Reynolds fires public defender

SANFORD—Citing antagonism toward his court-appointed public defenders, Circuit Judge Kenneth Lester approved the hiring of a private attorney for Michael Reynolds, accused of killing three members of a Geneva family in July of 1998.

Lester named Steve Laurence, an Altamonte Springs attorney to replace Assistant Public Defenders Tim Caudill and James Figgat. Laurence is a veteran of capitol murder cases. His attorney fees will be paid by Seminole County because 37-year old Reynolds has no money.

Reynolds is charged with first-degree murder in the beating and stabbing deaths of Robin Razor, 31, Daniel Ray Privett, 33, and their 11-year old daughter Christina Razor.

Drug suspect files lawsuit

SANFORD—A drug suspect caught in a May 1998 drug sweep has filed suit against four police officers as well as Seminole County Sheriff Don Eslinger and Orange County Sheriff Kevin Beary for injuries he claims were sustained during his arrest.

In the suit filed Friday in Seminole County Circuit Court, Jason Dunn, 27, of Sanford, is seeking more than $50,000 in compensatory and punitive damages. He claims his civil rights were violated when police used excessive force to apprehend him.

Dunn suffered a ruptured spleen, internal bleeding and a collapsed lung during the bust. The four officers involved in his apprehension have been investigated and cleared with the exception of one who received a reprimand.

Dunn was wrestled to the ground during the bust after he attempted to share cocaine with the officers and then attempted to swallow the cocaine.

Did politics force Shoemaker out?

By Bill Kerns

SANFORD — After serving the Orlando Sanford Airport since 1965, the tenure of A.K. Shoemaker on the Sanford Airport Authority is coming to an awkward close.

Shoemaker, a long-time civic leader in the Sanford community, was not granted his request to be reappointed by the City Commission this week. William Bush, Jr., a former Seminole County Engineer who served on the Airport Authority since

Questions raised about Dale's decision to replace long-time airport authority member 1987, also was not reappointed. Their terms will end Sept. 30.

Instead, the Commission by a 3-2 vote placed civil engineer Brindley Pieters on the Airport Authority, joining the recent appointment of financial consultant Geoffrey Longstaff.

Some in the community, including a city commissioner, say the failure to reappoint Shoemaker was a political move by Sanford Mayor Larry Dale, a charge Dale denies.

Shoemaker, who owns Shoemaker Construction, has been an influential member of the airport authority, and in 1995, the domestic terminal was named after him.

Commissioners Whitey Eckstein and A.A. "Mac" McClanahan said because of Shoemaker's service and expertise, he should have been allowed to stay on the board.

"I just think that Kay (Shoemaker) was the founding Board member, and he had the right to say when he wanted to step down," Eckstein said. "I wanted to see Kay stay as long as he wanted to stay."

Officials hope for best, plan for worst

SANFORD — Label it a watch, worry, and wait weekend for public safety officials around Central Florida.

As Hurricane Dennis continued its unpredictable tap dance off Florida's east coast, officials of the Seminole County Public Safety Office, Sheriff's department, and Office of Emergency Management maintained a close watch on Dennis' projected track.

"We remain at status level one," said Paula Ritchey, public information officer for Seminole County Public Safety. "That's our situation as of Saturday morning's state-wide conference call from the State Emergency Operations Center in Tallahassee."

Ritchey said all county police, and emergency vehicles had been fueled as well as school buses Friday evening in the event Dennis strayed off a projected northern track and appeared headed for a closer brush with Florida.

"Get fueled and ready to go is part of the master plan," she said. Ritchey added that a 6 p.m. conference call around the state was scheduled for Saturday evening to update tracking information and provide a fresh status report on Dennis' activities.

"We're on standby, but at this point we have not activated any emergency procedures." See Dennis, Page 2A

Sanford communications operations shift to county

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD—With an eye toward improving speed, efficiency, cost effectiveness and keeping up with technology, communications and dispatch operations at the Sanford police department will shift under the umbrella of the Seminole County Sheriff's department effective October 3.

Police chief Brian Tooley says the move is designed to accomplish better service, keep up with technological improvements and is part of the department's long-term plans to modernize its fleet with on-board computers in patrol cars.

"It's good for efficiency and economies of scale," said Tooley. "It's clear the people of Sanford want their own police department. This change with communications is a consolidation of services that can be better done on a larger scale."

Sanford residents will see little if any change when they call either the regular business numbers or the emergency 9-1-1 number. The most significant difference will come after hours and on weekends. Communications operators will no longer be available to handle walk-in complaints or questions at the police station lobby. Instead, a direct phone line will be available to connect them with the communication center at the Sheriff's department located at 100 Bush Boulevard.

Police arrest four following Thursday melee

By Joe DeSantis

SANFORD—Sanford police have arrested one adult and three juveniles as a result of a neighborhood brawl Thursday night that began with two teens and mushroomed into a battle involving dozens of residents.

The incident took place at Seminole Garden Apartments on Third Street and Olive Avenue.

Jacqueline Simms, 34, Seminole Garden Apartments, was charged with battery on a law enforcement officer and resisting arrest with violence. The three juveniles were charged with battery on a law enforcement officer.

Sanford police officers Darrell Wright and Joseph Santiago both received injuries when they arrived on the scene first and attempted to separate the fighting parties. Wright was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital while Santiago was treated on the scene. Both received bruises to the head and shoulders.

Simms, who complained of having a seizure while being apprehended by police, was likewise taken to the hospital for treatment. She went to the Sanford police department Friday morning to file charges of police brutality and was arrested on a writ of capias—an outstanding warrant.

"We explained to her Friday morning that we would be happy to take her complaint, sit down and talk to her about it just as soon as she is released from jail," said Sanford police public information officer Kris Ziegler.

"Because there was an outstanding warrant for her arrest we didn't want a discussion of her complaint to prejudice the

Shoemaker

Shoemaker in 1971 on the Sanford Industrial Commission that would give way to the Airport Authority as a governing board later that year, said he is upset that Shoemaker was not reappointed.

"It's so obvious that it was political," McClanahan said. "I just think it's beyond belief the treatment he got."

Mayor Larry Dale said Pieters, who is President of the Brindley Pieters & Associates, Inc., will bring expertise in business and engineering that is needed as the airport continues to grow. The airport handles more than 1 million passengers per year, primarily on British Charter flights.

"This is not meant to reflect badly on Kay," Dale said. "But, Brindley will bring a new, fresh perspective. He will bring a perspective we were lacking with his experience in Seminole County (as an assistant county engineer for four years), and also in the private sector."

Shoemaker said he did not wish to discuss the matter at this time.

Don Knight, the owner of Knights Shoe Store who served on the Airport Authority for four years, said he is upset at the way the appointment of Pieters over Shoemaker and Bush was handled by the commission.

"Kay (Shoemaker) and Bill (Bush) were not recognized for their service, and that was a low blow," Knight said. "A man that put that much time away from his business to serve the Airport Authority deserves recognition."

Dale, Eckstein and McClanahan said they want the commission to honor Shoemaker after his term ends.

"How can you beat having a terminal named after you," Eckstein said. "One hundred years from now, millions of people will still see K a y Shoemaker's name at the airport."

J.S. "Red" Cleveland, the airport's manager from 1967 to 1988, said Shoemaker and Bush will both be missed at the airport. He said Shoemaker watched the airport's budget "as if it was his company's money."

"If you are looking for a good example of humility, tact, modesty, and integrity, that would be Kay," Cleveland said.

Dennis

As of Saturday morning the latest forecast track would bring Dennis within 100 miles of Brevard and Volusia county coastlines. Late Saturday forecasters were projecting it would then take an extreme northerly turn toward the Charleston, South Carolina coast.

Florida Treasurer and Insurance Commissioner Bill Nelson's staff has been placed on a higher operational level and opened a special toll-free telephone number for residents with insurance or other concerns, and unveiled a new WEB site to help Floridians with information that could lessen potential damages.

"Though several hundred miles away, at least one of the hurricanes (Dennis) is close enough that some insurers may not write new policies," Nelson said. "That's why it's so important that homeowners be sure now that they have appropriate coverage.

The department's Web site is located at www.doi.state.fl.us. The department's toll free phone line is 1-800-22-STORM or 1-800-227-8676.

As of Saturday morning the American Red Cross activated partial opening of its State Hurricane Watch headquarters in Orlando to prepare for the possibility of Dennis affecting Florida's East Coast over the weekend.

"We're keeping a watchful eye on Dennis and all of the Tropics," said Valerie Tallman, Red Cross state disaster specialist and Watch area manager.

