By Joe DeSantis Staff Writer

Sanford sees success with intensive community policing techniques

SANFORD — When your work efforts are met by standing ovations from community residents, you've got to believe things are looking up.

That's the case for a special five-officer tactical unit deployed for the past several months by the Sanford Police Department. Their sting and stakeout operations designed to crack down on property theft citywide has resulted in more than 50 arrests in the past two months and bolstered a heightened sense of camaraderie and cooperation between Sanford residents, business owners and the police force.

"We're taking a more proactive approach in our community policing efforts," confirmed police chief Brian Tooley. "We want to send a message to the bad guys that we plan on making our neighborhoods safer. We want to break the back of criminal activity and put a stop to a lot of this nonsense."

The five-officer team is headed up by Lt. David DelRosso and Sgt. Chris Collison. Borrowing a page from the old cop show "Baretta," squad members don a variety of disguises and deploy themselves in various neighborhoods and businesses, planting bait such as bicycles, lawn maintenance equipment and vehicles. Sometimes hidden in bushes they watch, they wait, and when thieves strike, they move in to slap the cuffs.

"People are cooperating, they want to help the department," confirmed Collison. "We've had business owners ask us into their shops to run the stakeouts. We've had homeowners invite officers into their residences to observe and help execute the stings. It's been reward-

Student creativity on display

Art association hosts annual show, student contest Sunday

By Michelle Jeria Managing Editor

SANFORD — Some of Seminole County's most creative minds will gather Sunday during Sanford/Seminole Art Association's annual Membership Show.

Alongside artwork created by Art Association members, students from Millennium and Teague middle schools will display their masterpieces as part of the student competition, said Faye Siler, a member of the association's administrative committee. The student artwork will be judged and awarded various prizes, including an all-expenses-paid trip to the Bahamas.

"The Association is sponsoring the student art show in order to promote art in Seminole County schools," Siler said. "We want to broaden the scope of the arts in the county, and the day should be a very good afternoon for young people and their families."

Artwork from various Seminole County artists, including Ruth Hamilton, Ruby Brown and Marilyn Parigian, and a Lionel

Bill Abbott, Troy Ray, Mari Briggs, Faye Siler and Helen Banman, all members of the Sanford/Seminole Art Association, display some of their art work that will be on display, along with art work from students at Millennium and Teague middle schools, Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Sanford Garden Club.

Barrymore etching donated by Leta Long will be auctioned off during the event. The program will also feature a raffle for donated items, including artwork and art supplies.

"We know a lot of artists will probably come to the show, and we wanted to have a raffle of things they would be interested in," Siler said. "A lot of nice things were donated that both artists and the public will like."

According to Siler, many of the pieces of art on display will be for sale to the public. Artwork will include watercolors, oils, acrylics, pastels and pottery.

People attending Sunday's event will be asked to vote for their favorite work of art. Once the votes are tallied, one artist will receive the "Most Popular In Show" ribbon. Sunniland Corporation will also sponsor the Peacha Wiggins award, which honors a family member in the Moore family.

The Sanford/Seminole Art Association was established in 1959, and reorganized eight years ago with new by-laws. Currently, the organization has about 50 members from Seminole County. The group meets nine times a year, and the membership fee is $15.

The annual Membership Show will be held Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Sanford Garden Club. See Art, Page 9A

Lessard views March election as critical to future of Sanford

Editor's note: Final in a series of candidate profiles for Sanford's Mayoral and District 1 City Commission Race.

By Joe DeSantis Staff Writer

SANFORD — Current District 1 City Commissioner Brady Lessard is one of four candidates seeking Sanford's Mayoral post.

An eight-year resident of Sanford, Lessard, 30, was first elected to the City Commission in 1997. He is married, the father of two sons, and holds a Bachelor's degree in History from Loyola University. Lessard's occupation is real estate re-novation and property management. He is involved in a number of community and civic activities including: Director, Tajiri Arts School of Performing Arts and President-elect of Sanford's noon Rotary Club. He is a 1998 Graduate of the Central Florida Leadership program and served eight years in the U.S. Army Reserve.

Citing significant improvements in public safety, soaring property values in District 1 thanks to major residential re-development, and a focus on continued re-development throughout the City, Lessard has adopted a "Let's Finish the Job" theme for his campaign. He views the March 6 election criti-

Lake Mary residents have something rare in city election — a choice of candidates

By Michelle Jeria Managing Editor

LAKE MARY — Residents will head to the polls during a special election Tuesday to select one of two candidates for City Commission Seat 4.

Lake Mary residents David Hoppen and Janet Jernigan are vying for the seat vacated by former Deputy Mayor Al Crump after he announced his resignation in December. The winner of the election will complete Crump's term, which ends in November.

In a city that has experienced tremendous growth during the past decade and has one of the lowest tax rates in Central Florida, both candidates believe in maintaining and improving the quality of life for residents. They also realize the importance of controlling growth while continuing Lake Mary's success. David Hoppen moved to Lake Mary in 1996 when he married Eileen, and the couple have a 2-year-old son, Daniel. A Florida native, he has lived in Central Florida for the past 15 years and currently is an executive with Zenith Insurance Co. The Feb. 20 election is the first time he has sought political office.

Hoppen said he decided to run for Commission Seat 4 as a result of past uncontested City Commission races.

Derether Anderson, 66, of Sanford waits for police and emergency personnel to help her get out of Lake Monroe. Anderson was peacefully fishing on the seawall of Lake Monroe Wednesday when she was pushed into the water by a man attempting to hand her a religious pamphlet. A day earlier Gary Talley of Longwood was likewise fishing on the lake between Palmeto Avenue and Seminole Boulevard when he too was pushed into the lake. Police are seeking two suspects. In Talley's case the perpetrator is described as a white male, thinly built with red hair and approximately 17 years old. He was seen fleeing the area in a white late 80's model Jeep Cherokee. In Anderson's case the perpetrator is described as a thinly built, tall white male seen fleeing in a gray sedan. Sanford Police have a solid lead in one of the cases.

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

The history of George W.

No, not George W. Bush, but George Washington, the FIRST president. Monday, Feb. 19 is President's Day. It was first declared to honor both Washington and Abraham Lincoln, born on Feb. 12. Washington's actual birthday is Feb. 22. Later, it became a day to honor all past presidents.

But dealing specifically with George Washington, historians tell us that he did NOT chop down a cherry tree as we may have learned in elementary school, and his false teeth were NOT made of wood. Whether he actually threw a dollar all the way across the Potomac River is still up to question, although I will admit, a dollar DID go a lot further those days.

Nick Pfeifauf

George was born Feb. 22, 1732, in Wakefield on Pope's Creek, Westmoreland Co., Va. He spent his early childhood on his father's farm. His father Augustine died when George was 11. He studied mathematics and surveying, and at age 16, moved in with his elder half-brother Lawrence. Here is more untrue history. It was Lawrence, not George, who built Mount Vernon.

When Lawrence died of smallpox in 1752, George inherited his property. (By the time George died in 1799, the property had accumulated to 70,000 acres in Virginia and 40,000 acres in what is now West Virginia.)

He joined the British army in 1753, clashed with the French in Ohio, and lost a strategic battle, surrendering Fort Necessity on July 3, 1754. Later, serving under British General Edward Braddock, his army was ambushed and defeated, and they lost to the French during a march on Fort Duquesne. He eventually captured the fort five years later.

After he married Martha Dandridge Curtis, a widow, in 1759, he managed the estate at Mount Vernon, but took charge of the Virginia troops before the Revolutionary War broke out, this time siding against the British. He was made commander of the forces on June 15, 1775.

The Revolutionary War victory over the British was credited to Washington's leadership however, and he became chairman of the Constitutional Convention of 1787, helping get the constitution ratified. He was unanimously elected president by the Electoral College and was inaugurated April 30, 1789, on the balcony of New York's Federal Hall.

Although he was a Federalist, he made an effort to avoid partisan politics as president. He was subsequently re-elected in 1792.

He refused to accept a third term, and retired to Mount Vernon in March, 1797. In December of 1799 he took a five hour horseback ride around his property in the freezing cold, and became ill from it. His first doctor determined it was "Inflammatory Quinsy", a throat infection. Back then, two of the methods to cure a person were bleeding and drinking various liquids. In all, three separate doctors were called - each bleed Washington. He also ingested such items as hot water, vinegar, calomel and tartar. Nothing made him better - in fact, historians believe he actually bled to death because of the triple treatment by the individual doctors.

His death brought tributes, even from the British whom he had fought. The U.S. Army troops wore black armbands for six months. The funeral contained a cavalry escort and a delegation of Freemasons, as well as local dignitaries and salvos from yachts in the Potomac.

Shortly before his death, he freed all of the slaves at Mount Vernon, and arranged for the elderly among them to receive a life pension, which continued until 1833, more than 30 years after his death.

The first President of the United States, George Washington, was buried in the family vault on December 18, 1799. Martha was buried with him when she died two years later in 1802.

Pasture pals

Horses graze in a pasture located near Vhien Road and east of Upeals Road. Animals and humans alike have been enjoying Central Florida's recent warm and sunny weather — a sure sign spring is on its way.

Lake Mary's Judge? In a sign of support, several Lake Mary Commissioners addressed City Attorney Donna L. McIntosh as "Judge McIntosh" during Thursday's Commission meeting. McIntosh is one of four candidates still in the running for the Eighteenth Circuit Judicial judgeship. The Final Four were selected after the Nominating Committee conducted 15-minute interviews with 14 candidates. The names of the four nominees will be sent to Gov. Jeb Bush, who will select one for the judgeship. Although the City Fathers said they would miss McIntosh if appointed, they wished her the best of luck, as does the Herald.

Decoy thief Twice this week two innocent elderly folks fishing along the lakefront on Lake Monroe have been accosted and tossed into the lake by what witnesses described as two white males pulling a drive by dunking. How about we hire some crusty, ill-tempered, cranky retired New York cop and dress him up like a little old lady and send him out to the lakefront as a decoy. Problem solved.

Le-Huu, one of the gentleman vying to be the designer for Sanford's new Riverwalk, earned exceptional grades during his college years at the University of Florida. Le-Huu received his Master's degree in architecture while maintaining a perfect 4.0 GPA. Not to be outdone, Commissioner Eckstein commented on his own academic prowess. "I graduated from UF with a 1.8, and Mayor Dale had a 2.2, so together we earned a 4.0." Eckstein later commented: "Just remember, mayor, I gave you credit for the 2.2."

Signs, signs, everywhere signs. Sanford's municipal elections are just two-and-a-half weeks away. There's no shortage of campaign signs dotting the local landscape. Our casual drive around observation leads us to conclude Mayor candidate Brady Lessard and District 1 candidate Linda Kuhn have the most signs out, while Mayor candidate Bates Reed has the most signs illegally placed on right-of-ways. Of course there's the usual back burner rumblings about signs being removed by various competitors.

Don't forget the Candidate Forum next Sunday, February 25. The event begins at 2:30 p.m. at the Helen Stairs Theatre.

Astute Observation #1. An alert reader wondered if the initials "LD" stood for Larry Dale or Lame Duck.

Astute Observation #2. Though they share the same conservative ideology, Ronald Reagan and Larry Dale don't share the same birthday. Dale's is Feb. 3, Reagan's is Feb. 6. The Clock was running on Central Time last week when it made the erroneous observation the two shared a birthday. Thanks to an alert reader for setting us straight.

