Zoo-Move A Step Closer With Federal Approval

Another obstacle to proposed relocation of the Central Florida Zoo to Orlando has been removed. The federal government has no objection to a zoo being located in federally-aided Turkey Lake Park.

It was necessary to get federal permission before matching federal funds originally intended for other use at the Orlando park could be diverted to include a zoo.

Al Rozon, executive director of the zoo, near Sanford, said the city of Orlando has informed the zoological society board that the federal government has no objection to the zoo being located at the city park.

Rozon said this still does not mean the move to Turkey Lake Park is a certainty. He said although the Orlando City Council has approved locating the zoo at the park, a legitimate offer is yet to be made. He said now that the question of federal approval has been cleared up it will be up to Orlando to make a formal offer at which time the zoo board will study the possibility of accepting it.

"Any way you slice it, it comes down to where will the money come from," Rozon said. He said a modern state-of-the-art zoo, similar to Miami Metro Zoo, would cost an estimated $25 million. Rozon said the type of zoo he visualizes would house 1,500 to 1,600 animals on 100 acres.

The present zoo has 500 animals on site that has only 21 "useable" acres as the rest is low-lying swamp land. He would like to see open moded habitats for the animals, which could easily be viewed by zoo visitors.

He said the 10-year-old zoo has about $900,000 in assets at its location just south of Lake Monroe off U.S. Highway 17-92.

Rozon said the next step for the board would be to hire a professional to conduct a financial feasibility study to determine if the funds are there and the Central Florida community is willing offer financial support. He added that money for the study would not come from zoo operating funds, but would be raised through special fundraising projects.

Even if an agreement is reached between the board and the city of Orlando a move could take several years to complete, Rozon said.

Court Bans Taxes-Paid Instruction In Religious Schools

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The use of tax money to provide public school teachers for special classes at religious schools violates the constitutional separation of church and state, the Supreme Court ruled 5-4 today.

The decision, the latest in a series of high court rulings on the sensitive subject, specifically ends a controversial program in Grand Rapids, Mich., that sends public school teachers into private schools for remedial and enrichment classes.

Writing for the majority, Justice William Brennan said the program overstepped the hazy constitutional line between allowable governmental accommodation of religion and direct financial aid.

"The symbolic union of church and state inherent in the provision of secular, state-provided instruction in the religious school buildings threatens to convey a message of state support for religion to students and to general public," the court said.

In a related ruling, the justices also struck down the use of public funds to provide remedial instruction to disadvantaged youngsters who attend religious schools in New York City.

Although the federally funded Title I program promotes worthy goals, the court said, sending public teachers to private schools raises the specter of governmental involvement with religion.

"The symbolic union of church and state inherent in the provision of secular, state-provided instruction in the religious school buildings threatens to convey a message of state support for religion to students and to general public," the court said.

The twin rulings — one involving local taxes and the other federal money — were a defeat for the Reagan administration, which argued in both cases that outlawing public money in religious schools could hinder the education of students in low income areas.

The court adhered to a precedent set in a 1975 ruling, Meek vs. Pittenger, that aid to public

Hostages High On Freedom

FRANKFURT, West Germany (UPI) — The 39 Americans released by Lebanese Shiite Moslems returned to freedom today in high spirits despite their 17 day-ordeal that began with the hijacking of a TWA airliner.

Col. Charles K. Maffei, head of Lindsay Air Force Hospital in Wiesbaden, said he was astonished how "upbeat" the 39 appeared. The group arrived in Wiesbaden from nearby Frankfurt, where they flew in early today from Damascus, Syria.

"They are very high. I think they are in excellent condition," Maffei said of the former hostages, who chose to undergo preliminary medical tests before resting.

He said their first request was for telephone calls to relatives and friends in the United States, a service provided immediately through a phone room in a special wing of the hospital set aside for them.

Four of the former hostages from Massachusetts also were paid a brief visit by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., who flew in from Geneva for a welcoming ceremony at the U.S. Rhein-Main Air Base near Frankfurt.

Vice President George Bush told the exhausted hostages at a welcoming ceremony in Frankfurt that "America is proud of you."

"Through the days of your ordeal, Americans built a special place in their hearts for you, hoping, praying each day for a safe return. You are back and America did not compromise her principles to get you back," Bush told the hostages before they boarded two buses and rode to the hospital, waving and smiling at the crowd.

In Washington, Secretary of State George Shultz today said Iran "clearly had connections with the people" who hijacked TWA Flight 847 June 14 and that he believed Syrian President Hafez Assad was working to free the seven remaining hostages in Beirut, Lebanon.

Shultz, interviewed on ABC's "Good Morning America," also said U.S. relations with Israel were "stronger than ever" as a result of the crisis, and suggested U.S. relations with Syria had improved.

President Reagan, in a televised White House statement, earlier vowed to fight back against "cowardly attacks," saying "the United States gives terrorists no rewards and no guarantees. We make no deals."

Reagan also said in the six-minute speech that the United

SCA Fights For Survival

Aims To Save Head Start

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Community Action's Board of Directors plans to adopt new by-laws pleasing to the federal government as one part of the move to resurrect the agency at a 7:30 p.m. meeting today at its office, 1101 Pine Ave., Sanford.

The anti-poverty agency has been criticized by federal authorities because seven members of the 21 member board of directors were supposed to be representatives of elected officials in the county and the agency seldom had all seven members in that category.

SCA was declared dead by a federal official nearly two months ago because it had no staff and no programs. But the SCA board has been fighting to defy that declaration by attempting to keep one program — Head Start.

Head Start is a pre-school designed to give underprivileged children a boost in learning experiences before they enter kindergarten and begin competing with other children.

At its June 20 meeting, on advice from Ella J. Gilmore, director of Orange County's community action program and president of the state executive directors' association, the board agreed to modify its Head Start program budget for the 1985-86 year by deleting $32,000 in anticipated revenues from donations from Seminole County and the seven cities here and to cut expenditures a like amount to balance the budget. The county and the cities refused to donate any money to the agency.

By balancing the budget and submitting new documents to the federal government, the agency could become eligible to receive $500,000 in federal money to operate the Head Start program. Mrs. Gilmore assured the group even though it was past the deadline to submit budget requests.

As part of the new by-laws, the executive directorship, held by Rev. Amos Jones since the late 1960s until he stopped going to the SCA office on a daily basis last October, will be eliminated.

With the expected new funding the agency once again will become viable, even if it has only one program.

Jones said today the change in the by-laws will not really mean any change in the operation of the agency because it has had no paid administrative staff for the past 18 months when federal money stopped for its administration.

For the year prior to last October, Jones said he gave of his time, but received no salary.

On May 10 William Sadler, chief of the Head Start division of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Region IV, Atlanta said, "As far as the state of Florida and we are concerned Community Action doesn't exist. It has no programs and no staff." All Community Action had left was its state charter.

Sadler said unless the board of the defunct agency came up with a budget and a plan for the Head Start program by May 31, that program would be shifted to some other group.

Mrs. Gilmore assured the board of directors 10 days ago that even though its amended budget is late, it should still be submitted to the federal government and would likely be approved.

The agency cut proposed expenditures anticipated from the $32,000 the board had hoped to raise from the county and the seven cities here. The fund-raising effort was fruitless.

One of the items reduced was salaries for Head Start teachers by placing them on 11-month rather than 12-month contracts.

The cut is expected to save more than $4,000 in administrative costs. The Head Start staff, including director Portia Spencer, have worked year-round but in the 1985-86 year they will have four weeks off in the summer.

Other budget lines like travel and supplies are to be cut.

Traffic Signals To Be Fixed

Traffic lights at French Avenue and 13th Street, blinking yellow for traffic on French and red for traffic on 13th Street since sometime Friday, were scheduled to be fixed today, according to the Seminole County Maintenance Department spokesman Larry Cross.

The control box that regulates the signals was hit by lightning sometime Friday, Cross said. When a box is hit by lightning, a new control unit must be installed and "it has to be reprogrammed like a computer."

Cross said the Sanford Police are supposed to notify the department when a traffic light is on the blink but the police department did not report it.

Sanford Police Captain Herb Shea said he did not know if his officers reported the faulty traffic light or not. "We don't keep those kind of records," Shea said today.

The Maintenance Department did not find out about the light until informed this morning by the Evening Herald, Cross said.

He said repairs would take about 40 minutes to complete.

On The Road...

Rousing Midwest Swing Revives Team's Spirits

With a new stopwatch and repaired ignition coils, Sanford's road rally team of Gerald Gross and father Don in their 1932 Deluxe Model A "Jenny Steamcleaner," are chugging their way to Detroit today after a rousing midwest swing and stop in Chicago.

While still in the top of the pack of 80 cars competing in the coast to coast vintage car rally, the father and son team did not know their exact standing this weekend.

Sunday was spent in Chicago where the team met with Mayor Harold Washington who gave them a flag of the city. The older Gross is from Chicago and their team name is the Chicago Connection.

According to Party Austin, Gross' secretary at his Sanford architectural firm, the duo and "Jenny" have completed about 2,000 miles of the rally so far and will head for Pittsburgh Tuesday with plans to end up in New York City on the Fourth of July, the end of the race. At that time, the team with the best performance will be announced the winners and collect a $100,000 prize.

The team left St. Louis Friday morning and were forced to make repairs on the road to the car's coil, part of the ignition system providing spark to the engine's plugs. The crew's repair truck does not take the same route as the contestants and meets them only at selected intervals. Ms. Austin said a semi-tractor trailer truck takes the same route as the aging cars picking up entries that can't make

Drinking Age 21

New State Laws Take Effect Today

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A law raising Florida's legal drinking age to 21 took effect at 12:01 a.m. today but state officials and bar owners say it will be hard to notice the change — at least at first.

The law — one of 106 on topics ranging from child care to prisons that are due to take effect today — has prompted at least one state college to announce plans to dry out fraternity rush parties.

A partial ban on booze at frat functions will go into effect at Florida State University this fall, and a full ban will take effect in the spring.

Off campus, however, no one currently able to drink legally will lose that privilege. A grandfather provision will allow persons born on or before June 30, 1966 to qualify at will, even though the official drinking age will be 21. Men and women in the service will even be able to drink at age 18.

Nor will 18- to 20-year old lounge and restaurant employers face layoffs, although fewer might be hired, according to Ken Powell, executive director of the Florida Entertainment and Dining Association.

Enforcement by lounge owners and state beverage agents will also remain pretty much as is, said Powell and E.A. Raby, assistant chief of the Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco. "The only change this will have on us is the date we check on the (identification) card," said Powell.

The biggest change will be in the amount of money the state collects as beverage taxes. State officials predict losses totalling $1.6 million next

No Punks, Please

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Two teenage girls on their way to a birthday party at Disneyland were turned away from the "Magic Kingdom" because officials said their punk hair styles violated the park's dress code.

The girls — one with a teased bouffant and the other with heavy eye makeup and her hair in jet-black spikes went into the bathroom and dampened their hair after they were turned away from the gate, but a guard denied them admission a second time.

"It was as if they enjoyed watching them be humiliated," said the mother of Debbie Gott, the birthday girl.

Earlier this year, Victoria Penley of Riverside and her daughter, Kathryn, were stopped at the gate after buying tickets and told they could not enter because their hair color and style were unacceptable. They filed a lawsuit in Orange County Superior Court, accusing the park of civil rights violations.

Man Who Killed Preacher, Deacon Called 'Sick Man'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A parishioner who opened fire on the pulpit of a Baptist church in Chinatown, killing a minister and a deacon before being shot to death by an off-duty sheriff's deputy, was described as a "sick person" by his former pastor.

About 500 stunned churchgoers watched in horror as Dang Bong Jou, 46, walked up the aisle and began firing a .45-caliber pistol at the podium during services Sunday morning. Deacon Fook-Kong Li, 58, died in the fusillade, and Gregory Owyang, 36, an associate pastor, was seriously wounded in the head and died several hours later at County-USC Medical Center.

Dang, who church officials said was a disturbed Chinatown resident who had stopped attending services about five years ago, was killed during a gunbattle inside the church with Donald Leverage, an off-duty Los Angeles County sheriff's deputy who was attending the services.

Leverage, a 1½ year department veteran, exchanged several shots with the gunman, but no one else inside the First Baptist Worship Center was injured during the gunbattle.

Rev. Herman Tang, a church spokesman, described Dang as a "sick person, out of a job and divorced."

Fires Blacken S. California

By United Press International

At least 70 homes were destroyed in San Diego in the worst of a rash of brushfires that blackened thousands of acres across Southern California on a day of record-setting high temperatures.

Fire Capt. Ron Davis said the San Diego blaze was contained Sunday night, but not before it leveled 70 homes and damaged several others, despite the efforts of 400 firefighters who suffered in the record 96-degree heat.

