Congress Renews

"Tough Fight"

The House Judiciary Committee has approved legislation that would ban the sale, manufacture and importation of the cheap, small handgun commonly known as the "Saturday night special."

And a group in Los Angeles has begun collecting signatures for a November ballot proposal aimed at removing all handguns from private hands in California.

The congressional measure is relatively mild, drafted, perhaps, with an eye to what the Ford administration and legislative leaders believe can be passed. It would not apply to the sale or possession of existing guns, but only to new weapons.

The initiative would require all Californians to surrender their private handguns to law enforcement agencies by the end of 1977 or face a $2,500 fine and up to a year in jail. They would be compensated with an unspecified amount to be determined by the Legislature.

The California proposal is tough. Only legitimate collectors and dealers, police officers and security guards and certain clubs and movie studios would be allowed possession. Initiative proponents concede that there will be "a tough fight."

But the House ban is not immune to the scorn of gun-control opponents. It won committee approval by a scant 18-14 margin.

The issue has charged volatile emotions for three decades with stirring debate over constitutional rights on one hand and the inarguable reality that guns make killing easy on the other.

Pollster George Gallup reported recently that 57 per cent of respondents to a survey favored registration or control of firearms. Blason, former Washington Police Chief Jerry Wilson, quickly pointed out, "handgun lovers write to their legislators... control advocates answer pollsters' queries."

The House effort may be so tame that it will escape the wrath of the well-organized lobbyists against control. The California plan, with its provisions for confiscation, may be too suggestive of big-brotherism.

Somewhere between the two extremes there must be a workable plan that would make city streets more safe for the nonhostile and unarmed citizen. Congress should take the first tiny step in that direction by passing the bill that survived the Judiciary Committee debate.

Atomic Safeguards

Seven industrial countries, including the United States and the Soviet Union, have reached a secret agreement to develop new safeguards on nuclear facilities they export to less advanced nations.

A Ford administration official disclosed the agreement in testimony before a Senate subcommittee but was not free to discuss details because France, one of the participating countries, wanted them kept secret.

It is well that such an agreement has been reached. The threat of nuclear weapons proliferation is clear and present. It would be unfair to deny the lesser developed nations the benefits of nuclear energy. Every possible step must be taken to prevent such countries from turning the atomic plowshare into a sword.

International agreements to provide such safeguards should not be negotiated in secret, however. The United States should make clear to the other participating countries that no American government can commit the American people to a treaty without first informing the people of the full details of the commitment.

Canadian Hospitality

While the last year my husband and I spent five weeks in neighboring Canada. We lived the country. Our U.S. currency, including one $1,500 check from our local bank in Sanford, was graciously accepted by all Canadian business firms we entered.

All people I talked to in Canada were very unhappy about our U.S. policy whereby their Canadian money will not be accepted anywhere in the U.S.

I am shocked at the way our people are penalizing our Canadian friends. It seems our business people should be pressuring our politicians in Washington to equalize our monetary system with Canada's because we are losing large amounts of revenue daily that the Canadian people would bring to our states.

CIA Traps Falcons For Arab Sheikhs

WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency has trapped rare falcons in Alaska and has presented them to Arab sheikhs. For a prize falcon is one of the most valuable gifts the CIA can offer an Arab potentate who has everything.

In some sheikhdoms, an agreement is cemented with the gift of a falcon. It is more binding than a handshake or a signature.

Middle East monarchs reportedly will pay up to $25,000 for a fine falcon. The most magnificent are peregrine falcons and gyrfalcons. But because they are an endangered species, it is against U.S. law to export them without a permit.

Arab falcon fanciers routinely are denied permits. But for a favored sheikh, the CIA can arrange an occasional falcon. Inside sources tell us that the CIA has wangled secret permits to export both peregrine falcons and gyrfalcons to the Middle East for bargaining purposes.

For someone without the right CIA connections, however, trafficking in falcons can be risky. A wealthy Chicago businessman named Anthony G. Angelos, hoped to induce Sheikh Zayed of Abu Dhabi into a business deal by presenting him with a pair of falcons. Unable to get a permit, Angelos plotted to smuggle two peregrine falcons out of the United States.

The sheikh, a swashbuckling desert chieftain who heads the ultra-wealthy United Arab Emirates, is an avid hunter. His proudest possession is a flock of 50 prize falcons. When he gets bored with the affairs of state, he takes off for Pakistan with his falcons for several weeks of hunting.

