through fellowship, continuing education and service to help make the world a better place in which to live.

The Geneva Homemakers are quite active in the community. Some of the leader trainings the club has provided this year have been on stress management, child abuse, planning meals for one or two, and fire safety.

Each month for eight years members have visited the Sanford Convalescent Home providing refreshments and entertainment. They have donated the flag stand and ceiling fans to the Geneva Community Center, in addition they contribute to the upkeep of the center. Volunteers In Walkathons Are Mostly Spinning Their Wheels

DEAR ABBY: It seems that walkathons are becoming increasingly popular. This has bothered me for a long time, so I decided to get it off my chest.

I cannot see the relationship between charity and how far a person can walk. On the other hand, I could see some relationship if the volunteer walkers were sponsored for performing a meaningful service instead of walking.

For example: How about a "trash-athon" to see how many bags of litter the volunteers could pick up off the land? Or how about a "window-athon" to see how many senior citizens' windows could be washed by volunteers? Or "readathons" to see how many pages volunteers could read to nursing home patients whose eyes have failed them? Or how many letters they could write for nursing home patients? Or how many seniors citizens' yards could be raked or otherwise cleaned up?

I think you see my point. Why should walkers expend all that energy just to wind up with sore feet and aching muscles from walking until they're ready to drop?

It seems to me that if people want to volunteer their energy for charity, they might as well do it in an activity that's both productive and charitable.

ENERGY CONSCIOUS, GODDARD, KAN.

DEAR CONSCIOUS: Right on!

DEAR ABBY: I'm hoping that you or perhaps one of your readers can help me. I am a cross-country skier who froze the tips of two toes the winter before last. This past winter, they were very sensitive to the cold and did not take long to freeze. I was miserable.

I have even considered having these toes amputated, one to the first joint and the other to the second joint, but I'm afraid they will feel like they are still there, and frozen.

Does anyone have any suggestions about how to keep these toes warm and from freezing?

I've asked in ski shops, and no one has come up with a solution.

LOVES TO SKI IN NEW YORK

DEAR LOVES: Please, do not consider amputation! See your physician. Surely he or she can come up with a suitable solution.

DEAR ABBY: "Grandma" says, "Marriage is the price a man pays for sex, and sex is the price a woman pays for marriage."

Well, she's all wet. I say, "Men give love in order to get sex, and women give sex in order to get love. And marriage has nothing to do with it."

Triglyceride Is Just Another Name For Fat

DEAR DR. LAMB — For the last three years my husband and I have gone to the local health fair and have had our blood chemistry tested. My husband, who is 63, always has high triglycerides of 481, 409 and 521.

The doctor seems to feel there is nothing wrong, but we are worried about this. What are triglycerides? How and what do they affect? What should we do to control them? Why is the level so different each year?

DEAR READER — "Triglyceride" is just a chemical name for fat. The fat under your skin is made up of triglycerides, and triglycerides are often listed on the labels of food products. Most of the fat we eat is in the form of triglycerides.

Triglycerides combine with cholesterol and a blood protein to form fatty-cholesterol particles, which are called lipoproteins. The small particles (high-density lipoproteins, or HDL) may even be helpful in preventing fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries. The larger ones (low-density lipoproteins, or LDL) cause deposits and blockage of the arteries.

Some investigators believe that a high triglyceride level may not be too important if the cholesterol level is normal or low. However, they certainly are important if the cholesterol level is also high.

Laboratory tests are variable, but all of your husband's triglyceride tests are well above the normal limit. However, fat is slowly absorbed, and the test is of little significance unless the blood was drawn after an overnight fast, and preferably a low-fat meal the night before the fast. Otherwise, the level simply indicates that one's meal contained some fat.

Decreasing your calorie intake and exercising to eliminate excess body fat are often effective in lowering high triglyceride levels.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been a heart patient for 16 years and have had several heart attacks. Three months ago I was hospitalized for near heart failure. I have recovered but continue to have terrible weak spells, especially in the mornings.