The initial damage estimate was put at $3.5 million. A dozen firefighters were injured, including two who got holed in their eyes.

The fire broke out Sunday morning in the Normal Heights section in the heart of San Diego and drove up to 1,500 people from their homes.

The biggest of the brushfires was near the posh resort city of Palm Springs, where wind-whipped flames have burned more than 20,000 acres since Thursday. About 400 campers were evacuated from the San Jacinto Mountains as the flames licked to within a mile of the Palm Springs Tramway, which carries tourists to the top of 8,400-foot San Jacinto State Park.

State Workers On Strike

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — About 10,000 unionized state workers went on strike today, but the largest labor group representing public employees in Pennsylvania reached a tentative contract with the administration.

The Pennsylvania Social Services Union and the Pennsylvania Employment Security Employees Association decided to strike at 12:01 a.m., just as the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees was announcing its tentative accord.

The two smaller unions — which bargained separately with the state — were offered the same proposal as the 50,000-member AFSCME, but PSSU President Anna Burger Price said they were not given enough time to review the plan.

AFSCME and the United Food and Commercial Workers, which bargained jointly with the administration, tentatively accepted the three-year agreement with 3 percent increases in each year.

Under the proposal, workers would no longer get primary or general election days off.

Evidence Supports Theory Blast Downed Air-India Jet

LONDON (UPI) — Coroners have found metal fragments in the bodies of some of the 329 people killed in an Air-India jet crash, strengthening suspicion that an explosion caused the disaster, an Indian news agency says.

The Press Trust of India reported from London Sunday that shards of glass also were found embedded in a lavatory door of the jet, which plunged into the Atlantic Ocean off the coast of Ireland June 23.

The discovery of the metal fragments and glass in some of the victims' bodies "strengthens the belief of the investigators that there was an explosion, but they are not sure about the cause of that explosion," the agency said.

The Observer newspaper, however, contradicted that report, saying crash investigators are "moving toward" the theory that the incident might have stemmed from aircraft failure or pilot error.

Examination of the bodies has failed to reveal any burns, shrapnel wounds or pieces of seat burned on to bodies, which would have been the case if there had been an explosion on board, it said.

Now It's Blacks' Turn

HARARE, Zimbabwe (UPI) — Nearly 3 million blacks began voting today in Zimbabwe's first parliamentary elections since the former British colony known as Rhodesia became an independent black-ruled nation five years ago.

A total of 255 candidates representing six parties are vying for 79 of the 80 seats in the 100-member Parliament that are reserved for blacks. Voting for the 80th seat has been delayed by the death of a government minister.

Elections for the 20 other seats — all for whites — took place last week.

Free At Last For Families, Long Wait Ends

United Press International
A crowd of flag-waving Americans erupted into wild jubilation early today as 39 former hostages climbed from a camouflaged military transport plane in West Germany to greet family members after 17 tense days of captivity.

Back in the United States, other relatives cried with joy and relief, popped open champagne and began planning homecoming celebrations.

Several family members urged a better understanding of world politics after Shiite Moslems in Beirut, Lebanon, released the Americans. A few relatives criticized the Reagan administration's handling of the crisis, and some prayed for seven Americans of earlier kidnappings still captive in Lebanon.

When word reached Esther Peel Sunday that her son, Bob Peel Jr., of Hutchinson, Kan., had been freed, she embraced her husband and told him to start chilling the champagne.

"Our prayers have been answered," declared Bob Peel Sr., 58.

The elder Peel was released by the terrorists a few days after the June 14 hijacking of TWA Flight 847.

"I know how they are feeling," Peel Sr. said. "They are very relieved, very happy, very joyed that they are going to be home with their loved ones. They've done one great job, mentally and physically."

Mrs. Peel, 59, and her daughter-in-law, Kristi, 33, also were held briefly by the hijackers.

In Laredo, Texas, the families of Vincente Garza and his son-in-law, Robert Trautmann Jr., uncorked "some good vintage champagne" that had been saved for years, a neighbor said.

"The family is just ecstatic. You can imagine. We are just overjoyed," said Javier Santos, Garza's brother-in-law.

With their loved ones finally free, nearly all of the hostages' families spoke of the past

Seven Still Being Held

As 39 Americans flew to freedom and a rousing welcome in West Germany after more than two weeks in captivity, relatives of seven other Americans abducted in Lebanon over the past 15 months vowed to intervene personally for their release.

President Reagan has promised to continue efforts to free the others.

But the relatives of the seven abducted before the hijacking of TWA Flight 847 grabbed world headlines were apparently not satisfied and urged Americans not to forget the hostages left behind.

Peggy Say, sister of Associated Press Beirut bureau chief Terry Anderson, 37, kidnapped March 16, said, "My direction right now is to get myself to Syria and to work from there to try to bring Terry home and the others. Hopefully, President (Hafez) Assad will see me."

Assad was reported to have used his influence with the Shiite Moslem Amal militia to gain the release of the 39 hostages.

Say said Jeremy Levin, former Cable News Network bureau chief in Beirut who escaped from his kidnappers this year, and John Weir, the son of a minister kidnapped last year, might accompany her to Damascus.

Andrew Mihelich of Joliet, Ill., nephew of the Rev. Martin Lawrence Jenco, 50, director of Catholic Relief Services in Lebanon, kidnapped Jan. 8 by gunmen in Beirut, said he too might take matters into his own hands.

Mihelich declined to elaborate, but said the initiatives "could include the Rev. Jesse Jackson, who we met with" Sunday at Mt. Zion Baptist Church in Joliet, Ill.

17 agonizing days — clinging to every shred of what might appear to be hopeful news, only to have the hours drag on.

The Question Now Is: Will U.S. Retaliate?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials are sending mixed signals on possible retaliation against the hijackers of TWA flight 847 and the captors of the plane's passengers and crew in Lebanon.

"Terrorists, be on notice: We will fight back against you, in Lebanon and elsewhere," President Reagan vowed Sunday as the remaining 39 American hostages flew out of Damascus, Syria, to Frankfurt, West Germany, on their journey home.

Secretary of State George Shultz and a senior administration official, speaking separately as the 17-day ordeal came to a close, seemed to indicate measured responses and broad steps to stop future incidents.

"Vengeance is a kind of visceral feeling that people get, naturally. We all do," said Shultz, but, "We really need to think about imposing costs and looking to the future and preventing."

He spoke of an international boycott of Lebanon's little-used Beirut International Airport, legal procedures to bring to justice the hijackers who killed a Navy diver aboard the jet and preventive measures.

"Vengeance is not a satisfactory basis for policy," said the senior official, who requested anonymity. "I would put the emphasis less on retaliation and more upon the purposeful use of all U.S. resources, including force, in a consistent way to deal with the global problem."

But national security adviser Robert McFarlane later appeared to indicate possible U.S. attacks on "strategic locations in the Middle East."

McFarlane was asked in a television interview whether it was necessary to "surgically retaliate" against the hijackers or their faction "to maintain U.S. credibility."

"Well, I think that's true," McFarlane told Independent Network News.

"I think the focus of it, the purpose of it, has to be not to conduct a random act of vengeance but instead to focus our power on dealing with the root sources of terrorism, where people are trained, where they are housed, fed, sustained over time," he said. "And there are strategic locations in the Middle East in particular where that is the case."

The senior official said, however, the radical Hezbollah faction, which he said hijacked the TWA jetliner, is "not vulnerable" to violent reprisals because its members live in urban areas.

Release of the Americans was held up for 24 hours Saturday when Nabih Berri, the moderate

"We had so many highs and lows," said James Hoskins Sr. of Indianapolis, father of hostage James Hoskins Jr., 22. "It was very, very scary. The roller coaster feeling is something you can't describe to anyone who hasn't gone through it."

"It was like a roller coaster or a see-saw," said Charlene Strickland of Winston-Salem, N.C., mother-in-law of former captive Kurt Carlson of Rockford, Ill. "One day you thought they had everything worked out, next day you were depressed and thinking it may linger on for a while. The anxiety built up and then there was a letdown."

Frances Anderson of Vashon Island, Wash., said her family was "thrilled to death" to learn her brother-in-law, Kenneth Anderson, was on his way home.

"We have just lived through this moment for the last two weeks," she said. "The worst part was we didn't know. You sit and you wait and the days are 400 hours long."

Not all families were in agreement over President Reagan's handling of the crisis.

Ruth Maresca of Baldwin, N.Y., whose son, Phillip, co-piloted the hijacked jet, said Reagan's "words of retaliation" should "not have been made." The family was "upset" by his "ill-advised" remarks, she said.

"Speaking for my son and myself, we knew little about them (the Shiites) and possibly they do have legitimate grievances," she said. "I'm sure in the future I'll be much more aware of events in the area."

But Mike Conwell, brother of hostage spokesman Allyn Conwell of Houston, praised the United States' refusal to give in to the terrorists' demands.

"I've got a real faith in America and its system and its government. It worked extremely well," he said.

Conwell said the experience changed his perception of world events.

"It would change anybody's feelings," he said. "When it's somebody that you know or are close to, the words human life take on a different significance than when it's just a face on a TV tube."

Shiite leader who took control of most of the hostages from Hezbollah, demanded a U.S. statement forswearing reprisals.

The State Department, following Syrian suggestions aimed at untangling a last-minute snarl, issued a statement Saturday night that merely reaffirmed U.S. support for Lebanon's government, stability and security.

But the statement did not even address retaliation and officials said no assurances or guarantees were given to secure release of the Americans.

Reagan, in the wake of the Iran hostage crisis, vowed "swift and effective retribution" against terrorism during his presidency. But to date, that has not happened.

Friday, Reagan said, "Terrorists, and those who support them, must, and will be held to account."

Bombers Target Airlines; 1 Killed

MADRID (UPI) — A bomb ripped through the downtown offices of British Airways today, killing one person and injuring 16, including one American. Two gunmen also fired into the Jordanian airline offices.

The gunmen were arrested and police deactivated a second bomb in the Jordanian airlines offices.

In Athens, Greece, a car packed with explosives destroyed four vehicles including three with license plates identifying them as belonging to U.S. military personnel, police said. Nobody was injured.

Minutes after the Madrid bombing in a building also housing the offices of Trans World Airlines, two unidentified gunmen fired into the windows of the nearby offices of the Jordanian airlines. Alas, and tried to flee through the crowded streets. They were captured by police.

The attack came just a day after 39 American hostages, seized aboard a hijacked TWA jetliner 17 days ago, were freed by Shiite Moslem militiamen in Beirut.

The release of two Lebanese Shiites held in Spanish jails was among the initial demands of the TWA hijackers. A Spanish court last Tuesday sentenced the two to prison terms of 23 years each for the attempted assassination of a Libyan diplomat Sept. 12.

The Madrid bomb injured 16 people, including an American who was not immediately identified. The officials said none of the 16 injured, who included an American teenager, were in serious condition.

The first bomb exploded shortly after noon in the building on Avenida Gran Via. Police first reported the blast destroyed the TWA offices several floors up in the building, which has a large TWA sign prominently displayed above the British Airways offices.

But authorities later said the explosion destroyed only the ground-floor British Airways office and burned a shoe shop next door.

Rafael Rodriguez, who was minding his souvenir shop in front of the airline buildings, said he heard a "dry, deafening explosion" and ran into the street.

"The windows of the shop and the ground were still shaking," he said. "I saw a woman on the ground with her leg mangled. A taxi driver ran down the street, holding his eye, blood running down his face," he said.

Teen Shot By 'Vigilante' Charged With Raping Woman

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of four teenagers shot by Bernhard Goetz has been charged with raping and robbing a woman, but an attorney for the subway gunman said the arrest came as no surprise to his celebrated client.

James Ramseur, 19, was charged with rape, robbery, sodomy, assault and criminal possession of a deadly weapon in the May 5 attack, authorities said.

"Mr. Goetz is not surprised by the fact that one of those who accosted him in the subway and put him in fear of his life has been alleged to have brutalized yet another," said attorney Barry Slotnick.

Slotnick called it "an indication of a continued failure in the criminal justice system."

Bronx District Attorney Mario Merola charged that Ramseur followed the 20-year-old victim into an elevator in an apartment complex, forced her to a roof landing, then raped her and made off with a set of earrings and three rings worth $150.

Gun Probe Leads To Drug Charges

It all started out as an investigation into a stolen gun. But a 22-year-old Winter Springs man wound up being charged with drug violations and also may face a charge of dealing in stolen property.

Casselberry police questioned the suspect at his Winter Springs home at about 8:20 p.m. Saturday and spotted a vial containing cocaine sticking out of the man's pants pocket.

After the man's arrest on the possession of cocaine charge he went into his home to call a babysitter, according to a police report. At that time police looked out a window of the house and spotted a marijuana plant growing in the yard, the report said.