The sheikh rides into the fields, with a fierce falcon perched on his fist. When he lets the falcon loose, the majestic bird soars to great heights, sometimes as high as 2,000 feet, and begins circling.

Its sharp eyes can spot the quarry — a small quail, say, or rabbit — far below. Then the great bird folds back its wings and dives, hurtling through the air at incredible speeds of up to 180 miles per hour.

As the falcon approaches the ground, it forms a fist with its large claws, slams the prey and stuns it. Almost instantaneously, the amazing falcon opens its talons, catches the prey and soars again into the sky.

Experienced hunters describe the flight of the peregrine falcon as a breathtaking sight. In olden times, peregrines were restricted to nobility; ordinary citizens caught with the birds could be put to death. A pair of peregrines, therefore, was a gift fit for the sheikh of Abu Dhabi.

The emir's angelos recently began making discreet inquiries about obtaining a couple of contraband falcons. But the word got back to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which assigned agent Larry Hood to the case.

Posing as a falcon trafficker, he agreed to sell two peregrines to Angelos for $500. The businessman explained that friends at the United Arab Emirates embassy would help him smuggle the rare birds out of the country.

Agent Hood delivered the two carefully packaged peregrines to the Baltimore airport. Angelos' courier was supposed to drive them to New York City where another courier would fly them to the waiting Angelos in Athens.

But once the money changed hands, the courier was arrested. The United Arab Emirates embassy immediately pulled strings with the State Dept., which tried to hush up the great falcon scandal. Last week, Angelos quietly pleaded guilty to violating the migratory bird treaty.

An embassy spokesman, with a straight face, said the hunting falcons were intended merely as a gift for the Abu Dhabi sheikh. The embassy had no idea, he said, that it was illegal to export rare birds. At the State Dept., a spokesman denied trying to suppress the story of the falcon thievery. In fact, he said, the department had refused, in writing, to intervene on Angelos' behalf. He said he would appeal out of the country, but he'd be reached for comment.

Hood refused to discuss the case. A CIA spokesman said he never heard of the falcon program.

Footnote: on an earlier occasion, Angelos sought to carry fiver with then-President Richard Nixon reportedly to gain appointment as ambassador to Greece. Since Nixon was more interested in campaign cash than in peregrine falcons, Angelos contributed approximately $75,000 to Nixon's campaign. But Watergate apparently interfered with Angelos' ambition to become an ambassador.

FIEBES DAVIS: James E. Smith, the feisty controller of the currency, has used official comptroller's funds to grant interest-free loans to his subordinates. They regulate national banks, which have never been known to grant interest-free loans to anyone.

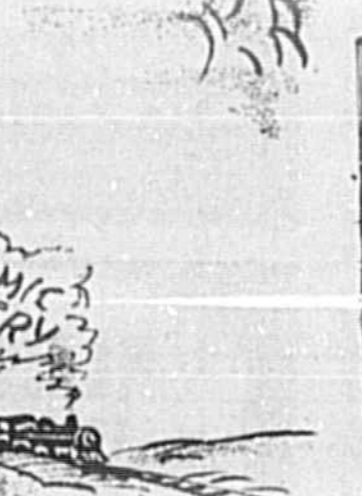

Last fall, Smith gave his deputy director, William Suman, a $14,000 interest-free loan. Smith has also approved interest-free loans for at least four other officials who work for him.

A spokesman explained that the comptroller authorized the interest-free loans to subordinates who had large relocation expenses when they moved to Washington.

The spokesman pointed out that the officials are prohibited from accepting loans from the national banks that they regulate. Official funds were made available, therefore, to avoid a conflict of interest, he said.

The comptroller's $50 million annual operating budget is raised from dues paid by 4,700 national banks. Thus, the borrowed money comes at least indirectly from the same national banks. The spokesman did not explain why comptroller of the currency officials should pay no interest.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Gunman Makes Offer To Release Two Hostages

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP)— A masked gunman holding two hostages at a downtown courthouse today offered to free one of them if the other is released and the other at Frankfurt airport in exchange for ransom money, a radio transmitter and a jet flight out of West Germany, police said.

Authorities said a Lufthansa Boeing 77 was standing by at the airport, that the gunman had been promised a message for himself and that authorities were ready to hand over $400,000 ransom already brought to the courthouse if the gunman freed the hostages in the building.