Stamp of Approval. The Sanford police and fire unions are giving their support to Linda Kuhn for District 1 commissioner and Brady Lessard for mayor. According to the unions, the commission race was a tough call, with both Kuhn and her opponent Art Woodruff scoring high marks. "What it came down to was Linda's public safety background," said Dave Frost, president of the Sanford Professional Firefighters, Local 3996. "She's had work experience in this field. It was a really tough decision. It could have gone either way." Not so for the mayor's race. The Fraternal Order of Police supported Kerry Lyons when he ran for office in 1994, but Lyons alienated the rank and file during his term in office. According to union insiders, Lessard was the clear favorite because of his outspoken leadership in getting substantial pay raises for police and firefighters, as well as his commitment to improving both departments.

No sharing. In a moment of levity at the close of the Sanford City Commission meeting, District 1 Commissioner and mayoral candidate Brady Lessard asked Commission Liaison Diane Crews to be ready to order two cakes for Mayor Larry Dale's going away party. "If I lose the mayor's race, I don't want to share a cake with Larry. I want my own," Lessard said. To which Commissioner Whitey Eckstein replied: "Look at that mayor. Lessard's already trying to distance himself from you, just like Gore did with Clinton."

Just a suggestion! With the lack of rainfall, lakes throughout this area of Central Florida are getting lower and lower. This is especially apparent in Lake Mary, with more lakes and retention ponds than you can shake a stick at. In what is probably a beautification effort, most of these lakes and ponds have fountains spewing water up into the skies.

Suggestion, if our lakes get much lower, perhaps a name change should be considered — from Lake Mary to Fountain Mary.

Two heads are better than one. Khu

Trespassing

Sanford police arrested Kyle Rojan O'Neal, 39, of West 13th Street, Sanford, on Monday, Feb. 12. Officers were called to an apartment near 4th Street and Locust Avenue in regards to a disturbance. O'Neal was found in the apartment and asked to leave, which he did. However, he returned to the apartment and refused to leave after officers said they told him to do so a number of times. He was arrested on a charge of trespassing after warning.

In the squad car on the way to the jail however, the officer reported O'Neal continually spit at him and shouted obscenities at him. It was subsequently found that he had kicked and damaged the window of the squad car. He was given additional charges of battery on a police officer and criminal mischief with property damage over $200.

Home Invasion

Altamonte Springs police arrested Terry Lamar Ward, 19, of Jenkins Circle, Sanford in Casselberry. Officers were called through a Crimeline tip that Ward was at that location. Ward had been considered a suspect in a home invasion and robbery on East Street in Altamonte Springs.

He was subsequently placed under arrest and charged with home invasion/robbery.

Stolen Vehicles

Cory Paul Haines, 19, of Altamonte Springs, was stopped by sheriff's deputies Friday on Jackson Street in Altamonte Springs, when the vehicle he was driving was listed as stolen. He was charged with grand theft motor vehicle, petty larceny (stolen tag), operating a motor vehicle without a drivers license, and attached license plate not assigned.

Royce V. Moore, 33, of Orlando, was arrested by sheriff's deputies Thursday. An officer responded to a suspicious person report in Casselberry, and when he arrived, a man, identified as Moore, reportedly drove off. Following a chase, often said to be at high speeds, he was stopped in Winter Park on Dike Road. He was subsequently charged with grand theft motor vehicle, resisting/fleeing and officer, and resisting an officer without violence.

Tanya R. Davis, 16, of Winter Springs, was arrested on Roosevelt Square in Oviedo by Oviedo Police on Thursday. She was charged with theft of a motor vehicle.

Traffic Stops

Charles Eric Dotson, 38, East 7th Street, Sanford, was stopped by sheriff's deputies in the 2400 block of Highway 17-92 Monday. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and driving with a suspended license.

Family Owned & Serving Central Florida Since 1989

We are alarmed by the decision of some corporately owned funeral homes to remove PreNeed trust funds from the Trust. Florida Law does allow a funeral home to buy a bond in lieu of depositing PreNeed funds in a state approved trust. At the time you pre-arranged your funeral we told you your money would be deposited in a state approved trust fund according to the requirements of Florida Statutes. As promised, the proper deposits have been made to the trust fund. Our promise to provide a loving and respectful funeral according to your wishes will be honored. Your peace of mind is important to us...so we send this assurance that your money will stay in the trust fund until we certify to the trustee that death has occurred and we have provided the services and merchandise. Our funeral home is family owned and operated and we thank you for knowing our family is good to our word. If you have any questions, please call us.

Least-valued job

The price of motherhood often ignored

Mothers are the saintly caregivers whose selfless virtues are praised by everyone from politicians to popes. It is such a lofty position, with such important responsibilities, that a mother's sacrifice is taken as a given. Motherhood, we all know, is its own reward.

So for women to discuss money in relation to motherly duties would be, well, crass. A mother's love is priceless, as we all agree. Frankly, any woman who tries putting a dollar value on motherhood casts suspicion on her maternal credentials.

Thus, women rarely even think about the economic cost of motherhood, much less talk about it. We don't discuss how we diminish our long-term earning capacity by leaving the workplace for 10 or 15 years, earning lower salaries than women with no children and losing out on Social Security and pension benefits. We don't discuss how, in the year 2001, the income of the primary breadwinner remains the exclusive property of the spouse who earns it. We don't discuss how we are more likely than men to be poor in old age or after a divorce because we forfeited economic independence for "the most important job in the world."

In a time when childless women earn nearly as much as men, mothers still lag far behind. The pay gap between mothers and non-mothers under age 35 is now wider than the wage gap between young men and women. This is the unfinished business of the women's movement, says journalist Ann Crittendon in her new book, "The Price of Motherhood: Why the Most Important Job in the World Is Still the Least Valued" (Metropolitan Books, 2001).

"One could say that motherhood is now the single greatest obstacle left in the path to economic equality for women," Crittendon writes.

It's not that we didn't know that motherhood cut short or set back most of our careers. We knew we were making a trade-off. It was, as employers always like to point out, our choice. But I doubt most of us calculated the actual economic consequences of the trade-off or questioned our responsibility to bear the costs alone.

Crittendon, a former New York Times reporter, does both. A couple with a combined annual income of $81,500 will lose $1.35 million if they have a child.

The lost income is primarily in wages foregone by the primary caregiver. This book doesn't seek recognition for what mothers do. It seeks remuneration. A mother's work should be counted for what it is: real labor that benefits the economy by providing the next generation of educated worker-citizens. Mothers should have a right to the benefits that other workers enjoy. They ought to be entitled to half their family's income and assets.

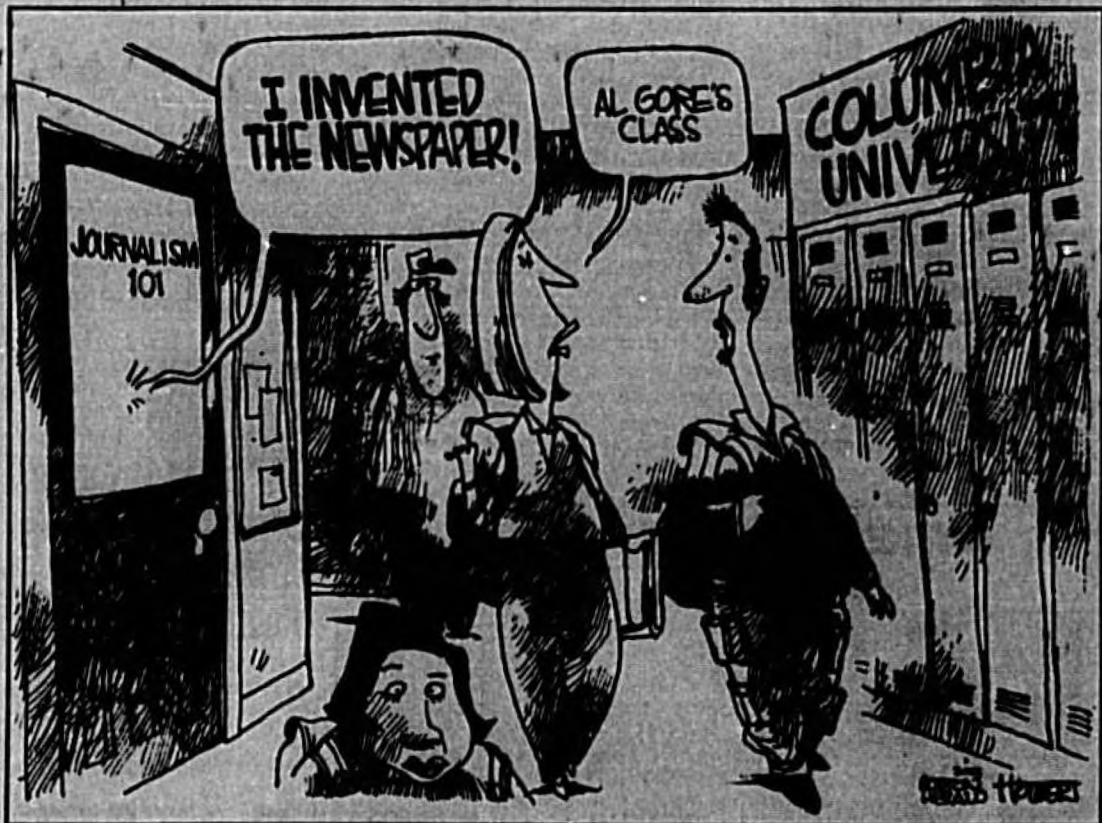

Yet in 47 of 50 states — California is among the three exceptions — mothers have no guaranteed legal right to half the family's assets. A married mother is a "dependent," and a divorced mother is "given" what a judge decides she and her children "need." Courts in many states are allowed to ignore the value of her caregiving, as if her work at home counted less than a husband's paycheck.

In the United States, we view discrimination in the workplace through the lens of gender. "But," says historian Susan Pederson, who is quoted in the book, "what's really going on is a disadvantaging of mothers in the workforce."

Crittendon's book breaks new ground in its detailed analysis of how heavy an economic burden we expect mothers to carry. But the topic itself isn't new. The National Organization for Women addressed it at its inaugural conference in 1966. The group's founding statement recognized that mothers too often "retire from jobs or professions for 10 to 15 years to devote their full time to raising children only to re-enter the job market at a relatively minor level." More importantly, the NOW statement questioned the assumption that each woman, rather than society as a whole, is supposed to bear the full financial responsibility of raising a child. Thirty-six years later, the assumption stands.

This is a topic in which both conservatives and liberals ought to find common ground. Real reform in the courts and in the workplace would reduce the economic risks for those who choose to stay home and allow mothers who work the flexibility to be responsible parents and upwardly mobile employees. I've got just the slogan: Let's put the value back in family values.

Clinton: The man to lead African AIDS war

Seventeen million dead! Twenty-five mortally wounded! If Europe were hit with such ghastly casualties, would America be sitting on the sidelines? If the lands of our roots — England, Ireland, Germany, Italy, Poland and all our others — faced a global predator capable of such horror, would we Americans avert our glances?

You, the reader, know the answer. As in 1914 and 1939, this country would be hot with debate. What should we do? How can we help our friends fight this fiend that kills without sympathy?

I speak, for those still unaware, not of Europe at the advent of World War I or II, but of sub-Saharan Africa at the outbreak of World War III.

Without much notice here, the fatality lists on that continent have entered the same horrendous league. Seventeen million Africans have died of AIDS. Twenty-five million are infected with HIV. If this World War III continues for even a handful more years, it will kill more humans on this one continent than the 50 million killed on every front and death camp in World War II.

What will America do this time? Will we wait, as we did in the years before Pearl Harbor, hoping the danger might be arrested somewhere beyond our shores?

Secretary of State Colin Powell spoke this week for the opposing view.

