Missing submariners identified

TOKYO — The U.S. military Tuesday released the names of two American submariners missing since being washed overboard by a wave during surface operations off southern Japan.

LT Walter Gray Womble, 36, of Tampa, Fla., and Fireman Apprentice James David Leat, 20, of Washburn, Ill., were swept off the USS Barbett early Monday when a large wave crashed over the deck, said Master Sgt. Jake Rodriguez, spokesman for the U.S. Forces Japan.

Two persons remain missing today despite extensive search efforts throughout the night, Rodriguez said. "With daylight the search continues."

The Japanese military has dispatched two destroyers, two cutters and three aircraft to assist two U.S. Navy P-3 maritime patrol aircraft and the USS Ponce de Leon in the search, Rodriguez said.

Alaska ice guessing game over

NENANA, Alaska — The Tanana River ice broke up Monday night, ending Alaska's most popular betting game and signaling the end of winter.

"It's spring," declared Wayne Taylor with an air of authority.

The ice began flowing out of the Tanana River at 8:14 p.m., stopping the large tripod clock mounted on the thawing river, said Taylor, general manager of the Nenana Ice Classic.

Four winners guessed the exact minute the ice broke up and will share the $135,000 prize, Taylor said.

This year some 151,800 Alaskans paid $2 for each guess at the exact day, hour and minute for the Tanana River breakup in front of the town of Nenana south of Fairbanks.

Fluoride survey made public

WASHINGTON — Advocates and opponents of fluoridated drinking water both claimed victory in the findings of a new government survey of the effects of the water on nearly 40,000 American children.

Fluoridation of water was started about 40 years ago in an effort to harden children's tooth enamel and decrease cavities.

John Yarmoussiannis, a consultant to Center for Health Action, a group ardently opposed to fluoridation that is based in Springfield, Mass., said Monday his analysis of data from the National Institute of Dental Research survey indicates that artificial fluoridation does not reduce tooth decay.

Anti-pollution measures passed

TALLAHASSEE — The Senate Natural Resources Committee voted unanimously Monday to sharply increase penalties for polluters and in serious cases extend the racketeering laws to let prosecutors seize violators' assets.

The bill (CS 841 2841) provides felony penalties of up to five years in prison and up to $50,000 in fines for intentionally dumping hazardous materials without proper environmental permits into the air, water or ground.

Patriots in regionals tonight

Lake Brantley, a team that started the year ranked as one of the states best ballclubs, will look to make its preseason billing a reality tonight when it hosts Winter Park in region 4A-5 action tonight at 7:30.

The Patriots, 17-12, possess one of the most feared hitting attacks that will have to be on against the Wildcats left hander Willy Daunic. Winter Park, 25-5, is coming off an impressive 7-1 victory over nationally-ranked Apopka in a game where Daunic, 11-1, pitched a two-hitter.

Bubbling over

Shaun Evans, a first grader at Spring Lake Elementary in Altamonte Springs, is bubbling over with excitement about the school's May Day festivities held Monday. Evans was blowing through a straw into a soap solution to create the sudsy effect. The day's activities also included a Maypole dance and the making of May Day baskets.

Local students excited about letters project

LAKE MARY — Writing a friendly letter to a student at another school may seem like nothing more than a nice thing to do.

Not so, said Greenwood Lakes Middle School language arts teacher Donna Cutshall. She saw the possibilities for teaching her students several valuable lessons when she heard of another teacher experimenting with letter writing.

She contacted Lake Mary Elementary School language arts teacher Hazel Perinchel and asked if she'd like to have her fifth graders write to some students who were already established in middle school life.

"Some kids are very insecure about going to middle school," said Perinchel about her pre-adolescent charges. "They don't know what to expect."

The younger students are currently writing to their counterparts at Greenwood Lakes to ask questions about what they can expect next year.

"They're very excited about this project," said Perinchel. "They've turned their letters in very rapidly."

Cutshall reports similar excitement on the part of her students, though she reported that when she suggested that her students "adopt" their pen pal and be their buddy next year they told her that, as seventh graders next year, they couldn't be buddies with a sixth grader.

Though the work is in addition to their regular class work, Perinchel said that her students have worked hard on the project.

"We'll be sending the letters over (by school district courier) a little ahead of schedule," she said. "We're only waiting for one or two."

Perinchel, who taught many of the sixth graders in elementary school, paired each of her

Boulevard stirs debate in Sanford

Commissioners like Lake Mary project, but are reluctant to approve financing

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A majority of city commissioners said yesterday they are in favor of the gateway concept proposed in the Lake Mary Boulevard beautification plan. But they say they remained reluctant to approve the $200,000 estimated current cost for Sanford's share.

At a work session where city officials discuss but do not formally vote on matters, commissioners rejected putting the item on the agenda for a vote at the next commission meeting and, instead, scheduled another work session discussion. Seminole County Planner Dick Boyer began yesterday's session by outlining the terms of a proposed interlocal agreement between the county, Lake Mary and Sanford. It details terms for beautifying the approximately eight miles of road between Markham Woods Road on the west and Sanford Avenue on the east. The beautification is proposed to take place in conjunction with a road widening project already approved.

Boyer explained that Sanford's financial contributions would not be due until beautification work begins. See Boulevard, Page 5A

Sheriff's tax request sooner than expected

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Sheriff John Polk is taking advantage of a pending special election to ask county commissioners next Tuesday to add a one-year, one-cent sales tax to the ballot.

The additional tax to finance a new sheriff's office and jail expansion would be added to the proposed one-cent gasoline tax for road beautification. Voters will decide on the beautification tax in November and, if Polk has his way, will decide on the sheriff's tax as well.

Polk had said earlier this year he wouldn't ask for a special election on the sales tax issue, but since an election is already in the works, he will move his plans ahead one year. If approved, the tax will be in effect in 1990. Under Polk's former plan, the tax would have been collected during 1991, with construction completed the following year.

Polk said he needs his $14.2 million. See Polk, Page 5A

State budget clears one hurdle

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — The House Appropriations Committee on Monday approved a $22.6 billion state budget that meets Gov. Bob Martinez's demand for no new taxes, yet challenges his ideas about cutting waste from government.

The spending package, approved by a unanimous vote, was scheduled to be taken up on the House floor Thursday, two weeks earlier than the House or Senate has managed in any previous session.

The Senate budget committee was scheduled next week to take up its spending package for the fiscal year that begins July 1.

Legislative leaders were reluctant to confront Martinez on his pledge to veto any new taxes this year, despite their frequently expressed fears the policy would result in too few roads, prisons, schools and other services for the state's growing population.

"It's the most responsible budget we can do within the dollars we have," said House Appropriations Chairman F.K. Wetherell, D-Daytona Beach, following the vote.

Martinez has proposed no pay raises for most state workers, no money to meet increased workload and no increases for inflation.

The $22.6 billion House budget contains increases in all three categories.

Most state workers would get at least a 3 percent pay raise, effective Jan. 1. Law enforcement officers and health workers would get similar increases effective July 1, with provisions for merit increases. University faculty would get 5 percent increases.

"We wanted to make sure the employees who work in the food stamp offices make more than the clients they serve," said Rep. Bill Clark, D-Lauderdale Lakes, chairman of the subcommittee on government operations.

Crawford: Martinez growth plans not tied to tax hike

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Senate President Bob Crawford said Monday he is willing to consider Gov. Bob Martinez's growth management proposals, even if Martinez rejects local governments' pleas for the authority to increase taxes without voter approval.

Crawford said the Senate would give full consideration to Martinez' latest proposals, including statewide guidelines on impact fees and using state funds to combat urban sprawl.

Asked if those plans would be rejected if Martinez refuses the tax authority Crawford wants for local governments, Crawford said: "I'm not trying to link them in that regard, but I think we all need to be working together on this problem, and that's what the Senate is committed to do, work with the governor and the House."

"I would be disappointed if we didn't get (Martinez's) backing, not because of any kind of trade but because of the impact on growth management," Crawford said. "We want to work together."

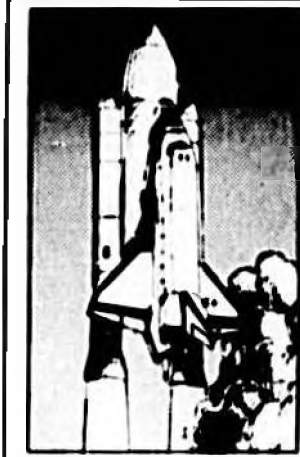

Some House members have suggested that Martinez's growth management proposals will not pass unless he approves some new taxes.

Crawford told a delegation from the League of Women Voters that local governments must be given the "tools" to meet the mandates of the 1985 Growth Management Act. Foremost of those "tools" would be the authority to increase the

Atlantis countdown under way...again

ANOTHER TRY

•NASA will attempt to launch Atlantis on Thursday at 1:48 p.m.