Frankfurt Police Chief Kurt Mueller said he reported the decision to comply with some of the gunman's demands was made by the Hessian state government meeting in a crisis session in the nearby capital of Wiesbaden.

Mueller also said he appeared to be signs of growing solidarity between the gunman and his hostages after an initial period of confrontation, and that one hostage, court clerk Dieter Hoss, was actively participating in the negotiations.

Money Flow To Be Curbed

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)— Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave will intensify his government's campaign to curb the flow of money from Irish-Americans that he claims bankroll Irish Republican Army guerrillas, government officials said today.

Cosgrave, a major opponent of the IRA, will launch his high-powered attack on the guerrillas by addressing the U.S. Congress next Wednesday at the start of a six-day visit to the United States.

He will also meet with President Ford to spit-out the IRA thrust in Ireland and the urgent need for U.S. efforts to crack down on guerrilla fundraisers and gunrunners operating in America.

Cable Car Crash Kills 42

TRENTO, Italy (AP)—"I suddenly saw customers rush to the window. I looked up and saw the railway loosening. The car swayed and crashed and the lique bar on its roof smashed down on top with an awful noise."

Franca Scarian, a barmaid, was describing the scene Tuesday when a seven-foot high red cable car filled with skiers plunged 200 feet to the ground near this northern Italian city, killing 42 persons, including women and children. Most of the victims were West Germans.

Only one person survived the crash, a 14-year-old Italian girl. Doctors said her leg and pelvic injuries were serious but she had a chance to survive.

Pipeline 'A Possibility'

OTTAWA (AP)— Energy Minister Alastair Gillispie says construction of an oil pipeline from an Atlantic port to Montreal "is a strong possibility in the reasonably near future."

The minister said such a move is possible early in the 1980s.

Gillispie said supplying western oil to the Atlantic region is doubtful since reserves are dropping. However, a pipeline from the Atlantic to carry oil the other way.

King, Queen Arrive

TOKYO (AP)— King Hassan and Queen Abla of Jordan arrived in Tokyo today on a week-long state visit for which police authorities have assigned an undisclosed number of security officers to deal with possible Arab and Japanese radical moves against the visit.

No incident was reported when the Hassans' plane landed at Tokyo's Hanshin airport. A 21-gun salute and national anthems of Jordan and Japan greeted the king and queen when they departed.

The king and his retinue proceeded in a motorcade to the state guest house where they were welcomed by Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako and other members of the imperial family and by Prime Minister Takeo Miki and his wife.

Charles Manson Transferred

FOLSOM, Calif. (AP)— Convicted mass murderer Charles Manson has been transferred from San Quentin to Folsom's lockup unit where prisoners are housed in individual cells and have less freedom of movement than inmates in the "mainline population," a prison spokesman said.

The move was based on Manson's age—he is 40—and the fact that one section at San Quentin has been shut down, the spokesman said.

Manson was first taken to San Quentin in 1971 after his conviction of first-degree murder in the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six others.

Duke To Be Patron

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Duke of Edinburgh, the Queen's husband, will act as patron of one of the major British contributions to the American Bicentennial, the British Ambassador to the United States, Sir Peter Rampton, has announced.

There has been extensive speculation that the Duke will escort First Lady Betty Ford to the opening performance on July 6 by the Scottish Military Tattoo at Wolf Trap Farm park for the performing arts in nearby Vienna, Va.

State Supplies 'Open To All'

TALLAHASSEE (AP)— The Department of Commerce is storing about $100,000 worth of office supplies in two warehouses that cannot be locked, a Jacksonville news-paper reported today.

The Florida Times-Lion re-ported that a jammed door prevents locking of the building to protect the office supplies from the weather and theft.

The paper said there is evi-dence the supplies, including expensive computer paper, are deteriorating because of ex-posure to humidity.

"We're trying to get some-body to fix the door for us," said Commerce Secretary Edward Trombetta. He said the de-partment is involved in a "ba-gal hassle" with the owner of the building.

Trombetta said two banks have filed mortgage foreclosure proceedings against the owner.

PSC Sets Hearing Date Winter Springs To Sue Over Rate Jurisdiction

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

WINTER SPRINGS—"What we're proposing in '76 is happening again," commented City Councilman Donald Browning Monday night as the city council voted to file suit against the Florida Public Service Commission (PSC) in a jurisdictional battle.

The council instructed City Attorney Gary Massey to "file suit against PSC in Circuit Court, 18th Judicial Circuit, to establish the fact that the city has jurisdiction in any rate increase requested by any public utility within its borders."