DEAR READER — A weak heart can cause you to feel weak. So can a number of illnesses if they are associated with inactivity, such as bed rest.

In addition your diuretics, eliminate sodium and potassium. If you lose too much of these or too much water, you will feel weak. But you need medicines to eliminate sodium to help eliminate fluid caused by a weak heart.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Other things being equal, there is no harm in saving the deuce of your long trump suit. British International star Irving Rose put this principle to good use in today's hand.

Although North was forced to bid over three spades, Irving Rose felt no need to advance any higher. A look at dummy confirmed the correctness of that bidding judgment.

When the second club was played, South ruffed with the spade six. The play of the first high spade disclosed the bad news, but the hand was far from over. Rose played A-K-Q of diamonds and then A-K of hearts and a small heart. East won the third heart and played queen of spades, ducked by declarer. Next came a club from East and deuce of spades from South, who overtrumped his own deuce with dummy's spade four. Now the lead was in dummy and declarer could finesse through the East J-9 to make the hand.

Rose had the right remark when his partner complained about the lack of high cards. "Old chap, I say, don't feel bad. If you had my deuce of spades instead of your five, I could never have made the contract."

In my view, many players of expert class would carelessly ruff with the spade deuce at trick two. Don't you be one of them.

LEONARD STARR

Love For Latter-Day Jesse James Still Strong

ARIEL, Wash. (NEA) — On the day before Thanksgiving 1971, a man using the name Dan Cooper boarded a Northwest Airlines 727 that was bound from Portland, Ore. to Seattle. A few minutes after departing, the man announced he had a bomb in a bag and demanded $200,000 or he would blow everybody up.

The plane landed to get the money in $20 notes, and when it took off again the hijacker ordered the pilot to fly at 10,000 feet over the after-dark wilds of the lower Cascade Mountains. The man then opened the back hatch, parachuted into an autumn storm and was never seen nor heard from again.

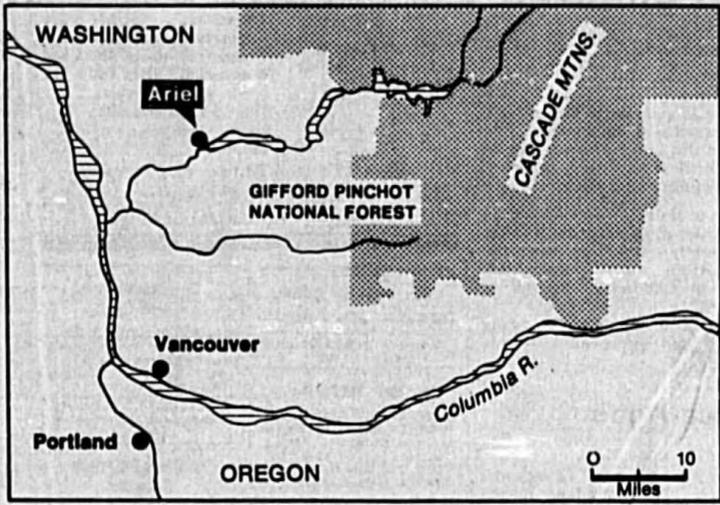

Naturally, the incident received a considerable amount of attention. Some of it confusing. Dan Cooper became known as D.B. Cooper, owing to an early journalism mistake, and he also became something of a folk hero. He had stuck it to the establishment, he had beaten the system; he was a modern Jesse James.

And he still is.

At least here in Ariel. Cooper is thought to have landed somewhere near this tiny outback community. And many of the 50 or so residents have adopted him as a kind of favorite son. Each year the locals put together a "D.B. Cooper Day" celebration, in honor of the mystery man, and the 10th annual party will be held Saturday.