Tallman added, "Should Hurricane Dennis become more of a direct threat to Florida, we will bring in more workers and activate a full State Hurricane Watch."

In Seminole County, the Red Cross' Seminole Service Center is located at 705-C, West SR 434. The telephone number there is 332-8200.

investigation which is still in the preliminary stages.

"When she gets out of jail, she's more than welcome to file the complaint and it will be investigated."

The neighborhood fight prompted response from every municipal police department in Seminole County and the Sheriff's department as well as the Florida Highway Patrol.

One of the witnesses at the scene, Roderic Hudson, said the incident began as a fight between two juvenile boys.

"It was two little boys started the whole thing," said Hudson. "Their parents came over to break it up, and they started fighting. Next thing you know, everyone is involved."

Arrest records indicate some of those involved in the battle used boards and beer bottles.

One juvenile reportedly had a knife during the altercation.

Warning: Do not read if allergic to opinions

The other night my wife surprised me when she said I had better watch myself and not be so opinionated.

Me? Opinionated? What a ridiculous thing for her to say. In my opinion, I'm one of the least opinionated people you're ever going to meet.

I do admit being less than open-minded at times. It concerns me that if I left a tiny corner of my head vacant for a moment, other people's opinions would start rushing in from all quarters.

If I were as opinionated as my wife claims I am, this column would be filled daily with pompous and arrogant declarations. Opinion applies to a conclusion or judgment which, while it remains open to dispute, seems true or probable to one's own mind.

Arthurene E. Cook wasn't pleased with something that seemed true or probable in my mind a week ago. She wrote to the newspaper that "If Larry Dale is the best thing that ever happened to Sanford, then Lord help us all!"

In Mrs. Cook's opinion, my wife's opinion of my being too opinionated was, Lord help us all - true. But in Stephanie Dale's opinion, I had every right to say her husband was the best-ever Sanford mayor. And in my opinion, Mrs. Dale is the best-ever wife of a Sanford mayor. But, there I go again.

It's just about impossible to write a daily column without slipping in some opinions. I'm grateful no one was upset that in my opinion, Pee Wee Reese was a straight shooter, a fine human being, a Hall of Fame shortstop. Seminole High baseball coach Mike Powers called to say he agreed. Mike, who's from Louisville, played for Pee Wee, and had the same opinion that I did. Thanks, Mike.

As a rule (this is fact, not opinion), any newspaper receives more complaints than kudos about a columnist's opinions. Recently, someone said that she would never read my column again. A week later, she sent an e-mail saying she didn't like an opinion I expressed that day.

Jimmy Cannon, a man of a million opinions, frequently made his followers laugh and cry with his "Nobody Asked me... But" columns. Cannon loved to zap as many people as he could. Zap but not kill.

If Cannon were alive and living here, he might write that Nobody Asked Me, But, "Bob Goff looks spiffy in red." Or Nobody asked Me, But, "Mrs. Metts gives good soup." These are, of course, facetious/sarcastic/goofy opinions. Fun stuff.

A reader called one day to ask me if the opinions in my columns were my own. I told her that they were - that no one at the newspaper had any idea where I came up with the stuff I was writing. She said that gave her a better opinion of the paper and a lesser one of me. Which is the way it should be.

Happily, Vivian Farmer stopped by the newspaper last week. She told me she enjoyed my opinions and said she liked my "smiling" picture.

Oh, Vivian, I can't tell you how much I appreciate your opinion. You're the nicest person on the face of the earth. I used to think my wife was the nicest, but she doesn't think that much of my opinions. You're the nicest.

Russ White's column appears Tuesday through Saturday in the Seminole Herald.

Communications

Lt. Mitch Tindall said the department's current system, which is 10 years old, would require significant costly upgrades to keep up with future use demand.

"The change has been an evolving program for a while," said Tindall. "It also saves the department significant training and personnel costs in the long run."

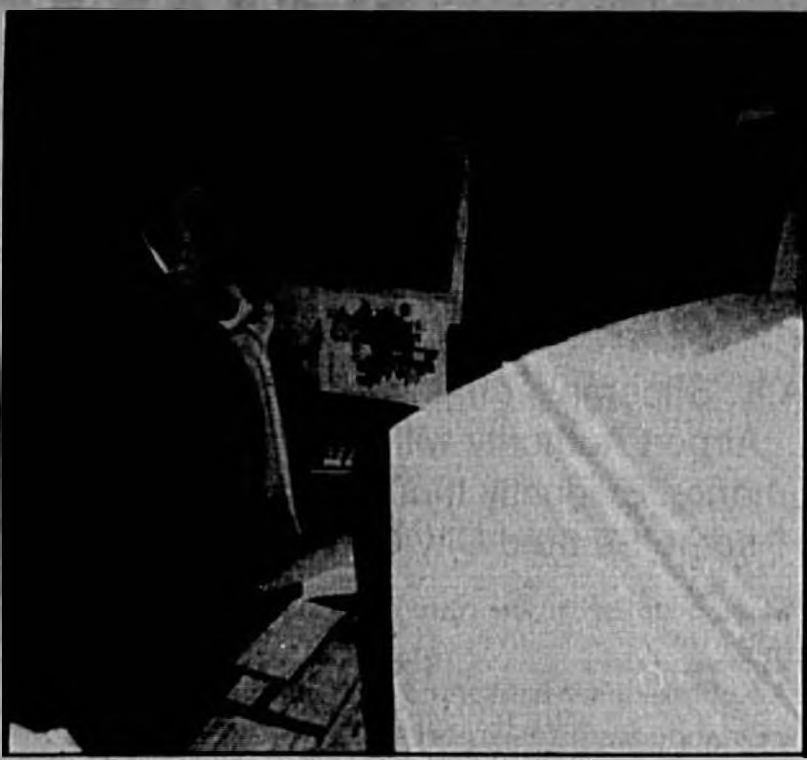

According to Tooley the switch in communications is part of a number of changes the department is undertaking to make full use of technology. Sanford expects money from a police block grant in the next few weeks to begin upgrading its internal telephone system as well, and is moving to modernize its patrol fleet with the installation of on-board computers which will increase the efficiency of each officer.

"Right now our current phone system doesn't even have the capacity for voice mail and it's not Y2K compliant."

Although Tooley said the communications change over will be smooth, the human element of the move has been a little emotional. Eleven of the department's 12 communications specialists will soon be working for Sheriff Don Eslinger. The other will remain with the Sanford police department and assume additional administrative duties.

Sanford will pay Eslinger's office about $550,000 per year to take over the communications operations and absorb Sanford's communications staff.

"Overall this is an excellent opportunity for people in our department to make to switch to Sanford police department communications specialist Joyce Fagan monitors calls in the department's communications and dispatch center. Fagan is one of 11 employees who will soon work for the Seminole County Sheriff's department when communications operations are transferred on October 3.

the Sheriff's department," Tooley explained. "They'll have more opportunities for upward advancement, additional training, more career options, as well as pay and benefits."

Tooley said that Sheriff Don Eslinger has been extremely helpful in throwing out the welcome mat for the soon-to-be-moved communication workers.

"He's met with them and explained a lot about lateral transitions. The sheriff will be taking our people under his wing with the same level of seniority, it's not like they go back to entry level status."

For pay and rank purposes Tooley said the 11 communications workers will retain the same level of seniority with the county as they had with the city. Tindall said the installation of a new internal phone system should be completed in a matter of a few weeks, and the installation of computer terminals and keyboards into patrol cars should be totally completed no later than six months from now.

Tooley added that the communications change-over is a natural evolution from operational procedures brought about with the passage of Amendment 5 dating back to the mid-70's.

"Certain services are better done on a larger scale. Years ago every city police department had its own jail. That approach is expensive in terms of personnel costs and other costs."

Longwood commissioners to discuss sign ordinance

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Longwood city commissioners will meet in a workshop session at 7 p.m. Monday night to discuss Ordinance 99-141, which could repeal and replace Article VI of the city's sign regulations.

Board members will decide on changes to permit application procedures, general sign regulations, definitions, exemptions, and permitted uses in the various zoned sections of Longwood.

Commissioners spent almost three hours in a work session this week considering an ordinance that amends sections of the city's Land Development Code.

There may be more buzz Monday about the successful petition drive regarding 13 proposed amendments to the city charter. Earlier this week the Seminole County Supervisor of Elections office verified 733 of the 879 signatures gathered by Longwood residents to force the amendments onto the November 2 ballot.