The decision came after the PSC had set a date for a hearing on the North Orlando Water and Sewer Corporation's rate increase request, ignoring Winter Springs letters and phone calls informing the state agency that the city's ordinance gives utility rate setting powers to council.

Customers of the North Orlando firm have expressed concern over the proposed increase, which would double their rates. The use of the city hall has been granted for those who wish to meet March 13 at 10 a.m. to organize a group to attend the public hearing.

Location of the PSC hearing, presently scheduled for 9:30 a.m., March 19 at Howard Johnson's, 601 Lee Rd., Winter Park, may be changed.

During Monday night's Council session, Mayor Troy Piland received a phone call from PSC Chairman William Mayo, who said the site might be changed to one more convenient for Winter Springs residents if an adequate hearing was found.

Mayo turned down an offer by the city for the use of the Winter Springs municipal building for the hearing, saying it would not meet requirements. Mayo also refused to hold the hearing at night as it would limit the number of people turn out at night hearings than in the daytime.

Mayo said he received a letter in Monday's mail from the attorney for the water and sewer department of the PSC including an order suspending an interim rate increase requested by North Orlando until the public hearing is held.

Mayo explained two options open to council in the jurisdiction dispute and their advantages and disadvantages. He said the city could intervene in the hearings and contest the PSC's right to determine its own jurisdiction and make a direct appeal to the Florida Supreme Court or take the slower route by filing in circuit court, in which case the rate increase would be held up until the final court decision.

"They (PSC) will appeal all the way to district and supreme court if they lose," Massey said. The latter course, which was chosen by council, would be costly, he said, and might mean a delay of over a year before hearings could be held and the rate increase granted.

Fechtel Aide States Opposition To SCOPA Spending Legislative Delegation Approves Pension Fund Bills

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Legislative Delegation Tuesday afternoon approved bills to change Sanford's pension funds for police officers and firemen and agreed to introduce legislation to expand the bonding powers of the Seminole County Port Authority.

The action, however, came only after State Sen. Lori Wilson amended all three bills and after an indication that State Rep. Vince Fechtel, unable to attend the hearing because of meetings of the Florida House Appropriations Committee, may take his fight against the Port Authority lower body.

The delegation members present went through the Sanford-proposed legislation thoroughly before agreeing to either submit for passage by the full Legislature bills to update Sanford's two pension funds to conform with state law or to repeal the law governing bonds to return them to local control.

Sen. Wilson also successfully pushed through an amendment to the pension laws to change wording permitting "widows" or "spouse." She noted that although Sanford may not have a female firefighter at this time one may be hired in the future.

"This is ERA (equal rights) amendment in reverse," she said, adding that she is also "looking out for the guys."

Wilson indicated fees from the work in higher admission would allow the zoo to repay the loan within two years.

Central Florida Zoo Seeks To Raise Prices

By ED PRICKET

In order to repay a $100,000 loan from Sanford banks the Central Florida Zoological Society is seeking to raise admission prices.

No date has been set for the official opening.

Two commissioners opposed the equipment purchase.

Commissioner Harry Kwikowski voted in opposition because he said he thought the purchases were a "ripoff." He asked if the facility will be temporary, or permanent.

Neiswander said the equip-ment is needed to get the facility open and operating in the manner prescribed by the Orlando Public Library system.

The South Seminole branch is the promised facility which was paid for voters and promised by the Orlando library system. A branch facility in Sanford already is in operation.

Recently Neiswander negotiated for the lease of the structure. And, he said today the lease has been approved, but it must be returned here for final approval.

Neiswander said he expects to receive the necessary paperwork in two or three days.

Commissioner Chairman Michael Hattaway also voted against spending the $150,000.

The money will be turned over to officials at Orlando Public Library. They will make the necessary purchases because Neiswander said, their system is set up to take care of such ventures and can do a better job than the county.

In other action, the county decided to wait until next week to approve purchase of a $425,000, 80-acre park site between Lake Brantley and West Lake Brantley Road.

Commissioners Say Increases Must Be Justified

Tuesday's refusal to act on the zoo's request to raise admission fees from $1 to $1.50 for adults and from 50 cents to 70 cents for children under 12.

Commissioners said zoo officials must make the request in writing and justify the needs for increased admissions at the Central Florida Zoo.