The parties are loud and irreverent, to be sure. People come from all over the country to drink beer, listen to Western music, and eat a native chili composed of elk meat and deer parts. But there is another purpose as well. The residents hope that one of these years Cooper himself will attend.

Law enforcement officers say that's unlikely. The FBI in particular thinks that Cooper is dead. Agents in Portland who have worked on the case say that it would have been a miracle if the hijacker had survived his leap from the plane; thus, in effect, the folks in Ariel are commemorating a corpse.

The FBI cannot substantiate its opinion, however. And the fact is that no one in authority really knows what happened to Cooper. Officials have investigated thousands of leads, and they have compiled a list of more than 900 suspects, but the case is so baffling now as it was 13 years ago.

Even the evidence in the matter has been baffling. The FBI says it has been colored by contradiction and wild rumor. In 1972, for instance, a man who said he was Cooper gave a mostly silly interview to a newspaper, and, in 1978, Cooper was somehow linked to the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr.

Then in 1983 a Nevada writer named Byron Brown claimed that Cooper was a petty Missouri criminal named Jack Coffelt. And he had once served time in a federal prison with Brown's father. Brown says Coffelt confessed the hijacking before he died of a heart attack in 1978; the FBI says it's skeptical.

The FBI says that if Cooper was Coffelt, or if he had given the newspaper interview, or if he was connected with the King murder, he would have spent his ransom money. He didn't. Six thousand dollars of the loot was found on the banks of the Columbia River in 1980; the rest of it has never reappeared.

And so here's what the FBI thinks happened. Cooper was killed when he landed in the mountains here, or he was injured and died of exposure. He was either eaten by animals or washed away by succeeding rains. His bones and most of his ransom may now be scattered about the Pacific Ocean.

But don't tell that to the people in Ariel. It's a matter of local faith that D.B. Cooper lives. "He knew exactly what he was doing," says David Fisher, who owns the Ariel Store and Tavern. "He went for it, he got it, and he's probably now living comfortably with Martin Bormann in Argentina."

Fisher is one of the sponsors of D.B. Cooper Day. And he admits the glorification is something of a put-on. One of the townspeople has erected a D.B. Cooper tombstone in his front yard (its epitaph — "I spent the Money Wisely") and there is another marker that suggests he was, uh, done in by the airlines crew.

Otherwise, though, Fisher says the local sentiment for Cooper is genuine. He says the hijacker has become a bonafide legend. "The thing is, he did what a lot of people would like to do, if they only had the courage. He took a big risk, he thumbed his nose at society, and he succeeded."

What's more, Fisher says Cooper did it the right way. He didn't hurt anyone. "He got the money from a rich airline company," the store owner explains, "and he didn't touch a hair on anyone's head. He was a smart man. He was probably a decent man. That's why everybody here in Ariel still likes him."

That's also why everybody here will take part in the annual celebration on Saturday. With or without the guest of honor, D.B. Cooper, or whatever your name is, where are you? Some of the beer, the music and the elk and deer chili have been reserved in your name; God knows you can afford it.

Christmas Toys Safe; Caution Still Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission, in its annual pre-holiday warning, says most toys on the market for Christmas are safe, but warns parents must still closely watch children when they play with toys.

The estimated number of toy-related injuries declined from 123,000 in 1982 to 118,000 in 1983, the commission said in praising manufacturers for taking safety precautions.

"The most common type of accident occurred not because there was anything wrong with the toy, but because the toy was not being used safely," commission Chairman Nancy Steorts said.

The commission called on parents to be especially careful of balloons, which are perfectly safe when inflated but can easily choke a child when deflated. Steorts said of the 16 toy-related deaths reported to the commission last year, five were caused by balloons.

Steorts, standing amid dozens of toys and games, led a group of children from a Washington elementary school through a classroom-type exercise on how to make sure little brothers and sisters play safely through the holiday season.

Satisfied the children had learned to keep deflated balloons away from the smaller kids, Steorts brought on Santa Claus who presented each pupil with an early Christmas gift.

