EFFECT OF NEW GRID RULES SEEN UP TO OFFICIALS

Enforcement Of New Regulations Will Reduce Injuries

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 1. — (A.P.)—Sweeping changes in the football code will reduce injuries, perhaps, without removing the color from the game, if the officials enforce the new penalties provided. The trouble may be that many officials will not call the penalties. There are many rules in the book now which are enforced only once in a blue moon.

The rules committee seems to have made a noble effort to get at the root of some of football's troubles and it will not be the committee's fault if certain evils are not corrected.

The change in equipment certainly is a move in the right direction. Hard leather hurts when it comes in contact with frail flesh and with a soft covering the blows should be minimized. Some of the most painful hurts suffered by football players have resulted from unintentional kicks. Under the revised rules the players still will wear shoes, but probably there is nothing done about this danger.

The added restrictions against use of the hands, designed to protect head, face and neck of players, will be effective if the officials call them, which many of them will not.

Some, at least, will take the position that a push or shove landing on a face or neck really was intended for a shoulder and let it go at that. The boys do not like to inflict drastic penalties.

The option of putting the ball in play from the kick-off by a punt, drop-kick or placement will be interesting, but like other options in football, comparatively few will take advantage of the opportunity to inject variety into the game.

When regulations providing for the extra point after touchdown gave a choice of kick, pass or plunge, 95 percent or more of the teams went right on trying for the extra point through the medium of the kick. It likely will be so in the kick-off, and the placement will remain the favored means of getting the ball in play.

If an opposing team has a "Red" Grange, Chris Cagle, Jim Thorpe, or some other star outstanding as a ball carrier, the kicking side might send its punter up to kick-off, so he could place the ball far away from the menace as the field would permit. With no chance for the opponents to rush him, a good punter should be able to get off a free kick just about as he chooses.

It may not be quite so exciting to see a player stand on his own 40-yard line with the ball in his hands ready to punt it out to start a game but it will, perhaps, be safer, especially with the defensive side held rigidly behind its own 45-yard line.

Arrangements for getting a lot of interference in front of the man bringing the ball back will be slowed by the rule requiring five men of the receiving side to remain within 15 yards of the kicker until the ball has left his foot. The curb on players leaving their feet to block and tackle is another responsibility placed squarely on the officials, but it should be easy to see when a ball becomes dead by a part of the carrier's person, other than his hands and feet, touching the ground.

The silly crawling, which never did any player any good, will automatically disappear, since there will be nothing gained by this gesture.

Gambling Houses In Miami Reported Dark

MIAMI, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—The Herald said yesterday that all professional gambling houses in the greater Miami area were dark through Saturday night as a result of the killing of one man and wounding of six in a gun battle that early Saturday morning ended an unsuccessful attempt to rob the gambling casino at the Midway night club.

Police searched without success yesterday for three of the bandits who escaped from the club after their leader was killed and one of their companions shot in a gun battle with police.

One of the bandits who escaped was wounded, as evidenced by a trail of blood that was followed by police from the club to a street several hundred yards away, where the injured man apparently was taken away in an ambulance by his two companions.

Sport Briefs

BRADENTON, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—Manager Gabby Street had planned a long round of batting practice yesterday afternoon to celebrate arrival of the Cardinals regulars, but only three reported as the Old Sergeant postponed the slugging workout with much grumbling.

Joel Hunt, George Watkins and Bob Parham, outfielders, were the only athletes who joined the batters who had been working for a week. Sylvester Johnson and Jim Lindsey were additional pitchers on the job. Not a single infielder was in camp and the only catchers were Leo Dixon and Mike Gohnzales.

FORT MYERS, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—All but two of the Athletics are in camp now and the ball park hummed with activity yesterday. The only two absentees are Al Simmons and George Earnshaw, who are training in Hot Springs, Ark. There will be an "added starter" when Joe Boley, who was sold to Cleveland but returned to the A's by Judge Landis, arrives here Mar. 10.

The latest arrivals are Second Baseman Max Bishop, John Quinn, Mule Haas, Ed Chocki and Don Roberts.

WINTER HAVEN, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—The short-handed Phillies have reinforcements for their training practice with Winter Haven's police force, consisting of the chief, the sergeant, the policeman—and the mascot, a 1-year-old police dog, is owned by the sergeant, who helps the team in the outfield on occasion. Pal helps too.

Catch Jack Onslow was popping fouls for Catcher Al Todd to work on. One foul popped backward over the grandstand roof. Pal sat up as though begging for a bone, under the eaves where he guessed the ball would roll off. He guessed right, and caught the ball neatly in his mouth.

NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—Joe Vosmik, ex-undisputed batting sensation with the Cleveland Indians last year, blew into the Indian camp with a trio of rookies yesterday to head the final contingent of Trilemen on the spring training jaunt.