The petition initiative came as the result of two different votes on the matter. In early July commissioners voted 3-1 to place the proposed changes before voters. Two weeks later with different commissioners in attendance the board voted 3-0 to strike several and change language in others. Both meetings and both votes prompted considerable heated debate at two public hearings.

The charter amendments are considered to be a significant campaign issue this fall.

Incumbent Rusty Miles helped walk the petition and supports the position Longwood voters should have a say on all 13 amendments. Fellow incumbent Annamarie Vacca supported placing the amendments on the ballot and entered her signature on the petition drive.

Commissioner Dan Anderson, running for his first full three-year term, voted to place a limited number of amendments before voters. All three have declared their intentions to seek reelection. Thus far only one challenger has officially declared he's in the race. Butch Bundy, a member of the Charter Review Committee and the city's Code Enforcement Board will challenge Vacca for her seat.

There is still a strong likelihood other contenders will emerge for the Longwood commission. The city's qualifying period for the November 2 election begins September 3 and runs through September 10.

Our View

Earning Respect

A.K. Shoemaker has served the Sanford Airport Authority with distinction and honor. Evidently that's not enough for some Sanford City Commissioners.

Some people earn the right to go leave on their own terms.

A.K. Shoemaker has served on governing boards at the Orlando Sanford Airport since 1965. With the current domestic terminal named after him, Shoemaker holds a special place in the airport's legacy as well as in the Sanford community.

A founding member of the Sanford Airport Authority, Shoemaker helped navigate the airport through the lean times to the booming days it now enjoys, with more than 1 million passengers per year and regular domestic flights on the horizon from Pan Am Airlines.

When the City Commission this week failed to reappoint Shoemaker, despite his request to be reappointed, it was an insult to a man who has earned far more respect.

Brindley Pieters, who the Commission appointed over Shoemaker on Monday by a 3-2 vote, is an experienced civil engineer and President of a company who has the qualifications to serve the Airport Authority with distinction.

However, Shoemaker deserved to be reappointed for as long as he desired. The owner of Shoemaker Construction known for tireless devotion to the airport, he is one of the brightest lights in the Sanford community.

Forcing Shoemaker to leave the Sanford Airport Authority on an awkward note diminishes the City Commission's new appointment.

At the very least, the city commission will likely arrange for a ceremony honoring Shoemaker after his term at the Airport Authority ends Sept. 30. Men of dignity such as Shoemaker deserve respect.

Whatever honors are bestowed after this week's non-appointment may be superfluous for Shoemaker, but he is not the one needs redemption. The City Commission needs the ceremony more than Shoemaker does.

Cook doesn't care for White's column

To the editor:

After meeting the new publisher and seeing lots of new names in our hometown paper, I had high hopes for the Seminole Herald.

That was before Russ White's column about our mayor being the best thing that ever happened to Sanford. Before this, I have enjoyed most of Russ White's columns.

But if Larry Dale is the best thing that ever happened to Sanford, then Lord help us all!!!

Sincerely,
(Mrs.) Arthurene W. Cook
Sanford

P.S. We will all miss Kay Shoemaker's presence on the Airport Authority. His voice has been one of the best. It's a shame that our mayor doesn't want anyone who doesn't agree with him. Sad!

To the editor:

Newspaper's name should be Dale's Newsletter

Several months ago The Sanford Herald changed its name to Seminole Herald. I suggest that it would have been more appropriately changed to Dale's Newsletter. Like the letters that are mailed to our homes from Washington and Tallahassee politicians, the Seminole Herald never reports the dastardly deeds that Mayor Dale orchestrates.

On Monday evening (August 23, 1999) Mayor Dale and his two puppets, (Dr. Williams and Brady Lessard), dumped Kay Shoemaker off of the Sanford Airport Authority after serving almost 30 years. For many of those years Mr. Shoemaker was the chairman, and the domestic terminal is named for him.

You had a reporter at that meeting and he never mentioned this in your newspaper. The Sanford City Commission did not have the class to give any accolades to Mr. Shoemaker when they dumped him.

Your paper recently said that Mr. Dale is the best mayor Sanford has ever had. To my knowledge you do not have any of our former mayors. How can you make this judgment? How can you denounce all of our former mayors?

For your information, most of the growth and progress at The Orlando/Sanford Airport occurred prior to Mr. Dale's election. Much of the growth occurred when Mr. Shoemaker was the chairman. I suggest you hire someone who will do some investigating reporting.

You are not reporting the news. You are not serving your subscribers.

I suggest you listen to the citizens of Seminole County and not just the people in Sanford's City Hall.

Change of attitude is effective affirmative action

If you look around the campus of the University of Georgia, it's hard to see why a modest affirmative-action program has stirred so much fuss. Unless you happen to catch a football practice, you're not going to see many black students. That's because the student body is only about 6 percent black, despite a statewide African-American population that nears 30 percent.

UGA's diversity efforts have hardly created, well, diversity.

Nevertheless, the hostility toward even a limited affirmative-action program — a hostility echoed at colleges across the country — ought to send a loud wake-up call to African-American parents and teachers. It's time for them to tackle a subject they've been loathe to discuss: Why do the standardized test scores of black students still lag those of whites? And what can be done to close the gap?

The creators of standardized examinations never intended them to become litmus tests for college admissions, and the tests don't tell us as much as we may think. When Martin Luther King Jr. took the Graduate Record Examination for entrance to Boston University in 1951, his verbal aptitude score was below average. Yet he became one of the best orators in American history.

Still, popular culture venerates the Scholastic Assessment Test (or SAT) and similar exams, conferring upon them the ability to sort out winners from losers. Test results are the tickets to prestigious colleges and pave the way for upward mobility. Given that reality, black students cannot continue to test poorly.

This will not be a comfortable or easy conversation. African-Americans fear that any public discussion of the test-score gap will weaken arguments for college affirmative-action programs and lend support to specious theories about black inferiority. It is easier to rely on old arguments about "racially biased" tests.

Unfortunately, it is difficult to discern the racial bias in a question about the Pythagorean theorem. Besides, the overt racism in "The Bell Curve" notwithstanding, most scientists agree that there is no link between intelligence and race. Indeed, the scores of black students taking standardized tests nationwide rose markedly in the 1970s and 1980s, only to stall in the 1990s.

So there is still a worrisome gap between the scores of white and black students nationally, a gap not explained by differences in economic circumstances. In other words, white students from households earning $75,000 a year score higher than black students from similar backgrounds.

Racism — not race — probably explains much of that black underachievement. A heritage that includes not only inferior schooling but also slave-control laws that expressly prohibited black literacy is hard to overcome, even in several generations. Perhaps the most pernicious legacy of those bygone days lies in the attitude of some African-American students about their own abilities — attitudes that reflect a sense of inferiority, insecurity and fear of failure.

That may explain why African-American students have created a culture that dismisses scholarship and spurns academic achievement. Rather than compete in an arena in which they've been told repeatedly by the larger culture that they're doomed to fail, they pretend academics aren't important.

That can't be changed by Congress or federal courts. Only parents and teachers have the influence to instill in black students the discipline and the confidence to turn off the TV, leave the basketball court and tackle advanced placement courses. Peer pressure is powerful, but it is not more powerful than the loving guidance of parents who insist that their children aim high. Racism persists, but generations of black Americans have overcome it to succeed. The current generation of black students can too.

Shoemaker does not like White's smart-alecky style

To the editor:

It's THYME (immediately appropriate) to set SUM (not all) records STRAIT (not slanted). I have SCENE (observed) SUM (again, not all) quotes attributed to people that I NO (have knowledge) to be without foundation, including a quote attributed to me by Russ White on August 26, 1999. I also know that he has misquoted Larry Dale (a hallow or shallow valley), Mayor of the City of Sanford. My guess is that to put the WRITE (Mr. White's wishes) spin on words, Mr. White ROTE (wrongly interpret) in his routine smart-aleck WHEY (custom or habit) what he thought would catch AYES (attention of those who read). What Mayor Dale has said more than once is that Dad may want to live somewhere his children do not want to live. Dad may want to live on 10 to 20 acres but his children won't. So, when Dad dies, his children will want to sell that 10 to 20 acres where Dad lived. He has conceded to me that it would be virtually impossible to financially survive developing a 2- to 5-acre parcel of land in an area where sewer and water do not exist. He is more WRITE (correct) than Mr. White was in his characterization of what Mr. Dale had to say. I also NO (possess knowledge) that there is no TOPDOG (one to whom an inaccurate statement is attributed). But MONTE SHOEMAKER (concerned citizen) did not say we now may have to change the meaning of "D" in our name. CENTS (inasmuch as) MR. (didn't hit her when he tried) WHITE (totally lightened) has never even spoken to me, it isn't surprising that he WOOD (natural product used to build houses) KNOT (makes wood not usable) NO (possess knowledge) WATT (unit of electricity) EYE (me and myself) SPOKE (brace in certain types of wheels). What I said, is that if the County Commission continues to listen to the public, we may have to change what the "D" in WATCHDOG represents. I hope the change has to be MAID (servant, as in public servant). By the way, should that have been BCC (Board of County Commissioners, not BBC (British Broadcasting Company) in the headline?