Steorts warned about toys with small parts, designed for older children but which toddlers under 3 years old can take apart, try to eat and choke on.

Doug Thompson, president of the Toy Manufacturers of America, said, "In most cases of misuse, it's the exuberance of youth and perhaps a lack of supervision in the home."

Taking note of the estimated $4 billion worth of toys sold between Thanksgiving and Christmas, the commission warned parental Santas to beware of toy chests with unsupported lids that can crash shut and small squeeze toys and tiny rattles that can be swallowed.

"Crib gyms" are fine for tiny infants but turn into hazards when the child reaches about six months and begins to try to stand up because he can become entangled in the device, the commission said.

The commission recalled 39 toys last year, with the cooperation of the manufacturers, and another 11 safety hazards were corrected. Steorts said. If the manufacturers fail to cooperate, the commission can take legal action against them.

Steorts demonstrated a Smurf Musical Crib Train, one of the toys voluntarily recalled this year because its small pieces can come off in infants' hands.

"Over half the 16 reported toy-related deaths during 1983 resulted from choking or aspiration of small parts, small toys or balloons," she said.

Ignorance Of Drug's Weight No Basis For Appeal: Court

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Ignorance of the exact weight of cocaine being sold does not prevent the dealer from being charged and found guilty of trafficking in the drug, according to the 5th District Court of Appeals.

An Orlando man, Douglas Drane Way, 24, was found guilty April 20, 1983 of trafficking cocaine which is defined by statute as possession of 28 grams (one ounce) or more of the illegal drug.

Way appealed his conviction and subsequent mandatory 3-year prison sentence and $50,000 fine, arguing that he did not know the amount of cocaine he was selling to an undercover agent weighed 28 grams. If caught with less than 28 grams of cocaine, the charge is possession for which one can receive a maximum of a year in the county jail or as little as probation.

During Way's trial, Seminole Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Lefler instructed the jury that the state had to prove Way knew the substance he possessed was cocaine, but refused to instruct the jury that the state need also prove Way knew the mixture weighed 28 grams or more.

Lefler's refusal was contrary to the Florida Standard Jury Instructions, according to defense attorneys, and formed the basis of Way's appeal.

The high court stated in its opinion that it would be "exceedingly difficult as a practical matter" to prove that each defendant charged with trafficking in cocaine knew the exact weight of the mixture they were selling.

"Many people in this state do not know the metric system, or that one ounce of cocaine equals 28-plus grams. Proof of knowledge of such facts and others such as accuracy of a defendant's scales would make enforcement of this law a rarity. We do not think this was the intention of the Florida Legislature."

While the district court affirmed Lefler's decision not to instruct the jury that the state had to prove the defendant knew the weight of the substance, the court said it only had its own precedent to follow. The court therefore, has asked the Florida Supreme Court to determine if knowledge of an illicit drug's weight is "essential in obtaining a conviction..."

In a supplement to the opinion, Justice F.J. Upchurch wrote, "While I concur with the majority opinion, I see no reason to certify the question as a matter of great public importance. It is important only to those in the illicit drug trade who think they have found a technical defect in the statute..."

He suggested the state Supreme Court not consider the issue until another district court also asks for a clarification.

Boy's Death Brings Life To 3 Children

By United Press International
 Three young children in Michigan and Texas were in critical but stable condition today following Thanksgiving Day operations to receive the heart, liver and kidney of a 14-month-old victim of suspected child abuse.

"This has truly been a day of giving thanks," the family of 2-year-old Sheila Stifter, who underwent the liver transplant, said in a statement.

"Never again will this day be just turkey and all the trimmings for us. Instead, it will be a day to remember the tremendous love, encouragement and support we received from all of you."

The children received the organs of Arnold G. Shalda of Austin, Texas, who suffered head injuries Nov. 11 and was declared brain-dead Wednesday.