"AIDS is a national security problem," he said. "It is a devastating problem in sub-Saharan Africa. Millions of people are at risk. Millions of people will die no matter what we do. This creates a major problem for Africa and other parts of the world where AIDS is spreading. It is a pandemic. It requires our attention, and Congress has to be generous."

The question is whether the United States will now apply the same "Powell doctrine" in fighting AIDS in Africa that we did confronting Saddam Hussein in the Persian Gulf. Will we build the necessary popular support for the campaign here at home? Will we bring the overwhelming force needed to destroy the enemy in the field?

So far, the only battalions fighting on the front lines are intrepid contingents of the Peace Corps.

Volunteers in South Africa, Lesotho and neighboring nations are teaching men how to use condoms, women how to resist them when they don't.

They are helping the orphans that could mean their survival. Beyond their assigned jobs, many Peace Corps volunteers are providing care to the HIV-infected themselves.

But the flood of HIV and AIDS is, tragically, of biblical might. It attacks not the young and the old but young adults, including the continent's "best and brightest," those on whose shoulders its struggling nations most depend. These include the hard-working miners who spend months away from their wives and the young, better-educated civil servants also assigned to remote posts.

For Secretary Powell and for President Bush, the question is, who will lead this fight in Africa? If it is not the United States, this country of huge medical might and historic wealth, then who?

And if AIDS in Africa is a threat to our "national security," as Secretary Powell has determined, who should carry the U.S. banner?

I suggest the name of President Bush's predecessor, William Jefferson Clinton. His proposed new office in Harlem would give him an excellent command post from which to champion the American campaign against a global menace that is killing at greater number and efficiency than Hitler, Tojo and Mussolini combined.

Unions should tell workers their rights concerning dues

Among the most powerful allies of the Democratic Party are America's labor unions.

Although many individual union members — perhaps as many as 40 percent — vote Republican, the unions themselves are controlled by hard-core Democrats who pour tens of millions of dollars into every election. Last November they battled heroically for Al Gore and did their level best to deliver both Houses of Congress to the Democratic Party.

Where did all that money come from? Why, from the union members, of course, in the form of forced contributions for such political activities. And what about the Republican members who objected to seeing their money spent this way? Well, that was just too bad.

Actually, the Supreme Court had ruled in Communications Workers of America v. Beck, all the way back in 1988, that objecting employees could reclaim all forced dues not used for collective bargaining activities — or, in other words, for political purposes.

But the unions, by a combination of misinformation, intimidation and obstruction, have managed to make the Beck decision a dead letter. With the help of the National Labor Relations Board, they have successfully stonewalled all efforts to enforce it.

In April 1992, President Bush (the first!) issued an executive order requiring all federal contractors to inform workers of their right to refuse to fund union political activities. This step was, of course, only a minor one in the right direction, because it applied only to federal contractors. But even so, President Clinton revoked it at the request of union leaders as one of his first acts upon assuming the presidency in January 1993.

Consequently, millions of workers remain ignorant of their rights under Beck or are too intimidated to claim them.

So it is good news that President Bush is reportedly preparing to issue another executive order like his father's.

The next step — and a much bigger one — would be to put the National Labor Relations Board into the hands of members who will cooperate in enforcing the Beck decision. That would involve making sure that all union workers understand their rights and barring the sorts of intimidation and obstruction that have prevented them from exercising those rights.

In addition, President Bush pledged during the campaign to support the National Right to Work Act in Congress. This bill would repeal the current federal authorization of compulsory unionism and thus permit workers to decide whether to join a union or not.

Finally, one can hope that the Supreme Court will flatly declare forced union dues wholly unconstitutional. That might be achieved in the case of Belhumeur v. Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission, currently on petition for certiorari.

Unions have every right to spend money in elections under current law. But they have no moral or legal right whatsoever to force their members to contribute money to candidates and campaigns they bitterly oppose. They have been getting away with dodging the teeth of a Supreme Court ruling because spineless politicians have simply been unwilling to enforce settled law.

Special Olympics athletes, law enforcement officers and Red Lobsters servers will launch Cops & Lobsters on Feb. 24.

During Cops & Lobsters, considered one of North America's most popular fund-raisers, law enforcement officers and local officials will take their oath to "serve" and protect to a new level. On various days between Feb. 26 and May 6 they will trade in their handcuffs and badges for menus and serving trays to assist Red Lobster servers during lunch or dinner. Donations, in the form of tips, will benefit Special Olympics programs and the Law Enforcement Torch Run, a year-round, grassroots fund-raising campaign by law enforcement agencies.

Money raised locally at Red Lobster restaurants stays in the community to support local Special Olympics programs and Torch Run programs.

Last year, Cops & Lobsters raised a record $1.2 million at nearly 600 Red Lobster restaurants nationwide.

The Way We Were: Sanford Society in the late 1800s

Today we learn about Sanford's "Society" in the 1870s and 1880's as recalled by Herbert "Bertie" Crippen.

According to Crippen, Sanford really had some society as General Sanford had attracted a very refined, cultural group here, with some of the very finest family backgrounds you would find anywhere.

In about 1876, there was the Cotillion Club, made up of young married couples who met twice a month - on Thursdays - at the Sanford House.

Crippen said he was also there, often, as there was rarely such a thing as a baby sitter. His parents would take him along and make a bed for him in the cloak room. He's watch awhile, and sleep awhile. He was very proud of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A.H. Crippen, who always led the cotillion. His dad would call the Square Dance Quadrille. They also danced the waltz, polka and Schottische.

An Italian band could come from Jacksonville to play, and at midnight, a host of waiters would set up tables in the ballroom of the hotel and serve a midnight supper. When this was cleared away, the dance would start again and last until dawn.

Crippen remembered that in the group were Mr. and Mrs. H.L. DeForrest, a Sanford merchant who lived on Country Club Road in a large house surrounded by Magnolia trees. Also in the group were Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Ingraham, president of the South Florida Railroad, who was later lured away by Henry Flagler.

The group also used to go to dance in Orlando. It would take all day to get there, then they would have to drive the rest of the night to get home. The trip was made on a buckboard because of the large stumps in the road. The ruts were so deep that the horses had to go at a slow walk, but the company was good, and no one seemed to mind.

The Orlando people would sometimes come to Sanford dances at the Sanford House and the Opera House.

When Crippen was asked about the "Belles" in Sanford, he recalled that when he was about 14, he began to be invited to the older crowd's parties where he met the older girls. Ida Doyle, who was to become the mother of Ed Lane, was the "Belle of Orange County". Then there were the Caldwell girls, Lettie and Alice, and his cousins, Alice Hallie and Ruth Brown. Sisters Janie and Laura Whitner married Josh and Sidney Chase.

Janie died about a year after she and Josh were married.

Others in the crowd were Etta Scott, Nellie and Carrie Alexander, Lilly Finegan, Elise Whitner, and Lolly Markham whose father started the Markham Grove.

Some of the boys who used to squire these girls were Josh and Sidney Chase, Harry and Will Dean, Musto Given, Milton Hughey, Arthur Doyle and Seth Woodruff.

Crippen also remembered Harry Papworth, Forrest Lake, Dr. King Sylie, Tom and John McRae, Chester Goodrich and Phil Parramore.

Some of the younger boys he went to school with were Frank Whitner, Frank Woodruff, George Speer and Charles Leffler.

Crippen said that they didn't have "jocks", racing cars or picture shows, but you couldn't beat those boat trips around Lake Monroe, excursions on the Frederick DeBary and City of Jacksonville, picnics, parties and dances.

Some of the marriages within the group were Ida Doyle and Frank Lane, Alice Brown and Chester Goodrich, Lilly Holland and Musto Given, Phil Parramore and Lilly Sirine.

The Goodriches moved to Orlando and started the Orlando Title and Trust Company. Lilly Sirine's father owned the Sirine Hotel, the only family style hotel here at the time.

The land bordering Silver and Golden Lakes was thickly settled with beautiful homes and orange groves. It was known as the "Silver Circle." About ten boys lived there with their families, and every Saturday night they would meet at Dr. Gordon's home on the north side of Silver Lake for a bird supper, fish fry or oyster roast. They would kill their own quail or duck, catch the fish or import a barrel of oysters from the coast.

Dr. Henry Ross used to bring his violin and Crippen would accompany him on the guitar. They would play while the other boys cooked the supper.

In 1884, Crippen went away to the Academy and University at Gainesville. Even though he enjoyed his time there, he would remember about the good times with his friends in Sanford.

SHS Class of 1951 needs addresses. As their 50th Year Reunion approaches, the Seminole High School Class of 1951 has been unable to locate several classmates. They include Yvonne Hillis Albertson, Earl Hughes, Reginald Lamb, Joan Parker Jenkins, Bill Shepard, Jeannie Stanley Eldridge, Johnny Walker, Elizabeth Williams, Ethel Williams Thomas, and Nancy Jean Young.

If you have any clues as their whereabouts, contact Garnett White at 407-322-3622.

The reunion will be June 22-23 at the Senora Clubhouse and the Best Western Marina Hotel.

Lessard

cal to Sanford's continued progress.

"Quite frankly, I'm tired of hearing about Sanford being a diamond in the rough. My philosophy is that it's time to cut and polish that diamond," Lessard said. "The next two or three years are absolutely the most critical in Sanford's recent history. Our city has an opportunity to succeed or slide back into a mess. I believe I have the leadership skills and vision to guide Sanford on an irreversible course to greatness."

Lessard is particularly pleased at the progress made in the area of public safety over the past four years.

"We brought in a new police chief and have added almost 30 officers to the force," Lessard said. "We've taken many of them out of their patrol cars and put them in closer touch with the public through community policing efforts."

"Four years ago people thought the concept of foot patrols and bicycle patrols was funny. Now residents are viewing that approach in a whole different light."

Lessard said despite improvements within the city's police department, work remains to be done.

"In the next four years we should double the number of neighborhood bicycle and foot patrols," he said. "We need to reward superior performance by our police and firefighters by offering superior wage and benefit packages.

"There is not a police or fire department in our region that works harder than Sanford's. It makes no sense for us to serve as a training ground and have our public safety branches suffer from constant turnover."

He said the city can be more pro-active in fighting and reducing crime by expanding neighborhood watch programs and after-school activities for Sanford's youth.

With growth and development pressures knocking on Sanford's front door, Lessard said his emphasis in managing that growth would be to focus on redevelopment within the city and working on various neighborhoods to improve Sanford's quality of life for all residents.

"Redeveloping 17-92 is a major priority," Lessard said. "We need to kick start some of the efforts that have stalled there."

He said he would also like to focus economic expansion efforts around abandoned industrial areas surrounding the Orlando Sanford International airport.

He points to new business development like Father's Table — a wholesale cheesecake bakery that sells products to Wal-Mart and Winn Dixie — as the perfect antidote to uplift neighborhoods.

"That business will train and employ Sanford residents," Lessard said. "We need more like it, and we need to help some neighborhoods transform into good old-fashioned, hard-working, blue-collar communities with decent wages and a higher standard of living."

Lessard also favors continuing the city's recent efforts to upgrade parks and recreational areas for residents.

"I'd like to see us get more involved in joint ventures with the business community and add one new park each year and continue our programs to accelerate improvements in our existing parks."

Lessard said with smart growth management, the city can make substantial improvements while holding the line on tax millage rates.

"We've been able to chip away at it a little in each of the last three years. By redeveloping in the city we can expand the tax base and continue to lower the millage rate as property values climb. At the same time we can maintain and improve levels of service to our residents."

Lessard said he would favor adding a few more code enforcement officers to the city staff.