Commissioner Sid Vihlen Jr. explained that the higher prices are justified. Vihlen said he has met with officials at the zoo. He said the zoo borrowed $100,000 from area banks. Vihlen indicated fees from the work in higher admission would allow the zoo to repay the loan within two years.

Wilson said the commission's refusal would just force zoo officials to "go to the ac-

Bowling

By MARY JOHNSON

Strangers On Alley, They Join Forces For Team Win

Forty-nine just wasn't a round number. Not when there was room for 50 teams in the Seminole County Women's Bowling Tournament.

So, almost as an afterthought, Jeannie Blankenship, Glynn Cooper, Darlene Adams and Dorothy Adams decided to enter the two-week tournament recently concluded at Sanford's Bowl America. They had never bowled together.

Incredibly, they won. Their 2,446 pinfall was best and they divided $150 and each earned trophies for their efforts.

Winners in doubles was a mother-daughter combination — Robbie and Gus Sexton. This division paid $90 and trophies for the 1,279 set.

Maureen Swartz won the singles with a 690 for $50 and trophy. All-events winner is Alice Hendricks, who picked up $25 and trophy. Hers was the highest of the tournament as she rolled a 204-186-226 for a 618 scratch series.

Other outstanding scores: Phil Warner rolled a Dutch 200 Game (which consists of a game with alternating strikes and spares. The total must be 200).

Triplettes game were rolled by Lois Palmer 141 and Dee Cash 149.

The largest turn out to date entered the Queen and Star roll-off for February. The winners are "Queen" Bobbie Retalick with plus 90 pins and Williams Behrens, "Star" with 115 pins over his average. Each will receive a trophy from Bowl America and now are eligible to compete in the roll-off scheduled June 5-7.

Bowling is not only for the young in age but also for the young at heart. If you don't believe it, ask Dolle Cherry, who is 66 years old. Dolle is a member of the T.G.I.F. League on Friday nights.

She seems to be everybody's favorite. Especially the night she was 167 pins over her average. She started the league with an average in the 90's and already has improved to a 106. She missed star of the week by only four pins.

The number "1776" never meant anything in bowling until the Bicentennial came along. Not it's a headline happening, like when Larry Butler of Sarasota bowled 1,776 straight games during a 309-hour period and raised $2,700 for his favorite charity.

POMPANO BEACH (AP) — Texas Rangers officials are violating the spirit of major league baseball owners' agreement to lock out players from spring training, Gabe Paul, president of the New York Yankees, says.

Paul said Tuesday he has filed a complaint with the American League that he believes management of the Texas Rangers is organizing and supervising workouts for the team on a softball field here.

The Rangers have 21 players, more than any other major league team, in town working out on their own. By comparison, the Yankees, who train down the road at Fort Lauderdale, had only four players present.

Rangers player representative Bill Singer issued a statement Tuesday saying the players are working out strictly on their own without help from management personnel.

Major league owners, currently in a dispute with players over the reserve clause, are staging a lockout of training camps which forbids workouts in which team officials or managers take part.

Paul said he called Rangers owner Brad Corbett and general manager Danny O'Brien to complain that someone from management had to be organizing or supervising the workouts.

"When 23 players get together and work out at the same place, in this situation, it has to be more than a coincidence," said Paul. "Either we're (owners and management) all together in this or we're not. This is a clear violation of what the owners decided to keep the spring training camps closed."

Paul also complained about a dinner given by Corbett Tuesday night for Rangers players and wives. "Their public relations campaign creates a lot of problems. We have to spend a lot of time correcting the misinformation that the owners put out."

Miller said he had uncovered an attempt by one club — he declined to identify it — to put out a phony survey of its players.

Robert Seebol, associate regional administrator of the employment training administration, said that a player's income during the period he is paid by his team would not enter into the question of his eligibility for unemployment benefits.

Several Milwaukee Brewers players have been receiving benefits, according to Bud Scilig, president of the baseball team.

"Normally, yes, they would be eligible," said Seebol. "High earnings would not bar them from receiving benefits during the period when they are not employed."

The key to the whole matter is the period of paydays for players. Most baseball players normally are paid twice a month starting from April 15 and running through the end of the season. They are not paid in the off-season.

"Each case is taken individually," the Labor Department official said.

Seebol said high-paid actors sometimes show up on jobless lists.

"Adolphe Menjou used to drive up to the regional office in Hollywood in a chauffeured limousine to pick up benefits. The amount he received probably didn't even cover the chauffeur's salary, but it was his right to get it as long as he met the criteria."