•The new launch date will give engineers a 64-minute launch window instead of the 23-minute window available last Friday.

•The 43-hour countdown began at 8 a.m. Tuesday and includes 10 hours of built-in "hold" time.

•The launch was delayed six days due to a short-circuit in a hydrogen recirculation pump which led to a blowout in a seal of one of the vehicle's hydrogen fuel lines.

CAPE CANAVERAL — Countdown clocks began ticking again today for the delayed shuttle Atlantis and officials said it was on track for a second launch try Thursday, weather permitting, to carry a Venus probe into space.

The abbreviated 43-hour countdown, including a little more than 10 hours of built-in "hold" time, began on time at 8 a.m. Tuesday for a launch at 1:48 p.m. Thursday, six days after a short circuit in a fuel pump last Friday grounded the shuttle just 31 seconds before liftoff.

Embezzlement investigated

SANFORD — Sanford police are investigating the reported embezzlement of $10,886 from Century Labor, Inc., of 310 E. Fourth St., Sanford. Owner Paul Robert Rose, 38, told police the funds were stolen by unauthorized checks issued between Nov. 8, 1988 and Jan 21.

Woman hit with boot

WINTER SPRINGS — Paul Wayne Osborne, 31, of 183 Lori Ann Lane, Winter Springs, was charged with battery at 11:27 p.m. Friday after a woman at his house told Winter Springs police he hit her hand with a boot. Bond is $500.

Two charged with aggravated battery

SANFORD — Two men were charged with aggravated battery late Sunday afternoon in connection with the wounding of another man.

Seminole County Sheriff's deputies report Reginald "Michael" Sutton was wounded in the left thigh after getting into a car with the suspects on W. 18th Street, rural Sanford, Sunday afternoon. Sutton was shot with a .22-caliber pistol, allegedly by Ike Sillosquore Johnson, 21, of 220 Hayes Drive, Sanford.

After he was wounded, Sutton and a companion got out of the suspects' car on 20th Street, Sanford. The companion took Sutton to the emergency room of Central Florida Regional Hospital. Hospital workers called sheriff's deputies to the scene.

Sanford police located Johnson and his companion Redrick Lamar Mills, 19, of 108 Academy Ave., Sanford. Sheriff's deputies arrested them both on Strickland Avenue at 4:29 p.m.

Johnson is charged with aggravated battery with a firearm, false imprisonment with a firearm and resisting arrest without violence. Mills is charged with aggravated battery with a firearm. Bond is $5,000 each.

Deputies said the victim and the witness were ordered into the suspects' car during an argument.

Suspect calls for help against police

WINTER SPRINGS — Winter Springs police report the arrest of a man who called for help while being arrested. A woman who allegedly helped the man by lighting police was also charged with battery on a policeman.

Barbara M. George, 23, of 183 Lori Ann Lane, Winter Springs, was also charged with resisting arrest without violence. She was arrested at home at 10:13 p.m. Sunday, during the arrest there of Ralph Donald Myers, 25, address unknown.

Police said Myers is George's ex-boyfriend. They were called to her house because he was there allegedly trespassing and creating a disturbance. When Myers started to go into the house, police arrested him, and wrestled him to the ground. He called for help and George allegedly tried to help him.

Myers is charged with battery on a policeman, resisting arrest with violence, trespassing and attempted conspiracy for calling for help.

Man arrested after allegedly hitting wife

GENEVA — A man who allegedly hit his wife in the mouth with his fist was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies who said he brandished two knives against a deputy and punched holes in the deputy's car tires with the knives.

Robert Lee Booth, 25, of 2207 Estes Drive, Geneva, was arrested at home at 12:22 a.m. Sunday on charges of battery, disorderly conduct and driving with a revoked license.

Residents protest Fairy Lake flap

By SANDRA BOUCHANINE
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — Craig Bush, President of the Columbus Harbour Homeowner's Association, told commissioners last night that a resident living on Fairy Lake doesn't like the noise he hears coming from the lake.

However, Bush and other residents feel they should be able to use the lake for recreational purposes within reason without interference by the city.

Bush said the unnamed resident said "we hear the sounds from Fairy Lake" meaning those noises coming from "boats and gasoline-powered skis." Columbus Harbour is a subdivision south of County Road 434 composed of 128 single-family dwellings.

"A resident has indicated attempts to have the city ban jet skis from the lake. The legal use of jet skis should not be altered," Bush said this morning.

Bush said the residents are against any restrictions on Fairy Lake. "They all feel legal usage of skis and boats should be allowed," he said.

At the meeting, Bush pointed out that City Planner Chris Nagle sent a letter to a resident of Columbus Harbour warning him that a series of floats placed on Fairy Lake had the potential of being used as a ski course and that the lake may not be used for such a commercial purpose.

"I'm angered by the fact that the letter was sent. That ski course has never been used for commercial use. It has been here for almost three years. The idea the city has come up with that it is all of a sudden being used for a ski school is absurd," Bush said.

"If this government body or any government body attempts to change the recreational use of Fairy Lake, it will be protested," he said, referring to a "supposed city/county joint effort to bring county watercraft onto the lake." Bush said a city employee told him that there are "thoughts of the city entering into an agreement with the county to bring watercraft onto the lake to patrol it."

Fairy Lake is bounded by private property on Highway

17-92, by Wildmere Road and by Columbus Harbour. Residents in Columbus Harbour have access to and may use the lake.

"I have no intention of restricting the recreational purpose of Fairy Lake," Mayor Hank Hardy told Bush.

SEMINOLE COUNTY FLOODPLAIN NOTICE EARLY PUBLIC NOTICE

Seminole County proposes to use Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds from the U.S. Department of Housing & Urban Development (HUD) for housing rehabilitation, demolition and relocation assistance to be implemented by the City of Sanford within its corporate limits. Since portions of this project area are in the base (100-year frequency) floodplain, established by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), the County, in accordance with the requirements of Presidential Executive Order 11988 must determine whether there are practicable alternatives to these activities that would have less adverse impact on the floodplain. Accordingly, the County is inviting written comments from the public to be used when evaluating alternatives. Any and all comments should be sent to Mr. Buddy Balagia, Seminole County Planning Office, County Services Building, 1101 East First Street, Sanford, Florida, 32771. Comments should be received no later than May 17, 1989.

Hooray for Solidarity

Hope is returning to Poland. After 50 years of fascist and communist dictatorships, the Iron Curtain lifted briefly to reveal a startling sight. A stocky, mustachioed, ex-outlaw labor leader met amicably with Polish government officials who had banned his union and arrested him. Solidarity leader Lech Walesa signed a pact the other day that returned limited democracy to Poland.

The agreement legalizes Solidarity. It also gives legal status to the Independent Student Association and a farmworker union, Rural Solidarity. It paves the way for free and open elections. But it does not instantly transform Poland into a free and independent democracy.

For the first time, the Communist Party has agreed to share limited legislative powers with Solidarity. The Communist Party will be allocated 38 percent of the seats in the lower house of Parliament. Solidarity will be granted 35 percent of the seats. The remaining seats will go to parties in alliance with the Communists. Solidarity's power, in opposition, will come in its ability to make coalitions.

The upper house of Poland's parliament, reopened for the first time since World War II, will have power to veto legislation from the lower house. This may give Solidarity a second means to curb power of the Communists.

The agreement re-establishes the office of president, with a six-year term. Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski is expected to be given the job.

Will charismatic Walesa, 45, one day become president?

It is difficult to imagine that Polish hard-liners would ever relinquish a share of power to Solidarity. But Jaruzelski did what few imagine was ever possible by permitting Walesa to form a loyal opposition. His ability at leading the fledgling opposition gives him an opportunity to prove himself in politics — or to lose his aura of inviolability.

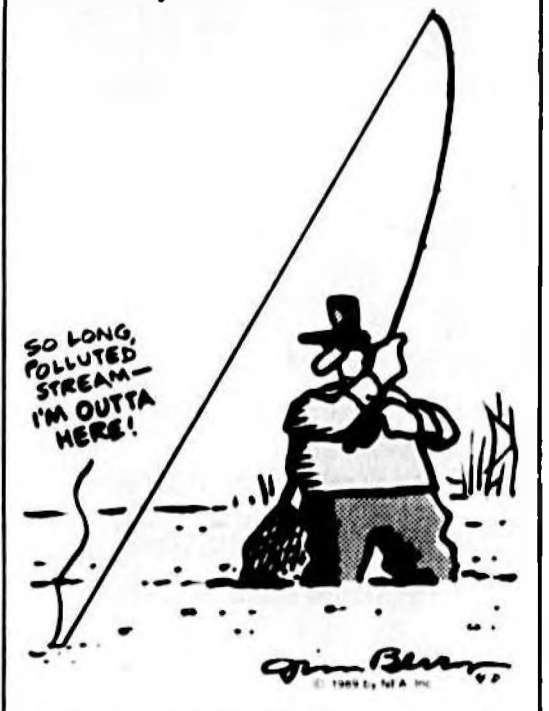

The reasons behind the political opening are largely economic. The Polish people have had enough of a system that leaves the shelves bare of necessities, that hikes prices without raising salaries, that jails shipworkers while glorifying the ideal communist worker. Dissatisfaction with Poland's standard of living, slightly better than the Soviet Union's but far inferior to Western Europe's, fueled the rebel Solidarity movement.

