May Be Serious Heart Disease

DEAR DR. LAMB - I wish you would comment on angina pectoris as to its symptoms, seriousness and effects on one. I have heard it talked about but never really understood what it is. I've more or less thought of it as a nuisance condition. DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm afraid that it is a lot more than a nuisance. If you really have angina pectoris, it means you have serious heart disease. Classically, angina pectoris is chest pain usually involving the area of the sternum (breast bone) right in the middle of the chest. It's a pressure sensation. It may be described as having a weight on the chest or a constricting feeling. This unpleasant sensation is primarily caused by insufficient blood flow to the heart muscle. The poor circulation to the heart muscle is usually caused by obstruction of the arteries to the heart by fatty-cholesterol deposits. Many years ago Dr. Paul Dudley White pointed out that when a person first started to have angina pectoris, it usually meant he had an underlying heart attack. The person who has persistent recurring angina pectoris usually has a pattern to it. Most often the pain will develop during exertion. That's why it's called exertional angina. The pain usually goes away when the person stops exertion. I am sending you the Health Letter number 3-10, Heart Attack: Myocardial Infarction, Angina Pectoris, to give you more information on how these conditions are related to each other. Other readers who want this issue can send 30 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10101. One of the hallmarks of true angina pectoris is its short duration, usually less than five to 10 minutes. It can also be caused by insufficient blood flow to the heart muscle. There are medicines that can be taken to provide immediate relief from anginal pain and still others that seem to improve the efficiency of the circulation to the heart muscle. DEAR DR. LAMB - I recently I have been taking a warm bath before retiring each night as I found that this helps to relieve daily tensions and is sleep inducing. In the morning I take a shower to start the day. I am not trying to be facetious but a friend has told me that this is too much - that it can be harmful. Is taking a bath at night and a shower in the morning harmful? DEAR READER - It doesn't need to be. As people get older they sometimes develop dry skin. Excessive bathing particularly with effective soaps may tend to dry out the skin more. This can lead to itching and irritation. If you don't have this problem, there is no reason that you can't bathe as frequently as you choose to. You can put a drop or two on your bath towel after you've finished your bath or shower and use that for your body. The oil will be gradually spread in a thin amount all over the skin and act as a moisturizer.

