Mayfair Open Plans Revealed

Application Filed With Commission For Radio Station

An application has been filed with the Federal Communications Commission for a new Radio Station in Sanford. According to one of the co-owners, Emerson Browne of Kissimmee, the station will be on 600 Kc. and at one thousand watts, daytime operation.

The application was filed in the name of Radio South, Inc., with three co-owners; Emerson Browne, his wife, and John Bolling. Browne, formerly chief engineer of Radio Station WTRR here, now owns and operates Radio Station WRWR, 1220 kc, daytime 250 watts, in Kissimmee; WSPR, 1490 250 watt fulltime station in Quitman, Ga., and one-third owner of WCLB in Camilla, Ga.

Bolling is owner and operator of Radio Station WQIK in Jacksonville. Browne came to Sanford to work as the station's Chief Engineer until 1952 when he went to work in the Cocoa Station to work as part owner of Radio Station WKKO there. He said his other interests.

Annual 'S-D Day' Slated For Dec. 1

Every Seminole County citizen was asked today by County Commission Chairman John Meisch to help save lives and prevent injuries by getting behind the Nation's second annual "S-D Day" Safe Driving Day - Thursday, Dec. 1.

"S-D Day is sponsored by the President's Committee for Traffic Safety in cooperation with scores of national organizations. It has the endorsement of President Eisenhower, Governor Leroy Collins, and all of the other 47 governors. Meisch announced that he has appointed J. Marion Harman Sr., as S-D Day Director for Seminole County.

"The purpose of S-D Day," Meisch explained, "is to demonstrate to the public that safe driving is a responsibility of every citizen."

Lyman Students To Participate In Forum Tonight

Lyman High School students will take part in a forum over radio station WTRR in Sanford this evening, in connection with American Education Week.

The broadcast will be of 15 minute duration and will begin at 7:15 p. m. The topic being "You Investment in America." Alvin Winters will be moderator and speakers will be Frances Fouraker, 12th grade; Donna Lou Barnes, 11th grade; and Carolyn Wright, 10th grade. Mrs. Alena Schmidt, English teacher at Lyman High is the sponsor.

The story of the "Mayfair Inn Open" was given to the Sanford Kiwanis Club at its noon luncheon meeting yesterday by a newly inducted member of the group, Frank Mebane Jr., manager of the Mayfair Inn.

Mebane, introduced by Chamber of Commerce Manager Forrest Breckenridge, said, "It has been a standard thing for the new manager of the Mayfair Inn to come and talk with you at the beginning of the new season." And he added quickly, "I hope we can bring that habit to a stop, for several years anyway."

SHS Homecoming To Begin Tonight

Evening leading up to the gigantic homecoming day celebration at Seminole High School and climaxed with the Homecoming game at the Sanford Memorial Stadium, will begin tonight with a huge bonfire across from the Seminole High School building on French Ave.

According to school officials, the bonfire tonight is scheduled at 7:30 p. m. and will be attended by both students and parents who will join in the weekend annual celebration.

American Heritage Is Subject Of Talk At Pilgrim Chapter

The Pilgrim Chapter, Daughters of American Colonists, met Tuesday afternoon at the E.H. Club in Lakeland.

There were 18 members of the group attending the luncheon meeting which was opened with the usual ritual. Regent Mrs. J. P. Ripple of Orlando presided, and turned the meeting over to the entertainment chairman, Mrs. E. L. Veasey of Lakeland who introduced Professor and Mrs. M. T. Grace, Associate Professor of Education at Florida Southern College who spoke on the subject "American Heritage."

Professor Grace gave a strong, stirring address on "From the Mayflower to the present era." The document which was adopted before leaving the boat," he said, "about the freedom of speech, religion, and the dignity of man."

"No man can claim his heritage as his own until he has earned it," he said.

Mrs. Grace, who is a concert pianist in her own right, rendered several piano selections.

Mrs. Miriam Russell, of Sanford, gave a short talk on "approved schools."

M. Warner Thanks Voters, Supporters

MY HAT IS ALREADY in the ring for the next one!

M. Warner, defeated candidate for the Sanford City Commission, yesterday extended congratulations to David Gatchel, the successful candidate in the race. "Now that the race is over," Warner said, "there's much work to be done to keep Sanford growing."

Retired Colonel, Commander Guests At Club Luncheon

A commander in the Navy and a Colonel in the Army, both retired, were guests at the Sanford Kiwanis Club at its noon luncheon meeting yesterday.

With a total of 50 years in military service between them, the Commander is living in Greensboro, while the Colonel makes his home in Deland.

With 30 years service, Guy R. Strickland, the retired Navy Commander, is visiting his brother in Sanford, Rupert Strickland. Ray Foster, of Deland, is a West Pointer, and retired from the Army of the United States after having served 23 years. He was a Colonel.

Other visitors at the noon luncheon meeting yesterday included the Key Club Sweethearts, Miss Betty Ann Munson, Miss Harriett Redding and Miss Elizabeth Woodruff.

Also at the Kiwanis luncheon meeting were, Robert H. Ivey of Orlando, W. Pitt Varns of south Seminole County; and Bill Carson, a visiting Kiwanian and guest of Harold Kastner, secretary and past president of the Hamilton Township, Trenton, N. J. Kiwanis Club.

ANNOUNCEMENT
It has been announced that the Seminole Court House will be closed tomorrow because of Veterans' Day.

Members Of Local Choir To Partake In Vesper Service

The Central Florida Chapter of the American Guild of Organists will hold its annual Choral Vesper Service in Knowles Chapel, Rollins College, Sunday, Nov. 13, at 4 o'clock. Robert Hufstader will be conducting with Mrs. John Baker at the organ.

Members of nine choirs throughout Central Florida will be participating, with approximately 125 voices. Members of the Chancel Choir of the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford, Mrs. George Touhy, Minister of Music, will be participating.

The public is invited.

Only Two Arrests Filed In Office

A light day was recorded yesterday in the Seminole County Sheriff's Office when only two arrests were filed.

The two traffic violations were for "reckless driving" and "passing a school bus."