The pact signed by Walesa and Interior Minister Czeslaw Kiszczak guarantees that salaries will be tied to consumer prices, a popular demand. It re-structures the way the economy has been managed, or mismanaged, giving more say to workers.

Polish history is written in magnificent gestures, followed by dismal disappointments. Will this be yet one more triumph leading to despair?

The people of Poland, once the butt of crude ethnic jokes, have become a symbol of defiance and courage. Solidarity's flag, waving over the Gdansk Shipyards, recalled the bravery of Polish cavalrymen who charged Nazi tanks in 1939, only to be martyred. Against incredible odds, Walesa managed to survive and to win a share of freedom for his people. Solidarity's victory serves as a shining example of what united workers can do to democratize and revitalize their place of work, their economic system, their country.

CHUCK STONE

What's black and white and silly?

NBC's Tom Brokaw lovingly resurrected Arthur Jensen and hosted an electronic minority titled "Black Athletes — Fact and Fiction." And President Bush, on the recommendation of Richard Thornburgh, his attorney general, nominated as assistant attorney general for civil rights William Lucas, a black man who is as well-qualified for the job as that pre-eminent clown Eddie Murphy.

But your mnemonic skills may have deserted you. Who's Arthur Jensen?

Jensen was the distinguished University of California psychologist who authored a controversial article in 1967 that speculated about the possible genetic inferiority of blacks. Unable to explain significantly lower test scores between black and white students, Jensen resorted to the historic obsession with genetic differences.

And now, Boy Tom completes the double play of specious ethnic comparisons — from Jensen to Al Campans to Brokaw. What John Foster Dulles once called "a massive exercise in futility" best describes the value of Brokaw's NBC special.

Why is this an issue? The query fits the journalistic canon of W.G.A.D. (Who Gives a Damn?). But the networks are locked in a ratings war, and they would nominate the Ayatollah for president if it would help make them No. 1.

Are there significant differences between white and black athletes? As Cyrano de Bergerac lamented to the Vicomte de Valvert, "You are too simple. Why, you could have said, oh, a great many things." Such as:

• Why are there so few Jewish athletes in 1989?

• If blacks are so metabolically superior, why are there so few black athletes in hockey, swimming, golf, auto racing, lacrosse, rodeos and Alpine skiing?

• Why don't the Irish dominate the boxing ring in 1989 the way they did when John L. Sullivan, James J. Corbett, Jack Delaney, Tommy Loughran, Mike O'Dowd, Tommy Ryan and Jimmy McLarnin owned the sport?

• Why hasn't there been an Italian heavyweight champion since Rocky Marciano?

Why are there so few Jewish athletes?

You see how ridiculous this thing gets? No scientifically measurable differences exist between black and white athletes. But blacks may be trying harder because they have been excluded so long. It's not physical prowess. It's attitude.

And attitude is also more important than skin color in the appointment of the government's top civil rights officer. Lucas' Republicanism is not the issue. What's at issue is that I can name at least 30 black Republicans and 30 white Republicans who are more sensitive to civil rights than Lucas.

Being black doesn't make Lucas an expert. And his paucity of civil rights experience is living proof that affirmative action can sometimes be a disaster. Unfortunately, Thornburgh, a dyed-in-the-wool conservative, chose to make skin color a litmus test for the appointment. The Senate should reject Lucas.

Some of you loyal readers write and chide me for bringing up race so often. But the Tom Brokaws, the Ted Koppels, the Lee Atwaters and the Dick Thornburghs bring up the black-white issue far more frequently and recklessly than I do. And Chuck Stone introducing race into a discussion doesn't have anywhere near the impact of a nationally televised program or a presidential appointment.

VINCENT CARROLL

Examining Wright's real book of offenses

Ever since the release of the House committee report on Speaker Jim Wright, the news media has diligently recited chapter and verse of his venial sins: how he allegedly accepted gifts and sidestepped a limit on outside honorariums.

The charges are hardly edifying, of course. But isn't it time we devoted equal space to the more serious side of the Wright affair?

The ethics committee would have us believe Wright's worst offense was to enrich himself. Anyone who actually reads the panel's report knows otherwise. Nearly a third of it outlines Wright's harassment of federal regulators trying to rein in insolvent and perhaps criminally corrupt savings and loan institutions.

Among the evidence the committee whitewashed:

(BU) Wright intervened on behalf of Vernon Savings & Loan of Texas, described by one Federal Home Loan Bank official as the "worst-run, worst-managed debacle" in the thrift industry. Although 95 percent of Vernon's loans eventually were declared in default, Vernon's executives lavished huge bonuses on themselves, maintained an aviation department of six pilots and five aircraft, and, according to a 1986 probe, kept two acts of board minutes, "one of which was not furnished to the directors."

As the committee's outside counsel concluded: "Wright could not have picked a more unseemly beneficiary of his influence."

(BU) According to Bank Board chairman M. Danny Wall, Wright aide Phil Duncan demanded the firing of a regulatory official named William Black ("one of the most impressive witnesses to appear before the committee"), apparently because Wright blamed him for an unflattering article in Regardie's magazine.

(BU) According to Edwin Gray, former Bank Board chairman, Wright urged him to "get rid of" one of the agency's toughest and most respected regulators. Wright's charge: The man was a homosexual and had established a ring of gay lawyers to which he was sending the agency's work. Gray testified he was "stunned" by his conversation with Wright. "What are those people on the Hill doing?" he complained in despair to his assistant.

(BU) Wright insisted Gray meet with Thomas Gaubert, a Democratic fund-raiser, thrift operator and Wright's personal friend, even though such a meeting violated Bank Board rules. At the time of the speaker's intervention, Gaubert's thrift was grossly insolvent and one probe had already established it "engaged in regulatory violations and unsafe or unsound practices."

(BU) Wright pressured the Bank Board to accommodate Craig Hall, a Dallas-based real-estate mogul whose businesses owed hundreds of millions of dollars to various thrifts and who wanted to restructure his debt. Wright even staked a desperately needed bill to recapitalize the S&L Insurance fund in an attempt to bully the Bank Board on Hall's behalf.

As the outside counsel's report notes: "A naked attempt to obtain a change in a regulatory decision without permitting any discussion of the merits is improper."

Despite such damning evidence (and there is more), the ethics committee refused to cite Wright for exercising undue influence on the Bank Board. Committee members apparently believe that so long as a representative doesn't actually dispatch thugs to work over civil servants, he or she can do anything at all on behalf of constituents.

Without a doubt, that is the most disturbing news to come out of the Jim Wright affair.

The charges are hardly edifying, of course.

GEORGE F. WILL

A sign of a tidy universe?

WASHINGTON — Your response to science news depends on your sensibility. I, for one, am delighted by the discovery of 1989FC, a cosmic paywalker. That asteroid may or may not smash lots of us to smithereens. However, it certainly teaches an always timely, because chastening, lesson about the irreducible disorderliness of everything.

1989FC (why do we give better names to Bucks — Elektra, Riviera — than to really important things?) was recently discovered from a Mount Palomar Observatory photograph after the asteroid made one of its annual passes near Earth.

It is big — perhaps more than half a mile in diameter — and fast (46,000 mph). When two objects are in overlapping orbits, the bigger one inevitably pulls the smaller into its path. So a scientist says, "Sooner or later it should collide with the Earth, the moon or Mars."

It would be nice to know which one and how soon. Should we paint the house or are we going to get smooched? 1989FC would bump with the force of 20,000 one-megaton hydrogen bombs.

The cosmos is not crowded. If there were just three bees in America, the air would be more congested with bees than space is with stars. But there is a lot of stuff besides stars whizzing around.

Earth is constantly pelted by small bits of matter, and some not so small. In 1908, passengers on the trans-Siberian express were startled by a bright blue ball of fire as a small comet leveled a 70-mile strip of Siberian forest. A hotly disputed hypothesis is that the evolution of life on Earth has been marked by radical disruptions because of collisions with extraterrestrial material. Some scientists say one such collision occurred 65 million years ago and caused climatic changes that led to the rapid extinction of dinosaurs.

It is estimated that asteroids of more than half a mile in diameter hit Earth once every 40 million years or so. A few weeks ago 1989FC came within half a million miles of (let's look on the bright side) Congress. That counts as a near-miss. (Why do we say "near-miss" when what we are describing, with an airplane or an asteroid, is a near-hit?)