The boy's body was flown to Ann Arbor, Mich. where his organs were removed, officials at the Michigan hospital said.

The child's father, Arnold Mark Shalda, 25, Austin, has been charged with injury to a child and was being held in the Travis County Jail on $30,000 bail. Authorities say they plan to upgrade the charge to murder next week.

The liver was flown to Dallas, where doctors at Children's Medical Center transplanted it into the Stifter child. A 6-month-old girl received the infant's heart in Ann Arbor, and a 9-year-old boy received his kidney at Children's Hospital in Detroit.

The girls were in critical condition Thursday night, while the boy had improved to stable condition, doctors said.

Soviet Bombers Violate Japanese Airspace Again

TOKYO (UPI)—Two aging Soviet bombers today defied 34 Japanese fighter planes and violated Japan's airspace over western Japan in the second such intrusion in 11 days, a Japanese defense official said.

The two Tu-95 Bears, part of a squadron of seven subsonic Soviet bombers, flew through Japan's airspace for three minutes and 20 seconds, the official said.

The bombers ignored the warnings of Japanese radio stations and fighter planes that scrambled from four airfields in the 17th violation of Japan's territorial air space by Soviet warplanes since 1967.

The intrusion of southbound military planes marked a buildup of some 20 Soviet bombers in the U.S.-built base at Cam Ranh Bay, Vietnam since 1983.

On Nov. 12 a Soviet Tu-16 Badger peeled away from eight other subsonic Soviet bombers, challenged Japanese fighters and violated Japan's airspace over the Taushima Strait in southwestern Japan for about two minutes.

Vietnam Flick 'Missing' Tops Box Office List

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Martial arts star Chuck Norris and his Vietnam war movie, "Missing in Action," has shot to the top of this week's list of leading film hits, collecting $6.1 million in its first three days.

It surpassed last week's top dog, George Burns' "Oh God! You Devil," which landed in second place with a healthy $4 million in its second weekend, bringing its 10-day total to $11.2 million, but dropping 27 percent off its hot opening pace of last week.

Another newcomer, "Night of the Comet," a teen-oriented sci-fi flick about a pair of young girls who survive Earth's collision with a comet, zoomed into third place with a tidy $3.6 million weekend turnstile take.

"The Terminator," with Arnold Schwarzenegger dispensing his own muscular brand of street justice, hung in there as the fourth most popular movie in release last week with $2.8 million. So far it has earned $19 million in 24 days.

"Just The Way You Are," Kristy McNichol's comeback picture, was the third movie making its debut over the weekend. It landed in the fifth spot with a three-day grab of $2.3 million.

Sixth most successful film of the week was Sally Field's rural epic, "Places in the Heart," with $1.7 million for a disappointing 59-day total of $24.4 million, a drop of 22 percent.

Like the stock market, the movie box office was significantly down this week over last. Of the 10 top films reported in Daily Variety, only one showed an increase over the previous week, "Nightmare on Elm Street," No. 7, which jumped 29 percent with a take of $1.6 million.

In eighth spot was the Mozart biofilm, "Amadeus," with a dwindling $1.4 million.

Biggest thumping was taken by "No Small Affair," No. 9, with a no small plummet of 43 percent. It collected a feeble $1.3 million after 10 days in release.

"A Soldier's Story," dealing with a black military unit, held up better than most with only a 3 percent drop and a $1.2 million gate after 66 days for a grand total of $15.5 million. It was No. 10.

Last week's controversial horror film, "Silent Night, Deadly Night," featuring Santa Claus as an ax murderer, plunged from No. 8 to No. 12 with a paltry $782,000 in 264 theaters for an horrendous 45 percent drop after it was kicked out by several Midwest exhibitors.

Books Of Love

Passion. Mystery. Intrigue. They're all here in the so-called romance novel. There's no doubt that this literary genre is a huge commercial success. But is it just for the lovelorn, those who have no romance of their own and who get some vicarious pleasure through the fictional fantasies within those pages?