A possession of marijuana charge was added.

Police were questioning the man in connection with the Saturday sale of a gun to Crossroads Gunsmithing Co., U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry. Gun shop workers checked the serial number of the gun and determined it had been stolen from the shop in November, a police report said.

The suspect was scheduled to talk to Casselberry police today about the gun and police say he likely will be charged with dealing in stolen property.

Troy Lee Donahue, of 426 David St., was released on $5,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court on the drug charges on July 15.

STICK WIELDED

A 29-year-old Sumnerfield man who allegedly tried to hit an Altamonte Springs apartment manager with a stick and struggled with him when the manager tried to break up a fight between the man and his brother has been charged with aggravated battery.

Although the suspect was allegedly hitting his brother with the stick when the manager stepped into the fight at apartment #1222, 100 E. Altamonte Drive, the brother refused to press charges against the suspect. But the suspect was charged in the alleged attack on the manager, an Altamonte Springs police report said.

Police who were called to the scene at about 1:20 a.m. Saturday reported finding a bloody stick at the scene.

The man arrested alleged to police the manager pulled a gun on him before he reportedly defended himself with the stick. The manager reportedly admitted to police he showed the suspect a handgun he carries, but he denied pointing it at the suspect, the report said. No gun related charges have been filed against the manager who was not completely identified in the report.

The suspect was treated at Florida Hospital Altamonte Springs for facial injuries apparently received in the fight with his brother before being booked into jail, the report said.

Gary Allen Hicks, 29, was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

BOGUS CHECK

Seminole County sheriff's deputies report the arrest of a man who allegedly used a woman as a go-between to cash a stolen and forged check.

The man has been charged with forgery, uttering a forgery and grand theft, but the woman who told deputies she thought she was doing the man a favor by cashing the $325 check which she thought was his paycheck, has not been charged, a sheriff's report said.

Ann Perry Lewis told deputies she put her name on the payee line and endorsed and cashed the check at Barnett Bank. The suspect had already allegedly put the date, the amount and the forged signature of the check's owner on the check, the report said.

Mark Cagle the former roommate and employer of the suspect had reported to deputies the check had been stolen from him and cashed on April 25, the report said.

Ms. Lewis reportedly told deputies the suspect gave her $10 after she cashed the check. He had, she said, claimed he couldn't cash it himself because he didn't have proper identification, the report said.

George Earl Ladue, 22, of #21 Eastbrook Apartments, Winter Park, was arrested in the parking lot at his home at 3:15 p.m. Friday. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

A thief took $2,000 worth of jewelry and $38 cash from the home of Paul Matz, 43, of 2038 Judith Place, Longwood, on Friday, according to a sheriff's report.

A video recorder, stereo gear, cash and other items with a total value of about $2,500 were stolen from the home of Linda E. Depuy, 36, 1700 Pineway, Sanford, on Thursday or Friday, deputies reported.

Two weedcutters worth $300 each and a $15 torch tip were stolen from a shed at a golf course at 2662 Sable Club Way, Longwood, on Wednesday or Thursday according to a report supervisor Loraine Callahan, 56, of 621 San Sebastian Court, Altamonte Springs, filed with deputies.

SEEDS LEAD TO ARREST

A routine driver's license check lead to the arrest of an Apopka man for possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana and drug paraphernalia after the a Seminole County sheriff's deputy reported spotting pot seeds on the floor of the man's vehicle.

The man reportedly gave the deputy permission to search the vehicle and additional contraband was found, a sheriff's report said.

Kevin James Finken, 19, of 3000 S. Clarcona Road, was arrested at 6:37 p.m. Friday at Sunlondo Park in Altamonte Springs. He has been released on bond.

BREAK-IN CHARGE

An 18-year-old Longwood man accused of breaking a window and entering a Longwood car wash was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Sheriff's deputies alleged that on June 12 the suspect illegally entered the Rainbow Carwash, on state Road 434 at U.S. Highway 17-92.

John Scott Blankenship of 1405 Parrot Way, was arrested on county Road 427 in Longwood, at 8:45 a.m. Friday.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Louis Roy Mixon, 61, of 1675 Sunset Drive, Longwood, was arrested at 2:45 a.m. Saturday after his car was seen weaving on U.S. Highway 17-92, south of Sanford.

—Benigno Ramirez, 44, of 140 Lake Destiny Trail, Altamonte Springs, at 2:19 a.m. Saturday at Hunt Club Boulevard at state Road 436 in west Seminole County, after he was found sitting in his car parked in the roadway. The female sheriff's deputy who arrested him reported he said, "Hello, sir, I'm just here watching my stereo."

Reagan Still Confounds Critics

Several weeks ago, President Reagan's critics had all but written off his second term because of the Bitburg cemetery controversy, budget setbacks and the defeat of his Contra aid bill in Congress. But the "lame-duck" Reagan is flying high now, thanks in large part to the turnaround by the House on U.D. aid to Nicaraguan freedom fighters, as well as the president's decision to uphold the flawed SALT treaty.

This is good news for the millions of Americans who voted for four more years of Reagan leadership.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. has whined that congressmen switched to approve $27 million in "non-military" assistance to the anti-Sandinista rebels because they were "afraid" of Mr. Reagan. That may be so, but many, wisely, probably also did not want to be subjected to "soft-on-communism" charges in the 1986 elections. Others, no doubt, felt betrayed — by both Sandinista strongman Daniel Ortega, who immediately went to Moscow after the last Contra vote, as well as by the House leadership, which killed the last Contra aid bill after a majority of members indicated support for non-military assistance in some form.

Then, there is President Reagan's ability to compromise, which has been a hallmark of his political career, much to the chagrin of both Democrats like O'Neill and conservative ideologues. By compromising on "non-military" Contra aid when he originally sought overt military assistance, the president came out with a victory. In upholding a SALT treaty that he never has liked, the president put the onus for serious arms proposals back on Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev while also leaving himself some wiggle-out room if the Soviets don't behave.

With so many problems looming, Mr. Reagan can't, and isn't, resting on his laurels. He must contend with whatever Congress decides to do with the deficit-reduction package (the House and Senate currently are stalled), continue to barnstorm for tax reform, prod potential Mideast peace negotiators and, of course, deal with the Ortega government.

Since Congress has targeted $27 million for the Contras next year, the rebels will continue fighting. But it isn't likely that they can overthrow a Sandinista government bolstered by thousands of Soviet-bloc advisors. The rebels can make life difficult for Mr. Ortega by fueling popular discontent, and that might make Mr. Ortega less eager to make trouble for his neighbors and more inclined to a negotiated settlement.

The president could enhance those prospects with some quiet diplomacy aimed at Managua. Given Daniel Ortega's fondness for Moscow and Marxism, any expulsion of Cuban garrisons may be too much to expect. A peaceful settlement, moreover, would confound those left-of-center Democrats who keep predicting that the next step after aid to the Contras is a U.S. invasion. Then again, President Reagan has made a career out of confounding his critics.

Repetitive Smoking Studies Waste Funds

WASHINGTON — In the last 10 years, the National Institutes of Health and the National Institute of Drug Abuse have spent tens of millions of dollars on anti-smoking studies. Yet although just a few miles separate these institutes, the hand that signs the research checks at one agency doesn't always know what the hand signing checks at the other is doing.

"There are areas of overlap that are of concern to many of us," admits a National Institute of Drug Abuse (NIDA) smoking-research official.

After weeks of digging into National Institutes of Health (NIH) and NIDA smoking-cessation research grants, we have discovered numerous examples of wasteful overlap and duplication.

For instance, after examining smoking-research grants from NIDA and the National Cancer Institute (NCI), we found there was no significant difference in the research objectives of two million-dollar-plus grants going to one

University of Southern California researcher.

In one case, this researcher is receiving a $2.1 million, five-year grant from NIDA to "test the effectiveness of different approaches to implementing a comprehensive smoking prevention-cessation program designed to reduce the number of children who will become cigarette smokers."

In another grant, issued under NCI's $64 million stop-smoking program, this same researcher is getting $189,100 in the first year of a five-year project to test virtually the same thing.

Elsewhere, a five-year NIDA grant of $2.4 million was awarded to a UCLA researcher to study ways to prevent cigarette, alcohol and marijuana use by adolescents. Simultaneously, NCI awarded the same researcher $757,749 in the first year of a five-year project to study the same age group, with almost identical research objectives.

Says Dr. Joe Cullen, associate director of NCI's Research Resources Program: "I'd be less than honest if I told you everything was neatly organized and everyone knew what everyone is doing."

Furthermore, the surgeon general says that 95 percent of smokers who quit do so on their own, without the help of smoking-cessation programs. Even those who want help in quitting don't have to look much further than their local Yellow Pages to find dozens of excellent stop-smoking programs.

The millions of dollars that NIH keeps pouring into smoking-behavior studies are basically "just plowing up ground that's already been tilled," says a top Senate investigator. Even Catherine Bell, grants manager in NIDA's smoking prevention division, confesses, "Basically, the approaches (to get people to quit) haven't changed that much since 1980."

Busy Pentagon Door

The public is losing yet another servant to the revolving door.

Michael Burch, assistant secretary for public affairs, is leaving the Defense Department to take an executive position with McDonnell Douglas Corp.

The "revolving door" is the apt Washington term for the much-traveled route from a good job in the Pentagon to an even better one in the private sector of the defense establishment. It has been turning at least since Dwight Eisenhower tried to warn us about the consequences of a developing military-industrial complex, but the traffic has been especially heavy of late. As of 1984 by a congressional count, some 2,100 recent Defense Department employees were at work in private firms holding large military contracts, a 63 percent increase in such employment since 1979.

A not necessarily typical but noteworthy example is George Sawyer. As assistant secretary of the Navy for shipbuilding and logistics, he was involved with, among other projects, the Trident ballistic missile submarine. The contractor for the Trident, the nation's most costly weapon and one of the most troubled by cost overruns, is General Dynamics Corp.

In June 1983, Sawyer left the Pentagon to become executive vice president of General Dynamics. His rapid spin through the door has since aroused grand jury interest.

There is nothing unusual about trading in public experience for fatter private paychecks. It happens all the time throughout the government. It's done even at the Cabinet level — especially at the Cabinet level.

But there are reasons for more than usual concern when it comes to the defense establishment. So much money is involved and the relationship between those who act for the government and those who supply it with weapons is so specialized that the possibilities for abuse are greatly magnified.

A Pentagon official, for example, may be inclined to favor a major contractor who is also a prospective employer. Or, having taken the job, he may use insider's knowledge and contacts to the improper advantage of his new employer in Pentagon dealings.

Laws now on the books attempt to police the process by restricting former government officials in the business they can do with their former government offices. Pending proposals would require that an official wait up to five years after leaving the government before signing on with a company with which he had dealt while a public servant.

What makes Michael Burch's job change of special note is that, as the Pentagon's chief spokesman, he has been publicly critical in recent months of major defense contractors.

Soviets Have Scrapped '72 ABM Accord

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — A major intelligence breakthrough has enabled U.S. analysts to determine that the Soviets are constructing a massive anti-ballistic-missile system. Such a system would completely upset the delicate balance of nuclear terror that has existed for decades between the two superpowers.

The new intelligence revelations make it ominously clear that, for the Soviets, the 1972 ABM treaty is dead. They've spent too much time and money on construction of the secret ABM network to pull back for the sake of a treaty they have already violated.

The U.S.-Soviet restrictions on weapons that can shoot down incoming missiles were designed to maintain "mutual assured destruction" as a deterrent against either side attempting a nuclear first

Twists In Hutton Case

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Despite E.F. Hutton executives' repeated statements to the contrary, the company's check-kiting scheme was centrally planned and Hutton officials knew about it, say investigators. This new information has come from both federal grand jury witnesses and documents uncovered by a House subcommittee.

On May 2, Hutton pleaded guilty to 2,000 counts of mail and wire fraud and promised to pay the government $2 million in fines and $750,000 in federal legal fees. In return for the plea, the Justice Department agreed not to prosecute any of Hutton's top corporate officers.

Hutton claims that the overdraft scheme was limited to a relatively few offices and managers, was unknown to top management and abused a legitimate cash-management system. When top managers became aware of the situation in 1982, says Hutton, they moved quickly to end it.

However, these claims are contradicted by information and documents that have surfaced.

Hutton claims that of its 300 branch offices, only about 20 "may at some point in the 1980-82 period have engaged in excessive drawdown activity." But in the course of three years, more than 300 Hutton employees, bankers and cash management experts were called before a federal grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa. Sources involved in the federal investigation say the jury saw evidence that the scheme involved at least 110 Hutton branches and accounts at more than 400 banks.