School Aide Has Had His Fill Of Those Tests

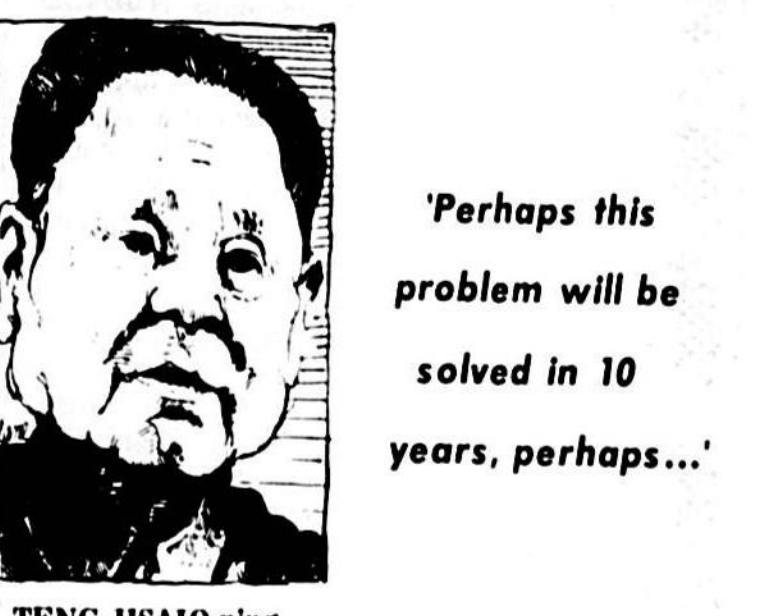

By LEONARD KRANSDORF Herald Staff Writer Is Bob King down in the dumps? The answer is yes for Bob King who at least twice a year takes a trip to the county landfill in Geneva. King, testing director for the Seminole County schools, can be seen journeying to the south Seminole landfill in a school district truck filled with about 200 boxes containing hundreds of test booklets. His job is to bury them. In the booklets are the questions which have been answered by Seminole County students as part of the state assessment testing program now required by the state. The questions booklets contain the state student assessment tests administered to 11th and 12th graders as well as the basic skills question booklets which have been used by third, fifth and eighth graders. King estimates in the two years the tests have been administered, he has buried about 30,000. "The state requires us to dispose of the test booklets because each year 75 percent of the questions are unchanged," he said. "And we found that burying them is the most efficient way compared to burning and shredding." Once the test booklets are collected, King loads them into the truck and takes them to the landfill where they are buried. As proof that he disposed of them, a signed document has to be submitted to the state, King added. And, King noted if anyone has any idea

Teng Won't Bar Force In Dealing With Taiwan Foe

PEKING (UPI)—China Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping today tightened the timetable for unification with Taiwan and said 100 years would be too long to wait. He also refused to rule out the use of force in dealing with the rival Chinese government but said he hoped unification would be peaceful. The 75-year-old Chinese leader told a news conference—his first with Western reporters—that when he visits Washington later this month he will invite Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a leading critic of President Carter's decision to open diplomatic relations with the mainland, to China. Teng also ruled out any discussion of human rights questions with the Carter administration and said he knows of no plans for China to buy U.S. weapons. Teng, the 4-ft-11-inch architect of China's modernization program, met with 27 reporters at the Great Hall of the People beside Tian An Men square for 50 minutes. He said China is anxious to open talks on the unification of China and Taiwan with Nationalist Chinese Pres. Chiang Ching-kuo. He referred to the Nationalist Chinese leader only as "Mr. Chiang Ching-kuo" and did not use the title of president. "So far as I am personally concerned, my hope is that this goal (unification) can be reached this year," Teng said. "As far as my health is concerned, I can hope to live for about 10 years and that is too long for the Taiwan question." Teng did not mention that Nationalist Chinese authorities already have rejected an offer from Peking to open talks on mutual trade, travel, postal service and demilitarization of the Taiwan Strait. Compared to his statement on Taiwan before the Dec. 16 announced by Carter that China and the U.S. will establish official ties, Teng's words today suggested a hardened position and a shortened Chinese timetable for Taiwan unification.

Kubles Eyed For Lake Mary City Manager Post

Councilmen Harry Terry, Pat Southward and Cliff Nelson all named Kubles as their choice for city manager. Mayor Walter Sorenson has also expressed support of Kubles. The city's charter, adopted five years ago, already includes a provision for a city manager. Councilman Harry Terry held the office of city manager until he was elected mayor. Councilman Lillian Griffin and Bert Perinchief voiced opposition to the motion. It was Perinchief's motion that tabled the idea until Jan. 11. "With an issue this important I think we need to give it time so more people can express their view," said Perinchief. Terry confirmed, following Thursday's meeting, that Kubles "is my first choice." He noted Kubles has experience in municipal government having worked in Texas in that profession for many years before coming to central Florida. Another factor is that Kubles would take the job at no increase in his present salary of $12,000 per year. Several critics of the move had contended the expense of paying a qualified city manager would be too great for Lake Mary to afford. "I just don't see where Lake Mary can afford this," said outgoing Councilman Griffin. "We don't have the tax base to support this." Former Councilman Marty Bacon expressed the same concern. "I don't think we've got the money to splurge for a city manager," Bacon told the council. Kubles was not mentioned by name during the meeting. However, Terry, Mrs. Southward and Nelson have all said he is their choice for the job. Perinchief expressed an added concern about hiring a city manager. "I see this as a super boss position that has all sorts of ramifications for the people working here," commented Perinchief. Hiring a city manager could adversely affect the climate within city hall," noted Perinchief. He explained employee moral might drop because the manager would have too many powers. "The city charter gives the city manager a tremendous amount of clout and power," said Perinchief. Nelson countered that the city manager's duties could be regulated by the council and if the need to change those duties arose, the council has the power to do so. Advocates of the city manager position said such a person could handle the day-to-day operation of the city relieving communication problems and directing staff. "The common practice of each department being handled by each individual councilman has