Walker appalled at Commission's lack of respect

To the editor:

As one who was unable to attend Monday night's city commission meeting, I was absolutely appalled to learn on Tuesday of the totally disgraceful manner in which the matter of airport board replacements was handled. To have Brady Lessard read off the name of an unknown individual as a replacement for the "other" vacancy without even a mention of the name of A. K. Shoemaker was an affront to ALL who have served this city and showed a very devious way to give Mr. Shoemaker, the last remaining member of the "old regime," his pink slip. His being summarily discarded in this manner showed a total lack of class on the part of the current regime.

The proper procedure would have been to award him with a certificate or plaque acknowledging his 30 years service to the airport and the city. Lesser individuals have been rewarded in this manner. But, again, what do you expect from this regime?

Mona Walker

Politicians should not become journalists

I must have been wrong as a young reporter to cover school board meetings and hospitals, spending hours at boring city council sessions, while acquiring the skills to write and put the news on local television.

What a waste of time learning accuracy, fairness and journalistic ethics. I should have gone to work at the White House and then applied for a network correspondent's job, bypassing the bottom and intermediate rungs of the ladder and starting at the top.

Such is the deplorable state of today's broadcast journalism that Clinton co-defender, redeemer and friend, George Stephanopoulos, can go directly to ABC News as a commentator/analyst and then be morphed into a broadcast journalist while his old boss is still in office. Most former members of the revolving-door club between government and journalism at least put a little space between partisan political activity and the profession. There's a law keeping former government officials from lobbying their old associates for one year. No such law exists in journalism, but maybe there should be one.

Stephanopoulos is a nice fellow. It's not his fault. ABC News President David Westin violates whatever remnant of real journalism remains by announcing that he's grooming Stephanopoulos for a reporter position.

"We're all conscious of the sensitivity with him having been a part of the news in Washington," explains Westin. If he is that conscious, why doesn't he hire a former member of the Bush or Reagan administrations to balance things out? This would be just as bad, but at least the public might credit him for fairness. Westin says he wouldn't want Stephanopoulos to be the beat reporter for the Gore campaign. Does this mean he'd consider him as a beat reporter for the campaign of George W. Bush or one of the other Republican candidates? Does Westin think there might be a public perception of bias if Stephanopoulos covered a Democratic contender but not a Republican?

Westin lauds Stephanopoulos' "increasing strength and maturity." Funny, I never felt the need to put "increasing strength and maturity" on my resume when applying for a job. And then Westin adds, "There has been a history of people not growing up in journalism becoming journalists," as if this is something to be encouraged.

In his book, "How the News Makes Us Dumb," University of Florida history professor C. John Sommerville writes that the way broadcast news is misproduced today is actually good because it is driving people away and allowing them to develop alternative means of receiving information that will be far more beneficial to them. Sommerville contends that the idea of daily news creates an information industry that must constantly be satisfied with "news," no matter how irrelevant or unimportant: "We are now seeing what happens when one depends entirely on daily reports, with their decontextualizing and deconstructing tendencies For news has no sense of scale. It concentrates the mind when we thought (its purpose) was to broaden the mind."

It's not all the news business' fault. As with so many other things, it is our fault, argues Sommerville. "We have acquired an addiction," he says, "and newspeople are just supplying the market."

If journalism plucks people out of the White House, or anywhere else, without testing their reporting skills in local stations or newspapers before giving them a national platform, then journalism itself is further diminished in the minds of an already skeptical public which regards the profession with proper distrust and disgust.

The transformation of George Stephanopoulos from Clinton campaign operative, to Clinton White House operative and apologist, to network commentator, to reporter, along with the industry's failure to fulfill its obligation to fully investigate and expose the illegal and immoral activities of this president and his co-conspirators, is more evidence of dysfunctional broadcast news that is beyond repair.

There is a difference between being informed and being wise, argues Sommerville. George Stephanopoulos will be another informer. What he says will not make us any wiser. It's a dumb move from a crumbling profession that has contributed to the dumbing down of the American people.

Oviedo residents head to voting booths Tuesday

By Bill Kerne
Staff Writer

OVIDEO - Oviedo is a city of contradictions. Tree lined streets lead to bustling downtown traffic, and residents in the city of 24,000 residents seek ways to contain growth while maintaining a traditionally quaint atmosphere.

"I've never seen anything like it. There has been total disregard for city ordinances. People are saying anything to get elected."

George Veile
Oviedo Councilman

The 11 candidates for two City Council seats and the open Mayor's seat agree on what the key issues are. Debates on how to control traffic and contain growth dominate the campaign, which will end with Tuesday's election.

The candidates agree that increasing the lines of communication between residents and the City Council is critical.

However, for a group that each would agree on the importance of civility in city government, the campaign has been blemished with accusations and bitterness.

"This is about the lowest election I've ever been in," said Councilman George Veile. "I've never seen anything like it. There has been total disregard for city ordinances (regarding campaign signs). People are saying anything to get elected."

Both the City Council members and the Mayor are elected for two-year, at-large terms, representing the entire city rather than a specific district.

For Councilman, Group I, Keith Britton is facing Mike Ertel, Chris Jepson, and Lawrence Wright. Incumbent Gary Gotwalt is not seeking reelection.

Ertel, 29, who manages a private public relations company, wants the city to manage growth while protecting the environment.

"The environment is not just trees and shrubs, it's also the community environment. When you close your minds and think of Oviedo, something comes to mind."

Wright, 39, a civil design technician, said he is concerned that the city's infrastructure needs to improve to handle continued growth, particularly in the areas of reuse water supply and traffic control. He also wants the city to improve the ability of the police and fire departments to retain employees.

"Another issue is (State Road) 434 and the Greenway corridor," Wright said. "It's a commercial magnet. There is no clear boundary between Winter Springs, Oviedo, and Seminole County. We don't seem to have any control over there."

Jepson, 50, executive director of Habitat for Humanity of Greater Orlando, wants to make sure cut through traffic will not be routed along residential streets. He also wants to add more parks, develop a regional art center, and create an ombudsman position on the city's staff to communicate with residents. He wants to reduce densities allowed in city codes.

Britton, 41, a projects manager for NASA, wants more parks in the city, so long as the effort does not lead to a tax increase. He is also opposed to a plan that would reroute traffic along Division Street.

"We've outgrown our parks capacity," Britton said. "Hopefully, we can fund most of the referendum without a tax increase. If there is a need for a tax increase, then we will need to reconsider the project."

For Councilman, Group II, Veile is running against Fred

Larson, former councilman Tom O'Hanlon, Todd Russell, and Kathryn Townsend.

Russell, 35, who owns a computer company, wants to see the city's infrastructure catch up to residential growth. He wants the city to construct a water treatment facility, but without burdening a residential neighborhood.

O'Hanlon, 41, a retired project manager for Siemens Westinghouse Corp., wants the city to find the funds to improve transportation, including building a bypass around the city without clogging residential neighborhoods. He is also concerned about a shortage of ballfields.

Larson, 43, a meeting and convention sales manager for Walt Disney World, said he is focused on three key issues in the campaign. He wants to promote a safe environment for children, have district elections rather than at-large elections. He also wants to make sure the city collects all impact fees it is due, as well as stem the tide of current growth rates.

Veile, 48, a private traffic engineer and real estate broker with Realvest Partners, said he See Oviedo, Page 9A

Lake Mary board award's sports concession contract

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - The Lake Mary City Commission this week awarded a contract for concession vending at the city's sports complex.

The contract entitles CRJ of Lake Mary Inc. to all food and drink concession rights at the Lake Mary Sports Complex.

The city accepted the annual guarantee of $4,501, or $375 per month effective Sept. 1.

In addition, CRJ will pay 11 percent on sales from $45,001 through $50,000; 12 percent on sales from $50,001 through $55,000; 13 percent on sales from $55,001 to $60,000; 14 percent on sales from $60,001 through $65,000, and 15 percent on everything above $65,001.

