GROWERS HERE AFFECTED BY RATE CHANGES

Hutchison Explains Freight Charge Revisions Going Into Effect In February

As the result of changes to be made immediately in freight rates on vegetables sent from Florida to several markets, growers and shippers of this section and Florida are to save thousands of dollars and the distribution of mixed carloads is expected to be stimulated, according to word received here today by J. C. Hutchison, sales manager of the Sanford-Orlando Truck Growers, Inc., from R. J. Dorn, assistant freight traffic manager of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad.

A new mixed carload ruling, designed by Mr. Hutchison and unanimously approved at the joint convention in Chicago last week of the National League of Commission Merchants, the American Fruit and Vegetable Shippers Association and the Western Fruit Jobbers, goes into effect on Feb. 6, while on Feb. 12, truck competitive rates will become effective, both in the Southeast.

Explanation of just what effect the new ruling and revised rates will have on the present transportation and distribution problem was made this morning by Mr. Hutchison when he said "Some time ago, the Atlantic Coast Line railroad was approached and requested to sponsor these two proposals, and they have been endeavoring since that time to secure the approval of the other carriers and of the Interstate Commerce Commission."

"The general having been received," he continued, "and the same several hundred cars of celery and other vegetables are shipped into the Southeastern territory each season, these changes will save a good many thousands of dollars to this community and the state. The truck competitive rates from Sanford will average approximately 83¢ per car saving. These rates will be effective in approximately the same territory as the citrus truck competitive rates last season."

"The reduced competitive truck rates," he said, "will apply on the present lowest minimum when loaded in refrigerator cars, and will also apply on lower minimum loaded weights when loaded in."

Members Of Congress Argue Over Publication Of Its List Of R. F. C. Fund Borrowers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Tentative questions of doubt and assurance that everything was as it should be, came from members of Congress yesterday as they considered looking further into the 11,000 loans made in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation made in the first five months it was at work. Until the voluminous report could be studied thoroughly, nothing was likely to happen so far as investigation was concerned. But there was, meanwhile, both criticism and defense of the facts surrounding the $1,195,000,000 the corporation told the House it authorized from Feb. 2 through July 20 last year.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

GOD IS LOVE: Beloved, let us love one another; for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God.—John 4:7.

LULLABY

Sleep, baby eagle, the wide world is singing Lullaby tunes to bring sweet dreams and rest; Hush, little brother, the whole world is bringing Tribute of love to a once lonely nest.

Rest, tiny fledgling while angel wings hover, Unseen by mortals made blind by their light; Fear not night shadows, the world is your lover—Whispering so softly—"God bless you, goodnight."

From the way some of these congressmen talk you'd think that the best way to break the back of the depression is break the back of the taxpayer.

The vote on the Glass banking bill which Senator Long filibustered against so strenuously was 64 to 9 in favor of it. Evidently, the Louisiana senator was some what in the minority.

If, in regard to bathing suits, the officials of Miami Beach decide to adopt a "more liberal policy", we suggest that they change the name of that exclusive resort to the "Garden of Eden".

Every merchant in town has stocks on his shelves which ought to be moved. And there are hundreds of persons in town who are in need of the things which the merchant has. Isn't it too bad that some sort of swapping-around process can't be arranged whereby all would benefit?

If you are a single man and had a net income of a thousand dollars during the past year, don't forget that you will have to pay an income tax. That is your contribution to the high cost of government. Men with thousand dollar incomes heretofore have not had to pay income taxes, but this year because our Congress was fearful of cutting expenses they will pay, and through the nose.

Directors of the American Tobacco Company recently declared their regular dividends on common and common "B" stocks. Tobacco companies which make cigarettes also make money and declare dividends, while farmers who produce celery and other vegetables can find no market, and other companies which manufacture food and clothing are forced to close for want of business. It's a funny world!

Senator Robinson, of Indiana, says this country is now on the direct road to either cancellation of the war debts or at least reduction. This is most amazing news, coming as it does from one who opposes any consideration whatever of foreign debts. What would it profit this country to collect the debt and force our bankrupt customers? Southern cotton farmers would be among those who would benefit most from a revision of the war debts, at least half of their crop must be sold in Europe.

Among those being widely discussed for the position of Secretary of the treasury in the Roosevelt cabinet, are Carter Glass and Bernard Baruch. Both are capable men with sound banking experience and have their opinions on the subject of American currency and financial matters well known to the public. Including the names of the two candidates, the names of three more are being mentioned. Glass has the additional distinction of having been the leader allied with Wall Street.

The Mayor's Dilemma

The mayor of Miami Beach is between Scylla and Charybdis. Merchants of the famous resort have come to him with the sad story that because of the unliberal laws, the winter visitors cannot "play" as they might desire, and that because of this they are not spending their winters in Miami Beach and consequently their money with the merchants.

They contend that a little eye-winking at certain restrictions against public gambling would do the trick and they want the mayor to tell his police officers to use a little discrimination, the idea being that only the better class of gaming institutions be allowed to operate and that the "dives" be closed.

The mayor finds himself in the unfortunate position of having been elected by the people to enforce the laws which they passed, and now being asked to violate his oath in order that these laws may be disregarded.

The committee which called on the mayor should have used at least ordinary discretion and not have asked him to distinguish between "nice" and "bad" gambling. The only possible answer he could give to such a request was that he could not say "what places can run, and what places cannot?" To do this obviously would subject him to the suspicion of graft.

It is a curious thing that the committee overlooked the fact that there are other law enforcement agencies besides the city police and that even if the mayor should issue a restraining order, there could still be, very reasonably, no gambling if the sheriff objected.