Love Among The Pages

Literary Romance For Those Who Lack The Real Thing

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

The tears that rolled from Jessica's amber eyes were lost in the cold rain that peppered her young face. But she wasn't aware of either. Her mind was in her heart where she was trying to decide.

Since Dirk had given her the ultimatum — marry him now and give up her dream of becoming an archaeologist — her emotions had been in turmoil. She was no closer to a decision now than she had been when when she first made the trek up to her family's secluded mountain cabin to think things over.

That was eight days ago and in that time she had discovered other emotions, long-buried yearnings that tugged at her passions and drew her inexorably to dark, mysterious Damian, her childhood playmate during those summers of family vacations in the woods.

As lightning ripped the night sky, she heard the crack of twigs as someone walked hurried through the forest, someone who could only be searching for her...

See, anybody can do it. That's my first crack at writing a romance novel. What do you think? Maybe it's time for you to try your hand at hacking out a passion-filled tome.

Just follow the formula

It's the stuff that fantasies and personal fortune are made of. The fantasies flow from the pen of the romance novelist into the minds of the readers who can't seem to get enough of this quickly produced pap. And of course the money flows in a reverse course from the reader's wallet to the writers bank account.

But most readers don't take considered downright pornographic, Mrs. Cestaro said.

She tries to steer away from the more racy books and Altamonte Springs author Veronica Conte, who just completed her first romance novel, said she too shied away from the more torrid plot possibilities in writing Passage to Paradise.

"My writing is more or less suggestive, escape fiction," Mrs. Conte said of her yet-to-be published work.

Mrs. Conte, a 67-year-old writing instructor at Seminole Community College and the author of three other novels, said she had been meaning to write a romance novel for some time, but things didn't come together until she visited Jamaica. The romantic setting inspired her and the rest, as they say, is history.

"I'm not a 9-to-5 writer, so it took me about a year to write it," she said. If you want to put your nose to the grindstone, a competent writer should be able to turn out a fluffy romance novel in about three months, she said.

"I tried to strive for something different, even though I wanted something within the formula. My story has kind of a mystery behind it and I hope the reader will want to solve it," Mrs. Conte said.

The readers of romance novels are, according to Mrs. Conte, seeking escape from their own not-so-romantic lives. "Even though they think they are so liberated, women still like romance. They can't get it, so they like to read about it."

Mrs. Conte sees no harm in substituting fictional romance for the real thing, but she said, "If a woman doesn't expect romance she isn't going to get it."

Romance novels are certainly not Shakespeare, she said, but even educated female executives are turning to them as a way to escape from the lack of romance in their lives.

The product of a more romantic era, Mrs. Conte said she prefers more serious novels and mystery stories as her personal reading fare, but she had to read a lot of romance novels in preparation for writing her own.

But she said she suffered through it with her literary taste unscathed. "I didn't get hooked."

Both those who write romance novels and those who read them have to suffer the critical slings and arrows hurled by more serious writers and readers.

One of those more highbrow authors, Robert Newton Peck of

'I presume that there are poor love-starved women that buy them who are flipping madly through these books to get to the good part. There is no good part. It's just froth at the beginning and froth at the end.'

—Longwood author Robert Newton Peck established by British writers such as Mary Stewart and Victoria Holt, who until American writers made inroads into the field about five years ago, had cornered the international market in literary romance.

All you need to do to join the game for fun and profit is to probe your imagination and come up with a young heroine fraught with romantic conflict — torn between feelings for two or more men, one of whom is sure to put her life in danger. Scribble it out, stand up to the flood of rejection slips you may get from publishers until one bites. Then just sit back and watch your mail box for the royalty checks to start rolling in.

romantic novels seriously. Sixty-six-year-old Mary Cestaro of Winter Springs, for example, picks up a romance novel and reads herself to sleep every night, dreaming of an exciting rendezvous in some exotic, faraway land. She says she likes books with a historical setting, so she at least gets a sense of history as she reads, but calls the books nothing more than light entertainment.