JOHN GILBERT HUDDLES... ROBERT RUND DRIES OFF TOWING IN THE CAPSIZED CANOE ON LAKE MONROE

Canoe Flips, Two Rescued From Brisk Lake Monroe

By DENNIS FOLA Herald Staff Writer John Gilbert and Robert Rund of Cassberry spent about 30 minutes in the chilly, whipping waters of Lake Monroe Thursday afternoon. Gilbert said to him, it seemed like a lifetime. The canoe the pair were in capsized less than 100 yards from shore on Lake Monroe and the rough waters made swimming to safety an impossibility. The pair were only able to get help arrived from local boaters Jim Nichols, Joe Meier and John Lesarrell. Gilbert, 17, of Carriage Hill Circle conceded that going canoeing Thursday was not a good idea. "I had no idea what I was doing to do, believe me, it was," Gilbert said. "But, we really had no idea the water would be that rough. It was a dumb mistake," he said. A student of Seminole Community College, Gilbert said he and his 20-year-old neighbor and friend were never really in danger, except when Gilbert tried to swim to shore for help. "I told Bob I was going to swim to shore to get help. I got about 20 yards but the waves were really rough. He told me if I couldn't make it I should come back. "It sounded like a good idea, so I did. I figured I'd better get back to the canoe before I got myself in real trouble," he said. "I was fully clothed with a big heavy jacket on. I can't even drive in that jacket, so I had to take it off," Gilbert said. "That's what worried me most—getting drenched by the waves

JOLA, W. Va. (NEA)—Cindy Church has been attending Jola's Church in the Lord Jesus for six months now, but she has yet to take part fully in its services. While the 16-year-old feels slight-at-home-responding-to-the-infectious-gospel-rhythms-pounded-out-by-electric-guitars, she has held back on the ultimate participation. That is the handling of the rattlesnakes that church elders draw from metal boxes placed on the rostrum inside the church, located in the Mountain State's chief coal-producing county. Cindy says she is waiting for the Lord to give her the complete faith to accept a rattlesnake from one of the veteran handlers, some of whom have been bitten more than 70 times. "I'll know when it is the right time," she says. "Most of my classmates know how much my faith means to me and more and more I think they understand."

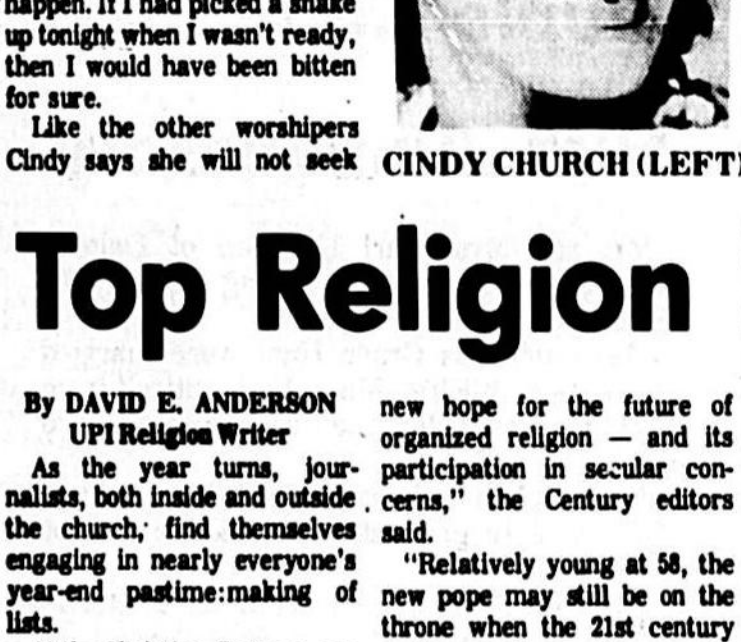

Cindy says her religious feeling has intensified to the point that she knows she will eventually handle snakes whether it is legal or not. "Well, we don't believe a Bible reader should skip over any portion of the good book." Even though she stops short of handling snakes, Cindy's faith is strong. She says she is the only student at her high school who belongs to a snake-handling church, admitting that some classmates have made fun of her religious preferences. "I've been rebuked by a few kids but that has made me a stronger person," she says. "Most of my classmates know how much my faith means to me and more and more I think they understand."