If 1989FC hits Earth, the odds are it will hit an ocean, raising (depending on its angle of entry) waves several hundred yards high, inundating coastal areas. (New York City? Every cloud has its...) Striking land, it would dig a crater a mile deep and five to ten miles across. There goes the neighborhood.

The Lisbon earthquake of 1755 was enough to cause people to question the idea of progress and to doubt a divinely ordained orderliness of the universe. That earthquake was an intellectually improving event. Imagine what a collision with a big asteroid could do for the moral and intellectual climate.

In 1610, Galileo discovered moons around Jupiter. The discovery convulsed Europe's religious and (hence) political passions. It proved something debatable about the nature of our solar system: Earth is not the center of the universe.

Ever since we were evicted from where we think we belong, science has delivered a series of affronts to our sense of dignity and autonomy. Darwin, by saying mankind is continuous with the slime from which mankind has only recently crept, imbedded mankind in the mud of the planet that has itself been revealed to be peripheral. Then Freud said there are within us uncharted depths with their own turbulences.

Early astronomy may have displaced our planet from the place of honor in the cosmos, but at least Newton said the universe was intelligible, even decorous. He was the great orderer. His clockwork theory of the universe gave rise, through the seepage of science into the wider culture, to an arid deism in theology: God was envisioned as the winder of the clock-like mechanism of the cosmos. There even was clockwork political theory, the clearest expression of which is the U.S. Constitution with its tidy (on paper) system of checks and balances — politics as physics.

Neither Newton's universe nor our Constitution work as clock-like as we had hoped. And now we have 1989FC to worry about.

Before Darwin, many people believed that no living thing could become extinct because extinction would suggest that there had been imperfection in God's original plan. What will people think if one of 1989FC's big brothers comes crashing along and makes everything extinct all at once?

If 1989FC itself hits Earth, causing localized catastrophe, one result will probably be a religious revival. The catastrophe will be construed as evidence that a caring God exists and is not amused.

Imagine what a collision with a big asteroid could do for the moral and intellectual climate.

Parents support sex education

WASHINGTON — Parents now overwhelmingly support sex education in schools but teachers complain that children are not taught what they should know and learn too late about contraceptives, a study showed today.

The Alan Guttmacher Institute, in a major study on the status of sex education, found 93 percent of public school teachers want topics related to prevention of pregnancy, AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases taught by the end of seventh grade, before most teenagers become sexually active.

In practice, however, the study said sex education tends to occur in the 9th and 10th grades.

Nearly three quarters of the 7th through 12th grade teachers think at least one quarter of 10th graders and also at least half of 12th graders are sexually active and the study said. "They are concerned that information is being presented to the students too late."

Helms fights King Holiday Commission

WASHINGTON — Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., never gives up — even when the cause is hopeless.

The North Carolina arch-conservative, bucking an overwhelming majority of the Senate and most of his Southern colleagues, wants to ban federal money for the Martin Luther King Jr. Federal Holiday Commission.

He also wants to cut a proposed five-year extension of the commission to two years.

Helms planned to offer today the two proposals to legislation that would extend the term of the commission for five years and provide an authorization of $300,000 a year.

The bill would also make the assassinated civil rights leader's wife, Coretta Scott King, a life member of the commission.

Helms received no support during Senate debate Monday and much of the opposition came from fellow Southerners, including Sens. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., Albert Gore, D-Tenn., Charles Robb, D-Va., and Terry Sanford, D-N.C.

The House has already passed a bill making the commission permanent with an annual authorization of $500,000.

Oil spreads; herring fishing called off

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Despite a concerted effort by a Russian oil skimmer and an armada of U.S. vessels, oil from the Exxon Valdez spill flowed down the strait between Kodiak Island and the Alaska Peninsula, fouling a national park and coating hundreds of animals.

Federal wildlife officials lambasted Exxon Monday for "unconscionable" delays in treating sea otters that have been soaked in oil, as the gunk made a big push ashore at Katmai National Park and forced officials to call off herring fishing in Shelikof Strait.

The Soviet oil skimmer Vaydogubsky charged into oil that has spread 450 miles from where the Exxon Valdez ran aground March 24, spewing 10.9 million gallons of crude into waters teeming with wildlife.

But the Russian effort, followed by smaller Exxon chartered and military vessels, came too late to prevent oil from sloshing down the strait between Kodiak Island and the Alaska Peninsula, fouling shores of Katmai National Park, covering hundreds of animals, and forcing the closure of yet another major fishery, said Cordell Roy, a Katmai Park representative in Kodiak.

Latin American policy unveiled

United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Bush, wrapping up a three-month foreign policy review, selected the State Department today to formally unveil his plan of action for Latin America.

Aides said Bush planned to reiterate his support of democracy in the region, particularly in Panama and Nicaragua, as well as touch upon the international debt and the need for regional cooperation to combat drugs.

One name expected to be mentioned prominently in his speech to the Council of the Americas was that of Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega of Panama, indicted last year in Florida on federal drug trafficking charges.

With Panama set to elect a new president Sunday, the Bush administration seems headed for what looks like defeat in its efforts to oust the military strongman from power.

In recent days, the White House has sought to discredit the election, charging that balloting is being rigged to favor Noriega's civilian figurehead candidate.

Earlier this spring, in an effort to apply pressure to get rid of Noriega, the administration extended for at least another year economic sanctions against Panama.

A number of portions of the administration's Latin American policy are already being put in place.

They include a bipartisan agreement that the White House reached with Congress for non-military assistance for U.S.-backed Contra rebels in Nicaragua, and the so-called Brady plan aimed at easing the Third World debt.

Later today, Bush was to meet at the White House with members of the House Select Committee on Narcotics Control and Abuse, who have been pushing for more than two years for a western hemisphere summit on drugs.

Although Bush promised to convene such a summit during the 1988 presidential campaign, the White House said he has not yet decided where and when to hold it.

Bush began his foreign policy review shortly after taking office Jan. 20. He announced the first result of it last month — economic incentives to encourage democratic reforms in Poland.

The White House said Bush will likely unveil all his foreign policy review conclusions in a series of college commencement speeches prior to the NATO summit in Europe late this month.

His policy is now facing some pre-NATO problems and pressure from West Germany's Chancellor Helmut Kohl, who is calling for reducing short-range nuclear weapons in Europe.

Committee to hear from Soviets

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The House Armed Services Committee, which helps write Pentagon budgets, will hear soon from top Soviet leaders, including an adviser to President Mikhail Gorbachev, Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis., said.

Gorbachev has ordered military cutbacks in Eastern Europe and Aspin said Monday if those pledges are carried out some of the impact should be visible next year, when Congress starts work on the fiscal 1991 Defense Department budget, and could be taken into account in fashioning a spending plan.

Sometime in June, Aspin announced, the committee expects to hear from Marshal Sergey Akromeyev, former chief of the Soviet General Staff and now an adviser to Gorbachev.

Even sooner, he said, the committee's Defense Policy

Panel will hear May 9 from officials of the Institute for the USA and Canada, Moscow's chief think tank on superpower relations, an organization often floating ideas that later end up as Soviet policy.

Aspin also said he had spoken with the Soviet Embassy about a committee trip to the Soviet Union during Congress's Memorial Day recess in which lawmakers could visit military sites and installations never seen by Western visitors.

The congressman said his committee will conduct hearings with administration and private analysts who have watched the Soviet Union's evolution and will hear about the Bush administration's still-incomplete strategic review.

"This is a major initiative by the committee," Aspin declared. "We must put together a defense budget for this year and the next few years. That will be hard enough to do given the deficit. But the problem is compounded by uncertainty about the Soviet Union."

"We are dealing with a moving target," he said.

1919 protester supports students

BEIJING — Seventy years ago this week, a young railway worker joined a student protest almost by accident. He wound up with a role in Chinese history, helping forge a rallying cry for democracy in a nation that has never tasted it.

Sheng Cheng was 20 years old that first week of May in 1919, when college students took to the streets to demand freedom and modernization in China. The protests grew to shake the entire nation and became known as the May Fourth Movement.

Now 90 and a retired writer, Sheng has a unique vantage point as he watches the recent protests by college students that have blossomed into the biggest anti-government demonstrations since the founding of communist China in 1949.

The students are using Thursday's 70th anniversary of the May Fourth Movement as a focus to demand greater political freedom, an end to official corruption and a freer press.

"Democracy, freedom and down with corruption — these are the slogans the students have been displaying on banners recently, and they are the same appeals we were making 70 years ago," Sheng said in an interview.

"On the surface much has changed in China, but deep down the old attitudes remain entrenched," he said, sitting in the living room of the apartment he shares with a relative at Beijing Language Institute in the city's northwest university district.

Fighting rages in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Muslim militiamen backed by Syrian gunners exchanged artillery fire with Christian army units early today as the toll in 24 hours of fighting rose to six dead and 20 wounded, police said.