Federal investigators have said that once Hutton agreed to plead guilty, it wasn't necessary to seek indictments against all of the branches involved. "It would have been total overkill and would have taken us several years longer," said one federal source, "so we just used a kind of sample."

In addition to paying the $2.75 million in fines and costs, Hutton is required to set up a fund to repay the interest income that it cheated the banks out of several weeks ago, at its annual meeting. Hutton announced that it was setting up an $8 million fund for this — but investigators believe that the banks' claims, which are still being determined, may total many times this.

Documents that Hutton recently filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission indicate that the average long-term overdraft totaled $300 million to $400 million a day — far higher than the company admitted earlier. Some investigators believe that Hutton eventually will have to pay up to $40 million to $50 million in reimbursements.

Robert M. Fomon, Hutton's chairman and chief executive officer, told a House judiciary subcommittee that the overdraft operation evolved into "clearly improper banking activities." Hutton was at fault, he said, because "we did not have sufficient controls... because no one ever dreamed the employees would abuse a drawdown system that was perfectly legal."

That's a key Hutton claim: that the system was basically legal and that, as Fomon said, problems arose only when individual office managers, under "tremendous performance competition... pushed to excess" to earn bonuses.

Hutton says it often deposits funds into its many bank accounts through wire transfers and other means that require no time to clear. However, banks often deny Hutton access to this money for 24 hours, thus getting free use of the company's money for that period.

To even things out, Hutton devised the overdraft scheme.

Once Only Eyeliner

By Lidia Wasowicz
UPI Science Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Rather than having to put on their eyeliner every morning, some women are opting for a one-time visit to the surgeon's office.

Since last fall, more than 7,000 women — and a handful of men — have undergone a microsurgical procedure that brings the age-old art of tattooing into the age of high technology.

By injecting dots of pigment between each lash with a sophisticated needle that penetrates no more than 1 millimeter of eyelid tissue, the microsurgeon creates the effect of a permanent eye liner.

Although some who undergo the half-hour $800 to $1,200 procedure may suffer temporary swelling, tenderness or bruising around the eyes, there have been no reports of any serious, adverse side effects.

The main concern, doctors caution, is that patients be certain they want to be endowed with the Bette Davis eyes permanently since the tattooed eye liner is very difficult, if not impossible, to remove.

Critics point to the permanence of the procedure as a drawback, noting the fickleness of fashion trends. But Dr. Robert Fenzl, a noted Southern California ophthalmic surgeon who co-developed the technique, called Accents, disagrees.

"Fashions may change and lipsticks can be thrown away, but the Accents eye liner is forever," he said.

Dr. Sanford Severin, one of 1,200 ophthalmologists, dermatologists and plastic surgeons trained in the procedure by Fenzl, said he has received "extremely positive reaction" from permanent eye liner recipients at his clinic in Albany, east of San Francisco.

"Women are delighted they never have to bother with smeared, smudged eye liner again," said Severin, an ophthalmologist.

One of his patients, Rose Petty, said, "This procedure is a blessing for women like me who wear contact lenses or have sensitive eyes that make it very difficult to apply makeup."

Fenzl, 35, whose work in eye surgery has attracted international attention, said the technique can benefit women executives who have little time for makeup, athletes, myopic women weary of standing nose-to-mirror, accident or burn victims who have lost eyelashes and seniors with arthritic or shaking hands.

"Older women have a very, very difficult time putting on their makeup at a time when looking good is very important to them," said Fenzl, director of the Orange County Eye Bank.

Fenzl devoted 18 months to research and development before the technique was introduced last September.

variably argued that Soviet strategic weapons were strictly defensive, designed to launch a retaliatory blow at U.S. population centers after an American first strike.

But all that changed in 1980, the source explained, when all the agencies agreed that the Soviets were in fact building an offensive strategic force, which could take out most U.S. missile systems in a pre-emptive attack.

The National Intelligence Estimates don't hazard a guess as to exactly when the Soviets will have an effective ABM network in place. But they do disclose that one new Soviet system, ABM-3, has actually been tested — successfully.

Additionally, the Soviet SA-12 surface-to-air missile has been tested successfully as an ABM. The Soviets will soon be able to produce hundreds of these mobile SA-12s.

Juniors' Goal: Push Dream 1 Rung Higher

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Last year a dream materialized for the Altamonte Springs National League Major all-stars. They played in the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa. before a world-wide television audience.

They finished as the second-best team in the world, losing the championship game to Seoul, South Korea, the Far East representative.

This year, seven of those young men, fortified by seven more from last year's American League, have joined forces to try and take that dream one step further. They would like to win the Junior (13-year-old) League World Series in Taylor, Mich.

Whereas, the World Series is a just a dream to many teams when they open the all-star competition, it's more than a dream for these 14 young men. Seven of them have been there and know what it takes. Seven more would like to feel the exhilaration of that moment.

The Altamonte Springs Junior League all-stars would like to be in Taylor on Aug. 12. Manager Kelly Wainscott and coach Jerrey Thurston say they have the talent to be there.

"On paper, it looks great," said Wainscott, whose Expos won the Altamonte Junior League and Top Team Tournament. "But we've still got to put it together. We've got to get everybody playing together as a team and keep the guys that aren't playing happy."

Thurston, who guided last year's 12-year-olds to the runner-up finish, agrees but says last year's laurels are just that — last year's. "You really can't talk about last year," he said Sunday night. "We have to start over from scratch. We have to get these kids unified. They know what they can do individually but they don't know what they can do as a team."

The Juniors open the District 14 Division 2 All-Star Tournament Friday against Deltona at Deltona. They will find out in a hurry if they have meshed as a team Friday means a game Saturday. Another win puts them in the winners' bracket final on Sunday.

Although Wainscott and Thurston have not mentioned Taylor, Mich. as a motivational tool, Thurston said it's on the players' minds. "Subconsciously, I think it's there," he said. "It's too early for Kelly and I to talk about it. We want to take it one day at a time but it's tough not to think about the ultimate goal."

Tough because the foundation to attain that goal has already been formed. "We have a lot of gamers," Wainscott said. "Half of these kids have been there (the World Series) and the other half wants to go very badly."

"If we can get it together there's no reason we can't."

The Juniors have 14 ways to make the Aug. 12 date in Taylor, Mich. a reality. Chris Radcliff, Aaron Iatarola, Jason Varitek, Jerrey Thurston Jr., Danny Albert, Jamey Wallace and Greg James return from last year's team. They are joined by Curt Prom, Kent Brubaker, Danny Hendricks, Jimmy Hovis, Kevin Wainscott, Chance Wistrom and Ricky Sheiman.

Savages Flex Muscles But Settle In 4th Place

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

For four straight games Saturday the Seminole Savages played like world beaters. The Seminole Softball Club's 15 and under all-star team won all four by the 15-run (slaughter) rule.

Unfortunately, the Savages sandwiched those four games in between two losses to the West Orange Bandits as Seminole wound up fourth in the 16-team Conway Tournament.

"We did well but one team killed us," Savages manager Don Jonas said. "We went four games when we beat everybody by the 15-run rule but errors in the last game killed us."

The Savages return to action Friday in the Satellite Beach Mets Tournament which runs through Sunday and includes some of the best teams from throughout the state. In two weeks, the Savages compete in the Metro Tournament with the top two teams qualifying for the regionals.

"All we have to do now is put it together and peak at the right time," Jonas said. "And that's the Metro."

The Conway Tournament marked the debut of four new players who went up to the Savages after playing for the Seminole Eagles, the club's "B" team of 13 and 14 year olds. The new players include Katrina Shuler, Corrie Lawson, Jodie Switzer and Tammy Jenerette.

In their opener Saturday, the Savages dropped a 4-3 decision to the Bandits. Seminole had taken a 3-0 lead and held it for five innings but West Orange scored four times in the bottom of the sixth as it capitalized on three Seminole errors.

The Savages had a shot in the top of the seventh when Caroline Chavis and Bridget Jenerette led off with consecutive singles. Switzer then tried to advance the runners with a grounder to the right side but it hit Jenerette for the first out. Heather Meyer was the next hitter and she ripped a line drive but it was caught by the pitcher for the second out. Shuler then went down for the final out.

Chavis was the leading hitter for the game with a 3 for 3 performance and Lawson was 2 for 3 and scored twice.

Seminole started its string of slaughters in game two as it destroyed the West Orlando Raiders, 19-2. Six players had two hits for the Savages including Lawson, Sharon Bonaventure, Didi Gibbs, Shuler, who slugged a homer, Switzer and Val Smith. Switzer was also the winning pitcher.

Softball

The Savages next opponent was the Renegades, a team of Seminole County players put together by manager Mike Averill. The Savages crushed the Renegades, 16-1 with Niki Burke tossing a seven-hitter. Bonaventure led the hit parade with a 4 for 4 performance which included two doubles. Shuler was 3 for 4 with a double. Switzer and Lawson had two hits each and Lomelia Whitaker added a double.

The Savages continued their torrid offensive attack in game four as they shredded Rockledge Rock-Co, 26-8.

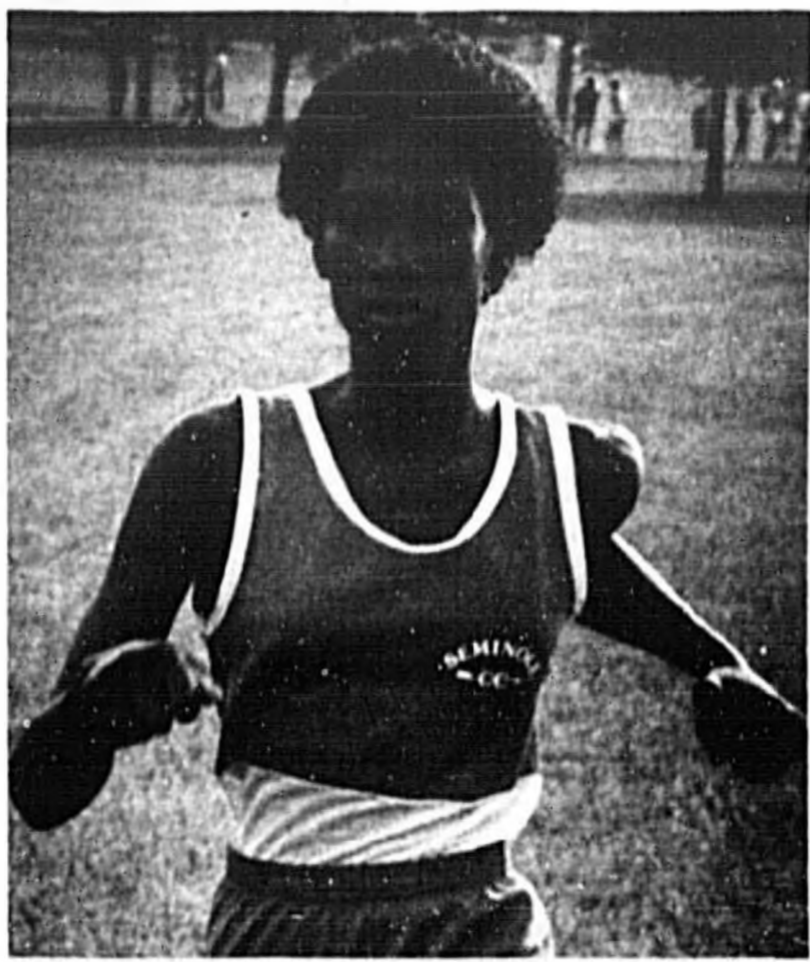

Bonaventure had another productive game at the plate as she went 4 for 5 with a pair of homers, a two-run shot and a three-run later. Aretha Riggins and Shuler also drilled homers. Meyer and Lawson contributed three hits each while Tammy Jenerette, Bridget Jenerette and Chavis had two hits each.

In game five, the Savages went up against the Eagles, who were down to 11 players after losing pitcher Dawn Gebhart to injury. The Eagles were no match for the Savages who won easily, 15-0.

Burke was the winning pitcher as she gave up five hits. Shuler was 3 for 4 with a pair of doubles and Tammy Jenerette also doubled. The Savages scored 10 runs on nine hits in the second inning and played an errorless game.

Seminole continued its hitting streak into the sixth game as they took a 5-0 lead in the top of the first. But that's when the defense broke down as eight errors later, the Bandits had claimed a 17-8 victory and eliminated the Savages.

Leading hitters for the tournament included Shuler who was 11-18 for a .611 average, Bridget Jenerette (.7-12, .583), Bonaventure (.12-21, .571) and Chavis (.8-14, .571).

6 Seminoles Qualify For TAC's Nationals

WINTER PARK — Six Seminole High track athletes have qualified for the TAC National Age Group Championships this weekend in New York City by coming in either first or second at the Regional Meet this past Saturday at Showalter Field.