"Code enforcement is a concern. I would like to see us increase our efficiency in that area because we have made some improvements. District 1 is a good example of how code enforcement can improve an area and other areas of the city can view that as a positive result."

As Sanford awaits response to a Request for Proposal on construction of a hotel and conference center, Lessard said he too is interested in seeing what type of response the proposal attracts.

"I think we are all interested in the RFP and depending on what it looks like I would not be opposed to moving a hotel and conference center a little further west on the lakefront."

Lessard said virtually all areas of the city have improved over the past four years and his desire to continue that effort is the driving force behind his candidacy.

"I love Sanford. I'm absolutely convinced it can have a great future. I want to continue to work on a laundry list of issues and finish what we've begun. The tone of a city's desire for self improvement certainly can be set by city government and that tone should reflect a good quality of life for each and every resident and neighborhood."

"The city staff and its residents have all made progress. We've come a long way with a very diverse group of citizens. I see wonderful things being accomplished by wonderful people."

Lessard said he feels confident about assuming a heightened mantle of responsibility if elected Mayor.

"I would match my business success with any candidate in this race. I've worked very hard and packed a lot into 30 years. I feel comfortable in expressing that I believe I am the best equipped candidate to manage the future of Sanford."

have fled from the area, possibly knowing her arrest was imminent on charges of fraud and larceny.

According to the incident report, the Seminole County Sheriff's Department received a call on May 23, 2000, from the Miami Beach police, describing a suspected fraud.

The victim, Cristian Fernandez of Miami, told the investigator that the situation developed approximately 2 and a half years ago. He met a female (Phelan), on the Internet who identified herself as Kritzia Ferrari. They developed a relationship over the phone and Internet, and made plans to meet on several occasions. The woman however, repeatedly changed her mind, using various excuses for not meeting.

They eventually discussed finances and had exchanged bank account information. He reportedly gave her his Social Security Number to assist him in registering for school classes. Fernandez is 23 years of age.

When he gave her bank information, it was supposedly to transfer money from her to him so she could access it. She gave him an excuse that she was a model, and all her money was tied up with her agents, and she did not have free access to it. He did state at no time did he ask to open any joint accounts.

Within the past several months, Fernandez discovered there had been credit cards and credit lines opened in his name without his permission, with her address.

He obtained a statement from the bank which showed numerous charges to "his" mailing address in Longwood. Fernandez is in the process of obtaining full credit reports on himself to determine any other accounts.

According to a report from the Seminole County Sheriff's office, Phelan was able to open lines of credit and purchase at least $10,000 worth of merchandise on-line, including a computer, clothing, housewares and beauty products.

Anyone with information regarding Phelan's whereabouts is asked to contact Investigator Dan LaFleur of the Seminole County Sheriff's office Economics Crime Unit at 407-665-6904.

New ultra battery lives up to name

How many AA alkaline batteries would you drain during normal use of a digital or flash camera in a month? A year? A lifetime?

If you take a lot of pictures, or make abundant use of other high-drain electronic devices such as portable cassette players or some motorized toys, it's more cost effective for you in the long run to invest in rechargeable nickel-metal hydride (NiMH) batteries than to continually replenish your supply of alkalines.

But what if you take pictures less frequently? You could go with regular alkalines, which will do the job as long as they're charged, or you could opt for a new breed of alkaline battery that promises longer life than standard, less expensive cells.

We recently tested AA versions of these new, supposedly souped-up alkalines — the Duracell Ultra MX1500 M3 Technology and the Energizer e<sup>2</sup>, with so-called "titanium technology" — as well as standard Duracell and Energizer AA alkalines. We put the batteries through a flash test simulating the extreme electrical demands of high-tech gear. (These items drain a battery's current so rapidly that the cell doesn't have much chance to bounce back during rest periods). We also tested them under moderate-drain conditions, similar to use in a portable CD player or alarm clock.

All the batteries did an excellent job in the moderate-drain tests, but our tougher flash test put things in a different light: The Duracell Ultra M3 outperformed the pack, lasting about 40 percent longer than the Energizer e<sup>2</sup> and more than twice as long as the standard Duracell. The performance of the e<sup>2</sup> was only marginally better than the standard Energizer.

So, is the Ultra M3 the best nonrechargeable choice for use in high-drain devices? Not if you focus solely on cost. While the Ultra M3 might save the day should a crucial photo opportunity arise when another battery is fading, its high price (99 cents each when bought in an eight-pack) is a drawback. For the cost of one Ultra M3, you can buy two or more standard alkaline cells. Even if those standard cells have to be changed more often, they're still likely to be more cost-effective.

Lake Mary

 tested," Hoppen said. "It looked like the same phenomenon was going to happen again, and I couldn't sit back and allow the bankrupt democratic process to happen again."

"I felt civically compelled to provide Lake Mary with a choice."

The insurance executive said he believes his business experience will help him in the city's decision-making process and allow him to quickly rise to the learning curve.

Hoppen said his background will also help in facing one of Lake Mary's biggest challenges — growth.

"Lake Mary is like any city in Florida — it is challenged by growth," he said. "We need to control and modify appropriate growth in the city. Lake Mary is a very small place, and the amount of growth to control is finite."

Decisions about growth made now need to be satisfactory to residents in the future, he said.

Along with growth, Hoppen would like to see the development of a downtown area that will attract people to the city's epicenter.

"People are moving in droves to Celebration and Mount Dora for their homey, quaint downtown areas," Hoppen said. "We can do something, but we should do it with care."

"The area can't be dominated by doctors' offices," he said. "It needs businesses like small places to eat or an ice cream parlor — places that will give people a reason to walk in downtown Lake Mary."

While the city experiences business and residential growth, Hoppen said the city needs to maintain and improve its recreational areas and green spaces.

Hoppen also wants residents to feel more involved in city government.

"I can't say the City Fathers to this point have done a bad job," he said. "I do know, while walking in different neighborhoods, people want to feel a closer connection to City Commission. We need to do whatever it takes to bring people into the process — they need to feel welcome."

As for what's right about Lake Mary, Hoppen said the city has a great deal of potential.

"We don't have to undo anything in order to create a community that is small enough to be intimate but large enough to be suburban."

Hoppen wants residents to vote for him on Feb. 20 so he can fulfill his civic duty and help move Lake Mary into the 21st century.

"I'm seeking office for all the right reasons," he said. "I'm not running to increase my status or ego, and I'm not running for personal gain."

"I have a servant's heart, and I have a stake in the game. I have a child that's 2 years old, and I hope to one day walk him to Lake Mary Elementary School."

Janet Jernigan

Jernigan and her husband of 41 years, Ron, moved to Lake Mary 15 years ago. A Florida native, she has been a Seminole County resident for 24 years and currently is a certified project manager for Lucent Technologies.

Although the Feb. 20 election is the first time Jernigan has sought political office, she is a familiar face in Lake Mary government. For the past five years, she has served on the city's Planning and Zoning Board, is a member of the Downtown Development Association and currently serves as president of the newly chartered Lake Mary Historical Society.

Jernigan said she decided to run for Commission Seat 4 to help continue Lake Mary's progress.

"I think the direction the city is going in is good," she said. "I've enjoyed being on the boards. And, the opportunity came up for Commission, and I am going for it."

"Lake Mary is doing a good job, and it is on the right track," she said. "I want it to stay this way."

The project manager said her business experience, along with her role in government, will assist her in serving the community and dealing with the issues currently facing the city, including growth and the water supply.

"Citizens are concerned about water and the long-term solution to maintain an adequate water supply," Jernigan said. "I'm not an engineer, but I know we need to look at various possibilities. We need to address the issue now."

Jernigan also believes the city needs to continue controlling and maintaining growth and attracting high-tech industry that has been developed along the I-4 corridor. But, she said the city must also focus on the growing number of seniors living in the city.

"We often talk about what to do for children, but Florida has an increasing number of seniors."

Jernigan believes Lake Mary is on the right track with the addition of several assisted-living facilities within the city.

As for downtown development, Jernigan said a lot of work and careful planning has been done and continues to be needed to build an area that won't stifle growth. The city needs to develop building codes and an infrastructure to attract businesses.

"I'd like to see it grow and attract more small businesses," she said. "I like the small-town atmosphere. And, there is limited space. There definitely isn't room there for a huge megastore."

With her time on the Planning and Zoning Board, Jernigan said she knows the city has tried to preserve green spaces while encouraging growth. Along with the numerous recreational parks within the city, she said the Lake Mary government has been very conscious about landscaping and ordinance enforcement.

"People that move here like the feeling," she said. "Along with the big offices, there is an adequate amount of landscaping. Primera Boulevard, for example. There's plenty of landscaping — it's not just an asphalt pit."

Jernigan said Lake Mary is doing a good job with managed growth, which makes it an attractive and enjoyable city to live.

"I've lived here a long time, and I like it," she said. "I remember when Lake Mary Boulevard was a two-lane street, and I liked it then. But, growth is inevitable."

Jernigan wants residents to vote for her on Feb. 20 so she can continue working toward Lake Mary's success.

"I care deeply for Lake Mary," she said. "I've participated in Lake Mary government, and I've volunteered in the community. This gives me the insight to do a good job."

"I know the people in the city, and I am acquainted with many of the city staff," she said. "I can be effective right away because of that."

Residents will only be able to vote during Tuesday's special election at Lake Mary City Hall, located at 100 N. Country Club Road, and polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. The winner of the race will be sworn in before the regular City Commission meeting on March 1.

For more information concerning Lake Mary's February election, call the City Clerk's Office at 407-324-3023.

Squads

ing and productive." Collison said on several occasions concerned residents aware of a sting in progress will gather near the stake out area and applaud the police when they execute an arrest.

"It's kind of amazing to sit there and watch what people will do," said Collison. "You wouldn't believe how brazen some of (the crooks) can be in broad daylight."

In addition to planting bait such as bicycles and lawn maintenance equipment, the tactical squad has also used vendors trucks under the guise of making deliveries. They've used cell phones left on car seats and other tactics. Using undercover female officers the squad has also cracked down on prostitution, arresting both hookers and the johns who seek their services.

Tooley and Collison said in addition to reducing theft, the effort has resulted in a number of other arrests as well.

"Often times some of the thieves will be holding drugs, so there's another charge. Some of them are being sought on outstanding warrants, so we're really killing two birds with one stone," said Collison. "If they run that's an additional charge of eluding a police officer. We had to chase one really fast guy 12 blocks, but we got him."

Tooley said the effort will continue and increase in the coming months.

Collison said on several occasions concerned residents aware of a sting in progress will gather near the stakeout area and applaud the police when they execute and arrest.

"The City Commission has cooperated greatly, citizens have cooperated and the business community has brought some things to our attention," Tooley said. "We are up to full staffing now and we've got some overtime grant money to run more frequent stakeouts."

DelRosso pointed out the stakeouts are almost always successful.

"We put the bait out and sometimes a thief will strike before we're even in position to begin the observation. The only time that method hasn't worked was when we used a really nice Cadillac with about $4,000 in custom wheels and tires. We had a number of prospects approach the car but they must have felt, 'Hey, this looks too good!'"

Collison said the tactical squad takes pride in its work.

"Sometimes it gets a little tense, but we devote ourselves to running safe operations. It's enjoyable to nab somebody on a successful stakeout. When they find themselves surrounded by police officers it literally is like looking at a deer caught in the headlights."

After a bogey at No. 2 and a birdie at No. 5, Barber had four birdies in a row starting at No. 8, then closed with two more birdies, at 14 and 16. He finished with 66-131, 13 under par for two trips around the 6,636-yard course.