Police said Syrian and Muslim forces in west Beirut and the Druze Shouf mountains opened up with rocket launchers and heavy mortars on Christian areas shortly after midnight after a brief lull late Monday.

Christian army units retaliated by bombarding Syrian-controlled Muslim territories with cannon fire and mortars, police said.

The artillery duels continued unabated till sunrise. Hundreds of shells crashed into residential neighborhoods in both the Muslim and Christian halves of the capital and several villages and towns overlooking Beirut.

Targets included the presidential palace in Baabda, where Christian strongman Gen. Michel Aoun resides, the Defense Ministry in Yafze, two army-held harbors north of Beirut, and several other Christian villages, police said.

Several neighborhoods in Muslim west Beirut were also shelled as well as a string of Druze villages in the Shouf mountains southeast of the city, they said.

Police said at least two people were killed and 10 others wounded in the overnight bombardment, raising the casualty toll in 24 hours of fighting to six dead and 20 wounded.

Anti-apartheid groups condemn slaying

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Anti-apartheid groups condemned the "brutal assassination" of a white human rights activist gunned down outside his home by unidentified assailants.

The slaying Monday of David J. Webster, 44, a social anthropologist at Johannesburg's University of the Witwatersrand, was one of the first assassinations of a white South African actively involved in the anti-apartheid campaign.

Webster was shot in the back from a passing car as he loaded his van after a trip to a garden center and bakery with his companion Maggie Friedman.

"I've been shot with a shotgun, get an ambulance," Friedman quoted Webster saying moments before he collapsed on the pavement outside his suburban Troyville home.

In a statement issued through the independent Human Rights Commission, Friedman said the killing was a "highly professional job and I find it frightening that those who opposed him were prepared to go to such lengths to eliminate someone who was not a very prominent leader."

Suspected Palestinian collaborator killed

JERUSALEM — A suspected Palestinian collaborator was fatally stabbed in the latest of a string of killings Israeli officials say are intended to undermine a proposal for elections in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Ahed Zeedan, 30, was attacked Monday by masked men in his photography studio near the military government building in the West Bank city of Tulkarm, Palestinian sources said.

Zeedan was stabbed several times and died on the way to the hospital.

From United Press International reports

Sihanouk invited to resume rule

United Press International

JAKARTA, Indonesia — Cambodian Premier Hun Sen invited resistance leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk to return to his homeland as head of state in a dramatic beginning to new peace talks Tuesday.

After only two hours of talks, Hun Sen emerged with the announcement of his invitation to Sihanouk, his long-time rival.

"We have invited the prince to return home and become the head of state," Hun Sen said. Sihanouk, head of the United Nations-recognized Cambodian coalition, said his answer would depend on unspecified changes in the country's constitution and whether Vietnam withdraws its 70,000 troops as promised by Sept. 30.

Sources close to the talks said it was not clear if Sihanouk's proposed position in Phnom Penh would be merely a ceremonial one with Hun Sen still in charge, or would have greater substance.

Sihanouk sought refuge in Beijing in 1970 after Vietnam invaded Cambodia and toppled the 3-year-old Khmer Rouge regime under Pol Pot, who has been blamed for the deaths of some 1.5 million of his countrymen.

Describing an unprecedented atmosphere of cooperation, Hun Sen said he and Sihanouk agreed to stop receiving military aid once the Vietnamese troops pull out of Cambodia.

"This is a step forward," Hun Sen said.

China is the principal backer of the resistance forces while Moscow bankrolls the Hunoi-supported regime in Phnom Penh.

Hun Sen dropped his prior demand that Beijing immediately stop supplying the Khmer Rouge, Sihanouk's strongest military partner.

"We pledged that after the completion of the troop withdrawal in September, both of us would stop receiving military assistance from abroad," Hun Sen said.

Sihanouk and Hun Sen also agreed to meet in Paris July 24 followed by a session that would include all four Cambodian factions.

Although three previous meetings between Sihanouk and Hun Sen in France ended in deadlock, the two entered into Tuesday's negotiations loaded with concessions.

Sihanouk, accompanied by resistance ally Son Sann, the former Cambodian prime minister, abandoned his stance that Hun Sen must dismantle his regime prior to elections and dropped his insistence on a U.N.-peacekeeping force to supervise the troop pullout.

Quayle rules out Khmer Rouge role

United Press International

SINGAPORE — Vice President Dan Quayle arrived Tuesday in Singapore on the third leg of an Asia Pacific trip after announcing the United States ruled out any participation by the communist Khmer Rouge in the future government of Cambodia.

Quayle and his wife, Marilyn, arrived at modernistic Changi Airport under heavy security to be greeted by Prof. Shanmugam Jayakumar, minister for law and home affairs.

During his two-day stay in Singapore, Quayle was scheduled to call on ailing President Wee Kim Wee, dine with Prime Minister Lee Kwan Yew and hold talks with First Deputy Prime Minister and Defense Minister Goh Chok Tong.

The vice president flew to Singapore from Jakarta, Indonesia, where he told reporters that Washington had ruled out participation by the Khmer Rouge in the future government of Cambodia.

"There is no doubt where our position is as far as the Khmer Rouge returning to power," Quayle told a pre-departure news conference. "It is a non-starter from the very beginning."

"We do not believe the Khmer Rouge offers anything except what they offered in the past, and that was mass murder," Quayle told reporters.

"China can play a very important role," he said, adding that the Bush administration had informed Beijing of its position that the "Khmer Rouge have no controlling part at all" in the future government of Cambodia.

Sihanouk insisted on including his other resistance partner, former Prime Minister Son Sann, in the sessions with Hun Sen, but left out Khmer Rouge leader Khieu Samphan.

Sihanouk told Quayle in a briefing Monday that unless China abandoned the Khmer Rouge, he "could not or would not" oppose their participation in a coalition Cambodian government.

Quayle said the Bush administration was considering supplying military aid to Sihanouk to ensure the two non-communist coalition factions had maximum leverage in negotiations with Hun Sen.

"I believe our review of the policy is very timely and very relevant," Quayle said. "We are adamant that the non-communist resistance have as much opportunity and as much leverage as needed to achieve power."

Sihanouk has been receiving $5 million annually in what Quayle termed "humanitarian assistance," with funds funneled into transportation, medical supplies and food. The Bush administration is asking that the amount be boosted to $7 million in the next fiscal year.

Quayle said if military aid to the non-communist factions is deemed necessary, it would assure Sihanouk "a solid footing and strong bargaining position."

But Quayle said the outcome of the administration's deliberations on supplying lethal aid might not be made public.

Gen. Rodriguez wins Paraguayan election

United Press International

ASUNCION, Paraguay — Gen. Andres Rodriguez called for unity following his landslide victory in presidential elections that opposition and independent groups charged were marked by fraud.

Rodriguez was elected to a four-year term Monday in general elections called to determine a successor to ousted dictator Alfredo Stroessner.

Rodriguez, who overthrew Stroessner in a Feb. 3 coup, had been expected to win an easy victory because of his popularity as the man who ended 34 years of dictatorial rule and because of his quick moves to restore press freedoms and other civil liberties.

With more than half the vote counted, unofficial returns provided by the ruling Colorado Party early Tuesday gave Rodriguez 1,048,299 votes to 213,785 for Domingo Lauro, leader of the Authentic Radical Liberal Party and the nearest competitor. None of the other six candidates got more than 2 percent of the vote.

Rodriguez attended a victory party late Monday at the Colorado Party headquarters and asked all Paraguayans to have "confidence in me."

He said his opponents were adversaries "only in temporary circumstances" and "merited the respect of all the citizens. They are our Paraguayan brothers."

But the main opposition parties issued a statement late Monday denouncing "grave irregularities" in the voting and asking poll watchers to stay on the job and to continue to monitor the count.

In addition, two organizations observing the vote, the Paraguayan Institute for the Integration of Latin America and the International Secretariat of Jurists for Amnesty and Democracy in Paraguay, issued a statement saying there were "grave irregularities" in the voting.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Rangers brought back to earth

Still riding an emotional high from a big victory Sunday, the Texas Rangers were brought back to reality Monday night by a former teammate.

Jerry Browne, a former Ranger, drove in a career-high four runs, leading the Cleveland Indians to an 11-1 thrashing of the Rangers.

Texas, owner of the major league's best record, ended April with a dramatic 2-1 victory over Boston in a showdown between Nolan Ryan and Roger Clemens.

Browne, traded to the Indians this winter with Pete O'Brien and Odibe McDowell in exchange for Julio Franco, is 7 for 13 against Texas this season.

Elsewhere in the American League, Chicago snuffed Milwaukee 6-0, Minnesota routed Minnesota 13-6, Seattle bested Detroit 5-3, and Kansas City at New York was postponed because of rain.