Baseball Talks Farther Apart?

NEW YORK (AP) — Representatives of major league baseball's players and club owners, apparently further apart than they've ever been in their current complex contract negotiating sessions, meet again Thursday in Tampa, with the first order of business to heal the wounds of Tuesday's meeting.

The owners seek salvo from two different directions Tuesday. On one hand, Marvin Miller, the executive director of the players' association, leveled a blast at them, accusing them of issuing misinformation and trying to divide the players.

But the biggest blast of the day came from the relative calm of a courtroom in St. Louis where a three-judge Appeals Court ruled unanimously against the owners and affirmed the decision of arbitrator Fred Seitz, who granted free-agent status to pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally.

The next official bargaining session is set for Friday in St. Petersburg.

Tuesday's three-hour session, the 20th thus far, ended in acrimony with Miller charging the owners with "negotiating over our heads." Their public relations campaign creates a lot of problems. We have to spend a lot of time correcting the misinformation that the owners put out.

Miller said he had uncovered an attempt by one club — he declined to identify it — to put out a phony survey of its players.

Robert Seebol, associate regional administrator of the employment training administration, said that a player's income during the period he is paid by his team would not enter into the question of his eligibility for unemployment benefits.

Several Milwaukee Brewers players have been receiving benefits, according to Bud Scilig, president of the baseball team.

"Normally, yes, they would be eligible," said Seebol. "High earnings would not bar them from receiving benefits during the period when they are not employed."

The key to the whole matter is the period of paydays for players. Most baseball players normally are paid twice a month starting from April 15 and running through the end of the season. They are not paid in the off-season.

"Each case is taken individually," the Labor Department official said.

Miller said a major problem remaining was the owners' insistence that he be retroactively strip his players of their rights now in the Seitz decision and now upheld by two federal courts.

The owners insist any basic agreement would retroactively cancel out the Seitz decision, which allows every player with a 1975 individual contract to become a free agent in 1977 if he doesn't sign for 1976 and in 1976 if he does sign in 1976 but refuses to sign for 1977.

Miller says taking away the players' free agent rights would open the union to potential damage suits. Two of his suggestions were the retroactively problem, he said, were again rejected by the owners.

In one, he would try to get as many players as he could to sign waivers of their rights now in the Seitz decision. Meanwhile, the players and owners would arrive at a collectively bargained contract that would reserve system and a new collective agreement.

The owners would decide on what they consider a non-tolerable situation. In those circumstances, they could promise not to play out his option for an individually agreed-upon number of years.

In the meantime, while appeals and negotiations go on, spring training camps remain closed on the owners' orders, exhibition games are being canceled and the start of the 1976 season is being threatened.

The owners have said they won't agree to the camps until an agreement is reached through a real progress towards reaching one.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who could order the owners to open the camps and get activity under way, has thus far remained pretty much out of the picture.

"I continue to urge daily meetings between the two sides in an effort to get this thing solved. If they will really stick at it, I am confident they can get the job done," Kuhn said after Tuesday's bargaining session.

And when asked why he has maintained virtual silence, the commissioner said: "I think enough and maybe too much has been said publicly by everyone involved." He declined comment on the St. Louis court decision.

Seebol said high-paid actors sometimes show up on jobless lists.

Hearty German Shoofly Pudding Ist Very Gut Dessert

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Shoofly pudding is a hearty Pennsylvania-German dessert that's just right for winter. And it's versatile: it fits in as well after a meat-and-potatoes dinner as it does after a fish-chowder-and-salad supper. You may be surprised that this recipe uses corn syrup rather than molasses. That's because, like all regional recipes, it has its variations. When we were at the Pennsylvania Dutch Folk Festival in Kutztown a summer ago, we discovered that some good cooks often use the syrup.

SHOOFLY PUDDING
2 cups flour
1/2 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup dark corn syrup
1 cup warm water
1 teaspoon baking soda
Lemon Sauce, if desired (see below)

Whipped cream cheese or whipped cream, if desired

In a medium mixing bowl stir together the flour, brown sugar, salt, nutmeg and cinnamon. With a pastry blender cut in the butter until particles are fine. Firmly press 1-3rd of the mixture into a greased 8 by 12 inch cake pan.