The maximum payout from CRJ sales is $10,000 per year.

A security camera will be maintained and operational.

In Aug. of 1997, the City Commission awarded the concession contract to Daniel Gracey for one year with two-year renewal options.

After the Commission directed staff to readvertise for proposals in July of 1998, Gracey and CRJ both submitted proposals.

On Sept. 17, 1998, the two vendors worked out an agreement allowing them to "share" the vending business since CRJ also owned the batting cages and would be open at times when there would be no activities on the baseball fields. City Manager John Litton said.

However, the bid was not awarded, and the parties continued to operate under the temporary agreement of Sept. 17.

"Both actions were completed, but neither were brought back to the Commission at that time due to some unanticipated problems associated with products and sales location with the park," Litton said.

Daniel Gracey has told Litton that he wishes to withdraw his bid, leaving only the proposals from CRJ of Lake Mary for consideration. CRJ has submitted two alternative proposals, and the City Commission voted Thursday to accept one of CRJ's proposals.

Chubby Checker to headline downtown Sanford event

Country singer Lee Roy Parnell will also perform in the festival, which will be held Nov. 12, 13 and 14 in downtown Sanford.

Talent from local bands, schools, area churches, and solo acts will also perform during the festival.

Street entertainment will include jugglers, unicycles, and the BMX Freestyle Trick Team performing ramp stunts. Also at the event will be a portable rock climbing wall and midway rides.

A Bahamian Marketplace will feature music, food, fashion, and a Junkanoo parade.

"The festival is being produced to offer mass appeal and earn a reputation of being Sanford's signature annual event," said Ron Rose, executive director of the Sanford/Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Admission to the festival will be $5 each day, including all concerts, and free to children 12 and under. Advance three-day passes are available at the Chamber.

The festival is presented by Huntington Banks, and sponsored by the Sanford/Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Arts Alive in Seminole! is scheduled for Oct. 7

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD - Autumn in Seminole County Public Schools means it's time to dance and sing.

The third annual Arts Alive in Seminole! will be held Thursday, Oct. 7 at the Orlando Museum of Art. As in past years, the event will showcase the talent of students and staff in schools.

The event will include vocal, instrumental and dance performances throughout the Museum.

"Many of the performers have won state or national acclaim and have appeared professionally," said Dede Schaffner, director of Community Involvement.

Visual arts, from students and staff, including paintings, drawings, photography, and sculpture, will be displayed. In addition, cultural arts items will be for sale in a silent auction.

The Arts Alive in Seminole! Committee is seeking students and staff in the schools who have visual or performing talent they would like to audition. Performing art talent auditions will be held on Monday, Aug. 23 and Tuesday, at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. Aug. 24 at Lake Mary High School. The deadline for complete entry forms is Friday, Sept. 17 at 4 p.m.

Individuals or groups will perform no more than five minutes. All artwork must be matted and framed. The deadline for completed entry forms is Friday, Sept. 17, 4 p.m.

Last year, the black-tie event was held Dec. 1 at the Orlando Museum of Art.

Students and staff performed to a packed audience, culminated by a performance from the Seminole High School Gospel Choir.

The event raised more than $35,000 in 1998 to support the arts in Schools.

All proceeds from the event will support The Foundation for Seminole County Public Schools to promote the fine arts.

Any staff or student who is interested can call 320-0181 to request an audition time.

is encouraged that the growth in population and new housing projects is declining in recent years. Through reforms to the city's Land Development Code, Veile wants to reduce residential densities.

"The biggest issue for me is parks and recreation," Veile said. "We need more parks."

Townsend, 50, grants coordinator for the Seminole County Department of Tourism, wants to control growth in the city to maintain the lifestyle of current Oviedo residents.

In addition, Townsend wants to create a by-pass around Oviedo to reduce traffic congestion, and see communication between residents and members of the City Council improve.

"I want to retain the heritage of the city's environment,"

Townsend said. "That's what makes it so quaint."

For Mayor, Mary Lou Andrews is opposing Ed Bradford. The Mayor does not have a vote on the council. Incumbent Mimi Bruce is not seeking reelection.

Andrews, 45, who owns a writing a publishing company, wants to work to open the lines of communication with residents, as well as perform research necessary to keep the Council informed on the issues.

Bradford, 48, a professor of political science at UCF, agrees that the role of Mayor is to listen to different ideas and interests on the council, and help maintain a focus on the issues. However, he is also concerned about development in the city.

Alligator harvest to begin Sept. 1

Special to the Herald

OCALA - Wednesday, September 1 marks the beginning of the annual public waters alligator harvest in Florida.

This year's harvest will give 729 selected alligator hunters the opportunity to take five alligators each from specific harvest sites - lakes, rivers and wetlands - around the state.

"This year 10,006 people applied for the 729 slots available," said Lt. Joy M. Hill, public information coordinator for the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC). "The selection process began back in June when prospective hunters applied to the FWC for the lottery-style drawing used to pick participants."

As in recent years, the harvest season this year is divided into two phases: Sept. 1-to-15 and Sept. 16-to-30.

Each hunter is selected to hunt during one phase only. The split season gives more hunters an opportunity to participate.

Hunting hours begin one-half hour before sunset and end one-half hour after sunrise each day during both phases.

Selected applicants are required to purchase a $250 resident alligator trapping license or a $1,000 nonresident license in order to participate in the harvest, or else forfeit their opportunity.

The forfeited permits were assigned to alternate applicants who were randomly selected from those who originally applied but were not selected in the initial drawing.

Licensed trappers are allowed to have trapping agents to assist them in the hunt, but agents are not permitted to hunt independent of the licensed trapper.

Each agent must purchase a $50 nontransferable trapping agent license.

Trappers may use snatch hooks, snares, gigs or harpoons to take alligators, and bows-and-arrows or crossbows may be used if the projectile is attached to a restraining line. Firearms are prohibited.

Since 1988, alligator hunters have taken nearly 30,000 alligators during the annual public waters harvests.

This year they can take a total of 3,645 alligators during the month-long hunt.

The annual alligator harvest is one of five programs of the FWC's Alligator Management Section.

The main objective of the section is to implement alligator harvest programs under the concept of sustained annual harvests while optimizing the economic, aesthetic and ecological values of the alligator as a renewable resource.

By emphasizing these values, the FWC hopes to provide incentives for conservation of not only the alligator, but also the LONGWOOD - Putting skills into action.

That was the main purpose of Friday night's kickoff classic between Lake Mary High School and Lyman High School's football teams at the Carlton Henley Sports Complex.

Since Friday's game did not count in the standings, the two schools decided to let all three teams for both schools play.

The first quarter was played by the freshmen teams and was dominated by Lyman.

The Greyhounds scored two touchdowns, however failed to collect on the extra point.

The first of the two touchdowns was scored by Victor Johnson on a 23-yard run.

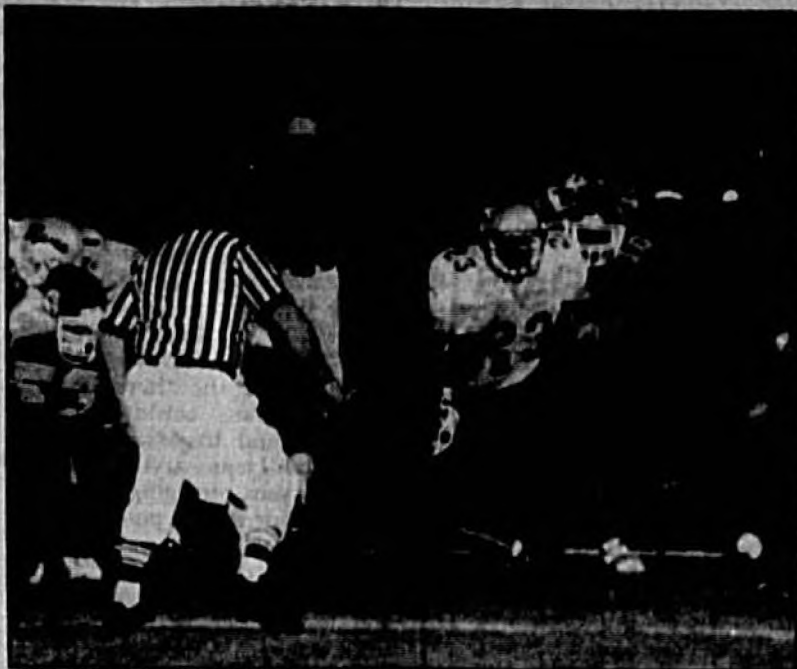

This touchdown was set up by Sean Glistler who recovered a fumble, after a turnover on downs by Lyman.