NHL PLAYOFFS

Wregget stops Roy win streak

MONTREAL — Patrick Roy's year-long home-winning streak was snapped by a goaltender that had hardly been in action since January.

Ken Wregget stopped 24 shots and Derrick Smith and Iikka Simons each scored short-handed goals Monday night, leading the Philadelphia Flyers to a 3-1 victory over Roy and the Montreal Canadiens in the opening game of the Wales Conference finals.

Roy, who made 23 saves, lost for the first time at home in 370 days, during which he had won 34 straight games at the Montreal Forum.

Meanwhile, Wregget won his second playoff game in a row after seeing limited action most of the season since being acquired by the Flyers in a trade.

NBA PLAYOFFS

Warriors may ruin Jazz season

The Utah Jazz are on the brink of blowing a season of glory.

The Midwest Division champions are one game away from playoff elimination after losing twice at home to the Golden State Warriors. Game 3 of the best-of-five series is scheduled for Tuesday night in Oakland, Calif.

Utah entered the postseason a contender to dethrone the Los Angeles Lakers in the West. They won a franchise-record 51 games behind Karl Malone and John Stockton, who emerged as stars this season.

The Warriors came into the playoffs having lost their last six games and featuring a starting lineup with no player taller than 6-foot-8. On Monday, the Warriors' Mitch Richmond received the first postseason award, being selected Rookie of the Year.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Reds enjoy ugly Expo exhibit

There was no denying it. The Montreal Expos played ugly baseball at Olympic Stadium Monday night.

The Cincinnati Reds scored 16 times in the last three innings.

Jeff Reed, traded by Montreal to Cincinnati last summer, had a career-high five hits and drove in three runs as the Reds crushed the Expos 19-6.

Montreal Manager Buck Rodgers pulled no punches in summing up his team's performance. "This was our worst game. The relief pitching was (expletive). (Reliever Joe) Hesketh was no good."

Hesketh allowed nine runs in 1-3 innings of work.

Elsewhere in the National League, New York trounced Atlanta 3-1, St. Louis blanked San Diego 6-0, Los Angeles shut out Pittsburgh 1-0 and Chicago downed San Francisco 4-3 in 12 innings. Houston at Philadelphia was postponed by rain.

Hitting vs. pitching

Leading the Lake Brantley attack into the 4A Region 5 title game tonight is first baseman Jim Morse. The leading home run hitter in Lake Brantley history, Morse slugged 10 round trippers this season while leading Seminole County with a .470 batting average.

Lake Brantley, a team that started the year ranked as one of the state's best ballclubs, will look to make its preseason billing a reality tonight when it hosts Winter Park in region 4A's action tonight at 7:30.

The Patriots, 17-12, possess one of the most feared hitting attacks that will have to be on against the Wildcats left hander Wally Damm. Winter Park, 25-5, is coming off an impressive 7-1 victory over nationally ranked Apopka in a game where Damm, 11-1, pitched a two-hitter.

"Winter Park is sound defensively and they have some tough hitters," Lake Brantley coach Mike Smith said. "Damm is impressive. He has a very good curve and a good change up. He keeps batter off balance and we'll have to find a way to reach him."

Lake Brantley's hitting attack came alive in the district finals as it ripped Lake Mary 10-0. Leading the hitting parade for Brantley this season is a trio of seniors who have all played a major part in the team's success.

Jim Morse, who has hit more home runs than any other player in the school's history, leads the attack and batted well over .400 this year. Jason Varrick adds more power and also batted in the upper .400 range.

Eddie Zarembo rounds out the top hitters adding very good speed on the bases as has swiped 20 bases or more in his past two seasons with the Patriots.

"We'll have to take advantage of every opportunity," Smith said. "Bob King is a very good coach, year in and year out he has tough teams and is really the class of the Metro Conference."

Lake Brantley will send a strong pitcher to the mound as well as Mitch Shatto will try and shut down the Wildcats. Shatto, 2-1, tossed a three-hitter in the opening round of the district tournament to beat Spruce Creek, a team that had defeated the Patriots twice during the season.

Carlesimo spurns Kentucky

United Press International

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. — Seton Hall basketball coach P.J. Carlesimo took his name out of the running for the Kentucky coaching vacancy Monday, saying he is "extremely comfortable" in the Pirate program, the Big East and the New York metropolitan area.

Carlesimo's announcement put to rest a week of speculation that he would leave the university weeks after taking the Pirates to the NCAA title game.

Carlesimo was in Lexington last week to meet with Kentucky athletic department administrators and university officials, who then denied reports that he had been offered the job opened by Eddie Sutton's resignation.

"I am extremely comfortable living in the metropolitan area and competing in the Big East Conference and I'm certain no other environment would be as attractive to me," Carlesimo said in a statement released by Seton Hall.

"The friendships which have been developed, the generosity and caring which the university has shown and the strong desire to continue this relationship would not allow me to leave Seton Hall."

Carlesimo, whose family is from New York, said he considered the Kentucky vacancy because the university has "one of the outstanding programs in all of college basketball" and because "there is no one more highly respected in our profession than (now Kentucky Athletic Director) M. Newton."

"It was important for me to speak with him," Carlesimo said.

Carlesimo and Seton Hall came within one point of the national championship last month, surprising many by their trip to the NCAA title game and then losing to Michigan in overtime to finish 31-7.

"Seton Hall has been very supportive and extremely loyal to me these past seven years," Carlesimo said. "We're very proud of the progress which has been made and the level at which our basketball program now stands."

Kentucky is searching for a replacement to Sutton, who resigned under pressure following a year-long investigation of alleged NCAA rules violations in the basketball program.

Kentucky presented its case to the NCAA Committee on Infractions in late April and expects a ruling in late spring. The alleged infractions include the shipment of cash to a recruit, academic fraud and lack of proper institutional control over the basketball program.

New England's Fryar demands trade

United Press International

FOXBORO, Mass. — New England Patriots wide receiver Irving Fryar said he is disappointed with the team's latest contract offer and wants to be traded, the Boston Herald reported Tuesday.

Fryar, unsigned for the 1989 season, made his trade demand in a letter to Patriots general manager Patrick Sullivan. The newspaper said Sullivan had not received the letter.

The latest Patriots offer to Fryar calls for a four-year deal worth an estimated $2.8 million. It also includes a $100,000 bonus if Fryar participates in 85 percent of the Patriots offensive plays and if he receives all NFL honors.

The first New England proposal was a six-year deal worth an estimated $8.7 million. After receiving that proposal Fryar's agents said they wanted a package similar to the two-year, $2.35 million deal signed by quarterback Tony Eason.

"Irving is frustrated and very disappointed in the position the team is taking. He feels that a trade is the only way for him to get paid fairly," said Steve Endroit, Fryar's co-agent.

Fryar, the first player selected in the 1984 NFL draft, earned $495,000 last season in base salary. He also earned more than $200,000 in a bonus payment.

First United Methodist wins way to first place

From staff reports

Brian Burke singled in the tying and go-ahead runs with two out in the seventh inning as First United Methodist rallied past the Church of God 6-4 in the Sanford Church Cuped slow pitch softball league Saturday at Pinehurst Park.

In other action Saturday, Maramatha Pentecostal split a double header, losing to Central Baptist 12-7 and defeating Grace Christian 16-5, while First Nazarene picked up its first win of the season with an 8-1 victory over the Latter Day Saints.

The win by the Methodists moved them into sole possession of first place with a 5-1 record. The Church of God, who has suffered its first loss of the season, and Maramatha are both at 4-1. Central Baptist 4-2, Grace Christian 4-4, First Nazarene 1-3, and the Latter Day Saints 0-5.

The Methodists scored two runs in the top of the second when singles by Lester Bethwell and Mark Blythe scored Jim Thomas and Jon Eltonhead. But Church of God came back with a pair of its own in the bottom of the second on a single by Clayton Nichols, a double by Bubba Smith, and the singles by Dvis Colon and Pat Dush.

The Methodists regained the lead in the third on a walk to Burke and singles by Jack Eltonhead and Bruce Danilla. The score stayed 3-2 until the bottom of the sixth when the Church of God came up with two to go ahead 4-3.

Tom Guy led off with a single, after a fly out, Ross Donaho and Nichols singled, with Guy scoring the tying run. Norman Pratt walked to load the bases, then after a strike out, Jay Kreimbring singled to score Donaho and gave the Church of God the lead.

With one out in the top of the seventh, Whitley singled for the Methodists but the next batter popped up. Robert Smith then singled, both runners advancing on a throwing error. Burke followed with a single to center to score Whitley and Smith, then scored himself on two throwing errors.