In a pint measure stir together the corn syrup, water and baking soda. Slowly pour 1 cup of the syrup mixture over the flour base in the cake pan. Sprinkle with 1/2-3rd of the flour mixture; pour remaining syrup mixture; sprinkle with remaining flour mixture. Gently run a fork back and forth through top layers, being careful not to run fork through bottom layer; do this again in the opposite direction.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean - 50 minutes. Serve warm. Cut into squares in pan and remove with a wide spatula. Top with Lemon Sauce and whipped cream, cheese, if desired. There will be a thick, sticky, custard-like layer over parts of the bottom of the pudding.

Makes 8 servings
LEMON SAUCE
In a small saucepan stir together 1/2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Gradually stir in 1 cup water until smooth. Cook over moderate low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened, clear and boiling. Remove from heat; stir in the grated rind of 1 lemon, 3 tablespoons lemon juice and 1/4 cup butter or margarine until the butter is melted. Serve hot. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

COME FOR DESSERT!
Chocolate layer cake
Tea or Coffee
CHOCOLATE LAYER CAKE
2 squares (10 ounces) unsweetened chocolate
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups unsifted confectioners' sugar
1-3rd cup milk
2 tablespoons orange-flavor liqueur
Two 8-inch round chocolate cake layers
1/2 cup raspberry or apricot preserves
Over very low heat, stirring constantly, melt chocolate and butter; cool slightly. Stir together the remaining ingredients; add chocolate mixture and beat until smooth. If frosting is too thick for good spreading consistency, add a little more liqueur. Sandwich cake layers together with the preserves; cover top and sides with frosting.

Parker Announces 'State Of Legal War' Over Smoking Issue

By JEAN PATTESON Herald Staff Writer

A declaration by Sanford resident Merle E. Parker that a "state of legal war" existed between himself and Seminole County school officials, was countered Wednesday night by School Board Atty. Douglas Stenstrom, who said he would defend the board against Parker's claims that minors were smoking illegally in county schools.

Included in a six-page presentation, Parker made a variety of accusations and insinuations against school teachers, principals, superintendent and the school board.

Included was the implication that school officials, as well as county police and sheriffs, might be involved in illicit drug trafficking.

"To make a citizen go to the expense of trying to get mandamus action through the courts in order to compel police officers and sheriffs and school officials to do what the law they have sworn to uphold tells them to do, is beyond all rhyme or reason," said Parker.

"Unless . . ." he continued, "unless these police officers and sheriffs and school officials are under domination by criminal elements who stand to profit from the addiction of our children to drug use of whatever kind it may be."

The school superintendent immediately challenged the question. "Did you say William P. Loyer was connected with drugs; was pushing drugs in Seminole County?"

Stenstrom intervened. "That's implied," he told Loyer, "but don't ask the question yet."

Stenstrom continued that he was preparing some motions on Parker's suit. "We will defend the suit," said the attorney, adding that he believed school officials have the right to establish smoking areas on school campuses. He also said 18-year-olds have the right to smoke.

He advised Loyer that school principals should inform students under 18 that they would be subject to disciplinary rules if they were found smoking at school.

"At no time did the board or I agree there would be no smoking areas," Stenstrom continued. "The school officials had the power to prohibit smoking in lavatories, but could restrict 18-year-olds to smoking elsewhere."

After the meeting, amid reactions from school officials ranging from outrage to amusement, Loyer commented that "this thing has gone on long enough." He said it was time to settle the matter in court.

"He (Parker) must be made to put up, or shut up," said Loyer.

State Atty. Abbott Herring, in a letter dated March 9, said he was "in complete disagreement with Mr. Parker regarding the designated smoking areas."

Herring recommended Loyer for setting up the areas, which he said, if properly regulated for 18-year-old students only, can be a powerful deterrent and factor in the control of marijuana smoking.

"A student that is over the age of 18 is legally permitted to smoke. In my opinion you can lawfully control where he shall smoke."

Interviews For Top County Post Are Scheduled Friday

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

Friday is D-Day for interviews for Seminole County government's new $25,000-a-year executive assistant.

The fourth applicant asked that his name not be released, but he presently resides out of state, is 34, and is employed as a county administrator.

Commissioner Richard Williams has already made it known that he is going to be angry if the person hired doesn't work out. Controversial from the first, the assistant first was known as the "Rose," because that was the name assigned after commissioners couldn't agree on a title.

Management Consultant E.H. Underwood came up with the title executive assistant.

The executive assistant could become very powerful. He could do that by keeping his job while elected commissioners come and go.

Or, the composition of the board could change in November, and the position could conceivably be abolished.

