Teenage Night Civic Center

The teenage night clu known as the "Capri Club," will switch bases this week. No longer will dances be held on the weekend at the Capri on Park Avenue, Director James Talmadge an-

He said the temporary cation will be the main auditorium of the Civic Center. Talmadge gave these reasons for the change: (1) the Capri can no longer handle the crowds; (2) the largest crowd of the club's history is expected this weekend; (3 the Capri is up for sale and could be sold at any time. "The Night Crawlers," a nationally-known teen band, is scheduled to play Saturday night. Talmadge said the largest crowd of the club's history is expected. Talmadge said the club would change its name and possibly find a permanent

Forest City Uni Will Snonsor Little League

Division, Washington, D. C. The speakers reported a five year study of organized gambling noted 70 per cent of the adult population spent one-half their income on gambling, a total of $500 billion each year which exceeds the combined total gross profit of U. S. Steel, General Motors, General Electric, Metropolitan Life Insurance, and Ford Motors. In 1958 during Edgar Hoover's administration, they said, $22 billion a year was spent by the citizens on gambling. During the Kefauver investigations, it was learned that in Miami one gambling organization netted $30-$40 million a year. Branch warned against dealing with any gambling organization, pointing out no financial gain is ever realized by the individual. The public can help eliminate such crime, he said, by reporting anything of a suspicious nature to the right source and be willing to back up their report. Club members were shown a film giving step by step illustrations of the operations of loan sharks, gamblers who cheat at cards and dice, etc. Branch advised arrangements could be made for him to bring another program on different phases of crime before the club in the future. During the business meet ing, the nominating committee, Otto Baumgartner, Mrs. Fred Rassman and Don Harris, presented a slate of officers for the coming year. Named were B. H. Jarrard, president; Mrs. A. S. Mer-rill, vice president; Mrs. Ronald D. Masten, recording secretary; Mrs. Bertie Ryan, corresponding secretary, and

A Vote For Dickinson

Fred O. (Bud) Dickinson has served his state with excellent results in varying capacities. He now is asking Florida voters to return him to the office of state mptroller. The Sanford Herald doesn't hestitate to announce its support of Mr. Dickinson. We do not believe any candidate in the field can match him in qualifications and

The picture is changing. Witness: members of the Cameo Club at the Ohio Reformatory for Women (OFW)

It was charm personified when nearly 20 women stepped from an eight - week course on personality development to become newest members of the club.

The club is composed of more than 40 women, who under the guiding hand of two other inmates, worked long hours on a "new look" - and personality improvement. The charm course in prison started when the superintendent, Miss Martha E. Wheeler, noticed the need for sprucing up appearances and outlook. But tax funds couldn't be used for a charm school. Some money was raised by the sale of articles made by the girls to visitors. The staff pitched in, collecting as many items as possible for the course. The school's education director, L. H. Troesch, meanwhile, appealed to persons in the beauty fields to help. The voluntary course with room for 20 women has been filled to capacity since the first one commenced last July. It extends over nine weeks and includes exercise for posture and figure control. Instruction in diet and nutrition is a part of the improvement treatment. Other phases are face, emphasizing good disposition and pleasant smile to accompany correct make-up; wardrobe care; personality developments, with emphasis on correct speech, Tape recorders are used in the speech training phase to help the women hear them-

Other Instruction concerns how to get a job and hold it, how to budget, entertain, and how to be socially correct. Supplies for the course aren't much of a problem now, thanks to the interested business persons anxious to help. A cosmetic firm in Cleveland supplies each girl with a beauty kit that lasts seven to eight weeks. A Relax-a-cisor muscle-firming machines and works with each class. A Cleveland woman, scon to be released from the institution has devoted many hours to help instruct the inmates and organize the program. When she leaves, a Youngstown woman, serving time for killing her husband, will take

'Shank's Mare' Best Way To Tour Florence

By Murray J. Brown UPI Travel Editor Time has been kind to the ancient city of Florence, the home of Dante, Michelangelo and the Medicis. Here are no ruins of past glories -- only

The historic city lies about 180 miles north of Rome. It takes about 10 hours by CIAT sightseeing bus (fare about $10), which includes a twohour stopover in Assisi where St. Francis lived. Or one may go directly by Rapido (express) train in about half the time (first class seat about

The best way to see Florence is by shank's mare. Major points of interest in the old city are concentrated in a relatively small circle bisected by the Arno River on whose banks Dante first met his Beatrice (the place marked).

We began our tour at the famous Plazza delta Signoria, standing events took place including the burning of the reformer Savanarola in 1498. A plaque on the pavement marks the spot. Dominating the square is the grim 13th century Town art, including a marble group Vasari and Ghirlandalo. The Loggia Dei Lanzi is next door with its outdoor display of statuary, among them Cellini's Perseus still standing on the spot where it was first unveiled in the mid-1500s.

days. One can spend hours browsing through the shops with their dazzling displays of Florentine handicrafts - fine tooled leather, ceramics, jewelry, silverware. The Uffizi is about 10 minmasterpieces. Behind the Uffizi lie the famed Bobodli Gardens, first laid out in the 1500s with flowers, trees, shrubs, and fountains providing a perfect place for a short breather. There's an amusing statue of a dwarf astride a tortoise outside the palace, too. the Piazza Del Duemo. The cathedral of Santa Maria dei Fiore, of inlaid white, gray and rose-colored marble, was begun in 1296 and completed in 1436.