Such attempts to make officers like the mayor and his police both the executive and legislative branch of the government in no small way accounts for much of the criticism of our governmental agencies. It seems to be a peculiar twist in American psychology to hold executive officers responsible for all the laws, both in their making and in their enforcement.

We wonder if it ever occurred to the Miami Beach merchants that if the gambling laws are objectionable, that the sane and honorable way of remedying the situation would be to carry their grievance to the legislative branches of the government, and not to try to degrade the honor and integrity of their enforcement officials.

The Twentieth Amendment

The country is now witnessing the last "lame duck" session of Congress which it will ever be called upon to endure. The ratification of the Twentieth Amendment by Missouri the other day provided it with the approval of the necessary three-fourths of the states. The exact text of the Twentieth Amendment is as follows:

Section 1. The terms of the President and Vice-President shall end at noon on the twentieth day of January, and the terms of Senators and Representatives at noon on the third day of January, of the years in which such terms would have ended if this article had not been ratified; and the terms of their successors shall then begin.

Section 2. The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall begin at noon on the third day of January, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

Section 3. If, at the time fixed for the beginning of the term of the President, the President-elect shall have died, the Vice-President-elect shall become President. If a President shall not have been chosen before the time fixed for the beginning of his term, or if the President-elect shall have failed to qualify, then the Vice-President-elect shall act as President until a President shall have qualified; and the Congress may by law provide for the case wherein neither a President-elect nor a Vice-President-elect shall have qualified, declaring who shall then act as President, or the manner in which one who is to act shall be selected, and such person shall act accordingly until a President or Vice-President shall have qualified.

Section 4. The Congress may by law provide for the case of the death of any of the persons from whom the House of Representatives may choose a President whenever the right of choice shall have devolved upon them, and for the case of the death of any of the persons from whom the Senate may choose a Vice-President whenever the right of choice shall have devolved upon them.

Section 5. Sections 1 and 2 shall take effect upon the fifteenth day of October following the ratification of this article.

Section 6. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission.

INFLATION PROSPECTS

BY MARK SULLIVAN. In New York, one learns that a most inconsiderable number of persons in the financial community have persuaded themselves that the phase of the depression just ahead of us is likely to express itself in inflation of the currency. A few have put their investments in such form as to get the advantage of inflation if it takes place. A considerable number are waiting to see if currency inflation occurs and meanwhile keeping their funds liquid, or otherwise mobilizing their affairs so as to move when inflation becomes imminent. The financial community, over the week-end, was rather marked by the flavor of expecting inflation. We're informed Washington does not share this view. It is true that many inflationary measures have been introduced, scores of them. The distance, however, between the introduction of a bill and the enactment of it on the statute books is suggested by the fact that in an ordinary Congress the ratification between bills introduced and laws enacted is as a thousand to one. That no currency inflation measure will be enacted before Mar. 4, is absolutely sure, President Hoover would veto it, and the certainty of the veto discourages promotion of such measures from becoming serious. After 4, everything depends on President-elect Roosevelt. It may be said at once that hardly any responsible Democrat believes that Roosevelt as party leader would encourage inflation, or as president would fail to veto it. Mr. Roosevelt is on record again and yet again, in the most convincing manner. The Democratic platform in last year's campaign contained the strongest endorsement of sound currency ever written in a platform of either party, even in normal times when it was easy to endorse sound money. On top of this are repeated campaign declarations of Mr. Roosevelt to the effect that, as he said at St. Louis Oct. 21, "the obligations of the federal government," including, of course, its currency, "are paramount." No one, not even those who lack certainly about the continuity of Mr. Roosevelt's convictions in some other respects, believes he would ever countenance currency inflation. About Mr. Roosevelt's point of view on sound currency, there is indirect but convincing evidence in a detail of his action on Friday about foreign debts. It became known that Mr. Roosevelt wishes these debts to be handled in such a manner that as one of the consequences Great Britain may get back on the gold standard because that would be to the interest of the United States. A president-to-be who wants Great Britain to get back to the gold standard does not want the United States to get off it. There is further indirect evidence in the well-known rumors that Mr. Roosevelt would like to have Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, to be his secretary of the treasury. A president with any expectation of bringing about inflation would never want Senator Glass in charge of the treasury.

Two Companies Of Guardsmen Being Held In Readiness

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Two companies of the National Guard were held in readiness for mobilization today as the aftermath of demonstrations by 200 unemployed men and women at the state capital. Gov. Henry Horner communicated with the attorney general's office shortly after the demonstration had commenced and headed for a hearing at his offices. They finally surged out before the swinging clubs of police, tearing off a door jamb as they left. Shortly after the Governor talked with the attorney general, the machine gun company of the 133rd Infantry here was ordered to remain in readiness all night at the state fairgrounds. In addition, Troop F of the National Guard was instructed to hold itself ready at the state arsenal. "Adj. Gen. Carlos Black said there had been no mobilization order, but the two companies had been instructed informally to await developments. The delegation representing the Illinois unemployed council, first had attempted to participate in a discussion of the sales tax before the House of Representatives.

Inaugural Parade Will Be Limited To 10,000 Persons

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(AP)—A two-hour inaugural parade, limited to about 10,000 marchers, has been decided upon by the inaugural committee. Tentative plans call for four divisions to be led by Gen. John J. Pershing as grand marshal. The first will be composed of units of the army, navy, coast guard and marines. The second will embrace governors of the states. Then will come the national guard, organized reserves, officers reserves, and representatives of the citizens' military training camps. The final division will consist of patriotic, fraternal and civic and political marching units. The committee said that it might be necessary to reduce participating groups below full strength to keep the procession within the fixed limits. DELRAY BEACH—Gulf Stream Golf Club opened for 1932-33 season.