John D. Stone, a resident of Geneva, was charged with "reckless driving while drinking" after he smashed into an orange tree on the Country Club Road and kept going. According to the report, filed by Deputy Sheriff A. E. Evans, Stone failed to stop when he ran off the road, struck an orange tree, and had to be stopped away from the scene of the accident. Only slight damage was reported to the pickup truck.

Gene Ruppold, an Orlando driver, was charged with "passing a school bus" and "improper drivers license" about 3:45 Tuesday afternoon.

2 Men Represent District No. Six On State Board

Cushman Radebaugh of Orlando and Lacy G. Thomas of Groveland will represent Seminole, Marion, Lake, Orange and Ocala counties comprising district six on the Florida Farm Board of directors.

E. H. Finlayson, Jefferson County state grower, was re-elected state president of the organization.

Thomas was re-elected at the organization's annual state convention which closed in Tallahassee yesterday. Radebaugh is a carry-over director, with another year in office.

Two directors represent each of the nine districts in Florida. They are chosen to serve terms of two years each, with one elected annually.

W. R. Manrock of Groveland, was re-elected director for the State at large.

Alligator Caught On Paved Street

A five foot three inch alligator was caught and given to the Sanford Zoo yesterday afternoon by Jack Barracough and Robert Mills.

The alligator was crossing a paved street near the residential district in Forest City.

The animal was lassoed with a rope and trussed up after several amateur attempts, then carried in a car trunk to his new home.

Tradition Dates Back To 1775

Many Florida Men In Local Guard

Today is the 180th anniversary of the U. S. Marine Corps. The 17th tradition of the United States Marine Corps dates back to 1775 when it was established by the Continental Congress. In the Revolutionary War the Marines fought against the British Fleet on the ships of John Paul Jones, and made their first amphibious landing in the beaches of the Bahamas in 1776. Marines ended their war with the Mediterranean pirates when they planted the Stars and Stripes over the pirate stronghold at Derma in Tripoli after a six-hundred mile march across the desert of North Africa. In the War of 1812 they fought on Lake Chaplain and Lake Erie and were with General Jackson behind the barricades at New Orleans.

They fought the Seminole Indians in the dense swamps of Florida in 1836, and fought under General Scott in the Mexican War of 1846-48. Their first visit to Japan came in 1854 as guard detachments from the ships of Commodore Perry's Fleet. Under the command of Robert E. Lee, Marines captured John Brown at Harper's Ferry in 1859.

During the war between the States Marines took part in all of the major battles.

Fred V. Bell, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Bishop of 1918 1/2 N. Liberty St., Sanford, received a superior accomplishment award of $300 at ceremonies in the main Navy Building in Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.

He was presented the award by Rear Admiral R. J. Arnold, Chief of the Navy's Bureau of Supplies and Accounts.

Bell, who lives at 3504 Park St., Chevy Chase, Md., is employed in the Freight Rate and Classification Division of the Bureau.

Bike Safety Club Organized By Group As Part Of Program

"Something must be done to encourage the consciousness of bicycle safety in the youngsters," Mrs. Ray Murray told a group of citizens yesterday as they met in the Board Room of the Seminole County Educational Building to discuss the possibilities of organizing a "Seminole Bike Safety Club."

Purpose of the club is many-fold it was explained when primary purposes of the organization were read: 1 - to increase the knowledge of bicycling; 2 - to increase the pleasure and enjoyment of bicycling; 3 - to promote good-fellowship and lasting friendships; 4 - to foster group riding tours and bicycle safety competition; 5 - to maintain a community-wide bicycle safety campaign on an organized basis; and 6 - to sponsor a program of social and educational features.

The program will be one, it was explained, where bicycles can be examined and inspected and repaired safe for riding. This is (Continued on Page Eight)

Important Projects On Agenda Tonight At Longwood Meet

Longwood Chamber of Commerce will meet tonight at 8 p. m. in the Longwood Hotel. Mrs. S. J. Scales will be guest speaker. So far, recently with a partner, took over the old Seminole District Park in Fern Park. The Longwood Park will now be known as Avalon District Park and several horses are expected to appear this week.

President Charles Morrison has several important projects to announce on his agenda, including the coming annual Children's Christmas Party.

Former Government Employee Inducted In Kiwanis Club

A former Superintendent of Printing of the Library of Congress, was inducted into the Sanford Kiwanis Club yesterday at its noon luncheon meeting.

Harry Falk, now a resident of Delray, retired 18 months ago from government service and came to Florida.

Falk was a former newspaper publisher in Missouri before entering the government service. He was a member of the Kiwanis Club in his original home state in 1927.

The retired government employe is also an inventor of several items, one of which is a device used in the U. S. Government Printing Office in Washington, D. C. Various foreign governments have secured the use of this patent for their printing offices.

Falk is a consultant on printing on the rolls of the Civil Service Commission in Washington. He has served with four public printers in his 28 years of service with the Federal Government.

Mr. and Mrs. Falk, residing in Delray, enjoy their favorite hobby of fishing and making friends. They are members of the First Christian Church of Sanford.

Falk said yesterday that he met friend Arthur Gortrey for an entertainment program for $10 a night.

Other new members inducted at yesterday's noon meeting of the Sanford Kiwanis Club were, Frank Mebane Jr., manager of the Mayfair Inn and Mack N. Cleveland Sr., Sanford Fire Chief.

HERE ARE THE Marines pictured above that will celebrate the 180 Marine Corps Birthday Nov. 10 at Sanford. This anniversary is especially significant to all Marines, because it marks the end of another decade that men of high quality have had the privilege of serving with the world's finest and most versatile fighting organization. The unit here is a small one, but small or large, their value cannot be weighed merely by number, for every Marine throughout the Corps has a personal pride and satisfaction that can be achieved only through the excellent training and leadership which the Marine Corps has given up. The same type of training that has kept the honor class of Marines, and made them an outstanding symbol of our National Society of war and peace, in the air, on land and sea, and around the globe. SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

THRIFT and quality are household words in America, but no household wants one at the expense of the other—especially where food is concerned. Sometimes it's possible to combine quality and economy in a single, delicious dish—like, for instance, corned beef cabbage rolls, suggested for your Sunday dinner by the A&P Service For Homemakers. Serves six.