Although rain off and on all day made it difficult for the athletes, they managed to hold their own against competition from throughout the state (except the Panhandle).

In the Intermediate age division (15-16 year olds), Shownda Martin and Dorchelle Webster both qualified in the 800 meters. Martin, who missed qualifying for the Junior National team last weekend when she was tripped, took first place with a time of 2:15 while Webster was second at 2:20.

Both Martin and Webster, who will be sophomores at Seminole in 1985-86, also qualified for another National meet which will be held July 23-28 at Seattle.

In the Senior Division (17-18), four performers off the 4A State Champion Seminole High boys team qualified for the age group meet.

Alvin Jones took first in the long jump at 21-0 and second in the triple jump at 46-3. Louis Brown qualified in the 220 with a first place time of 22.6. Pat Davis qualified in the 100 meters (first at 9.8) and 220 (second at 23.1) and Earic Martin took first in the 400 meters at 49.4.

The Seminole athletes will leave for New York Thursday where competition will begin Friday and end Saturday. The athletes will tour New York City Sunday and return to Sanford Tuesday.

Eagles Shock West Orange

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Although four of their top players moved up to the 15 and under Savages, the Seminole Eagles, Seminole Softball Club's all-star team of 13 and 14 year olds, showed they still have plenty of talent and determination as they won two straight before losing two and bowing out of the Conway Tournament.

One of those victories included an 8-4 triumph over the West Orange Bandits, the team that beat the Savages twice.

"I was real proud of the girls and the way they hung in," Eagles manager Lenny Hollis said. "West Orange was a big victory. A lot of people were shocked to see us beat them."

The Eagles will take the next two weeks off as far as competition goes as they prepare for the Metro Tournament. The Eagles will practice this week and then try to get in some practice games the following week.

"Our goal now is to stay competitive and do the best we can in the Metro," Hollis said. "It would be awful hard to match last year's B team (regional qualifiers). Especially after those four players went to the Savages."

The Eagles, who finished sixth at Conway this past weekend, opened the tournament Saturday with a 16-3 rout of the West Orange Gremlins.

Robin Whitehead and Leticia Strickland had three hits each to lead the offense while Julie Barton was 2 for 3 with a home run. Dawn Gebhart was the winning pitcher as she tossed a two-hitter.

The Eagles came back in game two to upset the Bandits 6-4. The Eagles scored four runs in the first, one in the third and sealed the win with three in the sixth.

Strickland provided much of the offensive punch as she drilled a double to drive in the first run, added a solo homer in the third and smashed another homer in the sixth. Leslie Barton also homered in the sixth.

Gebhart picked up the win again but it was during the game against the Bandits that the Eagles lost their number one pitcher when Gebhart broke her hand on a line drive back to the mound. Hollis said they didn't know it was broken until after the next game.

Softball

In game three, the Eagles managed only four hits as they dropped an 11-1 decision to the Orlando Lil' Sluggers. Strickland had two of the hits and Leslie Barton accounted for the only run with a home run in the fifth.

Gebhart pitched the whole game and it was after the game that Hollis noticed her hand swelling and sent her to the hospital. Hollis said Gebhart will probably miss the Metro Tournament. "The timing was terrible for Dawn to get hurt," he said.

"We were down to 11 ballplayers and just ran out of steam," Hollis said. "But the girls were still competitive."

Strickland led the way for the Eagles in the tournament with a .750 average (.9-12) and Anna Hollis was 5-11 for a .455 average.

HAWKS EXIT EARLY

After winning 3 of 4 tournaments the Seminole Hawks, the club's 12 and under team, had an off day Saturday as they lost 2 of 3 in the Conway Tournament.

"We had a bad weekend," Hawks manager Larry Riese said. "We just didn't play our good defensive ball the way we have been playing. We depend on our defense since we're not a slugging team and, when we don't play it, we get in trouble."

The Hawks opened up with a 10-1 victory over Osceola. Christine Riese did an excellent job on the mound while Missy Martinez drove in five of the 10 runs.

In game two, Seminole dropped a 6-2 decision to Semoran in which Semoran scored all six of its runs in the first inning.

The Hawks have this week off before returning to action July 13 at the West Orlando Tournament.

Boddicker Hangs 3rd 0 On Sox

United Press International
This past week would have been a good time for the scoreboard operator at Fenway Park to take a vacation. Boston was shut out three times in its six-game home stand against Detroit and Baltimore — the latest coming Sunday at the hands of Mike Boddicker, who flipped an eight-hitter in leading the Orioles to a 3-0 victory. All three shutouts were by the same score.

"It was a helluva of an effort," Orioles manager Earl Weaver said of Boddicker. "A shutout on a Sunday afternoon in Fenway Park with the wind blowing out is something."

The Red Sox, who possess one of the more potent lineups in the majors, were shut out seven times last season and have already equalled that mark this year.

"You go through stretches like this," Boston third baseman Wade Boggs said. "But it's not that we're not hitting the ball. We ran into a tough pitcher today and the other two shutouts (against the Tigers) were in the rain."

The Red Sox, who have lost eight of their last 12, got only one man to third base against Boddicker, 8-7. The right-hander stranded eight runners over the first five innings in pitching his first shutout of the season.

"I don't think it's any real slump," Boston second baseman Marty Barrett said. "We're getting nine or 10 hits a game, but we're just not getting the key hit. It really doesn't matter whether you lose 9-8 or 3-0. We're just not playing well now and that's what we have to deal with."

Bob Ojeda, 4-3, allowed three runs on five hits in the first two innings before settling down and yielding just five singles the rest of the way.

Twins 4, White Sox 3
At Chicago, Roy Smalley's two-run double in the seventh inning gave Minnesota a sweep of their three-game series. The loss was the ninth in the last 10 games for the Chicago, including seven in a row at home. John Butcher, 5-7, broke a personal five-game losing streak.

Blue Jays 8, Tigers 5
At Detroit, Damaso Garcia homered and doubled home the winning run in the eighth to propel Toronto. The Blue Jays also got homers from Ernie Whitt and Willie Upshaw, while Lance Parrish and Tom Brookens homered for Detroit. Gary Lavelle, 3-2, earned the victory.

Brewers 7, Yankees 5
At New York, Charlie Moore drove in three runs and Paul Householder and Paul Molitor led a 14-single attack with four hits apiece to spark Milwaukee. Reliever Bob McClure, 2-0, notched the victory. The Brewers broke a string of 37 games in which they had collected at least one extra base hit.

Royals 3, Angels 1
At Kansas City, Mo., Mark Gubicza allowed three singles over eight innings to lift Kansas City. Gubicza, 6-4, won his fifth straight game and Dan Quisenberry picked up his 14th save.

Indians 7, Mariners 3
At Seattle, Carmen Castillo's three-run homer helped Cleveland snap Seattle's club record eight-game winning streak. Rich Thompson, 2-2, earned the victory in relief of starter Roy Smith, who was struck on the side of the head by a line drive in the third inning.

A's 7, Rangers 4
At Arlington, Texas, Donnie Hill drove in three runs and Dwayne Murphy and Dave Kingman each homered to power Oakland. Steve McCatty, 4-3, was the winner and Jay Howell hurled the final 1-1-3 innings for his 16th save.

Guerrero's HR, Catch Turn Back Braves

United Press International
Independence Day may have come three days early for National League pitchers. As of July 1, they are at last free of Pedro Guerrero's month-long tyranny at the plate.

Guerrero, who began the month of June with his fifth home run of the year, a shot off National League save leader Jeff Reardon, ended it with his 19th blast Sunday, a game-winning two-run shot off Atlanta relief ace Bruce Sutter.

Guerrero had gone 0-for-14 since cracking his 14th June home run on Wednesday night. But in his last at-bat for the month, he followed Ken Landreaux's eighth-inning single by clubbing a shot to left to lift the Dodgers to a 4-3 victory.

The shot equalled the major-league home run record of 15 for June held by Babe Ruth, Robert Johnson and Roger Maris. Guerrero also tied the Dodger mark for homers in a month set by Duke Snider in August of 1953.

"Now I just want to think that every month is going to be like June," said Guerrero. "I don't remember the last time I got that excited. It was probably in the World Series. To hit a home run the last day, the last chance..."

Guerrero also kept Atlanta from tying the score by catching Albert Hall's ninth-inning looping line drive in left field and doubling Gerald Perry off second base.

The victory went to Dodger reliever Ken Howell, 4-3, who pitched the last two innings after Bob Welch yielded three runs on seven hits.

The Braves used fifth-inning home runs by Claudell Washington and Dale Murphy to take a 3-1 advantage. Washington drove his ninth homer of the year off right fielder R.J. Reynolds' glove to tie the score 1-1. Rafael

N.L. Baseball

Ramirez then singled before Murphy hit his 18th homer of the year into the Dodger bullpen in left. Elsewhere in the NL, St. Louis edged New York 2-1 in 11 innings, Philadelphia shaded Montreal 3-2, Chicago drubbed Pittsburgh 9-2, Cincinnati defeated San Diego 3-2 and Houston took the first game of a doubleheader with San Francisco 6-2, dropping the nightcap 7-4.

In the American League, it was Toronto 6, Detroit 5; Milwaukee 7, New York 5; Baltimore 3, Boston 0; Minnesota 4, Chicago 3; Kansas City 3, California 1; Cleveland 7, Seattle 3; and Oakland 7, Texas 4.

Cardinals 2, Mets 1
At St. Louis, Vince Coleman singled home Ivan DeJesus with one out in the bottom of the 11th inning to lift St. Louis over New York. Ken Dayley pitched one-third of an inning to improve to 2-0. Reliever Jesse Orosco slid to 1-4.

Phillies 3, Expos 2
At Montreal, Derral Thomas singled home the winning run to cap a two-run ninth inning that helped Philadelphia past Montreal. Kent Tekulve posted his fourth triumph in six decisions in relief. Jeff Reardon, 2-3, took the defeat. Tim Lincecum, still plagued by a hamstring pull, was 0 for 1 as a pinch hitter.

Cubs 0, Pirates 2
At Pittsburgh, Davey Lopes cracked a two-run homer and Keith Moreland drove in three runs to power Chicago. Scott Sanderson, 4-3, allowed only five hits in going the distance. Don Robinson was the loser in relief and slipped to 2-3.

Mike Scott
...tops Giants

Davey Lopes
...2-run homer

Reds 3, Padres 2
At San Diego, Pete Rose singled off Rich Gossage in the top of the ninth to score Nick Esasky and give Cincinnati the victory. John Franco, 4-1, pitched the final two innings to earn the triumph. Andy Hawkins, 11-2, lost his second straight. Rose went 2-for-5 and now needs 39 hits to break Ty Cobb's mark of 4,191.

Astros 6-4, Giants 2-7
At San Francisco, Mike Scott, 6-4, allowed six hits over eight innings and Houston clubbed three home runs to take the opener. Dave LaPoint, 3-7, suffered the loss. Chris Brown scored three runs and Scot Thompson had three hits to back Vida Blue, 4-2, and capture the second game, breaking a 10-game losing streak. Ron Mathis, 3-3, was the loser.

Howe Is AWOL Again, Dodgers Out Of Answers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles relief pitcher Steve Howe, forced to sit out last season after two suspensions for cocaine abuse, failed to show up for Sunday's game and team officials said he was still missing early today.

The Dodgers requested the National League place Howe on the restricted list and National League President Chub Feeney agreed to grant the request, the team announced. Los Angeles beat the Atlanta Braves Sunday 4-3.

"What has happened to the guy? No one knows," said Dodger manager Tommy Lasorda. "It stuns me. I thought the young man was doing well. To see that happen is terrible."

Lasorda told Howe after Saturday's game against Atlanta he would see him that night at a Boy Scout dinner, a tribute to scouts in East Los Angeles.

Which Howe was supposed to chair. "When I arrived at the dinner, I found out he wasn't there and neither was his wife Cynthia," Lasorda said. "When he didn't show up, I was very disappointed."

Major league rules allow a player to be placed on the restricted list in any instance where the league president certifies that "unusual circumstances" exist which would justify the action. A player can be reinstated immediately upon written request by the club.

"Our primary concern at this time is Steve's well being," said Dodgers' Executive Vice President Fred Claire.

Sutton Lives Up To Billing, Birdie Putt Wins Memphis Playoff

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Hal Sutton has been considered the next Jack Nicklaus of the PGA Tour, although he hasn't been living up to that billing of late. If this past week's performance is any indication, the 1983 Player of the Year is back on track.

Sutton fired his second 7-under-par 65 in four days Sunday and then sank a 30-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff to beat David Ogryn and win the $500,000 Memphis Classic.