Seminole survives

By Henry Uhlenbrauck, Jr.
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD—In a battle of endurance, the Seminole High School girls basketball team survived a nail-biter, edging Lyman High School, 53-45 in double overtime, in the Class 5A-Region 2 Quarterfinals at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium Thursday night.

The game came down to which team could make the big plays and the Fighting Seminoles' demonstrated that skill.

"We got a little revenge from that last loss," said Seminole coach Sylvester Wynn, remembering an overtime setback at the hands of the Greyhounds a couple of weeks ago. "Now it doesn't matter who we play we just need to be ready."

It seemed when the crucial play was needed key players came through for Seminole keeping their playoff advancement alive.

Wynn said that even with the tension building as to who was going to win was just how he likes a game to be.

"I knew that when there was five seconds left and their 25 (Jessica Fiorenza) fouled out that we would win," said Wynn.

Seminole had the lead for the first two quarters, holding a narrow 19-17 advantage at the half.

It was not until there was 2:20 left in the third quarter that Lyman would take the lead with a two-point shot by Brittany Campbell making it 26-25.

By the end of the third quarter the Lady Greyhounds led by three points, 29-26.

Seminole was still down by three points with 56 seconds left when Jamala Mitchell buried a three-point shot that for the moment extended life into the Seminole team.

Both teams had two other

Seminole's Chequilla Jessie (No. 52) secures a rebound during the Tribe's 53-45 double overtime victory over Lyman Thursday. shots that could have ended the game in regulation, first by Lyman's Celeste Hudson who missed with five seconds left and then Mitchell missed a shot at the buzzer.

Lyman took the lead in the first overtime and was ahead by two, 35-33, when the Tribe's Chequilla Jessie, a sophomore who was playing with an injured knee, hit a shot at the buzzer to tie the game. Jessie was also fouled on the play and had an opportunity to win with a free-throw but was just shy of the rim, and the game went to another three-minute period.

In the end the Fighting Seminoles took advantage of some key steals with their aggressive defense in both overtime periods and getting two key Lyman players, Fiorenza and Celeste Hudson, to foul out in the second overtime period to pull off the win.

In the second overtime, Seminole went on a 12-point scoring spree led by Jamala Mitchell, who scored one basket and going 3-for-6 at the free throw line.

The frustration showed for the Greyhounds as only Fiorenza scored in the second overtime before fouling out.

Jessie led all scorers, while Jamala Mitchell finished with 12 and Laqueena Grayson 10 for the Tribe (24-7). Fiorenza paced Lyman (22-10) with 13 points, while Hudson added 11

CASSELBERRY—Lake Howell demonstrated once again Thursday night why they won the Class 4A State Championship last year by beating Auburndale 2-0 in the Girls Class 3A-Region 2 Semifinals at Richard L. Evans Field.

But a big obstacle awaited the Silver Hawks (24-1-2) on Friday as they had to travel to Satellite Beach to face the only team they have lost to all year, the Satellite High School Scorpions, who are still undefeated (24-0), in the Regional Championship Game.

Right from the onset Lake Howell opened the offensive attack, when with 35:15 left in DELTONA—The hopes of advancing to the State Tournament in Lakeland came to a quick end for a pair of Seminole Athletic Conference boys basketball teams as they were eliminated in the first round of the Class 5A-District 5A Tournament at Deltona High School.

Meanwhile, Lake Brantley stayed alive in the Class 6A-District 3 Tournament at DeLand High School's Dog House Wednesday night, crushing Lake Mary, 51-21; and Crooms Academy continued on its hot streak, rolling past Deltona-Trinity Christian, 75-58, Thursday night in the semifinals of the Class A-District 5 Tournament at Altamonte Christian.

Fourth-seeded Lake Howell (16-15) had the best shot of advancing in 5A-5 as Brandon Marshall hit a game-tying three-point buzzer-beater at the end of regulation to force overtime, but Maurice Lloyd scored four of his 16 points in the extra period and fifth-seeded Mainland (9-13) held the Silver Hawks to only six points as the Buccaneers pulled off the upset, 64-59, Tuesday night.

Lake Howell, which had beaten Mainland three times in the regular season, fell behind early and never really got into the game until outscoring the Buccaneers 23-11 in the final quarter, including 16-6 over the final 4:40 of regulation, to force the overtime. Miguel Prado led the way for the Silver Hawks with a game-high 18 points, while Marshall added 14 and Lex Brown 11.

WINTER SPRINGS—The Winter Springs girls basketball team kept its hopes of a third straight state championship alive, but Lake Mary saw a great regular season come to a sudden end during regional quarterfinal play Thursday night.

Just as it did during the district finals against Lake Mary last week, the Bears (26-3) fell behind by 11 points, 25-14, with two minutes left before half-time.

The two-time champions then went to work, scoring 19 straight points and outpointing Dr. Phillips (16-10) 26-3 over a 10 minute span to build an insurmountable 40-28 lead heading into the final quarter. In the second half Winter Springs outscored its guests 36-9.

The two main holdovers from last year's Class 6A State Champions, point guard Missy Guadagnino and center Jen Forst, led the way for the Bears with 15 points each.

Winter Springs will host the winner of Thursday's game between Niceville and Jacksonville-Sandalwood in the Regional semifinals next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Things did not go well for the other ex-state champion as Lake Mary (24-5) saw its season unravel in the middle two quarters against No. 3 state ranked Evans (28-2) in a 62-47 loss in the Snake Pit on Thursday.

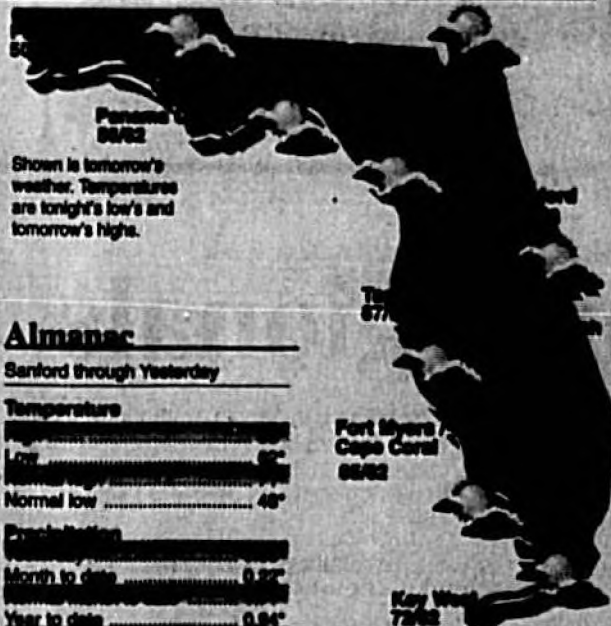

The Rams, who were spectacular in going 23-3 in the regular season and winning the Seminole Athletic Conference Championship and earning the No. 1 seed in the district tournament, only trailed the Trojans 16-13 after the first period, but then went cold against the

SCC softball team on a roll heading into conference play

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

WINTER HAVEN - It's been quite a season for the Seminole Community College softball team and the schedule is only a week old.

The Raiders of coach Courtney Miller ran their record to a perfect 7-0 by winning three games in the St. Petersburg Junior College Tournament in Clearwater last Saturday, then swept a double-header from Polk Community College in Winter Haven on Tuesday.

Following twin shutout victories over Brevard Community College to open the season, SCC went on the road and proved that those wins were not flukes as they whipped Broward Community College 9-1 on three-hitter from Jodi Wood, then blanked Brevard for the third time, 7-0, on a two-hitter from Sarah Reeber, and host St. Petersburg 4-0 on a combined five-hitter from Wood and Reeber in the SJCJC Tournament.

Not much changed in Winter Haven as Wood improved to 4-0, hurting the Raiders' fifth shutout in six games with a 3-0 three-hitter in the opening game.

Things proved to be much more interesting in the nightcap as the Vikings used a pair of untamed runs in the fourth inning to take a 2-1 lead, but Lake Mary's Lindsey Manz singled with two outs in the fifth inning, stole second, moved to third when Boyce reached on an error, and scored on an infield single from Rachel Schmidt to tie the game.

The Raiders then won it when Bradley walked leading off the seventh inning and advanced to second on a sacrifice by Manz, who finished the day going 3-for-7 with two doubles, three runs scored and two RBI. Finch-hitter O'Donnell singled Bradley to third and Schmidt, who drove in two of SCC's three runs, lifted a sacrifice fly to left scoring Bradley.

Reeber made the lead stand up, getting two fly balls and a pop up to close out her third victory of the season with a three-hitter.

Two of the most interesting things about SCC's start is that the team has only allowed three runs, none earned, and that the team is not at full strength because of injuries and two players still involved with the nationally-ranked basketball team.

"Four shutouts in five games," said Miller following the St. Pete tournament. "I can't say enough about our pitching and defense. It was outstanding this weekend. We even had several people playing out of position because of injuries and yet we didn't lose a step on TV."

"Rachel Schmidt (3-for-7, two home runs, one double, two runs scored, nine RBI) and Lindsey Manz (3-for-9, one home run, one double, five runs scored, four RBI) had a great day at the plate and our offense scored early in every game, so I think that helped our pitchers and defense relax somewhat."

"I never thought we would shut out St. Petersburg, as their strength has always been their bats, but Jodi (Wood) and Sarah (Reeber) did an outstanding job of shutting them down. Right now teams are hitting .106 off our pitchers."

"I hope we can continue our level of play, as we open up conference play next week, and everyone in the conference is strong this year. We will have to put it all together for every game, just like they have been doing."

The Raiders open Mid-Florida Conference play with a doubleheader against St. Johns River Community College in Palatka at 2 p.m. on Tuesday, before returning home for a backyard battle with Daytona Beach Community College on Thursday and North Florida Community College on Saturday (Feb. 24). The M-FC doubleheader with DBCC starts at 2 p.m., while the NFCC double-dip begins at 1 p.m. at Raider Field. All home games are free of charge.

Raider women clinch runner-up spot in Mid-Florida Conference

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

SANFORD — The Seminole Community College women's basketball team did just what it had to do Wednesday night.

And it was enough as they clinched at least second place in the Mid-Florida Conference with a 66-46 thumping of Florida Community College at Jacksonville at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center.

The Raiders got off to a slow start, playing much like a team that figured it had the victory before it ever took the court, and found themselves down 13-14 with eight minutes left in the half.

But then the SCC defense took effect and the Raiders went on a 19-0 run to take a 33-17 lead before the Stars' Jessica Wilson hit a three-pointer with less than a minute left before intermission.

SCC had the last attempt of the half, however, and 6-foot-9 Sue Gyarfas was fouled and made both free throws to give the Raiders a 35-20 lead at half-time.

Freshmen Yolanda "Yo" Johnson and Gabrielle Blankenfeld led the way for SCC in the first half with 13 and 12 points, respectively, in the first half.

The second half was much like the first as the Raiders were turning the ball over a lot and the lead was still just 15 points with 10 minutes left in the game.

SCC then went on another spurt and built a lead of 25 points before Raiders head coach Ken Patrick cleared his bench with over seven minutes left in the game.

Only five players scored for SCC, but four of them scored in double figures: Johnson, from Braddock, Pennsylvania, netted a game-high 23 points, while Blankenfeld, from Naperville, Illinois, was next with 18 points.

The only two sophomores on the squad, Gyarfas and Sheketa "Kiki" Kindred, were also in double figures with 12 points each.

Gyarfas got her second

straight start because starting center Brandi Davis has been under the weather and the big lefterhander from Hungary made the most of it, playing by far her best game of the season, getting seven blocked shots and at least that many steals to go with her scoring.