Whatever happens the assistant will be up front and on the firing line. To survive he must be a capable politician, as well as administrator.

Most counties as large as Seminole have a top administrator. Generally, he is called county administrator or manager.

Candidates for the county commission could easily latch on to the executive assistant as a campaign issue. They could promise taxpayers a fulltime commissioner — and claim an assistant isn't needed.

And if Kimbrough and Williams already oppose the position, one additional vote is all that would be required.

A job depends, really, on the applicant chosen for the lot.

If he pleases Republican commissioners, he is sure to stay.

If the final choice is displeasing they might make their displeasure known after elections in November.

Stone Street Residents Denied Courtesy Busing

A request from a group of Stone Street (near Grybo) residents for courtesy busing for their 13 children was denied by the Seminole County School Board Wednesday night on the grounds the area did not qualify under the board's new courtesy busing policy and that there was no safe turn-around at the end of Stone Street.

School Supt. William P. Loyer said he had surveyed the area using procedures under a new point system adopted by the board last week.

Also using the point system to make independent surveys of the Stone Street area were Fred Taylor, director of federal programs; Sgt. Beau Taylor of the Sanford Police Department; and Carmen Hall, representative of the busing committee, County Wide Advisory Committee.

The average of the four surveys was 34 points in favor of courtesy busing for the area — 16 points short of the required 50 points for granting courtesy busing.

Ms. Hall replied that in a discussion with Sgt. Taylor, Taylor qualified this statement with the fact that he would feel responsible for taking his children to the bus stop, or arrange to have them taken.

Turner told the board that County Commission Chairman Mike Hattaway had inspected Stone Street on Monday, and had told Turner it was in no worse shape than any other dirt road in the county.

Some improvements had been made to the road by the county, and more work was scheduled, said Turner. He maintained that there was enough space for a bus to make a three-point turn at the end of Stone Street. Fred Taylor replied that "there is not, at this point, a safe turn-around."

Taylor told the board it was policy to deny courtesy busing to students who lived within one and a half miles of a bus stop, unless there were hazards exceeding 50 points when evaluated by the point system. He urged the board to abide by the policy guidelines.

Loyer also recommended to the board that they deny the request for courtesy busing.

Board member Allan Keeth requested that prior to the establishment of bus routes for the 1976-77 school year, the question of busing for Stone Street be reviewed in relation to courtesy busing along other spur roads that were less than one and a half miles from a bus stop but presented no real hazards to students traveling them.

Turner said the Stone Street residents had anticipated the board's refusal to provide busing, and said the parents would submit claims to cover the cost of transporting their children down Stone Street to the bus stop.

In other action, the school board tentatively approved the low bid of $178,847 from Asgaard Jurgensen Inc. of Orlando for additions to Bear Lake Elementary School, and the low bid of $113,600 from Reginald N. Williams Construction Co., Winter Park, for additions to Pincrest Elementary School.

The board instructed Loyer to proceed to a July 15 deadline for submission of bids on medical and life insurance proposals. Loyer was told not to actively seek bids on general insurance, but to study any proposals made voluntarily by insurance firms.

Pollution Warnings Requested

Due to alleged pollution, Seminole County Environmental Services Director Bill Dale is recommending the posting of warning signs to advise swimmers and skiers of possible dangers at one area lake and possibly a second.

Though Dale asked the county commission on Tuesday to initiate a countywide posting system, no action was taken.

The issue stated after Commission Chairman Michael Hattaway and Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski refused Dale's request. Robert C. Byrd 122, Jimmy Carter 5098, Frank Church 89, Fred R. Harris 78, Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson 2479; Ellen McCormack 82; Milton J. Shapp 279; Sargent Shriver 90; Morris K. Udall 254; George C. Wallace 4310 and no preference 627.

Statewide the results came out in similar fashion with Carter first, Wallace second and Jackson third.

In the Republican presidential primary, Gerald R. Ford received 5126 votes, and Ronald Reagan received 5439.

At Lake Orienta, problems result from storm runoff into the lakes, according to Dale.

Dale will know for certain what the bacteria count is at the two lakes when equipment used to run tests arrives here in two or three weeks.

Today

Approximately 250 guests at the Days Inn motel and restaurant, SR 46, and 14 west of Sanford, were evacuated Wednesday night by sheriff's deputies and county firemen after fumes from a soil fumigant used on a field nearby filled the motel and restaurant. (See story, Page 2-A).