Manager Roger Peckinpaugh gave his squad of pitchers, the first and most effective batting practice yesterday with Wes Ferrell lifting one against the barrier.

BILOXI, Miss., Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—Indications were yesterday as the Washington Senators' pitchers and batters went into action that most of the team will be on hand for duty well before the week is out.

Dave Harris has sent word he will start for camp not later than today. Joe Cronin, shortstop, likewise has written he is anxious to get going, and Sam West is headed for Biloxi. Buddy Myer, second baseman, arrived to get the signing business decided, leaving President Clark Griffith's signing worries confined to West, Heine Manush and Joe Judge.

PASO ROBLES, Calif., Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—One of the Pittsburgh Pirates' biggest problems—the shaping of the infield—is to be among the first tackled by Manager George Gibson.

Gus Suhr, of course, is going to be the first baseman and Capt. Pie Traynor will be on third, but the balance of the inner works must be studied.

Tony Piet and Howard Grockless are to fight it out for second base and while Tommy Thoenow seems in good shape to start the season at short.

PALO ALTO, Calif., Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—Dale Alexander shattered a Stanford university tradition and gave the Detroit Tigers' spring training season an auspicious opening yesterday by twice driving the ball from home plate over the left field fence at the university baseball field yesterday.

The fence is 460 feet from the plate and Stanford athletic authorities said the feat never before had been accomplished.

PALESTINE, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—The short-handed Phillies have reinforcements for their training practice with Winter Haven's police force, consisting of the chief, the sergeant, the policeman—and the mascot, a 1-year-old police dog, is owned by the sergeant, who helps the team in the outfield on occasion. Monday was the last day in which Seminole County motorists were able to drive their automobiles without facing the possibility of being arrested for failure to purchase their 1932 license tags.

Dozens of persons appeared at the office of R. L. Hagan, Sanford tag agent, during yesterday, purchasing tags, and incidentally, paying the 25 percent penalty which went into effect on Feb. 1.

Sheriff J. P. McClelland said late yesterday that he expects to carry out the Florida law in the matter, but that he has instructed his deputies to be lenient for a few days, owing to the fact that many persons have been unable to attend to their usual first-of-the-month debts and the license tag matter at the same time.

He received a letter from W. S. McLin, acting motor vehicle commissioner Monday, which reads as follows:

"As you are doubtless aware, after February, automobile owners who have not acquired their 1932 tags will be subject to arrest. The period for the purchase of tags was extended this year by law to Feb. 1. A penalty of 25 percent was imposed upon those who had not purchased tags prior to that date, although delinquents were not subject to arrest until Mar. 1.

"It is unfair to those who have paid their tax to have others escape, and it is especially important that the revenue be collected as early as possible for the aid of our schools. I will therefore, greatly appreciate your co-operation in the enforcement of this law."

Race Horse Will Go By Plane To Havana

MIAMI BEACH, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—Phantom, an air minded horse owned by Miss Betty Rand, wealthy Houston Texas, woman, is to take his second international airplane flight this week, his owner announced.

Miss Rand has chartered a transport plane from New York to fly from here to Havana with her and her horse, and will make the trip as soon as the plane arrives here and necessary changes can be made in the plane. The changes entail only enlarging of the doors, she said.

The horse rode in an airplane from Paris to London in 1925, and has traveled in planes a number of times since. When Miss Rand returns from Havana with him, she expects to continue with him by air to the West Coast, she said.

One-Club Tourney Is Being Planned By Sanford Women

Determined to make golf a more popular recreation to the women of this city, officials of the Sanford Country Club and a group of local women have organized a committee which yesterday afternoon set about enlisting entries in a one-club tournament to be held at the club on Friday, Mar. 11.

Every known woman golfer of this city and all who have ever taken even the smallest interest in the game will be urged to enter the tourney, for which prizes will be awarded and which costs the entrant nothing but a few hours time.

Instead of having to pay caddies to carry a large bag of clubs around the course, entrants need select but one club, any club they choose. This club will be used for driving, pitching, putting, or any type of shot which the golfer finds necessary.

The committee is composed of Mrs. H. M. Papworth, Mrs. E. F. Housholder, Mrs. A. W. Epps,

It is the hope of the committee that this tournament may be made a weekly affair until such time that many more good golfers will have been developed. At the present time, according to Allen Stewart, professional at the club, there are at least 12 women golfers in this city who should be able to hold their own in tournaments. He seeks at least double that many, and is the guiding force back of the tourney.

The City Championship tournament for Women has advanced to the semi-final stage, and Mrs. V. A. Speer, 1931 champion must meet Mrs. Allan Stewart, and Mrs. R. Melling must meet Miss Jane Lelloy before Thursday night, in order to qualify for the finals.