Members took McCoy to the house of Dewey Chafin, a "saint" of the church. McCoy stayed there for three days, his arm swelling to four or five times its regular size. He missed a month of work at a nearby supermarket. "Too many people put work ahead of the Lord," McCoy says. "When I was bit, I missed a lot of work but I didn't care. It only taught me that the Lord comes first." Chafin, who plays the electric guitar during services has been bitten 43 times. One night he was bitten four times by the same snake. "I can't describe the pain," he recalls. "All I can say is a toothache ain't nothing compared to it." Chafin's sister was the last church member to die from snakebite.

As the year turns, the journalists, both inside and outside the church, find themselves engaged in nearly everyone's year-end pastime-making of lists. At the Christian Century, one of the best independent religious periodicals around, the editors' annual list-making exercise—what were the top 10 religious stories of 1978—became something of a theological dialogue between good and peace.

not hope for the future of organized religion—and its participation in secular concerns," the Century editors said. "Relatively young at 56, the new pope may still be on the throne when the 21st century arrives, and may have ample time to influence and reshape church policy," the magazine said. Supporting the religious Century's ranking of the two stories were the nation's secular newswriters. The annual Religion Newswriters Association year-end poll also ranked the stories surrounding the new popes as the top story of the year, followed by the Guyana deaths. As the Century editors said, its "exact significance... will be debated far into the future, but it has already drawn attention to other cultic religious groups and their attraction for the disaffected, seeking meaning in these lives." And if the cries for more government investigation and control of dissident and seemingly bizarre religious sects are heeded, the nation could be headed for a major church-state showdown on how religious pluralism, diversity and freedom will operate in the United States.

God Knows Your Need For Today
By REV. FREDDIE SMITH
Central Baptist Church
A woman was asked what she thought of life. She replied, "I would enjoy life if it was not so regular." Could you reply something? Life can become so hard, so busy and day can be so dull. Yet God's Word has a word about our days. The Word says, "They shall be as a day, so shall thy strength be." (Deuteronomy 32:8) Christians are pilgrims on this earth. The "show" expresses the experience for all saved as being on a pilgrimage. Some have journeyed long and well, knowing of the mighty power of God in their lives. Others have had a few days at a time, no more; we take a day at a time, but remember that all God's strength is for you for that day. "As thy days, so shall thy strength be." Whatever your day, there is a wonderful strength! It's guaranteed in proportion to your need. Alexander MacLaren has said "The two sums of 'thy days' and 'thy strength' leap grooving side by side, the one as fast as the other, and no faster." If the burdens are heavier, then the supply of grace will be greater. It's good to know you have a strength, or knowledge strength, or wealth's strength, but God's strength, His strength makes all impossible needs possible.