Wilson and Natasha Davis scored 15 points each for FCC-J.

The Raiders are now 22-6 on the season and ranked No. 17 in the nation this week. But of more importance, SCC is 6-0 in the conference with two quarter games coming up next week.

On Wednesday the Raiders can clinch the conference title and wrap up the automatic spot in the State Tournament when they host Central Florida Community College from Ocala.

SCC got a victory over the Patriots in Ocala earlier this month, but CFCC is always powerful and it just a game behind the Raiders in the conference standings.

Should SCC lose the game to the Patriots, they could still clinch a tie for the regular season M-FC title with a win at Daytona Beach Community College next Saturday, a team See Women, Page 4B

Seminole Community College men finally break into victory column

By Dean Smith

SANFORD — The visiting Stars from Florida Community College at Jacksonville never knew what hit them.

Wednesday night at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center the Seminole Community College men's basketball team took out six weeks of frustration on the visitors, rolling to a 94-65 Mid-Florida Conference victory.

The Raiders had been playing much better of late, including losing a pair of conference games, one to the Stars, in the final few seconds, but had not been able to get over the hump.

But after the first few minutes of Wednesday's game it became painfully obvious that SCC was probably going to break seven-game losing skid.

That's when a very interesting twist came into the game as the FCC-J coach, evidently figuring his team could not come back, decided he was going to make a point with the officials.

The Stars head man would walk onto the court and stand their while the play was going on, but the referees were able to ignore him for the remainder of the first half as the play always seemed to be on the other side of the floor from the FCC-J bench.

The Raiders and SCC head coach Stan Cromartie went about their business as Jason Currington, Matt Story and Che Morgan all scored in double figures. In the first half, as the hosts raced to a 57-42 lead at intermission.

Joe Williams

Things did not get any better for the Stars in the second half as the Raiders were starting to enjoy having a lead and were quickly turning the game into a rout partly on the strength of four rim-rattling, crowd-pleasing, slam dunks.

With 12:05 remaining the FCC-J coach decided it was time to get the officials' attention again and got a technical called for standing on the floor. Not wanting to get ejected himself, he started having his assistant coaches stand on the playing floor while the clock was running, one at a time, and despite the referees asking them to get off the floor, two assistants were ejected with 10:32 remaining.

Story, a sophomore from Sarasota who has been playing as good as anyone in SCC history lately, was having a field day with the free charity tosses, hitting eight straight.

Finally, another technical was called on a Stars assistant at which time the officials informed the head coach that he would have to leave too, as NJCAA rules require the head coach to be ejected if the bench is called for four technicals.

Despite being informed of the rule, the coach refused to leave the court and the game was called a forfeit with 9:52 left on the clock, giving the SCC fans a reason to wonder how many points the team could have scored.

Maybe even record-setting numbers were possible because the Raiders were scoring at will when the game was stopped.

 the first half, Lady Silver Hawks forward, Randi Holcomb took a shot that went right over the crossbar.
 Then with about 27 minutes left in the first half Silver Hawks senior Jill Rice hit another shot over the net.
 Later, with 14:15 left to the half, Rice redeemed herself when she rebounded a shot by her sister, Lindsay Rice, which was deflected by Auburndale goalie Sara Hyde, and shot it straight into the goal.
 Just before the Lake Howell goal, the best opportunity the Bloodhounds had was a shot by

 Until the half it was a matter of misplaced players on both sides not taking advantage of the chances.
 For Lake Howell head coach Didier Menard the Silver Hawks were holding back and not being aggressive when the team needed to be. He and assistant coach Jean Varas said the lack of aggressive play has been a concern all season.
 "We are getting into playing teams that are undefeated and they will have to play up a notch," said Menard. "Unlike last year we have eleven players that we depend on."

Menard added, "If we play the way I know we can. We can be tough to beat."
 For Varas she said she sees the ladies being unselfish with each other. "They are so willing to pass and not take the shots."
 At the half Auburndale had only three shots on goal to Lake Howell's eight shots.
 When the half began Lake Howell's offense opened up and kept the Auburndale defense working extra time.
 The Bloodhounds had only two opportunities in the second half and both were from free kicks. Both shots taken by Morton and both were caught by Silver Hawks goalie

Kimberly Angel.
 With 9:30 left in the game the Silver Hawks got a corner kick by Jill Rice that Brianna Callahan headed and Holcomb got the shot past Hyde.
 Things did not go as well for the other Seminole Athletic conference soccer teams still in the playoffs.
 The Winter Springs girls fell victim to Leon as the Lions (25-5-1) broke a 1-1 tie on a penalty kick and added an insurance score later to oust the Bears (15-9-5), 3-1, in a Class 4A-Region 2 Semifinal in Tallahassee.
 Barton scored the goal for Winter Springs.
 The Lake Mary boys also suffered a surprisingly early exit, falling 1-0 to Lakes City-Columbia in a Class 4A-Region 1 Semifinal game at Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

 What makes the loss even more devastating for the Rams, who finish the season 20-4-4, was the fact that they dominated the action and the Tigers (17-6), who only had five shots in the game to Lake Mary's 14, scored the game's only goal on their only shot of the second half.

 Pit crew dad Richard Taylor talks pre-race strategy with Spencer Taylor prior to exhibition races that highlighted the Grand Opening of "Lil' New Smyrna Speedway."

About a year ago when we first met him, then 8-year-old Longwood racing prodigy Spencer Taylor was busy carving out a name for himself in Southeastern Quarter Midget Racing circles.

With another birthday under his belt, the Master's Academy Christian School Honor Roll student shows no signs of slowing down.

This past week, Spencer was on hand for the grand opening of the new Quarter Midget Race Track at the New Smyrna Speedway, rubbing elbows with NASCAR's big names like Mark Martin, Jeff Gordon, Rusty Wallace, Wally Dallenbach, Barry Parsons, Jeff Burton, Dale Earnhardt and others.

Now, armed with national sponsorship from Discount Auto Parts, and three new race cars enroute from the factory, he may soon be rubbing bumpers with those big guys.

The opening of the new Quarter Midget Racing Association track was the culmination of a year-long effort by association members with strong financial backing from the marquee faces race fans watch on the Winston Cup Circuit each weekend. Many of them, including Martin and Gordon, cut personal checks to the tune of $10,000 each to transform an area between the Speedway's Turn 1 and Turn 2 into a state-of-the-art one-twentieth of a mile Quarter Midget racing track. The grand opening drew crowds in excess of 5,000 and provided the midget racers a shot at testing their driving mettle on the spanking new oval.

For Quarter Midget Racers the event was better than 10 trips to Disneyland. For Spencer, it was an early 2001 season exhibition opportunity to test his driving skills in a new age division. He's graduated from the junior ranks for 5-8 year olds and now competes against drivers as old as 16. Judging by his performance at the grand opening, this kid's driving future is definitely on the fast track.

By misfortune of the starting line draw, Spencer drew the dead last outside 10th spot for his 25-lap exhibition heat. After several yellow caution flags that marred the start of the race, Spencer went to work on the field.

First he deftly ducked under a three-car pile up that knocked two competitors out of the heat. Then he confidently held his inside line and began reeling in the competition, picking off one car after another, finishing the abbreviated race in fourth position. Had it been a regular 30 or 40-lap race, his strategy and execution could well have earned him the checkered flag.

That track toughness and maturity are keys to what Spencer and

These kids aren't driving go-carts

Mention Quarter Midget Racing and a lot of folks think go-carts. The difference between the two, however, is like fire and ice. The Quarter Midget cars are scale model versions of larger racing vehicles. They are typically designated into several distinct classifications including Super Stocks, Light Modified versions, and the Light Honda GX160 category.

Quarter Midget racing is not an inexpensive endeavor. Used cars run about $1,200 while new vehicles, like the three Spencer will soon be driving manufactured by Nervo-Coggin based out of Ohio, run as much as $5,000 each.

Tools, fuel, tires, parts and travel expenses aren't cheap, which is why sponsorship, even at the Quarter Midget level, easily plays a critical role in a driver's success and ability to remain competitive.

The Quarter Midget Racing Association is also run with safety as a paramount concern. Each car must be equipped with an outside safety bar and an overhead roll cage. Each driver wears a traditional body-length padded race suit, gloves, safety helmet and wind visor as well as assorted seat belts to securely place the driver inside the vehicle. Capable of speeds in excess of 40 miles per hour on a one-twentieth of a mile track, the Association has strict safety rules against overly aggressive driving, keeping the sport safer than youth football or baseball.

The young drivers risk penalties and disqualification for driving in a manner that jeopardizes the safety of fellow competitors.

 his dad, Longwood City Attorney Richard Taylor, feel will be the key to continued success against older, more seasoned drivers this racing season.

"I hold my line better when other cars come up and try to pass me," acknowledged the Quarter Midget racer.

"A couple of years ago a competitor would get halfway up on my car and I would let off the gas, willing to settle for second."

"It's a combination of experience on the track and maturity," agreed Taylor senior. "Spencer has really improved at holding his line. Now when he has position he won't give it up and he isn't intimidated by the older drivers. Of course a little coaching from Dad helps too," he smiled.

Dad gets a little help from family friend and Longwood City Planner Jay Sargent, who makes up one-half of Spencer's formidable two-man pit crew.

"Jay is an invaluable asset," complimented Taylor. "It is virtually impossible for one person to keep three different cars competitive. He's a former racer like myself and two heads are better than one. Jay brings a lot of ideas and strategy to the team and he's willing to give up much of his personal time to help make those long overnight drives all over the country for different racing events."

In a comical generational role reversal, Spencer agrees with the value of his pit crew.

"Yeah, they do a pretty good job. I don't have to crack the whip too much," he grins.

Both Taylors are thrilled about their new sponsorship from Discount Auto Parts and see it as a key stepping stone in continued racing success.

"It feels good to get the sponsorship," said Spencer. "Now I have to concentrate on getting off to better starts and running a leader's pace."

Taylor senior said the sponsorship came about almost by accident.

"We were working on another potential sponsorship last year and things just kind of fell through. Then during a race over the Christmas holidays a division head from Discount Auto Parts approached me because he was interested in getting his son involved in racing. One thing led to another and we put a package together. It was kind of like being in the right place at the right time," Taylor explained.

"Let's face it, we aren't going to make it to the NASCAR circuit on Daddy's wallet. To my knowledge Spencer may be the only 9-year-old in the country with a national sponsor other than Matt Martin, son of NASCAR star Mark Martin, who drives for Captain Crunch/Life Cereals. It's a good opportunity for Discount Auto Parts to get exposure and it certainly opens the door for more sponsorship as Spencer moves up on the driving circuit."

Despite the astonishing success Spencer has enjoyed since he began racing at 5 years old, he and his Dad know this year will be an extremely tough challenge in taking on drivers almost twice Spencer's age.

"Some of the older kids race better than me and some don't," Spencer says matter of factly. "It's fun to battle the other drivers, it's even more fun to win."

"He's not awed by older drivers and he doesn't get nervous in front of a big crowd," agreed his Dad.

"Our goals for this year are to move into the Senior Honda Class and to be competitive. Beyond that we'll shoot to repeat as Southeastern Champs. A dream season would be to win a National Championship. We made it to the National Finals last year but had some bad luck. I think Spencer will do well this year."

Long-range plans for the Taylor Racing Team call for graduating from Quarter Midgets to mini-sprints when Spencer is 12-13, then moving up to Stock Cars at age 15, perhaps joining the Hooter's Southeast Series, and eventually full-blown NASCAR competition by the time Spencer is in his early 20's.