"They're easy to skim through, several hundred pages with something less than cerebrally taxing plots, although there is usually an element of mystery involved. And there's also emotion and romance, which in some contemporary writings might be

Eastwood-Like Fred Dryer Scores In 'Hunter'

DEAR DICK — Please settle an argument. My family says the actor who plays Hunter on the TV series of that name is related to Clint Eastwood. I say he isn't. Does he take acting lessons from Eastwood? Why does he talk and act like him? — J.C., Houston, Texas.

DEAR DICK — I would like to know about Fred Dryer, of the TV series, "Hunter." What team and position did he play in the NFL? Has he done any other acting? — L.R., Houston, Texas.

I can understand why you Houston folks are interested in Dryer. The Oilers could use him. He was a top defensive end for 14 seasons, first with the New York Giants but mostly with the Los Angeles Rams.

He is not related to Eastwood, but there is a resemblance. He didn't study with Eastwood either, but possibly takes advantage of the resemblance with his acting mannerisms. He studied with Nina Foch and has done a lot of small parts on TV series and movies, getting ready for this, his big acting break.

DEAR DICK — I would like to know if it is possible to get a copy of the wedding vows that Cole and Linda recited to each other on "Falcon Crest." — D.H., Lehi, Utah.

Through the courtesy of the show, I am able to reprint those words, written by Stephen Black and Henry Stern.

Cole: With this ring, I make my everlasting promise to keep our love as it is today — as it always has been

Ask Dick Kleiner

— and as it always will be; a love born of purity, a love dedicated to the meaning of marriage and family, and a love that yields the honesty and spiritual bond we have today. This I promise to you forever.

Linda: When you accept this ring, you accept my promise to love you and cherish you and always stand beside you as your wife. I will nurture and sustain our love so that it can be the kind of love that grows unblemished, that knows no death."

DEAR DICK — Would you please settle an argument between my husband and best friend. They clash every time this subject is brought up. My husband says Brenda Lee is 45 years old but my friend says she has not yet reached 40. Who's right? — S.B., Amarillo, Texas.

Brenda Lee was born on Dec. 11, 1944. She will have her 40th birthday, therefore, this December.

DEAR DICK — I hope you can settle a problem my father and I have. He says Bob Crane is dead and I say he isn't. If he is dead, when did he die? — M.W., Albuquerque, N.M.

Webb, Harry Morgan, Sergeant Joe Friday and Officer Gannon investigate the murders of two pretty models and the disappearance of a third.

One for your father. Bob Crane was murdered in 1978 — the case has never been solved.

DEAR DICK — Can you find out what happened to the original Betsy on "As the World Turns"? And why no explanation was given? I think all viewers are entitled to explanations when the original characters are changed for whatever reason. — S.J.C., Alcoa, Tenn.

Meg Ryan, who played Betsy, left when her contract ran out. She felt it was time to do other things. She recently had a role on the nighttime series, "Charles in Charge."

I don't think viewers are entitled to any explanation; after all, actors are hired hands, engaged to play a part, and if one leaves, another is hired. If your cashier in the supermarket leaves, do they hang a sign on the register, explaining why?

DEAR DICK — My sister and I don't agree. We know Merle Haggard has been married three times — Bonnie Owens, Leona Williams were two wives. My sister says he was married to another Leona, but she doesn't know the last name. I don't think he was married to another Leona. Who's right? — L.P., Quincy, Ill.

According to "The Encyclopedia of Folk, Western and Country Music," Haggard has had only two wives — Bonnie Owens and Leona Williams. His own biography in Who's Who in America, incidentally, only lists Leona.