Whitley and Robert Smith were the only

Bela Karolyi becomes United States citizen

HOUSTON — Bela Karolyi, who guided gymnasts Mary Lou Retton, Julianne McNamara and Phoebe Mills to Olympic medals after defecting from Romania in 1981, became a United States citizen Monday. Karolyi gained international fame when he coached Romanian Nadia Comaneci to world and Olympic championships. Then on March 23, 1981, Karolyi and his wife, Martha, defected in New York while on a tour of 15 American cities with the Romanian gymnastics team and sought political asylum. The Karolyis since have been reunited with their daughter, Andrea, now 15, and all three stood together Monday and became U.S. citizens. "You just cannot understand the feeling — the feeling of not belonging to a country," said Karolyi, who has a successful gymnastics training program in Houston. "When I step on the (gymnastics) floor from now on, it will be as an American and not as an immigrant." The Karolyis were among 1,200 people representing 87 countries who became new citizens Monday. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, gave the keynote address and mentioned Karolyi. "If you don't know him, you will," Bentsen said. The Karolyis have been teaching together since their marriage in 1963, each having earned doctoral degrees in physical education from the University of Bucharest. In 1976, the 14-year-old Comaneci recorded perfect scores, the first ever in Olympic gymnastics competition, and won gold medals for all-around, uneven bars and balance beam, and a bronze for floor exercise. At the 1980 Moscow Olympics, Comaneci won gold medals in the balance beam and floor exercise and a silver for all-around. But Karolyi, in earlier interviews, said Comaneci's success prompted the Romanian government to begin imposing restrictions and added requirements on the two coaches. The Karolyis left their only option was to defect. "I'll never forget that day (the day and Martha defected)," Karolyi said Monday. "That was the day we became free. The only thing missing was our daughter."

Kentucky Derby is hard on two-year-old champs

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — In the 1970s, it was almost automatic with the 2-year-old championship and win the Kentucky Derby. In the 1980s, the exact opposite has been the case. Should Easy Goer live up to his status as the 3-5 early favorite Saturday, he would become the first 2-year-old champ to win the Derby since 1978 juvenile titlist Spectacular Bid took the 105th Run for the Roses, the following spring. Spectacular Bid also was the last horse to complete the Triple Crown sweep. Back then, however, Spectacular Bid's Derby success was seen as nothing unusual. Between 1971 and 1979, six 2-year-old champions won the Derby and three of them won the Triple Crown. The failures of the 1970s were Honest Pleasure, who lost the 1976 Derby by a length to Bold Forbes, and Hoist the Flag and Protagonist, who both broke down during their prep campaigns for the 1971 and 1974 Derbies, respectively. Injuries have had much to do with the long string of failures by the juvenile champions of the 1980s. Beginning in 1984, four straight titlists — Lord Ave, Deputy Minister, Roying Boy and Devil's Flag — were sidelined before their Derbies by injuries. Tasso, the 1985 champion, finished fourth in the 86 Wood Memorial and skipped the Derby; later it was discovered he had a sacral fracture. Rockhill Native, the 1979 juvenile champion, was fifth in the 1980 Derby, beaten nearly 6 lengths. Chief's Crown, the 1984 titlist, was third to Spend a Buck, 5 1/2 lengths back, in '85.

Maramatha traded 4-3 entering the third inning in their game with Grace Christian 4-3, when they exploded for eight runs. Campbell again led the way, going 3-for-3 with a double, triple, three runs scored, and three runs driven in. Victor Peterson was 2-for-2 with three rbi. Brooks was 2-for-3 with three rbi. Evan Bacon Jr. was 2-for-3 with a double, and Alan Peterson was 2-for-4 with a double. Evan Bacon Sr. had a triple, and Sam Raines, Watson, Anton Massey, and Mike Bacon all had singles. For Grace Christian, Dave Ferneau was 2-for-3 with a double and two rbi, and Curtis Donahue had two hits. Ron Allegro, Wally Roberts, Jerry Lingertferer, and Lance Markley had singles. Debra Markley also drove in a run for the Grace Christian team. First Nazarene scored a pair of runs in the first and third innings to take control, then held the Latter Day Saints scoreless until the bottom of the seventh as it posted its first win of the season. Wayne Gager was the hitting star for Nazarene, going 4-for-4. John Witcher drove in two runs with two hits. Brian Stenstrom had a two run double, Mike Watson a triple, and Tommy Raines, Grady Leggett, David Fontana, and Zeb Webb one hit each. The Latter Day Saints were only able to come up with six hits on the day. The Saints scored their only run when Don Casseau tripled and scored on a single by Richard Taylor. Others getting hits for the Saints were Robert Wrang, C. Casseau, Mario Carrea and Ralph Mason.

"Mitch has a good curve ball and a very good change up," Smith said. "Right now his fast ball is a little below average but he knows when to use it. He just needs to throw his game and keep them off stride." Lake Brantley worked on hitting Daunte type pitching today as its batters got to work out even though the rain cut down their practice time. The Patriots will hope the rain subsides tonight and that their hitters will be shining. "We didn't get to field any today but everyone took 50-80 cuts in the cage," Smith said. "We're lucky to have a roof over our batting cage so we could get a little practice hitting some off speed pitches." Now that Brantley is coming on and showing why it was thought of as a state contender in the early portion of the season it will look to put all the pieces together and advance to the sectionals Friday night. "I think we've finally turned the corner," Smith said. "An injury hurt our club early but I think we're finally starting to come together and playing the way we're capable of." Lake Brantley lost Jerry Thurston in the early portion of the season with a hand injury. The catcher was one of the leading hitters in Central Florida last season and was seen as one of the top prospects for the draft. Smith feels comfortable going into tonight's game as all his players have been in the tough ball games before. "These kids played for me when they were sophomores and juniors," Smith said. "Most of them were on the team when we beat Lake Mary in the districts when they were ranked second in the state so I think we'll be ready tonight."

Zoo draws artists out of youngsters

SANFORD — The art class was informal and the models exotic when the Central Florida Zoological Park in Sanford hosted its annual Young Artists Day recently.

"It's wonderful to see so many youngsters visit the zoo, their interpretations of animals and their wonderful works of art," said Andrea Prior, marketing coordinator for the zoo.

Prior said 191 youngsters from preschool to high school ages participated in the contest.

The kids brought their own art supplies, staked out a spot on the zoo grounds and drew whichever animal caught their fancy.

Art winning first-place awards will be purchased by the zoo for future public viewing at the zoo.

Awards were as follows:
Preschool — First place, Bryson Voltin of Winter Springs; second, Beth Groot of Deltona; third, Julie Fondo of Winter Park; honorable mentions, Francis Lizardo of Longwood and Doug Colamartino of Deltona.

Kindergarten to First Grade — First place, Elizabeth Morris of Maitland; second, Emily Goldman of Longwood; third, Shannon Best of Enterprise; honorable mentions, Lindsay Votron of Winter Springs and Sarah Cauley of Osteen.

Third to Fifth Grade — First place, Joshua Albanese of Deltona; second, Matthew Bowser of Orlando; third, Keyv Bower of Lake Mary; honorable mentions, Samantha Reckson of Daytona Beach and Ben Keeler of Winter Springs.

Sixth to Eighth Grade — First place, Hank Daviero of Maitland; second, Robert Hedengren of Deltona; third, Leslie Copeland of Sanford; honorable mentions, Brett Grove of DeLand and Margaret Kayo of Altamonte Springs.

Kristen Rouse, 15, of Lake Mary High School, uses a steady hand and colored pencils to draw a Bali-Rothschilds Mynah Bird. Her depiction of the endangered species won her second place in her age category.

Single dad won't give up kids for girlfriend

DEAR ABBY: I've been writing this letter off and on for two years—and I'm finally sending it. Many times I've read about women who have been left to raise their children alone. What about men whose wives have deserted them? I'm the third one I know of in my town. Is this a new trend?

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

My wife left me with four children to raise. I would like to have companionship, but when a woman hears that I have four children, she says, "Four children—you must pay a lot of child support!"

I say, "No, I have custody." Then she says, "That's too much for me to handle. Goodbye."

Abby, I love my children, and if it means giving them up in order to date, I'll stay single. I wonder how many other men out there are in the same boat?

FULL-TIME FATHER IN COLUMBUS, OHIO

DEAR FATHER: Have you never heard of Parents Without Partners? There must be some single mothers in your area who wouldn't mind joining forces with you.

To locate the PWP group nearest you, send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Parents Without Partners, 8807 Colesville Road, Silver Spring, MD 20910.

Then get a witer and go to those PWP meetings. You sound like a high-quality man. Don't be discouraged. A woman who would count you out because you have children probably would have been a poor mother for your motherless quartet. Keep looking.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN—WHICH MEANS ALL OF US: Federal spending on the elderly has nearly doubled since 1960. In 1986, $270 billion (26 percent of the federal budget) was of direct benefit to older Americans. About 81 percent of this amount was for Social Security, Medicare or Medicaid benefits.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Who's cooking?

The Sanford Herald welcomes suggestions for cooks of the week.

Novice cooks and ethnic cooks, as well as experienced cooks and master chefs, add a different dimension to dining.