Johnson was able to run for 32 yards during the drive.

The second touchdown was scored by Maurice Hall on a run of 10 yards.

Travo Woods was able to run for 57 yards for the Grey-

Lyman and Lake Mary took to the Carlton Henley Sports Complex Field Friday night for the Kick-Off Classic with the Lyman freshman team winning the first quarter 12-0, the Lake Mary junior varsity team winning the second quarter 6-0 and the Rams varsity squad prevailing 21-6 in the second half.

Quarterback Kenny Starling (No. 5) completed 15-of-33 passes for 260 yards and three touchdowns and also ran 17 times for 54 yards and running back Alvin Hudson (No. 24) caught four passes for 41 yard, including two for touchdowns, and rushed 11 times for a team-high 73 yards in the Oviedo Lions' 35-23 loss to the Winter Park Wildcats in the Kick-Off Classic at John Courier Field Friday night.

OVIEDO - While it appeared that Oviedo was cooking up a 20-point play in their Football Classic with Winter Park, they were actually trying to do something much harder: kill memories.

For Coach Greg Register and his Lions, Friday's preseason game was more than just a means to work out some kinks and get in some hits before next week's season-opener against Seminole Athletic Conference foe Lyman (7:30 p.m. at John Courier Field).

"I've needed this to build on for next week," said Register. "We had a tough season last year (when the Lions suffered through a 3-7 campaign), but we don't want to look back. That's history."

For nearly 29 minutes Friday, it was the present and a horrifying possibility of what the ORLANDO - The Orlando Magic have obtained guard Lee Mayberry and forwards Makhtar Ndiaye, Rodrick Rhodes and Michael Smith from Vancouver as part of a three-way deal also involving Houston, announced Magic General Manager John Gabriel Friday night.

As part of the transaction, the Magic sent forward Don MacLean and a first round draft selection to Houston, while also sending a future second round pick to Vancouver.

hounds, greatly contributing to his team's success.

The second quarter was the junior varsity squads turn to play and this time Lake Mary showed up Lyman.

The Rams scored the only touchdown in the second quarter off a passing play to receiver Scott Herring.

Lake Mary's junior varsity team, much like Lyman's freshmen team, failed to capitalize on the extra point opportunity.

Carries for long runs in the second quarter were turned in by Anthony Evert (Lake Mary) with a 20 yard run, Ricky Argo (Lyman) with a 20 yard run and a 15 yard carry, Anthony Malk (Lyman) with a 25 yard gain, and Drew Burns (Lake Mary) with an eight-yard carry.

The final half of the game was played by the varsity teams with Lake Mary scoring three touchdowns and Lyman one.

"It was tough, but we tried our best," said Lyman senior Marshall Smith in regards to his thoughts on the game.

The first of Lake Mary's touchdowns was scored by senior Charles Harris on a 17-yard run. Russ Abrams then kicked through the extra point.

The Rams' Eric Coleman, also a senior, scored the second touchdown, on a one-yard run. Abrams again made the extra point count.

The final Lake Mary touchdown was scored by junior Anthony Ballerino. It was scored off of a one-yard carry as well. Again Abrams made the extra point. "We need to stay healthy," said Steve Katz, Lake Mary's offensive coordinator. "If we stay healthy then we will have a chance to compete at the end of the season, and we still want to be in it going into the playoffs."

Lyman's touchdown was scored by Terry Cross on a run of 30 yards.

"I feel pretty good about this game, we're learning," said Cross. "Next time, we will come out and play harder. I feel good about this season."

However, the attempted two point conversion did not work.

On the defensive side of the field, Greyhound junior John Haritan made six tackles.

"We need to get our heads back into the game and then we will be just fine," said Haritan.

"We need to develop a winning attitude and establish a system on both sides of the field," said Bill Caughell, who was directing his first game as head coach for Lyman. "We need to develop a physical, emotional, and disciplined style of football."

The teams kick off the season for real next Friday night with a game against friendly rivals.

Lyman travels to Oviedo to take on the Lions at John Courier Field, while Lake Mary welcomes Seminole to Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

Both games are set for a 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

future may hold as the Lions were plagued by the errors that haunted them last season - mental mistakes, misread tackles, dropped passes, and fumbles.

When Steven Harrar kicked the extra point following Anthony White's one-yard touchdown run at 7:45 of the third quarter, Winter Park led 28-0.

But before the "here we go again" feeling could set in, Register and his staff stayed after the Lions, trying to get them to start stringing together some sequence of positive experiences.

And they did. With senior quarterback Kenny Starling slinging balls to six different receivers and senior multi-threat Alvin Hudson throwing himself into any Winter Park defender who got in his way, the Lions outscored the Wildcats 23-7 over the game's final 19:45.

Even though it was just a preseason contest, the Lions could count the fact that they closed the final margin to 35-23 as a moral victory and a strong first step toward exorcising the specter of last year's nightmare.

"We spotted them 14 points in the first seven minutes of the game," said Register. "We know we're going to make mistakes. We're young in some spots and we're going to play an aggressive style of football."

At halftime, we told the guys that they had to put the first half behind them and try to come out and win the second half. And we did (23-18). We can take that and build on it for next week."

Steve Asby's 34-yard field goal put Oviedo on the scoreboard at 4:43 of the third quarter.

Hudson scored the first of his two touchdowns on a seven-yard pass from Starling less than three minutes into the fourth quarter.

About 6-1/2 minutes later, Starling tossed a 37-yard touchdown pass to Nick Tenekedes, cutting Winter Park's lead to 28-16.

But any delusions of an Oviedo comeback victory were dashed when James Lowe returned an interception 30 yards for the Wildcats with 1:41 remaining in the game.

As far as Register and crew were concerned, that would have been an unacceptable ending to their efforts Friday night.

So, as the crowd started to file out of John Courier Field, Starling and the Lions put together a 72-yard scoring drive that stretched the last 100 seconds on the game clock into nearly a quarter hour of elapsed time.

"We were going to get everything we could out of this opportunity tonight," said Register in smiling response to the query that perhaps offensive coordinator Troy Keszinger was drawing up a 20-point play during the timeouts that, to the uninformed, only prolonged the inevitable.

Starling finished with 260 yards passing, completing 15 of 33 attempts. Hudson caught four passes for 41 yards and two touchdowns (the second coming with 1.1 seconds left in the game) while rushing 11 times for 73 yards.

Tenekedes snared three passes for 84 yards and a score while Asby gained 72 yards on three receptions.

Lantrez Jones led all rushers by gaining 111 yards on 16 carries for Winter Park. White added 47 yards and two touchdowns on 11 carries. Lowe caused the Lions considerable trouble, returning the game-opening kickoff 94 yards for a touchdown, returning an interception for a touchdown, and rushing for 17 yards on five carries.

The Wildcats' other score came on a 15-yard pass from Doug Bates to Ben Sprague with just over a minute remaining in the second quarter.

Seminole Secrets

SANFORD - Just around the corner from busy U.S. Highway 17/92 lies one of Sanford's best kept secrets.

Turn to 300 Bush Boulevard, and there sits a pebble dash stucco building with the treasures of Seminole County's past inside.

More than 1,800 people have visited the Museum of Seminole County History in since October, 1998. The museum was officially placed on the National Register of Historic Places in June.

The 22 rooms in the 3,000 square foot museum each feature different exhibits, ranging from Native American artifacts to a Citrus Room.

"We start off on a time-line," said Museum Specialist Karen Jacobs. "Then we have Indian exhibits, and exhibits on the fort (Fort Mellon), transportation, the growth of our towns, a Celery Room, Citrus Room and we even have a French Room."

The French Room details the life of Seth French, the second Mayor of Sanford. The museum also has a model country store, a hospital room, a county services room, and many old pictures from across Seminole County.

"We have a little bit for everybody," Jacobs said. "And, everything we have is donated."

There are also exhibits about railroads and steamships. The museum traces the county's growth from its founding in 1824 as Mosquito County, to its inclusion within Orange County in 1845 and its politically motivated break-away as Seminole County in 1913.

A room filled with Native American artifacts features a history of the Seminole Indians, including their break from the Creek Tribe in Georgia and the Cherokees in Carolina. Seminole is a Native American word meaning

"Runaway."

The building where the Museum of Seminole County History is located first opened in 1926 to house the poor.

Jacobs said as many as 36 people once lived in the building, while nurses and cooks worked at the home.