Mrs. Speer drew a bye, while Mrs. Stewart drew Mrs. A. C. Fort, whom she defeated, 2 and 1. Mrs. Melling defeated Miss Margaret Peters, 2 and 1, and Miss Lelloy defeated Miss Helen Marentette, 4 and 3.

The finals will be played on Sunday, with a cup and the title Champion Woman Golfer for 1932, City of Sanford, at stake.

Meeting the Test

Life Insurance, the great stabilizer of human welfare, carries on PEACE OF MIND, with which to face the present and plan for the future, never has meant more than it means today. These are trying times. It is difficult to believe that anyone has escaped the effects of a world-wide deflation of values, contraction of enterprise, social change.

That life insurance companies, during the past year, have been able to show an increase of insurance in force is indeed a tribute to the high purpose which these institutions serve. It indicates a growing national consciousness of this reliable form of financial protection.

Life insurance is, in a real sense, an investment in peace of mind, with interest payable in future comfort. It paves the way to education; to replacement of earning power cut off by death; to establishment of credit; to liquidation of indebtedness; to estate creation—to these and other family or business objectives.

Metropolitan Life Insurance policyholders, representing about one-fifth of the populations of United States and Canada, should derive deep satisfaction from the accompanying statements of their Company. It must hearten them to realize how sound their life insurance protection continues to be.

Blue Ribbon Program Features At Milane

As the first double feature "Blue Ribbon Month" program, the Milane Theater is presenting today and tomorrow, Marian Marsh in "Under Eighteen," a Warner Brothers picture; and Thomas Meighan and Charlotte Greenwood in "Theaters at Play," a Fox Films picture.

Miss Marsh, whose career covers less than twelve months, has been watched with much interest by the public since her appearance as leading lady in John Barrymore in "Svengali," followed by performances in a like capacity with Edward G. Robinson in "Five Star Final"—with William Powell in "The Road to Singapore"—and with Mr. Barrymore in "The Mad Genius."

In "Under Eighteen" her support is excellent. Warren William, Broadway leading man who recently appeared on the screen in "Expensive Women" and "Honor of the Family" play the rich playboy with suave finesse. Regis Toomey, the likable youth seen not long ago in "The Finger Point" is just right as romantic lead. Other favorites are Anita Page, Joyce Compton, Emma Dunn, J. Farrell MacDonald, Judith Vosselli, Norman Foster, Dorothy Appleby, Maude Egan, Claire Dodd, Murray Kinnell, Paul Porcasi, Mary Doran and Walter McGrath.

Breathless thrills, hilarious comedy, swift action and an absorbingly "different" romance all feature "Cheaters at Play," the delightful attraction that will be offered to the patrons of the Milane today and tomorrow also.

Powerful Jap War Machine Is Pushing Chinese Backwards

as flames devoured huge areas of shattered buildings. Japanese guns hammered Chinese positions with their powerful explosions. Chinese guns replied in kind, their heaviest ordnance, placed on railway cars in western China, thundering above the lesser pieces.

The battle shook everything within miles. Throughout Shanghai's residential district houses and apartment blocks rattled as the dogs of war again hurled into action. The shelling, which had lulled in the early morning after booming far into the night, opened up again before dawn. The flashes from the big guns were visible over most of the city.

Beyond Shanghai along the Yangtze river front action also was poked up with the coming of dawn, although to a lesser degree. The water area was under a dense cloud of fog and smoke.

Despite Chinese demials, strong and apparently authentic reports and the Japanese succeeded in landing a force of approximately 10,000 men in the vicinity of Luho yesterday.

Although communications with Luho, 20 miles north of Shanghai, were shattered, it seemed today the Japanese had landed on the south bank of the Yangtze River and were fighting their way southward. Whether they were troops of the Eleventh or Fourteenth Japanese divisions, both expected to come here, was not specified.

They were thought to have come ashore in armored force, while a destroyer squadron in the Yangtze shelled the shore line to cover their landing.

The reinforcements were believed to be advancing southward with the object of joining with the Twenty-Second regiment of Japanese infantry, which is on the right flank of the Japanese lines north of Kiangwan.

Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa's fresh troops saw their first heavy action this morning in a fierce attack on the Kiangwan front in which they sent the Chinese front line in the face of machine gun fire.

The Chinese, weakened by a battering assault lasting from dawn until dark yesterday, fell back to the south, fighting furiously foot of ground.

Nests of machine gunners covered the retreat while the main body took up positions on secondary defense line prepared for just such a contingency.

The Japanese headquarters announced that during yesterday's action the wide line between Kiangwan and Mianchungchen, a distance of about two miles, had been advanced from three-fourths of a mile to a mile.

These new positions were consolidated during the night and long before dawn the Japanese storm troops went over the top to continue the forward movement.