"Whether it was 65 or 75, I needed a win more than anyone," said Sutton of his first victory since taking the 1983 PGA Championship. "I've been struggling and there have been some doubts."

Sutton and Ogryn, who had a closing 71, finished at 9-under 270, a shot ahead of Gil Morgan (67) and Russ Cochran (71). Bob Tway (70) and Tony Sills (71) were two back at 281.

The victory, his fourth in less than three years, was worth $90,000 to Sutton, raising his earnings for this year to $245,282 and to $1,137,334 for his career.

Ogryn, who missed a six-foot birdie putt on the final regulation hole and a similar one in the playoff, got a $54,000 consolation prize that was almost five times as much as he won in his 17 previous tournament appearances this year.

"I can't be too disappointed," he said. "I now know I can play four good rounds of golf and, for all extent and purposes, win a PGA tournament. It took a 65 to catch me."

Sutton began the final round eight strokes behind then-leading George Burns. He had five birdies and one bogey on the front side to close to three strokes back and moved into a tie when he got his eighth birdie of the day at No. 15.

Finishing more than an hour ahead of Ogryn, Sutton could only wait and see what happened.

Sutton got into trouble on the par 5 playoff hole when he put his second shot in the rough, but his approach shot caught the edge of the green. Ogryn, after a good second shot, was 24 feet closer to the hole than Sutton.

Golf

But Sutton made his 30-footer while Ogryn missed.

"I was in the driver's seat and he slam dunked it," said Ogryn. "I hope to meet Hal in a playoff again — or anyone."

Sutton felt Ogryn made a mistake in not going for the green on his second shot in the playoff.

"I was a little surprised he didn't go for it," said Sutton. "You don't get the chance that often. If it had been me, I would have gone for it."

INKSTER TAKES KEYSTONE

HERSHEY, Pa. (UPI) — Juli Inkster refused to sway to history Sunday at the Lady Keystone Open.

A year ago Inkster missed a 15-foot birdie putt on 18th hole that would have put her in a tie for the $250,000 tournament.

Sunday afternoon, the 25-year-old from Los Altos, Calif., faced another 15-foot putt on 18. This time she hit it for a birdie, capping a three-stroke comeback earning her $37,500 in first prize money.

The putt, from the back fringe of the green, ended a spurt that saw her birdie four of the last five holes for a 69 and a 54-hole total of 7-under-par 209 at the Hershey Country Club.

"I had trouble with my putting over the first 13 holes," Inkster said.

Betsy King finished second at 211, two strokes back, after hitting a 1-over-par 73.

STEADY BARBER TRIUMPHS

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI) — Miller Barber played steadily if not spectacularly for the second straight day Sunday, shooting a 1-under-par 71 to score a four-stroke victory over Roberto Di Vincenzo and win his third U.S. Seniors Open Golf Championship.

The 71 gave Barber a 72-hole score of 3-under 285 and a $40,000 prize from the total pot of $225,000. Di Vincenzo, who won the 1983 Open, birdied the last three holes for a 72 and 289. Gay Brewer finished third with a 71 for 291, while Arnold Palmer, the big crowd favorite as usual, staggered home with a 76 that put him at 300, 15 shots behind Barber.

Many in the field complained about how the USGA had doctored up the Edgewood-Tahoe course to make it more difficult to score. Barber said he played it safe because he knew every hole was a troublemaker.

IN BRIEF

Boulevard Runs Mark To 12-0; Martin's 2-Hitter Lifts FBS

DeLand's Boulevard Tire ran its record to 12-0 in Buddy Lake League baseball with an 8-0 victory over Florida Baseball School at Sanford Memorial Stadium Sunday.

Kevin Rood, who pitched at DeLand High and Seminole Community College, tossed a two-hitter and Kenny Mullen drove in three runs with a double and a pair of singles for Boulevard. Rood struck out five and walked two. Kevin Craft singled twice and chased home two runs.

Kirk Leff was the losing pitcher. Kevin Smith and Bobby Hoskins each drilled a single for FBS.

Florida Baseball School fared better in the opening game as Tim Martin twirled a two-hitter with four whiffs as FBS nipped the Orlando Braves, 4-3. Martin also supplied the big bat with two singles and two ribbles.

Stuart Childers was the losing pitcher. Bob Aubchion ripped a double and drove in two runs for Orlando.

Boulevard's 12-0 mark leads the league. Florida Baseball School is in second place with a 4-8 record. The Braves (3-8) and Merchants (2-8) are next in line. DeLand's Kherdan Stallions dropped from the league because of a lack of players, according to FBS spokesman Kevin Gross.

Flutie Ready But Michaels Isn't

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — Coach Walt Michaels of the New Jersey Generals has put himself on the spot for Monday night's USFL playoff game with the Baltimore Stars by refusing to play Doug Flutie, even though the Heisman Trophy winning quarterback has recovered from a fractured collarbone.

Flutie practiced this week with the team, but Michaels, fearful that the 5-foot-9 quarterback might injure himself by coming back too soon, said Saturday he would go with Ron Reeves as his starting quarterback and relegate Flutie to spectator status for another week.

Should the Generals, who are 1-2 with Reeves, fail to defeat Baltimore, it would, of course, subject Michaels to a lot of second-guessing. However, the veteran coach said he had weighed the matter carefully and decided on the conservative approach.

Lefties Vault Into 1st Place

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The left-handed team of Mike Aubly and Steve Cook vaulted into first place Sunday in the $125,000 Showboat PBA Doubles Classic and earned the top-seeded position for today's nationally televised final.

Aubly, of Indianapolis, and Cook, Roseville, Calif., both averaged 213 for 42 games and finished 293 pins ahead of Dennis Jacques, Middletown, N.J., and David White, Oklahoma City, Okla.

McLain Pulls On Prison Blue

ATLANTA, Ga. (UPI) — Former Detroit Tigers pitching ace Denny McLain will play his first game in 12 years this week wearing a new uniform — the prison blues worn by all inmates at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary.

McLain, 41, was shipped to Atlanta three weeks ago from the Talladega Correctional Institute in Alabama. He made overtures to the established team, the Cardinals, but they told him they did not want any outside interference.

"Does that mean I got a pardon and I can leave?" McLain asked.

Rain Interrupts O-Twins, Astros

The Orlando Twins held a 2-1 lead in the third inning when their Southern League baseball game was suspended against Charlotte Sunday night. It will be completed at a later date.

Orlando, which trails East Division leader Columbus by one-half game, journeys to Knoxville tonight for a single game at 7:30 p.m.

In other minor league baseball, the Osceola Astros and West Palm Beach were rained out. The Central Division leading Astros are idle today.

Oviedo, AWS Reset For Tuesday

The Oviedo Seminoles and Apopka-West Seminole Big League double-header was rained out Sunday at Lake Brantley High School.

One game has been rescheduled for Tuesday night at 6:30 at Brantley. AWS manager Richard Coffey said Kenny Chapdelaine would start for his 17-2 team.

Oviedo manager Mike Ferrell will counter with Brian Sheffield or James Hersey. The Seminoles are 6-14.

Bojovic Boots Bandits, 30-27

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Normally, talk of the Oakland Invaders centers on quarterback Bobby Hebert and his trio of outstanding wide receivers.

But that was not the case Sunday.

Sure, Hebert tossed for 271 yards and a pair of touchdowns in the Invaders' 30-27 triumph over the Tampa Bay Bandits. But it was kicker Novo Bojovic and a hard-charging defensive line that made the difference.

Bojovic, who shook off the effect of shanking a 31-yard field goal attempt with under four minutes to go, hit a 23-yard attempt as time ran out to give Oakland the victory.

"I learned a big lesson last year," said Bojovic, who missed two field goals in the Michigan Panthers overtime loss in last year's playoffs. "You've got to forget about what happened before. If you missed the last kick, you missed it. You have to keep concentrating like nothing bad has happened."

The winning field goal was set up by an inspired stand by the defense.

Football

Tampa Bay took the ball over with under two minutes to go, but sacks by linebacker David Shaw and Doug Hollie forced the Bandits to punt from their own 6-yard line.

"The defense should be congratulated," said Invaders coach Charlie Sumner. "We don't have a great defense, but it came up with the big plays today."

The victory raised Oakland's season record to 14-3-1, the USFL's best. However, because the baseball's Oakland A's are scheduled to use the Oakland Coliseum next weekend, the Invaders will travel to play Memphis in the league's semifinals.

Oakland opened the scoring in the first quarter on a 37-yard Bojovic field goal.

John Reaves brought Tampa Bay back with touchdown passes of 5 yards to Spencer Jackson and a playoff-record 73 yards to Gary Anderson which gave the Bandits a 14-3 lead halfway through the second quarter.

SHOWBOATS DESTROY GOLD

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Coach Pepper Rodgers' worries that his offense would never get going were all for naught.

The Memphis Showboats wound up beating the Denver Gold 48-7 in the biggest rout in USFL playoff history.

The Showboats led 13-0 at halftime Sunday, then struck for three touchdowns in the third quarter on their way to the lopsided victory. The 48 points were the most ever scored by Memphis and the margin of victory was the largest in the three years of USFL playoffs.

"I was concerned with our point production in the first half," Rodgers said. "But we put it together in the second half. It was a game where we did a lot of things right. It's just a great feeling to know we were being rewarded for our hard work all season."

Memphis takes on the Oakland Invaders, Western Conference champions, in the second round of the playoffs Saturday at Memphis. Oakland eliminated Tampa Bay 30-27 Sunday.

Will Smaller Carburetor Help Field Catch Elliott?

United Press International

The Firecracker 400 will be run with a new rule for the cars but drivers are still asking the same question: Can anyone catch Bill Elliott?

Elliott dominated the first half of the 28-race NASCAR schedule, winning seven races, including a record four straight super speedway races, while taking the lead in points for NASCAR's Grand National Championship and winning $619,168.

He won the last two NASCAR races, at Pocono and Michigan, and has to be considered the favorite at the 26th running of the Pepsi Firecracker 400 at Daytona International Speedway on July 4.

The Firecracker will be the first race in which all cars must have the smaller carburetor opening mandated by NASCAR. The rule, designed to slow the cars and increase competition, reduces the maximum carburetor throttle bore on all cars from 1 11/16 inches to 1 7/16 inches.

The change will give Elliott's brother Ernie a chance to again prove his skill at working on engines. Elliott, who drives a Ford Thunderbird, has not left a race because of engine failure since 1982.

The race will have a purse of $428,925, with the winner expected to win at least $44,000.

It is estimated the rule change will slow the cars approximately 5 mph, and several drivers who traveled to Daytona to take practice runs with the new equipment say the smaller air opening indeed is leading to slower times.

Tim Richmond said drivers would be slowed by the change, but was skeptical if it would allow anyone to catch Elliott. Elliott, who won the Daytona 500 in February, has the track qualifying record with a 205.112 time earlier this year.

"It slowed us down a little and I think it will equalize competition, although no one knows what Elliott will do," Richmond said. "He has run so much faster than anyone else all year and this rule won't slow him down any more than it will anyone else."

However, three-time Grand National Champion Cale Yarborough, who drives a Ford Thunderbird, thinks this might be the race in which he finally catches Elliott.

"We've been able to run with Bill all year long and we finally feel like our reliability problems are solved," he said. "We're hoping it does not come down to a last minute deal like last year, though."

Bill Elliott has won seven races and $619,168 during the first half of the NASCAR schedule.

Yarborough, who has won the Firecracker four times, last year lost by two feet to Richard Petty.

Yarborough, who holds the race record for qualifying time with a 199.743 reading, said the rule change would lead to more competition.

"I guess the rules change did what they meant it to accomplish," he said. "It (the rule change) shouldn't do anything to hurt the racing and slowing everybody down will certainly help competition."

Two-time Grand National Champion Darrell Waltrip, who is second this year to Elliott in points and prize money, said heat will be a factor in the race.

Unser Wins As Andretti Gets Bump

EAST RUTHERFORD (UPI) — Mario Andretti's bubble was burst by a repeat performance Sunday.

Andretti's car became a casualty in the 34th lap of a CART race at the Meadowlands after Bobby Rahal hit him from behind, knocking him out of contention for the second time this season.

At a recent IROC series race at Mid-Ohio, Andretti was leading Rahal with 10 laps remaining when was clipped and spun by the Dublin, Ohio, driver, who went on to win that race.

Sunday's race was won by Al Unser Jr., one of a batch of young drivers whom Andretti predicted would soon become dominant in CART racing.

"Rahal hit me in the back and pushed me into (Geoff) Brabham," says Andretti, who has won three of four previous races this year. "It damaged the right-front suspension."

Despite finishing 26th in a 28-car field, Andretti retains a commanding lead in the driver standings with 82 points, 21 more than Emerson Fittipaldi, who finished second to Unser, Jr.