Chances Are Slim Congress Will Give Funds For Canal

TALLAHASSEE (U. S. Sen. Spessard Holland sees little chance that Congress will provide construction funds for the proposed Florida cross state barge canal in the anywhere near future.

Holland said he didn't think the canal should be put permanently on the shelf but it was his understanding the Corps of Engineers would go ahead with completing the last leg of the Newark to Miami Inland Waterway channel—from Eau Gallie to Miami; harbor improvements at Tampa and Pensacola and the Apalachicola-Chattohochee-Flint River navigation system before giving serious consideration to the canal.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN
CAROL BRINDLE was uneasy when she was not the focus of the conversation. She intervened now. "Albert is getting along as different as Shandy. I sent for Dr. Thomas and he simply refused to let him enter the cottage."
"Albert is not himself. He hardly even talks with Clyde," Bease said. "I guess you don't recognize Clyde, Jane. It must be fifteen years since you've seen him."
Jane ignored the look of defiance in Bease's voice and turned to the boy who had been studying her all this time, half expecting to be notified, half prepared to be rebuffed. His smile grew as she spoke, as though she were holding it in his hand.
"Clyde! I'd never have known you!" She made a quick recovery. "And small wonder. You were about eleven last time I saw you, and still small enough that I could look at you without a crick in my neck." She held out her hand to the boy and turned to Bease, who was watching her alertly. She smiled reassuringly down at the tiny little woman.
The latter's face warmed, reassured. "It's good having him here. He was away at school so long and then in the army—he's Albert. He's just getting acquainted."
Jane smiled lightly at her face. "I don't mind sharing Albert with you," she told the boy, "but I won't let you monopolize him. Tell him he can't keep me out. If he looks like he's going to do that, I'll have to be firm."
"I would do him a world of good," Bease declared. "Why be so hard on me when you know you've divorced Roger, as though no one could pick a flaw in the man?" Vaguely she realized that she was being unkind. "You know how Albert is, just being in Roger. Now, could you see any of the dark might have been Roger's?"
"Will you be here long, Jane?" Shandy intervened hastily.
Her eyes twinkled in her gray hair. "Just a week or two. I'm getting myself a long-delayed vacation."
"I was fascinated by the contrast between Roger's two wives. Carol's inhuman greed in the money, not to mention her persnickiness as the perfume she wore. Jane was plain, with alert intelligence, considerable humor and a sturdy, direct self-reliance."
"You're very successful, aren't you?" Carol asked her predecessor. "Roger used to speak of it when he saw your name signed in articles in big magazines. He was pleased to know you'd done so well." The soft voice acquired an edge. "You aren't planning in any articles about Roger, are you, because I've been asked."

Shandy's eyes brushed Carol's face, he winked at her, and looked away again. Implicit in the tiny gesture was shared amusement and understanding.
"No," Jane assured the embryo writer. "I won't do any articles about him."
"And if you have any material—" Carol began again, determined not to waste an opportunity. Jane's smile deepened. "If I have any material," she assured the younger woman, "I'll be happy to give it to Mrs. Fleming."
Less swallowed hard. Jane too had claws, though it was doubtful whether Carol was acute enough to feel the scratch.
"Thanks for the lunch, Carol," Shandy said. "Jane, if you go away before I see you again I'll bring your neck."
"Don't be absurd!" she said briskly. "I intend to ask you to take me out to dinner."
"Tonight?"
"Well," Carol exclaimed, "I'm glad there is something that will bring this caveman out of his retreat."
"Soon as I get these dishes cleared off," Bease said to Jane, "I'll tell Albert you are here. Shake him out of himself. He says he's saving his strength so he can tell Mrs. Fleming all about Roger. Says no one knows him as he did."
"It was a nice lunch, Bease," Carol said kindly. "Mrs. Fleming is going to call you Mrs. Brindle when that's my name—anyhow, I'm glad to have seen you. I always wondered what you were like." Her tone implied that she was quite satisfied on that score.
"Mrs. Fleming, let's go into the library where we can talk. It's so much cooler there."
She beckoned to Jane and laid her hand on Shandy's arm. "There are some scrapbooks of Roger's that are awfully heavy. Will you take them up to the cottage for Mrs. Fleming?"
"I'll do it," Jane said absently, because aware of the stillness and knew that she had blundered.
He picked up the scrapbooks and went out. Carol stretched out on a long couch in the library and piled pillows behind her.
"I didn't know you and Shandy were acquainted."
"We met in Europe," Carol explained. "Years ago. Just after the war. Shandy was assigned by the government to look for his husband, who was reported missing. He helped me find out what had become of him."

"I know he was delayed getting back because of looking for some man." The yellow eyes watched Carol without blinking. "But I've never heard him mention your name. When I told him you were coming he didn't even say he knew you."
"He'd probably forgotten all about it. You know how it is. You lose touch with people so easily. And I had no idea," Carol went on carefully, because it seemed important to make the point, "that I would meet him here. I had a vague idea he was married. Did his wife die?"
"Shandy never married," Carol said. Her eyes closed in deep satisfaction. "This was his old family home, you know. He sold it to Roger when we were married. I was crazy about the place so Roger was eager to get it for me. Roger was like that. Always. Sometimes I think his waste of space was just in giving people what they wanted."
The young widow sat up absorbed in her thoughts that Carol heaped on her. "You think Shandy has changed much?"
"Changed?" Carol asked. "For some reason she found herself weighing her words, moving cautiously as though leaving each step to be sure of firm ground beneath. "Of course, he was badly scarred when I knew him and quite lame. The scars have almost vanished. I had no idea he was so strikingly good looking. And he's hardly lame at all, just a little stiff."
Carol was thoughtful. "Seeing him constantly, I guess I just hadn't noticed how his scars had disappeared. They were horrible at first, weren't they?" She shivered faintly to indicate her disgust.
Less held an iron grip on her anger. "He'd had a notice time of it," she said briefly.
Carol nodded. "He just turned into a regular hermit. If Roger hadn't rescued him out by main force now and then he would never have left the cottage. But Roger—he couldn't stand having anyone unhappy. He'd just sweep them along with him. He was the strongest man I ever knew. Somehow I can't get it into my head that he won't come in, calling me, and say he'd just been away for awhile."