The Japanese apparently were carrying out their original plan to break through at Kiangwan and then drive southward toward the Chinese strongholds in China, about two miles away. If they advance far enough the attack on Chapei probably will be carried out in conjunction with an assault from the Japanese lines to the east in Hongkew.

What was left of Chapei was burning early this morning in a great fire about half a mile long. Flames leapt high into the air. They were plainly visible from the roof of the Great Northern Telegraph office near the Shanghai Bund, where The Associated Press headquarters is located.

For the moment both the Chinese and Japanese batteries were silent.

Japanese headquarters announced that advancing infantrymen found more than 200 Chinese dead at a cross roads which had been under heavy fire for several days. More than 700 wounded Chinese were brought back from the front to the crowded hospitals of the International Settlement.

No figures on Japanese losses were made public but a headquarters spokesman indicated they had been heavy. A colonel and a captain, he said, were among the men killed by Chinese machine gun fire in the course of one of yesterday's assaults.

Before the guns let up last night the Japanese artillery fire was concentrated in the Chinese left flank to the south of Kiangwan. This apparently was for the purpose of reducing the Chinese positions in preparations for renewed assaults today.

Neutral observers in touch with developments reported that peace negotiations were virtually at a standstill. Chinese officials held a series of conferences last night and early this morning but no definite results were achieved. The Chinese held to their contention that it was impossible to submit to the Japanese demand that they withdraw their troops.

Gen. Tsai Ting-kai, commander of the Chinese Nineteenth Route Army, was well aware that fresh Japanese reinforcements had been pouring into the area for several days in preparation for a fight to the finish, but said he would see the business out to the end.

The warfare took a new turn shortly after noon yesterday when two powerful mines blew up close to a couple of Japanese warships moored in the Whangpoo of the International Settlement.

These explosions rocked all Shanghai and residents pointed to the streets thinking there was an earthquake.

The mines were so potent that when they went off, they sent streams of water 100 yards into the air. One of them exploded within 20 yards of the Japanese flagship Izumo, which has been the target of Chinese artillery on numerous occasions, and the other was about 50 yards from the cruiser Ono, 500 yards downstream.

This second mine was only a short distance away from the bow of the American flagship Houston which is anchored mid-stream below the Japanese consulate. A British flagship, Kent, was moored near the opposite shore, off the Whangpoo just across from the Ono, and the Italian flag ship Enea was close by.

Japanese naval officers aboard the Izumo and the mine were not close enough to do any damage, but they caused great alarm on both warships. Officers and the crew would not climb their ladders.

The explosion resulted in a Japanese section of Shanghai which the mine hit. It was a four block street were crowded with office workers and business men were at their desks. Shanghai suffers an earthquake once every 10 years, and that what everyone thought had happened.

Ear Admiral S. Shimada said that after the explosion, a boatload of rubber insulated wire, fifty feet long, was sent to the warship which connected the mine with the floating side of a mine.

Twelve thousand troops in force were moved into the Japanese support line and in the evening, when the zero hour for the attack came yesterday morning.

There was a heavy attack and our bombing preparation for the assault and a squadron of tanks crept ahead of the infantrymen.

By afternoon the Chinese spread throughout the entire front from Mianchungchen past Kiangwan to the sea, and down to Chapei.

Observers behind the lines said the most spectacular scene of the fighting that has passed here. The entire front was a stand-up and at times the whole battle area was covered by great clouds of smoke.

General Shirakawa, who took over command of the Japanese land forces from Gen. Kenji Ito, said he would do his utmost to avoid aggravating the situation and to limit the military operations to the minimum necessary to accomplish the speediest termination of the present crisis.

He said the Japanese reinforcements were made necessary by "the massing of a vast army" of the Chinese with "obdurate resistance" in resisting the Japanese forces.

"Should the Chinese forces see fit to accept our proposals in good faith," General Shirakawa said, "we will speedily withdraw our troops and not hesitate to suspend military operations."

porters are confident of winning the states 55 votes.

Postmaster General Brown has been in Ohio lining up the delegation for President. He returned to Washington yesterday and reported on the situation to administration leaders at the capital, including Senators Watson of Indiana and Moses of New Hampshire.

Brown's appearance on the floor with Senator Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, and former Senator William M. Butler of Missouri, senate chairman of the committee under President Coolidge, started a round of speculation that the principals and it was in a serious denial.

Butler, one of a small group of dinner guests last night at the White House, has been mentioned as a possible successor to Fess in Republican nomination. But he said he was in Washington on business and was expected to leave on Monday for a national political convention. He pointed out the fact that he was not a member of the Senate.

Republican leaders here indicated Brown would be the new Republican choice, after the nomination convention in June. Hoover is rumored to have been a contender, but a few days ago he decided to wait.

Speculation also is that Butler might be selected as the general candidate. Brown, who has the nomination, but is regarded as well as a dark horse, is indirectly.