Nurse crowned Beta Sigma Phi Valentine Queen

Charlotte Blades was crowned Beta Sigma Phi Valentine Queen in impressive coronation rites on Feb. 10. The ceremonial event took place at Luigino's Pasta and Steak House in Heathrow.

Annually, each chapter of Beta Sigma Phi selects a Valentine Girl who becomes a candidate for the queen title. The queen represents the sorority at various functions throughout the year. Charlotte was selected by a panel of judges from the Deland Beta Sigma Phi City Council.

The new queen, representing Preceptor Theta Nu Chapter, is employed as a nursing program specialist at the Seminole County Health Department. She has been a member of the sorority for 23 years where she has "memories and love and friendships" during this time. "Maturing with Beta Sigma Phi has made me the woman God intended me to be," she said.

According to Marty Colegrove, president of the Sanford Beta Sigma City Council, Nancy Hack, the 2000-2001 Valentine Queen, presented Tracey Donkin, runner-up, with a banner and a bouquet of yellow roses. Nancy then crowned Charlotte as Valentine Queen and presented her with a bouquet of yellow roses, a remembrance silver box containing the Valentine crown pin and a banner.

Marty said, "Queen Charlotte took her stroll to the applause of attending members."

Following the coronation, members enjoyed a luncheon of their choice in a loving and sisterly atmosphere that Beta Sigma thrives on.

In addition to the operating room, which Dr. Palmer said is comparable to any hospital, there is a cathartic laboratory and rehab facility. Marty said, "Dr. Palmer explained the cardiovascular system and summarized causes of coronary artery blockage. He further stated that

Mitchell overcomes tragedy to succeed in all aspects of life

Young men often get lost in the world of crime and drugs when they face adversity and conditions in life where problems take control and deal them a bad hand.

It is with great pride that we have selected to honor a young man who decided not to let the tragedies of his life continue to control life's progress.

Lazarus T. Mitchell, is a young man who has overcome many of life's obstacles. Lazarus' parents died before he was 12 years old, and he moved from place to place. He attended five different schools in Florida and New York. He and his sister, who is one year older, lived with his grandmother when he was 11. At the age of 14, he and his 15-year-old sister lived together by themselves until she was 18, after the passing of their grandmother, without real adult supervision. They made some mistakes.

His sister got pregnant and had a son that she is admirably raising and supporting as a single parent.

Because of all the tragedy in Lazarus' life, he became a habitual truant in the eighth and ninth grades. Eventually he realized that this was not the path to take and he did a 180 degree turnabout and began to concentrate on school, where he had to repeat the ninth grade.

After being teased by his friends, he learned his lesson well and began to study. He excelled in every sense. Currently he is a senior at Crooms Academy where he has a 3.244 cumulative GPA and excellent attendance record.

Lazarus' extracurricular activities in which he has been or is now involved include varsity basketball (team captain and point guard) and baseball team. This year's varsity basketball team is being led in scoring by Lazarus, and he is Coach Shaw's lead scorer on the winning team, Crooms Panthers.

Lazarus is active in Leadership Class. Sanford Police Officer Barnes is proud of Lazarus as he has worked with him in the BADBOYS Club (Battle Against Drugs Before our Youth Surrender). His leadership ability has been successful as he has been president of the Crooms Academy Club. Selected as student of the year, 1997-98, he was selected by the Chamber of Commerce as an Outstanding Achiever, and was selected by a community service organization as a Young Man of Distinction, Year 2000, and was selected as Mr. Congeniality.

As a young man who has accepted life and strives for success, Lazarus has a 30-hour a week job at Wal-Mart to pay room and board, as he lives with his sister, Saroya.

Lazarus is a very special young man who has won the hearts of educators who are helping to make life more successful for him. As mentors, his desire to them is to attend college. Dr. Velma Williams, Crooms Academy Counselor, Connie Reid and Principal Connie Collins are proud to have a young man like Lazarus whose life is deserving of greater success. He would like to attend FAMU in Tallahassee, and yes, he is in need of scholarship funds and financial aid. If these are not received he will not be able to attend college.

Lazarus is a young man who is special. He harbors no bitterness nor does he feel like a victim. He has indeed become an asset to his peers, family, and community.

A Guy who will be a continued asset wherever he goes in life, he is truly an amazing resilient young man who has had much more than his share of life's unbelievably hard knocks and unfairness.

Seminole County Chapter of FAMU Alumni was organized in May, 1966. The Alumni association continues to be an important resource for keeping close relationship between an institution and its graduates. Gina M. Joseph leads the alumni in helping to further the education of Seminole County

Surprise dinner party sends loud message to cheating spouses

DEAR ABBY: I worked the day shift and my wife worked the night shift in a hospital. My "buddy" (I'll call him Ralph) worked the night shift along with her.

Ralph was married, with a young wife and baby. I had never met the wife. After a few months, I realized there was hanky-panky going on between Ralph and my wife. Neither of them suspected I knew.

I was going to make a big fuss and confront them, but I realized that people who cheat also lie through their teeth to save themselves. I could have punched Ralph out and thrown my wife out of the house, but I remained calm. Instead, I invited Ralph and his wife to dinner at our home. Next, I told my wife that we were having "surprise" dinner guests.

When the doorbell rang, she ran to answer. When she saw Ralph and his wife, her mouth fell open and for once she was speechless. She remained that way most of the evening as his innocent, cute little wife chatted on about her wonderful marriage and baby and hubby. Ralph and my wife hardly said a word. They appeared very uncomfortable the whole evening.

They both got my message without my firing a shot or his wife being hurt. Ralph went into another line of work two weeks later.

SKINNED A CAT IN DAYTONA BEACH

DEAR SKINNED A CAT: I'm pleased your story had a happy ending — for you. Now that you have "skinned the cat," it's time for you and your wife to adopt similar work schedules and begin rebuilding your marriage that became sidetracked. It's not enough to stop the straying; unless you confront the issues that caused it, it could happen again.

DEAR ABBY: I just finished reading the letter from "A San Diego Widow" and had to respond. My husband of nearly 35 years passed away a few months ago. Needless to say, it has been the most devastating loss I have ever experienced.

Within a couple of weeks of his death, a piece of the emerald in my wedding ring broke. The insurance company sent me to a wonderful jeweler to make repairs. I brought along my husband's wedding band, thinking he could make it smaller so I could wear it. Instead, he suggested that he make a heart out of it and, after replacing the stone in my wedding ring, take the broken stone and reshape it into a teardrop hanging from the center of the heart.

I now wear this simple yet beautiful heart next to my own combined with the original stone from my wedding band. Its emotional value is priceless. I never take it off and feel that part of my husband is always with me.

ONE OF MANY FLORIDA WIDOWS

DEAR ONE OF MANY: What a touching story. And the fact that the stone within the heart is "broken" speaks volumes. Please accept my sympathy for the loss of your beloved husband.

DEAR ABBY: I have a big problem. I was married last August; my wife has an 8-year-old daughter who still sleeps with her. Have you any suggestions about how to get her daughter to sleep by herself without making this child feel abandoned or neglected?

LONELY HUSBAND IN OKLAHOMA

DEAR LONELY: Yes. Get her an adorable puppy to sleep and snuggle with. That way, she won't be alone.

For everything you need to know about wedding planning, order "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, IL 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)

Helping the homeless

Junior Girl Scout Troop No. 108 recently donated fruit to Sanford's Rescue Outreach Mission Open Door Shelter for Women and Children. Troop members took the time to pick grapefruit, tangerines, oranges and apples to donate to the shelter. Several members also donated some clothing to the shelter. Pictured, from left are Amber Sackett, Keleha Holland, Addie (of the shelter), Britany Burris and Colleen McGuire. Not pictured are Adult Leaders Barbara McGuire, Joyce Carter and Scout Sarah Scott.

Church Notes

St. Alban's Cathedral
Orlando XIII, a special musical concert, will be presented at St. Alban's Cathedral in Goldrod, Sunday, March 4 at 4 p.m. The program features professional and non-professional singers and is directed by Dr. Peter Matthews. Music will include a capella music from the Renaissance through the 20th century, with works by Aaron Copeland and Dr. Matthews himself. A free will offering will be accepted, and refreshments will be provided following the concert.
For additional information phone 407-657-2376.

Community United Methodist
The Community United Methodist Youth Mission Teams need your help. Each year this group raises approximately $40,000 for building supplies and living expenses for the 65-member team. This year the high school team will repair homes in London, Ky.
One of the fund-raisers will be the annual Rummage Sale, March 9 and 10. It generally attracts more than 5,000 shoppers.
Items and donations are now needed for such items as clothing, furniture, toys, appliances, household items, etc., as long as they are in good working condition.
Drop off donations at the church, 4921 S. Highway 17-92 in Casselberry, or phone 407-831-3777, ext. 204 to schedule a pickup.

The past teaches us valuable lifelong lesson

When I was a child, I addressed adults by Mr., Mrs. or Miss and their surname. My parents, like many other adults, showed the same courtesy to the neighbors.

Nobody does it today. As soon as we are introduced to people, we call them by their first names — even if they are many years our senior. Ten-year-old kids call me George.

There are exceptions to this practice. No one, upon being introduced to Mrs. Lyman, would have called her Ruth. Mrs. Lyman was a proper Bostonian, with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereto.

As a proper Bostonian, she didn't get too familiar with people, at least at the beginning. Mrs. Lyman died when she was 97 years old, and I knew her for the last 25 years of her life, but I never addressed her by anything other than Mrs. Lyman. She called me Mr. Plagenz for the first year of our acquaintance. When she did come to call me George, I felt I had earned my way into her circle of close friends. I felt special.

I wonder how many people realize how our attachment to democracy has annihilated almost everything that was special.

Mrs. Lyman, like other Bostonians of her day and class, never descended to our level of instant and easy familiarity. She even called her favorite cab driver "Mr. Boyle." It conferred a certain dignity upon the man, and it was responsible, I am sure, for the almost soldierly bearing with which Mr. Boyle carried himself — all 300 pounds of him.

Mrs. Lyman didn't own a car. She believed there were already too many cars on the road, so she rode in cabs. She preferred Mr. Boyle's cab, but it was not always possible to ride in it. When she had to take a different cab, new drivers learned that Mrs. Lyman did not like to go fast. "Don't hurry, driver," she would always say. (Mrs. Lyman did not fly, but I have no doubt that if she had, she would have instructed the pilot before takeoff, "Don't hurry, driver.")

Mr. Boyle never hurried. Mrs. Lyman had a marvelously beneficial effect on people who came into her presence. I have written before about the time in the Lyman home in Milton, Mass., when Mrs. Lyman's cook knocked on her parlor door and asked whether she could sit with her for a while.

"My bunions always feel better after I am with you," the cook said.

Mine always did, too. I didn't really have bunions, but Mrs. Lyman had a way of making loneliness and life's little aches and pains disappear.

She was an affectionate reminder of the better things in life — good manners, good companionship and good conversation.

I remember many stimulating evenings spent in Mrs. Lyman's home in Brookline, Mass., and summers in Northeast Harbor, Maine, when we young people would talk of God and life and many things.

And she was a wise mentor. "Don't be too vivid," she once told me after I had let my imagination run wild in describing a sermon. I have always been grateful for that advice.

To a people who have not learned restraint in either speech or behavior, Mrs. Lyman's counsel of a gracious reticence provides a needed lesson for our time.

Historical Society prepares for annual Olde Lake Mary Days

The February meeting of the newly formed Lake Mary Historical Society Inc. was devoted to Olde Lake Mary Days. Mary Jane Duryea reported to the society about the schedule for the annual festival, set for Saturday, March 3 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Lake Mary City Hall.