Submit your nomination for Cook of the Week by calling the Herald People editor at 322-2611, ext. 34.

The Cook of the Week feature, which includes a brief profile on the cook and some of his/her favorite recipes, is published each Wednesday.

Flipping out

Keanna Tillman does a couple of backflips while practicing to be a clown at Goldsboro Elementary recently. Tillman joined four other Goldsboro students in learning the craft under mentors Florence Korgan and Penny McKim.

The two are teaching under the Senior Mentors for Creative Students Program. Tillman and the rest performed April 14 for Goldsboro kindergarteners and first-graders.

Getting an organization organized

Planning for the future of SISTER Inc. and its upcoming election of officers are (from left) Emy Bill, recording secretary; Martha Yancey, second vice president; Pat Foster, president;

Elizabeth Welebob, member; and Tina Joseph, treasurer. The planning workshop for the woman's club was held April 26 in Sanford.

Organic gardening talk set

SANFORD — A seminar on organic gardening will take place on Wednesday, May 3, at 10 a.m. at the Seminole County Agricultural Center, across from Fica World off of U.S. Highway 17-92.

Topics will include successful gardening without poisons, composting, organic fertilizers and organic pest control around the home.

Tom Carey of Sun Dew Gardens in Oviedo will be guest speaker at the free program, which is open to the public. For more information, call Celeste White, Seminole County urban horticulturist, at 323-2500, ext. 181.

NOTICE OF ACTION IN EMINENT DOMAIN IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE EIGHTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT IN AND FOR SEMINOLE COUNTY, FLORIDA

SEMINOLE COUNTY is a political subdivision of the State of Florida. Petitioner vs. SAMMY LEE WILLIAMS and ANNIE MAE WILLIAMS and the unknown spouses of the above-named parties. The petitioners are the owners of certain parcels of land through under or against the above-named defendants, or otherwise claiming any interest in the real property shown as Tax Parcel Number 20 19 30 301 000 0010 0.

TO THOSE ABOVE-NAMED DEFENDANTS AND TO ALL PARTIES CLAIMING INTEREST IN THE PROPERTY DESCRIBED ABOVE AGAINST THE NAMED DEFENDANTS, AND TO ALL PARTIES HAVING OR CLAIMING TO HAVE ANY RIGHT, TITLE OR INTEREST IN THE PROPERTY DESCRIBED BELOW. An Eminent Domain Petition, together with its Declaration of Taking has been filed in the above-styled suit to acquire certain parcels of land in Seminole County, Florida described as follows: PARCEL 1 - Sammy Lee and Annie Mae Williams.

Lot 1 BOGERTOWN according to the Plat thereof as recorded in Plat Book 4, Pages 97 & 98, Public Record of Seminole County, Florida. Each Defendant is further notified that the Petitioner will petition for an Order of Taking before the Honorable Kenneth M. Lettler, one of the Judges of the above-styled Court on the 15th day of May, 1989 at 4:30 p.m. in the Seminole County Courthouse, Sanford, Florida in accordance with its Declaration of Taking heretofore filed in this cause. All Defendants to this suit and all other interested parties may request a hearing on the Petition for the Order of Taking at the time and place designated and be heard. Any defendant failing to file a request for hearing shall waive a right to be heard on the Order of Taking.

AND Each Defendant and any other persons claiming any interest in the property described in the Petition in the above-styled Eminent Domain proceeding is hereby petitioned to serve written defenses, if any you have, to the Petition heretofore filed in the cause on the Petitioner, and any request for a hearing on the Petition for the Order of Taking if desired on Petitioner's Attorney, whose name and address is shown below on or before May 19, 1989 and to file the original of your written defenses and any request for hearing on the Petition for the Order of Taking with the Clerk of this Court either before service on the Petitioner's Attorney or immediately thereafter to show what right title interest in said Petition and to show cause if any you have why said property should not be condemned for the uses and purposes as set forth in said Petition. If you fail to answer and defend as aforesaid you will be held in default and the Petitioner, if you fail to request a hearing on the Petition for Order of Taking you shall waive any right to object to said Order of Taking.

His doctor can't stop his stroke-related pain

DEAR DR. GOTT: Over the last six years my husband has suffered two light strokes. He hasn't suffered paralysis, but has constant pain in his right leg and right hand. He is on blood pressure medicine, Lanoxin and aspirin. His doctor cannot stop the pain. What would you recommend?

DEAR READER: Strokes and transient ischemic attacks (TIAs), brief neurological abnormalities that are not permanent) are often caused by small blood clots that are carried to the brain. These clots frequently form on the roughened linings of arteries that are affected by arteriosclerotic plaque.

Your husband may be taking aspirin to slow blood coagulation and prevent the formation of intravascular clots. If so, he probably has arteriosclerotic narrowing of blood vessels elsewhere in his body — for example, the arteries to the arms and legs.

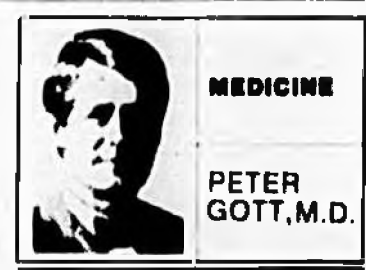

In the presence of insufficient circulation to the extremities, a condition called claudication may develop. This is frequent cramping, especially during exercise, of oxygen-starved muscles. Some forms of claudication can become a problem at rest. Evidently, your husband has high blood pressure and heart disease (Lanoxin is a type of digitalis used for a weak heart).

Therefore, I suspect he has rather general atherosclerotic and poor blood flow as a cause of his pain. Ask his doctor about this possibility. Painful extremities are not a complication or indication of strokes or TIAs.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My severe eczema cleared up after a small tumor was removed from my thyroid gland, which was taken out also. Is this a typical reaction?

DEAR READER: No, this is not typical.

Eczema is not caused by thyroid tumors. However, growths of one kind or another can be associated with skin changes and rash. Perhaps your original skin problem was not eczema but a manifestation of the thyroid tumor.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Soon after bridge theorists proposed two clubs as a strong artificial opening bid, two no-trump was abandoned as the negative response. When responder uses two diamonds as negative or temporarily opener can show either a powerful distributional hand or a balanced no-trump type. Today we see a further refinement of this system.

North-South were playing that responder's second bid of three clubs was a "second negative," showing a worthless hand. By their agreement, after such a bid, South could play below game if he held his long suit. Of course three diamonds, a second natural suit bid by South, was still forcing. When North preferred to three spades, South should have bid three no-trump, which would have made an easy nine-tricks with the lead of the jack of clubs. Four spades should still have been successful, but declarer got careless. At trick two, he played a low diamond, intending to ruff his last diamond if the suit didn't split. But East overlooked West's singleton jack of diamonds and continued the suit. South lost his ace of diamonds to a ruff from West. So the defenders took two diamond tricks plus a ruff and the ace of hearts to set the contract. The game would be made if declarer played ace and a diamond right away, since dummy's spade eight could be used to ruff a diamond.

The best bet for the defense would be a trump lead. Declarer might now be deprived of his diamond ruff in dummy, and also be forced to lead away from his A-Q of clubs at the finish.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Cool
YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 3, 1989

Constructive changes in your lifestyle are likely to be made in the year ahead. They will be due, in part, to several people who will help you to advance your personal interests.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try to act promptly upon any hunches you get today that could put you a notch or two above others in competitive arrangements. Your instincts can get you to the goal line first. Taurus, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is a good day to share involvements with friends, provided they are not of a commercial or financial nature. Resentment could result if your pals think they are being used.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may be more closely scrutinized by your peers today than usual. Fortunately, you are on a favorable roll and you're not likely to give them anything for which you can be put down.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Bold and imaginative plans have a better-than-average chance of being achieved at this time. If you have faith in your conceptions, this is a good day to start testing them on the real world.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Continue to be alert for an opportunity to become involved in a venture another has masterminded. Participation could turn out to be rather profitable for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This can be a pleasant and productive day for you if you keep everything in proper balance. Work, but do not overdo; play, but do not make it your top priority.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today you may feel your rate of progress will be determined by the competence and industriousness of your co-workers. This is true but only to a small degree, there is much you can do on your own.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Subdue inclinations today to take chances on things you know little about. However, a calculated risk may be in order if it's in a familiar area and well thought out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Even though early indicators might disagree, things in general tend to work out to your ultimate benefit today. Don't let a few strong blows in the early rounds tempt you to toss in the towel.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Unforeseen or unscheduled happenings could work out rather fortuitously for you today. Instead of getting uplifted if something unusual occurs, think of it as an opportunity.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The aspects indicate that you may be more fortunate with things of a material nature today than you will be with intangibles. Limit your options to what is bankable.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're likely to be very enterprising and original today, especially in matters where your self-interests can be advanced. Concentrate on furthering your personal ambitions.