"The locals just knew it as the Old Folks Home," Jacobs said.

Why Seminole High School's principal loves her new job

At 6:45 each morning, Karen Coleman stands outside Seminole High School, personally greeting students arriving for classes.

Herald Q Coleman, an assistant principal at Winter Springs High School since that's school's birth, was the natural choice to succeed Gretchen Schapker as principal at the school. She graduated from Seminole High in 1964. The football stadium at Seminole High is named for her brother, the late Tom Whigham. To be sure, Coleman is filled with pride about her Seminole High homecoming. She talked about what's happening at the school with the Herald's Russ White this week.

the elements of greatness. It's the flagship school of the county. The first in the county. It's always been a great school. But you haven't seen anything yet. It took 35 years for me to come home - and what a great home it is. I'm thrilled to have this job.

Q. You making some changes, aren't you? Tell us about the addition of a seventh period.

A. The seventh period gives our students an opportunity to explore classes beyond their regular schedule. This may mean a computer or internet class, auto mechanics, (AP) college credit courses. We're excited about the seventh period possibilities. Some students who may have 'test anxieties' can use this period for a test preparatory class. Wait and see how Seminole High students do on their test scores now.

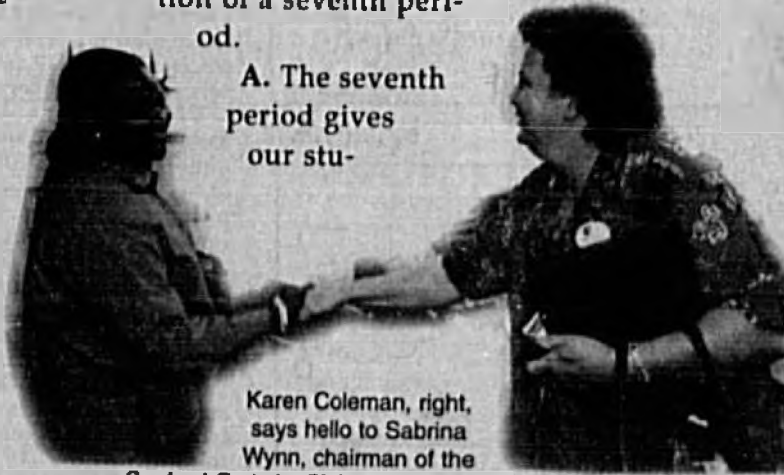

Q. How are the Seminole students doing in regard to dress code regulations?

A. We're pleased. It's tough for students - today or at any time - to dress the way parents and teachers wish they would. If you go into the junior department of a store and look at the clothes, half of what is there would violate the school dress code. It's particularly tough for young women with so many short tops and

Q. You couldn't be much happier than you are about this job - could you?

WIN AT BRIDGE

What makes a good penalty double?

Zia Mahmood has probably made more penalty doubles than anyone else. And in his Hols Bridge Tips article, he called one variety the Panther Double. He recommended using it when the opponents have an invitational auction — so their high-card power is limited — and you know the cards don't lie well for them.

This was Zia's example deal. North's raise to two spades limited his hand, and as South had passed as dealer, they were known to have minimal game values. So, when North bid three no-trump, East — with well-placed club honors and short spades — pounced with a panther double. Having a heart bolster, maybe South should have passed, but it would have been carnage. Instead, he ran to the known 5-3 fit. (If North had four spades, he wouldn't have bid three no-trump.) That was purring to West's ears.

West led the club seven: queen, king, six. South won the heart switch in hand with the king, played a trump to dummy's ace and a second spade to his king, getting news that should have been expected. (East threw a diamond.) South continued with a club to dummy's ace and a club ruff. West overruffed, cashed the spade queen, and exited with a heart to dummy's ace.

In desperation, South tried a diamond to his king, but West won with the ace and led the heart queen. South could ruff, but that was his last trick.

Were you keeping track? That was four down, 800 to East-West. True, probably South could have saved a trick in the play, but 500 is still a lot better than 150.

enjoys all homemaking roles and especially sewing and cooking. A professionally equipped sewing center in her home verifies her expertise in all phases of stitching. When the clan gathers, Viola can be found in the kitchen happily whipping up mouth-watering dishes to feed her brood including seven grandchildren and one great grandchild.

A member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority for about 30 years, Viola enjoys her sorority sisters who are like family. She has also been a member of the Sanford Woman's Club for about 14 years where she has held numerous offices and has won several awards for her dedication and outstanding accomplishments. Viola loves to travel and especially likes her favorite entertainers at Branson, Mo.

Dickie's name is legion at Sunniland in Sanford where he worked for 43 years until his retirement seven years ago. He carried on the family tradition at Sunniland in the name of his father and grandfather. And his two sons are both employed at Sunniland. They began their careers while still in school by working for their dad during the summer months. When Dickie retired, son Chris.

MEAN GENE HELPS LOCAL STUDENTS

The school year began as a success for over 50 students and families who were blessed by the caring efforts of "The Young Youth and Families Working for Togetherness," ministry of the Mean Gene Gospel Hour.

This musical ministry heard over radio station WTRR-1400 that the station gave out school supplies to families in need and were unable to purchase articles for their children.

There were a few of the parents who arrived at the station to receive the school supplies for their children.

Special thanks go to those persons who helped the Mean Gene Gospel Hour to plant a seed in the lives of these young youth and families as they entered the 1999-2000 educational term in various schools of this community. Thanks to Golden Rule housing, Beatrice Jones, Bishop D. L. Grant, Roberto Velon, Studio III, and Mean Gene.

The Mean Gene Gospel Ministry is heard Mon., Wed., Fri. at 9 a.m. thru 11 a.m. Tues. and Thurs. at 9 a.m. to 10:35 a.m. Sun. 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Chorus spruces up planters at school

At Lake Mary High School, there's a planter on the senior patio behind the chorus room. This particular planter is very big with several palm trees in it. And until Saturday, it looked like quite a mess.

On Saturday, dozens of chorus students brought shovels and shears and got to work.

First, they took out everything that was in the planter except for the trees. They spruced up the trees by removing all the dead branches. They also weeded a nearby planter. Then they put in top soil, weed cover, plants and mulch. The project has not cost the school anything. Donations for renovating the planter came from students, parents and Home Depot.

But this was just the first step for the project. At a later date, they will be adding flowering plants like jasmine, leather, bougainvillea and rose bushes. They will also be putting a trellis against the not so attractive fence that's at the end of the planter. There'll be an arched trellis nearby. They will plant creeping figs by the palm trees and train them to go up the trunks.

There is a deeper meaning behind the project than just esthetic improvement. The planter will be dedicated to Danny Powell. Danny was a member of the choir and the ROTC. He died of cancer two years ago. The planter will be a way for his friends to remember him.

Once the project has been completed, the choir department will hold a dedication ceremony and a plaque will be placed in the planter. Alice Ann Nilsen, the choir director, hopes that their adoption of the planter will encourage other groups to take an interest in the school grounds and adopt other areas that need a little tender loving care.

Ms. Nilsen credits her students for taking the initiative and working so hard on this project. Some students could only help out for a couple of hours on Saturday, but many were there from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The students who helped plan and coordinate the project were Kim Gwynn, Amy Fisher, Eddie Rios, Jessica Mumper, Brian Panerello and Brian Southard. But, of course, nothing could have been accomplished without all the willing workers who showed up on Saturday. They were: Kristin Hayden, Chad McFarlane, Ryan Dees, Matt Pacelli, Evan Clark, Matt Spikes, Louis Carmine, Constance Katsafanas, Alex Nicholas, Heidi Gentner, Stephanie Rowell, Rachel Coogan, Ashleigh Teicher, Cora McNeese, Jessica Lufsig, Christine Rauierson, Michelle Millican, Sarah Weiss, Abby Ryan, Lyndsey Cole, Danielle Bates, Matthew Bates, Mary Saleda, Ashley Jennings, Natalie Martin, Joe Pacelli, Lyndsey Krumalauf, Andrew Simmons.

a Sunnland employee for 27 years, took over his father's job as warehouse manager for building supplies. Thus, four generations of the Frank family have been employed at Sunnland.

The Franks are a close knit family; so close in fact they formed a small colony off South Sanford Avenue known as Franks' Corner where they all live in separate homes.

Living there are Viola and Dickie, their sons and wives, Donna and Kim, and families, two married grandchildren and Dickie's mom, Nellie, who will be 95 in December.

To celebrate 50 years of wedded bliss, the Frank family gathered for a night out on the town for their anniversary dinner. "We just didn't want a big celebration," Viola said.