McEnroe, Evert Lloyd Encounter Patsies

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — As dismal as the weather may be, John McEnroe and Chris Evert Lloyd both appear to have bright days ahead.

With the Wimbledon Championships scheduled to resume today at Noon (7 a.m. EDT), both Americans enjoyed the prospect of meeting qualifiers to ensure their berths in the fourth round. Looking further ahead, the path to the semifinals doesn't appear strewn with too many obstacles for either of them.

McEnroe, aiming for a third consecutive singles title, was due to meet South African Christo Steyn, ranked 201st in the world, on Court Two today, while at the same time Evert Lloyd opposed 18-year-old Australian Jenny Byrne, carrying a rank of 162, on Court One.

Should McEnroe get past Steyn, his next opponent would be yet another qualifier, West German Andreas Maurer, ranked No. 100, and his likely foe in the quarterfinals will be either eighth seed Kevin Curren or No. 14 Stefan Edberg, against whom he has a combined career record of 9-0.

Tennis

Evert Lloyd does not have a seeded player remaining in her quarter of the draw, and if she beats Byrne would next face Anne Smith or Isabella Demongest of France. The three-time champion could contend with Barbara Potter, who is dangerous even though unseeded, in the quarterfinals, and in the semifinals is projected to meet either No. 3 Hana Mandlikova or No. 7 Helena Sukova, against whom she is a combined 26-3.

This will be the second time Byrne crosses paths with Evert Lloyd. The first occasion was in her hometown of Perth when she got to play a set of doubles with her during an exhibition. "Chris was helping me along then," Byrne recalled.

The second meeting will be far more meaningful.

"The prospect is making me nervous," said Byrne.

After six successive days of rain interfered with the schedule, it was hoped to complete the third round today. Other featured men's matches included No. 2 Ivan Lendl against Israeli Shlomo Glickstein, No. 5 Anders Jarryd against Vince Van Patten, No. 11 Yannick Noah against Vijay Amritraj and No. 14 Stefan Edberg against Chip Hooper. In addition, No. 7 Joakim Nystrom and Boris Becker were to resume their match halted Saturday by rain at one set each.

Among the women's matches were No. 3 Hana Mandlikova against Elizabeth Smylie, No. 4 Manuela Maleeva vs. Robin White, No. 5 Pam Shriver against Virginia Wade, No. 11 Steffi Graf vs. Stephanie Rehe, No. 14 Wendy Turnbull vs. Pascal Paradis and No. 16 Kathy Rinaldi against Alycia Moulton.

Waincott said the lineup is not set but he is working an infield of Albert at first, Waincott at second, Brubaker at shortstop and Varitek at third.

"Kevin's a good clutch player and Brubaker is very smooth at shortstop," said Waincott.

"Varitek could play anywhere. He's an excellent all-around player. Albert has been bothered by a sore arm but he's very good defensively and a good pull hitter."

Waincott said if Albert's arm continues to bother him, he'll move Iatarola or Hovis to first base. The outfield, depending on whom's pitching, will include Radcliff, Thurston, Iatarola, Prom or James. James, too, has been working out at second base.

"Iatarola is a very strong pitcher and hitter. We're counting heavy on Aaron," said Waincott. "Thurston is a good hitter and one of our best outfielders. Prom is a clutch ball player. James can play about anywhere. He's got real good spirit and a good bat."

Waincott has Hendricks behind the plate. "Danny is a very good catcher," he said. "He blocks the ball well and has a strong bat."

Infield depth will be provided by slick-fielding Wallace at third and second and Hovis at first and on the mound. Wistrom, a tireless working, said Waincott, is an outfielder with a good stick. Waincott said Sherman is another dependable pitcher and good infielder who hits well.

The starting pitching staff is made up of Iatarola, Prom, Radcliff, Thurston. Waincott said Radcliff would probably pitch Friday's opener. "Chris hits the ball harder and throws the ball harder than any kid I've seen his age," said Waincott. "Iatarola, Prom and Thurston are all good pitchers. We'll use Hovis and Brubaker in relief."

Waincott said the major thing he's worried about is his pitchers throwing strikes. "The pitching is very good but they have to throw the ball over the plate," he said. "We've got good, big hitter and our defense should be excellent."

"But this is a lot different from the Majors. You can't let walks beat you. We don't anybody on base who doesn't earn it. Everybody knows who these kids are and what some of them accomplished last year."

"They all want a piece of them."

Starting with Deltona Friday.

Human Error Apparently Led To Metrorail Crash

MIAMI (UPI) — Human error apparently caused a Metrorail test train to smash into the rear of a passenger train, injuring 13 people and leading to an estimated $3 million damage, officials say.

"I said at the beginning it was either mechanical or human error," Dade County Manager Merrett Stierheim was quoted as saying by The Miami Herald. "At this point it appears to have been human error totally."

Joseph McRae, 47, the driver of the test train that slammed into a second train Wednesday night was suspended by Metrorail officials after the accident, which led to the hospitalization of 13 people for minor injuries.

McRae was testing a recently repaired train and apparently did not know the passenger train ahead of him had stopped near the Northside station. His train skidded 140 feet before ramming the passenger train.

Dade County transportation chief Joseph Fletcher said Metrorail's fail-safe brake system ordinarily would have halted McRae's train hundreds of feet before it reached the other train.

But in testing the train, another Metrorail employee apparently cut a seal and had disabled the controls of the automatic safety system. The seal reportedly was replaced before investigators reached the scene.

States would not rest until justice was done for recent terrorist violence against U.S. citizens.

"We will remember and offer our thanks to all who helped us and who stood with us," he said. "And yes," he warned, "we'll remember those who did not."

"Terrorists, be on notice: We will fight back against you, in Lebanon or elsewhere," he said.

Reporters at the Frankfurt airport said hostage relatives were beginning to arrive on flights from the United States and were being whisked through the terminal with minimum formalities. U.S. officials said about 50 were expected to arrive.

Some 300 family members and military personnel waving flags and welcome banners greeted the Americans before they were driven to the Lindsay Air Force Hospital at Wiesbaden for checkups and debriefing.

U.S. officials said the hostages were being debriefed by a special team from "government agencies" about where and how they were held during their 17-day ordeal, before they were to head back to the United States.

Capt. Linda J. Tubbiolo, head of the medical crew that made a preliminary examination of the hostages en route from Syria, said some were suffering from colds, headaches and upset stomachs and one had a spider bite.

"I feel great. I thank the United States for helping us out. I wasn't maltreated," hostage Robert Trautman Jr., 37, of Laredo, Texas, told reporters at Frankfurt.

"It was an experience," added Ralf Traugott, 32, of Lunenburg, Mass.

The hostages held a news conference late Sunday in a Damascus hotel at which spokesman Allyn Conwell, 39, of Houston thanked those who had helped gain their release.

But Conwell rejected calls for retaliation and instead called for a "deeper understanding of the situation in Lebanon and throughout the Middle East."

"I don't know who the people who took us are," he said. "Retaliation sounds a lot like revenge. We all need to find a deeper understanding to find out what made people take such a desperate act."

on-the-road repairs. Fortunately, the Grosses got their wheels rolling again and made it to Chicago, but not before their stop watch broke.

Don Gross told Austin the rally has been receiving great moral support as they cruise through various towns. In some cases the crowds that turn out to cheer the team are larger than the population of the towns. They got the key to Kansas City and were treated to lunch by Mayor Richard Berkley who told the crew he always preferred the city of Sanford over Orlando. During nightly stops, 'Jenny' is draped in the official flag of Sanford.

A crowd of 20,000 cheered them on in Boonville Mo., and a throng of 30,000 greeted the ralliers in Bloomington, Ill. Ms. Austin reported.

The father and son team report that their spirits are high but it gets a bit tiring driving all day, several days in a row, Ms. Austin reported.

"They feel great. Actually, I don't think they thought they would make it this far," she said.

Union May Do An About-Face

NEA Ready To Back Teacher Exams

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's biggest teachers' union, which fought the teacher certification tests of the 1970s as racially biased, now seems ready to back tough exams for all new teachers as a way to beef up the profession.

Delegates to the National Education Association's annual convention are to vote on a resolution Tuesday calling for such exams and union President Mary Futrell predicts overwhelming approval.

In a keynote address to the NEA's 123rd annual convention Sunday, Futrell said: "Let us tell America that just as law graduates can't practice law without passing the bar exam, no teaching graduate should be allowed to instruct America's children without first passing a valid exam that tests mastery of subject matter and professional skills."

Futrell also proposed that the 1.7 million-member union create a "war chest against scholastic failure" to combat illiteracy and the nation's 25 percent high school dropout rate. Under the plan, $1 would be set aside from the dues of each NEA member to create a permanent fund.

Her call drew enthusiastic applause from the more than 7,500 delegates.

Futrell and other teacher union leaders have argued that tough certification exams, coupled with rigorous training and internship programs, would also help raise the profession's esteem and pay.

Teachers are among the nation's lowest-paid professionals with an average annual salary of $23,000 — a figure cited for why many of the best college graduates pick other fields of work.

Futrell said, "In the past ... we have opposed the misuse and manipulation of tests for entry into the profession. In recent years, we've helped make entry testing fairer."

"Now is the time to make sure America knows where we stand," she said. "We stand for fairness in testing, we stand for quality in the classroom."

Futrell's call for teacher certification exams comes five months after the NEA's smaller rival, the American Federation of Teachers, proposed a national exam for all prospective classroom educators.

Futrell said she would prefer individual state exams but, like the AFT, recommended that the tests be developed with input from teachers.

schools, even if secular in nature, violates the Constitution if it benefits the school and its activities.

The ruling in the Grand Rapids case upholds the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which ruled the "shared time" and "community education" programs were unconstitutional.

The programs were initiated by the Grand Rapids school district in 1975 to reach the 30 percent of the school age population attending private schools. By the 1981-82 school year, more than 11,000 religious school students took part in the program and state aid approached $6 million annually.

Under the "shared time" program, the public school system leased classrooms in religious schools for up to $10 a week to offer classes in math, reading, physical education, languages and art.

The classes were attended solely by private students, but taught by public teachers during the regular school day. The instructors were required to post "public school" signs on the wall and to remove or cover any religious symbols during the class period.

The "community education" program involved private school teachers who taught leisure activities, such as arts and crafts, on religious school property after regular school hours.

The high court majority said the community education program was unconstitutional because, "there is a substantial risk that, overtly or subtly, the religious message (teachers) are expected to convey during the regular school day will infuse the supposedly secular classes they teach after school."

"The 'shared time' program, though structured somewhat differently, also poses a substantial risk of state-sponsored indoctrination," the court said. "No attempt is made to monitor the Shared Time courses for religious content."

Joining Brennan in the opinion striking down the shared time program were Justices Thurgood Marshall, Harry Blackmun, Lewis Powell, and John Paul Stevens. Chief Justice Warren Burger and Justices Sandra Day O'Connor, Byron White and William Rehnquist dissented.

On the issue of the community education program, Burger and O'Connor joined the majority to declare it unconstitutional.

The Title I majority was made up of Brennan, Marshall, Blackmun, Powell and Stevens.

The ruling in the Title I case resolves a longstanding battle over the legality of public aid for remedial programs in religious schools. Congress, when it amended Title I, insisted the program be available to all students, regardless of where they go to school.

But the court, once again led by Brennan, said the program can only be made constitutional if it takes place "at a neutral site off the premises of the religious schools." Otherwise, Brennan wrote, there is a need for "pervasive monitoring by public authorities in the sectarian schools."

New York's is the largest Title I program in the country, serving 300,000 students. In 1982, it received $147 million, of which about $20 million, or 13.5 percent, was spent on services to private school students.

In a sharp dissent, O'Connor said the 19-year history of New York's program is proof positive public money can be spent at private schools without entangling church and state.

She called the ruling "tragic" for 20,000 youngsters now receiving remedial instruction at private schools in New York.

year and $5.4 million the year after in a state with a $4.3 billion budget. Powell said the loss in sales and excise taxes will be significantly higher by the time the current crop of 19-year-olds turns 21.

That bottom line was at the heart of the debate this year over the drinking age. Led in the House by Rep. Fran Carlton, D-Orlando, a majority in both chambers of the Legislature had for seven years favored a return to a drinking age of 21 as a way to curb traffic fatalities among teenagers.

But Carlton's proposal remained bottled up in the House Regulated Industries committee until the federal government threatened to withhold some $60 million in highway money from states that failed to raise their drinking ages to 21 by Oct. 1, 1986. During committee meetings this year, members who previously voted against the bill said it was that threat that changed their minds this year.

Powell also disputed the contention by Carlton and others that the law will save lives. He said that alcohol-related traffic fatalities among 18-year-olds increased by 43 percent in Florida between 1981, when the Legislature voted to raise the drinking age to 19, and 1983 — even though 10,000 fewer 18-year-olds held driver's licenses.