Prime-Time Women Could Learn A Few Things From Commercials

By David Handler

I've been noticing a lot of strong, bright women on television lately. Women with goals. Women who are making it.

What's weird is that I'm not talking about the characters on prime-time shows. Frankly, I'm beginning to think the most interesting women on television are the ones in the commercials.

Witness:

The Campbell Soup spot where a young husband is fixing chicken noodle soup for his wife, who has just come home from jogging in the rain. Seems she's been training very, very hard for an upcoming 10 kilometer race.

"Eat your soup," he clucks. "It's good for you." She does. "I'm surprised you're worried about finishing this race," he says. "I'm not worried about finishing," she smiles. "I'm worried about winning."

There's an American Express Card commercial where two upscale neighbors, one male, one female, bump into each other at their mailboxes. "Haven't seen you much lately," he says. "I've been traveling," she says. "On business."

It turns out both of them have received their new credit cards. Here is a prestigious gold card. His isn't. "Want to help me break this in?" she asks him. He smiles and accepts.

Mitchum deodorant has one in which a young woman in an airline uniform is rushing to the airport for a last-minute assignment. As she's telling us about her wonderful deodorant, we're assuming she's a stewardess. It isn't until she climbs into the cockpit that we realize she's the co-pilot.

The Army has one where a calm, collected female air controller brings a lost, fog-bound helicopter in for a safe landing, then accepts her colleagues' congratulations with a slight smile of "manly" professional satisfaction.

I think this is great. After all, statistics show that the majority of women — whether they're single, divorced or married — are now out there in the work force. It's nice that they can see themselves in ads as strivers, not just as consumers who can't decide which brand of floor wax to buy.

The sad thing is I think advertisers are in closer contact with their audience than programmers are. The commercials are ahead of the shows these days when it comes to women.

There are some bright spots. Among others, "Cagney & Lacey" and "Who's the Boss?" feature contemporary women and the challenges confronting them. "Hill Street Blues," "St. Elsewhere" and "Cheers" make the effort.

But it seems for each of these there's something stupid like "Partners in Crime" or "Scarecrow and Mrs. King." And the women in all of those prime-time soaps like "Dynasty" and "Dallas" are either bloodsuckers or goddy-goodies. They're right out of romance novels. They aren't real.

I have a novel idea. Why don't the network programmers start watching commercials between their shows? They might learn something.

Jackson Gets His Own Star

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — About 5,000 Michael Jackson fans chanted, shoved, climbed trees and threatened to get out of hand as they strained for a glimpse of their idol as he was awarded a star on Hollywood's Walk of Fame.

Because of fears for his and everyone else's safety, Jackson spent only about two minutes before the crowd, smiling and waving.

Jackson's star, the 1,793rd to be set in cement on the Walk of Fame, was placed between those of Lefty Frizzell and actress Lupe Velez.

Florida Symphony Musicians Strike Forces Cancellations

ORLANDO (UPI) — A strike by musicians with the Florida Symphony Orchestra already has forced the cancellation of two performances this week, a symphony spokeswoman said.

The orchestra's 70 full-time musicians went on strike Tuesday. The strike is the result of an impasse over the length of a new contract for the musicians, officials said.

The musicians sought a three-year contract, while management offered only a one-year agreement.

Christos G. Millotea, president of the symphony's board of directors, said a three-year contract was "not fiscally responsible."

"This is a regrettable situation," said Millotea. "The Florida Symphony Orchestra has nothing but the highest regard for the musicians.

"We will do everything in our power to come to an agreement as soon as possible which will be in the best interest of the Florida Symphony Orchestra."

Although negotiations had been going on for several months, a symphony spokeswoman said the strike announcement came as a surprise.

"It was not expected," said spokeswoman Lori Booker.

The strike forced the cancellation of a show scheduled for Wednesday night and a Champagne Popa Concert, featuring singer Shirley Jones, which was scheduled for Friday night.

There were no immediate plans for further negotiations.