Oral Roberts
QUESTION: My husband recently suffered a setback in his business. Now he's so discouraged he can hardly find the motivation to get out of bed and to work in the mornings. I'm really concerned—not only about the business but about his state of mind. How can I help my husband get over this setback and regain his old enthusiasm? ANSWER: I think one of the best ways you can help your husband get over this discouragement by speaking words of comfort and encouragement to him. It may be in the form of a compliment. Remember the healing effect of a compliment my wife Evelyn gave me one time when I was very discouraged about a matter. As the old saying goes, I was so low you would have to jack me up to bury me. Evelyn said, "Oral, I know you. And as you serve the Lord and start using your faith like you are capable of doing and letting Him have His way in your life, there's nothing that can hold you back. There's nothing you cannot do that God wants you to do." Then she gave me a real compliment: "Oral, there's nobody like you in the world!" I had to hug her for that. You see, I needed those healing words at that moment. They were a balm to my distressed spirit. I was encouraged and I came out of the doldrums. I came out of that problem. My faith was built up and I stood up and proved through the Spirit of God that nothing is impossible with the Bible. The Bible says, "Comfort yourselves together, and edify one another" (1 Thessalonians 5:11). What a compliment God pours to us when He bids us to comfort one another. It means in His great love He has granted us the power to give strength and hope to those without courage... and to relieve the anguish of those who are fearful and weak. Discouragement disappears in the presence of healing words. "Heaviness in the heart of man maketh it stoop; but a good word maketh it glad" (Proverbs 12:25).

Weight Loss Is Possible

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—When I was 22 I had to have a total hysterectomy because of an infection. This was five years ago. Ever since then I have been taking Premarin. I've gained a lot of weight. I just can't seem to lose it. I want to know if the Premarin has anything to do with my not being able to lose weight?

My doctor has told me I have to take these the rest of my life but I don't want to be overweight. I've tried asking my doctor for a good diet but since he himself is overweight he just tells me, "Forget it, you'll never lose."

So, I've just stopped asking him. I really do want to lose and I am confident that I can. Recently when I went for my prescription, my regular doctor was on vacation and there was a lady doctor. She decreased my dosage of Premarin and I lost 14 pounds. Can you please help me? I'm desperate. I hate being overweight.

DEAR READER—Maybe you ought to change to the lady doctor on a permanent basis. Your letter makes an important point. Many doctors' treatment of their patients is affected by their own life style and habits. So it is that a fat doctor certainly is not very effective in helping his patients to lose weight. The doctor who smokes has difficulty in getting his patients to quit smoking or stay off cigarettes. Doctors are also teachers and one of the best ways of teaching is by example. I am proud to say that doctors as a whole have the best record of any occupation in quitting smoking. If the general public would do nearly as well as physicians have done, the health problems associated with cigarette smoking would have been markedly decreased already. Many women gain weight after a hysterectomy.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet to provide you a basic diet plan. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1561, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Regardless of your previous hysterectomy or medicines, it is still true that if you eat more calories than you use you will tend to get fat. If you eat less calories than you use, you will lose fat. Try to improve your diet and increase your level of physical activity. If you're successful in doing this, it will go a long way toward helping control your weight problem. It is true that young women who have a hysterectomy need to have hormone replacement if the ovaries were also removed. The amount you need is an individual matter and has to be determined in each case. Irrespective of this, a sensible diet and exercise program is an important way of helping to prevent becoming overweight after a hysterectomy at any age or after the ovaries cease functioning with the normal change of life.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Saturday, January 6, 1979