Zinnemann Is 'Sensitive' Director

NEW YORK — The dirtiest word in the language, in the opinion of Fred Zinnemann, is "sensitive."
"Zinnemann a slight, pleasant, shy man is a motion picture director as distinguished from the rest of the so-called 'Hollywood crowd' as an English sparrow in a flock of cardinals. He is waiting proof that the film city does not always confuse gaudy trappings and studied eccentricity with craftsmanship."

B. Sikes Forecasts Atlanta To Become Bustling Port City

ATLANTA — A forecast that Atlanta about 300 miles from the Gulf of Mexico will become a bustling port city was voiced here Tuesday by Rep. Bob Sikes (D-Fla.)

Sikes was one of a dozen speakers at Harbor Day festivities who visualized great things for the entire Tri-River valley through development of the Ansatichola-Chattahoochee-Tombigbee navigation system.

Sikes said completion of the project would make Atlanta a busy port for barges plying up the river to the Ansatichola.

Rep. George Andrews (D-Ala.) forecast the day when coal from Birmingham, Ala. will meet iron ore from South America at Apalachicola.

He predicted the time will come when automobiles from Detroit will be shipped down the Mississippi along the Gulf coast and up the Tri-River system to a distribution point on the Chattahoochee River.

Big Gen. Henry J. Hoelzer of the Corps of Engineers said that when dams at Chattahoochee and Fort Gaines, Ga., are completed a new canal will be provided to Columbus, Ga., and a controlled water supply for future industry.

Interim Group Will Begin Study Soon

LAKE AND — The Interim legislative committee studying the effect of practical times on agricultural life plans to begin its study on the program Nov. 18.

The 11 reports of studies already made on the subject will be made available then at a meeting of the committee in Lake Alfred.

Most of the complaints which led to the committee's establishment by the 1953 legislature came from Polk county but the study will be held by W. D. Miller of Ridge.

Miller, chairman of the Agricultural committee, in the opinion of farm groups, is studying the situation. He asked the committee to inspect the area from about 10 miles south of Tampa to Sarasota.

Tax Assessor Not Sure Of Address

SARASOTA — Tax Assessor Glover Adams said he wasn't sure of the exact address of Mrs. Hubert Young so he mailed a notice to Sarasota, Venice and Holmes.

Mrs. Young, whose address is between Venice and the Gulf, said she didn't get a single one but that an incorrect address, 3239 reached her with little delay.

She said when she didn't get the notice she assumed one she had started the year before was still good. Her taxes then were $49.

The county commission instructed the local attorney to see what relief could be granted her.

Good Citizen, His Money

In a recent forum, the question was raised: "Who is the Good Citizen?"

Inevitably discussion turned to that aspect of the subject dealing with The Good Citizen and his money.

Each of us hopes to be and tries to be a Good Citizen. And each of us must manage some amount of money, small or large.

How we manage that money, whether much or little, has its impact both on our own personal finances and on the national economy of our country—for the two are inextricably intertwined.

The first aspect of the Good Citizen's money management is spending, though sometimes it seems that department manages us more than we manage it.

Each of us recognizes the need for saving. None of us knows when he may encounter an emergency requiring resources greater than current income can provide.

We know the wisdom of what Benjamin Franklin and all the other sages have taught about thrift. Again the question is not WHETHER we should save but HOW.

The first element in the HOW, of course, is to control our spending. But, human nature being what it is, most of us spend all we have at hand.

The second aspect is giving—and Americans are amazingly generous in their personal charities and in their voluntary support of religious, philanthropic, and educational institutions.

A third aspect—one largely beyond our individual control—is the payment of taxes. The Good Citizen grumbles a bit about this, but he pays with reasonable cheerfulness so long as he feels his governments—local, state, and national—use his money for the intended purposes of supporting education and public services of many other kinds, for the administration of justice, and for the national security.

The fourth cornerstone of the Good Citizen's money management is saving—and this is where most of us have the greatest difficulty.

ON THE CARPET

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK — Things are New Yorkier than ever.

Today's lesson is that Life doesn't always follow Art. I have been pondering the brief but reasonably successful career of 19-year-old Steve Lawrence, the pleasant singer on Steve Allen's Tonight television show, who looks like Mickey Rooney in repose.

Lawrence is the son of a cantor—and if you are a young oldtimer, as Ed Durling says, you'll remember that being the basic scheme of Al Jolson's movie, The Jazz Singer. . . . a boy wanting to be a popular singer and his cantor father being sharply opposed. The switch is this: Lawrence's father, once he learned his son's ambition, did everything possible to help the kid get there. Incidentally, I like the way Steve used to bring his early earnings home to his mother. He'd hide the money in the refrigerator, where he was sure his mother would find it in the morning. "I really gave mom cold cash," he grins. Still does it occasionally, too.

A recent survey indicates that existing facilities and procedures of the United States customs people at Idlewild airport are "adequate except for emergencies."

This comes under the heading of the hardest item in the world to believe. One recent passenger beamed that it had taken him as long to get to his Manhattan hotel, after getting off a plane, as it did to fly up from Bermuda.

There is a 145-man staff of customs men at Idlewild and they handle from two to three thousand incoming passengers a day—but somehow I rarely see to see more than three in evidence at any one time.

Of course, the plane companies compound the fiasco by being late in bringing the baggage in from the aircraft, and there is a sharp contrast with customs inspections in, say, France or England, where they look briefly at the outside of your bag and pass it on. Our system is better, I guess, but more exasperating.

So Miss Margaret Sullivan is coming to town in another play. Perhaps she will rekindle the love I lost when she played in The Deep Blue Sea. . . . Passing the time of day the other morning with Lisa Kirk, visiting her New York apartment wistfully and briefly between TV shows on the coast, I decided Marianna Dietrich was right. She says Lisa's legs are the same dimensions as hers. What more can a man say?

A frightening thought for today: the applejack people have been campaigning to have their product substitute for cider at Everything Blows To New York!