Mary Jane showed the society members the new design for the T-shirts. Everyone was pleased with the design which was the brainchild of Clinton Rhodes.

Mary Rowell

For the first time, the South and the North will be represented at the festival. For several years, re-enactors from the 37th Alabama Company H have attended Olde Lake Mary Days. This year, they will be joined by the 3rd Rhode Island Battalion C. Both groups will have their cannons. Any firing of the cannons will be purely for fun. The Taloko Indian Dancers will be performing at the event for the first time. There will also be a Cracker Cow Camp set up and demonstrations of flintknapping.

The First Presbyterian church will hold a Best Cake contest in the Lake Mary Historical Museum. Any kind of cake can be entered. It must be at the museum between 9 and 10 a.m. on March 3. Judging will be promptly at 10:15 a.m. The church asks that you have the recipe written on a three-by-five card, preferably in blue ink. After judging, the church will sell the cakes by the slice.

Entertainment will include a Blue Grass Band and a New Orleans Jazz Band. The Lake Mary Line Dancers and other local talent will also be performing at the festival.

Charlie Carlson will be in the Lake Mary Historical Museum with a Swedish History Exhibit. There will also be a preview of the upcoming Smithsonian exhibit, "Yesterday's Tomorrow" in the museum. Children will be able to try on circa 1880s clothing in the museum and have their pictures taken. Near the museum, children will also be able to try a little candle making.

There will be a lot of crafts at Olde Lake Mary Days. Stained glass, native American crafts, handmade toys and much more will be available at the festival. The Lake Mary Historical Society Inc. also hopes to have a booth at the Olde Lake Mary Days. Festival-goers will be able to join the society on the spot. Single membership is $10 per year, or $15 per year for an entire family. For additional information on Olde Lake Mary Days, phone 407-324-3065.

Magazines Needed

The Smithsonian traveling exhibit "Yesterday's Tomorrow" is coming to the Lake Mary Historical Museum in August. As part of the preparation for the exhibit, there will be a preview display at Old Lake Mary Days. One of the suggestions from the Smithsonian is magazines, but not just any magazines. Popular Mechanics and Popular Science often had articles about life in the future that didn't necessarily come true. For instance, the plastic covered living room you could hose off to clean, never became a reality. The Lake Mary Historical Commission is looking for donations of these magazines to be part of the Smithsonian display. If you have any you would like to donate, you can drop them by the Community Building or call Dee Gracey at 407-324-3065.

Marty said, "The clubhouse was decorated in red and white, lace and hearts in a Valentine sweetheart motif."

Hostesses were: Jane Porter, chair, Pat Brooks, Helen Hamner, Tina Joseph, Sica Nacu, Carole Kirchhoff, Eve Rogero and Nikki Clark.

ACS Fashion Show

It's that time of year again when Millady's thoughts turn toward spring fashions after being bundled up in winter duds for a long cold snap. The Seminole County Board of the American Cancer Society may be the cure for this touch of spring fever in its forthcoming fashion show and luncheon scheduled March 15 at Heathrow Country Club. Fashions will be from Cache in Seminole Towne Center, and Electre Boutique in Heathrow.

For information, call Dr. Beverly Booth or Carole Kirchhoff, co-chairs.

Wild duck & Venison

Hunting during ancient times was not only one of the most prestigious, most rewarding men's occupations, but also a necessity to bring food to the table. Mallard, the wild duck, is the most common species in Europe, which also is the largest and has an exquisite flesh. The male has green and gray plumage with a touch of brown and white. The female is brown.

Generally speaking, only the legs and fillets of wild ducks are eaten. This is why one bird is required for every two people eating.

Roast Duck

Season the duck with salt and pepper both inside and out, truss, and roast in the oven or on a spit. A duckling weighing approximately 2 pounds should be cooked in a hot oven for 35 minutes.

Meanwhile, peel some peaches and poach them whole in a light syrup. When the duck is roasted, drain it and keep it hot. Dilute the pan juices with a little peach syrup and reduce to the consistency of a sauce. Add the peaches to the sauce to flavor them, heat them, and arrange them around the duck. Serve the sauce in a sauceboat.

Duck With Lemon Blossom

Just as you prepare the duck before roasting, add the lemon blossom to the salt and pepper. Rub very well inside and out.

Cabbage Stew With Danube Delta Duck

- 1 white cabbage head, shredded
- 1 onion
- 1 carrot
- 1 tablespoon tomato paste
- 1/2 tablespoon paprika
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons pepper
- bay leaves
- 4 strips of smoked bacon
- bouquet garni
- 3 cups of chicken stock

Salt and pepper the duck cut up in small pieces and brown in the pan with bacon. Add the onion and carrot. Sauté until golden brown.

Add the tomato paste, paprika, bay leaves. Continue cooking with the lid another five minutes.

Sica Nacu

Add the chicken stock and cover again until it comes to a boil. Add the cabbage, and lower the heat to simmer for about one hour or until meat is coming off bone.

Venison
Venison is the meat of any deer. In Europe, the term is actually used for the meat of any large game animal, including the wild boar. The word venison comes from the Latin venation (hunt). Most varieties of venison are first marinated and then roasted or hung to dry.

The sauces are prepared in a number of ways to complement the taste and bring back juices and tenderness.

Venison Sauce

Four into a saucepan a glass of Burgundy wine, 2 tablespoons of balsamic vinegar, 2 tablespoons of honey, half of lemon, peeled, and 4 ounces of red currant jelly. Boil to reduce and add 2 tablespoons of cornstarch. Reduce again and add another glass of Burgundy wine.

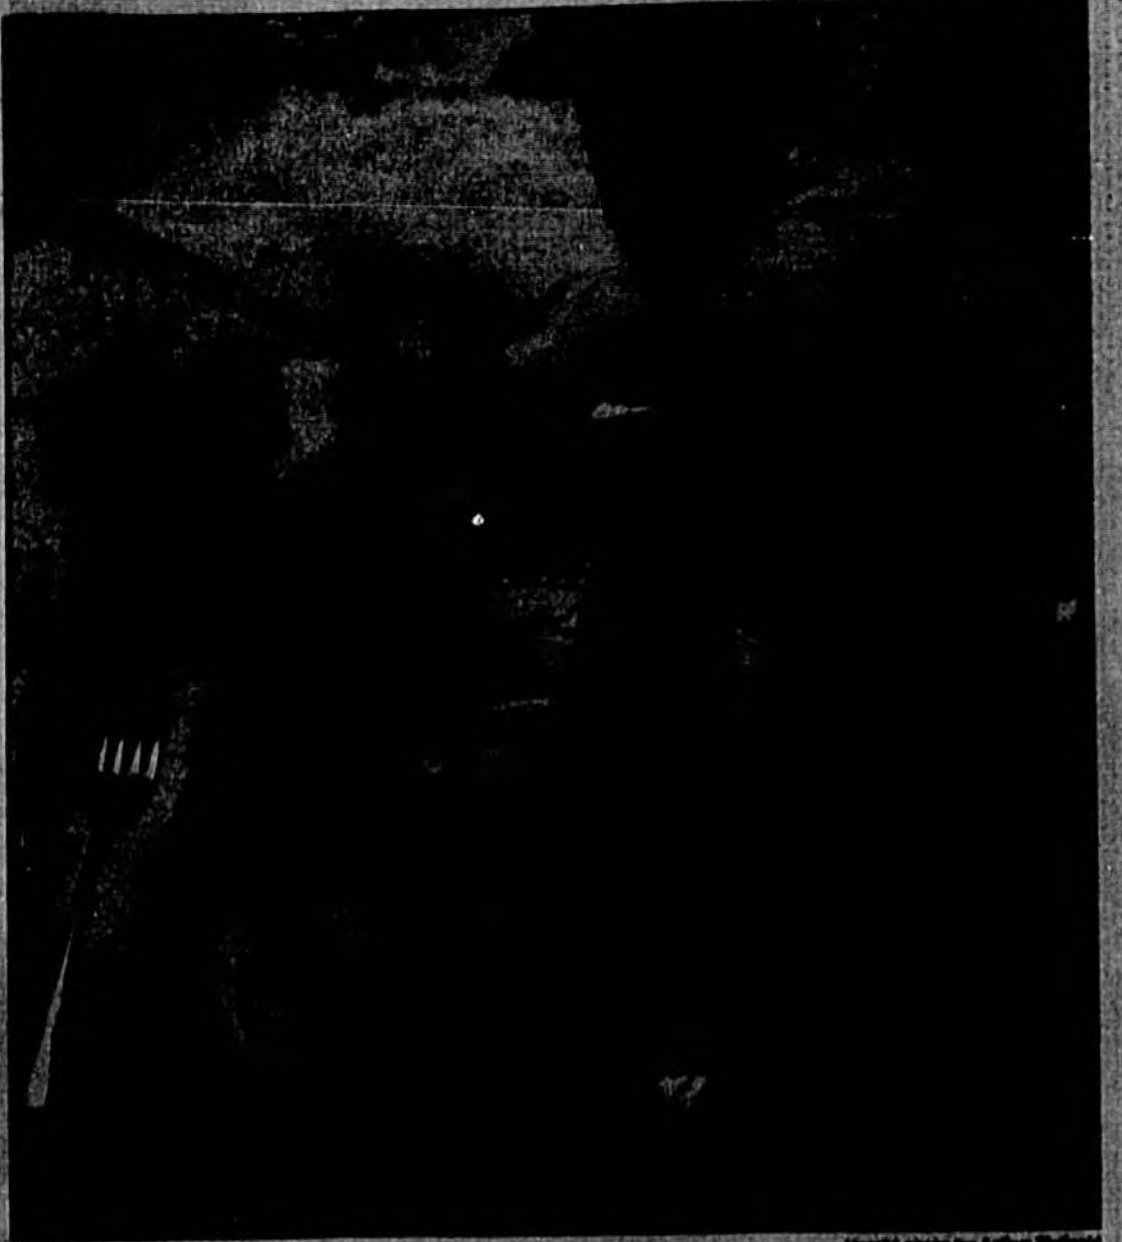

When the sauce reaches a thick creamy consistency, rob it through a sieve.

Victoria Sauce For Venison

Queen Victoria is very well known in history as a gourmet — very sophisticated in culinary presentations. A lot of recipes having a main characteristic of richness were dedicated or named after her. Victoria garnishes consist of small tomatoes stuffed with mushroom puree and browned under the broiler, and quartered artichoke hearts cooked in butter.

Victoria sandwich cake was also named after the queen. After the death of her husband Prince Albert in 1861, Queen Victoria used to spend time in retreat in Osborne House, on the Isle of Wight.

She was encouraged to give tea parties, during which the Victoria sandwich, made of sponge cake filled with different jams and jellies, was served.

Sauces are prepared in a number of ways to complement the taste and tenderness of venison.

Espagnole Sauce

Make a brown roux with 2 tablespoons butter and 1 ounce of flour. Add 1 tablespoon of mirepoix, 2 ounces of chopped mushrooms, and 2 1/2 pounds of crushed tomatoes.

Stir in 5 pints of brown stock and simmer gently for three to four hours, carefully skimming the sauces from time to time. Pass through a very fine sieve.

- One cup of espagnole sauce
- 2/3 cup of port
- 3 tablespoons red currant jelly
- 8 peppercorns
- 2 cloves
- small stick cinnamon
- blanched zest of orange and juice
- cayenne

Mix all the ingredients in the one-cup of espagnole sauce. Boil until reduced by one third. Add the juice of the orange and the little cayenne, and rub through a sieve.