Powell said many 18-year-olds never gave up drink. He predicted 19 and 20-year-olds will continue to drink, too, even though the criminal penalty for underage persons who possess alcoholic beverages will be a $500 fine or 30 days in jail. Persons supplying that beer or liquor will face the same penalties and restaurant or lounge owners could lose their liquor licenses.

"Unfortunately, we do not have enough beverage agents to police every licensed premise," Powell said. "They're going to have to put the resources where the people are, and that's not your convenience store on a backwoods country road."

Other laws that take effect Monday pertain to:

- Prisons. The Legislature voted to improve the standard of health care afforded inmates after a team of doctors inspected the state's prisons under a federal court order and said 17 inmates died from neglect between April 1983 and April 1984.
- The cornerstone of the reforms is the creation of a fourth assistant to Corrections Secretary Louie Wainwright. The inspecting doctors had recommended such a position be created to improve the chief prison doctor's access to the man at the top and to prevent other higher-ups from countermanning medical orders.
- Another law provides an inmate grievance procedure similar to federal guidelines. Supporters said the law will preclude inmates seeking relief from the federal government until they have exhausted their state hearings. The law will also provide penalties for corrections officers who use unjustified physical force against inmates or try to conceal the use of such force.
- Children. Workers in day care centers will begin undergoing background checks for evidence they might abuse their young charges under a law that establishes tougher new licensing procedures for those centers.
- Another new law will make it easier for the state to prosecute child abusers and molesters by allowing interpreters during trials for children too young to understand the proceedings or explain what happened to them. The law will also allow videotaped testimony by some child abuse victims.

Laws will also take effect to:

- Impose a 25 percent tax on the wholesale price of "smokeless tobacco."
- Raise the fee for a driver's license to $19 but allow issuance of six-year licenses for safe drivers.
- Require local governments to begin drawing local components for inclusion in the Comprehensive State Plan. Those local components will eventually be used to finalize the state plan, which is meant to guide Florida's development into the next century.

Speech Habits Irk Readers, You Know

DEAR ABBY: A million thanks for pointing out the irritating speech habit that so many of our young people exhibit today. I refer to the use of "you know" three and four times in one sentence.

It is simply maddening to hear "you know, you know, you know" from so many of our celebrities (especially athletes) while they're being interviewed on television and radio.

Dear Abby

I started to fall into that habit when I was in college. One of my professors helped me overcome it when every time I said "you know," he interrupted me with, "No, I don't know until you tell me."

Please print this, Abby. If everyone who is guilty of the "you know" habit would ask a friend to interrupt him with "No, I don't know," what a blessing it would be.

NO MORE YOU KNOWS

DEAR NO MORE: I could fill a column with responses to the column on sloppy speech habits. And I think I will.

DEAR ABBY: Thank "Gail of Shorewood, Wis.," who is tired of hearing the word "basically" used and overused incorrectly.

My family and I have made a game of counting the times a person uses "basically" in one speech or commentary. I have counted as many as eight "basically's." It means "as a basis for" or "fundamentally," but it's now used as a filler and means nothing.

My prize story concerns a prominent athlete who was asked in a television interview where he was born. He replied, "Well, I was basically born in New York." Need I say more?

Another pet peeve of mine is the incorrect use of the pronoun "myself." There are several rules that apply, but the simple one is, never use "myself" when the pronouns "I" or "me" can be used instead.

JEAN IN MASON CITY, IOWA

DEAR ABBY: I was happy to notice in your column that someone mentioned the overuse of the word "basically." Please add my complaint to the overuse of the word "totally."

Whatever happened to the perfectly good adverbs "completely," "entirely," and "wholly"?

TOTALED BY "TOTALLY"

DEAR TOTALED: While we're on the subject of words, their use, abuse and misuse, the one word that I hear more frequently used incorrectly than correctly is "apropos."

Many people say, "It is very apropos," as though apropos meant "appropriate." It doesn't. It means "concerning," "regarding," "pertaining to," or "relevant."

I have heard this error committed by professionals, politicians, educators, clergypersons and literate people who should know better, but don't.

Seminole Band Tryouts July 10

The Seminole High School Band is scheduled to hold its summer auditions for the 1985-86 school year on July 10, at 10 a.m. in the SHS band room for all prospective new members.

The band performs for all half-time shows during football season as well as several convention shows in conjunction with Total Convention Concepts of Winter Springs.

The band is under the direction of Bob Maguire who is in his 10th year at Seminole. The active Band Parent Association purchased 100 new uniforms for its major project last year and has tentative plans to send the band to the Peach Bowl Festival in December in Atlanta.

The band will add two new auxiliary units this year: Flag Corps (16-24 members) and Majorettes (4-8 members).

The two new units will be instructed by Sanford's Dianna Wells who will be part of the band instructional staff next year.

Other staff members include J.B. Scott, trumpet/French horn, currently a performing professional in the Orlando area; Chris Charles, saxophone/drill instructor; Eric Charles, low brass/drill instructor (these two brothers are currently performing with the Concord Blue Devils who were the 1984 Drum Corps International Champions); and David Anders, percussion instructor, formerly with the Lake Howell Silver Regiment.

The Seminole High School "Dazzlers" will also hold a supplemental audition for those girls who are unable to make the spring tryouts. The Dazzlers, under the direction of Maureen Maguire, qualified for the state contest last year by posting superior (I) ratings at the District VII competition.

For further information regarding the summer auditions, contact Mr. Maguire at 322-4352 or 322-6915.

Even Janitors Get Top-Secret Clearance

Report: Security Weak At Defense Firms

NEW YORK (UPI) — Security is so weak at most of the nation's 14,000 defense contractors that stealing classified documents might be easier than stealing a loaf of bread from a supermarket, an internal Pentagon report charges.

The 250-page study, according to a story in the Sunday edition of The New York Times, said the Defense Department should make wholesale changes in its security programs because present regulations, even if fully enforced, cannot prevent espionage.

"A supermarket employee may encounter far more difficulty stealing a loaf of bread," the Times quoted the report as saying.

The Pentagon report, according to the Times, said there are only about 225 federal agents nationwide to police the 14,000 contractors. And although the agents must inspect all 14,000 contractors, 95 percent of the classified documents are concentrated in 200 contractors.

The report also found:

- Defense contractors maintain no controls over the use of classified materials at night and on weekends. This would allow employees to bring friends, even Soviet agents, to work where they could read, copy or steal sensitive documents. Stealing classified material "is only slightly difficult during working hours."
- Defense Department regulations focus on securing documents and setting up alarm systems to avoid "surreptitious entry" to the materials, although most recent espionage cases were not the result of break-ins.

—Many contractors request and get secret or top-secret security clearance for employees who "perform toilet cleaning, painting and similar maintenance or service-oriented activities."

—Fewer than 1 percent of security clearance applications are denied, and fewer still are revoked later.

The yearlong study of security at the nation's military contractors was ordered by Defense Department senior officials after the arrest of James Harper Jr. on espionage charges, the Times said.

The report, known in the Pentagon as the Harper Report, has not been made public, but the Defense Department gave copies to some members of Congress.

Harper was sentenced to life in prison last year for taking classified documents from a small California military contractor and selling copies to Polish intelligence officers.

Since the study was completed early this year, one of the four people arrested in the Walker family spy case, Arthur Walker, was charged with taking and selling classified documents from a military contractor in Virginia.

Gays Parade With Pride

United Press International

More than a quarter-million people turned out in San Francisco, Chicago and New York for parades celebrating pride in the homosexual lifestyle.

In San Francisco, about 200,000 people packed downtown's Market Street Sunday under bright skies to cheer the city's annual Gay Freedom Day parade, described by organizers as the largest gathering of homosexuals in the world.

In New York, police estimated about 20,000 marchers joined by Mayor Edward Koch Sunday swung down Fifth Avenue in a festive Gay Pride Day parade, past angry protesters at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Organizers had anticipated 75,000 spectators, but police made no estimate of the crowds along the parade route lined with 1,500 police officers.

In Chicago, organizers said 50,000 people were on hand for the 16th annual Gay and Lesbian Pride Parade. Former Mayor Jane Byrne was among the marchers and Mayor Harold Washington addressed a rally at the end of the parade route.

About 100 people, including several wearing Nazi-style uniforms, attended a counterdemonstration organized by Christians for Decency. Police reported no conflicts between the participants in the two Lincoln Park rallies.

The San Francisco celebration included more than 150 groups of marchers escorting colorful floats depicting the parade's theme of "Honor our past. Secure our future." They waved banners and placards proclaiming, "mothers against AIDS" and "fathers against AIDS."

AIDS has been a major focus of San Francisco's Gay Freedom Day parades since 1983.

Aspirin May Help Clear Arteries, Cut Strokes

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — My mother-in-law is 68. Two years ago her doctor found a corroded artery in her neck. Once a year she has a test done that is costly and gives the doctor information, but does not improve her condition. I heard that a new drug can dissolve these blood clots in patients who are potential stroke victims. Do you know about it?

DEAR READER — Often a corroded carotid artery can be reamed out surgically in order to re-establish adequate blood flow to the brain. Although the operation is helpful, it is dangerous and is seriously considered only for patients who either have extreme symptoms, like dizziness and blackouts, or who are in imminent danger of stroke — that is, when pieces of the arterial obstruction are poised to break off and be carried to the brain.

Perhaps your mother-in-law's doctor believes she has not yet progressed to the point where carotid surgery is appropriate. Although I do not know of any drug that consistently improves circulatory problems like hers, many experts recommend plain aspirin as a preventative. One adult aspirin taken twice a week may help to stabilize her condition.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had a heart attack about six weeks ago. I'm embarrassed to ask my doctor how soon I can have sex again. I'm 49 and was in good health until the heart attack. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Sex encompasses a broad array of activity, from rather passive ho-hum encounters to vigorously strenuous, lengthy gymnastics. I think that if you exercise discretion, you can participate more or less fully right from the time you leave the hospital.

Some medical centers are performing modified stress tests on cardiac patients before they are discharged. This activity is not nearly as much fun as sex (for people other than doctors) and it is more strenuous.

I recommend to my post-

WIN AT BRIDGE

by James Jacoby

West had spent enough time around a bridge table to know that there wasn't much chance that he would score a diamond trick against six hearts with his A-K.

Still it was a safe lead, and perhaps leading the ace instead of the king would produce dividends later in the deal. Why didn't he think the diamond ace would live? Simple — when someone jumps to slam without asking for aces, either he has all of them or he's void in some suit. That's not a law of bridge, but it's common sense.

Declarer failed to back his aggressive bidding with the best percentage play. He ruffed the opening lead and played A-K of hearts. True, there was a slightly better than even chance that the queen would come clattering down.

The opponents had only four between them, so declarer would win if the trumps split 2-2 or if the queen was singleton, but the queen didn't drop.

South missed his chance. The best line of play is to go to dummy with the spade king before leading trumps. Declarer takes the club finesse, plays ace of clubs and ruffs a club, comes back to his hand with the spade ace and tries to ruff the last club.

West can trump in with the nine of hearts, but now the trump queen will drop later and the slam will be made. There is nothing to lose by this approach. If the club finesse loses, declarer will still be back to square one, hoping that the heart queen will fall.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JULY 2, 1985

In the year ahead you will experience a big improvement in your personal relationship. Individuals who have caused you problems will fade from your life.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone you think is a staunch supporter might suddenly switch sides today and leave you standing alone. Be self-sufficient, rather than a leaner. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do not put off taking care of matters today that require your immediate attention. Negligence will increase the price tag at a later date.

VIRO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid groups or cliques today that contain individuals who make you feel uncomfortable. Associate only with those who make you feel welcome.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're presently having problems with relatives or in-laws, it's best not to discuss it with outsiders today. Your remarks will be revealed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually you are pragmatic and realistic, but today you may view things as you would like them to be, rather than as they really are. Don't be a wishful thinker.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If possible today, try to steer clear of joint ventures where you have to shell out money. You may have to pay more than your fair share.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're a pretty good horse-trader, but today you could meet your match. Be on guard at all times if you are negotiating a matter of importance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will not work well today if there is someone peering over your shoulder. If you have tedious tasks to perform, do them in an atmosphere free of outside interference.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today you might find yourself in a social situation where someone you don't like is getting all the attention. It'll hurt your image if you display envy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Guard against tendencies today to blame others for problems you create. Complaining will cause new complications. Instead of serving a useful purpose.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your concentration may not be up to par today. If you are given important instructions, it's best you write them down rather than committing them to memory.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Strive to be money-conscious today and subdue temptations to buy things that you can't pay for with cash. Don't put yourself in a debtor's position.