NEW YORK — Everything isn't fast enough to latch on to a virus is expected to stay healthy.

Now about our uncivilized west or. Other cities enjoy a climate. We don't really have a climate. We have series of used up and discarded weathers from other areas.

It is possible to find seven different kinds of weather in San Francisco on an average day. But what does San Francisco do with all its weathers when it is through with them? It stirs a wind and blows them here.

So does Canada. So does the Middle West. So does Florida. So does Europe. This is the world's melting ground of weathers.

Maybe Tucson, Ariz., can fry an egg on the pavement during a heat wave. We can't do that. The humidity won't allow it. But we can bust it on the sidewalk and soft soil it. Can any other city honestly make this claim?

Smog? We mail our surplus to Los Angeles.

If you come here from out of town and get homesick for your favorite virus or favorite weather, don't complain. Wet your finger and hold it up. Good or bad, a wind will blow it this way soon.

Everything blows to New York City.

You might become a rose queen in your home. Stencil it on shower sheets or embroidered roses on bed linen. Ivy is another popular motif. One homemaker has an egg on the sidewalk and soft soil it. Can any other city honestly make this claim?

Personality Can Distinguish Home

It's the personal touch that gives your home a cozy appearance. A motif of your very own woven through your belongings will enhance an otherwise drab abode.

Choose your design by singling out a hobby, favorite animal or just a motif you like, making it your personal stamp.

Napoleons used his "N" as well as the bee to decorate glassware, linens, and personal items. It was woven into drapery and upholstery fabrics.

If you are stuck for an idea you might choose a flower, bird or even a tree peculiar to your area.

The duck proved to be an attractive design for one family's country house. They were surrounded by mallards. Ducks were stenciled on beige pongee fabric and used throughout the house at the windows. The same little duck wound up the furniture in the guest room, paper napkins, coasters and throw pillows. Eventually the house took its name—Duck Farm.

A brooder of Cries dachshunds, Mrs. Jeanette Criss of Wilton, Conn., uses her motif on a pale blue station wagon, embroidery kit on guest towels. Her needlework petite point pillows are also of the dachshund. She has dachshunds covering each of her homemade Christmas cards and the frisky little dogs are always decked out regally in red velvet and ermine jackets for the occasion. The dachshund is a popular motif, used by a New York taxi cab owner on all his taxi cabs—it's the head of a beloved but departed friend "Wag."

If you love roses as does Dorothy Draper for instance,

you might become a rose queen in your home. Stencil it on shower sheets or embroidered roses on bed linen. Ivy is another popular motif. One homemaker has an egg on the sidewalk and soft soil it. Can any other city honestly make this claim?

Segregation Battle Fought - Won

WASHINGTON — One more battle in America's most sensational social revolution — the effort to wipe out racial segregation — has been fought and won.

The Supreme Court yesterday ordered an end to segregation in grounds in Maryland and on public golf courses in Georgia.

While this action was less spectacular than the court's ruling in May 1954 — when it said segregation in public schools must end — it was far-reaching nevertheless.

The court now apparently has said — although it didn't use this exact language — that segregation in the United States must end in any place or facility that is paid for by the public, that is, paid for with tax money.

The court ruling did not say Negroes cannot be excluded from a recreational area or any other facility — like a branch, or playground, or golf course — that is privately owned and operated by an individual or limited group of individuals.

It seems certain that in the end yesterday's decision in the Maryland and Georgia cases will have to apply to all states and cities. The classic example of this kind of thing was in the high court's ban on segregation in public schools.

In that case the court ruled directly against only a handful of states but it soon became clear the decision applied to all states, although not all states have yet complied.

The court has consistently been following this principle in cases involving facilities that are supported by public tax money: That "separate but equal" arrangements for Negroes are no longer enough and are unconstitutional.

The fight against other forms of segregation is going forward. Some years ago the Supreme Court banned segregation on interstate buses — those crossing state lines.

Now Negroes are fighting against segregation on buses which operate entirely within a city or state. A test case was made against segregation on buses operated by a utility company in Columbia, S. C.

The U. S. Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., with jurisdiction over South Carolina, ordered segregation banned on the Columbia buses. In doing so the appellate court was following the lead of the Supreme Court in the school case.

It said that even though accommodations for Negroes on the buses — where they had to ride separate from the whites — were equal to those of the whites, they were not enough.

That case is now being appealed to the Supreme Court which, if it upholds the Appellate Court in the Columbia case, will in effect be wiping out segregation on buses in all states and cities.

Meanwhile the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People — which has been the spearhead of the fight against segregation in all its forms — is attacking on still another front.

It has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to forbid segregation of interstate travelers not only aboard trains but also in station waiting rooms and depot restaurants.

The NAACP was asked yesterday if now it intends to fight against segregation in privately-owned movie theaters and restaurants. A spokesman for the NAACP was rather vague on this. He indicated that may be done later but emphasized that right now the NAACP is concentrating mainly on getting an end to public school segregation in those states which are fighting or stalling on the Supreme Court decision.

Headache May Prove A Blessing In Disguise

By HIRSHAN H. HUNTER, M.D.

WHEN YOU have a headache, give Mother Nature a nod of thanks before you moan.

An occasional headache actually is good for you, providing you heed its signal. A headache, you must understand, is not a disease. It is merely an indication that something is wrong somewhere in your body.

A Warning Generally, it's a warning to mend your ways.

Think back next time your head begins to hurt. Were you overeating, drinking or smoking too much, or sleeping too late?

If the headache returns periodically, even after you've been behaving yourself, it's a signal to see your doctor. A doctor will do more than give you something to deaden your pain; he'll try to find the source of the trouble.

Slow Head Stresses Maybe that jabbing pain is an indication that your eyes need the help of glasses. Or maybe it indicates that you are straining to certain foods, or have an acute ailment and fever coming on.

Only rarely, unfortunately, does a headache signal a disease of the brain.

How it's usually a simple matter to get rid of the pain by taking a couple of aspirin, aspirin compound tablets or other headache remedies. But this isn't wise procedure in the case of recurrent headaches.