YOUR BIRTHDAY
January 6, 1979
This coming year you could become involved with a partner in an undertaking that is large in scope. Your chances for success are excellent so long as you are both aiming at the same target.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Selfish motives could enter the picture today in your dealings with others. Go it alone in things that are important to you. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in 1979 by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Better not say anything if you can't say something nice today. This is especially true in dealings with your family, where an explosive situation could occur.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Don't try to overcome others with your ideas today. If they're not buying, pressuring them won't do the trick.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You might have to watch your temper, because it has a very short fuse today. You could easily blow up over the slightest thing that goes against you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
In trying to satisfy others you are likely to change course too often to be effective today. Chances are, things could get bungled.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Be careful that you don't say things out of spite that are better left unsaid. The person who suffers in the end will be you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Blaming the family because you can't afford to do something isn't fair, and you know it. You're the one who unbalanced your budget.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Others will do as you do today, so provide a positive example. If your actions are negative, they'll emulate them as well.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
For one who usually plays it pretty close to the vest, you may be out of character today and abandon prudence. You could even take a foolish financial risk.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
Because of impatience you might wipe out what you had already gained. Take things slowly. Haste in this case will make waste.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22)
If things don't go exactly as you feel they should today, you could make a negative decision that has no place to go but against you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Be extra-cautious today with work for which you're responsible. If you have any big ideas, better sleep on them before you try them out.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Here is another peanuts and bananas hand. South is in four spades and needs a little luck to make it since there are three obvious losers. One trump, one spade and the ace of clubs. He notes those three losers. Then he has to look for 10 winners. Should he attack clubs? He decides that the diamond suit offers better possibilities so he starts on diamonds at trick two. He cashes dummy's ace of diamonds, returns a diamond to his king and leads a third diamond. He ruffs in dummy. East overruffs and leads a spade to his partner. South has added a fourth loser to the three he started with since East is sure to overruff a diamond. Now let's go back to our peanuts and bananas. When South leads that third diamond he does not have to ruff in dummy. He can discard dummy's jack of spades. He has lost a diamond or peanut trick, but has made up for it by getting rid of the banana or spade loser. Later on South trumps his losing spade in dummy as well as his fourth diamond. East gets to overruff, but that costs him his trump trick. South loses one ruff, one diamond and one club, but makes his game.

A Connecticut reader asks the proper rebid after your partner responds two clubs to your one-heart opening bid. The correct rebid is three clubs. You have a minimum hand with good club support. Show it right away.

ART RUSSELL TRUMPETS AND SINGS WITH SANFORD SERENADERS

Sanford Serenaders do their bit weekly at the Sanford Civic Center

Tripping The Light Fantastic

Text and photos
by Tom Netsel

Discos may be the rage sweeping the country but polkas, waltzes and rumbas are still on the scene and as popular as ever with a group of several hundred who gather every Wednesday at the Sanford Civic Center.

From 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., senior citizens dance under auspices of the Over-50 Club and the Sanford Serenaders who provide live music.

Volunteers and other interested townfolk donate coffee, cakes and other refreshments; the musicians donate their services for a cup of coffee.

"Where else can you hear an 8-piece band for these prices?" asks emcee Tom Vincent.

The dances have been held weekly for the past three years since Erma Killian, electric bass and banjo player with the Sanford Serenaders, formed the group. "We started both (the band and the dances) on the same day," she said.

Ballroom dancing is very popular with the over-50 set, but members also get a kick out of pattern dances and dances where they change partners. The Silver Sands, the Alley Cat, the Hully Gully, and Chair dances are some of this type.

From the first bar of the first tune, the floor is filled with dancers. Women usually outnumber the men, so many of the ladies dance with each other but everyone seems to be having a good time and Vincent keeps the afternoon's entertainment moving at a fast pace.

The band gets a kick out of being there and many also perform at the dances held in DeLand at the activities center on Mondays.

"You make these people happy and that's what counts," said Vincent.

TV In January: Old, New

Both new and rehabilitated series coming: (Left), cast of "WKRP in Cincinnati"; (center) Mary Tyler Moore and Andy Griffith; (right) Josh Mostel.

--Revamped Series Included

What happens to a network TV series that flops in the Nielsen ratings? The series gets scrapped. The month of December saw record-breaking cuts at all three networks. Consequently, January of 1979 will herald in oodles of replacements.

At ABC, "How the West Was Won" will replace "Monday Night Football," a casualty of the season, not the ratings.

"The Osmond Family Hour," a comedy-variety series designed for the younger audience, will be seen on Sundays. Donny and Marie Osmond will star.

Four new series appear on different nights; Tuesday and Wednesday night schedules remain the same.

"Salvage 1" stars Andy Griffith as boss Harry Brodwick. His imaginative and resourceful crew of retrieval experts tackle seemingly impossible tasks each Monday.

"Angie," with Donna Pescow as an ex-waitress who marries the wealthiest and most eligible bachelor in Philadelphia, airs Thursdays.

"Makin' It" is a disco-oriented series with the best of the Bee Gees musical group.

The third comedy, "Delta House," is a campus caper based on the smash National Lampoon motion picture "Animal House."