The Franks' love story will never end. Would Viola marry Dickie all over again?

"Oh, good Lord, yes," Viola exclaimed. "I can't imagine living without him."

PET THERAPIST VISITS LIONS CLUB
At the regularly scheduled meeting of the Sanford Lions Club on Aug. 17, guests were Inez Parsell and her dog, Franny, certified pet therapists for Hospice of the Comforter in Altamonte Springs.

Introduced by Bernard Fitzgerald, former Lions past president, past Lions district governor and past recipient of the Lions Melvin Jones award, Inez told the members how dogs are used as therapy for a number of health problems. She said for many victims who have impaired memories and difficulty speaking, the dog brings out interaction and the ability to verbalize.

Inez and Franny had special training as pet therapists and Inez said the dog does not have to be any special breed to participate in therapy programs. In fact, Franny is a mutt. Dogs must have a good temperament and get along with people, she said.

Inez has two other dogs but they are not registered. Franny was obedience trained at Best Paw Forward in Sanford.

SPAGHETTI DINNER
The Sanford Lions Club and Lakeside Lions Club will join forces on Sept. 11 for the annual Lions Spaghetti Dinner and Bingo at the Sanford Civic Center. Hours are 4 to 8 p.m. and admission donation is $5.00 with children, under 5, admitted free.

According to Gloria Chang, baked goods will also be sold separately. Proceeds from the event will go to the Lions sight program.

Mom concerned effeminate boy may develop into a homosexual

DEAR ABBY: I am a single mother with two sons, ages 10 and 18, both of whom I love very much. I am becoming more and more concerned about my 10-year-old, 'Trevor.' Trevor has many interests and is highly intelligent for his age. But his interests trouble me.

8. It's an unmistakable sign of culture and refinement. 9. It makes me desirable personally among women and children in respectable society. 10. It's my way of honoring God, who said, 'Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.'

While most boys pour over baseball cards and speak of little girls, Trevor has taken an interest in cooking and dance. He doesn't mix well with other boys, is teased constantly and hates the walk to school. He is effeminate and introspective. I have come to the conclusion that Trevor is a homosexual — or rather, will be when he's more developed.

brother was given a 'Ten Reasons for Swearing' card. I am happy to say it broke him of the habit. Whenever I hear a man or woman swear, I just say, 'I couldn't help overhearing you. Welcome to the club,' as I hand them a card. It does work. I have had more than 10,000 of them printed.

My question to you, Abby, is — what can I do to make this 'coming out' process easier on my son? I support him in his interests. I even bought him a cookbook for his birthday this year. Do you think it's too early to speak of sexuality to Trevor? Should I enroll him in karate? What do you think?

ADVICE COLUMNIST Dear Abby

WORRIED IN WOODLAND HILLS, CALIF.

DEAR MONTY: If your 'Ten Reasons for Swearing' makes the offenders take a moment to cool off, they're certainly worth sharing.

DEAR WORRIED: You are a caring and supportive parent, but just because at age 10 Trevor seems slow in developing an interest in girls does not automatically guarantee that he's a budding homosexual. He could be a budding Gene Kelly or Wolfgang Puck.

- 10 REASONS FOR SWEARING 1. It pleases Mother so much. 2. It's a fine mark of manliness. 3. It proves that I have self-control. 4. It indicates how clearly my mind operates. 5. It makes my conversation so pleasing to everybody. 6. It leaves no doubt in anyone's mind as to my good breeding. 7. It impresses people that I have more than an ordinary education.

The most important thing you can do for Trevor is to let him know you love him unconditionally, regardless of his eventual orientation, and that he can talk openly with you about anything that's on his mind. By all means talk to him about sexuality, in an age-appropriate way. The discussion should be one that is ongoing.

Counseling might help Trevor repair his self-esteem. The counselor can help him decide the most effective means of dealing with the abuse he is receiving.

their own food from an orange grove, a vegetable garden, a chicken coup, plus cattle and pigs.

"On Sundays a station wagon would come around to take them to church," Jacobs said. "Or they could go fish in the pond out by SCC."

The building was the first to be erected on 82 acres of land at what became known as the Five-Points Complex. Jacobs said that a convict camp would soon also be located at the site, where the Juvenile Assessment Center is now located.

The "Old Folks Home" became an agricultural extension facility for Seminole County in 1964, and the county museum in 1982. For the past two years, Seminole County has been providing funds to improve the building.

The museum's porches and windows have been repaired using county funding. The Seminole County Historical Society has performed volunteer work and purchased new rugs and a display case.

The Seminole County Student Museum housed in the old Sanford Grammar School is the only other government site on the National Register of Historic Places.

"We wanted to begin the new century and millennium on the National Register and we couldn't be more proud," said Douglas Stenstrom, president of the Seminole County Historical Society.

Four other buildings in Seminole County are also on the Register, including two in Sanford and two in Longwood.

Sanford boasts the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital, now a hotel on Oak Avenue, and St. James A.M.E. Church in Georgetown. In Longwood, the Bradley-McIntyre House and the Longwood Village Inn are also on the Register.

Sanford has two Historical Districts, for commercial and residential, on the Register. Longwood's Historical District is also on the Register.

The Museum of Seminole County History is open Tuesday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m., and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is free.

spaghetti strings on sale. If someone is not dressed properly, we have some new T-shirts in the office or we have them ask someone to bring them something appropriate. We ask is that they not wear anything that is indecent or disruptive. We've got some interesting hairstyles. But they aren't a big issue.

Q. What are your biggest needs at Seminole High?

A. Band equipment. Gosh, some of the instruments that were leftover are falling apart on the band members. We definitely need a new tuba. We're going to have a very enthusiastic band - 80 band members are freshmen, only 13 are seniors. We have a reputation of having a sensational band, a great chorus, gospel choir, cheerleaders and the Dazzlers dance team. Everyone wants our kids. Disney calls all the time.

Q. Word is the Seminole High football team may be one of the best in the area, perhaps the state. What do you think?

A. I've got it on good authority, the Seminoles are going to be terrific. My son (Barry Coleman) is a coach at Oviedo. He told me the Seminole has a very good team. He saw our team at the recent jamboree. I hope we're as good as other people think we are. We play in the Kickoff Classic in Deland this weekend.

Q. How important is it for you to greet the students when they arrive in the morning or to say good-bye when they leave after their last class or activity?

A. Very important. Boyd Karns (assistant principal) and I want to say hello to everyone. We want to be cheerful, positive and optimistic toward them. It isn't easy to be 16 and arriving at school before 7 a.m. We just want to say, hello, or tell someone, "Nice outfit you're wearing." A student thanked me the other day. He said it was neat that I'd shake someone's hand - whether he was popular or not.

Use caution with benefit payments

If you receive monthly federal social security, disability or other payments and still receive your payment by check, you are most likely aware of the federal government's desire for you to start receiving your payments by electronic funds transfer.

As an individual receiving a federal payment, you have three options:

- Receive your payment by Direct Deposit through the financial institution of your choice. The government makes payment electronically through a program called Direct Deposit. Direct Deposit is a safe, convenient and reliable way to receive your federal payment through a bank, credit union, savings bank, or thrift. Many financial institutions offer basic, low cost accounts in addition to full-service checking or savings account.

- Receive your payment through basic, low cost account called an Electronic Transfer Account (ETA) when available. Like Direct Deposit, the ETA is a safe, convenient, and reliable way to receive your federal payment through a financial institution. This account will most likely be available late this year at many financial institutions.

- But most importantly, you can continue to receive a check. If you are an individual and receiving your payment electronically would cause you hardship, you may continue to receive your check. It will continue to come to you.

Recently, the U.S. Treasury Department and the Florida Department of Banking and Finance (DBF) have become concerned about the fees charged by certain check cashers and other companies that allow recipients to receive their benefits electronically without having to directly set up their own bank account.

The DBF is particularly concerned about the fees charged by companies that allow you to get on your federal benefit. In some instances, these fees can amount to an annual percentage rate in excess of 800 percent.

If you use the services of one of these companies to receive your federal benefit electronically, be sure that you read all of the information the company provides. The information should outline all fees for the service.

If the company has set up a bank account for you, the information should tell if your account is covered by federal deposit insurance. If federal deposit insurance is not provided, be sure that the company you are using is registered as a money transmitter in Florida.

If the company issues a card to use to access your federal benefit through ATM machines or to buy goods, be aware of what rights and responsibilities you have if a transaction was entered on your account in error or if your card is lost or stolen.