Most headache remedies are drugs which depress the nervous system. This means that the trouble irritating the nerves is still there, but the signal warning you of the situation is hushed out of working order.

The safest thing to do for these recurrent headaches is to see your doctor right away. Let him trace the source of the trouble.

To Relieve Pain For an occasional headache, however, two aspirin with a glassful of water, followed by another tablet in an hour, will usually relieve the pain.

You can also lie down in a darkened room and apply either an ice bag or a hot water bottle to your head. One probably will help more than the other. You've got to determine for yourself which is most soothing.

Flushing your hands into hot water for one minute might help, if you've got to spend this procedure three times at half hour intervals if your headache persists.

Remember and repeat: If you have a headache, see your doctor. A doctor will do more than give you something to deaden your pain; he'll try to find the source of the trouble.

Slow Head Stresses Maybe that jabbing pain is an indication that your eyes need the help of glasses. Or maybe it indicates that you are straining to certain foods, or have an acute ailment and fever coming on.

Only rarely, unfortunately, does a headache signal a disease of the brain.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CARR

THE LATE JOE PALMER told about a newly drafted Senator from Tennessee who was making his way through Kentucky at a time when breakfast was the only meal of food in those parts. He hurried for the night of a steady pluckton near Harrodsburg where he was offered some delicious homemade bourbon, served neat in a water glass.

The Tennessee legislator invited to his tent was acquainted with a delicious concoction called a julep, and having with him a glass of two glasses in that part of Kentucky, he decided to try it.

He took to his bed after he had drunk his first glass in his tent, and for him played almost to glory.

Mrs. J. Morrison Feted With Shower By Mrs. H. Robson

A surprise shower honoring Mrs. Jack C. Morrison was given Thursday by Mrs. Harry Robson in her home.

Decorations carried out a 4-ft. cake pink and white theme in streamers and miniature storks. The cake was "exquisite" shaped like a cradle even including a pillow fringed with tiny pink and blue flowers to carry out the theme.

Ice cream and colored mints were served also with candy favors. These little favors caused much comment among the guests as they were little inch long candy babies in bunting.

An exciting game of "20 Questions" was played with first prize going to Mrs. W. P. Smith and second prize to Mrs. William Bush. Invited to the with Mrs. Morrison were Mrs. John Angel, Mrs. James Crapps, Mrs. C. L. Part, Jr., Mrs. Edward Higgins, Mrs. A. R. McRaney, Mrs. Wally Phillips, Mrs. William Bush, Mrs. W. P. Smith, Mrs. Brack Parkins, Mrs. John Williams, Mrs. Jim Morgan, Mrs. Billie Vihlen, Mrs. John Crawford, Mrs. Yello Williams Jr., Mrs. Clifford McKibben and Mrs. Jack Smith.

Here's a good spread for crackers to pass along with tomato juice. Grind or finely chop cooked cleaned shrimp and mix with mayonnaise, lemon juice, chill sauce and curry powder. You can add a dash of Worcestershire sauce, too, if you like.

Miss Gail Biting, Prospective Bride, Is Feted With Luncheon

Among the many lovely parties being Miss Gail Biting whose marriage to Eddie Clark Waldheim of Opelika, Ala. will be an event of Nov. 20, was the luncheon given by Mrs. George A. Stone and Mrs. M. L. Raborn Sr., at the home of Mrs. Stone on Summerlin Ave. Tuesday at 1:00 o'clock.

Miss Biting chose for the occasion a gray and white winter cotton made with fitted basque waist and bouffant skirt. The dress was enhanced by a white feather close fitting hat, rhinestone trimmed. The hostesses presented her

Annual Pilot Club Card Party Slated To Be In January

Holdings its regular monthly business meeting at the Yacht Club the Sanford Pilot club completed plans for its annual card party to be held Jan. 1 at the Mayfair Inn.

Mrs. Ruth B. Scott is chairman of the card party committee.

A rummage sale will be held on Sanford Ave. Saturday, Nov. 19. It was announced. Anyone wishing to donate clothing for the sale may call any Pilot member who will gladly pick up your donation. Both card party and rummage sale proceeds will be used to further the work of the Milk Bank.

The Sanford Pilots will man the Salvation Army Christmas Kettles on Saturday, Dec. 17. Participating in National Education Week the dinner meeting program will be in charge of Mrs. Gladys Hall of the local Vocational School.

Ladies Give Tea For Miss Biting

Miss Gail Biting, bride-elect of this month, was honored recently with a tea by Mrs. Harry Woodruff and Mrs. George Algie Sneed at the Woodruff home on Elliott Ave.

Decorations of pink wreaths suggested a bridal theme along with pink candles. On the ceiling table, which was covered with an Italian cut work cloth, was a silver tea service.

In the other rooms a pink and green color scheme was carried out.

Those assisting were Mrs. T. F. McDaniell and Mrs. W. A. Adams presiding; Mrs. John Lee, Mrs. Christine Woodruff, Miss Mary Rose Sneed and Miss Elizabeth Woodruff serving.

Approximately 50 guests called between the hour of 4:30 and 5:30 p. m.

Statistics Show Earl Morrall Is Longest Punter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scouts who have been warning Michigan State's opponents that quarterback Earl Morrall is dangerous every time he gets his hand on foot on the ball received an assist today from the lads who work with slide rules and pencils in the NCAA statistical bureau.

The statistics show that Morrall not only is the longest punter in major college football, but also is the most efficient punter. Only one other player holds leadership in two statistical categories, although the better punter is displaying unusual versatility by gaining the upper brackets in other departments.

Morrall took over the punting lead when Florida's Don Chandler punted only once against Georgia and failed to reach the required minimum of 10 kicks. Pittsburgh's Bill Schmitt is second with a 43.8 average and Ted Rhode of Kansas third with 42.5.

The individual scoring lead changed hands for the fourth time in seven weeks, between the same two players, when Southern California's Jon Arnet Hallied seven points against Stanford to go ahead of Jim Swink of Texas Christian. Arnet, also the leader in punt returns, has 12 touchdowns and as many conversions for 84 points. Swink has 81 on 13 touchdowns and three points.

to established producers and lenders of cattle, sheep, and goats (except commercial feedlot operators) who are temporarily unable to get from regular sources the credit needed to continue their normal operations.