"Animal House." The producers and writers who made "Animal House" such a smash will toil on the new series.

Josh Mostel will follow in John Belushi's footsteps as Blutaraky; Peter Fox takes up Tim Matheson's role as Otter.

On CBS, "WKRP in Cincinnati" returns to its Monday night slot on Jan. 15. The revamped "Mary Tyler Moore" show, a variety show within a situation comedy format, is slated for another try in January, too.

"Flatbush" and "Coed Fever" occupy the other empty Monday night slots.

In "Flatbush," which airs Jan. 15, Joseph Cali, Adrian Zmed, Randy Stumph, Sandy Helberg and Vincent Bufano star as five former members of a Brooklyn neighborhood baseball team who are fresh out of high school and learning to deal with the "real world" — with comedy never far from the surface of the sidewalk.

"Coed Fever," starting Jan. 22, is a virus that affects everyone at a staid woman's college when it becomes a co-educational institution. This is the CBS version of "Animal House."

On Sundays, "The Duke of Hazard," "Onward and Upward" and "The Stockard Channing Show" are the newcomers.

stars John Amos as a former football hero who is appointed to serve out the term of a deceased congressman. Stockard Channing also waits for a March 4 premiere.

She stars as an adventurous young woman estranged from her husband, who heads for a new life in Los Angeles, where she finds a job in a health club.

NBC has eight replacements lined up.

On Tuesdays, "Cliffhangers," an ensemble of three 30-minute chapters, revives the "Perils of Pauline" tradition.

"Supertrain," an anthology of suspense stories, which takes place aboard a cross-country futuristic train, railroads into the Wednesday schedule. "Little Women," a takeoff on the Louisa May Alcott book, is slated for Thursday.

NBC also has an "Animal House" entry. The Friday series is labeled "Brothers and Sisters."

It will be followed by "Turnabout," the escapades of a husband and wife who swap roles; "Hello Larry," with McLenn Stevenson as a radio talkshow host; and "Sweepstakes," a dramatic look at lottery winners.

The eighth entry, "Mrs. Columbo," features Kate Mulgrew as the rumpiled renaissance detective's wife.

'Star Trek': It's Almost The Same

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — First, the good news. The movie version of "Star Trek" is rolling along.

But, for all you Trekkies, there is news which you may consider not so good. And that is that you won't recognize a lot of things you'll see in the movie.

You won't recognize the uniforms that Captain Kirk and Mr. Spock and all those lovely people wear.

This, the powers-that-be have decided, is a MOOOVIE, and you have to differentiate between MOOOVIES and a lowly TV series, so the whole space ship and the uniforms and all that have been upgraded.

Then there is the set itself. The Star Ship Enterprise is still slicing through the outer reaches of space, and, in general, the familiar control room will still be familiar.

But there are changes, making it all just a touch more elaborate.

For one thing, at each position on the control room, there is a video screen.

There always was. But, because of the budgetary limitations of TV, those video screens rarely showed anything on the old series.

But in the movie, each screen has been set to show something different at all times.

"The miracle was," says Leonard Nimoy, our good old friend, Mr. Spock, "that we were able to make the television show look as good as we did. The budget was low and the time issue was always pressing.

"When we wanted to show another planet, we had to suggest it with a few bits and pieces on the next soundstage. But in this one, when we first see me, I'm on my native planet, Vulcan, and to shoot that we went to Yellowstone National Park and, on top of that, they added a vast mat process painting."

The engine room of the Enterprise is a vast, awesome assemblage of units, glowing and pulsating.

Through the use of Hollywood trickery, it will

'It's all bigger and more expensive' look, on screen, a lot bigger than it really is.

The sick bay, where the Enterprise's fine physician (he makes planet calls), played again by DeForrest Kelley, operates, is something like the one you remember from the series.

But here, too, it is larger, more elaborate, more expensive.

Director Robert Wise explains that what is OK for television is simply not OK for a feature.