To be eligible, an applicant must have a good past record of livestock operations and have reasonable prospects for success with the help of the loan.

The loans are made to meet the usual expenses of livestock operations such as the purchase or production of feed, and replacing or repairing of farm machinery. A borrower may also restock his herd to normal size if he can carry his present herd, plus the additional livestock to be bought, without buying a substantial portion of his feed. Loans are not made to pay existing debts except current incidental bills.

The loans are to be repaid as soon as possible within a maximum of three years. Other creditors are not asked to subordinate their liens but are expected to execute standby agreements that a reasonable part of this applicant's normal livestock income can be used in repaying the loan.

The county office serving Bradford, Flagler, Orange, Seminole, and Volusia Counties is located in Sanford.

agreements on the Atlantic coast, and were with Farragut at Mobile Bay and New Orleans. They fought savages in Formosa in 1867, and stormed the barrier forts of Korea in 1871. During the Spanish-American War, a single battalion of Marines held the naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, against 6,000 Spaniards while other Leathernecks distinguished themselves at the battle of Santiago and with Dewey at Manila, they helped quell the Boxer uprising in China in 1900, and from then on until World War I, men of the Corps campaigned in the Philippines, Cuba, Mexico, Haiti, and Santo Domingo to protect American lives and property.

On the battlefields of France, Marines were called "Devil Dogs" by the Germans because of their courage and tenacity of attack. In the first World War, the Fourth Brigade of Marines took part in five operations as part of the famed Second Division of the A. E. F. Belleau Wood, Soissons, St. Mihiel, Champagne, and the Meuse Argonne. Marine units were decorated six times by the French during these campaigns.

The inter-im between World Wars found the Marines engaged around the globe in their traditional pursuits, from guarding the U. S. mails to fighting bandits in Nicaragua.

World War II saw men who wear the eagle, globe, and anchor valiantly defend Wake Island and Iwo Jima, and spearhead the amphibious landings across the Pacific. . . in the Solomon, at Tarawa, Saipan, Guam, and Okinawa, to name a few. Following a brief period of peace, Marines again went into Korea in 1950, this time a part of the United States forces.

The United States Marine Corps, rich in tradition and world-famed for its battle record and esprit de corps, plays an important role in keeping the peace throughout the world today.

Cuba and Miami prior to coming to Sanford for the last event of the season, he said.

Manager Mehane explained that "a lot of extra equipment is required by the Professional Golfers Association."

Giving the Kiwanis Club the results of the gigantic golfing event here, Mehane said, "any tournament sponsored by the PGA, news of the event is carried by every newspaper in the United States." And he commented, "with the tournament here the deadline will be Sanford."

"Sanford will become, or is, one of the great golfing centers in the country," people will surmise, he said, "because they say that we must have a terrific golf program, a terrific community to hold such a tournament as this."

"More people are playing golf every year," Mehane said, "and I don't know whether President Eisenhower had anything to do with it or not."

"We are providing extra facilities and extra equipment for this tournament," the Mayfair Inn manager said, "with a press room for newsmen, markers, scoreboard and other things that are required for a PGA tournament."

"A lot of help will be needed," said Mehane, as he appealed to club members for their support. "Tickets of several different colors will be sold," he said, "which makes it necessary to have a lot of people keeping an eye on the crowd."

"I understand from Tampa, and several other sources that we will have from 2,000 to 3,500 in town for the tournament," "Sam Snead," he explained, "will have a gallery of at least 2,500 following him, and if you want to see a mess, just try to get such a crowd around a small green."

Telling the Kiwanis Club about some of the plans already completed, Mehane said, "there will be a banner across the downtown streets, weekly tickets will be sold in advance, and window displays in downtown stores."

"I hope the whole town will get behind this tournament," Mehane said. Turning to the economic side of having the Mayfair Inn in Sanford, Manager Frank Mehane told the Kiwanis Club that the hotel boasts of a payroll well over $12,000 a week and more than $700,000 for the season. "Over two thirds of this money is left in Sanford," Mehane said.

"I have an unusually fine staff that has been with me for a number of years," he explained, "they are people you will enjoy knowing very much. They will add a great deal to the community. Mehane concluded his talk with the Kiwanis Club by saying, "we hope that you will feel that the Mayfair Inn is a part of Sanford." And he added, "it is just as much a part of the community as Youell's, Perkins, or the bank."

Campbell To Take Crack At Water Speed Record

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Britisher Donald Campbell in his jet-powered Bluebird takes another crack today at his own water speed record of 202.32 m.p.h.

The fast-moving son of the late Lord and water racer, Sir Malcolm Campbell, makes the official try over a measured kilometer—or 3/4 of a mile—course.

Campbell said he thought he broke 200 m.p.h. during a test run yesterday.

His gauge indicated "at one brief moment I may have exceeded the record," Campbell said.

The water was calm, but after he had made his trial runs and electric timing devices were set up, night was about to fall.

Campbell's full running course covers only 3/4 miles, and he said he almost "ran out of lake" yesterday. Witnesses estimated he was about 50 yards from shoreline when he brought the craft to a stop.

Last month the 4,000-pound Bluebird made an unsuccessful record try and then sank while being towed to the dock. It was later overhauled.

Campbell set the 202.32 m.p.h. mark in 1954 on Lake Ullswater in England.

strata, as the Nation did on S-D Day last year, that traffic accidents can be greatly reduced when every motorist and pedestrian fulfills his moral and civic responsibility for safety.

"This year, to make the demonstration more emphatic, the aim will be to reduce accidents—or, better yet, eliminate them entirely—not only on S-D Day, itself, but for a 21-day period, beginning with Nov. 21 — 'S-D minus 10'—and continuing through Dec. 11—'S-D plus 10'."

"During this campaign, I hope that all of us will come to understand — if we haven't done so already — that year-round safety on our roads and highways can be accomplished only by year-round comprehensive, proven-by-experience safety programs, supported 365 days a year by every one of us."

Meisch pointed out that the problem is particularly acute in rural areas, because it is there that three-fourths of the fatal accidents occurred last year: 27,000 rural as against 8,000 urban.

"Therefore," Meisch commented, "we must not only be careful ourselves, here in Seminole County. We must also have the cooperation of city drivers who use our open roads.

"Last year, in the United States, we gained in our war against accidents, for the first time since 1949. There were 2,300 fewer people killed than there had been in 1953. But, even so, 36,000 persons died. That is one death every fifteen minutes. Someone was injured every 25 seconds, many of them to the extent that they will never live normal lives again.

"Yet, safety experts assure us that nine out of ten accidents occur because someone does something he should not have done, or failed to do something he should have done. In other words, everybody of us can help — personally — to reduce traffic accidents by assuming the responsibility for driving and walking as we know we should. Let's do it."

The monument located on the American Hut grounds. All legionnaires and auxiliary members, ministers of Sanford churches and churches of Seminole County, as well as the general public, are invited to attend the

Study Sees State's Economy Booming

TALLAHASSEE — Controller Green and his staff have analyzed the sales tax records for the first three months of the current fiscal year and come to the not surprising conclusion that Florida's economy is booming.

As Green phrased it, the climbing sales tax receipts "spell for Florida a period of a rising state economy never before equalled in the state."

The state's chief financial officer added there is nothing to show that the prosperity of the state is temporary, either.

Gross sales reported by businesses which deal in goods covered by the sales tax totaled $1,820,484,415 for the three months of July, August and September. That was 311,611,200 or 20.9 per cent more than the sales reported for the corresponding period of 1954, Green said.

Green, was the 29.3 per cent increase in gross sales in the lumber and building materials group.

"This group represents new construction, both in residences and new industries."

Also significant, since they represent growth in the state's chief industry, tourism, are increases of 12.3 per cent on the food and beverage group, 12 per cent in restaurants and 15.2 per cent in hotels and apartments.

The automotive group reported gross sales up 20.4 per cent. Sales of the furniture and appliance group were 21 per cent higher than last year and general merchandise and apparel sales increased 15.7 per cent.

Green said an increase of more than 215 million dollars in music, radio and television sales "would seem to be a reflection of Florida's increasing population."

The comptroller was unable to explain slight drops this year over last year in the gross sales of fruit and vegetable markets, bakeries, taverns and night clubs, bookstores and social clubs.

RED, WHITE, BLUE WALK SHOW UP

WASHINGTON (AP) — New red, white and blue steel racks will soon show up in the lobbies of some 750 big office buildings throughout the country in the Post Office's latest move to be more efficient.

The racks, holding three mail bags ready to be tied up when filled, will have three funnel slots: "Local," "Out-of-Town" and "Air Mail." So the mail sorter, in effect, does his own sorting.

Postmaster General Summerfield said in announcing the move that it should save more than $670,000 a year in sorting costs.

On Friday Nov. 4 the Eighth grade of the Sanford Junior High was very proud to have a speaker on "Germany", Mrs. Russell Wallace.

Mrs. Wallace has just arrived in the United States for the first time. Her husband, a Sanford man, is a member of the US Air Force and had been stationed in Germany for some time.

Mrs. Wallace told us about the sectors into which Berlin is divided. She explained to us the

Three Ships Sail For Bottom Of World

WASHINGTON, (U) — Three sturdy gray ice breakers blinked greetings to each other off Norfolk, Va., a few days ago, and set a southward course for the bottom of the world.

After a year of planning, phase two of preparations for the 1957-'58 International Geophysical "Year" — really two years — was moving out of the paper work stage. Phase one was the exploratory voyage of the USS Atka to the Antarctic last year.

These two years, Jan. 1, 1957, to Dec. 31, 1958, will witness mankind's greatest single coordinated quest for knowledge about the world in which we live.

In all 3,000 scientists will explore the atmospheric blanket which wraps the world; search the faces of the sun and the earth.

While the assembling of data will go on all over the world, the most dramatic of the quests, outside of establishing a satellite in space, is the South Pole expedition.

Those three ice breakers, the Edisto, the Glacier and the East Wind, are the first departures of a seven-ship American task force. They are bound for the Ross Sea conditions under which the people live and described for us the way the people dress, the kinds of games and sports they play and the difference in their jobs and currency as compared with those in our country.

"German children listen to American music and music of their own country as well as that of other foreign countries," she said. "They watch American movies regularly," she went on.

"We all enjoyed her talk very much and hope that she will enjoy living in the United States as much as we do."

Tennis Racquet Is Gilt-Edged Ticket To World Travel

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

Want to go places, do things and see the world, girls? Then take up tennis.

Doris Hart, American women's tennis champion, has found her tennis racquet a gilt-edged ticket to international society and an exciting life of worldwide travel.

This ratty, modest young woman also found tennis a magic cure for the ills of an invalid childhood. Although she had been almost crippled by a leg injury in infancy, she took up tennis at the age of 10 and proceeded to take in most of the major laurels of international competition. She has won the Wimbledon, French and 10 times and won the U. S. championship in 1914 and 1935 after having failed in 5 previous finals.

"I guess I always wanted to see the world," says Doris, "and for the last 10 years, I have seen it. Sometimes I've traveled as much as 50,000 miles in one year. It's wonderful. If I had a daughter, I'd see that she started playing tennis as soon as she was big enough to hit a ball over the net."

In her travels Doris has met such personages as the late King George VI, Queen Elizabeth, Princess Margaret, Clement Attlee and Adm. Lord Mountbatten.

She has played tennis in Australia, South America, India, Ceylon, Egypt, South Africa and practically every country in Europe — except Russia.

Now that she has won about all the honors possible in her field, Doris is starting on a new career. She has turned pro, and will design tennis racquets and conduct tennis clinics for Spalding. She starts this winter teaching tennis in Miami Beach, just a hop, skip and jump from her home in Coral Gables Fla.

Later she will conduct tennis clinics in 40 or 50 cities.

conditions hold up re-supply. A complete field hospital will be manned by two doctors and a dentist. Most of their work probably will be surgery for as soon as you work out the germs you brought with you, you aren't bothered with respiratory infections. There are no germs in the Antarctic."