"When I took over this project," Wise says, "they had built some sets already, for the planned new 'Star Trek' TV series. I decided that they just weren't good enough for the big screen, so I had them torn down and new ones built."

"It's all bigger and more expensive," says Gene Roddenberry, who produced the original series and is producing the movie, too.

"And both Bob Wise and I realize we are walking a narrow line between what the Trekkies expect and what we feel we must do, which is to enlarge it — but enlarge it tastefully."

They both feel that they are accomplishing that goal. And they feel that the show's loyal and vociferous fans will accept the new sets and the new costumes, especially since those new costumes will be worn by old familiar forms — William Shatner, Nimoy, Kelley and the others.

Some may think that it is a curious assignment for Robert Wise, who most people remember primarily as the director of "The Sound of Music."

But he has directed some science-fiction films in the past, notably "The Day the Earth Stood Still."

Wise and Roddenberry met some years ago, the producer recalls, at a science-fiction and fantasy film festival at the University of Arizona.

They both appeared on a panel, and they both remember there was a rapport.

"When Paramount finally decided to make this movie, they gave me a list of available directors," Roddenberry says. "I saw the name, Robert Wise, and jumped."

Wise says he was equally pleased at the opportunity.

He says he got his start in films working for the late Val Lewton, who turned out many low-budget horror films in the '40s. Working for Lewton on such gems as "Curse of the Cat People" sparked his interest in science-fiction and fantasy films.

"When they asked me to do this," he says, "I really wasn't a 'Star Trek' fan. But I got hold of six or seven cassettes of old programs and screened them. Some I liked, some I didn't. But I did see a lot that I felt was interesting, so I said yes.

"The script, at that time, had no Mr. Spock in it. Nimoy had said that he was not available at the time. But I felt that Mr. Spock was absolutely essential, so I fought to get him."

He did get him, and that may be the best news of all.

'Kaz' Left Campus Raging To Act

Ron Leibman stars in CBS' "Kaz" as lawyer Martin Kazinski.

Ron was born on Oct. 11 in New York City. As a small boy, he knew vaguely that he wanted to be an actor, but throughout his early education at Columbia Grammar School and high schools in New York, he avoided going anywhere near a school state.

Enrolling in Ohio Wesleyan University, he appeared in a production of "Richard III" and became forever possessed by the theater. In the middle of the year, raging to act, he left Ohio Wesleyan.

His first professional stage appearance was in Arthur Miller's "A View from the Bridge." He then joined the Yale Repertory Company.

In 1963, he made his Broadway debut in "Dear Me, the Sky Is Falling," followed by "Bicycle Ride to Nevada," "The Deputy," and "We Bombed in New Haven," for which he received a Theater World Award.

In 1968, he appeared in "Cop-Out" at the Eugene O'Neill Theater at Water-

RON Leibman stars in CBS' "Kaz" as lawyer Martin Kazinski. Among the other cast members was Linda Lavin, a young musical comedy actress. Before the end of the summer, they were married. Miss Lavin is currently the title star of the comedy series, "Alice," also on CBS.

He made his motion picture debut in "Where's Poppa?" followed by "Hot Rock," "Slaughterhouse Five," "Super Cops," "Won-Ton-Ton, The Dog Who Saved Hollywood," "Your Three Minutes Are Up," and the soon to be released "Norma Rae."

Leibman is 5'11" tall, and has brown hair and brown eyes.

He and Linda Lavin live in Pacific Palisades.

Why The Bleep?

A lot of viewers are probably wondering what was so hot about something a couple of characters said on the Dec. 7 episode of "Barnaby Rudge" that caused it to be "bleeped" from the show.

As it turns out the ABC censor stepped on the toes of the network's comedy in a move characterized by executive producer Danny Arnold as "stupid."

Arnold said the scene was basically "silly," in which a young radical discussing the Vietnam war said DuPont and Dow Chemical "were involved in the war." Another character said they weren't and he didn't care if they were.

This exchange was erased by the censor so that viewers just saw their lips moving.
